STATE RELIEF BILL ADOPTED OVER PROTEST

To Become Law Despite Opposition by Municipal Leaders and Insurgents in Both Parties.

Hartford, June 2.—(AP)—Over the protests of Municipal leaders and insurgent members of both parties in the General Assembly, the bill designed to bring aid to financially harassed communities of the state awaited only the signature of Governor W. L. Cross today to become law.

Drafted by majority and minority leaders in both branches of the Legislature, the measure has had the support of the governor throughout its brief but stormy career in the General Assembly and has indicated that it will sign it promptly.

When legislative action on the bill was completed, it was in the same form it bore when approved and reported by the judiciary committee despite the many amendments which blocked its path.

The measure states guarantee of municipal bonds, where such guarantee is necessary to make the bonds saleable to investors, a state relief fund to be administered by the state.

Among the provisions tossed aside as the bill passed through the Senate were a provision for a state bond issue to be raised with the proceeds from a one per cent retail sales tax and another striking out the receivership provision.

Both of these offered by Senator David Goldstein, of Bridgeport, president pro tem were defeated in roll call votes.

The relief measure cleared its last legislative hurdle as it was given its approval, 20 to 15. It was approved in the House Wednesday.

TRADE EXPANSION THROUGHOUT U. S.

Mercantile Review Reports That Nation Has Not Yet Realized Its Importance.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Continued industrial expansion was reported by the Dun and Bradstreet weekly review today.

"The forward swing," it said, "rests on the definite upward trend in consumption, employment and wage levels, the importance of which is not fully realized as yet, as the transition has been such a sudden one, and constructive developments have been so rapid.

Further stimulus to the upward movement is being provided by the general support being given by the administration's sweeping industrial recovery measures, which open the way for conduct of business on a reasonable earning basis, and the growing appreciation of the importance of credit and sound credit practices in commerce and industry.

TREASURY BALANCE Washington, June 2.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for May 31 were $187,711,338.52; expenditures $104,015,999.21. Balance $83,695,339.31.

SIX DAYS, SIX NIGHTS RIDING IN THE SUBWAY

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Helen Jacobs, 15, was back home today after six days and six nights in subway trains. Her parents scolded her a week ago as she ran away. She went down into the subway and started to ride. Whenever she got hungry, she said, she would get off the train, beg a biscuit from some one and buy a biscuit or a piece of chocolate from a subway newsstand.

BRITAIN AWAITING ROOSEVELT'S WORD

Chamberlain Tells Commons New Move on Debts Must Come from U. S.

London, June 2.—(AP)—Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain during debate today in the House of Commons on foreign affairs again refused to disclose Great Britain's war debt policy, but intimated the government is awaiting some new move from Washington.

Chamberlain said he feared that "any word of mine, however innocuous its intention, might be subject to misunderstanding on the other side of the water."

The chancellor asserted that the United States government was in full possession of the British views on the subject.

"We should do well to assume our difficulties are fully appreciated by the United States government," he said.

THREE ARE KILLED WHEN PLANE FALLS

Four Others Injured in Crash; Pilot Only Bruised as He Crawls from Wreck.

March Field, Riverside, Calif., June 2.—(AP)—The good providence which has attended the flying career of Lieut. Charles M. McHenry of Los Angeles, Army pilot, crashed into his first major crash which brought death to three of his comrades.

Fortune not only permitted McHenry to crawl from the wreckage of a service transport on a mountainside in Cajon Pass a few miles east of San Bernardino yesterday when only bruised to show for his narrow escape, but also allowed three other passengers in the ship to emerge from the shell of twisted metal with injuries not expected to prove fatal.

An inquest was scheduled today over the bodies of three privates killed when the ship crashed in a fog.

The dead—The dead were Addison C. Spencer, Charlot, Pa.; Charles M. Leadbetter, Roseburg, Ore.; and L. D. Romona, Syracuse, N. Y.

The injured were treated at a San Bernardino hospital and then brought to the field hospital. They are Lieut. E. D. Kennedy, Kansas City, Mo., fractured leg and possible internal injuries; McHenry, and Private Seymour R. Decker, Elmira, N. Y., broken leg and possible internal injuries; and Paul L. Blinks, Alice, Texas, broken arm and possible internal injuries.

Pinned in the debris, Kennedy, Decker and Blinks had to wait until McHenry had extricated himself and run to a highway for help to remove them.

Less than two months ago McHenry went over the side of a smaller ship with a parachute when he collided with another plane while flying in formation. He landed unharmed.

Missing Walker Aide Comes Out Of Hiding

HACKETT'S NOMINATION CONFIRMED BY SENATE

State Body Unanimous in Approving New Haven Senator as Head of Tax Commission.

Hartford, June 2.—(AP)—Springing somewhat of a surprise the Senate unanimously confirmed today the nomination of William H. Hackett, Democratic Senator from New Haven as state tax commissioner without a word of debate.

The New Haven Senator serving his third term, was not in the chamber when his colleagues, by a 50-0 vote, approved his appointment to the post held since 1926 by William H. Blodgett, Republican.

Most observers had forecast a bitter contest over the nomination, submitted by Governor Cross, while Hackett had been reported as ready to vote for himself if the Senate deadlocked.

Hackett, chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, former school teacher, and one time New Haven tax collector, will assume office July 1 for a four-year term. The office carries an annual salary of $9,000, subject to the general wage reduction authorized in a recently enacted bill.

SKULL MAY SOLVE STAFFORD MYSTERY

Two Men Disappeared in Same Locality in 1917—State Police Investigate.

Stafford Springs, June 2.—(AP)—State police continued their search today for the remainder of a skeleton after the discovery of a skull revived the investigation into the unexplained disappearance of two men in 1917.

The skull was uncovered yesterday by a farm hand on the Joseph Brule farm in West Stafford.

The two men, strangers, who had said they wished to buy a farm, vanished in the same locality. They were carrying a large sum of cash.

Examined by Dr. G. Percival Barber yesterday, the skull bore no clue to its identity or the cause of death.

Brule, the owner of the farm is in Hartford county jail awaiting trial on a charge of robbing an Avon store.

MORGAN MADE MONEY HELPING THE MARKET

Stock Market Prices In Another Upswing

Expected Loss in Chaotic Days of Late 1929 But the Firm Through a Pool Gained Over a Million Dollars Through the Transaction, Senate Committee is Told.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Stocks started upward in extraordinary active trading today, piling up many gains of $1 to more than $3 under the force of fresh buying orders.

Turnover to noon approximated 3,000,000 shares, or at the rate of 7,500,000 shares for the full five hour session. The largest volume so far this year was 7,198,964 shares on April 20.

Utilities, which had been lagging behind other groups, were taken briskly, though industrials rallied smartly. Most commodity markets, after a rather sluggish start, joined the rise in stocks.

U. S. Steel Common made a new high for the year above $54 for a net gain of nearly $2. American Telephone crossed $119 and was up $1.56. Allied Chemical jumped almost $3 to $125, while Public Service of New Jersey advanced more than $3 to above $52. General Motors, New York Central, International Telephone, North American, U. S. Smelting, and Consolidated Gas rose $1 to more than $2. Radio was very active, reaching a new high.

Sugar was one of the strongest staples. A sale of Cuban raw sugar at 1 1/2 cents a pound, the highest price since 1931, was reported and futures made new highs. Wheat improved after early sluggishness while cotton converted moderate losses into net gains of around 50 cents a bale.

News of the day included word that the Federal Reserve's credit expansion program through purchases of U. S. government securities had continued in the past week when the twelve regional banks increased their holdings by almost $28,000,000, or slightly more than in the previous week. The system's gold reserves reached a record high at $3,519,898,000. A rise of $72,000,000 in brokers' loans attended to the speculative interest in stocks.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—The Senate banking committee was taken today behind the scenes of financial drama of the chaotic days of late '29, by a J. P. Morgan and company partner who told in matter-of-fact fashion how a few bankers—with $280,000,000 at their fingers—supported the crashing market.

It was a profitable operation, too. George Whitney, the Morgan partner, testified that although loss had been expected, the $146,000 shares purchased were sold for $1,067,355 more than the cost, exclusive of interest.

The massive purchases lasted some three weeks. "It ended, as I recall, on November 11," said Whitney quietly while ears were strained throughout the large, crowded room to hear the story of transaction.

Leading up to his story in answers to Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, the witness related how his brother Richard, then vice president and now president of the New York Stock Exchange, had "come to see us first" about doing something to halt price slides on the exchange.

"How much did you buy?" Senator Coughlin (R., Mich.), asked. "We bought... 1,146,000 shares of Whitney's stock, at a cost of $17,752,705."

"We sold out in 1930 for $128,620,000."

"How was the profit divided?" Coughlin wanted to know. "Among us according to participation," Whitney replied. "We entered this operation without thought of profits. We expected to take a loss and at one time our book loss was $40,000,000."

"Why did you take such a large loss on Associated Mining Corporation?" Coughlin asked. "As I said," Whitney replied, "we sold without reference to profit."

The witness objected to Pecora's use of the word "pool" to describe the transaction. "We are rather glibly of the word, as used colloquially," he smiled.

"But the newspapers called it the bankers' pool," Pecora commented. "Yes," Whitney agreed, "we tried to get them right but they paid no attention."

ITS SEVENTH DAY Washington, June 2.—(AP)—The Senate investigation of J. P. Morgan and Company in building a great railroad empire through the Allegheny Corporation, Van Sweringen holding company.

As the inquiry went into its seventh day, Ferdinand Pecora, counsel of the banking committee, directed his scrutiny at the gigantic financing operations through which Morgan aided the Van Sweringens in gathering their far-flung rail holdings.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—The Senate investigation of J. P. Morgan and Company in building a great railroad empire through the Allegheny Corporation, Van Sweringen holding company.

As the inquiry went into its seventh day, Ferdinand Pecora, counsel of the banking committee, directed his scrutiny at the gigantic financing operations through which Morgan aided the Van Sweringens in gathering their far-flung rail holdings.

The room again was well filled before the hearing opened, women predominant.

It was cool enough at the start so that the big two-story windows were kept closed.

The hearing recesses for the week-end after today's session, and the investigation will be concluded early next week.

The Morgan group began arriving ten minutes ahead of time, led by George Whitney, the partner who has been on the stand most of the time.

Leonard Keyes, Morgan office manager, was accompanied by assistants bearing bulky records.

Members of the party said J. P. Morgan was not much disturbed by the circus midday incident of yesterday.

Dressed in a dark blue suit, the financier scanned a newspaper briefly, apparently turning to the financial section.

Pecora then put in a list of officers and directors of corporations with loans from Morgan and Company. Next he turned to the "special suspense account," telling of J. P. Morgan and Company operators in the first market panic of October, 1929.

Whitney said the stock purchased at this time was bought jointly but paid for individually by the partners.

"On the first day of the week," Pecora said, "the New York Stock Exchange and several banks came to us," Whitney said. "We decided on the account in the hope of preserving order in the financial community."

"Those attending the meeting," Pecora said, "were not much disturbed by the circus midday incident of yesterday."

DR. SCHACHT HINTS AT A MORATORIUM

The circumstances to take, the Reichsbank will use every effort not only to maintain contact with the various creditor groups but also to facilitate joint consideration of the situation with the creditors with the intention to lead to mutual understanding and agreements.

The standstill agreements, it was pointed out, are a vital contribution to the maintenance of Germany's international trade and credit.

"It was recognized by all," the communique said, "that German foreign trade and world trade must be regarded as fundamental to the problem of transfer."

"A permanent solution of the existing difficulties requires great efforts by Germany and also depends largely on the attitude of other countries towards the question of exchange of goods for commodities."

"In view of the important position of German economy in world affairs and the magnitude of its debt problem which must be dealt with, it is assumed that one of the most important and most urgent objectives of the world economic conference will be to facilitate a prompt and permanent solution of the German transfer problem."

PINK SHIPS ARE OUT FOR CAPT. McALLISTER

Society Matron Insists on This Color for Steamer on Excursion Cruise.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—Skipper Daniel R. McAllister, seeing red, vowed today that his steamer will never be painted pink.

A few days ago Mrs. Austin Hancock of Park avenue came to the captain with a plan. In her girlhood, she recalled, people used to have fun by going for gay cruises on the Mississippi.

"Of course," Mrs. McAllister said, "the steamer must be painted pink."

The skipper staggered. "A pink boat?" he moaned. Mrs. Hancock said yes, pink was the color essential to the spirit of the cruises.

The skipper, weak but determined, said "white she is, and white she stays," and then headed for seclusion.

Mrs. Hancock said she will insist on the terms of her contract. She said she tried all day yesterday to get the skipper on the telephone, but he would not answer.

CONGRESS STUDIES EMPLOYMENT BILL

Senate Hopes to Vote Today on Cuts in Veterans' Compensation.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—Plugging steadily toward adjournment, Congress completed action on another important measure today—the Foyser-Wagner bill setting up a new National employment service.

The employment legislation, asked by Secretary Perkins, was sent to the White House when the Senate accepted minor House amendments. The Senate hoped to reach a vote today also on the independent offices appropriation bill which has been tangled up in controversy over cuts in war veterans compensation.

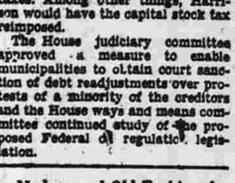

On the other side, the House started debate on the administration's railroad reorganization bill with indications that a vote would come tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the Senate banking committee's investigation of the Morgan banking house produced new developments and Chairman Harrison presented to the Senate finance committee considering the industrial control-public works bill, a substitute for the taxes voted by the House for paying the cost of the proposed $3,800,000 bond issue.

Harrison's plan would eliminate entirely the higher income taxes provided by the House and save only a half cent boost in gasoline taxes. Among other things, Harrison would have the capital stock tax reimposed.

The House judiciary committee approved a measure to enable municipalities to obtain court sanction of debt readjustments over protests of a minority of the creditors and the House ways and means committee continued study of the proposed Federal oil regulation legislation.

SHOPPING NEWS

No fancy playtime clothes for the youngsters any more. Mothers don't have to worry about keeping them clean, starched. Overalls, pyjamas and sun-suits are the proper things to wear in 1933.

With graduations only a few weeks away, Mothers will be interested to see the lovely white silks at Cheney Hall Salesroom. They will make such pretty graduation dresses, and will be wearable throughout the summer as well. For high school graduation events, there are party prints in crepe and chiffons. Prices on these silks are now so low that a few dollars will suffice for a dress or two.

White Kid
The all around leather for summer shoes will be white kid. For sports, women will wear white kid oxfords perforated for perfect ventilation. For daytime and informal wear white pleated or tucked kid pumps and oxfords have a smart, jansomade air. The gay creatures who attend teas and cocktail parties will wear white kid pumps with a narrow piping at the throat or no piping at all. It is a wise choice, since a soft cloth with a lot of soap and a little water are all you need to clean white kid. When dry, look briskly with a cloth, and it will look glossy as new.

Now is the time to have a permanent wave before graduation and vacation events. The Lily Beauty Parlor, House & Hale Block, gives the Nestle Circuline and Edmond permanent waves with ringlet ends at $3 up. Phone 7484. Mrs. Katherine Jones, manager.

Button, Button
There's an art to sewing on buttons—actually. Sew them with a double strand of the best thread. Take two stitches on the under side of the material; then put the needle through the material and one hole in the button. Lay the button on the button and sew over. Take 5 to 7 stitches and finish off on the wrong side with two or three whipping stitches. Remove the pin and pull the button up on the thread, to provide room for the buttonhole to fit between the button and the cloth.

Croquignole ringlet permanent waves given by the Weldon Beauty Salon are delightful.

GIVES BAD CHECKS TO SIX LOCAL MEN

Man Now in Tolland Jail to Be Arrested for Crime Here—Got $89.

Six Manchester business men were victims of a fraudulent check writer recently, it was disclosed today as a warrant was made out for the arrest of Raymond C. Chafin, whose address is now over the Tolland County jail. Chafin is awaiting trial in the Tolland Superior Court for writing worthless checks.

Chafin used the same system in all six cases here and his efforts netted him $89. The largest amount he secured at any one business house was $18.

At one garage he told the proprietor that a tire on his automobile had gone bad and he wanted to buy one. He asked for a blank check and also asked if he could get some cash. He stated that his car was on a street some distance from the garage and asked if the proprietor would see that the tire was taken to his machine and affixed. Taking the blank check on the local Trust Company he made out the amount, got his cash and left.

In this particular case the garage proprietor went to the street Chafin had mentioned but could not find an automobile similar to the one he described. In the meantime Chafin had departed. His procedure was similar in the other five cases. Six of the victims reported their cases to the police but it is not known whether others were victimized who have not reported to the police.

SUMMER HOME BURNS

Newtown, Conn., June 2.—(AP)—The upper part of the summer home of Roger Howson, librarian at Columbia University, was swept by fire late yesterday, the damage being placed at $5,000. A defective chimney was the source of the blaze. Mr. and Mrs. Howson have not yet come here for the summer.

Broilers—A Delicacy
A young broiler, done to a turn under an open flame, crisp and yet so tender that it melts in your mouth, is indeed a real delicacy among meats. Broiled chicken reminds us of Alexander Dumas' "Three Musketeers," who were always sitting down after some adventure to eat a whole chicken apiece. A perfect menu including broiled chicken for a dinner party is as follows:

- Cream of Asparagus Soup
- Broiled Spring Chicken
- Peas
- Olives and Radishes
- Parker House Rolls and Butter
- Perfection Salad
- Cheese Straws
- Fresh Strawberry Ice

NOTED BANKER LAUGHS OVER MIDGET INCIDENT

But News Photographers Are Not Allowed at the Senate Hearing Today.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—An air of joviality between J. P. Morgan and his associates and members of the Senate investigating committee prevailed before today's session started, as they joked over the incident of a midget being put on Morgan's lap yesterday.

"It was an unfortunate occurrence," Morgan told Chairman Fletcher, "but I don't blame the photographers."

"I don't want to stand in the attitude of knocking men out of their jobs."

NEW NAVAL CAP.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—The Navy Department has ordered greater "rake" and "fair" in enlisted men's caps.

Under new regulations, the familiar blue winter uniform cap, with its round, flat-topped crown, is to be replaced with a cap from which the grommet, the wire holding the top in its stiff shape, has been removed. The crown will be bunched up in front, and the padded sides and rear allowed to drop lower.

The regulations provide that the cap "produce the required rake in the crown," and that the sides be "padded so as to give the required flare."

SUMMER COURSES AT TRADE SCHOOL

Term Opens Monday, June 19 and Closes on Friday, August 11.

The short term courses given each summer at the Manchester Trade School will open Monday, June 19, and will close Friday, August 11, it was announced today. These courses are offered to all high school students and graduates of grammar schools and already a large number of applications have been received from Manchester and surrounding towns.

The intensive short unit courses are prepared to give students experience in architectural drawing, mechanical drawing, silk textiles, general textiles, machine shop, tool making, carpentry and electricity. All courses are free and are designed to meet specific needs, yet are broad enough to provide a foundation for future development along any line the individual may follow.

Members of the textile department of the Trade School are being taken in groups to Thompsonville to inspect the textile mills there, under the supervision of Instructors Harry Kitching, William Higgins and Paul Volgardsen. These trips are taken to acquaint the students with the trade in which they are interested and other similar trips are being planned for the other departments of the school.

Bargain In Snow Plows At Cheney Barn Sale

They Go For Half A Dollar Each As Auction Disposes Of Equipment—Harness Draws Biggest Bid.

The old one-horse snowplow that was a familiar sight in Manchester before the installing of a winter plow was sold yesterday afternoon during the auction of wagons, teams and other barn equipment at Cheney Brothers' barn on Pine street. The plows were piled up against the north wall of one of the sheds. When they were first offered there seemed to be little chance that they would be disposed of, although the auctioneer decided to sell them one at a time. There were several bidders and soon all of the plows were gone, the average price being 50 cents and in every case the plows were purchased by farmers from Hebron, East Glastonbury and East Hampton. They bought the plows, they said, to plow out walks between their homes, barns and sheds during the winter season.

An old carriage, the three seated high canopy top type, brought $50. It was built by the workers at the Cone carriage shop and Manchester Green and was for a number of years used around the Cheney homes. It was considered a fine carriage to drive away to the city and at one time, with two seats removed, was used by Otto Fisher, manager of the Cheney farm off Prospect street, to deliver vegetables to the Cheney homes and to the W. H. Cheney store at Main and Charter Oak streets.

EXPERT DISCUSSES REFORMATORY BOYS

Says Fear of Third Degree Forces Many Inmates to Make Guilty Plea.

Boston, June 2.—(AP)—Dr. James L. McCartney, director of the classification clinic at Elmira Reformatory, Elmira, N. Y., today discussed the results of an intensive study of 2,000 prisoners at the institution before a meeting of the American Psychiatric Association.

Dr. McCartney, in a speech prepared for delivery, said 66.3 per cent of the new admissions at Elmira were received from the counties of New York City.

"A comparison of the crimes as committed," he said, "and the indictments on which the inmates were committed to the reformatory brings out the fact that in a great many cases the inmate was indicted for a much greater offense than he actually committed, while quite a number were apparently innocent of their charge."

"There is little doubt that fear of the third degree, coercion of the authorities, or bargaining with the district attorney caused many to enter a plea of guilty. Only 7 per cent were convicted by trial."

Robbery Common Crime
A comparison of crimes committed by the young men of the cities and the young men of the country shows that the city boys, who have more chance to steal cars and hold up individuals, commit the two crimes of grand larceny and robbery most frequently, while burglary is found in almost half of the cases from the country.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York—"Oh, well," said the stranger, as he surveyed the fraternity houses at New York U. "I don't know what Pi Lambda Phi means, but I guess that's as good a house as any."

So he entered it, in what police called a burglary attempt. But the house choice proved a mistake. Inside was George Weinstein, star sprinter, who collared the man after a short—very short chase.

Pittsburgh—There she sat, in the marriage license bureau, impatiently tapping her foot. Then she walked over to Clerk Edgar Howe, and told him the man she was to marry went out to get another dollar. (A license costs $3).

"I won't marry a man who hasn't enough money to pay for a license," she told Howe decisively. "When he comes back tell him I've changed my mind."

And out she went. Oklahoma City—It's not the taxes, it's the principle with Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Wickoff, who paid an initial deposit of $10 for court costs in filing suit for recovery of $4.50 income tax, which they allege the government collected unjustly in 1931.

Budha, Ind.—John W. Stagg, farmer was plowing for corn, but what he plowed up was $7,000 in silver dime quarters, dollars and half dollars some dating back as far as 1818.

He's the father of 16 children for which reason the cash will come in handy.

Duluth, Minn.—Ted Williams, Abolitionist, was thrown into the water of Grand Lake, while struggling with a big northern pike. Breaking off the line and abandoning his rod, reel and boat, the southerner swam three blocks to shore, holding fast to the fish. He brought the trophy to his hotel.

IMPROVED CONDITIONS. Bridgeport, June 2.—(AP)—Improved industrial conditions in this city, was said in banking circles today to have been one of the reasons which prompted the mutual savings banks to remove all restrictions on withdrawal of savings deposits. A three months notice of intention to withdraw money above the monthly limitation has been in force.

JOHN HUNTER TENNANT, NOTED EDITOR, IS DEAD

Was Managing Editor of the Old Evening World—Was 64 Years Old.

New York, June 2.—(AP)—John Hunter Tennant, who was managing editor of the Evening World from its inception until it was sold to the Telegram in 1931, died last night at the age of 64.

He was one of the young newspapermen whom Joseph Pulitzer selected to carry on the tradition of the Pulitzer papers after his death. At one time, Frank I. Cobb, then editor of The World, said of him:

"I know of no managing editor who has the talent of instant recognition and immediate action developed in a higher degree than John H. Tennant. x x The thing that makes him a really great managing editor is his quality of knowing the moment he sees it, and get it into the paper without a minute's delay."

He was born in Albany and worked on newspapers there before coming here in his youth. His widow and a daughter survive.

ASK NORTH END'S P. O. BE RETAINED

Chamber Committee Makes Four Recommendations to Federal Inspector.

Four recommendations to increase postal facilities and service in Manchester are contained in a letter, made public today, that has been sent to E. A. Courter, Federal inspector, by the Board of Control of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Board of Control recommends that the present Station A at the north end be retained instead of installing a contract station, which the investigation of Mr. Courter has disclosed is all that is necessary in that section of the town.

The Board of Control also recommends that a sub-station be installed on Main street in the vicinity of Oak street where service can be furnished to patrons in stamps, money orders, etc.

The letter sent to Mr. Courter, signed by E. J. Murphy as president of the Chamber, is as follows: "Dear Mr. Courter: "At a meeting of the Board of Control of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, held on the morning of June 1, 1933 at which time the Board heard the complete report and recommendations of our special committee which had made considerable study of the present postal service in Manchester, the Board of Control voted to submit certain suggestions and recommendations to you which we hope you will take into consideration when making your report or recommendations to the Post Office Department.

"Following are five comments and recommendations of the Board of this Association: "1. That the Manchester Chamber of Commerce go on record as being pleased with the improved service as made effective through more frequent receipts and dispatches of mails at Manchester as made effective recently.

"2. That we, on behalf of the commercial and industrial interests and citizenry of this town, would favor Sunday lobby service and longer evening hours of lobby service, especially in the central Post Office and possibly in Station A.

"3. That we, on behalf of the commercial and industrial interests and citizenry would favor continuous and longer hours of window service, including stamp window, mail order, registered mail and parcel post, especially in the central Post Office.

"4. That on behalf of the commercial and industrial interests of the north section of Manchester, we would request that the same service be rendered in Station A, located at Depot Square, in the future, as at present. We are mindful that previous to the erection of the new central Post Office, service was rendered in more letters, by officials of the Department in Washington, that the patrons of the north end office would be given practically the same service in their branch station as they had received during the time of the separate Post Office. We hope this promise can be lived up to and that the users of the mails in that section of Manchester, may not be handicapped through unnecessary curtailment of any part of the service.

"That on behalf of the business interests of the south portion of the town, we recommend the installation of a sub-station on Main street, possibly in the vicinity of Oak street, where service can be furnished to patrons in stamps, money orders, etc."

The report of the special committee of the Chamber, made to the Board of Control yesterday, is as follows:

"At the end of March of this year, a committee, consisting of five members, was appointed by order of the Board of Control to look into the service of our postal facilities and now after several meetings and conferences we wish to submit our report and call to your attention certain facts pertaining to the subject. "We submit this report at this time so that the Board of Control might take such action as it deems advisable in presenting the official suggestions and recommendations of the Chamber of Commerce before the report of Postal Inspector E. A. Courter is completed, which he intends to do on Friday, June 2.

"On Monday, April 3, the committee of which was appointed chairman, met to discuss the plan of procedure. It appeared from the verbal complaints and remarks of the various committee members, that the service at the central post office and at Station A was lacking considerably. It was agreed that all complaints be submitted in written form and that the committee would meet the following day with Postmaster Crocker for the purpose of discussing the service.

"On Tuesday, April 4, the committee met with Postmaster Crocker and also invited representatives of the north end community club in on this conference as well as President Murphy, who attended this and the previous day's meeting. Several letters, which are on file, were read which indicated that the larger users of mails felt that something should be done to bring about more frequent receipts and dispatches of mails in Manchester; longer hours of window service in the main post office and possibly in Station A; longer hours of lobby service at night and possibly on Sunday; and earlier sorting of mail into the boxes in the post offices, especially at Station A.

"It was agreed at this meeting that a type written report (copy of which is attached) be sent to Mr. Crocker, setting forth the various complaints submitted to the Chamber and the committee requested Mr. Crocker to make such adjustments as was possible and necessary to bring about the desired service. He promised to cooperate in every possible Department to assign an Inspector to make a survey of the local postal services. It was agreed by the committee to wait for a reasonable time for results from Mr. Crocker's action, before taking the subject up with any other officials of the Post Office Department. "On April 25, I received a letter from Postmaster Crocker advising that the Post Office Department at Washington had acknowledged receipt of our committee's letter setting forth a parent lack of services and promising to conduct a thorough investigation. In the meantime Postmaster Crocker had given careful study to certain schedules which had effected considerable improvement in the lines as suggested by our committee, until now there is a marked improvement of the service as the result of additional receipts and dispatches of mails each day.

"For the past several days, a postmaster has been in Manchester, making a study of the situation and on Wednesday morning, May 31, upon invitation, met with our committee as did Mr. Crocker, also four representatives of the North End Community Association were allowed to sit in on the conference. It is now apparent that much of the desired improved service has been put into effect, namely, earlier morning mails and in fact more frequent receipts and dispatches of mail, each day has been effected by Postmaster Crocker. The Postal Inspector commented that the Manchester Post Office has as many receipts and dispatches of mail as any post office of similar size and about all that is possible, that is somewhat determined by the trains carrying mail in Hartford, the sorting depot in Hartford, the early morning mail arrives at the central post office at 5:30 and is sorted and the mail is packed and sent to Station A at 7:15. The second mail arrives at the central office at 7:20 and is dispatched to Station A at 8:15 or 9:30.

"There is also an improvement in the service through new arrangements for mail leaving Station A direct, without having to come to the central office to be cancelled and dispatched. Before the committee started its work, the earliest mail out of Station A to be dispatched on any day was at 9:25 a. m. and later dispatches at 12:00 noon; 2:15; 5:15 (east) and 7:35.

"The Postal Inspector advised that the lobby of the central post office could be kept open later in the evening and that the local postmaster if it would prove an advantage to patrons. The patrons of the box service at Station A can now receive their mail soon after 7:30 and it appears that the box service at the central post office is satisfactory.

"There is one important phase of this subject which should be called to your attention. The Inspector advised that as the result of his study and observations, he will probably recommend a change at the north end from the present classified station to a contract station. He advised that it costs over $6,000.00 a year to maintain Station A, whereas a contract station should save more than $3,000.00 or at least 50 per cent of the cost of operating Station A. His answers to questions in the meeting, stated that the service would be practically the same in a contract station as it is in Station A, namely, stamp service, money order, registered mail and box service. It was evident in the conference on May 31, that those from the Depot Square business section were not pleased with the thought of changing the classification of this station. Mr. Murphy read a copy of a letter from the Post Office Department in Washington, received previous to the erection of the new central post office, stating that when the new central post office was operating, the patrons of the north end would receive the same postal service through a station at Depot Square, as they were then receiving. There was some doubt expressed by the representatives of Depot Square as to whether a contract station would give them the service they desire and similar to that which they received when they had their own independent post office.

"It was apparent from the remarks, that the business interests at Depot Square preferred to have a classified station continued rather than a contract station and in fact there were some comments that there might be additional clerical help put in the present classified station. In answer to this the Inspector stated that the same amount of time in Station A and he convinced that with the volume of mail now being handled, there was no need for additional help and in fact, as he stated it, there was considerable "bumbling around" attending the window to sell a stamp or two then picking up one or two letters out of the mail catch and in fact there did not seem to be a great enough volume of work to justify the clerical help that is now necessary with a classified station.

"The Inspector gave the yearly volume of business in dollars and cents over the past five years in both the former independent post offices which answered the question asked as to how they compared in business volume, which showed that the north end post office had about 1-3 the volume as that of the south end office. In discussing the present volume of mail received in the mornings, he stated that on May 25 there were 282 pieces of first class mail dispatched to the north end station, 19 pieces of second class and third class mail and no fourth class matter. On May 27, Monday, which he said was usually a heavier mail, there were a few over 300 pieces of mail sent to the north end station. He gave these figures to substantiate his statement that the volume of business was not great enough to justify the maintaining of a classified station.

HONORED BY CHURCH GROUP SHE FORMED

Wesleyan Circle Gives Party for Mrs. R. A. Colpitts, Wife of Retiring Pastor.

The final meeting of the season for the Wesleyan Circle was held last evening at the South Methodist church. Mrs. Harley B. DeWolfe, president, was in charge, and Mrs. R. A. Colpitts, wife of the retiring pastor was the guest of honor. The Wesleyan Circle was formed at Mrs. Colpitts' invitation shortly after she came here and consists at the present time of five groups of young women of the church, each group engaged in some special money-making activity. The membership has grown until at the present time there are approximately 80 members.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. Fred Rogers, showed that the past year has been the most successful, financially, since the circle was organized four years ago. Activities sponsored by the circle as a unit contributed to this success in large measure. The reports of the various groups were highly satisfactory, indicating keen interest in promoting the social as well as the financial interests of the church.

The president, Mrs. DeWolfe, expressed her appreciation of the cooperation she had received during the year, and her enjoyment of the work. She then presented to Mrs. Colpitts a beautiful gift and the best wishes of the members of the Wesleyan Circle. Mrs. Colpitts responded, expressing her appreciation of the fine gift and the thought which prompted it. She said she had watched with great satisfaction the growth of the circle and the splendid assistance it was able to render to the church, and hoped for the continued interest of its members and an even wider sphere of usefulness.

PUBLIC TO VISIT OUR HIGH SCHOOL

Open House to Be Held Monday Night - Musical Clubs Concert.

The High school will hold open house for parents, former students and any citizens of the town interested in the school or its students, on Monday evening next June 5. In previous years an attempt has been made to conduct classes and run a regular program of recitations. This season, however, it was decided to dispense with the evening session idea and give the visitors an opportunity to look the building over and talk with teachers.

Students have been urged to bring their parents on Monday evening for conferences, between the hours of seven and eight. Teachers will be in their home rooms, where they can be found for such consultation as parents may wish. Alumni may take advantage of this opportunity to return and talk a work program, with members of the Vocational Guidance committee, namely: Messrs. Bailey, Wright, and Potter, Misses E. Walsh, Spaford, Fellows, Anderson, in the main building, Mr. Parr, Miss Wilcox and Miss Oberem in the Franklin building, under the direction of Harold A. Turkington and G. Albert Pearson. There will be no admission charged for this concert and the citizens of the town are cordially invited to attend it. The orchestra will be heard in several ensemble numbers, while there will be solos, both instrumental and vocal. The Glee Clubs will sing several numbers. This is the first time that the musical clubs have prepared a public program and it is hoped that a large audience will take advantage of the invitation.

SENATE BODY HEARS DISPUTE OVER KITS

Told That President Had Ordered Official to Buy Them from New York Firm.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—Major General John L. DeWitt, quartermaster general of the army, today told the Senate military committee that Robert Fechner, director of the reformation work, advised him that President Roosevelt had instructed Fechner to purchase 200,000 toilet kits from Devier and Company of New York for reformation camp employes.

Howe, secretary to the President, appearing before the committee at his own request yesterday, before it formally opened an investigation into the purchase of the kits at three Army officials said were excessive told members he had advised Fechner that he (Fechner) had authority to buy them if considered desirable. "I advised Mr. Fechner strongly not to have anything to do with it (purchasing the kits)," DeWitt said to committee members. "But first of all to be certain the President was fully advised."

"Mr. Fechner said he had been ordered to do it. Mr. Fechner said he had been ordered by the President."

MORGAN MADE MONEY HELPING THE MARKET

BUCKLAND SPURNED MORGAN CO.'S OFFER

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—E. G. Buckland, chairman of the board of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad, was the man Ferdinand Pecora referred to as refusing for an ethical reason to become a select Morgan customer in one issue of stock.

Pecora, counsel for the Senate investigating committee, said so today after it had been disclosed yesterday that Buckland had declined a suggestion that he buy United Corporation stock at bargain prices although his name has appeared on Morgan's Allegany and Standard Brands, Inc. lists of favored buyers.

Buckland's reason for turning down the United Corporation offer was set forth in a letter to Arthur M. Anderson, Morgan partner, on January 18, 1929. The letter follows: "Dear Arthur: "I appreciate very much your telephone suggestion that I subscribe for and purchase shares of the new corporation organized to acquire a substantial interest in public utility corporations furnishing electrical energy."

"I understood that one of those corporations is the Connecticut Light & Power Company, with which my company has a contract. "We are about to open negotiations for future dealings with this company in regard to power requirements, and I feel that I ought not at this time to consider any investment in its securities or in securities of any corporation which may exercise a directing influence. "This may seem to you leaning over backwards, but, excuse the paradox—I feel more comfortable in that posture. "Just the same, I appreciate your having brought this to my attention."

THAT POLITE DRIVE.
 Since the hospital drive, even including those fragmentary odds and ends of contributions usually gathered in over a period of several days, seems to be definitely over, and since the total sum pledged appears to be something like two-thirds of the minimum needs of the local institution, this might not be the worst of all possible times to enpress an opinion. The one we shall express is that more money would probably have been raised if the campaign had been more extensively publicized.

The Herald feels that some reference is due this subject in justice to two elements in the situation. One element consists of those indefatigable men and women, many of them young, who dropped for a number of days their own immediate interests and diversions and labored arduously and for long hours in a rather heartbreaking effort to extract dollars from an imperfectly prepared field.
 The other element is this newspaper.
 The Herald deems it only fair to itself to explain that it stood ready to lend its every assistance to the hospital drive, to give it the fullest support of its news and editorial columns, being convinced of the importance of the cause and the need of extraordinary effort in these extraordinary times. It was made quite clear, however, that the managers of the drive preferred to work quietly and with little assistance from the public prints.

If the results have not been altogether happy, both the hardworking members of the campaign teams and the Herald should be absolved from any responsibility for that fact.

among the members of either House or Senate must have condemned the "relief" bill as not only utterly inadequate to the circumstances but almost inevitably destined to bring about a political revolution.

MINUTE JUDGES.
 The stinging rebuke administered the other day to Federal Judge
 James A. Lowell of Massachusetts
 by the United States Supreme Court suggests an idea that we do not remember having seen discussed. According to the Supreme Court Judge Lowell completely transgressed the powers of his office when he told a jury in a narcotic case that the defendant obviously lied throughout his testimony, and stated it as a fact that witnesses who wipe their hands while testifying are always lying. The witness-defendant had wiped his hands.

The upshot, of course, was that the government's case was destroyed and the verdict of the jury made of no avail when appeal was taken to the Supreme Court.

Now the idea suggested is this:
 How many times can a judge make such breaks as this and still hold his job? What percentage of reversals at the hands of an appellate court must a judge experience before it is deemed that he is totally unqualified for his office?

Is there any earthly reason why a judge should be permitted to prove himself a blunderer in nine out of ten cases over which he presides, and still remain on the bench? Yet as far as we can see there is no way of getting rid of that kind of a judge. You can impeach him for crookedness but hardly for well-intended assiduity.

It would be interesting to know why.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA IS NOT TO BE HURRIED
 President favors Step, But It Is Not at Present on His Program

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, June 2—There will be no recognition of Soviet Russia until President Roosevelt has cleared up the major part of his long range domestic program or until he observes signs of a strong popular demand.

The President emphatically doesn't want the fact that he sent his disarmament message to Russia as well as fifty-odd other countries to be construed as having the slightest bearing of recognition.

The emphasis may be attributed to the fact that he has been impressed by a strong vocal opposition to recognition which arose in the wake of reports that he was favorable. The D. A. R., the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor—which represent millions—led the chorus of protest.

Roosevelt is sympathetic to the idea of recognition and some of his professional advisers strongly favor it. But the President doesn't regard it as a matter of great immediate importance and has no intention of creating a distracting national controversy while vital problems are being worked out.

He knows that the value of recognition to American trade at this time is considerably overrated and thus can't see it as a definite part of his reconstruction program.

Drive to Start Soon
 Friends of recognition will soon launch a national campaign to bring popular pressure on the White House. An effort will be made to collect a couple of million signatures to a petition and speakers will tour the country to arouse sentiment.

This group is convinced that the two nations will have exchanged ambassadors again before the end of Roosevelt's present term. Many of the leaders of Congress are favorable and this reflects a popular tendency toward diplomatic dealings with Moscow, even though militant opponents outshout and outnumber those who actively advocate it.

Recognition is a purely executive function. The fight in the Senate would arise over confirmation of an ambassador or ratification of a treaty which would be signed at or about the time recognition took place.

Failure to include Abyssinia, Salvador and Liberia among recipients of the disarmament message, which at first aroused suspicion that the State Department had blundered in its haste to get a message off, was explained away by the statement that only countries attending both the disarmament and economic conferences were addressed.

Unofficially, it was also explained that absolutely nobody was worrying about the armament or possible warlike intentions of Abyssinia, Salvador or Liberia.

Cabinet notes: Postmaster James A. Farley—Proved that the popularity of a patronage boss is more powerful than any other popularity when 3500 persons turned out at a $6 a plate testimonial dinner for him in New York the other night and 1800 others had to be turned away. It was one of the biggest dinners anywhere, ever.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins—Became so tired of reading about her "black tricorn hat" that she now wears a black headgear resembling a man's slouch hat except for its narrow brim. broad crown and large silver metallic feathers along the crown's base. She refers to workers as "employ-ays."

She has changed her desk about so she doesn't have to look into huge paintings of former Secretaries Davis and Doak, who gave her a pain, and even sometimes grows tired of being addressed as "Madame Secretary." To a group recently she said: "Call me Miss Perkins. I'd just as soon and it seems more natural."

Congressional note: State Senator Daniel M. McCarthy of Kansas, who serves as secretary to his wife, Congresswoman Kathryn O'Loughlin McCarthy, is not on the federal payroll and doesn't expect to draw his $3 a day salary only when the legislature is in session—and has to pay his hotel bills.

A PICKED TARGET.
 Our good neighbor the Hartford Times has suddenly developed a violent sense of shock at the high cost of publicity in this state. Considering that there is hardly a state in the Union—unless possibly it be Arkansas which hasn't anything to advertise and not many people who can read—which doesn't spend from ten to a hundred times as much on publicity, we are a little puzzled by this attitude of the Times.

But perhaps we are looking at it too broadly. Possibly it isn't the high cost of publicity but the fact that Clarence G. Willard, secretary of the Republican State Central Committee, gets some of that cost that has filled the soul of the Times full of wormwood. At all events the Times, in a leading editorial on Wednesday evening, declared in effect that it was a mortal sin and an eternal stain on the escutcheon of this fair state to pay Mr. Willard twelve thousand dollars in two years for handing out the public statements issued by the State Highway Department and the State Department of Health. The Times thinks something out to be done about it.

Well, we too are pretty strong for more economy in state expenditures. And we don't of our own knowledge know whether the State Department of Health is worth what it costs or whether the State Highway Department is, but we do feel pretty sure that a State Health Department that did its work in secret or hid its light under a bushel wouldn't be worth having, because its usefulness is predicated on the dissemination of information; and a Highway Department that didn't have a press service capable of letting the people know where their money was being spent, and how and why, would pretty quick have its wings clipped clear down to its shoulder blades.

The press services of both these departments appear to us to have been quite skillfully handled for some time and if Mr. Willard gets pretty well paid for that work it may very well be that he earns his money. Besides, he isn't anywhere near as well paid as the Times makes out. Mr. Willard doesn't get three thousand a year from the Health Department and three thousand a year from the Highway Department for just going through some motions. He doesn't hand out to the newspapers publicity articles conjured, by the departments, out of thin air. He does all the work. He writes all the statements, does all the research work, provides all the cuts and graphs, has the "boller plate" made for the weekly papers, provides the mimeographed copies that go to every daily in the state, furnishes the two departments with their clippings, employing various persons for different operations, and otherwise renders a very complete service of a type which is usually quite expensive—and pays every dollar of the expense out of his two thousand dollar allotments.

When it is considered that Mr. Willard does such an exceedingly good job that his department articles are welcomed and freely used by every paper in the state with, we believe, not a single exception, it will be understood that they are pretty good stuff.

Now if the Times is hotter after economy than it is after Mr. Willard why does it overlook the fact that there is one department—the Department of Motor Vehicles—which employs not one but two men to write its publicity matter and which alone spends as much for this kind of service as do the State Department of Health and the State Highway Department put together?

But of course, if the idea is just to shoot at Clarence G. Willard it's a waste of time to point out any other target to the shooter. And it does, really, look as though it were

IN NEW YORK
 New York, June 2.—Time never hangs heavily on the hands of Fred W. Jensen. He runs the oldest clock and watch shop in town, and also is probably New York's foremost gadgeteer. Give him a handful of cog wheels and a beer keg and he'll make you a clock that plays "Happy Days Are Here Again" while a puppet bartender draws a stein of dark.

Jensen's little shop, across from the docks on West street, always has a knot of people in front of it trying to figure out how his various "perpetual motion" clocks work. Jensen admits he winds them, but challenges you to find out where. Inside the place are hundreds of big and little timepieces; so many, in fact, that Jensen keeps his hat and umbrella in a grandfather's clock. Several museums, among the Hen-ry Ford's, have hinted at taking over his priceless collection. Jensen scorns such offers, though. Says his shop is better than a museum because everything in the place is in actual operation.

Besides the ticking and tocking are the friendliest sounds he knows—those and the delighted exclamations of people who venture in to watch the wheels go 'round. Jensen is a spry and kindly little gnome who'd rather show off his contraptions and tell about their histories than sell a new watch. (He won't sell any of the old ones.) His father, who died in 1920 at the age of 88, started the shop more than 50 years ago. Now Jensen's son and 21-year-old grandson are in the business with him.

One of his special prizes is a 200-year-old grandfather's clock from Copenhagen. Aged Danish people come in now and then to hear it play and mellow wooden pipes, some almost forgotten folk tunes. Also there are clocks with wooden gears, only an hour hand, run by weights molded of clay. One was made in the sixteenth century. More modern clocks, made by the master crafts men of a mere hundred years ago, feature charming little animated tableaux on or about their faces.

Ganplank Jottings
 Meanderings: Yehudi Menuhin sailing for Paris; shepherding his sisters—Ephediah and Yalta—and his parents aboard; halting to explain happily that after one concert appearance he'll rest and study for the next five months. No longer "Little Yehudi, the child violin prodigy," he's "Mr. Menuhin" now—18 years old and strapping. He knows five languages by this time, and says he'll soon enter an American college.

...Other voyagers—the Franklin L. Huttons, also Paris-bound, and to see their daughter Barbara married to Prince Alexis Mdivani. Taking with them 40 pieces of luggage (27 of them trunks) and two maids and a valet.

Harry Woods, the composer of song hits, sometimes takes his mother around to night clubs... So does Milton Berle, the comic... And the other night at the Bal Muret, a dark-eyed little woman at a ring-side table turned out to be the mother of Leonard Keller, master of ceremonies. Just come from Chicago, she'd never been in such a place before. And didn't think it was much of a business for her boy, who, at 21 has been graduated from the University of Wisconsin, won a Pulitzer Foundation scholarship as a violinist, and composed successful symphonic music. Keller is a German, but majored in languages at college; so now, dressed as an apache, he can keep things moving at a French night club.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN
 By WILLIAM GAINES

New York—In that amazing slant town on the bank of the Hudson below Riverside Drive, where scenery from old stage productions houses some stranded members of the B. E. F., several of the bedraggled "citizens" worked out an odd plan.

Identifying some of the stars who appeared in the shows using the sets, the squatters wrote to them, asking for their pictures to adorn the humble interiors of their huts. It would be such a novel touch, they thought, with a sort of bitter humor.

Several of the players responded gracefully, one or two were not heard from at all, but one charmer of the song and dance stage would try to be so gracious with the cheery autograph:

"Dear wishes for your continued happiness and welfare—"

Knowing something about the young lady, I must say she intended no siphancy. She just bubbles with good will, but this may help to explain why she is so light on her toes.

Theatrical Shanties
 This pathetic colony, housed in the cast-off trappings of Riverside's pretentious structures, has attracted quite a number of sight-seers from the ranks of the show world. They recognize familiar pieces of scenery and props, grow mellow in their thespian hearts and sometimes offer such help as they can.

Over-crowded warehouses have been glad to turn over the materials to the B. E. F. men. Otherwise the stuff would have to be burned. The canvas and frame work is thrown together in hodge-podge fashion, and piled on thick enough to afford a measure of protection from the elements.

Those Wicked Eyes
 Many of the alluring girl pictures by Russell Patterson have a striking resemblance about their heavily outlined, slanting eyes. The artist explains that it was a more or less accidental development which "caught on."

Once he did a batch of sketches and decided, at the last minute, that he didn't like the eyes. In a hurry to get out his work, he merely covered up the unsatisfactory lines with heavy black rings.

The drawings were rejected, and Patterson supposed his blackening was the fault. But one day he happened to meet Charles Dana Gibson, who told him he had seen some of his work around the editors' shops.

"Keep up that eye lining," Gibson advised. "It's a distinctly original touch."

Patterson did, evolving from the circles the bold slanting eyes that give so many of his delicate caricatures a vampish and somewhat cat-like appearance.

It's little things like this that explain originality in art, sometimes.

Russell Patterson, by the way, is Omaha's gift to popular art.... Mae Clarke, of the movies, started dancing in a New York night club when she was only 13.... Grace Moore is a Jellico, Tenn., girl.... Yehudi Menuhin has two sisters younger than he, named Hephadiah and Yalta.

RAIN IS PROSPECT
 St. Paul, June 2—(AP)—Faced with the possibility of encountering thunder showers after sweating in the ninety degree weather during practice rounds, a host of the nation's leading golfers got ready to launch their quest for gold in the $5,000 St. Paul open tournament today.

"People are going through life at too fast a pace," says Dr. Charles H. Mayo. Yes, any speed cop can testify to the same thing.

KISSING MAY SPREAD TRENCH MOUTH
 Such inflammatory changes in the gums must be considered as being due to the kind of food used and before one may expect to return the gums to normal it is necessary to use the foods which bring about normal health in these tissues. The use of wrong food comes first as a cause, and infection comes second.

Once the condition of Trench Mouth is established in the mouth it is important that the patient go to his dentist for local treatments, to assist in re-irradiating the gums to firmness. This is needed in addition to the right diet.

In many cases local treatments with the ultra violet light are also beneficial. By using the correct local treatments as given by the dentist, together with right diet, the disease will be entirely overcome.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (How To Use Bean Sprouts)
 Question: Mrs. Cora J. writes: "Would you kindly let me know what the food value of bean sprouts is? Also how long should they be cooked?"
 Answer: Bean sprouts are a healthful and pleasing addition to our common green vegetables and are excellent for use either raw or cooked, as a salad, or in salads, as well as in soups, stews and many other composite dishes. Their dietetic value is important, for they are rich in vitamin C. If cooked, the period of cooking should be brief in order to avoid destroying their vitamin value. Two minutes' boiling is sufficient, and more than fifteen may prove destructive. If to be served in stews and soups, they are best added shortly before the completion of cooking.

(Foolish to Gain Weight)
 Question: Miss Cynthia D. writes: "I am 57 years old, doing light inside work. Have been twenty pounds underweight for the last thirty years, but never sick—always on the job and full of pep. I eat two meals a day. Do you think I should eat more to try to gain weight?"
 Answer: Feeling as good as you do, I think it would be folly for you to do anything to try to gain weight. Your chances for reaching three score and ten are much better if your weight is kept slightly under that figure which is usually given in weight tables. If you will plan your meals so as to get all of the different food elements your body requires, you need never be afraid of eating too little. The danger is always in eating too much.

BRAUCHER SELECTS SCHMELING TO WIN!

NEA Sports Editor Picks German Fighter on Decision in Bout Next Thursday; Believes Baer's Choppy Style is Wrong Method.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of six articles from the training camps of Max Baer and Max Schmeling, and it attempts to pick a winner in their battle at Yankee Stadium, June 8.

By BILL BRAUCHER
NEA Service Sports Editor
New York, June 2.—After watching Max Schmeling and Max Baer in their training camps, in the ring and out, for several days, it is my guess that Schmeling will win from the Livermore Larrup at Yankee Stadium the night of June 8.

Baer is a tough hombre. It is his boast that he has not been knocked off his feet in four years of fighting during which he has met such men as Paulino, Schaefer, Griffith, Levin, Loughran and Risko.

But, inasmuch as he lost to Risko, Paulino and Loughran, his record of having remained in a perpendicular position loses some of its luster. Baer's ability to take a terrific punch and keep coming makes it appear that Schmeling will not knock him out. It is my guess both will be on their feet and fighting at the end of 15 rounds, Schmeling the winner by perhaps ten rounds to five.

Now that's going pretty far in the way of a prediction, and there should be substantial reasons to back it up.

Baer's training camp activities have been aimed toward the development of short punches. The camp is of the opinion that Schmeling will come walking in with this idea, the California boy is being taught a choppy style to be used against the ex-champion.

Somewhat I can't see that kind of fight beating Schmeling. He is too much of a short hitter himself. Schmeling will testify that he has seen this idea, the California boy is being taught a choppy style to be used against the ex-champion.

This is a fight in which mental attitude is going to play a most important part. Camp attaches, writing Ansel Hoffman and with this idea, the California boy is being taught a choppy style to be used against the ex-champion.

It is my guess that Baer will tire of matching a short puncher with this robot at the ring after a few rounds. Schmeling is too good at it.

The Olympic soccer team will hold an annual meeting at the West Side Rec tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Reports of officers will be heard, by-laws will be adopted and officers will be elected. All players and members are asked to attend.

Baldwin's A. C. will play Highland Park at the Charter Oak field tonight. Both teams are determined to win and a good game is expected.

Did you know that a number of high school coaches are picking East Hartford High to win the C. C. L. L. title next fall, it being believed that Coach Johnny McGrath has a championship eleven in the making.

With the graduation of its outstanding athletes, Bristol will be hard hit in the major sports of football, basketball and baseball. A severe blow was dealt the basketball team when Zebrowski, star center, was seriously injured recently. He jumped over a hedge and was impaled on a picket fence, almost bleeding to death. It is believed that the injury will keep him on the sidelines next winter.

Bristol's High track team comes here tomorrow afternoon to oppose Manchester High and the former squad is confident of proving its superiority in this branch of sport. This is the one major sport in which Bristol has not enjoyed a monopoly, the shoe being on the other foot.

Coach Pete Wigen's team has completely dominated the C. C. L. L. for the past five years and in all likelihood will do so this year.

Did you know that the batting averages of this year's Manchester High baseball team will probably be the lowest in the history of the school, and that Coach Tom Keasey stands to lose most of his regulars through graduation, including Ken Keavek, ace catcher; Captains Mahoney, left fielder; "Stew" Kennedy, shortstop; Sendrowski, first baseman; Raguskus, third baseman; and Norm Lashinsky, pitcher. Next year's team will be built around Bob Smith, pitcher and second baseman; Eric Rautenberg, centerfielder; and Earl Judd, sub shortstop.

The Hillbillies will play the West Side Buddies at the Green on Friday. The game will start at 6:30 o'clock.

HARNESS RACING CURTAIN RAISER AT CLEVELAND

Hambletonian Eligibles to Step Out at North Randall June 24—Champ Stallion the Feature.

Cleveland, O., June 2.—(Special)—When the 1933 "Roaring Grand" is inaugurated at historic North Randall track June 24, America's leading harness horses will swing into 15 days of some of the fastest trotting and pacing ever seen here. Since this star glazy of horseflesh will include 22 eligibles for the $50,000 Hambletonian Stake, interest in this meeting already is running high throughout the country.

Among the headline attractions will be the 24th racing of the Championship Stallion Stake and the Matron Stake, with purses valued at $12,000 and $6,000 respectively.

These blue ribbon classes for year-old trotters will ring up the curtain on 1933 senior futurities. Performances of harness hopefuls in these races will largely indicate what may be expected of them throughout the season, according to George H. Tipling, manager of the North Randall meeting.

History May Repeat
If recent history repeats itself, the victor of the Championship Stallion Stake will also capture the rich Hambletonian, to be raced at the Goshen, N. Y. Mile Track, August 15. The Mile Track campaign by winning the $12,000 Cleveland stake, went on to more victories and climaxed her career by winning the Hambletonian.

Today ends 24 of the nation's leading year-olds entered in both the Championship Stallion and Matron Stakes. Twenty-two of these are also eligible to the Hambletonian and other rich harness events of the Grand Circuit. Among this select group are: Calumet Dodge, owned and driven by Will F. Eaton, who drove The Marchioness to her victories in 1932; King Ben, who is staging the Hambletonian; Hollywood Fortune, owned by John L. Dodge, that recently stepped a mile in 2:07 3/4 with Mrs. Doris Hodge holding the reins; Spencer McElwain and Bobelwyn, promising colts owned by Henry H. Knight, of Chicago.

Leading contenders
Sir Raleigh, Allan Wilson's obstent colt, which shares equal honors with Spencer McElwain at 2 to 1 to win the Hambletonian, is another trotting star ready for the starter's signal at North Randall. Atlantic Dodge, and Spencer the Great, under training at Goshen, as is King Ben, are also leading contenders for rich honors here and throughout the major harness horse league.

Intensive activity at the North Randall track points to one of the biggest seasons the trotters and wigglers have seen in years. Starting with the June 24-July 8 meeting here, the Grand Circuit schedule provides plenty of speed and purses in every one of the eight cities according to officials of the Trotting Horse Club of America.

This will be the final meet of the year before the C. C. L. L. championship at Trinity Field in Hartford next week Saturday, at which the Red and White will seek its sixth consecutive title.

Manchester has compiled a brilliant record this year, marred by only one defeat in dual competition, that at Hartford High. The locals have beaten Meriden, Middletown and West Hartford, taken out of state honors at the Rhode Island interscholastic meet and placed third in the State meet.

Bristol bases its chances of victory on the fact that its margin over West Hartford was larger than that of Manchester but comparative scores generally have a decided relay advantage over Coach Pete Wigen is confident of coming out ahead tomorrow.

BAER MAY BE EVEN MONEY IN BETTING

Impresses Critics in Training for Bout With Schmeling Next Thursday.

Atlantic City, June 2.—(AP)—So much has Max Baer impressed competent boxing critics it recent workouts that the big Californian may step into the ring against Max Schmeling at the Yankee Stadium next Thursday night at close to even money in the betting.

Several California experts who had not seen Baer in action for more than a year dropped into town yesterday and expressed amazement over the tremendous improvement he showed both on offense and defense. It was, as a matter of fact, one of the best exhibitions he has given. He stepped in close and whaled away viciously at Seal Harris and Pete Whitford, and both were in trouble. He was in dead earnest for almost the first time since he arrived here.

Should Lower Demands
Detroit, June 2.—(AP)—James M. (Bingo) Brown, president of the National Boxing Association believes it's time for boxers and managers to scale down their demands for high guarantees and give "John Public a break."

Otherwise he said "I predict the amateurs will drive the professionals into the Atlantic on one side and the Pacific on the other."

Assessing the days of high priced seats are past, he said that a standard of 37 1/2 cent for the defender and 12 1/2 for the challenger is all championship bouts.

CARDS CLIMB INTO FIRST PLACE, FOUR POINTS UP ON BUCS

Wallop Cubs 6-1, to Take Lead in National as Pittsburgh Remains Idle; Tigers Edge White Sox.

By Associated Press
Detroit's chances of getting out of the American League's second division look mighty slim but as long as they can pin their faith on Tommy Bridges and Lynnwood "Schoolboy" Rowe, the Tigers are hard to beat. Bridges already has two one hit games to his credit this season, while Rowe, the big 21 year old "freshman" right hander now appears to be living up to the training camp ballyhoo.

The six foot, four inch, 205 pound "schoolboy" put it over the veteran Ted Lyons and the slugging Chicago White Sox yesterday to win 3-1 and bring his mound record up even with three victories and three defeats.

Wesley Ferrall, Cleveland's ace, came through with a three hit game to give the fourth place Indians a 3 to 1 triumph over the St. Louis Browns.

The last place Boston Red Sox blanked by Bill McFarlane, for six innings, rose up in the eighth to score four times and tie the count, then added two more off Al Thomas in the 13th to beat Washington 7-5. The Yankees and Athletics had an open date.

Cards Take Lead
The St. Louis Cards climaxed an almost interrupted climb from seventh place in the national standing to first with a six to one victory over the Chicago Cubs. It put them four points ahead of the idle Pittsburgh Pirates. The Giants continued their unbroken string of victories over the Phillies by winning the other national league game 7-2.

CHAMPS FINISH LEAGUE SLATE WITHOUT DEFEAT

Bob Smith is Only Local Player to Hit Consistently, Getting Four Out of Four; Also Pitches Fine Game; Palau Hurts and Bats Bell City Nine to Tenth Straight Win.

Manchester High lost another baseball game yesterday afternoon, bowing to Bristol High at Muzzy Field in Bristol by a score of 4 to 1, to give Bristol its tenth straight victory in the C. C. L. L. and Manchester its fifth defeat in eight starts. This afternoon the Red and White faces West Hartford on the latter's field and a triumph is necessary to keep the locals from sinking below fourth place in the standing.

In yesterday's game it was the same old story, a story of inability to hit safely. Both teams fielded remarkably well and the game proceeded at such a speedy pace it was over in one hour and 25 minutes, the fastest game that Manchester has played this season.

Save for the fact that it brought together the two greatest rivals in the League, the game lacked interest and Bristol went about methodically stowing the game in the bag in the early innings.

Allows Seven Hits
Andy Palau was sent to the mound for Bristol with his brother, Otto, on the receiving end. Albie Gurske, the Bell City's outstanding athlete, pastimed in center field, having pitched two days before against Hillhouse High of New Haven, when he was given his second defeat in thirty-three starts during the last four years. Incidentally his first defeat was at the hands of Manchester High in 1931, when the locals won the game, 3 to 1.

After a bad first inning, in which he allowed three hits and one run, Palau settled down and retired the local batters virtually as fast as they came to the plate, being reached for a total of seven hits. He got six strike outs and gave two bases on balls. Palau was caught at the catcher's throw to the bag. That a run would have been scored in this inning is extremely likely as Smith, first man up in the seventh, occasions runners died on the paths when batters failed to produce the necessary hits. In the fourth, R. Smith tripled to left with two outs but the next man lifted a fly to retire the side. In the sixth, with two down, Rautenberg singled, Sendrowski walked and R. Smith was next to bat. Then Sendrowski took a big lead off first which proved a little too big and he was caught on the catcher's throw to the bag. That a run would have been scored in this inning is extremely likely as Smith, first man up in the seventh, occasions runners died on the paths when batters failed to produce the necessary hits.

Bristol quickly overcame Manchester's margin in the first frame. Vodarski flied out to left, A. Sendrowski flied out to center and Kwiatkowski singled to right on a hit and run play. Sendrowski going to third, Palau laid down a neat bunt and Sendrowski scored on the squeeze play, Palau being caught at first as Kwiatkowski went to third. Gurske singled to center, scoring Kwiatkowski. O. Palau grounded out to end the inning.

Palau Clouts Homer
With one out in the second, Utke walked. Cote singled over second and Vodarski singled through the pitcher's box beyond second, driving Utke home and Cote to second. A. Sendrowski hit into a double play, short to second to first.

In the fifth inning, A. Palau connected for a long hit into deep center field. Rautenberg ran forward to snare the ball and evidently misjudged it, the ball dropping just beyond his reach and rolling to the fence as Palau cried the bases for a home run.

Chamberlain declined yesterday to reveal the British government's viewpoint in regard to the $75,000,000 debt installment due America June 15.

Expect Statement.
Cabinet ministers, it was said authoritatively however expect President Roosevelt to make a pronouncement on the subject before the payment is due, although news reports from Washington indicate there is little basis for this expectation.

Mr. Chamberlain classified the objectives of the world economic conference which will start in London June 12 as follows:
First, raising the world price levels;

Second, currency considerations;
Third, abolition or reduction of barriers to international trade.

He maintained that prices could not be raised by monetary action alone. A revival of international trade is essential for this, he added, and is bound up with tranquility and the general restoration of international good will and confidence.

Questions of consumption and production also are involved, Mr. Chamberlain went on.

Price Raising.
"By the regulation and planning of international production I believe we can do perhaps more than in any other individual direction to raise prices."

Declaring that Great Britain's ultimate aim is to return to the gold standard, the chancellor maintained that "as far as I am able to judge there is only one standard to which it is familiar to everybody and which I think inspires confidence provided certain conditions are observed—it is, of course, the gold standard."

"Before we can go back to any gold standard—and I am not suggesting that we can go back at any particular time—before we can go back to any parity of the gold standard we must be satisfied that practical means will be taken to insure that the gold standard will work and will not be subject to those defects which brought it to the ground not so very long ago."

Immediate Program.
Mr. Chamberlain outlined the immediate currency objectives of the world economic conference.

"What we want to do," he said, "is to protect the principal currencies having no relation to their intrinsic values, fluctuations the extent of which cannot be foreseen and which come upon us suddenly and unexpectedly. Fluctuations of that kind are fatal to the ordinary processes of trade."

The chancellor expressed hope that the world conference would result in an agreement among the nations for the restoration of a stable world money standard.

Exchange restrictions, quotas and tariffs are operating as world trade barriers, he said in the House.

Until the reserves of central banks have been strengthened and there is some revival of international lending, he did not see much hope of speedy removal of exchange controls. But the world economic conference provides unexampled opportunities, he said, adding that he did not think it could end without a substantial and concrete advance toward solution of the problem.

The chancellor said he saw some hope of "yielding in the rigidity of views on the necessity of quotas."

HACKETT'S NOMINATION CONFIRMED BY SENATE

ity leader, informed the Senate that Hackett's name had met the unanimous approval of the committee on executive nominations consisting of two Democrats and a Republican. He lauded the nominee's record in the Senate and expressed confidence that Hackett would serve with credit as head of the state's tax department.

The tall, white haired Senator was in the office of Governor Cross when a messenger informed him of the Senate's action. The chief executive, expressing pleasure over the confirmation, smiled broadly as he congratulated Hackett.

The nomination was confirmed by a rising vote, recorded by Senator M. Sanford Osborne, Danbury Republican. Immediately after its action, the Senate tackled its heavily laden calendar.

A warning that it must act immediately one way or the other on the numerous calendar measures because of the proximity of final adjournment was sounded by Senator Bergin as Senators moved to defer action on bills heading the calendar.

Prior to the warning favorable reports were received on two Bridgeport bills. One provides that the board of education, consisting of six members, shall be non-partisan with the mayor having the right to break ties if the board is deadlocked for more than ten days. The other increases the number of voting districts from 12 to 16 and provides for the election of one alderman from each of the districts. This measure provides further that 28 aldermen shall serve from November, 1933, to November, 1934. Thereafter the number shall be 16.

Two members of the proposed non-partisan education board would be elected annually for three years.

New Britain Bonds.
Under suspension of the rules a bill was passed authorizing New Britain to issue $400,000 in sewer bonds.

had paid Mitchell during 1929 a total of $610,629.28. This, he said, included Mitchell's salary and a management fund payment in January, 1929.

"Did you receive any direction from Mr. Mitchell on how much to report for him?" Steuer asked.

Received No Word
"No, Sir," the witness replied. "I never had a word with Mr. Mitchell regarding any tax matters."

Minutes of directors' meetings identified by Maguire and read to the jury yesterday, indicated that in December, 1929, the directors had adopted a resolution stating that the $1,800,000 had been advanced by the company to its officers and was to be repaid by them out of future management fund distributions.

Another record read to the jury yesterday by George Z. Medalle, Federal prosecutor, after it had been identified by Maguire, indicated that last December the directors, after having relieved one officer of repayment because of "special services," wrote the rest of the $1,800,000 off on the books under "doubtful accounts" at $1.

London's sewers have a total length of more than 500 miles.

ACCOUNTANT KEEPS TABS ON WAVES IN OCEAN

Necessary for "Timing" in New Motion Picture—Camera Shutters Synchronized.

Keeping books on the waves of the ocean seems a useless operation, but one man made it very valuable during the filming of scenes in "Hell Below," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's drama of submarine thrills.

The "wave accountant" worked with an instrument in which a float rose and fell to record its movements on a moving roll of paper. The idea was to ascertain just how the waves "timed" each day when work was started.

The cameras, on pontoons, bobbed with the waves. So the shutters had to be timed accordingly, so that each day's filming would show the same relative movement between cameras and floating submarines.

Shutters synchronized "Timing" in motion pictures has many odd tricks. For instance, since the use of incandescent lamps in the studio, camera shutters are synchronized with the alterations of current in the lamps, on the same principle as an electric clock.

Each current alternation produces a minute flicker, imperceptible to the eye, but visible photographically. So the shutters are timed to "cover" each separate picture as it is taken on the film at the time the low flicker occurs. This is an imperceptible fraction of a second, but its result in improving photography has been amazing.

"Hell Below," which inspired the "wave bookkeeper," is an adaptation of Commander Edward Eber's famous book, "Pigboats." The picture was directed by Jack Conway with a cast which features Robert Montgomery, Walter Huston, Madge Evans, Jimmy Durante, Eugene Pallette and Robert Young.

HAS NEW PROPOSAL TO HELP RECOVERY

Senator Harrison Hopes to Raise 227 Millions by His Substitute Tax Program.

Washington, June 2.—(AP)—A complete substitute for the House plan of taxation to finance the $3,300,000,000 public works section of the industrial recovery bill was laid before the Senate finance committee today by Chairman Harrison.

Under its provisions, the existing law is strengthened against private bankers and partnerships. Expanding it was his individual part, Harrison told newspapermen before going into the executive session the substitute would raise $227,000,000 and provide:

A tax on corporate dividends withheld at the source, $70,000,000. Re-enactment of the one-tenth of one per cent capital stock, $80,000,000.

Removal of the private bankers' exemption from the capital loss deduction provision of last year's revenue act, and denying the individual the right to take up on his personal return the distributive share of any partnership losses, $15,000,000.

Increase of one-half cent a gallon in the gasoline tax, $62,000,000.

MOLLISONS PREPARING FOR 12,000 MILE FLIGHT

London, June 2.—(AP)—Everything is in readiness for the flight Captain and Mrs. James A. Mollison plan to make soon to New York, Mollison said today, adding, however, that "at the moment it looks doubtful if the weather will be suitable for a start on Monday."

As soon as conditions are favorable, he said, "we will leave Crofton for New York." Their trans-Atlantic course will be slightly south of the route he took when he crossed in a light plane, he said.

Great Britain's famous flying couple plan a non-stop flight to New York as the first of a series of attempts to establish three new air records, the first London-New York flight, the first round-trip North Atlantic crossing, and the world's long distance mark.

Captain and Mrs. Mollison, the former Amy Johnson, count on resting in New York one day, and then flying non-stop to Bagdad, and thence back to England. The program calls for 12,000 miles of travel.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 2.—There were fewer unfavorable dividend changes in May than in any month in the last three years, with two exceptions, Standard Statistics Co. reported today. The total was 99 compared with 257 unfavorable actions in April and 235 in May, 1932.

Favorable revision during the month totaled 44 against 25 in the previous month and 58 in May, 1932.

A protective committee has been formed to represent holders of debenture securities of the Associated Gas & Electric Co. The committee, headed by W. A. Nash of Boston, announced that the company's exchange options tendered to the debenture holders "apparently are so adverse to the interests of debenture holders that many feel they should take steps to protect their rights."

Saturday trading sessions of the New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange will be omitted during June, July, August and September, in accordance with the exchange's custom of recent years.

The Pony Express service lasted only sixteen months, and its founders lost $100,000 in the venture.

MERCHANTS VOTE FOR HALF HOLIDAY

Wednesday Noon Closing During Summer Months is Approved Today.

Guided by the overwhelming vote in favor of half-day closing during three months of the summer, the executive committee of the South

Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce today approved Wednesday afternoon closing through June, July and August. The closing schedule will become effective next Wednesday, when virtually all member stores of the Division will close at 12 o'clock noon.

A canvass was made of Main street merchants on the question of half-day closing and the response was almost 100 per cent in favor of closing, the largest percentage ever to vote in favor of the summer schedule. The executive committee merely received the report and voted its approval. This also includes food stores as well as other lines.

Last year the stores closed Wednesday afternoons during July and August and the year before during June, July, August and September.

SOCIETY WOMAN WEDS Chicago, June 2.—(AP)—The

socially prominent Mrs. Katherine Winters, botham Buchanan of Chicago, today admitted that she and Kumar Jehan Seesodia-Warlicker, a Prince of India, had been secretly married. She said the ceremony took place Thursday, but refused to reveal details.

She divorced her first husband, Thompson Buchanan, the playwright, in California seven years ago. The bridegroom is the son of the late Kumar Sri Damodar Pratapsinghi Seesodia-Warlicker and was educated in England. The bride said she and Mr. Seesodia-Warlicker would go to the British Isles for their honeymoon.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Hot Applications for Appendicitis)
Question: Mortimer F. asks: "Will you kindly explain through the medium of your question and answer column the ice treatment for threatened appendicitis?"

Answer: I do not recommend the ice treatment in the case of threatened appendicitis. When ice is applied over the appendix area, it only serves to congest the circulation of blood and lymph and tends to localize any pus. It is wiser to put hot applications over the entire abdomen, which increase the circulation and encourage absorption of any pus pocket which might be forming. The ice treatment is good as a preparation for surgery, but, if an operation is to be avoided, the hot applications are the proper treatment.

(Flaxseed Meal)
Question: Mrs. Janice K. asks: "Is flaxseed meal good to use as a cereal or breakfast food?"
Answer: It is better to mix the flaxseed meal with some other breakfast food, such as real whole wheat grain, or with one of the dextrinized flake breakfast foods.

(Veins Show on Hands)
Question: Miss Grace S. writes: "I have large veins in my hands. How can I make them not appear so large?"

Answer: You may have hardening of the arteries, which is one cause of enlarged veins, or the circulation all over your body may be defective. Curing the enlarged veins in your hands will do very little good unless you remove the real cause which is not alone in the hands but in other parts of the body. Some people are unduly alarmed at the showing of veins in their hands when it is only because they have thin hands and the veins are not well covered with muscles.

(Sausage, Symptoms, Cure of Shingles)

Question: Mr. Eddie B. writes: "Will you kindly explain in plain language the cause of shingles, the symptoms, and if there is a cure?"

Answer: The name "Shingles" is given to a disorder caused by the deposit of toxic substances along certain nerve trunks. It always occurs on one side of the body at a time, and is most frequently found on the upper back or around the ribs on one side. The nerves are inflamed by the toxins, and the skin breaks out in a rash wherever the most irritation exists. The cure is through diet, and no local treatments are very effective. A fast taken at the onset of the disorder will hasten the cure, but even under this treatment it often takes a week or ten days for the eruption to disappear.

(In Canned Spinach Salt?)

Question: Mrs. Alice L. writes: "In your health column you advise that it is safe to eat canned spinach. From laboratory reports I have heard that a certain mineral or element contained in spinach attacks the can and draws off objectionable matter which makes it difficult for the kidneys to eliminate. Please explain, if this is so."

Answer: I do not know of any injurious element which is developed in canned spinach. Of course, there have been many beliefs and rumors about all canned goods, but my investigations have shown that these reports have very little foundation in fact.

(Palate Drops onto Tongue.)
Question: Mrs. C. asks: "What causes the palate to often drop down on the tongue, and what can be done to prevent it?"
Answer: The average soft palate touches the base of the tongue part of the time. If it bothers you very much, there is a simple operation you can have performed which consists of clipping off the end of the soft palate if it is too long.

HOUSE DEFEATS

SALES TAX BILL

of New Britain, citing the need of such legislation. The motion was also supported by Mead of New Canaan, Brennan of Stamford, Estill of Salisbury, Connor of Enfield and Googel of New Britain.

opposed the move, saying that such procedure would be irregular. He was supported by Peck of Bristol, and McKay of Danbury. In the rising vote on the motion, one Democrat, Seymour of East Granby, voted against suspension, while several Republicans voted for the motion.

ROUTINE BUSINESS

Hartford, June 2.—(AP)—The House prepared today for the closing sessions of the Legislature next week by clearing the clerk's desks of many bills of minor importance.

After refusing to suspend the rules for further consideration of sales tax legislation, the House received a large number of unfavorable committee reports. All were accepted and the bills rejected.

A long bill validating many town, corporation and private acts was passed under suspension of the rules. A favorable report was received on a bill changing the compensation law to make the law apply to employers of three persons, instead of five as at present. The measure providing that the board of education release unexpected funds from the special 11-2 mill school tax to the city of New Haven was passed. The bill caused considerable controversy and had been tabled. It passed today without debate.

The state will reimburse the teachers retirement fund to the extent of $1,496.10 for money paid by the teachers of West Haven and deposited in the closed West Haven Bank and Trust Company, under the terms of a bill favorably reported. Permission was given the E. Wales Lines Company of Meriden to sue the state for claims arising out of the contracts for the building of the new state hospital at Newtown.

prepared the bill was to make it effective in March. Attorney General Burrows ruled the law takes effect after classification of employees is completed. It is estimated the state falls to save an estimated $360,000 because the law did not take effect in March.

FEW ASK FOR AID

New Haven, June 2.—(AP)—With Federal machinery primed for state relief only 66 cities and towns have shown enough interest to apply for Federal aid through the state commission, James W. Hook, chairman of the unemployment commission said today. To date, relief expenditures of public funds for the first quarter of this year in these communities totaled $2,108,554.01. Should these reports be verified in toto by the new state relief commission which it is expected the governor will appoint within a day or two, it would entitle the state to receive from the Federal government for reimbursement of those towns reporting the sum of $702,851.35.

ZEPPU MARX IS ROBBED OF FORTUNE IN GEMS

Comedian and His Wife Locked in Clothes Closet While Thieves Loot Apartment.

Los Angeles, June 2.—(AP)—Zeppo Marx, of the Brothers Marx, comedians, figures too much robbery is too much.

He was shy today the following articles of jewelry: A platinum ring set with a 12-carat stone and valued at $12,000; a platinum bracelet set with rubies and diamonds, valued at the same amount; a pair of platinum clasps, diamond set, worth $4,000, and a $200 platinum pin set with diamonds.

That was the haul of holdup men who invaded the Marx apartment last night, covered Zeppo, his wife and a guest and a maid, with weapons and rifled Mrs. Marx's jewel cases.

It wouldn't have been so bad if the same stunt hadn't been pulled in the Marx absence about five months ago when the loot was $37,500.

"I'm tired," said Zeppo, "tired of being robbed."

The guest, Allan Miller, of New York, had arrived in Los Angeles only an hour before the robbery.

He and the maid were bound and gagged and Marx and his wife were locked in the clothes closet.

After the men departed, Marx managed to open the door of the closet and notified police. The loss was covered by insurance.

THEVENOW'S WIFE RETURNS Pittsburgh, June 2.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Thevenow is back again with her husband, Tommy Thevenow, Pirate infidel.

Absent for nearly two weeks, she quietly returned from her parents' home in Madison, Indiana.

Neither Thevenow nor his wife would discuss events of last week which led police to drag the Monongahela river for her body after her purse and coat had been found on a bridge.

Police said Thevenow told them there had been a quarrel and that she had left home. Fears of suicide were allayed by receipt of a letter from her, postmarked in Pittsburgh.

The Thevenows were married last January, just before the Pirates began their training season.

BUDGET DIRECTOR TAKES COMMITTEE SESSIONS EASILY

Washington—Appearances before congressional committees often are regarded pretty much as bad dreams by those in the administration. The going sometimes is rough.

President Roosevelt, however, has three men in his official family whom he can send to the hill at almost any time with confidence that they will be able to stand up against almost anything sent their way.

One is young Lewis Douglas, director of the budget. Then there is Cordell Hull, secretary of state. And Claude Swanson, secretary of the navy.

Douglas went before the ways and means committee of the House the other day to explain the administration's industrial recovery bill.

Douglas, who served three terms in the House from Arizona before the President picked him for the intricate job of cutting down on governmental expenses, visibly impressed those 25 gentlemen who have the reputation of being about as "hard-boiled" a group as there is on the hill.

He talked their language, because he has served alongside them in the House. He seemed to know what they were interested in having brought out more clearly and anticipated their questions.

Trust and Ferry One was reminded of the days when Ogden Mills appeared before ways and means. Mills too, is a member of the House and could match wits and words with the best of them.

Mills' appearance before a congressional committee always was the signal for a good show. He would argue and wrangle with the committee members as if he were the inquirer instead of the witness.

Some of the stormiest, yet most delightful, committee sessions ever held at the capitol centered around the youthful Mr. Mills.

It isn't always so stony. When Pat Hurley was secretary of war in the Hoover administration he became so infuriated at a committee session that he got up and stalked out of the room.

Minute Men Cordell Hull, Roosevelt's secretary of state, has long experience in the House back of him, as well as a turn in the Senate. If there are any appearances to be made on the capitol, tariff agreements, the secretary is ready. He has served on both ways and means of the House and the finance committee of the Senate.

Secretary Swanson should find the occasions he is called to capitol hill to discuss naval affairs relatively simple. He was on that committee for years while a senator, and before that served a long time as a member of the House.

DISABLED VETS GATHER Meriden, June 2.—(AP)—The 12th annual convention of the disabled veterans of the World War opened in the city hall auditorium this morning with 85 state chapters represented.

William Dodd of Jersey City, N. J., in a brief address referred to the National Economy Act as "drastic inhuman legislation."

Business sessions were scheduled to be resumed with the convention ball tonight and banquet tomorrow night. The auxiliary will hold its annual state convention in Red Men's Hall tomorrow. There will be a parade tomorrow afternoon which will end at the World War monument where memorial exercises will be held.

Completion of the Ranger, latest United States aircraft carrier, brings the present American tonnage of this type vessel up to 91,300, still leaving a balance of 42,700 tons to be built.

ANDREW J. SLOPER, FINANCIER, DEAD

Emma (Barnes) Sloper, he came to this city in his boyhood and worked his way to the highest executive offices in the bank.

Mr. Sloper was president, treasurer and director of the New Britain Gas Light Company and a director on many manufacturing corporations including the American Hardware Corporation; Landers, Frary and Clark; North and Judd Mfg. Co.; Union Mfg. Co. and The New Britain Public Utility Company in this city and the Trumbull Electric Company of Plainville.

During his life he had served on the boards of directors of several other companies of organized corporations.

More than 25 years ago, Mr. Sloper helped to organize the American Hardware Corporation, which consists of F. and F. Corbin, Russell and Erwin Mfg. Co., the Corbin Cabinet Lock Co., and the Corbin Screw Corporation all of which produce building hardware.

For many years Mr. Sloper was influential in local and state Republican politics. He served three terms in the Common Council and was a member of several public commissions. He was the Republican nominee for mayor in 1896 but was defeated at the polls by the late Robert J. Vance.

In 1901 he was elected to the Second district as a Senator in the Legislature.

Interested in the First Baptist church, Mr. Sloper served as its treasurer for more than 50 years.

He also was a trustee and member of the finance committee of the church and at one time superintendent of the Sunday school.

Among his gifts to the church was the organ now in use.

He was president of the New Britain Institute, composed of the public library and museum, for several terms.

One of Mr. Sloper's first jobs was as clerk in the drygoods store of the late Darius Miller, who in his death, left an estate of several hundred dollars.

Prior to that he had been a photographer's assistant. When he was offered a job as messenger boy in the New Britain National Bank in 1867 and decided to accept it, Mr. Miller would regret the step, while he himself intelligently to his tasks at the bank and was made cashier in 1885.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, June 2.—(AP)—After some hesitancy in early morning, the Stock Market today showed a recovery for this year and gains of 1 to 3 or more points were recorded over a wide front.

Commodities generally joined the rally, although the more restricted wheat, corn, cotton and sugar advanced moderately and secondary bonds generally followed stocks on the upward rush.

Various low-priced shares were held in hand the first hour while pivotal issues were inclined to hold to a narrow range. Around noon, however, the leaders drew followings and blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares appeared on the tape.

Utilities generally gave the best performance. Gainers of 1 to 2 around 2 or more points in this group included Public Service of New Jersey, Consolidated Gas, American and Foreign Power, Northern American, National Power and Light, Standard Gas and Columbia Gas. Others up 1 to more than 3 included U. S. Steel, American Telephone, General Motors, International Telephone, Chesapeake and Hudson, Santa Fe, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, Houston Oil, American Gas, Delaware and Lackawanna and Westinghouse.

Leaders up fractions to around a point were Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Hudson, Standard Oil, American Electric, Kennecott, American Smelting and Radio. Neither the tobacco nor so-called "wet" stocks commanded much attention.

Whitlock Corp. apparently paid no attention to the proposal made to the Senate finance committee to place a temporary tax of one-tenth of one per cent on the par value of corporate stocks. It was estimated that this tax would bring in around $50,000,000 and obviate the necessity of increasing normal income rates.

Of principal interest to the financial district was the continuance of trade and industrial improvement and opinions expressed by some economic observers that the customary summer dullness might not appear this year. That the business improvement had swung into the ultimate consumption was indicated by the weekly trade reviews which reported some large department stores already were showing a volume July 10 per cent ahead of last year.

The strong upward trend of stocks, some brokers were hanging out mild storm signals in the form of warnings that the market was in an over-bought condition and that a substantial corrective setback was needed to improve its internal position.

REALTOR BOUND OVER

Bridgport, June 2.—(AP)—The case of Robert Davis, 41, of Goff Terrace, New Haven, a realtor who is held on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses on the complaint of three elderly Bridgport residents for whom he was serving as agent in the sale of Lordship Property, was continued until Saturday in City Court today.

Bonds were reduced to $1,000, and a New Haven friend of Davis posted a cash bond for his release.

Friedman, taken to Bridgeport hospital with a fractured skull, died at noon.

SALES TAX MOVES STIR DOUGHTON'S FIGHTING SPIRIT

Washington—When the House ways and means committee in the last Congress reported out the sales tax in an effort to balance the budget, one high ranking Democrat on the committee voted no and reserved for himself the right to fight the tax on the floor of the House.

That was Robert L. Doughton of North Carolina. What the tall, bald and serious North Carolinian did to the sales tax in that Congress is now history. Allied with LaGuardia of New York, he led the fight that threw the House in open revolt and crushed the proposed sales tax.

Doughton is now chairman of the ways and means committee, and once again he has thrown the weight of his influence against this kind of a tax. Led by him, the ways and means committee refused to raise the necessary revenue to finance President Roosevelt's industrial recovery program.

Battling For It Some believed at first that such a levy would be made. While the President left it up to the leaders in Congress to raise the money there were those who thought "e-looked with favor on the sales tax as the best method."

Gossip has it that Doughton went straight to the President with his opposition and won his case. Certainly he was whipped his committee in shape and the speed with which a tax-raising plan of its own was agreed upon sets something like a record.

A veteran of 25 years' experience in the House, Doughton is impressing everybody on Capitol Hill these days by the determined manner in which he conducts his committee's most powerful in the House.

A good example of this occurred at another time while the industrial recovery bill was before the ways and means committee. A determined effort was made to include in it the bill the oil industry regulation plan.

He Hadn't Heard Doughton was opposed because he thought it would delay the measure. Secretary Ickes of the interior department and Representative Marland of Oakland went to him personally in an effort to "steal" his mind.

They urged him to call the floor of the House to argue with him. Doughton was adamant. They told him that President Roosevelt wanted the plan included.

"I haven't communicated the fact to me," Doughton replied. They urged him to call the President himself and ask him about it. Doughton refused and said if President Roosevelt felt that way about it he must get in touch with him.

"I positively will not delay this bill with the oil bill or anything else," he said, "without direct word from President Roosevelt himself—from his own mouth."

AND WHAT BOOKS DO YOU DISLIKE MOST? A Vexed Reviewer Writes of His Literary Peeves

Of the making of books, as the Old Testament writer remarked, there is no end; and a reviewer who has read more current books than is entirely good for him can perhaps be pardoned for pointing out that there are some kinds of books which he wishes never to see again.

These include: Strong, realistic novels of the soil, in which repressed young girls, tired housewives, defeated farmers and strong, lusty, a. s. of toll chase one another through 300 pages of trumped-up suffering.

English novels in which the hero is an artist, a novelist or a civil servant, and in which there is an American character who proves his Americanism by using slang of pre-Spanish War vintage.

Detective stories (a) in which the detective is an authority on Chinese jade, the experiments of Pavlov or the breeding of chow dogs; (b) in which he remarks, "Oh, yes, I know who killed her... but I can't say a thing just yet"; (c) in which, just before the fourth murder, he murmurs darkly, "Pon my word, I don't like this—something horrible is happening here."

Smart novels in which it is taken for granted that two people who love each other must go away together, no matter how much misery they may cause innocent bystanders to suffer.

SENSE and NONSENSE

YOU CAN GET SOME NICE SCRIPT
I'd like a little cottage Out in the countryside, With some sweet little maiden To be my happy bride, But when I think about it This question comes to light— "What would we use for money To keep our cottage bright?"

Local Man—What happened when the police searched your house?
Neighbor—It was fine. The police found the front door key which my wife had hidden, an airmail stamp I lost weeks ago, a corkscrew and four collar buttons.

We are willing to accept the statement that the darkest hour is just before dawn, because we don't care to get up at that time merely to verify it.

One of the easiest ways to tell the single man from the married one, is that one of them is generally up to his ears in love, while the other is up to his neck in debt.

The passenger was taking his first ocean voyage, and he was most miserable.

Passenger—Oh, steward, how far are we off land?
Steward—Mile and a half, sir.
Passenger—Thank heaven! In what direction, steward?
Steward—Straight down.

In Paradise, Eve had nothing at all to wear, but Paradise to the modern girl would mean having so many clothes she couldn't tell what to wear.

Mrs. Poe—I understand you went through a very serious operation.
Mrs. Nap—Yes; I had my alimony cut off.

Best Man (just after wedding)—Why do you look so worried?
Groom—I don't like the way the bride smiled when she promised to obey me.

When you hear someone say, "I have a right to live my own life," you can bet your bottom dollar that they are getting ready to buck the established convention, run off with someone's husband or wife or do some other equally silly thing. With all the avenues of advancement that are open to young people nowadays, there's infinite ways of expressing individuality.

Mrs. Jeter—So you are divorced—did you manage to make a satisfactory settlement?
Mrs. Petty—Yes, my husband takes the house and I take the children.

Mrs. Jeter—What about the money?
Mrs. Petty—The lawyer got that.

SPARKLERS: The man who brings home the bacon is not always the one who eats it. . . Love may be blind, but the average mother-in-law is a good eye-opener. . . The wise man doesn't wait for fortune to knock at his door; he goes out to meet it. . . A friend indeed is one who isn't in need. . . People bent on borrowing trouble always find others willing to lend it to them without security. . . Don't save all your smiles for the parlor; use a few in the kitchen. . . Exaggeration arouses suspicion, whereas understatement promotes confidence. . . What we don't know makes us uneasy. . . The men who can't even manage themselves are always eager to manage the nation. . . We can't truly serve another unless we satisfy his self-interest.

Early to bed, early to rise, cut the weeds and swat the flies; mind your own business, tell no lies, don't get gay and deceive your wife; pay your debts, use enterprise and buy from those who advertise.

Mistress—Mary, when you wait at the table tonight for my guests, please don't wear any jewelry.
Maid—I have nothing valuable, ma'am, but I thank you for the warning.

Neighbor—I hear the Gadabout's home was swept by fire.
The Cat (snapping)—Well, I'll bet that is the first time that woman's house has been swept by anything in weeks.
