

ASSEMBLY AMENDS RUM CONTROL BILL

Beer May Be Sold in Hotels, Clubs and Restaurants Without Meals—Rules Relaxed in Other Instances.

State Capitol, Hartford, June 8.—(AP)—The Connecticut General Assembly today after a five months session, proud of a record which saw its answers to the major problems of the year praised by Governor Wilbur L. Cross.

The final meeting of the House yesterday took on a holiday aspect as the women members marched about in costume, a band played and the air was filled with paper missiles. But in the Senate the Legislators maintained their dignity to the end.

The last minute drive brought enactment of two amendments to the State Liquor Control Act, permitting sale of beer in hotels, clubs and restaurants with or without meals, relaxing restrictions on package and drug stores, and authorizing towns to hold special elections to determine whether they shall be wet or dry.

The unemployment insurance bill, however, drafted by the Connecticut Federation of Labor, and approved without debate by the Senate, met opposition in the House and was promptly rejected.

Legislation was passed reducing the interest rate on small loans from 42 to 36 per cent a year. The Senate amendment cutting interest to 24 per cent, and the House amendment reducing it to thirty per cent were both scrapped in favor of the original proposal.

When the solemn law-making and boisterous fun-making had come to an end, Governor Cross appeared before a joint session of the House chamber to bid farewell to the General Assembly.

The governor assured the Legislators he had no intention at present of calling a special session of the Legislature. "I, however, an emergency in the affairs of the state arises," he warned, "I shall

WAR DEBTS TABOO AT LONDON PARLEY

Not to Be Discussed, Says Secretary Hull on His Arrival in England.

Plymouth, Eng., June 8.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull barred all discussion of war debts at the world economic conference when he arrived today at the head of the American delegation aboard the liner President Roosevelt.

"We shall not go outside the details of the agenda," Mr. Hull said, "and we shall not discuss Britain's payments of war debts to the United States due next week."

"I can say emphatically that the war debts will not be discussed by us at all at this conference."

"The question of disarmament will also be outside the scope of the conference," Mr. Hull continued, "for that is a matter which concerns Mr. Davis (Norman H. Davis, American representative at Geneva) and officials at Washington."

The tender Sir John Hawkins, met the President Roosevelt two miles out in Plymouth Roads, and the American delegation was landed at Mill Bay dock.

MOLLISON'S CRASH DURING TAKE OFF

Plane Wrecked on Croydon Field, England, as They Were to Start for U. S.

Croydon, England, June 8.—(AP)—Disaster overtook Captain James A. Mollison and his equally famous flying wife today at the outset of their adventurous attempt to set three new aviation records.

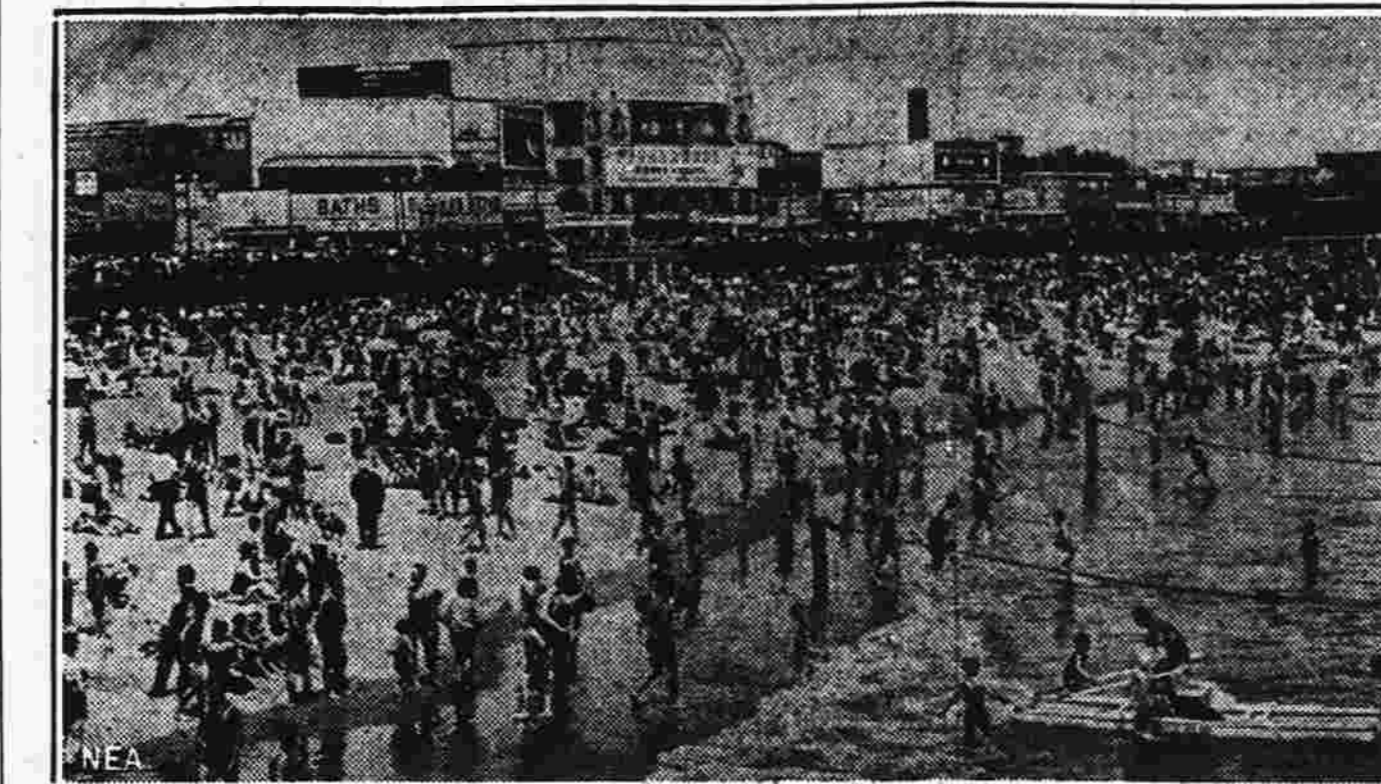

Their large plane, carrying a three ton load crashed at the take-off for a flight to New York, whence they planned to fly to Baghdad and then back to England.

The machine had run about 30 yards when it apparently struck a depression in the field. Its landing gear was torn away, the nose was dented, both propellers curled up, the lower left wing was broken and both right wings were crumpled.

Does Not Overturn. It turned a complete circle, but did not overturn.

You Hot? So Are A Few Million New Yorkers

Here is real evidence of the first June heat wave that struck much of the country—a part of the crowd of more than half a million perspiring New Yorkers who swarmed to Coney Island to splash in the Atlantic. And splash is all most of them did, for the ocean still was uncomfortably cold.

JAPAN NOT TO GIVE UP BOMBING FROM THE AIR

Envoy Creates Sensation at Arms Cut Parley — Declares Other Nations Must Abandon Aircraft Carriers

Geneva, Switzerland, June 8.—(AP)—Japan created a sensation at the disarmament conference today by announcing that it was unable to accept complete abolition of bombing from the air until the great powers abolish aircraft carriers.

Abandonment of air bombardment is a feature of the British draft convention now before the conference. All countries have accepted this point in principle, although the British desire to have the right to resort to bombing for police purposes in outlying regions, such as Northern India.

Ambassador Naotake Sato announced categorically that Japan was not in position to renounce general air bombardment because it was not confident that the powers would fulfill their pledge of renunciation. There might be infractions, he said.

The disclosure came as Mrs. Roosevelt left her hotel in company with Elliott en route to the United States at Burbank. Thirty minutes later the party, which included Mrs. Isabelle Greenway, Democratic National committeewoman for Arizona, left the United States for Saugus because fog made a takeoff at Burbank hazardous. At Saugus a special ship awaited.

At the hotel entrance Mrs. Roosevelt said in reply to a question that the divorce was in prospect and then Elliott, at her elbow, confirmed his mother's statement.

Beyond the bare announcement that the divorce action was to be instituted in Nevada, neither Elliott nor his mother cared to comment much.

Elliott did add, however, that the divorce will be sought by his wife, the former Elizabeth Donner, daughter of William H. Donner of Philadelphia, industrialist, on grounds of incompatibility.

Separated a Year. The couple has been separated since last year. An agreement is understood to have been reached as to the custody of their child, William Donner Roosevelt, born last November. They were married January 16, 1932.

When Elliott came to the west coast his wife and baby did not accompany him.

Mrs. Roosevelt was accompanied on the plane, which will make an initial stop at Tucson, Ariz., by C. R. Smith, general manager of the airline; Amon G. Carter, Fort Worth newspaper publisher, and Mrs. Greenway.

MONDAY POLL IMPORTANT TO TOWN'S VOTERS

Must Decide If Town Will Bring Rate Case Against Electric Co.— See Delay in Reducing of Costs.

Voters in Manchester will go to the polls Monday to take action in a matter that may prove to be vital importance to the welfare of the residents but which may attract a small number of electors unless the people quickly recover from the apathy in which they are at present. This is the so-called "rate case" against the Manchester Electric Company. Both members of the Taxpayers' League who are the antagonists and voters who feel that the rate case is not in the best interests of the town fear that there will be a scarcity of voters at the polls Monday.

STRAUS PRESENTS HIS CREDENTIALS

New U. S. Envoy Tells French President There Is Need for Cooperation.

Paris, June 8.—(AP)—Jesse I. Straus, presenting his credentials as new American ambassador to France today, told President Lebrun that the United States is waiting for France to do something definite for disarmament and for the success of the world economic conference.

While Mr. Straus was telling the French statesman what America expected, Norman H. Davis, American ambassador-at-large, argued with Premier Daladier to abolish tanks and reduce artillery so as to make disarmament possible.

NEW TROLLEY CAR IS GIVEN TRIAL

Practically Noiseless, Runs on Rubber Wheels—Competes With the Auto.

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The newest thing in street cars made its first public appearance today. The car, built for greater speed and less noise, cost half a million dollars, a big part of which is represented by three years of experimentation sponsored by a group of 25 electric railway systems.

Builders of the new car gave a demonstration in Brooklyn today to prove that its improvements eliminate most of the jerks and clatter of older models. The model demonstrated today had an old body which is destined to be replaced in the finished car by a one-piece metal body.

Developments found successful in automotive design have been applied for the first time to the street car. The basic idea of "floating" power is much in evidence. As a result noise has been greatly reduced.

"Rubber" Wheels. Rubber "sandwiches" between steel parts which formerly rattled against one another have been extensively used, and the entire truck has been lightened. There also are "resilient wheels," called that because of the rubber makeup.

It is claimed that the car will start from ten to 15 per cent quicker than the most modern automobile. Much attention also has been paid to the braking so that stopping does not interfere with the passenger's comfort even if he is a "standee."

WESTERLY BRIDGE DEDICATED TODAY

Connecticut and Rhode Island Governors Take Part in Colorful Ceremonies.

Westerly, R. I., June 8.—(AP)—Joined by the governors of two states, residents of Westerly and Stonington, Conn., divided by the Pawcatuck river, dedicated the third bridge to unite their communities.

The bridge, completed recently by Rhode Island and Connecticut, is the third structure to be built across the Pawcatuck, the first being erected by Colonists in 1712 during the reign of Queen Anne.

This bridge continued in use until 1885 when it was replaced by an iron structure which again gave way to a concrete bridge, built to traffic which travels the Boston Post road.

Led by Governor Cross of Connecticut and Governor Theodore Green of Rhode Island, two parades which included in their line of march battalions of National Guardsmen, one from each state, moved across the bridge.

Meeting in the center at the state line, a ribbon was cut, the governors shook hands and the parades moved back to the Rhode Island side where dedication speeches were made.

A dress parade led by Colonel Arthur N. Nash of Rhode Island followed, while behind came descendants of the Pequot and Narragansett Indians, descendants of the early Colonists headed by the Rev. Harold R. Crandall, a seventh day Baptist, whose ancestor, the Rev. Peter Crandall founded Westerly in 1665.

The bridge was planned by Connecticut highway authorities and constructed by the Rhode Island Board of Public Roads from funds appropriated by the two states.

The scene of the dedication is one of the most scenic in New England. The bridge is located on the site of the "Kitschamug Ford"

Gas Line Repaired. "I have already fixed the gas line leak and I am almost ready to take off as far as repairs are concerned."

"The only thing is that I feel too sick now, and I think I will wait a few hours until I get better."

Asked the exact time he landed, the flier gave the same rejoinder. "I can't tell you exactly," he explained, "but I was just four hours out of Omak when I found out what had happened and I came down almost immediately."

Having left Omak at 1:10 a. m. Wednesday, Moscow time, (5:10 p. m., Tuesday, e. s. t.) his landing would have been some time after 5:00 a. m., Moscow time (9:00 p. m., Tuesday, e. s. t.) approximately one hour after he passed over Novosibirsk.

American World Flier in Exclusive Telephone Interview With Associated Press Reporter, Tells of His Experiences — Plane Damaged in Landing But Flier May Be Able to Resume Journey Later in the Day.

(Copyright 1933 by Associated Press) Moscow, June 8.—Gasoline fumes from a leaking gas line, which almost overcame him in the air, forced Jimmie Matern suddenly to land near Prokoplevsk, Siberia, Wednesday, the American round-the-world flier told the Associated Press today.

"I am still sick from those fumes," the Texan said in an exclusive telephone interview. He spoke from Belovo, a workers' settlement near Prokoplevsk where he came down at 10 a. m. Moscow time Wednesday (2 a. m. e. s. t.) a few hours after he had started from Omak, Siberia, on the fifth lap of his world race.

Is Still Sick. "I can't hold any food on my stomach, but I expect to get off for Krasnovarsk in five or ten hours," he said.

"I was four hours out of Omak when I discovered a leak in the fuel line, and by the time I had found out what the trouble was, I was in bad shape from the fumes."

He added that he was almost unconscious when he brought the plane down on a small emergency landing field at Belovo, the settlement.

"When I landed, I broke my stabilizer and I cannot make permanent repairs here."

"They have helped me as much as they can here, however, and I shall be able to get off from here with temporary repairs within a few hours and run into Krasnovarsk, where there are facilities for fixing this stabilizer."

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

ALUMNI PROGRAM GRADUATION WEEK

New Feature Inaugurated to Help Bolster Verplanck Foundation.

Graduation week for the High school is beginning to take on the resemblance of a college commencement program. Arrangements this year have been made for an Alumni night, which will be on the night of graduation day, Friday, June 23rd. The feature event of that night will be the presentation of the new and popular three act comedy play, "The Queen's Husband", by an alumni cast from the Community Players.

This scheme of connecting the alumni with the festivities of graduation week should mean many happy reunions for the graduates of M. H. S. and S. M. H. S. The High school authorities were particularly pleased to get the cooperation of the Community Players, an organization which has a substantial of High school alumni in its membership. The Players suggested that they would be willing to contribute their services to make this affair a financial advantage to the Verplanck Foundation.

This arrangement is a particularly happy one because the Verplanck Scholarship Fund is available only to M. H. S. alumni and at the present time has been entirely exhausted. There are several thousand dollars of notes held by the Foundation on account of money loaned students who are already out of college or who are now attending. This fund is a revolving fund which means that within a few years the money will automatically be expected to come in as fast as it was loaned out. For this year, however, the Foundation has had considerable difficulty in meeting the demand of many worthy students in college. The alumni are being asked to support the project of Alumni Night and attend presentation of "The Queen's Husband". After the play there will be a social at which dancing will be enjoyed and the general alumni get together will take place.

Mrs. Joseph Handley is coaching the production which insures a very high grade type of performance. In addition to alumni who will be in the cast, Joseph Handley and former superintendent of schools, A. F. Howes, have important parts. Rehearsals have been going on for two weeks and will be continued at the High school beginning next week.

PLECTRAL AND PIANO PUPILS IN RECITAL

Those Being Taught by Mrs. Merrifield and Mrs. Taylor Give Fine Program.

Mrs. Ada N. Merrifield and Mrs. Carrie A. Taylor presented their pupils in a joint recital last night at Center Church house. The spacious parish hall was comfortably filled with parents and interested friends. The stage was decorated with field daisies and ferns, and the young girls who are members of Mrs. Merrifield's plectral orchestra, and the pupils of Mrs. Taylor, were beautifully gowned in silks and chiffons in the prevailing styles.

Mrs. Merrifield and Miss Ada Robinson were the pianists. Those who formed the first mandolin group were Geraldine Anthony, Velma Brown, Mrs. Merrifield, Mrs. Esther Metcalf, Alice Fegy, Thomas McKinney, second mandolins, Lorraine Dora and Gerard Van Haverbeke, Evelyn Smythe, Sarah Wostenholme; mandolas, Florence and Esther Metcalf, Dorothy Lescoe and Clarence Stone; mando-cellos, Nelson Warner and Francis McVeigh; guitars, Charles N. Merrifield, Elsie Dietrich and Michael Lucas.

Clarence Sylvester played the tenor banjo, Hudson Barrows the flute and Wylas Hawkins the mando-bass. The full program follows:

Graduate Nurse

Miss Valerie F. Gorman

Miss Gorman was graduated Tuesday from St. Francis Hospital Training School for Nurses in Hartford. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Gorman of 128 Maple street. Miss Gorman who is well known here as a graduate of Manchester High school and has been attending the Training school three years. She was formerly employed by the Travelers Insurance Company.

17, last year, is with his mother at the Donner estate.

The President, while governor of New York, visited the Donner home twice. The first time was shortly after the engagement of the young couple was announced on October 30, 1931, and the second time at the wedding, January 6, last year. After the wedding, which was an outstanding event in social circles here, the Roosevelts took up their residence in New York, where the young husband was in business.

MRS. AUSTIN GOES INTO GOLF FINALS

Hartford Woman to Meet Mrs. Dubois for State Title Tomorrow.

Stamford, June 8.—(AP)—Mrs. L. C. Dubois of Weeburn and Mrs. George L. Memorial Day and Armistice Day Groups—British Veterans Ask for Delegate.

Meetings of two holiday committees will be held tomorrow evening. The final meeting of the Permanent Memorial Day committee will convene in the Municipal building hearing room at 8 o'clock and the Permanent Armistice Day committee will meet in the Army and Navy club at the same hour.

In both meetings the chairman for next year will be elected and committees selected. All bills outstanding are requested to be turned in by the secretaries of both committees so that all business for the year may be closed.

An application for membership submitted by Mona Spear post, British War Veterans, has been received by Neal A. Cheney, secretary of the Permanent Memorial Day committee. The application will be acted upon tomorrow night.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

New London, June 8.—(AP)—Commencement week at Connecticut College will begin tonight with the senior banquet which will be held at Norwich Inn.

The features of the banquet are the reading of the class prophecy and talks by the four class presidents. Esther Tyler of Noroton Heights is the class prophet and will forecast the future activities and achievements of her classmates.

MUST REDUCE ACREAGE OR PRICES WILL DROP

Tobacco Growers Must Fall in Line or They Will Suffer, Says Koppelman.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—Immediate institution of a land leasing program under the terms of the Farm Relief Bill for tobacco growers to prevent prices which he said "will probably be the lowest in the history of the industry," was urged in a statement today by Representative Koppelman, (D., Conn.).

Rep. Koppelman said immediate steps for the reduction of tobacco acreage should be taken in order to care for the 1933 crop. He has been in close contact with the proceedings of the tobacco conference held this week at the Department of Agriculture, which was attended by many Connecticut tobacco growers.

"From the conference I have had with officials high in the agriculture department," Rep. Koppelman said, "I am convinced that there is every indication that unless the majority of cigarette tobacco growers in Connecticut fall in line with whatever farm relief plan is finally decided upon for that area tobacco prices next year will probably be the lowest in the history of the industry."

THE MANCHESTER ELECTRIC CO.
773 MAIN STREET
MANCHESTER, CONN.
ADDRESS YOUR REPLY TO THE COMPANY AND REFER TO

June 8, 1933.

Again we ask, as one citizen to another, Why waste more of your money—as well as ours—in further rate cases?

A significant fact for every taxpayer to keep in mind is that the petitioners of last October's rate case are actually paying approximately half as much for electricity today as they would have paid for the same usage in 1921.

There were 151 petitioners for the rate case. Data taken from car files, (available to customers on request) shows the following comparison.

	1933 Actual Figures 1st four months	1921 Figures For same usage
Total kilowatt-hours used by petitioners	25,565	(25,565)
Total payment by petitioners	$ 1551.88	$ 2706.24
Average rate	6.6¢	11.5¢
Decrease in average rate since 1921		42.7%

The petitioners, who claimed that their rates were excessive, have seen their electric prices out more than food, clothing or shelter.

With evidence such as this from the accounts of the petitioners themselves, with one fair and complete trial already held, with earnings now decreased below dividend and interest requirements, what possible benefit can be derived by spending more thousands of dollars on a new rate case?

Please don't vote first, and investigate afterwards. Get the facts now and then vote on June 12th in accordance with your judgment.

S. Ferguson
President

*The Manchester Electric Company is a citizen, too, paying in 1933 $10,851 in taxes and spending about $100,000 in the city on payroll and supplies.

WIFE IS SILENT

Philadelphia, June 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, whose marital trouble was publicly disclosed today by her husband's mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, is maintaining a strict silence.

Neither she nor her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Donner of Villanova, near here, would make any statement.

Mr. Donner, millionaire former steel man, said if and when he had any statement to make he would see that the public got it.

News that the wedded life of the 21-year-old heiress and the 22-year-old second son of President Roosevelt was not running smoothly did not come as a surprise to society in and about Philadelphia, but not one word of the difficulty was authorized for publication.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who was Elizabeth Browning Donner before her marriage, has been staying at the Donner estate, "Camp Woods," at Villanova, since the inauguration of the President. She has been much entertained by society.

Two weeks after the inauguration she visited the White House. Several weeks ago, Mrs. James Roosevelt, of New York, mother of the President, was a visitor at the Donner home.

POLICEMAN'S STORY DISTURBS DEFENSE

Patrolman Tells Court Witness Denies Seeing Truck That Killed Old Man.

Bridgeport, June 8.—(AP)—A statement made by Patrolman John J. Sweeney on the witness stand before Judge Newell Jennings in the Superior Court here today threw a bombshell into the fight of counsel for Harry Goldberger, convicted of patricide, for a new trial.

Patrolman Sweeney was called to the stand by Assistant State's Attorney Lorin W. Willis to refute testimony offered earlier by Mrs. Alice Statler.

Mrs. Statler told the judge that Harry Goldberger was not the man she saw slight from the truck which struck and fatally injured his father, Kalman Goldberger, last February.

She testified she saw the truck after the crash and a young man much smaller and darker than Goldberger alighted, looked back at the death scene and drove away.

Patrolman Sweeney, who investigated the killing of Goldberger senior, declared that less than five hours afterward Mrs. Statler denied to him that she had seen the same truck before.

At the time of this denial, according to Sweeney, the truck was parked in almost the same spot Mrs. Statler had claimed to have seen it right after the accident.

After hearing this testimony, Judge Jennings gave counsel three weeks in which to file written arguments on Defense Counsel Henry Greenstein's motion for a new trial based on Mrs. Statler's testimony.

SEEK MISSING MAN Hartford, June 8.—(AP)—The State police department has been advised that Joseph Mroz, 36, has left the Norwich state hospital and may attempt to return to his former home in New Britain. He is described as having brown hair, brown mustache and brown eyes, weighs 145 pounds and is 5 feet, 3 inches tall.

The state police have also been asked to locate Mrs. Rose McDonald a hairdresser, whose father, James Carroll of Germantown, N. Y., died in the Hudson hospital.

BOMB KILLS MAN Springfield, Ill., June 8.—(AP)—Two homes were damaged by bombs early today after the rival mine unions squabbled, which brought fatal injuries for one man and gunshot wounds for ten others at a picketing riot yesterday.

Three progressive miners were beaten today as they with about five hundred others picketed Peabody mine No. 43, which resumed work this morning with 200 United Mine workers reporting at the shaft.

ROCKVILLE DEFENDANT WINS SUIT FOR SLANDER

Judge A. C. Baldwin of Derby Renders Decision in Favor of Irving Hayden.

Judgment for the defendant was rendered yesterday afternoon by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin, of Derby, in the case of Anna Cherboneau against Irving Hayden, which case was tried in the Tolland County Superior Court on Tuesday afternoon.

Damages on two separate actions were sought in this case, first for assault and second for slander. The amount of damages being asked amounted to $4,000. Judgment for the defendant on both counts was filed by Judge Baldwin with Clerk Willis H. Reed at the opening of the session yesterday afternoon at one o'clock, a. m.

In this case the plaintiff, Anna Cherboneau, who hails from Stafford, claimed that Irving Hayden had threatened to strike her on April 9, 1931. She claimed the damage for slander on the same date, alleging that vile names had been called. Hayden also resides in Stafford. It was shown in the case that Anna Cherboneau was in the employ of James Gayne of Stafford at the time of the alleged assault and slander and that Irving Hayden was a tenant in a house owned by Gayne. The plaintiff, Anna Cherboneau, was represented by Attorney Irvin F. Foley of Hartford and the defendant, Irving Hayden, by Attorney Fred J. Fahy of Thompsonville.

Graduation on Sunday The annual graduation exercises of St. Bernard's Parochial school will be held on Sunday afternoon at the church. 12 PER CENT WINE MAY BE LEGALIZED

Prohibition Director Says It Would Increase Respect for the Law.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—Expressing unalterable opposition to repeal of the 18th amendment, Major A. V. Dalrymple, prohibition administrator, told the House ways and means committee today that legalization of naturally fermented wines would increase respect for law and bring needed revenues to the treasury.

Dalrymple was testifying in support of the Lea bill which would legalize wines of from 11 to 12 per cent alcohol by volume and tax the new beverage 20 cents per gallon.

"My observations as director of prohibition lead me to think that the passage of this bill would have a very wholesome effect upon enforcement as a whole," Dalrymple said.

"The sale of 3.2 beer has very materially reduced bootlegging. It also has created a feeling of favor for enforcement which the law did not have before. Liberalization of the wine laws would have the same effect."

Asked About Revenues. Asked by Representative McCormack (D, Mass.) what revenues would accrue if the 18th Amendment were repealed, Dalrymple replied: "That is hard to say. Of course,

New Haven Man to Address Dry Rally in High School — His Record.

Dr. George S. Lockwood, who is principal speaker at the prohibition rally next Sunday evening at High school hall, is pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of New Haven, and director of the Wesley Foundation at Yale. For eight years he was pastor of Grace Church, Denver, making it into a community church, and receiving over 1,800 members representing 21 different denominations.

He became widely known as founder of the Denver Open Forum and President of the Denver Labor College. The Colorado thus characterized his ministry at Denver in an editorial: "He is advanced in thought. He keeps well up with, if not in advance of, the social current. His church is an intellectual center." William Lyon Phelps said, "Dr. Lockwood is a tremendous addition to New Haven."

Special music Sunday evening includes Manchester's well-known young cornetist, Chester Suleids and a fine young player on the marimba, Tony O'Bright. Clarence P. Quimby, principal of the local High school, and delegate of the fourth Senatorial district to the June 20 convention, is to preside.

THINK WOMAN'S DEATH CAUSED BY ACCIDENT Bridgeport Police Believe Rifle Fell in Closet and Was Accidentally Discharged.

Bridgeport, June 8.—(AP)—The absence of finger prints from the stock of a rifle found beside the body of Mrs. Justine R. Wallenta, in a closet of her home in Fairfield yesterday afternoon, strengthened the belief that her death was an accident.

Lieutenant George Haux of the Bridgeport police department reported to Fairfield police today that the stock and barrel of the small calibre rifle was without fingerprints. This strengthens the theory that Mrs. Wallenta, who is the wife of a local printer, lost her life when the gun fell and was accidentally discharged.

Investigations however, will be continued and the police are awaiting the report from medical examiner Thomas F. Davis, who is performing an autopsy.

WATKINS GUARANTEES NO CUT IN PRICES

Say Bottom Has Been Reached — Crowds Visit Drapery Department This Morning.

Crowds packed the Drapery Shop at Watkins Brothers this morning and business continued brisk well into the afternoon as customers took advantage of the values offered in the Watkins ad in last night's Herald, under the heading, "Markets are up—Watkins prices are still down."

Watkins Brothers are showing the public through their advertising that prices are going up. Although many stores have already adjusted their prices to the present wholesale costs, Watkins announce that until July 1, merchandise in their present stock will not advance.

The local store goes even further, so positive are they that prices will continue to advance and not go down. They guarantee their prices against decline for six months, with an offer to pay the difference should prices decline in the meantime.

If you feel sour and weak and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of mild, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or anything else and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just clogs in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a tickle, bad taste and your breath in fact, this often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you feel drowsy and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price.

Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

DARLING FOOL

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MONNIE O'DARE, rushed home from Europe in response to a delayed letter from her former fiancé, DAN CARDIGAN, only to find him dying from injuries received in an automobile accident. Moreover, just before the accident, Dan had married SARAH LAWRENCE, a designing actress who pretended to be Monnie's friend but led Dan to believe Monnie no longer cared for him.

The O'Dares have little money. Monnie works to help support her mother, younger brother and sister. LALL, her older brother, works in a garage. On the European trip Monnie was the paid companion of her old friend, MISS ANNE COREY.

ARTHUR MACKENZIE, rich middle-aged New Yorker who she met on the trip, asked her to marry him but she refused. After Dan's death Monnie tries to pick up her life anew but she is disappointed in the coldness of her former friend, CHARLES EUSTACE. Mackenzie telephones to say he is coming to see Monnie that evening. Charles seems to be the same old Monnie. She decides that if Mackenzie asks her again to marry him she will accept.

He would not let Kay take his coat—nonsense. It could go right there on the hall tree. It was a wretched night. He had a car waiting. He was driving on to Cincinnati. He would take a plane the day following on his way west.

Monnie said shyly that she was sorry she couldn't invite him to stop with them. Without seeming to, his shrewd glance took in the little house. That was kind, he said, but he'd planned to go on. This must be the western hospitality he'd heard so much about.

Kay drifted away with a murmured excuse after a moment or two and Monnie heard the click of her mother's key in the lock. Mrs. O'Dare would slip upstairs to freshen her costume and brush her hair before presenting herself to the visitor.

They made small talk. Mackenzie seemed interested in everything. What was Monnie doing? Ah, that soiled good! Did she like her new work? Kay asked. "Yes, it's interesting. What about him? This little sister was a beauty, wasn't she? Everyone thought so, Monnie agreed, kindling at his praise. Kay had thought of going on the stage, she added, but just now she seemed to have lost interest in the local newspaper. Insisted on contributing her share to the family income, too.

"She'd make a sensation in New York," Mackenzie said enthusiastically. "With the right gowns. And she should have her hair done by Antoine. He has a rare quality."

Monnie turned at the faint rustle in the doorway. "My mother," she introduced proudly. Mackenzie, springing to his feet, bowed low. One might, though, Monnie, her heart swelling, be ashamed of the scuffed chairs and threadbare carpet but anyone in the world would be proud of a mother like that. Character was molded on the very bones of the fine face. The eyes were beautiful, although they had lost the sparkle of youth. "Mother wouldn't be on a bit different, in certain ways," she reflected, loyal listening to the pleasant voice. "But I want her to have them just the same."

Soon they were alone together and the man turned toward her. "Like me all," he told her swiftly. "They're great, your people. Just what one might expect."

"Thank you," she flushed at his honest admiration.

"Monnie, I haven't long to stop. I must settle this business quickly. Do you know what I've come for?"

"That's what I've a question to answer, in all simplicity, but her eyes were eloquent.

"Have you thought it over, dear? I hate to rush you but it seems to me I've been waiting a long time. What have you to say to me?"

She lifted her head. The words "I'll go with you," she said, her tongue but just then there was an interruption in the form of a long peal at the bell. Sounds from the kitchen regions indicated Kay and the mother were busy with domestic duties and had not heard the sound.

"I'll go with you," she said, her tongue but just then there was an interruption in the form of a long peal at the bell. Sounds from the kitchen regions indicated Kay and the mother were busy with domestic duties and had not heard the sound.

She hastened to the door, making a pretty picture in her swirling frock, her cheeks rosy, her eyes alight with excitement. To her amazement, Charles Eustace stood on the threshold.

"May I come in for a moment, Monnie?" He was looking very handsome. "I want to talk to you."

What could she say? What could she do? He had never been refused admittance at this hospitable door before. Monnie opened it wide and he followed her into the room where Mackenzie, lounging against the mantelpiece, examined some old photographs.

"I'm sorry, I didn't know you had a guest," Charles' tone was stately, polite. But Monnie, having brought him this far, had to go on. In a cool voice she introduced the men. "Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Eustace."

Mackenzie turned, recognition dawning in his face, his annoyance for the moment in abeyance.

"How do you do. But we've met before."

Charles acknowledged the sentence with an ironic bow.

"Whatever shall I do with them both?" the girl asked herself despairingly. "Everything is spoiled now. Charles hates me for having Arthur here—not that it matters! Tomorrow he'll know the truth!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV

Going down into the neat little parlor Monnie was abruptly conscious of the room's shabbiness. The rug had long since faded, its bright, original pattern lost. They had bought the couch in the corner of the year Daddy died and somehow, since then, it had never been enough money to recover it. There was a worn place on one of the cushions. The curtains were spotless, like everything else in Mrs. O'Dare's home, but they had quite obviously been patched and darned. There were scuffed marks on the sort smelly, sturdy shoes make—on all the chairs and on the upright piano.

How shabby, Monnie thought with a pang, all this would look to the urban eyes of her flitting-lashed visitor. Ah, but she could change all this in the twinkling of an eye if only she wanted to! No longer need her mother ruin her eyes over fine mending, prolonging the life of a daisies and wool. No longer need the table be set with cracked, chipped china. The O'Dares could have silver and fine linen. Her mother could have luxuries—the sort smelly, sturdy shoes make—on all the chairs and on the upright piano.

CHAPTER XLV

These thoughts raced through Monnie's mind as, before the mirror in the hall, she touched her hair nervously, smoothed her frock.

"What are you thinking of?" Kay asked.

Monnie made a sweeping gesture. "Wondering what he'll think of—all this."

"Won't like it?"

"Won't—? Monnie wrinkled her nose. "I don't much care whether he does or not. I was thinking how dull this place must be for him. She knows every worn place in the rug, every scratch on the furniture. I was wishing I could make a clean sweep of it all, get her new things."

"I've known," Kay interrupted with an air of sagacity, "I don't believe she minds so much—not as we do. Every bit of it—the shabby, I mean—is home to Mother. We're always going about, seeing other people's things and being envious. But she never complains."

"Just the same I'd like to be able to get her new things," said Monnie sturdily. "And I'd like to have her—wash dishes and do the heavy part of the cleaning. She must have washed millions of dishes in the last 10 years."

"Not for me!" yawned Kay lazily. "I never mind to wash any. When I'm an old maid—shall live in one room—a studio—and have a maid in a gray uniform to wait on me."

"That would be nice," Monnie agreed dreamily, straightening a picture. "Where is Mums, by the way?"

"She ran across to Mrs. Cox's, with some books. Della is sick with flu or something."

"I wish she'd rest once in a while," Monnie complained. "She never stops. It worries me."

"She doesn't want to," Kay told her older sister. "She loves doing the things she does."

"I wish she'd rest. But I want her life to be easier, just the same," Monnie persisted.

Kay sprang to attention at the sound of the bell. "Guess that's your man."

"Don't run away, please!" Monnie besought. "I'll be such a fool. Answer the door like a good girl."

Kay complied, looking in her blue frock, like a modern angel with a halo of fair curls. Kay had charming manners, Monnie reflected, listening to her sister's fluty voice in greeting. Yes, Kay had a great deal of promise. Unless Monnie did something about it, though, her sister would be buried forever in this small place. There were all sorts of reasons for Monnie to accept Arthur Mackenzie. And no obstacles. Wouldn't it seem idiotic now for her to refuse him? If he still wooed her, of course. And she rather thought he did. His letters of late had held a warm, urgent note.

In an instant he was before her, dominating the small room, bigger than she remembered him, impressive in his big coat with the scent of damp tweed and good Russian leather clinging to him.

"Well! Well!"

Monnie was laughing, finding she had nothing to say, a trifle shy with the great man. Was it possible she had been so casual with him in London? All that seemed ages ago and she herself at that time another girl.

"But you look splendid!"

"Thank you." He made her feel small and childish.

STORE EMPLOYEES HOLD WEDNESDAY OUTING

First of the Summer Half-Holidays Observed by House's and the Hale's Workers.

The first summer closing holiday was enjoyed by workers and families of The J. W. Hale Company and C. E. Oak House and Son, Inc., at an outing at Oak Grove Beach, Niantic, Conn. Through the courtesy of Camillo and Louis Andio of the Health and Louis Andio of the Health Market both their cottages and the Clubhouse were available. About sixty were in the party which went by private cars as soon as the store closed Wednesday noon.

On arriving at the beach a tasty lunch was served which was prepared by Mr. and Mrs. Allen Barrett and Mrs. Borst of the Hale store. The lunch consisted of salads, cold meat sandwiches, tomatoes, pickles, doughnuts and coffee. Frank Busch, athletic instructor at the Recreation Center took charge of all the sports which included volleyball and horseshoes. An exciting baseball game was held between the Self-Serve Workers and the Main Floor Departments. Alexander Lang was umpire. The main floor crowd walked away with the game. Swimming was enjoyed the remainder of the day and after a light lunch the crowd departed for home.

SCORES ARE DROWNED DURING HEAT WAVE

Blistering Heat, Strong Winds, Hail and Lightning Harass the Nation.

Kansas City, June 8.—(AP)—Blistering heat, tornadoes and winds akin to tornadoes, hail and lightning the Nation in much of the area between the Rockies and the Atlantic Wednesday. Nearly three score deaths, most of them due to drowning and heat prostration were reported.

Deaths were most numerous in the states bordering the Great Lakes. There were 11 in Illinois, eight each in Wisconsin and Indiana, five in Western New York, and four each in Ohio, Michigan and Pennsylvania. Including Tuesday there have been ten deaths from drowning in Wisconsin.

Springfield, Ill., and Paducah, Ky., reported maximum temperatures of 102.

The Western New York deaths were due to a violent wind, hail and electric storm. Two at Lackawanna were killed in a wall cave-in, one drowned at Buffalo, one was crushed by a barn in Lancaster and another struck by lightning in Batavia.

No vessels were reported lost on the Great Lakes although navigation of small craft was hazardous.

FRIENDLY GERMS AID MANKIND IN NUMEROUS TASKS

State Laboratories Head Explains That All Bacteria Are Not Dangerous.

Although the word "germ" brings to the average mind the thought of a microscopic animal which spreads disease and destruction wherever it goes, there are really germs which are as friendly and helpful as others are dangerous. It was pointed out by Friend Lee Mickie, director of the Bureau of Laboratories of the State Department of Health, in the department's weekly broadcast today.

There are three kinds of microscopic plants which interest bacteriologists, Mickie stated. These are yeasts, molds and true bacteria. The yeasts are used in making bread, yet there are also yeast-like forms which produce serious disease although these are found mostly in the air. Bacteria are found in sewage, spilling food, leather and even wearing apparel. Some molds cause serious infection, such as athlete's foot. But there are beneficial molds, such as those used in cheese making. Even some bacteria are beneficial. Manufacturers are beginning to use certain kinds in the production of important industrial chemicals. Bacteria are responsible for the clean, wholesome souring of milk and furnish butter-milk, butter, special cultured milks and cottage cheese. Other kinds turn cider into vinegar and cabbage into sauerkraut. Some bacteria manufacture food-stuffs for plants from the air or by decay of dead vegetable and animal matter. Some types are used to sewage treatment to make it more easily disposable.

Most disease bacteria live as parasites in or upon the bodies of human beings or animals. The infection is spread by contact, by insects or by contamination of food and water. This type of bacteria is the reason why Connecticut supports a Bureau of Laboratories to aid the control of public water supplies, to search for disease carriers among food handlers, to investigate food poisoning cases and to detect the cause of bacterial diseases.

HEBRON

Howard Bradstreet of Hartford, a leader in the adult education movement, and seventy of the grade teachers of the Hartford schools, visited Hebron Monday afternoon on a historical pilgrimage. They first went to the old "Church of England" graveyard on Godfrey Hill, where they looked over the ancient graves, those of the three wives of the Rev. Samuel Peters, famous Tory priest of Revolutionary times, and others occupying their interest. The epitaph on the second wife's stone is often quoted among curious and unusual inscriptions. The second wife was Abigail Gilbert, who lived only a few years after her marriage, her death occurring July 14, 1769, the marriage having taken place June 25 of the same year, when she was 17 years of age. Added to the inscription are these lines:

"Wedding changed to lamentation, Ye Greatest Grief in all Creation Mourning Grief in Desperation."

The party then visited St. Peter's Episcopal church, which was open for their use, and Mr. Bradstreet gave a delightful talk on the Rev. Samuel Peters, who was the first rector of the church here. He told the story of the Peters slaves, some twenty in number, and their narrow escape from being sold into the West Indies. The slaves, through the determined efforts of the children of the town, the Rev. Mr. Peters, then in England, where he had fled on account of his loyalist principles was harassed by debts brought about by his sudden departure and the loss of his property, and had sent the order for his slaves to be sold. The party visited St. Peter's churchyard in the rear of the church, where the Rev. Samuel Peters is buried, also the grave of the latter's nephew, Governor John D. Peters, who was killed at Columbia, where they visited the home of Dr. Eleazer Wheelock, now occupied by H. W. Porter and family on Columbia Green. Dr. Wheelock was the founder of the school for Indians in Colonial days at Lebanon, Crank, now Columbia, from which sprang Dartmouth College. They then went to Lebanon to visit the Governor Trumbull home and saw office.

Miss Hannah Fuller and her employees, Dr. Emma J. Thompson of East Haddam, were visitors one day this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gray.

Carlton B. Jones of this place acts as auctioneer, Thursday at the sale of household goods and antiques at the Williams place on Colchester Green.

An effort is being made by "The Friendly Towners" of Willimantic, to interest local people in vacations for "fresh air" children from the city tenements, this week's vacation to July is desired for the children, and it is recommended that two be taken in each home that offers hospitality. Their ages are from five to 11.

The Ladies' Afternoon Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. A. phone Wright Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Edmund Horton was winner of first prize. Three tables were in play. Refreshments were served.

The local league of Women Voters held a meeting at the Town Hall, Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. V. William Park of Hanover was the speaker, her subject being "Education."

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hewitt and infant daughter, of New London, were visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John N. Hewitt Tuesday.

Girl Scout News

Troop 3

The last meeting was opened with playing "Musical Chairs," after which the girls said the horse-shoe formation and Gertrude Gardner was invested with her tenderfoot pin. A period of games followed, which all the girls enjoyed. The date of the overnight hike has been changed from June 23 and 24 to June 26 and 27. Two weeks at Coventry Lake this summer. The girls that are going the last week in July are to meet at Captain Sutherland's home to make plans, and those going the first week in August are to meet with her Wednesday, July 19. This was the last meeting of the year for Troop 3.

Scribe, Marjorie Lahey.

Troop 4

We opened our meeting with patrol corners. This was our last meeting for this season. Sunday, June 18, our whole troop is to meet at the Lincoln school at 2:30 to go to Coventry Lake. We are not going if it rains. We played "The Hunter and the Deer" while some scouts worked on second class sign-making. Alice Bennett received her second class badge during the Goodnight circle. We closed our meeting with taps.

Troop 6

We gathered at the Rec at 5 o'clock Monday to go into the pool for a swim. Emily Smith came with her mother, Miss Senior Life Guard. Roy C. Sylvander was also with us. Laura Andio, Nellie Burnham, Marjorie Inman and Mary Smith passed first class swimmer. We all left about 6:30, having had a wonderful time. We appreciated Lieutenant Foster's efforts in securing the pool for us. There will be supper hike next Monday, June 12. The girls will meet at the Manchester Green school at 3:30.

SUIT IS WITHDRAWN

Hartford, June 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Ethel Berkowitz of Hartford filed a suit for $10,000 damages for slander against Mr. Hardy, Inc., and Frederick G. Hardy of Hartford, as the result of a letter mailed to Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the President, which withdrew her action yesterday.

The move was made after the Lardy Corporation made retractions in which they denied they had authorized anyone to write the letter. Mrs. Berkowitz, which Mrs. Berkowitz said contained reflections on her character. The letter was sent to Mrs. Berkowitz by Mrs. Roosevelt as she thanked her for a gift of two dolls.

The Great Buddha at Kamakura, Japan, wears 830 curls upon his majestic head; these curls, according to legend, represent nails which once crawled upon the original deity to shelter his bald head from the sun.

Bright Woman Lost 20 Pounds

Feels Much Better

"June 28th, 1933, I started taking Kruschen Salts. Have lost 20 pounds from June 28th to Jan. 10. Feel better than have felt for four years. Was under doctors care for several months. He said I had gall stones and should have operation. Kruschen did all and more than I expected." Mrs. Leta Bright, Walker, Minn. (Jan. 10, 1933).

To lose fat and at the same time gain in physical attractiveness and feel spirited and youthful take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

A jar that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle at the J. W. Hale Drug Dept., Manchester or any drug store in the world but be sure and get Kruschen Salts the GALT way to reduce wide hips, prominent front and double chin and again feel the joy of living—money back if dissatisfied after the first jar.

THE NEW HAVEN R.R.

BULLETIN ISSUED ON INSECT CONTROL

Gardeners May Secure Advice on How to Fight Pests by Writing Bureau.

A new bulletin just issued by the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, entitled "Insect Control in the Home Garden," is now available for distribution through the Hartford County Farm Bureau office and everyone who is interested in killing bugs in the garden and wants a good pamphlet on this subject should order one of these bulletins at once according to an announcement made by the Hartford County Farm Bureau office.

While a large number of good market gardeners do very little in the way of spraying to combat insects, it is a recognized fact by the majority of home gardeners that there are usually more bugs than there are vegetables on their small plots and if a home gardener wants to enjoy a real success he must fight the insects and diseases.

Among the insects discussed are Mexican bean beetle, cut worm, cabbage worm, cucumber beetle, squash vine borer, flea beetle, common plant lice and squash bug.

Copies of this bulletin will be sent to home gardeners free of charge, addressed to the Hartford County Farm Bureau, 95 Washington street, Hartford, while they last.

LEADING ORCHESTRAS SCHEDULED AT RAU'S

The Bridgway Hotel orchestra will furnish the music for dancing at Rau's, Crystal Lake, Saturday, June 10. The following Saturday night, June 17, Ed Murphy and his Hotel Bancroft orchestra from Worcester, Mass., will be at Rau's. In response to the many queries about when Bill Deley's Merry Makers are coming to Rau's, this popular band will be at Crystal Lake as soon as arrangements can be made for the Merry Makers to get away on a Saturday night. They now have a steady job in Pittsfield, Mass.

WAPPING

Next Saturday June 17, the Men's Bible class of Wapping will hold a picnic at Skinner's Grove.

Miss Bessie Risley, who recently sold her home on Oakland street, Manchester, is staying with her mother and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. M. Troy.

The Peter Kupchunas place which was recently purchased by Mr. Ernest of Foster street, has been thoroughly renovated and put in good condition and has been rented to two families from Hartford who have moved there recently.

Miss Grace Cavanaugh of South Windsor spent the week-end in Boston, Mass., where she visited schools.

Mrs. Olive A. Jones has returned from spending the winter in Windsor Locks and has opened her home for the summer.

Many of the farmers are busy setting out their tobacco. The weather is just ideal for this work with the recent rains which is of great benefit to them.

The South Windsor Garden club met at the home of Mrs. James Stoughton Wednesday afternoon.

The United Workers held their annual business meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry S. Martin on Friday afternoon.

THEATERS AT THE STATE

Two Features

With the extraordinarily successful double feature program of "Song of the Eagle" and "The Lady" leaving Manchester's State theater tonight another giant double feature show will start at the State tomorrow and continue through Saturday. Hartford's own talkie star, Katharine Hepburn, stars in "Christopher Strong" and the co-feature will find Lee Tracy in "The Nuisance" with Charles Butterworth, Madge Evans and Frank Morgan.

Her first picture, "A Bill of Divorcement," held forth an affluence of stellar possibilities for Katharine Hepburn; and now she further the critics' and movie-goers' forecast of a stardom by her splendid portrayal of the daredevil aviatrix, Cynthia, in "Christopher Strong." Miss Hepburn is a dramatically exciting as the speed of her cars and planes; as attractive as Eve and as modern as cellophane. Her refreshing glamour is inviting and impressive.

Lee Tracy's fast-talking comedy has a remarkable new medium in "The Nuisance," wherein he plays a debonair shyster lawyer, an ambulance-chasing charlatan who harries a street car company with damage suits on cleverly faked evidence, thrills and drama, with rapid-fire speed. Sensational accidents, clever skirmishes in court, legal legwork, romance, and some remarkable character delineations are all in the picture.

ACHING, SWOLLEN FEET

NEW HAMPSHIRE TAXES NON-RESIDENT TRUCKS

Five Day Special Permit Provided For—Becomes Effective July 1.

New Hampshire has placed a ban on the free use of its highways by non-resident trucks. Colonel Michael A. Connor, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, today received communication from the motor vehicle department of New Hampshire setting forth the provisions of a law enacted by the legislature of that state. Similar legislation has been before the Connecticut General Assembly.

Under the law non-resident trucks with a carrying capacity of more than three tons will be required to register before they are permitted to operate in New Hampshire. A five day special permit, however, is provided for.

The law, effective on July 1, 1933 declares that no motor truck of registered carrying capacity of more than three tons owned by a non-resident shall be operated on the highways of New Hampshire until it has been registered under the laws of that state in the same manner as if required of similar vehicles owned and registered in the state. Special permits for non-residents, however may be procured to permit operation on the highways of the state for a period of not more than five days. Under the law, it is not required that the five days be consecutive but may be on separate days during one calendar year.

Roman Senators were appointed for life unless expelled from office for some diabolical cause.

CROSS MAY 'RESURRECT' ASSEMBLY, HE DECLARES

In Farewell Message Tells Legislators They Are Legally Deceased While He Is "Precariously Alive" — Bids "Hail and Farewell" to Assembly in "Roman Formula for the Dead."

Governor Cross in his farewell address to the joint session of the General Assembly Wednesday said: Mr. President, Mr. Speaker, and Members of the General Assembly: It is understood that I am here to request the Secretary of State to adjourn the General Assembly sine die, and to bid you Hail and Farewell. "Hail and Farewell," I would remind you, is an ancient Roman formula for taking final leave of the dead. Ave atque vale. What, in the words of Robert Emmet, the Irish patriot, can any one of us say why sentence of death should not now be pronounced upon us according to law? Nothing can be said that will avail against the thirty-fifth amendment to the Constitution of Connecticut, which declares that the General Assembly shall adjourn not later than the first Wednesday after the first Monday in June. In a few minutes, you will all be officially dead. I alone am destined to live on for a time precariously.

There is a rumor abroad that I intend to call you in a special session tomorrow morning. The rumor has no foundation in fact. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." If, however, an emergency in the affairs of the State arises, I shall be compelled to call you back into life. It will be a general resurrection irrespective of party affiliations.

Record Complete
The Recording Angel has nearly completed his record of this session of the General Assembly. That record, such as it is, is now a part of the legislative history of Connecticut. It has been for us all a long and strenuous period through the winds and snows of winter and the rains of a wet spring, on to the edge of a summer, during which the Farmer's Almanac predicts that there will be a number of hot days and considerable thunder.

You have given, I have observed, careful attention to the courts, thank you for your immediate acceptance of my nominations to the Supreme and Superior Courts. You seem to have had a little trouble about appointments of Judges to the Courts of Common Pleas, but you were able to break a deadlock by the opportune absence of a Senator. I regret that you could not see your way clear to incorporating the Judges of the Courts of Common Pleas into a district court system such as was recommended by the Judicial Council. When that plan failed, I was sorry that you felt that you could not at least put these Judges on circuits, because the expense that would be involved in providing bed and food for while away from home would be greater than the State could bear.

Minor Courts.
Your greatest concern, however, seems to have been over the appointment of judges to those courts popularly called in this State "minor," while they are called "inferior" in New York. As the great body of people get their ideas of justice from municipal courts, you evidently felt that no pains should be spared in selecting the best available citizens for those thankless jobs which nobody wants, in order that there may be meted out exact and even justice to all men and women. You also took a further precaution. You were careful to split up most of the minor courts between the two parties so as to remove from them any suspicion of political influence in the administration of justice. Still, in spite of your solicitude regard you have left, I understand, to the Governor appointments to one or more of the minor courts, concerning which you could not reach an amicable agreement.

The General Assembly ought to be relieved of this heavy burden of two years. If it is deemed unwise to give the governor a hand in so serious a matter the Constitution might be so amended as to place the responsibility on the Chief Justice for the appointment of all judges below the Courts of Common Pleas. This would be following the example of England where, I think, judges of similar courts are appointed by the Lord High Chancellor during good behavior or until they shall be dead.

After prolonged consideration you decided, I see, to cut the salaries of all state officers and employees. You adopted a very generous scale, running from sixteen per cent downward. For some reason which has not been explained, you left your own compensation where it has been. There is not likely to be any complaint about this on the part of the public, for you are now paid not much more than you deserve to receive.

Recommendations Not Followed.
Many of the recommendations which I made in my inaugural address and elsewhere have, as I might have anticipated, gone by the board. Where is the provision for old age relief? Where are the reserves which were to be set up against unemployment? Where is the thirty-eight hour bill? Where are several other bills of almost equal importance? "Where are the snows of yesterday?" I see, however, that those coroners who have been the butt of wits ever since Shakespeare's clowns played with them, have survived the winter's cold. I see, too, that, while the services of all other departments are to suffer loss, the highways are to remain inviolate like the sacred temple of old.

Nevertheless, I must congratulate you on an impressive body of legislation. You have authorized me to appoint a commission for the revision of our tax structure, state and municipal. Our tax structure, which with some amendments was set up many years ago, was perhaps good enough for fair weather, but it was broken down during the storm. — Its base has proved to be too narrow and too much reliance has been placed upon the tax on real estate. I can assure you of a very careful study of the subject and an illumination report for the next General Assembly.

From colonial days onward, Connecticut has kept fully abreast with the most conservative banking regulations. Amendments to our statutes have been constant and progressive during all times of prosperity and depression. Two years ago many revisions were made in the light of the troubles which came on at the beginning of the present period of profound deflation. Again this year the General Assembly has made many revisions which became necessary by the new crisis. I am particularly glad to see that the first step has been taken towards branch banking under restrictions which will in no way interfere with our many thoroughly sound small banks. This bill, like many others, as finally passed, is admirable.

Welfare Legislation.
You have met the problem of the sweatshops by the enactment of more stringent labor laws. You have revised many other statutes in the interest of the welfare of the people. You have set up a commission for coordinating relief work throughout the State, going further than Connecticut has ever yet done. You have made provision for the guarantee of municipal bonds in certain circumstances where such action may be deemed necessary.

The liberalization of the Volstead Act and the submission of an Amendment to the Federal Constitution repealing the Eighteenth Amendment suddenly brought before you questions which had to be decided quickly. Naturally there arose differences of opinion as to how all the questions involved should be determined. At last you came to a what seems to me, happy conclusion. The commission for a statewide control of the manufacture and sale of all alcoholic liquors is meeting with general approval.

I am greatly disappointed that you have not authorized the appointment of a commission to study and report on the services now performed by the State with a view to revisions obviously desirable. Here are questions which are becoming more and more imperative. The rough way of the allied force has been eliminated or curtailed in the budget which you have adopted for the biennium. The motive behind your action has been mainly fiscal; that is, the desire to keep expenditures within the income. But there are larger views. In this rapidly changing world, the great question is what are the primary services which should now be performed by the State. We are confronted with a problem which will become more acute two years hence. For its solution there is demanded profound consideration. I fear that the next General Assembly is being denied the proper background for the most intelligent action.

Social Revolution
The United States like other countries is now passing through a social revolution. So quietly is it proceeding in our country that the people as a whole are hardly aware of it. What the outcome may be nobody can foretell. The situation has been wittily described by Owen D. Young. Columbus, he remarks, when he set out from Spain over the world of waters, did not know where he was going, and when he got there he did not know where he was, and when he returned he did not know where he had been. The economic and financial structure of our civilization has undergone the very greatest strains. The competitive system which we inherited from the 19th century has at least temporarily broken down. We are moving so fast that the national Congress has found it necessary to delegate to the President of the United States large permissive or discretionary powers, so that the policies of the Federal government may fit into conditions which are changing from day to day. Even in this most conservative of states, you have given the governor certain emergency powers for the stabilization of our banks and insurance companies. Equally important discretionary powers you have placed in the hands of the relief commission in conjunction with the governor. The Board of Finance and Control has also been accorded larger powers than formerly. All this has become necessary. I trust that we may make few or no mistakes.

Sincere Congratulations
I must delay you no longer. I have followed your deliberations closely. I have often wished that I were with you as a member of the House or Senate in the thick of the combat. Naturally, a good deal of partisanship has shown its head but taken all in all you, debaters have been able and on a very high plane, deserving the most sincere congratulations from the people of the state. You have formed friendships that will endure. Despite all the hard work, you have had a good time. I have had a good time with you also. And yet, I have no doubt that you as well as myself will enjoy the peace and quiet that will follow adjournment. I want you to take away with you my appreciation of all that you have done and of my best wishes for the future. I may not see you all again unless we meet in that general resurrection which may await us. In the meantime, it is "Hail and Farewell."

DRY LEADER PREDICTS VICTORY FOR THE WETS
Startles Delegates at Convention by Declaring the 18th Amendment Will Be Repealed.

Springfield, Mass., June 7.—(AP)—Massachusetts will vote "overwhelmingly" for repeal of the 18th Amendment, and the amendment itself will be repealed, Professor S. Ralph Harlow of Smith college, a candidate on the dry ticket for the constitutional convention, told a started group of the allied force adherents here tonight. Professor Harlow predicted that the vote on Tuesday, the 18th, would be a least 2 to 1 in favor of repeal, he said. "It is time we looked at the facts," he said, "and stop looking at things through rose-colored glasses."

Vienna, Ont.—Henry Ford is supervising personally the disarticulation of the boyhood home of the famous inventor, Thomas Alva Edison. The house will be taken down piece by piece, and re-assembled in the Dearborn Museum, near the log cabin of Abraham Lincoln. More than 200 photographs of the building have been taken and every piece is numbered as it is taken down. All outbuildings of the old house and numerous trees surrounding it will be moved to Dearborn. Findlay, Ohio.—Weird discords came from the organ in the Findlay college chapel when the pre-commencement recital started. They packed 400 pounds of ice around the heat-expanded pipes and the organ resumed its natural pitch. Salt Lake City, Utah.—Salt water gnats forced a giant army transport plane to land on a mud island in Great Salt Lake. When the plane was extricated from the mud and brought in to be tuned up mechanics found the screen filter of the carburetor clogged with thousands of gnats. Grant's Pass, Oregon.—Scott W. Phillips, 86, Civil War veteran, will match his catches against any one's. His latest was a 32 pound chinook salmon. Philadelphia.—Policeman Taylor captured three youthful burglars in a chain store by "surrounding" them. Discovering the place had been entered Taylor saw he had three men to guard. So, blowing his whistle, he fired a couple of shots at the front door, galloped around to the side and fired some more, then repeated the performance at the rear. By that time help came and he nabbed the suspects.

WE PICKED THE ROUGHEST TOUGHEST SPOTS TO TEST

SOCONY Mobilgas

with CLIMATIC CONTROL

Originated by Socony-Vacuum

THE "engine heat" of your motor vitally affects the performance of gasoline. Changes in weather—heat, cold, sun, wind—all raise or lower this "engine heat," causing loss of power or mileage.

Climatic Control automatically adapts Socony Mobilgas to the daily, even hourly, changes in weather and altitude. This we proved, in four tough outdoor tests.

At Death Valley, California, the hottest spot in America, with the mercury up to 130 degrees in the shade—and no shade!

At Moose Factory, Ontario, 16 degrees below the Arctic Circle, where no automobile had ever dared go before!

At Bad Water, Death Valley, 310 feet below sea level, the lowest spot in America.

On the slopes of towering Mount Whitney, America's highest mountain.

Fill your tank with Socony Mobilgas with Climatic Control—a brand-new gasoline in every respect. See how it delivers one uniformly high level of performance—in mileage, in highest anti-knock at regular price—wherever, wherever you drive. Buy it once, and you will buy it again!

SAYS STRAWBERRY PRICES TOO LOW Warns Farmers Against Signing Contracts — Will Increase Very Soon.

A warning was issued today by Eugene Gagliardone of Bolton, member of the board of directors of the Producers Marketing Association, comprising membership in Bolton, Manchester and vicinity, against members signing contracts for future delivery of strawberries to out-of-town agents at the prevailing prices.

In drawing the attention of the members of the group to the situation confronting the growers at the present time, Gagliardone stated today that the strawberry market at present is flooded with low-priced berries from New Jersey, Oregon and out-of-town wholesale markets are reported to have contacted members of the local marketing association to make contracts at the present low level prices, but none were reported to have signed.

Director Gagliardone, who will officiate Sunday afternoon as auctioneer of the new outdoor market on Charter Oak street, stated that in his opinion prospects for sale of strawberries will be good the middle of next week when the New Jersey crop, which is at the height of the season now, will have passed.

MONDAY POLL IMPORTANT TO TOWN'S VOTERS

The Highland Ladies club has set the date of Saturday evening, June 24 for a strawberry festival and dance at the Highland Park Community clubhouse. The club is composed of business and professional girls living in the Highlands.

The Women's Missionary societies of the North Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 with Mrs. Fayette B. Clarke of 245 West Street as guest.

HOME RELIEF BILL NEARING PASSAGE

Senate and House Conferees Reach Agreement on the Mortgage Measure.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—Senate and House conferees today agreed on the administration's $2,000,000,000 home mortgage relief bill, one of the parts of President Roosevelt's recovery program.

As revised by the conferees, the maximum value of a home on which a mortgage could be handled was placed at $20,000, as compared with $25,000 voted by the Senate and $15,000 approved by the House.

The conferees limited to 40 per cent of the value of the property involved amounts that could be loaned as direct cash advances to home owners, and retained a Senate provision limiting interest to 6 per cent.

SENT BACK TO JAIL

New Haven, June 8.—(AP)—George Mingione, one of the prisoners who escaped the Ohio state penitentiary fire in which hundreds of convicts lost their lives, was sent back to prison again today by Superior Court Judge John A. Cornell.

YOUTHS BOUND OVER

New Haven, June 8.—(AP)—The trip two youths planned to the West Coast, Chicago came to an abrupt end today after City Court Judge Daniel Pousner held them in $1,000 bonds on charges of stealing an automobile.

ABOUT TOWN

The annual banquet of the New Britain Automobile Club was held last night at Castle Farm, Oakland. There were seventy-five in the party and they enjoyed dinner, listened to remarks by officers of the club and were entertained by professional talent from New Britain.

One change that is made in the trolley schedule that will be of interest to north end patrons of the trolley cars is the hour when the last car leaving Hartford makes connections at the Center with a bus going eastward.

Automobile owners in Manchester were today notified by several of the manufacturers of automobile tires that starting today an advance of 90 per cent has been made in the wholesale price of tires.

A food sale will be held in the J. W. Hale Company's store starting at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon under the auspices of the Junior Order, Daughters of Italy.

W. E. Buckley of East Center street was removed to the Memorial hospital last night for treatment and a probable operation. Mr. Buckley has for a number of years been a teacher in the Hartford High school and a member of the Board of Education of this town.

Mrs. H. O. Weber of Winter street left this afternoon for Jersey City to be with her sister, Miss Emily Burkholder, who is ill. Mrs. Weber will return to town as soon as it is possible for her to do so.

Ward Cheney Camp, U. S. W. V. will hold its regular meeting this evening in the State Armory.

Mrs. Alfred E. Whitney of Brooklyn, Mass., and so. Robert have been visiting with Mrs. Whitney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ross Lewis of Pearl street.

The Highland Ladies club has set the date of Saturday evening, June 24 for a strawberry festival and dance at the Highland Park Community clubhouse.

The Women's Missionary societies of the North Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:45 with Mrs. Fayette B. Clarke of 245 West Street as guest.

Collins Driggs, well known local musician, will play the organ at the South Methodist church Sunday, Children's Day, and will also furnish two piano solos at the Epworth League meeting Sunday evening.

The reports of the officers indicated that the federation has enjoyed a good year and despite the hard times had been able to materially assist with the church expenses.

FOUR HURT IN CRASH

Winsted, June 8.—(AP)—The wife and daughter of Superintendent of Police John S. Slocum were among four persons injured in an automobile accident last night which followed the annual Rotary Club outing for grammar school graduates.

Slocum's daughter, Sarah, suffered a possible fracture of the arm and was admitted to Litchfield county hospital. Two of her classmates in St. Anthony school, Lona Kavasy and Mary Whyte, and her mother, were less seriously hurt.

The conferees limited to 40 per cent of the value of the property involved amounts that could be loaned as direct cash advances to home owners, and retained a Senate provision limiting interest to 6 per cent.

SENATE PROBERS GET MORE POWER

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—The Senate unanimously today voted more power for its investigation of private banks and bankers, and soon thereafter O. P. Van Sweringen as a witness in the J. P. Morgan and Company inquiry characterized such procedures as "terrifically destructive."

"All business is of greater volume than a year ago," he had remarked. Referring to rail operations, he added "that's all we need," in connection with expanding business.

A moment later he said "I should not have said that. I did not mean these investigations, but —" he never finished the sentence.

As today's hearing opened the Senate meanwhile was putting through the resolution giving the committee power for examination of stock transactions by which partners of the Morgan firm reduced their income taxes. There was not a ripple of opposition.

WOMEN'S FEDERATION ELECTS ITS OFFICERS

Mrs. John F. Pickles of Holl Street New President — Reports Encouraging.

Mrs. John F. Pickles of Holl street succeeds Mrs. Herbert B. House as president of the Center Church Women's Federation. The election of officers took place at the annual meeting yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Theodore H. Bidwell was elected secretary and Mrs. Lucius N. Foster, treasurer. Mrs. Harold F. Bidwell, auditor; members at large, Mrs. Herbert B. House, Miss Mary Hutchinson, Mrs. J. Leslie Hardy, Mrs. W. E. Lull, Mrs. R. Rheel.

The reports of the officers indicated that the federation has enjoyed a good year and despite the hard times had been able to materially assist with the church expenses.

STRAUS PRESENTS HIS CREDENTIALS

Hartford, June 8.—(AP)—J. B. Allen of 101 Harrison street, New Britain, has asked Governor Cross to call a special session of the legislature for the purpose of taking effective measures to deal with the unemployment situation, which Mr. Allen does not believe was adequately considered at the regular session.

ASKS SPECIAL SESSION

Also, the bus' President hopes to put before Congress a substantial part of his reorganization program which is now on his desk awaiting only final approval.

With the summer heat really prevailing here there is every prospect that the weary Congress will bring its work to a quick conclusion.

BADLY HURT BY FALL

Ansonia, June 8.—(AP)—Daniel Surges, 44, of 38 High street, is near death at Griffin hospital with a punctured lung, broken ribs and other injuries suffered this morning in a fall from a three-story window at his home.

Surges was found unconscious by Superintendent Officer James E. Drake shortly before 8 a. m. today and taken to the hospital. Surges who has no known relatives here was employed at intervals with the public works department here.

Weddings

Stanley Thompson Mrs. Adeline Thompson, of 821 Middle Turpike, East, today announced the marriage of her daughter, Miss Betty Thompson, to Gardner Edward Stanley of 868 Delta Avenue, Akron, O., a son of Edward Stanley, Jr., a former resident of Manchester. The marriage took place June 2 at Millerton, N. Y. They are to make their home in Manchester, living at 521 Middle Turpike, East.

Scheibenpflug-Staba

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Jennie Staba, daughter of John Staba of Hebron, to Joseph Scheibenpflug, Jr., son of Joseph Scheibenpflug, Jr., of 194 School street, this town. The ceremony was performed on Saturday, June 7, by the Rev. H. F. R. Stachols, pastor of the Zion Lutheran church. The couple were attended by Miss Margaret Schubert, cousin of the bridegroom, and Joseph Staba, brother of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Scheibenpflug will make their home in Hebron.

STRIKERS IN WINSTED TO RETURN TO WORK

Winsted, June 8.—(AP)—Striking employees of the William L. Gilbert Clock Company agreed today to return to work after they were promised that pay cuts would be restored as soon as business conditions warranted.

Thirty employees left their work yesterday after the company, now in receivership, refused to meet their demand for restoration of pay cuts.

Thaniel Williams, president of the company, told the strikers today the court would not permit wages to be increased at present. Business, he said, was improving under the receivership and wages would be restored to their former level as soon as the improvement trend became more marked.

About half the employees returned to work during the forenoon. The others planned to report during the afternoon.

GIVE FAREWELL PARTY FOR MRS. H. O. WEBER

The Ladies' Aid society of the Lutheran Concordia church gave a farewell party at the church Tuesday evening for Mrs. H. O. Weber, the widow of the late Pastor Weber, who later this summer will take up her permanent residence in Jersey City with her sister.

Mrs. Adolph Schlack, president of the society, and in its behalf presented to Mrs. Weber a handsome black leather secretarial bag. Mrs. Weber returned her thanks to the members of the society for the fine gift. It was just another token, she said of the unusually pleasant relations that had existed between her husband and herself and the people of the church since his pastorate began here ten years ago.

Mrs. Andrew Winstler voiced the feelings of the women at parting from their leader, saying she hopes for the future happiness and usefulness of Mrs. Weber in her new home.

BONTHON TO FACE PAIR OF ACES IN COLLEGIATE MEET

Princeton Flash Will Be Opposed by Hornbostel in Half Mile and Cunningham in Mile Event.

Chicago, June 8.—(AP)—Midwest-minded Fritz Crisler, who has made good in one short, successful school year at Princeton as athletic director, is bringing his track ace westward to run in what appears to be a very tough spot.

Crisler, who did his own starring at the University of Chicago and his apprentice coaching at the same place under Alonzo Slagg, has entered Bill Bonthron, Princeton' double-winner in the I. C. 4-A. games, in the National Collegiate A. A. battle at Solikier field here June 16-17.

Hornbostel of Cunningham? Bonthron, equally adept at the half-mile and mile, will find two of the nation's best lads, both midwesterners, "surrounding" him when he tries to decide which event to enter.

In the half-mile all Bill will have to contend with is one Charles Hornbostel—and the only half-mile race the bespectacled Hoosier ever had failed to win was last summer's Olympic final (800 meters), where he placed sixth. And he was a sophomore then.

If the Princeton pacemaker decides to concentrate on the mile, there undoubtedly he'll find Glenn Cunningham of Kansas U., ready to battle for the pole. Among Mr. Cunningham's various accomplishments are a 4:11.1 mile, which happens to be the fastest outdoor mile ever officially clocked in this country.

Takes Some Figuring But Bonthron's case is by no means hopeless. His mark of 1:38.5 in the I. C. 4-A. 800 meters (just 5.12 yards short of 800 yards) is exactly the same as Hornbostel's record for the N. C. A. A. half-mile.

And some rather deep mathematics show that Bonthron traveled his winning 1,600 meters race at a speed which would have produced a 4:11.05 mile. He may not be able to run a fast mile at the same speed he showed for 1,600 meters (1,640 yards), but if he should, that would make Cunningham stretch his legs.

RECS ARE BLANKED BY CLEARY'S, 2-0

Vannart Allows Only One Hit as Mates Score Twice on Eight Bingles.

The league leading Recs were proven beatable last night at the West Side ball orchard by Cleary's, 2-0.

Cleary's scored one run in the third when with one out, Gustafson singled to right field, Aitken sacrificed, McConey doubled to deep center driving in Gustafson and Boyce struck out to end the inning. Again in the fourth Cleary's scored when Stavniski doubled to left field, Lucas hit a sacrifice fly to right field and McCann singled to center, scoring Stavniski.

The Recs beat chance was in the opening frame when Bycholski "walked" Wilkinson was safe on a fielder's choice, Kerr was safe on McCann's error, but the two men on were left stranded when McCann redeemed himself by picking up Hadden's line drive to make a double play, ending the inning.

Vannart was undoubtedly the best pitcher, allowing only one hit and one base on balls. McConey, Stavniski and McCann were the big guns at bat for the winners while Wogman received the only hit for the Recs.

Hadden pulled down three line drives which would have resulted in further scoring, one in the second inning and two in the sixth.

Expect Drag-Out Battle In Schmeling-Baer Bout

60,000 Fight Faithful to Fill Yankee Stadium for 15 Round Go Tonight; German is Heavy Favorite to Win; Not to Be Broadcast.

New York, June 8.—(AP)—The prospect of a knockdown, drag-out battle between two of the hardest hitting foemen in the heavyweight division, Max Schmeling and Max Baer, stirred the fight faithful today to the point where sixty thousand of them, paying perhaps $250,000 planned to move tonight on the Yankee stadium.

There was no title at stake, nothing but the prospect of one of the bitterest punching arguments the big fellows have staged in years, but it was glamorous enough to attract a prospect of a million dollars in metropolitan venture as a promoter would draw the kind of attendance usually reserved for a title fray.

In fact, business boomed to an extent that changed ring-side locations which had fallen into the hands of speculators brought as high as $25 for single seats originally priced at $10. About 20,000 rush seats in the bleachers were scheduled for sale starting at 4 p. m.

Schmeling Favored Schmeling, a strong favorite at 2 1/2 to 1, motored casually in from his training camp at Lake Swano, head here from as far west as California and far south as Texas.

Although Baer, young, cocky and powerful, has an advantage of about twenty pounds in weight and inches in height and reach, the great workaholic found in him in his training camp workouts has been his lack of defense.

Can Baer Take It? Schmeling is expected to test Baer's granite chin as it never has been tested before. If the huge Californian can take Schmeling's "Sunday" right hand punch and still come charging in, following his powerful lefts and rights to the body, the experts gravely admit the entire "future book" must be immediately rewritten.

For Schmeling it is pretty much the cross-roads of a fighting career inspired by a visit Jack Dempsey made here from as far west as California and far south as Texas.

Weather forecast—partly cloudy; possible showers. Postponement date, Friday, June 9.

Facts and Figures New York, June 8.—(AP)—Facts and figures of the Baer-Schmeling fight: Principals—Max Schmeling of Germany and Max Baer of Livermore, Calif. Length of bout, 15 rounds. Place, Yankee stadium, New York. Time—First bout, seven p. m., main bout 8:30-9 p. m., e. a. t. Estimated crowd, 60,000. Estimated receipts, $250,000. Officials—to be selected by state athletic commission.

Fairfield Team Wins The Fairfield A. C. defeated Smith's All-Stars, a team which consists of several of the Bluefield team, Tuesday night at the Bluefield diamond, 4 to 0. "Dicks" Kerr led the Fairfield attack getting 3 out of 3. Willard Gee pitched a fine game for the victors, allowing but three hits while striking out 11. Neuberger started for Smith's All-Stars but failed to last the game 9 1/2.

The Fairfield A. C., averaging 18 to 40 years old, would like to hear from any amateur team in town. For games get in touch with Tom Kerr, 9 North Fairfield street.

The West Side Buddies, champions of the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. Junior Baseball League of 1932, will play East Glastonbury at the West Side this evening.

This will be the league game of the season for the champs and they are all set to start the season off in the right way. East Glastonbury is considered as the best bet to take the champs but just what will happen when these two fast clubs meet will be well worth witnessing.

Robert C. Smith, Manchester High school sophomore, hitting known as "Sam" Asper, hit all honors during the Red and White's recently completed baseball season, according to averages announced today by Coach Thomas F. Kelley. Smith, who divided his time in right field and the pitcher's box, hit all 409 clips to far outdistance his mates in the slugging department.

Eric Rautenberg, center fielder, was the winner of fielding honors, handling 23 chances without an error. "Chet" Sendrowski at first handled the most chances, 138 in all, and made only three errors, for an average of .977. He was the local hero at bat, being runner-up to Smith with an average of .277.

Smith's Record at Bat Smith played in all twelve games of the season. He went to bat twelve times and collected twenty hits, scoring eight runs, and had one home run and two triples, one homer and 16 singles and also stole three bases. Rautenberg also played all twelve games, going to bat 47 times. He hit safely 13 times, 12 singles and a triple, besides stealing five bases and scoring seven runs.

Officially Ray Berger, pitcher, is credited with second place in hitting with an average of .300. However, Berger left school before the close of the season and played in only six games. In that time he got six hits in 20 trips to the plate and batted out three doubles, to lead the team in this department.

Fielding Average High The team average in hitting took a decided drop this year as compared to last season, accounting for Manchester's record of six victories and six defeats. However, the fielding average of the team was boosted considerably over last year, rising from .903 in 1932 to .925 this season. In hitting the team average hits low .224 as compared to .270 last year.

Besides taking the slugging honors, Bob Smith also featured in the pitching, sharing honors with Norman Lashinske. Smith started in four games, won two and lost one. He pitched 26 innings, got nine strikeouts and was recorded for 23 hits and eight bases on balls.

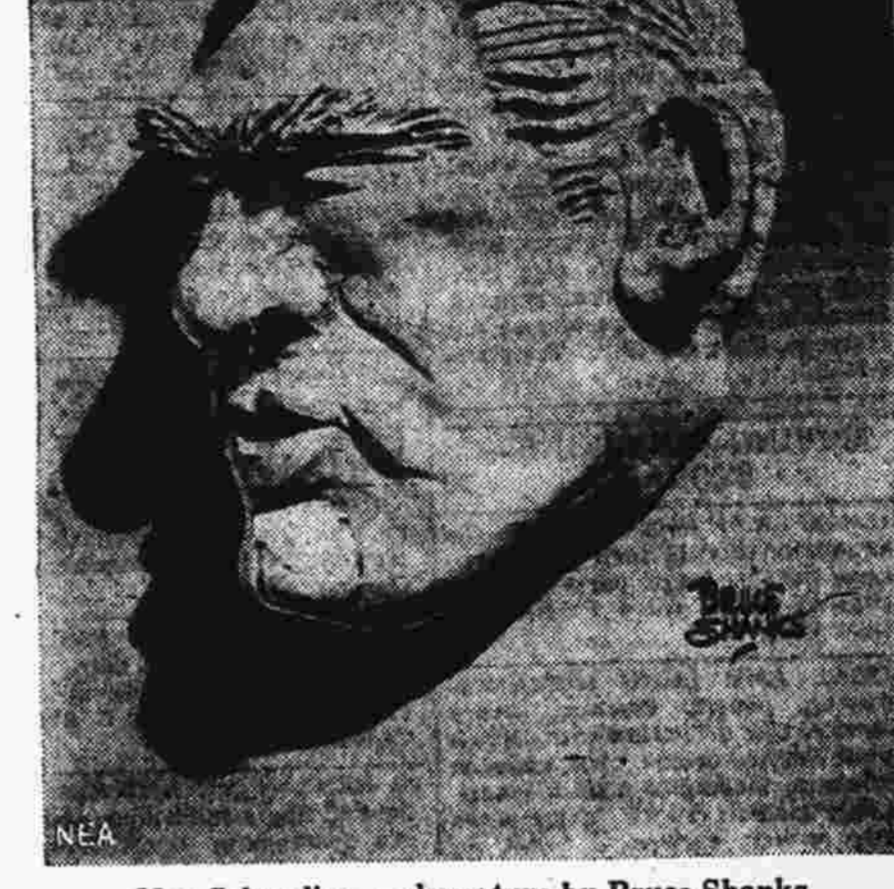

Lashinske's Record Lashinske's pitching record is for five games in which he started, winning two and losing one. He hurled for 34 innings, allowed 43 hits and 10 walks and fanned twenty. Ray Berger, pitching six games, of which he won two and lost four, gave forty hits in 48 innings, issued 12 bases on balls and got 24 strikeouts out.

CUBS TOP PIRATES TO CHALK UP 15TH WIN IN 20 STARTS

Chicago Climbs to Fourth Place; A's and Senators Play 13-13 Tie, Game Ended by Storm in Tenth.

By Associated Press If it were not for the fact that a couple of other clubs, which had head starts, have been playing almost unbeatable baseball, the Chicago Cubs might be earning themselves a "miracle team" designation for their brilliant work during the last couple of weeks. They have rolled up a record of 14 victories in 19 starts and have climbed to fourth place, where they are pressing the Pittsburgh Pirates. In about the same period the Cards have won 14 games and lost only 3, while the Giants have made a record of seven victories in nine starts.

The Cubs smashed the Pirates down into defeat for the third successive time yesterday, winning 7 to 2 on a thunderous 12 hit attack against Bill Swift and Remy Kremer.

The Boston Braves tightened their hold on sixth place by defeating the last place Phillies 3 to 1 in the only other National league game.

The Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators again furnished the high spot in the American league when they struggled to a 13-13 tie in nine innings. A windstorm and darkness halted the game in the tenth after Washington had scored another run.

The Chicago White Sox downed the St. Louis Browns for the fifth consecutive time 4 to 1 in a tight duel between Gaston and Hadley. The Detroit Tigers cut loose in the sixth inning and scored enough runs to beat Cleveland 3 to 1 as Tommy Bridges limited the Indians to six hits. The New York Yankees and Boston Red Sox had an off-day, due to preparations for tonight's heavyweight fight at the Yankee stadium.

DODGERS BUY PLAYER New York, June 8.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers today announced the purchase of Ralph Boyle, slugging outfielder of the Baltimore Orioles of the International league, for Del Montano, one of Brooklyn's two first basemen, and an unnamed amount of cash.

Washington, June 8.—(AP)—The loudspeaker at the American League stadium Saturday will squawk "Hatters-e-e-s" for today's game: Allen and Andrews; Cannon and McMillan.

Never heard of them? Well it's this way: Representative Allen of Illinois and Andrews of New York on the hill and behind the plate for the Republicans; Representative Cannon of Wisconsin and McMillan of South Carolina for the Democrats.

All fitted out with numbers on their backs, just like big leaguers, the adherents of the elephant and donkey will fight for athletic control of the House of Representatives.

President Roosevelt may be there to toss out the first ball and Vice President Garner is to be on the cheering lines.

A CHALLENGE The Thrashers E. B. C. would like to book games with any Manchester nine averaging nine years of age. Address William McCarthy, 23 Purcell Place, Town.

CHAMP OFF GAME, GOLF FANS HEAR

Rumor Has It That Sarazen Is Not in Best Form for Today's Match.

Glennville, Ill., June 8.—(AP)—Down the sun scorched fairways of North Shore steamed the Nation's all-star brigades today in the big offensive for the grand prize of American golf—the National Open championship.

Pittfalls lurked everywhere over the long expanse of 6,927 yards as the contenders nearly 150 in number, opened the 72 hole struggle to topple their game cock king, Gene Sarazen, from his throne.

Another foe, a brooding sun, was feared almost as much as Sarazen. Of two successive practice days it had sent the mercury above 90°.

More hot weather was the promise today with the possible intervention of even still more damaging thunderstorms.

Champ Off His Game There were many dramas of golf ready to be told today. One was Sarazen, slightly off his game but eager to give history something to talk about by taking another American championship and then following up with a second successive triumph in England. There were MacDonald Smith, seeking his first title after 23 years of trying; Walter Hagen, 40 years old now, but eager to break through, and Bill Burke, the "forgotten man" of the American Ryder Cup team, who was out to match his victory at Inverness in 1931 and gain a berth denied him.

Sarazen, naturally, was the choice in the quoted odds at four to one. His closest rivals in the betting sheet were Olin Dutra of Los Angeles, National professional champion; Tommy Armour, Craigwood, and George Von Elm.

COLLEGE POLO IS GROWING RAPIDLY AS POPULAR SPORT

Yale to Defend Its Title Starting Saturday; Students in 25 Schools Now Play Game.

Rye, N. Y., June 8.—(AP)—They didn't have to bring back brewery horses to give the school boy of today a working knowledge of horses and what makes them move, for polo, once the rich man's game, has been brought down to students in 25 American colleges.

The youngest of all college sports—the first championship of the Intercollegiate Polo Association, was played in 1925—this new mania of the collegians has the background of centuries.

Devereaux Milburn, the greatest who ever played the game, and Louis E. Stoddard, president of the United States Polo Association, used to be active in the game when they were at Harvard and Yale, respectively, and Milburn continued his interest at Oxford.

Fine Strings of Ponies It was the aftermath of the war which gave intercollegiate polo its great chance. The Army Remount Service and the Reserve Officers' Training Corps supplied the mounts, establishing facilities, and officers qualified to train.

At first the ponies were closely akin to artillery plugs, but the quality rose until now the average pony used in college games is from three-fourths to seven-eighths thoroughbred.

Lieut. General Robert Lee Bullard, when commander of the Second Corps Area, was responsible for the final impetus toward organization when he invited eight teams to compete at Governor's Island in 1925, Yale winning. Two years later the association was formed, and the championship has been played each summer, Yale winning six of the ten meetings, Harvard two, and Princeton and Army one each.

Lieut. Colonel "Chu" Baldwin, whose family team holds the championship of Hawaii, will defend the title at the Westchester Country Club on June 10, 14 and 15, the classic returning to the field where the first four championships were contested. Harvard, Princeton, Army and Pennsylvania Military College will be in the meet.

From Coast to Coast Two years ago the University of Oklahoma bid for the title, and it is expected that the near future the scope of the championship will be broadened, for among the colleges now playing the game regularly are Stanford, Alabama, Arizona, Chicago, Colorado, Cornell, Florida, Georgia, Harvard, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa State, Michigan and M. I. State, Ohio State, Oregon A. C., Pennsylvania Military College, Princeton, Texas A. and M., West Point and Yale.

MIDDLETOWN HORSE WINNER AT GOSHEN

Toole Drives Porteous' Recently Acquired Brown Gelding, Brave Arion, to Extra Heat Win—Crowd Indicates Great Season.

heats. Vic Fleming drove Mat D, a brown gelding, that no doubt will figure prominently in the Bay State this season, but he could not get better than fourth. Mat D isn't in the best of condition, but under Vic Fleming he should reach form soon this season.

A fine card is being run at Goshen today. The opening day races were postponed Tuesday because of a wet track and consequently the schedule was set back a day. Several of the Hambletonian eligibles will be seen today at the famous Harriman track and there are two trots for $1,000 purses. The Bay State will swing into this section soon and then local harness fans can enjoy themselves to the fullest. Cherry Park will see the circuit on June 27, 28, 29 and 30. The purses at the Avon meet are total $12,700 and this will draw some of the best pacers and trotters in the world to the park.

It is said that over in parts of Africa, women are still sold, like coal, at so much a pound. Apparently the modern girlish figures wouldn't command much of a price over there.

Our idea of perfect co-operation is when all the freckles on a girl's face come together and make one beautiful tan.

Teacher—Josephine, can you explain what is meant by the word: "Unaware"?
Josephine—Yes, "unaware" is what you take off just before you put on your nightie.

PLAIN AND FANCY HASH.... Life begins with expectancy and much hope. It ends largely in disappointment and regret. Many more persons have knowledge than wisdom. Present indications are that beer and politics are in for a lot of mixing. Our common sense is usually tripped up by our foolish emotions. The tailor that cuts out girls bathing suits ought to be placed in charge of the government budget. People generally reap what they sow long after they've forgotten the pleasure of sowing. Many a tireless worker remains so because he stops work before he gets tired. It is better to be a good thinker and a poor talker than to be a poor thinker and a fluent speaker. It is always an easy matter to find an excuse for doing the things you really want to do. Responsibility is best defined as that thing which no one willful accepts. In winning a girl, an ounce of gallantry is worth a pound of baloney. Some boys would make good aviators, from the way girls give them the air.

Wife—Now, John dear, my sister, Belle, and her steady are coming to call on us tonight. So you must act the part of an ideally happy married man. She's not quite sure of him yet.

John (savagely)—Leave it to me! That lobster trimmed me in a poker game once. This is my chance to even matters. Just leave it to me!

This new feminine craze for men's clothes, may have been the reason a woman planted an extra lot of Dutchman's Breeches in her favorite flower bed this past spring.

More self-starters and not so many cranks might help this struggling old world along its way.

Sue—Last night Fred Brown had the nerve to kiss me.
June—It must have taken nerve but Fred is game for anything.

France complains of being misunderstood in this country. But why not send us that $20,000,000 she owes us and see if we misunderstand it?

He—This liniment makes my arm smart.
She—Why not rub some on your head?

Although the lame ducks have been eliminated from Congress it still has as many political quacks as ever.

Joe—Oh, I guess your rich aunt will remember you. You made a big hit with her by going into mourning when her pet dog died.
Jim—True, but listen: now the other relatives accuse me of poisoning the dog to get the opportunity.

Young people imagine a future to suit their longings. Old people recall the past, with its pleasures rarely exaggerated and its troubles and griefs forgotten.

Man—What! You smoking stogies?
Neighbor—Sure. I'm determined to smoke something daughter won't cop.
