

BOARD EXPLAINS INSURANCE COST PLAN OF SET-UP

Committee Gave Freely of Its Time to Get Facts and Speed Policies Equitably Among Agents.

Desirous of giving the people of Manchester the complete detailed story of the study of the cost of insurance to the Town of Manchester...

Named in October Last October the Board of Selectmen at its organization meeting appointed an Insurance Committee...

Fire Insurance A survey of all policies disclosed that: 1. Certain property carried no protection.

The following steps were taken in the study: 1. A complete list of all policies was carefully compiled.

2. An appraisal of all property was made by Bliss and Cole of Hartford. The appraisal is the same that will be used in the Equalization Problem.

3. From the data submitted by Bliss and Cole the amount of insurance necessary to be carried was computed. This computation disclosed that there was too much insurance on some property and too little on other property.

4. The proper blanket form to be attached to all policies was drafted and submitted to the New England Insurance Exchange for approval.

5. Insurance agents were requested to cancel all insurance as of May 1, 1933 and rewrite as directed by the committee.

BUSINESS GAINS THROUGHOUT U. S. Mercantile Review Says Expansion is Spectacular in Some Fields.

New York, June 8.—(AP)—Further trade gains in nearly every part of the country are indicated in the last week's reports from the chief centers of production and distribution...

"Apparently immune to any potential adverse turn in the trend of political or economic adjustments," said the agency, "commercial and industrial activity is being extended persistently."

All Over Nation "The breadth of the current recovery, however, is indicated not only by the reports of trade trends but is substantiated by the indices of specific industries and all indicators joining in the advance."

HOUSE TO TAKE ADMINISTRATION PENSIONS PLAN

Compromise Offer Accepted by Vet Committee — Bill to Go to Conference Tomorrow, Leaders Expect.

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's compromise proposal on veterans cuts has been accepted by the special House veterans committee with clarifying modifications.

The committee approved the compromise today at an executive session. It was subject to approval of the Democratic steering committee, however, which was to meet later in the day to consider the proposal.

Representative Lea, (D., Cal.), chairman of the Democratic caucus that set up the special committee, said: "I believe the House will accept the compromise. It is better for the veteran than the Connally amendment to the independent offices appropriation bill. It is better thought out and worked out."

"It is quite an improvement over the Connally amendment," Opposed by Roosevelt The Connally amendment, opposed by President Roosevelt, would have increased veterans outlays $170,000,000 and cut the savings under the economy act from $420,000,000 to $250,000,000.

It would have prevented more than a 25 per cent cut in allowances for service connected and presumptive cases. Under the compromise agreement, service connected cases are reduced not more than 25 per cent, and at an average of 18 per cent.

Presumptive cases are to be cut 25 per cent, instead of being stricken off the rolls as provided under regulations previously used. All presumptive cases are to remain on the rolls until either September 1 or October 1. In the meantime, the President is to set up boards to review the with a view to eliminating those not entitled to remain on the rolls.

The steering committee approves the compromise, the Democratic leaders will bring it out under a rule preventing a vote on the Connally amendment. House action, however, in sending the independent offices bill to conference will be delayed until tomorrow under its rule.

NO RELIEF NEAR FROM HOT SPELL No Deaths in State Reported Today But Two Were Overcome Yesterday.

By Associated Press Connecticut continued to broil today as the sun and a cloudless sky threatened to set a new record high temperature reading for June.

A slight breeze which stirred during the morning provided some relief from the heat but most persons sought shade and such cool spots as they could find to avoid the sun's rays.

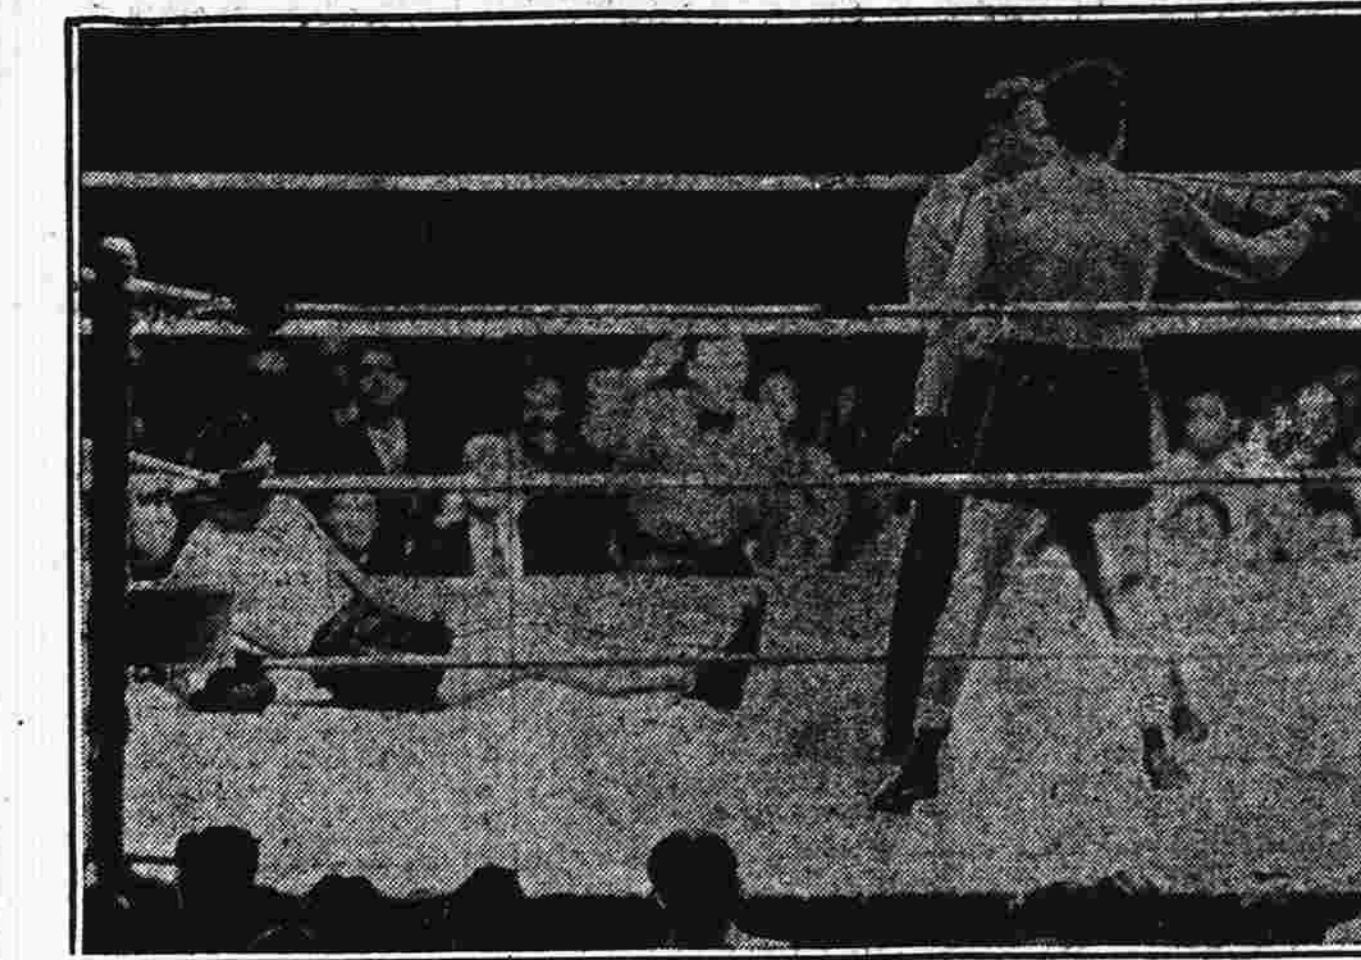

Although no deaths attributed to the heat wave were reported in Connecticut, two were prostrated yesterday due to the soaring mercury. Michael Manser of Hartford had a sunstroke while at work on the tracks of the New Haven road between New Haven and North Haven.

Man Collapses Robert Edwards of Devon collapsed in a Bridgeport street last night and physicians said his ailment was caused by the heat. Today weather observer Doherty looked for a maximum temperature of 93 or 94 before the day ends, which would set a new record for this year.

At six a. m. the official thermometer recorded 74 degrees while the mercury had mounted to 84 degrees at 10 a. m. He said reports indicated no immediate relief is in sight.

As Referee Halted Baer-Schmeling Battle

The dramatic climax of Max Baer's decisive and surprising triumph over Max Schmeling in their scheduled 15-round bout at Yankee Stadium, New York, is strikingly depicted here as the German, badly beaten by Baer's two-fisted attack, sank to the canvas in the 10th round to be counted out on a technical knockout.

SECRETARY HULL RAPS WORLD TROUBLEMAKERS

Declares Minority Group in Every Nation Are Trying to Hinder Success of Economic Parley.

London, June 9.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull, chairman of the American delegation to the world economic conference, struck out vigorously today at what he described as attempts by "minority groups" in various countries to divert attention from the real purpose of the conference to relatively minor issues.

Hull, facing a roomful of American and British reporters at his hotel in his first press conference in England, said that in view of the magnitude and difficulties of the economic problems facing the parley he does not consider it within the functions of his delegation to go outside a well-defined list of subjects outlined in the formal program for discussion.

He spoke out emphatically when asked about a London newspaper story directing attention to his reference to the Irish Free State as an Irish "Republic" when he spoke at Cobh en route to England. This reference caused some discussion because of Ireland's relations with England and republican sentiment in Ireland.

"I have no doubt that minority groups in every country will be sitting up nights trying to divert attention to some wholly slight consideration and thereby attempting to divert the work of the conference from its real purpose," he said. Hull definitely ruled out war debts as a subject for consideration here, saying that he would not presume on any subjects which already were

JAP AMBASSADOR REACHES LONDON Viscount Ishii Says His Government Wants to Ditch Trade Barriers.

London, June 9.—(AP)—Viscount Kukihiro Ishii, chief Japanese delegate to the world economic conference, said on his arrival in London today that it was his government's policy to get rid of all trade barriers as soon as possible.

"Although Japan has been compelled by force of circumstances to withdraw from the League of Nations, she is not following an isolation policy but desires to contribute her share toward the success of the world economic conference," Viscount Ishii said.

Will Co-operate "Japan will co-operate with the other nations in any work calculated to advance the common welfare of the peoples of the world. I think the prospects for the conference are hopeful."

"Japan's policy is to get rid of all trade barriers as soon as possible and to do that reason alone I warmly welcome the opportunity now afforded. The economic conditions of the world are sufficient evidence of the need of the conference, which can do much to bring a new era of hope, and believe it will, and at any rate shall do my very best."

MATTERN HOPS FOR CHITA ON WORLD GIRDLE

American Flier Recovers from Effects of Gas Fumes — Believes He Can Regain the Time Lost.

Moscow, June 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Matern, American round-the-world flier, passed over Nizhni Udinsk, in eastern Siberia, at 2:05 p. m. Moscow time (6:05 a. m. eastern standard time) today.

He intends to remain there until tomorrow. No details were available here but the aviator presumably was in good health and his plane was functioning well.

Moscow, June 9.—(AP)—Jimmy Matern continued his round-the-world flight today by hopping off from Krasnoyarsk, Siberia, a little more than four hours after he had arrived there from Belovo, Siberia.

The American aviator, who believes he still has a chance to establish a globe-girdling record despite setbacks by sickness, rain and plane trouble, arrived at Krasnoyarsk at 7:30 a. m. Moscow time (11:30 p. m. Thursday, Eastern Standard time). He was away again for an unreported destination at 11:55 a. m. (3:55 a. m. Eastern Standard time) after a hurried attempt to repair the damage his red, white and blue "Century of Progress" suffered during the forced landing at Belovo early Wednesday morning.

Reports to Moscow were delayed by slow communication facilities so it was not learned what his next objective would be, although it was presumed that he will try for a point from which he could take off on the trans-Pacific leg of his adventure.

The Texan had apparently recovered from the nausea which had beset him to land, almost unconscious, at Belovo when he departed from that miners' settlement, waving his thanks to the hospitable Soviet authorities and people who had helped him.

Everything was ready for him on his arrival in Krasnoyarsk and it was believed that his early getaway was made possible by the presence at the airport of an interpreter and the essentials he needed.

ADVOCATES MERGER OF ALL RAILROADS Head of Pennsylvania Says It Would Be Better Than Government Ownership.

Cambridge, Mass., June 9.—(AP)—Nation-wide consolidation under private management rather than resort to government ownership or operation, was urged here today by General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, as a remedy for the plight of the country's railroads.

Speaking at the celebration of the 25th anniversary of the Harvard graduate school of business administration, Atterbury said: "Nation-wide consolidation, I believe, offers the hope of such a way out. The number of systems should be few; the grouping, chiefly, but not entirely, regional."

"Such a plan of consolidation is the one which I advocate as the best adapted to meet the situation, which now exists. If intelligently followed, I believe it will result in putting the railroads in a secure financial position, in producing the best service at the least practicable cost, and in stabilizing employment."

STUDENTS FINED Northampton, Mass., June 9.—(AP)—Five Amherst college freshmen today were allowed to withdraw pleas of not guilty and to plead guilty to charges of publicly mutilating and treating contemptuously the flag of the United States. George Gillett, 18, of Kentworth, Ill., was fined $25, and Robert Lawrence, 17, and Roger R. Wunderlich, 18, both of New York City, were each fined $50.

Charges against Henry Stanley, Jr., 19, of Providence, R. I., and Vernon Hall, of Montclair, N. J., were dismissed because of lack of prosecution.

The five youths were arrested in connection with a recent mock Communist demonstration at which a small flag was burned.

MORGAN'S PARTNER TELLS HOW HE CUT HIS TAX PAYMENTS

Thomas S. Lamont Testifies He and His Wife Exchanged Stock Directly and Indirectly, Allowing a $114,807 Loss for Him in 1930.

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Stock transactions whereby partners in J. P. Morgan and Co., greatly reduced their income tax payments were reviewed today by the Senate investigating committee.

First, Thomas S. Lamont and then William Ewing detailed the means by which losses were recorded against their taxable incomes. The former, in a statement prepared after the committee had met a challenge of its authority by getting wider power, told how he and his wife had exchanged stocks both directly and indirectly, allowing a $114,807 loss for him in 1930.

Later he repurchased the stocks at about the same prices Mrs. Lamont had paid. Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, estimated the deals reduced the young Morgan partner's tax liability that year by $20,000.

Morgan Interest "I don't believe it could possibly have been as much as that," Lamont commented, while J. P. Morgan and John W. Davis—Morgan counsel—paid closest attention in the uncomfortable warm and sparsely filled hearing room.

Davis read a statement upholding the legality of the Lamont transactions, declaring "in all the revenue acts from 1911 to 1933, individuals have been allowed unlimited deductions from their incomes on account of losses actually sustained on the sale of securities or other property."

Lamont testified that the repurchase of the stocks from his wife on April 8, 1931, was direct. Paid No Cash He added that he tore up his wife's note at the time and that he paid her no cash.

"The market price at the time I bought these shares back," he said, "was within $100 or $200 of the price she paid for them."

Ewing revealed that in 1923 he made short sales on behalf of trust accounts for his children. As trustee, he sold 4,350 shares of Johns Manville stock—making delivery by borrowing 1,800 shares from his wife and the rest from himself.

Lamont Called Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Intent on ascertaining how stock deals have been used to reduce income taxes, Senator investigators of J. P. Morgan and Co. today called Thomas S. Lamont—34-year-old partner of the bank—to tell of such transactions.

Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, was ready with questions which last week drew a challenge of the committee's authority. Meanwhile, the committee had bolstered its authority to prepare for possible contempt proceedings if the witness refused to answer.

Before Lamont began to testify, John W. Davis—Morgan counsel—stood behind him, and announced he would not interfere with the questioning. Davis said his clients desired to testify with "the utmost frankness."

"Mr. Lamont is ready," he concluded. Pecora, thereupon pronounced the same question which drew a challenge last week from Davis. He asked if Lamont remembered selling in December, 1930, a block of more than 5,000 shares of assorted stocks.

Lamont explained the deals and said complete information on these was given the Internal Revenue Bureau and he had received no complaint from the government. There was no understanding, he said, that he would repurchase the stock.

"It was advised," he said, "that under these circumstances I was fully within my rights in deducting from my income return for the year 1930 the amount of loss sustained."

He said he was informed that even if the deductions from the direct sales were eliminated it would result in an additional tax of $1,440.29 for him and $895.57 for his wife. Lamont gave his testimony in a prepared statement. It follows in full:

"When I went home over last week-end I looked up as thoroughly as I could in those two days the transactions which I had had in those stock mentioned last Friday by Mr. Pecora. I ascertained the following facts: "It was in 1930 the owner of those stocks which Mr. Pecora specifically referred to. At the end of that year I had a real loss in them due to the decline in values. I sold them as follows: "(A) Publicly: 1,000 Shares Shamrock Oil & Gas Company on Dec. 30, 1930. 1,500 Continental Oil Company on Dec. 31, 1930. (Continued on Page 16)

FRANCE IS EXPECTED TO DEFAULT AGAIN

Premier Daladier Avoids Topic in Address to the Chamber of Deputies.

Paris, June 9.—(AP)—Another French default, affecting the war debt payment due the United States June 15, became evident today as Premier Daladier, replying in the Chamber of Deputies to interpellations on foreign policy, avoided any mention of the debts. The premier restricted himself to the government's policies at the world conference opening next week in London and to the reasons for initiating the Mussolini four-power peace pact.

He is leaving for London Sunday to head the French delegation to the conference, and the chances of the debts coming up in the Chamber are steadily fading.

France defaulted on the $19,000,000 debt payment due the United States last December. The installment due June 15 is about $40,000,000. The approval of the Chamber of Deputies is necessary before either payment may be made.

Facts About Lightning Sought From Tubes It Makes in Sand

Columbia, S. C.—(AP)—New information on the tremendous force of lightning is sought by Prof. Julius J. Petty, University of South Carolina geologist, in a study of fulgurites, commonly called "thunder bolts."

Fulgurites, or lightning tubes, are formed when lightning strikes dry sand. Professor Petty has discovered more than 30 in the sand hills near Columbia.

concerned primarily with the field aspects of the research but expected to collect data useful in a more extended study. He estimates there was about one fulgurite to the acre in the area he surveyed.
 Indicates Infrequent Hits
 Since the tubes were formed over a period of many thousands of years, this indicates, he pointed out, the infrequency of lightning striking in a given area over a comparatively short period of time.
 The glass-walled tubes vary in diameter from an eighth of an inch to one inch in diameter. One was followed downward 30 feet without reaching the lower end.

A BOOK A DAY

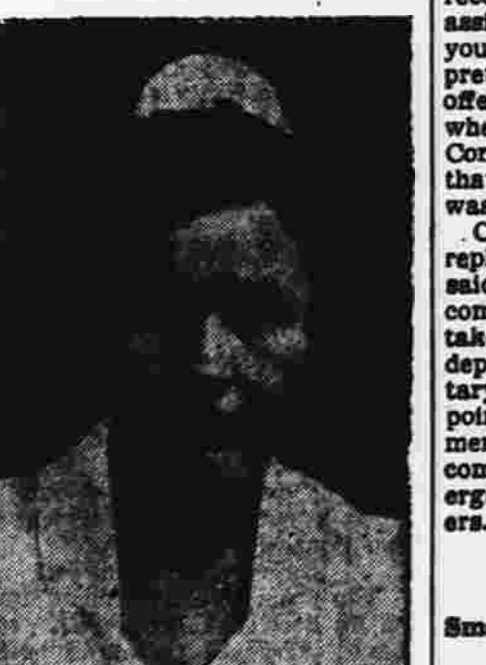

BY BRUCE CATTON
 SCIENCE IS LOSING ITS OLD CERTAINTY
 Sir James Jeans Comments on Trend in New Book
 By BRUCE CATTON

In "The New Background of Science," Sir James Jeans looks thoughtfully at the odd way in which the traditional cook-surety of science has been collapsing in recent years and concludes that mankind is beginning to look out upon the universe through a number of broad-new windows.
 No longer is science confident that it knows anything of the nature of the objective universe. It is beginning to wonder if it ever shall know anything about it. When it tries to explore the universe it is like a man exploring the surface of a desert as he walks over it; his own footsteps constantly raise clouds of dust, which obscure his vision.
 "Our vision of nature," remarks Sir James, "includes the clouds of dust we ourselves kick up. We may as well kick clouds of different kind, but there is no way of crossing the desert without raising a cloud of some kind or other to obstruct our view."
 The old, purely mechanical view of nature falls, since "it makes the mistake of thinking that a weather-vane determines the direction from which the wind shall blow." Studying symptoms, it mistakes them for causes. The determiner is left at sea; and, says Sir James, "revisions have begun to appear in what used to be considered the impregnable closed cycle of physical science."

 Your reviewer, who is a great blockhead at mathematics, admits that part of this book was "very over his head. But, in spite of that, he found the volume very much worth reading—and he believes you will, too."
 Published by MacMillan, it is priced at $2.50.

TONER MAY RESIGN HIS STATE POST

Labor Commissioner May Accept Job as Assistant to Sec. Perkins.
 Hartford, June 9.—(AP)—Labor Commissioner Joseph M. Toner today confirmed reports from Washington that Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins has corresponded with him regarding his appointment as assistant secretary of labor.
 The negotiations have extended to the point where Mr. Toner has conferred with Governor Cross about relinquishing his present post to accept a place with Mrs. Perkins. However, Mr. Toner said today, no decision has been reached.
 The labor commissioner explained how he entered the picture as possible first assistant to Miss Perkins. He said that the secretary of labor with whom he has been in frequent correspondence, sent him a telegram recently, stating that she needed an assistant "with ideas the same as yours and mine." Mr. Toner interpreting this message as an indirect offer of the post, wired back asking whether the labor commissioner of Connecticut would do. He said that Miss Perkins replied that this was an "excellent idea."
 Commissioner Toner has not yet replied to this last telegram, but he said, he was considering the last communication as a request that he take steps to join the United States department of labor as the secretary's assistant. Before the appointment could be made, recommendations would probably have to come from Senator Augustine Lonergan and other Connecticut leaders.

Smart Novelties Are Hollywood's Weakness
 Hollywood—Novelty, whether it's a new color combination, a new fabric or a new variation of the mode, always is at a premium here. Tangutis and brown striping on a white boucle suit that Betty Furness wears, is a good example. MORGAN'S PARTNER TELLS HOW HE CUT HIS TAX PAYMENTS

300 Durium Products Corporation preferred on Dec. 31, 1930. 300 Hall Electric Heating Company on December 31, 1930. (B) To my wife on December 30, 1930. 500 Shares State Street Investment Corporation. 350 Investment Corporation of Philadelphia. 237 P. R. Mallory & Co., common. My beneficial interest in 1,000 of Simms Petroleum capital stock. "My wife purchased in the market a similar amount of the shares sold publicly. "She purchased them for cash and borrowed an equal amount from me, upon her demand note which, though not specifically collateralized, was well covered by the shares themselves plus her other personal estate. "There was no agreement nor any understanding between us that I should any time later on repurchase these shares from her or any of them. "I intended the sale to be a complete and final disposal of these shares and she understood it to be so. "Dividends on these shares after she bought them were naturally paid to my wife for her personal account. "I was advised that under these circumstances I was fully within my rights in deducting from my income return for the year 1930 the amount of the loss sustained. "In the early part of 1931 things seemed to improve but after several months they seemed to be slipping and by April it looked to me as though they might get considerably worse. "I talked to my wife about this and we both felt that it was not wise that she should continue to carry this debt against stocks. "Therefore, I purchased the stocks from her on April 8, 1931, at the original price and she thereupon paid her loan; the note was surrendered and marked "paid." "There was no substantial difference than my own value of the securities compared to December, 1930. The necessary steps involved in a purchase of securities compared took place, including the payment of transfer taxes. I believe that I acted fully within my rights in making this purchase. "I am told that even if my tax deductions growing out of the loss on all the above sales except those made publicly were eliminated, it would result in an additional tax of $1,440.29 in my return and $595.57 in my wife's. "I have always understood that the Bureau of Internal Revenue regularly examines the tax returns made in our office and that whenever they find mistakes they call our attention to them. "I have been told that in 1932 they made their usual examination, both of my own and my wife's income tax return for 1930. "Allowed to See Books "At that time they were given full access to all books, papers and accounts, including the accounts of J. P. Morgan and Company, in which these transactions were recorded. Complete information was given to the bureau regarding both my sale in December, 1930, and my purchase in April, 1931. "I'd like to say here that mistakes in my returns could come from clerical errors in their compilation, which in our office are rare, or they could come from some error on my own part in the handling of my affairs. If the bureau had found the latter I can only say that it would have been an honest mistake and that it would probably have been due to my lack—which others shared—of fully understanding the technique and details of the income tax law. "Since the bureau's examination I have received from them no inquiry, criticism, or complaint, nor has there been at any time any re-determination of my tax or any request for a further payment. "Not to Hide Income "Some one has said that the time allotted the bureau under the statute to make a re-determination has expired. That doesn't mean anything to me because I don't intend to try and hide my income tax return nor at any time behind a statute of limitation. "If the bureau wants to make a reinvestigation of these transactions, naturally I am entirely willing that they should do so and quite ready to waive any benefit from the lapse of time which the statutes may give. "Lemond read his statement in a steady, even voice, and said he had prepared it. "Sitting a few feet away, Morgan mopped his face. Davis sat just behind the witness. "The loss sustained from the stock sales, $114,807.35, was deducted as loss from taxable income. "The half a dozen senators on hand listened without interrupting.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York.—Spring's coming to Manhattan was in no gossamer veil, with hop-skips and tra-las. She sloshed through the murk in galoshes, shivering under heavy wraps, with flecks of sleet in her hair. "Rose-colored glasses from the congress and Mr. Roosevelt helped some, of course, but New York scenery itself was drab in a more autumnal than spring-like grayness. The avenue offered no parade of brilliant fashions; not much color anywhere. "What a relief, then, to wake up one drear and rainy morning, and see a freshly painted fleet of taxicabs on the streets—cabs of a canary-yellow hue, all trimmed with shiny metal doodads and very fancy. "Maybe America won't enter another "dark age," as Louis M. Hacker, one of our local historians, says it may. When they take to painting the taxicabs again—as Mr. Freeman Gosden might say—"dat's sumpin'." "The time was not so long ago when almost every other day seemed to bring taxis of fresh color and design to the thoroughfares of New York. But, sadly, that kaleidoscopic flood suspended some doleful months ago. The old buses were left to peel their paint; the fleet owners did not bother much about repairs, and independent cabbies could even less afford to. "But now, with a nice new bunch of banana-colored cabs to cheer us on—well, maybe happy days are near again. "Adults In Wonderland "I got around to a Saturday matinee performance of Eva Le Gallienne's delightful "Alice in Wonderland," and I don't recall ever having seen so many children in a theater. Fine for them, but any adult who wants to hear the actors might just as well see a night show. A youngster in a seat behind me kept cooing: "Awice, goo. Wabbit, blump, heh, heh," and so on. While his mother's explanations were five times as bad. "Gotham Glimpses "Discovered—another new Mexican restaurant. This one, on Waverly Place, offers atmosphere as well as fairly good food. Looks as if there's going to be a regular epidemic of chill and tamales. "A second avenue church bills services in English, German and Italian. "O. Henry composed a number of his stories in a German restaurant on Third avenue near Gramercy park. It's still there. "Mrs. Rita Olcott, widow of Chauncey Olcott, will be back from her Monte Carlo home this summer with a book about her late husband, for so long a stage idol. Her adopted daughter, a pianist, has attracted considerable attention abroad. "Arthur Hammerstein is an inventor and has patented more than half a hundred devices. "Chamberlain Brown, the theatrical agent, says he can get along very well on four hours' sleep per night. "Some actors tremble at the sight of a rocking chair on a set, believing it bad luck. "New York.—Generations of newspapermen fired their copy over the wire to that genial old pair of telegraphers, John "Mac" McMillen and Frank "Grit" Griffith—such inseparable pals that the editorial department of a local paper knew them as the "Horse twins." "Long years they sat side by side, taking hot news off their tickers, so competent and reliable that they survived the coming of the mechanical printers. Day in and day out, when their work was done, these two old timers left their keyboards together and together went to some place of convivial assemblage to tell each other, and all the young fellows who wanted an earful, the same stories of the "great old days" of journalism—before there were such contraptions as mechanical printers. "Thirty "Strange, that as one did pretty much as the other did in life, their ator Hayden, Democrat, Arizona and was accepted without a record vote. "Senator Reed (R., Pa.) planned to lead an attempt to substitute a sales tax for the special levies proposed in the measure for paying of the public works post. PRESIDENT PRAISES FOUR POWER TREATY

In Statement He Says It Is a Good Sign for Future Peace of World.

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—The signing of the four power peace pact in Europe was hailed today by President Roosevelt in a formal statement as a good omen for the Geneva and London conferences. "The brief statement by the President follows: "The initialing at Rome of the four power pact between France, Germany, Great Britain and Italy is a good augury. The United States welcomes every effort toward replacing conflicting national aims by international cooperation for the greater advantage of all. This agreement of the principal European powers to work closely together for the preservation of peace should give renewed courage to all who are striving for the success of the Geneva and London conferences. DO YOU KNOW THAT—

Some of England's finest fleeces come from the Orkney and Shetland Islands, where seaweed forms a large part of sheep's foodstuffs. "You can remove scorch stains from white goods by rubbing the spot with a cut onion and then placing the garment in the sun. "Only 100 of the 2,000 known kinds of bacteria and germs are harmful to mankind; the other 1,900 are necessary to life. "The Democratic party in Congress has a working majority, but how much better it would be if we had a majority working. "Department of Interior recently changed the name of Hoover Dam to Boulder Dam. Now we know who "the forgotten man" really is.

NEW DEAL FOR DEBTORS FACES FIRST REAL TEST

Among the first to test the new debtor-relief law just becoming effective... were Mrs. Alice S. Williams, of St. Louis, inset... and Judge Edwin W. Diehl, of Alliance, O. . . . The outcome of these and other cases is expected to reveal the extent of debtor relief provided by the new law.

Washington.—The last shot fired by the Hoover administration against the depression is just finding its mark. "Throughout the country cases are beginning to be filed under the McKown-LaGuardia bankruptcy amendment, signing of which by President Hoover was one of his last official acts. The new bankruptcy regulations have been in effect since March 3, but the expected rush of debtors to Federal courts for relief under this new act has not yet materialized. But enough cases have now been filed so that their determination will show how much relief can be expected under the act, and how much improvement over the old bankruptcy procedure has been made. "One of the first to seek relief under the new law was Mrs. Alice S. Williams of St. Louis, Mo. Her home was within two hours of foreclosure when she presented to Federal court there a petition under the new law. "An injunction was granted to prevent the sale. Her husband, an attorney, handled the petition for her. He had told the holder of the mortgage, he reported, that he could pay off half of the mortgage within a short time, but had been refused a loan at a bank. The foreclosure having been enjoined, Mrs. Williams' home was saved, for the moment, at least. It will now be the duty of the Federal court to take up the case to see whether a compromise or settlement can be arranged. "Another legal mind was also one of the first to take advantage of the new law. Judge E. W. Diehl of Alliance, O., saw his petition in bankruptcy dismissed for failure to pay a $33 fee. He immediately filed a debtor's petition with the hope of arranging an extension. Judge Diehl's schedule listed assets of $5,907, of which about $2,000 was real estate, and only $7 in cash. Liabilities were $22,019.50, mostly notes and mortgages.

How It Operates "The purpose of the new law is to effect settlements between debtors and creditors, safeguarding the interests of both, without the expense and embarrassment that usually go with bankruptcy. It gives courts of bankruptcy wider jurisdiction than they formerly had in proceedings to relieve debtors.

In the case of an individual, it is expected to work like this: John Smith finds himself unable to meet his maturing debts. He formally states this to the court, with a request that effort be made to re-liquid or extend his debts. The "debtor" included here are a wider class of obligations than those now allowed before bankruptcy courts, including "all claims of whatever character against the debtor and his property, including a claim for future rent."

A similar request may originate with the creditor, but not against wage earners or farmers without their consent. If a majority of the creditors, both in number and in amount of money owed them, agree on a plan, this is submitted to the judge. Within certain limits, he may approve and enforce it without further formality.

The amount of secured debts may not be reduced, but the time of payment may be extended. The judge may turn the debtor's affairs over to a custodian, receiver, or committee of creditors. He may turn the whole proceeding into a regular bankruptcy if convinced the new law was appealed to only to delay action.

A Benefit To Farmers "Farmers are intended especially to benefit. If at least 15 farmers in any county get together and wish to appeal to the new law, the Federal court must appoint a special conciliation commissioner for the area to meet and try to adjust the debts.

An effort to extend the new debtor relief system to corporations failed, with the single exception of railroads, which are given special consideration by the bill. A plan of reorganization is opened to them on consent of two-thirds of the security holders, which would permit quick reorganization as a "debtor" without a long and costly receivership.

STEAL EMPTY BARRELS

ALSONIA, June 9.—(AP)—A beer truck mysteriously disappeared from a garage on Broad street last night, the police were informed this morning. The truck was loaded high with barrels, but all, it was stated, were empty but two, information the thieves evidently did not possess when they made off with the truck.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN BUDGET REVEALED BY TOMB RECORD

Cairo. (AP)—The tomb of the controller of finances of Pharaoh Khufu, builder of the second pyramid about 3,000 B. C., has been found by Professor Selim Hassan near the fourth pyramid. Inscriptions on the walls revealed that the Egyptian budget of that period totalled about $10,000,000.

WAPPING

Curtis M. Saulsbury of New Haven, colored tenor, will present a program of negro spirituals at Federated church next Sunday evening, June 11, at 7:30 o'clock (d. t.)

Children's Day will be observed at the Federated church this Sunday. The church school will meet as usual to half past nine, but the morning services will begin at half past ten, at which time there will be a pantomime presented by the children, selections from the Children's choir, and the baptism of children.

The schools of South Windsor were all closed at noon on Thursday, as there was a teachers' meeting held at the Union School with the superintendent, Mr. Young of Ellington. This is to be the last meeting of the teachers this year.

Miss Bernice Wheeler, a member of the Library board, Mrs. Annie V. Collins and Mrs. Lillian E. Grant, librarians of the Sada Memorial Library, moved to Whitton Memorial Library at Manchester, Wednesday, where they attended a group library meeting. More than 30 libraries of Hartford and Tolland counties were represented.

A BOOK A DAY BY BRUCE CATTON

DEPRESSION DUE TO BANKS, HE ASSERTS Prof. Soddy Urges Sweeping Shift in Financial Set-up

"MONEY VERSUS MAN," by Frederick Soddy, calls for about the most complete about-face in our attitude to banks, bankers and currency problems that anyone has yet proposed.

Professor Soddy contends that practically all of our troubles today are due to the banks—not because individual bankers may be grasping, cooked or anti-social, but because bankers as a group control our money system and operate it in such a way that lasting prosperity is impossible.

Most money today, says Professor Soddy, is created by bankers out of thin air. When a man borrows at his bank, and a checking account is opened for him, no actual money is involved; the bank has simply created new money by making marks in a ledger.

The result is violent price fluctuations. Does industrial production increase? The supply of money, through bank loans, increases even faster, prices rise, buying falls off, production drops and breadlines form.

Let the state, says Professor Soddy, issue money at a rate which will keep the price index constant. Banish banks to the actual lending of real money. Then we can get consumption to production and enter an age of marvelous abundance.

"Money versus Man" is published by Dutton at $1.25.

BURNED TO DEATH

FRIDAY, JUNE 9.

the statute-butressed P. U. C.—and the sons of tolerance is broad. So it is a decidedly unpromising contest that the town would be entering if its voters were to approve, on Monday, the project of starting a rate case.

This adventure was, as we have said, originally an enterprise of the Taxpayers League. The League raised a considerable sum of money—and spent it—on a fight that got nowhere. Mr. Levitt got some of the money; legal expenses used up the rest. Now the League, according to its own recent statement, is practically broke. The town of Manchester is being asked to pick up the load of expenditure. If the case is to be fought through to a finish it will last a long time and consume important sums of the taxpayers' cash. If Mr. Levitt continues to conduct the case he will get some of it. If some other lawyer or lawyers take it up they will get some of it.

What will Manchester get? At the very outside a very small reduction in rates. And unless precedent is completely overruled—and there is not the slightest reason to believe it will be—it will get the very mild thrill of being in a draggy, costly lawsuit; nothing else.

It is the sincere conviction of this newspaper that Manchester has nothing but wounds to expect from the proposed fracas—and that its voters should vote "No" on Monday.

ON JUNE 20.

The time is not far distant when the people of Connecticut will have opportunity to express themselves on the question of repealing the Eighteenth Amendment. Three-fourths of them are in favor of getting rid of prohibition. But the mere knowledge of that fact is going to cut no figure in placing this state legally in line with the ten states which have already voted to ratify repeal. In order to do that it will be necessary that the repealists get out and vote.

Several powerful separate forces are working day and night to block ratification of repeal and to retain prohibition in the Constitution. First and most effectual of the forces is the racketeers, the rum runners, the illicit distillers and the bootleggers. The repeal of prohibition will spell death to their enormously profitable callings. They are, of course, a unit in their opposition to repeal; most of the money financing the elaborate campaign of the dregs undoubtedly comes from these sources, though it comes through such roundabout channels that the worthy folks who are using it would not only be shocked but incredulous at such a statement.

Another powerful force is that represented by Bishop Cannon, Dr. McBride and the thousand and one professionals who have been making their living for the better part of a life time out of prohibition campaigning. These people are fighting for their bread and butter, and, having excellent appetites, they are fighting with all their vigor and with any tactics they can devise.

The third powerful force is the tenacity of fixed habits of thought. There are uncountable thousands of men and women whose minds were molded in their youth to an utter loathing of the liquor trade and at that period received an indelible impression that alcohol and drunkenness were inseparable entities, the latter to be cured only by the legal destruction of the former. That formula had at least the merit of simplicity. It appealed to the simple and credulous mind of childhood. And so any number of Americans grew up with that formula ineradicably rooted in their minds, and the minds froze stiff around it. There are many predispositions, superstitious and prejudices thus rigidly possessing human beings, which no amount of evidences of error can possibly unseat. None is more rigid than the conviction, received thirty or forty or fifty years ago, that the way to get rid of drunkenness and debauchery and crime and all unhappiness is to merely legislate the alcohol traffic out of existence.

Thirteen years of devastating disproof of this theory have no effect whatever on such case-hardened convictions. A hundred and thirty years would have no more. The belief was molded and fired too long ago. It is too late for new impressions based on new experiences. The world is flat. Only wicked people, serving the devil, would think of saying it is round. That is settled.

No wet need imagine that any dry is going to "see the light" and vote for repeal, or that the dry will fail to go to the polls and, as a holy duty, vote to retain prohibition in the Constitution. He cannot understand that he is an ally of the gangster and a contributor to the wholesale debauchery of youth. Nothing could possibly make him believe that. He knows that it is part of him, and for long years has been part of him, this sublime faith that you can stop drinking by forbidding liquor; and he is not going to try to amputate part of his very soul.

For which excellent and possibly praiseworthy reasons it behooves the people who are capable of seeing the results of prohibition, and who consequently keenly desire to do away with it, to be very sure to go to the polls on June 20 and vote for the repealist candidates to the state's Constitutional convention. It isn't going to do to imagine that the dregs won't bother. It's a matter of religion with them.

MAKING MISCHIEF.

Connecticut people who during the last five months have seen the full effect of subordinating public interest to flagrant partisanship, in the proceedings of their own General Assembly, can quite fully appreciate the consequences of the present opposition to some administrative measures in Congress—if it should be successful.

It is thoroughly well understood by every member of Congress that President Roosevelt's program of rehabilitation is essentially a unit—that it is no more possible to make it work with some of its parts missing than it would be to launch a ship lacking plates or planking or some of its timbers or frame members and still have it float and carry cargo. Yet there is being kept up, ineffectually so far, a heckling opposition to vital elements of the program that serves no end save that of sheer opposition for opposition's sake.

The attempt to eliminate the licensing features of the Industrial Recovery bill was a case in point. That provision is the backbone of the whole industrial control measure. The measure has been approved by thousands of industrialists belonging to the opposition party. Yet there are senators who would have destroyed it, wrecking the entire scheme, though they had nothing whatever to offer in substitution.

That is exactly the spirit that destroyed the usefulness of the 1933 General Assembly in this state.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

PROFIT SHARING KEPT SECRET IN MORGAN'S BANK

Partners Do Not Know How Much Each Makes Morgan Share Reported, 50 Per Cent

By RODNEY DUTCHÉ

Washington, June 9.—The one thing J. P. Morgan was most anxious not to reveal publicly was the partnership agreements of his firm.

The Morgan partners, except for Morgan himself, have always been ignorant as to the size of the split in the profits apportioned to each other. Only Morgan knows that. Both he and his father, J. P. Morgan, maintained the policy of secrecy. Each new partner has always had to promise not to disclose his agreement with any of the others and has been made to realize that if he did he would be kicked out.

Thus an element of dissension and jealousy has been carefully avoided. The partners are essentially Morgan's employees. It has been reported but never confirmed that Morgan himself took 50 per cent of the profits. At any rate, new partners, who do have to put any money into the firm, are promised certain percentages which may run as low as one or two per cent.

Partners Run Business

Losses are also apportioned on the same percentage and charged off against profit shares. Lately there haven't been any profits, but most Morgan partners are still millionaires and before the depression it was commonly believed in Wall Street that a Morgan partnership was worth at least a million dollars a year.

Wall Street men here during the Senate inquiry were sure nothing very injurious would happen to the House of Morgan. They believed it not unlikely that Morgan might before long go to live in England. He likes it there. His partners have been running the business for him, with authority more and more concentrated in George Whitney and somewhat less in Thomas W. Lamont.

Morgan's Heir

Junius Spences Morgan, his son might move to England, too. He prefers boating to banking. Henry Sturgis Morgan, the other son among the partners, is more like his grandfather and probably will take over his father's position as head of the firm.

The Morgan partners are always in close contact. After their morning conference they all sit in the same room—including Morgan himself when he's there—at closely spaced roll-top desks.

"Come on in with the goldfish," a recent visitor was told as he was led into that room.

$2500 a Day?

The fee John W. Davis receives for representing the Morgan firm during the investigation presumably is prodigious. Last time John was down here he collected $2500 a day for five weeks and three days, representing a corporation in a big tax case.

Ferdinand Pecora, the committee counsel who has made his sensational disclosures despite bitter opposition of some committee members is paid $25 a month.

Davis has Privileges

Davis is allowed more privileges of interruption and speech-making than any other private lawyer who ever appeared before a committee in such a capacity. Presumably this is because he is a former Democratic presidential candidate and most of the committee members are Democrats.

Morgan's Hat

Morgan tossed his Panama hat into a seat behind him and an unidentified person sat on it, then hastily removed himself from the vicinity.

"Here, Tommy," said J. P., handing the crushed hat to Partner Thomas W. Lamont, "hold on to my hat."

that are to go in salads with special care to remove grit.

Fruits: This type of food may quickly grow too ripe and the best method is to use as soon as possible or to take special care in keeping. Some fruits such as apricots, or strawberries, keep better if spread out in this way one may pick out the riper fruits to use first and throw out the spoiled ones. It is advisable to wash all fruit before using as this secures a cleaner food and also imparts a fresh, dewy look.

Fats: Lard and cooking oils: Such foods require a cool storing place during summer to prevent rancidity. Cereals, breads, crackers, and macaroni keep best in a clean, dry place. Flavorings should not be kept near the stove as this causes them to lose their savor. Usually a food with a specially marked flavor will keep best in a tight can which locks in the aroma.

You will find that some degree of care taken to keep each food in the best possible way will produce meals made of attractive, fully flavored dishes. What is more, the health value of well kept foods is much better than that of foods left lying open in the kitchen and exposed to germs and dirt. Extra care of food during summer takes a little more trouble but the result is worth while.

Health and Diet Advice

CARE OF FOOD IMPORTANT IN WARM WEATHER

I was talking to an apartment house owner who told me that the janitor used to have to empty a full pail of garbage from each apartment every day and now people are throwing away so little food that the garbage pails are not one-fourth full. He says that one of the reasons for this is that people are taking better care of food after they buy it in order to keep left-overs in a usable condition.

The care of food after it reaches the home is important. This applies to every bit of food just as long as it stays in the kitchen. Proper care before serving insures a cleaner and more attractive food. Left-overs of left-overs will keep them wholesome for the next day, when they are still valuable. Many of the foods used daily such as meat, eggs and milk are more or less perishable and care to prevent spoiling will help maintain their value. Food spoil or deterioration as a result of extremes of heat or cold, too much exposure to currents of air, or from the working of molds, yeasts and ferments. Here are some of the best methods of caring for common foods:

Meat: as soon as meat reaches the kitchen I would advise unwrapping, wiping with a damp cloth, placing in a clean dish and putting in a cold, clean place. If you have an ice-box or refrigerator the meat should go into it right away. Fish must be covered tightly before being put in the refrigerator as the fish odor is absorbed by other foods. Before cooking, it may be a good plan to wash meat, poultry or fish. Further care must be taken to thoroughly cook all pork, in order to kill any parasites which may be present.

Milk: To keep milk sweet in summer requires special care. Dairy milk should be brought in out of the sun, the top of the bottle should be washed and the milk put in a cool place. If you live in the city the refrigerator is the best place to store it. In the country it may be advisable to provide a means of keeping it cool by placing in a spring, well or milk house. All milk containers require extra cleanliness. Milk properly cared for keeps that sweet wholesome flavor and is also more healthful. Butter: This food tastes best if kept cold in a covered dish. Allowing the butter to melt in the heat spoils its looks and helps turn it rancid. Cheese: Cheese repays good care. By taking proper care of any kind of cheese it will come to the table soft, creamy and have that extra pleasing taste which denotes fresh cheese. By allowing it to dry out it becomes hard and leathery. Keep cheese in waxed paper or wrapped in a clean cloth.

Eggs: The care of eggs has a marked influence on their taste. Eggs should be used as soon as possible, kept clean, dry and cool. Avoid cracking. Vegetables such as celery and lettuce do best when a little water is shaken over them, they are wrapped in paper or a cloth and kept cool. Tomatoes keep their firmness better if kept dry and cool. Be sure to wash all vegetables

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Is Water Fattening?)

Question: Lydia G. asks: "Is water fattening if it is taken with the meals?"

Answer: The body is composed of about 78 per cent of water, and those inclined to be fat have a tendency to hold in the body an excessive amount of water. It is doubtful if there is much more effect on the fat person from drinking with meals, or from drinking the same quantity of water between meals. The fact is, one who is inclined to obesity usually drinks a large amount of liquids at all times. If this is cut down either at meals or between meals, but care must be exercised in not reducing the liquid intake to the point where the excretion in the kidneys becomes heavy with too many solids in proportion to the water content. The fat person should keep his drinking to the minimum and still keep the kidneys wastes a light strain color.

Serving Manchester for 58 Years

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, June 9.—They're up to their old tricks again, those magicians. And so many new tricks, in addition, that you are never sure whether they're going to pull a hat out of a rabbit or allow themselves to be sawed in half by a woman.

The Society of American Magicians had its twenty-ninth annual dinner in New York the other evening. At least, there was a dinner to be had. Most of the members sat around pulling tricks. They pulled: carnations out of the fruit coupe; they hoisted coins out of their soup; they pulled tableware, billiard balls and vari-colored silk handkerchiefs out of the baked chicken; and they extracted decks of cards from their salad.

All manner of people were there—members of the Stock Exchange, college professors, jewelers, attorneys, a waiter who's one of the society's officers, actors, judges, authors, architects—magicians all. Bernard Ernst, the president, used to handle Harry Houdini's legal affairs, learned some tricks from the old master, and now is one of the most noted amateur prestidigitators. Royal V. Heath, one of the trustees and a Wall Street broker, has written a book called "Mathamagic"; all about how to do tricks with figures. Clark B. Allen, the society's vice president, also is an official of a fireworks company. Julien Proskauer, another trustee, is vice president of three publishing corporations and a director of six.

That just gives you an idea. Scores of professional magicians are members too, such as Cardini.

Ransom, Williston, Ammann and the great John Mulholland. The latter was just back from Europe and, as is the custom with mystic folk, was resplendent with twelve foreign medals. Beatrice Houdini, dainty, diminutive, snowy-haired widow of Harry, is the dowager sorceress. Ammann Mulholland is Frederick B. Powell, a professional of 88.

When magicians perform for magicians the tricks are not, as you might imagine, all new. Instead, their chief delight is in skill and subtlety. The audience sighed anxiously at the smooth skill of Mulholland's card tricks, muttered "Beautiful—beautiful!" as Williston extracted numerous ivory balls and a pool cue from this astonished correspondent's coat pocket.

Yet most of the magicians here pretty definitely how the tricks were done. Their plaudits were for derring, too—as when Ammann stood squarely in the midst of a 44-40 rifle and apparently caught a marked bullet in his teeth. You can believe as you like about whether the bullet actually came from the gun, but it is an absolute fact that several men have been killed trying the stunt.

Ace of all amateur magicians is probably Dr. Samuel Cox Hooker, wealthy retired chemist of Brooklyn, N. Y., runner-up is Dr. Shirley M. Quimby, Columbia University professor of physics. He became interested in magic several years ago when Mulholland, then a school teacher and an amateur prestidigitator, requested the use of a laboratory to construct some pieces of secret apparatus, called "gimmicks" in magic parlance.

Associated Press Picks Alert Staff To Report London Economic Meet

Their names will not appear in headlines, their voices will not shape destinies of nations and peoples — but the newspaper reporters covering the world economic conference will play an important role at the crucial London meeting starting June 12.

For their daily dispatches will advise the world, will provide the information on which nations will base judgment of the conference. Inevitably it is the pressure of this world opinion that will make treaties, force concessions and stipulations, cast the mold for the world's future.

Alert Coverage Planned Realizing the seriousness and importance of the task, member papers of The Associated Press are assembling at London a staff of trusted representatives, reporters whose experience and background enable them to portray and interpret the rapidly shifting developments of the conference, speedily and accurately.

Rarely has a news-gathering corps been faced with comparable obstacles. Delegations from 66 nations will attend, their headquarters scattered throughout London, and the reporters must maintain contact with all because each may be the source of vital news at any hour day or night.

Farm Bill's Provisions Put Broad Powers On Shoulders Of 'Young Henry' Wallace

Washington.—(AP)—The spotlight of interest following the farm bill's course through Congress has cast into bolder outline the 44-year-old secretary of agriculture, to whom it delegates powers almost dictatorial.

"Young Henry" Wallace, as he is called by the Iowa farmers who write him at Washington, is a curious combination of a "scientific" dirt farmer and the intellectual economist, possessing the manners of a shy country youth.

Withal, he has a keen relish for his job along with a distaste for the trappings of office. The "Mr. Secretary" deference, the blandishments of favor-seekers, among them some who are radical, and the frank of the crest on his governmental limousine, are sources of embarrassment to him.

He walks the four miles from his apartment to his office every day, leaving home at 7:15. He works late at night unless compelled to accept a dinner or speaking engagement.

He submits rather sheepishly to the ministrations of Edward, the veteran negro valet attached to the secretary's office who cared for the sartorial needs of "Young Henry's" father.

Wallace revels in statistical analysis. He gets as much kick out of a production chart as a golf enthusiast does out of shooting a birdie.

He is rated one of the least "political" members of the Roosevelt official family; yet his friends say he has a keen understanding of the farm mass psychology developed through years of close contact with the farmer and of intensive study of his problems.

He appears equally at home at a round-table conference with scientists and professional economists or at a barnyard chat with a farmer.

KINGSBURY-O'LOONEY LAWSUIT IS SETTLED

Young Woman Affected by Nigger Hill Fatal Accident to Receive Compensation.

The suit for $5,000 brought by Miss Laura Kingsbury of North Coventry against Edward O'Looney of Bristol, for injuries sustained in an accident in 1931 when her sister Ann was killed near the foot of Nigger Hill and for which O'Looney was sentenced to jail in January, 1932, was to have come to trial before a judge and jury in the Superior Court in Tolland County yesterday afternoon.

The case was taken while a conference was held between the parties concerned in the judge's chambers. As a result of this conference the case did not go to trial, settlement having been reached as to the amount of damages to be paid.

The case was a sequel to the accident on Thanksgiving Eve, 1931, when the two girls while driving to the Bolton Notch gasoline station to secure a supply, finding the station closed they continued on to the station at the foot of Nigger Hill, and were almost there when run down by O'Looney's car. Ann died soon after the accident. It was not until sometime later that he was identified, arrested and sentenced to jail.

Miss Laura Kingsbury, who was a teacher in Essex Junction, Vt., has been unable to follow her occupation as a teacher, because of a nervous breakdown and the suit was brought because of this.

The amount paid in settlement was not made known.

CENTER CHURCH CRADLE ROLL PARTY MONDAY

Mothers Invited to Bring Toys Under Four Years for Party on Lawn.

Center church babies and their mothers will observe the annual Cradle Roll party on the church lawn on Monday, June 12 at 3 o'clock. Mothers with their children under four years are invited to attend. This is a personal invitation to Center church mothers. There will be games and refreshments and a sociable time.

The committee assisting the Cradle Roll superintendent Mrs. Robert Dewey consists of Mrs. Harry Malmont, Mrs. Fred Woodhouse, Mrs. Louis Martz, Miss Mary Barrett, Miss Emily House and Miss Laura House.

HIGH VOLTAGE CURRENT ELECTROCUTES LINEMAN

Gulfport, June 9.—(AP)—Harold A. Small, 43, of Gulfport, was electrocuted yesterday as his body contacted a high voltage line while working on power lines.

Volunteer efforts to revive him failed although artificial resuscitation was continued for four hours. Employed as a line repairman by the Connecticut Light and Power Company, Small was making repairs on a pole as his body touched a wire carrying 4,600 volts. Two fellow workers tied a rope about his body and lowered him to the ground.

Walter Regan, foreman of the repair crew, directed the resuscitation efforts. Small leaves his widow and two children. He had been a Connecticut Light and Power Company employe for four years.

TO SETTLE DISPUTE

Geneva, Switzerland, June 9.—(AP)—The dispatch of a commission to supervise settlement of the war between Bolivia and Paraguay over the Gran Chaco was considered so probable today that the League of Nations provisionally planned to send a board of five investigators, one of them a citizen of the United States.

KILLED BY MOTHER

Madrid, June 9.—(AP)—Hildegart Rodriguez, a syndicalist writer, was shot and killed by her mother today as result of a political argument in their home, the police charge. The mother is being sought.

Formerly a Socialist, the daughter recently transferred her political allegiance. The mother is a Socialist.

Girl Is U. S. 'Secret Keeper' As Delegation's Archivist At London Economic Meet

Washington.—(AP)—Celeste Jedel—brown-eyed, and only 22—must be added to the list of women in foreign fields under the program of the Roosevelt administration.

Miss Jedel has gone to London with the American delegation to the world economic conference, bearing the official title of "archivist." She was appointed to the delegation from her regular post in the office of Raymond Moley, assistant secretary of state.

"Secret Keeper Extraordinary" Her duties in London make her "secret keeper extraordinary" in spite of the moss-covered tradition about women and secrets. She is in charge of the official papers—receiving, relaying and filing official messages between Washington and the conference. Miss Jedel gathered in her sheep-skin from Barnard college just two years ago.

Armenians, war debts and trade treaties are filling the air around her now. But Miss Jedel's associates here simply look amur! when suggestions are made that they constitute a rather heavy diet for a young lady.

Diplomatic Urge Came Early When she attended high school in New York, where she was born, she sat down and wrote the state department for advice on how to get into the diplomatic service.

She plowed doggedly through geography, history and economics. She was still floundering with her ambition when she signed for courses in the classes of Prof. Raymond Moley, then a Columbia university, now assistant secretary of state. He pointed out that she must study government.

She must have done it with vengeance. Now she has a Phi Beta Kappa pin, and she spent a summer at the Geneva school of international studies on a Barnard fellowship.

Even before Miss Jedel had her diploma she stepped into the active field. She was made one of the research assistants that aided Moley when he took part in the Seabury investigation in New York. She was part of the staff that went with him when he was named research director of the New York state commission on the administration of justice.

Then came the move to the state department. Miss Jedel was named to the staff. Three months passed and she sailed for London.

KILLS 3 PERSONS, ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

New York Laborer Stabs to Death, Mother-in-Law, Sister-in-Law and Wife.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—A ten-cent bread knife cut its way today to a triple tragic solution of Raymond Irsary's "in law" problem.

As a screaming quarrel in a little east side flat reached its height, Irsary, 33-year-old laborer and man of the house, reached for the knife.

"I am tired," he said to his wife, "of supporting your mother and sister on the money I make."

He stabbed the mother-in-law, Mrs. Julia Wisarondo. She stumbled out on the landing and died. He plunged the knife into the abdomen of his sister-in-law, Celia, 26. She fell dead.

Then he attacked his young wife, Ricarda. She ran screaming into a neighbor's flat and died of her wounds.

Attempts suicide Irsary, still holding the knife, ran into the street. As he plunged madly along, a shouting crowd followed him—at a safe distance. A policeman lunged toward him. He sidestepped, darted into a hallway and stabbed himself in the chest. He is not expected to live.

Police entering his flat found his three daughters—the oldest four years—sleeping on their cots.

TO LIMIT IMPORTS Berne, Switzerland, June 9.—In retaliation against Germany for the partial moratorium declared by the Berlin government, Switzerland plans to limit its imports from and its payments to Germany unless the Reich modifies the effects of the new policy. The feeling here is that the Swiss franc is endangered by the German moratorium.

THREE PERSONS INJURED IN NEW HAVEN CRASHES

New Haven, June 9.—(AP)—Three persons were injured, two seriously, in New Haven accidents last night.

Leroy Allen, four, of this city, has a fractured skull, contusions and abrasions received when he was struck by an automobile operated by Allen Hale, of Wallingford, near his home.

A man identified as August Mylius, 30, of Hamden, has a fractured skull and a fractured left leg after he was involved with a car in collision with a new delivery truck by Ernest E. Holcombe, Jr., 28, of New Haven.

Police said Holcombe received his attention was attracted to an approaching automobile and he did not see Mylius.

Hospital attendants held conditions were "fair."

Martin McManus, 48, of West Haven, a New Haven road builder, also was injured as he jumped from a moving freight car in the Cedar Hill yards last night. He has a fractured ankle.

THE MANCHESTER ELECTRIC CO.
770 MAIN STREET
MANCHESTER, CONN.
ADDRESS YOUR REPLY TO THE COMPANY AND REFER TO

June 9, 1935.

Again we ask, as one citizen to another,
Why waste more of your money—as well as ours—in further rate cases?

Some of our good friends have been disturbed by a statement going the rounds which I want to brand here and now as a malicious falsehood.

This is a statement that the Manchester Electric Company was purchased from Cheney Brothers for $1,500,000 and that earnings have to be made on this excessive purchase price.

The facts are that there was given in exchange for 4,000 shares (par 100) of the Manchester Electric Company 11,500 shares (par 25) of the Connecticut Power Company. The cost of the stock received was entered and is carried on the books of the Connecticut Power Company at $400,000 and not $1,500,000. This evidence was given under oath at the recent rate case and may be verified at any time by any responsible party.

Is it any wonder that I say "malicious falsehood", when the person who started this rumor could have had the truth in five minutes?

Is there any reason why you should spend your money, and force us to spend ours, in carrying on a rate case based on mis-statements like these?

It is your money that will be spent—investigate first—get the facts, and then cast your vote on June 12th in accordance with your own judgment.

S. J. Johnson
President

TOLLAND

Two plays were presented at the White school last Thursday with a large number of parents and friends of the pupils present. Each one taking part did so in a creditable manner. Bobby Jean Robertson, who took part in one of the plays also pleased the audience with a tap dance, with Miss Lillian Miffitt as her partner.

Edward Schmidt who was seriously injured several weeks ago while working on the town road and confined in the Rockville City hospital is now able to sit up. Mrs. Edward Schmidt has had as recent guest Mr. Schmidt's sister from New Jersey.

Miss Hilda Johnson who has been confined to her room for several weeks with illness is reported much improved which is pleasing news to her many friends.

Last Tuesday evening June 6, at 8 o'clock, d. s. t., the children of Hicks Memorial school presented two plays: "Snow White and Rose Red" by pupils of the primary room, and "Peter Pan" by the pupils of the elementary room. There was a large and appreciative audience.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Broadbent were Sunday guests of friends in Hazardville.

Rev. George S. Brown of Mapleville, R. I., was a recent guest of relatives.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Tolland Federated church will serve their regular monthly supper in the church dining rooms Friday evening at 6:30, d. s. t. The public is invited.

The special Children's Day program entitled "Over the Rainbow" which was to be given by members of the Sunday school Sunday night has had to be postponed for two weeks.

The regular meeting of Tolland Grange was held Tuesday evening at in the social rooms of the Federated church. Members of Manchester, Vernon and Bolton Granges neighbored and furnished most enjoyable evening of entertainment. At the social hour refreshments were served.

A special meeting of Tolland Grange will be held in their new place "The Community House" next Tuesday evening, June 13, when a class of candidates will be initiated in the first and second degrees.

Mrs. Ethel Case and Mrs. Gladys Frishman of Burnside spent Wednesday at the home of their uncle, Frank Newman and Mrs. Newman.

MONNIE O'DARE returns from a trip to Dan's bedside. DAN CALIGAN, with whom she had long been in love, seriously injured in an automobile accident. Moreover, just before the accident Dan had married SANDRA LAWRENCE, whose fiancée she was. Monnie's friend, had been trying to win him from her. Sandra had even told Dan that Monnie intended to marry CHARLES EUSTACE, another admirer.

Dan's father asks Monnie to come to the hospital. Dan dies, holding her hand. In the days that follow Monnie tries to pick up her life anew. She lives with her mother, sister and two brothers. The O'Dares have little money. Monnie works in a doctor's office.

Monnie is disturbed because Charles, hitherto one of her best friends, seems cool toward her. Unhappy and unsteady, she decides to marry ARTHUR MACKENZIE, a rich, middle-aged New Yorker whom she met on her trip. Mackenzie comes to see her. A little later the same evening Charles arrives.

led. The car, gleaming and hooded in chromium, panted under the street light. He could not linger. He had to be satisfied with that. But his smile was confident. He took her slim hand. Huskily he said, "You're the loveliest thing—all a man could desire. I promise you you won't regret it."

For an instant his lips rushed here, the merest, fleeting contact. "The telephone you're from Chicago on Thursday," he said. "Don't bother to write—and don't disappoint me."

Mrs. O'Dare came fluttering into the hall to make her farewells. Mackenzie's manner with her was perfect. Monnie, closing the door in the visitor's wake, could hear the rise and fall of Charles' voice, and Kay's ready laughter. Suddenly she was angry with Charles. How dare he behave so badly. That very day he had insulted her past bearing and then he had turned up, old as could be to ruin her evening. What did he mean by such behavior?

"Aren't you going back in, lovey?" This from her mother. "I think no, I'm tired. I'll go straight to bed."

CHAPTER XLVI

Charles stood, hands in pockets. His expression seemed fairly glowering. He had the air of a man determined, at all costs, to stand his ground, and outstay all comers. In spite of the excitement and the feeling of excitement in the air she was amused. She wanted desperately to laugh. Her mouth quirked at the corners.

Kay came in with a tray on which there were some glasses and almost dropped them. "Why, Charles!" she exclaimed. "Where did you come from? Through the window?"

He grinned at her, his old self for an instant. "No, they let me in. Why?"

"I don't know. Just didn't hear your soft step. Can I give you some of this grape juice? Mother's best."

They stood, chaffing each other, and Mackenzie said in a low voice to Monnie, "I'd like to see you alone, May I?"

She was confused. "I don't know how. Will you stand a bit and see?"

The party developed into a four-some. Kay, after a struggle with herself to keep down hysterical laughter, suggested bridge and Charles helped her set up the table.

"I really ought to be getting on," said the older man, glancing at his watch. He was too well-bred to show the measure and depth of his impatience but his eyes sought Monnie questioningly ever and again. She was at her wit's end. Charles, forsaking his rather grim manner of earlier in the evening, now became all urbanity. Chattering smoothly with her about books abroad, he was his old, winning self, exerting himself to please.

Mrs. O'Dare ran her finger over the novel post, tracing some imagined dust. "He seems very nice," she said. "Mr. Mackenzie? Oh, he is." But there was no enthusiasm in her tone. It was perfunctory. This night when she should be occupied solely with plans for the future, what she would do as the envied Mrs. Arthur Mackenzie she could think only of the behavior of the handsome young man in the neat, shabby little parlor. She burned with resentment. If it weren't for Kay—if it weren't for her mother—she would go in there this very moment, make a scene and demand of him what he meant by such outrageous conduct. The Countess di Fraioli, indeed! Red hair and black eyes! Probably dyed. (She meant the former, of course.) So he had allowed himself to "crack up" for the sake of some painted hussy with a title! Why had she ever wanted him for her friend? His wasn't worth it. Oh, how angry she was! She wouldn't be able to sleep, she was so furious. How dared he do that!

Her mother had gone back into the dining room but still Monnie lingered, smiling on the stairs. As if in answer to her thoughts, Charles came out.

"Ah, there you are. We were wondering what had happened to you."

With dignity she said, "I'm just going up."

"I see you were." She was half way up and turned to face him, amber eyes blazing in her petal-pale face.

"What's the matter?" He pretended to be surprised. "Has anything happened?"

"You—she struggled for words. "You were terrible tonight!"

"With mock humility he seemed to examine his conduct. "But I thought I was very well behaved. Modest. Deferential—"

"That's just it. You treated Arthur as if he were an octogenarian. Charles lifted his brows. "Arthur?"

Defiantly she smiled. "Of course. What did you think?"

Suddenly Charles' casual manner vanished. In a few strides he cleared the space between them. He was just two steps below her. How tall he was! It was silly of her to be so excited, so tremulous. That was because she was so angry with him. "Perhaps you're not going to marry that chap?" His face was close to hers.

"What business is it of yours?" she flung at him.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Someone asked me about grandmothers. What part they should play in a child's life. What I thought about interference. Did I think they should be unhappy about the mistakes (or what they think are mistakes) of young parents in regard to training and management?

Now this is what I think about grandmothers. Perhaps you won't agree with me, but if you don't just turn the paper over to grandma herself and forget that I have spoken.

A grandma is a necessary person in a child's life and the child who hasn't one misses something very sweet and fine. I shall add grandmas, too, not as an afterthought or as something extra, but merely because I am writing on grandmas.

After bringing up her own family she has done her duty as far as responsibility and training goes. If she wants to enjoy her grandchildren to the fullest she will cast off this feeling of weight and leave it to younger and stronger shoulders.

She won't bother about a dirty face or rumpled clothes. She won't shudder at a slang word. She won't run and get the wax can every time a toe or a wagon wheel scores the best chair or sofa.

HEALTH

CARE IN USE OF HOME REMEDIES IS URGED BY DR. FISHBURN

Cathartic Dangerous if Abused in Painful, as it May Mean Appendicitis; Headache Powders May Affect Heart.

The next most commonly used preparations in a family medicine chest, aside from the cosmetics, are pain relievers. Most of these are used for headaches, although sometimes they are used for what are called neuritis, neuralgia, toothache and other pains of unknown origin, as well as to produce sleep.

Most headache powders bought under patent trade marks contain phenacetin or acetanilid, sometimes in considerable dosage. It is not well to experiment with acetanilid, because it may in large dosage, have serious effects on the body, including particularly the blood and the heart. Moreover, there is a tendency to form the habit of taking such preparations.

Other drugs much used to produce sleep are derivatives of barbituric acid, of which some of the best examples are veronal, trional and combinations of barbituric acids with other drugs.

The family medicine chest is better off without preparations of this character as the possibilities for harm are sufficiently great to suggest that these preparations be not used except with medical advice.

NEXT: Safe and unsafe home remedies.

them. Pour a panful of clean warm water over small bodies to get off the scuds.

Don't wash heads at night unless you begin early enough to get them thoroughly dry before bedtime. Never put a child to bed with a damp head. And never let him go out (except in hot weather) with a damp head either.

Children cannot wash their own hair well. The scalp needs rubbing and then there should be several rinses. They usually neglect some of the necessary things. But they can learn quite early to do it in an emergency and eventually altogether.

Cool Rinses a Safeguard

Cold baths are all right for some children but not all. Unless a strong child reacts at once and becomes warm after a rub, he is not the type that can stand it unless the doctor insists.

A cooling rinse after the bath is different. It closes pores and often keeps a child from catching cold, especially if he has to go out soon after it. Once a week or twice a week for heads and every day, or not less than two or three times a week for bodies are considered good rules for health.

But judgment comes in too, and common sense. If a child has a cold, he should be kept indoors and the time for the head-washing and the way it is done, if at all.

Here Are Some Points for Getting Your Summer Beauty Sleep

Are you getting your beauty sleep these hot nights?

Well, one of the best ways to relax so thoroughly that you'll sleep in spite of heat is to take a nice, warm bath before retiring. I know it sounds all wrong, a warm bath. But you'll be much cooler afterward. If you are made of staunch stuff, take a cooler shower after the bath, but not a cold one. Cold ones wake you up. You don't want that, just before you retire.

Bathing your wrists, forehead and the back of your neck with cologne is a restful thing, if you are too hot and tired to sleep.

Relaxing is the real secret to beauty sleep. Lie perfectly flat, arms down at sides. Breathe in through your nose, as deeply as you possibly can. One way to insure breathing is to visualize your back as hot water being with just a little water in it, which of course is at the bottom. Try to force the breath clear down to where you visualize the water as being. His when you breathe out, slowly, making as much noise as possible. Sigh, and complain as you do it. Just groan a little and sigh again and again. All this helps to relax you completely.

An electric fan turned directly on you is bad. But one directed so it will stir the air a bit in the room, without hitting you, is fine. Also, the flatter your bed the better. Deep, very soft mattresses are hot as sin in summer.

Brushing your hair up from your head sometimes helps induce sleep. And a cold washrag, wrung

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN

By WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Somebody always is puncturing the bubble that this such a callous city, is an unrelenting hurry.

For example: a woman started to walk across urbane Madison avenue at Sixty-fourth street just as the light turned red against her. The north-south traffic growled in action. She did a chicken-hop, dashed ahead and somehow lost her hat in the maelstrom.

We were in a taxi alongside a north-bound trolley, which stopped with a jolt. Our taxi stopped. The whole procession behind us was held up.

The motorman left his car waiting, recovered the hat, scurried to the west curb and handed it to the flustered woman. Then he slung, ran back to the trolley and speeded it onward, with much bell clanging. And Madison's traffic began to undo the jam for blocks to the south.

Bright Blouses Add To Linen's Smartness

Charles had gone white. Instinctively Monnie knew this was the woman Dr. Waterman had referred to—the one who, directly or indirectly, had been responsible for Charles' breakdown. Did Mackenzie know? If so it was a direct challenge. She held her breath, waiting for Charles' reply. That old pain that was like a breath of excitement held her in its grip. Why could she never hear of Charles, in connection with another woman without experiencing this pang? He was nothing to her—could never be.

"The Countess di Fraioli," Charles was saying coolly.

"Exquisite creature," sighed Mackenzie, squinting through the smoke. "Broke a number of hearts. I understand."

"I believe so," Charles voice sounded merely bored. Monnie dared not look at him, was pretending to be absorbed in the cards she held.

"Are we playing bridge or are we?" Kay's impudence brought them all back, and the game went on. The tension had not been loosened but the wires on which all of them seemed, this night, to be strung, quivered a little.

It was 10 o'clock. Now it was 11. Charles Eustace, a gleam of diabolical amusement in his eyes, coolly stayed on. At last Mackenzie rose.

"Monnie, this has been delightful but I must be getting on."

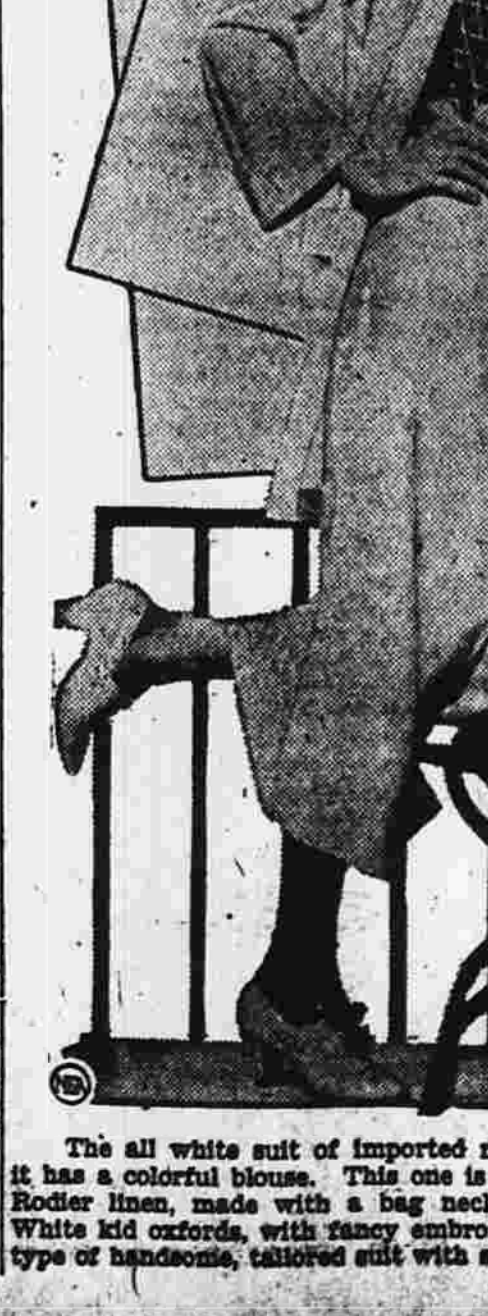

She went with him to the door. "Most unfortunate," he said in a lower tone. "I shall have to rush—the engagement tomorrow will not keep. But when can I see you again?" Then his voice altered. He was no longer the annoyed king of finances, irritated at some delay, but the eager suitor. "Monnie, you know what I want to ask you. Have you changed your mind about marrying me? I didn't want to rush you, after that unfortunate affair in the autumn. But now well, we can make a fresh start, both of us. What do you say?"

Her head was hot and her hands cold. What was wrong with her? The acceptance she had meant to give him trembled on her lips but she could not utter it.

"I'll write to you," she prom-

SOAP AND WATER—THE ETERNAL PROBLEM!

There is nothing as sweet as a clean child. Aside from the standpoint of health, a well washed child with clear skin and shining hair is just about the most beautiful thing on earth.

Even if there is jam on the small jowls or grime on sticky fingers, somehow or other the clean look underneath shows through. The once-a-day bath leaves its fragrance behind it, and though the hair may be tousled the softness of it, and the sheen that comes only of cleanliness instantly make a nice impression on the quick eyes of adults.

Jam doesn't matter. It comes off in a second anyway. Mud, doesn't matter. Clean dirt is healthy. Tangles do not matter. What little boy or girl, taking off caps a dozen times a day can keep his hair sleekly brushed?

The once-a-day bath is often a bugbear to the busy mother. And sometimes it is not possible at all.

Twice a Week At Least

If it is not possible on account of too little water to go round, or for any other reason, to arrange for a bath every day, the mother in such a position need not get an inferiority complex over it and feel that her children are not properly cared for.

Twice a week will keep them "healthily" clean. Less than that is not so good because the bath

BAER UPSETS DOPE, KAYOES SCHMELING IN 10TH M. H. S. To Defend League Track Title Won In '29

RED AND WHITE SEEKS 5TH STRAIGHT VICTORY IN CONTEST TOMORROW

Coach Pete Wigren Picks Squad of 27 for C. C. I. L. Meet at Trinity Field in Hartford; Starts at 1.45 O'Clock; Locals Confident of Keeping Championship.

The Central Connecticut interscholastic league track and field championship which Manchester High School won in 1929 and defended successfully ever since will be at stake tomorrow afternoon when the Red and White will seek to continue its monopoly and extend its winning streak to five straight against the five other schools of the league. The meet will be held at Trinity Field in Hartford, starting at 1:45 o'clock.

Coach Pete Wigren has named a select squad of 27 athletes to defend the title and the members of which the team has triumphed in its dual meets during the season indicates that Manchester will make a determined effort to retain its crown another year. Performances during the regular season also seem to indicate that a number of the thirteen league records are due to fall, several through the efforts of local athletes.

M. H. S. Has 4 Titles
Of the thirteen titles, Manchester holds four, Bristol four; West Hartford, two and Middletown, Meriden and East Hartford, one each. Manchester's records include the 220 yard dash, set by Wittman in 1921 in 25.5 seconds; the 440 yard run, set by Robertson in 1929 in 54.4 seconds; the mile run, set by McCormick in 1929 in 4:25.4; and the javelin throw, set by Mantell in 1926, a distance of 264 feet, 5 1/2 inches.

The local squad has fine possibilities of breaking the record in the mile, pole vault, high jump and javelin, and may also come through with new marks in some of the other events. Bristol and West Hartford are expected to furnish the strongest opposition to Manchester but the local power in the field events is expected to prove the winning factor.

Pole Vault First
The first event, at 1:45 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, will be the pole vault, with Bob McCormick, state champion, as an almost certain winner of first place. McCormick vaulted to 12 feet, two inches in the state meet and should break the league record of 11 feet, six inches, now held by Dissell of West Hartford.

At 2 o'clock, the high jump, discus, broad jump, shot put and javelin events will be held, the last two as soon as the first three are completed. Patton and Lane, both of whom are capable of topping the existing mark of five feet, 6 1/2 inches, are picked to finish one-two in this event, although the order may be reversed.

Other Prospects
In the discus, Garrone is Manchester's best bet and he may surprise with a record heave. The broad jump is a weak point with Manchester but Hillman, if he does as well as against Bristol, when he jumped twenty feet, should earn a place in the first three. The shot put is another weak point, with Leo Johnson and Garrone being the potential point getters. Bob McCormick will have to go going from Lang of West Hartford in the javelin but seems capable of taking the event and also setting a new record.

BLUEFIELDS OPPOSE SAM MASSEY'S NINE

Open Season Tomorrow Afternoon at West Side Against New Haven Outfit.
The Bluefields A. C. baseball team will open its season tomorrow afternoon on the Four Acres diamond against Sam Massey's Trinity Parish nine of New Haven. The game will start at 3 o'clock, d. a. t. The lineup of Massey's team will be as follows: Doran, cf; Walsman, 3b; Johnson, rf; Crowe, cf; Massey, 2b; Swan, 1b; Morris, ss; Kling, c; Galus, p; Strong, p; Marx, p. Sam has assured Manager Edward Carroll of the Bluefields that his team is capable of playing a good brand of baseball and that the game will be well worth watching.

BASEBALL

LANKY STRIKES OUT FIFTEEN
Last night the Manchester Y. M. C. A. baseball team entered the win column in the Hartford County Y. M. C. A. Senior League. After getting away to a bad start Monday night against Highland Park the team, giving no reason for the reversal of form winning from the strong Windsor team by a score of 2 to 1. The game was a pitchers battle all the way, both pitchers doing a fine job on the mound, Lanky, Manchester's pitcher, striking out fifteen batters, giving no base on ball and allowing but four hits while Windsor's pitcher struck out 8, walked 3 and allowed four hits. Both teams were retired in order until the fourth when Lanky walked, stole second and scored when Lanky's left fielder, giving no base on ball and allowing but four hits while Windsor's pitcher struck out 8, walked 3 and allowed four hits. ALL-BURNSIDES PLAY WEST SIDES TONIGHT

The West Side team will play the All Burnside tonight at the West Side Oval. Ed Pottinger will pitch for the All Burnside and Hewitt will pitch for the West Sides. The West Sides to date have won five straight games and will go out to get their sixth game. Manager Nick Angelo has some of the best teams in this vicinity coming here. Some of the teams that will be here are New Britain Falcons, All Rockville, Home Circle, Check Road, All Winsted, Sons of Italy, Mahoney's Service and possibly Savitt Gems.

DEMPSEY PRAISES SCHMELING'S GRIT

Former Champion Also Says Baer is a Fighter Who Will Please Public.

By JACK DEMPSEY
New York, June 9.—(AP)—Boxing has found in Max Baer the kind of fighter who can bring the game back to the old days—the days when big men fought to knock each other out and you couldn't find places big enough to hold everyone who wanted to see it done.

It seems to me that the possibilities in this California youngster are only starting to be uncovered. As great a puncher as Schmeling couldn't hurt Baer. And until last night I had not seen any one fighting today who could out wallop the German.

Only 24 Years Old
So I believe that boxing's comeback now rests right on Baer's shoulders. He is only 24 years old, he's the biggest, strongest man fighting today and he hits with terrible power. He might have more trouble hitting a man as clever as Champion Jack Sharkey, and he'd certainly have trouble evading the titleholder's left hand, but that will be a fight equal to anything which has gone before in the ring.

German's Courage
It's possible that Max Schmeling's bravery, tremendous ability to take punishment, will be lost sight of in view of Baer's spectacular display but I have never seen a more courageous exhibition than the German gave. He was hurt from the start, yet he never stopped trying, never stopped moving in. He's still one of the finest heavyweights I've ever seen.

As Baer moves along, it seems natural to expect that his boxing will improve and the importance of his bout will steady him. He has in himself the ability to become one of the great heavyweights of the ring.

At least he gave me the biggest thrill I've had in ten years—since the night a man named Pippo and I had an argument in the Polo Grounds.

HIGHLAND PARK WINS

Highland Park baseball team defeated the Hartford Colored All-Stars last night in Keney Park by the close score of 1-0 in a five inning game. Armstrong had the edge in a pitcher's battle striking out three men after Kelly reached. Dougan and Eagleton stood out at the plate.

THE BATTLE OF MAXIES AT CLOSE RANGE

FOXX CLOUTS 3 HOMERS, A'S FINALLY TOP YANKS

Nose Out Champs, 14-10; Ruth Holds Lead by Hitting 12th of Season; Giants Edge Phillies, 7-6; Dean Limits Cubs to 3 Bingles as Cardinals Win, 2 to 1.

Philadelphia fans figuratively shedding tears over the failure of Jimmie Foxx to live up to the proud boasts they made for him when he clinched 56 home runs last season, apparently can dry their eyes. Jimmie looked very much like the clouter of 1922 when he blasted his way back into the thick of the fight. With the redoubtable Lefty Grove as his mound opponent, Foxx tallied three home runs, batted in five rallies and was leading figure in the attack which gave the Athletics their first victory of the season over the Yankees 14 to 11.

Ruth Hits 12th
For a while Foxx was tied with Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig for the big league home run lead with 11 homers, but yesterday Ruth showed his supremacy by pasting his 12th.

Another Philadelphia-New York game was decided on long distance slugging as the Giants turned back the Phillies 7 to 6. Mel Ott's seventh homer of the year was the winning blow.

Dean Limits Cubs
Washington's Senators cut loose against Boston with 17 hits in the second game of a double-header to win 12-3 after they had blown a 4-3 decision in the opener.

Deans Allows 8 Hits
Detroit ended the six game winning streak of the White Sox with an eleven inning 3-2 triumph when Catcher Frank Grube dropped a throw and let the winning run.

ARMOUR SHOOTS 5 BELOW PAR FOR 68

Silent Scot Breaks Course Record in National Open; Seven Tied at 73.

Glenview, Ill., June 9.—(AP)—One of the greatest shot-makers of them all, Tommy Armour, had his competitors all but rubbed off the market today with a record breaking five shot mortgage on the National Open Golf championship.

The silent Scot stormed in with a record 68 which not only broke the course record for the north shore championship layout, but sent him five strokes ahead of the field with Walter Hagen and six others tied at 73.

What made it look all the darker for the field, among them defending champion Gene Sarazen, who took a 74 to land in an eight-way tie for eighth, was that Armour has a habit of getting better as the battle goes on.

Face-setters until Armour came home, the six dedicated for second place included two amateurs, Neil White and Maurice McCarthy, Jr., and four professionals Hagen, Henry Cluel, Craig Wood and Jimmy Rowley.

The group tied with Sarazen, a victim yesterday of wild tee-shots, numbered Al Altroz, Tom Cravay, Joe Kirkwood, Ky Laffoon, Carl Gustafson, Lee Wilcox and C. H. Mayo.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

(By Associated Press)
New York—Max Baer, Livermore, Calif., stopped Max Schmeling, German, ten; Jack Redman, South Bend, Ind., outpointed Marty Fox, New York 8; Charley Massera, Pittsburgh outpointed Abe Feldman, New York 8; Tony Galento, Cleveland, knocked out Donald (Red) Barry, Washington, D. C., one; Jack Van Noy, Los Angeles outpointed Phil Cohen, Brooklyn, four; George Simpson, Calif., and Joe Mack, New York, drew four.

Pittsburgh—Vince Dundee, Baltimore, knocked out Frankie Goosby, Pittsburgh 4.
Tacoma, Wash.—Fred Lenhart, Tacoma outpointed Terris Hill, Chicago, 10.

INCLUDE "DAILY DOUBLE"
Chicago, June 9.—(AP)—Arlington Park will include the "Daily Double" on the second and third races each day of its thirty days meeting which opens July 26.

Arington is the last of the Chicago tracks to adopt the plan. Unlike the double at other tracks, however, Arlington's system will provide horse couples as an entry be represented by a single ticket.

REFEREE STOPS BATTLE WITH GERMAN HELPLESS FROM CRUSHING ATTACK

Spectators Pop-Eyed With Amazement as Young Californian Batters Way to Front Rank of Heavyweights; Murderous Right Drops Der Max, End Comes Soon After; Baer to Make Exhibition Tour.

New York, June 9.—(AP)—A roistering young blade from out of the west with thunder in his heavy fists and all the "killer instinct" he has any use for, stood today a threatening menace to Jack Sharkey's heavyweight crown.

Victor last night over Max Schmeling by a crushing tenth round knockout which left 26,000 spectators pop-eyed with amazement Max Baer of California established himself the greatest young heavyweight to crash the big scene since Jack Dempsey whittled down Jess Willard at Toledo.

"I'm going to win that championship," he shouted as a shower swept away every trace of the combat. Not one of the vast crowd which saw him floor Schmeling with a murderous right, and then a few seconds later leave the former champion hanging on the ropes, helpless, will argue the point.

End Comes Quickly
A minute and 51 seconds of the tenth round had ticked away when Referee Arthur Donovan stepped forward, mercifully to lift Baer's hands before the game German further punishment. Sagging, ready to drop, his guard down and his eyes glazed, Schmeling was an open target for a punch which might have done lasting injury. There was not a dissenting voice from the massed thousands in Yankee stadium.

The scene was an eye-fall for Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, both of whom peered attentively from ringside chairs as Baer, a far faster fighter than he had been given credit for, battered down his man. One or the other, the victor in their championship fight in the month, probably will get a chance to sample the Baer dynamite, and it is doubtful now that either releases the prospect.

Schmeling Got Careless
"I don't know what happened," said the dazed Schmeling as he sat disconsolate, removing his ring togs. It was evident the sudden, sharp conclusion of the combat, five rounds before the scheduled finish had left him shell-shocked. "He wasn't hurting me, so I got careless and opened up. Wham, I thought a house had fallen on me."

It was the first time Schmeling ever had been on the floor since he first came to the United States five years ago.

after the fifth round. Baer, however, couldn't resist the temptation to wing a few, and in the first two rounds he launched two stung attacks which beat his unsmiling antagonist all over the ring.

Schmeling taking advantage of Baer's set-up crowded in with a short sharp attack, which won him his only three rounds of the fight, the fourth, sixth and seventh. Then came the fireworks. Starting on the eighth, Baer really began coming over the mountain. He rushed out with a mean look on his face, for the first time, no longer smiling, and he socked Schmeling with everything in the book, both at long and short range.

In the ninth he nailed the German against the ropes twice and measured him with terrific wallops to the jaw. When Schmeling's guard went up lists dug into his middle. They were in a furious mix-up at the bell, slugging away until the referee parted them. Schmeling stumbled once as he walked to his corner.

Baer was a little tired finishing his man in the tenth. They came out of a clinch in mid-ring, when the Californian's right darted out like the head of a cobra and thudded on the point of Schmeling's jaw. Down he went, sprawling on his back, then rolled over to watch the knockdown-timekeeper. He barely rose as the count reached nine.

Serious as Cyclone
Serious as a cyclone for perhaps the first time in his jolly young life, Baer sailed into his battered rival with a flurry of punches. Schmeling covered, slid along the ropes in a desperate effort to escape. But Baer was on top of him, throwing his 260 pounds into every shot. A left doubled Schmeling up and a right sent him sprawling against the post in a neutral corner. And that was the end.

The crowd paid $239,195.55 to witness one of the most sensational battles of recent years and to assure a fair profit for Jack Dempsey in his first big promotional venture.

OFFICIAL FIGURES
New York, June 9.—(AP)—The office of Jack Dempsey announced the following figures today for last night's fight between Max Schmeling and Max Baer at the Yankee stadium:

Less State tax $201,082.27.
The total number of paid admissions was 53,000. There were 3,800 passes issued.

PLANS TOUR FOR BAER
New York, June 9.—(AP)—No grass is going to grow under Max Baer's feet as Jack Dempsey can help it. With the Californian's name now a sports headliner, Dempsey plans a whirlwind exhibition tour from coast to coast, starting within the next ten days. Baer will box and Dempsey will referee.

Marlene Through With Hollywood? Daughter Maria May Decide That

Hollywood. — In little Maria Seiber's fondness for Hollywood may lie the answer to the question: "Is Marlene Dietrich through with Hollywood?"

Already the German star is buying farewell presents, such as the star ruby ring, set with diamonds, she presented her hairdresser, all generous gifts. As soon as her present film is completed she will leave for Berlin.

In her dressing room the other day, wearing an orange silk dress, robe in vivid contrast to the mannish garments she ordinarily wears for comfort, Marlene spoke of the future.

Her Plans Uncertain

"I will go to Germany to see my people and to rest," she said. "I will go to Paris to see my husband. After that I don't know. I have had offers, but I have signed no contract."

Offers have come from both stage and screen, from Hollywood, New York, London, Berlin, Paris, Vienna, many offers.

Marlene makes no secret of the fact that she is none too fond of Hollywood, although she admits that as a place to work it is ideal. "The child loves Hollywood," said Marlene. "And she has been very well here. It will be hard to take her away."

"I have not been happy in Hollywood," she said, the famous Dietrich eyes and gesturing hands coming into play. "The first year I was very lonesome. After the child came over it was better, but I am still not happy. It is not home."

"It is two years since I have seen my mother, my friends. Two years since I have breathed the air of Europe, of Germany."

"Yes, it is lovely here, but I am weary of it. One from Hollywood who was in Germany would want to come home to Hollywood, would she not?"

Josef von Sternberg, her directorial tutor, is on his way to Hollywood from Europe at the time. Marlene "could not say" whether they would make pictures together again, but intimated they might.

New York's Gain?

If Hollywood loses her, New York may have Marlene, at least for a while.

"New York I love," she said. "Never a city has so affected me at first sight. I see it from the ship as I come in, and at once I am drunk with it!"

But little Maria likes Hollywood. Perhaps in the end it will be the little girl who will decide.

Crash!-Go War Secretary's Precedents When Dern Calls On 'Gold Braid Boys'

Washington.—The new secretary of war, George H. Dern, has ideas of his own as to how Uncle Sam's military establishment should be run and he's handing some of the "gold braid boys" around the department a few surprises.

When he took over the job, one of the first things he did was to go visiting. Instead of having the chiefs of the many different army bureaus come to see him he went to see them.

Through those seemingly endless corridors of the state and navy building (there are 12 acres of floor space in it) he trudged along, stopping at the various offices and paying calls.

That was something new for a secretary to do. But he got a big kick out of it.

"They tell me," he said, "that several officers almost had heart failure when they saw me come in."

Ferishing Bessed Him

There's one visit, however, he hasn't been able to make as yet and one that he is looking forward to. He has yet to call on General Pershing.

That call will have a particular interest for the secretary. His soldiering days began with the general. Years ago when Pershing was then only a lieutenant, Dern served under him as a cadet in the R. O. T. C. at the University of Nebraska.

Pershing was the commandant of the corps at Nebraska and Dern played second alto in the cadet band.

He still remembers those days. He was only a Nebraska farm boy then. But they still look back to him there as one of the greatest football stars the university ever turned out.

He played in the position of guard and was captain of the all-victorious team that made football history in 1894. Incidentally, the manager of that team and his classmate was Arthur J. Weaver, governor of Nebraska from 1921, and a third classmate was Adam McMillen, chief executive of Nebraska from 1925 to 1929.

Dern himself served eight years as governor of Utah.

Studying His Job

Officers at the war department apparently like the jovial Utahian for his informality.

But at the same time they recognize in him other desirable qualities.

Although he is without military experience except that which he obtained as a member of the R. O. T. C. and as commander-in-chief of the Utah national guard during his term as governor, nothing seems to escape his notice at the war department.

What he doesn't know he finds out. And usually his method is to go personally to the authority.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Financial markets milled about in a rather narrow range today and the recent feverish trading pace slowed down appreciably as traders and investors paused to consider the outlook at home and abroad.

Stocks generally displayed easier tendencies, although resistance was shown by some specialties and the declines in most instances were not too severe. Dullness accompanied the easing of prices. Wheat, corn and cotton were steady to firm and some improvement was shown by silver futures. United States government securities were quiet and relatively firm, but a number of secondary bonds were under pressure.

Many share leaders were off 1 to more than 2 points at one time, although some recovered in intermittent rallies. The tobaccos, which have been unusually quiet, exhibited considerable strength. Gains of 1 to around 2 points were registered by American Tobacco E. Liggett & Myers E. Lorillard and Reynolds E. Moderate improvement was shown by some oils, including Standard of New Jersey, Consolidated, Socony Vacuum and Atlantic Refining. Postal Telegraph preferred lost 8 and Western Union dropped around 8 following rejection of the amendment to the railroad bill which would have permitted the companies to merge. Homestake Mining sagged about 5 and extreme declines of 1 to 2 or more were suffered by Dupont, American Can, Allied Chemical, Westinghouse, National Distillers, U. S. Smelting and dome. The rails did little.

Some industrialists are troubled by the erratic fluctuations of foreign exchanges resulting in the severe decline of the dollar. They feel that business will be handicapped until importers and exporters can figure in terms of currencies that are fairly stable. Depression of the dollar, it is held, is not only due to speculative operations on the continent, but to the fact that American exporters are permitting the proceeds of their sales to remain abroad in foreign currencies instead of transferring them into United States funds.

NEW BRITAIN YOUTHS LEAD STATE GOLFERS

Bridgeport, June 8.—(AP)—Two New Britain youths, Frank Abramowicz and David Dary today stole the honors in the first nine holes of the event at Greenfield Hill Country Club. Dary's 32 was low for the nine holes and Abramowicz turned in a 35, par for the first nine in 37 strokes.

Continuing their fine golf for the remainder of the 36-hole tournament will make the two favorites for the medal which Johnny Fox of Central High school this city now holds. Johnny Fox did not do so well for the first nine holes. His 41 was well down the list of scores.

HOLD TWO SUSPECTS

Darien, June 8.—(AP)—Two New Haven men were arrested here at 4 a. m., today on charges of carrying concealed weapons. The men, Nicholas Piscitelli, 45, of 381 Blatchley road and Paul Carbone, 36, of 328 Exchange road, are being held in lieu of $1,000 bonds each pending court on Saturday. Stopped on suspicion, because of a large number of recent robberies and house breaks here, the men were found to have a fully loaded .38 revolver in the side pocket of an expensive sedan.

New Prussian Secret Police Guard Against Anti-Nazi Plots

Berlin (AP)—Hermann Goering, Prussian premier and right hand man of Adolf Hitler, has started a secret police system in the big state which embraces two-thirds of Germany.

In a brief communique to the public he explained that the new department would "busy itself with discovering and combatting all plots regarded as dangerous to the state."

In "Equalization" Wave

Other sections of the Reich are expected to follow the Prussian example.

Goering's announcement came in the midst of the sweeping "gleichschaltung," or "equalization" wave. This government fostered movement was designed to bring into line with the centralized leadership idea of the Nazis, every phase of German life. It affected business, art, agriculture, education, the church, labor and sports. Particularly it left no government department unaffected.

One of the main factors of the secret police force is that Hermann Goering has complete control over it. Its officers report to him directly.

Watch Press, Mails, Phones

The Berlin headquarters also has been made the center of supervision of the press, mails and telephone, the secrecy of the latter two having been rescinded in February.

Strict orders have been issued that the officers of the secret service are to be recruited only from "absolutely trustworthy national ranks." Special emphasis is laid upon the fact that the secret agents possess full police powers.

Under the new law, sub-divisions of the Berlin headquarters will be established in every administrative district of Prussia. Secret agents, combing the country, dispatch their reports directly, either to the Berlin headquarters or to their district office, according to the importance of their observations.

GUARD COMMITS SUICIDE

Chatham, Mass., June 8.—(AP)—The body of Captain Richard Ryder, 55, of the Old Harbor Coast Guard station was found today, a bullet in the temple and a service pistol clutched in his hand.

The body was found in a truck Captain Ryder drove, parked on a wood lot five miles from his home.

Captain Ryder had been due to retire but yesterday he was informed his wish to remain in the service had been granted. No reason for suicide was known by his family or friends. He leaves his widow and five children.

SELECTMAN COOK WED LAST MARCH

Popular Young Business Man Marries Miss Elizabeth L. LaShay

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaShay of 63 Fairfield street announced today the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Louise LaShay to Selectman Aaron Cook of East Middle Turnpike, Manchester Green. The marriage took place here March 22.

The bride is a graduate of Manchester High school, class of 1929. Following graduation Miss LaShay was employed in Cheney Brothers.

The bridegroom graduated from Manchester High school in the class of 1926, Connecticut Business College in 1928, and completed a course in the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance, Boston, in 1930. Following graduation from Bentley's, Mr. Cook took a one-year course in Babson Institute, Wellesley, Mass., graduating in 1931.

Last fall he was elected to the Board of Selectmen, to follow in the footsteps of his father and grandfather and has served since election on the charity committee and the committee on the purchase of the Cheney Brothers utilities and is a director of the Manchester Emergency Employment Association. He is also treasurer of the Manchester Green Community Club and is a member of Manchester Lodge of Masons and the Manchester Public Health Nursing Association.

The couple will be at home to their many friends at the Cook ancestral home, 562 East Middle Turnpike next week.

GET YEAR SENTENCE

Bridgeport, June 8.—(AP)—Raleigh Leake, 27, Danbury, pleaded guilty to a charge of blackmail before Judge Arthur F. Ellis in the superior court today and was sentenced to jail for one year. Assistant State's Attorney Lorin W. Willis said Leake and others sought to play the "Badger" game on George Miller.

JOHNSON TO PILOT CLEVELAND INDIANS

The "Big-Train" Succeeds Roger Peckinpaugh as Manager of Team.

Cleveland, June 8.—(AP)—Walter Johnson, "the big-train" of baseball for many years, was named manager of the Cleveland Indians today. Johnson will succeed Roger Peckinpaugh, whose regime has been reported frequently to be unsatisfactory to the Indians' management.

The team has been losing more than half of its starts of late, and dropped from first place to fifth in the American League race. The selection of Johnson came as a complete surprise to the experts, all of whom were picking various baseball figures for Peck's job.

The selection was announced on the heels of an infrequent meeting of the board of directors of the club.

Methodist Conference Opens on Wednesday To Be Held at Trinity Methodist Church in New Bedford; Local Men Gonig.

Practically all the ministers in town of the Methodist Episcopal denomination are planning to attend the sessions of the New England Southern annual conference, which this year is to be held at Trinity Methodist church in New Bedford, Mass.

COURT AT COLUMBIA Washington, June 9.—(AP)—A bill authorizing a session of the Federal District Court at Columbia, Conn., and changing the time of sessions in other cities was reported favorably today by the Senate judiciary committee.

NOTED SURGEON HUET Philadelphia, June 9.—(AP)—Dr. Chevalier Jackson, 65, inventor of the laryngoscope and widely known surgeon, was injured today in a collision between his automobile and a truck.

He went to Temple University hospital and performed three operations, however, before retiring for the day on the advice of other doctors. Dr. Jackson barely escaped serious injury, his glasses breaking and severely smacking his forehead.

LIBRARY TO FORGIVE BOOK OVERDUE FEES

May Be Returned Next Week Without Payment if Date is Not Later Than June 1.

The week of June 12 will be known as Forgiveness Week at the South Manchester Library on School street. During this period books which are overdue, and whose dating slip has a date not later than June 1, 1933, may be returned to the library without the customary payment of fines.

At this time of year after the house cleaning days are over, it is possible that books which really are the property of the library may have appeared, and people finding them may feel a bit reluctant about returning them to the library, lest they should be questioned about the books.

MACHIE BROTHERS SENT TO PRISON

Older Boy Gets State Prison Sentence, Younger Goes to Reformatory.

Milford Machie, 25, of Hilliard street, was sentenced to State Prison yesterday in Superior Court from two to four years and his brother, Elmer Machie, 23, was sentenced to the State Reformatory when they were found guilty by Judge Frank P. McEvoy of robbery with violence.

The crime was committed on the night of March 17, when the pair, with Alfred C. Nevins, entered the store conducted by Mrs. Minnie Miller in Hilliardville, bound and gagged and struck the proprietor over the head with a stove poker and stole $3 in cash and cigars from the cash register.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 9.—Wall street hears that the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway contains plates no immediate presentation of a reorganization plan. Creditors have not yet organized but protective committees are expected to be formed to represent various classes of funded debt.

The May railroad earnings, soon to appear, should show numerous increases in gross over a year ago, according to statisticians who have been following the favorable trend of car loadings. The best relative improvement in traffic last month was in the south and southwest.

Stockholders of Central Aguirre Associates will vote June 26 on a proposal to increase the capital stock by 100,000 shares. If the increase is authorized the management proposes to declare a stock dividend of five per cent. Trustees declared the regular quarterly dividend of 37 1-2 cents on the capital stock, payable July 1 to stock of record June 20.

Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. estimates sales for the four weeks ended May 27 at $61,524,707 compared with $72,447,440 for the same period last year, a decrease of 15 per cent. Tonnage sales were estimated at 397,498 against 437,775 in the like 1932 period. Estimated sales for the thirteen weeks ended May 27 were $197,561,675 against $233,739,385.

New bond issues formally offered this week totaled $6,735,000 compared with $5,140,000 last week and $6,260,673 in the 1932 period.

ART EXHIBIT OPENS

New London, June 9.—(AP)—The annual exhibition of the Fine Arts Department of Connecticut college opened today as the second event in the institution's commencement week program.

The exhibit held in the rooms of the Art Department in New London hall, consisted of more than 200 pictures and designs by art students of the college.

Shown were etchings, oil paintings, water colors and sketches from life as well as decorative designs and the two best plans for the development of the campus, submitted in the Harrison B. Freeman competition.

The two plans were those of Sally Ann Jumper of Washington, D. C., and Aurelia Hunt of Mount Vernon, N. Y.

The senior class banquet was held last night at the Norwich Inn while the senior promenade will be tonight.

REPORT WAGE INCREASE

New Brunswick, N. J., June 9.—(AP)—Johnson & Johnson, manufacturers of surgical supplies, today announced an increase of five per cent in the wages of their 1600 employees, warranted, it said, "by improved business conditions."

The company had cut wages but the exact percentage was not known.

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN

We quote from her voluntary letter:

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MENUS For Good Health A Week's Supply Recommended By Dr. Frank McCoy

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, June 11, 1936:

Sunday
Breakfast: Glass of Grapefruit juice, minutes before breakfast; Oatmeal, Eggs, Melba Toast; Dish of Berries.
Lunch: Ice Cream with one kind of fresh fruit.
Dinner: Roast Pork; Carrots and Parsnips, cooked with Pork, Green Peas; Tomato and Cucumber Salad; Apple Sauce.

Monday
Breakfast: Waffle (browned thoroughly); broiled Bacon; Pear Sauce.
Lunch: Corn, String Beans; Lettuce Salad.
Dinner: Yellow Cheese (1-4 p. and to each serving), Beets, Zucchini (Italian Squash); String Bean Salad; Apricot Whip.

Tuesday
Breakfast: Baked Eggs, toasted Shredded Wheat Biscuit; Stewed Prunes.
Lunch: Cantaloupe a la mode.
Dinner: Salisbury Steak, Spinach; Salad of Chopped Lettuce; cooked diced Carrots, Green Peas, quartered Tomatoes; Sliced Pineapple.

Wednesday
Breakfast: Dextrinized dry Breakfast Food with Cream (no sugar); baked Peaches.
Lunch: Buttered Apparat; Cucumber and Olive Sandwiches on Wholewheat Bread.
Dinner: Broiled Lamb Chops, Cooked Greens, Steamed Carrots; Salad of shredded raw cabbage topped with Pimento; Cup Custard.

Thursday
Breakfast: Eggs poached in Cream, served on Melba Toast; Dish of Berries.
Lunch: Raw Apples, with Pecans or Almonds.
Dinner: Asparagus-Tomato clear Soup; Broiled Rabbit, String Beans; Raw Cauliflower Salad; Prune Whip.

Friday
Breakfast: Small piece of broiled Ham; Melba Toast; Stewed Raisins.
Lunch: Carrot Pudding, cooked Lettuce; Salad of cold, cooked Asparagus.
Dinner: Fish Loaf, Spinach, cooked Tomatoes; Avocado Salad (see June 2nd recipe); No dessert.

Saturday
Breakfast: Egg Omelet, toasted Cereal Biscuit; Stewed Apricots.
Lunch: Glass of Tomato Juice.
Dinner: Roast Veal with Wholewheat Dressing, Summer Squash, baked ground Beets; Salad of Lettuce and Endive; "Raspberry Ice Cream".

RASPBERRY ICE CREAM:
Measure into a dish, half the contents of an envelope of plain gelatin and add two or three tablespoons of cold water to soften. Wash and drain a box of raspberries, crush thoroughly and mix with a half pint of cream. Into another bowl pour a pint of whole milk into which thoroughly mix a half cupful of honey, and add to the berry mixture. Next add the gelatin which has been dissolved over hot water. Stir all together and pour into a freezer and freeze until of the desired consistency. The amount makes about one quart.

Other fruits may be used in place of raspberries, such as figs, peaches, pineapple or strawberries, the amount of honey varying with the fruit used. When using peaches or strawberries, do not use the ice cream as a dessert, but as a meal itself.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Is It Worse to Chew Than to Smoke?)
Question: Mr. Val Detling writes: "I smoke and chew quite a bit. I have a burning feeling in my stomach and throat nearly all the time. Do you think this is caused by the smoking or chewing? Which one is worse than the other, smoking or chewing?"
Answer: While neither of these habits is wholesome, chewing is more apt to injure your stomach.

(Stomach Trouble)
Question: W. A. D. asks: "Will you please explain the cause and how you treat sinus trouble. After one has it once, are they likely to have it again? How can one prevent it?"
Answer: Most sinus trouble is caused by a general catarrhal condition perhaps brought into an acute form through some bacterial invasion to the mucous membrane. It can be prevented and also cured almost entirely through the proper diet. I have a special article on sinus trouble which I will be glad to send you if you will forward a large self-addressed, stamped envelope. In the meantime, avoid all decidedly starchy foods, as well as sugars and fats.

BAER'S 1ST SCRAP WAS WITH COWBOY; KNOCKED HIM OUT

Father Was Pretty Fair Man With His Fists in His Day, Max Started to Fight at 18; Rose Rapidly.

BY GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) New York, June 9.—(AP)—Max Baer, a new 193 Willys for $325, fully equipped, delivered to you. Trades, terms. Cole Motors.

Max Baer, a pretty fair man with his fists in his day, once acting as sparring partner to Tom Sharkey. Maxey, however, never gave a thought to fighting until he was 18. He was messing round his father's cattle ranch at Livermore, Calif., one day when a "puncher" challenged him.

Max's first professional fight was in 1929 at Stockton, Calif., against one Chief Cariboo. He flattened the chief in two rounds.

Max's first national attention came when he stopped the veteran K. O. Christner in two rounds after scoring six knockdowns.

Max was born at Omaha, Neb., Feb. 16, 1909, of German-Jewish parentage. He comes from a big family. His father weighs 246, his mother 230 and he has a cousin who scales 280.

Another Baer coming up. Max was born at Omaha, Neb., Feb. 16, 1909, of German-Jewish parentage.

Mighty Equipoise Only $100,000 Behind Sun Beau As Money Winner

New York, June 9.—(AP)—Steadily climbing toward the top, C. V. Whitney's Equipoise has a little matter of $100,000 between him and the world record for thoroughbred money winners held by Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Sun Beau.

A fact little known is that a trotting mare is the world's second money-winning horse. Goldsmith Maid won $364,000 during a trotting campaign of almost ten years in the latter part of the nineteenth century, when stakes were small and a dollar was worth a lot of groceries.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The two young married women were talking seriously over the affairs of married life.

First Newlywed—You've been so concerned lately about the way my husband is treating me. Gradually he has been getting lax in his attentions, stays down town for dinner quite frequently, leaving me home alone, and sometimes comes home late at night with very slim excuses. I don't like it at all.

Second Newlywed—I want through that same experience, but I soon broke it up.

First Newlywed—How?

Second Newlywed—Well, I waited until he came in very late one night and as he came quietly up the stairs I called out: "Is that you, Charlie?" And that broke him of staying out nights.

First Newlywed—My goodness! How did that break it up?

Second Newlywed—My husband's name is John.

The present mode of bidding in the old homestead for fifteen cents at the foreclosure sales is one that was never thought of in the old melodramas.

Mrs. Snapper—Remember, we were married by a justice of the peace.

Mr. Snapper—Bah! And I've had neither justice nor peace.

Early Summer Shorts—Kisses are the dessert of lovemaking, and just like a man, he always wants to eat his dessert first.... The bride's mother may cry at the wedding, but if you see a man wearing a look of supreme content, that's the broken-hearted father.... Now that jig-saw puzzles are all the rage, girls may try putting the pieces of a boy's heart together after he's all broken up over her.

Helena—What do you do when a man tries to kiss you?

Clarice—Oh, that's something you'll have to find out for yourself.

Man believed invention of the two-pants suit progress until he discovered daylight through both seats on the same morning.

Man—Congratulations! I have become a grandfather and my wife a grandmother.

Neighbor—Really! Twins?

A lot of our girls would look a lot less like a pain-in-the-neck if they could get vanishing paint as well as vanishing cream.

Colored Parson (glancing at the diminutive, watery-eyed, bowlegged bridegroom, who stood beside two hundred and ten pounds of feminine assurance)—Does you take this woman for your lawfully wedded wife?

Bridegroom (gloomily)—Ah takes nothin'. Ah's bein' tooked.

It is our modest guess that nobody, young or old, ever had lips of the cherry color the present-day lipstick paint them.

Edith—Do you love me, Richard dear?

Richard—Huh! Do you suppose I'd be laughing my head off every night at your father's stale jokes if I didn't love you?

It may be the darkest just before the dawn but we sometimes have a hard time deciding when it's the darkest.

Jack—How do I stand in your affection, Elizabeth?

Elizabeth—I'd have to refer to my card index, but I think you are pretty near the top.

Roosevelt may be only 51 but it is expected he will age a great deal within the next four years—or next year, for that matter.

Barney—now do you like this new soap, sir?

Customer—It tastes fine. You must have lunch with me.

Lima Beans thinks the most remarkable thing about radio is that it picks up jokes that have been in the air half a century.

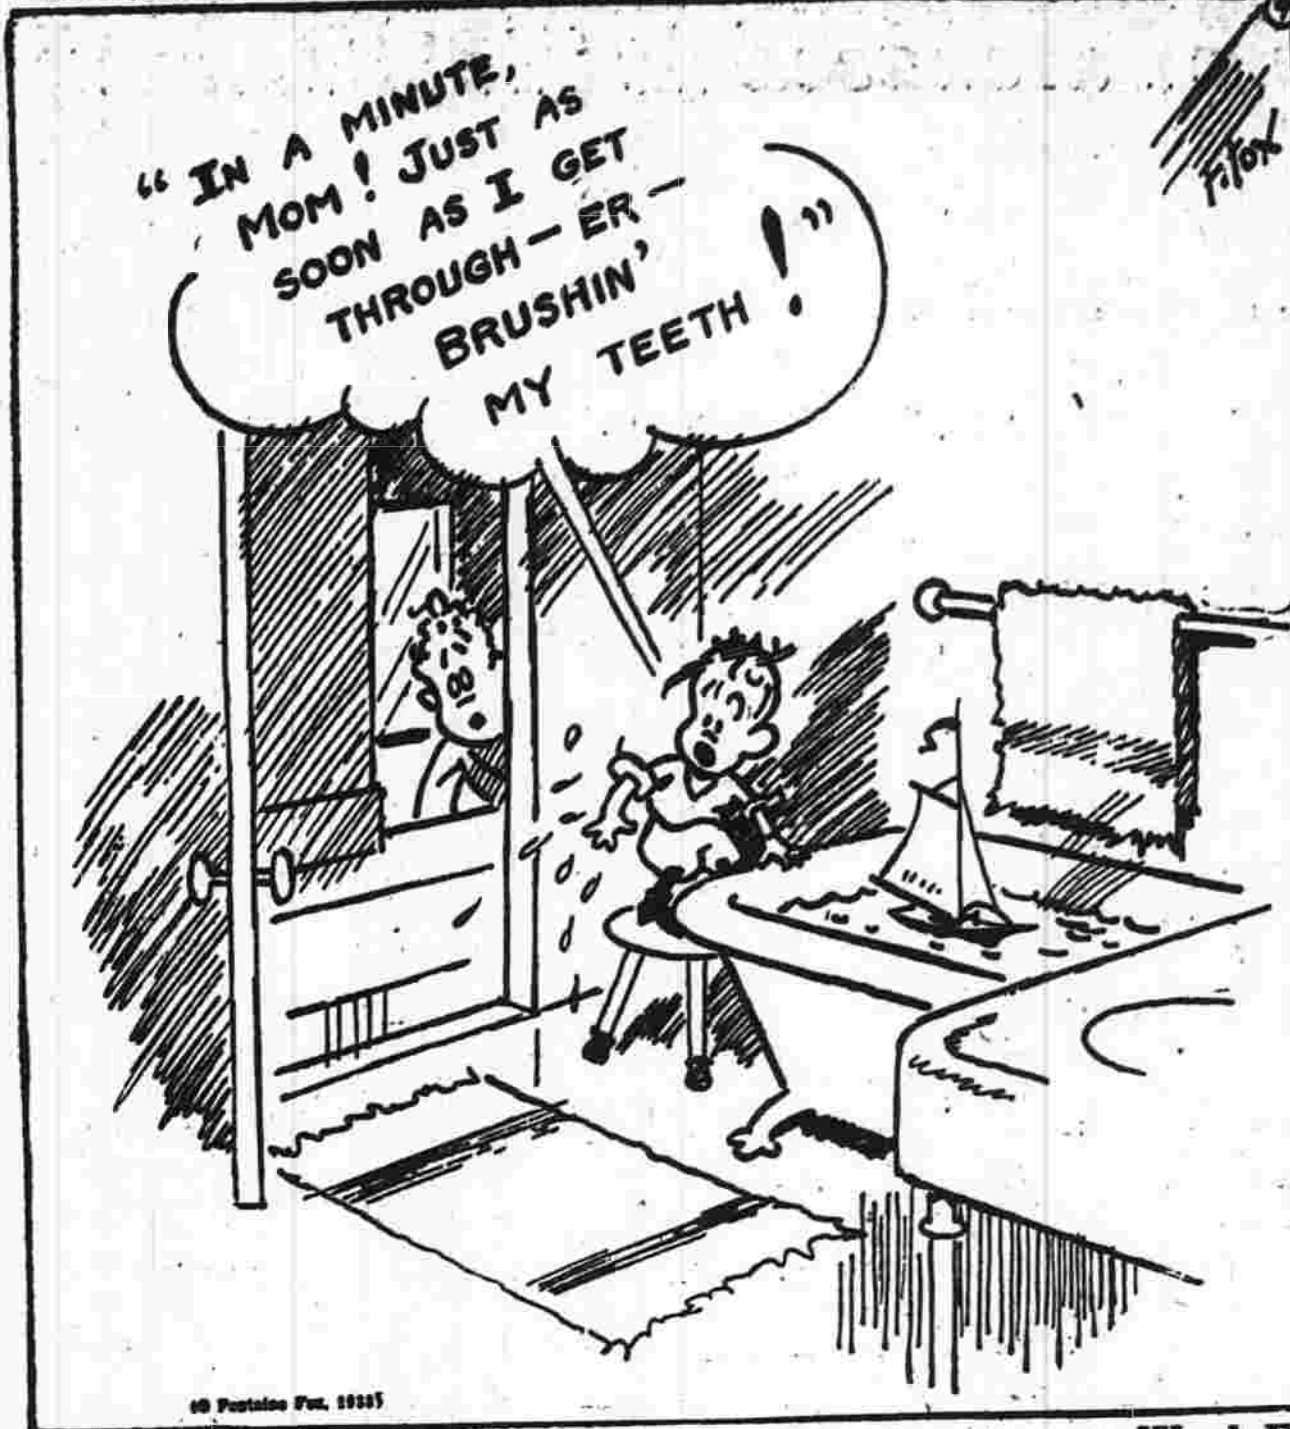

Old Lady (to friend at races)—I've backed a horse and it is sure to win, because it starts at 20 to 1 and the race isn't till 2 o'clock.

ABOUT TOWN

John Bota and family of 385 School street and Dick Wilson of 14 Knox street left early this morning to motor to Goshen, N. Y., to be with their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. John Boccacelli who have just returned from Italy.

A son, Thomas Francis Madden, Jr., was born Tuesday at the St. Francis hospital in Hartford, to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Madden of Hartford. Before her marriage, Mrs. Madden was Miss Adelaide Beccio of this town.

Permits to sell beer in Manchester were signed by the clerk of the Superior Court of this county yesterday. A tavern permit was issued to Luigi Miroglio at 30 Oak street and a restaurant permit to Steve Caramelas of 883 Main street.

The annual Cradle Roll party for children of the Center Congregational church under four years of age, will be held Monday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock on the lawn at the Center Congregational church.

The final meeting for the season of St. Mary's Woman's Auxiliary will be held at the parish house tonight at 8 o'clock.

Miss Helen Bailey of Hilliard street, who was graduated last June from Northfield seminary, is attending the commencement exercises there this week-end. Miss Eleanor Hobby of Henry street who studied at Northfield three years is also attending the graduation of her class.

Mr. and Mrs. John Trotter of Bigelow street, Mrs. J. H. Hewitt and Mrs. Annesley Trotter motored down to New York this morning to board an ocean liner for England. Mrs. Annesley Trotter will visit relatives in Trowbridge, England, and Mrs. Hewitt will spend three months with her people in London and in sight-seeing.

Mrs. Marion Jacobson Seelart's piano pupils will be heard in the closing recital of the season tonight at the Center church house. Dramatic pupils of Miss Lillian G. Grant will assist with the program. All interested will be welcome to attend.

Fred I. Rogers, president of the Men's Friendship club of the South M. E. church has appointed the following committee to set the date and location and make arrangements for the annual outing: Harold Richmond, H. Ross Lewis, Christopher Genney, Thomas J. Rogers and John L. Winterbottom.

Sunday, June 18, will be observed as children's day at the Center Congregational church.

Mrs. Paul Volquardson, instructor at the Trade School, was hostess at a "hot dog" roast at her home on Center street late yesterday afternoon. The girls present were her pupils, including Misses Margurite Giamann, Lena Sartor, Minnie Cordera, Gertrude Squires, Dorothy and Gladys Lamprecht. Miss Rose Patelli was also a guest although she does not attend Trade School.

St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella, will hold a public pivot and progressive bridge party at the Manchester Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, June 12. Prizes in cash will be awarded to the first four winners, both men and women. In addition to cards there will be refreshments. Play will start at 8 o'clock.

Miss Anna Martin of 38 Edgerton street, clerk in the Taylor Bakery, 881 Main street was overcome by heat yesterday while at work and was given emergency treatment after which she was taken to her home. Miss Martin did not report at the bakery this morning but it was learned that her condition was much improved.

Dilworth-Cornell Post American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps has accepted an invitation to play at the Flag Day exercises in Rockville, under the auspices of the Rockville Lodge of Elks. A rehearsal will be held in the Armory Saturday evening at 7:30 d. a. t.

Members of the American Legion auxiliary juniors taking part in the Fidaye pageant are requested to meet tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the State Armory for rehearsal.

Children's Day will be observed at the Swedish Congregational church this coming Sunday. Members of the Sunday school are requested to gather at 10:15 a. m. and at this time make returns of the collections for the Swedish Christian Orphanages at Cromwell, also for the sale of Mayflowers conducted to help in the support of the Swedish Sanatorium at Denver, Colorado. The children will furnish the program at the morning service at 10:30 Sunday.

Check Your Figure—BUT Not Your Freedom!

"Checks" by Marvelette

$1.95

It's the lightest little girldie you've ever worn—and the most comfortable. Just a wee bit of nothing yet it gently moulds the figure into graceful lines. Fashioned of two-way stretch latex. And how it launders—just like a handker. Others $1.50.
