PASSING THE BUCK ON HELP FOR VETS

House Leader Accuses Senate of Dodging the Issue; Senators Say House Should Vote Again.

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Charges of "buck-passing" were raised on Capitol Hill today as consideration of the controversial issue over veterans allowances came to a standstill with leaders in dispute as to which branch of Congress should act first.

This dispute, growing out of provisions of the independent offices appropriations bill, was the one big barrier to Congressional adjournment.

House Democratic leaders contended their branch already had gone on record for the Roosevelt compromise and that it was up to the Senate to vote either for or against the Connally or Steiwer-Cutting amendment.

Senate leaders maintained the House should vote again. They pleaded that the House, if possible, act on a partial conference report.

Representative Byrns of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, said "the House already has gone up against it and the Senate is trying to pass the buck back to the House for another vote so they can say the House knocked out the Connally amendment."

"It looks like the Senate is looking for a storm cellar as usual," Byrns told reporters.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE
Washington, June 14.—(AP)—A review of the disputed veterans' relief provision was in prospect today as Senate and House conferees sat down together for another effort to reconcile differences on the independent offices supply bill carrying the proposals for liberalizing economy law slashes in benefits to former soldiers.

The whole bill was back in conference, sent there on a minor issue, opening the way if conferees chose, for another effort to adjust the sharply-at-odds House and Senate positions on veterans' relief.

The House, with President Roosevelt's backing, has been standing firmly for the Administration-House compromise, less liberal than the Senate provision or the pending Steiwer-Cutting substitute.

Awaiting a final settlement was whether to restore to the bill $1,000,000 for hospitalizing veterans, regardless of the origin of their ailments, in beds that might be empty in veterans' hospitals, for which there now is no money for maintenance.

Because the conferees eliminated this provision, the Senate by 48 to 31, on motion of Senator Black (D., Ala.), sent the bill back to conference last night.

May Invite Veto
Some of the members in an assembling today, said privately their idea was that to avert a prolonged deadlock it would be better to send along a bill to the White House that might be too liberal to suit President Roosevelt and let him veto it, as he has informed leaders of the Senate. They expected the veto to be sustained and a resolution brought

BAY STATE JOINS THE WET COLUMN
Not One Dry Delegate Elected — Margin of 4 to 1 and Boston 10 to 1.

Boston, June 14.—(AP)—Massachusetts stood in the repeal column today, the eleventh consecutive state to go on record in favor of repeal of the 18th Amendment.

It was a sweeping victory with the repeaters piling up a margin of 4 to 1 in the state at large and a ratio of ten to one in Boston.

SEEK QUICK ACTION ON THE RATE CASE

Selectmen to Confer With Town Counsel Immediately; After Early Hearing.

With the approval of the full board, Chairman Wells A. Strickland of the Board of Selectmen, will appoint a committee of three, including himself, to confer with William S. Hyde, Town Counsel, to ascertain the proper steps to take in conducting the projected "rate case" against the Manchester Electric Company, voted at the town meeting Monday. Due to the fact that the Public Utilities Commission does not sit during the next two summer months, immediate action is imperative to obtain a preliminary hearing before the summer recess. The board did not enter into a discussion of the matter other than to empower the chairman to proceed with the legal phase of the proceedings contemplated.

Tip To School Board
A legal decision was presented by Town Counsel William S. Hyde to the effect that the Board of Education, and not the Board of Selectmen, was responsible for all matters pertaining to the schools, including insurance matters. An opinion was asked of the Town Counsel, following an argument which developed at a recent meeting of the Board of Selectmen and local insurance agents, over authority for cancellation of over-insurance on the buildings. The letter was referred to the Insurance committee.

A hearing was held at 8 o'clock on the application of John Martner for a gasoline filling station to be located on the southeast corner of Cottage and Oak streets. The application was approved. A hearing was ordered for June 27 at 4 p. m.

MANY COMPLAINTS AGAINST MILK MEN

Dealers Are Not Observing the Price Schedule Approved by State Board.

Hartford, June 14.—(AP)—That numerous milk dealers are not observing the price schedule approved by the State Milk Control Board as the minimum which they may charge for various classes of milk and cream appeared evident today from the number of complaints being received by the board at its office in the State Office building.

It was said that about 20 complaints, most of them telephoned in, had come to the board's attention and that the number was likely to double during the day. These were mostly submitted by dealers, but in a few cases, public-spirited citizens telephoned to the board to ask why their milk prices had not been raised to accord with published schedules of minimum prices. Most of the complaints came from the Hartford market area.

Dealers Warned
These were being taken care of as rapidly as possible by telephoning warnings to the dealers, completed the board. The board this morning drew up a formal hearing notice, which will be mailed to dealers said to be employing unfair and demoralizing trade practices.

The board stated that apparently a considerable number of dealers were doing business without knowledge of health or other officials and though every effort had been made to obtain a complete mailing list in order that license applications might be sent to all dealers, it was believed that this list was by no means complete. It was pointed out, however, that under the law, dealers may not be excused from applying for licenses or abiding by the board's rulings because they have not received direct notice.

His Arrest Revives Yacht Mystery

Investigation of the baffling murder of Benjamin P. Collings on his yacht Penguin in Long Island Sound in September, 1931, was reopened when the murdered man's widow declared a man arrested at Stamford, Conn., for burglary resembled her husband's slayer. Here is the "mystery man," Frank Dreger (right), 61, undergoing questioning by Charles Galbo, Darien, Conn., policeman, at Stamford. Dreger has a long criminal record.

RORABACK MAKES PLEA TO REPEAL DRY LAWS

State's Republican Leader Believes Great Majority of Voters Opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment.

Hartford, June 14.—(AP)—Stating his opinion that a great majority of voters of Connecticut are opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment, J. Henry Roraback, Republican state chairman, today expressed the hope that a full vote will be cast at the election on June 20 of delegates to the "dry" convention.

Mr. Roraback made his views known in a letter to Walter E. Bletcher of this city, chairman of the state repeal group. The letter will be sent to every Republican town chairman and vice chairman in the state. Mr. Roraback's statement is in reply to a request for cooperation in the movement to place this state among those voting to ratify the twenty-first amendment repealing the National dry law.

No Need for Argument
"I agree with you that there is no need for argument upon the merits of the case," Mr. Roraback stated. "The question has been so long discussed that I believe all voters have made up their minds with regard to it. It has also been my opinion for a long time that a great majority of the voters of Connecticut are opposed to the Eighteenth Amendment and, therefore, upon the ratification of the 21st, which in effect repeals it."

"I have been in full accord with the policy which you have pursued in not making this in any sense a political issue, because there are members of both of the major parties who hold conflicting views upon the subject and in consequence it has been impossible to indicate a division of party sentiment upon this question. I do feel, however, that a representative vote of Connecticut will sustain the former action of the state in its refusal to ratify the 18th Amendment, and to that end I hope that you will be successful in getting a large percentage of the voters to express their feelings by voting on that day."

G. O. F. Organization
"Insofar as the Republican organization in the state is concerned, am confident it will support the position taken by the party in its platform adopted at the last state convention. The ratification of the 21st Amendment will accomplish this result. To make this emphatic a strenuous effort should be made to get out a full vote on June 20. In connection with this, I hope no effort will be spared."

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for June 12 were $18,811,691.59; expenditures, $17,208,440.58; balance, $276,250,638.01. Customs duties for 12 days of June were $8,649,088.79.

WAR DEBT NOTE FROM U. S. IS ON WAY TO LONDON

Willing to Accept Partial Payment Now But It Will Be Considered Only As an Installment.

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—An American note expressing a highly conditional willingness to receive Great Britain's offered partial war debt payment sped today to the London government.

The communication, prepared under President Roosevelt's supervision, was handed to H. W. A. Freeman-Fennell, third secretary of the British Embassy, by Acting Secretary William Phillips at the Department of State.

It was understood to stipulate that the American government is willing to place the payment in its treasury if there is an explicit understanding that the money is only an installment on the $75,000,000 total due tomorrow and that such action in no way invalidates America's claim to the unpaid remainder. In no event will President Roosevelt take any action that can be construed as a condemnation, even by implication, of either a partial or total default.

Reply on Way
With the reply to Great Britain on its way, administration advisors turned their attention to the reaction to Secretary Hull's address before the world economic conference, which made no reference to the debt.

An unofficial statement from an official source that startling developments in the debt field were to be expected today had led to belief that Hull's address and the note to Great Britain might have a definite consequence.

The ever-explosive debt topic had been raised at London by leading statesmen of other nations, even though not included in the agenda, with an accompanying demand for immediate downward revision of the sums due as an American contribution to the success of the conference.

Evidences were noted that the informal Italian offer of a partial payment was to the extent of the interest due tomorrow a total of $1,245,488.

Italy's Debt
The total due from Italy is $13,545,000. Minister Veverna of Czechoslovakia called at the State Department today to discuss the terms on his country's obligation of $1,500,000. He indicated that his country would pay more than ten per cent of that amount, but not the entire sum due.

While London dispatches reported rumors that Mr. Roosevelt was about to announce a conference on debts to be held at Washington, officials here pointed to his persistent attitude that any revision of the obligations must be undertaken in bilateral conversations between the United States and separate debtor nations.

MDIVANI BROTHERS IN DIVORCE SUITS
Husbands of Mae Murray and Mary McCormic in Marital Difficulties.

Los Angeles, June 14.—(AP)—The princely Georgian house of Mdivani has run afoul of marital difficulties for the second time in six years.

Prince David Mdivani of the tiny Soviet republic was sued Friday for divorce by Mae Murray, petulant-lipped film actress.

Today his brother, Serge, was scheduled to be made defendant in a suit for separate maintenance by Mary McCormic, the opera singer. Her attorney announced last night that papers for the action had been prepared for presentation in Superior Court.

Miss McCormic charges cruelty; Miss Murray unreasonable jealousy.

CORDELL HULL RAPS ECONOMIC ALOOFNESS

Here's Complete Text Of Sec. Hull's Speech

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—The following is the text of Secretary Hull's speech today at the London economic conference, as made public by the State Department:

It is appropriate that the nations should meet in this great capital to deal with the crisis which besets them all. The compelling necessity for the present meeting of chosen representatives from sixty-five nations has been demonstrated by disastrous experience. The whole panicky world is looking to this conference for leadership with a program of basic relief and every participant here must realize at the outset that distressed peoples in every land expect concord, cooperation and constructive results from these proceedings. The success or failure of this conference will mean the success or failure of statesmanship everywhere and a failure at this crucial time would long be conspicuous in history.

RUSSIA WOULD ABOLISH ALL ECONOMIC WEAPONS

Soviets' Conception of Non-Aggression Goes Far Beyond Truce Proposed by the United States.

London, June 14.—(AP)—A proposal for a world pact of economic non-aggression, looking toward the abolition of all weapons of economic warfare, was made at the world economic conference today by Maxim Litvinoff, commissar for foreign affairs of Soviet Russia.

His project was first proposed at Geneva by M. Litvinoff declared the proposal itself was a victim of aggression and was taken prisoner and thrown into a dungeon—into one of the League of Nations' commissions.

"Since then," he said, "economic warfare has developed in new forms every day."

The Russian official's conception of non-aggression goes far beyond the truce which the United States initiated and to which nineteen nations had adhered today.

"Speaking of a truce acknowledges the existence of a state of war," M. Litvinoff continued. "An armistice means cessation of all fighting, not merely abstention from the beginning of fresh battles. The same should be true of economic warfare."

M. Litvinoff's proposal urged simultaneous suspension in all countries of all legislative or administrative measures of economic warfare. A Soviet resolution which will be submitted to the conference will contain a concrete measure to this effect.

His Reasoning
The Soviet commissar declared the attitude of the capitalist world toward a state of 170,000,000 inhabitants which has adopted the Soviet system and is attempting to bring about Socialism is a contributing factor to the political uncertainty in the world and urged recognition of the peaceful coexistence of the two systems—capitalism and Socialism.

Trade experts of many nations looked alert as M. Litvinoff read off a string of figures representing the amount of goods Soviet Russia is willing to buy abroad. But interest relaxed when he failed to suggest any change in Russian plans for obtaining credits in countries where the Soviet government would buy goods.

Mr. Litvinoff said that "length-

Ignores Critics Who Assailed American Currency and War Debt Policies — Calls for Removal of Trade Barriers — Calls for a Monetary Standard — His Remarks Approved by Foreign Delegates.

London, June 14.—(AP)—Ignoring critics who have bitterly assailed the American currency and war debt policies, Secretary of State Cordell Hull called on the world economic conference today to stand against economic nationalism in the American proposed tariff truce.

Presenting the eagerly awaited American views of the conference, Mr. Hull did not so much as mention the war debts which have constituted the main target of attack against America. It has been thought in some conference quarters he could not ignore them because they had been given such great emphasis by the spokesmen for other nations.

Three points were stressed by the chief of the American delegation. He called for removal of "all excesses in the structure of trade barriers."

He urged the conference to face the "vexed problem of a permanent international monetary standard and lay down the proper function of the metals, gold and silver, in the operations of such standard in the future."

Foreign Exchange
He emphasized the "necessity of taking measures for the removal of restrictions upon foreign exchange dealings," saying that this might "involve drastic steps reorganization of certain countries."

His address was received with many marks of approval among foreign delegates. Members of the British delegation indicated that they were pleased.

The thing which, perhaps, drew the most general comment, was the fact that the reserved American secretary of state played his cards close to his chest all the time and gave no concrete indication of the American proposals which will be forthcoming to carry out the general program.

19 NATIONS PLEDGED
London, June 14.—(AP)—The assurance of 19 nations to President Roosevelt's tariff truce, making a total of 10 countries pledged not to raise new trade barriers during the period of the world economic conference, was announced by Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain at the opening of the session today.

MacDonald, chairman of the conference appealed to the other countries to join by Friday night at the latest, so the press of the world can record the first achievement of the conference to end the world economic warfare.

The Netherlands, Finland, Denmark and Rumania have joined nations subscribing to the tariff armistice, the prime minister announced.

The principal speaker of the morning session, and one who was eagerly awaited, was the British chancellor of the exchequer, Neville Chamberlain, who outlined his government's position.

He, like many other speakers, declared the settlement of the war debts and reparations problems was essential for world recovery.

Cheap Money Policy
Chamberlain asserted that a policy of cheap and plentiful money, must be announced by the central banks and vigorously pursued.

Credit made available, he added, must be actively employed. He called for the immediate stabilization of currencies.

Among other important points in Chamberlain's speech was the statement that there is no doubt the gold standard is the most generally satisfactory.

Excessive tariffs, the chancellor maintained, must be reduced and not merely held at their present level.

Unfair Competition
He described state subsidies to shipping as unfair competition and called for their abolition by international agreement.

He also condemned state subsidies to export trade.

The American delegation followed the speech with the closest attention, especially that part in which Chamberlain called for a lowering of excessive tariffs.

The battle over the stabilization of the vital monetary committee, which the United States delegation is vigorously seeking for James M. Cox, its vice-chairman, against the opposition of a European bloc headed by France, was continued this morning.

Franchised to Cox
The Americans arrived at the conference apprehensive of failure to get this position, although France

TWO SISTERS DIE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Driver Tells Police the Women Stepped to the Street from Behind a Tree.

Bridgeport, June 14.—(AP)—William J. Horn of Fairfield is under arrest on a charge of reckless driving as Bridgeport police today continued their inquiry into the accident in which two sisters were killed at Park and Vine streets last night.

The sisters, Mrs. Richard Bagge, mother of former Alderman Richard Bagge, Jr., and Mrs. John J. Flynn, of New Rochelle, N. Y., police said, had stepped from the sidewalk a moment before Horn's automobile struck them down.

Mrs. Flynn died almost instantly while Mrs. Bagge succumbed on the way to a hospital.

MCCLUSKEY GETS DIPLOMA TODAY

Town's Outstanding Athlete Completes College Career at Fordham University.

Joseph P. McCluskey today received the degree of Bachelor of Science from Fordham University, bringing to an end a four-year college career that has brought him international recognition in the sports field as one of the greatest long distance runners this country has ever produced, and without doubt, the most outstanding athlete ever to bring fame to Manchester.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, Edward Stevenson who was killed June 14, 1932. "No morning dawns, no night returns, but we remember thee. One by one Earth's links are broken, One by one they are joined above. Some day there'll be a happy reunion. Once again with those we love. MRS. ELIZABETH A. STEVENSON, MARGARET A. STEVENSON.

pus this afternoon. He was one of 550 graduates of the college to receive his diploma from the Rev. Aloysius J. Hogan, S. J., president of the university. The Most Rev. Francis J. Spellman, Auxiliary Bishop of Boston, president and Dr. Frank Pierpont Graves, president of the University of the State of New York, delivered the address to the graduates.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCluskey of 40 Foster street and their children left early this morning for New York City to be present at the exercises. Their eldest son, John, is a sophomore at Fordham.

Recognized Runner. When McCluskey entered Fordham in the fall of 1929 he had already earned state-wide recognition as a runner of considerable ability, but it is improbable that even his fondest admirers dreamed of the heights to which he would attain during his four years at Fordham. Just previous to his admittance to the university as a freshman, McCluskey, under the careful guidance of Coach Charles "Fats" Wigen of Manchester High had established a new state record for the mile, and also held the school and C. C. I. L. record for that distance, all of which are still intact.

Not many months passed before McCluskey attracted the attention of expert sport followers in the metropolitan city and he was hailed as a runner of exceptional promise. McCluskey more than lived up to expectations, racing to triumph after triumph at various distances, including the mile, two miles, five miles, 3,000 and 5,000 meter steeplechase. He abandoned the mile after a while and concentrated entirely on the longer races, until he became virtually unbeatable.

It would be next to impossible to list the titles which McCluskey has captured in his victorious career. Suffice to say that they include many intercollegiate and national A. A. U. championships, in fact, he is said to hold more assorted titles than any other runner in the country.

In the Olympics He early became known as the "Fordham Flash" and reached the peak of his achievements when he was chosen to represent the United States in the 3,000-meter steeplechase event of the Olympics at Los Angeles. Although suffering from illness, McCluskey won third place, but for an official's error might have finished second. He was extended a magnificent reception when he returned to Manchester from the coast.

His last year at Fordham, McCluskey was named captain of the track team and was recently selected as the man who had done most for the university, for which he today receives an award of $25 from the Fordham University Club. His nickname of the "Fordham Flash" gave way to another, the "Iron Duke" as he went from one conquest to another during the indoor and outdoor track season, during which he was beaten only once in each.

Although he was graduated today, McCluskey will run once more under the colors of Fordham. He is scheduled to leave tomorrow for Chicago, where he will participate in the national collegiate track and field events at Soldiers Field on Friday and Saturday. He will seek to cap his college activities with a victory in the two-mile event.

METHODISTS MEET FOR CONFERENCES

Delegates Faced With the Task of Finding Places for Absentee Pastors.

New Bedford, Mass., June 14.—(AP)—The 93d New England Southern Methodist Episcopal conference opened in Trinity church here today, faced, in the words of Bishop Charles Wesley Burns of Boston, with the "unwelcome and heavy task" of finding room for a dozen absentee pastors. Most of the 180 churches in the area were represented by ministerial and lay delegates who were welcomed in their five days stay to the city by Mayor Charles B. Ashley. It was at a reception in his honor last night that Bishop Burns, resident bishop of the area, voiced what will probably be the chief problem of the conference.

The absentee ministers are those who are members of the conference, but who have been engaged in missionary or educational work, study or some form of church service and who now desire assignment within the conference. The bishop said there were at least seven men more than positions available, and he warned the annual promulgation of assignments might result in a number of upsets, but he urged the clergy to believe "that any pulpits in a good pulpits from which to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ." He asked all of the ministers to accept the decisions of the area's cabinet, composed of himself and the district superintendent, and with the faith that such changes as were made were in the best interests of all concerned.

MISS MARJORY CHENEY TALKS ON GOVERNMENT

Tells Women Voters That County System in the State Should Be Abolished.

New London, June 14.—(AP)—Miss Marjory Cheney of South Manchester, a former Representative in the Connecticut General Assembly, advocated the abolition of county government in Connecticut following a discussion of the structure and functions of local government units which occupied this morning's session of the Institute on Constructive Economy in Government which is being held by the Connecticut League of Women Voters at Connecticut College.

Miss Cheney said "There is no sense in county lines in a state the size of Connecticut. The counties are unequal in size in population and in wealth. They do not constitute a natural unit in government, and with them we can never have a decent level of performance. "Moreover, we have a bad system of choosing our county commissioners, who constitute the board which administers county government. A good deal of the trouble with county government lies in this fact. While the commissioners are elected by the Legislature, they are nominated in a secret caucus where a number of party leaders and other interested persons put over their candidates and commissioners are usually the choice of machine elements."

WANTS MILK REPORT

Manchester Evening Herald, Mr. Editor: For the past few days the people of the town of Manchester have been notified by the milk dealers that the price of milk will now be 12c per quart. This I believe will affect all of the milk dealers and I wish at this time to ask you why the milk report is not published in this paper as has been some time ago, so that the people of the town will know the grade of milk being sold by the dealers and what dealers have the highest test milk, as is tested by the Board of Health. Will you not kindly answer the question. Why is the reports of the milk as tested by the Board of Health not published in this paper? Thank you for your answer to the question. Sincerely A MILK CUSTOMER. June 13, 1933.

SAYS INCOME COULD PAY COST OF WATER

this $14,500 from the $28,000 profit as above, leaves a balance of $13,500 available for extensions. The annual coverage of the entire tax in the next few years during the high point of interest charges would appear to violate the spirit of negotiations to purchase for "a fair price." I do not believe the town should insist on the price being low enough to permit present water rates to cover both taxes and heretofore paid to the town and amortization. If the town realizes enough to cover either taxes or amortization, whichever is not covered, should be considered the town's annual payment towards the purchase price.

Certainly it is not reasonable as a business proposition to expect these companies to sell their properties at a price low enough to require no investment by the town to acquire title eventually free of encumbrances. It may be remembered that although the town in the past has received taxes, it has not acquired any equity in the property which under this proposed arrangement would increase in rates, will gradually become town owned, free of future earnings and only a small sacrifice of tax receipts.

Extensions are a capital investment and should not be considered as chargeable only against income when made. It may be used for them, if available, but if not, they should be paid up and amortized the same as the original investment for the property. The above figures show, therefore, that at the suggested purchase price of $1,500,000 the town can, if it chooses, receive the sum of $14,500 towards loss in taxes and have a sum of $14,300 to apply towards extensions.

On the basis of a forty-year bond issue with payments on principle of approximately $16,000 each year the interest charge reduces at the rate of $73.25 per year. This amount, if put into a sinking fund at 4 per cent compound interest will amount in twenty years to $200,000. This sum applied to the outstanding bond issue when it becomes due in 1954, will reduce the interest charge to $14,625 less than the first year. If starting at that time this amount plus the annual saving in interest is annually put into a sinking fund at 4 per cent compound interest it will pay off the $272,000 in 12 1/2 years. For the next 7 1/2 years (which brings us to the end of the forty-year period on the $650,000 bond issue), the town would have to meet only its payment on principle of approximately $16,000 plus a small interest charge annually. At the end of the forty-year period, the project would have liquidated itself from income.

The $14,300 yearly balance will yield over this forty year period, $572,000 in extensions. No allowance has been made for increased revenue from extensions, or growth in population, and it would seem reasonable to expect, if that amount was spent on extensions, some increase in revenue would result. Any purchase of a vital public necessity of this kind that will pay for itself in forty years, with a fair assumption that there will be no increase in rates, should be considered a desirable project.

What are the alternatives if the town and the companies involved do not come to a mutual agreement for purchase? Either the companies will be sold to outside interests or the town will operate as at present. In either event, the customers of the Water Company are undoubtedly faced with increased rates. There is no question in my mind but that such an increase can be justified by the figures of fair value established by the town's engineers. Purchase by the town at their valuation would preclude this increase.

It would appear that while the commercial value must be the controlling factor, there are other considerations which should not be lost sight of. The outstanding value in the purchase of the Water Company by the town is not the price in the figures submitted and should not be overlooked, is the fact that it will assure the town water for generations. There is no other available adequate or reasonably priced source of supply. The water shed acquired will therefore have increasing value as time goes on. It is of sufficient capacity to possibly justify further development and sale of water to other areas. It is a valuable asset and should be retained by the town. The water shed acquired will therefore have increasing value as time goes on. It is of sufficient capacity to possibly justify further development and sale of water to other areas. It is a valuable asset and should be retained by the town.

It is entirely unnecessary and it is not my purpose to defend Cheney Brothers in their paternalistic attitude towards the Town of Manchester as regards our public schools or utilities. I have always been consistently opposed to that attitude on general principles. While I believe it was carried on under the best of intentions, I have never felt, and do not feel now, it was a wise policy. It is my duty today to state as clearly as I can that the tax payers of other days were personally content to receive this financial assistance and thereby be relieved of their just share of taxation. I fully realize the existing conditions that policy has and is causing increased taxation to the present generation at a time when it is most hard to bear. But we are facing a fact and not a theory at the present time. Conditions have changed, and as they exist today, we must look at the credit side of the ledger in forming our opinions as to what should be done.

No one who has lived in Manchester for a considerable number of years can refuse to admit that Cheney Brothers have always stood in the forefront in all matters which were for the best interests of the town. Their annual payroll is what has made Manchester what it is today. Without their tax money in our Town treasury, Manchester could never have prospered as it has. Their contribution towards the maintenance of our highways and police force has afforded us all a reduction in tax rate. No church has been without the benefits of their contributions. Our hospital has looked to them for its largest donations. Our parks and recreation facilities are all due to their foresight and generosity. After careful consideration substantiated by facts and figures it seems to me that under existing conditions the matter of $150,000 difference between their offer and the price suggested by some is so insignificant that it should not stand in the way of a purchase which will be mutually satisfactory. The Town of Manchester should not assume a penurious attitude.

BAKER IS ACCUSED OF CHANGING TALE

U. S. Attorney Charges Banker With Changing His Story About Mitchell.

New York, June 14.—(AP)—U. S. Attorney George Z. Medalle today accused Hugh B. Baker, former president of the National City Company, of trying to make his testimony conform to that of Charles E. Mitchell, on trial charged with income tax evasion.

Cross-examining Baker, a defense witness, Medalle asked him if it was not true that Mitchell had outlined him in advance an action whereby the directors of the company, Mr. December 30, 1929, passed a resolution stating that $1,860,000 paid from a management fund to 11 officers in July, that year, was an advance to be paid back by them out of future earnings of the fund. Baker said he could not remember whether it was Mitchell who outlined the plan to him.

Reading from a stenographic report of Baker's before trial examination, Medalle asked Baker if he had not stated that Mitchell had indicated that Baker in his reply at that time had said definitely that Mitchell outlined the plan to him. As he continued to press Baker for more details, Max D. Steuer, defense attorney, objected. Different Testimony. "The government contends," Medalle said, "that this witness is trying as far as he can to make his present testimony conform with the original statement made by the defendant when he was a witness. For this reason we are entitled to show that this witness when examined earlier, testified in an entirely different way, both in form and in substance."

Apparently unruffled, Baker calmly insisted that, although the transcript had quoted him as replying "Yes" when asked by Dewey if Mitchell had outlined the plan to him, he was not now certain whether it was Mitchell or some one else. After a brief recess, Jackson Reynolds, president of the First National Bank of New York City, took the stand as a character witness for Mitchell.

By Steuer if he had ever had occasion to take up Mitchell's reputation for "integrity, veracity and honesty." "I've had two occasions," Reynolds began, when Medalle interrupted with an objection that Steuer was "going too far afield."

After lengthy arguments by both sides, Judge Henry W. Goddard ruled that the witness might say what he considered the reputation of the defendant to be, but that he would not "go off into transactions he may have had with the defendant." Reynolds said that, as a director of the Federal Reserve Bank, he had made inquiry concerning Mitchell's reputation for truth, veracity and integrity." Steuer asked, "Excellent," Reynolds replied. He left the stand and Baker was recalled for further cross-examination. Medalle asked Baker if Mitchell had expressed anxiety about the price of National City Bank stock the morning of Oct. 28, 1929. "He said he hoped the price would stay up," Baker replied.

"Where did you get that word 'hope'?" Medalle demanded. "Did you pick it up from Mr. Mitchell's testimony?" "I don't think so," the witness replied calmly.

WINCHELL SMITH'S WILL IS FILED FOR PROBATE

Noted Playwright Remembered His Friends and Charitable Institutions.

Farmington, June 14.—(AP)—Generous remembrance of his friends and humanitarian nature, and of his household servants characterized the will of Winchell Smith, noted playwright, which was filed for probate today. Mr. Smith died at his home, Millstream, in this town Saturday. The noteworthy house and its spacious grounds is bequeathed to Harrison Smith of New York, son of the late Dr. Oliver C. Smith and a nephew of Winchell Smith. The will establishes a trust fund for the benefit of the Newton Home for Crippled Children, which was founded by Mr. Smith's mother, and for the benefit of a number of other charities. The will is signed by Mr. Smith and his wife, Mrs. Winchell Smith. In recognition of their life-long friendship the sum of $100,000 is bequeathed to Charles A. Little, vice president of the Phoenix State Bank and Trust company. This bank and Mr. Little are named as executors of the estate.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Miss Sarah J. Case. Miss Sarah J. Case, a former resident of South Windsor, died at the Old People's Home on Jefferson street, Hartford, Tuesday morning, aged 81. She has lived at the Old People's Home for the past twelve years. A brother, George Case of South Windsor survives her as does a sister, Mrs. Louis O. Ellis of Meriden. The funeral will be held at the Whitney Undertaking parlors, Hartford, Thursday afternoon at 2:30 and burial will be in the Wapping cemetery.

John Croeskey. John Croeskey, well-known silk mill worker, and for the past two years on Cheney Brothers pension list, died suddenly last evening at 7:30 at his home on 68 Eldridge street. Mr. Croeskey had been walking around his garden when he was overcome. He went into his home and very shortly afterwards he passed away. Mr. Croeskey, who was in his 71st year came to this country from Germany when he was 15 years old. He was employed in Cheney Brothers for 30 years and had been a resident here 40 years. He leaves his wife Mrs. Sarah Topley Croeskey and several nephews. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from his late home on Eldridge street. Burial will be in the East cemetery. Rev. Watson Woodruff of the Center Congregational church will officiate. Friends may view the remains anytime after noon tomorrow.

Robert Chambers. Robert Chambers, who for many years was foreman of Cheney Brothers washhouse, died early this morning at his home, 30 Knox street, after a brief illness. Mr. Chambers was in his 64th year. He had lived in Manchester 43 years coming here from Ireland. He leaves his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Michael Jaz, of Norwood, Mass., one son, Knight L. Chambers of this town, one step-daughter, Mrs. Eugene Rainaud, of South Hadley Falls, Mass., and two grandchildren.

Mr. Chambers was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal church. The funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 3:30 from Watkins Brothers, 11 Oak street. Rev. J. Stuart Nell will officiate and burial will be in the East cemetery. Watkins Brothers will be open from 7 to 9 tomorrow evening for the convenience of the friends of the Mr. Chambers.

prices for forward delivery until pending final enactment of the industrial recovery bill, and reluctance of the manufacturers to take forward business has worked against speculative buying. "Although control legislation may have speeded up buying," continued the review, "and demand remains unbalanced with little support coming from railroads, construction or the oil industry, there is no gaining that steel consumption is still increasing."

"June sales of automobiles are moving contrary to the usual seasonal trend, and retail deliveries this month may set a new high mark for the year. More steel tonnage is now being placed by makers of medium and high-priced cars, and mills believe the flow of business from the automotive trade will remain at a fairly high level until at least the middle of July."

Both had fractured skulls, fractured legs and internal injuries. Police said Horn asserted he did not see the two women until they stepped from behind a tree and that although he tried to stop, he was unable to check the speed of his automobile. Unable to provide a $2,500 bond, he was held in custody.

John Douglas of Russell street, well known insurance man, has let the contract for his new home on Green Hill Terrace to Gustave Schreiber and Sons.

The Young People's League of the Salvation Army will hold a meeting in Talcottville tonight. The members will leave the Citadel here at 7 o'clock this evening.

Girl Reserves under the leadership of Miss Selah Richmond and Miss Marion Casey of Manchester High school, held their final meeting before vacation last night, and as is their custom each year at this time awarded Girl Reserve rings to the following girls who have shown more than usual interest and have performed meritorious work in the High school branch: Miss Ruth Peterson, Miss Alice Altin, Miss Barbara Eyde and Miss Grace Legg. Under the direction of Miss Richmond and Miss Casey fully 60 girls from the student body of the school have taken keen interest in this movement, which is affiliated with the Young Women's Christian association and corresponds to the H-Y club for student boys.

SECRETARY HULL RAPS ECONOMIC NATIONALISM

Minister MacDonald was reported to have promised it to Cox earlier in the week. Secretary Hull, Premier Daldier of France and Cox conferred privately soon after the American group reached conference headquarters. It was understood they discussed the chairmanship, which the French contend should be given a representative of a gold standard country. Despite the difficulties already encountered, the Americans indicated their hopes for the success of the conference had been raised by Chamberlain's speech, which showed that the British program coincided in many respects with the American.

American delegates in the lobby generally praised the chancellor's attitude as being temperate and hopeful. The Americans indicated they found Chamberlain's reference to war debts to be less objectionable than Prime Minister MacDonald's blunt projection of the subject at the opening of the conference, contrary to the wishes of the United States administration. One American delegate asserted Chamberlain's reference to debts was brought in merely where it fitted, in view of preceding conference developments.

Both Ralph W. Morrison and Sam D. McReynolds of the American group expressed encouragement at the British agreement with the American policy of easy money. They also felt they said, that the British tariff stands could be reconciled with the American viewpoint. Cox chatted earnestly with General Smuts of the Union of South Africa in the lobby after the chancellor's address. It was Smuts, the famous fighting statesman, who most vigorously attacked the United States' war debts stand yesterday.

RECOVERY PLANS TO OPERATE SOON

Within 30 Days Thousands of Unemployed Will Get a Chance to Work.

Washington, June 14.—(AP)—Orders are out from the White House that the government's most ambitious attempt to bring industrial recovery shall be set in motion within thirty days. Without even waiting to get the industrial control-public works bill in hand for signature, President Roosevelt last night summoned cabinet advisers around him, had General Hugh Johnson, the designated director of the act, explain in detail all plans he has made, and then gave the word to push every thing. It was midnight before the conference was done.

Bill Finally Passed. The bill was finally passed by Congress yesterday, but remaining to be completed by Congress was the accompanying record-keeping appropriation of more than three and a half billion dollars to approve formally outlays of the money which bond issues will raise for a public construction program on a hitherto unheard of scale.

Not only is this construction designed to employ a million men, but also the vast new governmental enterprise of supervising business so it shall master over production by agreement, holdup price levels, boost wages and curtail the working time of labor. Many industries already have submitted programs for such codes.

The President assigned four of his Cabinet to keep an eye on and assist the giant enterprise: Roger of Commerce, Ickes of the Interior, Wallace of Agriculture and Perkins of Labor. Johnson has worked so fast in the weeks since the President detailed him to the job, that he has millions of dollars worth of public projects picked out for immediate calling of bids.

ATHLETICS, HIGHLANDS BALL GAME TOMORROW

First in Series of Three to Be Played at Mt. Nebo at 6:15 Tomorrow Night.

Interest is running high in the first of a three game series between the Athletics and Highland Park, which will be played at Mt. Nebo field tomorrow evening at 6:15 o'clock. The old timers are confident of turning back the youngsters but the latter name points to the old adage "youth must be served." Highland Park will have other Kisman or Armstrong on the mound with Nichols on the receiving end, while Jack Burkhardt will pitch for the Athletics and either Lamprecht or Metchett will catch. The umpire will be Ralph Russell. The second game will be played at Highland Park.

TRADE SCHOOL'S PROGRAM READY

Three Events to Take Place at Institution As Class Graduates.

The program of graduation activities at the local State Trade school was completed today and includes three events in all, a dance this Friday night, a reception and class dinner next Monday night and the commencement ceremonies next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

W. Butterfield, commissioner of education, will be the principal speaker, and Herman S. Hal, state supervisor of trade and industrial education, will present the diplomas.

Forty-seven students will be awarded diplomas, including a post-humous award to the parents of George E. Gaylor, who died May 12. Seven guests have been extended special invitations to attend. Miss E. M. Bennett, C. P. Quimby, E. J. Murphy, H. O. Clough, Thomas Bentley, R. J. Smith and Howell Cheney.

The Trade School orchestra will furnish music for the dance to be held in the school auditorium Friday evening for the graduating class and friends. Harry S. Kitching, a member of the faculty, assisted by Paul Volquardsen, is in charge of the dinner Monday night, which will be held at 8 o'clock.

William Roscoe will have charge of the decorations for graduation and Walter Schobe, will handle the seating arrangements for the class. The program will start at 8 o'clock, and will open with the overture "Youth Triumphant" by the school orchestra, followed by the entrance of graduates and the invocation by Rev. Watson Woodruff.

Director J. G. Echmalian will make the address of welcome and introduction and the Tempus quartet, consisting of Paul Volquardsen, first tenor; Harry Armstrong, second tenor; Herman E. Montie, first bass; William W. Spencer, second bass; and Sidney W. McAlpine, accompanist, will sing "I Love A Parade" and "Sleepy Hollow Tune."

Commissioner Butterfield will then deliver the main address, followed by two more numbers by the quartet, "Hunting Song" from Robin Hood and "In The Wee Little Home I Love." Mr. Hal will present the diplomas and the program will conclude with singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

Winners of the three 8x10 enlargements this week in the Amateur Photo Contest being conducted by Kemp's Inc., are as follows: First prize, Carl Wiganoski, 101 Maple street; 2nd prize, Miss V. Peterson, Eldridge street; 3rd, Harry Bellamy, Rosemary Place.

Again many pictures were entered in the contest, and the judges found it difficult to make the choice of prize winners, as the photos entered were all very good. The contest, which features three free 8x10 enlargements weekly, and a grand prize of an Eastman Movie Camera, is attracting widespread interest, and the type of photo results has been improving, giving amateur photographers much better results.

The contest is open to all amateur photographers, and any type of snapshots may be entered in the contest. Kodak films are on sale at Kemp's Inc., who also have a reputation for the highest type of developing and printing, and more snapshots are expected to be entered this week, than any previous week of the contest.

TWO TICKETS FOR ONE AT PALACE THEATER

To Publish Coupon in Herald Tomorrow Giving Bargain Price for This Week's Play.

The Thatcher Players, at the Palace Theater, Hartford, continue to please their public, this week with the successful comedy "Stepping Sisters," which will very likely be one of the season's most popular presentations. The play itself is the type to please any audience that enjoys good humor coming from a cast that actually seems to enjoy the characters they play. Besides offering a splendid evening's entertainment this week the Thatcher Players bring to Hartford a favorite star who has been missing from the "boards" for three seasons, Francis Williams. A more welcome guest star would be impossible to find and the audience expressed itself in long sincere applause at Miss Williams' first appearance. The story tells of three former burlesque dancers who have quit their less dignified profession to pursue the better things in life. The story advances when two of the trio arrive at the Long Island estate of the third as entertainers that she has engaged to provide amusement for her newly acquired society friends at her party. An easy style of acting that has been adopted by the entire company and amusing dialogue makes "Stepping Sisters" a good play to recommend for the entire family.

Friday night will be Manchester night at the Palace Theater, and Manchester friends of the players will be admitted at half price if the coupon published in tomorrow night's advertisement is used. This coupon can be exchanged for two tickets on payment of twenty-five cents service charge on each ticket. ROCKVILLE

ACKERMAN AWARDED CASE AGAINST LIBBY

Short Calendar Sessions Indefinitely Recessed—Flag Day Program to Be Held Tonight.

Judgment was granted in the sum of $1500 in the case of Bernard J. Ackerman, trustee, against Nathan Libby of Enfield by Judge Alfred C. Baldwin in the Tolland County Superior Court yesterday.

This case was the result of an involuntary action brought against William Neimann, large potato and tobacco grower of Ellington who had turned over nine cows to Nathan Libby who was one of his creditors.

It was shown in the trial of the case that Neimann gave personal property to many of his creditors in satisfying claims against him. These included farm machinery, horses, cattle, hay and farm produce.

Following the trial of the short calendar cases Judge Baldwin declared an indefinite recess as he had many special appointments to be acted upon in the Hartford County Superior Court.

The annual public exercises in observance of Flag Day will be held tonight in Talcott Park sponsored by Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B. P. O. Elks. Hundreds of people are planning to attend with the officials of the town and city governments attending in a body.

The speaker of the evening will be W. B. Alexander, past exalted ruler of Meriden Lodge of Elks and past department commander of the state of Connecticut of the American Legion. Past Exalted Ruler Herbert O. Clough, superintendent of schools of the town of Vernon, will deliver a short oration entitled "The History of the Flag." "The Elks Tribute to the Flag" another short oration, will be delivered by Past Exalted Ruler Harry Conklin Smith. Several short instrumental and vocal selections will be rendered during the evening.

All patriotic societies and organizations of the community are expected to attend these exercises tonight.

Twelve Mill Tax Notwithstanding the feeling that an increase of three mills in the municipal tax rate is unwarranted, the property owners of Rockville will have to pay a twelve mill tax for 1933-34 as recommended by the Board of Common Council.

A special city meeting was held on last evening in the town hall at which Alderman Roger J. Murphy, president of the Board of Common Council, who is acting mayor in the absence of Mayor A. E. Waite who is ill, presided.

Had the meeting refused to vote a twelve mill tax last evening, it would still be necessary for the taxpayers to pay a twelve mill tax because of a special amendment to the city charter, voted by the last General Assembly, giving the common council power to lay the tax rate if the city meeting fails to lay a sufficient tax.

The regular meeting of the Board of Selectmen was held last evening in the town hall with First Selectman Francis J. Fritchard presiding. Court Forester's Fride, Juvenile Foresters of America, will hold an important meeting on Thursday evening in Foresters Hall.

Notes The annual banquet of the Auxiliary of Alden Skinner Camp, Sons of Union Veterans, will be held on Saturday evening in the G. A. R. Hall, Memorial Building.

Celebrate Golden Anniversary Representative and Mrs. Sherwood C. Cummings celebrated their golden wedding anniversary this week and scores of congratulations are being received daily from their friends from all parts.

of Representatives in the General Assembly at Hartford this month. In celebration of their wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Cummings have taken a trip to Norwalk where they were married fifty years ago at the home of Mrs. Cummings's sister, Mrs. Edward M. Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Cummings came to Rockville in 1903 at which time Mr. Cummings acquired the business at the Rockville Milling Company on Brooklyn street, which plant he operated until November, 1928 when he retired from business.

He has been a member of the Vernon Town School Committee for the past twelve years and has served as chairman of that board for several years. STODDARD KING IS DEAD; WROTE 'THE LONG TRAIL'

Author of Famous Marching Song Which Became Popular During the World War.

Spokane, Wash., June 14—(AP)—Stoddard King, humorist, newspaper columnist and author of "There's a Long, Long Trail," is dead, a victim of sleeping sickness. He was 43.

King succumbed at his home here last night, nearly five months after he was stricken with the disease. Two months ago he rallied, but he suffered a relapse and for weeks he was unable to recognize members of his family.

Conductor of the column, "Facetious Fragments," in the Spokesman-Review, King was best known for the song, "There's a Long, Long Trail," which became popular in England during the World War, and which became the marching song for thousands of troops.

Besides his newspaper work here, King contributed to several magazines. Since 1927 he had published several books of humorous verse, including "What the Queen Said."

As a writer of light verse King was declared by William Lyon Phelps, critic and professor of English at Yale, to be one of the most brilliant men of his time.

Born August 19, 1889 at Jackson, Wis., King came to Spokane while a young man and joined the staff of the Spokesman-Review as a reporter in 1907. In 1910 he entered Yale University, but continued in newspaper work during the summers.

For a short time he was an associate editor of Harper's Weekly. His widow and two daughters survive.

What does it take TO SATISFY? Has Chesterfield got it?

A Fair Question and a Fair Answer For a Cigarette to Satisfy— It must have the right kind of tobaccos. We honestly believe that the tobaccos used in CHESTERFIELD cigarettes are of better quality (and hence of better taste) than in any other cigarette at the price. It must be made right; uniform, well-filled—no particles of tobacco getting into your mouth; no hard and soft places. It must have the right flavor and aroma—the right amount of aromatic Turkish. It must reach you just as fresh as if you passed by the factory door. CHESTERFIELD has what it takes to satisfy. Just try them.

They have what it Takes to Satisfy—Just Try them!

CLOSE TO THE PEOPLE.
It is doubtful if any other measure among the many included in the government's drastic reconstruction program will appeal with greater force to a large proportion of the people in this part of the country than the Home Mortgage Refinancing Bill that President Roosevelt signed yesterday.

When he signed the mortgage refinancing measure the President said: "I appeal to mortgage creditors and all others who have claims against home owners and ask them, until full opportunity has been given to make effective the refinancing provisions of the Home Mortgage act, that they refrain from bringing foreclosure proceedings and that they refrain from seeking to dispossess the home owners who are in debt to them."

THE BANK BILL.
The Glass-Steagall banking bill, which has led an up-and-down existence in Congress for many weeks but which was passed yesterday and will become the banking law of the land immediately, lacks one element regarded by some people as essential in the establishment of a first-class banking system—ultimate control by government officials who are not themselves bankers—but it undoubtedly will prove to be the best bank law we have ever had.

At the beginning the government's guarantee that a depositor's money shall not be imperiled by the mismanagement of a bank, or by a sudden deflation of the bank's assets, will extend only to deposits up to $2,500, but after July 1, 1934, this guarantee is to be greatly extended as to amount. The insurance, of course, extends only to banking institutions which are members of the Federal Reserve System, and apparently the inevitable effect will be to compel almost all the state banks to affiliate with that system because it is difficult to see how any ordinary bank can expect to do business with its deposits lacking government guarantee when all about it are other banks whose depositors are insured against loss by the resources of the federal government. All national banks will automatically come under the guarantee because all of them must be members of the Reserve system.

At all events there is little doubt that the existence of the new law will go a long way toward allaying the public's fear of banks which has grown out of the terrific experience of the last three years and toward freeing the hands of bank management which for a good while have been doing little but sit on their deposits like hens on their eggs, fearful of putting the country's fluid capital to work lest next day depositors might be clamoring for their cash.

WET LITTLE TOWNS.
Massachusetts, with a repeal vote four and a half times larger than the dry vote, becomes the eleventh state to register against Constitutional prohibition. It is not, perhaps, surprising that the drys did not carry a single Congressional district, by which the delegations to the convention were chosen, but a really astonishing aspect of the election was the extent to which the little country towns not only voted in favor of repeal but in favor of licensing liquor sales within their own borders.

NOT SO IMPORTANT.
At the moment when international debts are winning first page headlines as the big news of the London Economic Conference we confess to less interest in that subject than for a long time. What Europe does about the debts or about anything else seems to be less important to the United States and its well being right now than it has been at any moment since the World War.

It is our conception that never since this country was settled have our foreign relations been of so relatively slight importance as they are today. That does not mean that they are not actually important, because they are; but that our foreign trade, our war credits, the condition of international exchange and all such interests are daily shrinking into minor considerations in comparison with our efforts to establish a self-supporting national existence through a balanced production and distribution within our own borders.

It is doubtful if anybody started out in the battle against the depression with the idea of making this a self-contained nation. But if we win the fight on the lines now being followed we shall probably discover, much to the amazement of ourselves as well as to the rest of the world, that we have established for ourselves an economic system that is pretty close to impervious to the influence of outside proceedings.

THE INFANTRY.
Because it was shocking to the spirit of Volsteadism the ancient harking song of the infantry has not in a long time been heard in the land; but newspaper photographs of New York State Guardsmen slaking their thirst at a bar, just as if there never had been any prohibition, suggests that once again the doughboy as he plods can chorus: Oh, the infantry, the infantry with the dirt behind its ears; Oh, the infantry, the infantry that drinks its weight in beer; The cavalry 'n the artillery 'n the blooming engineers— They couldn't lick the infantry in a hundred thousand years. How!

KLEAGLE HITLER.
Now that the German Nazis have turned their attention to the persecution of Catholics as well as Jews there will probably be some who will wonder whether the real headquarters of the Hitlerites is in Berlin or in Atlanta, Ga., and whether by any chance Herr Hitler holds a Grand Kleagle's commission signed by Hiram W. Evans.

A BAGATELLE.
The Waterbury American remarked a few days ago: "The outlay of J. P. Morgan, his partners and retainers at Washington is said to be about $2,000 a day. If the investigation continues much longer they may conclude that it would have been cheaper to pay income taxes." Perhaps. But that depends on whether you define "much longer" as meaning a few days or a couple or three years.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

REPEAL TIDE IS SURPRISE EVEN TO RADICAL WETS
Those Who Doubted Four Years Would See End Now Hope For Action This Year.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Manchester Evening Herald Washington Correspondent.
Washington, June 14.—The momentum of the prohibition repeal movement continues a jump ahead of even the men and women who have made it their business to nourish and promote it.

The wets have been in an almost constant state of pleasant surprise for the last three years and even at this late date they still regard themselves in the position of chasing a snowball rolling down hill.

A couple of months ago they had privately given up hope that the repeal amendment would ratify the repeal amendment before the end of 1934. Now they think there's an excellent chance this year.

An unexpectedly overwhelming sentiment has developed for getting this issue out of the way, according to reports here. State legislators and officials all regard repeal as inevitable. They recognize that liquor is plentifully available everywhere and that its control will offer a rich field for taxation when one is badly needed.

President Roosevelt has given the repeal movement impetus by pointing out that repeal will eliminate the necessity for new income taxes and ratification has become a part of the administration program since Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic National chairman, stated sending letters to thousands of Democrats urging prompt action. Huge repeal majorities in all states which have voted on the question have been another factor of acceleration.

TEXAS. But wet scouts who have been in the South lately are enthusiastic over the prospects. They predict a three to one victory in Texas, a five to one victory in Alabama, and a large majority in Alabama.
Drys have been campaigning rather desperately in what they regard as doubtful states, but have had no tangible atom of encouragement.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON
New York, June 14.—The clip joint are on the make again. Which is a way of saying that the business of extortion, robbery, vice and violence is booming in the crooked little hide-away night clubs.
Hundreds of night-hawk taxi drivers are acting as percentage contact men for the gyp spots. And scores of other steers have the doors of legitimate cabarets and midnight theaters, shrewdly sidling up to tell them of the gay-goings-on in this or that establishment. They always offer personally to conduct their victims to the places, a solicitous gesture made because they dare not carry cards which would furnish evidence if seized by the police.

A Victim Talks
What's a clip joint like? Here's a sample, described by a victim who took his loss rather than complain to the police. He is, of all things, a young New York attorney employed by a prominent law firm.

"This place," he said, "was on Forty-sixth street about a hundred yards off Broadway. I went there with a friendly little guy I'd talked with for about two hours in a good speakeasy. He rang a bell three times and we went into a hallway. A man there looked us over, and pushed another button three times and we went upstairs. 'Another man let us in a door, and I saw the place was just a large apartment, shabbily furnished and stifling hot. Not at all like the 'intimate little night club' the steerer had described. I was worried and wanted to leave, but several men surrounded me and began talking and laughing, and they sort of jostled me into the next room. I looked around for the man who brought me, and he was gone."

"There were six girls in the big room, and about six tables. The girls were pretty and in good-looking evening clothes. They all rushed up and asked me to buy a drink. I sat down with a blonde who said her name was Dorothy. 'A big waiter came and said: 'What'll it be—a cocktail for the lady?' She had a cocktail and I had beer. The waiter said the show wouldn't come on for two more hours, and to make ourselves comfortable. There were no other customers in the place, so after one more drink I decided to get out of there and asked for my check. The waiter figured a minute and laid it down as carelessly as you please. I set out a yelp. The check read $270."

They Hit and Run
"The girls all left and three other men came in. One of them said he was the manager and explained that I had just bought fourteen rounds of drinks for everybody in the house. I said I didn't have that much money and they grabbed me and emptied my pockets. I had about $50 and they took that, and my watch and light. The manager looked at my personal papers and saw who I was. He said: 'I guess you don't want this to get in the papers.' I said I didn't. He said: 'Well, you write us a check for $200, a lot of people will hear about this.' So I wrote the check and stopped payment on it next day."

"As I was going out the big waiter told me I was lucky I hadn't got hurt. Lots of 'em gets hurt," he said. "And I'll tip you to something, buddy. This is just one of our joints. We clip you here and before you have found a cop at the corner we have looked up the place and are busy clipping somebody else at another spot up the street. When the dikes get here they don't find nothing, which only makes you look silly."

Enough States To Vote
Wets were discouraged when they lost three states — states which refused to hold elections and conventions to consider the issue. But early efforts of the drys to tie the process soon lost headway. The governor of Alabama vetoed a convention measure and the legislature overrode him. Fincher of Pennsylvania vetoed one such bill and was promptly presented with another, which he signed. There was an up-rear in Kansas after the legislature there had failed to act.

Demand for special sessions are being heard in several states. Many cities in dry states have authorized the sale of 3.2 per cent beer despite the fact that it is illegal under state law. More than 36 states will have had a popular vote on repeal by the end of the year, according to the confident prediction of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which believes the wets will win in every case.

Repeal Predicted
Among the states which will vote this year are such traditionally dry sectors as Alabama, Arkansas and

BELIEVING APPENDICITIS.
In yesterday's article I described some of the appendicitis causes and explained how the inflammation of the appendix is usually preceded by a chronically inflamed colon. As it is important to know what to do when an acute attack does occur, I will explain the method I have found the most satisfactory in my own practice.
One of the things to avoid is probing deeply in the region of an inflamed appendix, such as doctors sometimes do in order to establish a diagnosis. I believe that many a pussy appendix has been bursted by the efforts of physicians to rule out other troubles in diagnosis. The patient should go to bed for a complete rest in order to prevent the sagging and pressure of the abdominal organs upon the appendix, and such pressure would be present if the patient sat upright or endeavored to walk about. For a few days there should be no food of any kind used, except possibly a small amount of orange juice and a large amount of water if the patient can drink.

Some doctors do not advise enemas, but I have never seen a case where properly administered enemas caused any harm and I believe it is of the utmost importance to cleanse the colon as much as possible; however, small enemas should be used not over a quart of plain warm water, and the enemas should be repeated as many times as necessary until the acute pain disappears. Never under any circumstances use cathartics if append-icitis is suspected as the straining, irritating action of cathartics might cause still more inflammation.

I also advise the use of heat treatments over the abdomen rather than the ice packs that are sometimes used. However, the heat should not be applied over the appendix alone or it will cause a greater accumulation of pus in that organ. Instead, the hot application should be over the entire abdomen so as to relieve the local congestion and aid in distributing the blood more freely throughout the abdominal viscera. Treatments with a deep therapy heat lamp are of especial value in the case of the small, frequent enemas when the patient is unable to drink a sufficient amount of water.

The chronic form does not require exactly the same treatment as above for it is unnecessary for the patient to remain in bed. A fasting regimen is also advisable, but a considerable amount of orange juice or grapefruit juice may be used—as much as an eight-ounce glass of the juice every two hours—as much water as the patient desires. No other food should be used for about ten days. The enemas may be larger than those tolerated in an acute case. A two-quart enema of a little higher than body temperature may be used morning and evening.

In addition, certain exercises or manipulative treatments should be used to overcome any protracted condition that may be interfering with the peristaltic action of the intestines or with the blood supply. Warm application are also of service using them both on the abdomen and the back. The exercises not only overcome the prolapus, but improve the tone of the abdominal muscles and aid in overcoming the chronic constipation that is responsible for the inflamed colon. The diet following the fasting regimen should consist principally of non-starchy vegetables and protein foods for several weeks. Avoid starches and sugars for a time. These instructions will prove of value in practically every case of appendicitis and prevent the need of operating on the chronic type.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
(Clovesberry—Rare Fruit)
Question: Mrs. Cora P. asks: "Is there a fruit called the clovesberry and where is it found?"
Answer: The clovesberry is a fruit native of the Arctic regions and is sometimes found as far south as the extreme portions of the New England states. It is of high antiscorbutic value, both fresh and canned, but I have never been able to find where it is commercially handled in the United States.

(Locomotor Ataxia is Curable.
Question: C. O. asks: "What is locomotor ataxia, and what is the cause and cure—if there is a cure?"
Answer: Locomotor ataxia is caused by some interference with the nerve supply going to the legs. This occurs principally in the lumbar region of the spine. A cure is possible in the early stages, and in today's mail I read a letter from a correspondent who has been entirely cured through following the advice

TO EXPLAIN WATER PURCHASE TONIGHT

Informal Conference to Be Held at Municipal Building—What Is Proposed.

A representative group of citizens and taxpayers numbering 60 has been invited by the Board of Selectmen to sit in on a conference this evening for an informal discussion relative to the purchase of the Cheney Brothers Utilities companies, the South Manchester Water Company and the South Manchester Sanitary & Sewer District.

The meeting will convene at 8 o'clock in the Municipal building and will be open to anyone interested. Due to pressing financial matters the proposal for the sale of the companies by Cheney Brothers to the town has been held in abeyance for the past four months, and upon the insistence of the owners, the meeting has been called to decide the matter at once.

Those invited Among those invited by letter are the Chamber of Commerce, Kiwanis Club, Manchester Improvement Association, former town officials and the Manchester Taxpayers' League. Representatives of Cheney Brothers will attend and Bennett & Terry, which firm conducted the appraisal of the properties. It is expected that the city officials will present their side of the sales proposal, amended by detailed data to be shown by the appraisal engineers. A discussion forum will follow the presentation of facts by the owners and engineers.

Last week at a conference between Cheney Brothers officials and the special committee of the Board of Selectmen, the firm renewed the offer which they had previously made that these properties be purchased by the town. The sum of $650,000 and the assumption by the town of the bonded indebtedness of the water company, $400,000, was the price set. Under this new plan the town would not have to assume the obligation, now resting upon Cheney Brothers, of sewage disposal facilities of the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company.

In order to facilitate the purchase by the town of the properties, and which is one of the most important considerations at the present time, Cheney Brothers offered to take the town's bonds if issued for the purchase of the companies at 4 1/2 per cent interest in payment for the two companies. The bonds would be accepted in this connection at their face value, unless lower bids for the issue are received in the open market or from other sources.

A statement presented by Cheney Brothers showed that these properties would carry themselves under present existing conditions and in the immediate future, leaving an estimated surplus, after paying all charges, including taxes of $22,000 lost because of transfer of ownership to the town, of an average of approximately $15,000 a year.

The elimination of the contract for disposal of the sewage from the Rogers Paper Company, which is now binding upon the present owners, would, it is explained, represent a saving, annually, of $3,000 to the town. Although the purchase price is but $153,000 less than the previous offer, the willingness on the part of the owners to take the town's bonds at what is considered a good interest rate, 4 1/2 per cent, and with the assurance by the engineers that an average annual surplus of $15,000 above expenses can be obtained, makes the purchase more attractive at this time.

A mass meeting will be held soon, it is expected, following the conference between the owners, appraisers, town officials and other interested persons at tonight's meeting.

LEGISLATURE CREATED FINANCE BOARD PLAN

General Assembly Set Up Special Machinery to Help the Cities and Towns.

Hartford, June 14.—(AP)—Strong finance boards as a solution of the financial troubles of Connecticut cities were sponsored by the cities and boroughs finance committee of the General Assembly, by such bodies being created during the session.

Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett sponsored the finance board plan obtained the committee approval of the plan for Bridgeport, Bristol, Norwich and other cities. The committee also favored a non-partisan board of education and bridge commission for Bridgeport.

It reduced the number of selectmen in West Haven from seven to three and approved a bill authorizing Manchester to purchase the franchise and property of the South Manchester Water Company and the South Manchester Sanitary and Sewer district.

Waterbury was given the right to omit deficiency appropriations from its budget for the next two years while New Haven was authorized to receive the money given to the board of education from the special 1.5 mill school tax.

A new charter was approved for West Hartford and adopted by both houses. A strong mayor plan charter was adopted for Stamford over the objection of the city's two representatives.

An attempt to obtain committee approval of a plan to return the contract between New Haven and the New Haven Water Company to a ten year basis failed. Mrs. Joseph Whitney, sponsor of the bill, claimed the water company had broken its contract and consequently was not entitled to remain on the 25 year basis.

Queer Twists In Day's News

St. Louis, June 14.—(AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, invited to St. Louis from New York to address a meeting of Jewish leaders formed his own reception committee yesterday.

He arrived an hour and 46 minutes before his scheduled time, taxied alone to a hotel, then telephoned an acquaintance of his whereabouts.

Informing a delegation of notables would be disappointed at having missed him at the station, the Rabbi climbed back into another cab, and retraced his steps.

"Gentlemen," he told the waiting committee, "I greet you in behalf of the city of St. Louis."

ORIGINAL SALOON BAR IN SQUARE RESTAURANT

Gus Ulrich has installed in his Depot Square Restaurant at Depot Square the only original bar that saw service in Manchester in the pre-prohibition days. The full length mahogany bar there was formerly located in the saloon at the corner of Spruce and Maple street, which was operated by Henderson Chambers, William Uncles and William Carr. A new and modern ice cooling unit has been installed in the old bar and this brought up-to-date so the beer can be served on draught to the patrons of the Depot Square Restaurant.

MID-WEEK DANCES AT SANDY BEACH

A new dance series, which will be continued throughout the remainder of the season, will be inaugurated tonight at the Sandy Beach Ballroom, Crystal Lake. As there is no mid-week dance now being held in this section, it is thought that this series will prove highly popular with lovers of good music.

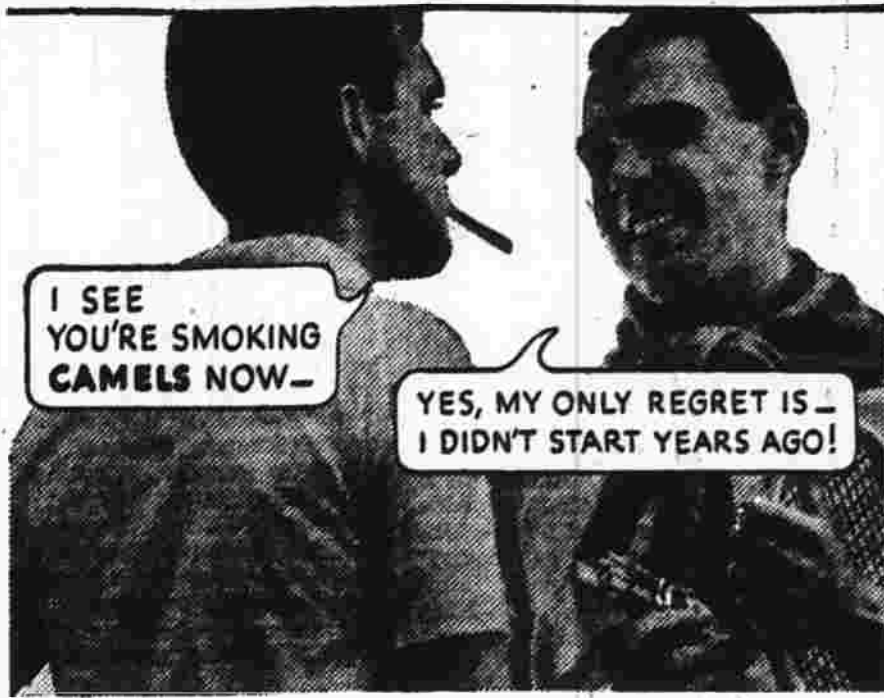

For this special program of dance events, a high quality brand of music will be offered in the presentation of "Web" Wiggins and "Ernie" Rock and their Hotel Bond Orchestra.

An organization of eleven talented musicians, this dance team has been featured for the past year at the Hotel Bond in Hartford where they have scored a decided hit. They have also played at all the leading country clubs, high schools and social affairs throughout Connecticut, rendering complete satisfaction with their pleasing music. It is one of the finest of treats to hear and dance to music by "Web" Wiggins, "Ernie" Rock and their orchestra, as will be evident on Wednesday night, June 14th, and every week thereafter.

Continuing the policy of offering stellar musical attractions, there will be two more outstanding orchestras presented over the week-end, announcements to be made later. Attend all of these affairs at the newly renovated Sandy Beach Ballroom. You'll enjoy dancing to rhythms that are irresistible.

HIGH COURT RULES ON EIGHT CASES

Error Found in Only One and New Trial Ordered—The Opinions.

Hartford, Conn., June 14.—(AP)—The Supreme Court of Errors today gave eight opinions on cases heard at the May term, and in only one was error found and a new trial ordered. The decisions: George Bailey et al vs. Adolf Bobeck et al, Hartford county, error found, new trial ordered, opinion by the court. George J. Bassett, bank commissioner, vs. the receiver for Pallotti, Andretta & Co., Incorporated, no error, opinion by Justice Avery. Thomas Bennett Estate, Incorporated vs. City of New Haven, no error. Muriel Cook vs. Hubert Cook, New Haven county, no error; opinion by the court. The First Stratford Wreath of the Free Eagle vs. Rev. Walter A. McGrann, executor, et al, Fairfield county, no error; opinion by Justice Hinman. Esther Goldman vs. James Morris et al, New Haven county, no error; opinion by Justice Hinman. Minnie A. O'Leary vs. Waterbury Title Company et al, New Haven county (Waterbury) no error; opinion by Justice Haines. John H. Shaub vs. A. H. Phillips, Inc., Hartford county, no error; opinion by Justice Avery. The Shaub-Phillips action was to recover for breach of contract and fraud, tried in Hartford City court with a jury verdict for the plaintiff which the court set aside, the verdict was $200 in general. Shaub, a chain store manager who had been discharged, sought to be returned $200 he had deposited as a surety fund when he entered the company's employ, this amount to cover any shortage which might be found in the store through inventory or otherwise. He also sought to obtain $200 damages for alleged misrepresentation that inventories had shown shortages. He claimed these inventories were false. The opinion referred to the trial court evidence to the effect that former managers of the store had been discharged when inventories showed their surety deposits had been exhausted. It (the opinion) said this evidence failed to furnish a reasonable foundation on which the jury could find that the defendant company was operating a system of defrauding persons by inducing them to enter into management contracts, deposit money and then retaining it under the claim of shortage in their accounts. The suit of the Vennett estate against the city of New Haven was to enjoin the latter from claiming or filing an assessment lien against the plaintiff's property for an alleged public improvement. Judge John Richards Booth gave judgment for the city. No error was found. The action of Bank Commissioner Bassett against the receiver of the Pallotti, Andretta & Company, Incorporated, former banking house in Hartford, was to compel the receiver to reconvey to Mrs. Felicia Andretta four parcels of real estate in Avon and Hartford which were held by the receiver as a part of the concern's assets. Judgment by Judge Rufus Booth was for Mrs. Andretta. The deeds were executed by her and placed with the bank commissioner that he might determine whether value of the realty was sufficient to cover a loan she proposed to make to the bank to aid it in its difficulties. The loan was not made at the time the commissioner restrained the bank. The receiver re-ordered the deeds. The opinion upheld the lower court to the effect the deeds did not belong to the bank. The Cook vs. Cook case was one under the guest statute for damages for personal injuries in an automobile accident. Judge John Rufus Booth set aside a jury verdict for the plaintiff. The defendant had so moved and the plaintiff appealed. There was no error on part of the trial court. The supreme court said that the trial court was correct in holding the jury could not reasonably find there a reckless disregard of the rights of others essential to a verdict for the plaintiff, and is setting aside the verdict. The opinion said: "The severe and painful nature of the plaintiff's injuries, naturally appealing to sympathy, and the existence of assurances as to the bringing of the action which appeared in the evidence, may well have exerted an inadmissible influence in producing the verdict which was rendered. The Bailey-Bobecki case, tried in New Britain city court, was to recover a broker's commission on sale of a farm. Judgment was for the plaintiff. Error was found. Mary Lascinski, a defendant, owned a farm on which Bobeck had held a second mortgage. In the trial a plaintiff testified over objections that Bobeck had told him he had authority from Mrs. Lascinski to sell. The opinion said it was well settled, that agency cannot be proven by declaration of the alleged agent. Error was found because of inadmissible testimony. The O'Leary vs. Waterbury Title Company suit was a damage action $1200 held by the company as a guarantee that the plaintiff should remove a cloud upon a title which had not been removed in disbursing a $45,000 mortgage. Judgment had been given by Judge Newell Jennings for the title company. There was no error. The opinion held the Union & New Haven Trust company, as trustee, was entitled under law and equity, to have the $1200 paid it less proper allowances to the title company in default of the plaintiff's agreement to remove the cloud and clear the mortgage. The Goldman vs. Morris case was to recover damages for personal injuries alleged due to defendant's negligence, tried before Judge John Rufus Booth with a verdict against Morris but a directed verdict for Samuel Medicow, another defendant. No error was found. Morris had taken a case from Medicow's place, and in traveling a block he struck Esther Goldman who was crossing the street. It was held Morris was not acting as an agent for Medicow although he was authorized to take care of the latter for demonstrations to prospective customers. Medicow had no liability. The Fraternal Society action against Rev. Walter A. McGrann was to determine the rightful heirs to a death benefit certificate. A common pleas court Judge Samuel Shaw had found that a brother, and two nieces (Bebeck and Cirbus were heirs to Rev. Andrew E. Komara who died in January, 1932, and who by will had designated his estate as beneficiary. He had a $1,000 certificate in the Fraternal society. The opinion upheld the brother, Komara, and two nieces, as the only and rightful heirs of the clergyman. Fr. McGrann was executor of the latter's estate.

Quotations-- Bad taste in art is a product of education and has to be trained in you, whereas good taste is a natural thing as is the art of speech and the ability to see. —Diego Rivera, artist. THEATERS

STRAND, HARTFORD. "Gold Diggers of 1933." Originally planned for fall release "Gold Diggers of 1933" has met with such enthusiastic reception in a few trial runs that Warner Bros. have decided to release it nationally at this time. The Strand, Hartford, announce a premier showing twice this Thursday night at 8:45 and 9 o'clock, prior to its regular run which starts at 11 o'clock Friday morning. There will be no advance in prices. "Gold Diggers of 1933" is consistently breaking the records held by its proud predecessor "42nd Street."

AT THE STATE. "Temple Draks." "The Story of Temple Draks" starts its two day engagement at the State today with children under 16 positively prohibited from seeing the picture. As an added attraction the State is presenting "Nothing Ever Happens" a burlesque on "Grand Hotel" with music—a grand comedy that was given four stars by Liberty Magazine and thereby breaking a record for that publication in these "Nothing Ever Happens" is the only comedy ever to have been given four stars. There is also a Zasu Pitts-Thelma Todd comedy and a cartoon on the program. Starting Friday comes a good children's program of two features "The Life of Jimmy Dolan" with Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., Loretta Young, John Wayne and Frank McHue. Plus, "From Hell to Heaven" with Jack Oakie and Carole Lombard, a race horse story. On Sunday comes "Eagle and the Hawk" with Frederic March and Cary Grant.

William Faulkner's dramatic tale of present-day youth, "The Story of Temple Draks," with Miriam Hopkins in the title role and Jack LaRue, William Gargan, William Collier, Jr., heading the supporting cast, is taken from his novel "Sanctuary." Miss Hopkins, cast as a wild young aristocrat, whose wildness, however, has the fortunate quality of knowing its own limits, is in love with Gargan, a young attorney. She refuses his offer of marriage because she feels she is not good enough for him. From Gargan she goes to Collier, a drunken college boy, and they speed off in his car in search of more liquor. The ride ends in a crash, and they climb from the wreckage to find themselves virtual prisoners of LaRue, a big-city gangster, in a remote, desolate hideaway. LaRue ships the boy off to the city, and forces Temple to remain with him. He kills the only man who tries to protect her; then drags her off to the city and keeps her with him in a tawdry rooming house.

ROXY, NEW YORK. Week-End Program Set at a rapid pace, with a generous offering of comedy, this week's stage and screen program at the Roxy Theater, 7th Ave. and 50th street, offers a wide variety of entertainment fare. The feature film is the new mystery picture, "Strange People," with Gloria Shea, John Darrow and Hale Hamilton in the leading roles. On the stage, "The Sizzlers," noted radio act, head an eight-act program of unusual interest. The harrowing adventures of a murder jury summoned to the dead man's home on the eve of the murderer's hanging, provide the plot material for "Strange People." Gloria Shea, John Darrow and Hale Hamilton have the leading roles and are supported by a distinguished cast including Wilfred Lucas, J. Frank Glendon, Michael S. Vlasoff, Jack Pennick, Jerry Mandy, Lew Kelly, Jane Keckley, Mary Foy, Frank H. La Rue and Stanley Blystone. Richard Thorpe directed the picture, which is based on a story by Jack Townley.

KINGS DAUGHTERS HOLD CRYSTAL LAKE OUTING

Ever Ready Circle Spends Yesterday at Cottage of Member—Convention Here in October. Ever Ready Circle of Kings Daughters held its final meeting of the season with Mrs. Fannie Stiles, yesterday afternoon at her cottage at Crystal Lake. About 35 attended. Reports of activities indicated that the big social and financial undertakings were the May dinner at the Second Congregational church and the June luncheon-bridge at the cottage of Mrs. C. E. Wilson at Crystal Lake which upwards of 50 attended. Ever Ready and Loyal, the two senior Kings Daughters circles, will be hostess to the state convention of Kings Daughters to be held at the Center Congregational church on October 10 and 11. Mrs. Charles B. Loomis extended an invitation to the circle to hold a box picnic at her cottage at Bolton Lake the first meeting in September. Lots of old-fashioned political parties have disappeared under President Roosevelt's "New Deal," observes a Washington correspondent. Probably they were lost in the shuffle.

THE HERMIT REFLECTS ON TWO KINDS OF SNAKES

Expresses Regret That You Can Cut Off the Head of Only One of Them.

Editor Herald:— Having nothing else to do I thought perhaps you would like to hear from this lonesome land out here among the brush, woodchucks, snakes and gossips. If it were not for the Herald life would not be worth living. Although, as in most rural districts, we have news gatherers and peddlers here. Of course out here we get the evening papers a day late, but the traveling press has given us the news before it happened. So we are well blessed. The only difference between the two kinds of news is this—What I read in the Herald I know to be as near true as possible. But when you get the news from a walking "paper" one paragraph out of a possible nine might be true. And I find myself doubting that.

I was interviewed not long since by a scribbler from an out of town paper. I told him the reason I didn't talk too much was that the best way to make new friends and keep the ones you have was to keep your tongue in your mouth where it belongs at least part of the time. This really is a fine place to live if you like the quiet life. All you have to do here is work seven days a week; then when bedtime comes go to bed and say "Nothing to do until tomorrow." Another thing I don't like here is snakes. I mention two kinds of serpents. So there are two kinds of snakes. A crawling snake will seldom bite you if you keep away from where he lives, while the walking kind will come where you live and bite you in the back.

"The female of the species is more deadly than the male." I think that is the real reason Adam was kicked out of the Garden of Eden. We all know a snake's fangs are poison; so is his tongue after he spits the venom on it. The other kind have the poison already in that member, which I will venture to say has caused nine-tenths of all the troubles there are. But this snake story I think is long enough so I will close by saying this, the only difference between the two kinds is this, the crawling kind, if they bite you, the law allows you to take a hoe and cut their heads off.

As news is rather scarce here I will write my next week's letter about one of your prominent citizens, one John Murdock, a carpenter. And believe me that boy can drive a nail. I mean if he hits it, I will write his history next week. So till then, goodbye.

The Hermit.
Lead, June 12.

ARE BEER SIGNS PRETTY?

Mr. Editor:— Is it probable that to the larger number of the citizens of Manchester the newly sprung up Beer Signs are a decided ornamentation to the town? Do they add to its beauty? Do they smack of village improvement? Will whiskey, rum, gin and other liquor signs paint the town in still more beautiful colors? What do they stand for? Well, a good friend told me a few days ago they had not seen a drunken person for months before the advent of legal beer. But on a recent night one drunken man lay on the ground near-by their residence, and another equally prone in the day time.

The writer saw last Saturday on Boston Common several men stretched out on the grass, some on their backs in the glare of the hot sun with nothing to protect their eyes. It wouldn't seem they would do thus if not drunk befuddled. Did beer do this? Or might it be possible that beer vendors are sometimes astute men of stronger liquor? If that is impossible because all beer sellers are naturally law-abiding, of course, what will hap-

HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Sock and Buskin will close a most successful year with an annual party to be held this week Friday evening at the Manchester Country Club. McKay's orchestra has been engaged to play for dancing which will occupy the major part of the evening. In addition to this there will be the customary reception of and initiation of new members. Twenty-five underclass men were voted into the club after numerous tryouts had been given to the sixty or more who sought membership. The following were chosen: Eleanor Stiles, Sally Potts, Jane Bantly, Seda Carlson, Ethel Mohr, Claire Stephens, Marjorie Howard, Marcia Kelley, Celia Greenaway, Olive Skrabac, Barbara Stotenfeldt, Jean Woodruff, William McPartland, Harry Howroyd, Robert Carey, Michael Reardon, Raymond Mers, Ernest Berggren, Thomas Dannaher, Ernest Tureck, Norman Howsall, Joseph L'Heureaux, Richard Carpenter, Lawrence Scranton, Lewis Jones.

The seniors will not want for social events during their last week in school. On top of the Sock and Buskin party, which is largely arranged by the seniors of the club, and the class night dance which will be held on next week Tuesday evening, June 20, the class has voted to hold a private dance at the Country Club on Thursday evening, June 22. Fred Mildren has been acting as chairman of a committee which has made arrangements for this function, providing an orchestra and light refreshments. Forty couples from the class have signed to attend. The expenses for this dance will be borne by each senior attending and attendance is optional. Then on Friday evening the Alumni is sponsoring "The Queen's Husband" which will be followed by dancing and a social gathering for alumni reunions. The class of 1933 plans to attend this play and the social as they will be the newest class in the alumni group and should make a large showing of members present. At a meeting of the Hi-Y club held last evening at Center church it was voted to hold the annual camping party at Camp Woodstock this week end. The boys will go out Saturday morning and return some time Sunday. The club also agreed to handle the refreshments at the senior class night party. They will sell ice cream and cold drinks from a booth in Room 26.

MARLBOROUGH

Rev. and Mrs. George K. MacNaught of Harrison, N. Y., spent a few days last week at their cottage here.

Children's Day was observed at the Congregational church Sunday. There was speaking and singing by the children and the following babies were baptized: Kenneth Allan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lester; Zane Linden, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Vincent Roberts, and Joan Emmette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Korngiebel have returned from Springfield where they spent a few days. Courtland Maynard has moved his family to Westchester.

John J. man and his family have moved to Amston. Miss Mae Hannon of Hartford spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Meyers.

Graduation exercises for the local schools were held at the church Monday night and were attended by a large crowd.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Larson and son Earle Larson are at their cottage here for the summer. The Larsons spent the winter in Hartford. The Dorcas society will meet at the home of Mrs. J. C. Vergason Thursday afternoon. June 15 is the date set for the payment of both European war debt installments and income tax installments to Uncle Sam. The difference is, of course, that the income tax installments will be paid.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

A baseball grounds has been laid out in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building for the younger boys. A large soft indoor baseball is used and each evening enough small boys gather there to form a baseball league.

The swimming pool in the rear of the Eighth District school and adjoining the playgrounds, was drained yesterday and white sand is being placed in it, the sand bottom having become somewhat muddied during the winter and by the spring freshets. The pool will be flooded and ready for use in a day or two.

AUTO VICTIM DIES

Bristol, June 14.—(AP)—Charles Miner, 37, of Bristol, who was injured in a Terryville automobile accident Saturday night, died yesterday in a Bristol hospital. He was struck by an automobile operated by Theodore Haase of Terryville.

GIRL COMPOSES POEM IN HONOR OF FLAG DAY

Today is Flag Day and the following tribute to the Stars and Stripes was written for the occasion by Dorothy Lannon, 13 years old, of 30 Bank street.

Our Flag Honor thy flag, Our gracious flag, The emblem of our nation. It was Betsy Ross who made the flag On Washington's information. May the Stars and Stripes fly proudly Over land and over sea. Where all nations gaze upon it, Know it's meant for liberty.

The red it shines so gaily, The white is pure and true. There is no treachery or dishonor Behind the royal blue.

Single In 9th Inning Spoils No-Hit Game For Wyatt

Chicago Pitcher Hurts Team Into Third Place

White Sox Drop Browns, 6-1, to Threaten Leaders; Indians Advance to 4th and Hidebrand's Two-Hit Twirling Red Edge Cuts Again, 2-1.

Yesterday's Stars

(By Associated Press)
Jimmy Wilson, (Cubs)—Drove in winning run against Pirates with double and single; scored winning tally.
Ehemusch, Senators—Assaulted Athletics pitching for homer, two doubles and two singles.
Chuck Faley, Reds—Batted in both Cincinnati runs against Cubs.
Doc Hildebrand, Indians, batted Tigers with two hits.
Chuck Klein, Phillies—Led attack on Dodgers with five hits.
Dusty Cook, Red Sox—Clouted homer with one aboard for runs which beat Yankees.
Whitlow Wyatt, White Sox—Held Browns to one hit.

CANCEL GOLF MATCH

Chicago, June 14.—(AP)—The women's western golf association today announced the second renewal of international team matches with Canadian players has been cancelled due to inability of the dominion association to assemble a representative team.

WESTROPE GAINS FAME AS JOCKEY IN EIGHT MONTHS

16 Year Old Rider Was First This Season to Pilot Five Winners Home in One Day at Chicago.

Louisville, Ky., June 14.—(AP)—From schoolboy to star jockey in eight months is the record of Jack Westrope, 16-year-old rider who was the first this season to pilot five winners home in one day at Chicago.

Eight months ago John G. Westrope was given an opportunity to show what he could do astride a horse by O. L. Foster, at Riverside Park in Kansas City. He went to Riverside with his father, William Westrope, who then owned a ranch between Miles City and Bakert, Mont.

Leads Cubs Meeting
Jack started riding regularly in Illinois last fall, then went to Oriental Park in Cuba, where he wound up as the leading rider of the meeting. His success continued at the Florida tracks and later at the Lexington and Churchill Downs tracks in Kentucky.

Booting home winners with regularity when the thoroughbred scene shifted to Illinois, his achievements were crowned at Washington Park when he was astride five winners out of seven mounts in one afternoon.

NEW-YORKERS OPEN GOLF CUP DEFENSE

Women's Eastern Golf Champion Leads Team Against Philly.

Newton, Mass., June 14.—(AP)—With Charlotte Glutting, new women's eastern golf champion as the pace-setter, the brilliant New York team will start defending its Griscom Cup honors by clashing with the strong Philadelphia team today in the opening inter-city match at Brae Burn.

The loser will engage the Boston team tomorrow and on Friday the two winners will battle for possession of this prized trophy.

Miss Glutting nosed up Maureen Orcutt, one of her teammates and a three-time eastern champion, by a single stroke in the 36-hole medal play that ended yesterday. By so doing the long-hitting victor from Short Hills, N. J., avenged the recent setback that Miss Orcutt gave her in the Metropolitan title play.

Among the other Griscom Cup players who finished well up in the running for individual honors were Peggy Wattles, Jane Brooks, Helen Silleck and Rosalie Knapp of the New York team, and Frances Williams, 1930 eastern winner, Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former U. S. and British champion, Jane McCullough and Mrs. Karl Scheidt of the Philadelphia forces.

'Iron Mike' Pilbrow Set To Keep Two-Mile Title For Small Schools

Chicago, June 14.—(AP)—The National Collegiate two-mile, always a shining target for small-school "dark horses" may produce another surprise this year.

Myron "Iron Mike" Pilbrow of Grinnell, Ia. college, is the lad who has fond hopes of upsetting the big-school "grind" runners in the N. C. A. A. championships at Soldier Field here June 16-17.

In the last two meets athletes from relatively small schools have bobbed up to not only win the eight-mile event from better publicized rivals, but to set new records each time. In 1931 it was Harold Manning of Wichita, Kas., university, who outlegged the favored Clark Chamberlain of Michigan State to set a new record of 9:38.1.

Last year Charlie Shugert of Miami (Ohio) university took the play away from the more famous Henry Brocksmith of Indiana, and the time was lowered to 9:16.7.

Pilbrow hasn't been within 19 seconds of these figures this spring, and he also has a Hoosier ace, Cliff Watson, to beat, but he's determined to be in there fighting for the sole N. C. A. A. record held by small college stars, and is he by no means an "outsider" in the form books.

Put-In-Bay, O., June 14.—(AP)—On the same waters where 120 years ago, almost to the day, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry sailed out in crudely made ships to meet the British, more than a million dollars' worth of sleek and powerful boats of present day modes will gather here the week of July 9 to settle the speed supremacy of the Great Lakes.

It will be the fortieth annual sailing of the Inter-Lakes Yachting regatta, a meeting of all the powerful and graceful craft on Lakes Erie, Ontario and St. Clair. Winners at the regatta generally are recognized as the class of the Great Lakes.

During that week all types of craft are represented, from the luxurious cabin cruisers to the tiny cat boat. The harbor is a fairy-land of multi-colored lights and flags as the trim boats ply back and forth.

SAILING CLASSIC OF GREAT LAKES TO START JULY 9

Bobkat to Defend Title in 40th Annual Regatta; More Than Million Dollars Worth of Boats Entered.

Put-In-Bay, O., June 14.—(AP)—On the same waters where 120 years ago, almost to the day, Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry sailed out in crudely made ships to meet the British, more than a million dollars' worth of sleek and powerful boats of present day modes will gather here the week of July 9 to settle the speed supremacy of the Great Lakes.

It will be the fortieth annual sailing of the Inter-Lakes Yachting regatta, a meeting of all the powerful and graceful craft on Lakes Erie, Ontario and St. Clair. Winners at the regatta generally are recognized as the class of the Great Lakes.

During that week all types of craft are represented, from the luxurious cabin cruisers to the tiny cat boat. The harbor is a fairy-land of multi-colored lights and flags as the trim boats ply back and forth.

Bobkat To Defend Title
Great preparations are being made this season, when competition for the Class R sailing supremacy will be resumed. Last year Bobkat, flying the colors of the Buffalo Yacht club, won first honors in this class, scooping over most craft as the Adelle de Detroit, Spray of Buffalo, L-Salle of Detroit, Elyria of Cleveland and Tom Boy of Toledo.

Yachtmen say the Class R races develop the keenest competition of the regatta events. The Bobkat will be back this year to defend its title. The starboard class is another division that attracts wide attention. Crank o' Dawn, from Vermillion, O., will be the defending champion next month. It won that honor from a large fleet of rivals last July by a narrow margin.

Regatta officials believe that more people this summer will assure success of the events, as the sail boat entry is certain to equal, or possibly better, that of last year.

Deep Water Race Feature
The boats are scheduled to begin arriving at Put-In-Bay on July 9 for regatta. The regatta will start officially on July 11.

The first day will be given over to the sail yacht races in all classes as well as power boats. In the evening a deep water race to Lorain and return will get under way. The next day will be all finish of this all night cruise, and in the afternoon there will be more sail yacht races in all classes except schooners, yawls and universals. The evening is given over to a Venetian night program and the Barnacle Ball, famous wherever yachtmens meet.

McCluskey Competes Twice This Month In Western Track Meets

When Joe McCluskey invades the west this weekend to compete in the two-mile event of the National Collegiate A. A. games at Chicago, he will be heavily favored to triumph in his specialty in what will be his seventh race for Fordham. Joe graduates from Fordham this week and will leave for Chicago directly after the exercises.

Although he has been accepted as a member of the New York Athletic Club, McCluskey will run under the colors of Fordham University. He will remain in Chicago for the National A. A. U. championships, to be held on the final weekend in June, in which he will compete under the colors of the Winged Foot Club. He was the only member of the club who was not required to qualify for the Chicago trip in the Metropolitan A. A. U. meet this week-end.

If McCluskey is fully recovered from his recent illness he looks like a certain winner in the two mile against the best runners of the west. Charles Shugert of Miami set a collegiate record of 9:16.7 last year in beating Henry Brocksmith by a stride.

McCluskey has beaten that time so often indoors and has threatened a 9:10 two-mile outdoors without ever finding the conditions just right that it seems no more than just that he bag such a record this week.

Louisiana State Has Strong Entry In Title Track Meet

Baton Rouge, La., June 14.—(AP)—The Louisiana State University track team, acclaimed the greatest in the university's history after sweeping over all southern opposition, leaving by the wayside records broken by its three dancing stars—Torrance, Hardin and Moreau—launches a quest for national recognition at the N. C. A. A. meet in Chicago June 16 and 17.

Louisiana State is sending a full team to the national collegiate meet for the first time in an endeavor to grasp the recognition it has been seeking for years.

A glance at the season performance of the Tiger sprinters indicates that Purple and Gold power and speed may stand out in several events.

Three Standout Performers
Jack Torrance, burly, 265-pound giant, several weeks ago bettered the world record by a fraction of an inch in the shotput with a heave of 62 feet 8 1/4 inches. The throw has since been improved upon, but it is believed that "Big Jack" has not yet turned in his best efforts. He also has been getting off fine throws with the discus.

Chicago Pitcher Hurts Team Into Third Place

White Sox Drop Browns, 6-1, to Threaten Leaders; Indians Advance to 4th and Hidebrand's Two-Hit Twirling Red Edge Cuts Again, 2-1.

Washington being a 10-5 defeat on Philadelphia, which sent the Athletics down two notches into fifth place.

With Hildebrand on the hill, Cleveland's Indians kept pace with Chicago and advanced to fourth place, with a 1 to 0 victory over the Detroit Tigers. Hildebrand yielded only two singles.

The last place Boston Red Sox clipped a game off the Yankees' lead by beating the league leaders, 4-5.

Reds Dump Cubs
The Cincinnati Reds brought about the only change in the National League, beating Chicago 2 to 1 as Paul Derringer outpitched Lon Warneke.

The league leading New York Giants made seven errors and still beat the Boston Braves, 6-5, as Carl Hubbell pitched six-hit ball. The St. Louis Cards in second place edged out a 4-3 victory over Pittsburgh in a mound duel between Dizzy Dean and Steve Swartzick.

The Phillies assaulted Brooklyn's mound staff for 20 hits and won 15 to 4.

FEATHERWEIGHTS MEET
Chicago, June 14.—(AP)—A pair of busy featherweights, Johnny Fena of New York and Varian Milling, Los Angeles, Filipino, will meet at Mills Stadium tonight in Chicago's first 15 round boxing engagement since Jimmy Barry and Casper Leon started over that route back in 1924.

YOUNGEST OF TURNESSA CLAN TOPS CUP SQUAD

New York, June 14.—(AP)—The youngest of the Turnessa clan has come to bat with a brilliant golfing exhibition to steal the show from the entire membership of the American Ryder cup team.

Willie Turnessa, 17-year-old Elmford, N. Y., high school boy, four of whose brothers are professionals, toured the 6800 yard Metropolitan Club course at White Plains in even par 71 yesterday, and with his partner, Howard Bergman turned in the only victory of a team of amateurs claimed by Jess Sweetser could achieve over the Ryder cup squad in a foursome exhibition.

BARGAIN BRIDE

by KATHARINE HAYLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BARRETT COLVIN, 35, returns to New York after four years' absence. He is rich and has made a name for himself as an archeologist. The first to greet him is his half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, young, selfish and spoiled. Marcia is happily married now. Years before Barrett shielded her when a youthful flirtation ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. She is worried because the boy's tutor has threatened her with blackmail and declares her husband will never forgive her if he learns the truth. Barrett agrees to deal with the tutor, MISS ELLA SEXTON. As Marcia is leaving she sees ELLINOR STAFFORD across the street and she recognizes her home. ELLINOR, 20, has been calling on the wealthy aunt, MISS ELLA SEXTON. All Miss Sexton's relatives are eagerly awaiting her death, hoping to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. ELLINOR's mother is the worst of the lot. Marcia and ELLINOR depart. Instead of going home ELLINOR goes to a shabby apartment house, knocks at the door and says, "It's I, Philip!"

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER III

There was the sound of someone moving behind the closed door and a voice called, "Just a moment!" An instant later the door opened. A young man stood inside. He smiled at ELLINOR a trifle bitterly. "Envoy from the land of plenty!" he muttered. Then, turning aside, he added a harsh, "Come in!"

And the wind in the singing trees,
The odor that comes from soil, new-turned,
The hum of machinery's wheel,
A soldier's blood and a woman's faith,
Courage and dreams and steel—

Out of their warp the flag is made,
Out of their web there comes
The banner that comes when brave men march
To the tune of the martial dums.
May we have strength to keep it high,
God, let no dull threads mar
The flag of a thousand victories.
Keep it a guiding star!

Man—Do you and your wife have any difference of opinion?
Neighbor—Yes, but she never knows it.

We are inclined to say: "He's a gentleman" when we can't think of any other nice thing to say about a fellow.

A lot of men who never could get along with their wives' relatives are quite at home with them during the depression.

Did He Forget to Take His Hat Off?

"Do you know," remarked Mrs. Lynch, "one of the coldest days last winter a sparrow came to our window. I took the poor, cold little fellow in where it was warm and, do you know, he stayed half an hour and he only made one tiny mistake." — From Minneapolis, Minn. Audubon Club News.

A man usually enters a speakeasy optimistically and comes out misty optically.

Ethel—What a lovely fur coat you are wearing. Your husband must have a better job.
Madge—No, I have a better husband.

In the good old days father went to the wedding to give the bride away; now he goes to bring a son-in-law home with him.

Husband—I know a man who has been married 30 years and who spends every evening of his life right at home.
His Wife—That is what I call love.

Husband—The doctor calls it paralysis.

GIGGLES, SMILES AND WHATNOTS: Love affairs are like colds in the head. Some people hardly get over one till they've got another. . . . A boy may be a rough diamond and yet have a smooth line. . . . Some women don't trust their husbands any farther than they can throw their stenographers. . . . In life many are called, but few are chosen, but in a girl's life many call but few propose. . . . Girls were always brave but in the new bathing suits they seem to be showing more backbone than ever. . . .

The much sought after bachelor was seated between the two dear old ladies at the wedding breakfast.
Bachelor—Do you know, I think single men are much worse off than married men.
One of the Dear Old Ladies (turning to him eagerly)—Do you think so, really?
Bachelor—I most certainly do. You see, the married man fears only one woman, while the single man fears them all.

If girls would only spend more time in picking out their husbands there wouldn't be so many of them kicked out.

What has become of the old-fashioned young man who bothered about asking her father if he could marry her?

Mother (as they watch the hippopotamus at the circus)—Look, dear, he's gone completely under the water.

Small Son—I would too if I had a face like that.
