

NEW INSTRUCTIONS RUSHED TO LONDON

American Delegates at World Parley Go Into Conference at Once; Nature of Orders Is Not Revealed.

London, June 21.—(AP)—The American delegation to the world economic conference received fresh instructions from President Roosevelt this afternoon. It was authoritatively learned. The nature of these instructions was not divulged.

Whether this meeting with Mr. MacDonald had anything to do with the President's message was a matter of much speculation in conference circles but the conferees were sitting tight.

GOLD BLOC WEAKENING London, June 21.—(AP)—What was taken by many delegates to be an indication of weakening in the gold bloc drive for adjournment of the world economic conference pending stabilization of the American dollar, came dramatically in an impassioned speech by Finance Minister Georges Bonnet of France just this morning's session was held.

The French finance minister took the floor in the sub-committee on temporary monetary affairs and, while again demanding stabilization, pledged "France's full aid toward the success of the conference."

"We demand concrete decisions and not simple signatures at the bottom of papers which the wind will immediately carry away," he declared. "To arrive at this end we bring you our entire aid."

Later he emphasized this with: "I repeat that the French delegation brings here France's full aid to the success of the conference."

The French finance minister asserted that the conference would be a total failure unless it marked progress toward political, economic and financial security. He asked: "How are you going to conceive a lasting peace if you do not secure, first, political security; second, economic security and reorganization of production; and, third, financial security which assures the stability of money as the common measure of exchange?"

At another point he said: "Large currency fluctuations not only imperil national monies and economic stability, but also the peace of the world."

"We believe these are fundamental points, and if the world economic conference does not mark progress in these subjects the conference's failure will be total."

Another point he said: "Large currency fluctuations not only imperil national monies and economic stability, but also the peace of the world."

BASSETT RESIGNS; PERRY APPOINTED

State Bank Commissioner Quits Office; Successor New Haven Bank Director

Hartford, June 21.—(AP)—Governor Cross today announced the resignation of Bank Commissioner George J. Bassett and the appointment of Walter Perry, retired manufacturer and bank director of New Haven, as his successor.

Commissioner Bassett, who succeeded Lewis S. Shippee in 1931 as an appointee of Governor Cross, will leave the department on July 1 to become president of the Connecticut Savings Bank of New Haven.

The trustees of this institution recently offered him the post and Mr. Bassett's acceptance was made in a letter of resignation received yesterday by the governor.

The new commissioner, who takes office on July 1, for the last eight years has been a director of the First National Bank and Trust Company of New Haven, and like Mr. Bassett he is a Democrat.

Mr. Perry retired in 1930 from the Farrell Foundry and Machine Company of Ansonia with which he was connected for 41 years, rising from office boy to president.

He was graduated from Williams College in 1887 and has been a resident of Connecticut since 1889. He lives at 240 Stronach street, New Haven.

In accepting Mr. Bassett's resignation, Governor Cross praises the commissioner's work as of "incalculable benefit to the State during a banking crisis of the most magnitude throughout the country."

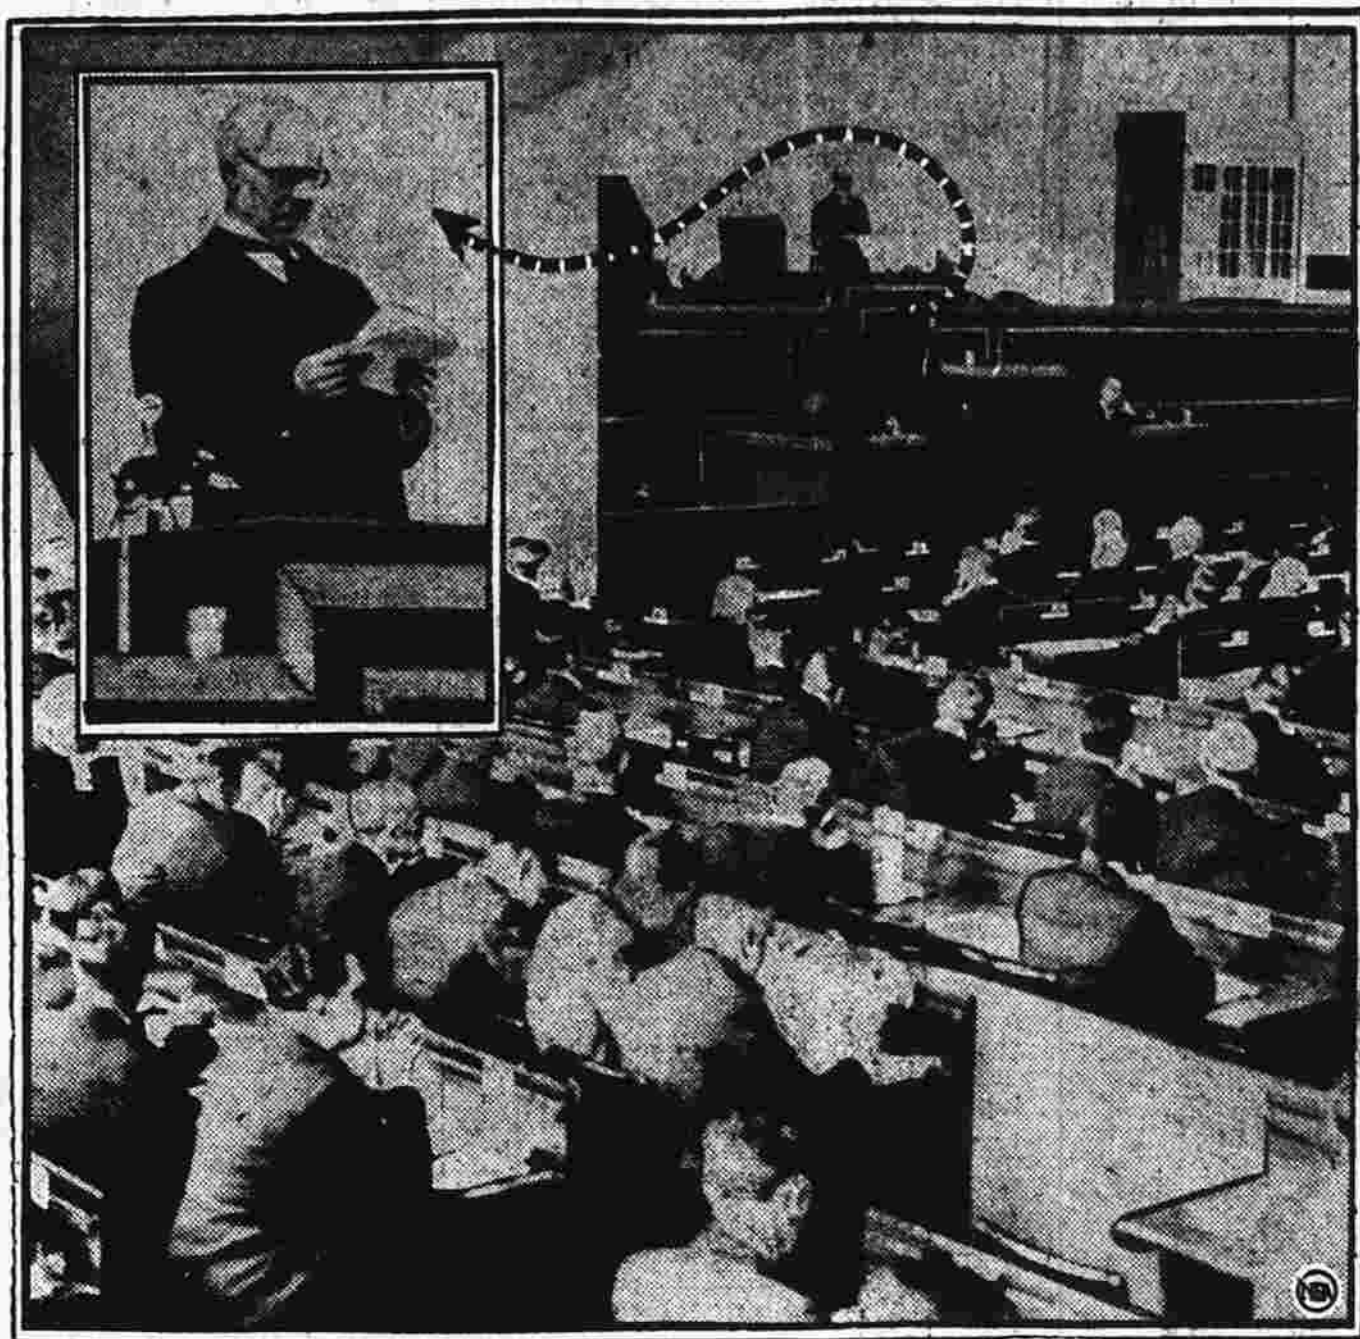

The governor's letter to Mr. Bassett follows: "With great reluctance I accept your resignation as bank commissioner of the State for the term beginning July 1 in order that you may then assume the presidency of the Connecticut Savings Bank of New Haven."

"The work which you have done as bank commissioner, since your appointment last year, of incalculable benefit to the State during a banking crisis of the most magnitude throughout the country."

FIND PLOT TO UPSET SAN MARINO REPUBLIC

Gang Planned to Invade the Smallest State in Europe and Assassinate All Those in Authority.

San Marino, Republic of San Marino, June 21.—(AP)—Documents found on two Sicilians disclosed a plot, police said, whereby a gang would invade the smallest state in Europe, start a reign of terror and set up a person not named by authorities as head of this old republic.

Authorities added the two captains-regent, the presiding government officials, had been slated for death, as were other leaders.

Italian police, notified of the plot, arrested several persons. San Marino authorities in a manifesto said the situation was under control.

There were scenes of loud rejoicing as citizens gathered in public squares today to read a manifesto announcing the failure of the conspiracy to assassinate Captains-Regent Francesco Norri and Settimio Belluzzi, and Secretary of State Giuliano Gozi.

GERMANS EXPECTED AUSTRIA'S ACTION

Hitler Leader Says Chancellor Dollfuss' Measures Will Meet With Failure.

Berlin, June 21.—(AP)—That none of "Chancellor Dollfuss' repressive measures" will stem the tide of Nazism in Austria was expressed as an official view today by a prominent German governmental leader.

He pointed out that the Reich government for a long time had expected Chancellor Dollfuss to take the drastic step of attempting at the eleventh hour to kill the Nazi movement by outlawing storm troopers and making propaganda illegal.

Dr. Heinrich Brüning pursued such a course against Nazis when he was chancellor of Germany, the spokesman said, adding, "just as Dr. Brüning failed, however, so Chancellor Dollfuss is bound to fail."

The Nazi followers of Chancellor Dollfuss in Austria were motivated by a governmental desire based in Vienna Monday.

A vehement editorial in Chancellor Hitler's organ, Voelkischer Beobachter, warned that "one thing is certain: The fight will not be abandoned until the traitor Dollfuss and the others are chased from the land upon which they brought misery and woe."

The newspaper declared the Austrian chancellor was motivated by a "fear of exile" and blamed further the "Jewish-kept Hapsburg clique" and "clericals, Jews and Marxist slaves" for the Austrian Nazi dissolution decree.

It said responsibility for bloodshed in Austria will fall upon "those German haters put on a sound basis by France."

WETS WIN IN STATE BY OVER SIX TO ONE

Iowa, New Hampshire Join Wet Procession

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Long dry Iowa, with Connecticut and New Hampshire, today brought to 14 states which in unbroken succession have voted to knock the 18th Amendment out of the Constitution.

The Hawkeye state's swing away from the position she had maintained for nearly two decades, left Drys fixing their hope for a halt in the parade on Alabama and Arkansas, both voting July 18.

In the doubtful column when the balloting began, Iowa brought in a substantial majority for the repeal amendment, even though it was not as big as that in Connecticut and New Hampshire.

MANCHESTER VOTES DECISIVELY "WET"

By Better Than Three to One This Town Asks Repeal of Prohibition Laws — Principal Quimby Defeated as Convention Delegate.

Despite an unprecedented drive for votes on the part of proponents of the Eighteenth Amendment, Manchester put itself decisively in the repeal column yesterday when it voted for ratification of the 21st amendment by 2714 to 857. The vote as was humorously noted at the polls last evening was in the "new brew" ratio—3.2 to 1. The wets here would have been satisfied with a 2 to 1 victory, but sentiment has grown greatly against the present form of liquor prohibition and this town stated so very definitely yesterday.

Clarence P. Quimby, local high school principal, was the only man to appear on either ticket. He was the "dry" candidate for delegate from the Fourth Senatorial district. Principal Quimby was defeated by Frank D. Glazier of Glastonbury by a majority of 5,502 votes. His district total was 2,184 while Mr. Glazier's reached 7,686. In Manchester Principal Quimby ran three votes behind his ticket. He had 854 votes and his opponent had 2,713 Manchester votes.

3,600 Voters About one-half as many voters took part in yesterday's poll as voted in the National election in 1932. Exactly 3,600 votes were recorded on the machines. Efforts of the "drys" to get out the vote proved of little avail since in the National election record on petitioning/Congress for repeal only 1,700 were recorded in the National election in 1932. Efforts of the "drys" to get out the vote proved of little avail since in the National election record on petitioning/Congress for repeal only 1,700 were recorded in the National election in 1932.

Women Are For Repeal Of interest in the results it is noted that the women voted against prohibition. There were 554 women in the total of 1,089 using the three machines in the east section of the Municipal building 52 were men who made use of the women's side of the polling place during the early evening rush.

Fought Apathy Because of the apathy yesterday the local repeal leaders feared that the "drys" would make a good showing. The voters who favored repeal in a great many instances took it for granted that repeal would win in this state. This local feeling was evident when the local "drys" admitted that they got out nearly a capacity prohibition vote. This would seem to be borne out by the fact that in 1932 the prohibitionists polled only 34 more votes for the "dry" cause with twice as many voters at the polls.

The lack of interest in the vote was evident when the polls were closed last evening. When Moderator William J. Shea called the polls closed just a handful of voters stood around to hear the results read from the machines. Usually the Municipal building entranceway is packed with eager listeners.

Less Than Half the Vote Cast in Last Presidential Election— Repealists Sweep Some Cities by as Much as 12 to 1—All But a Few Small Towns Also Vote Wet — Result, 236,915 Against 35,349.

By Associated Press An avalanche vote of more than six to one for repeal placed Connecticut squarely in the ranks of the 14 states which stood today for ratification of the proposed 21st Amendment, which would end National prohibition.

Fifty delegates, 15 from the state at large and one from each of the 35 state Senatorial districts, were selected to meet in convention July 11 at Hartford, pledged to vote unanimously to ratify the proposed amendment.

With only a light vote cast, less than half that cast in the last presidential election, the repealists won a decisive victory, sweeping the cities by as much as 12 to 1, and carrying all but a few of the traditionally dry rural towns.

Quiet Election The special election was a quiet one in Connecticut, with much interest centering on the question of whether or not the beer was legal. The state liquor control commission made no ruling on the question.

Prosecutors in the cities of Hartford and Waterbury said they would not interfere with the sale of beer, but authorities in other cities and towns ordered taverns to remain closed on grounds that sale of beer was not legal on special election days as well as on regular election days.

The total vote was less than half that cast during the last presidential election, the unofficial total yesterday reaching 272,384 as compared with a total vote of 601,304 in 1932.

SHERWOOD KNOWN IN CONNECTICUT

Man Found Dying in Los Angeles Was Kin of Governor Lounsbury.

Bridgeport, June 21.—(AP)—Maxwell Griffith of Bridgeport, a grand nephew of former Governor Pinckney S. Lounsbury said today there was no doubt but that the Clifford Sherwood who shot himself in Los Angeles yesterday, and the Sherwood who also was a grand nephew of Governor Lounsbury, were the same person.

He said Sherwood had been in Bridgeport several years ago and that he knew him as the chess editor of a Los Angeles newspaper.

Sherwood was found dying in an automobile, Los Angeles police said, while being sought in connection with the death of Gabrielle Andreux, 28, Hollywood French model.

Seldom in East Griffith said that while Sherwood had been here only on a short visit, he knew that William B. Sherwood of Westport, Conn., was the California man's father.

FORMER KING'S SON WEDS CUBAN GIRL

Ex-Prince of the Asturias, Heir to Spanish Throne, Marries in Switzerland.

Lausanne, Switzerland, June 21.—(AP)—Alfonso Bourbon, Junior, the former King of Spain, was married in the City Hall today to Edelmiro Ignacio Adriana Sampedro, the beautiful daughter of a rich Cuban merchant.

The wedding party arrived in three cars at City Hall square where a big crowd waited in the rain. The former Prince was bareheaded and wore a blue sack suit and a small black coat over yellow dress and a small beige hat with a narrow brim.

The former Prince received a long telegram last night from his father, former King Alfonso XIII, who now lives in Fontainebleau, France, and after reading its contents the son sobbed bitterly.

The party, including the bride's mother and two sisters, entered the marriage hall of the municipal building surrounded with flowers outside and inside, and took seats for the ceremony five minutes ahead of time.

Auguste Margot, the municipal marriage officer, assisted by a secretary officiated. The civil ceremony, in which the bride and bridegroom both rose to answer "yes" when asked if they take each other as husband and wife, lasted ten minutes.

The religious ceremony was to follow in the Sacred Heart church at Ouchy, Switzerland, later today.

$75,000 IN GEMS REPORTED STOLEN

New York Woman Left Them in a Bureau Drawer in Her Room in Hotel.

New London, June 21.—(AP)—State police today continued an investigation into the missing jewel case which had its origin at the Griswold hotel, Eastern Point, last Friday night where, while a race day crowd made merry, jewelry valued at $75,000 owned by Mrs. J. G. Hall of New York disappeared.

It was learned today that the jewelry had been in a bureau drawer in a room reserved by Mrs. Hall and her husband and the police are working under the assumption that the jewelry was stolen. Because thousands of persons visited at Eastern Point Friday night following the Yale-Harvard crew race and the hotel was jammed with celebrators, police admitted that it was extremely difficult to obtain any clues.

A description of the missing jewelry was broadcast by the state police, so that it might be detected were anyone to try to pawn it.

When the loss of the jewelry first became known it was reported that an investigation was including the possibility Mrs. Hall might have mislaid the several pieces missing, but the belief now is the jewelry was stolen.

ROOSEVELT TALKS WITH COL. HOUSE

Adviser of Late President Wilson Visits the President on Board Ship.

Gloucester, Mass., June 21.—(AP)—On the rolling waves of this sea town harbor, President Roosevelt interrupted his vacation cruise for a couple of hours this morning to discuss both international and domestic relations before proceeding on up the coast.

Colonel Edward M. House, intimate adviser of President Wilson on foreign problems boarded the Amberjack II, just after Mr. Roosevelt had arisen from a late sleep making up for yesterday's long haul from Nantucket which ended here just before midnight.

Lewis M. Douglas, director of the budget scrambled aboard a little later to talk over veterans compensation allowances. The Gloucester lay-over also gave opportunity for the crew to visit with their wives, and the women folks climbed into the tiny schooner with hugs and caresses.

Following the conference President Roosevelt ordered the sails hoisted shortly after 11 o'clock to resume his cruise northward, heading for Little Harbor near Portsmouth, N. H., for the night.

Both Colonel House and Director Douglas were vacationing in these parts and Mr. Roosevelt took advantage of the morning rest to talk business with these men. Undoubtedly the problems of the London economic conference received attention with Colonel House. Intent on liberalizing the strict economy regulations first imposed on veterans the President and Mr. Douglas talked over ways of doing it and keeping the budget balanced.

The three—Roosevelt, House and Douglas—sat in the cockpit on the

FINANCIER'S CASE GOES TO THE JURY

Charles E. Mitchell Is Charged With Defrauding U. S. on His Income Tax.

New York, June 21.—(AP)—The case of Charles E. Mitchell until recently a powerful figure in the banking world, who is charged with defrauding the government of more than $550,000 in income taxes, was given to a Federal court jury today.

The maximum prison sentence, should he be convicted, would be ten years and the maximum fine, $20,000. There are two counts in the indictment, charges involving the sale to Mrs. Mitchell of 19,300 shares of National City Bank stock in 1929, and his receipt that year of $66,666.67 from a management fund are combined in one count.

The other count deals with the sale of Anaconda common stock in 1930 to W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene Canals & Copper Co.

As he concluded his charge, the judge warned the jury against being swayed in its verdict by any sympathy you may feel for this defendant. He said they might convict or acquit the defendant on both counts or find him guilty on one and innocent on the other.

The court turned over to the manager a number of requests he said he had received from Max D. Steuer, defense counsel to charge the jurors on specific points, with the comment that he had covered many of them in his charge.

Then the jurors filed out of the courtroom to begin their deliberations. Mitchell sat quietly at the counsel table, waiting.

Reich to the effect that Communists had joined Dr. Hugenberg's Kampfstaffeln.

This necessitated a general raid, it added, with the dissolution orders resulting.

Communists, according to police, by joining Dr. Hugenberg's organization obtained the right to wear party uniforms and carry weapons.

Hence, authorities maintained, they could spread subversive propaganda under the guise of membership in a patriotic society.

The secret police of Capt. Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Prussian premier and Nazi minister without portfolio, found members of the organization wearing uniforms with green shirts. They were stripped of these, while large crowds of spectators cheered the storm troopers and shouted "Heil Hitler!"

Books and documents were confiscated. Police gave no reasons, but accused the organization of having accepted as members Communists and Socialists in order to counter-balance the strength of Hitler's Nazi followers.

A prelude to today's action was a raid on "German Front" headquarters in Frankfurt-on-Oder on Hugenberg's birthday last Monday. Dr. Hugenberg has been under fire for some time, and predictions have been made he will be asked to resign his portfolios.

It indicated that the voters in the small towns thought the matter over and decided that a change was needed. The vote expresses what I felt control in this day of automobiles and airplanes to attempt to control the liquor traffic through state supervision is simply foolishness. Peggy tells story BARNstable, Mass., June 21.—(AP)—Margaret (Peggy) McKath told a jury in Superior Court today that during the three days she was in the hands of a kidnaper she wore a pair of "toy-handcuffs" that she could take off and put on at will.

Peggy was escorted to the stand as the last witness for the prosecution in the trial of Kenneth and Cyril Buck, Harwichport brothers who are charged with her kidnaping. She was taken from the Harwich Center grammar school May 2, and returned three days later after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The money was recovered from Kenneth Buck.

Peggy identified a note written to her by her father and on which she had scribbled an answer. The answer said she was "happy" although she would rather be home.

After being questioned further by District Attorney William C. Crossley regarding notes exchanged with her father during the time she was in the hands of the kidnaper, Elias Burwick, counsel for Kenneth took over the questioning.

She explained to Burwick she had "played" with handcuffs like those she wore in the cellar, with her brother, Francis, 8.

State they were "children's handcuffs, the kind you have keys, and were easy to open."

State Detective Ernest Bradford then described the car alleged to have been used by Kenneth, and the Commonwealth rested.

NAVY PLANS TO SPEND 86 MILLIONS ON SHIPS

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—The acting secretary of the Navy, Henry L. Roosevelt said today the Navy plans to spend $86,000,000 on ship construction in the 1934 fiscal year, which begins July 1.

The Navy had just allotted two submarines of 1,400 tons each for construction at the Portsmouth, N. H., Navy Yard, one of the new gunboats at the Navy Yard in New York and the other at the Charleston, S. C., Navy Yard.

Roosevelt explained that $40,000,000 would be expended on ships already under construction and at least $46,000,000 in starting the new 32 ship program for which President Roosevelt has approved a $288,000,000 allotment out of the public works funds.

Secretary Swanson previously has said that 85 per cent of Naval construction goes to labor.

Discussing the recent announcement that bids will be opened July 26 on 16 of the new ships and one previously authorized heavy cruiser, Roosevelt explained that this number of vessels will be built in private shipyards "provided satisfactory bids are received."

ARRESTED FOR DRIVING MOTORCYCLE UNLICENSED

New Haven Men to Appear in Court Tomorrow Morning for Violations of Law.

Frederick E. Handy, 30, of 1372 State street, New Haven, was arrested with William Parsons, 23, of 327 Columbus Avenue, New Haven, this afternoon on Middle Turnpike East, by Motorcycle Patrolman Raymond Griffin for violations of the motor vehicle laws.

Handy is charged with operating a motorcycle without a license and Parsons, a passenger on the machine, operated by Handy, will appear on a charge of loaning his operator's license to the operator of the motorcycle.

Parsons, after an examination by Officer Griffin was found incapable of operating the machine. Both men will appear in town court tomorrow morning.

BELIEVE THREE BOYS LOST IN WILDERNESS

Golden, Colo., June 21.—(AP)—Three Colorado School of Mines students may have lost their lives on a canoe trip into the Canadian wilderness.

They are Robert Burns of Nelson, British Columbia; Albert Comstock of Bronxville, N. Y., and Robert Weld, Watertown, Conn.

Canadian mounted police notified officials of the college that a small canoe had been wrecked on the Saskatchewan Alberta border. An envelope addressed to Robert Burns was in the wreckage.

Mounted police found no trace of the three youths.

John Burns of Nelson, B. C., father of Robert Burns, advised Dean Jesse Morgan of the college that his son, Comstock and Weld had planned to paddle their craft up a river that empties into Lake Athabaska.

SEEK LOST STUDENT

Mount Washington, N. H., June 21.—(AP)—Through a heavy wet fog, which swirled down about this and neighboring peaks of the White mountains today a searching party of the college, led by Simon Joseph, twenty years old Harvard college sophomore.

The youth has been missing since Sunday when he became separated during a hike on the mountain from two companions, C. William Robbin, another Harvard student, and Gerald Gould, student of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The three had left Fernburg, Maine, to climb the Crawford trail to the Lake of the Clouds.

They were several hazardous mountain precipices not far from where Joseph was last seen and the searching party which left Twin mountain shortly after daybreak, planned to explore thoroughly the area below them.

REV. DR. STOCKWELL DEAD

Philadelphia, June 21.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Stockwell, college secretary of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church of the U. S. A., died today in a hospital.

Dr. Stockwell came here in 1924 after holding pastorates in Beverly and Trenton, N. J., and Newburgh, N. Y.

He was a native of Providence, R. I., where a brother, Edward A. Stockwell, resides. Other survivors are his widow and four daughters: Mrs. Walter H. Linder, Bronxville, N. Y.; Mrs. D. Curtis Mumford, Washington, and Mrs. James P. Stewart and Miss Eunice Stockwell of Philadelphia.

MARTIN ELECTED

Philadelphia, June 21.—(AP)—John C. Martin has been elected successor of the late Cyrus H. K. Curtis as president of the Curtis-Martin Newspapers, Inc. The concern, directly and through its subsidiaries, publishes the Public Ledger, Evening Public Ledger, Philadelphia Inquirer and the New York Evening Post.

ROADS MAY DELAY WAGE REDUCTIONS

Administration Asks That No Action Be Taken Until After Conference.

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Indications were seen on a wage reduction for their employees to the administration request for a delay.

Although a complete breakdown on the part of the railroad managers was not expected, the feeling was expressed that they will at least yield to the extent of waiving the 12 1/2 per cent additional reduction which they notified the union chiefs last week would become effective November 1.

Probabilities appeared to be that the suggestion for maintenance of the present status, advanced yesterday by Joseph B. Eastman, coordinator of transportation and administration railroad spokesman, will be accepted.

One of the questions discussed at today's conference between Eastman and the management committee of the carriers was whether the status quo shall be maintained for six months from November 1.

The present agreement under which the railroad employees are working expires November 1.

Under this, a cut of ten per cent in wages became effective 18 months ago but unless something is done they automatically revert to the old and higher wage scale.

The management committee met in executive session immediately after conferring with Eastman to discuss the situation and to endeavor to reach some proposal the coordinator can make to railroad labor chiefs.

Neither the managers nor railroad labor heads would discuss the situation asserting all information on the conferences must come from Eastman.

WORKERS COMPROMISE ON A NEW WAGE SCALE

Ottawa, June 21.—(AP)—Compromising on practically a 50-50 basis on the existing scale of wages paid to longshoremen of the Port of Montreal and the reduced scale which the shipping companies wished to introduce, the report of the conciliator on board was assigned to enquire into the matter of wages was released by the Minister of Labor, W. A. Gordon, here today.

The board recommends a reduction of three cents an hour for each of the three shifts on general cargo, while the employers had asked for a cut of six cents an hour. The general cargo rate at present is 59 cents for the day shift, 69 cents from 7 p. m. to 11 p. m., and 79 cents from midnight to 5 a. m.

On bulk cargo the scale recommended is four cents an hour less than now in vogue. The demand of the shipping companies was that this be reduced from 72 cents an hour to 65 cents for the day shift, from 82 cents to 75 cents for the early night shift and from 92 cents to 75 cents from 12 midnight to 5 a. m.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. James Munroe of 123 Center street have returned home after spending the past two weeks at the McCabe cottage, Old Orchard Beach.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Miss Sarah Sinnamon, who has made her home with her sister, Mrs. Jane S. Kemp, of 217 Center street, near Newman street, died suddenly last night at 9:30 of heart disease. Miss Sinnamon had lived in Manchester for about 26 years. She was a member of St. Mary's Episcopal church, and of the Altar and Girls Friendly societies. She was also a member of Sunset Rebekah lodge.

She was formerly employed by Chesney Brothers but retired some time ago. Besides Mrs. Kemp she leaves two sisters and five brothers. They are Miss Beattie and Miss Minnie Sinnamon of Ireland, Edwin and John Sinnamon of this town, Alfred, Henry and William of Ireland. She was an aunt of John A. Kemp who graduated from Trinity this week.

Funeral services for Miss Sinnamon will be held Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the funeral home of Thomas G. Dougan, 59 Holl street. Rev. J. Stuart Nelson of St. Mary's Episcopal church will officiate and burial will be in the East cemetery.

EAST LYME WATER CO. GETS FEDERAL LOAN

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Thirteen self-liquidating loans totaling $1,574,000 and providing employment for several hundred men were approved today by the Reconstruction Corporation.

The largest loan was one of $1,100,000 to a subsidiary of the Todd Shipyards Corporation of New York, now being organized to construct ship repair facilities and a drydock on the Houston, Texas ship canal.

Other loans included: The East Lyme Water Company of East Lyme, Connecticut, $100,000 for a new waterworks system at several points; Springville, Alabama, $16,000 to begin work on a new waterworks system; Eau Clair, South Carolina, $67,500 for waterworks repair.

The East Lyme water company will make service available in homes in Crescent Beach, Niantic, Pine Grove and Saunders Point, towns on the Niantic river and Long Island Sound shore of Connecticut. The new plant will consist of wells and pumping stations with two pumps, a 718,000 gallon stand pipe, 100 hydrants and several thousand feet of pipes of various sizes.

BUYING WAVE BOOSTS GRAIN MART PRICES

Chicago, June 21.—(AP)—A last minute wave of buying carried some deliveries of both wheat and corn to the highest prices of the season today. The December and September deliveries of both wheat and corn swept up to the season's peak, chiefly the strength of buying induced by advices of hot weather damage to crops northwest. The grain markets were bullish most of the day in a typical "weather market."

The advances carried wheat prices 2 to 2 1/2 cents above yesterday's closing levels with the September delivery at 80 1/4 cents and the December at 82 3/4, both 1/4 cent above the previous high levels.

The gains in corn ranged from 1 1/2 to 3 cents a bushel and the September touched 54 1/4 cents at the close with December at 56 1/4. Oats were sharply higher all day and closed as much as 1 1/2 cents advanced.

HOLLYWOOD SEES RED IN ALL THE BEST PLACES

Hollywood—Summer seems to make all the well-dressed ladies about here see red. If they don't wear outright red costumes, all of them have a dash of it somewhere in their get-ups.

Marian Nixon wears a scalloped edged red belt and red straw hat with a navy blue crepe skirt and quilted blue and white taffeta jacket costume. Her blue kid pumps have red piping, too.

Posing for some snap-shots the other day, Sylvia Sidney wore a flame colored linen blouse with a brown and red linen suit and felt hat of the suit's brocade.

Launching at the Beverly-Wilshire with Winifred Sheehan, Janet Gaynor coat lined with red and white checked gingham—and no hat.

Joan Bennett wore a candy-striped red and white sports dress to luncheon, simply made, topped by a red and white checked fez and red and white checked sandals.

Posing for pictures with her young son, Tommy, Glenda Farrell wore a small bright red hat with two little gray pompons on one side, and a gray suit.

One of the smartest patriotically cared costumes seen hereabouts this week was worn by Muriel Evans, dancing at the Cocoonut Grove with Robert Young. The high-waisted, long skirt was navy blue linen, the bodice made of wide bands of red and white.

WETS SEE REPEAL BEFORE YEAR'S END

But Drys Say They Can Carry the Struggle Into the Next Year.

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—Hailing the repeal victories in Iowa, New Hampshire and Connecticut, anti-prohibitionists looked forward today to a possibility that the 18th Amendment would be out of the constitution before the year ends.

Dry leaders disputed this, as well as anti-prohibitionist assertions that repeal is certain sooner or later.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, indicated a part of the League strategy is to delay elections until 1934 where possible to better organize for the struggle.

"The drys could lose every election except one (in 1934) and still push this contest to prevent repeal into 1934, when they can win," he said.

On the other hand, Jouett Shouse, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, said there is good prospect for repeal elections in 1934.

Here is the situation: Fourteen states have ordered ratification of repeal. Nineteen others have definitely set elections for 1933.

Both Prohibitionists and Anti-Prohibitionists admit four others—Florida, Missouri, Montana and Utah may vote before 1934.

Two states, Nebraska and South Dakota, have definitely decided not to vote until next year.

This leaves nine states. In four, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi and Virginia, the Legislatures will not meet until 1934, unless there is a special session.

Legislatures failed to act on governors vetoed a bill for the repeal election in Colorado, Georgia, Kansas, North Dakota and Oklahoma.

The drys assert this assures 11 states in which there is no chance for a vote this year.

Repealists counter with the claim that the Colorado Legislature, which meets in special session in July, is likely to provide that the governor might call a special election this year if 33 other states have ratified repeal.

A special session of the Mississippi Legislature may come in August, assert the anti-prohibitionists, and this might provide a means for a verdict in that southern state this year.

Developments in Oklahoma and a repeal petition already being circulated in North Dakota are counted upon by repeal forces to bring elections there.

Some of the optimistic wet believe that the ratification will come even if only 37 states vote.

The anti-repealists reply that the south has yet to be heard from and predict wet setbacks in Alabama and Arkansas elections on July 6-8.

rest of the state. Service continued until 10 p. m. when it was evident that Connecticut was in the "wet" column by about 7 to 1. Some returns came in from New Hampshire and Iowa but when the crowd listening to the results realized that this state has yet to be heard from and interest as far as Connecticut is concerned passed on.

The 50 delegates, all repealists, will meet in convention in Hartford July 11, it was announced by Governor Cross last night. The convention has nothing to do but qualify yesterday's vote.

VERNON'S 7-TO-1 WET VICTORY UNEXPECTED

Activities of Drys Resulted in Only 220 Votes — Body of Forest Camper Brought Here.

The "wets" were victorious in Rockville and the town of Vernon yesterday by 1324 votes. The seven to one victory was unexpected because of the last minute efforts of the "drys."

A total of 1544 votes was cast for the ratification of the repeal, only 220 against it. The total number of votes cast was 1766, of which one was blank and one split, both being thrown out.

Forty-three per cent of the voters turned out. The total number of registered voters being 4,018. Of the men 55 per cent went to the polls, only 220 against it. The total number of votes cast was 1766, of which one was blank and one split, both being thrown out.

The election officials were: Republican registrar, Henry Schmidt; Democratic registrar, George E. Gunn; moderator, William Cullen; deputy registrars, Margaret McGowan and Howard Dimock; checkers, George Hammond and Alice Convey; ballot passers, Ted O'Neil and Alec Brown; both tenders, Jeannette Cosgrove, Emma Mead, Francis Ruppert and Edward Newcomb; counters, Frank Harlow, Ida Serber, E. E. Cogan, Walter Kellner and Edward Dowding.

Interest in the vote of the surrounding towns was keen for several hours after the count here had been completed. It centered largely on Ellington where there were 238 votes for the ratification and 30 against. Tolland's vote, which was 139 for the repeal and 67 against also created interest here.

Because of the fact that Prosecuting Attorney John B. Thomas was attending the 40th anniversary of his class at Yale University, at New Haven, no official statement was forthcoming as to whether it was legal to sell beer and as a result the taverns were closed and the restaurants and hotels refrained from selling beer. Mr. Thomas appeared at 7 o'clock to administer the oath to the election officials and immediately returned to New Haven where he has been for several days.

Ship Mill Machinery Two complete sets of carding machines from the plant of the Rock Manufacturing Company are being shipped today to the Dunn Woolen Company at Martinsburg, W. V. The carding machines are of the Davis & Furger make and are known as "three cylinder cards" being of the latest type. The machines were installed a short time before the Rock Manufacturing Company was closed down by Frederick W. Swindells, owner, a few years ago. Very few improvements have been made in carding machines during the past ten years. The Rock Manufacturing Company has six more sets of carding machines in its plant which is located in the heart of Rockville—opposite Central Park. The machines cost approximately $15,000 each when installed. There are six more complete sets of three cylinder carding machines in the plant at the present time.

Greenwood Speaks Tonight Charles W. Greenwood of Wethersfield, secretary to Congressman William L. Higgins, is to be the speaker at the semi-monthly dinner of the Rockville Lions Club to be held at the Rockville House at 6:15 o'clock tonight. Mr. Greenwood will tell of work being undertaken in Washington and what was accomplished during the closing days of Congress. President Clarence E. Peterson has made a special request that all members of the Rockville Lions club attend this meeting tonight.

Immediately following the dinner and speaking, the members of the Rockville Lions club will go to Vernon Center to attend the closing exercises of the Tolland County Home school. County Commissioner Harry C. Smith has extended a personal invitation to all members.

Brought Home For Burial The body of Paul Francis Giacomi, aged 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Giacomi, of Sinsipic Road, Tolland, arrived in Rockville this morning from the United States Government Forestation Camp at Farmington, Me., where he died on Sunday night following a short illness. The boy's body arrived in Hartford this morning at 2:30 o'clock and was brought to the funeral home of F. H. Burke on Park street.

The funeral was held from St. Bernard's Catholic church this morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. George T. Sinnott, pastor, officiated at a solemn requiem mass. Burial was in the family plot in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Giacomi, parents of the dead youth, received a letter from him this morning stating that he was in the best of health and enjoying the life at camp. On Monday they received a telegram from the Government Hospital at Farmington, Me., notifying them of their son's death and asking information as to whether they desired the funeral at Rockville. Paul Francis Giacomi left Rockville on May 26 for Hartford where he was sent to New York and later to New London before being sent to Maine.

Paul Francis Giacomi is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Giacomi, of Sinsipic Road, Tolland; two sisters, Misses Angelina and Ida Giacomi, also four brothers, Anthony of Yale University, New Haven; Bernard, Leslie and Sylvester of Rockville.

Confer Life Membership

Two Congressmen are to attend the exercises to be held on Thursday evening, June 22, when an Honorary Life Membership is conferred upon Dr. Thomas F. O'Loughlin by Rockville Lodge, B. P. O. Elks, at the Elks Home on Prospect street.

Herman P. Koppelman of Hartford, representative of the First Congressional District and Dr. William G. Higgins of Coventry, representing the Second District, have accepted invitations to attend, as has Mayor William E. Rankin of Hartford. Mayor Rankin is a long-time friend of Dr. O'Loughlin. Several Grand Lodge officers are also expected to attend.

Dr. O'Loughlin has been prominent in Elkdom for nearly 25 years and was instrumental in the organization of the Rockville lodge on September 12, 1918.

Tendered Reception

Principal John W. McClellan of the Maple street school, who retires today was tendered a dinner and reception at Columbia Lake on Monday evening by the teachers of the town of Vernon, from 5 to 8 o'clock. The teachers were present. Principal McClellan was presented with a handsome umbrella by the teachers in remembrance of his 21 years as principal of the Maple street school. The presentation was made by Principal Philip M. Howe of the Rockville High School. Kenneth Little of the Rockville High School faculty was chairman of the committee.

Report on Traffic

The regular meeting of the Board of Common Council was held last evening with Acting Mayor Roger J. Murphy presiding in the absence of Mayor Wade. The important question of the evening was the report of the traffic authority relative to parking on the east side of Market street in accordance with the petition of merchants. The traffic authority, a newly formed committee consisting of Acting Mayor Murphy and Captain Richard E. Shea of the Rockville police, favored parking on both sides of the street both day and night for a period of one hour. Under the present rules no parking is allowed on the East Side of the street. The new regulation which was approved, becomes effective on July 1.

Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Lebbeus F. Bissell were at New Haven yesterday attending the graduation exercises of John Sykes Mason, son of Mrs. Bissell who graduated from the Sheffield Scientific School. During the senior year he was a member of the Torch and Honor Society, secretary and treasurer of the Interfraternity council, a member of the Class Book committee, the Senior Prom committee and also one of the Marshals of his class during the Commencement exercises. Mr. Mason has accepted a position with the Sun Oil Company and after July 1 will be located at their refinery at Marcus Hook, Penn.

The Rockville Emblem Club is holding a social this afternoon at the Elks Home with Mrs. Irene Moran in charge.

Pearl S. Buck Who Wrote "The Good Earth", Gets Master of Arts Degree.

New Haven, Conn., June 21.—(AP)—Pearl S. Buck, missionary and noted writer of novels dealing with Chinese life, was among twelve persons awarded honorary degrees by Yale University today at its 232nd commencement.

The only woman in the group of distinguished persons honored by the university, the American writer whose novel "The Good Earth" won for her the Pulitzer prize was lauded by Prof. William Lyon Phelps as the "ablest living interpreter of the Chinese character" as the veteran Eli English professor presented her for the Master of Arts degree to President James Rowland Angell.

NEW HAMPSHIRE VOTES TO REPEAL DRY LAWS

More Than Two to One Majority—47 Small Towns Vote Against Repeal.

Manchester, N. H., June 21.—(AP)—New Hampshire today swung into step with the repeal states.

Granite state voters yesterday gave a more than two to one majority to the ten delegates pledged to repeal of the 18th amendment. The vote was: For repeal 75,696; against repeal 30,337.

But one small town—Stark—remained unreported today. Gov. John G. Winant previously said he soon would call the elected delegates to the State House to ratify the popular sentiment in favor of the 21st Amendment.

The vote was slightly more than half that cast at the last election and 47 towns among the smaller rural communities maintained the dry position.

SUMMER IS HERE

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—It is spring today, until 4:12 p. m., eastern standard time, on the naval observatory clock. After that it is summer.

The fact that the whole country has been sweltering for weeks under mid-summer weather has nothing to do with the case. June 21 is the official first day and this year the sun does not start its controlling southward movement until mid-afternoon.

This also is the year's longest day, with 14 hours and 45 minutes of sunshine—where the clouds aren't in the way.

SUMMER IS HERE

Washington, June 21.—(AP)—It is spring today, until 4:12 p. m., eastern standard time, on the naval observatory clock. After that it is summer.

The fact that the whole country has been sweltering for weeks under mid-summer weather has nothing to do with the case. June 21 is the official first day and this year the sun does not start its controlling southward movement until mid-afternoon.

This also is the year's longest day, with 14 hours and 45 minutes of sunshine—where the clouds aren't in the way.

Pearl S. Buck Who Wrote "The Good Earth", Gets Master of Arts Degree.

New Haven, Conn., June 21.—(AP)—Pearl S. Buck, missionary and noted writer of novels dealing with Chinese life, was among twelve persons awarded honorary degrees by Yale University today at its 232nd commencement.

The only woman in the group of distinguished persons honored by the university, the American writer whose novel "The Good Earth" won for her the Pulitzer prize was lauded by Prof. William Lyon Phelps as the "ablest living interpreter of the Chinese character" as the veteran Eli English professor presented her for the Master of Arts degree to President James Rowland Angell.

NEW HAMPSHIRE VOTES TO REPEAL DRY LAWS

More Than Two to One Majority—47 Small Towns Vote Against Repeal.

Manchester, N. H., June 21.—(AP)—New Hampshire today swung into step with the repeal states.

Granite state voters yesterday gave a more than two to one majority to the ten delegates pledged to repeal of the 18th amendment. The vote was: For repeal 75,696; against repeal 30,337.

But one small town—Stark—remained unreported today. Gov. John G. Winant previously said he soon would call the elected delegates to the State House to ratify the popular sentiment in favor of the 21st Amendment.

The vote was slightly more than half that cast at the last election and 47 towns among the smaller rural communities maintained the dry position.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Freemont, Neb.—Frank Sommers, 53, sneezed and as a result he died. The sneeze caused him to lose control of his motor car which turned over on a highway near here. His chest was crushed.

Chicago—Police Commissioner Allman felt it was positively shocking when he viewed the varie hueed suspenders policemen were wearing. He therefore ordered trouser suspension among his policemen be accomplished in the future by black belts.

Manassah, Ohio.—A golf twosome "endurance record" is claimed by the Rev. William K. Mackey, chaplain at the Mansfield Reformatory, and V. H. Oberlander, high school instructor. From four a. m. until sundown they played 150 holes, Mackey using 695 strokes and Oberlander 710.

San Antonio, Texas.—When Frank Miller, 33, went to the home of R. N. Egley to ask for food, a pair of trousers he wore was recognized as having been stolen from the residence a few days before. This testimony was brought out today in Miller's trial for burglary. He was sentenced to two years.

New York—What's this? Prosperity turning the corner? A new Broadway cafeteria announces that the floors in its windows will be paved with silver dollars. Light silvered currency need not come around. The coins will be cemented hard and fast.

GIFTS FEATURE SENIORS' DANCE

Tips Taken in Good Spirit; Record Crowd Attends Last Night's Affair.

The Class Day program in connection with High school graduation yesterday afternoon was followed by a mappy program last evening at Manchester High school during which time gifts and prophecies were delivered to the Class of 1935.

Although those who worked on the gift committees realize better than anyone what a huge task it is to "crack wise" about 250 individual students, their efforts are always well rewarded.

Sportsmanship was certainly up to par last evening for everyone had a big smile. Walter Wright, chairman of the committee, Adelia Cullin, Hazel Driggs, Hallett Stiles acted as the announcers.

The arrangement of the program years for it was entirely new. In a wigwam on the stage sat the prophet and as the "grade" to be received his gift and left the stage it was quite probable that the gift was rung in front of the wigwam making it necessary to stop and hear what the oracle had to say.

Clever Gifts. The gifts were as clever as the prophecies and the puns issued with the presents almost beat out Freddie Bieber. Skipping rope for class disappears were prominent.

It is too difficult a job to name all of the gifts and prophecies but it was apparent that the crowd managed to enjoy each one. The hall was colored with decorations with M. H. S. banners with the tunnettes over the door in the class colors of the year 1935.

For the fourth time Miss Eleanor Heubner, '33, has won the girl's tennis tournament defeating Miss Edith Brown '34 in the final match.

The score was 6-1, 6-3 but most of the games were duce games. Placements by both the winner and loser were few and far between.

Various Items. School costs have been scaled down from the estimated $328,288 appropriation of June 1932.

Salary Decreases. The principal decrease in the budget for the year is in teachers' salaries from $250,817 in 1932 to $210,584.

Cost of maintaining the recreation building which will not be used for school purposes, but which will be included in the school budget is $2,000.

The Trade school items remain approximately the same at $5,000 including supplies, repairs, heat, light and power, water, janitor service and insurance.

Included in the budget is an appropriation of $1,000 for evening schools. Last year Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplanck petitioned the State Board of Education to discontinue the evening school for the year.

What price--- ELECTRIC COOKING?

Every once in awhile someone asks a question about electric cooking, its cost, etc., which shows there is still some misunderstanding of the fundamental facts. For the benefit of our customers who may be in doubt, we would like to state these facts as experienced in over 200 homes in Manchester and vicinity has shown them to be.

An analysis made of a number of customers' bills shows that five and six dollar bills for general use of electricity, including lighting, such appliances as washer and cleaner, and ELECTRIC COOKING, are common. The facts are, and users vouch for them, that the cost of electric cooking compares so closely with other forms of cooking that the difference is hardly noticeable, and will many times be in favor of the electric cooking.

Electric cooking is not reserved for the wealthy, it is cooking for the woman who wants to do her own work in the coolest, cleanest, most convenient manner at a cost within her budget.

Electric cooking is simple and easy to learn. Of course it is different, principally in that it means so much less fuss and bother. If electric light is simple, then electric cooking is simple.

Electric Cooking Is Clean. There Is No Burning In Your Kitchen, All That Takes Place In Our Powerhouse, And Only Heat, As Pure As The Sun's Rays, Is Sent You Over Wires. Pure Heat On Tap Like The Water In Your Faucet.

Every Woman Hopes To Have An Electric Range Why Not Start By Renting One---For

30¢ A Week Plus A Nominal Installation Charge Payable Monthly With Your Electric Light Bill.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 21

colonies and to "give her people without room" additional territory, presumably in Europe.

Then, with a whoop, came the gale. Soviet Russia has long made it a point to refrain from anything like open interference in the internal affairs of other nations. Her newspapers have kept severely silent concerning Hitlerism ever since the beginning of the Nazi movement. But the implied suggestion that Germany be permitted to seize Russian soil for the use of her own people proved too much for forbearance. The newspaper Pravda, organ of the Communist party which speaks for the Soviet government, lashed out at Nazi Germany in such terms as these:

"The days are past when German militarists can repeat their invasion of the Ukraine, which invasion, even in 1918, when the Soviet government was weak, came to a shameful end.

Let the Fascists remember that the Soviet Union now is a great power which can defend itself and which can smash back at those who think or talk about the seizure of Soviet soil. Let them remember that our country can organize such a counter-stroke as would not only insure the protection of our territory and keep it inviolate but might leave in our hands slices of the territory of those who attempt to grab Soviet soil by bandit aggression.

This is fight-talk. It is not, however, fight-brag. It is the service of notice on the mad Hitlerites that they might as well stop, before they begin it, the laying of plans to experiment with aggression against Russia, because, if such plans failed, they would be punished very harshly indeed.

And who can doubt that this would be the case? Germany started a war in 1914, no doubt in pretty serene confidence that if she should be beaten she would never be called on to pay a very serious price. Relatively speaking she never has, despite all her belly-aching about a tyrannical peace. Let her pick a fight with Russia, and lose it—the risk would be immense—and that would very promptly be the end of Germany, for those people at the head of the Soviet Union are a hard boiled lot; also they have boiled their people correspondingly hard.

This roar of the bear is well calculated to bring with it a pretty fair realization on the part of Herr Hitler and his friends of what they would be up against in any effort to realize a Ukrainian dream.

Incidentally it is conceivable that the roar was intentionally made loud enough for Japan to hear.

J. J. Ely in New York. He points out that in New York City there are eight postal districts. The so-called general postoffice in Manhattan distributes mail to Manhattan, the Bronx, Palisades and North Pelham. Then there are postoffices in Brooklyn, Staten Island, Long Island City, Flushing, Jamaica, Far Rockaway and Broad Channel. It is the understanding there that the letter rate between these various postal districts will remain at three cents though it will be two cents within districts.

If this be the case it may be that the Post Office Department will hold that a letter posted in Manchester (Post Office area) for delivery in Manchester Green, Highland Park or Buokland will require three cents postage. Under such an arrangement, before the merging of the Manchester and South Manchester offices the rate would have been three cents also between the North and South ends. Now, of course the postage as between "North" and "South" will be two cents, since they are one postal area.

Possibly the department may make a ruling not in accordance with this guess and may hold that all letters that remain within the town limits are "drop" letters and entitled to the two cent rate, but it would seem unlikely.

CONNECTICUT'S LAST WORD.

There will be no heroic figure to arise in the Connecticut Constitutional Convention next month and, standing in a shaft of heavenly white light, declare his everlasting fealty to the cause of God, of country and of prohibition as he records his single martyr's vote against the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment. That spectacular privilege was yesterday denied to every one of the fifty candidates for delegate-ship in the convention. When the convention meets on July 11 every member will be a repealer; the vote will be unanimous.

That is rather too bad, because the historic gathering will thereby be robbed of that element of drama which can only be supplied by conflict and frustration. If the wets had only known! They might have arranged, perhaps, to make the drys a present of a single senatorial district somewhere in the sticks, so that they might have had one delegate—even a very little one—to grip the tattered battle flag of prohibition as he went gloriously down under the burden of forty-nine brutal opponents. But to be sunk without trace, like this—it is pitiable.

One is reminded of the words of the gallant and gentle Schley at the battle of Santiago as the pride of the Spanish navy was run ashore in flames: "Don't cheer, boys—they're dying over there."

However, these words are scarcely applicable to the Connecticut drys. They are not dying. They are not even in delicate health. They will bob up again, indubitably, as full of fight as ever. There is opportunity right now for the exercise of their talents and their determination. They can begin at once to reorganize for the defense of the existing Liquor Control Law, which, because it is about the worst possible device for handling the liquor question short of Volstead prohibition, should command the admiration and loyalty of all devoted drys.

Still, if these absolutely well intentioned enemies of drunkenness could but achieve realization from the results of the elections in this state, in New Hampshire and in Iowa yesterday, and bring themselves to the task of helping to work out the wisest possible way of controlling and influencing a worldwide institution, it is conceivable that their energy and indomitability might be made to earn large dividends in usefulness to society and in the enhancement of human happiness in America.

It is submitted to the prohibitionists of Connecticut that their work, as prohibitionists, is done. The verdict in yesterday's election was final. But that there is a tremendous work awaiting them, as men and women who long to redeem the nation from the curse of drunkenness, is appallingly obvious. That they have altogether missed the road to their goal and have wandered uselessly for many years, need not discourage them. Their purpose is a noble one. If they will cease to confuse means with ends—recognizing that such devices as prohibition are not ends but means—they will find in Connecticut, as much as in any state in the Union, avenues of expression for their hearts' desire.

TIGER AND MOUSE.

The utter folly of Japan's adventures in Manchuria, Jehol and Northern China is becoming more manifest every day. She has spent a tremendous lot of money and a great many lives chasing Chinese armies around those territories—and to what effect? The Japanese hold only the ground that their feet rest on. Their military blows have been like punches on a feather pillow. When the armies move from one spot to conquer another China flows in behind and fills the footprints of the harassed and wandering invaders. If they capture a city and its revenues, the city's life fades away and there soon are no revenues. If it garrisons a town the town is devastated by the irresistible spirit of China expressing itself in what is cheap and easy to call banditry. If Japan should move boldly over into its Asiatic mainland "holdings" it would be swallowed up in this relentless and ever lasting quicksand of tireless Chinese hatred.

The dummy Manchukuo government is already falling to pieces. It is the very home of anarchy. The futility of the whole desperately idiotic enterprise is becoming clear to all the world but to Japan. Even there bankruptcy and economic suffering must bring the enormity of the blunder home to the ruling powers eventually, if nothing else does.

China has always been safe from being eaten up by Japan for the same reason that the tiger is safe from being devoured by the mouse.

CORRECTING SECONDARY ANEMIA

In yesterday's article I mentioned some of the causes of secondary anemia. It may also be interesting for you to know some of the common symptoms that may develop when secondary anemia is present. There may be a tired, listless feeling; faintness; irregular heartbeat; poor appetite; abnormal food craving as for coffee grounds, chalk, lead pencil, etc.; sometimes swelling in the ankles; dizziness; headache; mental irritability; ringing noises in the ears; a trembling sensation; inability to concentrate long on one subject; shortness of breath; feeling of chilliness and clamminess; pale tints to the skin and lack of color of the nails; low blood pressure and digestive upsets. In treating secondary anemia it is important to correct the primary cause or disorder. If pus pockets are present they should be drained whenever possible and local treatment inaugurated. If a systemic disease is present, that should, of course, be corrected.

When the primary cause has been removed, the number of red blood cells and the amount of red coloring matter they contain are automatically increased. This is brought about because in health the blood making machinery is not required to work at full speed to keep the red cells up to normal. There exists a reserve capacity which is not called upon, much the same as an automobile factory which does not use all of its men or its machinery to supply the current market. Once the poisons that have been destroying the blood cells are eliminated the body is able to speed up production so that the blood soon comes back to a normal basis. This remarkable power of the body to make new blood cells is the reason that blood donors, who sell or give away a quart of blood, are able to make good the loss within a short time.

In addition to correcting the primary disorder, I have found it advisable in cases of secondary anemia to stimulate the system, to eliminate the pus which was not removed by the local treatments. During this fasting regimen the blood improves in quality and the almost unbelievable fact is that the number of red blood cells is increased at a rapid rate. This can be readily proven by examining the blood through a microscope, and I have yet to see a case which does not quickly respond. This treatment also assists in absorbing and eliminating the pus which was not removed by the local treatments, since the number of white blood cells, which are brought to an acute stage by the use of some especially irritating food, or bad mixtures of even good foods. Information for overcoming this trouble is contained in my article called "Nettle Rash."

FDR STILL HAS CONTROL OVER LAWMAKERS

Veterans Revolt Not Surprising; Senators Switch on White House Orders

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, June 21—Roosevelt still holds the whip hand over his party in Congress.

Even the congressional revolt against drastic veterans' economies—an isolated and not surprising phenomenon—did not diminish the significance of the remarkable flip-flop of five Democratic senators on the Finance Committee who voted against the vital licensing act until they heard their master's voice. Such a mass reversal is almost unthinkable.

The voice came over the telephone from the White House. It wasn't necessary for the president to threaten as he called them one by one. He wanted them to stand by his program and stand by the party. He wanted them to understand that the license provision, which enables the president to discipline the manufacturer who won't play ball with the proposed "partnership" between government and industry, was an extremely important part of his program.

Senate Nightmare

Visions of lost patronage at a time when patronage is available in large gobs and invaluable to every member, of being unwelcome at the White House and at executive departments, and of restricted legislative privileges under administration Senate leaders—those nightmares rise before most senators when the president speaks firmly whether he threatens or not. Byrd of Virginia was the only one of the anti-license Democrats who refused to flop when Roosevelt said "Flop!" King, Connally, Bailey, Clark and McAadoo flopped.

"Color of individualism," "Jeffersonian principles" and "keep government out of business" seemed to be the slogans of the six Democrats who deserted the Roosevelt program. The committee's first secret session. But they had heard another voice before the White House spoke—that of the National Manufacturers' Association.

Louis McHenry Howe, the president's secretary, who is widely regarded as the second most powerful man in Washington, seemed like a pleasant little gnome from the inner earth when he appeared before the Senate Military Affairs committee to tell about those famous conservation camp toilet kits. Louis is seldom on display. He is reputed to be one of the hardest men in town to see—although he said his secretary had standing orders to date up anyone who bore a letter from a senator, congressman or personal friend. But the ease with which the camp kit salesman saw him—and got action—was the reason why Louis had to come out in the limelight.

Too Fast, Maybe

He is diminutive, brown and parched and looks rather odd in his high, stiff collar. His fingers were cigar-stained and once he pulled a bottle of aspirin tablets—or perhaps digestion pills—from his pocket and had one. He sat forward on the edge of his chair, albows on the table, flanking five fat Republicans—Senators Cutting, Carey, Dickinson, Austin and Barbour. He slurred his words, but he had a winning smile and blew smoke through his nostrils.

The five fat Republicans didn't pin anything on Louis, but they did demonstrate some real aplomb in the purchase of the kits for $1.40 apiece. The conservation camp office has no purchasing office and no one had really checked the value of the kits. The salesman's word was taken. Howe and Roosevelt put their names on an authorization letter written by a subaltern. The incident was a minor one, but it should have a good effect on some of the enthusiastic "New Deal boys" who glory in "cutting red tape."

LET SLEEPING BEARS LIE.

A sudden sixty mile an hour gale, following upon a period of mugginess, is always refreshing, even if sometimes a bit terrifying. The general political atmosphere of Europe had been rather muggy ever since the World Economic Conference foregathered. Then Dr. Alfred Hugenberg, Reich Minister of Economy and Agriculture, sprung something. He made a speech last Friday asking the conference to bring about the return of Germany's

BIG BUT STUPID.

It rather passes the understanding of the average individual to attempt to analyze the proceedings of some of our presumably cleverest men in critical times like these when the "big businesses" with which they are associated are so frankly under suspicion. Of course no one but extraordinarily capable individuals could be at the head of so huge an enterprise as the New York Edison Company, but if anybody could think up something stupider than a recent performance of that corporation he would have to be stupid indeed.

What was done was to increase the salaries of executives by about twenty per cent and through the employment of more executives boost the cost of company administration to a total of about 40 per cent, all in one year and at the very time when it was cutting its operative payroll 8 1-3 per cent by enforcing its working employees to lay off for the equivalent of a month in a year.

Now the company, under the fire of a Public Service Commission investigation, is doing all sorts of hemming and hawing and squirming as it tries to explain.

Greedy selfishness is too common a falling in the human family to occasion the slightest surprise; there should be none over its appearing in the directorate of the New York Edison company. What is surprising is the astute stupidity that failed to foresee the spectacle the company was making of itself and the degree to which such proceedings was certain to bring discredit upon all its motives. But perhaps the company was also so incredibly stupid as to imagine that the public would never find out about those executive salary boosts the while linemen and operatives were being bereft of one-twelfth of their earnings.

LOCAL LETTER RATES.

On July 1 a two cent first class letter rate on mailings for local delivery will go into effect. It will be interesting to learn whether that rate will apply to all letters mailed in Manchester and addressed to persons within the town limits. No general statement covering such situations as may arise here has yet been made by the Post Office Department but probably will be before the first of the month.

This problem is suggested by a statement given out by Postmaster

IN NEW YORK

4,000,000 BOOKWORMS ARE FED HERE A YEAR

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, June 21—Thousands of out-of-town visitors see the New York public library each year, usually distinguishing it from the post office by the stonions, pigeons, fountains and groups of dowdy liberals who clutter the plaza. Some sight-seers go in to look about curiously, thus getting themselves counted among the 4,000,000 people who enter there each year. But few ever see the inner workings of the library proper—the seven levels of thousands of stacks, two city blocks long, or the scores of skittling attendants, who can find and deliver any one of 3,608,429 books in an average of seven minutes.

Almost nobody, regular patrons included, ever meets Mr. Edwin H. Anderson, the director. He is very shy and quiet, as most year-old librarians would be. About the only way to reach him is to register a complaint about something. Two ladies complained at the same time one day and he received them together. One said the main reading room was too cold. The other declared it was hot and stuffy. Mr. Anderson had them escorted to different reading rooms.

The only major quarrel that ever got into the newspapers was over a man who insisted on reading in his shirt sleeves. This is against the library rules, but the director interceded for him because he was a serious scholar. Mr. Anderson is a scholar himself, and is always hopefully going down to inquire about the popularity of some book he has just read and admired. Usually he finds it hasn't been taken out in years, and he considers this a distressing indication of something or other.

James Can Read It!

Another article credits Mr. Witherspoon Eames, LL.D., LL.T., the institution's chief bibliographer. Eames had a hard time reaching the top, for he has been a printer's devil, a bookshop clerk, a salesman of religious tracts, and a postman. When he was 10 years old he got hold of a copy of Herodotus, and the public schools gave him up, as hopeless when he was 16 because he was al-

(No Gargle for Catarrh)

Question: Raymond H. Inquires: "Is the mixture of equal parts of salt and soda a good gargle for catarrh?"

Answer: There is no gargle which can be said to be good for catarrh. Remove the cause from the INSIDE by changing your diet, and the catarrh on any of your mucous membranes will disappear.

(Hives Caused by Acidity)

Question: Mr. Willard S. writes: "I seem to be in good health, but every once in a while I have a sign of hives. Will you please tell me the cause?"

Answer: Hives are caused from abrupt hyperacidity of the stomach which is brought to an acute stage by the use of some especially irritating food, or bad mixtures of even good foods. Information for overcoming this trouble is contained in my article called "Nettle Rash."

THEATERS

AT THE STATE

Two Feature Pictures
 Fay Wray in "Ann Carver's Profession" and Nancy Carroll and Edmund Lowe in "I Love That Man" are the two pictures on today's double feature program at the State. These two big pictures continue through Thursday night.

On Friday the State will enjoy a real gala day. In the morning, the High school graduation exercises will be held, while in the afternoon the awards will be made to the two most popular seniors graduating from the High school in addition to the triple feature shot on the program: "Peg O' My Heart" with Marion Davies; Jimmy Dunn and Sally Eilers in "Hold Me Tight" and the Baer-Schmeling fight pictures.
 Edmund Lowe, Nancy Carroll,

Robert Armstrong, Lew Cody, Warren Hymer and Dorothy Burgess are featured in "I Love That Man," drama which opened at the State theater. Lowe plays the role of a slick confidence man; Nancy appears as a girl of good background who realizes, the moment she meets Lowe, that he is the only man she can ever love. Though she knows he is a crook, she joins him on his tours of the country to separate every available sucker from every available dollar.

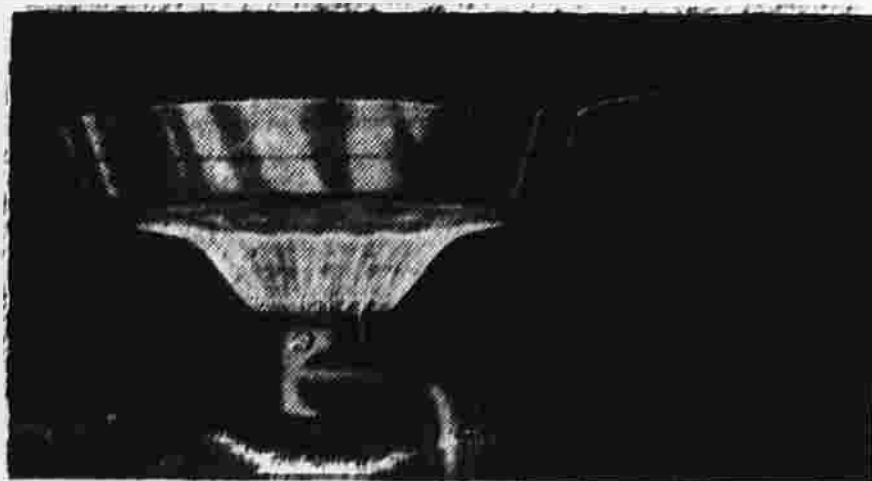

In a series of amazing "get-rich-quick" schemes.
 A decidedly interesting twist has been given the ever-absorbing home-or-career theme in the Columbia picture, "Ann Carver's Profession." It is destined to create much controversy and it behooves you to get acquainted early with what the commotion is all about.
 Only 153 convictions for drunkenness were recorded in Cardiff, England, in 1933.

Turning the valve handle automatically lights the modern gas range burner. The top burner on the Magic Chef automatic gas range, for example, is called — "The burner of a thousand economical heats." This burner illustrates the great flexibility of gas heat for cooking.

Full Flame Gas is the only fuel that gives full heat at the start. There is always heat to spare on the fully automatic gas burner.

Intermediate Heat By slowly turning the valve handle, the heat is gradually reduced to exactly the right point to cook without waste.

Simmer To go from any middle degree of heat down to a stay simmer, and all the in-between temperatures, is only possible on the modern gas range.

BARGAIN BRIDE

By KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN THEM TODAY
BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, meets 29-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD and falls in love with her. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

Elinor's beautiful mother, LIDA STAFFORD, has kept the girl in the background, wanting attention for herself. Lida is carrying on a flirtation with VANCE CARTER and is constantly scheming to keep in the good graces of MISS ELLA SEXTON, her husband's aunt, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. Elinor hates this hypocrite.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOR, is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now. Marcia insists that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

HAROLD DEXTER, the boy's tutor, threatens blackmail. Barrett, blinding at knowledge of Dexter's past (all of which is bluff), frightens the man into promising he will not make trouble.

At Miss Ella Sexton's home Barrett meets Elinor Stafford again and takes her for a drive.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IX

A few moments later Barrett tucked Elinor into the green roadster which he had had the foresight earlier to order left before his door.

"What a nice car!" she murmured.

He was absurdly pleased that she liked it. He settled beside her saying, "Must I take you straight home or can we have a short drive?"

"I'd love to go for a drive!" Elinor answered. The way she said it made Barrett want to put his hand over hers; wanted to do this with a new and shaken intensity. He had found his anesthesia, he realized. The troubles of the past few days that had been haunting him were already growing dim.

"Do you like to drive?" he asked. "Yes, I do—but not in a glass cage," she answered. "I like open cars in which you seem close to the earth and can feel the wind on your face."

"So do I," Barrett agreed. Elinor wondered what to say next; she never did know. Barrett too, was wondering whether she considered him a dull, middle-aged bore. He wished he had learned more about women from any one of them he had known.

She admitted falteringly a moment later, "I'm afraid you'll be bored because I never know what to say."

He laughed delightedly. "That's good to hear," he said, "because I was afraid you'd be wearied on the same score."

She raised big, amazed eyes to his. For a second he ignored the traffic to look down and his heart told him that she was a darling child and that he was not so old as he had thought. And then all at once they were talking.

She didn't know why it was, Elinor admitted, that she always felt constrained at her aunt's. Did she like Miss Smythe? She thought she didn't quite understand Miss Smythe. Barrett said he didn't understand Miss Smythe either. And Craven, she said, made her feel embarrassed too. The way he called out her name when she entered the drawing room. Did he know the picture of the frog in "Alice in Wonderland" that Craven looked so much like that frog!

Barrett had headed the car down town into the narrow streets that are silent, and open to echoes on Sundays, the same streets that hum on working days. Here and there in windows were lights, muted by the late afternoon to pale lemon. But most of the cloud-brushing buildings slept. The comparative stillness made Barrett feel alone with the girl. He doubted (he thought coming to him in a flash) whether most men in the throes of an intense love affair could be as happy as he was at that moment. He felt absurdly content.

"Can't we go again?" Barrett asked as casually as he could.

He turned the car to a bridge below which the river proclaimed itself in the thickening twilight by holding its unsteady mirror to the lights.

"I've never been here at this hour. I think it's beautiful!" she said softly.

Barrett thought, "I knew you would." He did not speak and he knew he did not need to. He had never felt so completely that everything was as it should be. He had a flash of misty memory; the same feeling that had been his as a very small boy with his face against his mother's shoulder. That phase had been short. She had died just after his tenth birthday and within two years his stepmother, Rita, had begun her rule. Rita had never grown quite accustomed to the chills of the northern climate and had remained headily Spanish to the end. She had coqueted or ignored but never seen him as a child. "I've been lonely," Barrett realized with surprise, "and never even knew it!" He was not lonely now.

"I've never talked this way to anyone before," Elinor admitted wondrously.

Though the words were close to his lips Barrett did not speak them. "I love you," his heart was crying out. "I love you!"

The girl was entirely unconscious of all this. She rode beside him, drinking in the beauty of the fading day. Across the bridge in Brooklyn Barrett set his car to a speed in keeping with the sedate hush of the streets. He had always been certain that successful marriages were made after a calm consideration and selection. He had thought often, "If ever marry it will not be because I have been swept off my feet."

Now he realized that he knew nothing of the mind of the girl who was beside him and yet he wanted—he had never wanted anything—to have her by him for the stretch of his life. The conviction had come as suddenly as a lightning flash that Elinor sat back against the seat, smiling. The relaxation she felt was so good. Usually people, unless she knew them well (and she knew few people well), made her tense.

They passed a corner of the street where the Tropes lived. "Dear Aunt Bessie," the girl thought, "I must go to see her soon." The tap-dances that was within her was spreading over wide areas. Perhaps she would never have such an after-noon as this again. Well, she could

"I'm glad to hear you say so," he murmured.

"I've never forgotten it," she assured him, "and I never shall!"

"I've enjoyed the drive so much!" she said as the roadster nosed its way up Park Avenue.

"Really?" he asked probably.

"Oh, yes. Really!"

"Then can't we go again?" he asked as casually as he could.

"I do like!" he assured her almost sharply. "I'd like nothing so much as to be one of your friends."

"Oh," she said, "that is so kind of you!"

put his hand on hers; he could feel the gesture. Elinor returned the pressure frankly and warmly. Barrett's heart turned over. (To Be Continued)

Evening Herald Pattern

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart
 BABY'S SUNBATH

DON'T LET FRECKLES GET YOU DOWN

Freckles can be cute as a bug's ear, on some women.

If you happen to be the young modern, built on the fascinating Hope Williams lines and manner, then a little string of freckles across your cute nose and cheeks only heightens your charm.

If you have a secret yen to be a fragile, clinging vine, then I suppose you must do something about your freckles. For they have an unchic-something about them that ruins any attempt to pull a shrinking violet line.

As a matter of fact, freckles often come with the loveliest, most parent skins. Don't let freckles give you a complex! If they threaten to start now to work on them.

With freckles, as with everything else, an ounce of prevention is worth several cures. Protect your skin, that's the first step. Use one of the good lotions or creams designed to counteract Old Man Sun. Then powder right over this. That is a double precaution. Third, carry a parasol. They're chic now and they protect your face, there's no doubting that.

If your freckles are already on the up and up, then get yourself one of the bleaching creams, or freckle creams, and use it assiduously. Bleaching stimulants should be added to your beauty shelf. And follow directions on every single bottle or jar you buy! After you start bleaching, then be doubly sure that you cream and powder before starting out.

TREAT FACIAL BLEMISHES

CAUTIOUSLY

Sometimes you see a woman with one or two large brown spots on her face, "freckles," she may call them. Others sometimes term them "liver spots."

Whatever you name them, they are not attractive, mainly because they obviously do not belong where they are. There are two ways of treating them. First, you can use a cream for covering them up (there are new creams for such purposes on the market). Second, you can get at the root of the matter and get rid of them.

Certain experienced operators burn off such spots with carbolic acid. You cannot do it yourself. It is a most precise operation.

It is right line is effective. Done wrong it will burn the outlying skin and do much more harm than good. Never try this treatment yourself, but go to someone who really knows how.

Second, try bleaching creams and bleaching stimulants on them, as if they were freckles. Sometimes they do reach them and take them out. This experiment may succeed and is worth trying.

The third, and the safest way to treat them, is to consult your family physician to see if they aren't spots from bad digestive troubles. If so, the internal trouble must be cured before you can get rid of them. If you actually have digestive trouble, of course you want to cure it. So start with the third alternative, if you are interested in getting rid of such brown spots.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton
 BE CAUTIOUS ABOUT BABY'S SUNBATH

This is the fourth of a series of six articles by Olive Roberts Barton, expert on child rearing, on "Summer Care of Babies." Today the writer gives some helpful pointers on baby's sunbath.

Be careful about sunbaths these scorching days.

Again I urge that the doctor be consulted about what your children need. As I said in a former article, it is not necessary to call him every five minutes on the telephone or even every day. But make out a list of questions to ask when you do see him. His advice plus your good judgment make the best combination of safety I know.

Scorching summer sun shining for long directly on the body can do a great deal of harm. It is just a question whether the sun's rays days small bodies need sunbaths at all. But if so, it should be in the first part of the morning, or toward evening.

Ask the Doctor's Advice

I cannot presume to direct the sunbath when the thermometer is 90 or 95 degrees. Then the chief business of life is to keep the children as cool as possible. But ask the doctor. He will direct you.

Those children old enough to run around, as well as the baby, need very little clothing. You cannot keep them in the shade every second but at midday and during the intense afternoon heat, it is better for them to be in the darkened quiet house. Don't let them play out on a baked street with the sun beating down on bare heads and where the concrete is hot enough to fry pancakes.

Later in the summer the children will get more "hardened" to the sun. These first hot days have the effect of shock. The sun like some medicines has to be approached gradually in small doses to be at all useful. When skin pigments increase and the skin is conditioned to stand the onslaught of rays, children may more safely stand exposure.

Mid-Afternoon Dangerous

But one rule I should observe all through the summer. Never permit continued exposure through the hot part of the afternoon. During that time they should be quiet. And most of them should either be having naps (up to five— or even six in a more delicate child), or if not napping, resting in bed—alone.

A word here about sunburn. I believe that most people know now that sunburn is not to be fooled with. Not only does it destroy skin surface and its power to throw off perspiration, but it does things to the body. When a certain amount of skin surface is destroyed even temporarily, it throws an extra burden on other excretory organs, sometimes more than they can take care of. Go to sunburn slowly and carefully.

Keep Little Heads Covered

Heads should be covered. Make the little children wear brimmed hats (you can get them for a dime) when they are out in the hot sun.

I have been asked about cod-liver oil in summer. This is one other thing the doctor has to settle. The sun is considered a substitute, or rather the other way about. Many children are taken off the oil when hot days begin. But others continue it if they are weak, ill, or malnourished. The little baby too, may or may not need it depending on his condition, where he lives and how he lives.

All signs of a cruel summer weather. There can be no blanket rule that covers every case.

HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHER
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene the Health Magazine son should be limited to the time necessary for consumption of a glass of milk and a biscuit.

The extra time at luncheon should be spent in a complete rest from the usual activities of the day; that is to say, either in lying flat with the eyes closed, or in some recreation such as a walk in the outdoors, or a quiet conversation, or any similar diversion.

Unfortunately with the majority of Americans, luncheon has become a time for attending to business not attended to in the office.

Before the chief course comes on, one lays down psychologically a pleasant frame of mind; between the next two courses one introduces indolently the real reason for having the luncheon, and just before the dessert one leads up to the final proposition to be discussed.

After the dessert, when there is a pleasant feeling of satisfaction, a prospect is induced to smoke a fairly heavy cigar and, in these circumstances, can be easily brought to sign the paper.

From the point of view of health, luncheons mixed with business are not recommended. The psychology of digestion is almost as important as its physiology.

A feeling of appetite brings about a flow of the gastric juice, a period of rest gives a proper time for relaxation and recovery from exhaustion, both of the brain and of the muscle cells. A walk in the outdoors means oxygenation of the blood, and perhaps aids digestion.

It would not be unusual, however, if the President of the United States weakened his digestion in attending to business of the government during luncheon. The job, as revealed by the lives of men who have held it in recent years, is one which taxes the capacity of the mental and physical capacity under even the most favorable of conditions.

Of late, there has been a tendency to cut down on the size of luncheon and to make the evening dinner the main meal of the day.

Most American men eat a fairly hearty breakfast, including fruit, sometimes cereal, eggs, toast and coffee, and not infrequently bacon or sausage. With such a breakfast and with a dinner including soup, meat, two vegetables, salad, coffee or tea, and dessert, the luncheon need merely include something light as a sandwich, fruit and a beverage. Many a competent business man takes only glass of milk and a biscuit for his noonday luncheon. This does not mean, however, that the time for lunch-of foreclosure, extensions of time for maturing obligations, and refinancing measures.

To induce industrial recovery, they suggest controlled currency expansion coupled with an extensive program of public works. They also call for a more centralized and commercial banking under government control.

Published by Macmillan, this book is priced at $4.50.

SUMMER PLANNING

Careful household plans for the summer will save you much trouble and confusion when the days are the hottest.

First, get your wardrobe in shape. Decide what clothes you will need for work, dress-up occasions and for your vacation. Then get them! Shopping is laborable in all hot weather.

If at all possible, lay plans for your vacation early. Then you won't be wiring frantically for reservations at the last minute. If the children are to be sent to a summer camp as soon as school is out, see that all the arrangements have been made with the camp. Their camp wardrobe should be planned and packed well in advance of the day of their departure. Study the camp schedule carefully and don't send them off with a lot of subjects when they will be forbidden to use when they get there.

If the national debt is to be paid off, the government should issue bonds for the different fields—home ownership, education, health, etc.

FOUR NEWCOMERS PLAY ON BRITISH RYDER CUP SQUAD

Experience and Youth Are Blended in Team That Meets American Golf Aces for Trophy Next Week.

London, June 21.—(AP)— Experience and youth are blended in the British golf team which will attempt to lift the Ryder cup from the American invaders June 26-27 at the Southport and Ainsdale course.

Eight men and two reserves, captained by the non-playing J. H. Taylor, have been selected to battle for the trophy competed for every other year and last won by America over the Scioto course at Columbus Ohio.

Veteran of the team, which averages 33 years as against the American average of 31 years, and the oldest man on either side, is Abe Mitchell.

During the recent Leeds tournament, Mitchell turned in a record score of 67 in the qualifying stages before he eliminated Henry Cotton and C. H. Ward in reaching the last eight of the match-play section.

Four newcomers. He has taken part in two Ryder cup matches, in 1929 and 1931, and was chosen in 1927 but had to withdraw because of illness.

Four of the British professionals are newcomers to Ryder competition, including Alan Daily, 28-year-old winner of the first major tournament of the year at Roehampton; Arthur Lacey, 26, victor at Leeds; Alfred Padgug, 27, runner-up to Lacey at Leeds and holder of the Irish open title; and Alfred Perry, 27, a former open champion of Surrey.

Percy Arliss, a reserve in 1929, is 36 and has won a number of championships, including the German open in four consecutive years and the German professional title for two years. He finished third in the British open in 1931.

Two 1931 winners back. The remaining regulars are W. H. Davies, 41, who defeated Johnny Farrell in 1931 for one-half of the total British singles victories in that competition, and Charles Whitcombe, 37, who has been in all three of the former Ryder matches.

As reserves there will be Syd Easterbrook, 37, a member of the team in 1931, and Arthur Hills, 35, who with Davies was the only singles winner in 1931.

Four newcomers will be played on the first day and singles on the second day, each over 90 holes, eight players to compete for each side.

SUB-ALPINES DRUB OLD TIMERS, 14-3

File Up 18 Bingles to Trounce Athletics; Play Ramblers Tomorrow.

The Sub-Alpines gave the highly touted Athletics a lesson in modern baseball last evening walloping them 14 to 3. Burkhardt's offerings proved easy for the Alpine hitters.

No less than eighteen hits were collected off his delivery. Bingo Sturgeon led the A's hitters well in check with the exception of the third inning when they got three runs on three hits and two walks.

Ding Farr, J. Sullivan and H. Fraser hit hard and often for the Alpines. Joe Sullivan slugged a long home run to right field scoring two men ahead of him in the last inning. Jim O'Leary did a fine job at covering second base.

Jack Burkhardt collected two hits for the A's. Joe Tedford smacked a neat double to left field in the fifth but failed to score.

The West Side Ramblers, a newly organized team, will furnish the opposition for the Sub-Alpines Thursday night at Mt. Nebo.

Score by innings: Sub-Alpines 055 800 — 14 Athletics 003 100 — 3

Home run, Sullivan; struck out by Sturgeon 2; by Burkhardt 4; base on balls, off Sturgeon 4, off Burkhardt 1.

HE'S SENSATION

The greatest schoolboy athlete to participate in the National interscholastics at Chicago in years is Jesse Owens, negro runner of Cleveland's East Tech High School, shown above, broke the world scholastic marks in the 100-yard dash, 330-yard sprint and broad jump in the recent schoolboy meet. His mark in the 100—9.4 seconds—equalled the accepted world record of Frank Wykoff.

LOUGHRAN TO TRY COMEBACK TONIGHT

Makes Final Attempt to Reach Front Line in 4th Bout With Steve Hamas.

New York, June 21.—(AP)— Almost overlooked in the crush of June's major heavyweight battles, Tommy Loughran, once a title contender, and young Steve Hamas, a grand fighting prospect a couple of years ago, square off for ten rounds at the Yankee Stadium tonight for the fourth time.

Loughran, former champion of the light heavyweights and a foe of Jack Sharkey, once a title contender in the stadium, first tangled with Hamas in Madison Square Garden a year ago last January. The former Penn state football star turned in one of the biggest upsets of the season, knocking out Loughran in two rounds.

Since then Tommy has slipped from the ranks of the contending heavyweights, hampered by age and an injured foot. For a time it was feared Hamas' ring career was over because of a recurrent football knee injury that responded slowly to surgical treatment. But in between times they fought twice over the ten round route, each winning a decision.

Back in condition again, his foot healed, Loughran is making a final effort to jam his way into the heavyweight front line that has been monopolized by Max Baer and Max Baer. He is scheduled to fight on Monday, June 25, at the same time as the Baer-Schmeling duel, is staging tomorrow night's show alone.

Adolph Houser, German puncher who failed last winter to take the light heavyweight title from Maxie Rosenbloom, makes his heavyweight debut against Abe Feldman, of New York, in an eight round preliminary.

Tim Mara, manager of Jack Dempsey in the promotion of the Baer-Schmeling duel, is staging tomorrow night's show alone.

The Herald Newboys and the Baldwin Aces will meet tonight at the Mt. Nebo grounds at 6 o'clock. Baldwin have been hitting a fast pace lately and really rate as a better team than the Newbies.

The Herald, however, with pitching talent that includes McCurry, Kneuzer, Leashinske and Moser with Vince doing the receiving will undoubtedly make Baldwin play a real brand of ball to win.

TOURS LINKS WITH BABE AS SHE HITS SNAPPY 92 SCORE

"La Didrikson" Takes Up Golf Seriously and Astonishes Sports Scribe; Has Great Natural Ability.

By ERSKINE JOHNSON NEA Service Writer

Los Angeles, June 21.— Being a courageous sort of a chap, your correspondent played 18 holes of golf with Mildred "Babe" Didrikson here the other day.

After the smoke of battle had cleared away and numerous unnecessary divots dug by yours truly had been not too courteously replaced by a frowning course attendant, the Dallas, Texas, wonder's score was found to be 92. Consider that the Babe has really studied the game only a couple of months, this score isn't half bad. An adding machine operator is working on my score now.

But it was a glorious defeat, so far as getting a yarn is concerned. We found out just how seriously the Babe has taken up golf, and just what she can do on the course in competition. And we learned, too, that she is practicing on the saxophone, and may start a band.

In taking up golf in a big way, Miss Didrikson is simply heaving out a plan for the future. Notwithstanding her achievements in the hurdles, sprints, high jump, javelin, basketball and swimming, this plan calls for golf as the future objective. The Babe's professional career has not led to fame or fortune, but it has led to an awakening to the fact that proficiency in sports of the cinderpath means less to her than proficiency in golf. As the greatest woman golfer she believes she can command a fortune. And that's her goal.

Her natural ability is great. She handles the 16 clubs she lugs around with ease. Her drives average around 250 yards and once in a while she spans the ball even farther. As soon as she gets a clearer picture of the put and short approach shot, the various departments of her game at present, she should out from 20 to 25 strokes off her score.

As soon as she gets a clearer picture of the put and short approach shot, the various departments of her game at present, she should out from 20 to 25 strokes off her score.

Babe's main objective is to "take" Helen Hicks, who was national amateur golf champion two years ago.

Miss Hicks, so the story goes, remarked that the Babe would get knocked off in short order if she took up golf. This made the Babe sore and she went to get that Helen person if it takes me a hundred years, she says. "I made enough out of my pro ventures to keep me going for three years. But that time I'll have this golf game down pat. Then I would like to teach other girls to lick dear Miss Hicks."

Now to get down to the brand of golf displayed by Miss Didrikson in our little match. True to the female instinct, she had to hunt up a Johnson and powder her nose before getting started. But when she addressed the ball and sent it sailing toward the green, all her femininity was forgotten.

Her first drive was good for 230 yards. Her second shot landed in a sand trap to the left of the yard hole. She liked it, though. "If you don't get in a trap once in a while, you won't know how to get out of 'em when you do," she remarked.

On the next, a 392-yard hole, she let fly on a drive which was good for at least 280 yards. Her approach shot wasn't so hot, and her putting was worse. She took a five on this par four hole. "I'm just a sissy, that's all," she said as she missed a putt here which looked like a cinch.

And so it went. Altogether, she took a flock of fours and fives, one eight, on a 475-yard hole, six sixes, one seven and a three.

The manner in which the Babe played the 18th hole is one for the books. It's a par five extending yard hole, with a wide lake extending the width of the fairway approximately 250 yards from the tee. Most men players, and all women, take it safe and use a short brassie drive and then clear the lake with their second shot. Kertes and I played it this way. But the Babe had different ideas. "I'll clear that lake if I can't do it the last thing I do," she said. And let fly and the ball cleared the barrier with feet to spare. It was a 275-yard drive, and she was down in a nice par. And I asked for a friendly little game!

ELECT CAPTAINS OF TWO M. H. S. SPORTS TEAMS

"Chucky" Smith to Head Baseball Nine Next Year; Arton Judd Leads Track Squad; Both Have Outstanding Athletic Records; Name Manager.

Two athletic captains were elected at Manchester High school yesterday, at a meeting of the letter men of the baseball and track organizations. Charles "Chucky" Smith was elected baseball captain and Arton Judd was named captain of track.

Smith's Record. Smith has played for two years on the varsity team. Last year when O'Leary was moved to third base, Smith was placed at second, a position which he filled in creditable fashion. This year he has been an outstanding factor in the steady play of the infield and has had the best fielding record of any second baseman in the C. I. I. He has also been a good hitter on a team that did rather poorly at bat during the past season and his work on the paths was particularly commendable. Coach Thomas Kelley believes that "Chucky" will make an excellent leader for the team in 1934.

Judd's Record. Judd has already enjoyed the honor of class president and will be president of the H-Y next year. He has been the second highest point winner on the track team this season, being the best broad jumper on the team and sharing the sprint honors with Fraser. He has run on the relay teams and has been a hard worker in whatever event he has been entered. In the sprints he and Fraser were against unusually fast competition this year in a season which saw the indoor and outdoor dash records broken by the speedsters from New Haven. Both men should be faster next year and Coach Wigren believes that they will be among the place winners at the 1934 State and League meets.

TOLLEY GAINS 4TH ROUND AS DUNLAP STAYS IN RUNNING

Ross Somerville Also Advances in British Amateur Golf Play at Hoylake; Weather Is Ideal Today.

Hoylake, Eng., June 21.—(AP)— Cyril J. H. Tolley, big Englishman who has made his home in the United States for several years, advanced into the fourth round of the British Amateur golf championship today by defeating T. C. J. Manners of Colwyn Bay, 2 and 1.

Jack Nash, of London, Ont., continued his steady play to defeat Munn, 47-year-old Irishman, 4 and 2, in the third round.

Tolley Plays Poorly. Tolley, winner of the championship in 1920 and 1923, was far from his best form but Manners failed to capitalize on his big rival's mistakes. Tolley needed 36 strokes for the first nine where par is 36, but turned two up just the same. Manners held him even through the first six holes but Tolley won the seventh and eighth holes, the Colwyn Bay player dipping a stroke over par on each.

Manners out one hole off Tolley led at the short 11th where big Cyril took a five for the second day in succession, but the former champion finally ended the match on the 17th which was halved in par fours.

DUNLAP STILL IN. Hoylake, Eng., June 21.—(AP)— George Dunlap, Jr., of New York, Ont., the principal North American threat, still were in the running as the 103 survivors went out for the third day of play in the British Amateur golf championship today. The last 58 matches in the third round and all 32 four-round matches were to be completed by nightfall.

Dunlap, former United States intercollegiate champion, and Somerville, present American amateur king, both had reached the fourth round and were tied among the late starters today. Dunlap was paired against Alario De Forest of the Royal and Ancient club and did a very commendable job, but lost to Alario 3 and 2.

Weather conditions were ideal after yesterday's hard rain.

GREEN-HIGHLANDERS TO CLASH TOMORROW. A baseball game that should provide action aplenty, is scheduled for 8 p. m. tomorrow at Jarvis Grove. This encounter brings together the Manchester Green and Highland Park teams for their first meeting this season, and reports from rival camps indicate that each team figures to get the jump on the other by taking the first game.

The game scheduled for last Sunday between the Manchester Green and Pioneer clubs, in which the latter expected to avenge the eleven-inning defeat handed them by the Green team a few weeks ago, was necessarily postponed because of rain, and will be played at 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

Season's Fastest Heat Is Run At Sturbridge

Harness racing fans who saw the opening of the Bay State circuit meeting at Cedar Lake Park, Sturbridge, Mass., yesterday saw the fastest heat yet produced since the circuit opened at Goheen two weeks ago. Miss Volo piloted by her owner E. dispensing stepped around the beautiful Sturbridge track in 2:06 to win the second heat of the 13 races. She took the first heat so her last second heat gave her the race. Rose Marie Abbe, the favorite to win the third heat.

There was some good racing on yesterday's four race card and it will be repeated this afternoon. In the 24 trot Evalise Hanover the favorite didn't seem to be in form. Fleet McKillo, owned by H. Carter of Holyoke, Mass., and changed over from a pacer to a trotter last year, taking the last two heats after being disqualified in the first for pacing. In the 35 pace Jim Fortescue horse Brave Arion had to be content with second, third and fourth positions, Mike Cummings, driven by Harry Goodhart, taking three heats coasting to the wire in practically every heat. Peter Ingomar, driven by Charley Mabrey showed good form in taking second position in the last two heats. Ingomar was the winner in this race at Chatham.

In the fourth race for colts Hanover Prospect, one of the Holopole and Garner promising foals took two firsts in the two in three pace stepping the first quarter in 35 1-4. Lyman Bruise of Hartford drove Hanover Prospect. Harry Bruise didn't pilot any horses at Sturbridge yesterday.

POLICE COURT

Fred M. Cook, of 88 Catherine street, Hartford, was found guilty of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, by Judge Raymond A. Johnson in the Manchester police court this morning. Cook was arrested on June 16 at 2:20 in the morning by Officer Walter R. Cassella. Chester Shields complained to the officer about Cook's driving. He told the court this morning that he had to drive off the road in order to pass him. Both the officer, Mr. Shields, and

Dr. LeVerns Holmes who examined Cook, testified that he was intoxicated. Attorney Joseph X. Friedman of Hartford, defended Cook and stressed the fact that his client was of a nervous type. He identified his client as having drunk some liquor but from the testimony of the state's witnesses he maintained a conviction was not justified. Thomas Quish of this town was a witness for Cook. He said that he was in Hartford on the night in question, and that Cook saw him waiting for a trolley car and gave him a ride home. He had known Cook for five years. On the ride home Mr. Quish said he carried on a general conversation and that liquor never entered his mind. Mr. Cook, he said, drove the car perfectly. The attorney made a plea for leniency, and the fact that Cook was working only part time and supported an aged mother. Judge Johnson imposed a fine of $100 and costs, remitted $25 of the fine and gave him until July 15 to pay the fine and costs. Clifford Shea of the north end pleaded guilty to intoxication, and was fined $10 and costs which was paid.
