Acquitted — Jurors After Three Times Seeking Instruction Return "Not Guilty" Verdict on All Counts of Indictment

New York, June 22 — (AP) — Charles E. Mitchell was acquitted today on all counts in the indictment which charged him with income tax evasion.

The jury which had heard the

government charges that Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, had cheated the government in 1929 and 1930 of more than $500,000 in income taxes, took the case at 11:25 a. m. e. s. t. yesterday.

It returned the verdict a little more than 24 hours later.

The charges against Mitchell, who for many years was one of the most powerful figures in the banking world, were brief; that he had illegally failed to report a payment of $666,666.67 from the National City Company in 1929, and that he had made sham stock sales to make it appear that he had suffered such heavy income loss that he owed no tax in 1929 and 1930.

The stock sale in 1929 was to Mitchell's wife, and the one in 1930 to W. D. Thornton, president of the Greene Cananea Copper Company.

Jury's instructions
The jury had been instructed that it could convict or acquit on all the charges together, or could convict or acquit on any one charge.

SEE NEW OUTBREAK NEAR GREAT WALL

Despite Sino-Japanese Truce
Japs Are Trying to Control Entire Countryside.

Tientsin, June 22 — (AP) — Indications of renewed Sino-Japanese differences in North China became evident today.

Despite a truce signed May 31 which specified the Chinese would police a neutral zone south of the Great Wall, Chinese military leaders now are charging that Japanese are causing large numbers of Manchukuo troops to enter the zone for policing purposes.

"The Japanese are thereby given unbroken control of the district," the Chinese alleged.

The Chinese claims are upheld by foreign sources within the zone, which is about the size of Connecticut and extends north of a line roughly drawn from Peiping eastward to the sea.

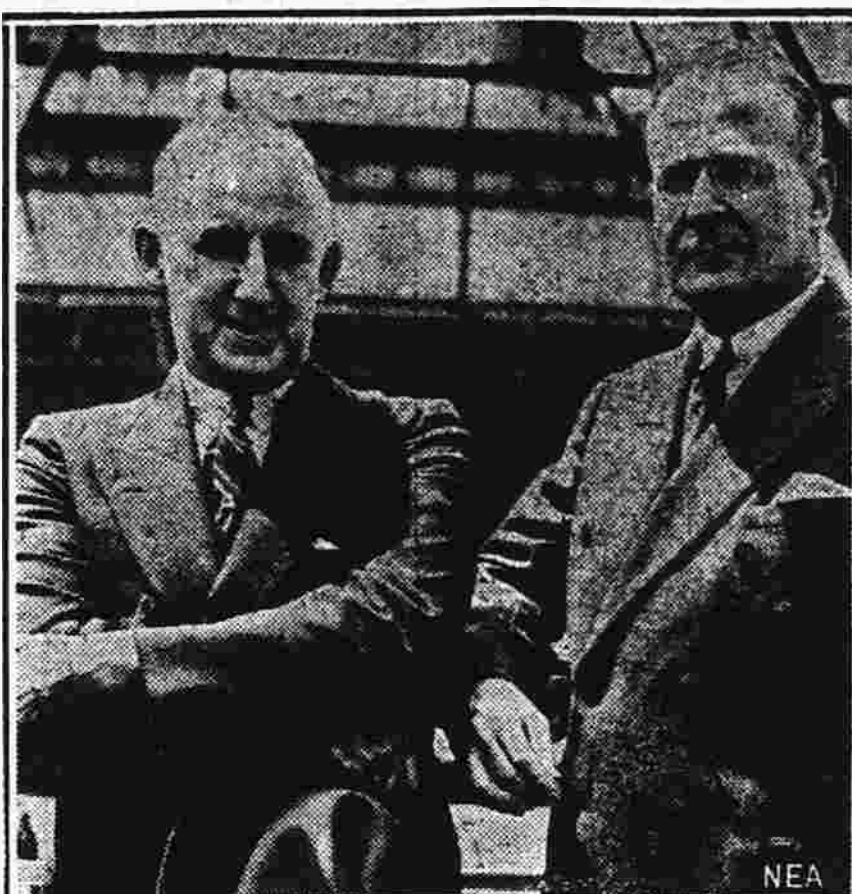

These sources say at least 8,000 Manchukuo troops have come into the district south of the Wall in the last few days.

Rail service east from Tientsin remains virtually paralyzed.

The movement of American and British troops from Tientsin by rail to Chinwangtao and Shanhaiwan, respectively, for summer camps has been blocked.

The 15th American Infantry, which comprises the United States forces in the Tientsin treaty zone, has advanced to reach Chinwangtao by sea.

ADVISES TRADE STUDENTS TO BE GOOD ARTISANS

Commissioner of Education
Dr. E. W. Butterfield Addresses Graduates; Fine Program Last Evening.

The value of forming a friendship with work was the theme of the address to the class of 1933 of South Manchester State Trade School given by Dr. Ernest W. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education in the Trade School auditorium, School street last night.

The break in the power service came during the address to the graduates. Dr. Butterfield continued his talk in the darkness, while the vivid flashes of lightning disclosed the speaker and honored guests momentarily on the auditorium platform.

Good Artisans
The value of becoming good artisans was aptly illustrated by Dr. Butterfield when he exhibited four nails, two of modern manufacture and two of ancient hand workmanship.

Dr. Butterfield urged the class of 1933 to apply the simple illustration of the four nails to themselves as the guide for their future endeavors in the various trades to which they will soon be apprenticed.

FRANCE AND AMERICA REACH AN AGREEMENT

Sec. Hull's Resolution
At World Conference

London, June 22 — (AP) — An announcement from headquarters of the American delegation at the world economic conference today described a resolution introduced by Secretary of State Hull as "designed to lay the foundations for a gradual reduction and removal of artificial barriers to trade."

The resolution, which the announcement said was introduced by authority of the American delegation and on instructions of the United States government, read:

"Whereas the various nations have been constrained on one hand to impose restrictions upon imports in the nature of tariffs, quotas, embargoes, etc., and on the other hand by subsidized exports.

"And whereas this tendency has resulted in nationalistic action in all nations, which, if carried to the logical conclusion, will result in almost complete elimination of international trade and return to medieval isolationism.

"Whereas it is agreed that this tendency must be arrested if world recovery is to be achieved and a decent standard of living is to be widely maintained;

"Now, therefore, be it resolved that all the nations participating in this conference agree;

"First, that it is against the common interest for any nation to adopt or continue a policy of extreme nationalism and to raise additional trade barriers and discriminations;

Break at World Economic Parley Avoided When U. S. Delegates Explain Their Views on Stabilization of Currency—Question to Be Put Over Until Later On at Conference.

London, June 22 — (AP) — The American delegation to the world economic conference said in a statement today that the United States government feels that currency stabilization now would be untimely and possibly would "cause a violent price recession" to the detriment of the conference.

The statement said that "undue emphasis" had been placed upon proposals for temporary stabilization, and asserted that this matter was never an affair of the delegation itself but rather of the Treasury and the central banks of the United States, Great Britain and France.

The American government, the statement continued, feels "that its efforts to raise prices are the most important contribution it can make."

Break Avoided
Simultaneously with the publication of the American statement it was authoritatively said that the conference had been saved from foundering on the rocks of stabilization by American and French representatives to postpone discussion of the stabilization question until later.

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, president of the conference, who has been working night and day to save the parley from collapse was jubilant when the news was rushed to him.

The Franco-American agreement was reached at a meeting attended by James M. Cox, American delegate; James P. Warburg, American technical expert; and Finance Minister Georges Bonnet of France.

The stroke of master diplomacy in effecting the Franco-American rapprochement was described as having been accomplished when Mr. Cox said aside all traditional diplomatic tactics and laid his cards on the table regarding the American position.

IRISH ATTACK BRITISH

London, June 22 — (AP) — The Irish Free State, which has been invited to the world economic conference today on the ground that Britain has imposed a punitive tariff against the Free State.

The attack was made by Senator Joseph Conolly, minister of lands and forests in the Dublin government, who spoke at a private meeting of the sub-committee on commercial policy.

Mr. Conolly started with an explanation of the Irish view of the Anglo-Irish controversy, which arose from the refusal of Dublin to pay land annuities to Britain and from the agitation over removing from the Free State Constitution the oath of allegiance to the British Crown. This controversy has led to tariff reprisals.

"You will appreciate," the Irish spokesman said, "how foolish it would be for our delegation to go on laboring toward the solution of tariff problems and restoration to normal conditions in the interest of world economic peace without having this unique special punitive policy, which is being applied to one of the weaker countries by one of the world powers, brought to your notice."

The speaker described the many examples of enduring artistic and serviceable accomplishments of the New England pioneers, shown in the quaint stone bridges over many New England streams which have been a source of admiration for centuries as well as having served, uninterrupted many generations since the days of laborious and painstaking construction.

As a trick on Foreman to the simple, yet convincing evidence in support of the value of good workmanship, Dr. Butterfield told of a trick played by builders of the early days on the "master builder" borrowed, much against their wills, from a neighboring community to superintend the construction of a large church.

First Public Program Director John G. Echmalian of the Trade school introduced the speaker of the evening, George Earl Taylor, who was the third since the school was opened and the first public program. Director Echmalian stressed the values of achievement emphasized in the accomplishments of the graduates of 1933.

Tell Chamber Committee They Will Try to Correct Causes of Complaints.

Scott of the Connecticut Company at the latter's office and presented the list of complaints that have been received by the Chamber since the new schedule went into effect the first of this month. The majority of the complaints concern the failure to make connections at various local points. Mr. Scott said that he had received no complaints directly and that new schedules had been widely distributed to acquiring patrons of the change in schedule. It was announced that a further study would be made of the situation with a view to arriving at a satisfactory arrangement and it is expected that another meeting will be held next week on the matter.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Another sharp advance of foreign exchange against the American dollar received a rather cool reception in financial markets today and stocks and staples, for the most part, held cautiously in an extremely narrow range. Displaying a contrary disposition, speculative enthusiasts, who have previously whirled prices upward as dollar rates declined, watched the national currency rates slump without displaying more than a flutter of the customary emotion. In London the British pound up around $4.24, its highest since the gold standard was suspended, there was fairly spirited advances in stocks in the first hour. The fervor died quickly, however, and prices turned irregular. Trading volume dwindled and at times the ticker tape barely moved. Wheat, corn and cotton drifted indifferently. Oils and rails received the principal attention in early transactions, most of the leading shares in these groups showing gains of fractions to around a point. The tobacco division drew a following on reports that cigarette production was continuing much higher than last year. Advances of 1 to about 2 points were recorded by American Tobacco, Liggett & Myers B and Lorillard. U. S. Steel and Bethlehem got up fractionally to a point or more, but such pivotal shares as American Telephone, Case, American Can, Dupont, General Motors, Goodyear, General Electric, United Aircraft and Sears Roebuck were disposed to mark time.

Recent activity of the oil shares is credited largely to further advances in gasoline prices and to hopes that new governmental regulations may at least soon eliminate unfair competition in the selling of petroleum products. Wholesale prices of gasoline in the middle west, it was reported, have advanced nearly 100 per cent during the past two weeks and crude oil rates are expected, in some quarters, to approach the $1 a barrel level within the next month or so. Stiffening of the grains has given encouragement to bullish enthusiasts who believe staples trading may eventually supersede the foreign exchange element as a spur to stocks. Some private estimates anticipate a decline in wheat production which may result in the smallest winter crop since 1894. Bearish circles, however, point to the heavy carry-over as an important price restraint.

STATE CASH DEFICIT IS ABOUT $4,500,000

A Year Ago the Available Cash Balance Was $1,152,512, State Board Reports.
Hartford, June 22.—(AP)—The estimated cash deficit of the state of Connecticut as of June 30, the end of the fiscal year and also of the current biennium, is approximately $4,500,000 it was learned today. This figure compares with $1,152,512 available cash balance as of June 30, 1932, a year ago, and with the estimated cash deficit on June 30 this year of $4,009,124, made by the State Board of Finance and Control in the budget which it recommended to the legislative committee on appropriations. It reflects, however, the considerable saving effected when Gov. Cross made his appeal to departments and institutions for drastic curtailment of expenditures, for at that time it was estimated that the deficit might reach $7,614,843.

NO BIDS ARE REFUSED AT BERRIES AUCTION

Fast Selling Feature of Yesterday's Sale — Philadelphia Buyer Keeps Price Up.

A total of 894 crates of strawberries were sold at auction at the Manchester market yesterday afternoon representing 81 loads and not once was the bid given the farmer refused, which is the first time that this has happened since the opening of the market. The bidding was better, the average price for the day being $2.74 a crate, the highest price being $3.75 and the lowest sold for $1.50 each. New buyers appeared at the market yesterday. A buyer from Philadelphia put in appearance, the first time that any buyer has come to the Manchester market from that point. He was a good bidder, from the growers' point of view, and kept up a good price. It was necessary for him to get his load early and he got them. Bidders from the First National Stores, the New Haven Produce Company and Bridgeport bought in larger numbers than was the case on Tuesday. There were buyers from Providence, Springfield and Hartford. The bidding was fast and the berries offered were disposed of in an hour and a half.

OPEN FORUM

FLOWERS FOR LIBRARY

Editor, The Herald:
The months of May and June have always been called the months of beautiful flowers. People of this town who have lawns, rich in green color, and gardens which are galore with flowers, makes a home atmosphere more comfortable, yet I wonder how many of these people have ever given it a thought to keep our Public Library on School street in an atmosphere of restful, leisurely time to the readers, and that a few cut flowers here and there brought in and given to the library would be most gratifying. I hope that the readers of this letter will help bring in a few flowers where they may be looked at and studied by many of its readers, both young and old. Let's bring a few flowers. Thank you.

DUNLAP ADVANCES EDGES SOMERVILLE

Eliminates U. S. Amateur Champ, 2 to 1, in British Tourney at Hoylake.

Hoylake, Eng., June 22.—(AP)—George T. Dunlap, Jr., of New York, today eliminated C. Ross (Sandy) Somerville, Canadian holder of the United States amateur golf title, today in the sixth round of the British Amateur golf championship 2 and 1. The victory of the slim young American, twice holder of the intercollegiate title while a student at Princeton, put him into the quarter-final round of the championship. It was his second triumph of the day. In the morning round he defeated Lister Hartley, British Walker Cup star, 5 and 4 in an uphill struggle.

Dunlap did not play the same spectacular game against Somerville that he did in defeating Hartley, where on one stretch of seven holes he needed only 22 strokes, but he had enough to win. After dropping the first two holes, George won four straight to take a lead of two holes and was never behind again, ending the match on the 17th green.

BIG BLOCK DANCE NIGHT BEFORE 4TH

Will Be One of Most Novel Entertainments Ever Held in Manchester.

Arrangements are rapidly being completed for one of the most novel entertainments ever held in Manchester—a block dance—sponsored by the Recreation Center, to be held on the eve of July 4, or a week from next Monday night.

Director Frank Busch, who is in charge of the affair, has obtained permission to stage the dance on Main street between Birch and Park streets. This section will be roped off and no parking of cars will be allowed there after 9 o'clock. It is possible that attractive lighting decorations may also be installed in this area.

Should inclement weather interfere with the plans to hold the dance on Monday night, it will be held on another night of the same week, possibly Wednesday. The dance will not be held on Tuesday, in case of rain, as the American Legion will present a fireworks program then.

Art McKay's well known orchestra will furnish music for dancing and will play both modern and old fashioned numbers. This affair is free and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

The investigators said the quest for facts not only will follow the general lines of the J. P. Morgan, Inc., study, but also will cover new ground.

Those in touch with the Kuhn, Loeb case said today the hearing would include a thorough study of the firm's participation in financing the Pennsylvania Corporation, holding company subsidiary of the Pennsylvania railroad.

First witness when the Kuhn, Loeb hearings get under way next Tuesday will be Otto H. Kahn, senior partner and famous art patron, who will play the same role in this inquiry that J. P. Morgan, senior partner of the House of Morgan, played in the last.

600,000 BACK TO WORK SINCE MARCH, REPORT

But There Are Still 12 Millions Unemployed, Labor Federation Announces.

Washington, June 22.—(AP)—Upward of six hundred thousand since the American Federation of Labor, have gone back to work since March. But its last monthly survey of business appends this warning:

"Cheerful as this news sounds, there is no evidence yet that it marks the start of recovery. Any further progress, the Federation contends, must depend on the extent to which the purchasing power of the laborer is increased.

In April and May, through April and May, the labor organization finds more than 620,000 men have been put back to work. That compares, however, with an estimated 12,730,000 still unemployed at the beginning of May. The June figures for Trade Unions reported out of jobs also is reported as somewhat smaller than the 12,730,000, although exact figures are not given.

HARTFORD CONTRACTORS MAY BE ORGANIZED

Hartford, June 21.—(AP)—Two attempts to organize Hartford contractors into groups to seek further the causes as to what may be accomplished in Connecticut under the industrial recovery bill are being made. One attempt is being sponsored by the so-called building trades division of the Hartford Chamber of Commerce and the other is under the sponsorship of Attorney Benedict M. Holden of this city.

None of the contractors has as yet been able to ascertain just what may or may not be accomplished under the terms of the act, and a number report that they will not affiliate with either of the groups until the scope of the act has been thoroughly determined.

There will be a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce contractors at the University Club Friday noon to determine what action if any, will be taken by members of the building trades division. A meeting will be held out of town, probably in New Haven, tomorrow at which the group sponsored by Mr. Holden will discuss a possible program for action.

New motor oil shows America how to get 28 1/2% more miles per quart

MEASURING THE EXACT AMOUNT OF OIL placed in each of the test cars. Representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association tested Gulf-lube against leading brands of 25c oils in 6 borrowed cars—and Gulf-lube stood up 28 1/2% longer before a quart of oil had to be added.

Gulf-lube wins amazing test with borrowed cars of different makes

SIX AVERAGE CARS—from new to several years old—were borrowed from their owners and placed on the Indianapolis Speedway.

In these cars, representatives of the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association tested four of America's leading brands of 25c oils.

In a 4-day grind around the track, at a constant speed of 45 miles an hour, these cars tested each of the competing oils.

And, at the end of the test, Gulf-lube had beaten every oil in every car! In Car No. 2, for example,—when oil "C" was replaced with Gulf-lube, consumption dropped from a quart every 652 miles to a quart every 1447 miles!

And, averaging the figures for all cars, Gulf-lube cut the oil costs on these cars 28 1/2%!

Buy less oil—get better lubrication

Switch to Gulf-lube now. You'll buy less oil. And you'll get better lubrication. Try it! It's the finest motor oil a quarter ever bought. Get it at any Gulf station.

© 1933, GULF REFINING CO., PITTSBURGH, PA.

1930 OLD—One of the cars borrowed for this test run had piled up thousands of miles on its speedometer—yet Gulf-lube cut its oil consumption to the bone!

1931 OLD—Pistons and rings in this car had never been replaced—but that made no difference to Gulf-lube! For Gulf-lube outlasted every competing oil tested in this car by a wide margin!

1932 OLD—This roadster was in good average mechanical shape, with pistons and rings well "broken in" but not worn. And again Gulf-lube carried off top honors against other leading 25c motor oils!

BRAND-NEW—This car's mileage was little over 1000 miles. Rings and pistons were tight and oil consumption was low. Yet even in this almost new car, Gulf-lube lasted 37 1/2 more miles per quart than the average of the competing oils!

Judge Letts said prohibition officials had shown an almost "arrogant" disregard of Judge Brown's order.

After Taming Bluejays He Should Try Wasps

Lions, elephants, seals, pigs and everything was all right. The pet is seas are among the seemingly impossible in the trained animal-or-bug arena but rarely one hears about tame bluejays. The bluejay is usually thought of as a bird with a bad disposition. It seems more ready to fight than make friends.

But young Stanley Williams, son of Jerry Williams, Manchester Country club caterer, has a tame bluejay of which he is quite proud. The bird fell from its nest when but a fledgling and Stanley rescued it. He fed it carefully and treated it well. The bird came to know the youngsters around the Country club he will probably take and to trust him. It became friendly with others about in much the same way. Now it is quite common to see someone at the Country club with the pet bluejay perched on a finger.

BARGAIN BRIDE

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after four years, meets 20-year-old ELINOR STAFFORD and falls in love with her. Barrett is 35, wealthy and has made a name for himself as an archeologist.

Elinor's beautiful mother, LIDA STAFFORD, has kept the girl in the background, wanting attention for herself. Lida is carrying on a flirtation with VANCE CARTER and is constantly scheming to keep in the good graces of MISS ELLA SEXTON, her husband's aunt, in order to inherit a share of the Sexton fortune. Elinor hates this hypocrisy.

Barrett's half-sister, MARCIA RADNOE, is terrified for fear her husband will learn of an unfortunate episode in her past. Years before Barrett shielded Marcia when a youthful romance ended disastrously. Marcia had a son whom Barrett adopted. The boy is nine years old now. Marcia insists that if her husband learns the truth he will never forgive her.

HAROLD DEKTER, the boy's tutor, threatens blackmail. Barrett, hinting at knowledge of Dekter's past (all of which is bluff), frightens the man into promising he will not make trouble.

Barrett takes Elinor Stafford for a drive. Each time he sees her she seems more charming.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER X
 Bentwell Stafford sat before one fire, flushed and heavy eyed. The usual decanter and glass were beside him on a small table within easy reach. For the first time that he could remember Elinor had not greeted him as he came in. Although the home-coming had left him hollow it warmed him, too. He hoped that she was out with some young people having a good time. The fact that she had so few good times made his eyes a little dim. A little stir at the door made him turn to see Elinor, her eyes bright and shining.

"Well, child"—he offered in a rasping, low voice after the cough that was habitual.

"Dear!" she exclaimed. She came forward swiftly, stooped and kissed him, then settled on a low stool at his feet.

Her father studied her. She was beautiful—rarely, undoubtedly beautiful. He didn't see how even the dullest eyes could miss that fact.

"And what?" he asked. It was a nightly ritual, one that she started back in the days when it prompted a history of her play hours and of how she had done at lessons.

"I had a ride," she replied. She was staring into the fire and trying not to smile. He saw that her teeth on the lower lip which would turn upward, saw the dreaming languor of her eyes.

"Um!" Stafford reached for the decanter to pour another drink. He had always known it would hurt when he came, but he had never sensed the depths of the hurt. And yet he wanted Elinor to fall in love, to be happy and settled in a home of her own. Odd how reason and instinct quarreled! He slipped his hand down. "And who took you riding?"

"Mr. Colvin—Mr. Barrett Colvin."

"Thought perhaps you'd gone with Bob Telfair—"

"Oh, no!"

"Like him, don't you?"

"Yes, I like him but—"

"But what?" Stafford prompted.

"How had anything so beautiful come to him and to Lida? So beautiful spiritually as well as physically? He never had been able to make it out.

"Well," she explained slowly, "I like him as a very good friend. You know he's helped me a lot with Cousin Philip, going to see him when I couldn't manage to because of Mother and the way she feels. He's been a very good friend!" she ended loyally.

"Yes, I know. Poor young devil! Well, what about Colvin? You like him?"

"Very much." The response came low.

"Hum—" Bentwell again lifted his glass.

"I had the most wonderful afternoon I've ever had in my whole life!" she confessed.

Bentwell had known it would come to her in that way; that she was built to give a whole heart and not a cautious inch of it. Suppose Colvin were damned fool enough not to realize that which was offered him?

"Do you know Mr. Colvin, Father?" she asked. She wanted to talk of Colvin, he saw. There had been a time years ago when he had wanted to talk of Lida in the same way. The time had been short, as Lida was orphaned and alone and everybody knows some cheerful soul who is merry enough to go about singing in the rain.

Well, there are new sports things on the market these days that allow you not only to sing in the rain but to play golf or tramp about in the rain without getting to look like a drowned rat.

They are made of water-proofed linen. Not only is it designed to shed water like the proverbial duck's back but it doesn't spot, which is a blessing.

Of course you don't need to reserve costumes of this type just for rain. They are less crushable than ordinary linen, so, of course, they are a boon to the stopper or office worker who has a way of sitting wrinkles in everything, in summer time.

If you've gone in for white in a big way, there is a chic white three-quarter coat that is particularly good for golfing because it isn't the kind of swagger model that might get into the way of your strokes. It has big-topped sleeves, is belted, but fits the body neatly so it doesn't interfere with action. It buttons with a single black button at the top, in case you want to wear it over black.

Worn over a black dress, with a white hat, and black and white shoes, you can face sun or rain with equal poise and the sustaining certainty that your costume will stand up.

wherever with that young Carter.

"I loathe him and yet I'm sorry for him, too," Elinor stated. It was odd how she could talk and hear herself as if from a distance while all the time that new, excited feeling in her heart made her seem to be a different person.

"Father—"

"Yes, dear?"

"How are you off financially just now? I saw a dress yesterday I would like to have."

"Then get it," he answered quickly. Elinor's doing without because Lida simply "had to have" this or that had always angered him. And yet somehow he never managed to compensate Elinor for her patience with having so few frills.

"Thanks ever so much," she said. Elinor was thinking that she would try her hair a new way. Low on her neck. Her mother had seen her with it that way and called it "idiotically starchy." But her mother would be in Miami. Beautiful thought! And Tuesday when they drove up the Hudson to have dinner at the inn that he liked she'd wear her tan coat that looked quite well in spite of being so old and the little tan hat that Celeste, her mother's maid, said was becoming.

Benson appeared in the doorway. "There's a call on the telephone for you, Miss Stafford," he said. "It's Mr. Colvin."

she flushed at the words.

"I'm not going to try to marry him," Elinor admitted, honestly and a trifle loudly. "But if he wanted to marry me—he'd have to do more than snap his fingers or whistle!" She tried to make a joke of it, laughing, but she could not. After the failure she covered her face for a moment with her hands.

"Suppose," Stafford said slowly, "he hasn't sense enough to know how lovely you are? Suppose he's as blind as so many damned fools?"

"Then I suppose I'll know I wasn't—nice enough."

"Don't!" Her father begged. Elinor slipped her hand into his and looked at the decanter. He had already had a good deal; more even than usual. "We must play chess after dinner," she said, eyes still on the decanter.

"I'd like to but I don't want to bore you, baby."

"I'd love to. You know I love it. Father, when is Mother going?" Her voice was suddenly anxious.

"They start, I believe, tomorrow morning."

"Hum—" that's all right!" she said quickly, happily. She didn't want Mr. Colvin to meet her mother until she, Elinor, had had a little chance. She wouldn't have any chance at all if he met her mother, Elinor knew. It had happened before with every young man who had been attracted by Elinor, except Bobby Telfair who had remained adamant under her mother's attacks. The attacks were made, the girl understood, in order that a selfish woman might prove the fact that she could attract and enchant and rule wherever and whenever she wished. The thought of this had never before really mattered to Elinor. Now it did.

Benson appeared in the broad doorway just then to announce that dinner was served.

Elinor rose quickly, her father in his slow and cumbersome way. The dining room had been decorated under Lida's direction in what she considered an impressive manner but tonight the aged oak walls and family portraits looked down on faded roses in the center of the table and a Venetian cut-work cloth that was a little crushed. The candles, too, had been burned before.

It was the sort of thing Elinor detested. Consistent simplicity she thought to be so much more agreeable. The constant striving to impress others had become one of the meanest, although one of the smallest, of Lida's deceptions.

"Mother dipping out?" Elinor asked after Benson had pushed her chair under her.

"Yes," her father said. "Off

FOR YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

CLEANLINESS IS DOUBLY VITAL IN SUMMER

In this, the fifth of six articles by Olive Roberts Barton on "Summer Care of Babies," stress is laid on cleanliness as a safeguard to baby's health.

Now about cleanliness in summer!

When a mother has so much to do she doesn't know where to turn it seems just too bad to keep on telling her that this and that should be done. But the best I can do is to give her facts and then she must decide how to carry them out as best she can.

A paragraph or two here may help her.

In order to release more time to the children I would reduce actual house work to a minimum. That ironing for instance—when sheets and flat things are washed and thoroughly dried in the sun why not smooth out as many articles as possible with your hands and fold them away? Much ironing can thus be saved. Nightgowns, diapers, underclothes and a dozen other things can be treated this way.

Hide the Dust-Catchers

If you have a storage room or a dry cellar, or a big closet, put away as many rugs, curtains, vases and other dust catchers as you can get along without, and live as plainly as you can. The early morning hours are worth twice the time later in the day. Get a good start and let each child help with small duties, even if not perfectly done.

To get back now to cleanliness.

A pediatric (child specialist) made the statement this week that summer sickness among children, including teething babies, did not result so much from the heat itself, or from eating (if the food is right), as from micro-organisms (germs) taken into the mouth by hands, or by sucking, or chewing on things that should not be in the mouth!

The germs of disease, always floating in hot weather, lodge in the stomach, the intestines, and in the throat. Tonsil infection and ear trouble are caused by the latter. Vomiting and bowel trouble are the result of the former.

Boll the Feeding Things

Isn't it worth while then to try to observe a few rules about keeping things clean and sanitary?

To bottle everything concerned with baby-feeding—bottles, nipples and all the parapher-ia of making formula—is something I shall present here again. I have written in previous articles a great deal on this subject, but I believe most mothers now know it anyway. One thing however I shall add. Never touch the part of the nipple that goes into the baby's mouth, with the fingers.

And never, if you can help it, let the other children put their hands to their mouths, or suck on toys or dirty things. Make them go in and wash their hands and faces with soap and water not only before eating but several times a day and at bedtime too.

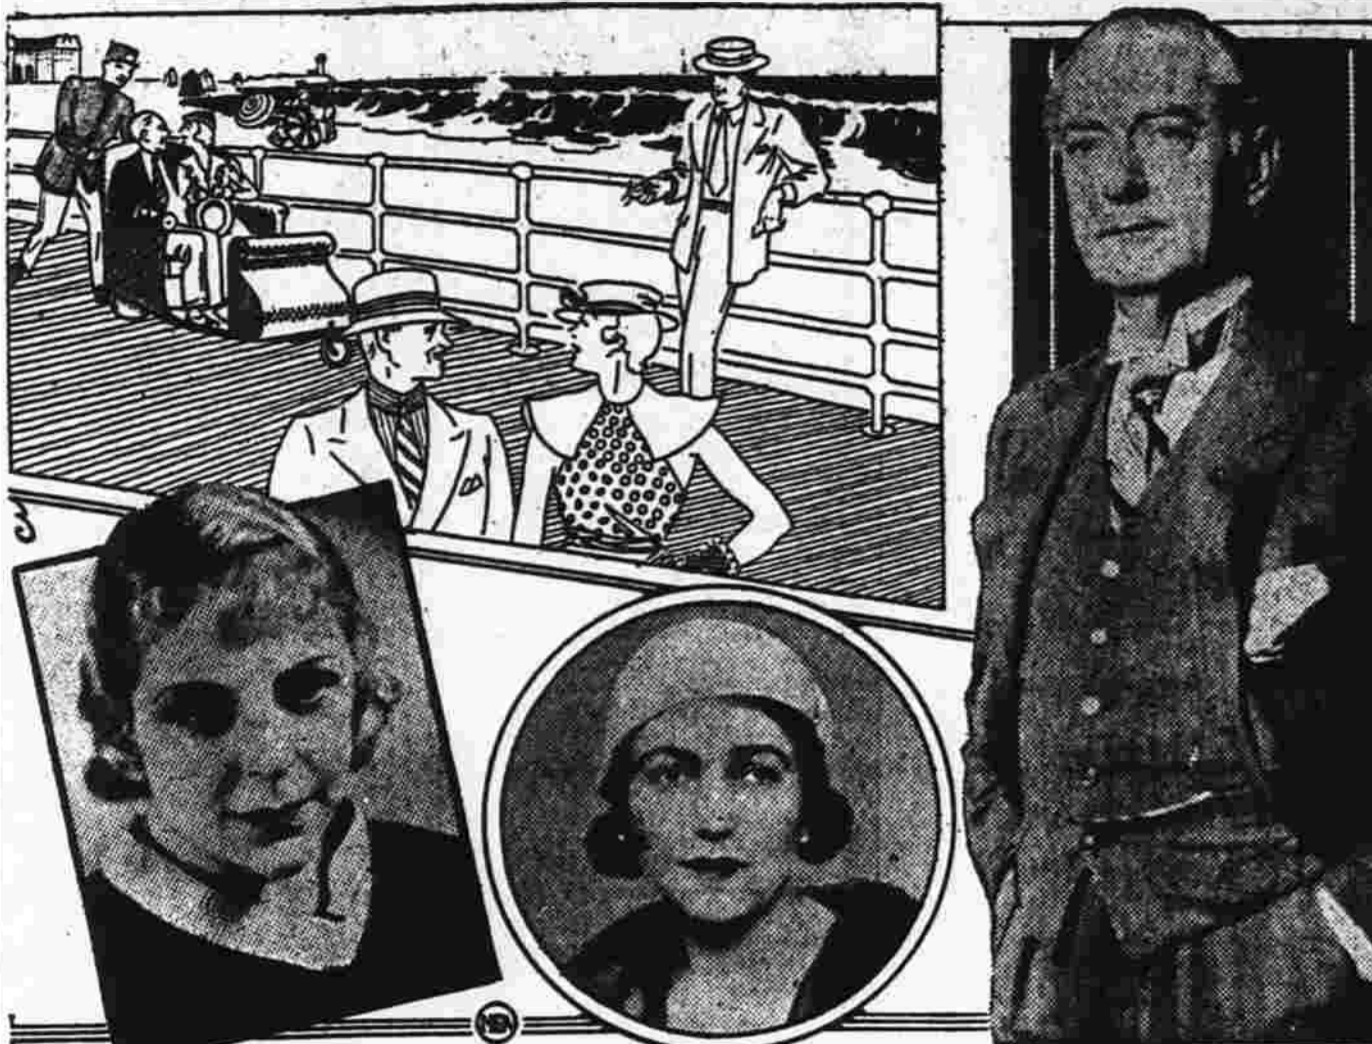

Watch the Food Supply

Wash all fruit and raw vegetables as clean as water will make them. And don't try it at all unless the towel is absolutely clean.

Cold left-overs must be covered and kept very cold if they are to be heated and used again. Keep the inside of the ice-box very clean. The less food left over each day the better. All milk must be kept cold, in covered bottles. Don't throw away the caps and don't drop them on the floor or a soiled table. Don't let children drink out of a glass that is not clean. All dishes should be scalded after washing and wiped on clean dishtowels that have been dried in the sun. Soiled dishtowels are responsible for a great deal of sickness.

"ABOLISH ALL HONEYMOONS!"

Chorus Mary Borden, Vicki Baum and Howard Chandler Christy. "Wrong Start," Says London Novelist; "Too Costly," Adds Author of "Grand Hotel"; "Better Postponed Until Couples Are 60," Comments Famous Portrait Painter.

The honeymoon is anything but a heavenly prelude to hard marital bliss as Mary Borden (center) examines it in her new book, "The Technique of Marriage." Her verdict draws lusty huzzas from Vicki Baum (left), Viennese author, and Howard Chandler Christy (right), famous illustrator and portrait painter.

By JULIA BLANSHARD

New York—Abolish all honeymoons and young couples will have a real chance at happy marriage!

Mary Borden, distinguished London novelist, makes that shocking statement, right in the middle of the year's best honeymoon period.

"Marriages that might have begun and continued happily get off to the wrong start because of the honeymoon," Miss Borden asserts, along with a lot of other startling and sensible bits of advice in her new book, "The Technique of Marriage."

"Few women will admit, even to themselves that their honeymoon was a strain, a bore, a nerve-racking period of adjustment or a miserable failure that has estranged them temporarily and made their married life unnecessarily difficult," the novelist says.

"The convention of bliss in connection with the honeymoon is so strong that it vanities people to admit that it was anything less than the most heavenly experience of their lives. They often succeed in seeing it that way in retrospect!

"But I believe that this holiday, whose only reason for existence is pleasure, is very often not pleasant at all, but, removed as it is from their home-setting, their friends and mutual interests, is painful and difficult—a disappointing experience both to the man and the woman.

"It is an utterly useless, abnormal and unfair test of their love for each other."

Vicki Baum, Viennese author of "Grand Hotel," supports Miss Borden's views with astonishing vigor.

"I am against honeymoons—emphatically," Miss Baum states. "I have been happily married for 17 years and never had the slightest suspicion of a honeymoon. And I firmly think my marriage would probably not have turned out so well if my husband and I had spent the first fortnight or month of it, in hotels, sleepers and sight-seeing buses.

"To travel together is the hardest test of any human relationship. I am sure that many young people probably not have turned out so well if they had spent the first fortnight or month of it, in hotels, sleepers and sight-seeing buses.

"As I understand it, the idea of a honeymoon is to take a young couple out of their usual environment into one of seclusion, but where can a young couple find more privacy than within their OWN four walls? It is no secret that honeymooners are a target for ridicule for everyone from the porter, fellow passengers, waiter, hotel manager and even the nice, charming and interesting people they meet along the way.

"Right now, in the middle of the depression, don't forget the economic side of it. A honeymoon is a luxury of the past. There are many better ways young couples can spend their money!"

If women feel this way about honeymoons, how about the men? Are they more romantic. Are they the sentimentalists behind this universal convention called the honeymoon?

Not at all, answers Howard Chandler Christy. It's just a good old custom that everybody makes too much fuss over and nobody has the courage to buck!

"Newlyweds who honeymoon get a wrong start toward the daily grind of house-keeping, going to work, arranging their time so they can have leisure for friends, entertainment, reading and going about together.

"They establish too high a pitch in their clothes, their spare time together, the money they will have to spend. When they come home they have a distinct let-down.

It is no wonder that many brides develop the feeling that they are being "sighted," that their husbands don't really love them. They started out wrong—when he was entirely carefree and could devote his every thought and moment to his bride.

"The abnormal leisure life they have at first, on the honeymoon, reminds me of athletes who develop

KEEPING COOL IS A SOCIAL OBLIGATION

Keeping cool in summertime is a social obligation. Your disposition is so affected by the way you feel. Your fellow workers in an office and your home folks all will appreciate it if you can stay pleasantly comfortable, with untroubled temper, through the hottest days.

A cold shower mornings and a hot tub evenings are the first daily items to jot down on your summer schedule. Pine needle bath salts, or cooling lavender salts plus some bath soap to match in cooling fragrance, should be put down next.

Bath powder, foot powder, deodorants and cologne all should be on your shelves, and used both morning and evening.

Personal daintiness requires fresh lingerie every day. It is no trick to rinse things with cool water, to wash your face with cool water, to wash your shoes on shoe trees and hang your hats up by the window to let them get proper ventilation. Get into smart gingham or linen lounging things, slip into sandals with no stockings, and apply fresh make-up.

If you are a working woman, take a bath and change your clothing the minute you get home. Put your shoes on shoe trees and hang your hats up by the window to let them get proper ventilation. Get into smart gingham or linen lounging things, slip into sandals with no stockings, and apply fresh make-up.

HAIR-LINE EYEBROWS

Don't pluck your eyebrows to a skinny line this summer.

Having them more natural-looking is in vogue again.

But if your eyebrows are bushy, for pity's sake pluck them in the right places until they take on a well-groomed look.

A woman who had a reputation for being somewhat of a shrew had her eyebrows "done" this winter. Formerly they grew almost together. The beautician cleared away every trace of an eyebrow for a space each side of the natural position over the nose. Then they were plucked from the bottom until they seemed much higher than formerly.

The result gave her a pleasant calm look through the brow. And the slenderer, higher brows accentuated her eyes in a most alluring way. This simple act did more to make-over that particular woman than one would have dreamed. And, looking nicer actually made her sweeter tempered and more appealing.

Too pale eyebrows and lashes detract from expression. They give a negative quality that no up-and-coming lady wants. Touch them with just a little pencil or color, and you've done something to give character to your whole face.

Above all, wash your eyebrows. Clean them with powder that gets into them when you make-up. Then shape them by pushing them up with the side of your little brush, then rounding off the top line, with the other side of your brush.

BLOOD TEST GIVES PHYSICIAN VALUABLE CUE TO MANY ILLS

Examination May Reveal Presence of Bacteria in Blood Stream and Defects That Cause Various Diseases.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Few people realize the exceedingly intricate nature of the content of the blood and the valuable information that a competent investigator can obtain by study.

The most elementary study of the blood includes, first, a determination of the number of red blood cells; second, the amount of hemoglobin, or red coloring matter; third, the number of white blood cells, and fourth, an attempt to determine whether or not the blood coagulates or clots normally.

There are, however, many other examinations which yield information of the greatest importance. There is, for example, a study of the volume of the blood and the relationship of the hemoglobin or red coloring matter to the total number of red blood cells. There is differentiation of all of the white blood cells into many types.

There is possible a counting of the reticulocytes, giving to the physician definite information as to the rate at which the blood is regenerating itself and forming new red blood cells to replace those destroyed.

In diseases of various types, it may be necessary to determine the number of platelets in the blood, since a lessened number is found not only in several types of anemia, but also in several types of purpura, a condition in which the patient bruises easily and bleeds readily. There is also the possibility of hemophilia, a condition in which the blood fails to clot and in which it is possible for the patient to bleed to death quickly from a small wound.

The determination chemically of the presence in the blood of various ingredients, including sugar, protein and similar materials, may be of greatest importance.

Finally, it is possible to take, under sterile precaution, a specimen of the blood and submit it to treatment with culture mediums in incubators in order to determine whether any bacteria are circulating in the blood.

By all of these investigations the physician is able to determine the nature of the blood and from that nature, some understanding of its relationship to various diseases. Certain elements in the blood are the most important elements in the human body, since it gives by its circulation nutrition to all of the tissues and serves at the same time to collect waste materials and poisons and to eliminate them from the body.

Moreover, the white blood cells attack and destroy bacteria and thus aid to keep the body in health.

Gasoline consumption in 1932 declined more than seven per cent.

Carnera—What Makes Him Tick?

Why They Call Him "Wild Boar", And Other Stories.

An intimate view of the vast facial expanse of Primo Carnera, Italy's greatest contributor to the heavy weight boxing industry. They laugh at him when he first came to this country in 1929, but he's no laughing matter to any opponent now.

By GAYLE TALBOT (Associated Press Sports Writer) New York, June 22.—(AP)—Just a big, easy-going, good natured fellow, this Primo Carnera, in many ways the most unusually specimen ever to attain the high places in the prize fighting racket.

He has none of the characteristics that have marked some of our greatest gladiators. There isn't a "killer instinct" in a carload of Carnera. Neither is he a deep thinker of the Tunney type, nor sullen like Sharkey nor reckless and irresponsible like the current rave, Maxie Baer.

He's just an enormously big man, transformed into a fighter. Something like Jess Willard, only the Kansas did have the mosaic workers for generations, and that is what Primo would have been had not somebody said "My, what a big, strong son you have, Mrs. Carnera."

"Strong Boy" at 16 Primo was born at Seguala in the Udine province of Italy Oct. 25, 1907. His family had been mosaic workers for generations, and that is what Primo would have been had not somebody said "My, what a big, strong son you have, Mrs. Carnera."

Speaking of mosaic work, no artist in the line ever did a more tedious, painstaking job of putting the little pieces together than did Bill Duffy in building Primo into a boxer. It's Duffy's masterpiece.

Primo is extremely naive, or something. His fighting trunks are decorated with the rampant figure of a wild boar, and one of Madison Square Garden's publicity experts told a most interesting story thereof.

"It's this way," he said. "The woods were full of vicious black boars where Primo lived as a boy. Once he saw one of them about to attack a little girl. Primo scuttled

LOUGHRAN STAGES ANOTHER COMEBACK

Old Ring Master Wins Ten Round Decision Over Hamas, His Old Rival.

New York, June 22.—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, the old master of ring strategy is back in the fight tonight again. After being regarded as "all through" a half dozen times since he was knocked out by Jack Sharkey four years ago, he has returned to the "big time" and big crowds with a ten round decision over his old rival, Steve Hamas.

Tommy staged perhaps the greatest comeback of them all before 10,000 excited fans at the Yankee stadium last night. For eight rounds he barely staved off the rushes of the fiery Wallington, N. J., youngster, absorbing quite a bit of punishment. He gave Hamas a lesson in the use of the straight arm such as Steve never received on the Penn State football field, poking his left into Hamas's face with almost monotonous regularity, but that was not quite enough.

Then, in the ninth, bleeding from cuts over both eyes and apparently not far from a knockout, Loughran suddenly switched from boxing to fighting. He rocked Hamas's head back with hard rights and lefts, stung and swatted on even terms, and won the last two rounds and a close decision.

The triumph over Hamas, who knocked him out less than two years ago, while it only evened the series at two-all, provided something of a climax for Loughran's latest bid for a place among the leading lights of boxing. Leading up to it were victories over King Levinsky, Walter Cobb and Isadore Gansauge.

JACK SHARKEY PREDICTS Orangeburg, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, once more the over in the nick of time, grabbed the board by the feet and dashed him to death against a tree. That's why they call him the "Wild Bull of Seguala" and why he has that there emblem on his pants.

"Primo was pressed for more of the harrowing accounts. "Oh, the little pig on the pants? He means nothing. He was there on the pants they gave me to wear for my first fight in Paris and I have just kept him there. Maybe he be good luck. In Undine we have no wild boars."

The press agents, stuck for something exciting to write about Primo, always can start with the assertion that he weighs 275 pounds on the loose, 260 when in fighting trim and stands 6 feet, 8 1/2 inches. Also that he is a fool about movies and the radio and likes to drive fast. But from there on the going gets tough.

Owens Impressive Record His is not the gift of repartee, he doesn't boast and he authors few predictions. He mostly grins, displaying a tremendous expanse of ivory, and lets the others do the talking. He fights automatically, but surprisingly well.

Da Preem has had 74 fights since he started in 1929, winning 57 by knockouts, 12 by decision, losing four and engaging in one no-decision affair. He ran up a long string of kayos on his first tour of this country and some of the boys were very skeptical about their authenticity. But he was regarded primarily as a freak in those days and nobody much cared how he fought so long as he exhibited his bulk. He has learned to fight since then.

The vast one has made a fortune in the ring and lost most of it through dizzy investments. He recently filed a petition in bankruptcy. He eats moderately, for all his size, and is a hard and willing trainer.

For the present he is giving England a wide berth, having lost the decision in a breach of promise suit.

GLENN CUNNINGHAM SEEKS WORLD MARK AT MILE DISTANCE

Kansas Flyer Is After Record Set by Ladamegue of France, 4:9.2; Is Less Than Second from Goal.

Lawrence, Kas., June 22.—(AP)—Since Glenn Cunningham's flame-scarred legs have carried him to another triumph—the fastest mile ever run in America, indoors or out—there seems no further doubt that the chunky University of Kansas flyer is the greatest middle-distance star ever developed in this country.

Only a junior, with another year of college competition ahead of him, Cunningham may set up a series of records that never will be touched by college runners. There is none at this time capable of touching him in the mile, and he is only a step behind the best in the half-mile.

Barely Beaten In 880 The Jayhawk's latest and greatest victory was scored in the intercollegiate championships at Chicago, where he lapped the mile in 4 minutes, 9.2 seconds. Only one man, Jules Ladamegue of France, has ever eclipsed the mark. His world record of 4:9.2, set in France in 1927, is still the objective.

In the name mile, Cunningham was only a foot behind Charles Hornabostel of Indiana when the Hoosier ace won the 880-yard run in 1:50.9, tying the unofficial world record set by Ben Eastman of Stanford. He only recently took up the half-mile in a serious way. He has done 800 meters in 1:51, the fastest time ever clocked in America.

Quick Rise To Fame Cunningham, whose legs were so badly burned when he was a schoolboy that there was doubt he would walk again, much less become a champion runner, has been at his record smashing only a little more than a year.

He began his 'big time' career last year by cleaning up in the Big Six conference and then winning the intercollegiate mile at Chicago in 4:11.1. He finished fourth in the 1500 meters in the Olympics after leading for three laps.

Will Meet Brilliant July 1 A series of brilliant victories over Gene Venke, now a University of Pennsylvania freshman, during the present outdoor campaign convinced critics the Jayhawk was a truly great runner. He and Venke, incidentally, will have it out again in the A. A. U. championship at Chicago July 1.

College Linksman Battle Over Long, Tough Layout

Buffalo, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—Paying premiums only to real golfing ability, the Buffalo Country club course provides a stiff test for college stars competing in the national intercollegiate championships June 26 to July 1.

The course, built to attract championships and classed as one of the most difficult in the east, measures 6,500 yards with a par of 36-37-72. Almost every kind of a hazard, from small bunkers and traps to miniature canyons and sharp-pitched slopes, is included in the layout, and the students will have full opportunity to prove their technical knowledge of shot making.

Long Hitters In Luck For the long wood hitters there are six par-four, 400-yarders and several par fives averaging from 450 to 550 yards. All call for heavy, accurate woods that are sufficiently trapped and tree-lined to provide heavy penalties for shots that stray from the straight and narrow.

One of the most difficult of the long holes is number three, 438 yards, par four. A deep trap, set on a rise, cuts across the fairway 180 yards from the tee, while about 250 yards out there are long traps on both sides of the right of way.

Some of the artfully trapped greens and short holes will quickly demonstrate that the short game artists have not been forgotten. There are several short, par three holes that call for crisp iron shots with enough backspin to stick to fast greens trapped on all sides, while some of the longer holes have heavily trapped, narrow greens with small openings.

Cooper Holds Course Record Most of the holes demand deadly accuracy with iron in order that either the tee or the approach shot will be close enough to the pin to insure par figures.

The record for the course was made by "Light Horse Harry" Cooper, professional, who stroked a 66 four years ago. Among the few golfers who have shattered par is Bob Weatherax of Yale, who shot 69 last year. He will compete in the intercollegiate.

Mancheater came right back, however, in its half of the eighth to sew up the contest, driving across three runs, with two men aboard, Karkavich lined out a sharp double to right center that scored two runs.

Local Start Scoring Mancheater filled the bases in the second inning and scored two runs on an error by the New Britain shortstop and a single by Keish. Another tally was accounted for in the seventh. With two out, Ashland singled, Orlovski made first on an error and Ragusa, who had fanned twice previously, drove out a double that scored Ashland.

Errors Cause Runs Karkahis, local third baseman who is taking the place of Pfau, who is out of school for the summer, handed the bat to the visitors in the sixth. A wild throw to first scored the first one and a perfect peg to Ross, which Karkahis failed to touch, accounted for the other. The visitors scored again in the eighth when Kova and Petronis collided in going after a Texas leaguer over short.

He would have secured a shutout only for the errors of his mates, Ross, Mancheater's hard working catcher, turned in a stellar performance, pulling down two hard running catches behind the stands.

Mancheater postponed game with Hartford tomorrow afternoon. Last week the schools played five innings, when the game was called because of rain with the score tied 1-1.

Beneficial as Players Begin to Click; Giants and Yanks Remain on Top; Gehrig Hits His 17th Home Run.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. The last minute trades by which several National League clubs endeavored to gain strength for the mid-season struggle, appear at first glance to have panned out exceedingly well.

Notable among them was the switch which sent Lefty O'Doul to the New York Giants and Sam Leslie to the Brooklyn Dodgers, but the Boston-Philadelphia deal, involving Pinkie Whitney, Hal Green, Wes Schulmerich and Fritz Knoche also seems to have been beneficial to both teams.

Gets Two Hits O'Doul made two hits as the Giants downed the Chicago Cubs 3-1 in a brilliant mound duel between Fred Fitzsimmons and Pat Malone, and one was a homer which put New York ahead to stay.

The Philadelphia Schulermerich and Knoche, batted in six of the ten innings Philadelphia scored in the sixth and seventh innings to beat Cincinnati, 10-8.

In the American League Washington's so far unsuccessful pursuit of the New York Yankees, again furnished the day's high spots as both teams won and remained a game apart.

The Senators had little trouble downing the Chicago White Sox, 9-0, as they uncorked an 18-hit assault. The Yankees' mound duel furnished the day's high spots as both teams won and remained a game apart.

The Cleveland Indians continued their winning streak with more flashy pitching as Wes Ferrell limited the Philadelphia Athletics to six safeties, while his mates pounded George Earnshaw for an 11-1 triumph.

Baldwin's A. C. swamped The Herald Newsies last night at the Mount Nebo field, 11 to 5, piling up a huge advantage in the first four innings that the paper carriers could not overcome, despite a four run rally in the last frame.

BLUEFIELDS TO FACE ORIOLES OF HARTFORD

The Bluefields of Manchester will play the Orioles of Hartford, Saturday afternoon. The Bluefields have been bringing some very good teams into this town in the past, supposed to play here last Saturday, but which was rained out, are going to play the Savitt Gems. The Bluefields will endeavor to bring other high-class teams for the benefit of the baseball fans of Manchester.

Two new players have been added to the Bluefield lineup: "Hook" Brennan and Lanky. The former plays in the outfield while the latter is a pitcher. Both will strengthen the club a great deal.

Manchester's probable lineup for Saturday will be: R. Smith, cf; Rautenberg, cf; Brennan, rf; A. Raguskus, 3b; Kennedy, ss; C. Smith, 2b; E. Raguskus, 1b; Kattaveck, C. The pitching burden will have to be carried by either Lanky, Neubauer, Hand or Kovis.

RYDER CUP TEAM WASTES NO TIME

U. S. Players Start Practice Soon After They Arrive in England.

London, June 22.—(AP)—The United States Ryder cup team hardly wasted a minute between its arrival in England and the beginning of practice for the international matches at Southport next Monday and Tuesday, but the earnestness of Walter Hagen and his crew failed to shake the confidence of the British. After watching their practice, Henry Cotton, British professional said the visitors had not given themselves long enough to recover after their long journey.

"Britain will win the Ryder Cup," Cotton predicted.

There was nothing in the American's practice session to convey this idea, it would be an easy victory for the British, however. Billy Burke, smoking a big cigar—one rarely sees cigars on a golf course here—hit terrific tee shots. Gene Sarazen sought a remote corner of the course, smacked some vicious 300 yard drives, then spent ten minutes in a bunker with his niblick.

In reply to the formal welcome of Southport's mayor, Hagen said "I think we are in for the biggest fight of our career against your brilliant youngsters."

Britain Starts War On City Slums; London's East End Knotty Problem

London.—(AP)—London's dens of dirt and disease are the country's knottiest problem in a five-year offensive to wipe the slums from the national scene.

Every community has been given until September 30 by the minister of health to survey its unhealthful areas and submit a program for complete abolition by 1938—with only London allowed any extra grace.

Most Slick Land Boom The world's largest city thinks it needs a little grace not only because of the relative size and extent of its slum spots but because the populations of those districts are dense and there is no spare land.

All slum clearance here must be based on the re-housing of displaced peoples. Since they are poor and many need to cling to their locality to be near work they can get, they resist attempts to move them to suburban areas.

Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, is authority for one story reflecting the philosophy of slum dwellers refusing to be displaced.

"A rat in an 'ole," a dweller told him in his vernacular, "is better than a rat out of an 'ole."

East End Districts Worst So complex is the city's problem that not even the London county council, which has charge of clearance and re-housing, can say exactly the full extent of the congested areas.

The worst district, the council says, stretches northward in a broad belt from Limehouse and the Thames dock area into the boroughs of Stepney, Bethnal Green, Shoreditch, and Finsbury.

The first three are the heart of London's infamous East End, containing Whitechapel and rank on rank of "back-to-back" dwellings, damp and ill-lighted basements, and small rooms housing whole families.

Tightly Packed Populations Shoreditch, which measures slightly more than a square mile, has 104,000 inhabitants; Bethnal Green, covering 760 acres, has 98,000 persons to the square mile; Stepney, 1,767 acres, has 90,000 and Finsbury, the smallest area, 587 acres, has a population of 76,995.

Some of the very large congested areas have already been dealt with, either by regular clearance and development programs or as by-products of street and road improvements, but the East End remains as the most complex current problem.

In 35 years since 1898, some 100 acres of slums have been cleared and more than 28,000 persons have been re-housed; a further program involving an equal area and more than 30,000 persons was under way when the 1931 financial crisis put brakes on its progress.

Now, seeking to take advantage of low building costs and low money rates, the government has launched a vigorous campaign to clear out unhealthful areas within five years throughout the country and within an short a period as possible in London.

DIES FROM FALL

Bridgeport, June 21.—(AP)—Leslie J. Sams, 31, of Fairfield, died today at a Bridgeport hospital from a broken back suffered a month ago in a fall from a second story porch. He leaves his widow and three children.

The Chinese H, a measure of length, is the equivalent of one one-hundredth of a day's walk; on the level this slightly exceeds one-third of an English mile, but in hilly country it might be as little as one-tenth of a mile.

KILLED TRYING STUNT

Kenosha, Wis., June 22.—(AP)—An attempt to perform an "escape stunt" was said by physicians today to have been the cause of the death of Frank Edward Sebastian, 18-year-old son of wealthy parents, in the boathouse at the summer home of the family at Twin Lakes, 25 miles west of here.

The boy was found slumped in a corner of the boathouse dressing room with a narrow belt wrapped loosely around his neck. Physicians said they believed he suffered a heart attack and died of suffocation while attempting some stunt with the belt.

When once outside the Imp tree home, we Scouty said, "What say we roam around this lovely forest. Monkeys may be right nearby. "I think they're cute as they can be. They usually live up in a tree. I'd like to find a friendly one. Who'll go with me and try?"

"I will," said Doty. "It is best if we just let our Imp friend lead.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Yearnings
 Forgotten are the icy blasts,
 The cold and sleet and snow,
 When days were chilly Arctic blasts,
 And nights were three below.
 And now, while writhing in the heat,
 Each house a stifling fen,
 We dream of snows and winter's throes,
 And long for them again.

As a man grows older he is more concerned about the possibility of a breeze over his bed and less concerned about the crease in his pants.

Mother (as she came into the room where the children were playing)—Bessie, what do you mean by shouting and storming about like that? Why can't you play quietly, like Ted. He isn't saying a word.
 Let's Bessie—Of course he's not.
 It's his part in the game to play like that. He is being daddy coming home late at night, and I am you.

A girl will never forget her first kiss but a boy is more apt to remember the kiss he tried to get and couldn't.

Man—Have you ever thought seriously of marriage?
 Out-of-Town Friend—Indeed I have, ever since the ceremony.

Every man has his way of doing and getting along. If it's a poor way, it's just too bad for rarely does he ever change it.

Betsy—What did you think when you first put your arms around me?
 Jacob—I wished I was an octopus.

A youth who went back on his sweetheart, said: "I thought it was a case of love at first sight, but I guess I must have been slightly cross-eyed."

A short cut to a girl's heart seems to be through the dress department.

The girl should learn that a ring on the finger is worth a dozen over the telephone.

A fashion note starts out this way: "Two sleeves does not make a dress." Well, We Should Say Not!

Woman—What delightful manners your daughter has.
 Neighbor (proudly)—Yes, you see she has been away from home so much.

We read that "well-timed silence is more eloquent than speech." And most silence is well-timed.

VIEWS AND NEAR-VIEWS: It appears that fixing depression-guilt is as difficult as fixing war-guilt. . . . We hear much about the deeper things of life. What are they? . . . A pretty, slender woman of 20 with fat ancestors has plenty to worry about. . . . They call them roasting ears, but they s'ways boil them. . . . The reason slickers can make money without working is because suckers are eager to do the same thing. . . .
 The police dog is not the only German dog popular in America.
 There's the hot dog. . . . If you are unable to find an opportunity, go to work and make one. . . . A boy in the family always comes in handy when the pie left over is not enough to save. . . . A right, Louisiana? . . . The old bachelor says the difference between firmness and obstinacy is merely a matter of sex. . . . Too many men who say they are "self-made" seem to have been interrupted before the job was finished. . . . About all some of us have saved for a rainy day is a case of rheumatism.

A naval officer fell overboard. He was rescued by a deck hand. The officer asked his preserver how he could reward him.
 "The best way, sir," said the lowly deck hand, "is to say nothing about it. If the other fellows knew I had pulled you out, they'd chuck me in."

HOSPITAL GROUNDS AT BEAUTY HEIGHT

Rose Garden in Full Bloom and Rock Garden Are Most Attractive Now.

Mrs. Jane J. Aldrich and the staff of the Manchester Memorial hospital are proud of the gardens and grounds of the hospital at this season of the year. The rose garden is at present in full bloom and presents a beautiful sight in the east section of the ramp bordering the driveway ramp. The many different varieties of roses now in full bloom were presented to the hospital by friends, and the opportunity presented to the patients to avail themselves of the sunshine and fresh air during the summer months, and the perennial garden, rock garden and rose garden all add to the attractiveness of the hospital exterior and grounds.
