TRYING TO MAKE OYSTER POPULAR

State Employee Tells Kiwanians All About Seafood Propagation.

The local Kiwanis Club today heard all about the oyster business at the regular noonday meeting at the Country Club, when Edward B. Noonan, state supervisor of the sanitary department, spoke on the "Sanitation of the Oyster Beds of Connecticut."

Rigid Supervision

Startish An Enemy

He said that startish are the greatest enemy of the oyster, hunting the latter for food purposes. He explained the method of capturing startish by "trapping" them in the ocean floor. Heavy storms are also injurious to oysters, he said. Mr. Noonan demonstrated a small machine used to test the quality of the water in which oyster beds are placed.

In the annals of Free Masonry there is no character more significant or important in the legendary symbols that have gathered about his name—than Hiram Abif. His name and fame and deeds are almost wholly dependent upon tradition. Sacred or Bible history contains slight reference to him. Secular history is silent in regard to him. But tradition which comes down through the streams of Free Masonry is undoubtedly very ancient. It cannot be said that the narrative remains unwritten for it is readily written and it undoubtedly has descended from age to age among Masons by the method of oral recitation.

REV. L. C. HARRIS IN FIRST SERMON

New Pastor of South M. E. Church Urges Faith Not Bound to Passing Order.

"Religion and Life" was the theme chosen by Rev. Leonard C. Harris in the opening sermon of his pastorate in the South Methodist church yesterday. There was a good attendance of church members and of the young people's societies at the morning service.

Rev. L. C. Harris in First Sermon

Speaking on the subject of "Religion and Life" Mr. Harris stated that any religion which did not concern itself with this very life of which we are so vital a part was of very little use and was bound to pass into the realm of the forgotten. People who are contending that religion is doomed to disappear from the life of the race reveal the fact that they lack both in knowledge of the nature of man and the nature of religion. Humanity's long trek has experienced many dark and gloomy periods, but the prophets of disaster have declared the end of established faiths and practices. The religion of Jesus has been consigned to irreparable doom many times by its antagonists. It had a difficult time getting started in the land of its origin, largely because it dealt a body blow at many of the accepted customs and standards of the age. It is nothing to be alarmed about that the whole content of religious thinking is being faced with a most drastic and searching, and uncompromising search for truth. It will bring to clearer light and higher appraisal, the substantial and enduring qualities of religion, those deep things of the soul and spirit, which man cannot live without.

HUNDREDS BLESSED BY JESUIT FRIEND

First High Mass of Father Burke Brings 700 Town-folk to St. James' Altar.

Fourteen times the full length of the altar rail at St. James' church was lined with communicants who knelt to receive the blessing of Rev. James Leo Burke, who celebrated there his first solemn high mass yesterday morning following his ordination on Thursday at Weston Chapel, Weston, Mass., as a priest of the Jesuit order.

In the celebration of the mass Father Burke was assisted by Rev. Leo R. Fair, S. J., of Holy Cross College as arch priest. The mass began at 10:30 and ended at 11:45. Rev. William P. Reidy acted as deacon, Rev. P. J. Killen as sub-deacon and Rev. John Stuart Raymond Burke as celebrant. Rev. John S. Wheeler of Baltimore, treasurer of Holy Cross college, preached the sermon.

Among the other priests in attendance were Rev. James Timmins of Elmwood, formerly of St. James' church and Rev. Raymond Burke of Lee, Mass., a classmate of Father Burke during his first year at Holy Cross.

In his sermon Father Wheeler referred to the school and college graduations taking place throughout the whole country during June "Commencement," he said, "for it is the commencement of the life that is to follow." He spoke of the long period of preparation for the ordination and the celebration of his first mass by Father Burke, who many years ago had heard the call and had answered. A long time was necessary to properly prepare for the vocation of that call and now had been reached the commencement period, when he was ready to answer to the call of God.

At 1 o'clock dinner was served at the Castle Inn at which the relatives of the young priest were present, and a reception was held at the home of his parents on Spruce street from 4 to 6 o'clock, where many friends called to extend greetings. Father Burke will remain in Manchester until Friday when he will return to Weston for another year of study and at the end of that time will be assigned to either the missionary field or to some college as a teacher.

ROCKVILLE

SAY DARK HORSE SEEKS POSTMASTER'S JOB

Think Same Thing Will Happen in P. O. Appointments As Did in Courts.

"A dark horse" is reported as being in line for the postmastership at Rockville although the majority of the leaders of both the Republican and Democratic parties refuse to outwardly admit that is the case. The report of a "dark horse" for the associate judgeship of Rockville was brought about much to the surprise of both political parties and for this reason some credence is given to the post office report.

During the past week letters have been received from Postmaster General Farley at Washington in reply to letters from a Democratic leader in Rockville. Letters were also forwarded to President Roosevelt and Senator Augustine Longergan but replies have not as yet been received according to reports. A split in the Democratic ranks has occurred during the past month with indications that there will be a bitter battle over the postmastership between the three elements in the party at the present time.

For several years there has been on "old guard" and a "new guard" and now there is a breach among the "old guard" members. Former Mayor George Forster, recognized as the last chairman of the Democratic town committee to be elected by party heads "old guard" leaders who are anxious to see Maurice L. Spurling receive the appointment to the postmastership.

Mr. Forster is a personal friend of Senator Longergan, a former Rockville resident, now of Hartford. The younger element of the Democratic party is headed by John J. McKenna who has the American Federation of Labor and scores of Rockville residents petitioning his appointment to office. Another group seeks the appointment of former Mayor Frederick G. Hartenstein who announced his candidacy at the start of the campaign for the appointment.

The last element, popularly known as the "Dark Horse Element" is headed by George E. Dunn, Democratic Registrar, who has been working with the officials in Washington for his personal appointment to the postmastership. If not for himself, Mr. Dunn is reported as asking the power of selecting the appointee according to the best reports. This is where the story of the "dark horse" candidate started. Mr. Dunn was reported as being the Democratic leader who succeeded in having Thomas L. Larkin named Postmaster George M. Dickinson stated, when interviewed, that he expects anytime to receive word from Washington instructing him to seek retirement on pension he is entitled to under the 80 year law as a postal employee. It was first reported that Postmaster Dickinson would seek appointment as Registered Letter Clerk so that he could complete the service entitling him to retirement on the postmaster's pension, much higher than the employee's pension. He states that it would require eight years of service to receive this pension.

AGUINALDO IS AGAINST VOTE ON INDEPENDENCE

Manila, P. I., June 26.—(AP)—Emilio Aguinaldo, leader of the Philippine insurrection of 1901, today attacked the proposed plebiscite on the Independence Act to which rival political leaders have tentatively agreed.

By this stand taken in a speech in Isabela Province, the dynamic little head of the insurrecto veterans organization became the sole outstanding advocate of outright independence of proffered terms of independence. "If I were the leader," he said, "I would not submit the law to the people or to a convention, but to the people."

Manuel Quezon, president of the Senate, who has been attacking the terms of the Act, recently agreed to a plebiscite in a conference with Senator Sergio Osmena and Speaker of the House Manuel Roxas, champions of acceptance.

The plebiscite, to be held after the Legislature convenes July 17, would serve as a guide in reaching the final decision, either at a convention or by the Legislature.

All Cigarettes are not Alike

Different Kinds of Tobaccos Make a Difference in Taste and Aroma

... Take Chesterfields, for Instance

SOME cigarettes are made out of only one kind of tobacco ... while others are made from several different kinds.

And everyone can understand that different tobaccos make a difference in taste and aroma. Chesterfields are a good example of this difference.

You see it's not easy to make Chesterfield's milder taste. It takes three distinct kinds of Domestic tobaccos. Then these must be seasoned with the right amount of Turkish. And they must be blended and cross-blended until their flavors are welded together ... to make a cigarette that has character and yet is not too strong ... to make a cigarette that's milder, a cigarette that tastes better.

Use of weather procedure. What fun is there in knowing, beyond reasonable doubt, that day after tomorrow at 8:30 a. m. it will begin to rain and will rain until 10:45 and then clear off hot? Who wants his weather out and dried—or out, and wet? Is there to be no adventure at all but the adventure of getting across Main street when it's full of double parked cars and speed lunatics without detouring to the hospital?
 For us, we don't want to know too darned much about what the weather is going to be. Isn't it bad enough to gasp and sweat through a 95 degree spell when it gets here, without undergoing the horrid anticipation thereof for an extra forty-eight hours in advance? But all other considerations aside, there is still the element of the joke. Really we could better afford to do away with mothers-in-law, or even prohibition, than the good old, cherished, United States weather bureau forecasts. For our part we think they are carrying this technocratic development altogether too far.

"ENEMIES OF GOD."

The Northwest Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church has just formally adopted a resolution declaring that the newspapers of America constitute an enemy of the Kingdom of God.
 It is to be suspected that the members of the Conference who adopted that resolution placed an interpretation all their own on "the Kingdom of God." It is, perhaps, not too well established that they are qualified interpreters.
 If the Kingdom of God consists of a state of affairs where all human behavior is regulated according to a formula prescribed by a church conference, then it is conceivable that the newspapers, as a whole, might be regarded as inimical to that bestial condition, because it is to be freely confessed that the ethics of the secular press are not always those of one church. Indeed it is difficult to see how they could be, since there are at least sixty major Christian sects in the United States, not to mention a considerable number of minor offshoots, each of which is in disagreement with all the others on some element of Christian faith which it regards as vital—sufficiently vital, at all events, to warrant a separate establishment.

It might be possible, of course, for the newspapers to so control their actions, their utterances, and their thoughts that the Northwest Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church would pass a resolution declaring them to be a very shining champion of the Kingdom of God. But it is probable that about the time that perfect state was reached fifty-nine—or a hundred and nine—other sectarian bodies would be screaming that the newspapers had sold out to the devil.
 So it is all rather hopeless. Meantime, the rowdy, sin-burdened newspapers of the area of the Northwest Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church may, if they need balm for their wounded feelings, take enough time off from their poker game with Satan to figure up the monetary value of the millions of lines of advertising propaganda which, during the last year, they have printed gratuitously for the benefit of the Northwest Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church and its numerous member units. And they might jot down that total in front of their sin-burdened desks for comparison with the total of free puffing that the Northwest Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will solicit at the befoiled hands of the newspapers during the year to come.
 Just as a sporting proposition we will bet any of those newspapers a shiny nickel that, on top of this pulverizing denunciation, those same churches of the Northwest Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church will expect to be given, more free advertising in the year next succeeding this declaration about the newspapers being enemies of the Kingdom of God than they did in the year just past. And no doubt they will even get it. For those esemes of the Kingdom of God out in that part of the country are a tolerant lot. Perhaps that is why the flaming seals from the back counties of Wisconsin, Minnesota and North Dakota regard them as enemies of the Kingdom.

WORLD WORKS POLICY.
 The announced intention of the American delegation at the London Economic Conference to induce the other nations to adopt the United States plan of ending the depression by providing employment on public works is not as wild as it may sound.
 Great Britain, after many years of experience in maintaining a large part of her population in demoralizing idleness, seems to be almost ready to agree that it would be more sensible and practicable to put her people to work on great national improvements. Italy's Fascist policy contains recognition of something like the same truth. And, oddly enough, the crazy, militaristic vogue of Hitlerism, in Germany, draws all its real strength from the fact that its lunatics are held together by a core of state guarantees of employment, even though the public works contemplated consist of the upbuilding of a bigger and better war machine.

 Apparently, as a matter of fact, there is only one important nation in Europe, the French, whose conservatism has not begun to yield in the face of conviction that it is no longer possible to keep a modern people busy raising food and making clothes and building houses for one another. The old economic saw about people existing by taking in one another's washings has received an extension of application. It applies nowadays almost as well to the old system of production and distribution of necessities and luxuries. The French are not so dense that they will not soon realize this too. It has only dawned on us Americans since, so to speak, day before yesterday.
 Whether anything very definite will come out of an American effort, just at this time, to bring the nations into agreement on a public works policy one may guess. But if our rooting for such a policy in London only serves to reinforce our own conviction that it is the right answer much will have been accomplished.

IN NEW YORK

BLOOMING HIGH ABOVE NEW YORK'S SKY-GARDENS:
 By JULIA BLANSHARD
 New York, June 25.—The hanging gardens of Babylon (one of the Seven Wonders of the World) certainly had nothing on New York's pent-house gardens. Forty stories or so above the hot streets, these sky-scraper gardens bloom with all the abandon and variety of the best formal or country gardens. And they give visitors a thrill of admiration the best ordinary garden never can attain.

Ivy-Clad Pent-House!
 Otis Weise, editor of McCall's, is perhaps New York's best ivy-scraper gardener. His pent-house has a spacious yard on three sides, with ivy growing over the outside wall and against the house, with 16 kinds of flowers blooming right this minute, all planted and cared for by Mr. and Mrs. Weise. . . . Helena Rubenstein goes in for California cactus, orange trees and sword plants, on her terrace overlooking Central Park on the West Side. . . . Zita Johann, whose pent-house and terrace is on lower Fifth Avenue, has a prize imported hedge and clover. She is the only ivy-scraper dweller who keeps a huge white Russian wolf-hound in her garden. . . . Achmed Abdulah, the author, has a quaint duplex pent-house on a hotel roof nearby with old-fashioned garden with lemon verbena, geraniums and sweet alyssum.

Rhapsody in Blue
 Morris Ryskind, co-author of "Of This I Sing", goes in for blooming window boxes all around his terrace atop an old New York hotel in the Village. . . . Gilbert Gabrielle, music critic and author, and his artistic wife, Ada, have a pent-house which uses a blue color scheme in every room and only blue flowers in their extensive garden. . . . Probably because Ada has blue eyes. . . . Alexander Woolcott's garden over-look the East River and have shrubs, a hedge, and a little graveled walk between oddly shaped flower beds. . . . Elizabeth Arden has a sumptuous duplex pent-house, all interior-decorated in the Victorian manner in ivory and pale green, and gorgeous gardens on three different levels.

Sky-Scraped Terraces
 The most elaborate pent-house gardens probably are the ones just completed for the Harold K. Hochschild atop a Park Avenue house. They are in three tiers with dirt three feet deep—actually three complete gardens with little steps running up and down between them. On one level is an out-door playground, all in grass, for the children. On another are fountains, garden walks and seats. On the third are unusually landscaped small trees, staggered flower gardens with borders in varicolored foliage plants.

Kreuger Boasted Trees
 The late Ivar Kreuger's gardens were unbelievably lovely. . . . Planted in six feet of dirt atop the Park Avenue apartment, all kinds of fruit trees bloomed and bore fruit, roses of exotic loveliness came to gorgeous blossom and one pond held several kinds of gorgeous pond lilies.

On Farrell's Arm
 Mary Pickford, sojourning here while hubby Doug is in Europe with his son, is being squored everywhere by Charley Farrell. Also she seems to be catching up on her reading. . . . At a dinner John Erskine gave for her, not a single book was mentioned on which Mary couldn't and didn't comment.

Health and Diet Advice
 By Dr. Frank McCoy

YOUR INTRODUCE CHEMICAL FACTORY
 Your own body is one of the most interesting chemical factories in existence. Some of the compounds it evolves are too delicate to be duplicated even with the skill of the world's best chemists, yet its elaborating, synthesizing and changing of chemical compounds. In reality every cell of the body is a little chemical laboratory or a division of the great factory that makes up the entire organism.
 Of the ninety-nine elements known to science, there are only about twenty found in the body. Curiously enough, over two-thirds of the weight of the body consists of elements which are very light gases, while the heaviest metals present in the body are in such small amounts as to make no appreciable difference in the body weight. The uses of some of the rarer elements are entirely unknown. It was supposed for some time that these rarer elements were an incidental contaminant, that is, they are probably not the case. They may have a definite and valuable use just as it has been found that copper and iodine, though present in the most infinitesimal amounts, are essential to life itself.
 Very few of the elements are found in an uncombined form in the system. In most instances the compounds are very unstable and very complex in arrangement so that they are readily converted into other forms as the body requires. I believe that a great deal of the progress which may be made along medical lines will be in understanding more thoroughly the chemical activity inside of the body and in finding ways and means for controlling the exact chemical composition of the blood and other tissues.

In a healthy body all of the intricate chemical processes work in harmony, but in a sick body there is a discord in proportion to the severity of the disorder. In some cases the illness produces the deranged bodily chemistry, but in other instances, and possibly the majority, a chemical unbalance sets off the spark that produces the disorder. Health seems to be a matter of allowing the natural chemical changes to take place without the interference which results from bad habits of living. When wrong or unbalanced chemicals are thrown into the body in the form of food, it is as though a bomb were being exploded just as would happen in a large chemical factory if chemicals were promiscuously thrown helter skelter. The restoration of health is usually a matter of substituting good habits for bad ones and a good take place and health once more enjoyed when the laboratory of the body functions in the normal harmonious way that Nature intended.
 Study your bodily chemistry and especially the chemistry and physiology of digestion. You can save a great deal of day by day in the study of this and other health columns that may be designed for their educational value. The newspapers who publish the forward type of health columns deserve the loyal support of their readers for a great deal of good will result when people learn how to preserve health. You can also gain a great deal of information about health from various books in your public libraries. It is not necessary to read any highly technical books; you can learn much about the chemistry and function of the body by reading text books that are designed for use in high schools and even grammar schools. If all of my readers would make a thorough study of the chemistry and physiology of digestion, many of the doctors and undertakers in the country would be looking for more remunerative occupations. There is no need for the thousands of millions of dollars that the people of this continent spend every year directly or indirectly because of sickness. If each one learned to regulate his own diet and bodily chemistry, even according to the rudiments known to science today, illness would be an exceptional occurrence rather than a commonplace condition in every community.

LOOK OUT FOR THE TEEZE!

There are indications that some of the people controlling the so-called "basic" industries are less interested in helping to restore business in this country than they are in grabbing profits out of the procedure of restoration. Of the ten major industries called upon by the government to submit codes of operation with the utmost possible celerity, only one, the cotton textile group, has complied. It is suspected that most of the others are waiting to see what the government does about the textile schedule, each figuring to gain the utmost of possible advantage for itself.
 Meantime a very considerable number of large industries, not included among the basic ten, have completed their codes. And many others are well on the way.

It is observable that the dilatory industries are those which are ultimately controlled not by practical industrialists but by financiers. Bona fide manufacturers are anxious above all things for a resumption of general activity. They are willing to take pot luck with the rest of the country in sharing the profits of a renewed activity. They want action and are willing to contribute their good will and their energy to starting it. But those gentlemen whose interest in industries, transportation and every other department of our economic set-up is strictly limited to the financier's point of view do not propose, if they can help it, to assist in fostering a condition that may result in restricting their own power, no matter what happens.

They are probably in for a surprise. They are not very bright, these "big shots." If they were they would realize that they are monkeying with a buzz saw. It will astonish no one but themselves if, at a date a great deal earlier than they anticipate, the National Recovery Administration hands each of the slacker industries a code all ready written and says: "There's your program. Get to work under it, right now—or you don't get to work at all."

This Industrial Recovery act has teeth—long enough and sharp enough to bite the head off every obstructionist in the United States no matter how big he is, or thinks he is.

TRUE WEATHER FORECASTS.
 Announcement of a new system of weather forecasting by which 98.1 per cent accuracy is promised must not be jumped at by the public as something already arranged for displacement of the present system. It is merely "in the works" so far as adoption by the government is concerned.

Something beautiful will disappear from existence in America when the good old standard weather probabilities go into the discard. For generations the government weather forecasts, in good times and bad, in times of ease and times of stress, in peace and in war, have lent a tang and a flip to an otherwise possibly jaded existence. When vaudeville jokes have become worn thin and when political satire has grown flat, stale and unprofitable, the dourset and the worst bored can always get a kick out of the weather forecasts—as dependable for comical error as the funniest Marine that ever drowned it in pantomime or circus. It is a serious question whether the people of this country can afford, merely for the sake of getting real information as to what the weather is going to be, to sacrifice the fun that for two generations they have been getting out of the daily meteorological prophecies of Uncle Sam.
 On the whole, we are not at all sure we approve of any reduction of this never ending series comedy to the status of a coldly precise sched-plese tell me how to get rid of catsarrh? Have much phlegm in my throat and severe headaches. Have had my eyes tested and properly fitted with glasses which reduced the headaches a little. Am taking 100 pounds. Am 28 years old.

 Answer: Do not try to put on weight while you are getting rid of catsarrh. A mucous diet will probably reduce your weight to some extent, but through following a well-balanced diet afterwards and taking vigorous physical culture exercises you will be able to build up a strong body, and, perhaps, more weight if nature considers it good for you. Temporarily, eliminate all heavy starches, also sugars and fats with the exception of a small amount of butter. Send for my special article on the cure of catsarrh, being sure to enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

 (Facials)
 Question: O. D. asks: "Do you approve of facial rejuvenation without surgery? The treatment I have in mind consists of violet ray, electro-treatment and lotions. Would you consider the effects permanent, or would the treatments have to be continued indefinitely? The skin under the eyes is loose and lined and is fouling."

 Answer: There are many kinds of facial treatments which are beneficial in producing a better tone to the skin and muscles of the face. No treatment of this kind can have a permanent effect but must be continued off and on through life. It is ever necessary to start it.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Fara, Brazil — Senhora Maria Da Rosa, 65, narrowly escaped being buried alive.

Several hours later, however, the woman really died.
Tobacco City, Cal.—Horses in this vicinity must stop wearing cowbells.

Chicago—Two men and a girl. James McLaughlin saw her first.

Hot Springs, Ark., June 26.—(AP)—One man was killed and another gravely wounded early today when W. F. Westmoreland of Houston, Tex., motoring with his wife, was halted by a pair with a gun and replied to a demand to "stick 'em up" with bullets.

As the order to "stick 'em up" came, Westmoreland pulled a revolver from the side pocket of his automobile and opened fire. One bullet pierced Brady's heart and several hit Holman.

Everybody doesn't do this!

But some people can come home from a week-end

- and turn the faucet and get piping hot water immediately and turn a switch and begin cooking immediately and go to the refrigerator and find everything perfectly preserved

It's even better to come back to an all-electric home than it is to live in one. Not only is electricity on the job while you are away, but it starts up when you get back at the simple turn of a switch.

Is all this worth 48c a day?

That's all it costs some people to do everything electrically in their homes.

Why not get an estimate?

There are many all-electric homes in Manchester and vicinity. Let us give you the names of these people and the amounts of their bills. Let us estimate what it would cost you to do everything electrically. We shall be very glad to make this estimate without any obligation to you, and then you can be sure that you are not passing a good thing by.

Southport, Eng., June 26.—(AP)—The United States Ryder Cup team led by Walter Hagen today started off poorly in defense of the International golf trophy, trailing in three of the four foursomes and only holding the Britons even in the other at the end of the first 18 holes of the 36-hole first day matches.

FRANKLIN A. C. EDGES SUB-ALPINES, 5 TO 4

The Sub-Alpines were nosed out by the Franklin A. C. of New Britain yesterday afternoon. "Johnny" Mikoleit pitched splendidly for the Alpines but costly errors with men on bases proved his downfall. Only two of New Britain's runs were really earned. Each team scored a run in the opening inning. The Alpines scored two runs in the third on O'Leary's single and Joe Lovett's long home run which sailed over the left fielder's head. Lovett could have made home almost by walking.

REC GIRLS PLAY TIE WITH NORWICH MALES

The strong Sachem A. C. semi-pro team of Norwich played a six-inning game that ended 6-6 yesterday afternoon in that city. The Sachem club, while undoubtedly one of the best ball clubs in that section of the state, chivalrously failed to score as heavily as they might of against the girls' battery and when the burden was taken over by Schuetz and Vince, male battery for the Rec Girls in the fifth inning, were unable to connect against the splendid ball pitched by Schuetz for the necessary runs to break the tie.

BLUEFIELDS SPLIT 2 WEEK-END GAMES

Lose 14-Inning Battle to Hartford Orioles, 1-0; Down All-Torrington 24-4

The Bluefields split in their games over the week-end, losing one and winning one. They lost their first encounter which was with the Orioles of Hartford by the score of 1-0. This game went to fourteen innings before a run was scored. Neubauser who pitched for the Bluefields pitched splendid ball. He struck out twenty and issued but one pass. Neubauser was given fine support by his teammates until the fourteenth inning when an error was made and a run scored.

"Tufty" Viot, star hurler for the Green was in top form, proving the fact by retiring seventeen Pioneers with the striking out during the game. This young player's ability to hit so rarely found in good pitchers makes him a rather valuable member of Manager Hublard's aggregation.

Segar, the Green's regular catcher, who has been on an enforced vacation through injury was back on the job yesterday and turned in his usual first-class performance. The Pioneers declined to admit defeat until the last tosser of Tufty Viot was being waited across the plate. They were dangerously near victory when Segar had changed things, several times during the last few innings.

YALE TEAM BEGINS DEFENSE OF TITLE

Intercollegiate Golf Battle Opens Today; 15 Colleges Are Represented.

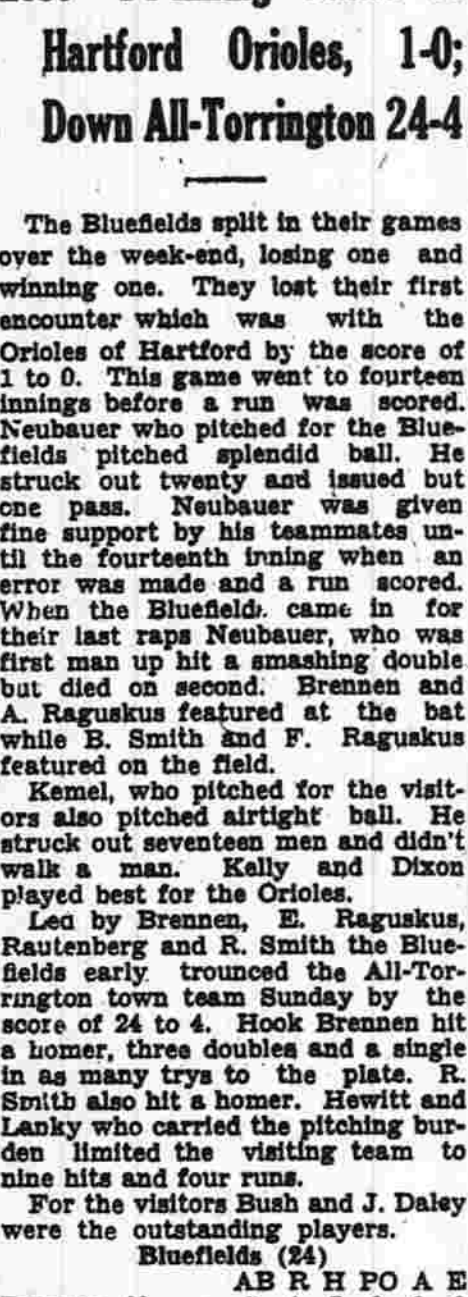

Buffalo, Country Club, Williams, N. Y., June 26.—(AP)—Yale University today began the defense of the National intercollegiate golf title in a match with Michigan, which was nosed out by one point last year, was expected to provide plenty of opposition. Yale has three veterans from last year's team and the group has been considerably strengthened by the addition of Law Weatherax of Albany, R. Gray of Richmond, Va., and O. Tranuse of Hartsville, Ohio.

FANTASTIC ANGLES OF TITLE BOUT

Causing Spots Before The Eyes

Here are the principals in Thursday night's big fracas at New York, with facts and figures to show the tremendous physical advantage that Primo Carnera (right) will carry over the champion, Jack Sharkey, in the 15-round tussle.

SHARKEY IS RATED STRONG FAVORITE

New York, June 26.—(AP)—You'll have to go back a long way in fight history to find a heavyweight championship match to compare with the Sharkey-Carnera shindig in its bizarre characteristics. In some way it's fantastic, this return meeting between the cold-eyed sailor and the mammoth, slow-witted fellow who once was a circus strong boy. It has more angles than a futuristic landscape.

CHAMP STILL LOOKS LIKE BETTER FIGHTING MAN THAN CARNERA; BOUT THURSDAY

New York, June 26.—(AP)—If boxing matches were decided on the basis of bulk, Jack Sharkey would concede his heavyweight championship to Primo Carnera now and go home to Boston and take care of the flowers he likes to talk about. But there's more to it than that and, unless Jack has turned over night into one of those well-known "Hollow-shells," then he should be rated a strong favorite for his 15 round title defense against the big Italian in Madison Square Garden's outdoor bowl in Long Island City Thursday night.

HOST OF STARS TAKE LAST RECORD CRACKS

Chicago, June 26.—(AP)—A host of stars including Glenn Cunningham, Ralph Metcalfe, Charles Hornbostel, Glenn Harding, Gene Venette and others will take their farewell cracks of the season at the already badly battered track and field record book this week-end at Soldier Field in the annual A. U. championship meet.

YANKS SPLIT DOUBLEHEADER AND CARDS ARE IDLE AS LEADERS CONTINUE ADVANCE; FOXHITS 16TH HOMER AS A'S ALSO SPLIT; LON WARNEKE HAS TUGH LUCK ON MOUND FOR CUBS.

The second-place clubs in the major leagues are learning by painful experience that if they give the New York Giants or Washington Senators an inch in the pennant races, they'll take a mile. Bill Terry's highly efficient pitching staff played its usual important part in downing the Cincinnati Reds 7-1, and 6-3, but improved hitting went along with it.

CHURCH NINE TURNS BACK ACES, 5 TO 2

The German Lutherans, took the Aces into camp to the tune of 5 to 2. Haberman the ace hurler for the church's nine pitched a beautiful game allowing only six hits. Ineffective pitching and fielding brought the downfall of the Aces. The German Lutherans wish to play games with any team in Manchester, call 6726.

SENSE and NONSENSE

WISE OR OTHERWISE—A man with a long head isn't necessarily heading. The man who fancies his freedom may not be fancy free. There are some things we should remember to forget. Married women like to board and pretend to be keeping house. Sometimes a woman has the cheek to discard paint and powder. After a girl gets to be about so old she prefers kisses to fudge. Success is apt to turn a man's head, even if he has a bolt on his neck. Pride doth make liars of all of us. Wealth is all right in its place but it should visit our place. Some men marry for money and others are merely careless. In the circus girls ride bareback, while in society they dance that way. The latest thing in men's clothes is women. Mary's a wall-flower and never grow jealous. Idleness travels so slowly that poverty soon overtakes it. If you are not afraid of progress, and do not hate the rich, you belong to the middle class. Suspicion probably has the worst case of halitosis. Some folks can't tolerate religious tolerance. Some radios are seen but never heard. Somehow we believe home-grown population is the best. Nothing is funnier at 6 o'clock in the morning. We spend so much for fun and have so little of it.

Most of the people who sneer at the office-seeker, would grab the job in a minute if they just thought they could get it.

Maids—Gladys takes plenty of setting up exercises.
Edith—Yes, she sits up with a different boy every night.

"I used to try to be a reformer, but I found out that I was spending more time mending other people's business than attending my own, so I put on the brakes and eased down just a little."

Proprietor—Any orders while I was out?
Clerk—Yes. Yes a man just came in and ordered me to put up my hands while he emptied the cash register.

Possibly the reason people sell their property for a song these days is because they get nothing but notes for it anyway.

Husband—My wife is having hysterics! Can you let me have something to quiet her?
Neighbor—Sorry, old man, but I haven't got a cent.

Start a good report on a man and people are slow to believe it. But start a bad story, and they'll say they suspected it all the time.

A rebirth of faith in ourselves and faith in our country would do more than anything else to start us on the upward track.

A large New York hotel recently conspicuously displayed a huge sign reading: "Open All Night."

Close by there was a restaurant which displayed a sign which read: "We Never Close."
Between the large hotel and the restaurant was a small shop owned by one Sam Lung and Sam would not be outdone. He erected a sign across the front of his little establishment as follows: "Me Wakee too."

Welfare Worker—What brought you to prison, my good man?
Convict—Competition, mum.

Welfare Worker—Competition? I don't understand.
Convict—Yes, mum, competition. I made the same sort of half dollars as the government.

Hai—I'm always getting into some kind of trouble. Here I am engaged to two girls at the same time.
Cal—What are you going to do about it?
Hai—It's what they are going to do about it that has me worried.

"What became of the smart men of 1928?" Well, we dunno, but we guess maybe they're still smarting.

83 YEARS OLD, GIVEN BIG SURPRISE PARTY

Mrs. Ellen Newberry Has Lived Through Three Wars and Three Depressions.

Mrs. Ellen Newberry, widow of Samuel Newberry, who took an active part in the Civil War, celebrated her eighty-third birthday on Saturday, June 24. In honor of this grand old lady thirty of her relatives, children, grand-children, and great-grandchildren, gathered at the home of Mrs. Irene Wilkie on Pearl street, who is one of the grandchildren, and where Mrs. Newberry has made her home since coming to Manchester.

Mrs. Newberry was in Worcester during the day, having motored to that city with her son William, and in returning at eight o'clock in the evening it was a big surprise to find this gathering at her home. The home of Mrs. Wilkie was artistically decorated with season's flowers and palms for this occasion.

Tables were set for the thirty guests, who came from Boston, Munson, and Worcester, Mass., and from Stafford Springs, Rockville, Hartford, and this town. During the evening her grandson "Tom" Newberry of Munson, Mass., favored with tap, and clog dancing, and another grandson "Ed" from Stafford Springs kept the party merry as master of ceremonies. Games were brought in to play and Mrs. Newberry though eighty-three years young was the life of the party. A purse of money was among the gifts received by Mrs. Newberry, presented by her daughter, Mrs. Nellie Joyce of Main street, this from her children. Mrs. Mary Rankin of Rockville one of the grandchildren in behalf of the latter, presented Mrs. Newberry with a club chair. Master "Tom" Wilkie of Pearl street in behalf of the great-grandchildren presented Mrs. Newberry with house-slippers.

LUTHERANS PLACE THIRD IN ATTENDANCE CONTEST

Group from Manchester Sees Worcester Church Get Prize - Local Chrus Has Projects.

The Luther League of the Emmanuel Lutheran church here placed third in a Christian Flag contest sponsored by the New England Conference Luther League during the past year, it was announced at the annual convention of the organization, held in Pawtucket, R. I. over the week-end. The flag, given to the league which makes the best all around showing, was won by the First Lutheran church of Worcester, Mass., with an average of 84.7 per cent.

New Haven was second with 79.9 per cent. Manchester's average was 70.3 per cent. At the business session Saturday afternoon, Helge Pearson of this town was elected a member of the Music Committee for two years, this committee being created to promote interest in an appreciation of music and to direct the efforts toward Conference musical organizations.
