

FOUR POWER PACT IS SIGNED IN ROME

Italy, France, Germany and Great Britain Agree on Peace for a Period of Ten Years.

Rome, July 15.—(AP)—The four-power European peace pact was signed here today by Premier Mussolini, and representatives of France, Germany and Great Britain.

The accord which is designed to guarantee tranquility among European countries for a period of ten years, facilitate reduction of armaments and lead to improvement in economic conditions, was given official approval in the Duce's huge office in the Palazzo Venezia.

Besides the head of the Italian government, Ambassador Henry de Jouvenel of France, Ambassador von Hassel of Germany, and Sir Ronald Graham, the British ambassador, all of whom attached their initials to the document early last month, signed it today.

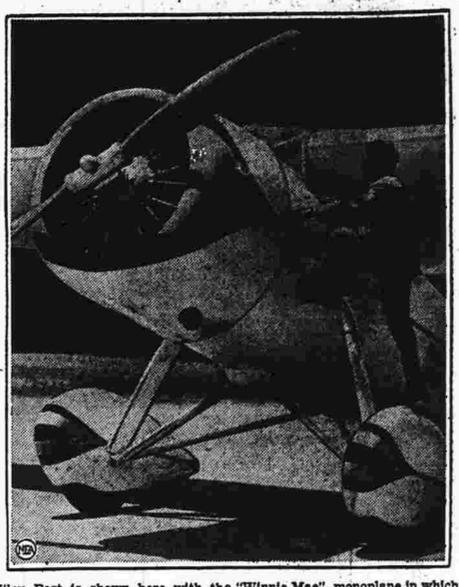

The ratification of the treaty by the four governments is considered assured.

At noon the Rome newspapers appeared embellished with front page headlines, photographs of the signatories and editorials proclaiming "a new era of European peace and a historic milestone" established by the agreement.

HOW THE GOVERNMENT REGULATES RAILROADS

Another of the Series of Articles Showing the Inside Workings of Laws to Speed Up Recovery.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another of a series of stories explaining legislation now taking effect.

Washington, July 15.—(AP)—So the public may continue to have the necessary efficient trains to ride and ship things on, Congress created the office of "Coordinator of Transportation," now held by plain-spoken Joseph B. Eastman, of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Under this law, the country is divided into three regions, Eastern, Southern and Western. In each a regional coordinator is named to work with a regional committee elected by the railroads voting on the basis of the number of miles of track operated.

The law forbids any reduction in employment below the number of men at work during May, 1933, except that places vacated by resignations, retirements or death up to five per cent of the personnel of any road, during any year, need not be filled.

Under the law, too, railroads can be reorganized financially, where it is necessary and feasible.

WATER PLANT PARLEY STIRS SHARP DEBATE

Price Asked by Cheney Brothers Basis of Objections — Meeting for Vote on Friday, July 21.

With less than 100 voters attending, the Board of Selectmen and representatives of the firm of Cheney Brothers last night presented for discussion the proposition that the town purchase for $1,150,000 the franchises, rights and properties of the South Manchester Water Company and the South Manchester Sanitary and Sewer District.

Previous to the meeting the Board of Selectmen met and set Friday, July 21, as the date for the vote on the question. The polls will be at the Municipal building and voting will be from nine in the morning until nine in the evening, daylight time.

The fun in last night's meeting started when Charles Ray, president of the Rogers Paper Manufacturing Company, stated that he had had enough experience with engineers' reports and valuations to know better than to accept them as final.

Before concluding his criticism of the engineers' report Mr. Ray took Wells A. Strickland, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, to task, saying it was obvious Mr. Strickland was trying to "sell Cheney Brothers to the town."

At the same time, Mr. Strickland had made a mistake in reading figures from his own report and then had accepted a correction from a member of the Cheney firm. He said that Mr. Strickland had misconceived the engineers' appraisal of the entire Cheney project after having had a year to study it.

WILEY POST TAKES OFF ON TRIP ROUND WORLD

Italian Fliers Ready For Last Leg Of Trip

Montréal, July 15.—(AP)—General Italo Balbo hopped off from here today leading his trans-Atlantic Italian air armada on the last stage of its flight to Chicago.

General Balbo, leader of the squadron of 24 seaplanes, raised its nose from the water at 10 a. m., eastern standard time, and followed by two others to form the first triad of the flight, soared aloft.

Montréal, July 15.—(AP)—Hazy skies greeted members of General Italo Balbo's seaplane cruise this morning as they prepared their 24 ships for the last leg of their journey from Italy to Chicago.

General Balbo carefully studied weather reports of the Great Lakes area. The expectation was that there would be no change in the tentative arrangements to set the course along the northern shores of Lake Ontario and Lake Erie to Detroit, and thence by a compass route to Chicago.

Previously it was said definitely there would be no stops on the way. One plan was that the squadron would be met by a group of American planes at Detroit and escorted from there to the destination.

Augusto Rosso, Italian ambassador to the United States, arrived in Montréal last night from Washington. He was to confer with General Balbo before the departure.

The youthful leader said the jaunt was expected to take between five and six hours. The airline distance is about 750 miles.

PROF. DOUGHERTY COMMITS SUICIDE

Noted Yale Orientalist Hangs Himself in Hamden; Missing Two Days.

New Haven, July 15.—(AP)—Overwork and ill-health were blamed today for the suicide of Professor Raymond P. Dougherty, noted Yale Orientalist, who hanged himself in a blueberry thicket.

The man who spent years studying the mysteries of the ancient east was missing thirty hours before a negro youth, picking berries, found his body swinging from a hickory tree near his residence in Hamden, a suburb.

The discovery ended an intensive search. He left home Thursday saying he was going for a walk. Dr. George Joslin, Hamden medical examiner said Mrs. Dougherty could spot wasteful methods and order their elimination. But his decisions in such matters are subject to review by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Under this law, the country is divided into three regions, Eastern, Southern and Western. In each a regional coordinator is named to work with a regional committee elected by the railroads voting on the basis of the number of miles of track operated.

LITHUANIA FLIERS OFF ON A 4,900 MILE HOP

Leave New York Without Passports and Without Government Approval — Their Goal Lithuania.

New York, July 15.—(AP)—The monoplane Lithuania took off on a projected 4,900-mile non-stop flight to Lithuania today, without approval of the American government and with the prospect of the two pilots subjecting themselves to a "spanking" if they should land in any country short of their goal.

The plane, which left Floyd Bennett field at 5:24 a. m., eastern standard time, was flown by Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas, Lithuanian-Americans from Chicago.

They took off just an hour and 14 minutes after Wiley Post had begun his solo world flight from the same field.

Darius and Girenas have been in dispute with official Washington about permits to fly over countries between America and Lithuania and left without obtaining these permits. The argument had centered about the question of who should pay $100 for the cost of cables to the countries in question.

The fliers took off without informing field officials of their intention and a Commerce Department official in Washington said that if they should land in some country on their route it would not only be embarrassing to the American government but would also make the fliers subject to a "spanking" by that country.

WOODS BOYS FIGHT WHITE PINE PEST

Members of Conservation Corps Trying to Save 10 Millions for the State.

New Haven, July 15.—(AP)—Crews of picked youths from President Roosevelt's forest army, have started a battle to save White Pine forests in Connecticut valued at $10,000,000.

Selected for their alertness and perseverance, some 250 boys, under the direction of Civilian Conservation Corps camp foreman, have undertaken to eliminate white pine blister rust.

Seven of Connecticut's 12 reforestation camps — Cross, Toumey, Robinson, Walcott, Graves, Fernow and Loneragan — have supplied the recruits for the work.

The merchantable and immature white pine of the United States have been valued by the forest service at $500,000,000, while those of Connecticut alone have recently been estimated at $10,000,000, Riley said.

Featured are Bing Crosby, Richard Arlen, Mary Carlisle, George Burns and Gracie Allen, Coach Howard Jones of the University of Southern California, Lona Andre, Mary Korman and a collection of co-eds, titled the "Ox-Road Co-Eds" that make the Folies chorus look like a bunch of wild daisies.

As a freshman, comes that perennial braggart, Jack Oakie, and "College Humor" traces his career through four years that pass all too quickly on the screen. Bing Crosby is the leading (and most popular) instructor at this Alma Mammy. Burns and Allen run the campus sweat shop in their typical manner with Gracie making apple pies out of bananas because she doesn't like apples.

Roberts said he spent the money at the World's Fair in Chicago.

The decision not to send for Roberts was reached at a conference between Prosecuting Attorney E. Gaynor Eganman and State's Attorney William H. Comely. The prosecuting officials were of the opinion that Roberts will eventually find his way to Stamford when he will be arrested and that the state could save several hundred dollars by letting him "hoop it home" instead of riding on a train with a detective.

Mr. Strickland had opened the meeting by reviewing the history of the proposal to purchase the water plant. He gave the reasons why the Board of Selectmen recommended the purchase and cited numerous points in favor of the proposition. He wanted to make the point clear that the water and sewer plant reproduction cost was close to two millions of dollars. Frank Cheney, Jr., interrupted to call attention to the fact that this reproduction item did not include the trunk line sewer and Mr. Strickland accepted the correction. It was this point that Mr. Ray criticized intently that Mr. Strickland was unfamiliar with the subject.

Defends Strickland Later Frank Cheney, Jr., defended Mr. Strickland, saying that it was a very easy mistake to make since there was a mass of figures to quote and that anyone would be liable to read the figures incorrectly though not intentionally. Mr. Strickland said he had enjoyed Mr. Ray's remarks, but he believed that the project boiled down was a matter of right and just valuation.

Judge Hyde Presides The meeting was called to order shortly after eight o'clock by Chairman Strickland. Judge W. S. Hyde was named for chairman and Sherwood C. Bowers was also named. Bowers withdrew and Judge Hyde took the chair. Strickland then presented his arguments favoring the purchase of the plant.

Mr. Strickland said that when the matter was brought to the attention of the Selectmen they realized the importance of the utilities to the town and decided to secure a careful survey of the plants so that a right and just valuation could be determined. Charles Bennett and Alfred Terry, competent engineers, were hired to do this work. The survey was completed and the report was submitted to the Selectmen on December 27, 1932. A committee was named to study the engineers' appraisal and report to the Selectmen. Several conferences were held with members of the firm of Cheney Brothers, Mr. Strickland said.

Town Justified He quoted several items from the engineers' appraisal to show that the town would be justified in making the purchase. He said that the engineers stated that the properties were worth a sum not to exceed $1,200,000 and Cheney Brothers had offered it for $500,000 less. Mr. Strickland stressed the fact that Cheney Brothers would accept in payment from the town the bond issue that would be floated to cover the purchase.

Before concluding the chairman of the board called attention to the fact that Cheney Brothers were an important entity. He said that the firm's payroll amounts to $40,000 per week and that Cheney Brothers alone pay taxes of approximately $200,000 a year. In concluding Mr. Strickland said that if the town takes over the utilities they would be self-supporting and no funds would be necessary from general taxation.

Reviews Plant History

After Mr. Strickland had finished his discussion of the project Judge Hyde called upon Frank Cheney, Jr., president of the South Manchester Water Company. Mr. Cheney reviewed somewhat the history of the water service in the south end of the town starting with the wooden pipe that served the Green section in 1830. He traced the story through to 1925 when Cheney Brothers found it necessary to go out of town for a sufficient water supply.

In Buckingham was constructed. It cost a lot of money, Mr. Cheney stated, to secure water rights and water shed property. A bond issue of $500,000 was floated due in 1924. He said that the present service would take care of Manchester for a long time to come. It would be difficult to get the water rights now he said since every municipality has been careful to secure sufficient water shed area to protect itself in the future. He said that the necessity for a purification plant for the sewer system had been costly. He asserted that the properties were valuable and that they had paid Cheney Brothers only a moderate sum.

Sees $11,000 Balance

It was pointed out that when a private concern owns such a utility its taxes are much greater than the amount it would have to pay. Quoting some figures on the gross income of the two properties Mr. Cheney said that the net of the two plants annually was $100,000. The amortization cost would amount to $71,900 annually and this would be reduced to $7,500 annually. Thus the net of the town on the two properties would be $29,000. However, there would be a loss in taxes to the town and this would leave a balance annually of about $11,000.

Jacob Lauffer asked when the bonds matured. He was told in 1954.

Charles Ray said that he had studied the engineers' appraisal carefully and had made several notes on it. He said that the report stated there is no other source of supply available. He doubted this. He pointed out that at the Ninth district meeting the other night only $25,000 constituted the budget but because of debt twice that amount had to be raised.

Debt Is Costly

Mr. Ray said a powerful lesson in this. He said that bond issues and amortizations are costly and thought that the town could well afford to be careful on this proposition. He said that nothing had been stated at the meeting about the balance sheet of the town. He said that he is much concerned about the fitness of the town to deal with Cheney Brothers. Then Mr. Ray criticized

ON 40 HOUR WEEK

Ansonia, July 15.—(AP)—The Ansonia O. and C. Company will operate its mills here beginning Monday, July 24 on an eight hour day schedule, 40 hours a week. The wages of employes will be adjusted to compensate for the reduction in working hours, the minimum rate being 32 1/2 cents an hour.

The company which employs six hundred men and women, is the oldest manufacturer of elastic webbing in the country, being established in 1847. The new schedule of work and wages is in accordance with the newly adopted textile code.

Italian and Canadian flags flutter about the head of General Balbo (indicated by arrow) as he arrives at the pier at Longaul, across the St. Lawrence River from Montreal.

the presentation of the facts as given by Mr. Strickland.

Then Frank Cheney, Jr., defended Mr. Strickland's stand and in answer to some of Mr. Ray's criticism of the plan, he said that competent engineers had declared the dam perfectly safe. Jacob Lauffer moved that the entire matter be tabled, but Judge Hyde said that no vote could be taken at this meeting.

Good Economics

Selectman George E. Keith said that he had studied the proposition carefully and believed it to be good economics for the town to take over the utilities. He said that he was not sure that Mr. Ray had said it was nevertheless true that Cheney Brothers must not be overlooked in this matter. He said that the plant would pay the town well as an investment.

Percy J. Tidman asked if there is a chance for lower water rates and also why the Selectmen are so anxious to have the town buy the water company property. He was told that there was no prospect of lower rates and that the Selectmen had brought this matter before the people as they are duty bound to do.

Horace B. Cheney said that Cheney Brothers were approached on the question first by the town. He said that the town was not doing Cheney Brothers a favor by considering the purchase of the plant. He maintained he was not stating these facts for an argument but to correct the false impression given by Mr. Ray.

Mrs. Caroline K. Britton

asked that Selectmen Bowers and Cook state their opinions on the question. Judge Hyde said that both of them are of age and they were at liberty to speak if they cared to. George Stavitsky thought it was quite a big step to take when the town is "financially sick."

Bowers' Stand

Selectman Sherwood Bowers said he wanted to correct an impression that Cheney Brothers had made the first move in this matter. He said that a committee of the Taxpayers' League had asked Cheney Brothers if the property was for sale and then followed the Cheney proposal and purchase price. He said he did not want to appear obstinate in the debate but that he could not see that there was much leeway in the town's favor at the price offered.

He said that he believed Cheney Brothers were looking to the future when the Buckingham reservoir was built but it was a costly investment and made it difficult to maintain the rates. He concluded by saying that he would take a lot of luck for the town to have it work out right at the sum named.

Thomas Flavell said

that the town should purchase the plant. He believed that another private concern would raise the rates. Mr. Tidman asked if there were no law on rates and Judge Hyde said that was up to the Public Utilities Commission. Giles Vickerman asked about the fairness of the project to the north end. Judge Hyde said that did not enter into it since it was figured the company would carry itself without cutting into taxation. Walter Mahoney said the taxpayers are paying the bills now. Howell Cheney said that the user of water is actually paying the bill.

Howell Cheney said that new extensions to the systems would be paid for by the property owners benefited whether Cheney Brothers own the plants or not. Then came a lull in the proceedings and a motion to adjourn was carried. The meeting lasted an hour and three quarters.

While at Yale, he headed an archaeological survey of Southern Babylon in Arabia and wrote many works on his discoveries. He was a member of many scientific societies and wrote frequently for their publications. He leaves his widow, the former Miss Lulu E. Landis of Dayton, Ohio. Interment Search.

Discovery of the professor's body

ended an intensive search for him in a large area north of New Haven in which police were joined by 300 Boy Scouts who volunteered their help.

Professor Dougherty, his widow said, left his home Thursday afternoon for a walk. She said he was in good spirits as he left home. It was hours before she became alarmed and asked police to search for him.

Police passed within a few yards of the place the body was found in the search before daybreak yesterday, but the faint gleam of their flash lights did not disclose the body. The search was resumed during the day near Pine Rocks, a favorite haunt of the professor during his life, and fear was felt that he might have fallen into one of a number of water-filled quarry holes.

After finding the body, William Jackson, 15, hurried back to Hamden and told Patrolman Konrad Mo of his discovery. Mo accompanied the boy back to the summit of the mill rock, to the location of the tree, and then notified the medical examiner.

Dr. Joslin said the professor had apparently thrown a rope over the tree limb and then jumped from a rock.

chief financial advisers for the delegation, left for New York today to make a complete report to President Roosevelt, which he will be able to do a few days before the final session of the assembly.

Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain, chairman of the conference, is one of those who still refuses to admit failure of the efforts here. His influence was seen in the only meeting here today, that of wheat experts who are trying to agree upon the American proposal for raising wheat prices through restriction of production.

Several negotiators had planned week-end outings but Mr. MacDonald, the Americans and some others insisted that no time should be lost, and at least one expert had to be summarily recalled from his proposed day's rest.

The wheat delegations are now working on a more or less non-stop schedule until some sort of a decision will be hammered out. When other committees resume their labors Monday it is understood that they will get similar instructions to keep working steadily.

son, manager of the field, was not informed that they were hopping the Atlantic.

Poor Takeoff The takeoff was lousy. They used every foot of the long runway and were so slow in getting away that the crowd gasped.

"It was a game takeoff," said the flying expert assembled. "They should have dumped gas to play safe. But they didn't. They didn't dump a drop."

When the plane passed out of sight, headed east straight as a beam, the ship still had not attained more than 200 feet altitude. Field officials say they are subject to a heavy fine and loss of license if they do not return today to Floyd Bennett and, furthermore, are subject to arrest in any foreign country in which they land since they have no passports.

Just before Darius and Giresna John V. P. Helmuller, official timer of the National Aeronautical Association, went up to the plane, wished them good luck, and clamped on to one wing an ice indicator, designed to tell the fliers at a glance if ice, the terror of Atlantic fliers, is forming on the wings.

It was virtually the only newly developed scientific flying aid on the ship. The pair aren't even carrying parachutes. They have no wireless apparatus.

Their Food for Trip For food they took 18 oranges, 12 apples, two bottles of malted milk tablets, a quart of black coffee, a roast chicken, and a gallon of water.

WILL NOT RETIRE OLD P. O. EMPLOYEES

All Who Are Physically Able Will Remain, Federal Official Says.

Washington, July 15.—(AP)—The Postoffice Department has decided not to retire persons of thirty years service under the retirement provisions of the Independent Offices Supply Act, who are efficient and physically able to perform satisfactory service.

Under those provisions the department is permitted to retire postal service employees of 30 years service. The inefficient and unable, it indicated, will be retired.

Joseph C. Mahoney, first assistant postmaster general, in a reply to an inquiry by Representative Mead of New York, chairman of the House postoffice committee, addressed to Postmaster General Farley, wrote: "I am pleased to say that no person who is efficient and physically able to perform satisfactory service will be retired on account of having 30 years or more service."

"However, postmasters at the larger offices have been asked to determine their personnel requirements under existing conditions and, where a surplus exists, the department will consider retiring 30 year employees who have indicated a desire for retirement, and the department will also give consideration to retiring employees who have had 30 years or more service, who are unable to render useful and efficient service."

OPENING STOCKS

New York, July 15.—(AP)—The Stock Market was irregular in the early dealings today. Rails were a trifle easy, Santa Fe and Delaware & Hudson losing 1 and 2 points respectively.

"Wet" issues were steady to firm, U. S. Industrial Alcohol gaining 2 points. Allied Chemical, American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and Celanese were virtually unchanged. U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas and International Silver slipped slightly while Western Union, United Aircraft, Industrial Rayon and American Can were higher.

The report of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, the first important company to show operations for the first six months of 1933, showed earnings of $3.84 per share as compared with $4.03 for the corresponding period a year ago. The trend, said the report was definitely upward in the last couple of months.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Example Of Deborah

Text: Judges 4-10, 15-15; 5:1-3 The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for July 16.

By WM. E. GILBOY, D. D. Editor of The Congressionalist. Three lessons of this quarter's series in Old Testament character studies are devoted to women.

We think of women's emancipation as having taken place in our own day, and for the most part we look out over a record in history which is mainly one of a virtual enslavement in which women have not only been heavy burden-bearers, but in which they have also been in subjection, with little place or influence, except the immense influence that they have exercised through motherhood and the training of the young.

This, however, is not the whole story. There are students of primitive life who maintain that the clew of the early history of the race is in the power exercised by woman, and even in periods where women generally had little part in public life or activities there have emerged great figures whose personality and influence were strong enough to burst all barriers of limitation either of sex or of custom.

Such a woman was Deborah. We do not know a great deal about the details of her life. What we have is a dramatic portrayal of her in her strength of character and her forcefulness in action, though we are not told just how she came to be what she was.

Deborah was a prophetess. In some way she had convinced the people of her wisdom and her strength of character, and the palm tree under which she dwelt in the hill country of Ephraim became a place where the people sought judgment.

Whether she had been formally appointed judge in Israel, or whether her sheer strength of character had elevated her naturally into that place, we do not know, but she was the most vigorous and able in Israel and the savior of her people in a time of crisis.

In striking contrast with Deborah's strength was the weakness and carelessness of the people. Through their moral slackness evil came upon them. Sisera, the captain of the host of Jabin, king of Canaan, had 900 chariots of iron, and for 20 years he had oppressed these slack and craven Israelites, weakened by their sin and indifference.

Out of this situation of distress and peril to her people, Deborah emerged as their hope and their leader.

She sent for Barak, a man in whom she discerned the qualities of a leader, and she ordered him to gather a company of men to Mount Tabor while she, with strategy, would lure Sisera and his army into a situation where Barak could effectively attack them.

Here emerges a strange situation that emphasizes the character and influence of Deborah. Barak flatly refused to go unless Deborah went with him, to which Deborah responded that she would go, but that Barak would lose all the honor through seeing Sisera sold into the hand of a woman.

However, with Deborah's support Barak sprang into action. He gathered 10,000 men to Tabor, and Deborah went up. And the rest of the lesson is the song of Deborah and Barak rejoicing in the victory that came to them.

The hymns chosen are those beginning, "O Worship the King, All-Glorious Above," "How Firm a Foundation," and "Come Unto Me, When Shadows Darkly Gather."

There will also be a story for the boys and girls.

OUR REFUGE

By GEORGE HENRY DOLE

International Sunday School Lesson Text, July 16th. "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble."—Psalm 46:1.

How is God "our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble?" The Lord always acts through Israel, the First Christian Church by the disciples, those Mary through which He revealed Himself, and inspired selected men to write the Old and the New Testaments. To give us heat and light, He uses the sun. He gives us food by means of the vegetable kingdom, and supplies minerals by means of the earth. The Word is the agency by which love and wisdom come from Him to us.

John says that the Word is God, and that it created all things. A book cannot create. The Word on a shelf is no more God than is any other book. We can destroy any book, but the Word of God can not be done away with. The Word is God in the sense that, when one reads it with affection for the things that are of God, He sends His love and wisdom through it, just as He gives heat and light by the agency of the sun. The Word is so written that God in all fullness is in it, as much as in its body, or as a man is in his speech.

Grasp this fundamental fact.

Ten-Shun Buddies

The Bulletin Board of Ex-Service Organizations.

Anderson-Shea Post, V. F. W. There will be a regular meeting of the Post on Tuesday evening, July 18, at 8 o'clock in the State Armory.

Anderson-Shea Auxiliary Our Junior Vice-President, Mrs. Alice Wetherell has been appointed Deputy Inspector for Hartford County by Department President, Mrs. Blanche Stanwood.

The first of the baseball series will be held on Friday evening, July 23, when the comrades will meet the comrades of the Dilworth-Cornell, American Legion Post. The time and place will be announced later, but same will most likely be at the West Side.

The newly-elected Department officers will be installed at the Raymond W. Harris Post club rooms, 164 State street, Bridgeport, Conn., at 8 o'clock, Saturday evening, July 22, 1938. There will be entertainment, dancing, and refreshments will be served.

We notice that several of the members have taken up golf of late and we are wondering how they would like to arrange a little game with some of our comrades.

Comrade Bert Mosely has his team all set for the horseshoe tournament, so the comrades of the Mons-Ypres had better get in a little practice in their spare moments before they meet the comrades of the V. F. W.

In looking forward to the 1938 National Encampment of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States, August 27 to September 1, Milwaukee is making plans to entertain the biggest convention in its history.

In addition to the thousands of veterans who will flock to Milwaukee from all sections of the country, many thousands of Wisconsin people will be on hand to attend the annual Wisconsin State Fair which will also be held throughout the week of August 27 to September 1.

Elaborate street decorations will provide a gay setting for the two big events. Bunting and flags will hang from stores and business buildings, with the merchants of Milwaukee giving their united support to the plans being made.

The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held at the Army and Navy clubhouse, Wednesday, July 19 at 8 p. m. A full attendance is requested as plans will be completed at this meeting for the outing to be held by the Mons-Ypres Command and the auxiliary.

The newly organized Sewing Circle meets Thursday at the home of Mrs. Victor Duke. The women under the direction of Mrs. Albert Lindsay started a butterfly quilt, to be raffled off when completed. The circle will meet again next Thursday, July 20 with Mrs. James Munnick, 123 Center street at 2 p. m. All members of the auxiliary are cordially invited to join.

Mons-Ypres Auxiliary The next regular meeting of the auxiliary will be held at the Army and Navy clubhouse, Wednesday, July 19 at 8 p. m. A full attendance is requested as plans will be completed at this meeting for the outing to be held by the Mons-Ypres Command and the auxiliary.

The chapter is still waiting for the return of the national officers but we will tell you that Joe McQueen of Kansas City is the new commander, also that Pete Nugent went from 3rd junior vice to 1st junior vice and that is all the good news we have at this time. However, we hope we will have the complete list next week.

After reading in the paper last week of the wonderful growth of the V. F. W. in the past year of depression, we want them to know it is not only in the past year. Our national organization is 100 per cent with them in their work and for the past few years it has been a very common thing to see the Vets and the D. A. V. holding meetings together, fighting side by side for the same, and many ask, why not? In '17 and '18, before the D. A. V. was ever heard of, members of both fought side by side for the same cause. Men who belong together belong to the D. A. V. so isn't it each others' fight now, the same as in '17 and '18?

Last week we congratulated the Legion on their display of fireworks, but after Tuesday night's show we feel as if we should do so again. Won't you consider it done, Major?

British War Veterans The regular monthly meeting of the Mons-Ypres Post was held in the Army and Navy club last Wednesday evening. The meeting was presided over by the chair and presided over by a very large attendance. Reports of the different committees were heard and very important business was transacted.

Commander Baker, who is a member of the ex-service men's committee on the proposed plot of land in the East cemetery and which will be known as Soldiers' Field, gave an interesting report on the committee's last meeting. This committee will meet again next week and further details will be given through this bulletin. British ex-service men are deeply interested in this matter and await with interest on the outcome.

The members of the post voted to co-operate with the Auxiliary and hold an outing some time in August. Coventry Lake has been suggested but no action will be taken until we hear from the members of the Auxiliary. The proposed outing will be discussed at the Auxiliary meeting this coming Wednesday, July 19, in the Army and Navy club. If the ladies decide to hold an outing the joint committee will need to arrange details. This committee consists of President Mrs. Victor Duke; Mrs. James Thompson and Mrs. Joseph Binks of the Auxiliary, and Commander Fred Baker, Comrades Jim Thompson and Victor Duke of the Mons-Ypres Post.

Comrade James Hamilton was admitted to membership at the meeting. Jimmy served overseas with a Scotch Regiment.

I am sorry to say that the Horseshoe match between Mons-Ypres and the V. F. W. which was to be played last night had to be postponed. We don't want "Cap" Peterson to think we are getting nervous or something—but owing to two of our will go towards helping defray the expenses of the Drum Corps at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention in Milwaukee. If any boys of the local post can see their way clear to attend the match on that day, it will help a good cause along. The Triggs Post is raising funds by this method to finance the fine drum corps of the post to the National Convention in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, next month. Let's hope the up-river comrades win.

Anderson-Shea Auxiliary Our Junior Vice-President, Mrs. Alice Wetherell has been appointed Deputy Inspector for Hartford County by Department President, Mrs. Blanche Stanwood.

Due to the fact that the State Armory has been closed our meeting scheduled for last Tuesday evening had to be postponed until our next regular meeting night, Tuesday, July 25th.

We hope to have a large number of members attend this meeting as it is probable the date and place to hold our outing will be chosen at this time.

A number of members attended the Hartford chapter County Club meetings in East Hartford last Sunday. All report having a very good time.

D. A. V. The regular meeting of the Manchester Chapter No. 17, D. A. V. of W. W., which was held Friday, July 15, was postponed, inasmuch as the Armory was closed until the National Guard comes back from camp. Commander Downing will call a special meeting at any time. The next meeting will be held at the Armory, July 22, 1938 at 8:30 p. m. This meeting will be held at the district meeting and our District Commander Schreck requests a large attendance. Important business are to be brought up at that meeting. Eats will be served by the Manchester chapter who will be hosts to the district. Let's have a big turn out from town, fellows.

Speaking of turn outs here is the dope on the department installation held in Waterbury July 19, 1938. The installation was held in Lake View Park, a beautiful summer resort just outside of Waterbury, with an attendance of between five and six thousand people. Pete Nugent of New Haven, newly elected National first junior vice commander, presided over the ceremonies and installing officer. Splendid remarks were made by 'ete Nugent, Jack Mulligan, department commander, Mrs. Katherine Simpson of New Haven, newly elected 3rd vice commander of D. A. V. Auxiliary commander of the Waterbury Post of the Legion and others. The address of welcome was by Mayor Frank Hayes of Waterbury, and a short talk by Comrade Ed Kelly was given.

After the installation refreshments were served and the rest of the afternoon was spent in swimming and motor boating. A good time was had by all.

We would take this opportunity to congratulate the members of the Army and Navy club on their latest improvements on their club rooms. It certainly is a wonderful club. The boys will hold their annual outing tomorrow and we know they will have a good time. Here's hoping for good weather and a good day's sport.

Tickets are now on sale for the benefit golf match which will be played Sunday, July 23, at 3 p. m. on the East Hartford Golf Course. The members are requested to work hard for success of this match. For information call or see Comrade Bill Davis.

Chaplain Cecil Kittle entertained the members at the close of our monthly meeting with a conversation between King George and the Prince of Wales, was very well received and judging by the applause Cecil's efforts were very much appreciated.

AMERICAN LEGION AUXILIARY Plans are still underway for the Department Convention which will be held in New London, August 24, 25 and 26. The Housing Committee have notified us that all reservations at the Hotel... have been taken. The Connecticut College for Girls offers accommodations with maid service for 1,000 women at $1.50 per day, provided the College receives a guarantee of reservations by July 30th. The College is only a short distance from headquarters and all activities. Make your reservations through the Housing Committee, Mrs. Ruth Forster, 49 Squire street, New London.

NO DATA GATHERED YET ON FARM ACT

Tobacco Growers Warned Not to Give Information Unless to Authorized Agent.

Tobacco growers in Hartford County are warned against fraud in the collection of data relating to the Farm Relief Program according to an announcement made by the Hartford County Farm Bureau. Numerous reports have come in to the Farm Bureau office that men are gathering data in the name of the Agricultural Adjustment Act and no such men have been appointed or authorized to collect such data except town committees who will take applications in some location in each town and whose name will be widely publicized in the newspapers, radio and circular letters.

After the town committees have been appointed, field inspectors will be appointed and wide publicity will be given to these appointments in order that no one may be fooled in giving out information.

Corra Borer in Potatoes The European Corn Borer has been reported in Irish potatoes according to the Hartford County Farm Bureau and at least one case has been called to the attention of the Bureau where the potato foliage has been practically ruined by the corn borer. Damage so far has been confined to Cobblers potatoes but it is feared by experts that the second brood of the corn borer will attack green Mountain potatoes later on.

Information from the New Haven Agricultural Experiment Station indicates that the use of arsenate of lead in the Bordeaux spray on potatoes may be helpful in the prevention of further damage by the corn borer.

Fire Blight Epidemic A disease known as fire-blight common to pear, quince and apple trees has reached epidemic stage in Hartford County according to the Hartford County Farm Bureau. This disease is first noticed when the outer twigs and on some occasions, large limbs die although the foliage has been scalded. The disease is spread from "cankers" which form on the limb and the only known way to check its spread is to cut out and burn the cankers. Fire-blight cankers are rather hard to recognize and owners of trees infected to get in touch with the local farm bureau office or the state college and experiment station to get information on how to recognize and prevent further spread of this disease.

To Vaccinate Pullets Between 100,000 and 200,000 pullets that are today roaming the poultry ranges in Hartford County will be vaccinated against chicken pox with free vaccine furnished by the state college through the Farm Bureau in Hartford County during the next couple of months according to an announcement by the Hartford County Farm Bureau.

Chicken pox has been largely prevented by vaccine on most of the commercial poultry farms in Hartford County during the last few years and while it is necessary for such poultrymen to vaccinate their entire laying flock every year in order to prevent natural infestation after the birds are housed, increasing numbers of poultrymen are resorting to the use of curdling loss in egg production and fowls during the winter months. Applications for chicken pox vaccine and instructions on how to use it are available at the Hartford County Farm Bureau.

Queer Twists In Day's News Orbetello, Italy—"Black cat" superstitions do not worry the aces of General Italo Balbo's air armada. But it has been disclosed here that even the most scornfully plucked of those officially styled "men of flesh with hearts of steel" agreed that "there's no use straining your luck" when some one suggested the hop of Friday.

They took the air Saturday, July 16. St. Louis—The police radio announcer told the occupants of scout car No. 3 to hurry to a certain street car.

"There's been an automobile accident," he droned. Patrolman Albert Merschen the driver, hurried to the scene, then opened the throttle wide and headed for the hospital, where the victim already had been taken.

There he found his four year old son Fred, in a critical condition from internal injuries.

Vienna—Charged with hiding four hundred tins of sardines during bankruptcy proceedings, Emil Lerner said he had been living on nothing but sardines ever since the day he had to close his delicatessen store.

WE DISSENT.
 There is no doubting the complete sincerity of Chief Justice Maltbie of the Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors in his campaign against the method of appointing judges of the state's minor courts—and against the state's minor courts—and against present constituted. But even a chief justice of the Supreme Court may not be infallible; he may even at times be illogical; and in this matter of minor court appointments it is our humble lay opinion that if the chief justice were put through a wringer much moisture would pour off the rollers.
 The nub of the Maltbie position, which is the position of practically all of these critics of the minor courts, is that the Legislature is bound to make bad appointments of local judges because political considerations control its actions, but that a governor, by and with the consent of the same Legislature, would be bound to make good appointments, because he would be free of political considerations.
 Unless that assumption can be shown to be something more than an assumption the case of the critics breaks down at the start; and yet we have never seen, in any of Judge Maltbie's numerous attacks on the existing system, even an attempt to demonstrate the truth of the premise. Judge Maltbie and those who reason along this line merely assert that court officials selected by a governor would be of a better grade than those selected by a legislature. They do not take the trouble to produce any evidence to that effect, let alone proof.
 We take the liberty of rejecting the premise. We will even go so far as to say that the appointments of minor court judges by the Legislature as a result of the "shameful" deals in the recent session are better appointments and more creditable to the state than some of those to other positions made by Governor Cross and with which the Legislature had little or nothing to do.
 Judge Maltbie occupies in this state a position where he is almost beyond criticism. If he regards it as his duty to convince the people of Connecticut that they have incompetent or unworthy men on the benches of their local courts he might even, in his unassailable place, go so far as to indicate some of the more flagrant instances of incompetency or unworthiness—or even one instance. Even in his high estate as the most imposing figure in Connecticut's judiciary the Chief Justice is still open to challenge to show that, in his belittlement of the minor court judges, he is not indulging in generalities that are incapable of reduction into specific cases.
 Even if he were able to point out particular judges or particular courts that did not measure up to the Supreme Court's idea of what an inferior court should be, it would still be up to Judge Maltbie, as leader of the critics, to establish at least a probability that judges and courts would be better if the governor picked the appointees. We very much doubt that he can do anything of the kind.
 Whence do the judges of the minor courts come? They come from among aspirants for the jobs. Whence would they come if the governor appointed? They would come from among the aspirants just the same. From the same crowd. And to whom would the governor turn for advice as to which aspirant in each case to select? To, of course, his political advisers in the community in which the court is located—to the politicians. To precisely the same kind of advisers, and in almost every instance the same individuals, who are now consulted as to the appointments by the Legislature.
 To other words, going around one side of the room we should come out at the same door from which we now emerge having gone round the other side of the same room.

 With this possible difference that we might occasionally find ourselves with a governor possessing, like Dean Cross, a singular and special facility in picking the wrong people, as he did with such unerring accuracy in his selections for the Liquor Control Commission.
 Justice Maltbie's position with relation to the relative quality of legislative and gubernatorial appointments to judgeships is, as we have asserted, based on sheer assumption. His position with relation to the district court scheme is based on pure theory. But, since he hangs the district courts on the same peg with the method of appointments, that aspect of the problem can be dismissed until either the chief justice or some one else has shown some small reason for believing that a governor is better qualified to pick good judges than a legislature, or that he is in the least likely to be any freer from political influences.

HITLER AT DEAD END.
 The German picture is not an easy one to see from this distance and when the color and the drawing do become reasonably distinct under some specially intense light there is likely to be considerable difficulty in interpreting their meaning. But in the midst of the incomprehensible and shifting patterns of the kaleidoscope there has seemed to be, of late, one repeating effect. It looks very much as if Brother Hitler, having successfully evolved for himself a degree of absolute power unequalled by that of any individual in Europe—not excepting Stalin and certainly not II Duce—has suddenly fallen into panic fear of the thing he has created and with which he has not the remotest idea what to do.
 During the whole of his short but spectacular political career Herr Hitler has dealt in glittering generalities. He has had absolutely no economic program. His genius is for politics; politics wholly divorced from any economic objective. His political success has not only been amazing, it has completely outrun his capacity to make use of it in the only way that possibly could bring permanent satisfaction to his people or security to himself.
 Having seized all the power of the nation Hitler is now, fabergasted, making speeches demanding that business, which he has deprived of every scrap of its freedom of action, now proceed to solve the economic problems of the nation. He hasn't the remotest idea what is to be done to restore employment and a normal existence, so he commands business to go ahead and do it. Which shows pretty conclusively that Herr Hitler has suddenly become afraid of the cars, so to speak.
 How long it will take his millions of worshippers to realize that their idol has not only feet of clay but a head of wood there is no knowing. But it can't be long now. And when they do sense the fact that this screaming puppet, with all the authority in the world, hasn't even a glimmering of a notion how to employ it for their good, it is going to be just too bad for Hitler and his political next of kin.
 It will be a very surprising thing indeed if Hitler and his associate leaders, before next Thanksgiving, are not either trembling fugitives from the Reich or merely disembodied memories.

Held it up to the light and watch the rhime form on the glass. Inhale its delightful odor. Then pour it carefully out on the sand of the barroom floor and order yourself a glass of light beer. For if the devil himself ever invented a drink for the complete undoing of humanity it was the julep. We have seen.

DIRTY HANDS.
 Harry Rosen and his wife Anna of the Bronx became interested in a "money machine" called to their attention by "Professor Blum," "Jimmie" and "Charlie." With it the professor "bleached" a dollar bill, placed it against a $10 bill and, behold! there were two ten dollar bills. You could do it, the professor explained, with much bigger bills.
 Finally Rosen went to the bank, drew out all his savings, $16,840, and the party started to increase the value of the money on the machine. It was a mass production affair and the professor put a lot of $100 and $1,000 bills—the Rosens—into it, covered it over, told Rosen to leave the covers on for twelve hours, and went out to "bleach" some more small bills. When the professor and his friends didn't come back Rosen uncovered the machine. It contained a couple of dollar bills and some blotting paper.
 Now the point of the story is that the Rosens rushed straight to the police and demanded that the cops get back their money. And the police are supposed to lose their sleep, if necessary, to catch the swindlers.
 As a matter of fact, why should the law be under the slightest obligation to come to the relief of people who lose money in any such enterprise as that? For our part we're not fully convinced that the criminal law should differ in the least from the civil law in the principle that a plaintiff must come into court with clean hands.
IN NEW YORK
 By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, July 15.—Most epures, and all veteran members of the Liederkreis singing society of Manhattan, know the name of Emil Frey. But few other people outside of Van Wert, O., where he lives, know that he is the inventor, or discoverer, of Liederkreis cheese, the only American variety to get an international reputation. (What is really called "American cheese" is really English cheddar).
 Mr. Frey, who is getting along in years now, came to New York the other day as the guest of honor at a quietly sentimental little ceremony commemorating the fortieth anniversary of his triumph. It seems that back in the early nineties he was about the only cheese-maker who believed the various processes could be reduced to a controlled science, instead of a mysterious act of God occurring only in a few favored localities.
 The truth is that Frey was trying to make Lemberger out of American materials when, quite by accident, he came upon a piquant new flavor. He made up a quantity of this and gave it to a delicatessen man named A. Todt to see whether it would sell. Mr. Todt, in turn, sent some to the famous German singing society. The members liked it, ordered more, sang its praises until the cheese was named after their organization.
 Turnstile Magic
 Meanderings: John Mulholland, the magician, amuses himself and amazes subway station guards by putting his rickel in the turnstile slot, passing through, then reaching back and apparently extracting it from the machine. Sometimes he pretends to let four or five friends through on the same coin, and such a performance always brings an angry change-both attendant on the run Mulholland then placates him with a half dollar tip. At least the man thinks it's a half dollar until he examines it and finds a piece of aluminum bearing the magician's name and hat-and-rabbit insignia.
 Few recognized Dr. James H. Kimball at the theater the other night. New York's chief meteorologist, and advisor to all Atlantic flyers, he's internationally known by name, but very seldom seen. His only ambition, besides collecting more weather data is to go up in a balloon. . . Nelson Doubleday, the publisher, is six feet, five inches tall, and fond of declaring he was nourished on giraffe's milk.
 George S. Kaufman, the playwright, can't tell you what the "B" stands for. He just put it there to "sort of round out the name" . . . Jerome Kern and Deems Taylor are the only two composers of importance who were born in New York City. . . And Harry Woods is the only Harvard man of prominence in Tin Pan Alley. Broadway sees little of him though. He spends most of his time in the country making up, in his head, tunes such as "When the Red, Red Robin—" "A Little Kiss Each Morning," and "Try a Little Tenderness." He has done about 60 like those. . . There are six Harvard men well known in the theater: Winthrop Ames, "Anton Freedley," Robert E. Sherwood, Edward Sheldon, Lee Simonson and Elliot Cabot—the latter of the upply Boston Cabots. Yale has equally strong representation with men like Philip Barry, Jed Harris, Charles Hopkins, Dwight Deere Wiman, Vincent Lawrence and Donald Ogden Stewart.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, for reply.
INJURIES AND INFECTIONS OF THE HAND
 Any injury or infection of the hands may have very serious consequences. One doctor has stated that he would rather have appendicitis than an infection of his hand. When the hand is injured, there is usually a short time when no work can be done; if it is crippled so much that the movement is limited, as occurs with arthritis, the patient finds it hard to make a living; and, if the use of the hand is lost forever, the patient is greatly handicapped through the remainder of his life. The hands are needed for so many of our common actions, such as eating, working, and even holding the newspaper you are reading, in order to keep the use of your hands you should carefully treat any minor wounds. Even though the injury seems trivial, it may become a serious infection which, if neglected, may even bring about the amputation of the hand or the arm.
 In today's article I am going to describe to you some of the most common conditions that may affect the hands:
 Eczema affecting the nail: The most frequent nail disorder is probably caused by eczema which spreads from the adjacent skin tissue and attacks the nail root, causing a swelling and painful throbbing around the nail. In severe cases the entire nail may be lost or it may be a thickening of the nail which turns to a yellow color and curves over the end of the finger like a claw.
 Arthritis is probably the most serious common disorder which affects the hands as it causes a severe crippling and enlargement of the finger joints. Not only is the function or movement lost, but the patient is agonized by the painful inflammation. Local treatments are of very little value in overcoming arthritis or even eczema. Though these disorders sometimes affect the hands, they cannot actually be considered diseases of the hands but are of a systematic nature and must be treated as such.
 Felsons are inflammations which may affect the finger tip toward the underside, the infection usually occurring through a small wound such as a pin prick. The skin may close together on the outside looking in the infective material which continues to spread within the enclosed space. The end of the finger swells, turns red and throbs. At first the part is hard, red and firm, but after pus forms a softening takes place. The danger of a neglected felon is that part of the bone may die, and it takes considerable time before the dead bone will work itself out; even then the finger is distorted in shape. The best treatment is to consult a doctor as soon as this type of infection is noticed for the finger may have to be opened and drained.
 Splinters under the nail occur most frequently with children. Usually the splinter forces dirt and bacteria into the wound. Pus may collect, causing pain. The majority of splinters may be removed by applying an antiseptic and then using a sterilized needle point. Sometimes it is not easy to remove all the bits of splinter at home and, if the finger throbs, it is an indication that further treatment is needed. In some cases the doctor may have to cut out a small part of the nail and cleanse the part. In other cases simply soaking the nail in hot water is of value, provided the splinter has not penetrated too deeply.
 Paronychia: This is also known as a "run-around" and is an inflammation which may start from a hangnail. The swelling usually begins at one side but ex-

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

DUTCHER URGES NEW GROUP FOR FAME'S SCROLL
 Heading List is Vice President, Who Turned Down $25,000 for Short Radio Talks
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent
 Washington, July 15.—Many new names are being entered on the scrolls of fame here these days, but there ought to be special medals for one small group of men whose outstanding performances have caused the most widespread amazement.
 Eccentricity still lives. These fellows stand out from among their contemporaries like so many geniums in a snowbank, and it's a small and exclusive club they'll have if they ever organize one. Attention is herewith called to:
 Vice President John Nance Garner, the member of the administration who turned down an offer of $25,000 a year to talk five minutes a week over the radio.
 Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, chairman of the Tennessee Valley Authority, and boss of Muscle Shoals, whose conscience as a public servant caused him to deliver to the attorney general a statement of all property owned by himself and his wife.
 Opposed Child Labor
 President Henry W. Kendall of the Kendall Manufacturing Company, operator of northern and southern textile mills, who urged at the first industrial recovery hearing that the cotton mills be required to make minimum wages and maximum hours apply to cleaners and outside help as well as operatives and that women and minors be excluded from night work.
 President E. G. Suckland of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, who refused J. P. Morgan's offer of United Corporation stock at $75 a share when it was selling at $90 simply because his road was going to negotiate a contract with a power company.
 No additions to this list occur to one. The only other person who might remotely be considered a candidate for inclusion is the local osteopath who went to the zoo one recent evening, borrowed an ocelot and walked out with it in his arms. He is still convalescing though he managed to strangle the ocelot.
 Many Trade Routes
 "On land and sea," says a wall inscription crossing the auditorium above the stage where the recovery hearings are being held and surrounding a mural map of the world with all its trade routes, "the lanes of man's commercial enterprise have marked the progress of civilization."
 And hundreds of sweltering people watch directly beneath it the first step in the industrial phase of America's new program of economic nationalism.
 "I wish," groaned one of the chiefs of the Muscle Shoals-Tennessee valley project as he complained of the pressure from politics, special interests and job hunters, "that this thing were on a desert island—or that we were."
 Squirrel Cage Officers
 Some jobs have been obtained in these "New Deal" emergency organizations by strangers who simply walked into offices, squatted down and went to work. In several instances the squatters soon seemed to become indispensable to the men higher up.
 Most of the administration headquarters have resembled squirrel cages with the squirrels running in different directions, but sufficient order has been attained so that applicants now must command some political backing in the usual manner.
 the use of gelatin three times daily for two or three days before the teeth are extracted. This usually prevents bleeding, as the blood will coagulate easily. After the teeth have been extracted, it will be necessary to go on a liquid diet until the gums have healed sufficiently to chew on. You could use plenty of milk, meat broths and soups made of vegetables. You could use pureed vegetables, which are vegetables cooked until tender and then put through a coarse sieve.
 Cranberries were originally called craneberries; the fruit is borne on a curved stalk which suggests the neck of a crane.
 (Soft Foods When Teeth Extracted)
 Question: B. U. L. writes: "I am going to have all my teeth taken out and would like very much your advice on how to prepare for it and the diet to go on after they are all out."
 Answer: To avoid the possibility of too much bleeding, I have found it a good plan to recommend

Should the children EAT IT?

PARENTS, particularly mothers, are paying a lot of attention to children's diet these days. For it is far more economical and pleasant to keep a child well by feeding him correctly than by nursing and doctoring him back to health.
 Of course in case of doubt the doctor should be consulted regarding what a child should eat and what he should not eat. But do you realize that the leading manufacturers of food now seek the advice and approval of the leading nutritional authorities in the country, relative to the claims they make for their products in their advertising?
 In other words, food advertisements are reliable sources of information regarding diet. They are based upon the results of the latest approved scientific discoveries about vitamins, minerals and roughage, in relation to vigorous bodies, clear complexions, sound teeth and properly regulated systems.
 So read these advertisements carefully. Consult your doctor about them. Very often the advertiser invites you to do this because he has asked authorities, whom your doctor respects, about statements made in those advertisements.

HOSE CO. NO. 4 IN TIE; THEN LOSES TO GREEN

Game Deadlocked Twice; Firemen Tally Six Runs in Sixth—17 Men Hit Safely.

The fans who gathered at Jarvis Grove last evening, and there was a goodly number of them, were treated to one of the best games, at least from a spectator's viewpoint, that has been played this season on the Green's lot.

The fire ladders were first to score, chalking up a tally in their half of the second, but the Green came right back in the same frame, and tied things up.

In this inning the Hose Company team would certainly have finished the inning out in front, if it were not for a lightning double-play executed by Viot at short and Loveland on first.

Game Tomorrow Tomorrow at 2 p. m., Jarvis Grove will be the scene of what promises to be a real tight contest.

WEST SIDES MEET FAST WEST ENDS League Leading New Britain Team Here Sunday Afternoon.

That you may recall, was the year George Stallings drove his "Gestiny" team from last place on July 4 to a pennant and four straight World Series victories over the Athletics.

Some of them, witnessing the Braves' inspired play since Third Baseman Pinkney Whitney and Outfielder Hal Lee were obtained from the Phillies, doubtless are convinced that this is the year.

Plenty Of Class They also have quite a lot of ball team since Whitney and Lee began battering in runs.

Every one of them either is pitching or has pitched brilliant ball. If Manager Bill McKee could get them all going at once and his team continue to lead the National League in fielding, the Braves might win anybody's flag.

WON 16 OUT OF 21 With only Cantwell, Brandt, Frankhouse and Zachary pitching dependable ball and the club trailing the league in runs batted in, the Braves through July 11 had won 16 of their last 21 starts.

Dodgers Victorious The Brooklyn Dodgers, aided by Chicago errors, scored a 5-3 victory over the Cubs and won their first game in Chicago since July 12, 1932.

RELIEF MEASURES FOR CONNECTICUT

is considering Federal projects, such as post offices, which were not mentioned in the Garner bill.

All such requests from the state are forwarded to the public works administration. Connecticut he said, having lost money for the Federal road building allotment through the Senate amendment reducing the share given population in appropriating the funds, must try to make up the difference, through liberal provision for the sums appropriated for direct Federal works.

The war department chief of engineers has recommended to the secretary of war, approval of work on Bridgeport, Norwalk and New Haven harbors, the Thames river, and the Connecticut river. They must yet be approved by the public works administration. The proposals call for a total outlay of $228,000.

Senator Lonergan was informed by the public works board that the office, and river and harbor projects, such as those sought in Connecticut were held up pending consideration of the outlays already approved. Most of those acted on, it was pointed out, had already been favorably considered for loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation before the public works administration took over the R. F. C. plans.

Another Connecticut Democratic leader is slated for a Washington post with the Federal government. Two leaders from the state, which supported Alfred E. Smith in the Democratic pre-convention campaign and casts its electoral vote for President Hoover, have already landed posts in the Cabinet and the "Little Cabinet."

Samuel S. Googel of New Britain, militant party champion in the State House of Representatives for two terms, is slated for a post as an attorney in the Department of Justice. The post may be filled by attorney General Homer Cummings of Stamford, without approval by the President or the Senate.

Was in Line
That the New Britain attorney was in line for the post was learned following a visit here by Archibald McNeil, New Guard leader, who has been active in lining up supporters of that faction for the administration patronage favors. However, it was pointed out in Senator Lonergan's office, that the Senator, who is opposing McNeil on the district attorney appointment and who is not supporting McNeil's candidacy for collector of internal revenue, endorsed Googel two months ago.

Meanwhile the administration continues to maintain strict silence on its decision on the controversial appointments. McNeil, during a hurried visit, saw Attorney General Cummings and Colonel Thomas Hewes, assistant secretary of the treasury, but whether or not his visit will affect the patronage question remained an administration secret.

Nevertheless, the impression still prevails among Washington followers of Connecticut affairs that in spite of Senator Lonergan's active support of State Chairman David A. Wilcox for district attorney, the administration will remember the New Guard support during the pre-convention campaign and appoint State Senator Frank S. Bergin, McNeil's candidate. Dr. Edward G. Dolan, is McNeil's candidate for commissioner of internal revenue.

men cannot stand the gaff or lack natural aptitude for work of this nature and must be shifted to other and more prosaic details.

"The work accomplished by the Civilian Conservation Corps is expected to be a substantial contribution to the control problem and will obviate further work for many years throughout much of the natural pine area."

Batting Leaders

New York, July 15.—(AP)—The continued steady hitting of Jimmie Foxx of the Philadelphia Athletics overshadowed batting performances of other leaders in the major leagues during the week. Foxx pounded out 12 hits in 32 times at bat, to boost his average six points to .374, after yesterday's games.

In the National league Chuck Klein had "just a breeze" to hold the top place as his two Philadelphia team mates, Spud Davis and Chick Fullis failed to hold the pace here.

The ten leading batters in each major league follow:
American:
Foxx, Philadelphia, .374; Simmons, Chicago, .367; Cronin, Washington, .366; Munnich, Washington, .350; Hodapp, Boston, .348; Applegate, Chicago, .346; Schulte, Washington, .337; West, St. Louis, .337; Chapman, New York, .330; Swanson, Chicago, .329.

National:
Klein, Phillies, .366; Davis, Phillies, .355; Fullis, Phillies, .348; Terry, Giants, .333; Collins, St. Louis, .327; Frederick, Brooklyn, .324; Berger, Boston, .321; Vaughan, Pittsburgh, .321; Schulmerich, Philadelphia, .320; Martin, St. Louis, .318.

YES, THEY'RE ENGAGED!

Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, has admitted that "there might be some truth in" reports that he is to marry Hannah Williams, former wife of Roger Wolfe Kahn. And you might take this picture of the two as they snuggled affectionately at Kansas City, Mo., just the other day as corroborative evidence, for they look mighty happy together.

One Day's Gossip
If the huge municipal stadium at Cleveland is too big for the Indians to win in, as some of the Cleveland sports writers claim, it is only natural to assume that the other parks around the circuit are too small for the team. Heinie Mahuh was booed by Washington fans early this season, but Heinie won 'em over by his sensational mid-summer batting and fielding.

Spiritual, Physical
One of the superstitions of trainers is that when a horse throws a shoe in a workout it's a bad omen and the animal should be scratched and his next race, which was from his next race, which was one of the reasons why Equipoise didn't run in the Stars and Stripes handicap against Gallant Sir. The other reason being that big bundle of weight they wanted to put on the Whitney horse.

And Does He Play Tag?
Max Baer's father Jacob must be awarded some sort of trophy for his ideas about recreation... the other day, explaining son Max's tastes in amusement, Jacob said: "The trouble is he's just a kid, always wanting to romp around with somebody, whether it's a little kid on the sidewalk or one of those Broadway dolls."

Just a Pal
Boston and nearby Massachusetts ballparks have been helping New Hampshire on the way back to prosperity... the reason being Rockingham Park which contributes to the state of New Hampshire a nice percentage of the profits of a bang-up running horse meeting... and it's still immoral to bet in Boston.

NEARNESS
By HELEN WELSHIMER

SOMETIMES there is a row of days
When I am very gay,
Forgetting... temporarily...
That you have gone away.

BUT as a rule I seem to find
Till people anywhere
Who have the semblance of your smile,
Your laughter, voice and hair.

YOU roam the streets, you ride the train,
You wander through the park,
Your face goes drifting lazily
Across the summer dark.

YOU haunt and tease and follow me—
Through each indifferent crowd—
Oh, won't somebody put a sign
That ghosts are not allowed!

ROCKVILLE

FORMER YOUNG STORE TO BECOME SYNAGOGUE

Sale by Trustees for Hospital to New Religious Body to Be Completed Soon.

A Jewish Synagogue is to be established here, using the building of the Rockville Athletic Association on East Main street. The building was sold yesterday to a group of Jewish business men who are acting as trustees for a new ecclesiastical society which is in process of being organized.

The deeds are to be signed and passed next Thursday by A. Leroy Martin, president of the Rockville Athletic Association.

The building is to be converted into a place of worship by the trustees of the new society consisting of Jacob Cohen of the Rockville Grain and Coal Company; Abel Winer, Union street shoe merchant; Alex Giber, Market street clothing merchant, and Maurice L. Brown, dry goods and shoe merchant of Village street.

The exact date of the organization of the new ecclesiastical society has not been announced and the trustees are to take complete charge until the organization is completed.

At present the Jewish people of Rockville and surrounding towns have been meeting in a small hall in the Fitch block on Union street but the hall is much too small for their needs.

For more than a year the Rockville Athletic Association has been inactive and as a result the building was used very seldom, resulting in the disbanding of the group.

The building is a landmark which dates back to 1847, when it was erected as a general store. At one time it was used by Joseph Sheldon, a silk manufacturer, as an office and display room. At a later date Lewis Young conducted a general store, the largest of its kind in this part of Connecticut.

The building passed into the hands of William H. Prescott and at his death Mrs. Prescott took possession. Thirteen years ago it was given to the athletes of Rockville by Mrs. Prescott. This was the first time that they had a place to train as previously they had met in the Exchange block on Union street.

The Rockville Athletic Association did not have the right to dispose of the property, as it was made mandatory to turn the building over to the Hospital Association when no longer used by the Athletic Association.

With the disbandment of the association two years ago the building passed into the hands of a group of trustees.

Investigate Fire
Both the police and the owners of the large tobacco shed on the plantation of Louis Wetstone at Vernon are at a loss to determine the cause of the fire which destroyed the shed on Thursday night. Located within a few hundred feet of the Weststone home on the main road from Boston to New York by the way of Vernon, the building was beyond saving when the Pitkin Fire Company of the Rockville Fire Department arrived. The firemen were able to save adjoining property.

The destroyed shed holds eight acres of tobacco but none was in the shed at the time. The fire is suspected of having been caused by a cigarette thrown away by loiterers in the vicinity.

New Officers Installed
The newly-elected officers of Margaretha Lodge, O. D. H. S., were installed with fitting ceremonies on Thursday evening in Princess hall on Village street. The installation was in charge of Mrs. Ida Weber as District Deputy.

The new staff were installed as follows: President, Mrs. Clara Preuss; vice-president, Mrs. Augusta Pitkat; recording secretary, Mrs. Mary Lehmann; financial secretary, Mrs. Margaret Merz; trustees, Elsie Baer, Elsie Roehrer, and Catherine Yanke; outside guard, Mabel Gebler; inside guard, Mabel Lehmann; auditors, Lydia Tenstedt, Anna Bilson and Anna Murphy.

Funeral of Mrs. Shee
The funeral of Mrs. Catherine (O'Neil) Shee, wife of Captain Richard E. Shee of the Rockville Police Force, who died at the Hartford hospital on Wednesday night following an operation, was held at the home of the off-duty and for the reception a large delegation was present from Victory Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, of which Mrs. Shee was a past president.

Burial was in the family plot in St. Bernard's cemetery. Rev. Father Hinchey officiated at the committal service.

Mrs. Shee was born in Broad Brook and came to Rockville when 12 years of age. She has remained here continuously and took an active interest in affairs of the Catholic Ladies of Columbus.

Mrs. Shee is survived by her husband, Captain Richard E. Shee; a sister, Mrs. James Bolger, of Hartford, and a brother, John O'Neil, of Broad Brook.

Notes
The members of Victory Assembly, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, held a prayer service at the home of Mrs. Catherine Shee on Union street,

THE TINNIES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Tinies eyed the submarine and Duncy said, "Gee, I'm not keen to go far down into the sea in that queer looking ship."

"A great big fish might get us. Then we'd all be in a fix again. We thank you, Shrimpy, but I think we must pass up this trip."

"Hey, wait a minute," Scouty cried. "Don't think I'm going to miss the ride. If you're afraid, you stay on shore. The rest of us will go."

The next thing that the Tinies knew was Duncy said, "Oh, I'll go, too. I'm scared. I will get lost unless I go where you go."

"That's dandy," shouted Shrimpy. "Gee, I simply love good company. You all have looked around the ship. Now find a place to rest."

"I'll shut the top down good and tight, so everything will be all right. I'm going to give you lots a thrill. At least, I'll do my best."

In just about five minutes more the Tinies heard a rolling roar.

"We're off," exclaimed Shrimpy.

Shrimpy: "To the land of fish we're bound. It won't be long till you will see some real strange sights. Leave that to me. It's really an amazing thing what queer things can be found."

Soon they all heard a thump, thump, thump! Then Scouty said, "I felt a bump." "We're on the bottom of the sea," their new friend Shrimpy, cried.

"I think that something's gone amiss to make my fine sub shake like this." Then Doty said, "Oh, gee, I hope that it won't spoil our ride."

They soon found what the trouble was and they were all quite scared because a swordfish sawed right through the sub. "What can we do?" cried one.

"Wee Shrimpy answered, "Follow me. Jump out of here, into the sea. I'll promise you you'll be all right. It will be lots of fun."

(The swordfish is propelled in the next story.)

SENSE and NONSENSE

So Say We All
I'd like to sock him on the nose, I'd like to crack his empty head—The pest who honks and honks and honks At crossings when the light is red.

Father—Your boy friend talks too much. He rattles on and on like a siver. I'm afraid he is a fat tire.
Daughter—I know, daddy dear; but his clutch is grand.

A British safety authority says every driver should learn to skid his car and then bring it out of the skid safely. If we ever voluntarily take any lessons like that it will be a correspondence course.

Woman's Voice (to garage man on the phone)—Will you please send someone out here to fix my car? I think the radiator's flooded.

Shrimp—Is your wife a good driver?
Lobster—Well, I'm not sure whether she is or whether all other drivers she meets are.

Even personal liberty is not entitled to more than half the highway, and no zigzagging.

MONOXIDE GAS: Economy may be the road to wealth but too many of us prefer the detours. . . . A free country is one in which the unimportant can get even by hogging the road. . . . What the country needs as much as anything else is half hour parking limits on country lanes. . . . Many people who meet with accidents nowadays worry more about damages than they do repairs. . . . They used to think that a needle in a haystack was hard to find, but the hardest thing to find now is a parking place. . . . Man's inhumanity to man makes thousands hesitate at the curbs. . . . For bringing people together the silver front seat has become a strong competitor to the Sunday school. . . . Another nice thing about the Venus de Milo type would be her inability to grab if the fools who used to rock the boat are now driving motor cars. . . . Poor, unfortunate man. In the open he steps on a snake; in town he steps on the gas. . . .

Man—My wife learned something today.
Neighbor—Yeah? What did she learn?
Man—That traffic cops are not stationed at street corners just to keep other drivers out of her way.

The old-fashioned gent who removes the radiator cap while the motor car radiator is boiling is recovering in the General hospital.

As you must have observed some drivers approached red traffic light with a gradually reduced speed, while others rush headlong right up to the "stop" line, jar down the brakes and pull up with a jerk that shakes the car and its occupants like a suddenly awakened earthquake. In the same way do we find different people moving through the traffic of life. The far-sighted man who approaches his problems with caution is not so shaken when he finds himself "up against it" as is the man who does not ease up on his speed when he sees the red light ahead.

In Our Garage
A boiler and a kettle lid. Some plates that Maggie broke and hid;
A chopping block, a knuckle bone, A phonograph that doesn't phone;
Some lingerie that lingered long, A mattress with the mat all gone;
A bustle out of grandma's trunk, A rat trap and some other junk;
A demijohn of faint bouquet, (Sweet hundred-proof of yesterday)

The sticks and tail of Johnny's kite,
A table lamp I dropped one night
Tomato cans of Auld Lang Syne, A hundred feet of washing line,
One pair of pants (demobilized), One garden hose (derubberized),
Of many things a sundry crop—All but the car—that's in the shop.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:
Man makes thousands hesitate at the curbs. . . . For bringing people together the silver front seat has become a strong competitor to the Sunday school. . . . Another nice thing about the Venus de Milo type would be her inability to grab if the fools who used to rock the boat are now driving motor cars. . . . Poor, unfortunate man. In the open he steps on a snake; in town he steps on the gas. . . .

MARINES TO AID GOBS IN GAME WITH ARMY

Annual Baseball Contest at Army-Navy Outing Tomorrow Looks Real.

One hundred and twenty-five members of the Army and Navy club, it is expected, will attend the annual outing of the club tomorrow at Liedertafel Grove, Vernon. An all-day program of sports has been prepared by the outing committee and refreshments will be served during the entire day.

The feature of the outing each year is the ball game between the Army and Navy. Although the Army has won consistently during the past few years, the Navy has been strengthened by adding a few Marines to their roster, and it looks as though the game might take a different turn this year.

"Cap" Peterson, one of the heavy hitting Navy men, is in trim for the game of his life this year, having played several games with the Athletics, his former team in the "balmy" days. Volley ball, darts, horseshoe pitching and other sports will take up the veterans' time during the afternoon. The closing feature of the day will be the annual tug of war between picked teams from the club.

Chef David McCollum will be in charge of the refreshments. The members will leave the clubhouse at 9 a. m. Members not having transportation are requested to report at the clubhouse at that hour for conveyance to Vernon.

NATIVE PEACHES AT HALE'S TODAY

Self Serve Grocery Has First to Be Offered in This Section of State.

Proof again that Hale's Self-Serve Grocery Department is always on the jump to supply the people of Manchester with the last word in service is displayed today by the first showing in this part of the state of native peaches.

Gordon Thornton, manager of the "Self-Serve, purchased this morning a large supply of native "Mayflower" peaches from the Edgewood Fruit Farm on Woodbridge street. This is the first showing this season of native peaches in this section of the country. On checking the Hartford wholesale fruit market this morning, Thornton found that there were as yet no native peaches to be had at the wholesale markets around this section of the state.

The Edgewood Fruit Farm located on Woodbridge street is owned and operated by Camillo and Louis Andio, popular managers of Hale's Health Market. They purchased this farm about two years ago and have a large peach orchard which is recognized as one of the finest around here.

Manchester folks who are anxiously awaiting the first crop of native peaches may enjoy peach shortcake this week-end by shopping the Self-Serve this afternoon.
