

FIVE ARE HURT AS CAR UPSSETS IN NO. COVENTRY

None Seems Critically Injured Although All Are In Hospital; Machine Skids Against Guard Rail.

A mother and two sons, Mrs. Valada Robillard, 46, and sons, Alfred, 22, and Norman, 9, of 306 McGowan street, Fall River, Mass., and two passengers in the car driven by Alfred Robillard, Mrs. Eva Daigault, 48, of 926 Rodman street, and Mrs. Ida Lamotte, 44, of 1050 Stafford road, the same city, were seriously injured when the heavy sedan in which they were returning to Fall River from Hartford, skidded on the wet highway near the North Coventry church, crashed through a highway guard rail and landed upside down in a nearby field at 9:30 this morning.

Five at Hospital Alfred Robillard, driver of the car, received a possible fracture of the right leg and the others in the party received cuts, bruises and possible internal injuries. All were taken to the Manchester Memorial Hospital where emergency treatment was given. All members of the group remained as patients at the hospital.

Stephen Loyzim of Coventry, formerly of this town, was an eye witness to the accident. He said he was standing in the doorway of a shop across the road from scene of the accident as the car came down the hill past the church at a fast rate of speed skidded on the macadam road near the guard rails at the edge of a culvert. The car, out of control, struck the last post in the rail and came to a sudden end in the field. The top was shorn off the heavy sedan, grinding heavy plate glass into the interior of the car as it was dragged by momentum across the grass, resting on the roofless sidewalks 15 feet out in the field.

Miraculous Escape All of the occupants of the car were thrown clear as if by a miracle. One of the women was left in the path that the car had recently taken as it ground its way down the bank into the field. Another woman was deposited, painfully hurt and bleeding from her mouth, in a possible internal injury, across the rear seat which had been whirled out of the car when it turned over. Norman Robillard, aged 9, was lying near a large boulder that was scattered with marks of steel and wood as the car slid over it.

Alfred Robillard, the driver, was pulled from beneath the front seat of the car, no part of which was left resting upon him at the time. Those first on the scene were Loyzim, Ira Wilcox, Arthur Olson and Wallace McKnight. A call was put in for Holloran's ambulance. Christian K. Smith, of 171 School street, East Hartford, and Luther A. White of Rockville, assisted in removing several of the injured to the hospital before the arrival of the ambulance, which took two of the injured.

Another Close One While the accident was being investigated a Texas car with a woman at the wheel raced down the hill past the church, skidded when the wheels struck the tarvia road, and turned completely around without hitting anything.

IT TOOK TWO EGGS TO MAKE THIS ONE

Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 14.—It was a funny kind of a shell game that the prize Rhode Island Red hen of Mrs. Edgar F. Culp played on her. The hen laid a huge egg quite unlike any Mrs. Culp ever saw. On breaking the shell, nothing came out of it except the white of the egg.

SPECIAL SESSION ASKED BY MCNEIL

Writes Letter To Governor Saying That It Is Necessary To Aid Recovery.

New Haven, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A new plea for a special session of the General Assembly to act on the various phases of the Federal recovery drive was sent to Governor Wilbur L. Cross today by Archibald McNeil, chairman of the Connecticut Public works advisory committee.

The Democratic National commander expressed the opinion there would be no alternative other than call for a special session, to act on a public works program, including construction of the Merritt highway, and on problems arising from the Federal Home Loan Act. McNeil said that work on the Merritt highway could be started immediately if applications for Federal funds is made to the committee he heads.

Meanwhile, officials of savings banks studied the opinion of Ernest L. Averill, deputy attorney general, as to what extent these institutions may accept bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation in exchange for mortgages.

PRESIDENT PLANS RECOVERY PROGRAM

Holds Conference With His Helpers To Discuss Future Work.

Washington, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The giant pinions of NRA's blue eagle were held today by officials to be hovering over a quarter of the nation's 40,000,000 workers. And to assure that the wage raising, work spreading bird would cover even more territory, President Roosevelt and his helpers launched a new series of meetings to map out the future program.

Johnson's Speech Because the President has accepted much of the advice already given to him by Johnson, the expectation was that Mr. Roosevelt would approve an elaboration of the idea the administration is advancing now, like in his St. Louis speech last night when he said: "If you see a place where there is none and you do any kind of business there you have a right to ask: 'Brother where is your blue eagle?'"

AS MOB SACKED PRESIDENTIAL PALACE IN HAVANA

As word swept over the embattled city of Havana that the tyrannical regime of President Gerardo Machado was at an end, thousands of joyful celebrants swept into the presidential palace to loot and destroy. The result of the mob's frenzy is strikingly pictured above. Windows and doors were smashed; rich furnishings pulled down and carried away; state papers and records tossed into the court in a littered mass. Here you see members of the mob searching the debris, and others carrying loot from the palace.

STATE-WIDE MILK STRIKE HAS BEEN DECLARED OFF

Prof. Charles A. Beard BALBO'S AVIATORS HONORED BY ITALY

Title Of Air Marshal Conferred On Leader By Premier Mussolini.

New Haven, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The threat of a milk strike in Connecticut was removed today as the Farmers National Association retracted its summons to a milk holiday, called to start Thursday.

Peace came into the troubled milk situation, after the State Milk Board drew up a nine-point program of control which the farm group accepted and urged all milk producers to support.

They told of the triumphs and the awards they received from an admiring government and an enthusiastic populace. And today they were ready for work again.

The pilots and mechanics of the giant seaplanes set out six weeks ago on a mass flight that Premier Mussolini yesterday told them was a "consecrated Fascist revolution in the skies of two continents."

Police Puzzled Over Motive For Crime—Two Men Held Under Suspicion.

Pasadena, Calif., Aug. 14.—(AP)—As police today sought a reason for the mysterious death on a roof of Helen Bendowski, 29-year-old comely beauty, shop operator, Police Chief Charles Kelley commented: "It looks like a murderous attack."

Harold Wolcott, 33, florist who was described by the police chief as an intimate of the woman, denied knowing anything about three shots fired early Sunday on the roof adjoining his apartment. A bullet had entered the woman's body either through the chest or back and killed her.

A patrolman, Maynard G. Melidema, off duty at the time, also denied knowing anything of the case. He was with Wolcott when the woman was killed, he said. The police blotter recounted that the florist had been drinking and that the patrolman "was not intoxicated."

CUBA IS QUIET TODAY; U. S. WARSHIPS ARRIVE

Reporters in Cuba Tell of Experiences

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A thrilling and nearly tragic story of adventure and adversity was pieced together today from cabled bits of Havana news—the story of the heart breaking battle of Associated Press staff photographers to fill an "assignment" against odds to revolution, bloodshed and rioting.

As the last of a relay of planes, dropped to Newark airport at noon with a realistic pictorial account of the Cuban revolt, it marked the successful conclusion of another "newspaper story" that cost many thousands of dollars and almost cost the lives of two Associated Press cameramen.

Seymour Hess, Associated Press photographer, lost his camera, and precious plates Saturday afternoon at the hand of an hysterical mob which descended on the Pan-American airways dock to prevent the escape of Colonel Orestes Ferrera, former secretary of state.

At the point of pistols and rifles, they forced him into a machine and after handling him roughly, threw him out in the outskirts of Havana.

These advances said the flood waters reached Lungfeng on the Lung-hai railway, east of Kaifong. This is the point where the possible return of the river to its old channel is considered most likely.

CHILD NOT GIVEN WRONG MEDICINE

Father Notifies Police But Woman Is Not Located Until She Arrives At Lake

East Orange, N. J., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Word was received here that the medicine had been prescribed by the family physician for Mrs. Trudeau and not the baby.

Knowing the baby had not been well, Trudeau feared a mistake might be made and that a dose of the medicine might prove deadly for the infant. He notified police and a teletype alarm was sent out in an effort to intercept the automobile carrying mother and child.

Not Deadly. Employees at the drug store where the prescription was filled said an adult dose prescribed for Mrs. Trudeau might have made the baby sick but would not have been fatal.

Havana, Aug. 14.—(AP)—As two United States ships of war steamed into Havana harbor today to protect American property, renewed outbursts of looting and arson impelled the Cuban military authorities to order their soldiers to fire on all persons violating public order.

Carlos Manuel De Cespedes, the new President, completed a Cabinet which virtually ignored the claims of all the old political parties, and the principal followers of the deposed President Gerardo Machado, followed their leader's example by fleeing the island.

Two of General Machado's country estates were sacked in celebration of the victorious revolution which forced the general to abdicate and take refuge in the Bahamas.

The presence of two American warships in the harbor—the destroyers Taylor and Claxton—associated a salutary effect, officials said, and hope was expressed that the violence attending the revolution was near its end.

Hartford, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Five deputy collectors of internal revenue, one from each Congressional district, to work under the Agricultural Adjustment Act, in the processing and compensating tax division, were recommended for appointment today by Edward G. Mr. Covey, a native of Hartford, was educated in the schools here, and formerly was employed by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Mr. Donnelly, a native of Norwich, was formerly a salesman, while Mr. Acunto was once office manager of the New Haven Union.

Mr. Price was also formerly a sales representative. Find Bones of Crocodile Fifty Million Years Old

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Finding of the bones of a 20-foot-long crocodile that lived near Camden, N. J., 50,000,000 years ago was announced today at the American Museum of Natural History.

The bones were in a marl pit at Sewell. Because time had fused some of them into gigantic pieces, they were at first mistaken by the discoverers as dinosaur bones.

Jersey will prove to be a treasure store of dinosaurs. "That dinosaurs once thrived in this region in large numbers. Proof of that is found in tracks left by them in the Connecticut valley. The size of these tracks indicated that they were made by beasts from 15 to 20 feet tall. What drove them away and where they went is one of the fascinating mysteries some day to be solved.

Carlos Manuel De Cespedes

new President, completed a Cabinet which virtually ignored the claims of all the old political parties, and the principal followers of the deposed President Gerardo Machado, followed their leader's example by fleeing the island.

Two of General Machado's country estates were sacked in celebration of the victorious revolution which forced the general to abdicate and take refuge in the Bahamas.

The presence of two American warships in the harbor—the destroyers Taylor and Claxton—associated a salutary effect, officials said, and hope was expressed that the violence attending the revolution was near its end.

No Intervention. The U. S. S. Sturtevant was at Manzanillo on a similar assignment of protecting American lives and property. These warships did not indicate intervention by the United States and their presence was approved by the new President.

In Havana hundreds of Cubans gathered at the docks to see the American navy ships. Naval officers arranged a conference with President De Cespedes.

Disorders during the night resulted in the death of one person and in grave injury to another. Buses Burned. Sixty omnibuses of the Cuba Company, now bankrupt, were burned by company employees who had demanded that the $25 deposits, previously posted to insure the honest performance of their duty be returned.

A military edict barred parades and manifestations of all kinds and prohibited the carrying of arms. The sacking and burning of houses will be severely repressed, the edict said. It cautioned all citizens to remain in their homes after 8 p. m.

Police announced that they were searching for 27 cars which, they said, belonged to the "Machado gangsters." Thirteen of these cars were armored and it was said that their occupants were disguised as soldiers, sailors and members of the police force. Others carried banners of the ABC Society, one of the organizations which led the successful fight to oust Machado.

Dr. De Cespedes himself will hold the important portfolio of secretary of state in the new Cabinet. The incoming ministers reported at the Presidential palace where Dr. de Cespedes signed decrees ratifying their appointments, and then they took the oath. The first Cabinet meeting was held without delay.

Immediately after the session the President, his ministers and high Army and Navy officials received United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, who last week presented a mediation program the keystone of which was the withdrawal of General Machado.

Lieutenant-Colonel Thomas M. Gimperling, American military attaché, and the commanders of the two U. S. destroyers in the harbor accompanied Mr. Welles. Through gathered before the in New Haven planned to meet this week to consider Averill's opinion. These officials under the ruling would be required to determine whether the exchange of a delinquent mortgage for Federal bonds would be to the advantage of the savings depositors.

Some bank officials were represented as believing that too much responsibility is placed on the banks' trustees and directors by the ruling.

McNeill's letter to the governor follows:

"Dear Governor Cross: I believe that you will find no alternative other than a call for a special session. Regardless of the acute situation, as it relates to the Home Owners Loan Corporation, affecting thousands of Connecticut citizens and the legal problems confronting those towns already applying for loans for public works construction, it is falling within the scope of the NRA public works department, there will also be presented to you an almost unanimous demand from citizens of Fairfield county, regardless of political affiliation for a special session for power to approve of the construction of the Merritt highway.

"The Legislature in special session should pass a specific act authorizing Fairfield county to proceed with the Merritt highway. Also a 'general enabling act' permitting any town or city to borrow for public works whatever amount the Connecticut Federal board is willing to lend for whatever projects this board is willing to approve. This needed highway cannot be constructed under our present road program for many years to come, but by an application to our board funds may be available to start this work immediately.

"Yours very truly, (Signed) ARCHIBALD McNEIL"

ace applauded enthusiastically every time President de Cespedes or one of his ministers appeared. There was an especially warm demonstration on the arrival and departure of Ambassador Welles and his party.

PEACE NOW LOOMS

Havana, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Cuba took the road today from revolution to reconstruction. The end of a general strike was in prospect; mob violence against followers of the deposed President, Gerardo Machado, quieted; and Manuel de Cespedes as provisional head was choosing a Cabinet dedicated to social and economic rehabilitation.

Three American war ships were sent to Cuba by President Roosevelt with the "full knowledge and approval" from de Cespedes to protect American lives and property but not to intervene. Two of them steamed into the harbor last night. Cuba went to work again.

The new government had the task of building anew the structure abandoned with the flight to the Bahamas of Machado Saturday. Workers took up again lives interrupted two weeks ago, by a growing strike, by Machado's state of war decree last week, by the army's coup d'etat Saturday and by the return of the Machado regime, with provisional government started yesterday.

Simple Ceremony Violence attended the induction of Dr. de Cespedes in a simple ceremony at his home. Several unidentified men fired several shots into the air from a speeding automobile. No one was hurt there, but the gunmen later wounded two soldiers. Ten violent deaths were subsequently reported; several were members of the dreaded Porra, Machado's secret police.

On Saturday, 21 were killed and 200 wounded, and the total number of deaths in the revolution climbed to about 50. Selection of the new Cabinet progressed meanwhile.

Nicasio Silverio, lawyer and delegate to the C. C. R. revolution organization to mediation committee headed by United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, early today accepted the communications portfolio.

Others chosen Dr. de Cespedes included Carlos Pozo, secretary of war; Raul de Cardenas, presidential secretary; Federico Laredo Bru, secretary of the interior and acting secretary of state; Dr. Jose Manuel Presno, sanitation department.

The A. B. C. secret society suddenly demanded political recognition and thereby changed the basis of the Cabinet selection. A decidedly oppositionist government, and not a concentration Cabinet, was consequently produced.

Dr. de Cespedes this morning announced his additional choices, among them: secretary of justice, Carlos Salazar, an A. B. C. member; treasury Joaquin Martiniz Saez, A. B. C.; public works Eduardo J. Chibas, A. B. C.; agriculture Rafael Santos Jimenez, Nationalist; public instruction Guillermo Belt, A. B. C.; chief of the Havana Central district, Stanislaw Kartaya, Nationalist.

The Liberal Party, of which Machado is a member, and the Popular Party were not represented.

Speaks 6 Languages

Dr. de Cespedes (pronounced sess-pay-des) was 62 years old Saturday. His father participated in the first revolution against Spain in 1888. Educated in Europe, he speaks six languages.

From 1914 until 1922, he was the minister to the United States. On his return he, was named secretary of state. In 1926, he was sent to Paris as minister.

The provisional president has high hopes for the future: "The plan of my government," he told the Associated Press, "is fulfillment of the patriotic and representative desires of the entire Cuban people—restoration of normal conditions in every order of affairs throughout the country, and establishment of moral peace everywhere in order that the free people may continue to follow the pursuit of life and happiness in their ordinary walks."

"I sincerely hope that we will be able to establish economic relations satisfactory and beneficial to both Cuba and the United States."

Gerardo Machado took to political exile in Nassau, the Bahamas, with a group of close friends. "My love is for Cuba," he said after he arrived, tired and without baggage, at a hotel.

"History has shown that my work has been good. Cuba is constitutional. If it is the people's will that I go, I obey. There will soon be stability in Cuba."

Police guarded the plane in which a few from Havana Saturday afternoon. Patrols were established about his hotel in Nassau.

The veteran commander of Cuban revolutionary forces in Cuba from 1895 to 1898, was elected president in 1924.

Machadists were relentlessly hunted yesterday. The army took steps today, however, to enforce law and order and violence waned.

Police Head Slain. Among those killed was Colonel Jimenez, leader of the secret police. Alberto Herrero, war secretary, under Machado, was killed today, take that post in the new government, early today sailed on the steamer Juriquia bound for Jamaica, with his wife, their two sons, and families of the latter.

FERARRA'S PREDICTION

Washington, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Dr. Orestes Ferrara, former Cuban secretary of state who fled Havana with his wife in an airplane Saturday, told the Associated Press in a long distance telephone conversation from Richmond, Va., today he believed the coming months would find conditions in Cuba growing "worse and worse."

Speaking from seclusion in his hotel in Richmond, Dr. Ferrara said conditions in Cuba were worse than anything that had happened in Petrograd during the Russian revolution.

"What they call peace in Cuba," Dr. Ferrara said, "is not peace and will not be peace. It is persecution. I believe that conditions in Cuba will grow worse and worse during the next six months."

"My hope at this time is that Cuba will not go to pieces but I foresee an epoch of turmoil."

Dr. Ferrara said his plans were to remain in Richmond long enough to buy necessary clothes and personal effects, which he was forced to leave in his flight from Havana, and then to go to New York probably in a day or two.

After that, he said, he hoped to write a book on Venetian diplomacy which he long had planned. He would do this, he said, probably in New York or in Europe.

The former ambassador and secretary said he did not desire to tell the story of the Cuban revolution now.

BACK TO NORMAL

Washington, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Americans officials noted with evident satisfaction today indications that with United States warships on the scene conditions in Cuba were rapidly returning to normal after the dramatic overturn in the government of the island.

Secretary Hill said he had instructed that a Cuban vessel arriving at Key West with members of former President Gerardo Machado's family aboard be permitted to land on American soil, without hindrance.

Both the White House and State Department, dispatches bearing on the progress of Cuban restoration after the history-making events of the week-end were carefully noted.

State Department advisers said that motor buses were returning to the streets in Havana and street cars and railways were expected to resume late today.

Arrival of the American destroyers Taylor and Claxton under the command of Lieutenant Commander George T. Howard at 1:30 this morning was seen as having a quieting effect on the merrymaking and carousing which aroused some concern yesterday.

Reports received here said Commander Howard and other officers of the two American destroyers called on President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes today and expected to visit other officials.

It was emphasized at the State Department that the warships were dispatched only after the new government headed by Dr. de Cespedes had approved and that the purpose was to lend a steadying effect to the new regime.

The action was intended to help prevent the rejoining over the change in government from developing into conditions throughout the island which might prevent speedy reorganization under the new administration.

Authoritative sources here said the rejoining over the fall of the Machado regime resulted in the soldiers in Havana fraternizing with crowds of rioters, leading to apprehension yesterday that the military might not be able to restore order.

Official Washington notes that military control was established last night and that the new government seemed to have the situation well in hand.

N. Y. OFFICE RAIDED

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—A crowd of about 40 persons raided the office of the Cuban consulate general at 17 Battery place today and took a bust of former President Gerardo Machado.

A request for police assistance was made to police headquarters. The crowd gathered in front of the consulate and forced their way into the building.

There was a little disorder and when police arrived the raiders had left the building, carrying the bust with them.

Rev. W. D. Woodward preached yesterday in the Methodist Church in East Blackstone, Mass., the church where he served his first pastorate in the New England Southern Conference in 1886, the year of graduation from the Theological Seminary of Boston University. It was the closing day of an Old Home Week celebration in this Old Bay State village, and Mr. Woodward was pleased to meet several of those whom he knew 47 years ago, including the gentleman he boarded with in Chicago and the one who is scheduled to preach at the Methodist church in Burnside next Sunday morning.

Miss Ethel Woodward of Hollister street has recently returned from a six weeks trip to Chicago and the Century of Progress Fair. She also took a series of studies in the Deaconess Training School upon religious and social subjects.

Rev. Truman Woodward of East Hartford called at his parents' home on Hollister street, yesterday on his way to a preaching appointment at Ellington Congregational Church. He was accompanied by his sister, Miss Ethel Woodward.

MUST HOLD TOWN MEETING ON BONDS

Selectmen To Call Session When They Meet Tomorrow Evening.

At the time of the last town meeting when the town voted to buy the Cheney utilities, the Selectmen were of the opinion that another town meeting was necessary to approve the issuance of the bonds. The Selectmen are in receipt of information from Boston banking officials, with whom the matter was taken up, confirming the decision of the Selectmen and the town council on the decision of holding the special town meeting.

At tomorrow night's meeting of the Selectmen the date for the special town meeting will be set following the reading of the official specifications with reference to the bond issue.

A leak in the gas pipes on North Elm street was discovered Saturday morning. It was Saturday noon when the source of the trouble was located so the completion of the job was left until this morning. There was no interruption of the service in the vicinity.

Charles Sweet is the first candidate for constable to file his nomination papers. His application was made at the town clerk's office today.

Members of the Daughters of Scotland will meet at the corner of Winter and Center streets tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock and will go to the Holloran funeral home to view the body of Mrs. Agnes Barr, a past chief of the organization.

The Past Chief Daughters will meet at the home of Mrs. Margaret Brown of 20 Arch street tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

Ronald H. Ferguson, of The Herald, will attend a meeting of the defense newspaper publishers in New Haven tomorrow for discussion of procedure under the new proposed code of the NRA. The code proposed has not been approved as yet and the publishers of the state will meet to decide on what action they can take.

Clark was expected to consume about three hours in his presentation and the state to do likewise. Tomorrow, Mrs. Costello plans to make a brief personal plea to be sent home to her Peabody cottage and her three children. Then the judge will deliver his charge and the case will be in the hands of the jury, it was expected, tomorrow afternoon.

Clark, first raised a question as to whether the dead fire captain, really had been murdered.

"The first thing the government must establish in this case, to a moral certainty, is that a murder has been committed," Clark said.

"If you are lead to speculation or conjecture as to this point, you will go no further. That is the end and that is the collapse of the government's case. You have no right to convict Jessie B. Costello on suspicion."

Breaks in Chain "There is nothing in this case to show whether William Costello died by murder, accident or suicide. He said the defense would show "break after break in this 'chain of circumstantial evidence.'"

Remember, gentlemen, circumstantial evidence depends not upon its strongest, but upon its weakest link."

Clark asked "are we trying Jessie Costello for profanity?" "It was stepped into the court room the first few days of this trial, we would wonder if Jessie B. Costello was being tried for profanity and vulgarity."

Clark said the government had "defeated on its promissory notes."

"Is there any evidence of her being a profane person except from the poisoned lips of John Costello. Is there any proof she was lewd except from the profane lips of Edward J. McMahon?"

Costello, brother of the dead man, had testified that the defendant had used profanity in referring to her father, Andrew J. Fyfe, and Edward McMahon, a former policeman, had testified to an alleged affair with her.

Costello was driving a small truck in which relatives and friends were riding when it left the road and struck a pole. His mother was killed instantly.

COSTELLO TRIAL IS NEARING END

Fire Captain's Widow Laughs As She Arrives At Hearing.

Salem, Mass., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Jessie B. Costello, laughing as she ran the gauntlet of 700 persons who have gathered in front of the Court House, today heard the opening of the defense argument which she hoped would save her from the executioner.

William G. Clark of defense counsel began the argument intended to convince the jurors that the millions of words of testimony taken in the trial had failed to prove that the attractive, 32-year-old widow, administered a fatal dose of poison to her husband, Fire Captain William J. Costello of Peabody.

To Make Plea Clark was expected to consume about three hours in his presentation and the state to do likewise. Tomorrow, Mrs. Costello plans to make a brief personal plea to be sent home to her Peabody cottage and her three children. Then the judge will deliver his charge and the case will be in the hands of the jury, it was expected, tomorrow afternoon.

RIOT AT REFORMATORY; ONE PRISONER ESCAPES

Boston, Aug. 14.—(AP)—One inmate was known to have escaped today as a riot threw the Suffolk County House of Correction on Deer Island, in Boston harbor, into an uproar.

Large squads of police were rushed to the scene from Winthrop and Boston in response to word calls. Although four or five men were known to have gained the mainland, crossing shallow Shirley Gut, Major George F. A. Mulcahy, master of the House of Correction, announced all but one had been promptly recaptured.

Boston police said, however, they understood 16 were still at large. Mulcahy blamed the outbreak on 100 long term prisoners, known for their bad behavior, who had been transferred to the island from Concord reformatory. He said the inmate remaining at large was John Badger of South Boston.

BANKS MAY ACCEPT HOME LOAN BONDS

Can't Be Exchanged As Investment And Only To Help Depositors.

Through a ruling made Saturday afternoon by Deputy Attorney General Ernest R. Averill, savings banks and state banks and trust companies in Connecticut may exchange delinquent mortgages for bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation. The bonds may not be purchased for investment purposes, but they may be used as collateral for loans or as a means of raising funds for the directors and trustees of the financial institution deemed it to be to the interest of depositors.

The ruling was greeted by both bankers and investors as being of great relief to home owners and banks in carrying out the provisions of the Home Loan Act passed by the last Congress. The banking laws of this state do not allow bonds to be taken over by the banks as investments if the bonds are not guaranteed for payment by the United States. The laws are rigid in regard to investment restrictions on the banks. It had been thought that a considerable amount of the relief provided by the bill would not apply here because of these laws, but the Attorney General's ruling removes that obstacle.

Now the banks may cooperate in assisting all home owners who are in actual distress without fearing the state banking law restrictions providing of course they meet with the provisions laid down in the opinion of Deputy Attorney General Averill.

DR. DOLAN HEADS STATE NRA GROUP

In addition to Dr. Dolan, the members of the board are Frank J. Coster, president of McKee and Robbins and Milton MacDonald, Hartford labor official. Senator Frank Bergin of New Haven; Fannie Dixon Welch of Columbia, Democratic National Committee woman; E. Kent Hubbard of Middletown, president of the State Manufacturers' Association; Senator William Fitzgerald of Norwich, deputy state labor commissioner; Joseph M. Halloran of New Britain, assistant director of the State Police; and Judge John Walsh of Stamford.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Most financial markets were in the grip of the "dog-day" doldrums today and, with sentiment tending toward ultra-caution in further extensive commitments, prices generally displayed a rather heavy tone.

Stocks were particularly dull and floor operators accounted for what little business there was. Leading shares were inclined to sag fractionally to 2 points or more, although some of the gold mining issues and a few other specialties were steady to firm. Gains generally were unchanged at Chicago, pending the removal of the trading limit tomorrow, but wheat was off more than a cent a bushel at Winnipeg. Cotton was a little easier. Bonds were uncertain. The dollar displayed renewed strength in foreign exchange dealings.

Homestake Mining jumped 15 points at one time and Alaska Juneau was moderately higher. Issuers of 3 to 2 or more. However, included Santa Fe, American Sugar Refining, American Telephone, American Can, United Aircraft, Bethlehem Steel, Allied Chemical, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, Case Threshing, Chrysler, Industrial Rayon, Westinghouse, U. S. Smelting, Dupont, North American, New York Central, Western Union, National Distillers, Owens-Illinois, American Commercial Alcohol and Commercial Solvents.

The moderate demand for some of the gold mining stocks was a response to the government's ruling that concentrates are alloys derived from ores might be exported. Under the new decree, some of the gold produced in the United States may be sold abroad at a premium. Just how much of a profit can be made on this shipping arrangement is still a matter of some conjecture. The fixed price of gold here is $20.67 an ounce, whereas in the "free" market of England the metal bring around $30 an ounce. At the same time, shipping costs and higher production costs generally may shade the net returns of many of the companies that contemplate exports.

Traders were watching the grain situation closely for a cue as to the nearby trend of stocks. Public participation for the moment, it is said, is at an extremely low ebb. Orders on specialists' books, either to buy or sell shares at a fixed price, are reported to be the smallest in some time. Market "uses" sower, apparently are still moderately bullish, although it is pointed out that considerable irregularity may be expected over the next week or so.

The financial district is hoping that further confirmation of the business and industrial recovery will be furnished by the July reports of the leading railroads. Most of the returns for that month will begin to come in during the next week or ten days. Net income of some of the carriers, it is felt, may not look so good because maintenance expenses jumped substantially during the month. At the same time, though, comparisons with last year probably will be quite optimistic.

ROCKVILLE

WOOLEN CODE DRIVES COSTS UP ONE-THIRD

Manufacturers Find Increased Pay And Reduced Hours Will Add $20,000 To Pay Rolls.

The National Recovery Act which goes into effect in the woolen mills of Rockville today is expected to add 32 per cent to the costs of manufacturing woolens. The hours of labor have been reduced from 55 hours to 40 hours and in addition to the same wages for the shorter hours, an increase in ten per cent has been granted as an incentive.

Heretofore the seven factories of the Hockanum Mills Company which have not suffered from depression, have worked two shifts weekly for a total of 115 hours. Now with the change the maximum number of hours are limited to 80 hours per week for two shifts of labor. The advantages of the new schedule will not be known for at least two weeks as there will not be a regular dinner hour as has been customary in the Rockville factories in the past.

Where the mills are to operate on the two shift basis, there will only be 15 minute dinner or lunch periods, the shift starting at 7 a. m. working until noon and then from 12:15 to 3:15 p. m. The second shift will start at 3:30 p. m. working until 7:30 p. m. and then a lunch period from 7:30 to 7:45 p. m. and finishing the second shift period at 11:45 p. m.

Where the mills are to work only on the one shift basis, they will start at 7 a. m. until 12:00 noon and from 1 to 4 p. m.

The biggest disadvantage to be encountered will be in the feeding of the employees at the mill during the short lunch periods both at noon and night. The suggestion has been made that the local lunch rooms and restaurants prepare special meals which can be taken to the mills either for the day or night shift. This plan is now being worked out and will be announced within twenty-four hours.

The fact that the new woolen code will cost the manufacturers approximately one-third additional, will mean that approximately $20,000 additional will be available to be spent in Rockville weekly. The pay rolls of the local mills amount to approximately $60,000 weekly at the present time. With a general increase of $20,000 in wages and additional time for the spending of the increased wages, a general improvement in the business affairs of Rockville are anticipated.

Regardless of what effect depression had upon the country as a whole during the past three years, Rockville has been extremely for-unate. Regardless of the reputation of the Hockanum Mills Company, headed by Col. Francis T. Maxwell, as the highest class woolen, during the past few years this firm has sought business from all sources to keep its machinery in operation. More than one million yards of upholstery cloth was manufactured for the automobile industry as a means of finding business. This cloth was reported as manufactured at a reported profit of only one cent a yard.

Less than one hundred people from the ten thousand population suffered from poverty and the township turned down government aid for its poor which was also a remarkable record.

Town Election Today
The special town election in hope of cutting down the election expenses of the town of Vernon, which includes the city of Rockville, is being held today. Indications are that the vote of the taxpayers will be practically unanimous for the elimination of the annual election and the substitution of the biennial election.

Within the past forty-eight hours several prominent citizens have come forward with the doubt in their mind that the change in the city charter will result in the saving which was first anticipated by those who advocated the change. The polls are open from 5:30 o'clock this morning until 5:30 o'clock standard time, this afternoon. Less than one-half of the regular vote is expected to be cast.

Postmastership in Doubt
Information is expected from Washington, D. C., within twenty-four hours as to who the successful candidate will be for the appointment as postmaster at Rockville. The question has been hanging fire since last January and as a result Postmaster George E. Dickinson has held over in office. The last word from Washington is that Maurice L. Spurling is the favorite for the Democratic appointment as the nominee of Senator Augustine Lonergan, a former Rockville resident.

A second rumor places John J. McKenna, n-w guard leader, in the limelight as the candidate backed by Dr. Edward G. Dolan of Manchester, new guard leader, recently appointed Collector of Internal Revenue for Connecticut. Other candidates are considered out of the picture by both elements of the party.

Mrs. Mary M. Rosenberg
Mrs. Mary M. Rosenberg, aged 77, widow of the late Jacob Rosenberg, died Saturday at her home at 34 Snipic street. Death was caused by complications following a short illness. Mrs. Bouffard was born in Canada but resided in this country for many years, coming to Rockville from Meriden, 32 years ago.

SOUTH METHODIST CHOR ENJOYS ANNUAL OUTING

Rev. and Mrs. Harris Guests At Party At Hohenthal Cottage In Coventry Saturday.

The members of the South Methodist church choir, accompanied by their wives and husbands, and with the Rev. L. C. Harris and Mrs. Harris as invited guests, had a most enjoyable picnic on Saturday afternoon. Leaving the church by autos they proceeded to the Hohenthal cottage at Coventry Lake, where on arrival bathing suits were donned and a most enjoyable time was had swimming and playing water polo.

Following this the group entered into a series of games which included volley ball, throwing the bean bag, horseshoe pitching and other games. In "Barn Yard Quits" a very close game was played between teams made up of Rev. Harris and Harry Anderson against Fred Bendall and Bob Von Desk which resulted in a win by the Bendall team by a one-point margin. At the game of shooting the bean bag several of the ladies proved themselves adept, and in particular Mrs. Robert Olson.

Refreshments consisting of hot dogs, baked beans, cake and coffee were served by a committee headed by Mrs. Eunice Eohenthal. John Hand kindly placed at the service of the group a large room in his cottage, and when the shades of evening began to fall, adjournment was made there and a period of choral singing was enjoyed with piano accompaniment by Archibald Sessions.

VOLCANO DISCOVERED

Billings, Mont., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Discovery of the crater of an extinct volcano, the first to be found in this section, is announced by Dr. W. T. Thom, head of the Princeton Geological Research Expedition in the Beartooth mountains.

The volcano is believed to have been active about the time the dinosaurs gave way to the earliest forms of mammal life. At this rate, Dr. Thom said, it is about 100 million years old.

He attached the greater interest to the find for the value it may have in substantiating a theory the Beartooth mountains, north of Yellowstone Park, were created by a vast "blister," which later was broken by the eruption of numerous small volcanoes.

CHIEF LEAVES POST

Terryville, Conn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Considerable anxiety is felt among town officials here over the health of Chief of Police George Buckley who has been absent from his post for nearly a week. While some officials maintained that Buckley is absent without leave, having departed abruptly last Monday, without leaving any notice of his intentions, First Selectman William H. Justice last night stated that Buckley is on a week's vacation. However, earlier in the week, Justice was unaware of the chief's vacation plans and regarded him as out of duty without authority.

You Do Not Burn Oil in a Lynn—The Oil Turns To Gas Vapor—Eliminating Smoke, Soot and Odor.

Here's The Whole Lynn Story

- 1.—THE LYNN PRODUCTS COMPANY is one of the pioneers in the range oil burner field and as a consequence, has had great opportunity to learn the important facts concerning successful construction and reliable material and proper operation in connection with range oil burners.
- 2.—LYNN OIL BURNERS have been on the market for years, and by successful operation in homes, over a long period of time, have shown that they are reliable and that they do what is claimed for them.
- 3.—UP TO NOW, range oil burners have been unsightly, with attention paid to making them an attractive and an ornamental article of equipment.
- 4.—LYNN, with characteristic leadership, being fully aware of this condition, has been the first to produce a really attractive design of bottle stand.
- 5.—THE DELUXE BOTTLE STAND is made of a die cast base, die cast oil basin, and has a satin silver and polished metal finish. The LYNN is the only burner using die castings and it is only through the use of die castings that such a beautiful finish can be obtained.
- 6.—THE OIL BASIN has a large oil strainer through which the oil passes upward rather than downward as in most oil burners. This keeps the strainer at all times clean, as the sediment drops to the bottom of an especially large filtering compartment.
- 7.—THESE OIL BASINS are so constructed that the mechanism for the Autopulse pump may be installed in them, thus eliminating the necessity of putting on a special oil basin for this purpose and thereby spoiling the attractive appearance of the bottle stand.
- 8.—THE DUAL-CONTROL DELUXE LYNN VALVE has a die cast body and instead of the usual stuffing box, through which the valve spindle passes, has a design that makes packing unnecessary and positively eliminates any chance of oil dripping from around the valve stem onto the floor. This dripping of oil is a very common thing among the majority of valves that are used in other burners and this EXCLUSIVE DESIGN of the LYNN valve, which eliminates this, is a very important thing to impress on the customer.
- 9.—In order to have the tubing in the DeLuxe burner conform in appearance to the bottle stand and the valve, it is cadmium-plated.
- 10.—THE COMBUSTION CONES enable the burner to increase its capacity by about one-third, which means that the burner can, if required, burn about one-third more oil and give off one-third more heat, making it by far the hottest burner on the market. It can, however, be operated just as low with the combustion cones on, as with it off. This gives a much greater range between the high and the low fire.
- 11.—THE DELUXE LYNN is equipped with the very latest development in wicking, which is a reinforced all-around wick that does not impede the passage of the vapors in the burner grooves and makes the burner one of the quickest starting burners on the market.
- 12.—THE CARBON TRAPS in the new DeLuxe LYNN are made up of a drop forging, thus eliminating the usual type of carbon trap made up of nipples and pipe fittings with screwed joints that give ample opportunity for leakage. There are no joints of this nature in the DeLuxe LYNN carbon trap. It is one solid piece drilled out.
- 13.—THE QUALITY OF MATERIAL used throughout every part of the DeLuxe LYNN burner is the best grade obtainable, which makes an investment in a LYNN, a safe long term investment where many cheaper burners, which are inferior in quality, make a very poor investment for the purchaser.
- 14.—THE COST OF OPERATING a DeLuxe LYNN, due to its nearly perfect combustion obtained through correct design, is also much less than that of operating many cheap and inferior burners, which means that in many cases a DeLuxe LYNN as against an inferior burner, will pay for itself in saving in operation alone in a short period of time.

PRICE BOOSTING

Announcement by several manufacturers of a very important household appliance that prices will be advanced September 1, the amount of the contemplated advance being specified, will cause considerable apprehension on the part of thinking people lest there is indicated here a seriously mistaken policy.

These manufacturers come under a code which will, of course, substantially increase the cost of production. Yet there has always been a widespread conviction that there existed a wide spread between production and consumer prices in their line, and there is considerable question whether they could show that the announced increase in prices is really essential to the profitable conduct of their business. And whether this proposed advance is not in line with a policy which, if followed generally throughout all the industries, would result in defeating the purpose of the National Recovery Act.

The purpose of that act, reduced to its A B C terms, is to increase the purchasing power of the public, with relation to the nation's industrial products, to the point where the people can buy the goods manufactured and thus prevent the accumulation of surpluses and a consequent halt in production. There is only one way in which this effect can be obtained; that is by a scaling down of the spread between production and consumption prices to a point considerably below where it was in 1929. If manufacturers in important lines, who always have enjoyed the benefits of very large gross profits when they could sell goods at all, now attempt to keep the percentage of the gross margin where it was in the boom days, then they will be doing their part not in rehabilitation but in defeating the efforts at rehabilitation.

Many of the reasons attributed as the causes of the depression, while difficult for the lay mind to follow, sum up to the very simple fact of excessive gross profits in some of the largest of industrial lines—those profit-spreads running, in instances, to ten or twenty times the normal profits which many manufacturers would have been glad to accept.

The powers vested in the National Recovery Administration are found, each time the law is re-examined, to be practically unlimited. That they can be extended to the limitation of profit-spreads is beyond question. But that would be using the sharpest teeth in the law—and nothing can be clearer than that the government does not want to employ those teeth unless driven to it.

Price boosters will be well advised to proceed with the utmost care. Insofar as the increases are economically necessary or justifiable they will, of course, be permitted, and should be. But it is inconceivable that importantly large industries shall be allowed to absorb, in the form of unneeded profits, huge blocks of the purchasing power of the nation which, under the system we are striving to establish, should be devoted very largely to the purchase of the things produced by other industries.

Most of these big-profit industries find their opportunity in the protection afforded by the patent laws. If they could not be reached in any other way the government could always touch them in a vulnerable spot by repealing or amending or suspending for a long period of years the patent laws.

basardor Welles that there is no intention of intervention in Cuba by the United States government.

There are interests, some of them American and some of them European, which will not be at all pleased with this development. These interests are extremely anxious that the government at Washington should take over control in Cuba. They are anxious as to what may happen to their investments if Cuba, governing herself according to the popular will, develops liberalism to such a point as to imperil their millions. It looks, however, as if they would have to take their chances.

Not only in the Washington Administration but throughout the country it is being increasingly recognized that the time has come when Cuba must be operated for the benefit of the Cuban people and not for that of foreign groups and foreign capital.

MANY TYPES OF EPILEPSY

Epilepsy comes from the Greek word meaning "seizure" and the term usually refers to falling fits which may be called seizures or convulsions. There are three principal forms of epilepsy. The most severe type is called Grand Mal and during the seizure the patient may fall to the floor, the muscles jerking wildly, the patient frothing at the mouth while unconscious. About ten minutes is the average length of time for a convulsion of this kind to last. The patient is sometimes severely injured during the fall.

The second type of epilepsy is much milder and is called Petit Mal and usually consists of a temporary loss of consciousness without convulsions. The patient may stare straight ahead, forget what he is doing or drop what is in his hands. Sometimes the attacks consist only of dizziness or everything turning temporarily black.

A third type of epilepsy is called Nocturnal Epilepsy and all of the seizures occur at night. A patient may have such attacks for years before he discovers from his bitten tongue and bloodstained pillow that he has them. A patient may have a mixture of several types of epilepsy. Epilepsy may appear in conjunction with and be partially masked by other disorders. In fact, almost all falling fits may come under the heading of epilepsy.

A large percentage of cases develop before the age of fifteen in boys and the age of sixteen in girls. Comparatively few cases develop in later years, and, if you have escaped up to the age of thirty, you will probably never develop this disorder. There is one exception to this and that is the type of epilepsy which follows an injury of the head. In some cases of this type the attacks do not appear until several years after the injury. Experts are pointing out that, as a result of the frequent automobile accidents which bring about severe head shocks, we may expect more of these cases of epilepsy which develop later in life.

Generally the sufferer from epilepsy has not way of telling when he will have another seizure, although in most cases they occur at fairly regular intervals. In cases the fits may occur only a few times in many years or they may return twice a month or oftener. Many men of genius, such as Napoleon and Caesar, are said to have been epileptics. In the past epileptics have been regarded in two ways; by some they were thought to be possessed of devils and by others they were thought to be inspired of Heaven.

Many people become greatly alarmed on observing one in epileptic convulsions, but it is well to realize that very little treatment can be used during a falling fit of the Grand Mal type. Simply see that the patient is comfortable, is given breathing room and that some soft object is placed between the teeth to prevent biting the tongue or inner side of the cheeks. A clean handkerchief is probably the best; however, take care not to injure the gums in trying to insert the object. One does not need to try to stop the seizure as it will stop by itself, and there is nothing that can be read, done to arouse the patient. After the attack the patient should be allowed to sleep if he is able.

People affected with this disorder usually endure keen mental suffering because of it, but the sensible thing is to regard the attacks in much the same way as one would think of a passing discomfort like a toothache, which may interfere with one's work but certainly does not make one an outcast. Many people neglect epilepsy because of the prevalent idea that it is incurable. This is the wrong attitude. I have known of many recoveries even in the most severe of these cases.

(In Monday's article I will tell you something of my theories as to the cause of epilepsy).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Why Not Wholewheat For Meals Toast?)

Question: Mrs. Orville N. writes: "You say, when making Meals toast, to use white bread and cut all the crust away. Why not use whole-wheat and leave crust on the slices?"

Answer: I suggest cutting away the crust as it has already been "toasted" in the original baking of the loaf, and it will burn before the inside of the slice is sufficiently desiccated. The average whole-wheat bread, which is made partly of white flour, may be used in making Meals toast, but the real whole-wheat bread, if toasted through, develops a bitter taste because of the burning of the protein and bran elements. Wholewheat bread only partially toasted makes an excellent food if there is no reason why you should not use the starch which it contains.

(Waterbrash)

Question: Mrs. C. writes: "Will you please tell me what causes waterbrash? It bothers me through the night. Is it some kind of indigestion, and what do you think would stop it?"

Answer: Waterbrash usually comes from overeating or using liquids with your meals. Try cutting down on the amount of food you are using at dinner and do not use any liquids at all after three o'clock in the afternoon.

(Definition of Arthritis)

Question: Peter H. asks: "What is arthritis—what are its causes? Everyone seems to have a different definition of it."

Answer: Arthritis simply means rheumatism in the joints. Acute inflammatory rheumatism is sometimes found in the muscles, but most rheumatism, including arthritis, comes from a deposit of rheumatic toxins in the joints.

MILK "SETTLEMENT"

On the face of it, it is good news that the threatened strike of milk producers in this state has been called off. Announcement that the Board of Milk Control and the state committee of the Farmers National Association have reached at least a temporary agreement provides such an assurance against extreme measures as will gratify those citizens who have been a little nervous over the prospect of a possible repetition, here, of the unpleasant scenes that have accompanied milk strikes in various parts of the country.

But there is one factor in the situation whose interest appears to have been altogether overlooked in this so-called settlement. It is possible that, because of this forgetfulness, the settlement may not, after all, settle matters as completely or as permanently as the conferring parties appear to hope. That factor is the consumer.

In the series of conferences which resulted in the week-end truce between wholesale dealers, producers and the Milk Board, so far as we have been able to gather, no one represented the consumer—and apparently no one thought about him. Yet the whole milk problem of farmer, "milk trust," independent and state board revolves directly around the unconsidered individual whose dimes and pennies finance the industry.

This individual, who heretofore has been assured that the farmer was fighting alongside him for lower retail prices as well as better production prices, learns that he is compelled, by the laws of the State of Connecticut, to pay 14 cents a quart for his milk, while the people of Massachusetts have to pay only 12 and those of New York 13 cents, also by law—and everybody is satisfied with the arrangement. Everybody but Mr. and Mrs. Consumer.

It is axiomatic that no public question is ever settled until it is settled right. Nine out of ten people in this state are connected with the milk business only in the consumer capacity. The Milk Board, the Farmers National Committee, the growers and the dealers may just as well realize now as later the fact that those nine-tenths of the state's population are not going to submit willingly to a jockeyed price-fixing which makes them pay, as nearly as we can learn, a higher price for the same grade of milk than any other community in the United States.

It takes no seer to forecast the result of this sort of "settlement." The farmers' strike has faded. But unless this settlement is followed by a buyers' strike against the extortionate price fixed by the Board of Milk Control for the fluid at retail it will be surprising indeed.

The public as a whole has only an academic interest in milk surplus, pools, allocation of production, etc. It has the very liveliest personal interest in the difference between Massachusetts' price and New York's price for fluid milk and the price which has been saddled on it, first by the Milk Board and now by the dicker with the producers' committee, in Connecticut.

The consequence is inevitable. People will cut down their milk orders to the lowest possible notch. The demand for fluid milk will fall off. In a very short time the farmers, with a growing surplus, and the big dealers, with a lessened demand, will be at each other's throats again.

Meantime the political party whose administration brought about this Board of Milk Control and headed it with an individual whose interest in the milk business is that of a profit seeking middleman, is creating an issue which will carry itself with extreme force into every

"BIG BUSINESS" MORALS

The people of this country are receiving, just at this time, the most illuminating demonstration ever given of the moral quality of "big business" as it has come to be in recent decades. There is a desperately ugly spirit of revolt against the National Recovery Act in the soft coal industry, among the oil corporations, in the steel industry and in the offices of Henry Ford. Muted threats are being made of injunctions, appeals to the courts, against the validity of the Recovery Act itself—though it must be obvious to even the most purblind of the remonstrants that the invalidation of the act would, if such invalidation were possible, throw the nation into such a state of chaos as no one in America has ever visualized even in nightmare.

Yet in their atavistic self-centeredness there are "big business men" who would take the risk of bringing this whole structure, down in ruin rather than to yield part of their accustomed power. Well, let them try it. They will find that the actual court of last resort in this country consists of a jury of a hundred and twenty-five million people. There are ways of handling courts, if it becomes necessary to save the nation from them. And there are always airplanes, as Senor Machado found, to carry "big business men" out of a country too hot to hold them.

MISS PERKINS IS EFFECTIVE ON STEEL CODE

Secretary of Labor Advocates More Liberal Treatment For Men in Mills

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 14—Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins regarded her appearance before the NRA steel hearing as the biggest moment in her career to date.

So did her friends.

They thought she performed rather magnificently as she bearded the steel barons, attacked the labor section of their code, assailed their every argument in defense and urged an advanced labor program upon America's great basic industry.

Anyway, it was the first time a cabinet member had ever entered the industrial arena in a major capacity. Finally she went to steel mills for a first-hand glimpse.

Labor's Representative

Miss Perkins was keeping her promise to make her department a debating end, her own job one of representing labor in the nation's councils.

She had worked long and carefully in preparation for the steel hearing. Her statisticians had primed her with facts and figures which she recited off frequently without benefit of manuscript. She engaged Prof. Paul H. Douglas, famous Chicago expert on wages and industrial relations, to make a month's study of the steel labor situation. Finally she went to steel mills for a first-hand glimpse.

Leadership Urged

Even Myron Taylor of U. S. Steel and Eugene Grace of Bethlehem joined the prolonged handclapping as she finished.

She argued deftly and persuasively. Steel, instead of coming with a code granting new privileges while offering little to labor and less to a recovery program based on purchasing power, must take the lead in the New Deal. Its payrolls had dropped from $731,000,000 in 1929 to $166,000,000 in 1932; half its 420,000 workers of 1929 were unemployed last March. It was a situation, she said, that the $3,300,000,000 public works expenditure.

Labor's Share Smaller

In 1927-28 added value of its products was $70 millions, of which a dwindling share of 88 millions went to labor.

So the 40 hours and a northern 40-cent an hour minimum—would make $16 a week or $832 for 52 full weeks? Well, the average steel worker's 1929 income was $1700. The foundation laid for steel would affect most industries.

Miss Perkins came without customary white metal feather around her black hat. Only a small necklace and an artificial flower relieved the all-black costume which she wears through the hearing. She alternately used and played with pince-nez which hung from a cord about her neck.

She has a clear voice, a deep, full pronunciation of words and a convincing quietness. "I suggest," she begins, and then kicks a wage or hour proposal far out the window.

An effective Speaker

No more effective woman speaker has been seen in Washington. She deviates from paraphrase and extensively elaborates her prepared statements, but only with the effect of enriching her delivery as her mind pours out new thoughts.

In contrast was Robert E. Lamont, Hoover's secretary of commerce who represented the industry. Lamont said:

"The general theory is that business will be carried on as it always has been."

SHIPS TO CUBA

If it was necessary to send warships to Cuba at this highly critical juncture—and unquestionably it was—two facts in connection with that operation will strike most Americans favorably: Only destroyers were sent, vessels incapable of carrying large detachments of Marines and too lightly armed to place Havana, in the traditional manner, "under the frowning guns" of the United States Navy. Also, in his announcement of the dispatching of the ships President Roosevelt makes it specifically clear that the expedition is undertaken solely for the purpose of safeguarding and protecting "the lives and persons" of American citizens in Cuba.

There is in this a notable absence of the customary provision for the "protection of American interests," which on so many occasions in the past has been cited as an excuse for a display of naval or military power in foreign waters and on foreign soil.

"American interests" in such circumstances may mean anything. "Lives and persons" are definite terms. The Cubans, beyond doubt, will be quick to appreciate this. They will appreciate, too, the sincerity of the declaration made both at the White House and by Am-

IN NEW YORK

A New Yorker's impression of people and events on the European scene will be given to you by Julia Blanchard, co-author of "The Herald in New York" column, who now is overseas on a roving assignment. Here's a column of salty gossip she picked up en route to France.

By JULIA BLANSHARD

Paris, Aug. 14—Yesterday, today and tomorrow are epitomized in Captain Barthelmy's quarters on the bridge of the French liner Champlain.

In his modernistic living room, stands a little wooden model that he himself carved, of the first lighthouse in the world. It is a tiny 12th century sailing vessel with a tall mica enclosed holder for 19 candles. This crude ship, stowed anchored at the entrance to the English Channel three centuries before Columbus discovered America.

On the bridge a "ticker tape" automatically writes the depth of the water every three seconds. An automatic compass holds the wheel in its course through fog and darkness. A contrivance stands nearby which, with one pull of Captain Barthelmy's strong hand, divides the ship into seven airtight compartments, in the emergency of a heavy fog and a collision with another ship. If water should get into five of those seven compartments, the ship still would float.

On his desk are radio reports of the Italian air fleet crossing the Atlantic for the second time, the receptions given Wiley Post, the condition of the Molliions and reports of just where the Lindberghs and other flyers are.

Rules on Sea Nuptials

The French take marriage more seriously than Americans. No couple can be married aboard a French boat unless their names have been duly published. In his line, Captain Barthelmy has never performed a marriage ceremony.

World From a Crow's-Nest

To realize that the earth really is round, you should see the Atlantic from the crow's nest of the Champlain. Take 101 steps straight up an iron ladder, inside a cylinder, and you emerge alone in the azure blue of the heavens. The horizon no longer seems to rise, as it does from the ship's deck. East, south, west and north form one vast circle. It is as if you were on the outside of a huge globe, with the curved sides falling away from you. "On top of the world," literally. No ship in sight. The water azure blue. The noon whistle blowing just behind you sounds like a blast from the very center of the earth. Nothing but the Captain's personal warning over the little telephone in the crow's nest, keeps you from feeling terror.

From Sea-going Family

Captain Barthelmy is the son of a son of a captain. His retired Captain Father lives in the south of France. When Captain Barthelmy retires in four years, at the age of

GARDEN TO TRY OUT A NEW EXPERIMENT

New York, Aug. 14—(AP)—A couple of interesting young heavyweights, Patey Perrone of Cleveland and the inky Spaniard, Isodoro Castana, will help Madison Square Garden experiment Thursday night with the theory that people will come indoors in the summer to see a fight if its cool enough inside.

If Perrone and Castana draw enough to make it profitable the Garden plans weekly shows the remainder of the summer.

The Garden bout heads a modest schedule for the week throughout the country. Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia, flyweight champion, boxes Pete Sanstol of Norway, ten rounds in an overweight match here Tuesday. The rest of the top-notchers are idle.

"Manufacturers of yarns meet to discuss a code of ethics," says a Washington dispatch. It develops, however, that those present were not fishermen, but textile makers.

It may be years before such low prices can prevail again.

Here's what one manufacturer* writes about new prices, "Actually operating, as we are, under the so-called Blanket Code of the Nationally Industrial Recovery Act, we find it necessary to make an advance in our prices effective immediately of 25%."

Regardless of advancing prices in every line... furniture, floor coverings and draperies... every one-of-a-kind floor sample of Watkins Fine Furniture (all purchased at the very lowest prices) has been reduced for Semi-Annual Sale. Probably not in our lifetime can such low prices prevail again!

Senator Huey's Opponents Use Louisiana Vote Frauds to Dethrone 'Smart Guy.'

New Orleans—"There may be smarter guys than I am, but they ain't in Louisiana!" Huey Pierce Long swaggered a little when he said that.

It's pretty evident by now that there are smarter guys than Huey—in Washington—and the investigation of last November's election, now in full swing here, begins to make it look as though there may be smarter guys than Huey right here in New Orleans.

When Huey left for Washington in January of 1932, he left behind a perfect machine, every attack beaten, every opponent humbled. He had done all he could do for Louisiana, he announced, and was about to render comparable service to the nation.

But the monkeyshines which kept the voters of Louisiana in one Long uproar failed to amuse the United States Senate. Huey was given a small office. He roared. He was jockeyed off important committees. His unquestionably keen mind won him some friends, and he got in some good licks in debate on important measures.

But he gradually alienated even those who wanted to be friendly. They found no character, no stability, no dependability in Long. His bluster attempts to give the impression that he had been telling President Roosevelt what to do, and his patronizing approval of the president, fooled nobody.

His recent trip to Washington, to line up his patronage, resulted only in appointment of Walter J. Burke to the Public Works Advisory Board and appointment of other anti-Long men to similar state jobs.

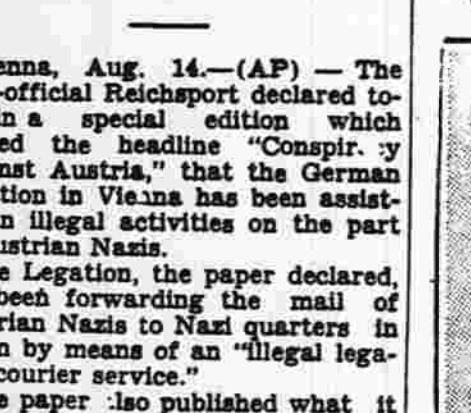

Long's demand that the government speed up work on the Mississippi River bridge fell on deaf ears. And a certain report of federal investigators on Huey's income tax remains undisturbed in government files.

It looks as though there are smarter guys—in Washington. Tampering Proved. But even here in New Orleans, the Kingfish will find it hard to wriggle out of the mess in which certain of his own fellow-citizens have involved him now.

Further, the U. S. Senate committee which has already partially finished an investigation of alleged election frauds in Louisiana, has said it soon plans to continue its probe. Thus there is ample reason for the long secret conferences Long has been holding far into the night at his hotel quarters here.

It is the belief here that should anybody "get anything on Long," his highly-personal machine would collapse all over the state. Few of even his most intimate political cronies have any deep love for Huey. He has ridden them all pretty rough.

Little Love for Huey.

If this happens, it will be the end of one of the most remarkable machines ever built in this country. Huey Long was born to poverty and lifted himself to a position of a salesman's personality, a lack of burdening scruples, and a genius for action, to heights where there was nothing to which he might not have aspired.

His record as governor here is truly remarkable. He did a lot for Louisiana, and to it. He promised to "get the state out of the mud."

But he built a machine. He "bought" the local New Orleans machine, originally against him, with "perpetual" grants to the city from state funds.

The speaker was of the belief that every householder should have a good revolver and know how to use it. He stressed the point that users of firearms should obtain instructions from good teachers.

CONN. MILK STRIKE HAS BEEN CALLED OFF

(Continued from Page One) The farmers committee, who did not subscribe to the strike, threw his influence on both parties to bring final settlement after a day and night of conferences yesterday at his home in New Milford.

The state board drew up a plan of control providing a price of 7 3/4 cents a quart for a four per cent milk to producers at market centers, a quota system for fixing the production for each farmer, and the selling of surplus milk at public auction.

The program called also for gathering of statistics on the milk surplus, to be made available to the public, regulation of costs to haulage and a continuance of the price to consumers of 14 cents a quart until further inquiry should be made.

This plan the full committee of the Farmers National Association voted to accept. A resolution was immediately adopted: "That, we the committee, now call off the strike of milk producers, called for Thursday, August 17, 1933, and urge all milk producers to support the plan adopted by the Board of Milk Control."

The full force of state authorities was employed to stop the strike before it started. Governor Wilbur L. Cross said every means would be used to prevent it.

WOULD NOT JOIN ASSOCIATION, CLAIMING CONTROL OF MORE THAN FIFTY PER CENT OF THE STATE'S MILK SUPPLY.

The Connecticut Milk Producers Association, claiming control of more than fifty per cent of the state's milk supply, termed the summons to the holiday the work of "an irresponsible committee of three men," and said its members would not join the strike.

And as a solution neared, Olcott F. King, state commissioner of agriculture, issued an appeal: "I implore every dairy farmer to avoid a milk strike for the good of himself, the industry and the state."

Professor Beard said of the control program: "It means that for the first time, we have positive machinery to put daylight through this whole problem, and to place the milk business in its rightful position—that of a bona-fide public utility."

NINE POINT PROGRAM

New Haven, Aug. 14.—(AP)—The nine points, drawn up by the State Milk Control Board and accepted by the Farmers National Association, to end the milk crisis:

1.—The regulation of milk production and distribution requires price fixing for producers, distributors and consumers.

2.—The unit of price is the quart of whole milk.

3.—The butter fat base is four per cent.

4.—The price to producers at market centers is 7 3/4 cents per quart of fluid milk.

5.—A quota shall be fixed on the basis of production for the previous year, and estimated needs of dealers for the coming year.

6.—With respect to surplus: Defined all milk over and above the dealers average daily needs for fluid milk. A quota shall be fixed on the basis of production for the previous year, and estimated needs of dealers for the coming year.

7.—With respect to surplus: Defined all milk over and above the dealers average daily needs for fluid milk. A quota shall be fixed on the basis of production for the previous year, and estimated needs of dealers for the coming year.

8.—The above rules shall apply to all producers, meaning producer-dealers as well as producers.

9.—The price of 14 cents to the consumer shall stand until further inquiry and the Board of Milk Control will hear the producers' committee at any convenient date on the argument to show that the spread allowed to distributors by this price is too large.

HOBOS DRAW UP CODE OF ETHICS

Will Refuse To Wash Dishes But Will Chop a Little Wood.

Chicago, Aug. 14.—(AP)—While they lost no time in drawing up a code of fair practice, the hoboes of America as represented at their annual convention find modern conditions none too attractive for their profession.

The big complaint was against present day construction of box cars. "Riding the rods" has become even too hazardous for the veteran "Boes what with the new single rods and the high trucks now in use, they lamented.

But the Hoboes still scorn the hitch hiker and do not seek something for nothing. Jeff Davis, of Cincinnati, "King of the Hoboes," Joseph Routt, New York and his father, James Routt, of San Francisco drew up the code for the itinerant workmen as they call themselves. It provides: Hoboes will not wash dishes or otherwise work in a restaurant for meals—which might take work away from a man with a family.

Pay for cleaning snow off walks shall be 50 cents an hour and the same rate applies to shoveling coal or cleaning windows.

Hoboes may chop some wood on farms in exchange for a bed in the barn or a meal but shall not chop all day for those rewards. The delegates attending the annual convention, the 25th of the organized hoboes but chary nonetheless in its display of silver, represented 50,000 votes from the principal "jungles" of the country at Centralia, Wash., Battle Creek, Mich., Jersey City, New Orleans, Van Buren, Ark., and Chicago with Jack Muts-Baurer of Nurnberg, Germany, delegate-in-chief from Europe.

COMMISSIONER KING PLEADS FOR PATIENCE

Says Milk Strike Would Do No Good And Would Harm The Industry.

Hartford, Aug. 14.—Commissioner of Agriculture Olcott F. King in a state-wide plea to dairy farmers urged them to give serious thought to the consequences which would result from a milk strike or holiday.

The Commissioner, a large dairy and tobacco farmer, knows the serious plight of the dairy industry but falls to see where a milk strike can do anything but harm to an industry that is already severely injured.

The Commissioner said in part: "As a dairy farmer and one who has complete sympathy for all those engaged in the production of milk, I implore every dairy farmer to avoid a milk strike for the good of himself, the industry and the state. We have before us in a neighboring state an example which should guide our actions. Bloodshed, strife and a wasteful waste of one of our most valuable food products has been a part of Connecticut's history."

"Every Connecticut Yankee can look back and proudly point to the fact that while we have had problems as momentous as those in other states, we have solved them without resorting to violence. I would not ask to have this tradition continued just for the sake of keeping up an old custom but I am firmly convinced that arbitration will accomplish more lasting results than violence."

"Milk is a necessity of life and just as soon as we stop delivering it from Connecticut farms it will be imported from other sources. One thousand or even 10,000 dairy farmers cannot hope to cope with more than a million and a half consumers. We have the sympathy of the consumers at present who have demonstrated a willingness to pay more for milk in order that the farmer might receive a larger income. However, if a strike is enforced and milk required by thousands of Connecticut children and invalids is dumped in the gutters, farmers who participate in such a strike will have made one of their greatest mistakes; they will have lost the sympathy of the consumer upon whom they depend for a living.

It is difficult to ask harassed and financially embarrassed farmers to have patience but I sincerely believe it to be the only sound way out of our present dilemma. I would beseech every dairy farmer to have a little more patience and when the day set for the milk holiday arrives, give an expression of confidence in those men working through legislative authority to alleviate the condition so that his whole matter may be settled without violence and the confidence of the farmer's only customer—the consumer—be retained. A little of that spirit of real co-operation which we talk so much about but seldom practice is more necessary at the present than strife and warfare."

AMUSEMENTS

STATE THEATER

"Mary Stevens, M. D." For the first time in seven pictures, in "Mary Stevens, M.D.," now at the State Theater, Kay Francis wears her hair the way she wore it when she first entered pictures. That was in "Gentlemen of the Press," in which Kay's raven tresses were combed straight back from her face, with the famous "widow's peak" in full view.

Strangely enough, with that hair comb, Kay was rated as a most seductive vamp. Now, in "Mary Stevens, M.D.," she does it the same way to appear business like! Between the two pictures, she has worn her hair parted in the middle, and waved softly backwards into a series of graded curls, studio make-up artists having decided that was more suitable for the romantic leads she has been playing.

In "Mary Stevens, M.D.," Kay's latest Warner Bros. picture, in which she as the title role as a woman doctor, she has Lyle Talbot for leading man, while others in the cast are Glenda Farrell, Thelma Todd, Harold Huber and Christian Rub.

The plot of "Mary Stevens, M.D.," carries a glowing romance as well as stirring drama. It is based on the novel by Virginia Kellogg and adapted to the screen by Rian James. Lloyd Bacon directed.

OPEN FORUM

A REMINISCENCE

Editor, The Herald,

While memories of the late Charles E. House are fresh in the minds of very many who learned to love and esteem him for the fine qualities of his sterling character, and to appreciate his kindness, and interest in the welfare of individuals and the town at large, may I have a little space, through your courtesy, Mr. Editor, to chronicle a little matter of thoughtful kindness on his part to myself some four years ago, when I sought through your columns to show the difficulties in the way of promoting the righteous cause of prohibition. I used a trio of words I once heard a preacher use away down in Washington county, Rhode Island. "The Three A's" which prevent the advancement of the cause of true temperance are Appetite, Avarice, and Apathy. The first applies to the slaves of an unnatural and artificial craving for the poison alcohol; the second to those men who for the sake of money gladly make the stuff that ruins so many of their fellow-men; the third class includes all who through discouragement or the lying propaganda of the wets do not take enough interest to go to the polls and vote against that which they know is one of the greatest curses which ever afflicted mankind. I recall the "Herald" was kind enough to print all of what surprised me as taking much more space than I had thought. Within a couple of hours after the issue in which the article appeared was scattered over town, my telephone rang, and I found it was Mr. House speaking. He said, "I have just read your article in the paper, read every word of it, and endorse it heartily."

Such a commendation from such a source was a very encouraging to me, and plainly showed on which side he stood on this most important question. —W. D. Woodward.

"A REAL MAN" By George W. Richards, Jr. Age 13, of Wapping

A real man is the kind of a man who is honest, kind, and true. He is big and strong and muscular and tender hearted, too. He does his work, and he does it well. And he keeps away from the road to hell. He takes the long and narrow path. While others never care. In the end he reaches happiness. The others reach despair.

ENGINEER APPOINTED

Bridgeport, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Leslie A. Hoffman, Bridgeport engineer appointed as advisory engineer for the Connecticut and Rhode Island public works boards, opened his office in a suite adjoining the state board offices this morning. The salary is $5,000.

Mr. Hoffman indicated that he will begin study of the engineering nature of nearly 100 public works proposals already submitted to the board by communities in all parts of the state, requesting an outlay of more than $40,000,000 in Federal funds. He indicated that his first report will be ready within a week, and Mr. McNeil said that projects approved by the engineer would be speedily referred to regional headquarters and to Washington for final approval.

AUTOIST EXONERATED

Cromwell, Conn., Aug. 14.—(AP)—Anson S. Ward of this town, fatally hurt by a car driven by Miss Catherine M. Costello, church organist, on the night of Aug. 3 met death through his own stubbornness. Coroner L. A. Smith indicated in a finding today exonerating Miss Costello from criminal blame.

The coroner had found from his inquest that Ward, who was 73, had persisted in telling friends he had as much right to the highway as autoists, and would not give way to them. He was accustomed to walk with his head down, while on the highway. He persistently preferred to walk in the roadway, the coroner learned, and would take no precautions to safeguard himself.

BREAKS TRADITION

Philadelphia, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Hans Kandler, conductor of the National symphony orchestra of Washington, has thrown to the winds a tradition so cherished that Albert Coates, British conductor, went down in defeat rather than submit. He led a concert in Robin Hood Dell in shirt-sleeves.

Year after year guest conductors in the summer concerts at the dell, Coates, acutely affected by the heat on one occasion, gave up the concert rather than take off his coat.

Last night it was different. Kandler's expansive gestures swung unhampered, and the audience liked it.

BLUE SHIRTS RECRUITING

Dublin, Irish Free State, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Officers of the Blue Shirt National Guard, which was prevented by government order from holding a demonstration yesterday, began recruiting operations today on a large scale. General Owen O'Duffy, who is directing the campaign, sent officers to all the principal centers. At Dublin headquarters it was said the organization had every hope of doubling its 40,000 membership within a week, thus making it possible to present a big front in the church parades scheduled for next Sunday in every district of the Free State.

For the LOVE of EVE. by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY
EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, secretly married DICK RADEE, a construction engineer. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

Eve wore the gown of pale gold lace that she had worn on her visit to the night club.

The same day Eve learns that she is to go to New York for the store and must leave that night. Dick takes her to the station but throughout the week in New York she has no word from him.

On her return to Lake City Dick takes Eve to the fashionable Hotel Miramar where he has engaged a suite. At the office MARYA VLAD, fashion artist, and ABELENE SMITH, stenographer, are eager to hear of Eve's trip. There is a new copy writer, MONA ALLEN, who threatens to become a trouble-maker.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII
Eve and Dick stayed at the Hotel Miramar for a week. They usually dined in the marine dining room overlooking the lake. Eve enjoyed the formality of their surroundings and each evening wore a different costume. She had a fair for clothes and was aware that, though many of the women about her were gowned more expensively, few wore smarter costumes.

"Dick," she began enthusiastically the fourth night of their stay at the Miramar. "I've an idea." "You're full of ideas," teased Dick. "What is it now?" "Let's always dress for dinner. There's no reason why people who have fortunes should monopolize all the niceties of life. It's fun to change into evening clothes for dinner. Don't you think so?"

"M-m," answered Dick. "Then we'll do it always! Oh as I do. You're a perfect dear Dick, I'm so glad you see things to agree with me all the time! I'd hate to have just an ordinary husband. You will let me plan everything the way I want it, won't you, dear?"

"M-m," answered Dick. After dinner he suggested going out to watch the skating. They put on warm wraps and trudged through the snow over the deserted bridge path to the lake.

"Reminds me of the lake at home," said Dick. "I'd like to be out on the ice now. Haven't skated for too long and I never seemed to have money to buy new ones."

"Oh, Dick," Eve interrupted him. "I've just had a grand idea for the lead for my column tomorrow! I can't wait to write it. See the red and white outfit that girl is wearing? It gave me the idea. Here she comes now. Why, as I live and breathe, it's Gladys Rippledick. Let's leave. I want to keep our marriage a secret we can't afford to be meeting people we know."

Eve turned back toward the hotel and Dick followed reluctantly. He would have enjoyed skating in the moonlight on the frozen edge of the lake.

He took Eve's arm to keep her from slipping on the icy walk. "Eve, sweetheart," he said, "I don't like keeping our marriage a secret. As far as I'm concerned there are few to whom it matters, but you, dear, have so many friends in the city that it is bound to cause complications. I'm thinking of my position," she said. "We'll announce it later." With this Dick had to be content.

Each morning he drove to "the job" before 7:30, in her smart black business clothes, boarded an eight o'clock trolley. She never glanced at the morning Times until she reached the older district of the city where the streets were lined with stores and office buildings. Instead she looked at the beautiful homes along the boulevard over which she rode. Eve wondered about the people who lived in those houses and was sure she could never be contented until she had such a home. The apartment at the hotel would do, however, she told herself, until she and Dick could afford a home like one of those.

Her promotion at the office had not brought with it the satisfaction Eve had expected. She had not realized how much Alice Marshall had smoothed her way and made things easy for her.

Eve was particularly annoyed by Barnes' habitual tardiness in deciding how much space was to be devoted to each advertisement. This delay often made it necessary for her to prepare her copy at speed making careful work impossible. Inevitably there came a day when she was obliged to remain an hour over time.

True, Barnes and Arlene were also detained, but that did not lessen Eve's resentment. She knew that if Barnes had been prompt the work easily could have been completed by 5:30, the store's closing hour.

Eve was anxious not to give Dick any cause to resent her work. She suspected that secretly he cherished an ideal of a some-keeping wife who would be watching for him at the window when he came each evening. Dick's work kept him outdoors much of the time and he always arrived with a healthy appetite. He seldom was ready for dinner before seven. This evening it was nearly eight, but Dick did not complain.

Saturday night came and the hotel held its weekly dinner dance. Eve wore the gown of pale gold lace that she had worn on her visit to the night club in New York with Theron Reece.

As she turned from the mirror she called to Dick: "I'm so happy, dear! I think this is the most adorable place to live. And I love dressing for dinner." "It would be nice if we could stay on here," Dick agreed. "But I suppose since tomorrow is Sunday we can drive around and try to locate a place to settle in."

Something froze in Eve. She asked, ever so quietly, what Dick's plans were.

"We'll have to find a place within my income," he told her. "But we have two incomes!" "We're not counting on anything you may earn," Dick announced with finality. "Your money is yours to do with as you please. If I were you I'd bank that money. You may do as you like, however. I'll never question you about it. But I am going to support our homes on my income and I will endeavor to add to our savings each payday."

Eve was not in the most pleasant frame of mind as they descended to the dining room. She had been enjoying the luxury of the past week and saw no reason why she and Dick should not combine their incomes and continue this mode of living which, she felt, would leave them free from the petty cares of the average young married couple. "Dick," she began after the waiter took their order, "I don't want to argue but it seems only fair to remind you that we agreed marriage is a fifty-fifty proposition. So I want to pay my share." "Successful marriage is always a fifty-fifty proposition," Dick agreed. "But that doesn't necessarily apply to finances the way you mean. I should say it is important for each always to meet the other half way. What I mean is, turn for turn and fair play."

Eve recalled Dick's noncommittal, "M-m," each time she had thought she had scored a victory. She took her cue and said, "Let's have a marriage free from quarrels, too, Dick. Each of us will always think of the other's side of the question, won't we?" "That's the only kind of a marriage I will have," he answered with emphasis.

Eve was determined to enjoy the present and let the future take care of itself. No need to hurry in locating another apartment where she would meet that unpleasant contingency when it arrived.

So she smiled brightly and said, "In the meantime on with the dance."

They danced between courses. It was not until after they had finished dinner that Eve saw Theron Reece. He had just entered the dining room with a vivacious looking girl. The couple lost no time in getting on the dance floor. Reece's glance swept the restaurant and he saw Eve at once. She looked away but the crowd was not large and before the dance was concluded she was forced to return Reece's nod of recognition. Evidently he was determined to continue their acquaintance. A shadow of apprehension clouded Eve's sky. She hoped Reece had not noticed her wedding ring. "Let's go now, Dick," she said when they returned to their table.

YOUR CHILDREN By Olive Roberts Barton

"TEASERS" MAY BECOME TROUBLE-MAKERS UNLESS DISCIPLINED IN TIME
"Joseph, let the dog alone. How would you like to be teased the way you tease him?" "I was just playing." "Well, think up some other way to play." So Joseph thought up another way. Little Carl's kiddy-car stood on the walk next door. Joseph went over, gave it a push and it rolled down the terrace. Carl began to cry. "Baby! Can't you take a little fun? Go and tell your mama. Cry baby—can't take any fun." "Pick up the car and bring it back, Joseph. It isn't nice to tease children."

He went his way. He spotted a ball game and watched his chance. The ball went into some bushes; he found it and put it in his shirt. For half an hour the boys hunted, then gave up the game and went home. On his own steps again Joseph inspected the ball. When the last boy had left the plot he slipped back and dropped the ball where he had found it. He didn't want it—all he wanted was to break up the game.

He agreed without asking any questions. But Reece was not to be disposed of so rapidly. He approached, and said, "Good evening, Miss Bayless." Eve felt a sudden panic but managed to introduce the men without disclosing the fact that Dick was her husband. Before Reece could begin conversation she arose for another dance with Dick. After all, she reasoned, it was not strange that Reece should be there. Much business was conducted between Lake City and Cincinnati and Reece, a salesman, lived in the latter place. The marine dining room of the Hotel Miramar was an attractive restaurant and it was natural for him to dine there. But Eve felt she wanted to leave the Miramar before her joy was spoiled. So she said to Dick, "I think, darling, it might be fun to look for an apartment tomorrow. We will get up early and not lose any time."

She could not resist one guarded glance toward Reece's table as Dick guided her toward the door. There was something sinister in Reece's dark eyes as his glance met and locked with hers.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF By Alicia Hart

You should play a matching game in this business of being beautiful. An eminent cosmetician asserts that there is no use in using the correct powder if you apply it over a powder base that matches neither the tone of your skin nor the shade of the powder. There are new foundation lotions which match the shade of your powder. You apply them to your nose and chin and forehead in the same manner in which you use any other foundation lotion or vanishing cream. The idea, to say the least, is practical. They save your powder from having to bear all the responsibility of a well-made-up face.

Sweater Of A Different Stripe!

Patricia Ellis wears a new type of sports sweater. It is an imported model, knitted in stripes and trimmed with white piping. Tucked into a linen skirt, it's just about the slickest vacation ensemble a girl possibly could have. Patricia's gloves are also of white-pique to match the collar on the sweater.

There are few people who can do without a foundation lotion of some kind. Whether your skin is oily, dry or normal is immaterial. Powder stays on much longer and blends more smoothly if you put it on over a foundation. To delve further into the matching scheme of things, there should be complete harmony between your rouge and lipstick. Rouge and lipstick the color of your blood is best. Obviously, the color of your lips and the color of your cheeks have about the same underlying tones. Let your rouge and lipstick match as nearly as possible. For evening, particularly, there should be some harmony between your hands and arms. In powdering your arms and wrists, don't forget about your hands. The shades of your cosmetics should vary with the colors of the clothes in your wardrobe. If you wear only colors that you know are becoming to you, one lipstick, one rouge and two powders (one for evening and one for daytime) are adequate. But if you love to experiment with various colored dresses and exotic shaded sweaters, you will need several complete sets of cosmetics. Many women who believe that they can't wear pastel colors, either for day or evening, might be able to if they would change their makeup to suit the pastel shades. No matter what your natural complexion may be, never wear white or flesh colored powder with pastels or white frocks. A medium dark, creamy powder is what you need. Remember that dull finish powders are best—regardless of what you are wearing or where you are wearing it. Wear a rouge that is slightly pinkish with an underlying shade of orange. The combifrom these pests to animals or human beings in search of blood. The tick, once on the body, does not begin feeding promptly, but usually looks first for a place that will be suitable, including especially the back of the head or the arm pits. In avoiding infection by the bite of the tick it is necessary, of course, to avoid the ticks to get them off the body as soon as possible, and in case one is going into an area in which Rocky Mountain spotted fever is fairly frequent, to be vaccinated against the disease. The safest camping grounds are those in places where low vegetation is scanty. Unswart camping grounds are those in which the bedding is placed directly on the ground and in areas thick with sage-brush. Clothing, such as high boots and leggings, or socks worn outside the trouser legs, help to keep the ticks from getting into contact with the body. The U. S. Public Health Service has prepared a vaccine which is useful in preventing infections with Rocky Mountain spotted fever.

Rocky Mountain spotted fever is spread to human beings by the bite of infected ticks, particularly wood ticks and dog ticks. These appear early in the spring, and most numerous during May, June and July, and disappear rapidly during August. The ticks develop on long grass and bushes and

WHEN SPAIN RULED ON THE WEST COAST
"Miss of Monterey" Tells Of Old Days In California

By BRUCE CATTON
There is an indestructible aura of romance hanging over the era of Spanish occupation of California. Here was an alien civilization, isolated and remote, colorful and stately, which grew up parallel with the rise of our own republic and which got submerged when the republic finally overflowed beyond the mountains. It will probably be a gold mine for writers for many years to come.

The newest book to exploit that field is "Miss of Monterey," by Virginia Stivers Bartlett. It is an excellent and entertaining example of the romantic-historical novel. The events described take place in the latter part of the eighteenth century, when Fray Junipero Serra was dotting California with missions and Monterey was capital of one of Spain's arid provinces. We are introduced to the governor of California, an ardent adventurer who has fallen irrevocably in love with that land—as so many people have done since—and who will be perfectly happy if only he can get his young wife to join him there. The young wife arrives on the scene at last. But the charm of California escapes her! She wants the elaborate culture of Mexico City; Monterey impresses her as a scraggly wilderness outpost. California is a lonely waste and, if people are half-civilized wanderers, her life is one long struggle to get back to Mexico. In that struggle she wastes her own life and almost destroys her husband's happiness; and in the end California is too much for her. The land wins she loses. Published by Bobbs-Merrill, this book is priced at $3.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

YOU'LL FIND NOURISHMENT IN THESE COLD DRINKS. By Sister Mary NEA Service Writer.

Heat pouring down from the relentless sun does something to our appetites, and special foods are needed to tempt us. The nourishing drink that makes a complete meal when served with sandwiches in variety solves many a difficult meal problem satisfactorily and appetizingly. Chocolate is a universal favorite for cold beverages but there are any number of other flavors that are available. Fruit juice, spices, vanilla, almond, pistachio, caramel, maple—in fact, anything you may fancy can be combined with milk to make a refreshing and nourishing drink. The syrup from preserves and jam as well as jelly adds more flavors to the list. Milk alone or milk and eggs is used with the chosen syrup. Of course powdered, condensed and evaporated milks can be used with as good results as if fresh milk were used. Keep in mind that no sugar will be necessary in the drink made with condensed milk. Remember, too, that the drink made without egg is not as rich in food value as the one made with egg.

It's a good idea to keep a few cans of evaporated milk in the refrigerator all the time. Fruit juices combine splendidly with the undiluted milk to make healthful and delicious food drinks. Pineapple Shakes. One cup chilled pineapple juice, 1-3 cup chilled evaporated milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, chilled ice. Add pineapple juice to milk and shake hard. Add ice and lemon juice and shake. The rule makes two servings. Any fruit juice can be used in the same way. This drink with a cookie makes it quite unnecessary to serve dessert for a family luncheon or supper.

Orange Eggnog. One egg, 2 oranges, 1 cup chilled milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, few grains salt, crushed ice. Squeeze juice from oranges and grate rind. Add rind to juice and let stand while preparing other ingredients. Separate yolk from whites of egg. Beat yolk with sugar and add strained juice. Beat well and add milk and salt. Mix thoroughly and fold in white of egg beaten until stiff. Be sure to chill orange and egg as well as milk before mixing. This rule makes two servings. When you serve a drink made with egg you are adding 70 calories of protein and fat as well as vitamins and minerals to the usual glass of milk. This is the case when a whole egg is used for each person.

Tomorrow's Menu. BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe, scrambled eggs with rice, whole wheat toast, milk, coffee. LUNCHEON: Assorted vegetable sandwiches, orange eggnog, coconut macaroons. DINNER: Broiled fish steaks, creamed radishes, salad of tomatoes stuffed with cabbage and celery and green peppers, rice pudding with peaches, milk, coffee.

Red Sox Set This Year's Scoring Record

BOSTON CLOUTS 19 RUNS, 11 IN FIRST, TO DRUB ATHLETICS

Senators Top Yanks, 4-3, To Lead By 5 1-2 Games; Tigers Beat White Sox In 17-Inning Duel, 6-5.

By Hugh S. Fullerton, Jr.
The Boston Red Sox, who have been looking more and more like a first division ball club, were in a position today to boast of the best scoring in the major leagues this season if they so desired.

Recovering from three defeats by Washington, the Sox went out yesterday, scored 11 runs in the first inning and walloped their favorite sparring partners, the Philadelphia Athletics, 19 to 10. This stunt, exceeding by one run the previous high score for the year, made today's record for length; the Washington Senators increased their American League lead to 5 1/2 games with a 4 to 3 triumph over the New York Yankees, and the New York Giants, although defeated, held their 2 1/2 game margin over Pittsburgh in the National.

Vic Sorrell pitched the entire 17 inning bout for Detroit and gave only three hits in the last nine frames. He was beaten until the ninth when Hank Greenberg knocked in the tying run. Greenberg also made the winning tally, riding in on Frank Doljack's triple.

The Cleveland Indians, who took fourth place Saturday, made their fourth place bid by trimming the St. Louis Browns twice, 5 to 3, and 3 to 2, as the two pitchers, Melharder and Monte Pearson, helped produce the winning runs.

In the national game the Phillies combination of Don Hurst and "Fidgety Phil" Collins and went down by a 2-1 count, but at the same time Chicago's Cubs handed the Pittsburgh Pirates a 2 set-back to the New Yorkers margin unchanged.

Hurst hit a pair of homers for both Philadelphia runs, while Collins did his part by allowing the Giants only five runs.

The St. Louis Cards moved into fourth place by taking two close decisions from the Cincinnati Reds, 3-2 and 4-3 despite the great work of Sunny Jim Bottomley. Bottomley pitched a homerless nine innings in the first game, while in the second game he pitched a pair with Brooklyn winning the first six to two with a couple of late rallies but going down in the second 11-0, before Walter Beck's five hit pitching.

SARAZEN CAPTURES PRO GOLF TOURNEY TITLE THIRD TIME

Defeats Willie Goggin 5 And 4, In Hard Fought Final Match; "I'm Just Getting Hot," Says Gene.

Milwaukee, Aug. 14.—(AP)—Perched on the national professional championship throne for the third time, Gene Sarazen grinned one of his wide victory smiles today, and chuckled.

"A washed up golfer, eh?" he muttered as he scanned accounts of his par-breaking victory march, which ended yesterday with a 5 and 4 conquest over the stout hearted Willie Goggin of San Francisco, in the finals of the championship drive over the Blue Mount Country club course. "No sir, not by a long way. I'm just getting hot."

Sarazen's remarks were directed at his old pal of golf, Tommy Armour, who called him a "washed up" golfer in a blast that preceded the 1933 championship tournament, and ultimately helped to make it one of the most successful ever staged.

Three times Goggin squared the match on the morning round and forced Sarazen to shoot a medal score of 69 to win one up but in the afternoon Sarazen tossed par and hided at him on every hole except one to draw into a four up struggle through 27 holes and end the straight with birdies on the thirty-second and thirty-third holes. So stubborn a foe was the new champion that he surrendered only five holes, and those to birdies.

PIRATES WHIP ALPINES IN SERIES OPENER, 9-5

Five-Run Splurge In 5th Puts Game On Ice For Bucs; Errors At Crucial Points Costly To Losers; Phillips Hits Homer In First.

The Pirates clubbed their way to an easy victory over the Sub-Alpines at Mt. Nebo yesterday morning in the opening tilt of a three-game series that is a part of the town title play. The final score was 9 to 5, a five-run splurge in the fifth putting the game on ice for the Bucaneros.

Phillips crashed a homer in the first, with one on and two out. The Alpi scored two in the first on error. Sackett held the Alpines hitters well in check, allowing only eight bingles. Wogman led the Pirates at the plate, while Sturgeon led the Alpines hitters with three hits. Jim O'Leary just missed a home run in the ninth inning by inches.

Ragged baseball by the Alpines proved their downfall, no less than four errors being made, most of them at crucial moments. The Alpines are used to coming from behind in a series so a lot can be expected of them in the next game against the Pirates.

COP HONORS FOR THIRD STRAIGHT YEAR BEFORE CROWD OF 500 PERSONS

Men's Champ Is Closely Pressed By Hans Holterhoff, Dark Horse Entry; Takes 3 Of 5 Events To Win By 9 Points; Women's Champ Easy Victor, Sweeping Every Event; Natalie Moorhouse Hailed As New Discovery As She Wins Intermediate Crown; Performances Of Arsons And Orfellis Outstanding Feature Of Town Meet.

"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." The truth and fallacy of this adage was clearly demonstrated in the annual town championship swimming meet at Globe Hollow Saturday afternoon, when Eddie Lithwinski and Anne Arson were again successful in defending the titles which they won in 1931 and 1932. Before an estimated crowd of 500 persons Lithwinski and Miss Arson swam to their third consecutive victory in the men's and women's senior classes respectively, to retire the silver loving cup trophies from competition.

The loving cups were donated as prizes four years ago by the Recreation Centers, sponsors of the meet. Leslie Buckland and Miss Dorothy Gaylor were the winners the first year, until Lithwinski and Miss Arson appeared on the scene, to monopolize the championships for the past three years.

Lithwinski's crown was subjected to a severe battering, and it times seemed in danger of slipping from his black-thatched head, mostly through the efforts of an unheralded newcomer, Hans Holterhoff, by name. This young man pressed the champion hard in every event but just when defeat seemed eminent, Lithwinski girded himself to greater effort and came through to win much-needed points. The title holder placed first in three of five events, took one second and one third for a total of 19 points that proved nine points better than Holterhoff's figure of ten. Frank Sobers was third with five points.

Lithwinski's margin of victory was never greater than a yard and often much less. Holterhoff's best effort was in the 50 yard breast stroke, where he was an easy winner. He did not enter the diving, which was won by Frank Sobers, Lithwinski taking second by a shade from Ewald Stechholz.

Stechholz, last year's intermediate champion, competed in the senior division this year but was not equal to the pace, beyond taking a second in the 50 yard breast stroke and a third in the 100 yard back stroke. This unclouded victory was never greater than a yard and often much less. Holterhoff's best effort was in the 50 yard breast stroke, where he was an easy winner. He did not enter the diving, which was won by Frank Sobers, Lithwinski taking second by a shade from Ewald Stechholz.

Vera Krajewski won the 25 yard free style event for girls, first year to raft, while Clifford Hassett won the boy's event.

No Underwater Entries
The underwater swim, a feature of the meet in the past, was not held, due to lack of entries. Lithwinski winning the title by default, being the defender. It is thought that the extreme cold at the time the event was called, was responsible for the failure to obtain entries.

The weather was threatening all afternoon, this undoubtedly being the reason for the small attendance at the meet. Director Frank Busca acted as referee and kept the events moving in splendid fashion. The meet began at 2:15 o'clock and lasted until nearly five, 36 events being held. William Mack acted as starter; Francis Hocking, John Vnes and Frank Harabura were the judges for the junior races; Herbert Spencer, Charles Ruttger and Joseph Taylor, judges for the senior races and Walter Kittel, clerk of races.

PIONEERS TRIM EAST HARTFORD'S RED SOX

Yesterday afternoon the Pioneers journey to Burnside Park and easily turned back the Red Sox by the score of 4-1. "Tony" Hart pitched masterful ball throughout the entire game and was never in trouble except for a short time in the sixth inning when the Red Sox bunched two of their three hits, aided by an error, to score their lone run.

A Family Affair
Saturday's meet was more or less of a family affair, involving the Arsons and the Orfellis in the major roles. Inspired by the showing of her sisters in the senior class, Mildred Arson captured the junior title with convincing victories in every event to pile up a wide margin over her nearest rival, Alice Blanchard. Mildred, chalked up 20 points in all, Alice having eight points. The Arsons and Orfellis were tied for third with four points each.

In the sub-junior class, where the title was won by Wanda Tlak, Doris Arson, youngest member of the aquatic family, placed third, finishing one point behind Lorraine Blanchard, who had eight points. Wanda had nine points.

Ortell's Star
The Ortell boys, Orlando and Michael, dominated the junior and sub-junior divisions respectively. Orlando won the junior title with a total of 19 points, three better than the runner-up, Raymond French and 11 better than the third place winner, Albert Starr, who had eight points.

Michael, defending his title in the sub-junior class, won three out of

STAFFORD SPRINGS BEATEN BY LEGION

Locals Rally In 4th To Edge Rivals, 7-5; Play Next Game On Saturday.

The Legion team has the edge as a result of winning the third game of the 5 game series at Stafford Springs Saturday, 7-5. Both teams played a fast free and only good work on the part of the fielders kept the score down. Williams, starting through the first three innings and was removed in the fourth with none out after the local team had scored 5 runs on 5 hits and 4 errors. Zimmerman, who finished the game for Stafford held the Manchester boys in check until the seventh when another batterer of hits netted 2 runs. Gardner pitched the first 7 innings for Manchester and was in trouble in the 2nd inning when 5 hits enabled Stafford to put across 4 runs. J. May twirled the last 3 innings and allowed 4 hits which netted Stafford 1 run.

Williams besides doublinglacking at bat each getting 3 hits. Haes contributing 3 singles and Mattison 2 singles and a double. Good fielding by players of both teams featured the game. Young and LaCosca accepted 6 chances and Swilda 7 without an error. Bycholski played a nice game at first base as did Shanny his rival. The 4th game of the series will be played in Manchester next Saturday and the D. C. team hope to end the series by taking this game.

SUB-ALPINES TOP WAREHOUSE POINT

The Sub-Alpine defeated the fast Warehouse Point team yesterday at Mt. Nebo 5 to 3. The Alpines took a five run lead which lasted for six innings when the visitors scored three runs in the next two innings but the lead was too much for them to overcome.

Mikollet's steady pitching and the ability of the Alpine batters to come through in the pinches were the main factors in the home team's victory. Raynor, H. Fraser, Farr and Sartor featured at the plate for the Alpines. Raynor has now reached first safely 12 out of 16 chances at the plate proving a very good lead-off man. Farr got the only extra base hit in the game, that a bagger.

Big Boy Palmer and E. McHugh each bunched out two hits to lead the visitor's batters while F. McHugh, ex-Savitt player, starred in the field. Warehouse Point has beaten some of the best teams in Hartford including Mahoney's Set-off team and the fast Check Bread outfit. They also trounced the Manchester Pirates. The Alpines expect to play this week at Mt. Nebo against Tompy Sipples' Collegians.

ACTION IS KEYNOTE OF TONIGHT'S CARD

Clinkstock And Zbysko Clash In Main Event Of Mat Program At Hartford

Hartford, Aug. 14.—Action galore will be the keynote of the main event of the mat program at South Park tonight. The battle bill of fare is generously sprinkled with so-called "bad men" and the first clash goes on at 8:30.

Clinkstock, 240-pound pachyderm who is nursing the championship which he won last year, goes on the warpath in grand style and he is a roughhouse art at when occasion demands. Zbysko, nephew of the famous Stanislaus Zbysko is a clever and acrobatic. He should give the big Indian plenty of trouble when they meet tonight.

The undercard of tonight's program is especially attractive, with Sam Corvado, young Italian star line coach of Columbia University football team, meeting Mike Chaplin, of Chicago, in the semi-final match. Corvado was given his most troublesome bouts in New York last winter, while Chaplin is a tough fellow.

Two good time limit matches round out the card. In one, Roland Rabiner, big blond boy from Oklahoma, comes to grips with Len Macaulay, former Colgate All-American grid guard, and Glenn Munn, of the Nebraska Munn will tackle Benny Sturgis, Hebrew mat comedian from Chicago, in the other. Popular prices are in order for the show.

TENNIS ACES OPEN

BATTLE FOR TITLE

Condition Of Mrs. Moody

Uncertain; Brilliant Field Is Entered.

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 14.

(AP)-Spurred on by the first sign of a break in the hitherto invincible arm of Helen Wills Moody, set out today in quest of the American women's singles tennis crown she has won seven times in the last decade.

Along the pathway to her particular goal-equaling the eighth title record of the woman whose reign she broke in 1923, Mrs. Molla B. Mallory-Mrs. Moody faces the top-most stars of Great Britain as well as her own delegation. And to add to this opposition, there is the question of her physical condition.

Condition Uncertain

Helen Jacobs, Mrs. Moody's California rival, who beat both Miss Dorothy Round and Miss Peggy Squire of the British delegation in the Wimbledon cup play, heads the domestic field as defending champion, winner last year again, when Mrs. Moody did not seek the title.

Despite the caliber of the field Mrs. Moody again would be an overwhelming favorite to win her eighth national title, equaling Mrs. Mallory's record, were it not for the uncertainty of her condition.

Vines Defends Title

Newport, R. I., Aug. 14.- (AP)-Ellsworth Vines, will start restoring the American tennis heights today as the defending Antist in the Newport Casino tournament.

By so doing, the National championship has given himself no easy task with which to launch his comeback attempt, for the Casino's field of 82 included more than a dozen of the top ranking American players as well as delegation of promising British youngsters.

Although the Casino's singles list was the longest in years, officials planned to run off 50 matches today to reduce the field to the third round quota of 32 players and clear the way for the opening of doubles play Tuesday.

BLUEFIELDS SWEEP

WEEK-END CLASHES

Win 11th And 12th In Row;

Beat Sacred Hearts, 7-2,

Danielson Indians, 5-4.

The Bluefields won their tenth and eleventh straight games over the week end at the expense of the Williamstown Sacred Hearts and the Quinebaug Indians of Danielson, 7-2 and 5-4.

Saturday's Game

In Saturday's game at Williamstown was the third inning that the Bluefields started to garnish a few runs. In the third inning Kathavek who was the first man up hit a single to left. He advanced to third on Kennedy's single to center. Hank grounded out and Brennan came up wielding the big bat and smacked a neat single to deep life scoring Kathavek and Kennedy. C. Smith then grounded out and Rautenberg flied out to end the inning.

Hand's Feet

Bill Hand who pitched this game deserves a good deal of credit since this was the first game he pitched for the Bluefields this year. Bill allowed but eight scattered hits and struck out eight opponents. At bat he contributed with a timely single that knocked in a run. Three triples were made by the Bluefields in this game. They were made by E. Raguskus, R. Smith and Brennan.

Sunday's Thrilling Game

Yesterday the Bluefields traveled to Danielson where they met the Quinebaug Indians of that city. This game was a gem to watch and went to eleven innings before the Bluefields broke the deadlock and emerged victors by the score of 5-4. The game was close and well played. Smart fielding plays and good hitting featured throughout the game. The Bluefields' unfield handed nine chances without an error. The Bluefields led until the seventh inning. In that inning Danielson scored three runs which put them in the lead by a margin of one run. The Bluefields tied the score in the eighth and from then on it was anybody's game.

Exciting Finish

Kennedy who was the first Bluefield man up in the eleventh inning was called out on strikes. Kovis then crashed a double to left center. He scored a moment later, winning his own ball game, when Brennan singled to right. C. Smith and Rautenberg grounded out to end the inning and the game.

SENSE and NONSENSE

When a woman announces she has no fault to find with her husband, it's a sign he is dead.

Parole Chief—Are there any other reasons you'd like to advance for being paroled at this time?
Prisoner—Yes; I'm supposed to visit my dentist every six months.

Another reason for staying on the job: This is no time for the firm to find out that it can do without you.

Judge—Why did you do this shoplifting in the drug store?
Prisoner—Well, Judge, I had a cold and thought I'd take something for it.

TRUTHS IN NUTSHELLS—Learn first to take the low hurdles, then when opportunity comes the high ones won't be so hard. About the only thing that can't be built more cheaply now is a reputation. Life would be much more pleasant for a lot of us if we didn't have to look into a mirror so often. The only purpose cosmetics serve is something for women to hide behind. Its dangerous to marry these days. What if the girl falls to hold her job? The best homely legs can hop or is that they may become radi dancers. Fools rush in where fools have been before. Before marriage a man yearns for a woman; afterwards he just earns for her. A good farmer is one who can raise something in spite of a bad season. There's something good, even noble, about anyone who does his job well. Life is simple at the base. It is towards the top it grows complex. Love is a great thing if not misplaced. If you love yourself too much, you will be hated. These men! A husband grew wrathful because his wife used his tennis racket to strain potatoes.

Tramp—Got any old coats, sir?
Man—No, but I'll give you a pair of old shoes for the hat that you are wearing.

"You can always tell the difference between a regular girl and a gold digger. One saves her love letters in a hope chest and the other saves them in a safety deposit box."

Elsie—Fay Brown and Jim Flynn are keeping their engagement a secret, aren't they?
Janie—Well, that's what they are telling everybody.

A certain chap who has been out of a job for several weeks has a great alibi. He says he has a stiff neck and cannot look around for work.

Man—My wife is like an umpire.
Neighbor—How's that?
Man—She never believes I'm safe when I'm out.

"The fisherman who gets a fish almost into the net, only to have it drop back into the water, knows how a girl feels when she gets her man within sight of the church, only to have him get cold feet."

Man—Is your wife a philanthropist?

Business Friend—Must be, the way she distributes my money among her friends at the weekly bridge club meetings.

It may be all right to call a spade a spade, until you have to use one of the pesky things.

Old Salt—Old man, if you only told your wife the truth about everything, you would get some place.

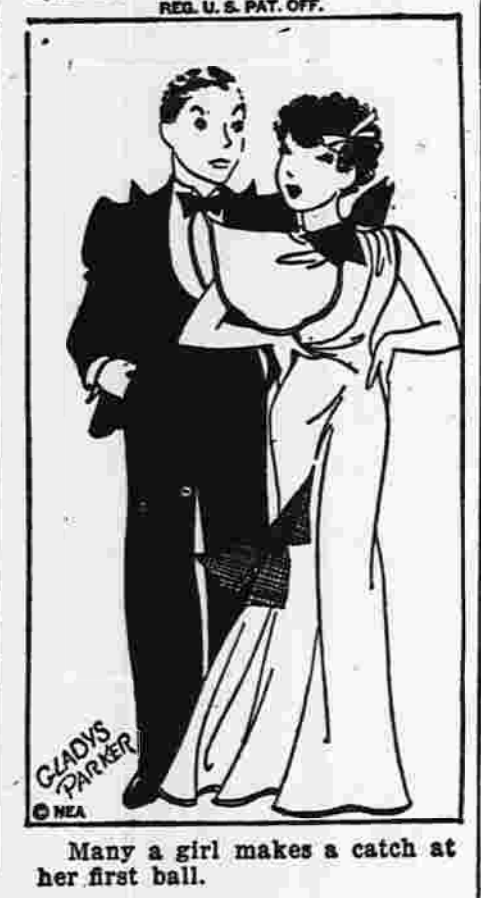

Older Salt—Yeah, and I'd get there in an ambulance.

"I may have my faults," mused a well-known man the other day, "but thus far in life I have managed to refrain from applauding at the moving picture shows."

THE REFORESTATION ARMY MOVEMENT DOESN'T STOP WITH THAT PROGRAM. THE CHIGGER AND TICK BITE REMEDY MAKERS ARE IN FOR MASS PRODUCTION.

He—Anyhow, congress hasn't put a tax on brains.
She—Well, generally speaking, the revenue wouldn't be worth while.

POLICE COURT

Four cases of simple intoxication and one of driving under the influence of liquor constituted the business before the Police Court this morning.

Quinn, a public utility employe, and Thomas Egan, who are both well-appearing young men who have been in court many times for the same offense, were picked up at Haynes and Main street Saturday night too much under the influence of liquor to be at all certain, the officer said, of keeping out of the way of automobiles.

Edward Rudinsky and Rudolph Van Battenberg, both tobacco plantation workers, were arrested at Depot Square Saturday night as far too plainly under the influence of something more ardent than three point two. They drew a fine of $10 and costs each.

Anthony Paggioli was the automobile driver who drew the customary fine of $100 and costs for drunk driving. He occupied much more going through the business section last night.

A Message to A & P Customers This statement is straight from the shoulder. It is General Johnson's own answer to those grocers who attempt to defeat the N R A by shortening the hours during which their stores are open. GENERAL JOHNSON says, "In several local communities, retailers are making joint agreements to shorten hours. This is not in keeping with either the spirit or the fact as expressed in the President's re-employment agreement. The proposal to shorten hours is in violation of Section 8 of the President's re-employment agreement. Reconsideration of the provisions of the retail codes and possible withdrawal of insignia will be necessary if community or concerted action to shorten store operating hours is taken." Quoted from General Johnson's telegram to the Indiana Retail Grocer's Association. A & P was the first retail grocer to accept the President's re-employment agreement to increase employment, raise wages, and reduce the hours of labor of employees. A & P has done all these things and has and will continue to serve its customers with the best foods at lowest prices during the usual grocery store hours of business.
