YOUNG ROOSEVELT SEES BULL FIGHTERS WORK

Seville, Spain, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the American President, visited a bull farm near here today where he tried his hand at cape work with a small bull.

Young Roosevelt, A. J. Drexel Paul, Jr., of Philadelphia, and United States Consul Richard Ford were guests at the bull farm of Memuldo Arias de la Reina where the bullfighters came and Laffargue gave exhibitions with young bulls. They demonstrated the technique to the President's son.

Franklin was dressed in an Andalusian costume with a wide hat and cape, loaned him by his host. This was his birthday and at luncheon celebration, Senator Arias toasted the President of the United States in Manzanilla wine, the classic Andalusian manner. Later Gypsy singers and dancers entertained the party.

Franklin was given the stuffed head of a fighting bull by his host. The youth demonstrated his riding ability on a blooded Andalusian horse.

He decided to remain until tomorrow to see the famous Mirra bull farm. Then he will go to Huelva to visit the Port of Palms where Christopher Columbus started on his voyage of discovery to America. On Sunday young Roosevelt will visit Gibraltar before returning to Madrid.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Although the buzzing of the inflation bee was not quite so pronounced today, financial markets maintained most of their substantial gains of yesterday in quiet and uneventful trading.

After an opening upward flurry, in which various stocks advanced a point or more, the share market settled down to watch for further developments from both Washington and Chicago. While the dollar again was heavy in terms of sterling and European gold currencies, this seemingly was not considered as important as in the previous session. Gains moved up at the start, but profit taking was encountered and the upswing paused. Cotton held around its Thursday's closing level. Bonds generally were steady to firm.

Shares up fractionally to around 1 point included Liggett & Myers, U. S. Smelting, Loew's, Standard

"No strike should be called," he said. "Labor should have every confidence in the state board, with two outstanding union men as members. We will drive child labor and the sweatshops out of Connecticut if we get the entire cooperation of employers and employees." The two union advocates on the state recovery board are Deputy Labor Commissioner William J. Fitzgerald and Milton McDonald. Dr. Dolan said, which manufacturers are represented by E. Student Arrested by German Police and Deported Refuses to Answer Questions

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Walter Orloff, American medical student at the University of Griefswald, who was arrested by German police July 1 and held a prisoner until he was released to sail for home, arrived today on the liner Hamburg.

He held to his decision not to discuss the circumstances of his arrest and detention. His brother, Carl, who met him at the pier, said, however, that Walter eventually would make a statement giving his version of the whole affair, but at present "he was all muddled and could not talk."

BOY SCOUTS SEARCHING

New London, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Fifty Boy Scouts under the direction of Deputy Scout Commissioner Clarence Hall of Mytic, cooperated with state police from the Groton barracks today in starting a systematic search for Samuel P. Maine, in the woods of North Stonington.

Maine disappeared April 17. Attention to his disappearance was called to the state police early last month. Since state police have found no trace of him at any of the farms where he was known to stay, it is now felt he had wandered into the woods and met with some mishap.

Another search was instituted in the woods of Preston today by Norwich Boy Scouts.

There are two agents in the bureau and Bassett assumes they will be discharged as no orders of assignment of them to other work were received.

Newport, R. I., Aug. 18.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, National tennis champion, today was widely outplayed by Frank X. Vines, Casino victor for the past two years, was eliminated by a 6-2, 6-4, 6-4 margin.

The titlist, in singles competition for the first time since his Davis Cup collapse against Fred Perry in the interzone finals with England, started in erratic fashion and dropped the opening service with three consecutive errors. He managed to pull up even by breaking Shields in the next game. Shields, however, then settled down for the remainder

RULERS OF 1930
ARE ON THE SKIDS

Many Changes Have Taken Place in James W. Gerard's Famous List.

By PAUL HARRISON
NEA Service Writer

New York, Aug. 18.—Three years ago this month, former Ambassador James W. Gerard handed out to a vasty interspersed world a list of "Sixty Four Rulers of America."

It was all part of a plan for international recovery, and while the list was roundly criticized in many quarters because there were no political leaders mentioned, not even the then-president of the United States, Herbert Hoover, Mr. Gerard stuck to his guns and maintained that the men he had named were "too busy to hold political office, though they determine who shall hold such office."

Checking up today, three years after the list was announced, shows that this short period of time has brought many changes to these men. Some are dead. Many have lost wealth and influence. One is a fugitive from justice.

But let's see how some of them have fared. Death has come to Julius Rosenberg, merchant-philanthropist; John D. Ryar, mining magnate; George F. Baker, banker; and Cyrus H. K. Curtis, publisher.

Charles M. Schwab celebrated his seventieth birthday last year by resigning seven directorates, and retains only three.

Edward J. Berwind, the coal king, was 85 years old last June and spends virtually all his time abroad or at his marble villa at New York. Sidney Z. Mitchell, former utilities magnate, resigned as chairman of Electric Bond and Share, and of American and Foreign Power because of ill health.

Arthur Curtis James, financier and philanthropist, has become more and more inactive, except as a yachtsman.

Install a Fugitive
Since the collapse of his utilities empire, Samuel Insull has lived in exile in Greece. Charles E. Mitchell, former chairman of the National City Bank, has made no business plans since being acquitted on a charge of defrauding the government of $850,000 in income taxes.

Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury and ex-Ambassador to England, is out of public life and, he says, glad of it.

Albert H. Wiggin no longer is one of the nation's "rulers." He was deposed as head of the Chase National Bank and resigned as a director of the Federal Reserve Bank. The House Ways and Means Committee considered, finally disapproved, a resolution to investigate his income.

Adolf Zukor, former president of Paramount-Publix, now is one of the receivers for the motion picture concern which a few months ago went into bankruptcy.

Owen D. Young, not long ago a prominent figure in politics, international economics and big business, took another step into the background, when the administration decided he should not hold interlocking directorships in both General Electric and Radio Corporation of America.

Nearly half the men on Gerard's list of regents were among the "preferred clients" to whom the House of Morgan sold stocks at less than market prices. J. P. Morgan may not sell any more stocks, though, for out of the Washington investigation came a decision that private bankers must give up either their securities or their banking business. Thomas W. Lamont, one of the Morgan partners who paid no income taxes in the depression years, was accused by a committee of the Senate Committee of evading payment of tax by selling stock to his wife.

Another former "ruler" of the U. S., to face Senate inquirers was Harry M. Warner, president of the film concern of Warner Brothers. It was revealed that, in the same year that Gerard was nominating him as one of America's leaders, Warner and members of his family made $2,000,000 by selling almost completely out of their own company, then buying it again after the stock had ceased to pay dividends. These transactions were carried on through brokerage accounts under names other than their own.

Financiers in Trouble
Two prominent executives numbered among Gerard's selections have encountered opposition from stockholders. A group of the latter in American Tobacco Co., charged that George Washington Hill and his vice presidents voted themselves huge bonuses (Hill received $2,827,978 in salary and bonus in 1931) and that they allotted themselves big blocks of the company stock at less than market prices. The quarrel has been compromised out of court.

Eugene G. Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel, is involved in similar dispute for bonuses received. Several of the "rulers" of 1930 have been deflated, as big-time speculators and financial manipulators. O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen, who told the Senate Banking and Currency committee about their methods of pyramiding a railroad system, are at least temporarily out of the spotlight.

So are the Fisher brothers, who made some $300,000,000 by selling Fisher Bodies to General Motors, then closed up another fortune in Baldwin Locomotive, forcing the stock to 265 when its own president was announcing publicly that his plants were running at only 20 per cent capacity. With a fortune of some half-billion dollars, the Fishers became spectacular market plungers, and their bullish eagerness was considered a big factor in the stock boom. They are believed to have lost more money in the consequent crash than any other group of men in the United States.

John J. Raskob, now out of public life, was another of Gerard's national leaders who was hard hit financially. The 1932 Senate investigation of the stock market revealed that he, with Fred Fisher and others, sustained huge losses in an Anaconda Copper pool. Raskob also was named in other operations in short selling.

Men Who Made Good
Many others of the one-time "rulers" have been justifying their selection by playing conspicuous roles in industrial and financial reconstruction and reform. Here are some of them:

W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, has been working toward coordination of rails, roads and rivers. Walter S. Clifton, president of American Telephone and Telegraph, and youngest man on the Gerard list, functioned as director of Hoover's Organization for Unemployment Relief. It is recalled, though, that in November, 1930, he declared: "As sure as I am standing here, this depression will soon pass, and we are about to enter on a period of prosperity the like of which no country has ever seen before."

Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, headed the Share-the-Work movement under Hoover, and now is one of the industrial advisers appointed on the staff of Gen. Hugh Johnson, Recovery Act administrator. So, incidentally, are Gerard Swope, president of General Electric, and William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. All three of these men favor the 30-hour week. Swope also is chairman of the Business and Advisory Planning Council for the Department of Commerce.

James A. Farrell, retired president of U. S. Steel, is chairman of the National Foreign Trade Council.

Myron C. Taylor, chairman of U. S. Steel, has come out in favor of job division.

It has been estimated that there are 125,000 automobiles in Wisconsin without 1933 licenses; the state recently passed a new law providing for a 50 per cent discount in the registration fees for the cars which were not registered prior to July 1st.

Seaman Finds This Delicious Cereal Relieves Constipation

Here is an unsolicited letter from Mr. Darragh:

"I have been going to sea for the past fourteen years. Every trip, I underwent severe headaches, nervousness, and sleeplessness. Tried all sorts of remedies, and received only temporary relief.

"So hearing about Kellogg's ALL-BRAN thought I would get a box, which I did. That was six months ago, haven't been without it at home, and when I go to sea a box of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is always with me."—George D. Darragh, 1914 82nd Avenue, Oakland, California.

Tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things for common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

How much pleasanter this is than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

WETS IN MISSOURI PREDICT VICTORY

State Votes Tomorrow on Repeal; Drys Make Last Minute Appeal to Citizens.

St. Louis, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Despite last-minute efforts to get out the dry vote, Missouri apparently was in step with the twenty-one states which it will follow in voting for prohibition repeal tomorrow.

Until the last two days, those favoring prohibition have resorted mostly to the courts in fighting their battle against repeal, but today thousands of sample ballots designed to show how to vote the dry cause were distributed, and speech-making gave way to an earlier request to ignore the election.

Wet leaders, from Governor Guy

B. Park on down, were confident, however, that Missouri would become State No. 22 in the repeal column by a decision although light vote.

Conservative estimates were that the electorate would vote 2 1/2 or 3 to 1 for repeal in selecting delegates to a state convention to be held in Jefferson City, Aug. 29, with a rabid anti-prohibitionists leaning toward a 5 to 1 majority.

Suggest Test Case
A suggestion that a test case be made of the Missouri election came yesterday from "general dry headquarters" in Washington, Mrs. Belle G. Burger of Springfield, Mo., president of the state W. C. T. U., announced.

The State Anti-Saloon League, which led an unsuccessful fight to have the Weeks act, which set up the machinery for the election, referred directly to the people, plans to appeal to the Supreme Court of the United States the Supreme Court's ruling that the act was not subject to a referendum.

Gus O. Nations, St. Louis attorney for the League, today stated that no action on the appeal is expected for several weeks, however. "The action won't tend to stop the election," he said, "but if the United States Supreme Court reverses the State Court's ruling, it will invalidate the election."

While the sample ballots were being distributed, Mrs. J. W. Shankland, president of the St. Louis W. C. T. U., in an address, appealed to dry Democrats not to be coerced by their party leaders into bringing back legalized liquor into America.

"They owe first allegiance to a higher power than a party platform," she said. The drys began their belated action after P. A. Tale, superintendent of the Missouri Anti-Saloon League, had requested they take no part in selecting delegates to the state convention. In some centers of the state, however, the dry forces still are planning to ignore the election.

Only casual interest is manifest by voters, with predictions that only about 40 per cent of the registered voters will go to the polls in the state's largest centers, St. Louis and Kansas City.

FULL NRA WORKERS GROUP MEETS SUNDAY

Afternoon Gathering at Watkins Planned for Entire National Recovery Committee.

A meeting of the entire committee that will participate in the local program under the National Recovery Act will be held at Watkins Auditorium Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, it was announced today by R. K. Anderson, chairman of the local organization. The committee consists of nearly 100 prominent citizens and all are urged to be present Sunday.

Committee officials will outline the progress made to date and plans for the local campaign will be discussed. It is expected that the extensive drive to obtain the 100 per cent co-operation of Manchester employers through signing the blanket code will be started on Monday, August 28, to be followed by a house to house campaign to obtain pledges of consumers.

STOCK MARKET HEAD DENIES RULE CHANGES

New York, Aug. 18.—(AP)—Richard Whitney president of the New York Stock Exchange in a statement today said there was no authority for the report that the Exchange will shortly adopt rules requiring its members to confine their operations to one type of business.

The World-Telegram, however, said while governors of the Exchange refused to discuss the matter, it was nevertheless known that a majority had agreed to put it into effect.

The projected change in rules, the paper said, would permit more rigid control of member operations by segregating member houses into four arbitrary classes—commission houses, specialists, underwriters and retailers. It went on to say that governors of the Exchange have given the proposed segregation wide study and that a formal announcement of the new rules, following their adoption, will be made within a few days.

New York, Aug. 18.—A joint committee of weavers and converters is functioning and has settled several disputes in the silk, rayon and synthetic fibre industry arising over deliveries on contracts placed before the temporary NRA code was made effective, the Silk Association of America, Inc., announced today.

Stockholders of the Shreveport E. Dorado Pipe Line Co. will vote on Aug. 21 on a plan for a partial distribution of the assets.

Demand for wool piece goods was retarded this week, reports the New York Wool Top Exchange, due to refusal of many mills to quote prices. Price adjustments were necessitated by application of the NRA code to the industry.

American Car and Foundry Co., has received an order for five 40-ton steel bulk commodity cars from Godfrey L. Cabot, Inc., of Boston, Mass., for handling carbon black.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Ernest Johnson of 134 Maple street was admitted and James Llewellyn of 163 Liberty street, Middletown, Conn., and Louise Shea of Talbotville were discharged today.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Cal—Why are so many men going to the Hawaiian Islands this summer?
Joe—I don't know! The grass crop was a total failure there.

A man of the world is one who can show a modern girl a good time without spending any money on her.

Jane (the maid, tapping timidly on the professor's door)—Man in the hall wishes to speak to you, Professor.

Professor (looking up from his book)—Tell him I'm out, Jane.
Jane—I did, sir. But he won't go.

Professor—What? Send him in to me and I'll tell him myself.

There's only one answer when a 19-year-old boy comes home and actually asks for money to get a haircut. But at that point, candor pauses; sometimes it takes another week to find out the girl's name.

Banker—What is your ambition, Junior?
Junior—I ain't got any. I just want to be a vice-president.

As our adventures fade into the past we clothe them with garments of mystery, danger and royal splendor.

The bigger the social event, the smaller the sandwiches.

Hunter—You say you guarantee this gun; suppose it bursts and blows my head off?
Dealer—In that case we'll give you a new gun.

She now wants a piano! A well-known local girl who received a large portrait of her best boy friend, and has no place to show his mug off.

Grace—Alvin offered me his heart last night. I put him off till tomorrow.
Merle—Don't accept damaged goods. Last week he told me it was broken when I refused him.

The man who eats little and works much might outlast the one who worked little and ate much.

Jester—Doesn't this high flying get on your nerves?
Aviator—Well, it makes me soar every time I leave the hangar.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce has certainly been the wife of the party.

Maid—I left my last place because I was told to do something I didn't like to do.
Prospective Mistress—Indeed, and what was that?
Maid—To look for another job.

The man who is always in hard luck is usually the one who is always looking for a soft job.

Young Husband—My wife is cooking dinner for the first time today. Will you come along and share it?
Friend—Certainly. I have always shared your sorrows.

A noted baby doctor claims that he can cure any case of measles in three days. Careful, Doctor, those are rash promises.

When a certain business man came home the other evening, he found his young wife in tears.

Bride (sobbing)—I've been insulted. Your mother insulted me.
Hubby—My mother? But precious, she is miles away.

Bride—I know it, but a letter came for you today and I opened it.
Hubby—I see, but darling, where does the insult come in?
Bride—In the postscript. It said: 'Dear Alice: Don't forget to give this letter to George.'

We interviewed seventeen women today, and each one of sixteen of them insisted she works harder at home than her husband works at town.

Doctor—Congratulations, old man, your wife has presented you with quadruplets.
Father—Four cryin' out loud!!!

CONSCIENCE SHAKE-DOWN BRINGS 2 DOLLAR BILLS
 Evidently Same Penitent Who Sent $1 to Grocer "Makes Good" to Nathan Marlow.

The current conscience fund grows. A second letter and payment from the anonymous Hartford resident, evidently formerly a Manchester schoolgirl, who on Wednesday remembered that she had snatched a few cookies and sticks of candy from the store of J. H. Madson on 30 Laurel street, and dispatched to the kindly grocer a dollar bill, has been received by Nathan Marlow, proprietor of a Main street department store.

The writer (the handwriting and stationery are similar) evidently pondered over her youthful escapades and found within the innermost recesses of her conscience the occasion for another amenatory contribution to her personal conscience fund.

It was perhaps on an occasion when no one was looking and few shoppers were in the store, that she yielded to the impulses to add to her meager stock of school supplies by taking a note book or two and a few long shiny yellow pencils. Anyway the deed was done, and yesterday Mr. Marlow received by mail, an envelope containing two one-dollar bills accompanied by the following note:

"Dear Mr. Marlow: "While still a schoolgirl I took some school supplies from your store that I should not have taken. I am enclosing what I feel will cover the amount of goods taken and ask your forgiveness."
 "Thank you."
 "P. S. This happened some twelve years ago, so my name will not be necessary."

Several years ago Mr. Marlow received $3.42 in stamps in payment, with compound interest added, for some articles "lifted" from the store. The person who took the goods knew the original price and computed the cost with interest, compounded.

RAISERS OF POULTRY NEED NO LICENSES

Com. O. F. King Corrects Erroneous Impression — Only Dealers Come Under New Law.

Commissioner of Agriculture O. F. King in a statement issued today endeavoring to clear up an apparent misunderstanding of the so-called "poultry licensing law." The law became effective August 15 and for the past few days the department has received numerous inquiries from poultrymen who were of the belief that they had to secure a license just the same as poultry dealers.

Commissioner King is advising all poultrymen that just so long as they sell poultry entirely of their own raising they will not be required to have a license. Copies of the law, Chapter 305 of the Public Acts of 1933 entitled "An Act Concerning the Movement of Live Poultry" will be sent upon request addressed to the department at Hartford.

The department has licensed more than 172 poultry dealers to date and supplied them with identifying metal markers to be placed on the vehicle used in transporting live poultry. The law requires that all live poultry dealers, live poultry markets and all those engaged in the transportation of live poultry, except common carriers and farmers engaged in the transportation of poultry of their own raising, shall secure licenses from the Commissioner of Agriculture.

RUSH OF NRA SIGNERS ABATES BUT LIST GROWS

Nine More Establishments Come Under the Blue Eagle, Making Total 262.

The first rush of local employers to pledge co-operation with the blanket code of the NRA has abated but additional signers are trickling slowly and steadily into the post office here daily. Nine more names were added to the Manchester list today, bringing the total number of Blue Eagle concerns to 262.

The latest signers are: Stuart J. Waley, West Side Soda Shop, Knoffs Brothers Inc., Selwitz Shoe Shop, Silk City Diner, Farming Street Service Station, Simple Simon Sandwich Shop, S. A. Buck and James Giglio's barber shop.

LAWN SOCIAL PROGRAM IMMUNE TO WEATHER

Luther Leaguers Will Give It Indoors This Evening If It Should Be Stormy.

In case of inclement weather this evening the fine program arranged for presentation at the annual lawn social at the Emanuel Lutheran church, sponsored by the Luther League, will be given indoors, starting at 8 o'clock.

The program will include selections from the Salvation Army, vocal selections by an octette from the Beethoven Glee Club and a humorous specialty act, featuring "Jo-Jo", a mirth-provoking midget.

Unless the weather interferes, colored lights will be strung about the grounds to the south of the church. Gaily decorated booths, representing various countries, will be erected, at which refreshments will be sold, including coffee, cookies, cake, ice cream, soda, candy and watermelon.

The lawn social is in charge of the chairmen of all the committees of the League.

PLAY TO BE FEATURE OF BOLTON FESTIVAL

Old Time Costuming of Reminiscent Sketch Will Add Interest to "Good Old Days."

Mrs. Fred Warren is directing the sketch, "The Good Old Days," which will be presented by a cast of twelve at the Quarryville Methodist church, near Bolton Lake, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. This will be the closing attraction of the Bolton Old Home Day celebration. Events begin with a big parade in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, starting from Haling's. The play will interest everybody not only because of the wit of the lines, but in the display of old-fashioned gowns, bonnets and coats worn by the women participating. An added feature will be saxophone solos by Woodrow Saccoccio, a pupil of Jack Crawford, leader of the Bolton Orchestra, which will provide music at intervals during the afternoon and evening.

Many former residents of Bolton are expected to return again tomorrow, Old Home Day, and all others will be welcome to attend any or all of the festivities.

10 PER CENT OF TESTED CHILDREN ARE PERFECT

Three thousand three hundred and sixty-three children who will enter school for the first time this fall were physically examined in 178 summer round-ups held in Connecticut since last October and nearly ten per cent were found to be without physical or dental defects of one type or another, the State Department of Health announces in its weekly bulletin.

Among the group of children, 2,440 had physical defects and 2,245 had dental defects. Some of the defects were of a minor nature, but 1,380 physical defects were considered serious enough to refer to the family physicians and 2,222 children with dental defects were referred to the family dentists. Thus, in most cases, these defects will have been largely corrected by the time school opens and the children will be able to begin their studies without physical handicap.

DEMOCRATS WEED OUT ASPIRANTS FOR OFFICE

A list of eight names it was stated today, was presented at the last meeting of the Democratic Town Committee for approval as nominees for election. None of the names was approved, however, the committee going on record as being willing to back as nominees for selectmen—such persons as might be sponsored by Dr. E. G. Doan, the party leader. It is now said that of the eight names probably six will be dropped from consideration at the next meeting of the town committee, which is to be held August 25. At that time, according to present plans, seven names will be approved.
