DEATH LIST MOUNTS; 47 KILLED IN STORM

Floods Still Threaten Towns on Eastern Seaboard as Gale Continues to Rage in the North.

(By Associated Press)
Floods still imperiled parts of the east today as it counted at least 47 dead in the path of a runaway hurricane, that raged up from the tropics and whistled away into the St. Lawrence valley.
A smashed dam and rising waters marooned 190 persons, mostly boys and girls, at Camp Achvach, Godfrey, New York. Calls for assistance sent a rescue squad from the Port Jervis fire department to the scene.
In Pennsylvania, one of the last states to feel the fury of the wind and rain, hundreds of families fled their homes yesterday. Schools and hospitals were thrown open to care for refugees at York, Pa. Estimates said 2500 persons left their homes in and around Reading alone.
Property damage probably never will be known accurately. Some published estimates said $10,000,000.

Village Saved

The Catakill mountain village of Fleischmanns, N. Y., menaced for a time by a weakened dam, was saved. Flood waters of Lake Switzerland receded slowly. A New York priest, the Rev. James Healey, drowned in trying to save five marooned persons at Mount Tremper, N. Y.

The storm which caused a train wreck, nearly smashed a liner, and smashed innumerable small craft, left the coastal steamship City of Norfolk stuck in the mud of Focoms sound, in Chesapeake Bay. The steamer, lost to the world for 24 hours, reported all her thirty passengers safe.

Coast Guard Cutters Sought

The motorship Bolonia, a 225 ton craft missing somewhere off the Carolinas with 12 persons aboard.

Virginia, which saw its famous resorts at Ocean View and Virginia Beach battered, reported a total of 11 dead and several missing. Property damage was set at three millions at least.

The Nation's capital kept a close watch on the swollen Potomac. New York, which escaped the hurricane's full force, reported a total of 11 dead and several missing. Property damage was set at three millions at least.

Investigators of the wreck of the Crescent Limited, New York-New Orleans liner, which was wrecked in a heavy storm, said the cause of the disaster was a broken window, which caused the ship to lose its buoyancy.

Trade Review Reports That Buying Movement Continues in the Nation.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., in its weekly trade review today, said that while the peaks of June and July are becoming more infrequent, resistance on the part of consumers to higher prices, yet to be discerned in a slackened rate of retail demand.

Bandits Hold-Up Waterbury Store

Manager Bound and $45 Stolen—Third Robbery Reported This Week.

Waterbury, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Two youthful bandits entered a chain grocery store here shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, tied the manager and buried him under a pile of packing boxes in a rear room, took $45 from the cash register, and escaped through a cordon of police that blanketed the north end of the city within ten minutes.

Bandits Escape

The bandits escaped through a back window after ripping off iron bars. They had locked the front door during the robbery and escape that way was barred by a male customer, who, puzzled by the closed entrance, was pounding for admittance.

CUBA'S PRESIDENT ISSUES A DECREE

Congress Dissolved, New Elections Called For— Debts Recognized.

Havana, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Taking a firm grip on power, Provisional President De Cespedes today issued a decree wiping out all vestiges of the ousted Machado regime, dissolving Congress, and calling new elections for February 24, 1934.

The measure, signed with the Cabinet's approval and effective immediately, declared unconstitutional the Machado administrations and its acts since May 20, 1925, when Gerardo Machado was inaugurated president for a second term.
All international obligations are to be observed, however, even though contracted since that date. The action followed a widespread clamor for a thorough house cleaning of the regime that fell two weeks ago.

It was taken over the opposition of United States Ambassador Sumner Welles, who in his capacity as mediator, has maintained it is necessary to continue Constitutional forms.

Cespedes' Decree

The decree, which Dr. De Cespedes signed after an extraordinary Cabinet session, contained eight points as follows:

1—There will be a return to the Constitution of 1901, adapted during the "military" rule of the United States, which included the Platt amendment, giving the United States the right to intervene in island affairs, if necessary, and which advanced several administrative, educational and civil services.

2—The administration of Machado was declared ended.

3—Congress was dissolved.

4—Three justices of the Supreme Court appointed after May 20, 1925, were removed.

5—All other provincial and municipal officials under Machado were removed.

6—General elections will be conducted Feb. 24, 1934 to fill elective offices. Those elected will take office May 20, 1934.

7—A constitutional commission is to be appointed to carry out terms of all the decrees.

8—All international debts, to be recognized, even though contracted since May 20, 1925.

His Statement

"I have given up, as you see, one year of the presidency," said Dr. De Cespedes, referring to the fact that Machado's term would have run until 1935.

"I do not want to occupy this position a single moment more than is absolutely necessary for the welfare of my people."
"I will set at rest all opposition and that we may now go on with the great mission that the country has given me."

The preamble to Dr. De Cespedes' decree, alleged the emergency electoral law of July, 1925, was intended to bring about the re-election of Machado and prevent other candidates. Thus, it said, Machado's action was a coup d'etat because the Supreme Court several times de-

PROVISIONAL BLUE EAGLE ALLOWED BY NRA HEADS

White Stripe May Be Pasted Over Insignia by Factories Claiming Special Hard- ships Under the Code.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A provisional use of the Blue Eagle insignia by stores and factories claiming special hardships would be wrought through by full compliance with the President's agreement, it was announced today by the recovery administration.

Thomas B. Hammond, executive director of the NRA campaign division, ruled that a white stripe with the word "provisional" printed upon it should be pasted across the Blue Eagle in such establishments pending decision on whether the exemptions asked would be accepted. After decision, either the bar may be removed or the eagle will have to be taken down.

"This order went forth as the administration began examination of the retail druggist's code, calling for a portion of the membership dues to provide a fund for State's Disabled Vets."

DOLLFUSS, IL DUCE AGREE ON PORTS

Italy and Austria to Create Free Zones at Trieste, Re- ports Indicate.

Rome, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Diplomatic circles predicted today that the creation of the free zones at Trieste for both Austria and Hungary will result from the meeting last week-end between Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Dollfuss of Austria.

Such free zones would permit a lower overhead on the imports and exports of the two nations. Trieste was a free zone for Czechoslovakia after the war but that nation did not use it. Italian port, which is at the head of the Adriatic.

It was reported that Austria and Hungary will have the right to form mercantile headquarters at Trieste, but the general belief is that neither country is in position to acquire a fleet.

Premier Mussolini is reported to have agreed on preferential treatment for Austrian goods entering Italy and on the purchase of increased amount of such goods. Among the items mentioned in this connection is lumber which would be used for government-owned enterprises, such as railroads.

Italy, Austria and Hungary are reported to have made a deal by which Italy will absorb the remainder of Hungary's wheat surplus in return for Hungary's granting to Italy some of the Hungarian economic position in Austria.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The position of the United States Treasury Aug. 23 was: Receipts $64,535,679.43; expenditures $67,719,745.03; balance $1,131,531,099.21; custom duties for month $84,175,435.13.

REACH ACCORD IN LONDON ON WHEAT PRICES

To Be 87 Cents a Bushel— Tariffs to Be Lowered and Production to Be Reduced 15 Per Cent.

London, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The international wheat conference reached a final agreement today and plans were made for the signing of the document late this afternoon.

The wheat exporting countries agreed to accept twelve pre-war gold francs per quintal as the market price to be reached and maintained for four months after which the importing countries will adjust their tariffs to permit freer imports. The price is the equivalent of 87.6 gold U. S. cents a bushel, which by current exchange amounts to about 87 cents a bushel.

This price was a compromise, as the importers had asked that it be established at a level between 80 and 95 cents a bushel. At the present exchange, and the exporters had asked that tariffs be lowered by the importers after wheat had sold at 82 cents for four months.

JURY IS SELECTED FOR LAMSON TRIAL

Four Days Needed to Pick Seven Men and Five Women in Murder Hearing.

San Jose, Cal., Aug. 25.—(AP)—The state invoked the aid of medical science today at the outset of its effort to prove David A. Lamson beat his wife to death in their Stanford University campus home last Memorial Day, bringing to a tragic end an apparent idyllic love romance.

Four days of legal maneuvering over selection of a jury ended yesterday with seven middle-aged men and five women accepted by both sides.

The prosecution announced it would first call Dr. Milton Sailer and Dr. Blake Wilbur, autopsy surgeons, to testify regarding the four wounds found at the base of the skull of the attractive 38 year old campus Y. W. C. A. secretary.

Dr. Wilbur, at the son of Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford and former secretary of the interior.

At the preliminary hearing two months ago the physicians testified there were three cross lacerations and one diagonal wound at the base of the skull made by a sharp weapon by Lamson wielding a 10-inch length of iron pipe which later was found in a honoree the accused man had been tending in the back yard of his home the morning of the tragedy.

When the prosecution would attempt to set the approximate hour of death remained uncertain. No such effort was made in the preliminary hearing but it was considered likely some reference would be made to the question in view of Lamson's version of what happened in his home the morning of the tragedy.

It was about 10 a. m. when Lamson burst from the front door of his home crying to Mrs. L. M. Price, a visiting real estate agent, his wife had been slain in his story to officials. She said she had drawn water in the bath tub for Mrs. Lamson and had carried her into the bath room only an hour previously.

Electrical Hammers Used To Drive Sand Into Glue

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Thirty-five million particles of "sand" a square inch are made to stand on end like soldiers' bayonets with their sharp ends all sticking outward in a new kind of sand paper announced today.

The trick is done with high voltage electricity. The particles are first stood on end like hairs of an electrified human head. When erect they are driven like nails into their sand paper glue bed by "hammers" of electricity.

The announcement was made by Lockheed International, of New York. It stated that a number of the leading manufacturers have adopted the new process. Also that all sand paper particles have been made with the particles spread upward mixed with their points.

The electrical hammer employs two belts one above the other about an inch apart. Sand and glue on the lower belt. The belt above it is covered with paper. The stinky glue is driven into the sand particles and the whole is pressed together through an electrically heated die, ranging from 300 to 750 degrees Fahrenheit.

STATE MOVES FAST TO ARREST HEADS OF KIDNAPING RING

VANDBERG RAPS FEDERAL SYSTEM

Michigan Senator Says the Great Mistake Was Insist- ing on Liquid Banks.

Detroit, Aug. 25.—(AP)—United States Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R., Mich.) declared before the one-man bank Grand Jury today that "the one great mistake of the Federal government in its banking policy following the National bank holiday was its insistence on liquidity instead of solvency."

Testifying as to his knowledge of Washington events preceding the famous Michigan banking holiday before the jury investigating the closing of two local National banks, the junior Michigan senator declared the government "forced appraisals to be made on the wrecked values of an utterly depressed market."

"The whole emphasis of the government's policy was on liquidity," he said. "That spelled doom for thousands of bankers. At the end, a 100 per cent liquid bank is only a warehouse for money—it is not a bank. It cannot function as a bank."

Two Middletown Men Al- ready in Custody— Two Witnesses Also Held in Plot to Abduct Springfield Man— All Arrangements Had Been Made to Hold Victim in Southington Mountain Shack for a $50,000 Ransom.

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A third arrest in the kidnaping case, was made this afternoon in Thompsonville by County Detective Edward J. Hickey. The man, arrested on suspicion, is Joseph Baralotta, 35, who conducts a small store. Baralotta was one of a group recently arrested in connection with a raid on a big still near Thompsonville.

DR. DOLAN SCORES LABOR AGITATORS

Tells Union Leader in Hart- ford Strike That Workers Must Accept His Terms.

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Union agitators who engineered the garment strike of 400 non-union women and girls in Hartford, were rebuffed today by Dr. Edward G. Dolan of the recovery board in their attempt to force the 30-hour week which has not yet been approved by the administration for their industry.

The garment code intended to kill the "sweatshop" is being heard in Washington. Hartford shops now in their second day of tie-up displayed the Detroit situation, and "it is necessary to put out the potential Detroit conflagration in order to prevent a foret fire. The loan to the trust company, however, could not be granted," he said, because of the Detroit situation. Dr. Dolan said the institution was insolvent.

W. J. COUPER QUITS STATE BOARD POST

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Walter J. Couper, deputy labor commissioner, has resigned from the State Board of Mediation and Arbitration, it became known today. His resignation, which has been accepted by Governor Cross, leaves the board with one member, State Athletic Commissioner Joseph H. Lawler, Democrat. The second member, Johnstone F. Vance of New Britain, resigned recently to make room for one Republican member since the law requires that both parties be represented.

Cross Keeps Silent
The governor declined to comment on the Couper resignation and Mr. Couper would say nothing more than he has left the board. The state board has rarely functioned. With the NRA state board coming into the picture, with power to interfere in all strikes affecting interests of the blanket and other codes, the state board has become practically dead.

HAN HUNT IS ON

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A hunt for members of an alleged kidnap gang continued today under the direction of County Detective Edward J. Hickey and more arrests were expected. Two men are held at the Hartford county jail under bonds of $25,000 each. Two are held there as material witnesses under bonds of $5,000 each and it is reported that eight other men are sought by the county officials.

The names of the Springfield kidnaped victim, which was not disclosed by Detective Hickey, but reports in the Massachusetts press were to the effect that he was Anthony...

Preparations Complete
From the facts disclosed by Alcorn, it was indicated every detail of the projected crime had been studied. All that remained, officials pointed out, was for the victim to be taken to a hidden away in a lonely shack on Southington mountain.

Two automobiles, registered, the authorities said, so they would have been difficult to trace to either of the two men now in custody, were to be used. One was ready in Springfield to take the victim from the scene of the snatching; the other to speed with him into Connecticut and to the ransom money.

DAMAGE IN JERSEY

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 25.—New Jersey, rapidly drying out under a warm sun and fair breeze, today started to clear away debris and repair damage left by a five day storm, the worst in years.

Not one section of the state, from Bergen county on the Hudson river to Cape May at the southern tip, escaped the fury of gale winds and torrential rains.

The coast line, from Sandy Hook to Cape May, was badly battered, pounding waves borne on high tides tearing down boardwalks, piers, bulkheads and, in some communities, flooding streets and tearing up paving.

Singac, Pequannock and Saddle River caused the evacuating of 2,000 or more vacationists, warned of the danger by screaming fire sirens, from their homes.

RAIN IN CANADA Quebec, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A long drought came to an end in this part of Quebec province with a deluge of rain that went to the other extreme, beating down crops, washing out country roads and flooding cellars.

Telephone and Telegraph services were interrupted by poles and lines flattened by the rain and a howling wind last night.

Electric power service was cut off for some time in Quebec last night and again today, leaving several factories idle with their machinery at a standstill.

The storm struck Quebec City early last night and continued through the night. Rain beat down steadily on the upper town, sending a torrent of muddy water rushing down the steep streets to flood the lower town along the waterfront.

clared the proceedings unconstitutional.

The preamble further declared that the Machado administration produced "an intense revolutionary agitation that obliged the government to suspend individual guarantees and to use all sorts of violence to silence the protests of the people."

The President said he issued the decree "conscious of the National necessity" and "with thoughts only of the well-being of the Republic."

The document was signed after Cabinet members had spent several hours in a special session.

Meanwhile, members of the ABC secret society and soldiers arrested Ramon Souto, a former Havana police lieutenant, and imprisoned him in Principe fortress.

PACKARD DRUG CO. FILES AS BANKRUPT

Attachments Bring Conference of Creditors and Petition Is Filed This Morning.

The Packard Drug Company, Inc., conducting a drug and confectionery business in Odd Fellows' Building, this morning filed a petition in bankruptcy and at 9 o'clock John E. Dwyer was named as temporary receiver, being placed in charge of the store.

A keeper was placed in charge of the store at once and continued in charge until relieved this morning when Mr. Dwyer presented the proper papers showing that he had been named as temporary receiver. The store, which has been in trouble for the past year, has for the past three months been managed by Clifford Potter, who has given much of his time in an attempt to reclaim the business.

After the attachments were placed yesterday morning and a keeper placed in charge, there were threats of other attachments, largely by the smaller creditors.

After a conference Mr. Potter decided to withdraw from the management and in order that the larger creditors, who had not been pressing for their claims, expecting that there would be a way out, might be protected, the question of bankruptcy was discussed and carried through this morning.

Thomas Huey has been named as manager of the store by the temporary receiver and as far as possible will be given to creditors as far as are known and there is to be another hearing, with a new inventory taken and all claims ordered filed.

FIVE DIE IN CRASH

Lancaster, Pa., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Five persons were killed and another probably fatally injured today when a special Pennsylvania railroad inspection train crashed into their automobile at Brooms Landing, along the Susquehanna river a mile south of Columbia.

MILLION DOLLAR FIRE

HP-10N1 3824U212-77-hi Teasol. 1 Rantoul, Ill., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Fire of unexplained origin swept through the photographic and radio equipment buildings on Chanaul field today, causing loss which fire corps officials estimated at $1,000,000.

LEGION TO HELP NEEDY VETERANS

Restoration of some of the benefits taken away from veterans under the Federal economy program, was urged in two resolutions. One asked that the government restore provisions for hospitalization of indigent veterans. The other urged resumption of the $90 monthly payment to hospitalized veterans suffering temporarily total disability.

Women Veterans. A third resolution adopted, asked for hospitalization of women veterans on the same basis as men. This measure proposed that hospital facilities be provided for women as close to their homes as possible.

After a spirited debate, the convention turned down a resolution proposing that the Legion give priority to the members in its rehabilitation activities and requiring that such cases be taken up only after each has been recommended after consideration by the post in the community in which the veteran resides.

McCook, candidate for National executive committee, led the fight against the proposal, contending it would be a violation of the rules. Others contended the resolution would discriminate against non-Legion members.

Supporters of the resolution argued that Legionnaires should be given prior consideration since Legion funds were being used. Reduction of benefits to veterans was criticized by John Elden of Cleveland, Ohio, Grand Chief De Gar of the 40 and 8.

Walcott Present. He was one of several guests, including U. S. Senator Frederick C. Walcott, presented to the Legionnaires during the morning session. Elden especially criticized the reforestation program.

"Of course," he said, "we all believe that the reforestation idea is a good one. I do. I am a firm believer in the value of planting things, but I cannot reconcile myself to any move on the part of the government to plant poison ivy in veterans' hospitals."

Rehabilitation, he told the convention, was the Legion's first problem. He lauded the Connecticut department for making a definite program for the work.

Elden also called on the Legionnaires to marshal their wartime spirit against the forces of depression. Under the finance program for rehabilitation approved by the convention, each post will hereafter turn in $2.00 instead of $1.80 of the dues collected from each member. Of this amount, $1.00 will go to the national fund and eighty cents will be used to defray the costs of the state department.

Joseph A. Treadwell, of Danbury, state commander, told the convention that he had been informed by Louis Johnson, National commander, that the national assessment might be reduced from $1 to 75 cents. He pointed out that if the reduction materializes, local posts would be compensated for the additional 20 cents which they voted to turn to the state department for rehabilitation.

"STAGGERING" HOURS OF LABOR CONDEMNED

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Concerns which "stagger" hours of labor for their employees, working over two hours at a time with periods of an hour or more between, are "chiselling" and are not obeying the President's agreement, Dr. Edward G. Dolan, chairman of the state recovery board, announced this morning. His reply was made to inquiries from labor and store managers who had planned to have employees work, in at least one example, from 9 a. m., to 11 a. m.; from 1:30 p. m., to 3:30 p. m.; and from 9 p. m., to 11 p. m., a total elapsed time of fourteen hours, with but six hours of labor, six days a week, with four hours on Sunday totalling the maximum of forty hours.

This system, or any other system would be in direct violation of the code, and will not be tolerated, Dr. Dolan said. Hours of labor must be governed by the code before the code went into effect, and on schedules usual for employees in the industry.

for the longest work hours yet proposed by the "trade" of industry since the industrial control movement was started.

The rest of the retail trade, except food which remains to be handled separately, asked a 44 to 48-hour week in hearings completed last night. That code however, is due for further overhauling in committee sessions.

The automobile industry code committee was making over a revision of its agreement designed to preserve in some form the declaration that the motor makers intended to continue hiring, promoting and discharging employees regardless of union affiliation.

The order by Hammond of the provisional bar for the Blue Eagle said sufferers of special hardships might ask exemptions from specific requirements, even though their industry had obtained modifications of the voluntary agreement by submitting a code with wage and hour terms of its own.

sign with a reservation stipulating that the U. S. S. R. while not agreeing to any acreage reductions as had been agreed upon among other exporting countries, would limit exports to certain figures. These figures were not given out.

The French delegate said he would spare no effort to attempt to convince his government to accept the figure of 638 cents gold per bushel as the level for determining when tariff barriers will be cut.

The additional paragraph in the agreement, suggested by the importing countries and submitted for approval, read thus: "The obligations of the importing countries under this agreement are to be interpreted in the light of the following declaration: It is recognized that measures affecting the area of wheat grown and the degree of protection adopted are dependent upon the domestic conditions without the consent of the country, and that any change in these measures must often require the sanction of the Legislature."

The intention of this agreement is, nevertheless, that the importing countries will not take advantage of a voluntary reduction of exports on the part of the exporting countries by developing their domestic policies in such a way as to frustrate the efforts which the exporting countries are making in the common interest to restore the price of wheat to a remunerative level.

Mr. Bennett proposed that the conference proceed to draw up the final document with this additional paragraph, plus an assertion of the gold figure, so that it might be signed this afternoon by those who had made declarations that they would sign. Then, he suggested, certified copies of the agreement should be deposited with the League of Nations.

Among the countries who accepted the gold figure were Germany and Switzerland. After signature the final document will be sent to Geneva. The signatures will stand unless withdrawn within a certain limited period which probably will be fixed at 24 hours.

ROCKVILLE

BRAVE ATLANTIC STORM, WRECKED IN ROCKVILLE

Party from Czechoslovakia Hits Watertown Trough During Storm—No One Badly Injured.

Both the state and local police were busy in Rockville and vicinity yesterday morning checking the damage from the big storm which visited this vicinity late Wednesday night and early Thursday morning, resulting in much damage.

On this farm a barn was also destroyed last September by fire as the result of being struck by lightning. It was impossible for the Rockville Fire Department to be of assistance because of the lack of water in the vicinity.

Mr. Goldenthan was driving north on Main street at the time and crashed into the fence which extends into the highway nearly 200 feet.

Block Dance Tonight The big block dance in the center of the city on Main street, sponsored by the Clerks Athletic Club will be held tonight as it was impossible to hold this affair last evening due to the severe storms early yesterday morning.

Investigation Continues The investigation of the near fatal accident on the Rockville-Crytal Lake state road Wednesday night continued yesterday with State Policeman Jesse Foley of the Stafford Springs Barracks in charge.

Atorney Charles Hanchel, aged 29, of 19 Asylum street, New Haven, was suffering from possible internal injuries, lacerations of the right knee and nose.

Miss Catherine Hassett and Benton Freeman at the Johnson Memorial hospital in Stafford were reported as not as seriously injured as first suspected. It was first feared that the accident would be fatal to Miss Hassett.

650 TOBACCO CONTRACTS HAVE BEEN APPROVED

Damage Done by Recent Storms May Cause Many More to Cut Acreage.

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—More than 650 tobacco acreage reduction contracts have been approved by Dr. H. Barton Boyd of the Connecticut state college, representing United States Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, and the growers copies of the contract returned to them.

Secretary Wallace has not announced the closing date for signing. With the damage to tobacco Saturday by the high wind and the wind Wednesday night, it is expected some growers who had not signed up, will now and destroy the required amount of tobacco to bring them under contract.

The weather has prevented any tobacco harvesting since Saturday, until today.

SLEEPING SICKNESS DEATHS ON INCREASE

St. Louis, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The outbreak of "sleeping sickness," with its focal point on this city and its suburbs, has resulted in deaths in an area from Ohio to California.

Dr. Harold K. Knapp, Cleveland city health commissioner, reported six deaths from encephalitis during the last month and numerous other cases. The death of a Richmond, Calif., draftman, from the disease was announced by the State Board of Health at Berkeley.

Fatalities in Kansas and Oklahoma have been attributed to the virus disease during the last week. A death was believed to have occurred in Texas, but an autopsy disclosed that an 18-month-old boy died of tubercular meningitis, and not encephalitis, as first announced.

Three deaths reported here in the last day and a re-check by St. Louis county authorities revealed several hitherto unreported deaths, bringing the total in this immediate vicinity to twenty-eight since the outbreak of the disease July 30.

Every possible method or procedure which might stop the spread of the epidemic is being studied here by three major experts of the United States Public Health Service and St. Louis physicians.

Bisell died in the Danbury hospital April 6, 1930. In addition to being collector he was also State Senator and state controller at one time.

FATHER AND SON MEET IN SHADOW OF DEATH

Reunited After 21 Years—Father to Die Today in the Electric Chair.

Milledgeville, Ga., Aug. 25.—(AP)—A father and son who had not met in twenty-one years were reunited in the shadow of the electric chair at the State prison farm here.

Andrew McCullough, grizzled Fayette county farmer, was in the death cell facing electrocution today as the murderer of W. B. Baker, Atlanta capitalist, when his son, Roy, serving a short sentence for misdemeanor, was brought in to see him.

"Roy?" said McCullough as the son entered. "Yes, papa," the younger man replied and they grasped hands, their eyes dimmed with emotion. Then as the son was taken from the death chamber, McCullough sighed, "and it took this (motioning toward the door that leads to the chair) to bring us together again."

Alvin, another son of McCullough, is serving a life term on a charge of participating in the slaying for which his father is to be electrocuted.

GREEN-COUGHLIN'S

This evening at Jarvis Grove, the Manchester Green team will again cross bats with Coughlin's Service Station, the team that the Green was just able to defeat by a score of 1 to 0 a few weeks ago.

The auto-valets have put in a lot of practice for this game, which they calculate will even things up, but the Green is in their best condition of the season, according to Manager Hubbard, who has been drilling his charges as steadily as weather would permit in preparation for the deciding game of the series to determine the championship of the Manchester American League, which will be played with the Baldwin A. C. at 4 p. m. next Sunday morning. Accordingly, this evening's encounter should be an interesting game. Play will be called promptly at 6 p. m. in order to avoid any chance of having darkness intervene.

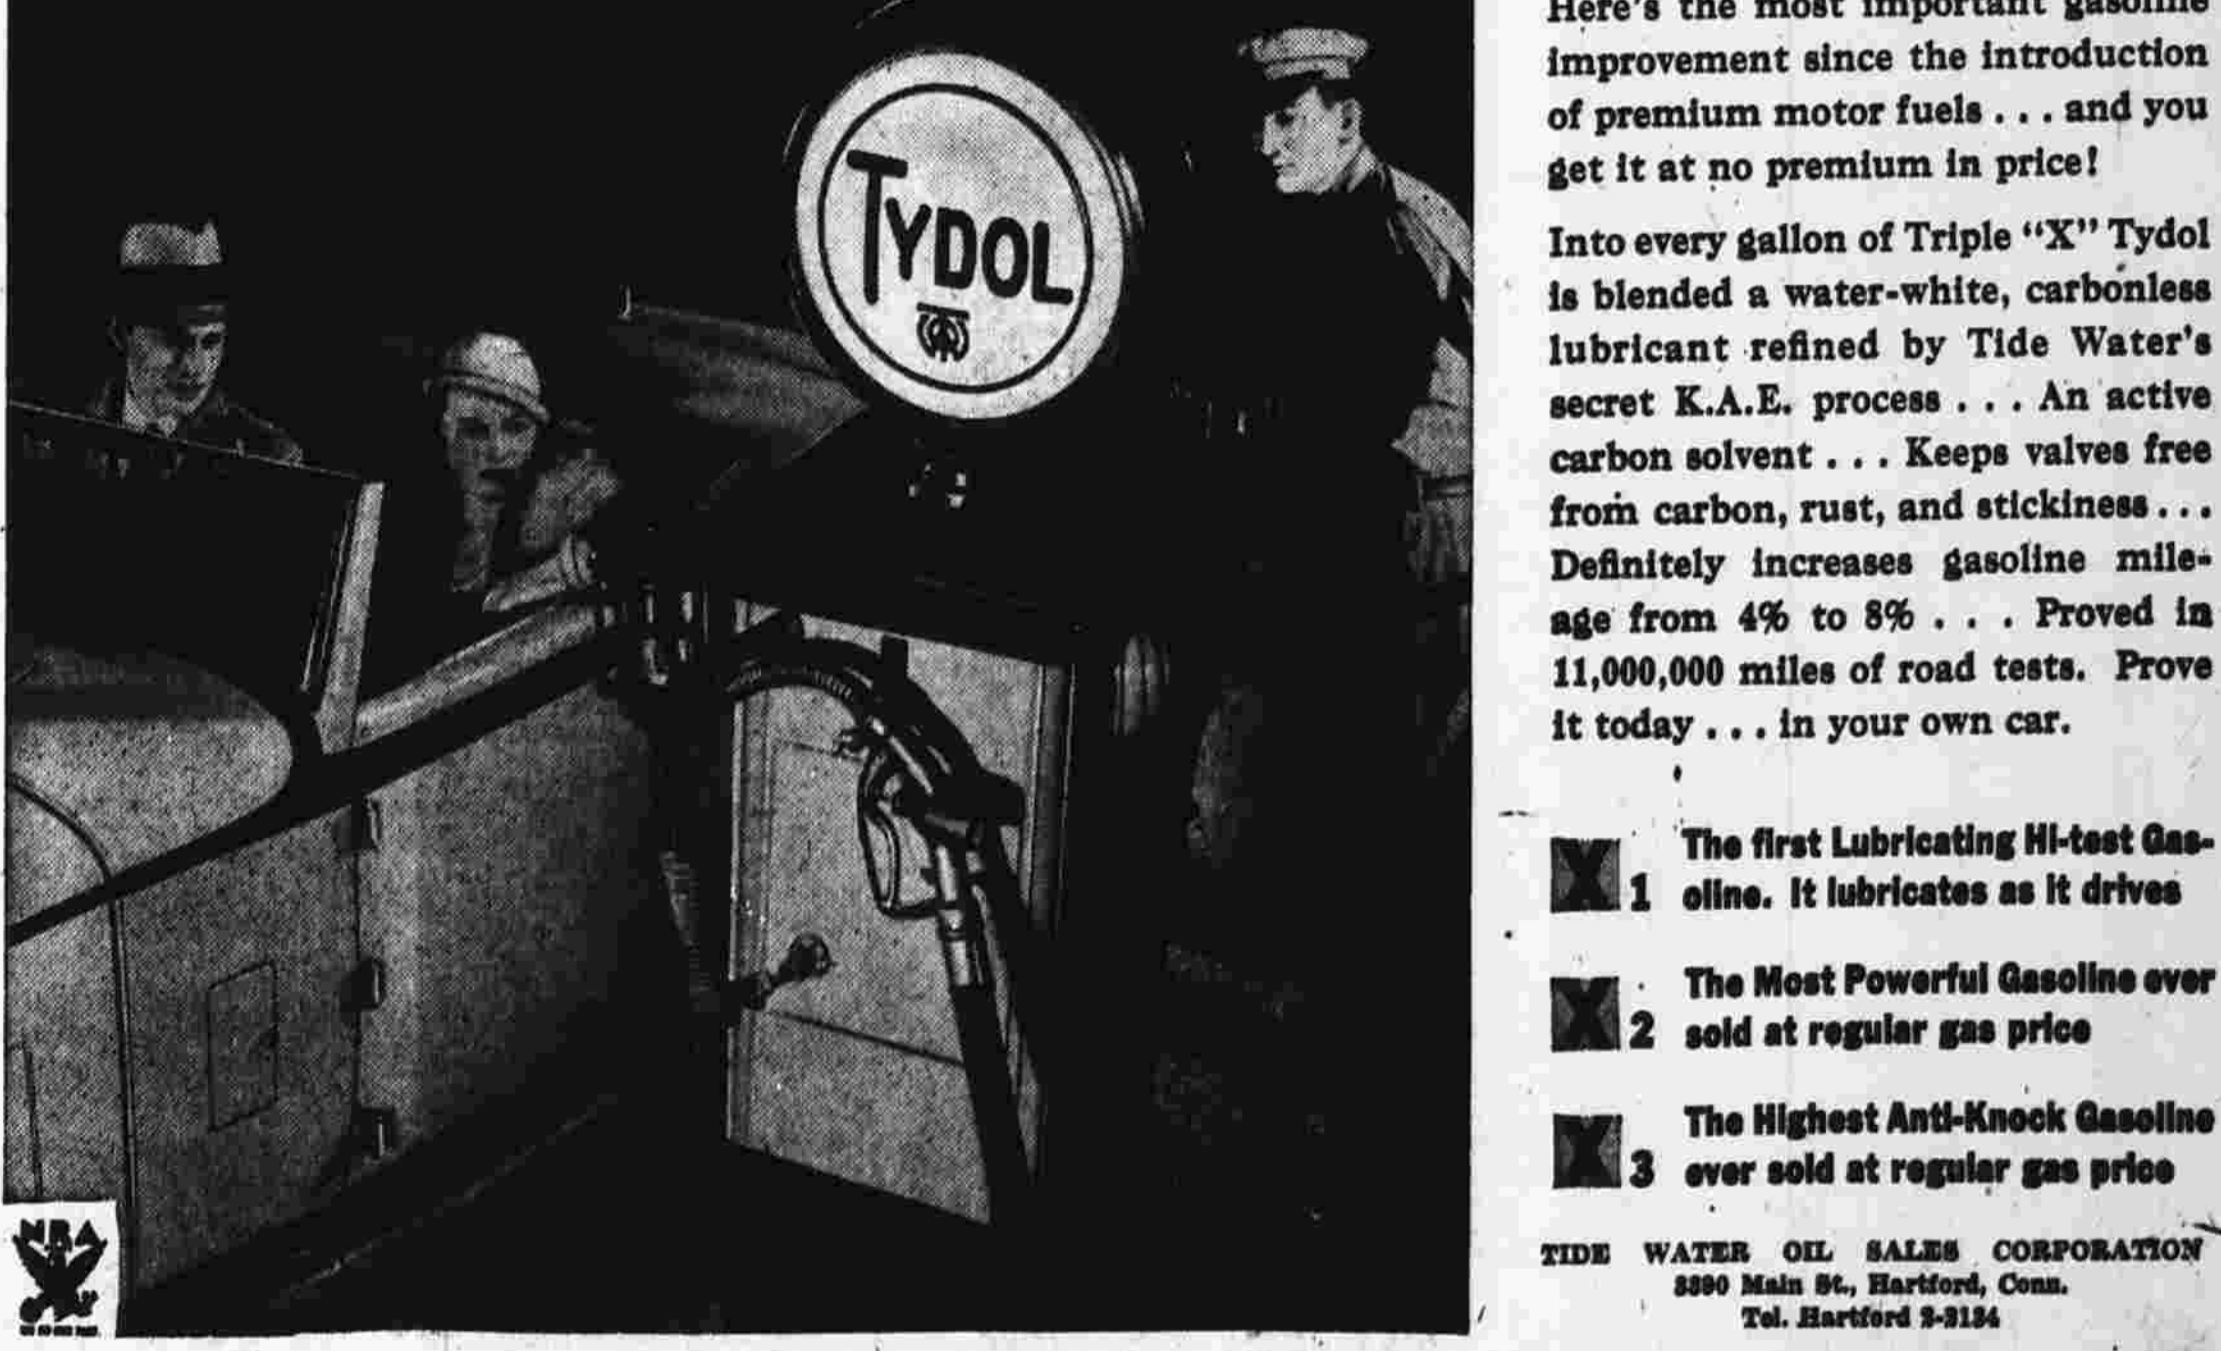

SOLDIER ON TRIAL

Panama, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Corporal Ralph Osman of Brooklyn, N. Y., will be tried before a military court next Monday on a charge of possessing military secrets.

Major Charles R. Finley said an investigation showed Corporal Osman had Communist connections and that no foreign power was involved in the case.

VANDEBERG RAPS FEDERAL SYSTEM

one-third—$939,000,000—was in the Seventh District.

The Michigan senator declared it was his opinion that it was impossible for an appraiser to come into a "strange city" and make "anything like a fair or intelligent appraisal" of a bank's assets.

Pratt, with a staff of five men from the Department of Justice, for several weeks have been investigating records of the closed First National Bank-Detroit and the Guardian National Bank of Commerce, which also is the subject of investigation by the one-man Grand Jury before which Father Coughlin testified.

Asked if he plans, on the basis of investigations to date, to recommend an investigation of the banks by Federal Grand Jury, Pratt said: "Right now I can't tell you if I would make such a recommendation. The investigation is far from complete. I am sure the attorney general would make no announcement that the case has been placed before the Grand Jury until he has the complete and final report of this investigation in his hands.

Pratt said he could not estimate how much longer the investigation would take. One of his associates said, in attending all sessions of the county Grand Jury at which Father Coughlin testified yesterday.

OIL PUBLICATION FAVORS THE CODE

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Approval of the code of fair competition for the petroleum industry, with one exception—price fixing—is voted by the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey in the latest issue of its official publication, "The Lamp."

While agreeing that the code offered by the administration at Washington is generally acceptable, "The Lamp" points out that "any attempt to maintain a price higher than is warranted under current conditions of supply and demand and other economic factors is unwise and is bound to collapse of its own weight."

The dangers of price fixing, the publication states, "are easy to understand because every major attempt at artificial control of prices over any appreciable period of time has been a pronounced failure."

The regulation of prices by natural forces, reflecting the changing relationship between production and consumption, needs no watching; but the arbitrarily named prices, which would extend from raw material to cover all products down to the point of actual consumption, would call for constant surveillance at every point where there is a gathering tank, a still, a bulk station, or a lone gasoline pump; and if one line of business then for others and finally for all industry."

BUILDERS HERE DISCUSS CODE

More Than 30 Attend Gathering in Temple Held Last Night.

At a meeting of more than thirty persons connected with the local building industry, held last night at the Masonic Temple, the Manchester Construction League was formed for the purpose of setting up a code of fair competition for electricians, painters, masons, plumbers and carpenters.

It was recommended that meetings be held by each individual group as soon as possible to elect two representatives to serve on a Board of Directors.

The meeting was called to order by John Tynan, after which John I. Olson was elected chairman and E. L. G. Hohensthal, Jr., secretary.

It is hoped, through this newly formed league, to establish a uniform scale of wages that will bring about an increase of business locally.

NEW EFFORT TO BRING INSULT FROM GREECE

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A new effort to extradite Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities magnate, from Greece was under way today with the State Department closely following developments at Athens and expecting an early arrest.

Department officials carefully refrained from comment, "however, lest premature statements interfere with the steps being taken in Athens where the American Legation is co-operating closely with a Justice Department representative who has just arrived."

It was understood that officials hoped to make a stronger case for extradition than that presented several months ago when a Greek judge declined to permit the American government to bring the elderly Insull back to face charges in connection with collapse of his utilities empire.

Since then the Chicago state's attorney's office has been working quickly to assemble additional evidence on which to base the new move now being launched.

TWO ELECTROCUTED FOR KILLING BRIDE

18 Year Old Farm Boy and His Uncle, 28, Meet Death in Chair.

McAlester, Okla., Aug. 25.—(AP)—An 18 year old farm boy, the youngest of the 41 criminals who have died in Oklahoma's electric chair, was executed today with his uncle for the murder of the latter's 15-year-old bride.

The two, southern Oklahoma farmers, paid the extreme penalty for killing Della, Claude's bride of three months, in an effort to collect the $5,000 insurance policy they had obtained on her life.

"This is bad," said George, as he was strapped in the chair. Just previously, he had told the crowd: "I did a crime and now I must die for it. I feel like I am going to heaven. Young men—crime doesn't pay."

The Olivers, officers they had plotted the crime even before Claude was married, beat the girl to death with tire tools and pushed the automobile containing her body into a ditch near Davis, Okla., last November 3.

POLICE COURT

William L. O'Marr, of Waldoboro, Me., was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning on East Center street for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants, and for driving a car with defective brakes.

Sergeant John McGinn made the arrest when he saw O'Marr's car zig-zagging and found that his brakes were bad and that the driver was intoxicated.

O'Marr was trying to raise the money in order to save himself from going to jail.

Camillo Lombardo, of 104 Homestead street, was arrested last night for keeping liquor with intent to sell after a raid was staged at "his home" by Sergeant John McGinn and Patrolman Joseph "Frenchie" and David Gailigan at 10 o'clock last night.

Frank De Felice, 24, of 103 Congress street, was arrested at 12:30 this noon by Patrolman Rudolph Wirtalla for driving a car without a license. He will be given a hearing tomorrow morning.

STATE MOVES FAST TO ARREST MEMBERS OF KIDNAPING RING

R. Dallas, manager of the Silver Dollar, a beer establishment on Hampton street.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn, who accompanied Mr. Hickey Tuesday night, when Ernest Corvo and Mario Campisi of Middletown were arrested in Windsor Locks, denied today a Springfield report that a relative of his had been selected for kidnaping by the gang.

Israel Poliner of the Middletown Police Court is another whose name has been listed as among intended victims of the kidnaping gang.

The hunt on Southington mountain, in Cheshire, a short distance from the Marion section of Southington, where, it is alleged, the gang were bringing one or more persons to be the center of the continued investigation today by County Detective Hickey, who was assisted by a detail of deputy sheriffs.

Springfield and several Connecticut cities were assisting in the possible members of the kidnap gang and a bootlegger ring with Waterbury and Middletown connections was under suspicion.

SUSPECTS IN STATE Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The United States Department of Justice has asked the Connecticut state police for aid in finding two men in connection with the kidnaping of John Factor in Chicago.

The men wanted are Basil Danghart, 30, alias Larry Kelly, "Owl" Kelly, Basil Markey, Lawrence Hall or Robert McGill, and Charles Connors, 34, alias "Ice Wagon" Connors, or Eugene Grotty.

TITLE HOLDERS LOSE FIRST ROUND MATCH

Mamaroneck, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Rudy and Wilkes Rothensberg, defending champions of the John G. Anderson memorial golf tournament at the Winged Foot country club today were eliminated in the first round by the four ball, best ball team fixture one up in 20 holes by the Greenwich Connecticut pair of Larry M. Loyd and Dan Topping.

Loyd and Topping staged a sensational rally after being three down with three to play to square the match on the 18th and win on the first extra hole, where Topping recovered sensationally after slicing his second to put his approach ten feet from the pin and hole out the first put for victory.

FIND COUNTERFEIT PLANT IN PRISON

Secret Service Agents Make Startling Discovery in the Leavenworth Pen.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Justice Department today disclosed the discovery and frustration of a plot to manufacture counterfeit money by inmates of Leavenworth penitentiary.

Dr. H. D. Powers, assistant psychologist of the Public Health Service, was reported by the department to have been suspended from duty at the institution pending a further investigation, some counterfeiting material had been found in a portion of the prison under his direct supervision.

The department said counterfeiting materials—including waterproof fluids of various colors—had been found. It added that other materials and instruments apparently intended for use in counterfeiting had been discovered in various parts of the prison.

No paper was found, it was said, that could be used for making currency, and the department thought it probable the plot had been afoot up before actual operations could begin.

"There are a large number of very skillful counterfeiters incarcerated in the institution at Leavenworth, and constant vigilance is required to prevent incipient attempts to make counterfeit money," the department said.

TEST AUTO DRIVER Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—To decide whether Louis Bell, 44, of West Hartford drove an automobile in an erratic manner last week because he was suffering from an advanced case of diabetes or because he was under the influence of intoxicating liquor, Judge John M. Bailey, in police court today, ordered that a blood test be made to learn Bell's exact condition in relation to the claims made by the defense. This course was decided upon after a police surgeon and the accused personal physician had disagreed as to the possibility of the condition of Bell the day he was arrested on Main street by Police Officer Joseph Moran.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

Here's one of those indispensable things that you've been looking for—a record chest, something in which to keep your receipts, clippings and bills in systematic order.

If you are a family of two or three it is sensible to can most fruits and vegetables in pint jars. A well packed pint jar will be sufficient for one meal, while a quart jar would be too much and the remainder might be wasted if not used quickly.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 25. A DREAM SOLUTION.

A Washington judge recently sentenced to 60 days in jail two men who had jumped out of their automobile and beaten up a pedestrian who protested when their car grazed him. The judge said: "The peculiar insolence and bad manners toward pedestrians on the part of the average American motorist is something I have never been able to understand."

It is very doubtful if the bad manners of the average motorist toward pedestrians are at all comparable to those of the train who took a lesson in Judge Schuldt's court, since it is probably only the occasional driver who would think of carrying discourtesy to the point of quarreling with a justly indignant person afoot. But, with all the consideration in the world, it is impossible to maintain that the average driver treats the pedestrian with the fairness that is his due.

Test it for yourself. Try to cross Manchester's wide Main street at any time when there is considerable traffic—which is most of the time—and see how much consideration you get. Having watched for some time for a chance and having negotiated half the width of the street and arrived at a point within perhaps fifty feet of your destination you become aware of an approaching car, some 300 feet away and making about 40 miles an hour, tooting its horn in warning. If you continue on your way you know that when you have made just about half the remaining distance to the curb, which would consume about five seconds at your ordinary gait, you will get there just in time to be knocked a block by the tooting car, which is traveling twelve feet to your one. Either you grab your hat and run, at hazard of your arteries, or you stand still, like a dummy, and wait for the motorist to sweep scornfully by.

Apparently it never occurs to the motorist that there is no more reason for expecting you to accommodate yourself to his speed and convenience than there is for you to expect him to accommodate himself to your speed and convenience. He simply takes it for granted that, since he is rolling and you are afoot, you are as nothing and he is everything.

Yet he should know very well that every instant a pedestrian spends in crossing a busy thoroughfare is fraught with some danger—not necessarily great but inevitable—while it would not detract from his own safety in the least but on the contrary increase it if, instead of forcing you to stop, he were to moderate his own speed enough to give you a "break."

passage of this act." Also it is forbidden to issue a permit to any person "unless he is, with respect to his character, record and reputation, satisfactory to the Commission."

The presumption would seem to be, then, that Ernest Corvo of Middletown is a person of character, record and reputation satisfactory to the State Liquor Control Commission, since until quite recently, when he lost his business through financial difficulties, Corvo has been operating a tavern in his home town.

Mr. Corvo may be a person satisfactory in character and record to the Liquor Control Commission, but he is so far from being satisfactory to the Hartford County State's Attorney's office that, along with his friend Mario Campisi, he is now being held in default of $25,000 bail on a charge of conspiracy to kidnap.

According to the published dossier of Mr. Corvo, Liquor Control Commission permittee, his police record in Middletown contains eight entries, running back nine years, including five convictions of various offenses, the last of which, no longer ago than January of the present year, was for violation of the liquor laws, for which he was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to thirty days in jail, execution being suspended.

Does anyone imagine that under any decent licensing arrangement whatever the Corvo person would have been permitted to run a saloon or tavern or call it what you will? It goes without saying that the revelations in the kidnapping plot disclosed through the ceaseless activity of the Hartford County prosecutor's office and the apparently sleepless County Detective Hickey will stir the indignation of the entire state, and that mobsters and crooks will be more than ever impressed with the peril of operating in Connecticut. But in the midst of our self congratulations on possessing such effectual defenders as Mr. Alcorn and Mr. Hickey, it would be well to bear in mind that we have created, through our misconceived and rubbishy liquor law, a system of liquor control extremely likely in the long run to make the work of the serious law enforcers more and more difficult—and that we must have something very different before the problem of liquor traffic can be marked "settled."

HEW TO THE LINE. The Bridgeport Times Star seems to be conducting a lone-hand campaign against something that looks like skulduggery in the matter of the new postoffice being built in its city—or which, more properly, isn't being built though it was started some time ago.

It appears that a certain quality of limestone was specified for the structure and that an inferior quality was supplied, a good deal of which has already been incorporated in the edifice. The architect protested and then along came some special representative of the government, inspected the bad stone and condemned it. No less than four experts working for the government have gone into the matter and have agreed that the poor stone must come out and that those bad blocks that have not yet been placed must stay out.

All this was weeks ago, and still, according to the Times Star, the contractors are trying to get an acceptance of the work so far done after some sort of processing to make the bad stone "just as good." Meantime the building is held up.

The Park City newspaper thinks it is about time to put an end to this kind of shenanigan. We quite agree with its position when it says: "If these matters can be fixed up to suit the needs of those who bid on government work, why not let down the bars and declare an open field for all bidders with the understanding that if they get into trouble in carrying out the letter as well as the spirit of the instrument governing the letting, all they have to do is to get busy with easy-going Uncle Sam and have things adjusted to their liking."

Of course that would mean the end of all honesty in the erection of public buildings, because the fakers would then be absolutely certain in every case to underbid the honest contractors. It may not be of absolutely vital importance whether Bridgeport gets exactly the kind of a postoffice the government intended it should have. But it is of vital importance whether the system of contract letting on government work shall not be converted into a very bad joke.

the middle ages. The theory that the person who by thrift or otherwise had become the possessor of an industrial plant was responsible to nobody but himself for its administration took very firm hold of a great many minds between the seventeenth and the twentieth centuries. In fact it may truthfully be said to have been a cardinal article of the faith of a large majority of industrial employers as recently as fifty years ago.

During several decades that doctrine has been under pretty steady fire from many directions. Sociologists have attacked it, the churchmen have campaigned against it, humanitarians have assailed it, the colleges have educated against it. And now the economists, practically to a man, are arrayed in opposition to it. Since the debacle of unrestrained individualism in industry four years ago it has come to be a recognized fact that an economic system predicated wholly on the will and the purposes of the employer, regardless of any moral equation simply will not work.

Yet it was inevitable that such a system, having functioned for some three hundred years—badly indeed for millions of human beings but to the eminent satisfaction of the few who happened to land on the top of the haphazard heap—would possess a certain number of obstinate adherents among the small class of its beneficiaries.

The Alabama man is merely one of these—a leftover from a time that is gone. He and a few more like him are fighting a rearguard action. But it is against hopeless odds.

IN NEW YORK

(A New Yorker seeing Paris, Julia Bianhard here records more fascinating items from the gay and glamorous French capital.)

Paris, Aug. 25.—Paris is a dog's Paradise. All the best places cater to dogs. American women, here alone, find that headwaiters are much more attentive to them if they carry a Pekie or trot an amusing Dachshund or Scotty on a leash. One cafe, Au Colisee, issues a printed menu for dogs, an amusing little card entitled, "For your little pet, Madame." Dogs' vegetables, a mixture of spinach, carrots, green beans, cost three francs (about 18 cents); a hash of raw meat, rice, noodles and vegetables, called a special dish for dog gourmets, comes to four francs (about 24 cents). Desserts cost two francs each. At the bottom of the card just so Madame won't worry about her pet's digestion, the house writes a personal note to the effect that these dishes are prepared with the same care that has made the cooking at the Colisee famous. "Doggie eats his repeat on a special dish at the feet of his mistress. Or he can even sit on a chair beside her."

Au Colisee is the smart international cafe on the Champs Elysees. It stands on the site of a famous old music hall in the days of Louis "th. Marie Antoinette used to visit an old Colisee. It is not a socially smart cafe but it gives visitors a cross-section of Paris. Sleek auto salesmen, from the smart motor shops along the Champs Elysees, substantial French business men, many colorful Easterners and Eastern Europeans, brisk English women shoppers, American buyers, all dine there. It has the only air-conditioned bar in Paris, an enormous circular basement room with glass enclosed staircases lining a half-circle of the room. You look directly at these gorgeously feathered birds.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

GUARD AGAINST ATHLETE'S FOOT

The fungus which causes athlete's foot is commonly found on the floors of gymnasiums, locker rooms, around swimming pools and on the tiles in public showers. The disease is picked up in walking through such places in bare, warm, moist feet. As may be suspected from the name, the disorder is most commonly found among those who are athletes. It is exceedingly common among university students and probably three-fourths of the male students either have or have had athlete's foot. The reason more men are affected with this trouble is probably because they are careless about protecting their feet and usually do not wear rubber bathing shoes. A second reason is that men usually do not give their feet the same care that women do, and this carelessness may lower the resistance of the feet to the microscopic fungus parasite.

The fact that a woman does not go to gym, pool, or other places where athlete's foot is prevalent does not necessarily protect her for, if the man of the family picks up this disorder, he may spread it on the bathroom floor at home, and other members may easily contract it as the disorder is very contagious. By first rubbing the infected feet with a towel and then other parts of the body it is possible for the infection to spread to the groins or arms.

Several forms of this disorder are known, but the most common are itching, smarting, scaldiness, redness, thickening of the skin and cracks and fissures in the skin. The parts under and between the toes is usually the first place involved. Athlete's foot is usually spread by means of better if it is not corrected. The treatment of athlete's foot consists in applying preparations which will kill the fungi. To stop any possible re-infection from the shoes in which the fungi continue to grow, powdering the interior may be advisable. The shoes twice a week at night, shaking the shoes out well the next morning. Putting gasoline on the shoes and allowing them to dry will also kill the fungi. All stockings should be boiled if possible, or in woolen hose should be sent to the cleaners.

Until your feet are healed, do not go barefoot in a shower or along runways used by the public. I have found that local treatment of the affected area with strong ultra violet ray is very beneficial as the fungi are thereby destroyed. No other treatment is ever cured, must persevere, since one small unhealed

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Extracting of Wisdom Teeth)

Question: Byron M. writes: "I have been having trouble with my wisdom teeth. Is it necessary to have these extracted?"

Answer: I do not advise extracting the wisdom teeth unless they are badly decayed or so far out of their normal position as to injure the jaw or other teeth. The wisdom tooth is as valuable as any other tooth, and it assists in filling out the jaw. Better get the opinion of more than one dentist.

Two Exclusive Spots

A much smarter place to lunch, only about a fourth as large but twice as expensive, is La Cremalliere. Triangular shaped, it points back from one side of La Place Beauvau. It has always been there, but one year ago Maurice, director of Citro for 20 years, took it over. Lady Abby, the Rothschilds, Princess Paley, Mrs. Reginald Felows, the P. A. E. Wideners and the W. K. Vanderbilts, Jr., and other noted Americans lunch there at least once a week during their stay here in Paris's social season. La Cremalliere is the only Paris cafe that serves butter, with bread without its being ordered.

Almost directly across the street is the French "White House" where the President lives. Only it isn't white. It is a picturesque, huge old graystone mansion, set back in a

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

MINERS RECALL STRIKE IN '25, IGNORE LEWIS

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 25.—The striking miners of Fayette County, Pa., have a good memory.

That's why they didn't go dashing back into the mines when President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers ordered them to do so after signing a strike truce with the government and the subsidiary of the Steel Corporation which employs them.

There was a long, bitter national coal strike in 1922 when coal operators announced wage reductions and union miners sought renewals of contracts. A remarkable outburst of union organization occurred in many non-union fields with little or no help from the U. M. W. One such field was Fayette County, whose miners joined the strike.

Miners Charged Betrayal

But when the strike settlement was negotiated the newly organized fields were left out of the settlement. Lewis couldn't settle for anyone outside his previously organized territory.

Fayette miners, left to shift for themselves, charged betrayal. Since then they've worked for about two-thirds of the basic pay prevailing in union mines 50 miles away. Recently they have organized again under the U. M. W., demanding union recognition from the coal companies. But their allegiance to Lewis is slight. They wouldn't return to work merely on his sayso. Realizing that it would do no good to send Lewis, Administrator Johnson dispatched NRA Labor Advisor E. F. McCready to Fayette in the belief that they would listen to a customary appropriation for fighting mosquitoes in the District of Columbia.

Sherman's Figs

There's a story behind that embarrassing shipment of two black pigs which Capt. Thomas Jefferson Davis received at the War Department from Lieut. John Sherman, great-nephew of the General Sherman who marched to the sea.

Davis is aide to Chief of Staff Douglas MacArthur—at whose office the pigs were delivered—and Sherman is aide to Gen. P. L. Miles. On inauguration day Sherman was standing directly behind Miles. Davis, who had been kidding Sherman about the pigs Great-uncle Sherman's troops had stolen from the Davis South Carolina estate, demanded that Sherman salute a confederate flag coming up the street.

"If you don't," Davis said, "I'll push you against Miles so hard he'll fall into the street."

So Sherman saluted, but swore to get even.

That Laundry Code

Officials of NRA explain their slip-up on the laundry code by citing the speed with which they have to work.

They okayed a temporary code—labor representatives as well as industrial representatives.

Then a lot of people began to roar, chiefly newspapermen. The code contained a $6.30 weekly minimum wage for female laundry workers in the south—a rate well below that provided in any other approved code.

So the NRA quickly withdrew its approval.

One of the effects of Federal economy was the elimination of the customary appropriation for fighting mosquitoes in the District of Columbia. Mosquitoes in nearby states seem to have heard about it.

FOUND DEAD IN HOME

Ansonia, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Frederick Bellaria, 52, a member of the Ansonia superannuated police force, was found dead last night at his home 55 Front street, where he lived alone. He had not been seen since Monday and the police being notified, entrance to the house was effected by way of a window and the man found dead on a couch. Mr. Bellaria suffered shock last May and is believed to have been stricken some time Monday with another which caused death. The body indicated the man had been dead a couple of days.

Mr. Bellaria was appointed a superannuated officer in 1917, but later resigned. His wife and son died within a short period of each other two years ago. Four young children survive.

A marble fountain, installed just inside the main entrance of Wrigley field, home of the Chicago Cubs, will be a memorial to the late William Wrigley, who owned the club for years.

MRS. MARY RUMSEY FACES NRA FIGHT

Resignation of Dr. W. F. Ogburn Forerunner of Shakeup of NRA Administration.

By HELEN WELSHIMER
NRA Service Writer

New York.—If the resignation of Chicago's Dr. William F. Ogburn from the National Recovery Administration is the forerunner of a shakeup in the NRA's Consumers' Advisory Board, trouble will hang heavy over an old colonial house in Georgetown, capital suburb, which Mrs. Mary Harriman Rumsey has rented at her own expense and donated to the government as headquarters for the work of protecting the poor old public from profiteering.

Mrs. Rumsey, daughter of the late E. H. Harriman of railroad high financing fame, is chairman of this consumers' board, and the storm and strife of any reorganization will naturally center around Mrs. Rumsey's attractive head. So far she has been able to stay well out of the thick of the fight, but her unusual ability as an organizer of charities, civic enterprises and consumers, as contrasted with her father's ability as an organizer of capital, makes her one of the most interesting women in Washington.

A Wealthy Woman

She isn't a novice at the game which she is playing on the Washington stage where she acts as representative for America's 130,000,000 consumers. She has taught the doctrine of co-operative buying for years, and insisted right along that consumers and producers can get together and work out a satisfactory schedule if they only will. Her own pockets, of course, have plenty of money. Her father left $100,000,000 to his heirs.

But her aim has always been to put more money in the overall and apron and tweed business suit pockets of those who labor. Just now, putting industry to work, sending men back to their jobs, keeping prices and purchasing power together, she says, are her chief tasks.

As a girl she studied sociology and biology at Barnard College, while the other debutantes, deciding the lemon-cream question over tea tables and rehearsing waltz music. A little later she married the late Charles G. Rumsey, noted artist and polo player. Together they were active in New York social and hunting circles.

Organized Junior League

But the Harriman heiress was restless. She listened to her father's plans and became his confidante. She wanted to start something of her own. One day she called a group of girls together and organized them into a committee to send flowers to hospital wards. The committee had so many applications that in 1901, under Mrs. Rumsey's leadership, it was organized into the Junior League, a charitable organization that now includes 131 leagues in the United States.

Mrs. Rumsey then looked around for bigger fields. They came tumbling. Once she had a newspaper in the South. She helped to promote the American Farm Foundation which promotes co-operation in agricultural pursuits. She was influential in the formation of the New York City Community Council. She is trustee of Barnard College.

During the war she served as chairman of the finance committee of the Community Council of National Defense, now the Community Council of New York City. Back in 1923 she went to Spain where she presented the government with a statue of Pizarro, conqueror of Peru. The statue, which was one of the works of her late husband, was accepted by the King of Spain. Mrs. Rumsey, a little later, was given the ribbon of the Royal Order of Isabelle the Catholic by the Spanish government.

Returning to America Mrs. Rumsey received more publicity. Not quite so pleasant this time. She had failed to understand some customs laws and unintentionally did not declare some of her purchases. The fines amounted to $7,400.

Aids Unemployment

She paid the amount and set about her civic tasks at once. She served as chairman of the Women's Committee of the Emergency Relief Committee, which made house-to-house canvasses in the interest of employment. She also donated $20,000 towards emergency relief. She was instrumental in the work of the Block-Alders of Manhattan, community councils, Emergency Unemployment Committee, Girls' Service League, and Women's Trade Union League.

Several years ago she bought an old Brooklyn ferryboat and converted it into a sanitarium for tubercular children. Her husband's studio, which she retained after his death, serves as the scene of displays by the Metropolitan Junior for Achievement Crafts Clubs, and theatricals by the Girls' Service Club.

Together with Alfred E. Smith, Mrs. Rumsey serves as an honorary chairman of the New York Citizens Summer Playground Committee this year.

When Amelia Earhart Putnam returned home from her trans-Atlantic solo flight a year ago, Mrs. Rumsey was chairman of the committee which gave the aviatrix a welcoming banquet.

Runs a Farm

Mrs. Rumsey doesn't devote all of her time to civic affairs, however. She has a 500-acre farm in Virginia, where she raises horses and bees, and does considerable riding. She has three children who take some of her time. Charles Rumsey, 21, is at Harvard, Mary Averill Harriman Rumsey, who was introduced to society a year ago, is 18 and has been attending the Foxcroft School. Bronson Harriman Rumsey, who wants to be a sculptor like his father, is 16.

Just as Mrs. Rumsey's father used his energy and originality towards building up a network of railroads, Mrs. Rumsey has been taking the same ability and using it in remodeling or re-building the nation's economic life. Women do most of the buying in America. Consequently it is interesting to note that in the National Recovery program, a woman stands as the consumers' representative. Especially a woman who has enough money in her own pockets to buy anything at almost any shop.

COVENTRY

Mr. and Mrs. Henry I. Barnes start this morning to the Century of Progress Exhibition.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrad Hill are touring through the White Mountains.

The Grange and friends gathered at the Grange Hall to greet Mr. and Mrs. Henry Reed who were married recently. They were presented with a rocking chair and suitable.

Thursday, Aug. 31, Coventry will hold its 3rd annual 4-H club fair at the Grange Hall. Starting at 2 p. m. s. d. t. There will be an exhibition of vegetables, flowers, canning, cooking, dairy stock, poultry and pets. During the afternoon the two girls from Coventry who tried out in Style Dress Reviews, will model their costumes. The 4-H orchestra will play during afternoon and evening. At 6 p. m. s. d. t. a vegetable supper will be served under the direction of Mrs. John E. Kingsbury and Mrs. A. E. Pore. The vegetables will all be fresh from the gardens of 4-H members or their families. Haven. The entertainment program is: Play, "Not Quite Such a Goose"; dramatized song, "Rugged Cross"; sketched, "Aunt Frue and her Niece. Refreshments will be on sale. The proceeds of the day will go towards premiums for another fair next year.

NEW SOCIALIST GROUP

Band, Alta, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Steps were under way today to organize a new international group of Socialists having interests in the Pacific area.

Lord Snell, a member of the British group attending the conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations organized the group, assisted by Walter Nash, leader of the New Zealand delegation.

At round table discussions, Chinese members described exchange stabilization as one of the more important problems before the world. Tariff agreements, they said, and wide international trade depend on an agreement in currency matters.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL FOR HUB POLICE HEAD

1,000 Policemen to Handle Crowds Expected to Gather During Rites for Supt. Crowley.

Boston, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Boston today was prepared for what officials believed would be one of the largest and most impressive funerals here in many years—the services for Michael H. Crowley, superintendent of police.

Approximately 1,000 policemen, in addition to 200 officers assigned to the cortege, were called out to handle the crowds expected to gather at the Crowley home in the Dorchester section, along the route to the Roman Catholic Cathedral of the Holy Cross and at the cathedral and cemetery.

The capacity of the cathedral will be taxed by the 3,000 processionalists and there will only be room for some 400 of the public during a solemn high mass of requiem celebrated at 10 a. m. by Rev. Fr. Neil A. Cronin. Many state and city officials, hundreds of the superintendent's friends and police executives from nearly every large city of the east were expected in the procession.

The cortege, led by two officers on black motorcycles, will leave the home at 9:15 a. m. About 200 members of the Boston Police Department will follow the motorcycle escort. Next in line will be a delegation from the Boston Fire Department followed by the Metropolitan District Police, the Massachusetts Police Officers Association, the Boston Post, V. F. W., and delegations from many civic and religious organizations.

For the LOVE OF EVE

by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries DICK RADER, construction superintendent. He wants her to give up her job but she refuses. Eve does not want her employees to know she is married so they keep the marriage secret several months. At Christmas she announces it. They spend a brief vacation at the home of Eve's father. Back at the office MARYA VLAD, fashion artist, and ARLYNE SMITH, stenographer greet Eve excitedly. Eve knows that MONA ALLEN, the new copy writer, dislikes her and is trying to cause trouble for her.

Eve and Dick invite several friends to a New Year Eve party at their apartment. Arlene hopes to make an impression on GEORGE BLISS but Mona vamps him. Eve buys several expensive antiques, spending money Dick has given her to pay the rent. They quarrel.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVII About the middle of January Eve received a letter from Irene Prentiss in New York. One paragraph of that letter was destined to change the trend of events for Eve and Dick Rader.

"Since you have decided to become a business woman," Irene wrote, "don't you think you should get more for your money than the purchase of a few household gadgets you would ultimately buy, anyhow? Why don't you invest your earnings in some of the stocks that are so good now? You could build up a nice little fortune for yourself and be independent of your husband. There is such a thing as letting your money work for you, you know. And think of all the things you could do with some extra cash. How about a trip to Europe, for instance? I want to go but I certainly don't intend to spend my hard earned salary checks on the trip. I've done pretty well during the last two years, buying low and selling high. I expect to do even better this year. Really I wish you would get in on some of the following which have been making excellent showings—"

Here she listed several stocks, the mere names of which were exciting to Eve. If Irene could make money from her earnings so could she, Eve reasoned. She put the letter in her purse and turned her attention back to the lay-out on her desk. Bixby's had secured the stock of an oriental rug dealer who was retiring from business and leaving the city. The advertising office was draped with gorgeous Persian rugs and Marya was aglow with eagerness as she worked at her drawing board. Once she looked up and exclaimed, "Oh, if only I could do these in color."

"You can have your Saruks and Bokharas," said Arlene, "but I've a yen for a room-size Chinese rug. If I ever find a man who will buy me one I'll drape myself around his neck for life." Eve smiled as she fastened the sheets of copy together with a clip. She always felt a sense of pride when Barnes entrusted the preparation of a full page advertisement to her. Today she was more than usually pleased. Oriental rugs heretofore had been something to write about. Now, after reading Irene's letter, they had become a definite reality. Some day she, too, might own such lovely rugs. Her interest was aroused and she determined to follow Irene's suggestion. For the present, however, she decided to keep all this a secret from Dick. After she had made a great deal of money, she would surprise him with the news.

That evening she scanned the financial pages of the newspapers and compared Irene's list with the day's ratings. Each stock showed a gain. Yes, Irene was right. It was a simple matter to make money. But how, Eve wondered, did one go about it? She had not the slightest notion how to buy stocks and decided to ask Dick. He would not suspect that she intended to speculate.

"Dick, dear," she began, "I've heard people talking so much about buying and selling stocks. Where do they do it? I mean here in Lake City?" "Some of them buy through their bankers," he told her, "and some buy through stock brokers like Sloan & Sanford." That was enough for Eve. The next day she hurried through her luncheon and crossed the square to the gray limestone building which housed the Sloan & Sanford company. She scorned the elevator and walked up the marble stairs to the second floor. Easy access was one of the features of the brokers' office. The outer door opened and closed with rapidity and a stream of people seemed to be passing through. Feeling a little nervous, Eve entered, hoping no one would notice her. She was at a loss what to do next. She had a vivid impression of stock exchange scenes during the exciting moments and expected to hear men shouting while others hurried about, all more or less wild-eyed in their feverish anxiety as the ticker clicked off the figures sending their fortunes soaring.

Instead Eve saw a line of men, mostly middle-aged or elderly, seated in class room chairs with right arm desks. They were quietly and intently watching the board before which a young lad dashed back and forth, chalking figures. The chief sound was the staccato of the ticker as it spit forth a constant stream of paper tape. Eve stood, confused, until a boy approached her. "Anything I can do for you?" he questioned. "Why—uh—is Mr. Sanford in?" Eve stammered, to her own surprise. She had known some Sandfords at school and the name had a pleasant association.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Sanford is out at lunch," the boy replied. "Will some one else do?" "No, thanks. I'll be back later," Eve answered, relieved and hurried out. She had not planned what to say to Mr. Sanford. Dick had told her that some people bought stocks through their banks. Perhaps that would be simpler. Her lunch period was over and Eve could not escape from the office until evening. Then it would be too late to go to the bank. She would have to wait until tomorrow.

But the next noon there was a pouring rain and Eve had so much unfinished work on her desk that she took time only to slip down to get a foothold, she told herself, deducting, according to an arrangement with Bixby's, for apparel charged to her account. Eve's personal finances were in a low state, yet she optimistically looked forward to making a fortune. There must be a way for her to get a foothold, she told herself, banishing from her mind any worry as to how she was to secure it. "When the time comes I'll take care of that," she thought. Eve usually waited until she had permitted herself to contemplate crossing it.

All bankers are not white haired old gentlemen. When Eve found herself ushered into the office of Mr. Brown, the manager of the stock and bond department of the City Bank, her assurance left her immediately as a pair of piercing dark eyes seemed to bore through her mask of nonchalance. He motioned her to a chair and then asked how he might help her. Eve decided it would be best to be frank and let this banker know she was a beginner who knew relatively nothing about playing the stock market.

Mr. Brown patiently explained the methods of buying and selling, both through buying outright or on margin. Margining appealed to Eve, inasmuch as there would be a quick turnover for a relatively small investment. Mr. Brown explained the hazards of the latter method but Eve characteristically refused to consider that side of the picture.

She produced the list of stocks which Irene had recommended. Some of them Mr. Brown approved. "But why go into this?" he said scornfully, pointing to one. "Can't you see that its returns would be seasonal? In the winter you would get good dividends, but the summer slump would more than offset that profit."

"And this?" he objected. "It is buyers like yourself who know nothing about trading who have boosted such stocks to inflated prices. Insistent buying forces the stock far beyond actual value, prompted by earnings." Eve's face flushed. Still she was convinced that Mr. Brown was giving her good advice. "How large a sum were you thinking of investing, Mrs. Rader?" he asked. "Perhaps I could suggest a method of distribution."

"Why—why—" Eve fumbled for words. "I haven't quite decided. But thank you so much for your advice!" she plunged on. "I'll stop in some time next week." Once more Eve was glad to be out in the winter sunshine. Three persons she knew passed but Eve did not see them. She was late getting back to the office and knew Barnes would be sarcastic about it. It made no difference to him that she had cut short her lunch period on other days. She would get that money somehow without letting Dick know and then she would margin. When she had a good sum she would gladly bid good-bye to Bixby's and to Barnes.

Already her vision of a future in the field of advertising had dimmed before the excitement of this new venture into the world of finance.

Address your envelope to Julia Boyd, Manchester Herald Fashion Bureau, 103 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y.

A creamy pimento ring for a main dish is sure to gain you a reputation as a hostess who knows just what to do for her friends. It is easy to prepare and can be made hours before the guests arrive, thereby avoiding last-minute confusion. Here are the things you will need to make creamy pimento ring: One package of lemon flavored gelatin, one and one-half cups of warm water, one-half teaspoon of vinegar, one-half teaspoon of salt, one-half cupful milk, one-fourth teaspoon paprika, one teaspoon minced onion, one-half cup of mayonnaise, one-half cup of grated American cheese, one-third cup of pimento—finely chopped. Dissolve the gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar and salt. Set in the ice box to chill.

Add milk, paprika and onion to mayonnaise and beat with rotary egg beater. When the gelatin is slightly thickened, beat in the mayonnaise mixture. Then fold in the grated cheese and pimento. Turn into ring mold and place again in the ice box to chill until firm.

When you are ready to serve, dip the bottom of the mold in warm water for a few seconds to loosen the "ring" and then turn, upside down, on a large platter which has been covered with lettuce or watercress.

Put a few pieces of lettuce in the center of the mold and place a few tablespoonful of mayonnaise on them. This recipe serves six. It makes a very attractive dish on a buffet supper table and, in addition, is hearty and filling.

COD LIVER OIL AIDS GREATLY IN BUILDING HEALTH. Now Widely Used To Promote Body's Development

By DR. MORRIS FISHER, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Long before physicians had any idea of the virtue of cod liver oil in relationship to health and prevention of disease, it was used by fishermen along the shores of the Baltic and North seas.

Before modern scientific medicine, cod liver oil was prescribed for rheumatism, tuberculosis and all sorts of wasting disorders. In 1917, articles began to be written indicating the immense value of cod liver oil for the prevention of rickets. In rickets there is softening of the bones due to a failure of the body to use calcium and phosphorus properly.

Strangely there was apparently no rickets in England until the development of window glass. Today it is recognized that the rays of the sun, which produce vitamin D in the human body, will not pass through ordinary window glass. Cod liver oil is especially rich in vitamin D, and is therefore of importance for the prevention of rickets. For this reason most doctors prescribe five drops three times a day for infants at two weeks of age, increasing the dose after three weeks to ten drops, and gradually increasing it further after a month so that two teaspoonfuls daily are being given. After three months of age, from four months of age on, infants should receive three teaspoonfuls daily.

These doses are not, however, the amount of cod liver oil recommended for the treatment of rickets in babies or for curing the disease. If a child has rickets or the tendency to rickets, it should have prompt medical attention so that suitable amounts of cod liver oil or the right type of cod liver oil concentrates may be prescribed.

Cod liver oil is also widely recommended for cases of tuberculosis type, though it does not have any specific effect on tubercles. But cod liver oil aids the food intake and supplies good quantities of vitamins, and is therefore especially useful in tuberculosis. Cod liver oil has special value in pregnancy, in which condition there is an exceptional demand on the mother to supply calcium and phosphorus for the infant. If the mother's diet contains a sufficient amount of calcium and phosphorus as supplied by milk or dairy products, she may take the cod liver oil to aid the use of these materials by the body.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Grapes are to be a "bumper" crop this year, so the market reports tell us, and since they make delicious preserves and butters as well as the always popular grape juice, they will claim much of the home-maker's attention.

Home-made grape juice is easy to make if you follow the rules. Wash grapes and pick from the stems. Put into preserving kettle with enough water to cover bottom. Cover and heat to the boiling point. Let boil gently until seeds are free. Pour into jelly bag and let drip. If you want a very clear, sparkling juice do not squeeze the bag. Measure this juice and bring to the boiling point. Add one cup sugar to four cups of juice and bring again to the boiling point and pour into sterilized jars or bottles and seal. Be sure the jars are filled to overflowing before sealing.

After the first extraction of juice return grape pulp to preserving kettle with water enough to half cover. Bring to the boiling point and simmer ten minutes. Turn in to jelly bag and squeeze, thoroughly. Let this juice stand overnight in a cool place. Pour off, being careful not to disturb the sediment in the bottom. Heat to the boiling point and add 1 cup sugar to four cups juice. Bring to the boiling point and pour into sterilized jars or bottles and seal. Both of these extractions must be diluted with water when served as a drink.

Grape Butter Five pounds grapes, 4 pounds sugar. Wash and pick over grapes. Remove from stems and wash. Press pulp from skins. Heat pulp to the boiling point and cook slowly until seeds are free. Rub through a sieve to remove seeds. Boil skins until tender, add pulp and sugar, 1 box raisins, 3 oranges, 1 sugar, stirring to prevent burning. Pour into sterilized jelly glasses and cover with paraffine. Cover with more paraffine when cold.

Any variety of grapes can be used for juice and preserves. Naturally the Concord makes a rich, colorful product.

Grape Conserve Five pounds grapes, 5 pounds sugar, 4 boxes raisins, 3 oranges, 1 cup nut meats.

Wash and pick over grapes. Press pulp from skins and cook pulp until seeds are free. Rub through sieve to remove seeds. Put pulp and sugar with orange and nut meats in a preserving kettle. Cook fifteen minutes and add nut meats. Cook ten minutes longer and turn into sterilized glasses. Cover with paraffine when cold. Cover with second layer.

Grape Ketchup Five pounds grapes, 2 1/2 pounds sugar, 2 cups vinegar, 1 tablespoon cinnamon, 2 teaspoons cloves, 1 tablespoon allspice, 1/2 cup salt. Wash grapes and remove from stems. Press pulp from skins and cook pulp until seeds are free. Put pulp, skins, sugar and vinegar into preserving kettle and boil until thick, about a half hour. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal.

A BOOK A DAY

HOW THE GERMANS TRY A MURDERER. Here's a Sharp Contrast to the American System.

By BRUCE CATTON

If you want a good sidelight on some of the things that are wrong with American criminal court procedure, you might read Margaret Seaton Wagner's horriifying book, "The Monster of Dusseldorf." This is a biography of Peter Kurten, who threw the city of Dusseldorf into a panic a few years ago by committing nine murders, trying to commit a score more and baffling the police.

Caught, at last, and dragged into court, Kurten proved a prize specimen for the psychiatrists. His heredity and his environment had both been of the worst. In his youth he had served many years in prison, and had been badly contaminated there. A woman years his senior had helped to develop his horrible taste for uncontrolled homicide.

Psychiatrists found that he displayed every type of sexual aberration known to pathology. Yet he was not insane in any sense of the word. He knew right from wrong, he was exceptionally intelligent, he was fully responsible for his acts, he could control his frightful impulses when and if he tried to; so the Germans, after a relatively short business-like trial, cut his head off.

Read all of this, and then imagine how it would have been in an American court. Imagine how expensive psychiatrists would have taken the stand for the defense, how clever attorneys would have shed tears, torn their hair and dwelt tenderly on his unhappy youth, his prison life, and so on. We would have had a field day of oratory, and in the end the man might have gone to prison for a few years. The Germans handle these things differently. Published by Dutton, this book sell for $2.50.

The earliest attempt to construct a two-wheel vehicle which would run under its own power—the birth of the modern motorcycle—was made by W. W. Austen, of Winton, Mass., in 1868.

Chic---Country Style

THERE'S A 'SPORTS' AIR TO THESE VACATION OUTFITS By JOAN SAVOY Country clothes for late summer and early fall strike interesting color notes. With blue sky, green grass and shady trees for a background, you don't have to stick to pastel colors. Nor to the ubiquitous black which predominates for street wear in the city.

Having appropriate costumes for the country makes a woman enjoy her vacation twice as much. A golf course holds no allure if you have taken along only city street ensembles and filmy afternoon outfits. Change into something that is colorful with a "sports" air about it and you'll be surprised how much you'll want to "take up" golf. Your linen suit, dressed up in country manner, makes an admirable vacation costume. A dark colored linen blouse or some kind of a sweater changes it completely from a street outfit to one that fits in with a country background.

Sweaters and skirts, always in excellent taste for sports, are practical additions to any well-planned vacation wardrobe. You can have one neutral colored skirt and several sweaters to wear with it. It's nice to have pockets in the skirt. They hold little odds and ends that you carry around with you on vacation. Your hands should be empty and free on long hikes across the countryside. Put your handkerchiefs, cigarettes, matches and the like in one pocket.

An orange tweed skirt and a beige rabbit's hair sweater-blouse (let's make a striking country ensemble. The sweater is embroidered with an all-over design of green and blood-orange dots of woven rabbit's hair. The tie, worn high around the neck in the latest mode, is green on one side and beige on the other. A plain linen suit (right) of yellow, blue and white is worn with a dark blue string blouse. It's the kind of a costume which makes you an attractive figure on any country landscape.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Baran

Little children as a rule know too little about the country. August is the time for them to learn a lot about it within riding distance of a county fair. These fairs are great institutions. Not only are they proud exhibits of prize live stock and preserves of quiet and poultry, but they represent an America of which the urbane knows too little.

The farmer, his family, their pride in achievement. There is no finer type of citizen than the progressive farmer. Progress in Farming Farming has progressed. Compare the sheep and pigs and cows of half a century ago to the big blooded we see in the stalls today. Compare the fruits of '40, neglected orchards to the snappy beauty of today's varieties. Compare almost anything of the old farm with that of today, and it would be a stubborn person who would not acknowledge progress.

The Century of Progress is not all demonstrated in Chicago, I believe those who can possibly afford it should take the children to the Fair in Chicago. But I think it is as important to let them see the progress the other fifty per cent has made of the country. We need a greater understanding between city and country. The farmer has his fair and invites his city cousin to go and witness his triumph. It is the city man's fault if he stays away and remains a stranger. His fault, too, if his children never grow up to be aliens to the farm life of the land.

City vs. Country It used to be that city children had relatives to visit in the country. Children visited grandparents and uncles there. These Thanksgiving time and blossom time were spent at the old farmhouse. They were akin to the country. They loved and understood. More recently the ties of city and country have chafed. This accounts for the occasional antagonism of the two. It is too bad. The country can live without the city, but the city cannot possibly exist without the country.

Children today need to have incorporated in their education a knowledge of the life and brain that feeds us and keeps life in our bodies. Don't forget the county fairs.

Two parents sat on the porch watching a game of tag. The children were pretty much of an age, all except little Peter next door. He was younger than the rest and besides he had had a sick spell in the spring that had affected his legs.

He was always being tagged. He was "it" most of the time. Their own boy and girl were among the best runners. They hadn't been tagged once. "I never saw anybody that could go like our Gretz," said her father. "She beats Dan all hollow. But she's good, too."

Suddenly something had happened. Gretz was tagged. Peter had caught her. "Hoh!" fibbed Peter's brother. "You let that little slow-poke catch you." "Oh, she's just a girl," shouted another boy. "Come on, try and catch me, Gretz."

Catching Up Gretz caught him although poor Peter was right in his seat. But Peter was soon tagged again. He ran breathlessly after each flying young body but each time they dodged. He was getting very tired.

And then something else happened. He caught Dan. "Say, what's the matter with you?" cried one of the girls. I believe you're just getting caught on purpose. It's no fun if you're going to play that way. "I think you're too," said Peter's brother. "You stay out, kid." "No, he's not." Dan told him. "Peter's good. He can run like everything. Can't you, Peter?" "She's bragged the little fellow, 'I'm all well. I've caught two people.'"

"Come on," cried Gretz. "Stop fussing." Kindness in Children The game was on again. But this time it was his own brother Peter caught. One by one each child took a turn. Peter was very happy. Some unspoken influence was at work. Every child in the crowd had seemed what the two champions had done. "Children are kind, aren't they?" said the mother of Gretz and Dan proudly.

"If it nifts them. They can be mean little devils. You answered her husband. 'It depends on the start they get.'"

"Don't think so. They are just shy about being kind. Boys are afraid other people will think they are slimes. Don't speak of it to them when they come in." Children are capable of great kindnesses. The example of one child will go far.

EAST TROUNCES WEST, 13-7, IN ALL-STAR GRID STRUGGLE

STERLING PLAY OF ALL-AMERICAN ACE SMASHES DEADLOCK

Harry Newman of Michigan Stars in Thrilling Battle; Heaves Winning Pass in Last Quarter.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The far west's football warriors tested the wizardry of Harry Newman, Michigan's magician of the gridiron—and lost.

Playing one of his greatest games, the all-American ace of the big ten football was led the eastern forces to a thrilling 13 to 7 triumph over the west in the all-star game before 45,000 spectators at Soldier Field last night.

Newman eclipsed the field with spectacular runs, punt returns, line smashes and generalship to conjure the victory.

Forty-five hand picked stars, gathered for the engagement by Coach Howard Jones of Southern California and Coach Dick Hanley of Northwestern, fought in the inter-sectional battle. Many of them demonstrated how they had won their football reputations, but Newman was the big show.

Deadlocked at seven all, after three quarters of battling under the flood-lights, Newman, a threat all evening, swung into action in the final quarter for his best performance, after Jim Furriss of Purdue had intercepted a west pass on West's 34 yard line.

The Wolverine star ran 11 yards around his right end and almost got away for a touchdown and then passed a bullet-like heave to Gene Ronsani of Marquette, who went over for the winning score.

MISS BRITAIN III IS SPEEDY CRAFT Travels 90-95 Miles an Hour on First Trial—Is Very Fast on the Turns.

Algonac, Mich., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Hubert Scott-Paine's Miss Britain III was the talk of the Algonac boat wells today.

Granted only an outside chance by speed boat enthusiasts to win the Harworth Trophy from Gar Wood and his speedy Miss America X, the revolutionary craft from England won many adherents yesterday when Scott-Paine sent it sweeping over the waters of Lake St. Clair at a speed yesterday estimated at between 90 and 95 miles an hour.

Veteran Harworth observers who have watched the trial runs of Kaye Don and Betty Carstairs, challengers of other years, were frankly admitting today that no challenger for the coveted trophy had ever given such an imposing show as that put on by the British sportsman.

The Miss Britain III, they said, was particularly impressive on the turns, negotiating the sharpest angles without difficulty.

Scott-Paine, although reporting that his boat "performed beautifully" refused to reveal what average speed he attained. He did remark, however, that the Miss Britain III was turning about 150 revolutions per minute at speed yesterday when she did on her trial runs in England.

Cecil Smith Brings New Spirit to Polo

By BILL BRAUCHER, NEA Service Sports Editor

New York, Aug. 25.—The professional of polo, by which is meant hard-riding young cattle wranglers such as Cecil Smith, seem to have upset the teacups.

More came out of the recent east-west series than a pawnbroker's first look would warrant. Topics of conversation on Long Island parties (and you should see the piazzas) establish the following:

1—Cecil Smith, riding fool from Texas, does not sit side-saddle. 2—There will be an east-west world series for years to come. Unless some members of the United States Polo Association get sore at certain other members.

3—Devereux Milburn and Tommy Hitchcock have become names that can be uttered above a whisper even in a remote bunkhouse on the western plains.

First there was Milburn. Dowagers let their daughters gaze adoringly at this youthful idol of old eastern polo. He could ride, he could hit, he wore his jodhpurs jauntily. He was the spirit of polo for years and years.

Then came Tommy Hitchcock, whose mother, Mrs. Tommy Hitchcock, Sr., taught a whole generation of players their primary lessons in the game.

Now comes the new spirit of polo, with something about it that harks back to Toledo and Dempsey, to Michigan and Willie Weston, to Boston and Babe Ruth. That spirit is expressed in one man—Cecil Smith, a young cowboy who likes beans better than tea, who rides

HOLLAND AND BRITTON SLATED TO BATTLE IN SEMI-FINALS TONIGHT

In Holland's Path

Important Match Scheduled for 5.30 o'clock at High School Court; Winner to Sturgeon-Urbanetti Match to Meet Bissell Tomorrow Morning at 9.

A hurried attempt to stage the last quarter-final match in the local men's singles tennis tourney late yesterday afternoon was prevented by the slippery condition of the High School courts, a fifth consecutive postponement being necessary. Clear weather today indicated that it will be possible to play tonight and the match between Walter Britton and James Britton has been scheduled for 5:30 o'clock.

Robert Sturgeon and Lebro Urbanetti are slated to play their quarter-final match this afternoon at 3 o'clock, the winner to meet Ed Bissell in the semi-final this morning at 9 o'clock. Although it has not been definitely settled, it is expected that the finals will be played Sunday morning.

Postponed daily since last Sunday morning, the Holland-Britton match looms as the most important and interesting clash of the tourney. Britton, a southpaw who plays a driving, smashing game is determined to wipe up the hopes of eliminate Holland, now campaigning for his sixth consecutive title.

The match is scheduled as best three out of five sets but it may be necessary to make it best two out of three in order to finish play before darkness arrives. This point will be settled before the contestants take the court at 8:30 this evening.

A good sized crowd was on hand for the Sturgeon-Urbanetti match last night but the mud had not yet dried from the court and it was decided to postpone the match until this afternoon. Urbanetti, seeded No. 5, is a heavy favorite to come through and earn the right to meet Bissell. A number of tennis fans pick Urbanetti to oust Bissell, last year's runner-up.

Yesterday's Stars (By Associated Press) Van Mungo, Dodgers—Blanked Reds with seven hits. E. Brandt, Braves—Stopped Cardinals, with seven hits. Dixie Walker, Yankees—Raked Indians pitching for double and two singles. Goose Goslin, Senators—Pounded two homers in triumph over Tigers. Irving Burns, Browns—Hit single in 11th drive in run that beat the Athletics. Jimmy Welch, Red Sox; and Luke Appling, White Sox—Former scattered eight hits and fanned ten in drive; latter tripled in tenth to open in winning run. Guy Bush, Cubs—Blanked Phillies with three hits.

FIELD OF 194 AFTER WESTERN OPEN TITLE Chicago, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Competing over two adjoining courses, layouts heavily fortified with trees, creeks and abrupt bluffs, a near record field of 194 professionals and amateurs today opened a 72-hole medal play battle for the western open golf championship at Olympia fields.

Walter Hagen, winner of the title at Cleveland last year, was missing because of his European tour, but there were plenty of important contenders.

Gene Sarazen, Horton Smith, Ed Dudley and Leo Diegel ranked as the favorites with considerable opposition expected from Johnny Farrell, Harry Cooper, Tommy Armour, Willie Goggin, Ralph Guldahl and Johnny Revolta.

Chicago—Henry Firpo, Louisville, outpointed Ray Trumble, Rockford, Ill. (6).

Spokane, Wash.—Johnny Sullivan, 147; Butte, Mont., outpointed George Anderson, 147; Seattle, (10); Ford Smith, 186, Seattle, knocked out Larry Holt, 186, Wheeling, W. Va., (8).

A'S-SUB ALPINE CLASH The Athletics will oppose the Sub-Alpines at Mt. Nebo field at 6 o'clock tonight in the second game of a series, the first game of which was won by the Alpines. The battles will be: Ponhillo or Mikoliet and Boggin for the Alpines and Burkhardt and Lamprecht for the Old Timers. All players are requested to arrive as early as possible so that a complete game may be played.

West Sides--Bluefields Play Sunday Morning

The Bluefields will meet the West Sides Sunday morning at the West Side oval in the second game of the town series. This game which was to have been played Sunday because of the inclemency of the weather and the poor condition of the diamond.

The West Sides are making this game a "grudge" game. They are not on friendly terms with any of the Bluefields and it is not at all probable that fits may fly between the teams if over. There is nothing baseball fans like better than to have a little pugilism in baseball games. The diamond will be fixed tomorrow afternoon so it will be in playing condition for Sunday's fray.

"Red" Kovis who has not lost a single game this season will be on the fringe line for the Foleymen. Billy Neubauser will be held in reserve for any emergency and it is likely that Coach Foley will have him in the "bull-pen" during the fix.

"Big Jack" Godak who was beaten in the first game will be on the mound for the West Sides.

VINES IS CLEARED OF PRO SUSPICION

Committee Finds No Basis for Charges Against Tennis Champ; Play Is Resumed at Forest Hills and Longwood Today.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines has been cleared of all suspicion of professionalism today and was free to concentrate on defense of his National singles tennis title at Forest Hills next month.

A two-weeks investigation into the California's amateur status, especially with regard to his competition with professional offers, had ended in complete exoneration by the Amateur Rule committee of the U. S. L. T. A.

The committee after an extensive examination of the champion's personal papers and correspondence, and "with the exception" of Vines himself, found that the California had not violated the amateur rule and ruled there was no basis for charges of any sort against him.

Vines sprang the result of the lawmen it was first announced Aug. 8.

"They can investigate as far as they like," he said at that time, "but they will find I am still an amateur."

RESUME PLAY TODAY Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Officials of the Women's National tennis championships held today after four postponements due to the weather.

Dorothy Round of England and Helen Jacobs, the defending champion, were to meet in the semi-final round to determine an opponent for Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, seeking the title for the eighth time.

In doubles, Mrs. Moody and Elisabeth Ryan were to face Miss Roun and Mary Beale for the right to battle Betty Nuthall and Freda James in the finals.

SPREAD MATCHES Brookline, Mass., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Running on a curtailed schedule the survivors in the National doubles tennis tournament today will resume play at Longwood.

Officials have spread the four quarter-final matches over today and Saturday, carded the semi-finals for Monday and the championship match for next Tuesday.

The long-delayed National mixed doubles play, disrupted by the rain which kept most of the women's entries at Forest Hills, will also get under way with 18 teams in the running.

EXTEND ACTIVITY OF PRO GRIDIRON CHAIN THIS FALL

Major Circuit Has Three New Clubs, Bringing Total to 10; Plan to Organize Minor Leagues.

Columbus, O., Aug. 25.—The National Professional Football League, the major league of the pro gridiron sport—a looking forward to its greatest season in 1933 and making plans for "chain stores," intended to make future seasons even bigger.

That's the picture painted by Joseph F. Carr, president of the league, who got his start in pro football by managing the old Columbus Fanhandles back in the days before most of the present-day football stars were born.

"We've shown a marked increase in attendance every year," Carr says. "Despite the depression and the worst weather we've ever experienced, 1933 was our best season in history."

Figures aren't available on gross receipts, according to Mr. Carr, but only one team which was in the league last year won't start this year and three new ones will face the barrier.

Usually when a team lost money in the old days it dropped out, Mr. Carr says. "Also I was always getting calls to come in and help 'em unsmear their finances. Those days have passed."

The only 1933 team to drop out was the Staten Island Stapletons. In place of the Stapletons the league has three new clubs, bringing the total to 10. The new teams are the Cincinnati Reds, Philadelphia Eagles and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Entrance of the two Pennsylvania teams into the league was made possible by the lifting of the blue law ban on Sunday football in Pennsylvania.

Hold-over teams in the league are Boston Redskins, Brooklyn Dodgers, Chicago Bears and Cardinals, Green Bay Packers, New York Giants and Portsmouth Spartans.

Among the plans for increasing interest in the program is the organization of several minor leagues, to be supported in part by holders of National League franchises, largely as the St. Louis Cardinals operate their baseball chain in the minors.

These plans haven't progressed to a point where details can be given out but it is known that Memphis is the hub city in formation of such a league in the south, a similar league is in process of organization in Texas and a third is being considered to include towns around New York and New England.

"These leagues, when formed, will serve two purposes," Mr. Carr says. "One will be to stimulate interest in pro football. The other will be to bring many teams which have been operating independently under the rules of our league. One rule we'll especially stress in organized leagues is the one forbidding tampering with college football players until they have completed their eligibility with the school they're attending."

Cincinnati, Aug. 25.—(AP)—They are going to find out today if it is true that a good amateur baseball crew can whip the Cincinnati Reds, occupants of the National League cellar.

Cincinnati fans have been saying so for years. Now the show down is at hand. The Reds will meet a picked team of Cincinnati amateur stars, probably on September 25.

But the principal idea is not to prove how terrible the Reds may be, or how good the amateurs are, but to stimulate interest in amateur baseball. Incidentally, it is hoped to raise some money to help the cause along.

Managers and coaches of all classes A teams in the municipal baseball league are to select the players who will oppose the National League.

JOHNSON EXONERATES STATE IN DISPUTE

Governor Cross Closes Incident With Reply Rebuking the General's Assistants.

Hartford, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Governor Cross today announced receipt of a telegram from General Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chief, exonerating Connecticut from alleged charges of failure to co-operate satisfactorily in the National recovery program.

The governor this morning telegraphed a reply, closing the incident, but in it he included a sharp rebuke to the general's assistants who have criticized this state's attitude towards the NRA.

"It would be well for the campaign in Connecticut, if they (the assistants) would keep quiet for a few days so as to avoid any further misunderstandings as to what they mean to say," the governor advised the general.

Though mentioning no names, the governor referred to Louis J. Alber, head of the NRA speakers' bureau, whose reported attack on Connecticut started the dispute, and Charles Horner, chief of the public relations division, who participated in the discussion today.

"I was glad to receive your telegram this morning to the effect that you are not dissatisfied with the way in which Connecticut is proceeding to put over the President's program of industrial recovery," the governor's telegram stated.

"Nothing would be gained by my calling your attention to misinformation which has come to you about what the state is doing. I observe that as quoted in the Hartford Courant for yesterday and today your assistants are still continuing their criticism though in milder form. It would be well for the campaign in Connecticut, if they would keep quiet for a few days so as to avoid any further misunderstanding as to what they mean to say."

General Johnson informed the governor that the NRA feels that Connecticut stands high in its performance, that approximately 30,000 employers have signed the re-employment agreement, and that "there is evidence that the public is responding patriotically and enthusiastically."

The general, however, pointed out that like other states, Connecticut was "perhaps a little slow in starting, but has more than made up for that by strenuous and intelligent work of the state and local organizations."

Though stating that Mr. Alber feels that his utterances were misinterpreted and denies that he indulged in criticism of the state or of its citizens, General Johnson believes that Alber said something which was capable of interpretation given it.

Governor Cross yesterday received two telegrams from Charles M. Chapman, director of publicity for the NRA, to whom the governor's demand for a retraction was referred.

AMUSEMENTS TWO FINE BANDS AT SANDY BEACH

The first appearance of "Pie" Wessman and his Orchestra at Sandy Beach Ballroom Saturday, Aug. 26, is expected to create a great deal of lively interest among the lovers of dancing in this community as well as among the masses of people who enjoy hearing modern syncopated melodies rendered by a first class orchestra.

"Pie" Wessman, known as "The Personality Prince," and his Orchestra have been featured at all leading ballrooms in New England including Compo, Hanover Park, Crescent Beach, and Hamilton Park. The work of this orchestra is not confined to dance music but includes vocal solos and choruses of musical hits which are said to be rendered in a distinctive manner which defy imitation. Featured also on Saturday night will be Sailor Melloner the song and dance king of the U. S. Navy.

Sunday evening Helen Compton and her 42nd Street Girls Orchestra.

chestra will return to the ballroom for another engagement, the first being so eminently successful that numerous requests were made to re-engage this splendid dance orchestra that made so favorable an impression Sunday, July 31. Helen Compton and her 42nd Street Girls, now recognized as America's greatest all girl orchestra, have scored a tremendous hit everywhere they appeared. They have been featured for six months at the Arcadian Ballroom, New York City, and over the Columbia Broadcasting System. They know how to arrange and present good music, and will give proof of it in their program on Sunday night.

BIG BALLOON FROLIC AT RAU'S SATURDAY

The annual balloon frolic at Rau's, Crystal Lake, will take place Saturday night. The ballroom is decorated with balloons; a net in the center of the hall suspended from the ceiling is full of them, and there are more balloons above the ceiling, which are let down through the lattice work. Everywhere balloons—all colors, shapes and sizes.

Inside each balloon is a ticket for a prize. Among the prizes this year are twenty-five pound boxes of good chocolate, twenty free passes for the dance on the following Saturday night when Charlie Boulanger and his N.E.C. Orchestra will play; some of the balloons will contain money; and some of them will contain tickets which can be redeemed at the soda counter for drinks, candy, cigarettes and many other items.

The dance music will be by Vic Vass and his Variety Band, who already have a host of admirers at Rau's.

BITTEN BY SHARK

Noank, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Miss Helen Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orlando Clarke of Pearl street, was bitten on the foot by one of a school of sharks that invaded Mystic river yesterday. As soon as she sighted them the young woman began swimming for shore, but was overtaken. The wound is not considered serious, though it is painful.

RUBINOW SALE BIDS DEPRESSION FAREWELL

Apparel House Offers Last Opportunity to Purchase Goods at Low Prices.

Rubinow's are beginning their "Farewell to Depression Prices" sale tomorrow giving prudent shoppers their last opportunity to fill their Fall and Winter clothing needs at the low "Depression Prices." Since August 5th practically all apparel has been manufactured under NRA codes which have resulted in an average price increase of 33-1-3 per cent and more. Recent labor troubles in New York will result in a still greater increase since the settlement of these difficulties will bring even shorter hours and higher wages than were determined by the NRA codes.

KING FERDINAND IS THE LAST OF THE BALKAN CZARS

Veteran of Three Wars, He Now Lives on a Pension Paid by Germany.

By MILTON BRONNER

London. — War-maker, nation-builder, father of a king, international politician and once a mighty statesman ex-Czar Ferdinand of Bulgaria lies seriously ill at Coburg, Germany. And all Europe awaits with mixed feeling the final chapter in the story of one of the most romantic figures of modern times. His is a strange and tangled story that involves almost every country on the continent. His father was Prince Augustus of Coburg, a general in the old Austrian army. His mother was Princess Clementine of Orleans, daughter of King Louis Philippe of France. As a Coburg he was related to the royal houses of England and Belgium, and the former royal houses of Portugal and Brazil. As a Bourbon, he had kinship to the former royal house of France, and, incidentally, to the Bourbon-Hapsburgs of Spain.

Make King by Dictator

Ferdinand was born in Vienna in 1861, and had become an officer in the Austro-Hungarian army in the time the former Turkish province of Bulgaria achieved semi-independence and started shopping around for a ruler. Prince Alexander of Battenburg was selected first, but was soon kicked out under pressure of the great powers. Then Stamboulioff, dictator-premier of Bulgaria, decided that Ferdinand would make a nice, pliable puppet for the Bulgarian throne.

Stamboulioff lived and died regretting that choice. For Ferdinand was nobler's tool. No other obscure European prince ever employed audacity, craft and political acumen to raise himself to such heights. And in making himself, he incidentally made the Bulgarian man.

With a wary eye on the great powers, Ferdinand set about improving his adopted country. New railways were built as links with the rest of Europe. Commerce and agriculture too. No other man was built into a handsome little capital. And a powerful army came into being. Those things done, Ferdinand traveled about seeking an English or German royal bride. Maybe his tremendous nose, adding to his fox-like appearance, hampered his cause; anyway, he met only refusals. Finally, in 1908, he married Princess Marie Louise of Parma, and to them was born Boris, the present Bulgarian king.

Premier Assassinated

While all this was going on, Ferdinand was still hampered by the presence of Premier Stamboulioff. One day, though, when the latter offered one of his many bluffing resignations, Ferdinand calmly accepted it. The ex-premier then bitterly attacked the Prince in the press, but was silenced a year later by being brutally assassinated. Nobody ever was able to show that Ferdinand had anything to do with the deed.

In 1908 the Prince took another daring step. He declared the country's complete independence from Turkey and set himself up as the Czar of Bulgaria. It is still one of the wonders of the diplomatic world that the World War didn't break out then and there, instead of six years later. Mobilization talk was in the air. Turkey was ready to move. And all the big powers were alarmed. But in the end Ferdinand had his Czarism and peace.

He continued to flirt with danger, though, by forming a series of mariallances. He considered Turkey his ultimate enemy, and Serbia, Montenegro and Greece, he knew, had no love for the Turks because they too had once been under Turkish domination.

In Three Wars

Then came the first Balkan war of 1912, and with it amazing victories for the Bulgars, Serb, Greek and Montenegrin allies. Ferdinand's men won the great battle of Kirk-Kilisse and opened the way for the taking of Adrianople and Constantinople. Czar Ferdinand began to dream of a new and mighty Byzantine empire, with himself, of course, as its ruler.

The big powers were getting uneasy, so they forced peace discussions, and a treaty was signed in May, 1913. Only a month later came the second Balkan war. This time with a very different alignment. Serbia and Greece, which previously had begun to mistrust the ambitious Ferdinand's intentions, proceeded to line up with rumania and Turkey against Bulgaria.

The Bulgars, of course, didn't have a chance. They lost nearly all their booty from the previous conflict, most of their money, and thousands of their men. The crafty Ferdinand bided his time. He saw Europe heading toward a great war, and had even predicted that it would break in 1914. So he announced that he wanted a big loan to rebuild his country, knowing that each of the major powers would offer it in the hope of getting future help from Bulgaria. Russia, France and Germany jumped at the chance, and Germany finally made the loan.

Seedless Grapes

When the war did come, though, Ferdinand announced Bulgaria's neutrality, and smugly set tight until he decided that the Central Powers were going to win and that he had better climb off the fence. In September, 1915, he signed a secret alliance with the Central Powers, cleverly deceiving the Allies by not withdrawing his private fortune from the Bank of England. Germany guaranteed to indemnify him for that loss, and that is the reason Ferdinand still draws a huge pension from Germany and has lived in luxury at Coburg.

He always has loved luxury, too. He gathered a marvelous collection of unset precious stones, and was especially fond of his yellow sapphires. He used to be a glutton for highly spiced food, and he was known to be intensely superstitious. When he retired at night in his palace at Sofia, thirteen candles always burned about his bed to ward off evil.

Ferdinand's dragging of his weary little country into another war met with violent opposition, and Stamboulioff, leader of the powerful peasant party, reviled him for the deed. Ferdinand clapped him in jail. But later, when revolution broke out in Bulgaria, Stamboulioff became Premier and saw Ferdinand scuttled out of the country, an old man with dreams of empire shattered.

TWO GIRLS MISSING

Ansonia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—The police were asked today to assist in the search for Helen Mitrick, 14, of 30 Middle street, and Nancy Scavone, 13, of 8 Eagis street, who left their homes Monday afternoon and have not been seen since.

The girls, it is stated, announced their intention of looking for work. Both girls were, bobbed hair, and are said to be large for their ages. Nancy, who has dark hair, wore a dress of greenish hue and white shoes when she went away while Helen, who has light hair and complexion, wore a red dress and black shoes.

MASQUERADES AS MAN

Shelton, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Dressed in a man's clothing a young negro woman and her companion were arrested here about 11:30 last night by a railroad detective as they alighted from a freight train. The woman said she was Miss Isabella Parrot of Harrisburg, Pa., while the man gave the name of John Tolver of Baltimore. Both were booked at police headquarters on a charge of trespassing on railroad property. Tolver said they had been roaming the country together for three years. They may be arraigned on a more serious charge this afternoon.

AUGUST HECKSCHER TALKS ON YOUTH

Noted Philanthropist Will Be 85 Years Old Tomorrow; His Philosophy.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—August Heckscher, who will be 85 years old tomorrow, said today that when a man has lost his youth he might as well be dead; but the aged philanthropist's definition of youth has nothing to do with the number of years lived.

To him, he said, youth is synonymous with courage, and when courage to face the future with confident hope is gone, youth goes with it.

"That truism applies not only to an individual man, but equally as much to a family, a race of people, or a nation," he said in a birthday eve interview. "Once any of us, individually or in a group, loses the courage to take chances and the hope of something better, we are dead."

Keen-eyed and alert, Heckscher spoke in a full-toned voice. Through his sparse, white chin-whiskers his skin gleamed tan with health.

Had Lost Hope

"In March of this year the citizens of the United States, wealthy and poor alike, were dead," he continued. "They had lost their courage; they had lost hope; they were afraid to take chances."

"Then President Roosevelt, with indomitable courage in his own convictions, stepped in and shook us out of the doldrums. Even though it is an experimental measure, nothing has given us the will to live as

FINNEY REARRESTED ON ANOTHER CHARGE

Central Figure in Kansas Bond Scandal Held With Forging Other Securities.

Topeka, Kans., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Ronald Finney, central figure in the Kansas million dollar bogus bond scandal, and Leland Caldwell, his employe, were re-arrested early today on charges of forging and uttering $30,000 of City of Hutchinson park improvement bonds.

Both pleaded not guilty. Bond was fixed at $50,000 each, which they were unable to furnish immediately. Preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 5.

Finney, bond broker and market speculator, and Caldwell were arrested two weeks ago on charges of uttering forged bonds and released under bail of $25,000 and $15,000 respectively. The charges against Finney involved $10,000 in bonds, while the counts against Caldwell involved $3,000.

MOSS WILL FILED

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Mrs. Grace A. B. Moss, widow of Frederick W. Moss, left a net estate of $1,554,323, when she died July 21, 1931, a transfer tax appraisal filed today showed.

Mrs. Alice Moss Truesdale, of Greenwich, Conn., receives three-quarters of the residue outright; one-quarter in trust. A bequest of $5,000 went to the Hampton Normal and Agricultural Institute, Hampton, Va.

ZEPEDA PRAISES AMERICA'S POLICY

Former Nicaraguan Diplomat Says That Roosevelt's Program Pleases Nation.

Mexico, D. F., Aug. 25.—(AP)—Generous praise of President Roosevelt's policy of "neighborliness" with Latin America was voiced today by Dr. Pedro Jose Zepeda of Nicaragua to Arthur Bliss Lane, new American minister to Nicaragua.

Dr. Zepeda, who for years was Nicaraguan minister to Mexico and who now practices medicine here, called on Mr. Lane at the American Embassy to wish him well in his new post.

The Nicaraguan said he found the minister very sympathetic towards Latin America.

"President Roosevelt's new policy for Latin America will work wonders," he asserted. "I have great admiration for the American President. I am in constant communication with President Sacasa of Nicaragua and I have urged him to pattern his policies after those of Mr. Roosevelt for the rehabilitation of Nicaragua.

"One friendly, sympathetic ambassador can do the United States more good in any Latin American country than can 10,000 Marines."

BANKS ACCEPT LOANS

New Haven, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Peter M. Kennedy, state manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation, today announced some savings banks have agreed to exchange mortgages for corporation bonds and he saw it as a move toward a general change in attitude by banks.

Kennedy said the Mariners Savings Bank of New London has accepted the bonds and that the transfer had already been made. He added that banks in other cities in the state have also expressed willingness to make the exchange.

Great Britain and Ireland have 4 phones to every 100 persons, or a total of 1,996,897 telephones.

RICH MERCHANT KILLED BY FALL

Thomas Carr, of Salem, Mass., Tumbles Over Rail While on Board Steamer.

New York, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Thomas Carr, 63, a retired leather merchant of Salem, Mass., was killed in a 57-foot fall over the ballustrade of the grand stairway of the liner Beaugonia at sea Monday evening, it was disclosed today when the ship docked.

The body landed in the foyer of D deck. Dr. J. C. Marchand, his private physician, was with Carr when the accident occurred.

Dr. Marchand said he had accompanied Carr on his extensive trips during the past six years. Because Carr was subject to fainting attacks, the physician never left the retired leather man out of his sight.

Carr was six feet two inches tall and weighed 280 pounds.

"His weight," Dr. Marchand said, "was principally above the waist line and his legs were frequently weak. We were walking down the stairs from A deck to D deck, the dining room, when at a curve of the stairs leading to the second level Mr. Carr stumbled, reached for the rail and then went over. I was ahead of him by two steps."

Party Under Way

When the accident occurred most of the passengers in the first class already were in the dining salon, where a gala evening was being held. Stewards on duty who saw the fall rushed to Carr's assistance and Dr. Marchand was quickly at his side, as was the ship's surgeon. The man was pronounced dead when he was examined in the foyer of the swimming pool, where he was carried.

Dr. Marchand said that Carr had been traveling in England.

Stewards said that Sunday evening Carr was observed standing near the stairway leading to the lower decks aft. Tears were on his cheeks and a stewardess asked: "Why are you upset, sir? You had better sit down."

He sat on the lounge waiting for Dr. Marchand and replied: "Though my wife is dead these twenty years, I cannot be happy without her."

FORMER HEAD OF BANK HELD IN HEAVY BAIL

Boston, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Daniel C. Muloney, former president of the closed Federal National Bank, arrested on indictments charging him with fraudulent practices in the conduct of the bank, was held in bail of $25,000 on his arraignment in U. S. District Court today.

Muloney was arrested in New York while testifying in Grand Jury proceedings in the investigation of the affairs of Robert Sherwood, former secretary to former Mayor James Walker of New York. He waived examination before Judge James L. Lowell and pleaded not guilty to two indictments.

The Federal National bank, controlling deposits of $32,000,000, was closed by Federal authorities in December, 1931. Its affiliates include a number of banks throughout the state also collapsed.

Irving C. McCann, special assistant attorney general, prosecuting the case against Muloney pleaded half bail of $50,000 today while records of the bank reveal, and that is commensurate.

Upon bail being finally set, counsel for Muloney was given ten days in which to file answers to the indictment.

Muloney asked before arraignment as to whether he had anything to say in reply. "I'll have plenty to say when the proper time comes."

BOLTON

The Democratic caucus to elect delegates to the probate convention will be held tonight at the Bolton Town Hall. The Republican caucus for the same purpose, to elect delegates to the convention at Andover Town Hall Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, will be held tomorrow night at the Bolton Town Hall.

The post of Judge of Probate was made vacant by the death this spring of J. White Sumner. The special election for the districts of Andover, Columbia and Bolton will take place September 19.

Mrs. Eugene A. Hall of La Mesa, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Burnett of Hartford are assisting Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Lawton.

I. C. C. DISMISSES COMMUTERS APPEAL

Long Island Residents Asked for Through Trains to New England.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(AP)—The Interstate Commerce Commission today dismissed the petition of Long Island residents for through passenger train routes and joint passenger fares between points on the Long Island railroad and New England points.

The petition was brought against the Pennsylvania Railroad Company and other roads serving New England by the Nassau County Village Officials' Association, which alleged that failure to establish through passenger routes and reasonable joint fares between Long Island and New England was "unreasonable."

The association asked: "That defendant be required to establish through passenger train routes and joint passenger fares between points on the Long Island and points in New England served by defendant."

The commission pointed out there were no through passenger routes between points on the Long Island and any point beyond the terminal of that line in the Pennsylvania station, New York City. It said joint inter-line tickets are now sold from any point on the Long Island to any point in New England over routes embracing lines of defendant for use in connection with trains departing from either the Pennsylvania station or Grand Central station. The commission found:

"We are of the opinion and find that serious operating difficulties would be encountered in the establishment of the through train service sought; that it would be less convenient and equally as expensive to passengers as the existing service; that the establishment of through passenger train service between points on Long Island and points in New England over the routes described has not been shown to be necessary or desirable in the public interest, and that the existing passenger service and fares have not been shown to be unreasonable or otherwise unlawful."

EQUIPOSE CAPTURES HAWTHORNE GOLD CUP

Chicago, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Equipoise, Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney's gold mine in horse-flesh, today had a notch in the ranking of heavy money winners of the turf.

Victor in the Hawthorne gold cup, when ridden by Sonny Workman, he outcharged Gallant Sir in a stretch duel, added $17,250 to "the big train's" earnings yesterday and sent his all-time winnings to $214,490 a warning of circulation.

Now only Sun Beat and Gallant Fox outrank the Whitney ace as a revenue producer.

COUNTERFEIT DIMES

Meriden, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Police have given a warning of circulation here of dimes, which give a lead tone when bounced on a hard surface like a counter or show case.

NORTH END PLAYGROUND BUSHY DESPITE WEATHER

Basket Work and Handcraft Keep Youngsters Going—Track Meet Held.

Even in spite of bad weather and many rainy days a goodly number of the boys and girls have been keeping busy in craft work of various kinds at the North End Playgrounds. The girls basket work is really finished and show, a lot of ability. The boys are making small sail boats and will have a sailing race before the season ends in the swimming pool. They have good models and several have made some very nice boats.

A new show case for displaying these various articles of craft work was secured in the Paganet sale at a low figure this week and is now ready for this display.

The boys' track meet was finally pulled off yesterday, afternoon after being postponed a couple of times on account of rain. Boys under 12, 50 yard dash, 1st, Joe Wall; 2nd, Luis Salas; 3rd, Billy Jones; 1st, 50 yard dash, boys 12 to 15: 1st, Geo. Tonight the boys of the Junior Y. baseball team are putting on another, skit called the Three Crows. This is an amateur minstrel and will be quite impromptu. There will be seven different numbers which will be good fun for the youngsters, as well as the older ones who enjoy a little child's play now and then.

The girls track meet is scheduled for this afternoon if it does not rain. Tennis had a hard set back this week, but the court has been well picked down now and will be better than ever in another good sunny day.

C. P. Thayer, former physical director of the Y. M. C. A. at Havana and San Juan dropped in to say "hello" to his old colleague, Mr. Simonds' this week. He is now living in Springfield.

Two Features
"Midnight Club" with Clive Brook and George Raft plus "Below the Sea" co-starring Ralph Bellamy and Fay Wray are the two features on today's and Saturday's program at the State. Another chapter of "Phantom of the Air" with Tom Tyler will be the added attraction on Saturday afternoon. On Sunday comes "Tugboat Annie" with Marie Dressler and Wallace Beery.

SWIMMING MARATHON TODAY

Toronto, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Thirty-five leading swimmers including 16 from the United States were ready to plunge into Lake Ontario, shortly after noon today, in the Canadian National exhibition's annual ten-mile marathon for women.

A total of $6,000 was to be distributed in cash prizes with $3,000 going to the winner, $1,500 for second and $700 for third, $500 for fourth, $200 for fifth, and $100 for sixth.

A Canadian, Mrs. Ruth Tower-Corsan of Toronto, remained a strong favorite.

FIRST NRA PROJECT

Meriden, Aug. 25.—(AP)—Remodeling of the post office for which work the lowest bid has been $20,250 by the Joseph Lasprogato Company of Norwalk, will probably be the first construction project in Meriden under the NRA code. Local help will be employed as far as possible, and material will be bought here.

CAMP MEETINGS WELL ATTENDED

Rain Doesn't Interfere With Sessions—Many Fine Services.

Willimantic, Camp Meeting, Aug. 25.—The prevailing storms of the middle of the week probably have prevented a larger attendance, but have not dampened the ardor of the campers. All the services have been well attended.

Tomorrow winds up the week-day services. Rev. H. C. Crawford, of Hockanum, spoke at the chapel meeting on "The Challenge to Service"; and Rev. Florus L. Streeter of Portland gave the final chapel talk on "The Challenge to Decision." Stewart Patterson, who was to have held a "Temperance Seminar" Thursday morning will speak both forenoon and afternoon tomorrow. The storm delayed his train 42 hours.

A popular concert and entertainment has been arranged for Saturday evening by Howard Pierce, of New London, and Rev. L. Theron French. The N. L. Community Orchestra will render three sets of three selections each from such composers as Verdi, Weber, Bizet, Romberg, Lake and Liszt. Miss Phyllis Rogers is to give a soprano, and Mr. French a baritone solo. Lillian Hirsch and Morris Emborn play a violin duet, and Phyllis Rogers, Isabel Denison and Frances Hartmann are to render a vocal trio.

The Sunday morning preacher is Dr. Louis C. Wright, of Cleveland, O. In the afternoon at 2:30 the speaker is to be Rev. John W. Langdale. At 7:30 p. m. Stewart Patterson will conduct the closing service of the camp meeting.

Dr. Moore's Experience
"Lo, God is here," said R. S. Moore at his morning period. Some things are impossible. As yet no adequate definition of education has ever been made. What do you mean when you say, "God"? Is that term without significance? What is my meaning when I say, "Lo, God is here"? Happy is the man who today in the forest of furies can hear God's nightingales sing.

of my faith. He cannot be found by human reason.

In Jesus Christ, the Lord, God is in the midst of the human race in compassion and love. One time, years ago, I was under deep conviction for sin. I know that a bit later in my room my soul was filled with laughter and joy for forgiveness of sins.

Dr. J. W. Langdale, in his talks to preachers the last three days of the camp spoke about the need of heart emotion. He said that we have made the technicalities rather than the spiritualities of our Christianity prominent. Methodism needs to come home and stick closer to Jesus Christ. Both emotion and intelligence are demanded in a real Christian experience.

Rev. O. E. Tourtelotte, of Unagsville, formerly of East Hartford spoke at the chapel service on "The Challenge to Sacrifice," basing

The Optimist— Everything you give away in this world comes back to you twofold, you know.
The Pessimist— Yes, I've noticed it. I gave my daughter away six months ago, and she and her husband came back to live with us last week.

A rabbit is a little animal that grows the fur other animals get credit for when its made into a lady's coat.

Neighbor—Where's, you brother, Freddie?
Freddie—He's in the house playing a dust. I finished my part first.
The Pessimist burns up in the summer and freezes up in the winter.

Closing Shots—Success comes to the man who does not fear failure.
Many a marriage contract has been ruined by hot bread and cold feet.
A man ought to love his home ties, but that doesn't mean he has to wear home-made ones.

Give a girl an inch and she'll make a dress out of it.
Today is the tomorrow you were worrying about yesterday.

The Difference
A gum-chewing girl and a gum-chewing cow
Are somewhat alike, yet different somehow:
Its the calm, thoughtful look on the face of the cow.

Father—Where's Junior tonight?
Mother—Out on a heavy date with a light head.

One thing this country needs is a remote control that will enable you to turn back the dial on your neighbor's radio.

Lady (in bookstore)—I'm looking for a small edition of the Psalms.
Clerk—Who is the author?
Lady—David.
Clerk—What's his other name?

Miss Cutie Hardtoqueuse of Brushville remarks that all a man asks is that one girl shall wait for him unknissed and pure, until he gets tired of petting and snobbering over others and comes to her.

Bill—Sue's the pick of the crop.
Kyle—Yeah, the prune crop.

Summer Shower—What's become of the man who used to take pride in paying off the mortgage on his home?
One way of developing your personality is to forget that you have one.
What seems to be the most modern thing in the modern home is the family.
The girl who looks good isn't necessarily good-looking.
A kiss is always worth its face value.
The only friends a fellow loses when he goes broke are those not worth having.
Some men are less afraid of popping the question than they are of questioning the pop.

Lawyer—Very few women are taking up the law.
Friend—No, the majority of them prefer laying down the law.

SERVED AS RADIO MAN ON MADISON

Wilbur T. Little, of This Town, Recalls Other Mishaps Ship Incurred.

The fate of the Dominion liner S. S. Madison which wallowed through the tropical hurricane Wednesday and Thursday caused one Manchester man to keep close to the news during the stormy night in an effort to learn of the ship's safety.

she would get into some kind of trouble, she said. The Baltimore ship, captained by Daniel Wilford in Norfolk harbor with the loss of one life and damaged another ship in New York harbor causing several deaths, also figured in one thrilling sea-rescue.

"She came upon two barges while on one of her runs from New York to Norfolk, which had broken away from their tow, and we stood by the heaviest barge while the waves were breaking high over the barge's deck for help and a Coast Guard cutter answered and came to our assistance."

"In the meantime we succeeded in making one of the most dangerous high-sea rescues in history, removing the crew of one of the helpless barges at sea. In the morning the Coast Guard cutter, which had arrived on the scene, took on the crew of the other barge. We noticed the night of the rescue when the quartermaster spotted the U. S. flag flying from the barge's mast.

"Besides his service in the coastwise service, the Manchester radio-man served aboard the U. S. S. Caesar, huge Naval cutter from 1916 until the end of the war.
