Codes Almost Ready for Autos, Coal and Retail Trades; May Reach Final Accord Later in Day.

Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Action to keep prices reasonable all the way from the factory to the buyer emerged today as a necessary and major job for the recovery administration.

Whether the bituminous coal code conferences between non-union Appalachian field mine operators and Union labor leaders, would end before night was less certain.

Presidential approval of the compact for retail stores in time to make it effective right after Labor Day was the objective.

Once these groups are under binding codes, a definite hump will have been passed by NRA, and the long range job of policing the compact will come to the fore.

The dining rooms for the present will remain on the second floor but extensive immediate changes are planned whereby the ground floor will be utilized for lobby, kitchen and a grill room.

It is expected that the various changes to be made in the physical plant of the hotel will be made within two weeks.

The arrangements for the leasing of the hotel are the result of the activities of the Depositors Committee of the Manchester Trust and Safe Deposit Company.

POLICE KILL KIDNAPER AS HIS VICTIM ESCAPES

Cousin of Late William Howard Taft, the Victim, Had Been Kept a Prisoner for Last Four Days.

San Francisco, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Freed from a kidnaper who fell dying in a blaze of gun fire after fatally wounding an officer in a crowded public market, William F. Wood, 46, a cousin of the late William Howard Taft, was under care of physicians today.

Wood, who said he had been held captive four days, was tortured and forced to walk the streets in silence while arranging for his own ransom, was reported near collapse.

Bankbook securities and cash aggregating $10,000 which Wood asserted he had been forced to turn over to his abductor, were found in the latter's pockets.

Wood's release came with dramatic suddenness yesterday in the market, where his kidnaper had taken him "to buy some walnuts."

The kidnaper, identified as Howard Stafford Meek, 30, alias Henry Jennings, a former ferryboat ticket taker, was shot down by other officers as he fled along a street outside the market.

Mrs. Ella Bowers, 62, passing by on her way to court to get a divorce, was struck in the arm by a stray bullet.

Wood, a retired businessman, took refuge in a grocery department of the market as the shooting started.

THREE ARE KILLED AS BOATS COLLIDE

World's Fair Visitors Thrown Into Water — Fifteen Saved by Guards.

Chicago, Aug. 26.—(AP)—A double investigation, by police and Coast Guardsmen, was underway today into a collision of two watercraft which cost the lives of three World's Fair sightseers.

Both boats, the Miss Chicago, a speedboat which carried ten passengers and its pilot, and the cabin cruiser, the Victor, with seven aboard, sank after their crash which occurred last night in Lake Michigan near the mouth of the Chicago river and about 500 feet from the Coast Guard station.

A lookout who saw the accident despatched three Coast Guard boats and ten men who rescued all but four of the speedboat's passengers.

Only one body was recovered, that of a woman apparently about 40 years of age. Coast Guardsmen dragged the lake for several hours seeking the others, believed to be a father and his young son.

Pompey said the boats collided when the 28-foot cruiser crossed the path of his boat so quickly that he had no chance to avert it out of danger.

FINANCIAL MARTS MUCH IMPROVED

Federal Reserve Helps With Fresh Funds for Credit; Buying by Public Assists.

New York, Aug. 26.—Financial markets improved this week as the government pushed the NRA drive and the Federal Reserve system pumped fresh funds into the credit reservoir.

Plans for stimulating consumer buying, especially from Blue Eagle firms, went forward. Meanwhile, some lines of business gave further evidence of seasonal contraction, although the let-down continued leisurely.

The sudden revival of open market operations by the central banks, expressed in a $36,000,000 purchase of government securities, found Wall Street trying to read between the lines for a glimpse of Washington's purposes.

BROADWAY EXCITED AS GIRL IS SLAIN

Police Arrest Man Seen Running from Apartment; He Had Wound in Hand.

"There Is Nothing to the Reports," He Says, as Authorities Continue Search for Seven More Men Thought to Be Members of the Gang.

Hartford, Aug. 26.—(AP)—An unflagging pursuit was maintained today in the investigation which Connecticut authorities said had thwarted a kidnaping plot on the eve of its execution.

With two men in the Hartford county jail under $25,000 bonds each on charges of conspiracy to kidnap and two others being held as material witnesses, the authorities said they sought seven more men.

State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and Detective Edward J. Hickey said the ring plotted to kidnap a wealthy Springfield, Mass., business man and to hold him in a lonely shack on Southington mountain for $50,000 ransom.

Those held on the conspiracy charge, Ernest Corvo and Mario Campisi, were arrested today in a night at Windsor Locks. Alcorn said: "They were out to meet their accomplices and complete the kidnaping that night."

Members of the gang were recruited from Massachusetts and Connecticut. Alcorn said, and they also had a reputation for kidnaping Judge Israel Poliner of the Middletown police court, a prominent figure in the Connecticut judiciary.

The state's attorney vigorously denied reports he himself had been threatened by kidnap plots. "There is absolutely no truth to it," he said. "It is a fabrication and a fabrication."

Joseph Barralotta, 35, Thompsonville storekeeper, was arrested by Detective Hickey yesterday but Hickey and State Senator Joseph P. Cooney counsel for the arrested man, said the case had no connection with the kidnaping investigation.

Hickey said Barralotta was wanted in connection with the seizure of an illicit distillery July 18 at Thompsonville, a tobacco plantation, and that he had escaped at the time of the raid.

CHARGE KEPT SECRET Hartford, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Joseph Barralotta, 35, a storekeeper in Thompsonville, who was arrested yesterday on suspicion by County Detective Edward J. Hickey with the specific charge undisclosed, is being held today the officer said in connection with the seizure near Thompsonville, July 18, of a still valued by Prosecutor Philip J. Sullivan at $50,000.

Hickey today denied Barralotta was arrested in connection with the kidnaping case, in which Thursday two Middletown men were arrested by him and other officers.

State Senator Joseph P. Cooney, counsel for Barralotta, also denied his client had anything to do with the kidnaping case or that the arrest had any bearing on the case.

Hickey's explanation of the arrest is that at the time of the still raid at the tobacco plantation of Irving D. Woodworth, with arrest of Woodworth and three others, a man escaped. On suspicion that Barralotta was the fugitive he was arrested yesterday.

FINANCIAL MATRS MUCH IMPROVED

Whether it was an answer to those who said commercial bank credit was inadequate were points open to conjecture.

Credit expansion through Federal Reserve channels has already created heavy excess reserves for member banks, the difficulty has been in finding work for these resources.

New bond issues have been very scarce, due partly to the public's speculative spirit and partly, no doubt, to confusion resulting from the Securities Act. Short term credit has undergone some expansion and would probably move faster if demands were greater and if banks were satisfied that risks involved were good.

The undertone of sentiment in Wall street remains against the possibilities of inflation. There have been reports that Washington would adopt more aggressive policies in this connection as a means of bolstering prices against seasonal sag.

JOHNSON'S SPEECH. New London, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Adoption of a fixed Federal policy for war veterans "so far in its treatment of both the disabled veteran and the taxpayer that public opinion will be solid in its support" was urged today by Louis Johnson, National commander of the American Legion.

In a speech before the annual convention of the Connecticut Department, the Legion head said his organization is opposed to "gold brickers" on the list of veterans receiving compensation.

"It will bring no good to the disabled," he warned, "to impose an unjust and heavy strain on the Federal treasury, because the welfare of our nation are inseparably entwined."

The commander assailed economy which affected veterans alone. "If there is going to be economy," he said, "let's have some economy in other places where it is worse needed."

Tax Exemptions. He asserted that half the wealth of the country was invested in tax exempt securities and added "if we are going to have honest economy, then let our government call in the dollars of the rich man and tax the poor man in carrying on this government of ours."

"For us, who are poor people and people of average means, we pay taxes on our homes, if we still have them; we pay taxes on our business; we pay taxes on our personal property; we pay taxes on our income."

"At the same time, it is now known, that $75,000,000,000, almost half the wealth of this country, is invested in tax exempt securities, and it is notorious that some of the wealthy men of America have invested practically all of their money in such securities."

Calling attention to what he termed waste in the government, Johnson said: "Let me give you an exact instance. They send out a squad of investigators from one of these great departments in Washington. Then they send out another squad to check the first squad. Then they call in outside experts to check the results of both squads. Then, they send it to a Cabinet officer and he approves it. Then, it is printed at your expense and mine, and then they send it into your state and mine."

He explained that "thousands of these pamphlets" increased the deficit of the post-office department that you and I make up with taxes.

THINK KIDNAPERS STOLE WRONG MAN

Federal Agents Working On This Theory as They Comb Two States.

Denver, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Department of Justice agents and police directing a search through Colorado and Wyoming for Edward Bitterman, 28-year-old department store executive, believe he was kidnaped by persons who thought him a member of the family of David May, founder of the May Company stores.

Bitterman disappeared Thursday night after a feminine voice interposed a warning that he had been seen by friends of relatives' since. Alfred Trifus, manager of the store and close friend of the Bitterman family, yesterday received a note mailed from Cheyenne, Wyo. "Your nephew is OK," said the note. "You'll hear from us later."

Trifus immediately called Department of Justice agents and William J. Armstrong, selective captain of the Denver force. Bitterman had been acquainted with Trifus since boyhood and recently referred to him as "Uncle Alfred." Armstrong's theory was that someone overheard Bitterman refer to Trifus as "Uncle" and conceived the kidnaping plot on the assumption that Bitterman was related to May. Trifus is a nephew of May.

CONSTRUCTION LEAGUE TO MEET ON THURSDAY

Members of the Manchester Construction League recently organized to study the requirements of the National Recovery Administration code for builders, will meet again Thursday night in the Masonic Temple to further discuss the provisions of the code. Committees have been named to study the requirements and to draw up proposals for the guidance of the league. These will report upon the work accomplished and it is possible that some decision will be reached with regard to the wage scale that will be adopted.

Some of the builders report a general pick-up in their line already and they believe that when the NRA begins to operate in all branches of industry, business will be much better.

At Camp Hook in Squants pond state park, the Conservation Corps has been engaged in building semi-permanent camp structures. These comprise a recreational hall, mess-hall and workshop, all of frame construction, while the living quarters in the new camp will have board flooring.

Several crews are also building a forest road and fire lines in an adjoining state forest.

The fire lines are constructed in this manner: A strip of 15 feet is cleared to the soil of all growing things. The brush is cleared from twenty foot strips on either side, while thirty feet beyond that all dead wood is cut away.

The resulting line provides a bulwark against future fires where flames are halted because there is nothing to burn.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE STORY OF SAUL

Text: 1 Sam. 15:13-26

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Aug. 27.

By WM. E. GILROY, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist

In the study of Saul, first king of Israel, we approach one of the most interesting and tragic of all figures in history. It is a study in which a great artist in line, color, or words might reveal, for it is full of intensity, and it is full of contrast. It is regrettable that the portion chosen for our lesson ignores much of the deeper and more vital moral collapse of Saul to emphasize an incident that rings us into the doubtful business of slaughter and destruction. However, as we have pointed out in connection with Samuel, the age was rough and cruel, and in spitting the sheets and the oxen captured in defeat of his enemies Saul was not moved by the great principle of mercy, and it is doubtful whether his professed motive of religious sacrifice was either honest or genuine. Samuel had the relentlessness of a man supremely devoted to a cause. He had hacked Agag, king of the Amalekites, in pieces before the altar of the Lord, and it was natural that such a man should rebuke Saul for what Samuel deemed his weakness and his lack of honesty of purpose. In some respects the lesson as it stands creates a difficulty as well as serving a useful purpose. We must not be too ready to associate the name of God and the altar of the Lord with acts of slaughter and vengeance, and we should not read such a lesson as this without bearing in mind the teaching of the New Testament, and of Jesus who enjoined men to love their enemies.

But the lesson may be a point of departure for a study in the life of a man whose career illustrates the fatal weaknesses and passions that may bring a man down to ruin in spite of his high calling and his favorable environment. The calling of Saul was high. He was summoned to be king of Israel when to be king meant a task of real responsibility and service. The task was not of his own choosing; in fact we see him as a man of great physique and commanding presence, modest and shrinking from honor. When the lot had fallen upon him and he was chosen to be king, they could not find him because he had hidden himself among the baggage, but when they brought him forth his great presence moved the people, and with one accord they shouted, "God save the king."

It is true that there were sons of Belial who muttered and murmured against him, but Saul showed good judgment in holding his peace, and when he went home to Gibeah, after being chosen as king, the record is that "there went with him a band of men whose hearts God had touched."

No man ever entered upon a kingdom with a more favorable opportunity. Yet we see him in the closing scene of his career a suicide on the battle field, in defeat and falling upon his own sword. What lies between these two scenes, the one of his modesty and the other the wreck and ruin of his life? It is a story of inner strife, of the demon of jealousy coming into the life of a generous man and nurtured there until it became the instrument of his downfall. The kindest thought of Saul is that he had periods of madness when he was only partially responsible for his deeds, but this madness itself apparently came out through his failure to thrust out from his mind the seeds of jealousy when he found the youthful David, fresh from his triumph over Goliath, being acclaimed in his stead. He could not get over the singing of the women. "Saul has slain his thousands, but David his tens of thousands."

The time to conquer disrupting and destroying passions is in the moment of their entrance into the soul, and the method of conquering them is to keep the soul so full to overflowing with noble purpose that there can be no place for baser thoughts. This is the supreme lesson that comes to us from the life of Saul.

OBEDIENCE AND SACRIFICE

By GEORGE BENNY DOLE

International Sunday School Lesson Text, August 27th. "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice." 1 Samuel 15:22.

Not only is obedience better than sacrifice, as Scripture declares, but also it is better than all knowledge, truth and the Word itself if there is no obedience. Knowledge, however great and sublime, is no more a part of the man than the undigested food in the stomach is a part of the body, unless what is known is introduced into the daily life. Truth known by one who makes no effort only condemns. The whole value of truth is in obeying it. Everyone is born into evil inclinations, but no one is born guilty. Guilt can not be inherited. Guilt comes only when one knows the truth and refuses to obey it. If we were blind, we should have no sin; but now we see, we see; therefore your sin remaineth. Obedience is declared better than sacrifice because the original meaning of sacrifice became perverted and abused. Sacrifice means to make sacred, and at first it meant to sanctify, and just as we consecrate the elements of the Lord's Supper. This meaning became forgotten, and people came to think that the Lord was pleased with killing. Under this repulsive notion, thousands of sheep and oxen were slain at one time, in the belief that the greater the slaughter the more the Lord was pleased. Yet the Lord had said, "To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices unto me? I am full of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks. The wrong idea of sacrifice grew out of a mistaken idea of God. Many nations came to think that He is pleased with suffering and self-affliction, as is witnessed in India today. Hence Abraham would have slain his only and beloved son Isaac in the sense of killing, there is only one sacrifice, 'Offer the sacrifices of righteousness,' which means to exterminate all the evils in us that make us unrighteous.

One does not know the truth by committing precepts to memory. That is a first essential, but the real truth is a vital thing, known only from its quality, which is known to experience only as truth is so obeyed as to make it a factor in the daily life. Truth is an inward shining light, derived from the inflow of life divine from the Lord Himself. Obey the laws of the Lord until the soul has its sunrise, and light and love come streaming in from the Sun of the holy city. "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice."

ROCKVILLE

BLOCK DANCE DRAWS MANY FROM OUTSIDE

Rockville's First Street Social Brings Quick Request for Repetition Next Month.

The first block dance of the Clerks Athletic club was held last evening on Main street with traffic at a standstill on Rockville's main thoroughfare for several hours. A spacious macadam road area, nearly 10 feet wide and several hundred feet long, was blocked off with St. Bernard's terrace and the Middle Road, high embankments, serving as a spectators gallery.

Notwithstanding the fact that the event had to be postponed from Thursday night because of the weather, a great throng of people gathered from all parts of Tolland county, also from Manchester, Hartford and Springfield.

The street had been immaculately swept yesterday by the public works department and presented an inviting appearance when the dancers started arriving shortly after 7 o'clock.

The program opened with a concert by Preston Harrison and his Troubadors shortly after 7 o'clock, it having been found impossible to start the twilight game with the Coast Guards of New London which had been scheduled for Thursday night.

One of the big features was the fashion show conducted by Miss Pickering, Hartford broadcaster. Another novelty was presented in the fashion line by Miss Irene Wilson and Miss Marie Kabrick, who demonstrated hair work.

Another novelty number was Adelard St. Louis and his Harmonica Boys who rendered several musical selections.

A big event was the "public auction" held on the main thoroughfare. George Graziadio of Manchester was the auctioneer and kept the excitement at a high pitch. Donations of the merchants were offered and many were sold for several times their original price. The items went to the Clerks A. C. fund for charitable work in the community.

During the latter part of the evening Leroy Morgan of Rockville, negro entertainer, gave a short program and was loudly applauded.

The remainder of the evening was given over to dancing on the pavement which proved a big novelty.

There were many suggestions that another block dance and entertainment similar to this one be held early in September. The matter may be presented to Mayor Albert E. Waite and the city authorities.

Field Day Today. The first annual field day of the Tolland County Farm Bureau's 4-H clubs is being held today on the grounds of the Tolland County Temporary Home for Children at Vernon Center and has attracted hundreds of people. In addition to the County Home grounds, the spacious grounds of the First Congregational church were utilized.

The day's program opened at 10 o'clock this morning and will not be finished until late this evening.

From 10 to 12 o'clock the large crowd viewed the 4-H club exhibits and heard 4-H club demonstrations. The town club exhibits attracted much attention. It included farm tool outfits, hobby exhibits, home play equipment and other items.

At noon lunch was served by the 4-H clubs, although many people carried basket lunches.

At 1 o'clock the 4-H club demonstrations and games were to be held. The field meet was to start at 2 o'clock and continue until nearly 4:30. Other features included a style show, supper and dancing during the evening following a musical show.

Red Men Outing. Rockville was well represented today at the annual Red Men's outing at Lynn, Mass., when more than a score of members represented Tankerscoos Tribe, No. 51, I. O. R. M. The party went by bus leaving Central Park about 9:30 o'clock. Among the delegation from Tankerscoos Tribe were William Dunlap, George Gakeler, Henry Minor, George Starke, Howard Whitlock, Herbert Wormstedt, Max Rothe, Ernest Walters, Edward Helm, Paul Preuss, Joseph Zinker, Harry Lebechevsky, Emil Gessay, John Boscher, Edward Fritsche, Christy Africano, Le Roy Ludwig, Joseph Mushka, George Kreh, Louis Kreh, Harold Schiebe, Michael Aulon, John Casati, George Weber, John Larry.

The last of the Union services of the Congregational, Methodist and Baptist churches will be held on Sunday at the Union Congregational church. Rev. Dr. George S. Brookes, pastor, will preach on the topic, "What I Can Courage."

Mrs. Edwin G. Butler of Park street is entertaining Miss Jennie Warner, a former Rockville school teacher.

Rev. and Mrs. Edward L. Nield have returned home after spending several days with friends at East Northfield, Mass.

The regular meeting of the Board of Common Council will be held on Tuesday evening with Mayor A. E. Waite presiding. This will be Mayor Waite's second appearance at a council meeting since his recent illness.

Rev. K. Otto Kletta, pastor of the First Lutheran church, and family returned today from Boston where they have been spending their annual vacation.

Misses Julia and Margaret Colombo of Cleveland, are the guests of their sister, Mrs. James Devlin of King street.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Devlin and son of Mattias Lane, are the guests of relatives in Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Elton Mann of Tolland avenue are entertaining Mrs. Annie Glantz of Schriener, Neb.

Miss Gladys Nettleton of Tolland

GRIZZLY BEARS IN U. S. ARE ON THE DECREASE

Forest Service Survey Shows That Monarch of Rockies Is Going the Way of the Buffalo.

Washington, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The grizzly bear, mighty monarch of the Rocky Mountains, is going the way of the buffalo. The Forest Service after its annual census of big game, today estimated the grizzly population in continental National forests, at 664, compared with 747 the year before. They have decreased so rapidly that in several western States the service believes "extinction of the species seems near." In Montana, their chief stronghold, they number only 475.

In Alaska, though they continue to thrive, there the service estimated that the population of grizzlies and the big Alaska brown bear increased from 3,000 to 4,500 from 1931 to 1933.

Big game gun rally showed a decrease in the 148 National forests. The census for 1931 showed an aggregate of 1,176,990 game animals, that for last year 1,169,142. Bear also decreased from 969,380 in 1931 to 946,546 last year; antelope, brown and black bears, elk and moose increased.

"Must we go on in many groping, disorganized, separate units to defeat or shall we move as one great team to victory?" PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

NATIONAL RECOVERY

Only unified action and united effort can achieve so great a task as the President and his N. R. A. staff have outlined. It's a mighty plan born of great leadership, initiative, force, understanding and patriotism. But it requires the co-operation of many contributing factors to work out its successful operation.

The best brains and the most efficient organizers in all industrial, labor, agricultural, financial and social service divisions of our country have been called upon to aid the President in formulating the most equitable, constructive and workable plan. The job is progressing magnificently but the ultimate goal can never be reached without the complete co-operation of those units which it seeks to serve... the manufacturers, retailers, workers, farmers and all American citizenry.

That is now the call of the N. R. A. ... a call that is arousing dynamic response everywhere; a response so overwhelming that the voices of the few shirkers and dissenters are completely lost in the great acclaim of true Americanism.

We cannot fail because the plan is sound, sane and serviceable. It grasps the immediate situation of conquering depression and it establishes for the future a strong foundation of humane practice in dealing with workers and meeting the standards of high-purposed industries.

 SATURDAY, AUGUST 26.

WHAT MUST BE WILL BE.
 Announcement is made that the Federal Reserve System has suddenly trebled its activities in its so-called credit expansion program by buying $35,000,000 of United States government securities in the open market this week. Some time ago the Reserve System had quietly reduced its weekly purchases from $20,000,000 to $10,000,000. Since these securities are paid for with new issues of Federal Reserve notes, and since Federal Reserve notes constitute the bulk of the nation's money, the result of their purchase, in each instance, is to increase the volume of the currency.
 But if substantially the whole of the country's currency is to remain locked in the vaults of the nation's banks there is some question whether the country is any the better off for its existence; and there is nothing, in the mere creation of more millions of Federal Reserve notes, to help the price situation or to enhance recovery financing if from the moment of their issue they are permitted to lie static. And if there is no avenue of release for the currency aside from the ordinary channels of banking credit, then even the most confirmed inflationist must admit that no amount of increase in the circulating medium can be expected to do much good.
 The banks are stuffed with money which is doing nothing while industrialists and farmers and business men are wondering how they are to meet the increased payrolls and higher prices essential in the NRA movement. Bankers insist that there is "abundant credit" but a terrible paucity of "good borrowers." We are not so sure about the former but there is no question about the latter condition.
 The banks dare not lend their depositors' money, or their own, to the hundreds of thousands of concerns and individuals who most desperately need to be financed. They are, therefore, sitting on their money and wondering how they are going to earn their overhead to say nothing of any profits. Some of them are not earning the overhead but are paying part of their operating costs out of their surpluses—waiting for some miracle to make banking profitable again and doing nothing whatever, not even trying to invent the machinery of the miracle.
 The Federal Reserve System is banker-controlled and banker-minded. It sees the nation's problem through banker eyes. It is "conservative." It has never been able to conceive as anything but a road to ruin a policy of filling the banks with so much money that it would, in a manner of speaking, slop over the top and run down the channels of business in the form of adventurous credit.
 To be sure, the banks just a few years ago were throwing credit around like drunken sailors, loaning ten times its value on the paper of almost any kind of a wildcat merger. But that was different. It wouldn't at all do for a bank to lend three thousand dollars on his notes to a laundryman who wanted to justify his Blue Eagle by hiring two more hands and booting pay a little but whose assets and liabilities already were just about balanced.
 So it was natural enough for the Reserve System to slow down its open market operations a while ago, since it couldn't see much sense in expanding the theoretical credit volume when there was nobody or next to nobody to whom the credit could be entrusted.
 But there is something that the bankers and the Reserve System fear even more than they do an overflow of bank money—and that thing is inflation. And when General Johnson the other day drew a kite labeled "Greenbacks" on one side and "Dollar Devaluation" on the other the Reserve System springs up in terror and plunged heels over head into the open market again. Inflation must be headed off at any price!

 But the trebling of the open market operations will get the country nowhere. Neither would it if they were trebled again. And nobody, we are convinced, knows that better than the Recovery Administrator. It wasn't in any hope of stimulating banking that Johnson spurred the Federal Reserve. It was to show it up.
 There must be created, somehow, a more accessible reservoir of more courageous and untrammelled credit than is provided by the banks and the Federal Reserve System. A government empowered to issue, if need be, three billion dollars in greenbacks and to cut the gold content of the basic dollar in two, if it sees fit, need have little occasion to worry about the necessary funds—all it has to do is to find a way of piping its credit to the parching fields.
 That need not be such a terrific job, but it will shock the bankers terribly. And the bankers will tell the people that the government has gone stark mad.
 But if meantime the government, has jockeyed the bankers and the bankers' Federal Reserve System into proving by their own operations that they can and will do nothing effectual, the people will not be likely to listen very attentively.
 Expansion and some form of government credit, or guarantees for credit, for the use of industry may be looked for very soon. We still adhere to the faith that whatever must be done, in this greatest of wars, will be done.

A FREAK PERIL.
 In every big seaport there are water-side characters who knock about the harbor in small boats, picking up a living by salvaging all sorts of odds and ends having a money value from among the flotsam of the tides. Sometimes they find lengths of discarded hawser that the oikum pickers will buy, sometimes a case of tinned food lost overboard in loading, sometimes this and sometimes that and sometimes a human body. But the authorities at Baltimore have been worrying lest somebody find, and open, any one of a number of cans of hydrocyanic gas that went adrift during the big storm from the quarantine station in Curtis Bay. The cans were stored in the station when the waves broke into the place and carried them away.
 Hydrocyanic gas is used in disinfecting ships and has to be handled with the utmost care by experts, for it is a deadly poison and practically instantaneous in its action. If any beachcomber should get hold of one of those cans and open it his chance of living long enough to drop it would be slender.
 What worries the authorities most is the fear that the labels may have washed off the cans. Which is a reminder of the old saw, "Live and learn."
 Labels are not, after all very permanent. Might it not be a good idea if every container of a dangerous poison, either metal or glass, were required to bear its "Poison" warning stamped or blown into the fabric of the container itself?

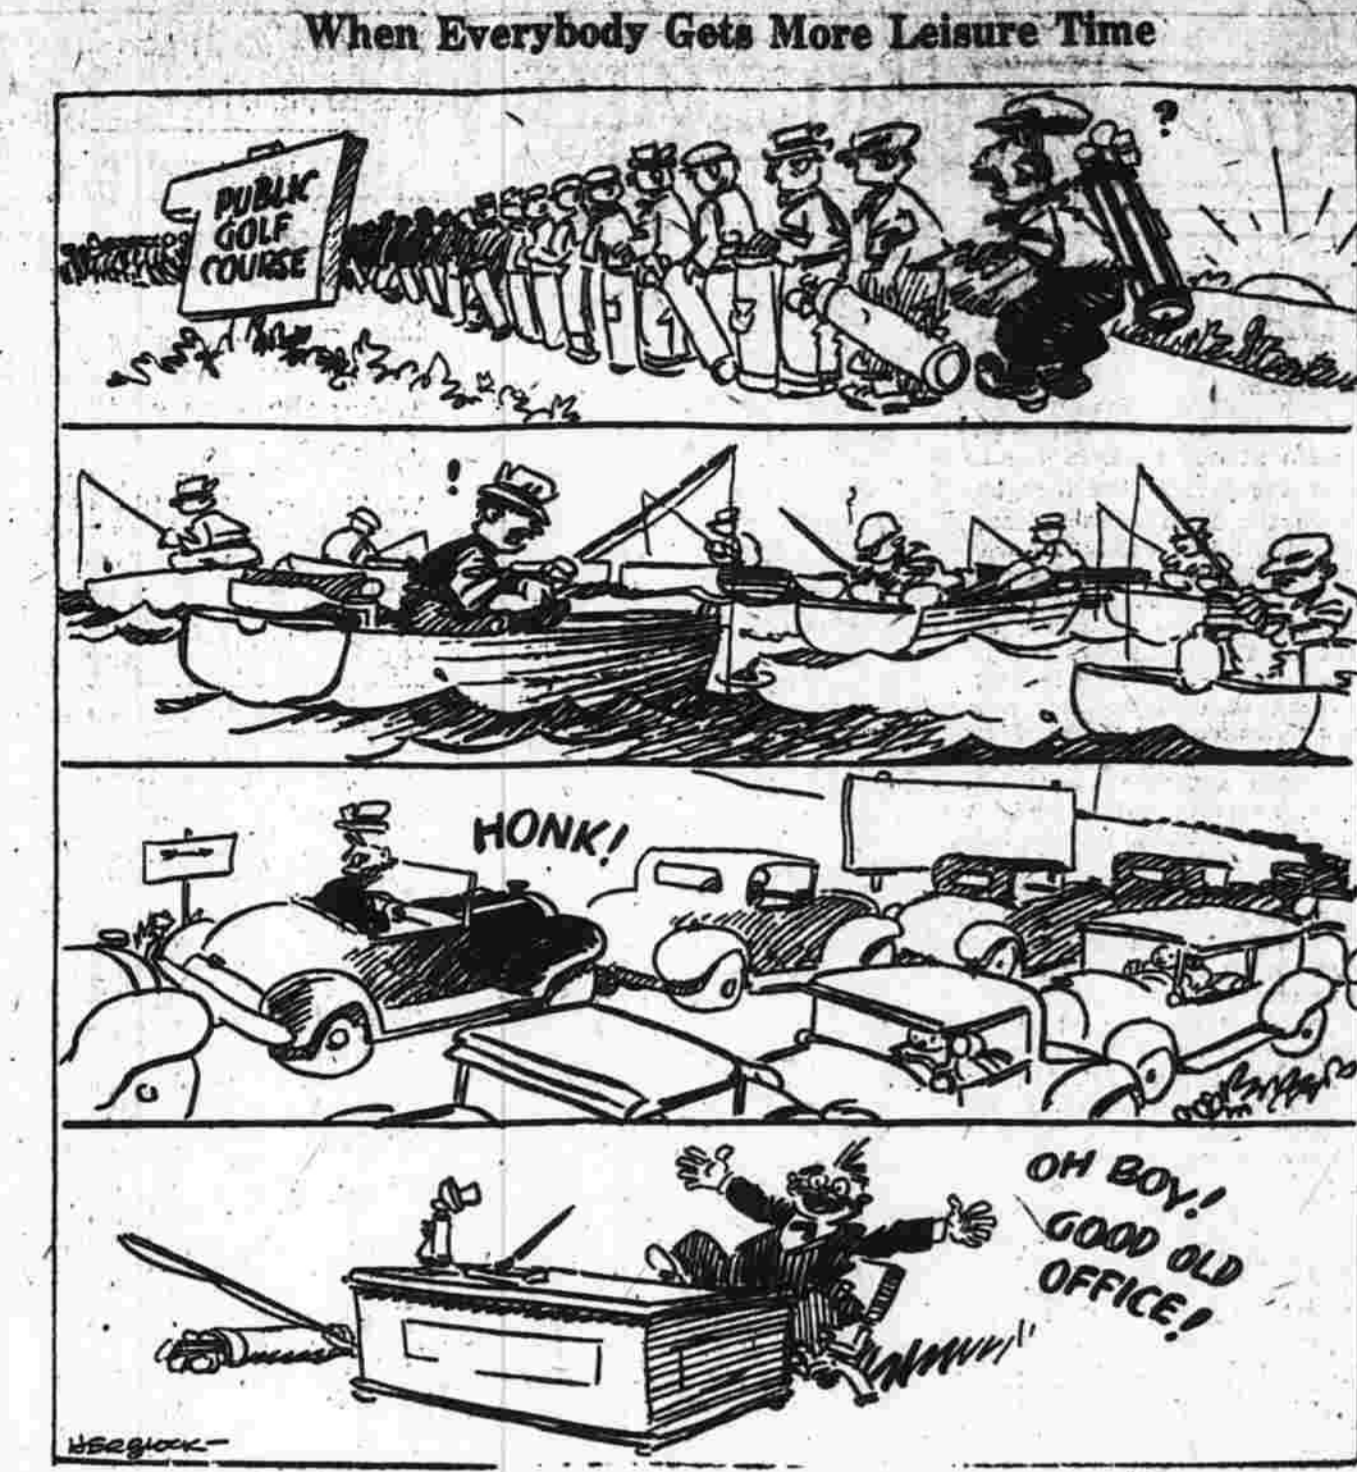

HITLER PROPAGANDA.
 A little while ago the Hitlerites were demanding that they be permitted to buy military airplanes in large numbers in order to keep out the planes of a foreign country—never identified—which were distributing subversive propaganda leaflets from the skies.
 Now the busy Hitler propagandists appear to have forgotten all about the enemy in the skies and are writing long tales about the horrors of the Russian famine. Millions of people of the Soviet Union have died of malnutrition, a shocked world learns through Berlin, because the government took away from the peasants so much of last year's crop to swap for foreign goods, machinery, etc.
 This outburst of sorrow over the plight of the Russians is the best evidence that has yet arrived that the Nazi government is seriously disturbed by the probability of a Communist uprising in Germany in the not distant future.
 The flood of stories emanating from Berlin concerning the Russian famine are not convincing. They are sorely lacking in detail and where detail is supplied its authority is unsatisfactorily vague. They probably serve, however, the purpose of fortifying in their opinions that part of the German people who already were utterly opposed to Communism.
 What their effect may be on that part which would prefer even Bolshevism to Hitlerism is another matter.

TEXAS VOTES TODAY.
 Texas, the home of the author of the Eighteenth Amendment, Senator

Morris Sheppard, is voting today on the ratification of the repeal of that measure. Nobody can ever tell anything in advance about what Texas will do. Mrs. Claude De Van Watta, head of the W. C. T. U. in that state, says she believes her fellow Texans will break the continuity of repeal victories and vote to retain the amendment in the Constitution.
 There has not been a test of Texas opinion on the liquor question since 1919 when the state voted for prohibition by the small majority of about 30,000. Just why the dregs should expect that the Lone Star commonwealth will now rally to the fading cause of prohibition is not quite clear; but then, Texas is Texas and rather beyond the ken of outsiders.
 However, Mrs. Watta's further hope that Texas will "lead twelve other states to block repeal" will seem to almost everyone a bit over sanguine. At the beginning of this ratification test it was only necessary for the dregs to win 13 out of 48 states. Now it is necessary for them to win 13 out of 26 since 22 are already lined up on the repeal side of the question. And that is a very different kind of a problem.

ONCE IS ENOUGH.
 Now that no harm can be done by it, since the arrangements for bonding the town for the purchase of the Cheney utilities have been, so to speak, super-definitely completed, perhaps we will be forgiven for suggesting that the next time Manchester has to go through this kind of a performance it will do so without being stage-managed, directed and muscled by the Massachusetts lawyers of some Bay State bank.
 Surely there is enough legal ability in the state of Connecticut, and probably quite enough in Manchester, to properly advise the procedure of a bond issue, even if it is one that a Massachusetts bank would like to handle, without having to call a series of town meetings as long as your arm to meet a succession of requirements born of the timorous imaginations of out-of-state attorneys.

IN NEW YORK
 By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, Aug. 26.—This is not by way of suggestion that the Manhattan telephone directory, or any of its 1,021 pages, makes interesting reading. But now and then, rare as a flash of action in a Henry James novel, there is an arresting line. . . . And sometimes a confusing discrepancy between names and addresses.
 For instance, the Fifth Avenue Galleries are not on Fifth Avenue at all, and the Fifth Avenue Theater is on Broadway. Farthest removed of all is the Fifth Avenue Exterminating Co., which is in Brooklyn; but second honors go to Madison Square Garden, which is at least a mile and a half from Madison Square. . . . Still and all, there must be prestige in a name, for less than half of the 183 establishments named the Broadway something-or-other are actually on Broadway. Only 11 of the 39 named for Park Avenue are on that exclusive thoroughfare, and one of the 11 is the Park Avenue Live Poultry Market, up at the north end where the street tumbles into a push-cart ghetto.
 O. I. See
 One fine old name not in the directory any longer is that of Orbal I. See. Mr. See, who is really Wood Cowan, the comic artist who draws "The New Yorker," has moved to Connecticut. Some years ago, though, he went into the phone company's office to apply for service in his town apartment.
 "What is your name?" asked a clerk.
 "What did you say?" asked the artist.
 "I said I must have your name," replied the clerk, a little impatiently.
 "Oh, I see," drawled Cowan.
 "And your first name, Mr. See?" inquired the clerk, busily scribbling on a card.
 This so amused the applicant that he invented a name on the spot. "Orbal," he said. And Orbal I. See it was, through four issues of the directory. His friends had heard the story, so they had no difficulty remembering his nom de telephone.
 Who's Exclusive and Why
 In general, the people who have gone exclusive to the point of withdrawing their names from the public directory are not the men of finance and industry and such, but the Broadway celebrities. Thus, you'd be able to call Rudy Vallee, Al Jolson or Earl Carroll unless you knew their private numbers, but you could ring up the homes of William H. Vanderbilt, Charles M. Schwab and J. P. Morgan. And on page 780 there's a Democratic Roosevelt, Franklin D.—49 E 68—Roosevelts 4-7428.
 For romance, the volume offers a Man, a Maiden, three Kisses, four Neckers, one Hug, two Moonlights and a Honey-moon. . . . For the poetry in merchandise: Sam Katz, Ladies Hats. . . . For whimsy: Ye Olds N. Y. Branch of The N. Y. State Association of Retail Meat Dealers Inc. . . . For mystery, the last listing in the book: "Mrs. The—38 West 44—Murry— Hill 2-4516." The Zays is, and you'll hear a voice say guardedly, "Well, it's a sort of club. You know one of those ah—nice little places that's a sort of—a club?"

THE ENEMA
 An exceedingly curious story of the origin of the enema is told by Pliny who states that the use of clysters or enemata was first taught to man by the stork, which used its long beak to get its water into its bowels, finding itself forced to do this since the food upon which it lived was very constipating. Whether this story is true or not, it is fairly well known that the enema was known and used by the ancient Egyptians.
 The enema as we know it today is supposed to have been invented by a man named Gatanaria, an Italian, who lived about the time Columbus discovered America, in 1492. Louis XIII is said to have had as many as 230 enemata given him within a period of six months by his physician, Bouvard. During the reign of Louis XIV, the enema became very fashionable and the court ladies are said to have taken from three to four a day, having found out that this kept their skins rosy and clear. They did not use the plain enema that we use today, however, but perfumed the water with bergamot, rose, angelica or orange.
 "The enema is rightly classed" by many doctors as being the most valuable single remedy to use in both acute and chronic diseases. Often severe symptoms will abate immediately when the enema alone is used. It is a valuable method of quickly relieving the lower bowel of its contents without irritating the stomach and small intestines.
 In taking an enema it should not be taken in such large amounts as to distend the bowel, nor should it be hot enough to relax the intestinal muscles. Tepid enemata of one or two quarts are the most satisfactory. The best time to take them is in the early morning or just before going to bed. However, in cases of food poisoning, indigestion, or practically any other trouble with the digestive tract, the enema may be used at any time and brings almost immediate relief. In cases of constipation of long standing where the muscles of the lower colon have become stretched, it is a good plan to use the enema to bring about a speedy expulsion of the fecal contents so that the intestinal muscles have a chance to shrink to their normal size.
 Whenever the intestinal contents remain for an excessive amount of time there is doubt that poisonous putrefactive products may be generated in the colon. Also, the weight of a large amount of feces in the lower colon presses on the delicate members in this region and often produces reflex pain and headaches by the pressure alone. The enema is the best and safest method as well as the most direct method of correcting this condition.
 Patients who are habitually constipated are often surprised to note the quantity of material which the enema brings forth and often recognize the residue of food substances which have been eaten as long as a week before. Often patients on a fruit juice fast, when their bowels are often produced, reflex pain and headaches by the pressure alone. The enema is the best and safest method as well as the most direct method of correcting this condition.

bring to buritis prepatellar, which is inflammation of the bursa situated in front of the kneecap. You might find that a fruit juice fast which will eliminate the toxins causing the inflammation might be helpful. I would suggest that you follow the instructions outlined in my article called "The Cleansing Diet," which I will send in return for a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and repeat short fruit fasts of about four or five days at intervals of about a month, using a well balanced diet in between for a reasonable length of time. If this does not bring results, about the only thing I can suggest is that you have the growth removed surgically.
 What Does It Mean?
 Question: Miss Dorothy E. asks:

"Will you kindly tell me the meaning of the word 'pneu-mo-hy-dro-per-i-car-di-um'?"
 Answer: The long name you ask about in your letter refers to a condition caused by the collection of air or gas and serum in the pericardium or heart covering.
 More Nicotine from Snuff
 Question: T. I. asks: "Is snuff hard on any particular part of the body? Also, is it worse than smoking or chewing?"
 Answer: Snuff is quite irritating to the nasal membranes and bronchial tubes. One is apt to absorb more nicotine through the use of snuff than through smoking, and the habit might lead to the disorders associated with the excessive use of tobacco.
 (What Causes Dizziness?)
 Question: Mrs. Arnold C. asks: "Will you please tell me if dizziness at times, and a tired feeling all the time, are signs of high blood pressure? I am 45 years old and a poor sleeper."
 Answer: The only way to tell whether or not you have high blood pressure is to have an examination made by the use of the sphygmomanometer, which is an instrument for measuring blood pressure. The dizziness in insomnia may come from high blood pressure, but one with this disorder is seldom bothered by being unusually tired; he generally has plenty of energy, but becomes laxy upon extreme exertion.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON
 PRICE CHECK IS NEEDED, DOCTOR OGBURN INSISTS
 Economist, Who Quit in NRA's First Big Row, Fears For Consumers
 By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent
 Washington, Aug. 26.—The consumer was getting a splendid break from the NRA for awhile. But it didn't last.
 Dr. William F. Ogburn, one of the world's outstanding authorities on where we are, how we got here and where we're going as the result of social and economic forces, was director for the Consumers' Advisory Board.
 He ran into a combination of indifference, feminine jitters and intrigues. Now he has quit, leaving behind him:
 A recommendation of policies and program for the C. A. E. which he insists are necessary if the consumers are not to lose their shirts.
 Many angry economists, sociologists and statisticians — Ogburn was prominent in each of those groups — who are either working here in the New Deal or watching it closely.
 Transfer Ordered
 Ogburn had first been ordered transferred to another agency, but his prestige was so great that his professional brethren raised a howl. Both Secretary of Commerce Roper and Administrator Johnson, heads of NRA, quickly called him in and told him to stay, that things would be "fixed up."
 But Ogburn had a program for protecting consumers in the period of price increases; he wanted 127,000,000 consumers to know what was happening to them. He had been working this out with his staff without any hindrance from Mrs. Mary Rumsey, chairman of C. A. E. and a millionaires, until one day he took a trip to Chicago. Mrs. Rumsey, in his absence and for reasons unknown, persuaded Johnson to have Ogburn transferred to the government's new Central Statistical Board.
 Johnson told Ogburn he had been too busy, with industry and labor to pay attention to the consumers' end of his show. An old army man, he had simply taken the word and the side of Ogburn's titular superior. Now he thought Ogburn ought to stay. Ogburn, feeling that proper consumer representation in NRA depended on a reorganization and a change of attitude among its officials, nevertheless resigned. Johnson is now being urged to give him full power and call him back.
 Consumers, without organization or industrial wealth to support them, need more support than any other group, Ogburn says.
 He and his associates made reports on the consumer standpoint concerning the steel and oil codes, but they appeared to receive little attention.
 The new economic system with its price-fixing features and its apparent monopolistic tendencies present a situation in which the only automatic check on prices was recurring business depressions. Ogburn says. Hence there must be statistics which will index prices and purchasing power, so that the two may balance. The lack of such balance has given NRA more nightmares than "any other single factor."
 The consumers' complaints should be competently studied, Ogburn says, and the whole NEA staff should be impressed by the need of giving some attention to the consumer's interests.
 Ogburn, 47, has taught economics and sociology at Princeton, Columbia and Chicago Universities. He has been president of both the American Sociological Society and the American Statistical Association. He was with the War Labor Board, conducting hearings on strikes situations and then becoming its statistical-economic expert after an elaborate course of living study. He directed Hoover's Committee on Social Trends, supervising its monumental report.

For the LOVE of EVE

by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARKER, advertising man, drifted back to his department store, married DICK RADDER, a construction superintendent. He wants her to give up her job but she refuses. Eve does not want her employers to know she is married so they keep the marriage secret several months. At Christmas Eve announces it. They spend a brief vacation at the home of Eve's parents.

Back at the office MARYA VLAD, fashion artist, and ARLENE SMITH, stenographer, greet Eve excitedly. Eve knows that MONA ALLEN, the new copy writer, dislikes her and is trying to cause trouble for her. Barnes, the advertising manager, has told Eve that she would not have received a recent promotion if he had known she was married.

Eve receives a letter from IRENE PRENTISS, a former schoolmate who lives in New York. Irene is playing the stock market and advises Eve to do the same thing. Without telling Dick, Eve visits the stock department of a bank.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVIII

Eve did not sleep well that night. She awoke several times only to drift back into troubled dreams of Bixby's store, a stock exchange, and finally her old home. In the morning she was so quiet that Dick was worried.

"You're usually skipping about all over the place by 7:30," he said. "What's the matter? Don't you feel well?"

"I'm all right," Eve assured him. "I was just thinking, I mustn't forget to write to Mother today. It's almost a week since her last letter came."

Dick approved of the way in which Eve and her mother kept in close touch with each other. Once every week Mrs. Bayless wrote long letters, painfully written in her cramped handwriting, filled with news of the family, the relatives and Eve's old friends. And once or twice a week Eve dashed off a reply on her typewriter. Once her father grumbled, "Eve's letters are too dang long for any man to read. Tell me in a few words what she said."

But when Kate Bayless received the letter Eve wrote that day she hesitated to tell her husband what it contained.

"Mother, dear," Eve had written, "I wonder if you could get from Dad the money he is keeping for me in the 'emergency fund.' You know how Esther and I always saved our pennies and nickels and put them in the little red elephant bank until Mrs. Frank Bayless deposited down town? Dad said that when we grew up we would have that money for an emergency fund in case anything happened. So I wish he would let me have the money now for something very, very special. I want to buy a new dress for Dick to know about it but I'll tell you in the secret. I'm not going to spend the money—I'm going to invest it."

Because her daughter had asked her to do it Kate did try to get the money. Mrs. Frank Bayless remained as adamant as a rock. He refused to draw out one penny of the sum unless his wife told him what she intended to do with it. Finally Kate told him that Eve wanted it.

"Why should she want that money?" he thundered. "She's getting a good salary and she has a husband with a good job who would be glad to support her if he'd stop this foolishness about working and give him the chance! Now what does she need money for? Is she going to buy a new dress?"

"I'll tell you," she said. "Well, she'll get no help from me! She's gone into debt, likely as not, for something she doesn't need. Has she written anything lately about buying anything?"

Reluctantly Kate clutched at this straw. "She did write a while back about buying some furniture."

"Furniture?" Hank repeated, puzzled. "Why I thought they weren't going to buy furniture yet. I thought they lived in a furnished apartment."

"They do," Kate answered patiently. "But this was something special Eve wanted. She saw it on one of their trips. It was—antiques."

"Antiques?" Hank groaned. "With my hard-earned money? Well, I'll be damned! No, mother; tell her 'No' by a jugful!"

So Eve received less than she had expected and the draft was made out to her mother from the little fund Mrs. Bayless had saved for so long. Kate had made one more sacrifice for her daughter and Eve had to be content with the amount she received.

She wrote her mother a long letter of appreciation. The money was to be considered as a loan, she explained, and she promised to repay it as soon as she had made a gain of that amount. She would hold this for working capital. "You know, Mother," she wrote, "it's impossible to get a start without a little capital." Kate miled as she read that. To think her quarters and half dollars, saved from the household allowance and slipped into the cracked sugar bowl on the top pantry shelf, should have grown into "capital"! What would this enterprising daughter of hers do next?

Mr. Brown suggested four stocks which were on the rising market. "For a quick turnover," he advised, "these are as likely as any to advance."

Eve's funds were limited that it seemed advisable to concentrate on one as a beginning. She placed her money on Pure Soap Inc.

Eve glanced at the pretty young elevator girl in a patronizing manner as she rode up to the office floor of Bixby's. "One knows so little at that age," she told herself. "I wouldn't want to be a year younger than I am for see the knowledge I gain all the time! Why only yesterday I didn't know what it was like to invest on the stock market and today I feel rich already!"

That afternoon she worked swiftly, dutifully and happily. Arlene commented on her mood. "You've got 'em," she said. "I'm having a good day," Eve admitted. "I've turned out my copy in about half the time it usually takes."

"Well, I envy you!" Arlene grumbled. "It would take a million dollars to make me feel like that today."

"Oh, a few hundred thousand can do a lot!" Eve answered lightly.

A 2:30 she sent the office boy to buy a copy of the stock edition of an evening newspaper. When it came Eve turned excitedly to the financial page. Pure Soap Inc., had gone up two points.

Eve made a mental note of her profit. "When it goes up 10 points," she decided, "I'll sell and reinvest the profit in something else. Oh, this is going to be fun!"

That evening she watched Dick as he unfolded the final edition which was always waiting for them at the hall door when they arrived home. He scanned page one and then turned to the financial pages which he pursued thoroughly before turning back to read the local news.

Eve had not known before that Dick was interested in stock quotes. Was he playing the market, too?

After her return from New York Eve had tried to avoid Freda Carter. She blamed Freda for the unpleasant incident with Theron Reece.

But when Freda invited Eve to a party in her apartment the next evening there seemed nothing to do but accept the invitation. The buyer had come to the advertising office with some frocks for Marya to sketch. As she was leaving she turned abruptly toward Eve.

"Oh, I'm almost forgot!" Freda said. "I'm throwing a party tomorrow night and I'd love to have you girls come."

She had only a slight acquaintance with Mona Allen and her glance was for an instant arrested before either of them could reply. Mona gave Freda a melting smile and exclaimed, "Oh, how perfectly sweet of you! I'd simply adore a party!"

Mona paused expectantly. Eve was thinking, "Freda didn't seem to include her. The invitation was for Arlene and me. Is she going to let Mona get away with that?"

Without particular cor ality Freda assured Mona that she was glad she could come. Arlene also accepted. Eve liked Freda but she could never be sure about Freda's friends. There was Theron Reece, for example. But Eve was certain he would not be at the party. This was Freda's and she had told her she was not due in Lake City until the week before Easter. Reece had mentioned his itinerary in detail at dinner that evening in New York. Going to that evening in New York, Freda assured Mona that she was glad she could come. Arlene also accepted. A 2:30 she sent the office boy to buy a copy of the stock edition of an evening newspaper. When it came Eve turned excitedly to the financial page. Pure Soap Inc., had gone up two points.

Eve made a mental note of her profit. "When it goes up 10 points," she decided, "I'll sell and reinvest the profit in something else. Oh, this is going to be fun!"

That evening she watched Dick as he unfolded the final edition which was always waiting for them at the hall door when they arrived home. He scanned page one and then turned to the financial pages which he pursued thoroughly before turning back to read the local news.

Eve had not known before that Dick was interested in stock quotes. Was he playing the market, too?

After her return from New York Eve had tried to avoid Freda Carter. She blamed Freda for the unpleasant incident with Theron Reece.

But when Freda invited Eve to a party in her apartment the next evening there seemed nothing to do but accept the invitation. The buyer had come to the advertising office with some frocks for Marya to sketch. As she was leaving she turned abruptly toward Eve.

"Oh, I'm almost forgot!" Freda said. "I'm throwing a party tomorrow night and I'd love to have you girls come."

She had only a slight acquaintance with Mona Allen and her glance was for an instant arrested before either of them could reply. Mona gave Freda a melting smile and exclaimed, "Oh, how perfectly sweet of you! I'd simply adore a party!"

Mona paused expectantly. Eve was thinking, "Freda didn't seem to include her. The invitation was for Arlene and me. Is she going to let Mona get away with that?"

Without particular cor ality Freda assured Mona that she was glad she could come. Arlene also accepted. Eve liked Freda but she could never be sure about Freda's friends. There was Theron Reece, for example. But Eve was certain he would not be at the party. This was Freda's and she had told her she was not due in Lake City until the week before Easter. Reece had mentioned his itinerary in detail at dinner that evening in New York. Going to that evening in New York, Freda assured Mona that she was glad she could come. Arlene also accepted. and bond department of the City Bank.

Mr. Brown suggested four stocks which were on the rising market. "For a quick turnover," he advised, "these are as likely as any to advance."

Eve's funds were limited that it seemed advisable to concentrate on one as a beginning. She placed her money on Pure Soap Inc.

Eve glanced at the pretty young elevator girl in a patronizing manner as she rode up to the office floor of Bixby's. "One knows so little at that age," she told herself. "I wouldn't want to be a year younger than I am for see the knowledge I gain all the time! Why only yesterday I didn't know what it was like to invest on the stock market and today I feel rich already!"

That afternoon she worked swiftly, dutifully and happily. Arlene commented on her mood. "You've got 'em," she said. "I'm having a good day," Eve admitted. "I've turned out my copy in about half the time it usually takes."

"Well, I envy you!" Arlene grumbled. "It would take a million dollars to make me feel like that today."

"Oh, a few hundred thousand can do a lot!" Eve answered lightly.

In certain forms of diseases of the lungs, such as pneumonia and bronchitis, and also in bronchial asthma, which causes a constriction of the bronchial tubes, it may be impossible for a sufficient amount of good air and oxygen to get into the lungs, in which case naturally cyanosis, or blueness of the skin, follows.

Irritant or poisonous gas may inflame the lungs and there are also cases in which objects associated with industry block the passages in the lungs and fail to permit circulation of the blood carrying oxygen.

Then there may be a condition affecting the heart, which makes it impossible for the heart, because of its weakness, to force the blood through the lungs, so as to permit a sufficient amount of oxygen to come in contact with it.

In some cases, as in poisoning by illuminating gas, the carbon monoxide combines quickly with hemoglobin; in fact, 30 times as quickly as with oxygen. Hence suffocation with illuminating gas is invariably associated with a blue or purple color of the body.

Anything which will relieve the cyanosis can reduce the demand for oxygen in the tissues and which will aid the falling circulation of blood is helpful in controlling cyanosis. Rest is, of course, of the greatest importance, since it lowers the amount of oxygen demanded by the tissues and gives the tissues opportunity to recover from the deprivation of oxygen associated with cyanosis.

Obviously, the presence of any obstruction to breathing is in itself an indication for its removal.

In cases of poisoning with illuminating gas or of asphyxiation, the use of artificial breathing devices which supply a mixture of 95 per cent of oxygen and five per cent carbon dioxide hasten the elimination of toxic substances and permit the introduction of excess oxygen to supply the terrific demand of the tissues for this substance.

NEXT: Various causes of cyanosis.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

PREPARED MILK HAS ITS PLACE IN DIET

Nearly every modern housewife has some knowledge of the facts connected with the production and distribution of canned milk in its various forms. She realizes that these products have the advantage of absolute purity. All manufacturers uphold high standards of cleanliness. In addition, the process of manufacture requires rapid heating to a high temperature which is destructive to dangerous bacteria. This makes these milk products a safe source of milk entirely dependable in the most remote parts of the world. They can be kept for long periods of time without ice and are particularly convenient for travel and camping.

But there is another point worth consideration—the special value of canned and dried milks as an ingredient in cookery. Since all canned milks have been heated sufficiently to alter their flavors, they food excellently with many other foods and produce unusually delicious dishes.

The process of evaporation develops a flavor suggestive of caramel as well as a richness and smoothness of texture that makes it undiluted, almost like cream.

Condensed milk which is a sweetened, evaporated milk, supplies sugar for desserts, cereals and beverages in addition to its own flavor.

The milk powders are satisfactory in many instances. When they are dissolved in water, they form a "reconstituted" milk which can scarcely be distinguished from fresh milk.

The canned cream—both the coffee and whipping—have been sterilized after sealing in the can and will keep indefinitely before opening. After opening, they must be treated just like fresh cream.

Since these canned milks can be kept on the emergency shelf until opened, there is no waste from souring as is often the case with fresh milk.

Spanish chocolate is a delicious drink made with condensed and evaporated milk. It can be served hot or chilled as the weather dictates.

THREE BIG BALL GAMES SLATED HERE TOMORROW

Green-Baldwins and West Sides-Bluefields Clash in Morning; Pirates-Sub Alpines Meet in Afternoon; All Involve Titles.

Three important baseball games are scheduled to be played in Manchester tomorrow, two in the morning and one in the afternoon, all three involving a championship of one kind or another. At 10:45 o'clock in the morning, Baldwin A. C. and Manchester Green will clash at Mt. Nebo in the third and deciding game for the Manchester American League title, while at about the same hour, the Bluefields and West Sides will battle at the West Side field in the second game of a series that is part of the town title play, the Bluefields seeking their second straight triumph. The afternoon tilt brings together the Sub-Alpines and the Pirates in the second game of their series, which is also a part of the town title play. The Pirates upset the Alpines in the opener and expect to repeat tomorrow. The winner of the Alpines-Pirates series will meet the winner of the Bluefields-West Sides series for the so-called town title. The winner of the Green-Baldwins series is expected to challenge the winner of the aforementioned series later in the season.

GREEN-BALDWIN
Tomorrow morning at Mt. Nebo, the championship of the Manchester American League, will be decided. The Manchester Green team by defeating the North End Arrows, and the Baldwin A. C. by disposing of Highland Park, in best two out of three game series, automatically come together for a deciding series to determine which shall represent the Manchester American League, in the expected contest for Town Champions. The Green and the Baldwins have played two games of this championship series, the Baldwins copped the first game by a score of 7 to 3, but the Hublardites came back strong and took the second game by a score of 16 to 10. Now occurs the third, last, and deciding game of the series. Reports from both camps indicate that neither team seems to have any reason to believe they are going to lose, each team appears to be in Grade A shape, and evenly matched as they are, the fans who journey to Mt. Nebo tomorrow morning should witness a mighty good scrap, starting when Umpire O'Leary calls "Play Ball" at 10:15.

WEST SIDES-BLUEFIELDS
The West Sides and Bluefields will clash in the second game of the town series tomorrow morning at the West Side. The game will start promptly at 10 o'clock. As there is a great deal of antagonism between the West Sides and Bluefields the spectators are sure to be kept on edge. A real tribute must be paid to "Hook" Brumen of the Bluefields. Hook, although a great deal older than the rest of the players on the Bluefields is the main factor why the Bluefields have been so successful this season. His big bat has accounted for many a run and his good fielding and the throwing has stopped many players from scoring. All in all Hook is a dangerous man and a real thorn in the rival pitcher's side. The West Side individual star is Mike. This boy is the spark plug of the West Side machine. He covers second base like a big leaguer and wields a mighty bat. The West

Boston Idle as New York Wins 7th in Row; Cubs Tighten Hold on Third; Senators Widen Margin.

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
Back in the midst of the fray after being shut out four straight days by Jupiter Pluvius, the New York Giants have demonstrated they can manufacture a winning streak of their own to match the output of the Boston Braves. Meeting the Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday, they won the opening contest 8 to 5, as Manager Terry cracked out a homer with two on in the eleventh, and then behind the effective pitching of Leroy Parmelee, crushed the Pirates six to two in the second game. Seven-Game Lead
The double victory ran the Giants winning streak to seven games and increased their margin over the idle Braves to seven games. The double defeat dropped Pittsburgh into fifth place. The Chicago Cubs strengthened their hold on third place by dividing a double-header with the Philadelphia Phillies, took the first game 8 to 7 in ten innings. The Cubs squared matters, however, behind Lon Warneke in the nightcap, winning 7 to 4. The Brooklyn Dodgers conquered the Cincinnati Reds twice by 4-3 scores as Hack Wilson made his major league debut at second base due to injuries to Brooklyn infielders.

Nate Now Nine Ahead
The gap between Washington and New York in the American League widened to nine games with the Senators 5 to 4 decision over the Detroit Tigers and the Cleveland Indians 6-4 setback of the Yankees. Bob Johnson hit two home runs, two singles and walked once to lead the Philadelphia Athletics to a 11 to 3 decision over the Browns. Gordon Rhodes pitched and batted the Red Sox to an 8 to 1 victory over the White Sox.

Lamprecht-Heubner Play In Finals This Afternoon

Glady's Lamprecht and Eleanor Heubner will clash in the finals of the women's tennis tournament this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock on the High school courts due to a last minute change in schedule. The match will be best two out of three sets and the defending champion, Miss Lamprecht is giving a slight edge over her rival. Mrs. Heubner, who was also runner-up last year, has improved considerably this season, winning the girls' tourney at the High school.

Old Net Rivals to Meet For Eighth Time Today

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—For the eighth time since they left their high school class rooms out in California almost a decade ago to carve their careers in "big time" tennis, Mrs. Helen Wills Moody and Helen Jacobs faced each other across the net today, this time for the biggest prize of all the women's national championships. Mrs. Moody, facing a familiar audience, was seeking her eighth national title, which would tie the record set by Mrs. Molla Just Malory. Miss Jacobs, though defending the championship won a year ago in Philadelphia, was the first victor over the status quo Mrs. Moody, who qualified for the finals by beating Betty Nuthall.

Klein On Hitting Spree, Boosts Average To .378

New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—"Chuck" Klein, answering the challenge to his major league batting supremacy went on another hitting spree last week to pull further away from his rivals. While his leading American League rival, Jimmy Foxx, was fighting to maintain his lead in the American circuit, Klein connected with 12 hits in 25 times at bat during the week ending with yesterday's games. These boosted the Phillies' star outfielder's average to .378. The ten leading batters in each league follows: National: Klein, Phillies, .378; Terry, Giants, .349; Davis, Phillies, .343; Schantz, Phillies, .329; Piet, Pirates, .328; Fulleis, Phillies, .322; Berger, Boston, .319; Frederick, Brooklyn, .317; Martin, Cardinals, .317; Hafey, Reds, .314; Vaughan, Pirates, .314. Uncle Robby's Influence Already Felt In Southern Atlanta, Aug. 26.—(AP)—The Flatbush fans used to say you could always get your money's worth at the Brooklyn ball yard when Wilbert Robinson was manager. That promises to be the case at Atlanta, where Robby has recently resumed the role of manager. Sometimes—at Brooklyn—you'd see good baseball and other times you'd laugh yourself sick at the sordid tactics of Robby's assortment of athletes. Back a few years ago the Dodgers were famous for their unorthodox and generally disastrous base running. Every baseball fan has heard of that classic example where Babe Herman tripled into a triple play. He's the best, but lots of other such shining bits of baseball were committed during Robby's regime. He finished his tenure as Brooklyn manager two years ago. A few days ago he became temporary manager of the Atlanta Southern association club, and strangely enough, a piece of unique baseball maneuvering occurred on the base

SHIELDS LOOMS AS LIKELY WINNER OF NATIONAL SINGLES

May Climax Brilliant Comeback With Victory at Forest Hills Against Leading Net Players.

By GALE TALBOT
(Associated Press Sports Writer)
New York, Aug. 26.—(AP)—For four years now, they've been saying that big Frank Shields, when he decided to calm down and take his tennis seriously, would be the greatest player in the world, hands down. The big news on the eve of the men's national championships at Forest Hills, starting September 2, is that the towering, black-haired New Yorker has wiped that grin from his face, decided life is real, life is earnest, and is determined to take the flower of international tennis apart, piece by piece. May Be Favorite
As a result of the big playboy's change of heart, he is likely to enter the tournament a favorite over a brilliant field that includes Ellisworth Vines, Jr., present national champion; Fred Perry, England's Davis Cup hero; Jack Crawford, Australia's "Little Giant"; and practically every other world's high ranking star except Bunny Austin of England and Henri Cochet of France. The metamorphosis of Frank Shields has been as spectacular as it was unexpected. Left off the Davis Cup squad for the last two years, he apparently struck bottom when, after seeing crushing setbacks abroad early this summer, he suddenly shipped for home without telling anybody goodbye. He didn't even bother to bring his wardrobe along. Their Error
Tennis observers thought the fellow's spirit was broken, expressed the opinion that Shields, for all his brilliant promise, was through as a big-time net star. How little they knew the work-ings of Frank's mind is best proved by the meteoric trail he has left behind him since he again set foot on home soil. He must have had a lot of time to think things out on the trip across. Probably he had an idea what the critics were saying. His first start on the road back was at Spring Lake, N. J., a clay tournament, where he lost to Frankie Parker after fighting his way to the final. Since then, in making a sweep of the east's turf court classics—Huntington, Southampton, Seabright, Newport—Shields has obliterated every opponent who has come before his searing shots. He literally has overwhelmed the greatest of this country's talent, capping the onslaught with successive victories over Wilmer Allison and Ellisworth Vines, our Davis Cup singles ace, at Newport. All the other Frankie Parkers, Sidney Wood, Jr., Lester Stoeffen, Clifford Butler, Keith Gledhill, Gregory Mangin and George Lot, either have been pounded into submission by Frank, personally, or have been defeated in tournaments he won. Vines went down in straight sets before the terrific service and blazing drives of the man who came back. Shields' little wonder, then, that Shields' presence in the championships overshadowed even the threat of the two great foreign stars, Fred and Crawford. Counted out less than two months ago, he stands today this country's chief hope of keeping the big trophy at home.

TITLE HOLDER SMASHES WAY INTO FINALS WITH CLOSE FOUGHT VICTORY

Southpaw Challenger Makes Gallant Stand But Loses on Errors; Robert Sturgeon Upsets Urbanetti in Three Hard Sets; To Meet Bissell Next.

Playing the same unorthodox but effective style of tennis that has brought him five consecutive town championships, Walter "Ty" Holland blasted his way into the finals of the current town title tournament with a decisive straight set victory over lanky James Britton in a semi-final match at the High School courts last night. The final score was 6-2 and 6-3. Sturgeon is Winner of the first set, which Holland took at love. The best game was the longest of the match being deuced six times before Britton broke through to even the score. Again Holland won at love on Britton's service, running the score up to 5-1 before the opponent captured the seventh game, the only gam. Britton was able to win on his own service. The deciding game went to deuce four times before Holland ran out the set.
Earlier in the day, Robert Sturgeon engineered a startling upset

Baseline Game
Holland was kept at the baseline throughout the match by the cannonball drives of Britton and play at the net was confined to Britton's return of the ball. The high lobs, which hit the wires overhead many times, making it necessary to play the point over again. Many of Britton's placements came from his kill shots at the net and many of his errors through the lack of control of his backhand when attempting a return from the baseline.

Sturgeon's Battle
The Sturgeon-Urbanetti quarter-final match was a grueling two hour struggle, during which Sturgeon hovered on the brink of decisive defeat only to fight his way back into the running with a desperate attack that proved too much for Urbanetti to withstand.

Fast But Erratic
From the outset, Britton played a slashing, driving game, a style of play that earned him many points through beautiful placements that caused the crowd to break forth in applause again and again. But in the end it was Britton's refusal to let his opponent to take the offensive, which led Britton to commit a total of 65 errors as compared to 29 made by Holland.

Two-Handed Style
Sturgeon, whose two-handed-racket style stamps him as an apt pupil of the town champion, "Ty" Holland, kept up a constant lobbing attack that caused Urbanetti to commit many errors, either by driving out of bounds or into the net. Urbanetti kept returning the ball at a slow pace, instead of resorting to the attacking game of which he is capable, evidently fearing to lose precious points by the latter method.

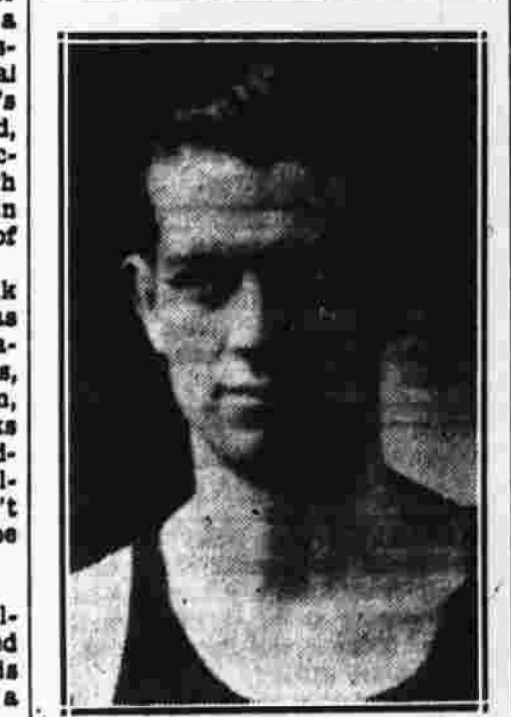

Crowd is Unruly
Scouting victory, Sturgeon bore down in the tenth game and swept the first three points with amazing rapidity. The crowd began to cheer and one person in the gallery made a remark that Sturgeon resembled, so much so that it almost cost him the game. He made a quick return that settled down for the match point.

Four Love Games
Britton tallied a total of twenty placements to eleven for Holland and also scored four sets to only one for Holland. The latter, however, won four games at love, all on Britton's service. Here, too, Britton's inaccuracy was especially noticeable, as he was guilty of the total of eight doublefaults.

Joe Tal Ken
Joe Tal Ken, former town champion, whose activities he has confined mainly to California, has averaged a light every week since January 1, 1933.

Barrels between the redoubtable feminine tugboat captain and her shiftless, good-natured husband; mother-love furnishes a poignant heart interest, and there is a tremendous dramatic climax in the engine room.

Miss Dressler plays Annie, with Beery as her husband, Terry, and Robert Young as Alec, the son, who grows up, becomes captain of a liner, marries the daughter of the shipping magnate and seeks to remove his parents from the tug which is their livelihood and home.

The next meeting of the post will be held Tuesday evening, Sept. 5th, at which time Commander Peterson requests a good attendance to start our fall activities.

Don't forget to secure your tickets for the outing and clam bake to be held Sunday, Sept. 10th, at Comrade Keaney's Cottage at Roaring Lake. The committee advises that the tickets are going fast and in order to be sure of reservations they ask that anyone wishing to attend, procure tickets as soon as possible.

We are pleased to learn that the Thompsonville Drum Corps left Thursday for Milwaukee, Wis., to take part in the competition at the National Encampment and we feel confident that the boys from Thompsonville will bring back a lot of glory to the State of Connecticut. The special bus carrying the Corps is being piloted by comrade Bill Freshlove of the Post.

We wish at this time to extend the greetings of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to our Comrades of the American Legion who are holding their state encampment at New London, Conn. We sincerely hope that the boys from New London will be blessed with success and we know that it will.

Following is a brief resume of the program that has been arranged for the 34th national encampment of the V. F. W. to be held at Milwaukee, Wisconsin, August 27-September 1:

In answer to an increasing clamor among ex-service men for the close co-operation of all service organizations in the support of a unified legislative program, Commander Peterson has received word from national headquarters that this organization is prepared to act in this direction.

"It should be known that the V. F. W. has always advocated ordination and election and tabling among veteran groups," declares Commander Peterson. "Ever since the World War we have made repeated efforts to enlist the cooperation of all veteran groups under the leadership of a combined council that could speak for the mass of veterans as a whole.

"Because the V. F. W. includes in its membership veterans of all wars and campaigns in the history of the country, we are again taking the lead in a movement to unify veteran legislative activities. Immediately after our 1933 national encampment, to be held in Milwaukee, Wisconsin, August 27-September 1, our organization will invite all other veteran groups to participate in the formation of a combined council of legislative policies. We feel confident that a massed attack concentrated on certain definite objectives in veteran legislation will force repeal of the vicious effects of the so-called Economy Act. By coordinating our efforts, we believe that we can prevail upon the next session of congress to take such steps as may be necessary to secure justice and equity for the disabled veterans and his dependents."

D. A. V.

While the whole country is fighting another war for the President's recovery act, we believe we should give our viewpoint on this too. We will quote a piece from the D. A. V. monthly of Aug. 14, 1933, just received by all members of the D. A. V.

"The D. A. V. nationally has become a member of the National Recovery Administration. We most earnestly subscribe to the principle of increasing the purchasing power of the masses through increasing employment and increasing wages. It is to be hoped that purchasing power will increase faster than the cost of living."

In view of the inflation policy, it seems very inconsistent to adopt a deflation policy as to veteran benefits. The purchasing power of disabled ex-service men has been very drastically reduced by reason of the so-called Economy Act even though liberalized under the amendments of June 16, 1933. The disabled veteran in general is receiving a lesser number of dollars, the purchasing power of each of which is gradually decreasing in reverse ratio to the increase of inflationary prices.

This inflationary program was not in effect at the time of the passage of the so-called Economy Bill. It may have been correct at that time somewhat to deflate the amount of veteran expenditures, but to continue such a program of deflation as to veteran benefits when everything else is being inflated is inconsistent with the President's primary purpose of increasing purchasing power for the masses.

Therefore, in propagandizing for the recovery of veterans benefits to service connectee cases, the D. A. V. feels that it is supporting the fundamental theory behind the policy of the NRA.

We want to remind the comrades of the local chapter to make every effort to be present at the district meeting to be held in Bristol, Aug. 31, 1933 at 8:30 p. m. in the D. A. V. meeting hall, as this is expected to be a very interesting affair with lots of news from "National."

All members of this chapter who can possibly do so are asked to turn out in the NRA parade Monday at 7 p. m. Further hope on this will be found elsewhere in this paper.

All men who are to appear before the special board now in session in Newington are requested to get in touch with Ed. Kelly at the Bureau as soon as they receive their notice.

British War Veterans

All members of the Mons-Ypres Post are requested to meet in front of the High school Monday night August 28th to take part in the huge parade which is being held in connection with the National Recovery Act. Parade will start at 7 p. m. Com. Eand do your part boys.

Comrade Bill Davis of the Mons-Ypres Post who operates the Home Bakery on Church street is about to move his business. In a few weeks, the bakery will be located at 519 Main street.

Comrade Jim Thompson who is manager of the Mons-Ypres horse shoe team is very anxious to have a return match with the V. F. W. team. We know that "Cap" Peterson has been keeping very much out of the way since we gave his team the last trimming, and is not saying much. So Jim would like to have the teams meet tomorrow morning at the West Side courts. So if Bert Moseley can get his men together please get in touch with Manager Thompson, who I am sure will be glad to give the boys another exhibition in the art of throwing horseshoes. What do you say Cap.

We wish to thank the Vets for their kind invitation to attend their outing and I am quite sure that a good few of the boys may accept. British ex-service men will be interested to know that plans are being formulated for our annual Armistice Day supper. This affair will again be staged at the Oasis Club on Saturday evening, November 11, with Osano catering. A turkey supper is in the offing and Comrade Tom Watson of the Edith Cavell Command is chairman of the committee.

Here's hoping that the boys from the Legion will have a good time at their annual convention which is being held today at New London.

Mons-Ypres Auxiliary

The members of the sewing circle met at the home of Mrs. John Pratt, West street, last Thursday afternoon and held another interesting session. These classes are proving very popular and more of the ladies are invited to attend. Sixteen of the members were present and good work was accomplished. Tea was served by the hostess, and a good time was enjoyed by all. The next session will be held at the home of Mrs. Victor Duke on Pearl street next Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. The Auxiliary is now running a

THREE BIG BALL GAMES

SLATED HERE TOMORROW

Sides also have a few young men that are always willing to play, and it is these boys that play an important part in the West Side victories. Burkhardt and Hediund are two good examples of such players.

Tomorrow's battle will find Godeck on the mound for the West Side while Kovic will throw them for the Bluefields.

Kovic, former trade school star, has a remarkable record thus far this season. He has finished and won every game that he has started. Kovic has a fine fast ball and a fast breaking curve that baffles many a batter.

Godeck also is a fine hurler and has appeared in almost every West Side game. Godeck has mastered a tricky cross fire, and has a fast breaking curve that baffles many a batter.

Godeck also is a fine hurler and has appeared in almost every West Side game. Godeck has mastered a tricky cross fire, and has a fast breaking curve that baffles many a batter.

Coach Jim Foley of the Bluefields has called a special practice for this afternoon and wishes that all his players be on hand fully uniformed. The practice will be held on the Bluefield diamond on McKee street.

PIRATES—ALPINES

The second game of the series, which will determine one of the finalists in the town series will be played Sunday afternoon at Mt. Nebo between the Pirates and Sub-Alpines. The game will start at 3:15.

The Pirates emerged victorious in the first contest after driving Herb Fraser from the mound and treating Sturgeon, who relieved him, rather roughly in the closing frames. Sturgeon or "Chick" Fraser will probably be the starting twirler for the Sub-Alpines tomorrow because they seem to be the ones who have been pitching most consistently for the boys from the Heights over the entire season.

Backet who did such a good job in the opening game for the Pirates will again be Captain Harrison's choice as a starting pitcher for the local Bucs. This fellow is the star hurler for the Tunxis A. C. of Windsor and he was drafted by the Pirates for the town series when the managers of the other three teams agreed to allow them the choice of another pitcher. Apparently the selection was a good one because in defeating the Sub-Alpines, he allowed them only 5 runs and 7 scattered hits.

The Pirates are determined to make tomorrow's tilt the final one in the present series but the Sub-Alpines are equally determined to extend the series to the full 3 games so that all fans who witness the afternoon encounter can be sure that they will see as much action as is sure to take place in the morning clash between the Bluefields and West Side.

SENSE and NONSENSE

The Presbyterian church has not read bogs among sinners. And there will be no interdenominational dispute over this.

Clady—Why are we stopping, Harry?
Harry—There's a Miss in the car.

That new fifty miles an hour train will present a new problem to seventy miles an hour motor car drivers. How will they be able to meet it at the crossing unless they start earlier?

WHAT WE NEED IS AN AUTOMOBILE—THAT IS AFRAID OF TRAINS.

Katherine—I dreamed we were out riding last night, and you stopped the car away out in the country on a secluded side road.
Festus—Yes, dear, then what happened?
Katherine—Well, I woke up walking in my sleep.

LOVE IS WHAT MAKES THE RUMBLE SEAT COMFORTABLE.

The way in which some owners park their cars leads to the question of "Who Owns the Streets?" As a matter of fact, the streets belong to the public and no one has any more rights and privileges on them than any other citizen. But from the way some drivers use the streets one might infer that they thought they had preferred privileges.

Traffic Cop—Why didn't you stop when I whistled?
Motorist—I'm sorry, I didn't hear you.
Traffic Cop—Well, you'll get your hearing in the morning.

Captain Frank Hawks recently made a successful transcontinental flight with his plane piloted by a robot. The robot probably will never be applied to motor cars because of objections of backward drivers. There probably wouldn't be much satisfaction in giving advice to a robot. It wouldn't talk back.

Ediths—Quite a nice job, Elmer. But tell me, what's making all that noise.
Elmer—That, Ediths, my darling, is nothing but the rumble seat rumbaling.

ONE SIGN OF RETURNING PROSPERITY IS THE INCREASING NUMBER OF PEOPLE WHO DECIDE THAT THEY CAN SAVE MONEY IN BUYING A NEW CAR.

Nervous Passenger—Don't drive so fast around the corners. It makes me frightened.
Chauffeur—You don't want to get scared. Do what I do—shut your eyes when we come to corners.

Wife—So you got a stiff fine for smashing up someone's car? I thought you said you had a friend at court who would fix things for you?
Husband—Just my luck. He was the fellow I ran into.

EVEN THOUGH THE DETOUR IS GETTING THERE BY THE BACK WAY IT PRESENTS A CHANGE OF SCENERY.

Youth—How did your father know we went out in the car yesterday?
Sweet Young Thing—Quite simple! Remember that stout gentleman we ran into? That was father.

THE WORM WILL TURN, AND THAT'S ALL RIGHT. BUT THE MOST TROUBLE-SOME OF THE SPECIES IN THE ROAD WORM THAT TURNS WITHOUT SIGNALING HOW, WHEN AND WHERE.

Flea—Kreiser makes wonderful music.
Doris—I thought he made automobiles.

Thirty million motorists lose thirty years altogether waiting for the green light—but consider how long they would wait for release from the hospital if they jumped the red light.

She married him because she liked his car.
But he can't buy the gas so they don't drive at very far.

BROAD BROOK MAN

WEDS IN NEW YORK

William F. Geissler and Miss Muriel M. Eaton Married in Little Church Around the Corner.

(Special to The Herald)

New York, Aug. 23.—A license to wed was issued at the Municipal Building here yesterday to William Frank Geissler, 29, of Broad Brook, and Miss Muriel Eaton, 25, of Collinsville, Conn. They were married in the Little Church Around the Corner here today. Rev. Randolph Ray officiated. The bride-elect was born in Collinsville, the daughter of Arthur H. and Mabel Smith Eaton. Mr. Geissler, the son of Ernest E. and Augusta Rhimann Geissler, was born in Broad Brook.

BIG CARNIVAL OPENS MONDAY

Tall Cedars Offer Fine Free Entertainment — Goods Home Purchased.

The Tall Cedars of Lebanon will open their annual carnival Monday evening on the Dougherty lot, Center and McKee streets. Booths and the various entertainment stands are being erected and everything is sure to be ready for the grand opening.

None of the free entertainment will be staged until these watching and participating in the NRA parade have had an opportunity to reach the carnival grounds, and the committee plans to hold up its activities so that the carnival will in no way interfere with the parade. The big free act that should attract large crowds is the Looping Nixes, a dare-devil pair of motorcycle riders who do a whirlwind stunt in a huge laticed ball. This act has been brought to Manchester at considerable expense, but the Tall Cedars committee feels that it will prove worthwhile. The Nixes give a complete performance at all times and are said to be one of the most popular of the stunt acts on the fair or carnival circuit today.

One feature of the carnival, worth noting is the fact that all goods offered at the various booths are home purchased. As far as it has been possible Manchester merchants have been given the business. This policy has proved a bit more costly, perhaps, than had the committee purchased its goods in one lot from houses dealing direct with carnivals, but it has instilled a better spirit.

Members of the Tall Cedars are requested to wear their pyramids and ticket sellers are asked to report to Ward Dougan. One of the special prizes is being displayed in the window of the State Shoe Repair Shop.

HEARS OF REV. KELLY'S TRAVELS IN SPAIN

Former Assistant Rector at St. Mary's Now Visiting Land of Toreadors.

Rev. J. Stuart Neill, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church, while touring Ireland several years ago met the Rev. David Kelly of Donaghal and a warm, mutual friendship was formed that was later strengthened by months of daily association in this country.

While admiring the scenic beauties of Ireland together, Rev. Kelly disclosed to Rector Neill his ambition to secure an extended leave of absence from his church to visit America, and his hope of obtaining some temporary post during his stay here.

In those prosperous times St. Mary's church could afford an assistant to the rector of its large parish. Rev. Neill placed the matter before the church officials and ere long they extended an invitation to the young Irish minister to come to St. Mary's, and he gladly accepted. Rev. Kelly made as favorable an impression on the parishioners as he had on their rector and became very popular in the church and community.

At the termination of his leave of absence he was urged to remain at St. Mary's, but the ties which held him to his home and church in Ireland were too strong. It was with genuine regret that the people of St. Mary's saw him depart and a big farewell reception was held in his honor in the parish hall. He was succeeded by the Rev. Alfred Clark, now in West Haven.

This summer the genial little minister is again gratifying his love of travel, as a card just received by Mr. Neill would indicate. It read as follows:

"Spending my holidays in Spain.

MAKES FORCED MARCH TO LEGION'S PARADE

Edward Cowles, on Leave from C. C. V. C. Job, Says He'd Go Thousand Miles if Necessary.

Edward Cowles of 91 Laurel street, a member of the C. C. V. C., the organization of World War veterans employed on the Winoski River dam project at East Barre, Vt., returned home last night from the camp so that he could be in New London today to take part in the American Legion convention parade, there this afternoon. Cowles left East Barre at 3:30 yesterday afternoon with a group of Hartford men employed on the project and arrived in Manchester at 11 last night. An enthusiastic Legionnaire, he says he would travel a thousand miles to be with the boys. He says that there are 2,800 veterans on the Winoski project now, all located at Camp Wilson. Of the 2,800 there all this summer only one veteran has been lost by death and the camp officials are extremely proud of the record.
