WASHINGTON STATE VOTING ON REPEAL

Dry's Hint at Surprise But Wets Are Confident As the Polls Are Opened.

Hartford, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Bottled milk sold to schools for resale to pupils for consumption may be provided by dealers at less than market prices, the State Milk Control Board announced today.

Seattle, Wash., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Prohibitionists talked of "a surprise" in the outcome and repeaters forecast an overwhelming victory as Washington expressed its will today on the 18th Amendment.

Washington is the 24th state to vote on the question, the preceding 23 having gone solidly for repeal. Drys professed to be hopeful but the wets had statistics on their side.

The Board of Milk Control recognizes the importance of milk to growing children and the public danger involved if children are unable to secure milk which is a very essential part of their diet. In a comprehensive milk dealers representative of the entire state, the board and the dealers agreed that milk should be provided for school children for school consumption at less than market rates. The dealers have gladly accepted the plan.

GREECE HOLDS INSULT; WAITS NEXT U. S. ACT

Appeal Court Decides to Approve Detention of Former Chicago Executive, Pending Extradition.

Athens, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The appeal court approved today the application for formal sanction of the detention of Samuel Insull, former Chicago utilities operator, in connection with American extradition proceedings.

Insull arrived shortly before the beginning of the hearing at 10:15 a. m., escorted by two plainclothes policemen. After his identity had been established, several questions were put to him regarding himself, his wife, and son.

When asked about his nationality, Insull replied that he was British and was born in London, but acquired American citizenship in 1896.

He said he did not know his present status because the American government has cancelled his passport. The former Chicagoan on Saturday was taken to a private hospital on doctors' orders after a second attempt began to extradite him to the United States on a new indictment charging violation of the Bankruptcy Act.

A previous attempt to extradite him on mail fraud charges failed. Insull told the court composed of five members that he lived in Chicago as the executive of a utilities company, but that his work was extended through several states.

Prosecutor Regagnos formally announced he would issue a writ for Insull's arrest following an American Legation note charging him with bankruptcy. Details of the charge were not known this morning because the indictment had not been submitted.

One of his attorneys requested that Insull be released on bail since there was no fear that he would attempt to flee. The attorney declared that Insull already had been released on bail.

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Governor Lehman today signed two bills to curb the power of gangsters in New York state, and to outlaw one of their favorite weapons—sub-machine guns. The first bill is intended to prevent gang elements from preying upon legitimate business. The other makes possession, transportation or use of a sub machine gun by anyone other than a police officer a felony.

The "anti-rocketing bill" and the submachine gun measure were passed by the extraordinary session of the legislature in response to the governor's demand for drastic new laws to prevent gangsters from interfering with business.

The first measure gives the attorney general sweeping powers to investigate "services" such as the "protection services" by which gangs extort money from business concerns, and to prosecute the promoters in criminal proceedings.

The other bill puts the submachine gun in the same class as the heavier machine gun. Heretofore there was nothing in the penal law to prevent the use of the submachine gun.

Hartford, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Operators of taverns for the sale of legal beer are arming themselves for protection against "bootleggers" it was revealed at a meeting of the Hartford Tavern Owners' Association last night.

The trouble has developed, tavern owners told the association, because they refused to allow "pocket bootleggers" to ply their illicit trade on their premises. Such refusal, they explained, results in "riots" being staged so that operators are keeping clubs and pistols back of the bar for their own protection.

The bootleggers, tavern owners complained, sell their trade in front of legal beer taverns, one owner asserting he found as many as 70 empty liquor bottles in a washroom after the end of business on a Saturday night.

Many speaksmen at the tavern keepers protested that the authorities were not suppressing speaksmen, the assertion being made that 100 of the places are in operation in the Park street area alone. The same speaker said a riot was started in his tavern; after he refused to allow his patrons to be solicited by what he termed the "speakeasy gang."

SENATOR LONG GETS PUNCH IN THE EYE

"Kingfish" Involved in An Argument With a Guest at Fashionable Club.

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The embattled citizen who disgraced Senator Huey P. Long in the washroom of a fashionable bath club remained a man of mystery today despite the active curiosity of Long Island society, the police and the "Kingfish" himself.

Guests at a charity party at the Sands Point Bath club, where the Louisiana Senator suffered a cut over the left eye Saturday night, weren't saying much.

The Senator's version differed sharply from reports published here. In Milwaukee, after declining at first to comment, he issued a statement saying three or four men "ganged" him in the washroom and that one carved a gash over his left eye "with a knife or something sharp."

New York Comments. The New York Times said the police were investigating on the strength of reports that the Kingfish was struck by a guest who asserted the Senator had insulted him. The New York Herald-Tribune said: "The story going the rounds at Port Washington, L. I., was that the Senator had wandered into the washroom of a fashionable bath club and was struck by a guest who asserted the Senator had insulted him."

One of his attorneys requested that Insull be released on bail since there was no fear that he would attempt to flee. The attorney declared that Insull already had been released on bail.

San Antonio, Tex., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Three Randolph Field fliers, one flying instructor and two cadets, fell to their deaths and a fourth "balled out" with a parachute and landed safely when two pursuit training planes crashed in mid-air at the field today.

Those killed in the first major accident at the West Point of the Air Force were Lieut. Harley R. Grater, instructor of Lebanon, Ind., Cadet William Pasche of Chicago, Ill., Cadet H. R. Sandberg of Denver, Colo.

Lieut. Louis K. Vaupre, instructor, leaped from his plane at an altitude of about 500 feet and came to earth safely. His ankle was broken.

Lieut. Vaupre told Army officials his altimeter showed 500 feet immediately before the crash. He said the ship containing Lieut. Grater and Cadet Sandberg zoomed up and crashed into the side of his plane as he attempted to straighten out in a traffic lane.

All but Cadet Sandberg attempted a parachute jump. Lieut. Grater and Cadet Pasche fell within a few feet of the earth before their chutes opened. Cadet Sandberg went down with the plane.

The ship containing Lieut. Vaupre and Cadet Pasche burst into flames and crumpled as it fell. The other plane, containing Cadet Sandberg, was demolished as it struck the ground.

Lieut. Vaupre attempted to pull Cadet Sandberg from the wreckage. Several persons rushed to the plane and succeeded in freeing Sandberg's body.

Johnson Considers Accord One of the Most Significant Advances in the Entire Control Enterprise

Believes Codes Will Be Completed Before Labor Day.

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—The NRA worked swiftly today to clinch with a permanent code the basic agreement finally obtained for the coal industry, a victory regarded by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson as one of the most significant advances in the career of the industrial control enterprise.

After skirting the edge of failure for a week, union labor and representatives of the biggest bituminous coal fields of the country, the strictly non-union Appalachian area, last night were brought into a compromise which the administration was ready to approve. Enthusiastic at this outcome, President Roosevelt expressed to Johnson his commination in a personal telephone conversation. Today and tomorrow at least were required, in Johnson's estimate, to convert the agreement into a binding code.

One Post Left. This windup on the NRA code really big agreement to be concluded—a code to embrace the country's entire retail trade. Strenuous effort continued today to bring the separate codes of the dry goods retailing group and of the druggists into a line that would cover every store of the country under one blanket retail agreement. Deputy Administrator Arthur D. Whiteside, in charge of this endeavor, was highly hopeful that he would conclude the code by Labor day, Sept. 4, which is designated as the climax date for the Blue Eagle campaign.

Workers Organized. Its impetus well launched, the drive was swinging along on the efforts of the country wide organization of more than a million volunteer workers engaged in a door to door canvass so that the characteristic insignia pronouncing that its dispenser was doing his part in the higher wage, shorter work hours and more job movement, might be shown by every business establishment in the country and in the windows of millions of homes.

Johnson and his aides hope to be able soon to concentrate on the problems developing in administrative codes. These are multiplying rapidly, with trouble over unionization of industries and danger signals in mounting prices, leading the way.

None of the codes which have gone through the NRA code review would make a thorough investigation of hours and their relation to wages and competitive conditions with a view to determining whether the industry could stand a reduction.

The operators, long opposed to unionization of their fields, were understood to have held out against inclusion of a provision for "check-off"—deduction of union dues from miners pay. They also were said to have insisted on retention of their labor clause which would permit them to hire, discharge or promote miners without regard to the employee membership or non-membership in any organization.

All the charges were made behind closed doors although comments made by the tavern keepers were reported unofficially after the conclusion of the meeting.

LAWYER CONDEMNS HEARSAY EVIDENCE

Counsel for Senator Condemns Tells Jury How Reputations Are Ruined.

Detroit, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The practice of the one-man Detroit bank investigating jury in taking "hearsay evidence" was criticized before the jury today by Arthur J. Lacy, personal attorney for U. S. Senator James Couzens (R. Mich.). Lacy, declaring that such evidence taken at an open hearing because a public matter and a "gossip thing," said Lacy. "Take the case of Mrs. Couzens, wife of the Senator. A finer woman does not live. Yet the hearsay statement made here that she had withdrawn 'smart money' was published in the newspapers without any amount being mentioned, and the inference was permitted that she had withdrawn an enormous sum."

News gathering associations, said Lacy, "must be kept out of this country and the whole world, and it was published in London and Paris newspapers at a time when she was accompanying her husband who was representing this country at an international conference."

Another of Insull's lawyers, Deputy Pericles Rhalhi, subsequently declared that the American Legation's request for the former Chicagoan's arrest was unfair because the "note verbale" vaguely stated he was charged with bankruptcy and was not accompanied by warrants.

The attorney strongly urged that his client be allowed all and repeated that there should be no fear that Insull might try to leave Greece.
Rhalhi, summing up, admitted that all facilities should be afforded to try an accused person; but maintained that a decision favorable to extradition must be based on evidence proving guilt.

OPEN FORUM

IN MEMORIAM
The following acrostic in memory of Robert J. Bulla was written by David Warnock.
Relieved from pain and suffering here,
Our Husband, Father, Brother, Friend
Bids us look up through falling tears;
Each crushing grief shall have an end
Redeemed through Christ, there's naught to fear;
Touch Him; He heals the wounded soul;
Just wait on Him, His voice you'll hear;
A light leads onward to the goal.
Methinks I hear my Brother's voice
Echoing out, "Seek Christ today,
Salvation is free. Make Him your choice.
Be sure you walk the narrow way,"
Union with Christ his constant theme—
"Lead, don't you hear his voice in prayer?"
"Lord, bless their souls Thou didst redeem
And lead them safe to th' Home up There."

Several amendments to the agreement were offered by George Gerschal, representing the association, which would make all growers subject to the benefits of the agreement and bring brokers more closely under control of the association.

TOBACCO PRICES START DISPUTE

Jerome Kohn Objects to Code—Says It Will Hurt Cigar Makers.

Washington, Aug. 28.—(AP)—A verbal clash over the drafting of a proposed Connecticut valley tobacco marketing agreement occurred during an agricultural adjustment administration hearing today between Jerome Kohn, an insurgent grower, and George Gerschal, representing the association.
Kohn until recently a member of the Connecticut Valley Shade Growers' Association, Inc., which drafted the agreement, objected to the minimum price and grading provision saying the agreement would work to the detriment of the independent cigar manufacturer.
Several amendments to the agreement were offered by George Gerschal, representing the association, which would make all growers subject to the benefits of the agreement and bring brokers more closely under control of the association.

NO PLANS IN VIEW FOR NEW HIGHWAY

Commissioner Macdonald Says He Questions How Funds Can Be Secured'

Hartford, Aug. 28—(AP)—Connecticut is not committed in any way to plans for a high speed super-highway between Boston and Washington, cutting into this state, Commissioner John A. Macdonald said today.

Nevertheless, the State Highway Department is participating in the deliberations over this proposed road, and Robert W. Stevens, engineer of the department, today was representing the state on an inspection trip of conditions in the eight Atlantic seaboard states.

Mr. Macdonald said that Connecticut has been represented at conferences, although he has not yet participated personally. This afternoon, however, engineers of the eight states were to stop here late this afternoon to visit Mr. Macdonald at the Highway Department and to inspect road conditions from Connecticut to the Rhode Island state line.

Mr. Macdonald said that the plans for the new highway are still "nebulous," and that even if a route was decided upon definitely, he questioned whether reconstruction funds were available.

"I don't even know what route the proposed road would take," Mr. Macdonald said. "At first it was proposed to widen the Boston Post road, but in Connecticut that road has been widened to the utmost."

TRIAL OF LAMSON NEARS ITS CLIMAX

Mrs. Bailey's Story ing," she said. "First it was like burning meat and then like burning cloth."

Mrs. Bailey, who is in her early thirties, testified she and her husband had been very friendly with the Lamsons during the two years she had lived in the neighborhood.

The prosecution announced it would have testimony from deputy sheriffs that they not only found the length of pipe but also burned bit of cloth in the fire. On both the pipe and the cloth, through the county pathologist, Dr. Frederick Proeschler, the state will claim it found evidence of charred blood.

The defendant twice during the day had forced back tears while other neighbors and friends told of his anguish after he had thrown open the front door at 10 a. m., to startle Mrs. Julia Place, real estate broker, and her client, Mrs. Alfred Reas, with the cry that his wife had been murdered.

As Mrs. Bailey testified, Lamson stiffened in his chair and watched every moment of the proceedings. He had started the day with a smile of greeting for his two sisters, Dr. Margaret Lamson and Mrs. Willis Thoits. A short time later he brushed tears from his eyes as Mrs. Place testified and then ended the day gravely intent on the testimony of Mrs. Bailey.

Chief of Police Howard A. Zink of Palo Alto testified contrary to statements of another state's witness, Mrs. Buford Brown, that he found Mrs. Brown scrubbing blood tracks from the front hall when he entered the Lamson house. Zink told of finding many blood spots in the bathroom, on the floor, on the walls and wash basin and on the inside of the bathroom door.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Aug. 28.—(AP)—The Nation's legal talent, assembled here at the call of the American Bar Association, today set about finding solutions to the vexing problems of racketeering, kidnapping and organized crime in general.

Summons to extraordinary sessions on the eve of the annual convention of the American Bar Association here, the gathering which consisted of officers of State Bar Associations was the center of interest in a day of sectional meetings identified with the parent association.

Besides crime the agenda for today's meetings included such questions as purging the profession of unscrupulous attorneys, meeting the threat of unscrupulous practice of the law and problems relating to the selection of judges.

Malloy to Speak. Pat Malloy, assistant United States attorney general, who is helping direct the Federal government's drive against racketeering, was here to assist the meeting in an advisory capacity. He said he planned no address today but would go before the first session of the general convention Wednesday.

Among the sectional groups winding up their meetings today was the National Conference of Attorneys General, the Criminal Law Section, Public Utilities, the National Conference of Bar Examiners, Judiciary, and others.

Monday's sessions also saw the placing of emphasis on the necessity of a war against organized crime. The matter was stressed in many of the sectional meetings, notably the meeting of the state attorneys general wherein James O'Leary, former attorney general of Indiana and president of the conference, urged that every assistance be given the Federal government in its war against crime.

TWO MEN KILLED IN GANGSTERS' WAR. Four Year Old Murder Mystery Revived by Slaying in Hollywood.

Hollywood, Aug. 29.—(AP)—A double assassination by three men in an Italian restaurant revived a four year old murder mystery. Police asserted the slaying last night of Harry Mackley and Frank Schler, both of St. Louis, was a gangster reprisal. Police said Mackley, alias Harry Frank and Al Frank, who had also lived in New York City where he was believed to have operated a hat store, had been arrested here in 1929 as a suspect in the mysterious slaying of David Antik, secretary of the Sun Realty Company.

Mystery Unsolved. The slaying of Antik has never been appraised. Antik was believed to be the state star witness against Morris Mall, Kansas City gangster, who had allegedly sought to rob Antik.

Keller was identified by the management of the hotel, and happily by several police identification cards issued in Westchester County, N. Y., Passaic County, New Jersey, and another bearing the name of Captain J. S. Murray, Captain of the Hudson County, New Jersey, police.

WHITE SLAVE CHARGE AGAINST MAN, WOMAN. State Police Claim Couple Worked in Various Towns and Cities in the State.

Waterbury, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Mary Ann Fuller, 34, of 7 Monroe street, Winsted, and Ernest Foley, 44, of New Hartford, waived examination and were bound over to the Superior Court for trial when they were arraigned before Judge John P. McGrath in City Court today on charges of enticing a minor female for immoral purposes. Foley's bond was set at $5,000, the woman's at $500. Neither was able to furnish bail and both were removed to New Haven jail to await trial. They have been locked up here since the sixth.

State police claim that they have evidence that the Fuller woman and Foley made white slave victims of several girls from various Connecticut cities and towns before their arrest upon complaint of two Waterbury girls. Additional charges are being formulated against the pair, according to state police who claim that they are prepared to present several victims as witnesses for the prosecution.

Enticing a minor female is one of the most serious of statutory charges, local authorities point out, and carries a more severe penalty than seduction. Persons convicted are liable to a maximum, say police, of 15 years' imprisonment on each count.

WOMEN TAKE PART IN WRESTLING MATCH. Get So Excited They Start to Punch One of the Contestants at Hartford Show.

Hartford, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Two women who had ringside seats at a wrestling match here last night, took the bout between Stan Pinto, Manchester, N. D., and Sam Cordavano, seriously, so seriously in fact that they pummeled Pinto themselves at one point in the bout.

Pinto, who had earned some sort of name as a roughhouse wrestler, was pressing his opponent fairly hard. Then for a moment, Pinto's head was outside the ropes near where a blonde woman was seated. She rose to her feet and began punching Pinto on the head and a moment later was joined in the sudden, unshed attack by a brunette who had been seated nearby.

The wrestler was saved by the referee, who drew him back to safety inside the ropes.

SEES BLUE EAGLE AS DOMESTIC BIRD. Rev. L. C. Harris Says Popularity of the Big Hawk Rests On Its Symbolism.

At the union service in the South Methodist Episcopal church Sunday forenoon Rev. Leonard C. Harris, the pastor, spoke briefly on the attitude of the church to the President's NRA program. In part he said: "The Blue Eagle is a practically overnight become one of our recognized and well established domestic fowls. He is finding his place rapidly in factory, shop, store, office and seems to be taking ready adjustment in his new environment. Things must be to his liking or he would hardly seem so content. His species is somewhat difficult to classify, but he seems to be an American bird. His symbolism is not because of his being an eagle, but rather his thing, which commands him and wins him his wide acceptance is what he symbolizes. Here we find Americanism at its best. Patriotism expressing itself in its truest form, through an evident honesty of desire and purpose that even the least of these my brethren shall have the fullest measure of justice and fair-play."

THOMAS P. HAYES, NOTED HORSE TRAINER, DEAD. Lexington, Ky., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Thomas P. Hayes, 60, who saddled Head Fly for his victory in the Pimlico Fraenkness this spring died last night.

Hayes was the breeder, owner and trainer of Bonerail, which won the 1918 Kentucky Derby and paid the longest odds in the history of the classic, 91 to 1. When Mrs. William Crump sold Head Fly on the eve of this year's Derby, in which he finished second, Mr. Hayes took over the training of the colt for Mrs. Elias B. Mason and the Warren stables, and he won the Fraenkness the following week. He resigned this position several weeks ago, and until last week had campaigned a string of horses at the Coney Island track, Cincinnati. He underwent an operation at Chicago last summer and had been ill since then.

MANY SKEETERS THIS YEAR. New Haven, Aug. 29.—(AP)—If the mosquitoes are getting you, blame it on the rain. E. C. Boleford, deputy of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, said mosquito breeding has been favored by the unusually wet weather. The infestation of towns on the shore of Long Island Sound and in some inland communities appears to be the worst in eight years, he said.

PHYSICIAN'S WIFE HELD BY POLICE. Mrs. Gaines to Be Questioned Concerning Husband, Mysteriously Murdered.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Two weeks after her wealthy husband, Dr. James I. Gaines, sportman and drugless physician, was mysteriously shot to death, Mrs. Lilly Banks Gaines was held in the city jail today "for questioning."

No charge was filed against her, Prosecutor C. W. Greenough said, emphasizing she was held "only for questioning."

The decision to hold Mrs. Gaines was made after a four-hour examination last night. She was questioned previously but was permitted to remain in liberty. Mrs. Gaines said she found her husband dying in the driveway of their home early on the morning of Aug. 15 after she had been awakened by three shots. Dr. Gaines had just returned from a boating trip and a late visit to the apartment of Mrs. Harriette Andrew, a friend. Mrs. Andrew is one of a dozen or more women who have been brought into the investigation. She told police Gaines rented an apartment for her soon after she had applied to him for work.

A week after she moved into the apartment, Mrs. Andrew filed suit for divorce from her husband. She said Gaines told her he was contemplating divorcing his wife, to whom he was married in 1932. Mrs. Gaines told police there has been no domestic trouble, and that she was unaware her husband planned to divorce her.

WARN ABOUT CLIMBING POWER LINE TOWERS

P. U. Commission Engineers Ask Public to Take Heed of Danger Signs.

Officials of light and power companies throughout Connecticut at the suggestion of Joseph P. Wadhams, Transportation Engineer of the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission, joined today in issuing a warning to the general public and especially to young boys to avoid trespassing on public utility properties which are definitely marked with signs being dangerous and to keep away from all utility companies' wires.

During the spring and summer at least two deaths and possibly unreported injuries of varying severity have resulted to people who have violated such warning signs as those prohibiting bathing in reservoirs, trespassing on railroad property and climbing electric transmission line towers.

Other sources of accidents involving high voltage electric lines are kite flying and stringing antennae wires for radio. Each year the electric companies endeavor to educate the youth of the State not to fly kites where there is any danger of the kite, tail or string becoming entangled with the wires, but each year the accidents continue to occur. A recent one resulted when a small boy's kite string which had a tinsel strand crossed electric wires. The metal of the tinsel passed the current into the boy's body and he was badly burned. Even without tinsel, if a string contains any moisture, it will transmit electricity.

The most recent fatality caused by a violation of a warning sign came when a seventeen-year-old youth elected to climb to the top of a transmission tower which was carrying a 66,000 volt electric line. The youth had gone into the woods with two others to cut small, dead, chestnut poles for firewood. They were using the transmission tower as a brace while sawing the wood into usable pieces. Leaving the others, the boy began to climb the tower. As he neared the top, there was a blinding flash and his seared body came crashing to the ground. Death followed.

Investigation for the Public Utilities Commission by Mr. Wadhams showed that the company which owned the transmission line was in no way at fault, that it had equipped nearby towers with large, legible signs, reading, "Danger. High Voltage;" that the boys had trespassed on the company's right of way and that they had disregarded the signs.

In the investigation, it was brought out that the deceased boy a few days before the accident had told his friends that the top wire was the only one on the structure which could electrocute anybody. This emphasizes the fact that in order to avoid misunderstanding all wires should be considered dangerous.

CREW IS RESCUED AS VESSEL SINKS

Halifax, N. S., Aug. 29.—(AP)—Caught in a stiff Atlantic gale, the three-masted schooner John Millard of Fortune, N.S., enroute home from Portugal, sprang a leak and sank two hours after her captain and crew were rescued by a tanker.

Word of the accident was brought to Halifax last night by Captain John Kind, master of the vessel which had carried a cargo of fish to Portugal.

The crew arrived here on the steamer Fort St. George from New York where they were taken on a steamer tanker after the first had carried them to Puerto, Mexico. They will leave here for St. Pierre enroute home.

ASKS CITIZENS AID IN TRAFFIC SAFETY

Motor Vehicle Commissioner Proposed Volunteer Motor Patrol.

The formation of a "Citizen Volunteer Motor Patrol" with every licensed operator in the state an integral part in the enforcement activities of the motor vehicle department was proposed today in a bulletin issued by Colonel Michael A. Connor, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles for Connecticut.

Accidents increasing in the state for the co-operation of the citizens in the drive now to be undertaken during September. In conjunction with thirty-four other states of the union Governor Wilbur L. Cross yesterday officially designated September as Street and Highway Safety Month.

Pointing out that to date some 239 persons have been killed in Connecticut this year and that the number per would in all probability reach 500 before the year was out unless drastic action were taken the Connecticut commissioner made a plea for the co-operation of the citizens of the state in the drive now to be set in motion. Asserting that the number of accidents had decreased during the past few months he made it clear nevertheless that fatalities had increased by forty-one.

"I think," Colonel Connor said "that it can be safely stated that because of the higher rate of speed at which cars are now operated, accidents when they do occur are more likely to end in fatality. In expanding on this aspect of the situation he declared, "speed, may I repeat, is not the cause of accidents but in my opinion it is the element in an accident which causes it to end in a fatality rather than in injury to the participants."

Not Officers Enough. In announcing his proposal for a citizens motor patrol the commissioner said, "It is impossible under present conditions to have officers on all of the highways at all times to regulate and observe the thousands of operators on the road. It is our purpose in Connecticut to form what might be termed a Citizen Volunteer Motor Patrol. Right now responsible and public-spirited citizens, aware of the gravity of the task, are actively cooperating with the department in the reporting of careless and reprehensible driving. The department will take cognizance of these reports. The complaint section of the department will notify offenders and will impress upon the latter the serious aspects of their deportment."

Scores Arrogant Driver. Commissioner Connor in his statement scored the arrogance and insolence of drivers on the highways who flagrantly flaunt the rights of their fellow citizens. He invited the aid of the names and addresses of offenders who by their general bumpiness create on the highways a menace to public safety.

NEW DIRIGIBLES USE UNIQUE LUBRICANT

In perfecting the new Goodyear Zeppelins a puzzling problem was encountered in lubricating the new tilting Allison propellers. This new type propeller, which greatly increases navigation flexibility tilts downwards, upwards and sideways. Because of its high speed and heavy thrusts, ordinary oil and grease were found inadequate as lubricants. After months of experiment, it was decided to secure the necessary lubrication from the motor oil.

The next problem was to find a motor oil capable of first protecting a motor running at a temperature of 275 degrees and then traveling in a special feed line to lubricate a propeller flying through the air at a temperature often as low as 25 degrees below zero. The oil selected to meet these extreme heat and cold conditions was Veedol, a 100 per cent Pennsylvania motor oil refined by the Tide Water Oil Company. A continuous circulation of Veedol flows back and forth from the motor zone to the propeller fulcrum unaffected in its high and uniform viscosity by a temperature change of approximately 300 degrees.

FREE STATE LEADER IN U. S. ON VISIT

Sean O'Kelly Says Gen. O'Duffy's Blue Shirts Will Fail in Their Efforts.

New York, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Sean O'Kelly, vice president of the executive council of the Irish Free State and minister for local government and public health, arrived today on the liner Laconia.

He was interested in reports from Ireland indicating a fusion between the Centre party, of which William T. Cosgrave is chief, and the Blue Shirts, or National Guard, of which General Eoin O'Duffy is the head.

"Their objectives are the same," O'Kelly said, "so there is nothing especially startling in the suggestion."

Asked whether he understood the objectives of the O'Duffy group, O'Kelly said:

"General O'Duffy has issued a manifesto. It states that his objective is to have a new political objective, except to get rid of the present government."

In reply to an inquiry O'Kelly said he knew nothing positive regarding reports that England has been sympathetic to the Blue Shirt movement.

Does Not Know "How can I say anything to that?" he said. "Does anyone know positively that this is the case? I don't. I would say on the other hand that England would be sympathetic to any party that O'Duffy could start would undoubtedly serve the purpose of England, who would like to see the present government fall because it will not fall in line with her and her views."

The Free State vice president said he was satisfied that instead of losing strength since he took office, President de Valera "is growing in strength steadily."

"There was a lot of propaganda against Mr. de Valera," O'Kelly said, "making him out to be a demagogue fellow, when what has happened since his victory at the polls is that if anything he leans toward Conservatism. It has rather opened the eyes of many who once opposed him, that he is quite reasonable and, as I said, somewhat Conservative."

O'Kelly expressed the belief that O'Duffy's efforts to upset the present government will be futile.

The Free State vice president came here unofficially and will be the guest of Rev. Thomas O'Keefe, pastor of St. Matthew's church at Hastings-On-Hudson, N. Y.

ROCKVILLE

MYSTERY CLOUDS DEATH OF ELLINGTON WORKMAN

John Starke, Whose Relatives Are Unknown, Found Dead—Had Suffered Heart Attack.

Mystery shrouds the finding of the body of John Starke, aged 47 years, whose decomposed body was found in the woods in northern Ellington on Saturday and buried from Rockville today.

The time of the death of Starke is still unknown although it is believed to have been some time Thursday night or early Thursday morning. His body was partly decomposed indicating that he had been dead for at least two days according to James R. Quinn of the E. H. Preston Company who prepared the body for burial.

About noon Saturday "Black Jack" John Bond was working near the shack of Roman and found the body of Starke. He thought little of the incident but told Clarence Kibbe who was working about a quarter of a mile away.

Kibbe immediately got in touch with Constable John De Carl who in turn notified Dr. Thomas F. O'Loughlin, medical examiner, of Ellington and Rockville.

The body was brought to the funeral home of E. H. Preston Company to be prepared for burial. The funeral was held at 10:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Rev. John T. Nichols, pastor of the Ellington Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in the Ellington cemetery.

The two room "shack" in front of which the body of John Starke was found is owned by Joseph Roman, who is now living in East Granby. He left some time ago and left Starke in charge. Starke made this his home as he had no relatives at home.

The time of his death, which is believed to have been caused by heart trouble, was set by a suit of clothes found in the shack. The clothes were wet and indicated that he was out in the severe storm on Thursday night. It was also learned that he was seen walking about the roads in the vicinity of the shack on Thursday night.

Those who saw him state that he told them that he was feeling good.

Constable John De Carl states that he knew that John Starke was living alone in the woods in the house owned by Joe Roman. He states that a short time ago he was told of the man being in a pitiful condition suffering from a heart attack. He notified First Selectman George Hatheway who visited the cottage and found Starke sitting up on the bed, suffering from sickness. Dr. Edward C. Bruce, town doctor, was sent to the shack and examined Starke, finding him suffering from a heart attack. First aid treatment was rendered and medicine left with the sick man who had no one to care for him.

Nothing was heard of him until information was received of the finding of Starke's body. An effort is to be made to locate relatives of Starke whose past is more or less of a mystery in Rockville and Ellington.

Benefit Play Tomorrow. Many Rockville people are to attend the home-talent play "The Road Back" which is to be presented in the Tolland town hall on Wednesday night under the sponsorship of a group of young people of the Tolland Federated church.

The cast for the play "The Road Back" is as follows: "Ma" Fowler, Alice West; "Pa" Fowler, Lathrop West; "Milly" Fowler, Minnie Tobiasen; "Milly" Fowler, Grace Hirth; "Mrs. Ellender," Helen Svacha; "George" Fowler, Edward Wodmurka; "Arthur McLeod," Nich Zellinka; "Blake Chester," Harold Hirth; "Mr. Harrison," William Svacha; "Ben" Fowler, Arthur Bushnell; "Mrs. Chester," Doris Luhrsen; "Crop Harvest," Fred Hirth.

The farmers of Rockville and Ellington have started the harvesting of their crops and as a result there has been a decided drop in the prices of vegetables in this locality. The most noticeable drop is in sweet corn which has been selling as high as thirty-five cents a dozen and during the past few days some of the corn has been selling for ten to twelve cents a dozen.

The potato prices have dropped to less than $1.40 a bushel whereas a week or ten days ago the potatoes were selling as high as $1.90 a bushel.

The work of picking the tobacco leaves is now at its height and considerable help, particularly school children, is used.

Headed for New Hampshire She Lands in Bastille of Another Manchester.

Last evening an automobile containing four Hartford young men and a woman who said she was Mary Ryan, 24, of New York, stopped at the Center and one of the group asked Patrolman Raymond Griffin the whereabouts of West Bridge street.

"Not in this town," said the officer. The woman looked at a piece of paper and said that West Bridge street was right. Then Griffin looked at the paper too.

"This is an address in Manchester, New Hampshire," he informed the party. "How come?" Miss Ryan explained that she had hitch hiked from New York to Hartford and was on her way to that West Bridge street. "The boys," she said, had been nice enough to give her a ride to Manchester, which solved all her problems. And now they weren't solved at all—wasn't it awful?

Griffin took the party to the Police Station. There Miss Ryan decorated her story with various details that somehow didn't seem to fit. Police authorities told the four young men to be on their way and held Mary for safe keeping and a check-up on her story. She was still there today, trying to figure out some way to get to West Bridge street.

369 WOMEN CHOSEN FOR P. O. POSITIONS

Washington, Aug. 29.—(AP)—Since Miss Nellie Dougherty was named by the new Roosevelt administration last March 9 as acting postmaster of Minot, N. D., 369 women have been given charge of the U. S. mails in their home towns.

They're not "postmistresses," postal officials stress. Each one has the same title a man would have on the job—"postmaster" with the prefix "acting" because all are re-appointments, subject to confirmation by the next Congress. In compiling the total today, the Post Office Department also established that fourteen or the 369 have been appointed to head first class post offices.

We Have Dedicated Ourselves To Service In The Nation's Greatest Endeavor Toward Business Recovery

For four years we have been in the grip of the worst depression the world has ever known.

The farmer can raise good things to eat—but there has been no money to buy them.

The manufacturer can make good things to wear, to live with, to enjoy—but there has been no money to pay for them.

Now the country is forging ahead on a trail that will put men back to work, put money in their pockets, create markets for the farmer's and manufacturer's goods.

Everyone has an opportunity to help.

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store...

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XX

At 10 o'clock the next morning Eve answered her desk phone to find Theron Reece on the line...

The feeling persisted as she and Mona entered the revolving doors of the restaurant...

Eve glanced about her and nodded to three girl acquaintances. Then she happened to catch the eye of Earle Barnes...

"Who's the lady friend Barnes has out to lunch?" asked Mona. "That," responded Eve, "is Mrs. Barnes. She comes to the office only on rare occasions..."

"How much do you suppose he gets?" Mona persisted. "I'm sure I haven't the slightest idea," Eve told her. "But everyone knows he's a highly valued employee of Bixby's..."

And still it took a while before Eve realized she had fallen into their trap. That telephone call for Mona after Eve had refused to go to lunch with Reece had been from him of course!

Surely Mona would prefer to be alone with Reece. Why then had she plotted with him unless she enjoyed causing Eve vexation?

Reece's bantering remarks seemed to touch upon all the activities of the times. Thus it was not long before he mentioned the market. "I dropped around to the stock exchange this morning," he was saying. "Quite a little activity!"

"Was there?" Eve asked, hoping he would explain in detail. "Yes," he answered, glad for an attentive audience. He named several stocks which had advanced and others which had shown a decline. Eve nodded, listening. She tried to imitate Dick's poker face when Reece mentioned Pure Soap, Inc.

"Pure Soap took a slide," he said authoritatively. "That will hit a lot of fellows. Pure Soap is a popular number." "When did all this happen?" Eve asked, hoping she gave no indication of the concern she felt. "Just before noon," he answered. Eve noted that Dick and the men he was with were leaving. She slipped the strong hot coffee slowly and to her dismay without further comment. When she had finished she glanced at her watch and arose.

"I think I'll leave you," she said, slipping into her fur jacket before Reece could assist her. "I have an errand to do before going back to the office—and there is no need for you to hurry." She managed to smile at Mona. At the desk she signaled the waiter and paid her check.

Then she boarded a trolley to ride the 10 blocks to the bank. The car seemed to be forever stopping for traffic lights. Finally it arrived at the square and impatiently Eve hurried out.

The usual calm atmosphere pervaded the stock and bond department of the bank. Eve asked for Mr. Brown but he was out. His assistant offered to help her. "Pure Soap, Inc.—has it gone down?" she asked.

"Well, it dropped two points this morning," he answered calmly. "But it's gone up again within the last hour. Just a minute and I'll get you the figures."

The young man was weak and she sank gratefully into a chair. This was another angle of playing the market. Well, she was still safe. But ought she to sell now in case the stock might drop again?

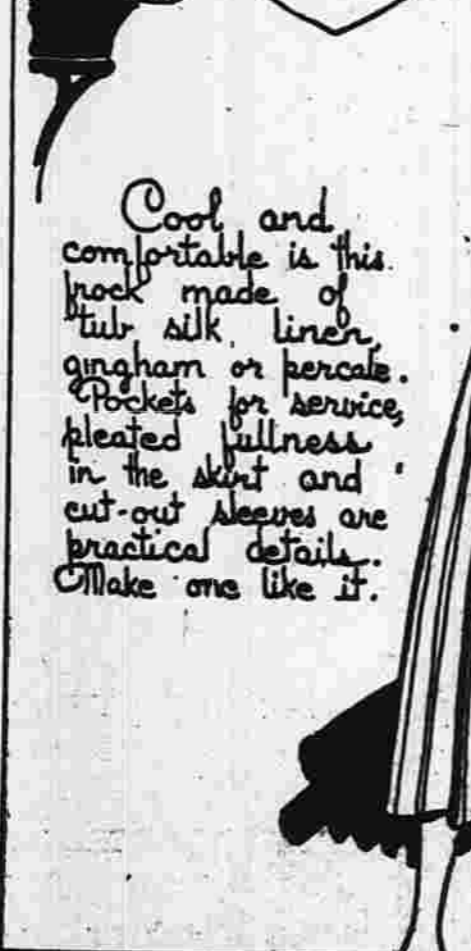

The young man advised her to wait. By her return to her office slowly and thoughtfully. Arlene was interested in Eve's account of the luncheon. "I thought Mona was playing up to Reece at Freda's party last night," Arlene commented. "I felt sorry for Mr. Bliss. He's so nice. And to think he fell for Mona, only to be hurt by her! I suppose he's so infatuated, though, that he can't see her tactics."

"We'll have to watch out for that girl," declared Eve. "She's the worst traffic jam this office has ever been mixed up with!" added Arlene. But Eve scarcely heard her. She wondered if Dick had seen her with Mona and Reece at the restaurant. What would he think after what had occurred the night before?

Perhaps it would be better for her not to mention the luncheon. However, Eve was worried. (To Be Continued)

A master draftsman, William Morris, invented the Morris chair.

GOOD style with comfort is the keynote of this attractive and comfortable number, with a shaped yoke to embellish the waist line. Very simply made, this pleasing model is designed in 6 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, and 44. Size 38 requires 3 1/2 yards of 3 1/2 inch material. Reverse facing and belt can be made of contrasting material, requiring 1/4 yard 35 inches wide. The width of the dress at the lower edge, with platts extended, is 1 1/2 yards.

To secure a pattern and simple sewing chart of this model, tear out this sketch and mail it to Julia Boyd together with 15 cents in coin. Be sure to enclose, on a separate sheet of paper, your name, full address, your size, the number of this pattern (No. 2897a), and mention the name of this newspaper.

YOUR CHILDREN

"I'm sorry, Miss Smith, but I couldn't help being late. The street car wasn't on time." That was on Monday, Miss Smith, but mother was sick and I had to go to the drug store for medicine before I started for school.

Wednesday some one overleapt; Thursday the ice-box had to be fixed; Friday it was something else. Miss Brand in a month's time had her regular "excusers" spotted.

"In every roomful of children," she told me, "there are a certain number who refuse to blame anything on themselves. No, they don't lie exactly, but usually they exaggerate. The big trouble, I find, is a moral cringing, a tendency to blame tardiness or a mishap on any one or anything else than themselves."

"I find this tendency growing," she added. "Either that or it becomes more of a habit with older children. I used to teach in the grades and now I have high school students. I find these older children very quick with alibis."

Facing Blame. "But isn't it natural?" I countered. "As they get older they are likely to have more responsibility at home. More things are likely to interfere with school work. Besides, as life opens up they have more interests outside of school life."

"Yes, I know that," she acknowledged, "but there is something about it I don't like. When anything happens to interfere with lessons or to make them late, they really think that almost anything else is to blame but themselves. If they do it in school they must be doing it at home. When they graduate into business they will blame the world if they don't succeed. It shows a weakness, I think. No matter what happens they will shift the responsibility onto something else."

I got her point. And as I look back on my own experience in the school room it is doubly proved. On those I have been able to check since the ne'er-do-wells of today were mostly the chronic, "It-wasn't-my-fault" of old.

Teaching Responsibility. I believe mothers of little children might be on guard about this matter. Probably they unwittingly begin it themselves. They not only excuse their children to other people, but if a baby touches a hot stove they are likely to say, "Bad stove to hurt Harry." If he bites his tongue on a lolly-pop, they throw the candy over the fence with a malediction. "Nasty candy to hurt little Johnny that way." Perhaps they even stamp it under foot.

Little events of early childhood count for so much. Some children are blamed too much for things they cannot help. Others too little. But the sooner a child learns that he must bear the responsibility of his own action, or inaction, the better, I think, for his future.

We all have to learn that, "Mistakes often return to their author." Excuses are the most synthetic of palliatives.

Thirty-four per cent of the accidents that take place in American homes happen in the kitchen. It fails to add, however, that wives make their husbands eat most of them.

THE OLD SPINNING WHEEL'S BACK—AND TWO MEN SET IT ROLLING!

By MARIAN YOUNG

New York.—It took two men in New York—at all places—to start a revival of the old time spinning wheel—of all things!

It's an interesting story behind John Cole and W. R. McHargue, two up-and-coming young men, who are making America spinning-conscious.

Not long ago they were quite wealthy gentlemen with plenty of power and position in advertising agencies. You've already guessed the rest. Accounts fell off and pretty soon the boys found themselves without not only jobs but funds.

Last March, Mr. Cole heard about a firm up in Boston that wanted to sell their merchandise. The company's warehouse stored, among other things, about two million pounds of wool.

"I could figure out how to get rid of lots of their stuff but the wool stopped me," Cole said. So he wrote a postcard to McHargue with about four lines of simple directions and queries. Find out what people do with wool. Are there any spinning wheels in the country? Does spinning mess up the rug? Have you any woolly ideas?

Learning in a Library. McHargue hadn't any ideas right then but he got busy and worked out a few. Their next step was to locate a spinning wheel. Even after they found it, no one could teach them to use it. So they went to the New York Public Library to learn. "We learned," said Cole, "very, very badly."

Another problem was to find someone to manufacture spinning wheels. They finally discovered just such a person in the form of a young Italian radio cabinet maker whose business wasn't faring any too well. It was only too glad to help them design some sort of a pinnin wheel for general use.

They realized that American women wouldn't stand up to spin. So they designed spinning wheels low enough so you can sit down and spin. And very r-c they are. Unlike a sewing machine, you do not keep your spinning wheel in an unused room. It should have a place of honor in the living room. There is no piece of furniture with which romance and tradition is more closely associated than with the spinning wheel.

Women who come to their offices with the idea that spinning is a pretty dead pastime soon change their minds. There is something fascinating about spinning. Department stores in the leading cities have placed orders for the little spinning wheels.

The Handicraft Department of the New York State Board for Adult Education is making tests and plans to develop patterns and designs so that women in cities, as well as in rural districts, can spin their yarns and actually sell their products. Right now, there is an enormous demand for homemade sweaters made from home spun wool.

The next problems which confront these young manufacturers of spinning wheels is to see that women are actually taught to spin in their own homes. That's why they had Mrs. Mary Mallet come down from Boston. When they advertised in a Boston paper for an old lady who could spin, they received 50 replies. Then they wrote for photographs of the applicants.

"Mrs. Mallet was the only one who had enterprise enough to have herself photographed with a spinning wheel, so we chose her." Showing the New Yorkers. She is a charming lady of 68. Looks about 30 and is not at all like what you might expect in a woman who has spent the greater part of her life spinning and knitting. She was thrilled to death at the idea of coming to New York to give under the sponsorship of the Homestead League, the first spinning demonstration held in the city since Colonial times.

Messrs. Cole and McHargue are not without a sense of humor. "We couldn't decide which one of our names to use first in the

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

The fact that sweet potatoes live up to their name and contain a large amount of sugar makes them a splendid energy-producing food.

Compared with Irish potatoes, the food value is higher in fat and carbohydrates but lower in protein. One-half a baked sweet potato provides 100 calories, while one whole, medium sized Irish potato is required to furnish the hundred-calorie portion. Both sweet and Irish potatoes are good carriers of fat, since their palates "fly" depends much on a generous seasoning of butter.

High Vitamin Content. Vitamin A, so essential for growth, and the building of new tissues, is present in sweet potatoes in considerable quantity. One table spoon of the vitamin A "unit" is one ounce of Irish potato at 8 and in the same amount of sweet potato at 200. Vitamin B and C are found in small amounts.

When sweet potatoes have been used in place of white potatoes, a dessert that is not very sweet should be chosen. Fresh fruit, fruit whip, gelatin puddings and ice cream make suitable "dings" for meals.

Keep in mind the perishability of sweet potatoes when you buy them. They are very susceptible to temperature and dampness and spoil quickly. Calculate your needs and purchase accordingly in order to avoid waste.

Twice baked sweet potatoes are delicious and simple to make. After baking they are cut in halves lengthwise and the pulp is scooped out and mashed. Season well with salt, pepper, lots of butter, and cream to make moist and beat until light and fluffy. Chopped nuts can be added if liked. Pile mixture lightly into shells and brush over the top with melted butter. Return to oven to brown top and make very hot.

Sweets, French Fried. French fried sweet potatoes are good, too. They are prepared and cooked just like white ones. You can use sweet potatoes for desserts. Boil Lem with the skins on, then peel and mash. Season with butter and a little salt, and beat in milk to make moist, adding 1 tablespoon brown sugar and 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon to each cup of potato pulp. Turn into individual molds and bake 25 minutes. Top with marshmallows about five minutes before serving from oven and serve warm with or without cream. This is a good dessert for small children.

Despite the popular saying "The woman pays," bill collectors often can testify differently.

Include a few simple health rules in your beauty plans to fall. It is difficult to attain true beauty if you are not in good health. Shiny hair, smooth skin and a nice figure will probably be yours if you see that your body is in good condition.

Of course, you've heard many times that everyone should drink from eight to ten glasses of water every day. Do you do it? Begin with two full glasses of lukewarm water in the morning. Water cleanses the digestive tract and will often go far toward clearing a watery skin.

See your doctor frequently. Only a physician can tell you if there is anything organically wrong. But between visits to the doctor, map out a health routine for yourself. Everyone needs exercise and most of us do not get nearly enough. Plan to walk part of the way to work each day and try to do a few simple setting-up exercises when you get out of bed in the morning. Cold showers stimulate a sluggish circulation. Take a cool shower every morning for a month and see if you don't feel better.

Case of this character, involving an important individual, namely that of Col. Raymond Robins, who left his home and was found some weeks later without any memory of the time that had passed from the date of his disappearance until his discovery.

The dramatic character of this condition is such as to make it attract much attention. It is Dr. Ziegler's belief that the hysterical fugue is caused by conflicts of temperament in the home and the development of personal problems of considerable magnitude, which the patient is unable to solve.

It was interesting that two of the patients had on an earlier occasion been associated with occupations in which travel and adventure are common.

It is, of course, easy for the average person to suggest that the person who makes such a flight is "putting on" or malingering, but physicians know that these conditions actually do occur and that it is highly desirable in such cases to make a careful study of the condition, and to explain to the patient the nature of the attacks and thereby, in most instances, to bring about a cure.

As long ago as 1895, physicians listed three chief symptoms as typical of the fugue: 1—An irresistible impulse to travel. 2—The fact that the travel is accomplished without any accident and in an intelligent manner. 3—When the patient wakes up he has complete loss of memory as to what occurred during the flight. WHY PEOPLE LEAVE HOME. "Hysterical Fugue" is Name Doctors Give Strange Condition That Causes Persons to Wander Away.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHEIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

At a recent meeting of the American Medical Association, considerable interest was given to a report by Dr. L. H. Ziegler of a condition called hysterical fugue.

For some hundreds of years the nature of hysteria has been recognized by physicians. During hysterical conditions various functions of the human body are disordered. Many of the usual activities of everyday life are disturbed, so that there are queer performances during eating, sleeping, working, remembering, listening or talking.

The word "fugue" comes from a Latin word meaning flight. The chief manifestation of hysterical fugue is the fact that the patient leaves home and makes a journey that cannot be justified by any reasonable motive. After the attack, the person who has been affected wakes up on an unknown road or in some strange place.

ENGLAND'S GOLF QUEEN SHATTERS OLD RECORD

Enid Wilson Cards a 76 in Women's National, Lowest Mark in 37 Years of Play in Big Show; Is Favored to Capture Title.

Highland Park, Ill., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Not in 30 years has a foreign invader captured the American women's national golf championship, but over the rolling hills of Exmoor today strode England's queen of the fairways, Miss Enid Wilson, to offer a challenge that threatened to crush her opposing field.

Breaks Old Record
 Carrying on from Glen Eagles, Scotland, where she became one of England's immortals of golf by capturing the British title three years in succession, Miss Wilson opened fire on the American crown yesterday by leveling the Exmoor layout with a 76, the lowest qualifying score in 37 years of play in the big show of American women's golf and winning the medal with two shots to spare over such contenders as Virginia Van Wile of Chicago, the defending titleholder; Margaret Orcutt, Haworth, N. J., and Helen Hicks of New York, champion in 1931.

Is Now Favorite
 It's a long way to the finals of Saturday—four treacherous 18-hole rounds—but around the clubhouse today Miss Wilson was an outstanding favorite to capture the title she has sought twice before.

CHANNEL CROSSED BY GIRL SWIMMER

Miss Sunny Lowry Accomplishes Feat in Less Than Sixteen Hours.

Dover, England, Aug. 28.—(AP)—The English channel was conquered for the first time this year today when Miss Sunny Lowry, 35-year-old Manchester, England, girl, swam across the 21-mile channel from Dover to Calais.

The others are Mercedes Gleiza, an English woman who first swam the channel in 1927 after eight failures and E. M. Tommie, another Briton, who in 1932 did the distance in 14 hours, 20 minutes.

The Dover cup will be awarded to the first woman to swim across from Dover to France in the shortest time this year.

The channel was last negotiated successfully in 1930, Miss Lowry had made two attempts before succeeding today in becoming the 18th swimmer to cross the channel. She was 18 miles out of Dover when she swam the treacherous strip of water.

MAJOR Cavanaugh IS NEAR DEATH

Little Hope Held Out for Famous Football Coach Today.

Marshfield, Mass., Aug. 28.—(AP)—Life ebbed slowly today for Major Frank W. Cavanaugh, former Fordham football coach.

War wounds contributed to the ill health that forced him to seek rest in this Massachusetts south shore town. He had entered the World War as a private in a field artillery company and was discharged at the end of the war as a major.

FRANCE GROOMING MERLIN TO FOUND NEW NET DYNASTY

His Great Play Against Perry Comes as Surprise; Protege of Cochet Has Daring, Hard Game.

Paris, Aug. 28.—(AP)—Slender Andre Merlin, 23 years old and not very high, will be the spearhead of the French tennis offensive to recapture the Davis Cup.

But the size of the two boats is only one item to take into consideration; you must give a little thought to the English challenger himself and the boat he has built to realize that the American defender, holder of the world speed record of about 125 miles an hour, will have a tough job on his hands.

Scott-Paine has been building boats for years for the British government and the Royal Air Force. In the last few years he has been experimenting with revolutionary streamlining, and his discoveries have been incorporated into the designing of the body of the boat he is racing against Wood.

 Pitching Staff Upset; Reds Blank Braves, 2-0; Tigers Wallop Yankees.

John J. McGraw had one embarrassing experience of the kind that stands out above all others. Now it's the turn of McGraw's successor at the helm of the Giants, Bill Terry, with McGraw it was George Washington Harper, now an oil well salesman in Texas, but then a journeyman outfielder, who was sent to the Cards in 1928 and bounced right back to hit three home runs in one crucial game at the Polo Grounds and knock the Giants out of that pennant fight.

Beats The Giants
 With Terry it's ancient Bob O'Farrell, also of the Cards, who was sent away last fall with a bundle of pitchers in exchange for a young catcher, Gus Mancuso. Yesterday at the Polo Grounds the old fellow roused himself and hit two home runs, the last one in the ninth inning touching off a seven run barrage that snatched the Giants under 12 to 8, brought their third straight defeat with one tie in the past four games and completely upset Terry's pitching staff with a terrific doubleheader schedule looming ahead.

An old Quaker going down the street one night was assaulted by a thug who struck him sharply on the cheek. The Quaker turned to the thug and said:
Quaker—Would this mind slapping the other cheek, too?
Thug (doing so very promptly)—Well, you are an easy mark.
Quaker (proceeding to take off his coat and roll up his sleeves)—Now God be praised. I have obeyed his teachings—and now I am going to knock H—out of thee!

S. A. BAND HITS HARD LUCK IN PARADE RECORD

Storms Delayed Members Returning to Town So Band Was Not in Line.

Probably the most noticeable thing about last night's N.R.A. parade was the non-presence of the Salvation Army Band—the first time in the recollection of its members that this fine musical organization has failed to fulfill its promise to participate in an event of this kind.

The explanation lies in the fact that a majority of the band members have been away at Old Orchard, Me., to the New England Conference of the Salvation Army, held during the past week. A large number also spent the week-end there. Most of the members started for home yesterday but ran into severe storms that caused much delay and they failed to arrive on time for the parade.

Only about a dozen members were on hand and the instruments most needed on parade were missing so it was decided not to march. The members, however, gathered at Center Park, where they participated in the program.
