LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR AID OF NEEDY

President Opens Conference of Leaders—Says Towns and Cities Must Do Their Full Share.

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Summoning the country to contribute for the relief of the destitute, President Roosevelt at the same time today arraigned "some areas which lately have not done their share and have been coming hat in hand to the Federal government."

His extemporaneous talk was in opening the third annual mobilization for hunger needs conference in the White House grounds, one declaration being that the people are better able to support charity now than in years immediately past.

Responding, Frank B. Kellogg—former secretary of state—announced the mobilization campaign "of surpassing importance for human needs" in every community of the country.

Kellogg spoke in place of Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, as chairman of the relief conference, whose illness prevented his attendance.

Greatest Obstacle
He said the greatest obstacle to the drive would be the widespread belief that the government will furnish the means and that there is no necessity for private subscriptions and aid.

"Nothing is further from the fact," he said. "The aid rendered by the Federal government and the state and local government is limited in its scope and does not and cannot cover the ground which the private organizations must carry on."

The speakers stood on a specially constructed platform on the lawn. A bright sun shone.

"In some states relief is mixed up with politics," said the President. "Legislatures are thinking in political terms and are passing laws which municipalities in some instances are spending taxes for political purposes and then saying they have nothing for relief."

"But I am glad to say these instances are growing less. The people are understanding that we are not

REV. DR. PARKHURST DIES AFTER A FALL

Militant Minister and Foe of Tammany Hall Passes Away at Age of 91.

Ventnor, N. J., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst, militant minister who attained national-wide fame in the '90's as a bitter and victorious foe of Tammany Hall in New York City, died today an hour after he fell from the roof of his home.

Mrs. Grace Moore Parkhurst, his niece, said he had been walking in his sleep of late but that this health had been excellent. He was 91 years old.

The aged minister stepped out of a window to the porch roof of the home of his nephew, Winthrop Parkhurst, with whom he lived here. He was taken to Atlantic City hospital, where he died at 4 a. m. A terrific attack he launched from the pulpit of his Madison Square Presbyterian church in 1892 against what he termed a "damnable pack of administrative bloodhounds" started a campaign which resulted in the ousting of Tammany in New York.

Reform Wave
On a wave of reform William L. Strong was elected mayor and Theodore Roosevelt was installed as police commissioner. Tammany came back after the strong administration to put Robert A. van Wyck in the mayor's chair but later, with Parkhurst playing a prominent part, a fusion movement again beat Tammany and elected Seth Low as mayor.

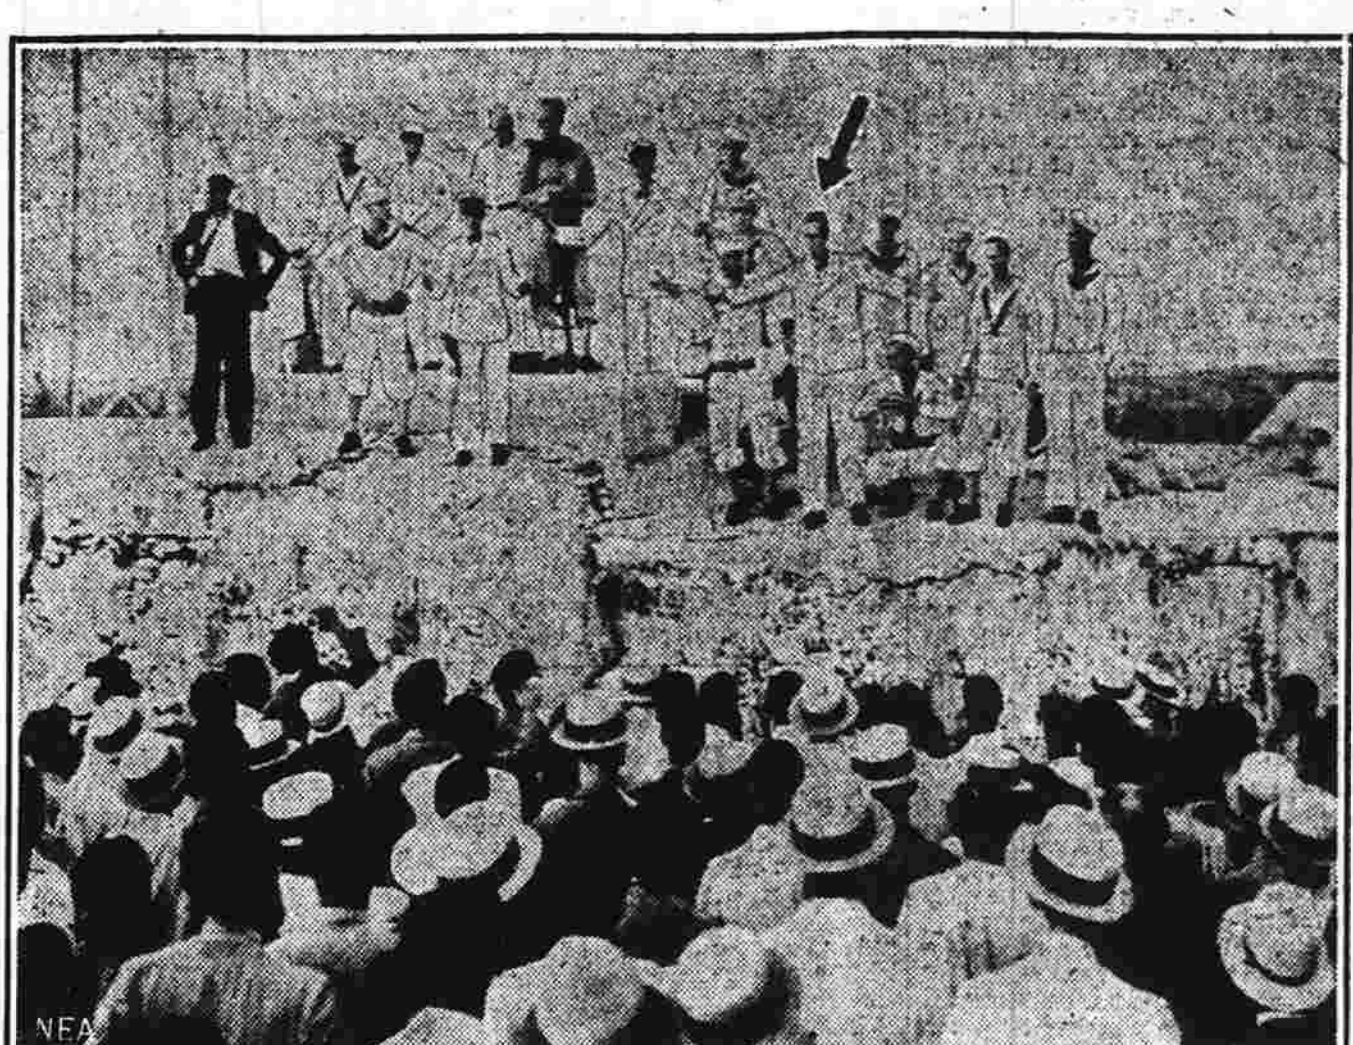

Although he retired in 1918, Dr. Parkhurst never changed in his opinion of what he called political "corruption" and occasionally he issued a blast against it from his New Jersey home.

In 1922, at a gathering in celebration of his 80th birthday, he blamed a crime wave on the fact that Tammany was in complete control of the New York City government.

Four years later, he said a religion of simple belief in God and his righteousness was necessary to rescue the country "from the quagmire of multiple depravity into which we have rationally slumped."

His last public utterance was on his 90th birthday last year when he said that New York City was like a big house which needs a "thorough scrubbing every so often."

Havana Throgs Hear A Leader Of "Second Revolution"

Elevated from a sergeant in the Cuban navy to Chief of Staff of the Cuban National Navy, Angel R. Gonzalez (indicated by arrow), addresses a crowd in Havana after the bloodless revolution by which radicals seized control from the Provisional government of President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes.

EXPECT FEW CHANGES IN COAL TRADE CODE

Operators and Union Have Until Tomorrow Evening to File Protests—Oil Code in Operation.

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The recovery administration watched today the soft coal industry's reaction to the most comprehensive NRA code yet written, confident the code will go to President Roosevelt substantially unchanged.

E. J. GAINOR HEADS LETTER CARRIERS

Indiana Man Wins by Big Majority at the Atlantic City Convention.

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 8.—(AP)—Edward J. Gainor of Muncie, Ind., was re-elected president of the National Association of Letter Carriers at the 29th convention in the Municipal Auditorium here today.

PRODUCER DEALERS RAP POOLING PLAN

85 Deaths Are Reported From Sleeping Sickness

By Associated Press
Medical science was marshalling its forces today for a concentrated attack on the problem of "sleeping sickness," seeking in particular to determine the method by which it has apparently been transmitted from one person to another in the St. Louis area where 85 have succumbed to the disease.

Aided by numerous rabbits, a dozen monkeys and ten thousand adult mosquitoes, Army medical experts took over the task of determining whether the disease is transmitted by insects.

Sees Racing Balloon Struck By Lightning

Sudbury, Ontario, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Joseph J. Paul said today that he saw a balloon, possibly one of the two bags missing in the James Gordon Bennett Cup race, drop toward the ground in a lightning storm Sunday in the Meteor lake district.

Paul, who lives in Sudbury, was a member of a party of fishermen who returned here today. He said the balloon had not been found.

"There was a flash of lightning which blinded him for a moment," Paul recounted, and when he looked into the sky again the balloon, which had been flying low, was nowhere in sight.

"We had just finished supper about six o'clock when I first noticed the balloon," Paul said. "It was flying low—about 1,000 feet. I would judge—and was a half-mile away."

"One of the worst storms I have ever been out in was raging at the time. There was a heavy mist and owing to the darkness and haze we could not see any markings on the craft."

There are numerous small lakes in that district and the balloon may have fallen into one of them, Paul said. With him on the fishing trip were Edward Close and Joseph Therverge.

The fishermen saw the basket of the balloon plainly, but they could not tell whether anyone was in it.

REACH SETTLEMENT ON WORKING HOURS

15,000 Thousand Strikers Go Back to Work in New York, NRA Announces.

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—A settlement was reached today after an all-night conference in NRA headquarters which will enable 15,000 striking embroidery workers to return to work Monday.

Grover A. Whalen, NRA city chairman and mediator for the settlement, said today that the workers had been misled by "agitators" and that after his plea Wednesday, they had voted 9 to 1 to return to work.

He made a similar announcement at a conference last night in Hartford with a committee of the workers.

Dr. Dolan yesterday said the workers had been misled by "agitators" and that after his plea Wednesday, they had voted 9 to 1 to return to work.

Revolutionary Junta Announces Itself Ready to Retire If It Becomes Necessary to Avoid American Intervention—Coalition Cabinet May Be Chosen.

Havana, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Attempts to conciliate political differences that have given Cuba two revolutionary governments in a month and brought 30 American warships to Cuban waters began today.

Six men and a woman, named at a meeting of all factions to "study the nation's problems," went into a secret session with indications that a provisional President de Cespedes would be reinstated and that a coalition Cabinet would be chosen to supplant a five-man junta.

This development followed a declaration that the revolutionary commission, weary after three days in power of bickering, threats, disorders, and talk of a counter revolution, would retire "in five minutes" if the people "tell us it is necessary to avoid American intervention."

Heavily Guarded
Guarded by many soldiers, delegates representing all shades of political thought, convened in the Presidential Palace last night, and determined on the conciliation move before leaving at 12:45 a. m.

They met at the government's invitation to hear the viewpoints of each faction. Their statements ranged from condemnation of the de Cespedes administration to expressions of fear that the United States would intervene.

The students' directory, opponents alike of the Gerardo Machado regime and its successor, the de Cespedes government, was not represented on the mediation committee, and would retire "in five minutes" if the people "tell us it is necessary to avoid American intervention."

Concentration of American warships near Cuba was authoritative-ly said to have motivated the compromise move, which followed a declaration by the women's revolutionary organization that "American Marines must pass over our dead bodies to get on Cuban soil" and a Communist manifesto declaring, "Down with the revolutionary government which threatens to pay debts owed to American bankers."

The Communist central committee was said to have agreed to fire on American forces should they land.

Warships On Scene
In Havana harbor today were the U. S. destroyers McFarland and Bainbridge and the cruiser Richmond, ready for action if American lives or property should be threatened. Only once, during the administration of Theodore Roosevelt, has the United States intervened in Cuban affairs, but at other times American warships have landed parties to protect American interests.

Early today a crowd gathered in front of the Presidential Palace. Sergeant Fulgencio Batista, a leader in Monday's coup, appeared on a balcony and addressed the people, amid a hearty ovation.

"Don't believe false rumors that are being propagated," he told them. "I have an army of 15,000 men ready to maintain the liberty of the people. Right and justice are on our side."

Army officers, meanwhile, met at the palace to consider a proposition to form a military junta, which was not approved. The officers then convened to draw up a counter proposition, while the non-commissioned officers consulted among themselves.

The army officers deliberated for five hours and determined to give a vote of confidence to Sergio Carbo, a junta member, who was thereby empowered to seek a solution for the problem.

Sergeant Batista emphatically declared that he was not relinquishing command of the army unless officers accept his plan, which involves giving back the command only to certain officers of his choosing.

Most of the officials apparently were not satisfied except if all other factions approved it. The committee meeting was adjourned at 11:30 a. m. Gomez said no agreement had been reached.

U. S. RETAIL SALES KEEP ON UPSWING

Dun and Bradstreet Report That Business Is Good Despite High Prices.

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The upward trend of retail sales has proceeded "unmindful of the general lifting of price levels" and the fall buying season has stimulated commercial activity to broader advances, Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said today.

"While a concerted vigilance is being maintained for any curtailment of buying, no evidence of this condition is apparent as yet," stated the agency's weekly review. "In fact, a doubling of the wages of six months ago has not been an infrequent occurrence and with the two and a half millions who have been returned to the banks of the wage-earners since March, the covering of deferred necessities alone has been so insistent that the price factor has lost some of its former predominance in the selection of merchandise."

The slack that appeared around mid-August in the upward line of business "gradually was tightened toward the close of that month, so that the impetus of the strong seasonal expansion is proving powerful in restoring its continuity."

BRAIN TRUST TALE DENIED BY MOLEY

Declares Economists Had Only a Small Part in Roosevelt's Program.

Bedford Springs, Pa., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The so-called "brain trust," Raymond Moley says, has not been a "dominant" influence in shaping the policies of the Roosevelt administration.

Scuffing at the idea that the President is receiving too much "academic" advice, the recently-regarded secretary of state asserted that in working out his program, Mr. Roosevelt "has observed a wise balance of assistance."

Addressing the annual convention of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, last night, Prof. Moley declared:

"Much has been said about the academic mentality which has no groundwork in fact. Any process of broad and general planning, certain academic men are bound to be factors."

"That is because their training has directed them to see life whole. They are specialists in the articulation of many diverse things into unity."

Few Of Them
"It is this function that some of them perform in helping to build this program; but they are by no means considerable in their numbers nor dominant in their influence."

Prof. Moley told the utilities executives the Roosevelt policies represent "definite emphasis upon the principle that the public interest, acting through the government is paramount in the business life of the country."

Referring to the development of the Tennessee valley project, Moley asserted that "as electric power has essentially become a National concern, state rights are no longer able to restrict its mighty unifying force."

"Hence," he said, "a development such as that of Muscle Shoals must of necessity become Federal in its concern. Never, so far as I can see, could it be turned over to the thousand and one particularistic units that free competition would suggest."

Crazed Man Runs Amuck in Belfast — Carried Two Shotguns.

Belfast, Me., Sept. 8.—(AP)—A mentally deranged man, who for years had been considered harmless, ran amuck in the business section of the city today, killed three men and critically wounded another, and then blew off his own head.

The dead: Adrian Jones, the demented shooter; Herbert E. Ellis, 65, an insurance man; W. W. Blaisdell, 75, Raymond Blaisdell, 40. Seriously injured: R. B. Stanhope, a veterinarian, was in the Waldo General hospital in a critical condition.

The business section of the city was thrown into an uproar as Jones, who had been considered harmless, mentally deranged, came down Main street with shotguns in each hand.

He first shot Ellis in front of the Masonic Temple and then turned down Washington street to the office occupied by the Blaisdells, who were father and son.

After killing the Blaisdells, Jones went into Stanhope's office and shot him. People scurried into doorways and around the corners of buildings as Jones appeared.

As Ellis slumped to the sidewalk in a pool of blood, Jones turned to a man who had been unable to find cover and said: "Well, I've got that fellow all right."

Stanhope was so seriously wounded that a physician said he could not live.

The killer then ducked into a blacksmith shop after the shooting and while officers, hurriedly summoned from the court house and other parts of the city, prepared to lay siege to the place a shot was heard and they entered to find him dead.

Death of Yale Economist Ends Trust Fund Created
by His Father.

New Haven, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The death of Henry W. Farnam, noted economist and former Yale University professor of political economy, terminated a trust fund estimated to be worth $5,000,000 which was created by Henry Farnam, railroad builder and philanthropist, father of the economist.

The fund was established in 1883 and at that time it amounted to $1,500,000. Through the years since then, it has grown until it was unofficially estimated today as totaling more than $5,000,000.

As Professor Farnam was the last of the railroad builder's children to survive, the trust ended with his death and a distribution of the fund among the elder Farnam's grandchildren will follow under the terms of the will.

The maker of the will creating the trust, asserted by New Haven attorneys to be one of the most unusual ever drawn in Connecticut, died Oct. 4, 1883.

He was associated with Joseph E. Sheffield in the construction of the New Haven and Northampton canal 1825, and later was employed as an engineer in the construction of the Erie canal.

He also was associated with Sheffield in the building of the New York and New Haven railroad, the Michigan Southern railroad, and the Chicago and Rock Island railroad.

MISS HOUSE TO OPEN PLAY SCHOOL FOR TOTS

Youngsters from 3 to 5 to Be Pupils—Equipping Grounds With Play Apparatus.

Miss Emily Louise House, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. House of 201 East Center street, announce in today's Herald the opening on September 15 of a Play School for her home for young children. Miss House has training and experience is particularly well qualified to conduct such a school—the first of its kind in Manchester.

After graduating from Manchester High school, Miss House studied at Abbott Academy, Andover, Mass., from which she was graduated on completion of the two-year course. For three years she made a special study of the education of young children at Miss Wheelock's Kindergarten Training School in Boston. Following her graduation from that institution she attended the School of Education at Boston University and received her Bachelor of Science degree since which time she has taught at the Choate School in Brookline, Mass., and for some time has been recreational director for the girls at the Newington Home for Crippled Children.

Miss House is equipping the grounds surrounding her home with various play devices, designed especially to appeal to children between the ages of 3 and 5 years. It will be recalled that Froebel, the old German educator, when he started his play school called it the "kindergarten" or "Children's Garden." The spacious sun porch of the House residence will also be furnished with small chairs and tables and materials for work and play, but play will be outdoors wherever weather makes it possible, and the hours, 9 to 11:45 a. m. The enrollment is limited so that the teacher may be able to give all the individual attention possible to the little ones.

The meeting was called by Gustave Schreiber and every contractor is wanted at the session.

PRESIDENT TO FISH
OVER THE WEEK-END

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—President Roosevelt is counting on a fishing trip in the lower Potomac river over the week-end.

If the critical Cuban situation permits, he plans to motor to Quantico, Virginia, to board the yacht Sequoia late today.

The Marines standing ready for Cuban service are mobilized at Quantico, but it was said at the White House the President would not review them and is going to Quantico as a matter of convenience to permit his yacht to get down to the fishing grounds by early Saturday.

The President has invited Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Hopkins to accompany him. Hopkins is the Federal relief administrator. James Roosevelt, his eldest son, plans to join the party tomorrow.

Mr. Roosevelt plans on remaining on the river until Sunday night or Monday morning.

CHECKS, CASH STOLEN

Torrington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Burglars entered an office shack at the City of Waterbury's Shepaug reservoir project in Morris last night and made away with payroll checks totaling $1,021 and $198 in cash. The checks, 47 in number, ranged in size from $7.20 to $47.20, and were drawn on the Citizens and Manufacturing National Bank of Waterbury. The cash was mostly in $1 bills. The burglars forced a window in the office shack and sawed the lock off a fireproof strong box in which the checks and cash were kept. Waterbury and state police are investigating.

AARON COOK NEEDS
LITTLE INTRODUCTION

Comes of Well Known Family and Has Served Well On Board This Past Year.

Little is necessary to introduce Aaron Cook, candidate in Tuesday's Republican primary for selectman, to the townspeople as he comes from one of Manchester's best known families. His father represented Manchester in the General Assembly and was also a Selectman.

His grandfather was one of the outstanding men in town. His great-grandfather was a Squire, comparable to a Selectman today.

Mr. Cook is a securities salesman for a Hartford company. He has had a broad education, specializing in business lines. Graduating from Manchester High School, he entered the Bentley School of Accounting and Finance in Boston. After graduation he entered Babson Institute at Wellesley where he completed his business training. He is now an expert accountant.

He is a member of Manchester Lodge of Masons and the Tall Cedars of Lebanon.

During the past year he has proved to be a steadfast student of town affairs. He has been an efficient Selectman and has won many additional friends in his position.

PEACH SEASON REACHES PEAK EARLY THIS YEAR

Pero Orchards Picking 1,000 Baskets Daily—Prices Lowest Right Now.

Due to weather conditions, the season for peaches has been brought to its height very quickly this year and Pero's Orchards report that they are now picking 1,000 baskets a day of the finest quality fruit. The orchards, located on Avery street in Wapping are humming with activity as the huge crop is being gathered.

It is also reported that the peaches will be offered for sale at the lowest prices possible, giving the public a fine opportunity to purchase large, luscious peaches of outstanding quality at most reasonable prices. The fruit will be on sale at the Pero stand on Oakland street.

NATION'S SAILORS
COME UNDER CODE

Soon to Share With Workers Ashore Benefits of the Recovery Act.

Washington, Sept. 8.—(AP)—America's sailor men, from barge hands to able seamen of the deep, soon will share with workers ashore the benefits of NRA.

A code of competition for the billion-dollar Merchant Marine today was ready for presentation to officials. Another, for the Great Lakes steamship companies, was in preparation, while still another for canal carriers, already was in administration files.

Another phase of the shipping industry also was being brought under the NRA as Deputy Administrator W. H. Davis conferred with stevedores in first of preliminary meetings to bring about a code for these contractors. The stevedores are the intermediaries who contract with steamship companies to load and unload vessels, hiring longshoremen to do the work.

Minimum Wage
The code for the water line transport industry, presented by the Canal Carriers Association, provides a minimum wage of $70 a month with subsistence and suitable living quarters for employees on self-propelled vessels and $70 a month with suitable living quarters on barges.

Clerical workers are guaranteed a minimum wage of $15 a week and a 40-hour week over a three-month average, and watchmen are provided a 54-hour week.

The code for the Merchant Marine, drafted by the American Steamship Owners Association and approved already by Pacific coast and Gulf interstates, will not be presented until next week. J. Caldwell Jenkins, chairman of the code committee, said approval of certain independent operators still was awaited.

THIEVES GET NOTHING

Terryville, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Burglars who carried a heavy safe from the Pegabuck station of the New Haven Road, broke into three boxes of "right and a trunk, apparently left empty-handed, a check today disclosed.

The safe was found some distance from the station this morning after T. A. Macdonough, the station agent, found that a burglary had occurred during the night. He said nothing was in the safe except records and these were found scattered over the ground near the broken safe.

In the station itself, the burglars scattered the contents of the trunk and freight boxes over the floor, but a check showed nothing was missing.

FULL MILITARY HONORS FOR ITALIAN AVIATOR

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Requiem mass was celebrated today in St. Patrick's Cathedral for General Francesco de Pinedo, Italian flyer who died in flames enveloping his ship when it crashed at Floyd Bennett field at the start of a proposed trans-Atlantic flight last Saturday.

The body of the Italian aviator was borne with impressive solemnity from the funeral home of the cathedral through a lane of thousands who stood silently, many of them giving the Fascist salute to the dead ace.

The coffin, draped with American and Italian colors, was carried on an artillery caisson drawn by ten horses and was preceded by two Italian sailors bearing a large wreath from Premier Mussolini.

Above, a squadron of five airplanes circled over the procession—the last tribute of fellow aviators.

ITALIANS TO HEAR SUPREME OFFICER

Get Word That John M. Di Silvestro Will Be Here for Convention.

Aldo Pagani, chairman of the Sons of Italy Convention scheduled for September 10, 11, and 12 received word last night that Supreme Venerable Cav. Uff. John M. Di Silvestro of Philadelphia, Pa., one of the leading lawyers of that city and the supreme officer of the fraternal organization in this country, will honor the local convention with his presence here on Sunday, Sept. 10.

The National grand officer of the Sons of Italy has been received by Premier Mussolini in Italy on several occasions, having recently returned to this country from that country. The National organization as well as the state and local groups are greatly pleased upon the receipt of notice that the grand officer had arranged to be present, having respected the leader of the fraternity from afar for his interest in the nation-wide membership.

EX-PROBATE JUDGE BROUGHT INTO COURT

Charles J. Fowler of Thompsonville Must Produce Accounting of Woman's Estate.

Thompsonville, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Charles J. Fowler brought into Probate Court before Judge James W. Hayden on a capias today, promised that he and his wife would submit records and an accounting of an estate sought by court.

The capias, served last night, charged Fowler with contempt of court and failure to appear in court for examination in connection with the estate of Susan Manley. Mrs. Fowler was former trustee of the estate and her husband, former judge of the probate court, served as her counsel.

After a conference between counsel for Fowler and Judge Hayden today, the Fowlers agreed to appear with records of the estate next Tuesday.

Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The last two of the 14 death victims of the Erie train crash here Tuesday night were identified today.

They were Miss Gertrude Peterstein, 35, of Echo, Minn., fine arts instructor in the Dwight Morrow high school of Englewood, N. J., and Antonio E. Korona, 47, of Brooklyn, a reporter and former owner of the Glos Narodou, Polish newspaper of Jersey City.

NURSES WILL SELL HOSPITAL FLOWERS

To Offer Blooms from Institution's Gardens on Street for Equipment Fund.

The nursing staff of the Manchester Memorial Hospital is planning to hold a "Hospital Flower Day" on Thursday afternoon and evening, September 14. There is a need of more equipment at the hospital and the nursing staff is desirous of obtaining it without causing the supporting friends of the hospital extra expense at a time when money is not as free as in former years.

Flowers growing in profusion in the hospital garden will form the source of the fund. The nurses of the staff plan to sell these on Main street during the afternoon and evening of next Thursday. The saleswomen will be distinguished by arm bands, designating the institution.

Persons will be asked to buy the hospital flowers in any quantity, from a little boutonniere to a big bouquet, according to the amount the purchaser may wish to devote to the fund.

TO CROSS ATLANTIC

New London, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Following an overnight stop at this port, a tiny boat, driven by an outboard motor was enroute to Boston today and from that place will start on a voyage across the Atlantic ocean, with Germany the destination.

The boat, 24 feet long with beam of six feet and draft of five feet, four inches, was brought into this port late yesterday afternoon by Paul Smoke of 1408 Putnam avenue, New York City, and Fred Bathofer of 185th street, North River, N. Y. They will be joined by a third man, Michael Gastil of Boston.

Will Operate the Business Until Date Set for Its Sale on September 15th.

John E. Dwyer was appointed as trustee of the Packard Pharmacy, Inc., adjudged bankrupt ten days ago, at a meeting of the creditors held in the office of the referee in bankruptcy in Hartford this morning. It was not a large gathering.

Mr. Dwyer, who had been appointed temporary receiver at the first hearing, was present with proven claims to the amount of $1,500 and Attorney Chester Mills of Manchester represented other creditors. An offer made for a settlement of all claims at the rate of 10 cents on the dollar was rejected by the appointment of a trustee was adopted. A Hartford attorney was nominated as was Mr. Dwyer, the latter being selected.

The new trustee turned in his account of funds taken in while acting as receiver and returned to Manchester to take over the care of the store as trustee, starting with a capital in cash of $34.

ROCKVILLE

DUNN, "OLD GUARDITE" WINS REGISTRARSHIP

"New Guard" Democratic Candidate Beaten 2 to 1 in Big-est of Caucuses.

George E. Dunn, "Old Guard" registrar of voters, won re-nomination at the Democratic Caucus last evening by a two to one vote in what proved to be probably the largest Democratic caucus ever held in the history of the party. Mr. Dunn received 204 votes while Charles E. McCarthy, "New Guard" nominee, received but 103. The nomination was made unanimous on motion of Mr. McCarthy.

The "Old Guard" also carried the major part of the ticket although the contest was principally on the Registrarship.

The women proved to be the governing factor in deciding the nomination.

The caucus was called to order by former Mayor George Forster, chairman of the Town Committee.

James Toubey moved the nomination of former Mayor Frederick G. Hartenstein for chairman while former City Clerk John N. Keeney was named as clerk upon motion of William Morrison.

When nominations were asked for Lawrence Monahan moved that a committee of five be named by the chair to bring in nominations, a rising vote thus was carried.

Assessors: Edward E. Dowling and Raphael Monahan, who were chosen unanimously.

Board of Relief: James A. Corbin and Daniel Halloran, Sr. The former withdrew and Thomas F. Farrell was nominated by George E. Dunn and Messrs. Farrell and Halloran were voted unanimously.

Board of Selectmen: Fred J. Foley and Max J. Smith, named and voted unanimously.

Tax Collector: left blank as the Rockville National Bank acts as collector.

Auditor: Christopher E. Jones named and voted unanimously.

Constables: Charles Connors, Russell J. Finley, Lawrence Monahan and Fred Young.

At this point Constable Dunn, arose and said he did not find his name and believed it to be of spite that it was left off. He asked that nominations be made from the floor.

Fred J. Forster then that a substitute list of nominations be handed in and he named the following: Russell J. Finley, George E. Dunn, Thomas Fay and John Lehman.

The amendment was carried and the substitute list of nominations was carried by practically a unanimous vote.

The registrarship contest came when Charles E. McCarthy was named by the nominating committee.

Edward B. Coogan offered an amendment substituting the name of George E. Dunn for that of Charles E. McCarthy. This disclosed the fact that both the "Old Guard" and the "New Guard" had ballots printed ready for action.

The tellers brought in a report of 307 votes cast of which 204 were for Dunn and 103 for McCarthy.

School Board nominations were made for three and four years. Dr. John E. Flaherty for three years and Mrs. Helen S. Garvan for four years. It was explained that there will probably not be any caucus next year and Mrs. Garvan's office expires then. No opposition was presented.

Registrar Dunn moved that the present town committee be retained but this brought forth nominations of a larger committee, the suggestion being that the committee be enlarged from fifteen to twenty-five names. It was finally agreed to enlarge the committee and the following names were added: Dr. John E. Flaherty, John J. McKenna, Lawrence Monahan, Charles E. McCarthy, Francis Leonard, Edward B. Coogan, John McKinstry, Leo Flaherty, Gerald Rock, Augustus M. Burke and Helen S. Garvan.

The following old committee members were retained: Michael O'Connell, Mrs. Esther Reardon, Fred Foley, Nicholas Ashe, George E. Dunn, George Forster, Fred T. Hartenstein, Fred G. Hartenstein, Mrs. Katie Burke, Ann Cratty, Margaret McGuane, Mrs. Margaret Wilcox, Paul Lucas, George E. Hammond and Thomas Kernan.

The caucus took adjournment at 9:20 o'clock but before taking adjournment empowered the committee to fill all vacancies for the town election to be held the first Monday in October.

City Court Cases. Thirty days in the Tolland County Jail was imposed on Thomas Cahill, aged 27, by Judge John E. Fisk in the Rockville City Court yesterday morning, when he entered a plea of guilty to the charge of intoxication. He was also taxed costs amounting to $10.98, which were paid.

Cahill was arrested by Captain Richard E. Shea of the Rockville Police on Wednesday after he had been creating a disturbance and was charged with intoxication. Prosecuting Attorney John E. Thomas stated that at the opening of the court session he was tempted to charge the accused with being a common drunkard but James A. Elliott, probation officer, who is his conservator, was away at the time.

WAPPING

Miss Margaret Welles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn G. Welles Sr., of Avery street, left last Friday for the Great Lakes, and also the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, where she will spend her two weeks' vacation.

The annual Grange Sunday service will be held next Sunday evening, Sept. 10 under the auspices of the East Central Pomona Grange, No. 3. This year it will be held at the First Congregational church at East Hartford at eight o'clock.

All patrons and members of the church are cordially invited to attend this service. The program for the service as arranged by Carroll W. Hutchinson, lecturer of East Central Pomona Grange, is as follows: Sacred service, song service, greetings to Pomona Grange by Benjamin F. Day, master of East Hartford Grange, response and greetings to the church, Edward J. Jocke, master of East Central Pomona Grange; response and prayer by Rev. Truman H. Woodward, pastor of the church; instrumental music, address by Rev. Charles A. Downs, chaplain of the Connecticut State Grange; vocal selections, remarks and prayer by Rev. Horatio H. Crawford, past chaplain of Rhode Island State Grange and present pastor of the Hockanum Methodist church; offertory, closing hymn and benediction. Many Grangers from Wapping will probably attend.

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Bancroft of East Windsor Hill have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Barbara Bancroft, to Roy Nelson, son of Mrs. Jenny E. Nelson of the Boulevard, West Hartford.

Edwin Berry of South Windsor had ten chickens stolen from his hen house one night last week.

Miss Dorothy Doane of New York, who motored to Bonny Eagle Camp, West Buxton, Maine, and spent several days, returned to her home in Wapping and spent the night before returning to her work in New York.

OFFERS $5 FOR NAME FOR DANCE PAVILION

Julius Mintz, Owner of New Entertainment Hall on Depot Square Makes Offer.

Julius Mintz, owner and proprietor of the new dance hall and pavilion located in the Cowles hotel, Depot Square, has arranged to conduct a contest to name the new dance hall. A prize of $5 will be given by the management for the person submitting the most suitable name, to be selected by competent judges to be named by Mr. Mintz.

Any person, man, woman or child may submit what they deem is an appropriate name for the new dance pavilion, which may be addressed to Contest, Editor, Herald, or brought to the business office by the contestant. The contest will close on Saturday, Sept. 16. The decision of the judges will be final.

The new dance pavilion will fill a long-felt want in Manchester, the management feels, furnishing clean, well-regulated amusement, centrally located in town. Entrance to the pavilion will be through the hotel proper. An efficient staff of officials will be in charge of the dance pavilion during the season just beginning, and it is expected that the opening night, soon to be announced, will attract a large crowd of dance lovers from this and other towns.

The pavilion has been decorated in the latest style and the management plans to make other and more elaborate improvements during the season. Thomas Conran, proprietor of the popular restaurant at Depot Square for many years, will supervise the catering at the new hall. Special rooms have been provided for the accommodation of the caterer and equipment necessary to this end.

LADY ROBERTS LODGE TOLD OF CONVENTION

Lady Roberts Lodge, No. 242, Daughters of St. George held their regular meeting last night in Odd Fellows hall, under the auspices of the Supreme Grand Lodge convention which was held in Boston last month. An invitation has been received from the Hartford Lodge to hold a joint Memorial service on Sept. 18, and it is hoped all who can do so will attend.

TO LEAVE BELGIUM

Blankenbheige, Belgium, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein has decided to leave Belgium because recently a number of prominent Nazis were at nearby Cog-Sur-Mer, it was learned today.

The professor and his wife planned to get out of the country aboard the yacht of a friend. Their destination was said to be South America.

Police placed a guard at his villa after hearing reports that a secret German Nazi organization had set a price of 20,000 marks ($6,800) on his head.

PRINCE KNUD TO WED PRINCESS CAROLINE

Fredensborg, Denmark, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Royalty from many courts of Europe gathered here today for the marriage of Prince Knud, younger son of King Christian X, and Princess Caroline Mathilde, his cousin.

The ceremony was set for this evening in the church of the castle, the summer residence of the late King Christian X.

Among the early arrivals were the Crown Prince and Princess of Norway, the Crown Princess of Sweden and Belgium, and Prince Hubertus of Prussia, the third son of Germany's former Crown Prince. Prince Knud is a naval officer, 33 years old. He has attained wide popularity among his brother officers.

Princess Caroline Mathilde, the second daughter of Prince Harald, a brother of the King, is 21.

Bunting and garlands with which the streets were decorated in preparation for the wedding were torn down during the night, allegedly by Communists.

Subsequently troops and detachments were placed throughout the village, and the royal castle was strongly guarded.

HEART ATTACK IS FATAL FOR KING OF IRAQ

night. When an inquiry was made about the monarch's health at 10:30 o'clock, the physician expressed himself as satisfied.

A few minutes before midnight, however, the patient took a turn for the worse, and he died at 12:30 a. m. The body was taken to the Anatomical Institute, a clinic. It will be sent to Iraq possibly today or tomorrow.

The brother, former King Hedjak, who was stopping at a hotel near Berna, was immediately summoned. Flags on Swiss government buildings were put at half mast.

King Feisal's heir is Prince Ghazi, who is 21.

King Feisal was born in 1885, at Taif, the third son of Sharif Husain, and was a descendant of Fatmah, the only surviving child of the Prophet.

When he was seven he was taken to the country seat of the Al 'Aun family, where he was reared among the tribesmen.

In 1913 he became deputy for Feisal and identified himself with the Arab movement. He commanded his father's forces in Asir in 1914, and was at Mecca at the outbreak of the World War. Later he played an important part in the Arab revolt, commanding Arab forces with General Allenby's army until the capture of Aleppo in October, 1918.

In March 1921, he was proclaimed King of Syria, but was unable to come to terms with the French mandatory power. A few months later, however, he proceeded to Iraq as a candidate for the throne, and was elected King by a plebiscite in which he received 96 per cent of the votes.

He spent 18 years in Istanbul, as a student and as an office holder under the Turkish government. His modern education there contrasted strangely with his training in his native country.

When his brothers Ali and Abdula he took a leading part in the movement leading to the deposition of Abdul Hamid.

Helped the Allies

When, in 1916, his father sided with the Allies against Turkey, Emir Feisal commanded rebel forces in Medina, but the Turks defeated him.

He then presented to the British a scheme for the formation of an Arab army and this he eventually became General Allenby's right wing in Palestine, giving the latter valuable assistance in routing the Turks and in the complete occupation of Palestine and Syria.

In March, 1920, he became King of Syria, but owing to his failure to recognize the rights of France, General Gouraud deposed him. On Aug. 23, 1921, he ascended the throne of Iraq and received British recognition.

Under his aegis and with the assistance of British advisers and British forces in Iraq, the kingdom made rapid progress.

King Feisal opened the first Parliament in July, 1925, two and a half years after a treaty was concluded under which Great Britain undertook to recognize Iraq as an independent state and the country was duly admitted to membership in the League of Nations. Independence thus was recognized in October, 1932.

King Feisal married Sharifa Husayna, the daughter of his father's brother, in 1906. There is one son, the Crown Prince Emir Ghazi and three daughters, the Princesses Asma, Rafia and Rafia. A crack shot and a noted horseman and distinguished himself against the Turks as a strategist.

His interests included cotton growing, poultry and aviation.

EXPECT FEW CHANGES IN COAL TRADE'S CODE

the subject of careful scrutiny by bituminous coal operators and union miners alike. Both interests had until tomorrow evening to file their objections.

But they knew too that Johnson regards the code as the salvation of the industry and plans, bearing reasonable modifications to "impose it" on minorities refusing to sign up.

Oil Industry

As the coal negotiations neared and another huge industry—the $12,000,000 oil business—began its revolutionary experiment of national production control.

Authorized by oil's NRA code, the daily production budget of 350,000 barrels fixed by the order of Secretary Ickes formally took effect. Officials here looked for price boosts as a result.

A special incentive to operators to accept the soft coal code was the provision permitting creation of price-fixing marketing agencies. Johnson believes it would be reasonable to lift the retail cost of coal back to the level of three or four years ago.

Favors Increase

"In fact, I'd stand for its going up as much as $2 a ton though I do not expect that it will," he told news men.

LAUNCH CAMPAIGN FOR AID OF NEEDY

wielding the big stick but making the obligation clear."

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that the action of the Federal government in giving relief appropriations was on an emergency basis and that he expected the government eventually to be relieved of this responsibility.

"The whole period we are now going through will in the end get back to individual initiative and responsibility," he said.

The President spoke optimistically of the trend of affairs and said he expected everyone to cooperate in the relief drive.

"I believe you can do the work more effectively than last year," he said. "Taking it by and large the country is in a more hopeful mind."

"The people have more to spend and don't you let them tell you otherwise."

"There will be some who will have excuses but there is going to be no such thing as being left out. No one can be left out. They've got to join you."

"You have a great responsibility on your shoulders and I know you are going to do it. This is an essential part in the program of the United States. Go to it, make a record, not only of money but of service of which we all will be very proud."

"We have got to build from the bottom up," he said, "and not merely supply food from the top down."

Starting the conference later at a hotel, John Stewart Bryan, publisher of the Richmond, Virginia, News Leader and President of Community Chests and Councils, Inc., declared mobilization for community help was in no way minimized by the fact that Federal, state and municipal governments "are today carrying 95 per cent of the material unemployment relief load."

Praising President Roosevelt's "courage, initiative and hopefulness" in his handling of a desperate situation, Bryan said the first and supreme objective, the restoration of the confidence of America in itself, has been achieved.

FORD'S VACATION IS NEARING END

that to stand out and defy this government," said the NRA leader.

"I'd have to make a showdown." "If he violates this code he is violating a law of the United States. But I haven't seen enough indication of violation to start an inquisitorial process."

"In one sense Mr. Ford has put himself at war with this whole movement." "He's been given a lot of publicity for the fact that he is not taking part."

Johnson pointed out under repeated questioning that even if the Ford plant now is employing workers 40 hours a week, it does not constitute a code violation since the automobile agreement allows for more than the average 35 hour week during brief periods requiring greater output.

REACH SETTLEMENT ON WORKING HOURS

strike, said that the employers had agreed to demands for a 35-hour, five-day week and a maximum wage scale asked by the strikers.

Whale, said that the settlement eliminated a "condition for worse than the sweatshop."

Pressed for details, the mediator, his beard stubby after his all-night conference, said that the entire slate of workers' demands had been accepted.

No Overtime

These included, in addition to the shorter work week, no overtime, payment for ten legal holidays, unemployment insurance, an equal division of work, a three-day period for trial workers, no home work, elimination of workers under eighteen years of age and apprentices.

Special stress was laid on the necessity for doing away with work in the home and in sweatshops.

The proposed wage scale was, bannas embroiderers $50 a week, tuckers $50, machine stitchers $25, pleaters $40, pattern makers $45, perforators $35, copyists $35, designers $45, stampers $30, crochets $35, embroiders $38, spoolers, finishers, fagoters, band drawers, machine drawers and plique cutters $21, and novelty workers $30.

NEED MORE MONEY FOR NRA PROGRAM

General Staff of Local Committee to Discuss Future of Work on Monday.

A meeting of the general staff of the local NRA committee will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Chamber office for the purpose of discussing the advisability of continuing an extensive program of NRA activity in the face of a lack of financial support.

The response to the appeal for funds to carry out the program as outlined by Washington has not been at all free, it is understood, and some plan must be devised to underwrite the expense. It is pointed out that the Chamber of Commerce is unable to assume the burden and it seems likely that activities will be curtailed.

Depends on Support

The local committee has been asked by national headquarters to organize a mediation board to handle complaints of violation of the President's Reemployment Agreement. Forming of such a board will depend in large part on the decision reached on the matter of financial support.

It was reported today that 4194 consumers had signed pledges to date and the total is expected to exceed 5,000 when the remaining six companies turn in their final reports. All persons who have not been canvassed and desire to sign the pledge to support the NRA are asked a call at the Chamber office as soon as possible. All persons who have signed but did not receive their insignia are also asked to call at the office for their stickers.

Dolan to Be Present

Dr. Edward Dolan, chairman of the state recovery board, has accepted an invitation to attend the meeting of the general staff Monday morning. Dr. Dolan will outline the next step in the campaign of NRA.

Eleven names were added to the list of local signers of the President's Reemployment Agreement today, bringing the total to 519. The latest signers are: Manchester Upholstering company, E. J. Sweeney, Dalton's Radio shop, Chet's service station, Gotham Towel supply, Manchester Lock shop, William J. Carrington, Manchester Country Club, Memorial Corsets, Thomas F. Sullivan and G and B Bedding shop.

WASHINGTON FURNISHES TAB ON POLICE SUSPECT

Hartford Cops Get Manchester Record of Miller Through Fingerprint Bureau.

Anthony Miller, Jr., who on July 3 of last year was fined $25 and costs and given a ninety-day suspended jail sentence and placed on probation in the Police Court here, is in trouble again, according to a report received this morning from J. Edgar Hoover, head of the criminal investigation bureau at Washington, D. C.

On August 28 he was arrested in Hartford on the charge of theft. The Hartford bureau fingerprinted Miller, and sent the prints to Washington. The bureau replied under date of Sept. 8 reporting that Miller had been arrested in Manchester and giving his record here. The fingerprint made here was the only one on file in Washington concerning him.

A copy of the letter to the Hartford police department also was sent to Manchester for the files here.

The local police record on Miller shows that he was arrested for breaking and entering in the night at a garage on Tolland turnpike. He gave his age as 18 at that time. He said he was born in Stanton, Pa., and was hitch-hiking through Manchester. He was making his home, he said, for a few days in Hartford.

He was placed in the custody of the probation officer of the Hartford Police Court.

MISS MIRIAM WATKINS TO TEACH MUSIC HERE

Opens Branch Studio of Hartford School of Music—Has Had Much Experience.

Announcement has been made today of the opening by the Hartford School of Music, of a branch studio in the Watkins building, 13 Oak street.

Miss Miriam Watkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Elmore Watkins, will be the resident instructor.

Miss Watkins, a graduate of Manchester High school in the class of 1923, has devoted six years to the study of piano and voice and will carry out the methods of the Hartford School of Music, where she spent three of the six years of her studies.

Miss Watkins' work will be under the direction of Miss Eleanor P. Schell, vice president of the department of the Hartford School of Music, and a former accompanist on tour for Alma Gluck, Sophie Braslavski, Louise Homer and Ernest Schumann-Heink, and other Metropolitan Grand Opera singers.

Seven years ago Miss Schell gave up touring and opened a studio for voice in New York and is at the Hartford school of music one day each week.

Miss Watkins' graduation from Manchester High School at Aurora College, Aurora, Illinois and later entered Mt. Holyoke college, from which she was graduated last year. At Manchester she was elected chorus member of the High School club, vice president of the Glee Club, vice president of Soc and Buskin, the dramatic club and vice president of the French Club.

At Aurora College she sang in a Cappella Choir. At Mt. Holyoke she was elected chorus member of the class choir which she retained for three years and was president of the college glee club in 1932 and 1933.

The latter musical organization is noted for its Christmas cantatas given in New York City and other large cities in the east, and is known as the Mt. Holyoke Carol Choir.

Lessons on the violin and cello will also be given those requesting this type of musical instruction, similar to the Hartford School of Music methods.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Only faint sparks of life were discernible in the financial markets today and prices, as a whole, were inclined to drift over a moderately irregular course.

Trading in stocks was largely of a professional character, with the public generally maintaining the most indifference so far as new commitments are concerned. There was a scarcity of offerings as well as bids. The government's cotton report was about in line with expectation and the staple did little.

Grains were rather heavy at one time as the dollar advanced against sterling and the European gold currencies. Secondary railway bonds were under pressure.

With the exception of Union Pacific, which dropped about 5 points, carrier shares held fairly steady. Some of the oils improved, with Seaboard and Standards of New Jersey and California moving up fractionally.

The covering of deferred necessities by several laps, week-end trade reviews demanded, another, cheerful, note. Dun & Bradstreet found that retail sales were progressing "unimpaired" of the general lifting of price levels.

The report on freight car loadings for the week ended Sept. 2, which will appear tomorrow, is expected to be highly satisfactory. In some quarters it is estimated that the aggregate may top the previous 1935 peak reached in the week of Sept. 2, 1934.

The anticipated improvement in traffic is attributed largely to a sharp gain in the demand for both bituminous and anthracite coal in anticipation of higher prices following an agreement on the code. The price of hard coal was increased September 1.

'IRON RING' CLOSES ON GERMAN BORDER

Nazi Turbulence Brings Defensive Measures by Germany's Neighbors.

By MILTON BRONNER European Manager, NEA Service

London.—Whatever may be the echoes within Germany of the clumping of a half million pairs of heavy boots through the cobbled streets of Nuremberg, it is already apparent that two results are going to occur outside her borders.

The first is a further tightening of the "iron ring" about the borders of Germany.

The other is a bold attempt to alienate forever from German influence little Austria, that last fragment of the Austro-Hungarian empire which was Germany's chief ally during the World War.

The Nazi demonstration at Nuremberg, despite its uniforms, its goose-stepping, and its reckless speeches, is really more aimed at showing Nazi Germany at home than a direct threat to countries outside. But nevertheless those countries will not overlook this opportunity to insist on steps to "keep Germany in her place."

Already Belgium is understood to be convinced that she must strengthen immediately her German frontier forts. And with completion next year by France of the most formidable system of frontier fortification ever built by a modern nation, Germany's western border becomes a wall of steel.

The plan to alienate Austria is more subtle. The Austrian frontier is the only one that leaves Germany a vestige of a free outlet or connection with a friendly power.

All the other borders are held by satellites of France, her hereditary foe. If Austria can be induced to adopt a system of universal military service under French auspices, the last gap in the "iron circle" is closed.

This "encirclement" theme is a familiar one to German ears. In the years just before 1914 it was dinned into them unceasingly. Every German came to believe that this country's every move, diplomatic and commercial, was being thwarted by France, Russia and England acting in concert.

This fear of strangulation is a "ring of iron" became almost an obsession in the German mind, and unquestionably had a part in Germany's hysterical plunge into the World War.

The immediate step of Austrian War Minister Karl Vaugin has been to create a special frontier guard of Heimwehr to protect the Austro-German border.

This would include a corps of 1,000 picked marksmen. The cabinet has already voted to train 3,000 military reserves. It is extremely likely that France has a voice in this, for it is just what she has done for Poland, Czechoslovakia, Jugoslavia and the other post-war countries which have fallen under her influence.

Britain has also indicated that she will approve rearming of her former foe, Austria.

A further proposal has been made that Chancellor Dollfus himself might agree to making Prince Starhemberg regent, just as Admiral Horthy has been made regent of Hungary. Starhemberg is organizer of the Heimwehr or "Iron Guard" and has been in Rome recently. Italy, too, has taken an interest in preventing the spread of Nazism into Austria, and Chancellor Dollfus recently called on Premier Mussolini in Italy.

The Polish frontier is not so well fortified as that of France, but Poland has established two immensely strong fortresses at Thorn and Posen, which make support points for a line of defense.

The Polish corridor, thrust through to the sea to give Poland a sea outlet, has cut East Prussia off completely from Germany proper. And the years of Polish occupation of this corridor have not been wasted by Poland. Every bit of construction has been made with an eye to military purposes.

All these moves have been efforts to make the Polish corridor an impassable barrier to Germany on the east.

The French fortifications along what was the western front during the World War have been timed to be finished just when the French army is at its lowest ebb, due to the small numbers of the class eligible to be called to service. For beginning next year, France has fewer young men of 20 years. The war began in 1914.

This elaborate fortification system, which was completed by 10,000 workmen on a sort of five-year plan, is the greatest fixed defense since the Great Wall of China.

Those who remember the easy fall of Namur and Liege when Von Kluck thrust into Belgium are apt to feel that armored and concrete forts have been outmoded by modern high explosive shells. They forget that Fort Douaumont at Verdun was hit in 1916 by not less than 120,000 shells, and that 13 of her 18 concrete shelters are in good condition today.

At Moulainville stands a concrete fort that sustained bombardment for six months; it was almost undamaged. The French still put faith in armor plate and concrete.

The French chain of forts is light and more or less mobile from Dunkirk to Luxembourg, but across the plateau of Lorraine to the Vosges, she has built the heaviest links in the chain.

Through the Vosges, massed pill-box fortifications do the job, and along the Rhine only an occasional pill-box is considered necessary. The Swiss frontier is undefended. The chain then runs southward from Mount Blanc to Nice, but that is another story; it looks toward Italy.

U. S. STAR EQUALS MARK FOR HURDLES

Johnny Morris Ties World Record in International Meet in Italy.

Turin, Italy, Sept. 3.—(AP)—Johnny Morris, of Louisiana State, today equaled the recognized world record for the 110 meter high hurdles of 14.4 seconds as he sped to victory of the final of the hurdle event in the international inter-university games in Mussolini Stadium.

The high-stepping Southern youngster won half a second ahead of Erwin Wegner, of Germany, with the Italian Valle third, several yards back.

The world mark of 14.4 seconds was set by E. Wamstrom of Sweden in 1929, equaled by E. S. Jostad, of Finland in 1931 and by the late George Saling, of the University of Iowa, in winning his semi-final heat in the Los Angeles Olympics. Saling later won to set a new world record, displaying the mark of 49.1, he made in winning his semi-final heat yesterday.

The German Voigt was second about five yards back with the German Olympian, Adolf Metzner, third.

Carlos Luti, Argentine's champion and Olympic competitor, strained a tendon in his leg at the 80 meters mark in the 100 meters dash after he appeared to have the event well in hand. The South American stumbled in a gallant sixth, with the German Pflug winning in 10.7 seconds, equalling Luti's winning time in the semi-finals Thursday.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1934.

ONE OF THE INEVITABLES.
 One of the best ground for hope of the final success of the NRA enterprise lies in the fact that from the very beginning both President Roosevelt and Administrator Johnson have been frank in admitting that they expected to make more or less mistakes. They have made it perfectly clear all along that they would have to feel their way to their objective and that it would, therefore, be strange if they did not have to retrace a step or two now and then.

With the public mind thus prepared for any necessary abandonment of means while still moving toward an end, there is far less likelihood than otherwise there might have been, in such event, of a confusion of thought and a fear that the end itself was being given up.

This makes it entirely possible for General Johnson, without bringing about any sense of disappointment or creating any loss of confidence, to admit with all frankness that he permitted the "merit" clause to get into the automobile code in an "unguarded moment."

This, it now becomes apparent, was one of the inevitable mistakes. It is easy enough to understand how it was made. The merit clause, it is clear, was admitted to the automobile code for much the same reason that the gigantic woodsman gave for allowing his diminutive wife to beat him. "Hell! She gets a lot of kick out of it and it don't hurt me none." Both General Johnson and President Roosevelt were convinced and are still convinced that the merit clause by which the automobile industry set such store was completely ineffectual since it could not possibly change the law in the smallest degree. So, since the automobile men seemed to think it a great favor, they let it in.

The mistake, it now transpires, lay in not realizing that scores of other industries would somehow get the notion that the merit clause actually did qualify the labor provision of the Industrial Recovery Act and that they would insist on the incorporation of that clause in their own codes under a serious misapprehension of its effect.

The consequence, when all these numerous industrial groups later discovered that their pet merit clause was mere moonshine, might be a feeling on the part of the industries that they had been tricked—which is something that, of course, must be avoided.

Hereafter, therefore, the merit clause is to be taboo. It will make not the slightest difference in the way the labor provision operates. That provision is hard and fast law and a merit clause as long as the Koran wouldn't affect it. But it is altogether essential that the industries should understand that fact before they sign their codes rather than discover it after they have signed.

If the NRA makes no more disastrous mistake than this one this will be a very fortunate country. And at all events, because nobody was ever too cocksure about the best way to make these codes work, the slight mistake will frighten no one.

GREY OF FALLOD.
 Perhaps the most important achievement in the public life of Viscount Grey of Fallood was his successful sensitizing of the public of world understanding so that the picture of responsibility for the World War was caught in indelible photography.

For years Britain's great foreign secretary labored with keen intelligence and indefatigable energy to prevent the horror of armed conflict, which, for ten years prior to the debacle of 1914 grew steadily more and more threatening. And such was the effect of his labors that, although he could not dam the flood, by the time the Germans crossed the Belgian frontier Grey had so skillfully—and so fairly—maneuvered that he had compelled the Kaiser's government, in the eyes of the world, to tacitly admit its war guilt with the firing of the first shot.

It is all very well for these young followers of Hitler to delude themselves with the invented belief that the war was forced on Germany, but those to whom the conflict is a matter of yesterday will always remember the step-by-step efforts of the British foreign secretary in behalf of peace, and how he made it impossible for the conflict to be started without ruthlessly deliberate and full-viewed rejection of the olive branch.

If there had been no Grey the responsibility for the war might have been, as so many now pretend that it is, encased in confusion. But it was he who fixed the record—and fixed it openly and above board with the wide world looking on.

Some one else might have solidified British public opinion in favor of participation in the war, even as he did. No one else, in all probability, would have stripped the pre-war events of any possible obscurity and left the picture of those pre-war days—and years—open for the reading of posterity.

He was one of the great figures of history.

SLEEPING SICKNESS.
 With considerable notice being taken by the press of that singular and little understood disease Encephalitis lethargica the impression is likely to be gained by the public that the ailment's presence in this country is something of recent occurrence and that it is taking on a sinister frequency.

It will therefore be a matter of considerable surprise to many, no doubt, to learn on the authority of Health Commissioner Wynne of New York that that city, in the year 1923, a decade ago, had no fewer than 923 cases of the sleeping sickness, with 349 deaths, against only 28 deaths from the same cause so far this year. For ten years sleeping sickness has become less and less common in the metropolis and the slight increase in the number of cases in 1933 as compared with last year comes nowhere near to re-establishing the frequency of 1923.

However, because there recently appeared in St. Louis a rather unusual number of cases of encephalitis lethargica and news of the fact happened to be sent out over the wires, it is probable that every discoverable case of the disease will get into print for a little while and the impression will grow that there is a mysterious and threatening epidemic—which will give all the hypos in the country something to be delightfully frightened over. Then, no doubt, public interest will wane and we shall hear no more about sleeping sickness in Oklahoma or the Michigan Peninsula than we do about any of the score or more of other somewhat unusual diseases that annually take away their toll in human beings but which we seldom hear mentioned.

THE CUBAN PUZZLE.
 The rapidly shifting Cuban scene is made especially confusing through the failure of the radical junta momentarily in control of the government to make any clear statement of its aims. Since the enlisted personnel of the army and navy which made possible the latest of the Cuban coups is obviously under the influence of the A B C revolutionaries, and since the A B C group is largely a student element, it would seem to be indicated that it has some definite ideas about how the little country should be run and some more or less definite plan of operations, both immediate and future. If, however, the junta has issued any sort of prospectus or in any way made clear its intentions, the declaration has somehow become lost on its way to the outside world.

The ousting of President Machado was easily understandable. It was in pursuit of a comprehensible purpose to rid Cuba of the tyrannical rule of a greater and political killer. But this latest development, while conceivably brought about in the following of some definite political and economic purpose, constitutes a completely baffling puzzle to everybody, apparently outside the charmed circle of Cuban revolutionary thought.

EXPANSIVE PRIVACY.
 Having no fear that this will fall under the eye of any member of the old and patrician Schermerhorn family of New York we feel that there is no reason why we should not confess to being intrigued by a

New York paper's account of the funeral of one of its members. The deceased was Col. Arthur F. Schermerhorn, for fifty years connected with the national guard in his state. The list of honorary pall bearers contains more than forty names, ranging from Major Generals and Rear Admirals to a few individuals with no military titles whatever. At the end of the piece is this statement: "Burial in Woodlawn. Cemetery was private."

What we would give most anything to know is how they managed it.

CRAZY, ALL RIGHT.
 When an attempt to escape of four insane prisoners at the Mattawean Hospital for the Criminal Insane failed after a gun battle between the convicts and keepers, resulting in the killing of one of the prisoners, it developed that their pistols had been loaded with blank cartridges. There wouldn't appear to be much question about those felons being crazy.

Nothing could be much more foolish than to run any sort of a bluff with a pistol. It gives the other fellow every reason to start shooting and provides him with a straight defense in case he kills you.

The utmost that the Mattawean convict's dummy shooting could possibly do was to frighten somebody—and the chance of scaring all the armed men in the prison to the point where they would run away was infinitely small. The inevitable result was that the convicts were presently swapping wadding for bullets. Nobody could be loonier than that.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Quick Glances at That Three-Ring Circus We Call the NRA . . . Democratic Congressmen Unceasing on Sealing Good Jobs to Only More or Less Deserving Republicans.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent
 Washington, Sept. 8.—Agents of the NRA in the field privately report latest reactions to the recovery campaign which may be summarized as follows:

People generally: Glad to pitch in, but dreading what may happen if the program fails. Some are inclined to take the show in the spirit of a circus parade, despite their determination.

Business: Intensely interested everywhere, but still fearful. A substantial minority is found in opposition or chiseling. The most pronounced fear of the majority is that there won't be adequate enforcement and that chiselers will be able to maintain unfair competition. Some fear that the program is an entering wedge to an inescapable controlled society.

Labor: With certain exceptions, slow to take advantage of its opportunity to organize and allowing business men and industrialists to do all the planning.

Just "Trading Figures"
 The blouse makers' industry, unable to agree with union leaders, presented a code whose wage and working hour provisions caused Deputy Administrator Earl D. Howard to gasp.

"You don't expect us to accept that code?" he demanded.

"No," replied the spokesman. "those are my trading figures."

The hearing was promptly adjourned for a week and the blouse makers were asked to reach an agreement meanwhile with the union.

Ickes' 12-Hour Day
 Various employees of the interior department shuddered when they heard that Secretary Harold Ickes had been appointed czar of the oil industry.

Between his cabinet job and his duties as public works administrator, Ickes has been working from 7:30 a. m. to 7:30 p. m.—and Sundays. Of course he must have a staff around during working hours. A stenographer and a messenger already have quit, unable to stand the pace.

Ickes is now by all odds the most powerful cabinet member. Assignment to him of his new job shows that he still counts. Roosevelt's complete confidence in Ickes, despite the criticism of the delay in getting the public works program off to a real start.

SLEEPING SICKNESS
 I am receiving many letters asking me to comment upon the cases of sleeping sickness now appearing in the Middle West, particularly near St. Louis, where the schools may have to be kept closed on account of it. This disorder is being reported in various parts. The form of the disease most prevalent seems to be that called encephalitis lethargica or epidemic encephalitis, which has earned the popular title of "sleeping sickness." The word encephalitis refers to inflammation of the brain.

This kind of sleeping sickness attacks both sexes and all ages and while it is mildly contagious, it is not markedly so. The usual time taken for a case to develop after exposure to infection is about 14 days. As a general rule, the disorder is most likely to develop during the winter months, but there are exceptions. According to the statistics, high as half the cases may be fatal but since many people actually go through an attack without knowing they are having it, I believe that we counted every case, about one out of four would be found to be fatal.

During the course of the disease, parts of the brain are swollen and congested. The exact cause is not known. This disorder is a very strange one, because so many symptoms may be present and there may be many combinations of them. The two most characteristic symptoms are the desire to sleep and double vision and when they are both present, this would strongly suggest the presence of this type of sleeping sickness.

A description of all the many symptoms would fill many pages in a book. Some of them are: At the start of the attack the patient may have headache, nausea, and vomiting, leading him to believe he is going to have influenza. Or, the attack may develop suddenly and the patient may fall into a deep sleep. The sleeping symptoms from which the popular name is taken is varied—sometimes the patient is drowsy or lethargic; sometimes he appears to be in a stupor; sometimes he may be awakened or roused by himself; or he may sleep all day and be awake all night. This sleep condition will probably continue for at least 14 to 21 days and may remain for months. There may be delirium and eye symptoms such as double vision, drooping of the eyelids, or a difference in size of the two pupils of the eyes. These symptoms are usually temporary. A change in the behavior is common, such as restlessness, excitement, or delusions. Disturbances in movement are noted such as trembling or palsy.

Some of the symptoms of the last or chronic stage are: A certain rigidity of the facial muscles as though the face were set in a mask; also mental symptoms such as difficulty in remembering or in paying attention. The mind may be affected to a noticeable degree or very slightly. Other symptoms include muscular spasms or jerking, changes in the way of walking, constipation, etc. Late symptoms may not develop until very long after the onset of the disorder and have been known to be delayed for as long as a year.

An investigation by health officers is being made to determine whether the cases would possibly be a different type of sleeping sickness which is due to the bite of the dreaded tsetse fly. This kind of sleeping sickness is called Trypanosomiasis and is known in Africa; its most prominent symptom is a desire to sleep continuously. A diagnosis of sleeping sickness is very hard to make as there are several conditions which produce very similar symptoms. For example, the symptoms of encephalitis, trypanosomiasis, cerebrospinal meningitis and tubercular meningitis closely resemble each other. At the present time the cases reported are thought to be encephalitis but further study may show that they are really a different type caused by the bite of this particular fly.

In the treatment of sleeping sickness the regimen which would produce the most satisfactory results is the same one as is employed in the treatment of severe fever. This is as follows: Immediately place the patient on a strict fast. In order to hasten the elimination of intestinal waste, give at least two warm enemata each day. Fresh fruit baths are advisable; the cool sponge bath as regularly given in fevers is the one which I recommend. As much drinking water as the patient may be induced to drink is to be taken. After the fast, use a careful diet, with plenty of non-starchy cooked vegetables and a small amount of broiled lean meat, but allow no heavy foods. When the chronic stage is reached, massage is beneficial and the patient will find that various forms of water treatment or hydrotherapy will add to his comfort.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
 (Lack of Tyroxin.)
 Question: B. asks: "Could anyone (never having undergone an operation for goiter) get that which is supplied by the thyroid gland and get fat and feeble minded? What would you recommend as a cure?"

Answer: Many people gain weight very easily because they do not have a sufficient production of the secret of the thyroid gland. Such a condition can usually be corrected through the proper fasting and dieting methods. I especially recommend quick reduction of weight through fasting with all those people who seem to be deficient in thyroid secretion, as the fasting seems to have a definite effect upon the thyroid gland so that after the fast this gland seems to work more efficiently.

(Fears Hereditary Influence.)
 Question: Miss Bertha S. writes:

"My mother's father's sister was what you might term 'simple' but not insane, her mind never developing beyond that of a child. I am about to be married and this has worried me greatly, as I am afraid it may be hereditary. If so, I would not like to take a chance on marrying."

Answer: I am sure you need not fear trouble from such a slight hereditary influence, providing you, yourself, determine to live a healthful life.

(Gluten Bread Contains Starch.)
 Question: Mr. Arthur N. asks: "Will you please tell me if the entire wheat bread is starchy and if it is good for the diabetic instead of gluten bread? We are quite interested in your articles and read them daily."

Answer: Entire wheat bread or plain white bread have a preponderance of starch over all food elements. Gluten bread has slightly less starch, but the diabetic should get along very nicely if no starches are used but may be forced to take insulin if he insists on using any form of carbohydrates.

FIND MAN'S BODY
 Seymour, Sept. 8.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified elderly man was found by mushroom pickers near the reservoir on the Oxford Seymour town line today. The body was removed by Dr. F. A. Benedict, Oxford medical examiner, to the Ward Undertaking Parlor here and investigation is continuing. The man apparently had been dead six months or more, as little more than the skeleton remained.

 NUDEISTS HAVE THEATRE—COSTUMES ARE THE LEAST OF THEIR WORRIES!
 By PAUL HARRISON

New York, Sept. 8.—If you have ever wondered what nudists do besides run around without any clothes on, here is a note about activities at the Out-of-Door Club near Highland, N. Y. The members there have gone in for amateur theatricals. Not amateur music, comedy, with chorusing girls outstripping the most daring acts in the Venetian or the Scandals, but little plays such as any summer colony might give, and in full costume. They've been getting up a different one each week, and inviting in the neighborhood neighborhood for a "theatrical" cultural evening.

Nudeists, however—or at least sense of humor. So for the grand finale of the season they intend to do a play called "Barely Proper." It was written by Tom Cushing, and it deals with the plight of a conventionally minded Oxford chap who meets and falls in love with a German girl while spending a holiday in Scotland. Of course he must go to her home and be presented to her parents. But what she neglects to tell him until the last moment is that her family, from professional father to archly dignified aunt, are ardent nudeists, and that they will expect to receive him in a t—al—altogether. Well, you can imagine the rest. Or else you might try to get the book from your public library.

Anyway, the Out-of-Door Club, meticulously faithful in matters of dramatic detail, intends to do "Barely Proper" in prescribed costume, which in this case consists mostly of a long-sleeved tunic worn by the maiden aunt (played by Miss Jan Gay, the club director), and a guitar behind which the young swain rather desperately attempts to hide. . . . For the latter role, Miss Gay tried to annex from one of the nearby summer theaters an actor with a passable Oxford accent. Failing in this, because each one of them swore up and down that he'd be awfully busy that evening, she has assigned the part to a Harvard man who is also a nudeist. The audience will be mostly members of the club, together with a few invited guests; probably 300 in all. At first it was planned to require everyone to attend in formal undress, but the edict was rescinded when it was pointed out that most of them would have to sit on a bank of prickly hay in the big barn which has become the nudeist theater.

All this just goes to show how times change. When Cushing wrote "Barely Proper" only a few years ago, he labeled it, "A play that will never be staged." And here it is already, making . . .

Old Works Admiration
 There's a bunch of the Old World still to be had on West 42nd Street, in spite of the East Siders' seeming determination to turn the street into a Ghetto Broadway. The Hungarian, Russian and Rumanian settings remain, in themselves, like nothing to be found uptown. Striking chants of Yiddish ballads, twinking lullabies of the Russian balalaika orchestra, spangly folk songs of Hungarian bands—these are far away from modern night club and restaurant atmosphere. So are the steaming coffee in glasses, the borsch, the paprikas and caviar and sour cream, the strange puddings that are set before you in flames. . . . Youngsters are rather overrunning the Russian Bear, but the music remains the best. Trotsky always sits there during his last visit to New York. (Incidentally, Trotsky's brother runs a kosher restaurant on West Thirty-fifth Street) . . . The Royal Cafe (Hungarian) has tables on the sidewalk. Fannie Hurst, Eddie Cantor, George Jessel, Will Durant and their crowds sometimes come down here. . . . The Moskowitz (Rumanian) is a favorite place for neighborhood wedding parties. At these, male guests keep their hats on, and four of them carry a little canopy of poles to shelter the bride and groom.

New! Ortho-Flex Principle of Rest

Science has revealed an important new health fact; positive support of the vital organs during sleep is essential to good health. Free and natural functioning of all organs is most necessary. But softness alone is not enough in sleep equipment. Without positive support, you sink too deeply into a soft mattress. You unconsciously keep moving about more than necessary, using up energy instead of restoring it.

The new patented Ortho-Flex Sleep Unit has been scientifically developed to provide this vital health support in your mattress.

SENATORS' BOY MANAGER PUTS HIS HEART INTO EVERY PITCH

CRONIN A FIGHTER WHO SEEMS HEADED FOR SPORT'S FAME

Is On His Way to Become Youngest Boss of a Pennant Winner; Here's First Story on Man of the Hour.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Who is this 26-year-old boy fighter, Joe Cronin, with the Johnny Evers chin, who is leading Washington to a pennant? By what strategy has he fooled critics of his baseball ideas? And what is he like personally? These and other things about baseball's man of the hour are written in an entertaining, intimate way by Richard Hollander of the Washington Daily News in a series of six articles for The Evening Herald. This is the first.

By RICHARD HOLLANDER
(Copyright 1933 by NEA)
Washington, Sept. 5.—It's the last half of the ninth inning of a Washington-Cleveland game. The score is tied 6-6 and Bill McAfee, Senators' pitcher, is beginning to weaken.

In from his position at shortstop trots a young man with a big chin that has been wagging at umpires, opposing batters and McAfee all through the game. It's Joe Cronin, 26-year-old fighting manager of the Nationals, who is on his way to become the youngest boss of a pennant-winning team in the history of major league baseball.

Out Goes McAfee
Cronin grabs the resin bag from McAfee, rubs his hands and whistles orders in the pitcher's ear. But it doesn't work. McAfee walks the first batter.

Then he gives the next one two balls. With the score tied, Cronin knows the play is to sacrifice the runner in scoring position. He waves McAfee out of the box and yells to the bull pen for Jack Russell, Washington's star relief pitcher.

The fans boo. They think Cronin is bringing in Russell in an attempt to strike out the hitters. But Cronin's idea is something else. Russell is one of the best fielding pitchers in the business and it's just to knock down those hitting bunt that he's coming into the box.

It Works—and Falls
The batter gives his base. The next one lays a slow roller down first base line. Russell is after it like a cat and throws him out at first. It's a hard play but Russell knows his fielding. The runners advance. The next man is given a walk to bring all the plays to the plate.

There is one more now, the bases full, score tied and a bunt might be poisonous. Sure enough, it happens. This time Bluge is on it and cuts off the marker at the plate. It is beginning to look as if the kid manager's strategy will work—except that in the end Russell loses control of just one pitched ball, forcing in the deciding marker—and Cronin follows the umpire protesting, all the way to the dugout.

Too Many Hunches?
Who is this kid who is about to enter Sport's Hall of Fame? His name is Joseph Francis Cronin, working his first year as manager of the Washington Senators. A San Francisco boy who has been in and out of the major leagues since he was 18.

Baseball experts have continually found fault with his ideas, and theories of managing, but Joe's results prove them. They say he works pitchers too hard that he is inclined to lean too much toward playing hunches in his strategy. Be that as it may, Cronin and his fighting, Johnny Evers chin were born for baseball and if ever a guy nourished his soul into the game, it's Joe. The record of the Nationals this season is the result.

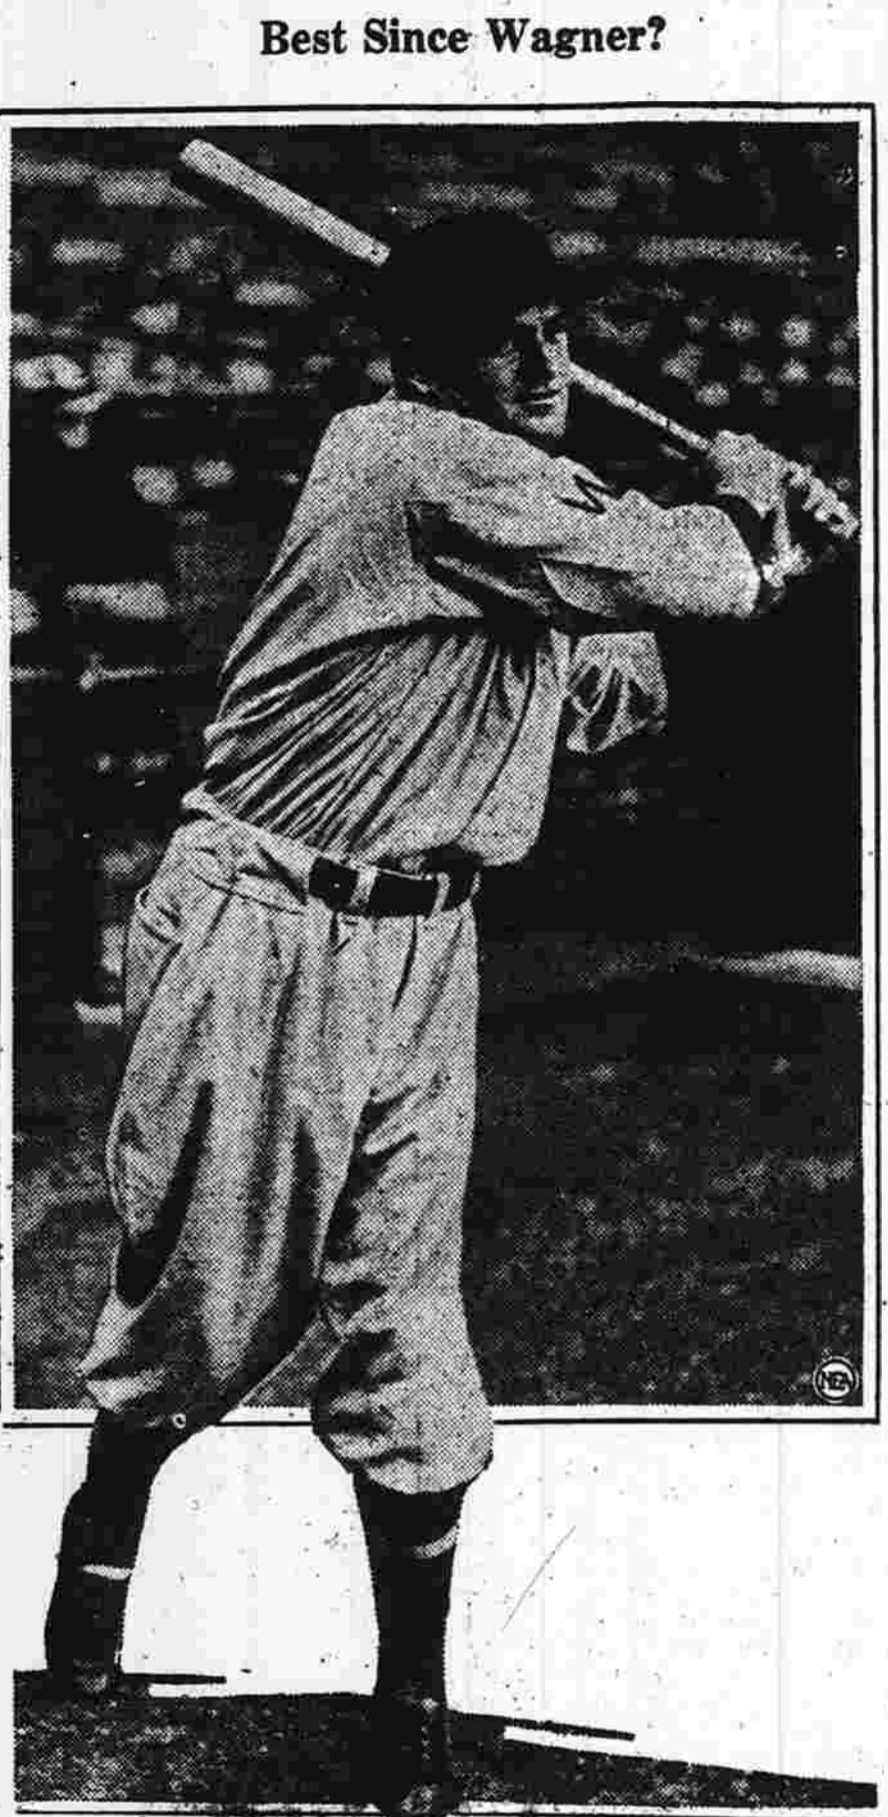

He came to Washington in 1928 and clicked immediately in that badly-patched outfit. And during those years when Owner Clark Griffith was trying to mold another pennant-winner, Cronin's peppy rattling was the sparkplug of the team.

Gives Joe Command
So, finally, when Walter Johnson's contract as manager ran out, Griffith chose the nervous, chattering young Cronin to be the successor to his other kid wonder, Bucky Harris, who managed the 1924 world champion Senators.

Griff gave Joe all command. The kid started out on his own and used ideas that veteran baseball authorities couldn't understand.

In the matter of pitchers, the story about the star fielding Russell is an example. Sometimes he works a pitcher two or three days in a row, as has been the case with Crowder, but only for an inning here or a single man there. He is playing the best ball of his career. The team is battling with him to a man. "Griffith's Folly" has made good.

McCLUSKEY LOSES LAST RACE ON FOREIGN SOIL

Italian Ace Noses Out Local Star by Inches in 3,000 Meter Run at Turin; Sets New Meet Record of 8.43; Joe Sails Home Sunday.

In his final appearance on foreign soil, Joe McCluskey, famous long distance runner of the New York Athletic Club, bowed in defeat in the 3,000 meter run yesterday afternoon at Turin, Italy, in the track and field events of the National University athletic games in which 32 nations are competing. McCluskey placed second. His conqueror was Umberto Cerati, who came up fast in the last few yards to finish a step ahead of McCluskey's outstanding athlete. Cerati's time of 8 minutes, 43 seconds was a new meet record. Three of the U. S. Quartet of stars won their events on the opening day of the meet. Johnny Morris, star hurdler of Lafayette, La., winning his elimination trial of the 110-meter high hurdles in 18.8 seconds, Ivan Fugus of the University of Indiana winning his heat of the 400-meter run in 49.9 seconds and Henri Laborde of Stanford winning the discus throw with a toss of 48.9 meters (160-feet, 5 1/8 inches) for a new meet record.

Crown Prince Humbert was an interested spectator at the meet. In a letter sent to friends here, McCluskey said that he expected to sail for home on Sunday.

GOLDEN BEARS TO GIVE QUARTERBACK A TRIAL

Coach Ingram to Abandon Huddle and Return to Old Signal Calling Standard; Mass Meeting Weakens the Team.

Berkeley, Cal., Sept. 5.—(AP)—To the football world, burly, bluff Coach William Ingram bows. "The rest can stick to their huddle systems, but California is going back on the good old signal calling standard."

The situation seems to have been handled effectively but I wonder just how much furor and indignation there would have been if the story of Vines' achievements abroad this year was different; in other words, if he had retained the Wimbledon crown or played a winning role in the Davis Cup matches?

Every coach to his own liking. TO ADOPT FRENCH PLAN TO PREVENT DOPING OF HORSES

Regulations Include Saliva Tests After Each Race; Recommended by U. S. Narcotic Commission.

Washington, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Adoption of the regulations in effect at French race tracks to prevent the "doping" of race horses is recommended for courses of this country by Harry Amslinger, commissioner of narcotics. The use of narcotics on horses has been brought to light in a campaign against the practice which has resulted in over 50 arrests in eight months.

Gain Co-operation
"Racing associations, state commissions and the better element among racing people have offered to co-operate with the bureau in eliminating the doping of horses," Amslinger said.

To add then we have obtained the French regulations on the subject and will make copies available to those desiring them with the recommendation that they be put in effect at American tracks."

The regulations provide that racing commission's at any track may at the end of each race select any horse for a saliva test. The test is given immediately by a track veterinarian, in the presence of the owner or his representative and the specimen taken is sent to a chemist employed to make analyses. The regulations provide stringent precautions against switching specimens or other irregularities.

The regulations would not mean that every horse would have to be given the test, with a great deal of trouble and expense, as some racing people in this country have feared," Amslinger said. "The commissioners might select only one or two horses a week. But no owner and no trainer would know when the lightning would strike."

Most of the "doping" is done to stimulate horses rather than to slow them down, narcotic agents have found. The usual stimulant is a mixture of heroin, digitalis, kolanin, strychnine and sometimes nitro-glycerine, in various proportions, each "expert" having his own favorite prescription.

Narcotic agents have evidence of several "doped" horses running in the same race, and the race being largely a question of which "expert's" preparation was most effective in stimulating the horse to speed beyond normal.

Potential Champions
I doubt if the U. S. L. T. A. has any idea of selling "Vines" short, simply because he was a big disappointment in the 1933 European campaign.

The champion's downfall abroad simply was a combination of a lack of experience, high-pressure and his own distaste for the "Vines" stick to it. There is no more reason for discrediting Vines as a Davis Cup ace for 1934 than there is for identifying Frank Shields at the next No. 1.

Both have world championship potentialities when "on" their games. But Vines, even with his lapse this year, still has the more consistent record as a single player. Tilden had to absorb the lessons of a number of trouncings from his main rivals before he lifted his game to the peak.

Meanwhile Vines will be well-vised to play less competitive tennis than the "Vines" side of the fence and aim to redeem himself on the courts.

Carter And His Job
The end of the Brooklyn baseball club's ownership deadlock indicates that Walter (Dutch) Carter, the old star and National League representative at fifth member of the board of directors, did his job even better than he expected.

The controlling stockholders were hopelessly deadlocked when they were persuaded to accept Carter's presence around the directors' table three years ago. He promptly broke the deadlock in a series of 3-2 votes on vital questions of policy and management including the engagement of Max Carey to replace Wilbert Robinson as manager.

Finally, it seems, the owners stopped scrapping with each other and came to loggerheads with Carter. The closing score was 4 to 1. Carter, his job done, stepped out, but it remains to be seen whether another "tie game" develops.

Sport Briefs
The Cockroach Jockey Club of San Diego, Cal., had to call off its racing men when some unidentified person poisoned the contestants.

In an 18-inning 2-3 tie between White Sox and Yankees each team made 11 hits, none of them for extra bases, each scored in the same inning, and neither made an error.

BUCS TAKE THIRD TILT FROM LEADERS, 14 TO 2

New York Must Win Final Game Today to Keep Safe Lead; Margin Now But 5 1-2 Games; Cubs and Cards Also Advance; Yanks Reduce Senators Margin in Amerk.

By HUG HS. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

A series which started out as important only to the Pittsburgh Pirates, second place club of the National League, moved into its final stage today looking like a serious matter indeed for the New York Giants.

The league leaders, beaten in three of the first four games, had reached a position where they almost had to win the final clash in order to enjoy any degree of safety during the remainder of their western tour. Their margin of 7 1/2 games at the outset, was reduced to 5 1/2 by the 14 to 2 drubbing they absorbed yesterday.

Hubbell to Start
The greater part of the burden of today's important game rested on the slim shoulders of Earl Hubbell, first of the Giants' "big four" to feel the sting of the Buccaneers' bats. He failed to survive five innings Tuesday but he seemed certain to get Manager Bill Terry's work for the Pirates.

Heinie Meine did a neat job of halting the Giants yesterday, giving them 10 hits, including a homer by Rookie Phil Weintraub, and pitching his way out of a few tight spots.

Cubs, Cards Win
The Cubs and the Cardinals also took a few cuts at the Giants lead, winding up 6 1/2 and 8 1/2 games behind, respectively.

The Cubs edged out the Boston Braves 2-1, Len Warneke losing a shutout through Wally Berger's 24th homer. The Cards walloped the Phillies 10-1.

Walter Beck gave the last place Cincinnati Reds their 20th shutout of the season as an eight-inning rally against Red Lucas brought Brooklyn a 2-0 victory.

Yankees Cut Lead
The New York Yankees finally nipped a game off Washington's American League lead, as Lou Gehrig led them to a 12-4 victory over the St. Louis Browns while Chicago's White Sox beat out the Senators, 1-0.

Philadelphia unveiled another rookie hurler, Johnny Marvin from Louisville, who gave up six hits and beat the Cleveland Indians 6 to 0. The Detroit-Boston clash was halted by wet grounds.

CAN'T SOLVE MYSTERY
Chicago, Sept. 5.—(AP)—Chicago's Cubs are still hopeful of landing that National League pennant but they can't solve their big mystery. The mystery is why they can win so easily at home and lose so repeatedly on the road.

So far this year, they have won 45 and lost 15 at Wrigley Field for a .750 average. On the road, they have won only 29 and lost 45 for a .392 average.

"It's a deep mystery to me," mused Manager Charlie Grimm. "I can't explain it although we have lost a lot of tough ones on the road."

If the Cubs had just split even away from home, they would be leading the Giants by a game and one-half today instead of trailing by 5 1/2.

HOLY CROSS FACES A DRASTIC CHANGE

Coach to Convert Warner System to Rookne Offense Has Difficult Task.

(This is another of a series on the prospects of major eastern college football teams.)

BY BILL KING, Associated Press Sports Writer.
Worcester, Mass., Sept. 5.—(AP)—Unsettled with probable heavy storms reads the football forecast at Holy Cross where Dr. Edward Anderson is picking up the threads of his interrupted coaching career.

To Change System
This former Notre Dame end and later coach at DePaul University in Chicago faces a stupendous task. His plan to convert the Crusaders from their three year old Warner system to the intricate Rookne offense can not help but retard the early season progress of his veteran squad.

About the only break Anderson is getting in the easy schedule start. Football observers believe Anderson will provide the east with one of its most interesting gridiron experiments this season.

Has Good Line
He is starting out with a generous quota of heavy linemen who displayed great defensive skill for Captain J. J. McEwan last season until he ran into difficulties with college authorities over his coaching policies. But observers predict the ghost of the Rookne offense cannot be haunted by the hard-pressed Anderson as he races against time to install his new system.

The Holy Cross schedule:
Sept. 30, St. Michaels.
Oct. 7, Catholic University.
Oct. 14, Providence College.

For the LOVE OF EVE

BEGIN HERE TODAY EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store...

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXIX After that first evening when Miss McElhinney joined Eve and Dick on the porch...

But Eve found Miss Leeds, who shared the third floor apartment with Miss McElhinney, most agreeable company...

"She's exactly the sort of person who should be instructing children," Eve told Dick. "She takes herself and her work seriously but at the same time she has a sense of humor..."

"Always the bitter with the sweet, the sharp with the soft," she said one night when she and Dick had folded their steamer chairs and gone upstairs to their rooms...

"I'm walking on air these days," said Arlene. Eve felt similarly elated.

And then Atlas Coupler began to recede. The first day's slump of two points did not disturb Eve. Why, she thought, Pure Soap, Inc., had done that often in the short time she had had her holding...

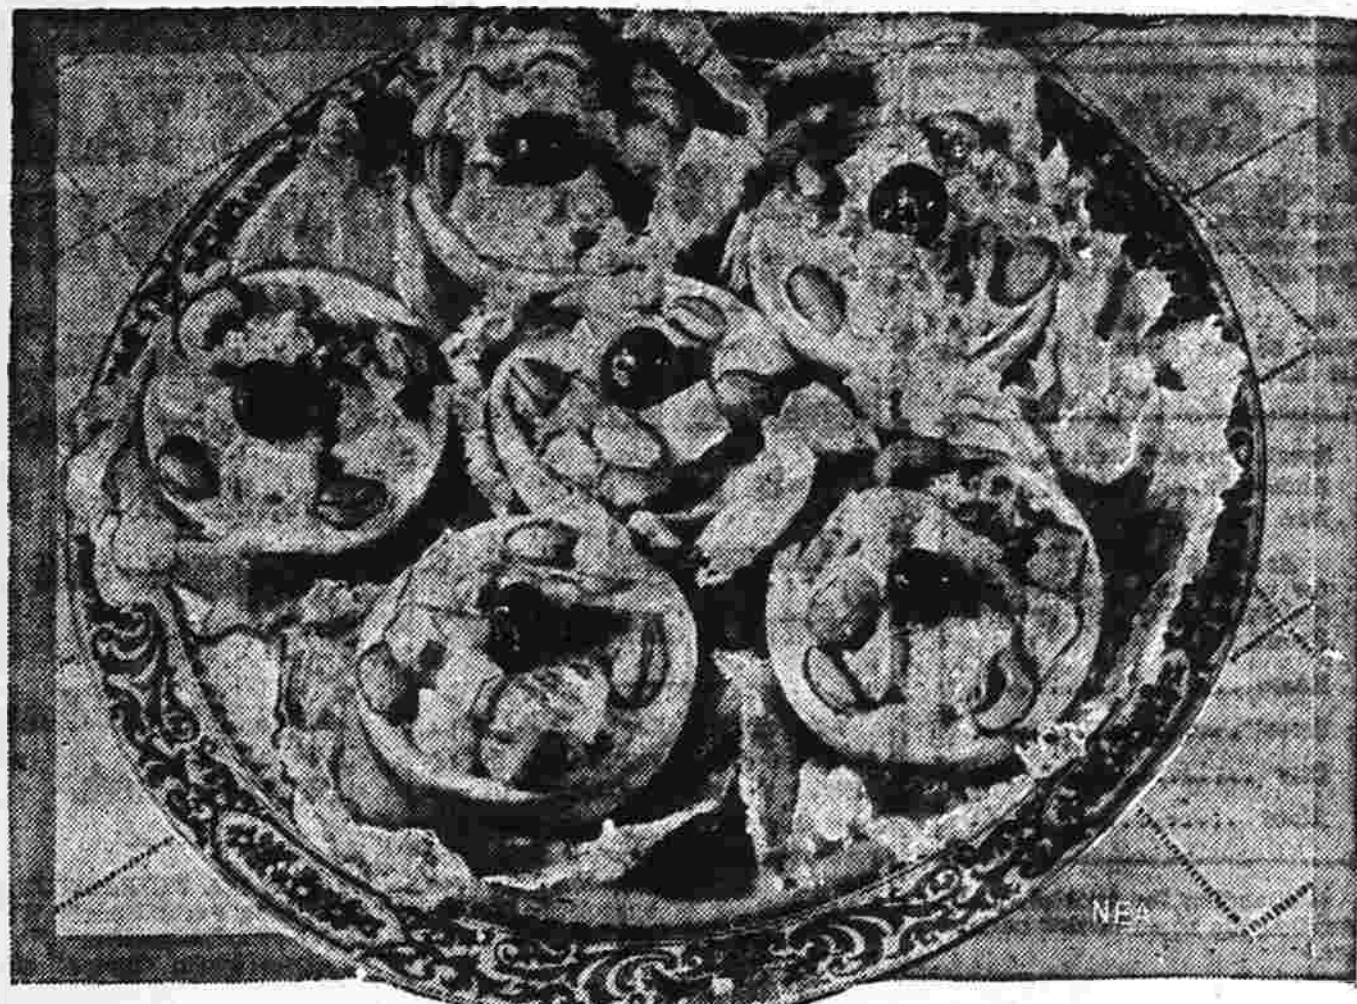

There goes that Agnes hat I craved," she said first. Then "There goes that Lew three-quarter length lapin coat I counted on..."

Eve was glad Arlene took her losses so good-naturedly. She felt responsible. Atlas Coupler would surely recover within a few days, she felt, and then her fears would prove themselves groundless.

But Atlas Coupler did not recover. Eve was in conference with Earle Barnes at 10 o'clock one morning the following week...

"Why—why?" she stammered. "That do you advise me to do?" "If we can only get in a send our check for $200 within the next 14 hours we can keep you on our books. Otherwise we will have to sell your holdings, which will mean a total loss to you."

Eve thought rapidly. Barnes must not get an inkling of this situation. "I'll be in this noon to cover my interest," she promised.

Barnes looked at her quizzically. No doubt he was curious about what had happened, Eve thought, but so long as she did her work satisfactorily she did not feel that she owed him any information concerning her personal affairs.

Immediately she tried to concentrate on Barnes' plan for a June campaign featuring sports goods. He was talking about improvising a log cabin on the third floor and having Mrs. Penney paint the scenery...

"Where will I get that $200 dollars?" When the conference was over Eve departed, hoping she had missed no details of Barnes' plan.

"I'll be waiting for you in the lobby," he answered briefly. Dick must be busy, Eve thought. Perhaps there was some one with him or he would have said more.

There's subtle flattery in the softly draped lines of the collar of this frock and the woman who wears it may be sure of an air of elegance in spite of the simplicity of the dress...

Nuts really have a place in any kind of fruit salad. Vary them, too. If you've been serving walnuts or pecans, why not try a few cashew nuts for a change?

typewriter to transcribe the notes. "Barnes is in a hurry for these letters and I'm as nervous as a cat! I'll see you later."

Eve gathered up several sheets of copy paper and a pencil and then went to the sports goods department to lay plans for the June campaign.

"I'm waiting for you in the lobby," he answered briefly. Dick must be busy, Eve thought. Perhaps there was some one with him or he would have said more.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

The girl who is getting ready for college shouldn't stop shopping when she has finished at the cosmetic counter. She should then proceed to the drug department.

Be sure you have a good hair brush and a comb to take to school with you. Choose them, not alone for their beauty, but for their practical qualities.

There are a few creams and lotions which the college girl will find she can't do without. You may use only soap and water for cleansing. And, for the most part, that is a good idea.

Let a very large bottle of hand lotion and use it after each washing of your hands. Whether you are holding a book, dancing at a prom or playing tennis, your hands should be white and smooth.

Nothing is so dramatic as sudden death. Anyone who has witnessed a case is likely to remember it ever after. The causes of sudden death have frequently been analyzed by coroners and by physicians in various parts of the world.

On the other hand, in 104 cases, which constituted over 83 per cent of the total or 65 per cent of all those over 40 years old, the cause of death was due to disease of the arteries, arteries, the blood vessels which supply the heart.

Indeed, blocking by a clot, so-called coronary thrombosis, is considered to be the most common cause of sudden death, especially interesting examples in recent years being the death of President Coolidge and Senator Walsh.

On Oct. 15, 1928, Dr. John Hunter, eminent fossil, himself died of this condition, having been irritated by some of his friends in an argument. Since that date it has been known that such irritation is exceedingly serious to a person with hardening of the blood vessels of the heart.

In recent years, postmortem examinations of the bodies of those who have died suddenly have brought to light important evidence as to the cause of sudden death in the heart and sudden death associated with it.

IT'S HERE—NOT PARIS— THAT GIRLS DRESS SMARTEST

By JULIA BLANSHEARD

Paris—Paris may be the fashion center of the world. But Paris working girls can take lessons in chic from any American shop girl.

French working girls cannot understand the American working girl's restlessness. That an American stenographer or clerk advances her money for a couple of years just to take a trip and spend it all utterly beyond their comprehension.

The Paris working girl's petty economies are just as much beyond the American girl's ken. Many live in Paris suburbs with their families. They save a whole half hour early, just to save 50 centimes (three cents) on their round-trip subway ticket.

Mannequins Highest Paid Mannequins are the top-notch of Paris working girls. They have a chance to strike the fancy of some rich man, when they model all the gorgeous clothes in high class houses.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

The first day of school, all the children put on their best suits and dresses; they get hair-cuts and new shoes and stockings. They are as clean as new pins and even a bit foppish.

About the second week the trouble with ears and necks begins. "High-water marks" vie with the other kind and occasionally win. Tommy won't get up in time to give his face and hands more than a lick.

At school the teacher sighs as she thinks of that immaculate first day. Already she gets a strong whiff of unwashed hair and on a cool, wet morning with the windows closed, the variety of aromas from woolen clothes that have never seen the cleaners or the wash-tub make her sick.

In one word it is pretty easy for the Tommies and Minnies of today. And to keep clean and well groomed—almost too easy.

Children should be taught to do their own hair. A slick head of hair, a clean body, and clean clothes are the best ornaments a child can have. Old clothes don't matter, just so they are clean and have the buttons on.

During the prohibition era, any old kind of drinking manners were more or less acceptable. But now that respect seems assured, it behooves drinkers to learn what to drink, how and when to drink it and how to behave after drinking.

Never get drunk; never drink alone; find out what your capacity is—and then divide it by two; never drink when you are unhappy; as a host, be careful to remain cold sober; when you are in doubt about your condition, at a party, go home with all speed.

Then we are told when and how to drink what. If you are serving wine with dinner, don't serve more than two cocktails before the meal begins; better yet, serve none at all, as they blunt the palate's appreciation of the wine.

COUNCIL TO STUDY EFFECT OF NRA

New England Group to Hold Quarterly Meeting in Vermont.

Boston, Sept. 8.—The impact of the National Recovery Administration program on New England business will be the major subject of discussion when the Thirtieth Quarterly meeting of the New England Council, all New England development organization, is held at the Equinox House, Manchester, on Friday afternoon, Sept. 15 and 16, Executive Vice Council announced here today.

Other subjects for discussion on the program, which will bring together a group of speakers who are authorities in their fields, will be school costs, governmental reorganization for economy and regional planning.

The Quarterly Meeting of the Council will include three sessions, to be held on Friday afternoon, September 15 and 16, Executive Vice Council announced here today.

The Friday sessions of the Quarterly Meeting will be devoted to the subjects of school costs and governmental economy. Speakers will include John F. Scully, Superintendent of Schools, at Erockton, Mass., who will speak on behalf of the New England school superintendents who are working with the New England Council for a better understanding of the entire problem of school expenses. Other speakers will be Chairman John F. Tinsley of the New England Council's Committee on Community Development and Cecil E. Fraser, former professor of finance at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration.

A general survey of the effects of the Federal reconstruction program and the current position of New England business will be included in matters to be presented at the Friday afternoon session. President Henry D. Sharpe of the Council will preside, and will review current progress in New England business and work of the Council since the Twenty-Ninth Quarterly meeting of the organization in June. The subject of regional planning will also form a part of the discussion at this session.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Minneapolis, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Kicking a cat till she's bowlegged is disreputable conduct—as Vander Baurenfeind found out.

Baurenfeind was convicted of kicking his neighbor's grey angora. The cat, said a veterinarian of the Animal Rescue League is "dizzy and walks bowlegged" because of the kick.

Oklahoma City—Sheriff Stanley Rogers dug down in his private purse for $200 to buy a machine gun to guard Harvey Bailey, desperado. He already had six machine guns, but he considers seven a lucky number.

Langhorne, Pa.—Chung Wah and his Chinese acrobats are good trouperers so they didn't permit an acrobatic performance to be scheduled here.

But highway police are good trouperers, and the moment the acrobats finished their performance they were hustled back here where Chung Wah was fined $25 for reckless driving.

How to live up to the old tenet that "the show must go on" is a problem to Chung Wah, however, for his truck was seized for a $500 claim filed by three other drivers figuring in the crash.

Chicago—Six times the Rev. R. Keene Ryan's motor car was stolen, and six times he said nothing to the police but recovered it himself. When it was stolen for the seventh time, he lost patience, called the police and said:

"If the car is not returned by midnight Thursday I'll send the thief to the penitentiary."

Thursday afternoon he got it back. Police had found it abandoned and undamaged.

Wheeling, W. Va.—On Tuesday Mrs. J. C. Piana was told that her husband, suffering from meningitis, could not live. On Wednesday she went into a room next to her husband's hospital room and killed herself. Yesterday Piana's husband died, unaware of his wife's suicide.

NO CUT IN SALARIES OF STATE DEMOCRATS

Baldwin Says They Took Same Wages as Paid Republican Predecessors.

Reading, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Raymond E. Baldwin, of Stratford, leader of the Republican majority in the 1933 House of Representatives, told Republicans attending an outing at Putnam park that Dr. Edward G. Dolan had "suggested to let the public know" that two Democratic appointees took office at the salaries of their Republican predecessors.

The statement was made in answer to the assertion of Dr. Dolan, chairman of the NRA state advisory board, that the state board of finance and control was able to raise the salaries of three Republican state officials but could find no funds available to defray the expenses of the NRA advisory board.

Baldwin, while not denying that the salaries were increased, asserted that Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Michael A. Connor and Tax Commissioner William H. Hackett took office at the maximum salaries paid to their predecessors. A general cut in the salaries of State employees was authorized by the last General Assembly.

The majority leader also urged all Republicans to give full support to the NRA. He added that if President Hoover had received the same support from the Democrats that the Republicans were giving President Roosevelt, the country "would have been out of the depression long ago."

ROYAL ARCADIAN'S AT SANDY BEACH

Saturday and Sunday will bring to Sandy Beach ballroom first appearance of the Royal Arcadians, Connecticut's finest dance orchestra. This dance unit has been featured at the Palais Royale ballroom and also at the Crystal Lake Hotel. The Arcadians will present a number of novelties during the dance program and the entire bill starting at 8:30 o'clock is cleverly arranged. That the week-end dances at Sandy Beach ballroom will prove one of the most enjoyable on record is made certain by the numerous assurances from dance fans who find the Royal Arcadians of 10 pieces an orchestra with perfect rhythm, pep and a noticeable effort to please the dancers.

PETER DAMICO AT RAU'S SATURDAY

This coming Saturday evening Peter Damico will bring his orchestra to Rau's, Crystal Lake. This band comes from North Adams, Mass. They played at Rau's early this season and gained for themselves a host of admirers who will be glad to hear of their re-engagement.

Damico's Orchestra was heard quite frequently over radio station WBZ last winter. They have also broadcast over Station WTAG in Worcester. They have played many engagements for that well known dance orchestra booker, Charlie Schribman of Boston.

The following week, September 16th your old friends, Ed Murphy and his boys have been playing at the Weirs House at Lake Wiamessette all summer and are coming home this week.

STEAMSHIP AGROUND

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Sept. 8.—(AP)—The U. S. engineers office at the Cape Cod Canal today reported the steamship Ontario of the Merchants and Miners Transportation Company had gone aground in the canal during a heavy fog.

The steamer was grounded about one-half mile east of the Buzzards Bay railroad bridge. She was not in danger and canal officers said she would be floated at high water.

The Ontario was bound from Boston to Philadelphia with passengers and freight.

SUNDAY'S SON HUET

San Francisco, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Injured in a fall from a window of his fourth story apartment, George M. Sunday, 40, son of Billy Sunday, the evangelist, was in a critical condition at a hospital here today.

A note scribbled by Sunday before he lapsed into unconsciousness and incorporated in the police report said: "I lost my balance and fell out. I had no argument. I had not been drinking."

Police Inspector Harold Jackson said Mrs. Sunday told him her husband recently suffered a nervous breakdown and was dazed about financial troubles. Mrs. Sunday has a broken finger which she told Inspector Jackson she received when her husband clutched her hand during a nervous outbreak.

STORE INTERIOR MUCH IMPROVED AT FRADIN'S

Hundreds of customers who have visited Fradin's during the past week have exclaimed about the remarkable change that has been made in the layout and appearance of the store. After more than a week of work the store has been transformed, the entire interior color effect being in a cream shade that lightens up the store and makes the merchandise displays much more attractive.

Fradin's are now featuring an extensive line of new fall coats, suits and dresses despite the turmoil among the garment workers in New York. Unsettled working conditions there have greatly affected the production of many manufacturers but large buyers and those such as Fradin's who are members of strong buying syndicates are getting the choice of what is being manufactured.

Mr. Fradin is of the opinion that those who are wise will purchase now, because styles are in for the entire season and there may be more increases in prices as the season advances.

Since the alterations Fradin's now have one of the most comprehensive millinery display sections in Manchester. The hats are so arranged that each one shows up well and it is easy to make a comparison of styles without handling them.

ANDOVER

Mr. and Mrs. George Merritt entertained over Labor Day Mr. and Mrs. James Cowles and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Wilson of West Somerville, Mass., Charles Manville, New Haven and Mrs. Madge Bailey of Columbia.

Visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lewis's Tuesday were Mrs. Mary Shippee and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry of Mansfield Center. Miss Alice Johnson and Francis Cusim and the Misses Esther and Ruth Merritt of Hartford and Mrs. Mark Bass.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Helen Bartholomew, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Bartholomew of Hartford and Howard Turner, son of Mrs. Alice Turner of Andover. The wedding will take place in the Farmington avenue Congregational church, Hartford, September 27th.

Visitors over the week-end and Labor Day at Louis Whitcomb's were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Olds of Daytona Beach, Florida, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Elmore and Alfred Whitcomb of Rocky Hill and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. White and son of Branford and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Thompson of Sussex, New Jersey and Mrs. Harry Sladen of Manchester.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Berry and two children of Springfield, Mass., were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Friedrich.

These have been several cases of intestinal grip in town. All are improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark Bass had for their guests over the week-end Mr. and Mrs. James Hughes from Honolulu. Mr. Hughes is connected with the Honolulu Iron Works and is on an inspection trip to New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Hillard have closed their camp at Andover lake and returned home for the winter.

Ellsworth Mitten and his Silver Rhythm orchestra has been engaged to play at the Spanish Casino in Danielson four nights a week.

Lionel Faulkner of Elizabeth, New Jersey, spent Saturday night with his mother, Mrs. Fannie Faulkner, returning home Sunday, taking his son Duane, who has been spending the summer with his grandmother, with him.

Henry Ammann of Hartford spent the week-end with Frank Schatz and family. Mr. and Mrs. George Schatz and son Kenneth of East Hartford spent Monday with Mr. Schatz. Kenneth is spending the week with his grandfather.

The Misses Louise and Lola Helmer spent last week as the guest of their uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Cooke in Warehous Point.

Mrs. Mary Holt and Mrs. Allen Helmer spent Tuesday in Willimantic.

GRAVE DIGGER DIES

New Britain, Sept. 8.—(AP)—John Marincsak, 60, was engaged in digging a grave at Beth Aton cemetery, where he is a caretaker, today.

Becoming ill, he returned home instructing a boy who was helping him to remain at the cemetery until he returned. Soon after reaching home Marincsak died. Death was caused by a heart attack.

KEMP'S OFFERS SPECIAL SALE ON RADIO TUBES

In connection with the inauguration of the radio season and the interest in the new programs which are opening on most of the stations, Kemp's Inc., local dealers in radios, are offering a special at their store for Saturday only in the way of a reduction on tubes. This offer is making it possible for people to retube their radio and thereby not only save in the corresponding costs of new list prices but will be able to get the best possible results from their radio set. With the new programs so interesting and featuring well known artists, folks will want to have their radios in the best receptive condition and this offer of Kemp's whereby standard radio tubes such as R. U. A., Cunningham, Majestic and Arturus can be had at 25 percent off list prices is not only timely, but of great saving. It is expected that a great many people will take advantage of the offer and retube their radio for the winter season.

Many a fellow who started up with a shoestring winds up with a tinquip.

RINGWORM SERIOUS IF NOT TREATED

Spreads Rapidly in Gymnasium Locker Rooms and Indoor Swimming Pools.

That ringworm, athlete's foot, scald foot, toe itch, fungus foot, Hongkong foot or epidermophytosis, a: it is technically known, may occasionally develop into a disease which will completely incapacitate its victims if it is not promptly and properly treated is made known in the weekly bulletin of the State Department of Health today in an article intended as a timely warning at this season of the year when gymnasiums, indoor swimming pools, football locker rooms, shower rooms and other such places which harbor the fungus of the disease are reopening after the summer.

The fungus bearing material is apt to become dislodged in locker or shower rooms and thereby is easily passed from foot to foot and person to person. The best method of prevention, therefore, is the use of fungicides in required foot baths and scrubbing the floors; and the proper disinfection of towels, clothing and athletic equipment. Personal hygiene is also needed although it will not stop infection if general precautions are not taken.

HEBRON

Mr. and Mrs. William C. Steinhilf of Hartford, and recently of Amherst, have purchased the 18-acre farm owned by Mr. and Mrs. George C. Hardy. The farm contains a dwelling house and farm buildings. Mrs. Steinhilf was the former Miss Leona Woodward of the Greenville section of the town, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Woodward.

A gift of several historical scrap books, maps, deeds, etc., has been received at the town clerk's office, the gift of Mrs. William Carroll of Hartford, the daughter of Miss Helen Bissell. The books are from the estate of her late father, F. Clarence Bissell. They are filled with interesting details of the history of this and other Connecticut towns.

Everett Payne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur V. Payne of East Hartford, took a trip on his new bicycle a few days ago, visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Everett G. Lord, and taking dinner with them.

Mrs. Catherine Drinker Bowen and two children, who have been spending the last two months at "Shadows Lake," in Gilead, have gone to the Berkshires for a couple of weeks, where they are guests of friends.

Captain Duxbury of the Church Army, from New York headquarters, is conducting services every evening this week at St. Peter's Episcopal church. Services begin at 8 o'clock, 8 s. t. An early Communion service was held Thursday morning. There will be no service Saturday evening.

APPETITE FOR SIMPLE FOOD NOW PREVAILS

Fruits and Vegetables Have Won American Favor Rapidly—Reason Is Explained.

Transition of the American appetite from the rich home-made cakes and pies of yesteryear to the more simple, easily obtained foods, such as fruits and vegetables, all in the course of one generation, was attributed by Elizabeth C. Nickerson, director of the Bureau of Public Health Instruction and dietitian of the State Department of Health, in the department's weekly broadcast today, to the fact that people today are better educated to the requirements of a balanced diet and that the simple foods included in the diet for this season have gradually ousted the starchy, much sweetened old-timers from gastronomic favor.

Chrysler is the latest to join the mother's springtime hobby of "mullin 'n' molasses" was needed to shock the family back to normalcy after a winter diet of cakes, pies, dried apples and various and sundry starchy what-nots. In the up-to-date family, it is no longer surprising to see a child refuse cake, but pass his or her plate for another helping of vegetables or salad.

Y. M. C. A. Notes

There was a meeting of the Leaders Corps of the Manchester Y. M. C. A. held last night in preparation for the fall and winter activities which will get under way at the "Y" shortly after October 1. Edward Vincent was elected president and Vincent Moriarty as secretary and treasurer. Others who were present and will take a part in arranging the plans for the winter activities were: Leonard Anderson, Carl Neilson, Christopher Carlson, Albert Oderman, Raymond Myers, Frank Healey, Charles Novack, Andrew Fiedler, David Hamilton, Joseph Zapalka, Hugh Greer, Raymond Coleman, James Spillane and James McLaughlin.

"NOT CONSTIPATED FOR SEVEN WEEKS"

Writes Mrs. Johnson After Using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Sufferers from constipation will be interested in this unsolicited letter: "I am so glad over the good it has done me that I feel I must write and tell you of it. "For lunch I take a banana, a large one. Six tablespoons of ALL-BRAN in a sauce dish, and dip banana at each bite until all is consumed. I haven't been constipated now for seven weeks."—Mrs. Louise Johnson, 1433 Forest Street, Denver, Colorado.

Constipation often causes headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. This condition is usually due to lack of "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further promote regular habits. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has both, as well as iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the waste.

Try ALL-BRAN in place of patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Rev. Walter Vey and family have returned from their vacation spent in Toronto, Canada.

Lyman Kilton of Fitchburg, Mass., was a business caller at E. W. Buell's recently.

Robert E. Foote and his children Edward and Marjorie motored to Middlebury Monday. His daughter Lovina, who has passed the summer at Bread Loaf, Vt., returned with them Tuesday.

Mrs. Dursau and her daughter Sadie of Wallingford spent the week-end and Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fogli.

Theodore Zolli of Torrington and Anthony Spoliti of Reed's Gap were before Justice J. Banks Jones Tuesday afternoon on a charge of operating trucks with defective equipment. They pleaded guilty and paid the costs, the fine being remitted.

Home Hills has returned from a visit to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, Ill.

Local schools opened Tuesday with Miss Ruth Ellis as teacher at the Hill school and Miss Rena Williams of Guilford at the White school.

The Windham High school opened Wednesday and some of the local students will continue their studies there. Wilman Warner and John Hooker will attend the Hartford Trade school.

The Grange held its regular meeting at the Gilead Hall Tuesday evening, an invitation to neighbor with Norwich Grange Wednesday evening, Sept. 13 was accepted; also an invitation from Hildstown Grange to neighbor with them Thursday evening, Sept. 28 was accepted.

The lecturers program was in the hands of the men officers, and was as follows: "Long Stay on the Farm", 1 act play. Jonesville Grange invitation.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Miller of Colchester, Mrs. Clarence Chittendon and her daughter of Killingworth and Clayton Miller, Jr., of Middletown were recent visitors at Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Foote's.

When men employed at J. L. Way's farm went about to drive the dairy herd from an alfalfa field Monday, they discovered three dead cows. Dr. Dimock was called and he decided the cause was eating too much wet alfalfa.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Foote were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. George B. Miller's in Colchester.

MRS. MARY SAMSON TO TRY FOR RECORD AT LEGION'S MEET

Hartford Woman Flyer Hopes to Regain Record for Continuous Looping at Agawam.

Springfield, Mass. (Special)—The New England record for women pilots will be the goal of Mrs. Mary Samson whose attempt to set a new high mark for consecutive loops will be a feature of the American Legion Air Circus at Bowles-Agawam Airport Sunday, September 10, to be held under the auspices of the Wilson-Thompson Legion Post 185 of Agawam. Mrs. Samson is the wife of Captain Frederick P. Samson, head of the Interstate Airways and the Captain Samson Air College Brainard Field, Hartford. They are the only flying couple in Connecticut both holding transport licenses.

Mrs. Samson gained the women's looping record in Connecticut and the unofficial record for New England last May, when she set a mark of 146 loops at the American Legion air meet in Hartford. Later Mrs. Edith Tescomb, also of Brainard Field, looped 376 consecutive times, a mark that has remained uncontested because of a ruling made by the Connecticut State Department of Aeronautics after Mrs. Descomb's flight prohibiting further attempts in looping or record attempts in the state.

Mrs. Samson will take off Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, planning to remain in the air four hours or more. She will fly a Fleet bi-plane having twice the fuel capacity of the ship she flew on her initial attempt, when she was forced to land after she had exhausted the gasoline supply.

Parachute jump Mrs. Samson gained the women's looping record in Connecticut and the unofficial record for New England last May, when she set a mark of 146 loops at the American Legion air meet in Hartford. Later Mrs. Edith Tescomb, also of Brainard Field, looped 376 consecutive times, a mark that has remained uncontested because of a ruling made by the Connecticut State Department of Aeronautics after Mrs. Descomb's flight prohibiting further attempts in looping or record attempts in the state.

A parachute exhibition is scheduled as another feature on the Legion air meet program. Sergeant Frank Young of the 43rd Division Aviation, C. N. G., a graduate of the Army parachute school at Camp Meade, Md., will jump from one of the Connecticut National Guard planes.

Planes of the Massachusetts National Guard unit from the Boston airport, under the command of Major Clarence E. Edgess and National Guard ships of the Connecticut unit, commanded by Major Hubert E. Johnson, will lead the air parade over Springfield and adjacent towns that will open the meet at noon Sunday. An exhibition of military flying and formation maneuvers by the Guard units will also be staged during the afternoon. An autogiro demonstration will be an added feature on the program.

Band Concert A band concert and daylight pyrotechnic display will open the program at Bowles Field when the air parade takes off. Competitive events scheduled to include aerobatics, spot landing and bomb dropping contests and races for men and women, with special classes in these events for student pilots.

The "mixed doubles" relay race will be a novel event. Four laps around the closed course will complete the race, both members of the team flying two laps. Pairs already entered for the event include Captain and Mrs. Samson, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Tait of Chesley, Conn., and Dolly Bernson, manager of the Revere Beach airport near Boston, who will team with Al Lockshield of Boston.

Members of the New England section of the National Women Pilots' Organization have been invited by the meet committee to attend, and a special women's race is scheduled on the program. Mrs. Maude Irving Tait Moriarty of Springfield, governor of the N. E. W. P. O., will be chairman of the reception committee. Mrs. Moriarty was winner of the Aerol Speed Race Trophy at the Cleveland National Air Races in 1931.

Other Star Entries women fliers whose entries have already been received by the meet committee include Annette Gipson, sponsor of the annual Annette Gipson trophy race that was held for the second year this summer on Long Island, and Viola Gentry, well known pioneer aviatrix and the first woman endurance flier.

Harry Hermann, manager of Bowles Field, is honorary chairman for the American Legion Air Circus. Members of the Wilson-Thompson Post on the meet committee are: Chairman, James Kirby; vice-chairman, Leslie Miller; secretary, Ralph Barker; and treasurer, John McQueston. Captain Frederick P. Samson, who has been in charge of the program, will be field director for the meet.

AUTO VICTIM DIES
Norwalk, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. Wilhelmina Fitch, 69, who was injured in East Norwalk Monday night when she was struck and knocked down by a car operated by George Shriver of Raymond Terrace, succumbed to her injuries at the Norwalk hospital this morning.

Shriver, who was arrested by the police on a charge of reckless driving pending the outcome of Mrs. Fitch's injuries, now faces a charge of manslaughter.

SAPIRO SURRENDERS
New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Aaron Sapiro, New York lawyer who was arrested here last July as a fugitive from justice in Chicago, where he was indicted with Al Capone and 23 others for conspiracy, surrendered at Tombs prison today. Governor Herbert H. Lehman yesterday granted the Illinois application for the lawyer's extradition.

To Fly in Springfield Air Circus

Captain and Mrs. Frederick P. Samson of Brainard Field, Hartford, who will take part in the American Legion Air Circus to be held at Bowles-Agawam Airport, Springfield, Sunday, September 10. Both hold transport licenses, the highest pilot's rating. Mrs. Samson will attempt to set a new loop record for women pilots at the Legion meet. "Bomber," the Samson's Cocker mascot is pictured, with them on the wing of the plane.

STUFFED LAMB CHOPS. Have the chops cut the thickness of two ordinary chops and with a sharp knife (your butcher will do this for you) cut through the center, back to the bone, making a pocket which fill with equal parts of minced pipe olives and mushrooms choppec fine. Place chops on the broiler rack and quickly sear both sides under flame. Remove to baking pan and bake in moderate oven for ten or fifteen minutes. Serve with slices of mint Jello or Jell-Well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Can One Fast While Working?
Question: Jamison Q. writes: "I am reading your articles with much interest. In speaking of fasting, do you believe a person having mental work should do with absolutely no food for three days, or should some liquid such as fruit juice be taken if one keeps at work?"
Answer: I usually recommend a fruit fast rather than a water fast. It seems that patients eliminate better while taking the fruit juices. Of course, there is some stimulation from the fruit sugar which makes it easier for one to keep on with his work while taking the fast.

What Causes Headache?
Question: Mrs. Winifred S. writes: "Please advise me what causes my head to ache. Sometimes I have a headache for a whole week without relief."
Answer: There are many causes of headache. Here are some of them: autointoxication, constipation, proslapsed organs, uterine congestion, eyestrain, nerve depletion, and toxic poisoning from some chronic disease. Only a diagnosis will tell you which of these causes your headaches.

Care of Oily Hair
Question: Miss R. inquires: "What kind of shampoo would you recommend for very oily hair?"
Answer: Washing the hair daily with a tincture of green soap for about a week will usually correct this trouble. I have also a special article on the care of the hair which I will be glad to send you if you will write me again giving your full name and address on a stamped envelope.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Lilian V. Heffron of 78 Fairfield street, left this afternoon for a visit with friends in Paterson, N. J.

A small fire in the dry loft of the Colonial Board Company plant on Parker street was extinguished at 6 o'clock last night by employees of the firm with little damage. The origin of the fire was undetermined.

Sessions of the Center Congregational church school will not be resumed until Sunday, September 17. The coming Sunday the teachers will meet at 9:45 in all departments. Arthur Dilling will meet the intermediate teachers, Mrs. Watson Woodruff the junior teachers, Mrs. Louise Martz the primary and Miss Eunice Brown, teachers in the beginners department. All teachers are urged to be present at these conferences.

Miss Gladys Harrison has returned to her home on Center street after spending the summer at Beverly and Boston, Mass. Miss Elsie Harrison who passed a week at Victor, N. Y. and some time at Bourneville, Mass., is at her home until she resumes her work at the Old South Church, Boston.

The monthly business meeting of the Luther League of the Concordia Lutheran church, postponed from last week, will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the church. A large attendance of the young people is hoped for.

Scoutmasters Hayden Griswold and David McComb of Boy Scout Troops 1 and 3 have arranged for a joint meeting to be held Monday evening at 6 o'clock at Jarvis Grove. This will be the first fall get-together of both troops. Baseball and other scout activities are planned and a large turnout of the scouts is looked for.

Rev. L. C. Harris of the South Methodist church will meet with the teachers of the various departments tonight at 7:30 in the young people's room. The Sunday school rally is scheduled for September 17.

Mrs. George Potterton and Mrs. William Sharp attended the school of instruction for Daughters of St. George at Bristol yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Sheehan have moved from 90 Hill street to 11 Knighton street.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Dart, married last Saturday, returned last evening from their wedding trip and are making their home in the Rautenburg home on Main street.

The Walther League of the Zion Lutheran church on Cooper street will meet tonight at 8 o'clock for its regular business session. Refreshments will be served by the social committee.

The newly formed drill team of Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth, will meet at the Masonic Temple Monday evening at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Ethel Wickes of Stafford Springs is the leader and Mrs. Lulu Bidwell her assistant.

The Business and Professional Girls' club of Highland Park will spend the week-end with Mrs. Spencer Jones who has passed the summer at Cornfield Point. Mrs. Jones was formerly Miss Emma Klismann of Gardner street and a member of the club.

A number of the members of Campbell Council, Knights of Columbus of this town are planning to attend the first annual clambake of District No. 4 at the City Guard Club, Windsor, Sunday. The dinner at 3 p. m. will be followed by a program of outdoor sports.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Sargeant of Quebec, Canada, have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. L. A. Cleveland of 15 Ridge street for a few days, as have Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Davidson and son, Robert, of Philadelphia.

ACCIDENT VICTIM DIES AFTER LEG AMPUTATION

Joseph Bika of Summer Street Does Not Respond to Treatment After Fracture.

Joseph Bika, 21, of 75 1/2 Summer street, seriously injured while riding a motorcycle a month ago on Oakland street, died in the Manchester Memorial Hospital yesterday afternoon. His death was caused from the effects of the bad fracture of his right leg and foot which was crushed against the running board of an oil truck owned by the Hygrade Oil Company, driven by Lawrence C. Gordon on August 9.

Bika, operating the motorcycle near the entrance to the Oakland Filling station on Oakland street, struck the left side of the truck in attempting to pass and was removed to the hospital in a critical condition. After the injured member had failed to respond to treatment, amputation was made early yesterday morning. Bika, employed as a machine adjuster in Rockville, was a member of the Howitzer Company, 168th Regiment, C. N. G. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bika, Sr., four sisters, Mrs. Julia Purcell of Warehouse Point, Mrs. Mary Paul of Bridgeport, Miss Betty Bika and Miss Helen Bika of Manchester and one brother, Gabriel Bika of New York.

FOG BLOCKS TRAFFIC

New York, Sept. 8.—(AP)—Fog which lowered visibility at Sandy Hook to an eighth of a mile today delayed more than 3,000 passengers aboard incoming liners.

The Berengaria was anchored near Ambrose Lightship at the entrance to the harbor half an hour after she was due in Quarantine. The Europa reported by wireless that she was passing Fire Island about the time she was due at Quarantine.

Other ships delayed were the Albert Ballin, the Munargo and the coastwise ship Seminole.

VASA ORDER COMING HERE FOR MEETING

Connecticut Lodges to Hold Convention at Masonic Temple September 30.

The annual convention of the District of Connecticut of the Order of Vasa will be held in Manchester on Saturday, September 30, consisting of a one-day session at the Masonic Temple, which will be attended by the outstanding officials of the Order.

Scandia Lodge, No. 23, will be host to the gathering of close to 250 delegates and invited guests from forty lodges throughout the state. The first session will start at 9 o'clock in the morning and will be in charge of District Master Eskil Hultin of Ansonia. A banquet will be held at 1 o'clock.

Grand Master Albert N. Jacobsen of Boston, head of the International Grand Lodge that embraces the United States, Canada and Sweden, will be guest of honor at the convention. Wells A. Strickland, chairman of the Board of Selection, will deliver the address of welcome to the visitors. The Grand Secretary, A. M. Anderson of Waterbury, will also be present, as will the entire staff of district officers, including District Secretary Hemming Johnson of Laurel street, this town.

Officers will be elected and members of the various lodges who have passed through the chairs to the presidency will be initiated into the Grand Lodge. Four candidates will seek membership from Manchester, Miss Ebba V. Gustafson, Herbert Johnson, John Pohlson and Elmer Thoren. The latter is now president of the local lodge.

The invited guests will also include Albin Magnuson of Hartford, who was instrumental in the organization of the local lodge thirty-three years ago.

The general committee in charge of the convention consists of Miss Ebba Gustafson, chairman; Herbert Johnson, secretary, and Amandus Johnson, treasurer.

NORTH END TEACHER RESIGNS POSITION

Miss Dorothy Whitney Leaves Here to Take Job in New Jersey School.

Miss Dorothy S. Whitney, a teacher in the Union school on North School street for several years, has resigned to accept a position in New Jersey, it was learned today. A permanent appointment to the vacancy is expected over the week end and until that time, Mrs. Walter Carter is substituting.

DR. C. N. PAYNE DIES

JENSEN SEEKS OFFICE ON PAST EXPERIENCE

Has Lived in Manchester Green Section Since 1890—Is Real Estate Appraiser.

John Jensen who is a candidate for assessor in the Republican Primary Tuesday came to Manchester, in 1890 and has been a resident of this town ever since. Shortly after their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Jensen bought their present home and have lived at Manchester Green ever since. They have been active in the welfare of Manchester Green. Mr. Jensen was district committeeman of that district for many years. It was through his efforts and the support by the old timers that the present Manchester Green school was built, he being chairman of the building committee. It was also through his efforts, as a committee of one, that water was brought to Manchester Green. Soon after the school building was finished Mr. Jensen organized the Manchester Green Community Club, an organization without dues and anyone owning property or living within the district is automatically a member. Mr. Jensen's original idea of organizing this club was for the parents to work for the good of the children of that district which is still the real object but it has also brought the parents into closer contact and friendship. He is for a number of years and is at the present time president of the club. He has never let up on being interested in the children of the district. At different times children have formed themselves into long lines at hard labor followed by Mr. Jensen and taken up their plans with him. The Manchester Green Community Club sponsors both the Girl and Boy Scouts of Manchester Green and Mr. Jensen is very much interested in both. He spends much time with the boys. They know that if he is with them on trips the food will be good as Mr. Jensen is an expert chef.

HUMAN FREIGHT AWAITIS VOYAGE TO ISLAND EXILE

La Rochelle, France.—(AP) —A cargo of human freight, condemned to expiate crimes in the tropical heat of lonely French Guiana, is being assembled for shipment to the notorious camps there September 22.

Fifteen hundred convicts are awaiting banishment. Most of them will make the voyage of despair in two loads of nearly 700 each on convict ship sailing on its first trip in two years.

Escape offers the only hope many will have of seeing the French shores again as they desperately climb the ship's ladder, a file of crab figures in convict dress, and three weeks later descend to the docks of St. Laurent du Maroni, 4,300 miles from home. Many are lifers, while many others may return to France only after serving long terms at hard labor followed by as many years of exile.

Move To Abolish Colony Agitation for abolishment of the convict colony has been revived simultaneously with reports of recent wholesale escapes. More than 100 convicts have escaped within the past six months, leading to suspicions that a secret organizing band is aiding them, for a price, in fleeing through the perilous jungles or across the shark-infested Caribbean Sea.

Criminals condemned to hard labor, mostly murderers and professional thieves, are kept at St. Laurent du Maroni. The criminally insane, usually sent to the colony for life, are segregated at St. Jean du Maroni.

May Get Place On Farm Good behavior may gain convicts a place on a model farm at Courroux, or in Cayenne, where they sleep in a prison but may hire out by the day as domestics or in stores and offices.

Any criminal sent to Guiana must stay there in exile after his release for as many years as his term of hard labor calls for. Most who escape have served their sentence and are existing as best they can off the scant irregular employment afforded by the tiny colony, where a tenth of the 50,000 population are, like them, banished criminals.

He is a member of 't. Mary's Episcopal church. For thirty-five years he has been a member of Court Manchester No. 107, Forest-street, and having held every line of office in that organization and at the present time again its Chief Ranger. A number of years ago he was elected to be a member of its Grand Court of Connecticut and at present is a member of the executive committee and chairman of the board of trustees. He is a member of the Connecticut Commercial Travelers Association, headquartered in New Haven. He is also a member of the United Commercial Travelers of America and has been for a number of years a member of the executive committee, an honor greatly sought. He is a member of Manchester Lodge No. 78, A. F. and A. M., and of Delta Chapter No. 51, R. A. M.

When he worked as a farm hand on a farm now known as Pinehurst. He later entered the grocery business, and later the livery business. When the trolleys came to Manchester Green he sold his horses and secured a position as traveling salesman for a Boston firm. After some twelve years with this firm he was promoted to be branch manager at Hartford. After a number of years he left this position and entered the real estate business. He has sold real estate all over Connecticut and in neighboring states. About twelve years ago he joined the Hartford Real Estate Board of which he is still a member giving him the right to use the word realtor. He is also a member of the Connecticut State Association of Realtors as well as the national association.

Years ago Mr. Jensen became very much interested in appraising real estate and his membership in the real estate association brought him in contact with many of the best appraisers in the state which has been a great help to him in gathering information. He was a member of the Board of Assessors of the town of Manchester for two years having filled the unexpired term of William Knoef. His many years of buying and selling real estate and his experience as an appraiser about this town and state would make him valuable to the town of Manchester as a member of its Board of Assessors, his friends believe.

Mr. Jensen is a justice of the peace and a notary public and lives with his neighbors and veterans free.

He is a deputy forest fire warden and has a regular organized company of ten men known as the Manchester Green Forest Fire Company and they are under the State Park and Forestry Department.

SENSE and NONSENSE

"The ideal marriage" we read from Dorothy Dix, "is when a man finds a beautiful girl and a good housewife." Sounds more like bigamy to us.

Bloofus—I wonder why rich folks so often marry rich folks?

Obtusus—Because they have so much interest in common.

The larger the bluff, the smaller it looks when called.

Man—How did you make your wife so angry?

Neighbor—I set the coffee pot down on one of her waffles, thinking it was an asbestos pad.

About the best response one can get from a hog, unless it is kicked, is a grunt. And unkind as it may sound, that is about as much as one can get from some people.

Kind Lady—And how would you like a nice chop?

Weary Tramp—That all depends, lady—is it lamb, pork, or wood?

Too Expensive: And then there was the Scottish father of twins, who only had one of them photographed.

Woman—People sometimes tell me I talk too much, but I always believe in saying what I think.

Husband—Of course, darling—but er—where do you get all the rest from?

The reason so many of us do not want to learn is because a lot of the facts we'd pick up in the process would be very unpleasant.

Wife (to husband upon leaving a swell eating place)—I hope you gave the waiter a big enough tip.

Husband—I did, but it wasn't.

Some folks that were raised on a bottle still carry it around with them.

Sutor—Well, since you don't want to marry me, perhaps you will return the ring I gave you.

Sweet Young Thing (snapping)—If you must know, your jeweler has already called for it.

"Some folks let sleeping dogs lie," but others had rather do their own lying.

Grocer—Do you want white or brown eggs, ma'am?

Pretty Bride—The kind I want are white with a yellow polka dot in the middle.

An optimist is one who depends on the town clock when he has a train to catch.

Miss Ruth E. Leubenstein has returned to Hartford after spending the summer with her grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Flack, and will enter Weaver High for the third year.

The Silk City Drum Corps will hold a practice session tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at 13 Brainard Place.

Sessions of St. Mary's church school and the Men's Bible class will be resumed Sunday morning at 9:30.

Miss Helen Chedell of Auburn, R. I., formerly of Manchester, is spending two weeks with Mrs. John Trask of Flower street.

Captain Joel M. Nichols, genial proprietor of a north end variety store, who saw service during the Spanish-American war, will speak on that subject at the Monday noon meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis club at the Country clubhouse. Every Kiwanian should be on hand to hear their fellow member and townsman. Wells Strickland will furnish the attendance prize and Thomas Ferguson the stunt. Once again the meeting will be in good hands with a mayor, a publisher and a news dealer in charge of proceedings.

The Second Congregational church school will resume sessions Sunday morning at 9:30. The Community Men's Bible class will not come together until October.

Sunday will be rally day at the Swedish Congregational church on Spruce street. The students in the Sunday school will join with the church in a big rally day service.

The Simple Simon Sandwich Shop, Denning street, Oakland, will serve a full course dinner, Sunday, particulars of which will be found in their advertisement.

Memorial Temple Pythian Sisters, will hold its regular meeting Tuesday evening in Odd Fellows hall at 7:15, to allow for the public card party to follow, in charge of Mrs. Harriet Skewes and her committee.

A meeting of the official board of the Concordia Lutheran church is called for tomorrow evening at 7:30.

The family of Harold F. Bidwell of Chestnut street who have been spending the summer at their cottage at Coventry Lake have returned to town, but will spend the week-ends there through the fall.

Loyal Circle of Kings Daughters will hold its first meeting of the season Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Center church parlors.

Miss Grace Legg and Miss Miriam Jones, both of whom were graduated from Manchester High school in June, are taking a secretarial course at Morse's Business College, Hartford.

The volunteer choir of the Center Congregational church will resume regular rehearsal Tuesday evening of next week at 7 o'clock.

POLICE COURT

Carl E. Balkus of 17 Liberty street, Hartford, was found not guilty of driving an automobile with improper brakes. On the second charge, failure to stop on signal of an officer he was found guilty and paid a fine of $10 and costs. Balkus is the fellow who gave Officer John Cavagnaro and David Galligan a run to Buckingham before they were able to bring him to a stop. Balkus had a slight accident at the Center last Wednesday evening and upon investigation by Officer Cavagnaro he found the brake band loose. The officer took the man to the police station and Sgt. John McGinn told Balkus it would be necessary to have the brakes repaired before he could run the car. Balkus called someone on the telephone and told the sergeant that a car was coming from Glastonbury to tow him to that town. Balkus went to the car and instead of waiting for the tow he beat it for Glastonbury. Then the officers went after him.

In court this morning Balkus was defended by Attorney Howard Drew of Hartford, who maintained that the state had failed to prove the case about the brakes as there was no evidence to show that they had been given a test by either the officers or a competent mechanic. Judge Johnson agreed with the attorney. However, on the second charge the judge believed that the officers were justified in going after the man and that there was no excuse for the man in not stopping when ordered to.

James H. Robinson of 187 Highland street, through his attorney W. A. Hyde, pleaded guilty to driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor and was fined $100 and costs. He was arrested on Parker street early this morning by Officer Joseph Prentice. In the case of Herbert R. Donnelly, who was charged with intoxication the judge suspended judgment on payment of costs.

Mrs. John Crosekey of 58 Eldridge street had as her guests over the holidays Mr. and Mrs. Henry Stachin and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Seaman and their two sons, Billy and Richard, all of Paterson, N. J.

CLASS IN WELDING AT HILLYER SCHOOL

Tuesday evening, September 26, is the date set for the opening class in welding offered by the Hillyer Welding School. Robert J. Dampman, supervisor of welding at the Whitlock Coil Pipe Company, has again been selected as the instructor by Julius S. Augur, director of the Hillyer Y. M. C. A. schools.

Mr. Dampman has had a long and varied experience in welding. He has supervised large pipe installations, worked on aircraft production, and conducted a general welding shop. He has successfully taught several welding classes at Hillyer. This general course in welding covers the oxy-acetylene torch and electric arc methods. The class will meet twice a week, on Tuesday and Thursday evenings for 16 weeks, in the welding laboratory of the Y. M. C. A. located in the basement of the Y. M. C. A. building, at 315 Pearl street, Hartford. Men interested in learning this trade are invited to attend the first class on Tuesday evening, September 26 at 7:30, free of charge.
