SIGNING OF 650 BONDS FINISHES UTILITIES DEAL

Completed Within Three Weeks After Voters Approve—Two Selectmen Favoring It Dropped.

The signing of the 650 bonds by a majority of the Selectmen is the last act in the year-long and sometimes controversial adventure of the purchase, by the town, of the Cheney utilities. In the short space of three weeks the town has voted, advertised and completed the sale of the town's largest bond issue, $650,000, which will be used as part payment for the combined water and sewer companies owned by the silk firm. The wearisome job was finished last night.

A sidelight on the year-long discussion over the advisability of purchase was in the caucus primaries held on Tuesday. The voters of the town turned thumbs down on Wells A. Strickland, chairman of the Board of Selectmen and also William W. Robertson, two members of the Board of Selectmen who favored the purchase of the utilities from the very beginning of the discussion.

First Conference
In place of these men the voters elected to the Board Frank V. Williams, who as a member of the Board two years ago, together with Sherwood G. Bowers, held the first conference with Cheney Brothers officials in connection with the sale of the property. During the early weeks of the discussion over the proposed purchase Selectmen Bowers and Williams, both favoring ownership of municipal utilities as brought out in their fight against the Manchester Electric Company in the rate cases, found the Board of Selectmen not altogether lined up with them in support of their policies.

Williams was beaten for a place on the Board in October, 1932, when John L. Jenney, Aaron Cook, new aspirants for the office, were elected and William W. Robertson, who had failed to make the grade in October 1931, was elected last year. Thomas J. Rogers, chairman and William J. Thornton member of the Selectmen two years ago, were elected Representatives to the General Assembly, their places being taken by Jenney and Cook.

Enthusiasm over the utilities proposal, first revealed to the Board of Selectmen when it met in regular session, was in attaining momentum among the old-line members. A committee consisting of Chairman Strickland, Secretary Keith and Sherwood G. Bowers was designated to meet the Cheney officials in connection with the utilities matter. Later, Aaron Cook, the new board member, was added to the committee.

Many Meetings
During the past year numerous regular and special meetings were held to discuss the proposal. The "bank holiday" came at a time when the Selectmen were about to place the matter before the voters of the town, causing delay during that hectic period. When the financial

HOOVER FAVORED DRY LAW REPEAL

Told Hotel Man Not to Give Any Publicity to His Private Opinion.

Del Monte, Calif., Sept. 14.—(AP)—Arthur L. Race of Boston, chairman of the American Hotel Association's committee on prohibition, said in his report at the annual convention here today that Herbert Hoover, when "President, privately favored repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

"After the September election in Maine," Race said, "Mr. Hoover sent for me. He wanted to know what had happened in the state of Maine. That was the first time the Republican Party had become worried about the possibilities of their remaining to rule in Washington.

Was For Repeal
"I told Mr. Hoover what it was all about and he stated to me, although he would not let me say so afterward, that he was for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and thought it ought to be repealed as soon as possible. He also told me of the magnitude of the bootlegging and speakeasy industries. He knew all about it and said that they should be eliminated as soon as possible. But still he would not tell the people of the United States that and asked me to give no publicity to it."

Representative Rainey of Illinois was quoted by Race as saying "when this thing finally gets to Congress it is going through as if it had been ground for 12 years."

AUTOS ATTACKED BY WILD DOGS

Pack Reported in Maryland—County Police Sent Out To Search For Them.

Towson, Md., Sept. 14.—(AP)—A pack of wild dogs, which last night attacked two automobiles on highways near here, was hunted today by Baltimore county police.

The dogs have been troubling residents of the section and attacking persons for several months but last night was the first time they have been known to jump at moving vehicles.

Reporting the incident to local police, William T. Ballard of Ruxton, Md., driver of one of the cars, asked permission to carry a pistol in his car.

NEW JERSEY BIDS FOR STOCK MARKET

Gov. Moore Says He Will See to It That It Will Be Tax Free.

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)— A threat to establish a branch of the New York Stock Exchange in New Jersey to escape impending taxes became more definite today.

The law firm of Cadwalader, Wickersham & Taft disclosed that it was studying the legal problems involved at the behest of a prominent brokerage house. Stock Exchange officials privately expressed sympathy with the move, but would make no public statement.

The city administration, adamant to protests from the financial district, pressed forward with its program, which includes a tax of four cents a share on stock transfers originating here. The program was expected to receive the approval of the Board of Aldermen today, and Mayor John P. O'Brien has indicated he will sign it on Sept. 21.

Newark, Jersey City and other New Jersey communities have been mentioned as possible sites for the subsidiary exchange, should it be set up.

Rape Gov. Moore
Samuel Undermyer, special financial adviser who drew up the tax plan for the city, attacked Gov. A. Harry Moore's invitation, to the Stock Exchange to locate in New Jersey tax free. He called the offer "contemptible" and said if the Ex-

SETTLEMENT SEEN IN BROCKTON STRIKE

Shoe Workers to Go Back Under a Temporary Agreement, Is Report.

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)— Officials of the Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen forecast today that striking shoe workers at Brockton, Mass., would return to work immediately under a temporary agreement announced by the National Labor Board.

The board agreement was reached last night after a long debate between the shoe manufacturers and officials of the Brotherhood and the Boot and Shoe Workers Union. While the Brockton officials were considering the situation, manufacturers and labor leaders were presenting their concluding arguments before Deputy Recovery Administrator C. C. Williams on the proposed shoe code.

The agreement provides for the immediate resumption of work pending a ruling by the labor board on the validity under the NRA of the contracts between the Boot and Shoe Workers Union and manufacturers. Union dues of 35 cents per week will be collected by the Manufacturers and held in escrow until the Labor Board ruling on the contracts. Senator Wagner, chairman, said the ruling probably would be handed down within the next two weeks.

Where Money Goes
If the board finds the contracts are valid under the National Industrial Recovery Act, the money will be turned into the union treasury. On the other hand, an adverse decision will result in the return of the money to the workers.

Officials of the Brotherhood of Shoe and Allied Craftsmen, an insurgent organization whose members claim the boot and shoe workers union is not representative of their wishes, charge the contracts violate the clause of the Recovery Act which provides for collective bargaining through representatives of the workers' choosing.

Meanwhile no indication was given of the attitude of the board. Officials denied any ruling had been handed down.

The closing hours of the two-day hearing on the proposed shoe code injected new disputes for NRA officials to iron out in the private discussions still facing the administration before the plan can be placed in effect.

NEW LEADERS OF TORN CUBA

With these men rests the immediate fate of the island republic of Cuba. While the United States looks on vigilantly, President Ramon Grau San Martin and his cabinet, shown with him soon after their appointment, are striving to cope with the critical problems of government.

SPEED UP NRA PROGRAM IS PRESIDENT'S APPEAL

Asks That More Credit Be Given Business So That More Jobs and Better Prices Result.

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)— President Roosevelt today imparted to his National Recovery drive the vigorous pressure of his own determination to provide quickly more jobs and better prices.

Ample credit for business and agriculture by seeking immediately the reopening of banks now closed or restricted was a major objective of the Chief Executive as he looked especially toward sluggish farm prices.

Somewhat impatiently he looked forward to an agreement between soft coal operators and miners on the long disputed NRA code for this basic industry.

Eagerly, too, the President awaited receipt of an agreement between labor and industrial advisory boards which is intended to moderate, if not finally settle, conflicts over the collective bargaining provisions of the recovery law.

Johnson Back
With today's return to the capital of Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, Mr. Roosevelt has expected to prefer such force as his aides deem necessary for faster cooperation and stimulation of Federal recovery efforts.

In this higher-geared program for lifting economic levels, particularly in the way of restoring commodity prices, the president was represented as confident that the banks, with government backing,

COMLEY CONTINUES PROBE OF BANKS

State's Attorney Will Give Out No Statement on Bridgeport Institutions.

Bridgeport, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The official court records on the receivership of three Bridgeport banks were officially transferred today from Hartford to the jurisdiction of the Fairfield county courts as State Attorney William H. Comley studied a statement from Bank Commissioner Walter Perry indicating falsification of reports of condition of two of the banks.

The two banks named by the commissioner were the Commercial Bank and Trust Company and the American Bank and Trust Company, both of Bridgeport. Albert W. Tremain is head of both institutions.

Asked what if any action he planned to take, Comley said:

"I have before me a statement from the banking commissioner. I am investigating and will take whatever action I deem advisable. That is about all I care to say about the matter."

Court records over the two banks and the West Side bank were insolvent and their assets in danger of waste and dissipation. The writs said further that it was because of this condition that the order closing the banks was issued.

Hartford, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The state liquor control commission has notified the proprietors of the A.B.C. Bottling Works of New Haven to appear at a hearing to be held at the State Capitol on Sept. 25, when it will be determined whether their permit to sell beer in Connecticut will be revoked. The company has a wholesale permit, and according to complaints received by the commission, it is alleged sales have been made to non-permittees in violation of the liquor control law.

The commission today announced the revocation of 10 permits as follows:

250,000 PARADE IN GREAT NRA N. Y. PAGEANT

Mightiest Peace Army Ever Assembled Marches Up New York's Fifth Avenue—1,500,000 Watchers.

New York, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Up Fifth Avenue they came, the mightiest peace army ever assembled, through the warmth of a mild afternoon, on through the dusk, through a night made fantastic by the glare of yellow street lights, the drum of their feet on the glare of their bands, an army of 250,000 marching in the name of NRA.

New York that welcomed John J. Pershing and the triumphant American Expeditionary Forces with a riot of patriotic fervor, that cheered and gulped in relief at the return of the Old 69th, battle-scarred though it was, that shrieked and filled the sky with ticker tape in his hysterical acclaim of Charles A. Lindbergh, still never had seen anything like this.

From half past one in the afternoon on Washington Square, marching below 14th street, they marched to the tunes of a hundred bands, filling the majestic avenue from curb to curb, hundreds of thousands of weary feet plodding on until after midnight brought the last of 77 sections, representing almost every single branch of the military, civil, political and industrial life of the world's largest city, to the goal of 58th street.

Mighty Parade
It was a parade, to be sure, but to the 1,500,000 more who lined the way, grimly silent for the most part, it was more than a mammoth expression of exuberance, and the high glee of celebration. The cheers of the marchers, rising to their highest pitch as they dipped their banners in salute passing the reviewing stand on the steps of the public library at 42d street, seemed rather a mighty prayer of hope and confidence in the recovery program of President Roosevelt and his administration.

For instance, there was the group of 150 bent, gray-headed old men who trudged happily along, members of the musical industries, bearing a banner that stretched from sidewalk to sidewalk.

"We are Back to Work"

There was the keynote of the procession. Made possible by the half holiday for the industries of the city proclaimed by Mayor John P. O'Brien, the quarter of a million marchers made the most of the occasion.

Thousands of men, in their business clothes, carrying the banners of the companies they worked for, all members of the NRA, plodded along.

REICHSTAG BLAZE IS BEING PROBED

International Board Begins Sessions in London—American Is a Member.

London, Sept. 14.—(AP)—An international legal commission of inquiry into the burning of last February of the German Reichstag building began its sessions today.

Of 15 witnesses to be called, three are on a list of 33 Germans, the Hind said, were threatened with death in a notice posted in a Nazi meeting place in London's west end.

Police started an investigation of the newspaper report which said photographs of the Germans were posted in the Nazi club under the injunction, "If you meet any of them, kill him, and if he is a Jew, break every bone in his body."

The Herald identified the three witnesses as a man named Breitsheld, former Reichstag Socialist leader; Professor George Bernhard, former editor of the Vostische Zeitung, and Albert Grzesinski, onetime Berlin police chief.

Premises Rented
The commission is meeting in the court room of the law society. It was pointed out that the society is disinterested in the proceedings and is merely renting the premises.

D. N. Pritt, King's counsel, is the commission chairman. Other members are Arthur Garfield Hays of the United States; Francesco Saverio Nitti, former Italian premier; George Branding, a Swede; and Miss Barker North, member of the Netherlands Parliament.

The world committee on German Fascism formed the commission "to tell the world" the "truth about the Reichstag fire."

To protect relatives in Germany, it is planned not to announce names of witnesses.

(Five men will go on trial in Leipzig, Germany, Sept. 21 for setting the fire Feb. 27. Communists were accused of being responsible.)

LOCAL OPTION OUT ON SALE OF BEER

State's Towns Cannot Vote on This at October Elections, Danaher Rules.

Hartford, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Connecticut communities will not vote on local option for the sale of beer at the October elections, Secretary of State John A. Danaher announced today.

Mr. Danaher said Congress has declared beer as non-intoxicating and the state liquor control act provides for local option only on intoxicating liquors.

Therefore, Mr. Danaher stated, he will make no provision for local option voting on the ballots being printed for the October elections.

Many towns, which were "dry" through local referendum before the Eighteenth Amendment was adopted, were planning to take the question of local option before the voters at the small town elections next month. Among them was the town of West Hartford where a large group of "dry" voters were organizing a campaign to prevent the public sale of beer there.

Comes as Surprise
Mr. Danaher's ruling, therefore, comes as a surprise to many town officials and "dry" leaders.

Mr. Danaher pointed out the liquor state act adopted by the recent Legislature specifies in Part One that the act shall take effect in its entirety upon ratification of the National repeal amendment. In the act is a provision for local option, but, Mr. Danaher explained, it applies only to such action on intoxicating liquors.

Section 2709 of the General Statutes, revision of 1930, defines intoxicating liquors as that declared by Congress to be intoxicating.

Since Congress has defined beer as non-intoxicating, he held, Connecticut communities cannot hold local referendum on the public sale of beer next month, but will have to wait until the National dry law is repealed.

SAYS INFLATION ACTION DUE SOON

Senator Harrison Declares Something Must Be Done to Raise Prices.

Washington, Sept. 14.—(AP)— Chairman Harrison of the Senate finance committee predicted today that the administration would take some action to raise commodity prices "pretty quick, whether you call it inflation or not."

Harrison, in reporting the reactions to his conferences with President Roosevelt, director of the Budget Douglas and Governor Eugene Black of the Federal Reserve Board did not specify what form the action would take but indicated strongly it might be a devaluation of the dollar.

"If something is not done to raise commodity prices," he said, "Congress, when it reconvenes, is going to compel and not leave the proposition discretionary."

He referred to the inflation amendment of the farm bill authorizing the President to inflate the currency, but not making it mandatory upon him.

HAS $1,000,000 CLAIM.
New Britain, Sept. 15.—(AP)—Dr. Moses Kupelian of this city said today that he was pressing a claim for about $1,000,000 against the government of Turkey for the return of a fortune which vanished when his father, Chan Kupelian, an Armenian banker in Aintab, Turkey, was killed during a massacre in 1915. He reported that the State Department at Washington was interested in his efforts. Dr. Kupelian is a naturalized American citizen.

A meeting of a claims commission to handle matters of this nature is expected to be held soon in Constantinople.

JENNEY EXPLAINS INSURANCE STAND

Selectman, in Letter to The Herald, Reviews Action Taken by the Board.

During the campaign previous to the Republican Primary contest for Selectman, held on Tuesday, the action of the present Board with regard to the placing of the town's insurance was criticized.

Mr. Jenney was successful in his campaign for the nomination. During the campaign he did not attempt a public refutation of stories that were circulated with regard to his insurance stand on the Board being willing to stand or fall on his record last year.

Today Mr. Jenney clarifies the situation with a splendid letter to The Herald. It follows: "Editor, The Herald, "At this time I wish to thank all those who worked in my behalf in last Tuesday's primary election."

"As my business is insurance I naturally was called upon to do the bulk of the committee's work."

"During this investigation and study it was clearly shown that a check up of insurance was going to prove beneficial to the taxpayers of Manchester."

"But here comes the hard part of the whole program. Rearranging the entire setup to the benefit of you who are taxpayers meant cancellation of excess insurance, and the request from the Committee to the local insurance agents that all money coming from cancellations be refunded to the Town of Manchester."

"Propaganda has been spread that I have looked to my own personal gain at the expense of the other insurance agents and to the detriment of the Town, both of which are contrary to my ethics."

"I leave it to you to judge from the foregoing information if I should be criticized for what has been done. This letter is intended to present the true facts and not to enter into a newspaper controversy with anyone."

RABIES INCREASE NOTED BY STATE DEPT. OF HEALTH

Mad Dogs Most Prevalent in Winter—Community Cooperation Is Urged.

Although rabies has been definitely on the increase in Connecticut during the past three years, the time of greatest incidence of the disease is not, as most people believe, the sultry "dog days" of August and early September.

The stray dog constitutes the most serious menace, the bulletin says, and impounding of stray dogs may avert serious consequences to the individual and his family.

During the past three years, department records show that rabies has been more prevalent in Connecticut than in any three-year period since the founding of the State Bacteriological Laboratory in 1905, using laboratory examinations as a criterion.

Not only has incidence been high in the last three years, but it has been above the average in the last eight years, so if the laboratory examinations can be used as a yardstick the disease is on the increase and community cooperation is needed to thwart it.

AMUSEMENTS SCREEN TELLS STORY OF MISSING PERSONS

Secret Workings of Police Bureau Disclosed in Movies for First Time.

The mysterious, and to a large extent, secret workings of that division of the police department in which are recorded the cases of "disappeared" men and women and those who strangely vanish, are brought to light for the first time in pictures with the First National production entitled "Bureau of Missing Persons," which opens at the State Theater on Sunday.

In every large city there are thousands of missing persons reported yearly. A fair proportion of these persons are "found," but many disappear completely.

The Park Avenues of the nation have furnished their quota to the bureau of the missing persons just as has the state, two such notable cases being that of Dorothy Arnold, the wealthy New York and Newport society girl who dropped out of sight one morning, never to be heard of again; and that of the Hon. Joseph Force Crater, a Justice of the New York Supreme Court, no trace of whom has been found since he disappeared.

The story also gives an accurate and graphic picture of the methods employed by the police. Robert Frennell, who wrote the screen play from a book by Capt. John H. Ayres and Carol Bird, relating the captain's experiences as head of the New York City Bureau of Missing Persons, made an exhaustive study of the police departments in New York, Los Angeles and other cities, in order to get accurate data for the picture.

There is an exceptionally large and able cast of players, many of whom have starred on both stage and screen. They include, besides those previously mentioned, Allen Jenkins, Ruth Donnelly, Hugh Herbert, Alan Dinehart and Marjorie Gatenon. Roy Del Ruth directed.

Selectmen Decide Not to Call Special Town Meeting on Federal Aid Plan.

No special town meeting is to be called by the Board of Selectmen of the town of Vernon, according to First Selectman Francis J. Frichard, relative to the securing of government aid under the NRA road plan which was explained in this city on Monday.

It was at first considered advisable to hold a special town meeting to petition the government aid but as the matter now stands it has been considered a better plan to wait until the annual town meeting to be held in the fall.

The town of Vernon, which includes the city of Rockville, has some $17,108.94 to its credit in state aid money at present. Additional state aid of $8,000 is anticipated which will bring the state aid figure to approximately $25,000.

Under the NRA plan which was discussed on Monday by State Aid Agent W. E. Hulise of the State Highway department, one-third of this money would become available immediately and the remainder could be borrowed from the federal government and repaid over a period of years from state aid funds at practically no expense to the township.

The question is to come up as to how the money can be used to the best advantage in the township. One proposal is to use part of it for the rebuilding or the repair of New Britain on Saturday.

The registrars of the town of Vernon, Henry Schmidt, Republican and George E. Dunn, Democrat, will be in session on Saturday at the office of the town clerk for the revision of the voting lists.

The Board of Selectmen, Francis J. Frichard, Orlando Ransome and Fred J. Foley, will be in session on Saturday with Town Clerk John E. Thomas, to examine the qualification of electors and to admit to elector's oath those found qualified.

MAN KILLED BY AUTO AS HE CROSSES STREET

Driver of Car Leaves Scene But Later Gives Himself Up to the Police.

Waterbury, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The body of John J. McArdle, 49, former Waterville resident, who was killed by an automobile in Mamaroneck, N. Y., was to be brought here today for funeral services.

McArdle, well known here and in Naugatuck, was struck by an automobile yesterday, as he started to cross a street to greet his son Leslie.

Raymond Barnett, driver of the car, and his companion, James Morris, both of New Rochelle, N. Y., were charged with leaving the scene of the accident and with technical homicide pending an inquest. Police charged they wandered away from the scene of the accident after helping Leslie place his father in the automobile.

Later Barnett walked into the Mamaroneck police station and said he wandered off because he was confused and excited. Morris said he went to his home.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 14.

THREE POLLING PLACES.

Whenever an election calls the adult population of Manchester to the Municipal Building a very large majority of the voters carry away with them, we are convinced, the impression that a single polling place for a community of 23,000 persons, nearly nine thousand of whom are voters, is not enough.

It is very much to be doubted if there is, in the whole length and breadth of the United States one other town or city as large as Manchester that expects all its voters to gather on election day at the same polls.

It is not necessary to go haywire over the subject of multiple election precincts. No one here would entertain for a moment the setting up of a system of precincts as over-blown as that which Hartford created for itself some years ago with considerably more than fifty precincts.

This was recognized here several years ago and provision was made for more polling places in the Manchester charter amendment legislation of 1926—which was defeated in a referendum because it also contained, along with other things, provision for both school and fire district consolidation.

We are not entirely convinced that such special legislative authorization for the establishment of voting districts is really necessary.

The Municipal Building is no place to hold elections, anyhow. It is a handsome structure but it was not planned to accommodate swarming thousands of steaming citizens on a stormy day, and every election takes more out of the building's immaculateness than a full year of ordinary wear and tear.

We think of this town as getting along with one polling place. As a matter of fact it doesn't. It sets up, at each election, two polling places—both under the same roof.

It is our notion that instead of these two under one roof there should be three under three roofs. One at the Center to serve, say, all that part of the town east of the South Manchester Railroad tracks and south of Middle Turnpike; one at the North End to serve all that part of the town north of the Turnpike; one at Cheney Hall or thereabouts for the voters of the West Side. By such a division it would be possible to conduct the largest possible election without the constant fear of not being able to receive the votes of all the electors coming to the polls—

The expense would not be great even if some other place than the Municipal Building should be provided at the Center, and the matter is really a very urgent one.

POLITICAL "BONER."

It may turn out that the immense NRA parade in New York yesterday, magnificently successful as a demonstration of the city's co-operation in the restoration program, was nevertheless held at the expense of any prospect of the metropolitan delivery from the grip of the Tammany wasters.

According to the press reports the boogie was started by the Stock Exchange block of paraders and continued by other groups of brokers and financial district workers during more than a quarter of an hour as the massed paraders marched up the avenue.

The effect of this, in a city whose population has become convinced that its interests and those of "Wall Street" are invariably in direct opposition, can hardly fail to immensely increase public sympathy with the mayor and his political affiliates; and not in small measure, either, but to the extent of hundreds of thousands of individuals who were just about ready to help turn the Tiger out.

If the ten thousand financial district paraders who yesterday boomed O'Brien had kept their tongues between their teeth on that occasion and then had gone to the polls in November and voted for him they would have done far less toward helping to keep Tammany in control of the city than they accomplished by this demonstration.

THE COAL MESS.

In the highly provocative coal situation the government is up against something besides a mere bitter, dogged determination on the part of many operators to ruin, if possible, the whole plan of government control of business.

It is a more immediate impulse back of the resistance of the operators—the hope of killing two birds with one stone. Failure of the NRA movement is the more distant objective.

During the long continued controversy between the Recovery Administration and the bituminous mine operators over the industry's code the mines have been operated at top speed. Production has been pushed to the limit under conditions and at wages which bring the coal to the mine dumps at prices lower than would be possible under any conceivable code.

will be able to declare that there is no market for their product sufficient to keep the mines in operation for more than a limited part-time schedule. They can shut down altogether until the surplus is used up, or employ their miners a couple of days a week—and point the finger of condemnation at the whole principle of government control.

Every day of delay in settling the bituminous coal problem contributes to the pocketbooks of these people and to the strength of their position as enemies of the NRA movement.

DIFFERENCE AT TOP.

We are in receipt of the following inquiry from a thoughtful High School student who seems to have much in common with a good many older persons who, like him, have been unable to find the answer to a current puzzle:

Editor of the Herald: Can you explain the real difference between Socialism, Fascism and Nazism. These crowd seem to be fighting each other all over Europe but I haven't been able to find out why.

Socialism contemplates putting everybody to work in the job for which each is best fitted, usually with the masses running the show.

Probably this isn't much help to Student. But our experience is that he can read several hundred times as many words on this general subject without getting much help.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Organization Started to Protect Consumers in Recovery Program... Will Co-operate With AAA Officials and Check Complainants.

Not only do the stomach and intestines usually get sick together, but they get well together.

Designated to protect buyers against unfair prices, a Consumers Council has been established in Washington which its sponsors hope will serve as a model for other American cities.

The sponsors include Dr. John A. Ryan of the National Catholic Welfare Council and Gen. Catham D. Glasford. Presidents or vice presidents of the local women's groups, civic organizations and labor unions are also on the executive board.

Washington has been divided into 300 zones, with about 250 families in each. Zone chairmen, nearly all women, will receive complaints and check them with the bi-weekly consumers price guide issued by Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumer counsel at the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

If prices seem reasonable, explanation will be made to the complainant. If excessive the case will be checked again before a report is laid before the executive board for action.

Consumer education and protection of honest retailers from profiteering wholesalers is also planned. The council will aid Howe in his mission of seeing to it that farmers, not middlemen, benefit from increased prices.

THE 'KANSAS PONZI' SOON TO BE TRIED

Ronald Finney, Accused Forger, Was a Lavish Spender and "Big Shot" Operator.

Topeka, Sept. 14.—A few months ago Ronald Finney was an amazingly successful young bond broker occupying a lavish suite in a hotel here, spending freely and living gayly, and known and respected throughout the state.

Today he is the central figure in a bond scandal that has rocked the state from border to border like nothing before in its history.

Finney is accused of forging and marketing bonds in excess of $1,000,000. The exact amount "illegally" not known until the gigantic maze of his financial dealings is worked out.

After Finney's sudden arrest in August, the story of his operations began to come to light. He is accused of forging issues of municipal and state bonds and appearing, by law, if any, of these forged bonds reached the hands of the public.

Owned Three Airplanes. Finney had private wires to Washington, Chicago and Kansas City. He had a personal representative at an expensive hotel in Washington, about which the federal government has manifested curiosity.

Frequently Finney made hurried trips to Kansas City or Chicago, by plane or by car. Sometimes Finney's secretary made the trip, carrying a familiar bag. The story took hold that Finney was making his money in investments in wheat and stock market.

Bought a Circus. At the height of his prosperity, Finney bought the 101 Ranch Circus of the Miller brothers of Oklahoma at a foreclosure sale and sent it to Chicago for exhibition at the World's Fair.

Finney financed the vacations of state employes who went to a ranch he owned in the Rockies. He was lavish in his gifts to charities always stipulating that his name not be used.

Big, handsome and affable, Finney looks the part of a "big man." He is always attracted. When he went to Chicago or some other place on business he would rent several costly suites in a hotel, and had many visitors.

Others topped with Finney when the crank came. His partner, Leonard C. Caldwell, was arrested. The state treasurer, Tom Boyd, is under $26,000 bond on charges of converting state funds to the use of himself and Finney.

Tongues are awag with tales of those who enjoyed the hospitality of Finney, and shocked Kansans are hearing stories of gay parties among women employes of the state and their bosses in Finney's hotel suite.

Girl Is Questioned. Federal authorities, in their investigation, questioned a beautiful 19-year-old singer, Vivian Truesy, who worked in the treble for a time and was known as a friend of Finney. Miss Truesy, who said that Finney had promised to help her launch a career in the movies, is expected to be a witness at Finney's trial.

Then Federal authorities revealed that in their checkup of a Topeka bank they had disclosed some suspicious bonds deposited as collateral, and the story broke like a bomb shell. The bonds were traced to Finney, and Governor Landon immediately ordered Finney's arrest and put the state treasury under control of the militia.

HOG RELIEF PLAN IS NOW UNDER WAY

Growers Rush Crop to Markets All Over the Western States.

Washington (AP)—Of all the emergency crop-surplus relief plans, that offered hog raisers is the most simple and direct.

The cotton farmer had to plow up 10,000,000 acres, enter contracts with the government and await his benefit check. The wheat farmer will have to set up county organizations and contract for his individual domestic allotment.

There is none of that for the hog producer. If he has healthy pigs weighing between 25 and 100 pounds or sows weighing more than 270 pounds which are about to farrow, he has merely to take them to his nearest livestock dealer and collect the federal premium price.

Big Response At St. Louis. Indicative of the response from producers was the first day's rush at St. Louis, where 50,000 pigs from five states taxed the facilities of stockyards.

The government plan calls for 4,000,000 pigs and 1,000,000 sows between now and October 1, the processed meat to be sold to the emergency relief administration for distribution to the needy.

The farmer will get from $8 per hundredweight on pigs between 96 and 100 pounds and $9.50 on those ranging from 25 to 90 pounds, less specified market differentials based on the distance from the nearest shipping point and nearest authorized processing point to Chicago.

Livestock dealers will pay the open market price on sows without the unstarated rise of 25 to 30 per cent in the open market price of hogs—a result of the emergency program are expected to add between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 gross to the farm income from hogs during the next marketing period.

Secretary Wallace has figured the farmer a short cut to benefits. Assuming the price of fat hogs next winter would be $8 per hundredweight a 225-pound animal would bring $18.75. The emergency price schedule is $8 on 60-pound pigs or $4.36 each; it would take 16 bushels of corn to fatten a 60-pound pig which at a minimum of 50 cents a bushel would make the feed bill $8.

When the extra feed cost is subtracted from the probable gross return of $18.75 on the finished hog, less than $1 would accrue to the owner for market risks and work in the longer feeding period.

It is the purpose of the program eventually to take out of every six hogs out of corn feed, the number equivalent to the decrease in annual export of hog products since 1929. The difference between exports in 1929 and the peace-time peak in 1923 was approximately 8,000,000 hogs.

THREE POLLING PLACES.

Whenever an election calls the adult population of Manchester to the Municipal Building a very large majority of the voters carry away with them, we are convinced, the impression that a single polling place for a community of 23,000 persons, nearly nine thousand of whom are voters, is not enough.

It is very much to be doubted if there is, in the whole length and breadth of the United States one other town or city as large as Manchester that expects all its voters to gather on election day at the same polls.

It is not necessary to go haywire over the subject of multiple election precincts. No one here would entertain for a moment the setting up of a system of precincts as overblown as that which Hartford created for itself some years ago with considerably more than fifty precincts.

This was recognized here several years ago and provision was made for more polling places in the Manchester charter amendment legislation of 1929—which was defeated in a referendum because it also contained, along with other things, provision for both school and fire department consolidation.

We are not entirely convinced that such special Legislative authorization for the establishment of voting districts is really necessary. Since the general law puts it up to the selectmen of towns to provide a polling place for the holding of elections, with certain facilities for every so many voters, and since it also bestows upon boards of selectmen the powers common to common councils in cities, it may possibly be that competent legal authority could be found for the setting up of whatever election districts might be deemed necessary either by action of the board or of a town meeting or both.

The Municipal Building is no place to hold elections, anyhow. It is a handsome structure but it was not planned to accommodate swarming thousands of steaming elections on a stormy day, and every election takes more out of the building's immaculateness than a full year of ordinary wear and tear.

We think of this town as getting along with one polling place. As a matter of fact it doesn't. It sets up, at each election, two polling places—both under the same roof. One is for men, the other for women.

about the voters of the West Side.

By such a division it would be possible to conduct the largest possible election without the constant fear of not being able to receive the votes of all the electors coming to the polls—with, perhaps, some day the invalidation of an election in consequence.

The expense would not be great even if some other place than the Municipal Building should be provided at the Center, and the matter is really a very urgent one.

It is to be hoped that the new Board of Selectmen will place it on their agenda—and keep it in sight until we have adopted a more rational and much safer election day system.

POLITICAL "BONER."

It may turn out that the immense NRA parade in New York yesterday, magnificently successful as a demonstration of the city's co-operation in the restoration program, was nevertheless held at the expense of any prospect of the metropolis' delivery from the grip of the Tammany wasters.

The effect of this, in a city whose population has become convinced that its interests and those of "Wall Street" are invariably in direct opposition, can hardly fail to immensely increase public sympathy with the mayor and his political affiliates; and not in small measure, either, but to the extent of hundreds of thousands of individuals who were just about ready to help turn the Tiger out.

If the ten thousand financial district paraders who yesterday booted O'Brien had kept their tongues between their teeth on that occasion and then had gone to the polls in November and voted for him they would have done far less toward helping to keep Tammany in control of the city than they accomplished by this demonstration.

Not one New Yorker in a hundred will care a hoot about the merits of the quarrel between O'Brien and the exchanges. They will only take notice of the fact that the mayor proposes taxing "Wall Street" so heavily that "Wall Street" threatens to move out of town.

THE COAL MESS. In the highly provocative coal situation the government is up against something besides a mere bitter, dogged determination on the part of many operators to ruin, if possible, the whole plan of government control of business.

They know perfectly well that sooner or later they will have to conform to a code acceptable to the NRA or that, as an alternative, the government will take over the mines. There is every reason to believe that their strategy calls for yielding at the very last moment short of surrender. They can cash in on their cheaply mined surplus stocks.

will be able to declare that there is no market for their product sufficient to keep the mines in operation for more than a limited part-time schedule.

Every day of delay in settling the bituminous coal problem contributes to the pocketbooks of these people and to the strength of their position as enemies of the NRA movement.

DIFFERENCE AT TOP. We are in receipt of the following inquiry from a thoughtful High School student who seems to have much in common with a good many older persons who, like him, have been unable to find the answer to a current puzzle:

Editor of the Herald: Can you explain the real difference between Socialism, Fascism and Nazism. These crowds seem to be fighting each other all over Europe but I haven't been able to find out why.

Student could have asked us something easier and we're not sure that we are glad he didn't. We may be wrong about it, but our notion is that the difference between Socialism, Fascism and Nazism is all, so to speak, from the neck up.

Socialism contemplates putting everybody to work in the job for which each is best fitted, usually with the masses running the show. Fascism contemplates putting everybody to work in the job for which each is fitted, with the more intelligent and the better educated running the show.

Probably this isn't much help to Student. But our experience is that he can read several hundred times as many words on this general subject without getting much help.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Organization Started to Protect Consumers in Recovery Program. Will Co-operate With A. A. A. Official Check. Committee of NRA Had Ceased to Function After Hearing on Lumber.

Washington, Sept. 14.—Consumers, who must pay for the recovery program, may yet overcome their weakness by organization. Designed to protect buyers against unfair prices, a Consumers Council has been established in Washington which its sponsors hope will serve as a model for other American cities.

Washington has been divided into 500 zones with about 250 families in each. Some chairmen, nearly all women, will receive complaints and check them with the bi-weekly consumers' price guide issued by Dr. Fred C. Howe, consumers' counsel at the Agricultural Adjustment Administration—as well as with anything similar to be issued later by the NRA Consumers' Advisory Board.

By PAUL HARRISON. New York, Sept. 14.—There just isn't any explaining the popularity of Broadway's so-called "hot spots"—those places where it is almost a ritual for celebrities of the thoroughfares to gather at various times for various purposes. One day they all may be found having their combination breakfast and lunch at a cheap cafeteria, and a rather expensive restaurant.

THE 'KANSAS PONZI' SOON TO BE TRIED. Ronald Finney, Accused Forger, Was a Lavish Spender and "Big Shot" Operator.

Topeka, Sept. 14.—A few months ago Ronald Finney was an amazingly successful young bond broker occupying a lavish suite in a hotel here, spending freely and living gayly, and known and respected throughout the state. He was a man of wealth and influence, friend and intimate of the state's best people, and a dramatic figure because of the swiftness of his rise.

Finney was accused of forging and marketing bonds in excess of $1,000,000. The exact amount will not be known until the gigantic maze of his financial dealings is worked out.

Finney had private wires to Washington, Chicago and Kansas City. He had a personal representative at an expensive hotel in Washington, about which the federal government has manifested curiosity. He lived expensively and maintained three private airplanes and a fleet of expensive autos.

Finney's sudden arrest in August, the story of his operations began to come to light. He is accused of forging issues of municipal and state bonds and appears a few, if any, of these forged bonds reached the hands of the public. They were placed in banks as collateral for the deposit of state funds, in some instances. In others, presumably, they were used in brokerage offices.

Finney bought the 101 Ranch Oklahoma at a foreclosure sale and sent it to Chicago for exhibition at the World Fair. One day Finney and a group of bankers and oil men from Oklahoma were watching a performance and were particularly pleased by the elephant act. Finney announced: "I bought a fine and com-mended. Put on the elephant act again. I like that."

Finney liked to impress his friends by presenting them with venison, and many a fine steak in the circus days was sacrificed to satisfy this whim. Generous to Charity. Finney financed the vacations of state employees who went to a ranch he owned. His partner, trip tickets in his gifts to charities always stipulating that his name not be used. When his daughter, Mary Virginia, was ill with pneumonia, he obtained a costly physician's fee. The text never used, but Finney bought it and gave it to a hospital in Emporia.

Finney was arrested. He was charged with forging bonds and operating a Ponzi scheme. He was accused of forging issues of municipal and state bonds and appears a few, if any, of these forged bonds reached the hands of the public. They were placed in banks as collateral for the deposit of state funds, in some instances. In others, presumably, they were used in brokerage offices.

a friend of Finney, Miss Tracey, who said that Finney had promised to help her launch a career in the movies, is expected to be a witness at Finney's trial. She declares, however, that she was "too dumb" to know anything about his operations. There was no hint of trouble in the affairs of the youthful skyrocket plunger until mid-summer. Then Federal authorities revealed that in their checkup of a Topeka bank they had disclosed some spurious bonds deposited as collateral, and the story broke like a bombshell.

HOG RELIEF PLAN IS NOW UNDER WAY

Growers Rush Crop to Markets All Over the Western States.

Washington (AP)—Of all the emergency crop-surplus relief plans, that offered hog raisers is the most simple and direct. The cotton farmer had to plow up 10,000,000 acres, enter contracts with the government and await his benefit check. The wheat farmer had to set up a county organization and contract for his individual domestic allotment.

Big Response At St. Louis. Indicative of the response from producers was the first day's rush from five states where the facilities of stockyards. The government plan calls for 4,000,000 pigs and 1,000,000 sows between now and October 1, the result of the emergency program are expected to add between $125,000,000 and $150,000,000 gross to the farm income from hogs during the next marketing period.

Secretary Wallace has figured the farmer a short cut to benefits. Assuming the price of fat hogs next winter would be $6 per hundredweight, a 225-pound animal would bring $13.50. The emergency price schedule is $8 on 60-pound pigs or $4.80 each. It would take 16 bushels of corn to fatten a 60-pound pig which at a minimum of 50 cents a bushel would make the feed bill $8.

When the extra feed cost is subtracted from the probable gross return of $13.50 on the finished hog, less than $1 would accrue to the owner for market risk and work in the longer feeding period. It is the purpose of the program eventually to take on out of every six hogs out of corn belt feed lots, the number equivalent to the decrease in annual export of hogs—a product since 1923. The difference between exports in 1932 and was approximately 8,000,000 hogs.

Die to Increased European Hog Production, principally in Germany and Denmark. American exports of pork and lard last year were the smallest in 121 1/2 years. INTENTIONAL DUPE

OCEAN OIL WELL YIELDS 80 TONS

Tap Fuel Tanks of Sunken Submarine S-51 and Draw Out Big Supply.

Difficulties encountered in the salvage of treasure from sunken ships are often much greater than anticipated by ocean treasure seekers, according to Commander Ellsberg, U. S. Navy, retired, who was salvage officer in the raising of the ill-fated submarine S-51. Commander Ellsberg, now chief engineer of the Tydol Oil Company, cited from his experience a curiosity in the way of salvage from the bottom of the sea. He describes the episode as "tapping an ocean oil well."

"In order to lighten the sunken S-51, we resolved to empty the fuel tanks. A diver descended to the submarine taking with him two hose lines, which he coupled to valves leading to the fuel tanks. Then he telephoned 'On deck. All set. Turn on the air.' We turned on the pressure, while we anxiously watched the open end of the air hose. Soon we saw spurting from the hose and the bilges of the rescue-ship, Falcon. Another minute, and a dirty mixture of water and oil gushed out—then followed a solid stream of good usable fuel which dropped the side of the hose through a manhole over one of the Falcon's oil tanks.

"For several hours, the S-51 spouted oil from the ocean bottom into the Falcon's tanks, a gift which caused the chief engineer of the rescue ship to smile with satisfaction. More than thirty tons of oil flowed through the hose before midnight that night, about which time the stream, following the precedent of many a gusher in the oil fields turned out smiles to groans by changing to salt water. Finally, nothing but air came out of the hose, and we knew we had emptied the sunken submarine's tank."

OLD MEN AND CHILDREN TO HELP TO HARVEST

Men from 60 to 80 Years of Age Called Out by the Soviet Government.

Moscow, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Communist Party authorities in the north Caucasus, who recently organized children from kindergarten age to sixteen years to help in the harvest, decided today to call on men between 60 and 80 years old to assist in collective farm work.

"Let's get down to business, old men!" said an appeal issued by the regional committee of the party.

Superannuated peasants will serve as inspectors of winter wheat sowing, and it is expected that their experience will raise the quality of the work. The men are to be organized into the "Old Collective Farmers Guard" and they have been promised wages and food equal to those received by collective farm "Shock brigades."

Children organized for the harvest performed such tasks as guarding the crop against dissident elements and cleaning the fields.

JAPANESE MINISTER RESIGNS HIS POST

Count Yasuya Uchida Is Succeeded by Koki Hirota, Member of the Army Clique.

Tokyo, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The resignation of Count Yasuya Uchida as Japanese foreign minister today was immediately followed by the appointment to that position of Koki Hirota, described as a staunch Nationalist closely connected with the Army clique.

The change was halted as presaging an increased Nationalistic and uncompromising Japanese foreign policy.

Failing health was given as the official reason for Count Uchida's resignation, but reactionary pressure in favor of Hirota was authoritatively considered a major factor. Meanwhile, General Sadao Araki, minister of war, advocated strengthening of defense means because of American sympathy and aid to China and the presence of the American Atlantic fleet in Pacific waters.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

A razor blade shortage —and its cause

AMAZING public response—far exceeding our most optimistic estimates—greeted Gillette's drastic price reduction.

At this writing many wholesalers and retail dealers are out of stock. The factory cannot keep pace with demand. The reason for this is very simple. Quality must be maintained at any cost. This instruction is law in our factory.

In fact—today inspection is even more rigid than ever. Each operation is supervised with extreme care. We are pledged to a continuance of the highest standards of excellence.

Expansion to meet present demand without lessening quality now is being attained. If your dealer is out of blades his stock should be replenished within a few days.

In the meantime we ask your indulgence and trust you will have no difficulty in finding a store which has Gillette, Probak and Valet AutoStrop blades.

NOTE TO DEALERS:

In our effort to fill a tremendous volume of orders and at the same time forward your adjustments as promised, deliveries of Gillette, Probak and Valet AutoStrop blades are slightly behind. As soon as possible, consistent with the statements above, your shipment will go forward.

For the LOVE OF EVE

by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY
EVE BAYLESS, pretty assistant to EARLE BARNES, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries DICK RADER, a construction superintendent. Dick wants Eve to stop working but she refuses.

Unknown to Dick, Eve plays the stock market on borrowed money. ARLENE SMITH, stenographer at Bixby's, buys stock on Eve's advice but loses all her money. SAM HOLEBRIDGE, an advertising man employed by another store, is infatuated with Arlene.

MONA ALLEN, copy writer, dislikes Eve and is responsible for several errors at the office for which Eve is blamed. Several small thefts occur in the office. Then Eve's diamond ring disappears. Eve suspects Mona and demands that she return the ring. Mona gives it to her.

The building on which Dick has been working is completed and his employers tell him they will have no more work for him for at least two months. He and Eve spend a brief vacation visiting Eve's parents. The day after their return Eve is amazed when a policeman enters the office and asks for "Miss Bayless."

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIV
Eve stared at the policeman. What could be possibly want of her? "I'm Miss Bayless," she said. "What is it?"
"Headquarters wants to talk to you about that accident last Thursday night. The man who was hit has informed us and there's some question about your bill."

Eve insisted that she had been out of the state for two weeks and had returned only the day before. She turned to Arlene and Mrs. Penney to substantiate her statement but this did not satisfy the officer.

"I'd call Mr. Barnes, the advertising manager, to tell you what I'm saying is the truth but he's out of town today," Eve explained. "And Mr. Bixby is away too!"

"Well, you'd better come along and tell it to the sergeant," the officer told her.

Eve went with him, her eyes blazing. Why couldn't they have sent a plain clothes man instead of an officer in uniform? She insisted upon telephoning Dick who was at the police station. Dick demanded to see the officer who had made the arrest the week before. When he arrived he confirmed the name but assured them Eve was not the girl.

"Who do you suppose could have used my name?" Eve asked. Dick called for a description of the girl and immediately they guessed it must have been Mona Allen.

Back to the store went Eve, accompanied by the officer who had made the arrest. She was deeply humiliated by the stares of the other employees as they passed.

Mona was at her desk when Eve and the policeman reached the advertising office. The girl's face blanched and a frightened look came into her eyes.

"There's the girl!" the officer said, pointing at Mona. "Thought you said your name was Eve Bayless! Well, you'd better come along with me. The sergeant wants to see you."

And Mona, without a word, obeyed.

"She'd rather see the sergeant than see me tonight now," Eve told Arlene and Mrs. Penney. "She and some man were riding in a rented coupe last Thursday night and they crashed into another car on University Circle. Of course I was out of town and she thought she would get away with giving them my name."

Next morning Eve followed Barnes to his private office as soon as he arrived. It was high time, she had decided that he learned something of Mona Allen's indiscretions. Eve told him of the incident. He agreed with her that it was serious and then rang for Mona. He dismissed Eve, however, who had hoped to be present for the interview.

Mona did not reappear for at least half an hour. Then she came from Barnes' office, dabbing her eyes with a handkerchief, and passed through the room into the corridor.

"Tears!" sniffed Arlene. "She cried and I suppose he fell for it. Pretty soon she'll be back to tell you she's sorry. As though anything that will undo all the trouble she has caused. The little sneak!"
And that is exactly what Mona did. "I'm awfully sorry," she told Eve in a contrite voice. "Will you forgive me?"
Eve felt obliged to say she would, though the humiliation of that trip to police court still rankled.

SMART FALL STATIONERY IDEAS YOU'LL WANT TO ADOPT TO THE LETTER!

Designs Express Individuality—White, Pastel Shades Modish

For the man or woman of letters, simplicity is the keynote for stationery design. These exhibits, ranging from the traditional monogram to the unique piano-board insignia, reflect the trend of the newest letter-head styles.

New York—Stationery should have one design in stationery serve to express your individuality this fall. Never has there been such an attractive array of colors and designs. It's positively a joy to go shopping for letter paper these days.

The gay little co-ed will love stationery which has the name of her admirer, as well as that of her college, engraved on the top of the paper.

Other college women are apt to choose writing paper which has personal initials in one corner, address in the other, and a broad diagonal stripe in the college colors running across the top of the paper. Anyone lucky enough to have a picturesque country or town house ought not pass up a chance to have a photograph of it engraved for a striking stationery design.

For those living at the beach or near a lake, why not carry a nautical idea on your choice of stationery? What could be nicer than an anchor, with perhaps a fish near it, in one corner? If you write little invitations on such paper, there'll be no doubt in your guests' minds as to what kind of wearing apparel to bring along for their visit with you.

A lady who has a summer camp in the mountains would do well to have a pine tree engraved in one corner of her writing paper. As an economy proposition as well as a splendid idea, why not knew—wives like Esther who could, if they choose, take a nap in a cool, shaded room or spend the afternoon on an airy porch or lawn. And she thought enviously of women like Mr. Bixby's wife and daughters at mountain or seaside resorts with nothing more arduous to do than to change from one charming costume to another.

She told herself that when her stock market investments materialized, she, too, would have a pleasant, easy life.
Another thing that vexed Eve was her inability to take advantage of the many bargains that heaped Bixby's counters as the summer waned. All of her salary except the small sum necessary for lunches and incidentals went into Atlas Coupler. And of course she had Arlene after Mona had left the office one evening, wearing a new hat. "Do you suppose she ever looks ahead at all—ever thinks of investing for the future?"

"She was looking to the future when she bought that come-hither hat. A good investment, too! She looks so sweet and innocent in it she'd almost be inclined to buy myself. If she could hold that pose long enough I believe she could marry some one really worth while. But the mistake she makes is in going out with any man who invites her. She thinks it makes her more popular to have to say 'yes' every evening. Well, it's just reckless for her to be seen with some of the men who take her about. Sam and I are always meeting her and Sam knows about some of the men she goes with. None of them are much good. One is married and another is an out-and-out racketeer. Sam thinks I ought to do something about it—be an uplifting influence in her young life and see that she meets some decent men."

"Did you tell him how she edged her way into Fred's party and how she repaid me for the invitation to mine?" Eve asked.
"Heavens, no! He'd just think me catty and he might even decide to rescue her himself."
"Do you know," Arlene went on thoughtfully, "I've sometimes wondered why she doesn't try to vamp Barnes. The fact that he's married wouldn't make any difference to her. She's the kind of dumb Dora who'd believe any man—even Mr. Bixby himself—could be vamped if she went about it in the right way."

"I'll always be glad for my business experience," Arlene continued. "If I marry I'll never be jealous of the girls in my husband's office. I'll know the average man has about all he can do when he supports a wife, a couple of kids, a river and a radio set and that probably he hates the way his stenog-

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

As a child who has been to the movies and he can tell you about everything in it. Not only that, but a month later, when the story has passed into limbo as far as you are concerned, he can go over the whole thing in detail and give you the name of nearly every actor in the cast.

Inquire of the same child what he has learned in school today and it won't be so concise or so clear. Examine him on it a month later and perhaps it has stuck but perhaps not.

Naturally the comparison between a moving picture and school work is not quite fair, because a movie is a complete story told in an hour and lessons are only parts of the grade unit, divided up into bits. In other words the work is progressive. As a child looks back he may forget parts of the picture, but the very different way in which it is presented, I think, shows partly where the trouble lies. Interest never lasts when anything is too long drawn out, and when interest fades memory does not cling.

Would Speed Learning
This is why I believe that if motion pictures, or even stills, could be used more in school work, we would find not only better memories, but a definite shortening of the grade years.
True, there are those studies that develop reasoning such as arithmetic. This could go on as usual. And other subjects such as spelling need not be dramatized to be remembered, although spelling too could be aided considerably by dressing it up to a point of interest.

The text book would be needed in any case to fix facts and to clarify vague points with long explanations. Everything on every subject could be possibly handled in pictures. There would still be facts to fill.

I cannot sit at my desk and pretend to suggest any complete plan of presenting school subjects on the screen so as to co-ordinate it with present day methods. It would have to be begun first and worked out with time.

Costly—But Worth It
But when you get an agent as moving pictures exist almost "tupid not to use it where it will do the greatest good, instead of segregating it, as it is today, as a mere means of recreation. It is like growing flax first to see its beautiful blue blossoms, or an orange grove for its color.

Reels for instruction could be used over and over. Besides, when worn the cost of retakes would be negligible. Original investments would be considerable, but the time saved to children would also be time a money saved for taxpayers.

I wish the educational boards of each state would get together and make a definite move in this direction. Talk gets us nowhere—we have talked for years. Dr. Finnegan, when he lived, was the good angel of this movement. But one man could not do it all. It needs concerted effort, and above all, action.

New Hampshire, Vermont and South Dakota pay their governors the least salary of any states in the Union—$3,000 a year.

raphy wears her hair, brudges the time she spends powdering her nose and wishes she knew how to spell and punctuate correctly!

This was a long speech for Arlene. Somehow it comforted Eve. In the present state of his finances Dick was in no position to philander, even if he were so inclined.

Eve tried to put aside her resentment at the fact that her husband did not seem to worry over his unemployment. She did, however, resent his refusal several times to meet her downtown and lunch with her. Twice he packed a lunch, stowed his high boots and fishing tackle into the roaster and, after leaving her at Bixby's, was off for a day's fishing. When he returned in the evening, happy and triumphant, with a string of catfish and blue gills, she refused to eat any of the fish, and sulked through the meal like a spoiled child.

Dick said nothing. He gave up the excursions, Eve knew, because he no longer took his fishing tackle along. What he did with his day after that he did not tell her and she was too proud to ask.

Eve could not know that events were shaping swiftly to separate them and that she was to look back on her selfish, childish conduct in shame and remorse.

You will be happy to wear a gay printed cotton frock like this one. The white pique collar, pulled sleeve and a pleated skirt lend style.

In this pleasing frock, the full waist portions are mounted on yoke portions cut in square outline and topped by a girlish collar, and the pleated skirt provides an attractive and comfortable fullness. Simply made, it is designed in four sizes: 6, 8, 10, 12. Size 8 requires 2 1/2 yards of 36-inch material, plus 3/4 yard, contrast, for the collar and belt.

FAVORS "VACATIONS" FOR MOTHERS

Ella Winter, Author, Says She and Son Gain By Separation Believes Fathers Share In Child Training.

Carmel, Calif.—Ella Winter is a firm believer in the efficacy of a part-time-mother plan of life.

One year she is off to Europe, Mexico or Australia for a long stay, gathering material for a book, articles, or lectures. The next year she settles down here, takes over the management of the house, becomes a home-maker, gardener and companion for her author-husband, Lincoln Steffens, and their eight-year-old son, Pete.

Whichever Miss Winter happens to be doing at the moment consumes her entire attention. There is no time for the suppressed wish I could be doing something else" about her that makes so many American women discontented. When in Russia, she concentrated on getting facts for her "Red Virtue," a book on new Russia, with an absolutely unworried mind because of the home-maker, gardener and companion for her author-husband, Lincoln Steffens, and their eight-year-old son, Pete.

Now, at home, Miss Winter revels in cooking, dishwashing, mending, playing tiddle-de-winks with her horseback or on a bicycle with him.

"I really like housework, you know," she said, in her crisp English voice (she's actually an Australian). "And I adore gardening. Did you notice our Italian cypress? They remind Stef and me of Italy, where Pete was born. And of course we had to plant all English flowers in our garden (which is a riotous bower of bloom right this minute). And we are really proud of our vegetable garden. It's the best bourgeois garden in all of California."

Mr. and Mrs. Steffens have always held the view that a woman should have her work, just as much as a man. So Miss Winter always has had. Her interests are very broad, having specialized in economics, having a career and have children served as assistant to Felix Frankfurter at the Peace Conference. She later went to Germany and took psychology with some of Berlin's leading professors. Whenever she decides there is something in the world somewhere that she wants to go see about, she goes, and it's all right with Steffens.

"Why shouldn't fathers have more part in bringing up children than they usually have?" she answers criticisms about her leaving her son. "I think Pete proves that it is a good thing. He's a fine little rough-neck, not anything of a molylodycoddle about him. Moreover, I believe that getting away from her child gives a mother a valuable perspective. We have definite ideas about the education of Pete. And they do not call for my being here every minute."

Pete himself is 100 per cent boy, adds playing cowboy, riding and reading such things as Robinson Crusoe and Charles Lindbergh's story. He gets a tremendous kick out of having a mother who went to Russia and wrote a book and gave lectures on it. And he adores having her telephone him long distance clear from New York or send him cables on Christmas or his birthday. The very fact that she is not there all the time makes her seem more valuable to Pete.

The idea is that it won't matter much how details are settled, provided popular sentiment is sufficiently aroused to demand a result. Here is the present mountainous business of arousing.

In every class of officialdom this gigantic experiment is the talk of the town. Already it has so greatly altered the stature of an institution. Like the American flivver, it even has developed its own lore of humorous stories playing on the difficulties of code-making.

General Johnson, the administrator, is the magnet of constant attraction. His press conference attracts the news writers as does no other part of the passing show at Washington. And they find the nature of the plan, with an evident confidence it can be worked out somehow.

Their difficulties emerge directly from the fact that everything depends on a sweeping change in economic relationships. Heretofore, for instance, no one ever bothered because industries overloaded here and there in certain of their functions. Under the old system that didn't matter.

It matters a great deal under the new. The line of demarcation must be drawn pretty clearly because each industry's job to have its own code. The ship-building industry goes into one pigeon-hole, for instance, and the structural steel industry into another. But what is to be done about that large section of the ship-building industry which essentially is nothing in the world but structural steel?

The Final Question
But the one question asked oftenest by administration officials relates to no such technical problem as this. It is simply: "To what degree can the public be relied upon to give its continuing support to this venture?"
That, as Washington sees it, really is the only "it" in the equation.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

HABIT SPASMS OF CHILD OFTEN DUE TO NERVE STRAIN
Blinking and Jerking of Head Are Common Forms

Habit spasms often appear in children, both boys and girls, between six years of age and adolescence. They appear most often in children who have been ill or who have been badly nourished, or who suffer greatly with nerve strain due to mental difficulties at home. The most common forms of habit spasms are those affecting the face or head, with blinking of the eyes, sudden shaking of the head or shrugging of the shoulders. Sometimes there is also a jerking of the hands or a motion directed by the hand toward the face, or a repeated clearing of the throat.

The condition called "habit spasms" is not to be confused with chorea, a rheumatic disorder. The movements of habit spasms differ from those of chorea by being quicker and also by being repeated continually in the same way. The movements of chorea are irregular and vary constantly.

A child with chorea is likely to have worse movements when being watched by adults, whereas the child with habit spasms is likely to discontinue the movements. The child with this bad habit is likely to have also excitability and obstinacy, to sleep badly and to suffer with headaches. Because of the imitative nature of children, such habit spasms sometimes develop almost like an epidemic in schools.

As such conditions are largely mental, treatment must be applied to the mental side. It is important to find out the difficulties in the home that are associated with the trouble and to regulate these. All sources of distress, such as fear of punishment, must be stopped.

Such children do well with encouragement and pleasantness. It is not well to scold or rebuke the child with this habit, as this keeps his attention fixed on his habit. If the child is badly nourished, or otherwise ill it should, obviously, be removed from school and given an opportunity to recover. Plenty of sleep is of the greatest importance and also plenty of good food.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart
COIFFURES SHORTER FOR AUTUMN.
Coiffures for bobbed hair are shorter this fall. Generally speaking, bobbed hair should be about three or four inches in front, two inches on the sides, and even shorter in back.

Bangs are particularly chic, but they are different from the old-fashioned kind which covered the forehead almost completely. The new bangs are light, airy ones with new forehead spacings. Sometimes they are on either side of a center part, and in center space completely. Again they are worn only on one side. And occasionally in the middle with the sides of the forehead showing.

Side curls have a casual air about them. They are very becoming to young girls and if you are the type for them, by all means have some. They should be worn quite far toward the front over the temples. Don't be afraid to expose your ears. Of course, it's a good idea to take careful stock of your ears before you decide to wear them uncovered. No one showing them if they aren't pretty ones, and less use in covering them up if they are nice.

Keep your neckline smooth and high. There is no place for straggling locks in this fall's bobbed hair coiffures.

Don't decide on a particular style of hair cut until you are sure that it will be becoming to you. The best way, of course, is to put yourself in the hands of an expert and let him plan your coiffure for you.

You can't expect your new fall evening gowns to flatter you unless your arms and elbows are white and smooth.

Evening frocks are all-revealing. They simply won't hide discolored elbows or rough, too-tanned arms and shoulders.

Bleaching treatments for your face can be used on arms and shoulders. Remember that the skin on your arms is not apt to be as tender as that on your face, and undiluted lemon juice can be used freely on them.

The bleaching creams serve double duty. They bleach the skin, and soften it as well. Your hand lotion plays an important part in fall treatments of arms and shoulders. Use it on them each time you apply it to your hands.

Elbows should be scrubbed with a little nail brush each time you bathe. If they are very discolored, use a bit of pumice on them after they have been soaked in sudsy warm water.

It is a good idea always to keep a piece of lemon in your bathroom. Use it frequently on both hands and elbows. A bottle of liquid powder is invaluable when you are getting ready to don a party gown. Not only does it cover up the remainder of your summer tan, but it dries on thoroughly and doesn't rub off on your evening wrap or four-partner's dark suits.

SPORTS WRITER HOOKS 200-POUND SWORDFISH

Correspondent Goes Out for Finney Monster and Finds Himself With Two-Hour Fight on His Hands; Here's Story of Battle.

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Sports Writer

Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Sept. 14.—All you sport fishermen who haven't caught a wild, leaping, man-sized marlin swordfish have missed the angling world's supreme thrill. Your correspondent knows, because he captured one of these sea monsters, weighing 202 pounds, in a wild two-hour battle.

Think of the biggest, swiftest trout or bass you ever caught. Then visualize your trout or bass weighing from 100 to 400 pounds, with the whole Pacific to tear around in, and you'll get a rough idea of what swordfishing is like. Oddly enough, this swordfishing expedition had me worried. Frankly, I was afraid. For one who never caught a fish larger than 10 pounds the thought of fighting one of these tigers of the sea was perturbing, to say the least.

Captain Earl Wood and Harry Steiger tried to console me as the former pointed the prow of his neat little fishing launch, Maimae, seaward. While the boat pushed its way through the ultra-blue water of Avalon, Skipper Wood introduced me to the mysteries of baiting a hook with a half-pound flying fish. He stuck the barb through the nose of the bait, and sewed it securely with heavy thread.

Our tackle included a split bamboo rod seven feet long, a huge, automatic drag reel containing 1,800 feet of 55-pound test line, and a four-foot hook. Such an outfit is termed heavy tackle by the Tuna Club of Avalon, and is used mostly by amateur anglers. Veteran fishermen go after the marlin with lighter tackle.

Three miles out of Avalon we threw out two "teasers," one on each side of the boat. The teasers are dead flying fish tied to 50 yards of line, and serve merely to whet the appetite of Mr. Swordfish for the real bait.

Skipper Wood throttled the boat down to about three knots an hour. The teaser and the bait skipped over the water in the craft's silvery wake.

WILL HE BEER UP?
While boxing follows the country over watch this bum and that bum in dull bouts, the finest piece of potential fighting machinery that has come along since Dempsey lies rusting in Hollywood. The battling gadget to which this refers is Max Adelerber.

Here is the saber-toothed savior of boxing, and he is being allowed to stand around at a time when he should be at the peak of his fighting form, or to go through silly gestures with that bumptious blemish, Primo Carnera, while he waits for a prize fight. It is termed heavy tackle by the Tuna Club of Avalon, and is used mostly by amateur anglers. Veteran fishermen go after the marlin with lighter tackle.

Here is Max Baer, the hardest hitter in the game, and a fighter with a real ring instinct, frittering away time that should be spent improving himself for the battle that is sure to come with Carnera. Max proved he had a punch and that he could take it but was hard to hit when he fought Schmeling. But he showed also in that fight that he lacked certain ring finesse that he will need when he steps into the ring against the big clubber from Italy.

"Y" BOWLING ALLEYS RE-OPENED FOR FALL

Now that the evenings are cooler, bowlers are finding their way to the Y alleys. The alleys have been resurfaced and refurnished. More comfortable chairs have also been added to the bleachers. Since the alleys opened two seasons ago, bowlers have been consistently hitting high scores, the reason being the perfect condition of the alleys at all times, and the exclusive use of Brunswick Balke red neck duck pins. In order that groups and parties may not be disappointed reservations should be made by calling Mr. Hamilton at the Y. M. C. A., 7208. Each year more ladies take up bowling, and the Y alleys have an atmosphere that pleases the ladies.

WHO'S GONNA BEAT MICHIGAN IN BIG TEN FREE-FOR-ALL

Even With Harry Newman Gone, the Wolverines Have Them All Worried; Wealth of Veterans.

Chicago, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Just how vital Harry Newman, all-American game clincher, was to Michigan's football conquest last year may be answered in this year's Big Ten free-for-all.

Almost man for man the same Michigan team which, aided by innumerable Newman field goals, punt returns to touchdowns, forward passes to touchdowns, points after touchdowns, and what not, won the undisputed 1932 title, will take the field again this fall.

Except for the unique importance of Newman's part in Wolverine success, the roster of returning Michigan letter-writers would make the Maize and Blue almost an odd-odd favorite for the 1933 conference championship.

Even as it is, "Who's gonna stop Michigan?" is a question no Big Ten expert dares try to answer.

Such skilled backs as Fay, Reginald, Everhardus, Heston, Oliver, Tessenmer, Renner and Westover may, Kipke reasons, be able to combine their talents to execute some of the manifold chores Newman personally took care of last year.

As for the Maize and Blue line, the lone vacancy, that of Ivan Williamson at end, will be filled by no less an athlete than Willis Ward, negro track star who made his mark last year. At the other end will be Ted Petoskey, a first-rate flankman.

TALLY TWICE IN FIRST TO HUMBLE LEADERS IN OPENING SERIES CLASH

Cat New York Lead to 6 1-2 Games Hubbell Removed After Two Innings; Bucs Remain in Second Place Tie, Topping Braves 1-0; A's Split, Red Sox Win.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
A. F. Sports Writer

Chicago's home loving Cubs were credited with a first down toward the drive toward their goal of six straight victories over the league leading New York Giants and a real place in the National League pennant race. But there still were five games to go for a touchdown.

The Cubs weathered the difficulties of a rainy day. Carl Hubbell's famed pitching and what power the Giants bats could muster to win the opener 2-0 yesterday. It started out to be a double-header but after delays that totaled more than two hours had kept a crowd of 20,000 hanging around until 6 o'clock.

So far as the Giants were concerned the whole program was a bust. Their margin over the Cubs and the Pittsburgh Pirates who also won a game, was reduced to 6 1/2 games.

Bill Herman, Kiki Cuyler and Rube Stephenson capped singles to produce one run in the first. Then after a pass had loaded the bases, Adolph Camilli forced Frank Demaree at second and Bill Terry judged the relay safe as an attempted double-play long enough to let Cuyler score the second tally.

Pittsburgh did its share toward climbing up on the Giants and holding the second place tie with the Cubs by turning back the Boston Braves 1-0, behind the four hit pitching of Larry French.

GULF PERFECTS NEW ANTI-KNOCK GAS
 Unusual interest was shown today in the announcement by the Gulf Refining Company that it has perfected a new gasoline with a higher anti-knock rating. Coming at this time, the introduction of a gasoline with an octane rating higher by three to eight points commands the attention not only of the entire oil industry but millions of American motorists as well.

Gulf officials say that the newly perfected gasoline is available now at all Gulf service stations and dealers, and that there will be no increase in price over the prevailing price of popular gasolines.

New York Policeman Tells Why Most People Vanish

Why do missing persons disappear? The less able you are to work out its jigsaw puzzle.

There is one man in the United States who probably can give a better answer than anyone else to the question concerning the 300,000 human beings who yearly drop out of sight.

That person is Captain John H. Ayres, for 15 years head of the New York Police Department's Bureau of Missing Persons. He is the author of the book, "Missing Men," upon which is based the First National production, "Bureau of Missing Persons," which opens at the State theater on Sunday for three days with a large cast headed by Bette Davis, Pat O'Brien and Glenda Farrell. He is still head of that dramatic and little known phase of metropolitan police activities.

Captain Ayres has acquired an intimate knowledge of the lives, dispositions and character of more than 300,000 human beings during the past fifteen years.

They form the vast army of "missing persons" whose disappearance has been placed in the hands of his bureau for solution. Directly or indirectly, he has come to know "re vast majority of them better than most people know their intimate friends.

Here as a few of the conclusions Captain Ayres has reached about people who disappear.

Most missing persons vanish voluntarily. It's an attempt to escape from something that has grown intolerable in their hands.

Comparatively few are frightened away. Comparatively few are missing against their will—this, in spite of the alarming increase in kidnappings during the past few years.

Most amnesia cases are fakes. Now and then Captain Ayres runs across a genuine case of "lost identity" or lapse of memory. In most instances, however, the "amnesia" is an amateur performance which the skillful detective sooner or later exposes as a fraud.

More married women disappear than do single ones. Most people are apt to believe that loveless girls, or maidens with blighted romances, form the majority of missing women cases. Not so, declares Captain Ayres. It's the married women, and husbands who "don't understand them," or other purely domestic problems, who take to dropping out of sight.

More adults disappear than juveniles. The proportion, says Captain Ayres, is about 3 to 2. The older you get, the more likely life is to "get your goat," apparently, and

COAST GUARDS NAB FAST RUNNER

Have to Cripple Engine With Machine Gun Before Crew Surrenders.

New London, Sept. 14.—(AP)—The speed boat C-508 of New Bedford, Mass., was seized last night as a run-runner by a Coast Guard patrol boat from this port, off Cuttyhunk island. The speedboat carried 100 cases of liquor. Two men were taken prisoner. They gave their names as Vital Rose of 590 South Water street, New Bedford and William Kimball of 98 Merrimac street, New Bedford.

The return of the speedboat guard gunfire disabled the speedboat's single engine. Two Coast Guard boats participated in a chase preceding the capture and opened fire on the speed boat with machine guns when the speed boat failed to heed signals to halt. Machine gun fire was finally resorted to and bullets in the machine gun crippled the engine.

The speed boat was brought to this port and later taken to Woods Hole, Mass. She will be surrendered at Boston.

NEW PUTNAM PLANT
 Putnam, Sept. 14.—(AP)—Negotiations have been nearly completed by which a new weaving and finishing company to employ 75 persons when it reaches its maximum operation will take over 20,000 feet of floor space in the old Manhasett Manufacturing Company's plant. The machinery being installed comes from a factory in Central Falls, R. I.

NAME AUTO DIRECTORS
 Richmond, Va., Sept. 14.—(AP)—The roles of the officers and directors of the Hupp Motor Company were approved here yesterday at the annual stockholders meeting. Three directors whose terms expired were re-elected.

A number of proxies were cast in opposition to the management, the group being represented by F. W. Burnside, Jr.

ALARM SYSTEM DISRUPTED
 New Britain, Sept. 14.—(AP)—A large area in this city, including the Northwest district, was deprived of fire and police alarm service today when an automobile driven by Harold H. Sommer of 457 Blohm street, West Haven, struck a pole to which was a cable box controlling the alarm system in that territory.

Factories, schools and churches were without means of sending in a fire alarm except by telephone. Engine house No. 4 was isolated from the fire alarm system.

Sonner was arrested on a charge of reckless driving and passing a stop sign.

Replies to a questionnaire addressed to 16,000 out-of-state visitors to Oregon disclosed the average visitor spends $4.15 a day.

THE TWINKIES

(READ THE STORY. "HEN COLOR THE PICTURE")

The trip to Pet Land was real short. "Gee, lads, this is a lot of sport," said Goldy. "I've had lots of pets I never will forget. "Why, once I owned a little cat that said, 'meow-er,' just like that. The way it cuddled in my lap made it a dandy pet.

"Why, say, I had a dog, one time, and every time I put a dime right in its mouth," said Duncy. "It would run down to the store. "I would buy some candy. Yes, siree! And bring a bagful back to me." Oh, but you're a dreamer," Scouty cried. "You make me roar."

Their friend, the parrot, then cried out. "Say! We're in Pet Land. Look about and get acquainted with the pets that make this place their home.

"Walk right up to them. They won't mind, as long as you are very kind. You'll never find as nice pets, lads, no matter where you roam."

"Oh, look! A dog house," Dotty cried. "A pup just came out from inside." And then the pup began to bark. "Twas cute as it could be. "Hello, there, fellow," Scouty said. Then he began to stroke its head. "Before we leave I'm going to have you do some tricks for me!"

Right near the dog house was a cat and Windy shouted, "Look at that! That cat lives in a basket that's supposed to be for clothes. "However, that is nothing new, 'cause that's what most all house cats do. Such baskets make a comely place to moose in, goodness knows."

While all the rest were looking round, we Duncy shouted, "I have found a dandy tame canary. It's been singing merrily. "To prove to you that it's not my thumb. That's what it does, the minute that I say, 'come out for me!'"

What! No Fatted Calf!

SENSE and NONSENSE

Man—The bank has returned that check.
His Wife—Isn't that splendid! What can we buy with it this time?

Glenn—What's the matter with Brown? He looks glum.
Frank—He's been contesting his wife's will.
Glenn—I didn't know she was dead.
Frank—That's just it. She isn't.

Woman—You might say if you like my new bathing suit.
Her Husband—Sorry, darling, I didn't notice you had one on.

Sandy—Are ye coming to the movies, Mary?
Mary—Can't. I've no money with me.
Sandy—Oh well, can I meet you somewhere when I come out?
Dyer—I got a parrot for my wife yesterday.
Payne—You're lucky. I don't think I could find anybody willing to exchange.

If the home or the farm hadn't been such a swell place to mortgage a few years ago it might be a better place to live in now.

A BIT O' THIS AND O' THAT: Colors that run have a faculty of stopping in the most outlandish places. . . . Some lawyers are so abusive in court they should think they'd be ashamed to go home to their wives. . . . The principal function of a woman's stomach is to hold up her skirt. . . . A meal local fellow says every time he wants the company to go he asks the wife to sing something. . . . Some politicians are honest by nature and others have the door of public graft slammed in their faces. . . . The majority of persons who go on a diet in the morning hop off at noon. . . . A small fragile wife can see through her husband easily, no matter how big he is. . . . When most young couples embark upon the ship of matrimony, they are all at sea. . . . The reason the people pay the grocer instead of the doctor is because they know they will need the grocer again. . . . Most people are very pleasant as long as you don't try to collect. . . . If kissing is really an art—then more than one boy is a Bachelor of Arts. . . . It may be a load off mother's mind when daughter gets married, but think of the load it takes off dad's pocketbook. . . .

Judith—Grace keeps asking Harry if he'll love her when she gets old.
Edith—Well—she'll soon know.

As a means of hastening recovery, most everybody is willing for everybody else to make some sacrifices.

ABOUT TOWN

A well children's clinic will be held tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at the Health Center on Haynes street.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the South Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 at the home of Mrs. Robert Richmond of South Main street.

Royal Matron Mrs. Anna Robb of Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth, will fill the station of trustee at the meeting of Laurel Court of New Britain tomorrow evening. Supper at 8:30 will precede the business meeting.

Stuart Dillon of Robert Road entered upon his freshman year of study at Wesleyan University, Middletown today. He prepared at Williston.

Arvid Seaburg, general contractor, has completed all the alterations on the two stores which he remodels in the Farr block at the Center and both stores are now occupied, one by Potterton and Krah and the other by the Home Bakery.

Fully 150 attended the meeting of Manchester Grange in Odd Fellows hall last night. F. of H. members from Granby, West Sutfield and Windsor furnished an exceptionally good program. Visitors were also present from several other Granges in this state and Rhode Island. An enjoyable evening in the lodge hall was followed by a social time in the banquet hall, during which Mrs. Charles Howard and her committee served fruit salad, rolls, cup cakes and coffee.

Rev. F. C. Allen and Mrs. Allen will entertain the members of the Married Couples club on Saturday of this week at the Groton Long Point cottage of Mrs. Allen's parents, Rev. and Mrs. L. H. Dorchester.

Harold Richter, son of Rev. and Mrs. Karl Richter of Garden street, will leave tomorrow for Michigan State College at East Lansing, Mich., where he will enter his sophomore year.

B. C. Halladay, J. C. Robinson, Roland Dion, James Sargent, William F. Carlson and Clarence Anderson local Metropolitan Insurance agents will attend the convention to be held at the home office in New York city-September 14, 15, and 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard F. Hawley and daughter Evelyn have returned to their home on Benton street after spending a week at Giant's Neck.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Crowell and F. Gay Hastings of Highland Park are in New York City. They are stopping at The Roosevelt.

The Women of the Moose at their meeting last night at the Home Club on Brainard Place, elected and installed Miss Marguerite Burke as recorder, to fill the position made vacant by the recent resignation of Miss Margaret Deane.

Mrs. Anna Risley and her son, Wells, are planning to leave by automobile tomorrow for Angola, Indiana, where the latter will take a course in chemical engineering at Tri-State College. He is a graduate of Tilton School, Tilton, N. H., and attended Bates College last year.

Irad Norton and Amasa Orcutt, the chummy Maine Yankees from Bar Harbor whose job-seeking tour in an unregistered 1921 Dodge car came to an end here early in the week, did find a customer for their car before starting back for Bar Harbor afoot. A Center street automobile dealer bought the machine for two dollars and it is now reposing in his yard.

According to a decision of the executive board of the Manchester Green Community club, activities of a social nature will not begin until the discontinuance of daylight saving. At this meeting Griswold Chappell, who is vice president of the club, was appointed chairman of the general committee. His associates are Carl Stoltenfeldt, Benjamin Spencer, Louis Mohr and Aaron Cook. This committee will have the privilege of naming its assistants from among the men and women members.

EVENING TRADE SCHOOL TO OPEN

Monday, October 16 Set as Date—Offers Extension Courses Only.

Director J. G. Echnallan of the local State Trade school announced today that the annual free evening trade extension courses will be offered to the public starting Monday, October 16, and that registrations will be received on October 9 and 10. In making this announcement, Mr. Echnallan said that he considered these courses to be a most important function of the Trade school and that he felt the service rendered is a distinct contribution to the welfare of the community.

Supplementary Training It was pointed out that the evening school furnishes trade extension courses and not trade preparatory. Students will be admitted only for training supplementary to their regular or usual employment. The regular Trade school instructors will have charge of the evening classes, which will be held each Monday and Thursday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock. Persons who are employed at night may enroll for the courses during the day, as the local school desires to do everything possible to assist in bringing further knowledge to those interested in drafting, machine, electrical, carpentry, textile shop, textile analysis and shop mathematics.

Short Unit Courses All class will be conducted on the short unit course basis, offering each applicant an opportunity to select exactly the work of which he is in need. Certificates of attendance will be given to any students attending ten sessions. These courses are given entirely free of charge. Last year more than 100 persons enrolled for the evening classes.

POTTERTON AND KRAH IN NEW LOCATION

Potterton and Krah, who have conducted a radio and service store on Depot Square for the past two years, are now doing business at their new location in the Farr Block at the Center. Much of the testing equipment is not yet permanently installed but all is in condition to be used. Besides the repair business Potterton and Krah are also agents for the Crosley, General Electric and Atwater Kent radios. A complete line of electrical appliances will also be displayed.

With a VOSS it's so easy to have an abundance of clean clothes on hand. The Floating Agitator, found only on VOSS, washes in the clean, active suds at the top, away from the dirt which settles on the bottom—exactly the way you would wash by hand. With this patented washing principle you can wash a few pieces just as well as a tubful. Complete with electrically protected safety wringer, too. Ask for a demonstration of this model. Compare the Features 1. The only washer with electrically protected safety wringer. Virtually eliminates possibility of accident. 2. Note the heavy, dirty sediment always present at the bottom of the tub. The VOSS does not force this sediment through the washing again and again, as would be the case if the agitator were at the bottom. 3. The VOSS Floating Agitator also washes in the clean, active suds at the top. Just as you would by hand. Ask about Hale's BUDGET PLAN Hale's Electric Washers—Basement.
