MILITIA CALLED TO STOP RIOTS IN COAL AREAS

Over a Score of Persons Wounded by Pickets Scattered Over a Fifteen Mile Front.

Harrisburg, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—National Guard troops were ordered into Saline county this morning by Lieutenant Colonel Robert W. Davis after picketing miners along a 15-mile front had been accused by officials of Peabody Mine No. 43 of wounding a score or more persons.

Davis said he expected 200 soldiers to move into the county. Officials of the mine said that at least three persons were seriously wounded by the incessant firing of the picketers, and appealed for medical attention. However, local authorities said they had been unable to get anyone to leave the bullets and go to the rescue, one ambulance operator having flatly refused to take the risk.

Power Lines Out
Meanwhile, power lines leading into the mine were cut by the picketers and a Big Four railroad bridge about an eighth of a mile from the mine property was blown up.

The blast that wrecked the bridge was the one heard here early today and officials of the mine who investigated said they found 41 sticks of dynamite that had failed to explode in the wreckage.

The dynamite was believed to have been part of the 100 sticks stolen several months ago from a Harrisburg police supply warehouse.

Chief of Police Slow of Eldorado, home of Nip Evans, leader of the county organization of the Progressive Miners Union, reported the destruction by dynamite of the Grand hotel at Eldorado this morning. He said the small frame building was destroyed.

As the morning advanced the picketers were centering their attack on State Highway 13 between Marion and Harrisburg and were said by officials to defy attempts of anyone to pass.

Members of the United Workers union of Williamson county, who attempted to report for work today in the Peabody mine, were greeted by bullets when they arrived at a Point three miles east of Shady Rest, headquarters of the former notorious Birger gang of bandits.

Due to lack of communication facilities it was impossible to learn results of the fighting immediately.

The first account of the rioting in Saline county came from Lewis Dodd of Raleigh, Ill., who was shot.

BYRD'S FLAGSHIP IS IN DISTRESS

Is Being Towed to Port Off the Coast of North Carolina; Byrd Not Aboard.

Wilmington, N. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's polar expedition flagship, the Bear of Oakland, reported today it was in distress off treacherous Frying Pan Shoals on the North Carolina coast and later was taken into tow by the Stone Towing Company tug, Blanche.

The meager reports received by the Coast Guard did not disclose the nature of the vessel's difficulties, but Coast Guardsmen here believed the craft had developed engine trouble. No serious weather disturbances off the coast have been reported for several days.

The Modoc, Coast Guard cutter, left here at 7:20 a. m. to go to the Bear's aid and expected to reach her about 11 a. m. The Coast Guard cutter, however, had not arrived when the Oak Island life saving station reported sighting the Bear in tow of the Blanche off Southport at 10:45 a. m.

The Oak Island station said the two were slowly making their way to port and estimated they would arrive in Southport about 3 p. m. Earlier the Cape Fear Coast station reported sighting a craft which it believed was the Bear about seven miles off shore, but said it apparently was proceeding under its own power and was not in distress.

The Oak Island station's later report caused the belief here the Cape Fear station was mistaken in the identity of the ship it sighted.

PILOT OF AIRPLANE DODGES FLYING ROOFS

Los Angeles, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Roofs were a flying hazard to E. L. Remlin, airplane pilot. He reports a swarming desert wind unroofed several buildings on a farm north of San Fernando yesterday, carried them high in the air and forced him to alter his course to avoid a collision.

FIRST WHISKEY ADS OUT IN NEW YORK

Full Page Announcement in Newspapers Gives Prices of All the Brands.

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The first advertisement since prohibition addressed to the general public by a liquor dealer, listing famous brands and quoting prices, appeared in morning papers in this city today.

The advertisement, occupying a full page and headed "for delivery promptly if and when repeal comes," quoted Black and White Scotch whiskey, Johnny Walker, and Haig and Haig at $25 a case of 12 bottles, plus $14.77 a case for import duties and Federal taxes. House of Lords gin will be sold at $20 a case, with similar tax. Martell 3-star cognac is quoted at $35 a case, with the same tax.

All the standbys of pre-prohibition days appear in the advertisement. There is also gin, liqueur cordials, Geneva gin, champagne, brandy and tonic, and the best known American and Canadian brands of rye and Bourbon.

Sixteen-year-old American whiskey is priced at $68 for a case of 12 quarts, with a tax of only $3.30 because it is a native product.

The advertisement stresses the fact that the taxes quoted are "present" taxes, implying that there may be increases when repeal becomes effective.

Coincidentally with the announcement, 500 cases of a 3-star Hennessy arrived in New York on the liner LaFayette, in bond, for a distributor. It was the first consignment.

GERMANY'S STAND ON JEWS ASSAILED

League Delegates from Various Countries Say They Should Be Recognized.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Germany's stand regarding Jews was further attacked at a meeting of the League of Nations political committee today when French delegates held that the German "legal discrimination against Jews" makes them a minority entitled to the benevolent consideration of the league.

The French position was explained by Victor Henry Berenger, former ambassador to Washington, who pointed out that Jews in France enjoy equal rights with all other citizens.

He called for "a universal adherence to principles of the French revolution guaranteeing against discrimination on the basis of race, color or creed."

Germany's stand previously declared that the Jewish question should not be joined with the committee's current debate on minorities since the Jews had never been asked to be considered a minority.

M. Berenger joined in the defense of parliamentary government such as that made yesterday by William G. A. Ormsby-Gore, the British League of Nations delegate, who said his government "believes firmly in a parliamentary system in which the minorities can carry their voice to the government and all sides must be heard before laws can be enacted."

Equal Rights
Baron Pompeo Aloisi of Italy asserted that all peoples have a right to a "peaceful existence within the state to which they are attached."

The German thesis underwent continued attacks subsequently by Canadian and Irish Free State delegations today offered their support for proposals considered by the League of Nations political commission for alleviating the condition of German Jews.

The Irish spokesman favored a world convention to study ways to protect minorities such as would be provided in a Polish resolution now in the hands of the committee reporter.

He and R. J. Manion of Canada praised a British suggestion that greater publicity be given any action by the League on the question of minorities.

Senator Hits Dust On Close Sacrifice Play

An exciting play in the second World Series game between the Washington Senators and New York Giants at the Polo Grounds in New York, was caught by the cameraman as Buddy Meyer, Washington second baseman, slid safely into second base on a sacrifice by "Goose" Goslin in the first inning. The Giants won, 6 to 1.

GALE TOUCHES FLORIDA THEN BLOWS INTO SEA

Across the Continent Blistering Heat Wave Beats Down on Florida—Three Freak Storms.

By Associated Press
Further possibility of dangerous winds to the lower east coast of Florida was removed early today as the tropical disturbance which threatened that area moved out into the Atlantic after lashing Key West with its outer winds.

Across the continent, Southern California hoped for relief from blistering heat that set new records. Los Angeles yesterday sweltered at 100—the hottest day in four years. Pasadena and Glendale had high marks of 103 degrees and Riverside, 99 miles east of Los Angeles, 104.

High pressure condition in the Utah desert was blamed by United States Banker Consulted.

Further, it coincided with the coming to Washington of Henry Bruere, president of the Bowers Savings Bank of New York, who headed Mr. Roosevelt's train as it headed toward the White House from New York city. Bruere was expected to coordinate the entire credit expansion campaign.

Another step with the same aim was the government's request for $100,000,000 in steel rails for 47 railroads. The public works administration will lend the $25,000,000 or more buying price to the carriers.

United States, Bethlehem and Inland Steel and the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company were the concerns to which Joseph E. Eastman, railroad coordinator addressed requests for prices.

CLOUT FOUR DOUBLES TO GAIN EARLY LEAD

CROWD VERY SMALL AT THIRD CONTEST
Weather Dark and Dreary Carries Threat of Rain for World Series Battle.

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Dark and dreary as the Senators' prospects was the setting today for the third game of the World Series as the Giants switched their attack to the home of the groggy American League champions after winning the first two games in New York.

Overhead the skies were lowering, threatening any moment to open rain down on the tiny vanguard of the capital rosters that led the straggling march on the Griffith Stadium.

The cheerlessness of the weather, the precariousness of the situation that beset Joe Cronin's athletes, combining with wholesale reports of lack of interest among those who were expected to be fighting to buy tickets, added to the general gloom.

Band Hits Keynote
The band that grouped back of home plate, doing the best it could for the early arrivals, hit the keynote of the situation either by accident or design when it swung into "Stormy Weather" for its opening effort, and then worked back to the same refrain at every opportunity.

The Senators, with Joe Cronin's lantern jaw sticking out a fresh inch, were about early, a quiet, determined looking lot with little to say. The lack of enthusiasm on their arrival here last night hasn't aided spirits considerably deflated by left-handed Carl Hubbell and the young right-hand sinker ball heaver, Hal Schumacher, who in two victories, the first 4 to 2, the second, 6 to 1, have allowed the allegedly ball-murdering American Leaguers exactly one earned run and ten hits.

Only ancient "Goose" Goslin, who knocked one of Schumacher, a fast curver into the right field stands at the Polo grounds yesterday, has been able to get an extra base hit.

ROBINSON SCORES INFLATION THEORY

Calls It Dangerous and Liable to Lead to Disaster, He Says.

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas returned from Europe today on the liner Manhattan and issued a warning against currency inflation.

"Currency inflation as commonly proposed," the Democratic floor leader said, "is dangerous and liable to do more harm than good to the cause of national recovery."

The Senator said that while he had gone abroad primarily for a rest, he had given a good deal of time to the study of monetary problems.

Hints at Disaster
"The printing of money, avowedly for inflationary purposes, always has led to disaster," he said. "Probably the reevaluation of the dollar, its stabilization and the prudent readjustment of price levels will afford the necessary expansion of purchasing power without further impairment of confidence. While I have been studying the subject all summer, it is not asserted that my views concerning it are entitled to be regarded as authoritative."

The Senator said that in spite of the difficulties and the administration of the NRA appeared to be meeting with a gratifying measure of success.

Many Rough Places
"Admittedly," he added, "there are many rough places ahead and concerted cooperation on the part of the general public is more needed now than ever to avert unfavorable reaction."

In response to inquiries Senator Robinson said that, while he had given no thought to the matter, it may be that a special session of Congress will be justified to regulate liquor imports in the event of early repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Washington Bats Speak Loudly to Score Twice in First and Once in Second and Seventh Innings; Whitehill Huris Brilliantly to Humble Giant Sluggers; Mel Ott Strikes Out Twice; Fitzsimmons Given Fine Support.

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Joe Cronin's Senators sailed through the first seven innings of the third world series game with the Giants today leading 4 to 0 as Earl Whitehill pitched courageously, the big Washington bats spoke loudly against Fred Fitzsimmons, and a crowd of 25,000 cheered in sunshine that followed early rain the moment President Roosevelt came into the park.

Four doubles in a five hit barrage counted two runs off the National League knuckle ball star in the first and another in the second, after which, with the aid of brilliant fielding and throwing, Fitzsimmons escaped unscathed through the next four.

Joe Moore's marvelous throw from deep left field doubled Earl Whitehill at the plate after Goose Gosselin had fled out, cutting off the Washington rally in the second, while Hughie Critz, little Giant second baseman, made a circus stop and throw on Joe Kuhel's grounder over second in the sixth, forcing Cronin, who had singled a second.

After being in trouble in the second and third innings, Whitehill settled down and allowed but one hit, Travis Jackson's double to center in the fourth, through the fourth, fifth and sixth innings.

THE GAME
By Alan Gould.
Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Cloudy skies and intermittent drizzle marked the resumption of world series play today in the third game between the Giants and Senators. Conditions improved simultaneously with the arrival of President Roosevelt at 1:30 p. m., and the field was cleared. The players of both teams lined up in front of the Presidential box, while the army band played the Star Bangled Banner. President Clark Griffith of the home club and baseball Commissioner Landis were among the first to shake hands with the President. There was a wild grab for the ball which Mr. Roosevelt threw out. It finally fell into the possession of Heinie Manush, left fielder of the Senators.

The opposing pitchers, Fred Fitzsimmons of the Giants and Earl Whitehill of the Senators took some extra time to warm up because of the delay caused by the rain and the opening ceremonies. The police took some time to clear the field of spectators and cameramen, who were crowded around the field in front of the presidential box.

The huge bleacher stands in the outfield were barely half filled and the crowd was well short of a sell-out. Managers Terry and Cronin went into the customary huddle with the umpires at the plate. Despite the wetting the ball field looked to be in first class condition. The storm center passed so rapidly that patches of blue sky were visible and there was a glimpse of sunshine shortly before the game began.

The crowd was manifesting impatience as the official debate regarding ground rules continued between managers and umpires. The sun was out brightly as the Senators ran out on to the field.

First Inning
GIANTS: Moore lifted a short fly that Goslin caught just inside foul territory as he bounced against a field box. Critz bounced. Bluege was thrown out at first. Terry hit the first ball pitched to Myer and was an easy putout at first.

SENATORS: Myer poked a single through the infield to left. Goslin hit the first ball pitched against the right field fence for a two bagger. Myer went to third and the Giants had a quick conference with Fitzsimmons. Manush fled out to left. Herman Bell warmed up for the Giants; Cronin bounced to Fitzsimmons who made the putout at first base while Myer scored and Goslin went to third. Fitzsimmons made a difficult stop but dropped the ball and was unable to make a play at C's plate. Goslin scored on fielder's best Ott's throw to Ryan on a close play. Kuhel bounced to Jackson and Schulte was run down between second and third base. Jackson to Critz.

Two Runs, Three Hits, no errors; one left.

Second Inning
GIANTS: Ott drove the first ball pitched to deep left field where Manush made a sensational running catch close to the foul line. Davis caught close to a single part Bluege. Davis went to second on a wild pitch. It was ball one; Sewell got his glove on the ball, but couldn't stop it, rolling away. Whitehill was hitting SENATORS: Manush grounded to Ryan and was thrown out at first; Cronin dribbled a grounder to Schulte poked a hit past Terry for a single. Kuhel grounded to Jackson and Schulte was forced out at second on the throw to Critz.

Third Inning
GIANTS: Ryan hit a looping drive that Myer caught with his glove hand in short right center. It was a spectacular catch. Fitzsimmons slashed a base hit on a drive that bounced off Manager Cronin's arm. Moore hit the first ball pitched to Cronin and Fitzsimmons was "forced" at second, Cronin to Myer, but Moore beat the relay to first. Critz singled sharply over second and Moore raced all the way to third. Terry grounded out to Kuhel, unassisted.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

SENATORS: Myer grounded to Ryan and was thrown out at first; Cronin dribbled a grounder to Schulte poked a hit past Terry for a single. Kuhel grounded to Jackson and Schulte was forced out at second on the throw to Critz.

Fourth Inning
GIANTS: Ott fanned, swinging at a high hard one and the crowd roared. Davis rolled out Myer to Kuhel. Jackson lashed a double to deep left center. Manush hoisted a high fly to Schulte.

SENATORS: Bluege rolled to Ryan who made a nice throw for the putout. Sewell hit the first ball to Davis in deep center field. Manush made a nice catch of Whitehill's high foul at the edge of the Giants' dugout.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fifth Inning
GIANTS: Ryan grounded out on the first ball pitched as Whitehill made a leaping one-hand stop and then threw to first. Fitzsimmons grounded out Bluege to Kuhel who made a nice catch of the third baseman's wide throw. Moore bunted to Whitehill and was thrown out at first.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

SENATORS: Myer fanned, taking a called third strike. Goslin lifted a high fly to Davis who took the ball difficulty controlling his curve ball; Jackson walked, the fourth ball being low and inside. Manush hit to Cronin and the Senators engineered a double play, that ended the inning Cronin to Myer to Kuhel.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

SENATORS: Bluege doubled down the left field foul line, the ball was only inches inside the chalk mark as it sped past third base. Sewell bounced to Critz and was tossed out at first. Bluege ran to third. Bluege started for the plate on an attempted hit and run play, but it failed to work as Whitehill hit into the dirt. Whitehill grounded to Fitzsimmons whose throw to Jackson failed to catch Bluege as the latter slid back into the bag. It was a fielder's choice and Whitehill reached first. Bluege scored on Myer's double along the first base line. Whitehill pulled up at third base. It was another close to the line hit, and Fitzsimmons had an other confab with Terry. Goslin lifted a high fly to Moore and Whitehill was thrown out at the plate on a fine throw to Manush, completing a double play.

One run, two hits, no errors; one left.

SENATORS: Ryan hit a looping drive that Myer caught with his glove hand in short right center. It was a spectacular catch. Fitzsimmons slashed a base hit on a drive that bounced off Manager Cronin's arm. Moore hit the first ball pitched to Cronin and Fitzsimmons was "forced" at second, Cronin to Myer, but Moore beat the relay to first. Critz singled sharply over second and Moore raced all the way to third. Terry grounded out to Kuhel, unassisted.

No runs, two hits, no errors, two left.

MANY SEEK JOBS ON ROAD PROJECTS

Over 5,000 Applications Already Received at State's Employment Agencies.

Hartford, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Jobs in Connecticut under the public works and general road projects have been applied for by nearly 5,000 persons registering at the five branch offices already set up in towns in the program under Miss Millicent Pond, re-employment director for the Connecticut area. Miss Pond, with central headquarters in the state office building, reports to the United States employment service at Washington.

Branches Established
Since the director began work two months ago, Branches have been established in Meriden, Ansonia, Middletown, Torrington and New London, with another to be set up in Norwalk soon. Created to secure a widespread distribution of work when the works program has been launched and men are wanted, they have been located in towns without state employment offices in order to avoid duplication.

How Classified
Miss Pond announced that the registration of applicants for work is to place them according to qualification, war veterans with dependents having preference, followed by citizens of towns or districts where projects are located.

This week the service placed 145 persons in the gypsy moth control work in the woods after they were interviewed by Federal department of agriculture men, the total divided among the branch offices as follows:

Torrington, 75; Middletown, 30; Meriden, 25, and Ansonia, 15.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The position of the Treasury on October 3 was: Receipts, $27,780,419.02; expenditures, $35,285,249.81; balance, $1,143,759,193.96; custom duties for the month, $2,390,742.89.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $715,649,694.52; expenditures, $958,074,869.28 (including $302,806,489.93 emergency relief expenditures); excess of expenditures, $242,425,174.76.

Troops And State Police Move to Stop Strike Riots

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.
Troops and state police moved to preserve order and prevent violence today as tension increased in spreading trouble spots of American industry.

At Harrisburg, Ill., four companies of National Guards were ordered mobilized for duty in Saline county as clashes broke out between warring mining factions.

Two terrific bomb explosions climaxed a night of terror in the southern Illinois coal fields and at Peabody Mine No. 43, officials reported that pickets had surrounded the working and opened fire and that many persons had been wounded.

In western Pennsylvania, state police and deputy sheriffs hastened to strategic points as striking miners strengthened picket lines and announced a determination to prevent reopening of soft coal mines closed for three weeks in a fight for union recognition.

Two steel workers were slashed by pickets as they attempted to enter the Clairton, Pa., plant of the Carnegie Steel Company. It was the second outbreak in 18 hours among steel strikers, one man having been shot and others clubbed at Ambridge, Pa., earlier.

At Scranton, Pa., the ninth dynamiting in an anthracite strike damaged the home of a miner, while workers' automobiles were stoned by pickets at Dickson City, Pa.

Ford Motor Company strikers of Chester, Pa., and Edgewater, N. J., announced plans for a "march" by automobile on the Ford plant at Detroit.

LICENSE OVER 2,000 AS AUTO REPAIRERS

Police Asked to Inform State of Garages Not Licensed to Do the Work.

More than 2,000 establishments have been licensed by the state department of motor vehicles to conduct an automotive repair business, as defined by the "Dealers and Repairer's Act" passed by the last legislature, and many more are expected to be registered in the immediate future, according to a recent report made to the commissioner of motor vehicles by the garage section which supervises the administration of the act's provisions.

Notice has been sent to the various police authorities of the state outlining the requirements imposed on automotive repair places by the act and requesting that any establishments found not licensed be required to make immediate application to the department of motor vehicles for registration.

Dealers and repairers under this new act must report to the motor vehicle department such information as to the motor vehicle placed in their hands for storage or repairs where the cost is estimated to exceed $25, report blanks being furnished by the department. A dealer or repairer may use plates when personally operating any motor vehicle or he may loan a set of plates for a limited period of five days in any year when a properly registered motor vehicle has been left with him for repairs or when he has sold a new car and the registration is pending.

When the operator of a filling station replaces a spark plug for a customer, changes the oil in the crankcase, does a greasing job or replaces a fan belt the license to operate the place of business.

The following Grove Hill cemetery committee was re-appointed for another year: Col. Francis T. Maxwell, Fred W. Bradley and George Arnold, Jr.

The sum of $500 was voted towards the War Memorial Fund which now brings this fund to approximately $3,500. It was also voted to appropriate the sum of $800 for the observance of Memorial Day.

ROCKVILLE

TOWN VOTES TO ASK FEDERAL ROAD FUND

Will Seek $100,000 in Anticipation of State Aid—Meeting Approves Budget.

Appropriations totaling $233,958.03 of which $166,596.08 will have to be raised by taxation, were voted at the annual town meeting held on Wednesday evening in the town hall. These appropriations will require a tax of sixteen mills which is the same as in 1932.

Not alone did the meeting vote the budget as requested but they also voted to request the sum of $100,000 from the United States Government for construction of anticipated State Aid highways.

The meeting was continued from Monday evening due to the time taken in the counting of the split ballots.

While Edward Collum, Democratic moderator, called the meeting to order, Herbert O. Clough, superintendent of schools, was elected chairman on motion of Edward B. Coogan.

Town Clerk John B. Thomas read the lengthy warrant which required over seven minutes.

The report of the several town officers and committees were read and approved and then First Selectman Francis J. Prichard explained the Selectmen's budget, which was voted unanimously, item by item.

The Town Treasurer and Board of Selectmen were authorized to borrow not to exceed $140,000 until the taxes are received.

The following Grove Hill cemetery committee was re-appointed for another year: Col. Francis T. Maxwell, Fred W. Bradley and George Arnold, Jr.

The sum of $500 was voted towards the War Memorial Fund which now brings this fund to approximately $3,500. It was also voted to appropriate the sum of $800 for the observance of Memorial Day.

The selectmen were authorized by resolution to make application to the State Highway Commissioner for the allotment of $10,000 for the construction or improvement of roads and bridges of which the sum of $2,500 was appropriated as the pro rata share of the town of Vernon.

No opposition was heard to the voting on the motion to empower the selectmen to seek from the administrator of the Federal Public Works Administration the sum of $100,000. It was shown that $30,000 of this money would be an absolute gift to the town from the government and that other funds available will reduce the indebtedness to the government a considerable amount.

The meeting adjourned at 9:20 o'clock but failed to adjourn to any definite date for the laying of the town tax rate. It has been usually customary to defer the laying of the town tax rate until the work of appraising of the property is completed.

Rebuilding Market Street

The work of rebuilding the section of Market street known as "Opera House Hill" on the southerly end of the street is expected to be completed today.

Trucks hauled two inch trap rock from Hartford nearly all day yesterday in filling in this road which is being rebuilt.

Penetration asphalt is being applied today after which crushed stone is to be placed over the heavy trap rock laid yesterday and then screenings will be placed on the surface.

It is also planned to rebuild the sections between the railroad tracks which cross Market street at right angles at the foot of the hill. It has been very difficult for the public works department to secure supplies from the "New Haven" railroad to rebuild the section between the tracks but word was received yesterday that forty tons of crushed stone would be received shortly.

Hospital Report Made

Miss Annie Hatheway Smith, superintendent of the Rockville City hospital, has submitted the following report for September: Number of patients on September 1st, 9; number admitted during month, 32; number of outpatients, 15; total number of patients, 56; discharged, 48; x-rays, 13; accidents, 13; births, 8; operations, 11; largest number treated, 15; smallest number, 7.

MRS. E. F. RILEY'S WILL

PROBATED IN HARTFORD

Children's Aid Society to Get $5,000—Other Charitable Bequests.

Hartford, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The will of Mrs. Emily R. Riley late of Hartford, admitted to probate by Judge Walter H. Clark, provides for public bequests of more than $18,000.

The Connecticut Children's Aid Society receives $5,000, to be known as the "Charles D. and Emily Cheney Riley fund," the income to be used for the general purposes of the institution.

Similar funds of $3,000 each were set up for the Hartford hospital and the South Congregational church of Hartford, and a $3,000 fund with the same provisions goes to the Newton Home for Crippled Children. The Connecticut Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution is left $500.

BUSINESS IMPROVING

New Haven, Oct. 5.—(AP)—As indicative of the upward trend in business and use of the telephone, the Southern New England Telephone Company today announced its monthly summary for September showed a net gain of 717 instruments.

The month was the second consecutive one to show an increase in telephone installations in Connecticut. In August, the gain was 139, the first monthly increase since December 1931.

STARTS INSPECTION OF AUTO EQUIPMENT

Motor Vehicle Department Puts Inspectors on Main Arteries of State.

A statewide inspection of automotive mechanical equipment has been started by inspectors of the state department of motor vehicles working in conjunction with the police authorities of the various cities and towns in which inspection centers will be established.

The first survey of traffic is being made this week in New Haven, but other points in the state will be covered as rapidly as the inspection section of the motor vehicle department can assign men to the duty.

The plan of Commissioner Michael A. Connor is to have a number of inspection points established on important traffic arteries at about the same time so that the work will be proceeding simultaneously around the state.

Hazardous Time

The last quarter of the year develops hazardous driving conditions, according to the accidents records of the motor vehicle department, and it is imperative, as a safeguard, that motor vehicle operators be compelled to keep their cars in good mechanical condition.

Why Chesterfields are Milder

TOBACCO to grow, to ripen and become mellow, has to take in or absorb something... not Vitamin D, of course, but something that it gets from the right amount of Sunshine

It's the Southern sunshine you read about, combined with the right sort of climate and moisture, that makes the Carolinas, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, and Virginia the best tobacco country in the world.

You can stand down there in that Southern sunshine and almost see it grow. This ripe, mellow tobacco is skillfully cured by the farmer. Then, for 30 months, it's aged—just like fine wine. It takes the right quantity of each kind of these tobaccos, blended and cross-blended—then seasoned with Turkish, to make a milder cigarette. Sunshine helps. Just try it!

WAPPING

At the next meeting of Wapping Grange, which will be Tuesday evening, October 10, Miss Miriam Welles will give a report of her automobile trip last summer, which promises to be very interesting.

Sherwood Waldron has been confined to his home by illness since last Friday and is still under the care of Dr. Burr of Manchester.

Miss Clara Chandler daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry W. Chandler of East Hartford, formerly of Wapping, has returned to her studies in Springfield, Mass., for her fourth year.

Funeral services for John Hayes will be held next Thursday afternoon with burial services at the family plot in the Wapping Cemetery at half past two o'clock.

The first meeting of the United Workers of South Windsor was held at the home of Mrs. John Clapp in Melrose Thursday. A picnic lunch was served at noon, and the meeting and a social hour followed.

The Wapping 4-H Club of girls are enjoying a dc.-roast in Levi T. Dewey's lot down in the glen this afternoon.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 5.

BY ADMONITION.

It was a good speech that President Roosevelt made last night before the Catholic Conference of Catholic Charities and, by way of the radio, to the nation. It reflected the mellow liberalism of the President's mind and heart. It was nicely calculated to bring home to his hearers their social responsibilities and the essential necessity of mutual self help. But it was, candor must insist, exactly the kind of speech that the country most needed at this particular time.

It seemed to some, perhaps to very many, that that address was a little by way of being a compromise with recent expectations held out by the same voice. It may have struck a certain proportion of the people that the President, now that seven months of his unprecedented power have elapsed, a little more than was to have been expected placed the burden of relief upon the doorstep of the individual.

In view of the almost limitless potentialities of the administration under the legislation of last spring, there may have been more than a few of those listening to the President's words who felt the small chill of a passing shadow when he said, "the federal government cannot, and does not intend, to take over the whole job."

It seemed a little as though the President had arrived at, or was approaching, the point of recourse to government by admonition.

Mr. Roosevelt's memory is good. He should have no difficulty in recalling what happened to the ablest and the most convinced apostle of faith in the people whom this nation has ever known. Woodrow Wilson believed with every fiber of his being that the American people would support him in his idealism. They did not do it.

This is too numerous and too new and too heterogeneous a nation, as yet, to be depended on to accept and adhere to any sort of sheer idealism—even the ideal that no man, woman or child shall go hungry or naked—under circumstances that make that ideal supportable only through a universal spirit of sacrifice.

The people, as a matter of fact, have been led to believe by this administration that the restoration of prosperity, in a land of plenty, is essentially a matter of wise law. They have seen sufficient demonstration of that theory to be more than ever convinced that it is a true one. They will not, at this time, when the power of government to control the course of events has been so conclusively shown, welcome an apparent willingness to ease off the obligation, or any great part of it, onto the back of the individual.

DEFLATION BOGEY.

The deflationists, who have a corps of propagandists working desperately against the prospect of inflation, apparently do not care how tawdry and illogical arguments they use if they can only succeed in frightening enough unthinking people to produce an effect on the administration.

In yesterday's New York dispatches occurred this paragraph: Important banking quarters say Washington is finding an unstable dollar a distinct hindrance to its credit expansion program. Big bankers insist they cannot extend credit in any volume without some knowledge as to the sort of dollars with which the debt will be repaid.

We ask our readers to put to themselves this question: If the "big bankers" do not lend their money what will they do with it? Obviously the answer is that they will keep it. Then the question: If the government does something to reduce the value of the dollar what possible difference can it make, to the banker, whether the dollar depreciates in the hands of his debtor or in his own vaults?

Nothing can be more certain than that every dollar in America—and every American dollar wherever it may be in the world—will be the equal of every other American dollar in purchasing power and in the payment of debts and obligations, so long as it is endowed by law with the full legal tender quality. Not even the most hidebound deflationist would attempt to deny that. So, if the banker's dollars, under inflation, should be impaired while in the temporary possession of a debtor, their fate would be in no degree different from that which would overtake them while hoarded in his strongbox instead of being put out on loan.

Nobody, of course, knows this any better than the "big bankers" thus anonymously quoted. And if they were convinced that inflation, despite all their opposition, was infallibly certain to come within the next week they would instantly abandon this attitude of refusal to make loans and would hasten to put their money to work gathering interest to compensate them for whatever loss in dollar purchasing power they would be called on to withstand.

They refuse, however, to believe that inflation is absolutely unavoidable. They are fighting for an enormous stake—the grip of the owners of cash on the industries and the people of a nation during a period of deflated values—and they are using any foul tactics they can think of to win that fight. This one of blaming the withholding of credit upon the uncertain value of the dollar in the future—a shallow and shameless utopianism on the face of it—should be resented as an insult to the intelligence of the nation.

NO "DANGER SENSE."

Shocking as is the news of that brush fire disaster in Griffith Park, outlying from Los Angeles, it is futile to think of such a thing as the placing of legal blame for the dreadful deaths of more than two scores of men. And yet it is apparent that, with the best will in the world, the victims of the holocaust were needlessly, recklessly imperiled.

There are a great many people in this world—and they are as likely as not to get into positions of authority over their fellow beings—from whom nature seems to have withheld every normal sense of danger. Never does an event of any sort draw together a great gathering of human beings without a considerable part of the crowd displaying this singular lack. Grimacing they will crowd into positions where the slightest untoward incident might easily precipitate a ghastly tragedy. Many such tragedies have occurred—as when all the passengers on an overcrowded excursion steamer rush to one side of the ship to watch the gambols of porpoises—and overset the ship; and many others have been escaped by sheerest luck, as when such a crowd caused the collapse of a pier at New Haven this summer.

No thought of putting those California jobless into a firetrap apparently entered the heads of those who had direction of their work. And yet any one possessing a normal degree of caution—the "danger sense"—must have realized the possible risk that was being run. This "danger sense" is native to some individuals—some indeed possess it so acutely as to turn them into cowards. But in its most rational form it comes to those who in their own experiences have encountered numerous perils. One may wonder whether the person or persons responsible for the placing of those Los Angeles workers in that position of frightful peril had had any experiences at all—of whether he was just an oaf.

CONSERVATISM FADES.

When a Democratic woman candidate for Congress in Arizona gets more votes than her two opponents put together the fact may not be of very special significance, in this year of grace, because the "doneness" of the Democratic party since Mr. Roosevelt came to the White House has certainly stirred up a tide, and the time for reaction is not yet.

But there is something else about that Arizona election that may provide considerable food for thought. It is the fact that, practically out of a clear sky and without any warning whatsoever, a flood of Socialist votes appeared and, while not threatening very seriously the Democratic candidate, simply snatched under the Republican aspirant. In other words, the Republican party in the state of Arizona this year became a bad third while the Socialists, who last year polled only 2,800 votes out of a total of 115,000, leap into a position of prime importance.

Arizona, despite its relative newness to statehood, has been a fairly conservative commonwealth in the past. It did, indeed, give a heavy majority for Roosevelt last year but in 1928 it turned in a substantial plurality for Hoover over Smith and in 1932 it went for Coolidge over Davis by a small majority. At no time in the past has the state shown much of an inclination to run off after strange gods of radicalism.

Yet here we have Arizona voters suddenly staging the Congressional contest not on the issue of liberalism as represented by the Roosevelt administration on the one side and conservatism as represented by the Republican party on the other hand, but on that of Roosevelt liberalism versus sheer radical Socialism—with conservatism and conservatism nowhere at all. The idea seems to be, out there, either that Roosevelt Democracy is all right or, if it isn't all right, its fault is that it doesn't go far enough.

It may be that some very special local conditions had an influence in the election in this far-off state and that really there is no particular lesson to be drawn from it. But so far as one straw can indicate the direction of the wind, it may well evoke the question whether, when the almost inevitable reaction comes from the present enthusiasm over Rooseveltism, it will unquestionably take the form of a return to conservatism. There certainly is nothing about this Arizona development to point in that direction.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

POOR APPETITE

Loss of appetite is usually the first symptom of sickness to appear and is also one of the most common symptoms we have. In many cases it is present a great deal of the time and the patient may show no other sign of chronic illness, except perhaps loss of weight.

Poor appetite is the symptom that bothers a patient a great deal and is frequently the first one he describes to the doctor. As he says, "I don't enjoy my meals." Many mothers complain that their children suffer from it. When the child won't eat this causes the mother so much distress that she takes him to a doctor to be examined. About one-fourth of all children examined by doctors are brought in on account of lack of appetite.

The medical term for loss of appetite is anorexia and this symptom not only appears alone but may also appear in a hundred and one different orders. The average doctor writes down this one symptom on his case histories many times each day. The causes of poor appetites are many but the chief cause is a clogging of the body with waste. This clogging process may follow eating too much food, using wrong combinations of food, or using a top-sided diet. For example, children who eat too much candy and other sweets lose their appetite for simple, everyday foods. Or the cause may arise in a lack of elimination in which case the system is poisoned with its own waste materials.

Loss of appetite is frequently found in acute disorders, such as colds, measles, or influenza, especially in those accompanied by fever. In fact, a high fever is always associated with no desire to eat. It is also present in many chronic disorders. When you lose all appetite you should realize that the body simply does not require food. The commonsense thing to do is to follow Nature's hint and stop eating.

Some of the diseases in which poor appetite is common are: stomach troubles, "stink" gall-bladder, chronic throat catarrh, appendicitis, liver disorders, colitis, tuberculosis, anemia, auto-intoxication and proptosis. Severe headaches may be sufficient to cause loss of appetite.

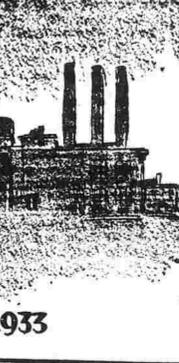

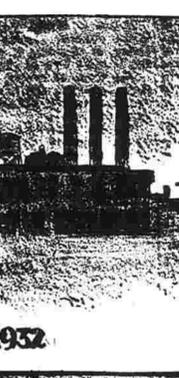

A further cause is emotional strain and no desire for food may be felt for several hours after shock, worry, anxiety or anger. Temporary loss of appetite is present when you are very tired and in such a case you should rest before eating.

Other symptoms often found at the same time are coated tongue, bad breath, biliousness, nausea and weakness, although they are not always noted with every case of poor appetite.

When a patient complains of lack of appetite it is because he realizes instinctively that he really should enjoy his food. A truly healthy person has such a good appetite that he looks forward to each meal, each forkful makes his mouth water and the flavor of every bite is keen and delicious. A good appetite has a helpful effect on digestion for when food tastes good, the digestive juices flow best and when food is relished it is more easily assimilated. A hearty appetite is to be prized, as with a good appetite the simplest foods take on a satisfying zest.

To regain a good appetite is easy, especially when no disease has as yet developed. The first thing you do is to go to bed for a few days. The best plan is to take either orange juice or canned tomato juice, and you are to use one eight-ounce every two hours. You are to take a warm enema each day you are on the fast. After fasting in this manner for a few days you will find that the normal appetite is returning in full force. When you walk by a store it will be all you can do not to reach out and take a big bite of the food closest to your hand. I assure you that the first meal you have will taste better than any meal you have eaten in years.

To keep your appetite sharpened, take more outdoor exercise, keep the elimination regular, and cut down on your food to the point where you do not overeat and are able to look forward to each meal as a real treat.

(QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS)

(Pneumonia)

Question: Mrs. Aletia C. asks: "What are the symptoms, cause and effect of pneumonia? Does it leave the health permanently wrecked? Can a person have pneumonia more than once?"

Answer: A complete answer to your question would be too long to print in this column. Upon receipt of your name and address I would be very glad to send you a special article I have prepared on this subject.

Answer: In partially answering your question I would say that pneumonia is a very serious disorder. It often permanently injures the lungs and can occur several times.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Woman Coal Operator in Colorado Put in Disadvantage by Code, but Is Pleased at Help for Miners—Disaffected Cotton Farmers Get Little Encouragement from Administration.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

The Evening Herald's Washington Correspondent

Washington.—The great coal code's chief victim is Miss Josephine Roche, the lady who for years has done most in the industry to further the present aims of NRA.

The code sets for the Rockefeller and other mines of southern Colorado basic minimum wage of $4.44 a day.

For northern Colorado it sets the wage at $5. That's where Miss Roche operates as president of the Rocky Mountain Fuel Co. and now pays her miners $5.25. She must compete with the Rockefeller coal.

Five years ago the handsome Miss Roche was Rocky Mountain's principal stock holder. Then mine guards shot and killed five Rocky Mountain strikers, bought control and announced she would operate on a policy of industrial justice in co-operation with union labor.

Purchasing power? In a good year her miners received average wages of $2100. Even last year the average was $1850. Employment? She and the miners worked out a rotating system so that no one was laid off completely. Last year her workers had 191 days of work as against a strike average of 128.

"Sound business," says Miss Roche, who operates Colorado's only unionized mine. "We've proved that in our production figures." Price wars, discrimination, credit boycotts and other methods were used to beat this "radical" woman. Union labor helped her with a "union call" campaign. But it seems southern Colorado miners must also compete with other low wage southern mines. So NRA was willing to keep the lady at a disadvantage by preserving their existing wage. She was to have appeared before the Labor Advisory Board to urge a state-wide scale. Then Roosevelt suddenly approved the code without waiting for the board's approval. But she left town happy. After all, wasn't the most important thing the code for which she had worked so hard and wasn't the code a grand thing for miners generally?

IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 5.—Meanderings: Clyde Pangborn, who circled the globe in 1931 with Hugh Herndon, Jr., as navigator, tells his friends he's now planning a non-stop world flight, with only three or four refuelings. . . . Herndon, on the other hand, has given up flying, lives quietly in Connecticut, commutes each day to the Manhattan office of an oil company. . . . The yacht that belonged to Earl Carroll in better days now is owned by the socialite Horace E. Dodges. It's still named the Vanties, still carries the piano of which Carroll was so proud—one with a red and green keyboard. . . . Dr. J. F. Condon, the "falsite" who was an intermediary in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, returned from a long vacation the other day and is resuming his search for the man to whom he handed the $50,000.

Battle of Batons

As the night club season swings into a healthy stride, a first-rate duel looms between the masters Paul Whittemar and Rudy Valle. It will be batons a fifty paces—that being about the distance that separates the rival Broadway establishments where these two will be playing. . . . Together with band, warblers, a large chorus of cuties and assorted stooges, Mr. Whittemar is moving into the Paradise; and diagonally across the thoroughfare, at the Hollywood, Mr. Valle is doing the same. The contest promises to be all the more interesting because the two places are so much alike—hug affairs with lavish shows and low prices, catering to the Broadway "in-out-of-town" trade.

Providence Provides N. T. G.

Another reason they're alike is that Nils T. Granlund, known in night life only as "N. T. G.," was master of ceremonies at the Hollywood before he went to the Paradise. Granlund is a fireless and voluble fellow from Providence, R. I., who craves the big town as one of the pioneer radio announcers and soon went to work in one of the night spots owned by the late and violently-deceased Larry Fay. . . . One of his favorite stories is about his launching of Texas Gulian as mistress of ceremonies at one of Fay's clubs—an appointment engineered because he had a grudge against Fay then, and was sure that La Gulian would be a terrible flop. She wasn't.

Literchoor? Whada Racket!

"One legit racket that's open to tough guys 'n' writin'" declares Danny Ahearn, whose many experiences in his 31 years include being held (and cleared) for a couple of murders. "Look at Jim Tully. Look at me. . . . Mr. Ahearn is around New York now basing in considerable glory for his scenario, "Picture Snatcher," proved a hit, and now another one, "Wild Boys of the Road," has opened to good notices. . . . Danny thinks he'd better stick to scenarios because his first and only book, "How to Commit a Murder and Get Away With It," didn't go very well.

speeches were heard again; the room

resounded with oratory in rich southern accent. Finally someone suggested it would be a good idea to let Peck talk. Peck did—and bluntly. He said he'd been working for farm relief for twelve years. Now they had a plan working which offered hope of success. Why did anyone think the administration would drop the process tax, the sine qua non of the whole program?

How to Reduce Heating Costs

by JOHN BARCLAY, Heating Expert

There are three simple damper controls on every properly regulated home heating plant, and an understanding of the proper use of each of them will help you to save time, trouble and money.

First, there is the turn damper, or "butterfly" damper. With this control you can prevent "chimney loss." Many people believe that unburned coal that drops to the ash-pit produces the greatest waste. This is not so. Actually, the heat you waste up your chimney is ten times as much as the greatest possible loss through your ash-pit.

It is very simple to reduce this "chimney loss." Just keep your turn damper as nearly closed as possible. By turn damper is meant that disc or plate like damper at the top of the pipe leading from your furnace to your chimney. The next time you fix your fire, turn the handle of your turn damper one-sixteenth of an inch. If your fire still burns freely, turn it another sixteenth of an inch. Repeat this until you find the ideal adjustment that gives you the greatest amount of useful heat with the minimum amount of chimney loss, then indicate this position with a chalk mark on your smoke pipe, and leave the damper in that position.

Do not attempt to regulate your fire each day by moving the turn damper. It should be left as nearly closed as possible at all times during the burning season. The only time when it should be moved at all, after you find the most advantageous position for it, is at the beginning of the very cold season, and again at the beginning of the very mild season—to compensate for the difference in outside temperatures.

Next week I will discuss the check damper and the ash-pit damper, which are used to control the speed of the fire.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q: We are going to put a heating system in our bungalow. Do you advise hot water? Which is better a round or square boiler? F. A. B., Richmond, N. J.

A: Hot water heating systems are very satisfactory, but cost slightly more for installation than the one pipe steam systems. The modern hot air systems for the bungalow type of home are also very satisfactory and have a comparatively low first cost. There is very little difference in performance between round and square boilers. In the smaller types the round seems to be favored while in the larger installations the square boiler is more adaptable.

J. P. Scranton, Penna.—I have answered your inquiry with a personal letter. A coal dealer's service man, heating contractor, or plumber can often make suggestions in cases such as you describe.

Q: We have a two story home heated by a pipeless furnace located in basement. Our first floor gets overheated, while second floor is scarcely heated at all. When I am descending it seems to be blowing about half the heat. What is your opinion? E. S. S., Annapolis, Md.

A: This difficulty is common where pipeless heaters are used in two story buildings. The cause of your trouble is lack of circulation. In years past the cold air from upstairs meets the warm air from the first floor in the stairway opening and stops circulation.

The least costly method to increase the circulation is to provide a separate warm air leader from the furnace to the upstairs hall, and also provide a separate cold air return to the furnace. The register should be located either in the front of the lower step, or in the vicer of the lower step. This will provide a positive circulation and heat the upstairs hall. The heat to the bedrooms will, of course, come from the hall through the open doors.

(If you have any heating problems address John Barclay, Room 1814, 120 Broadway, New York City. He will be glad to reply in a personal letter.)

PRESIDENT TOSSES OUT THE FIRST BALL

Presence of Roosevelt at Third Series Game Revives Enthusiasm of Fans.

Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt's promise to unlimber his throwing arm in a ball-tossing curtain raiser for the shift of world series battle scenes to the green of Griffith Stadium today touched a spur to the flagging enthusiasm of Washington's baseball fan.

Despite early clouds that held at least a threat of possibly dampening such spirit as was survived the absorption of two straight defeats by the home town Senators by the New York Giants, there were lines at the box office during the morning.

The President gave word after his arrival here from New York today that he would occupy the bunting draped box set aside for him and members of his personal and official family. Among those expected in the Presidential party were Postmaster General Farley and Henry Bruers, president of the cooperative Savings Bank, who is to tackle a federal credit coordinating job for Mr. Roosevelt.

The National's tar-from-swamped box office greeted with cheer the word that the President was to attend.

Those later placed on the list to accompany the President to the ball game were White House Secretary Stephen T. Early and Mrs. Early, Secretary Marvin H. McIntyre, Rudolph Forster, chief of the executive office staff; Dr. Ross T. McIntire, Naval physician; Miss Paula Tully of the White House secretarial corps; Captain Walter Vernou, naval aide; Colonel Edwin Watson, military aide.

CARDINAL COMING HOME

Rome, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Cardinal O'Connell and a group of priests from the Boston archdiocese left by automobile for Naples today. They will sail for home on the Vulcania Saturday.

On their trip southward they had a motorcycle escort, furnished by the government, where they drove from Naples to Rome on Sept. 21 a similar courtesy was extended the visitors.

Cardinal O'Connell in saying farewell to a number of American prelates and priest, living in Rome declared he was feeling exceptionally well as a result of the trip and that he enjoyed the visit to Rome thoroughly. While here he had an audience with Pope Pius.

TOWN FARM INMATE SUES N. Y. ATTORNEY

Bridgeport, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Walter E. Walker, 62, inmate of the Norwalk town farm, declared in the Superior Court today before Judge Frederick M. Peasley that he was duped into signing a power of attorney for H. G. Swain, a reputed New York attorney, last June when information came to Walker that he had inherited the $8,000 estate of his estranged wife who was reported to have died in Ireland.

Walker, who is illiterate, has sued through his conservator, Attorney John T. Davis, for the return of the signed papers he gave Swain and the contents of which Walker declared today he was not aware of.

The poor farm inmate testified that he left school when he was 15 years of age and had reached the second grade. He declared that he was admitted to the Naramake farm several years ago and that he knew nothing of the alleged estate until he had read an advertisement in the papers through which his location was sought by the courts of England to settle the estate of his wife left him three years ago.

FARREN IS SENTENCED

New Haven, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Charles F. Farren, 65, of Milford, former postmaster at Woodmont, was sentenced to 2 to 4 years in State prison by Judge John Richards Booth today in Superior Court.

Farren pleaded guilty Tuesday to embezzlement from the estate of Charles E. Holton of Milford, of which he was trustee, and from the property of Mrs. Anna L. Holton, of which he was administrator.

The former postmaster had been held under a $15,000 bond since his original bond of $5,000 was called when he failed to appear in court last week. He was injured when his car struck a tree as he drove to New Haven, and was unable to appear in court.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Bullish fervor cooled in financial markets today, out securities generally managed to hold major portions of their yesterday's substantial gains.

Wall Street continued to watch its pocket-book with one eye and Washington with the other. Although the activity in stocks dwindled appreciably, commission houses generally voiced restrained optimism and there was some expansion of odd lot buying which is always a hopeful indicator to veteran operators.

The utility shares, for a change, showed resistance while most other equity groups were inclined to relinquish some of their previous advances. Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and North American were up around 1/4 point each. The fast stepping metals of Wednesday were the heaviest. U. S. Smelting lost some 3 points, while Homestake, Cerro de Pasco, American Smelting, Alaska Juneau and McIntyre Porcupine were off fractionally to 2 points.

Some brokerage circles that only recently were highly vociferous in their approval of drastic currency inflation, are now have switched their attitude on this question. These converts to the "sound money" ranks now are arguing that dollar stabilization, instead of being an extreme bearish market factor, would be bullish in that it would indicate the administration is confident the recovery movement is proceeding satisfactorily.

On the other hand, various Wall Street economists are decidedly hesitant in predicting the course of security prices in the event that the monetary unit is stabilized on a new gold basis. Nervousness of speculators and investors regarding the future value of the dollar, however, is believed to have been the principal reason for the erratic behavior of stocks and bonds during the past several weeks.

The meeting today in Washington of the British delegation with representatives of the Treasury to discuss war-debts was watched closely by market observers. While this meeting was of a preliminary nature, serious conversations on the debt question are expected to get under way in the next few days. Various bankers are of the opinion that any scaling down, or settlement of the debt problem must carry with it some agreement on currency stabilization, both as regards the dollar and the pound sterling.

HOTEL SHERIDAN GRILL IS NEARING COMPLETION

Carpentry and Electrical Work Now Nearly Finished—Will Be Modern in Every Way.

The new and handsome grill room which is now being installed in the Sheridan Hotel is rapidly nearing completion. With the carpenter and electrical work about finished, all that remains is to install the kitchen equipment, which is of the newest type, set up the modern beer bar and mahogany finished booths and arrange the floor tables. Steaks, chops and sea food will be featured, with club breakfasts, popular priced luncheons and dinners with a la carte service also provided.

With the addition of this modern Grill Room the Sheridan Hotel will be the equal of any up-to-date city hotel in convenience. Every sleeping room has hot and cold running water and many are equipped with private or connecting bath, tub and shower. The former dining room, located on the second floor of the hotel will now be used for the convenience of banquets, bridge parties and private luncheons and dinner parties. With these excellent facilities for handling large or small parties and with Joseph Loeffler, the proprietor, a thoroughly experienced hotel man giving his personal supervision to every detail in connection with the hotel, the public is assured of the best in food and service. Several banquets have already been booked for the coming winter season.

Before you buy your FURNACE FUEL!

— please ask yourself these questions

1. Would you like to cut down on carrying ashes—just take out a little pailful once a week?
2. Would you like to eliminate heavy shaking—just jiggle the grates once a day or less?
3. Would you like to have your carfare free?
4. Would you like to have a fuel that doesn't over-heat your house during fall weather—but gives quick heat when you want it—as much as you want—when cold days come?

OF COURSE you want all these things! So do thousands of other people!

And that's why there are four times as many families now using Koppers Connecticut Coke as there were three years ago.

Why don't you start the season with this high-test fuel? There's less waste—more heat—in every ton. That's why it makes so little ashes, needs so little shaking. And because it gives more heat per ton, it saves you money.

The first cost is almost $2 less per ton.

And this winter—when you want the house warm for breakfast—you can just open the drafts and the heat comes up while you shave. That's because Koppers Coke is a quick action fuel—and gives you heat when you want it.

Don't go through another winter without these comforts and savings! Phone your fuel dealer now—or call Koppers Connecticut Coke Company and try this fuel that makes a new friend of your furnace.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Durham, N. C.—Roscoe Adams, 17, a Duke freshman will travel some 25,000 miles to classes this year.

Adams lives at Clarksville, Va., where his father operates a dairy. He delivers milk along the 65 mile route to Durham, while most students are dreaming, then picks up the empty cans on his way home at night.

Philadelphia—Dorothy Hall, a young singer, agrees with old trouper that "the show must go on." Handed a telegram while singing at a trade show, she blanched, rallied and continued her number. The message said her mother lay dead in a Wilmington, Del., hospital. After her performance, the girl was flown to her mother's bedside in a plane.

Minneapolis—Mayor Bainbridge wanted to call his home shortly after he had a "silent" number telephone installed yesterday.

"Please, tell me what my telephone number is," he asked "Information."

"I'm sorry," came the reply. "It's a silent number and we don't give out silent numbers."

The mayor pleaded, threatened, cajoled—to no avail. He went home and learned it from his wife.

Brodhead, Wis.—Marvin Thomsen, a high school instructor, tramped through mud by fields for hours last Saturday but could not bag a pheasant. Yesterday his wife called him from school to shoot one perched on the roof of the house.

Pittsburgh—For 50 years, Mrs. Adam Walters, 90, treasured a $2.50 gold piece given her as a birthday present. Answering the government's call for gold, she sent the coin, dated 1852 to a bank. It proved to be counterfeit.

Washington—Mrs. Davis Weir, cashier of a loan company, calmly concluded a telephone conversation with the statement "I'll have to stop now, there is a man in here, holding me up." The man who had been covering her with a revolver fled. A policeman at the corner gave chase and caught him.

Cherokee, N. C.—The Cherokee warriors wore sheepskin gins today. In the archery contests at the annual Cherokee Fair yesterday a team composed of Indian girls won the matches, outscoring their nearest rivals, a team of men, by 100 points.

PRESIDENT MEETS SMITH

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—When President Roosevelt entered the meeting room to address the National conference of Catholic charities last night one of the first persons he met was Al Smith.

"How'd you, Frank," said the former governor.

"Fine, Al," said the President and their arms went to each other's shoulders in an affectionate pat. Cardinal Hayes, archbishop of New York, smiled, for he had arranged to bring together the two men who had contested for the Democratic nomination for the presidency.

SOUTH COVENTRY

SELECTMEN PROMISE TO FIX LAKE ROAD

New Members Say That Daily Road on West Side Will Be Attended to This Year.

The results of Monday's election in South Coventry should be of great interest to Manchester people, especially those who own cottages on the west shore of the lake. The Herald's representative in talking with two of the candidates: running for selectman's office, how they felt towards the building of a new road, or what is now known as Daly road, that stretch running from the main highway at Fred Ayers place to South street and coming out at the corner of Shawette place. He was told that they most certainly would see that it was tended to.

Anyone having occasion to use this road knows that for about six months of the year it is almost impassable and the rest of the time dangerous to travel on. The South Coventry end of the town realizes that about all the added tax income is that which comes from the cottages and it seems that this new board of selectmen is going to take the town in a "chain-saw" way and give the people who are supporting it something for their money.

Notes
 Frank Sears of White Plains, N. Y., stopped off here for a few days visit with his father, Thomas Sears and friends before returning to his home after his annual vacation spent in Canada.

Mrs. John O'Connell of Hartford spent the week-end with her brother, John Curley and his wife.

Richard and Kate Sweetman of Shelton, Conn., spent the week-end with their cousin the Misses Mary and Catherine Hoppe.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Howard of Oakdale, Conn., spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Graham.

Wilfred Boudreau spent the week-end in Athol, Mass., the guest of his brother and family.

The annual tournament of the South Coventry Tennis Club has finally been finished and the winners this year are the same as last year. Roscoe Allen beat Eugene Latimer in the semi-finals for men played Saturday afternoon and was beaten in the final played Sunday morning by Herbert Couch, club champion 9-7 and 6-8. Miss Sue Welles and Miss Ruth Welles, sisters played off their match postponed from last Saturday and Sue won 6-4 and 7-5.

SEEK TRIAL DELAY

Oklahoma City, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A delay in the kidnaping trial of Mrs. Kathryn Kelly will be sought regardless of what action her husband, George (Machine-Gun) Kelly, may choose to take, her attorney, John V. Roberts said today.

The couple is scheduled to go on trial in Federal Court next Monday for the $200,000 ransom abduction of Charles E. Urschel, oil millionaire in connection with which seven persons have been convicted.

Best Connecticut Beef Steer

William Schukooske, of Middletown, and his Hereford steer, Windsor Domino 37th, judged best Connecticut animal in the recent 4-H Club show at Springfield of steers fed and raised by 4-H boys and girls including seventeen Connecticut-raised heaves. Steaks and roasts from the steers now are being tendered in refrigerated aging rooms and will be on sale Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14 in the markets of First National Stores which bought 35 4-H heaves.

URGENT NRA FUNDS FOR WATER WORKS

Special Bulletin Advises Connecticut Communities to Take Advantage of 30 P. C. Grant.

In a special bulletin issued today, the State Department of Health urged Connecticut communities which have not already done so to avail themselves of National Industrial Recovery Act public works funds for the construction and improvement of their public water supply systems.

Waterworks projects are among those which have been placed planning for water supplies was stressed recently by the Federal engineer assigned to Connecticut when he addressed the annual meeting of the New England Water Works Association at Bridgeport, the bulletin points out. Under the terms of the NIRA, such projects may be financed with Federal funds, only about seventy per cent of which need be repaid. Thirty per cent of the cost of labor and materials makes the form of an outright grant.

Praise is accorded in the bulletin to the First Taxing District of Norwalk which "has blazed the way in Connecticut by making early application to the Federal authorities and has secured approval of a large grant toward cost of construction of water works improvements which are being undertaken as a result of an engineering study of the waterworks system.

"Unquestionably," the bulletin continues, "there are numerous other communities in Connecticut where enlargements of sources of water supply to care for future growth, the installation of filtration plants to improve the color, odor and taste of water and to provide additional precautions to safeguard the supply or the strengthening of water distribution systems, are urgently needed."

"Certainly there is no more vital part of a community than its water supply. Modern methods of water purification permits the furnishing of not only a safe water but a colorless and palatable water. Development of additional sources of water supply should be undertaken in sufficient time to avoid the calamity of a depleted public water supply at times of drought. Money spent on needed waterworks improvements is money well invested for the future."

SCIENTIST DIES

Edinburgh, Scotland, Oct. 5.—(AP)—William Hope Fowler, a noted radiologist, died as martyr to that science today at the age of 57.

As a result of radiological work in which he was a pioneer he had to have two fingers amputated at different times and finally lost his right arm last June.

King George conferred a commandship in the Victorian order on him at Buckingham Palace last February.

OFFICIALS START PROBE OF CALIFORNIA BLAZE

Death List Now Placed at 27—Trying to Find Man Who Ordered Men to Go Into Trap.

Los Angeles, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Persons responsible for the disastrous Griffith park brush fire which cost 27 lives and for ordering laborers into the fire trap canyon, were sought in a three fold investigation today.

With a promise that criminal prosecution will follow any evidence of negligence, District Attorney B. F. Flitt assigned a deputy to attend the coroner's inquest. At this hearing scheduled for next Wednesday, a jury composed of fire experts, engineers and foresters will hear evidence gathered by city, county and state investigators.

Coroner Frank Manes said today the exact death toll of Tuesday's fire in the box like mineral wells canyon, may never be known.

Police said Robert D. Barr, 29, an unemployed motion picture projectionist, who was arrested for suspicion of arson, did not cause the fatal blaze, although they said he admitted starting a fire in the park later. The investigating officers said Barr, who had been drinking, heard a report of the fire, but being unable to locate it, he started a fire of his own.

DOLLFUSS RECOVERING FROM HIS INJURIES

Austrian Chancellor Receives Messages of Sympathy from All Over the World.

Vienna, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Archduke Otto, son of former Emperor Zita of Austria-Hungary, added his expressions of sympathy and well wishes today to the mountain heap of telegrams and letters in the modest little flat where Chancellor Engel Dollfuss is recovering from bullet wounds inflicted in an attempt to assassinate him.

"The Emperor and I wholeheartedly thank God who saved Austria's brave fighter for his homeland and pray, united with all true Austrians, for your speedy recovery," read a telegram from the Archduke at Brussels.

"Your blood was not shed aimlessly for the independence of our beloved fatherland, for with the help of God the disgraceful act will strengthen Austria and the whole populace in its determination to fulfill its historical mission whereunto my ancestors donated their lives."

A message of congratulations and best wishes for the chancellor's speedy recovery also was received today from the King of Italy.

MAN WITH TORGLER NOT VAN DER LUBBE

His Lawyer Tells Court Person Seen With His Client Was Man Named Kerri.

Leipzig, Germany, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The name of Arthur Carlfield Hays, American lawyer, cropped up early in the tenth day's proceedings of the German Reichstag building fire trial.

His name was drawn into the case, in which five men are charged with starting the blaze which damaged the building last February, in attempts of defense counsel to establish an alibi for Ernst Torgler.

Torgler contends that perhaps the person seen with him in the building the day of the fire was a Communist student named Kerri and not Marinus van der Lubbe, confessed incendiary.

Alfonso Sack, defense attorney, said Hays told him that a certain student who resembled Van der Lubbe appeared at the unofficial international inquiry into the case at London.

In addition, Sack said today, he verified the asserted resemblance through a photograph sent him from London.

Although Van der Lubbe virtually exonerated Torgler and all of the others of complicity yesterday, the court renewed its examination of Torgler.

RAISING OF SWEET POTATOES IS URGED

Can Be Grown in This County Says Farm Bureau — How They Are Cured.

The commercial production of sweet potatoes in Connecticut appears to be a very strong probability according to an announcement by the Hartford County Farm Bureau. Approximately 12 acres of sweet potatoes of different varieties have been grown this year in widely separated towns in Hartford County as a demonstration of the possibility of producing this crop.

The Tobacco Experiment Station in Windsor has shown for a couple of years that sweet potatoes can be grown successfully in the state and this year the station is carrying on experiments with varieties and fertilizers. Last spring a dozen farmers in the towns of Bristol, Avon, Farmington, East Hartford, Windsor and Suffield indicated an interest in trying sweet potatoes and set from a demonstration of the possibility of producing this crop. The plants are then set on ridges, to facilitate digging, very much the same as outdoor tobacco is set and can be readily set with a tobacco setter. The sweet potato requires very little cultivation and no spraying.

Some growers believe that the potatoes can be dug with an ordinary potato digger although reports have been that a steel chain on potato digger bruises the sweet potatoes considerably. After the potatoes are dug, if they are to be kept any great length of time they must be dried out at a temperature of around 85 degrees for about ten days or until the eyes begin to turn pink showing indication of growth.

After the curing process is completed, the potatoes can be stored at a temperature not under 48 degrees or over sixty degrees throughout the winter. Since no sweet potatoes are grown north of New Jersey, Farm Bureau officials feel that considerable acreage of our tobacco land can be devoted to the production of this crop in the future provided it proves really practical.

Sweet potato production in the United States totals just around 70,000,000 as compared with around 355,000,000 white potatoes.

Many of the local markets have indicated interest in trying the native potatoes and reports from those who have tried them indicate that they not only appear better but the quality is not only equal but superior to southern potatoes. Whether a sweet potato is dry, moist or wet depends first upon the variety and second on curing, and there is little doubt but that the type of potato desired by the consuming public can be produced with proper attention to variety and curing.

Girl Scout News
Quick Arrow Soap Flakes
Girl Scouts of Manchester are urging their mothers and friends to purchase Quick Arrow Soap Flakes at the J. W. Hale Company during the month of October. Naturally they are hoping to win the first prize of $30.00. Each package purchased and a coupon signed for them, means 100 votes more. Several users have recommended it, and the money will be used toward Girl Scouting in Manchester. All the leaders and council members give their services, but there are other expenses connected with the movement that have to be met, and we solicit the support of all interested in the cause.

Brownie Leaders Association
The Brownie Leaders Association held its first meeting of the season September 28 at Girl Scout headquarters. It was voted to hold meetings once in two months on the second Thursday.
Plans for the coming year were discussed, it was decided that each Brownie pack hold thirty meetings during the year, and that a Brownie be allowed to be absent one meeting due to illness, to meet the attendance requirements.
Information concerning activities to take place during Girl Scout Week was brought to the attention of the members, and all loyally promised their co-operation and support. Publicity of special Brownie activities was suggested for the next year. The next meeting of the Association will be held November 9.
Notes
The monthly council meeting will be held next Tuesday, October 10 at 2:30 in the Girl Scout Headquarters.
The Officers Association will meet at Headquarters on Wednesday evening, October 11 at 7:30.
Troop 3
The meetings of Troop 3 will be held hereafter in the assembly hall of the Nathan Hale school on Monday afternoons. Patrol leaders were chosen as follows—Patrol 1, Marjorie Lahey; Patrol 2, Alice Madson; Patrol 3, Peachie Gliglio; Patrol 4, Dorothy Lang.
Aryne Wilkie is to be our captain for this year. Many new things

CHURCH WOMEN'S RALLY IN HARTFORD OCT. 18

Congregational Council to Have Session at Immanuel Church to Hear Missionary.

The Fifth Annual Rally of the Hartford District of the Council of Congregational Women of Connecticut will be held on Wednesday, October 18 in Immanuel Church, Hartford, sessions at 10 and 2:15 o'clock. The morning session will open with an address by Rev. Charles W. Miller, Ph. D. of Pasmals, India. Mrs. Newton B. Robart, president of the Council will also speak and Mrs. Warren S. Archibald will lead the Service of Worship. In the afternoon there will be an address by George N. White, of Chicago, Secretary of the American Missionary Association, and a discussion of the topic "How spread the principles of Jesus throughout the world" participated in by Mrs. Francis D. Ellis, Mrs. A. M. Guttery, Mrs. Theodore A. Greene, Rev. David McKeith, Rev. A. B. Chalmers, Dr. George W. C. Hill and Wilson Hume. Lunch will be served by the women of the church.

It is calculated that about 10 per cent of all federal, state and local taxes collected in 1931 were paid by automobile owners.

The second meeting of Troop 8 was held Friday, September 29. All scouts assembled across from Captain Agard's house. The hallows formation was practiced and the meeting closed with a good-night circle. Plans are already underway for a hike to be held Saturday, October 14.

The second meeting of Troop 7 was held Monday at the Buckland School. The meeting was opened with a game and then three new patrols were organized. Irene LaChance was selected troop scribe and Doris Cole troop treasurer. Horsehoe formation was practiced and the meeting closed with a good-night circle. Plans are already underway for a hike to be held Saturday, October 14.

Troop 9 held its first meeting of the year Monday, October 2 at the South Methodist Church. Captain Beebe and Lieutenant Gardner were with us to start the year. There was a full troop, and 10 or 12 others who would like to join. Plans for the different tests and badges were discussed until 7:30, when we adjourned to the gym. The next half hour was spent playing dodgeball and soccer base-ball. At 8:00 we went upstairs to elect patrol leaders.

Dorothy Lewis who has been the troop bugler since the troop was organized has given up the Drum and Bugle Corps, and has been succeeded by Althea Mienke.

After a long summer vacation, Troop 11 opened its first meeting at the Y.M.C.A. with Miss Grace Gliglio as captain. Victoria Zelewitz was elected scribe and Edna Herrick troop treasurer. The following girls are working on first-class: Regina Barrs, June Barrs, Edna Herrick and Victoria Zelewitz. Elvira Larson, a new member of our troop and is to be the pianist. Jane Barrs and Victoria Zelewitz are to attend the First Aid Class as they are farther along with their first class work. Mrs. Agard, field captain, was there to start the first meeting.

A hike was planned for Wednesday, October 11. The girls are requested to meet at the Center at 4:30 and go to Camp Morton for a supper hike. Bernice Beebe will be our troop drummer. Regina Barrs is instructing the first aid class for second-class scouts.

FOOTBALL PLAYER KILLED
Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 5—(AP)—Norman Panzarella, 18-year-old member of the Grover Cleveland high school football team died this morning from football injuries.

Panzarella was injured yesterday in a pile up during scrimmage. His neck was placed in a cast at a hospital, but he was paralyzed from the chest down and died this morning. His death was the second football fatality in Buffalo within a week. A sand lot player died from a fractured skull received in a game last week.

World Series Rests in the Hands of Earl Whitehill

SENATORS TACKLE DESPERATE PROBLEM IN 3RD GAME TODAY

NO TEAM HAS EVER WON SERIES AFTER LOSING FIRST TWO

Nats Are Baffled and Slightly Shell-Shocked After Yesterday's Result; To Pin Hopes on Whitehill.

By EDWARD J. NEIL (Associated Press Sports Writer) Washington, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Baffled and slightly shell-shocked, Joe Cronin and his Washington Senators today tackled a problem that in its baseball way was as desperate as any the capital legislatures are accustomed to wrestling with in this fountain head of political perplexities.

Their big guns silenced, hitting power lost, strayed or stolen, pitchers battered and a few victims of signs of gloom, the American League champions took a deep breath of home air, a fresh grip on themselves and set out to do something desperate about these ever amazing Giants in the third game of the world series.

When Carl Hubbell, the master of the left-handed screw-ball, polished the Senators off in the opening of the annual conflict in the Polo Grounds Tuesday, allowing but five hits in a 2-0 victory, neither the Senators nor any one else who knew the Oklahoma record of ten shutouts in 24 league victories this year was genuinely surprised.

But when Hal Schumacher, the 32 year old boy so fresh from the Lawrence University campus that the signature on his college degree is only four months old, handcuffed them for the second time yesterday, cut their allowance to one run on the same measly ration of five hits and then joined in a sixth inning outburst that brought a conquest the situation became genuinely acute.

Starting hurlers For one thing, never in the history of these post season engagements has a team ever been able to come from behind in all the games of a best-of-seven championship after losing the first two contests. It was done once when the series had a nine game limit, the Giants beating the Yankees under those conditions in 1921.

In this distressing emergency, half the Senators called on Earl Whitehill, his best outpuncher for the first of three games in Griffith stadium. In line with his policy of open armer-minding, Bill Terry named Portly Fred Fitzsimmons, the knuckle-ball veteran, as the Giants pitcher.

The American League champions rode home in bitter, discouraged silence. The Giants, transformed, like old Mike McGivie, into savage punchers at the end of the campaign, were a boisterous, confident lot.

"Hey," said blundery John Ryan, the shortstop. "They hit like we're supposed to, and we hit like every one told us they did. Heh, heh! I'm for that."

Certainly the Senators, even the Yankees of the home run boom days rarely turned in a rally more lengthy, impressive and possessed of more finality, than did the Giants yesterday when they fell on Crowder in the sixth.

Crowder cooled off For five innings the 32 year old "General," all season long a one man fire brigade answering Cronin's alarms, held the National League titheholders to two bare singles in a tense duel with Schumacher, ten years his junior, who had just come back to his sensational home run hitting of the 1934 and 1935 series with a belt into the upper right field stands in the third for the only score up to the sixth.

As wise baseball men worked it over later, a probed but fruitless struggle with Schumacher in the sixth, when he was in grave danger might have had something to do with Crowder's down-fall. It took 15 minutes for Goalin to get his second hit, a single to center, for Heinie Manush to walk, both move up on a wild pitch. Cronin to foul out, Goalin to get run down between third and home on Fred Schulte's grounder, Joe Kuhel to walk and Ossie Bluege to strike out despairingly, ending it all with the bases full.

Perhaps Crowder "cooled out" in that interval. Whatever happened the results filled 34,641 despairing hearts with new hope, then amazement as ever flowed through the Polo Grounds.

Young Joe Moore, Terry's right-fielder, batted first, pinch hit into right, but he was forced at second on Hughie Critz attempted sacrifice. Terry doubled, Ott, home run hero of the first game walked.

Russell Again Charged With a "Raw" Decision

Ralph Russell, who umpired the second tilt of the West Sides-Bluefields baseball series and gained the limelight through a questionable decision that created a furor in local sports circles, is again in the headlines, this time in connection with the championship series between the Orioles and Polish-Americans of Rockville. The dispute rages as the result of his decision in the third game played last Sunday.

Russell is charged by the Rockville Leader as making at least two raw decisions. Russell called a player out at home in the first half of the fifth, the runner being tagged coming into the plate, after which the catcher dropped the ball. Protests came from all sides but he refused to reverse the decision, later forfeiting the game to the Polish-Americans.

In his column, "Talking of Sports," Tom Rady, Jr., sports editor of the Leader, has this to say: "Brother Russell Needs Glasses. If Brother Russell failed to notice Ambrosi dropping the ball after tagging Pinnay at home plate, then Brother Russell is badly in need of glasses. Failing to notice such an important item was bad enough, but what made it much worse, was Russell's refusal to admit that he was wrong in his decision even after Ambrosi admitted that he had failed to hold onto the ball. There were a couple of other "Russell decisions" that would bear plenty of looking into, but the greatest faux pas of them all, was the time Umpire Russell's indicator became discommodated and he couldn't remember just how many balls and strikes he had called on a batter. . . . Russell Burke was the only one on the Polish-American team who refused to play after the first argument had been settled."

In the West Sides-Bluefields tilt here over a month ago, Russell called Kovic out for failure to touch third, after Kovic had crossed the plate with the tying run of the game, followed by Brennan with the winning homer. Many protested at the time that the umpire had not seen the play and the dispute raged for nearly two weeks before the Bluefields finally agreed to accept the game as a West Sides victory. The latter team later went on to win the series for the right to meet the Sub-Alpines in the finals of the local tourney.

Wesley Ramey Is Ready For Shot At Ross' Title

champion in 1937, up to hit for George Davis O'Doul, a sub since come to the Giants in mid-season from Brooklyn, has been "lucky" hitting in Schumacher's games. He seems to get runs for the youngster.

He got him two right there, with a single that streaked past Crowder and into center field, after a foul tip that would have been his third strike if it had not bounced out of Luke Sewell's glove. After that even the Yankees could have done no better.

Then Came the End Travis Jackson hit, then Gus Mancuso, slowest of the Giants, transformed the excitement into hysteria with a perfect squeeze bunt that scored O'Doul and brought him forward to first base. Ryan fanned, but Schumacher singled, Moore hit for the second time, Critz singled and the thing did not end until Terry grounded into a force play.

With the strain lifted, Schumacher breezed through the stretch, his overhead slider keeping the Senators popping up, or driving into the dirt. He had never a worry after the sixth.

Today's probable lineup: Washington New York Myr, 2b Critz, 2b Goalin, rf Manush, lf Ott, cf Cronin, ss Davis, c Schulte, cf Jackson, 3b Kuhel, 1b Mancuso, c Bluege, 3b Ryan, ss Sewell, c Fitzsimmons, p Whitehill, p Umpires: Plate, Ferman (N); Ormsby (A), first base; Moran (N), second base; Moriarty (A), third base.

BOWLING MATCH CALLED OFF

The Middletown Girls called the match off with the Charter Oak Girls. In three games of practice, Clara Jackmore made scores of 125, 120 and 108 for 353.

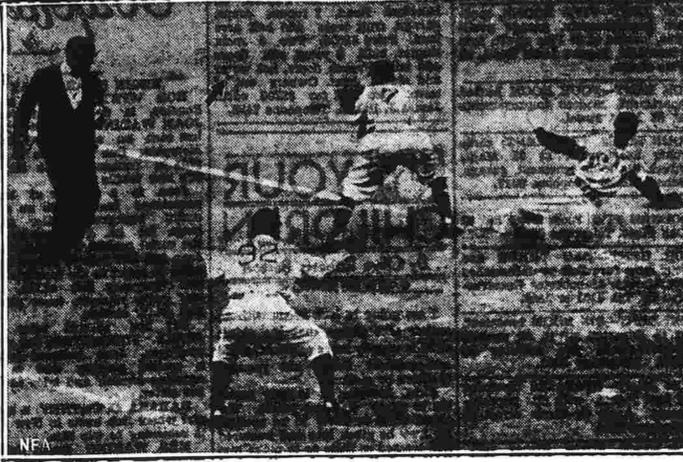

Merchants League Meeting A meeting was held for the Merchants League Friday night at the Charter Oak alleys.

NBA League To Start The NBA League will be under way shortly with six teams in it. Room for another team to enter. Inquire at the Charter Oak alleys.

HALES' TEAM LOSES At Conran's alleys last night the Friable Pie team of Hartford won from Hales' Five on pinfall by 24 pins. Although Hales took two out of three games, Johnson of Hales' team was high three string man with 330, while Murzin of the visitors had high single of 120.

SEEMS MATCHES Bert Gibson's Bears will represent Conran's alleys this winter and Mr. Gibson would like to arrange a home and home match with any five man team in town. Call Gibson's Garage.

As Giants Began Sixth-Inning Victory March

New York's Giants were off on their smashing sixth-inning batting spree when this striking action picture was taken during the second World Series game at the Polo Grounds. Here you see Critz, Giant second baseman, beating the ball (indicated by arrow) as he reaches third base on Terry's double. Later Critz scored on O'Doul's single—the first of the six runs in that inning which gave New York a 6-to-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

PRESIDENT OF CUBS DIES IN CHICAGO

William Veeck Passes Away in Hospital—Family at Bedside When End Comes.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(AP)—William Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, died at 7:45 a. m., c. s. t., today at St. Luke's hospital where he had been suffering from leucemia, an excess of white corpuscles in the blood.

The death of the veteran baseball official occurred shortly after his physician, Dr. Leo C. Grewes, said his condition had taken a definite turn for the worse. Last night he was reported somewhat better after oxygen had been administered to assist him in breathing.

During his illness Mrs. Veeck, William L. Veeck, Jr., and Miss Margaret Veeck took turns watching at the bedside.

SOX BEAT CUBS

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Chicago's Cubs favorites in the City series with the White Sox, hoped to redeem themselves with their backswing today after taking a 3-2 beating in the opening encounter.

The White Sox blasted Guy Bush for four hits and three runs in the second inning yesterday and it proved enough to give them the game.

Many Important Battles Dot Weekend Grid Slate

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—If football history should happen to repeat itself this Saturday, look for scoring fireworks at Athens, Ga., Fayetteville, Ark., and Portland, Ore.

At Athens it will be another meeting of Georgia's Bull-dogs and the Green wave of Tulane; Texas Christian and Arkansas will stage their southwest conference at Fayetteville; at Portland, Ore., State of the Pacific coast conference will take on that sturdy non-conference foe, Gonzaga.

Another interesting game on the week's slate will bring together Temple and Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

A number of teams will trot out on the gridiron with the memories of terrific trouncings to spur them on but it looks like most of them will have to wait at least another year before obtaining revenge.

Pitt beat West Virginia 40-0 last year, but the mountaineers have small hopes of beating the Panthers Saturday. And that holds for Kansas, which took a 24 to 6 lacing from Notre Dame in 1937; Michigan state, 36-0, by Michigan's big ten champions; and Washington State, 30-0, by a 30-0 defeat by Southern California's mighty men of Troy.

ALL-AMERICA HOPES CLASH ON GRIDIRON

Two Youngsters May Show When Tulane and Georgia Battle Saturday; Roberts Meets Stiff Test Again Graham Batchelor.

frightened jack rabbits you can see around his home town of Stigler, Okla. He weighs 176 pounds, which isn't too much to drag down his speed, nor too little to hamper his line hammering.

No matter how good Roberts is, he'll have to be at his best to get by Batchelor. This is the Georgia star's last year. Weighing 200 pounds and in the best condition of his three years on the squad, Batchelor has an even chance to stop Roberts.

At the start of the fall training season Coach Harry Mehre was asked to name his probable starting lineup.

"I'll name Batchelor for the regular team, and you sports writers can pick the rest of the team from the squad," he said. "Which leaves little to be explained as to the status of Graham, in Mehre's mind.

The end had plenty of opportunity to improve his play of last year. Mehre has had Chick Shivers, All-America and of Georgia in 1927, and "Cattfish" Smith, All-Southern star of 1931, to give the boy pointers.

Batchelor, of the Stintop, Texas, Batchelor, is a great track star as well as a football player. He consistently won first places in broad jump, javelin, discus and shotput during the track season. And he was the outstanding fighter on the school's boxing team.

So it will be a Texas boy against an Oklahoma boy. If Roberts gets by Batchelor, he's an All-America back; if Batchelor stops Roberts, he's an All-America end—but if it's a tie, well, w'll make 'em both All-Americans.

EAGLES PRACTICE HARD

The Eagles football team is practicing hard every night this week for Sunday's game. Coach "Ding" Fary has been drilling his men considerably on defensive work especially.

He feels sure that his team can defeat the All-Plainville team that swamped the West Sides, 19-0, last Sunday. The manager has signed up several new players. None of these players are salaried men.

The New York professional football Giants have a dox stars fresh out of college on their roster this year, including the brilliant Harry Newman from the University of Michigan, Newman is the only man on the roster weighing under 190 pounds.

JOHNSON THINKS HE'LL PITCH SHUT OUT TODAY

GIANTS SEEK FOUR VICTORIES IN ROW OVER THE SENATORS

Hope to Avenge Humiliation Heaped on Older Loop by Yankees in Recent Years; Need Only Two More.

Says Nats Have Not Only Been Outplayed and Out-smarted But Outkicked; Expects Giants to Return to Natural Stride; Have Been Playing Over Their Heads.

By WALTER JOHNSON (As Told to Bill Braucher, NEA Service Sports Editor). New York, Oct. 5.—The world series rests squarely now in the hands of Earl Whitehill. He faces a job at which Al Crowder and Walter Stewart failed. Whitehill knows, as he goes to the pitcher's box today that it is up to him to change the trend of a series in which his teammates have been outplayed.

Nats Are Outkicked Washington has not only been outplayed and outsmarted but outkicked. The Nationals figured to win yesterday, and with Crowder apparently going along in his best form, victory for the Giants did not appear possible.

One bad inning altered the whole story. When Lefty O'Doul, after having two strikes on him, picked out a fast ball and sent it riding to center field, the theme of the ball game changed. "O'Doul had game able to get by O'Doul the story of the series would have been different.

But to get back to Whitehill. How will he fare against a team like the Giants? Will they be able to hit his curve?

Picks Carl To Win In my opinion Whitehill will win. He is the kind of a pitcher a club like the Giants will have trouble with. His sweeping curve is certain to bother left-hand batters like Terry and Ott. Though it must be said for Ott that one of the best hits of the series, his homer into the right field stands, was made off a left-handed pitcher.

Whitehill has plenty of nerve. In a pinch like this, I expect him to come up with his best.

Looks For Shutout I look for a shutout from Earl. In a tough spot, he is as good a bet as any pitcher that I know.

Technically Whitehill is better equipped than any other Washington pitcher. It strikes me that left-handed batters of the Giants have a weakness for low curves outside. They will get a great many of such balls from Whitehill.

Play Over Heads It seems to me about time that the Giants relaxed into their natural stride. A team that has been hitting like New York all season has no license to record ten blows off Crowder. Today may be the day for Terry's club to decide to be itself again. Thus far, the Giants have been playing over their heads. One defeat may change the spirit of the team. For a time yesterday it appeared the Giants were licked. Crowder seemed unbeatable. His fast ball and curve were being fouled off. Until the sixth it seemed that Goalin's fine drive into the stands, they faced the necessity of making two runs. For two innings after the Goalin's drive it appeared that would be enough to win the ball game.

But, just as the trend swiftly changed in that sixth inning sending the Senators down to defeat, so I anticipate that today the story will be different. The team that hits cannot be held off indefinitely.

The Giants still appear to me to be a team that will lose composure under fire. Today holds the answer.

Who's The New Coach? CHICAGO'S SHAUGHNESSY Clark D. Shaughnessy must be named among the colorful coaches. . . . Rockne laughingly used to rank himself No. 1 colorful coach, and Shaughnessy No. 2. . . . The present University of Chicago mentor, former Loyola of the South and Tulane head, and graduate of the University of Minnesota, is finally back in the Big Ten . . . where he played all 11 positions for the Gophers . . . and was named All-Western, any position, by Chicago.

He was brought up on the son of a St. Paul school teacher, and they called him "Red" for his red hair. . . . It was he who invented an adequate defense against Rockne's attack . . . and explained it to Major Ralph Sasse . . . who used it with his Army team to stop the Irish . . . and spends his spare moments plunking out classic tunes . . . and working out football plays to the rhythm. . . . Already the Maroons look better with Shaughnessy.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

I am going to lock horns with an author who states that the oldest child is usually more aggressive and self-confident than his younger brothers or sisters.

First, however, it is only sensible to fight on equal terms. The oldest child is likely to be spoiled. He may be given into and humored and crossed so little as to make him think he is the lord of creation.

But there is another side to it that is too apparent to miss. The first feisty in the pink crib is a wonder to his parents, his aunts, uncles, and grandparents. The miracle is theirs to cherish. We always cherish things more when they are a new adventure. The first baby is a new adventure.

Everything on earth is provided for him. Everything is done for him. We turn handmaidens, entertainers, consolers, worriers. His time we fill nicely for him. We help him play his games, button his pants, wash his hands, and to him almost as if he were a new adventure.

When his small brother comes along, there are two to work for. Now what happens? The oldest begins the habit of getting help, and suggestion for every move he makes. He is not independent in a minute or a year, if ever. He will go on expecting and demanding more than his share of the family time.

Younger Ones Independent This takes just so much time of Bab's that he begins to feel a bit of independence. He begins to fill in his own time. He learns to amuse himself, to depend on his own small resources. And he is likely to be the more independent soul of the two.

The oldest, being the real experimenter, usually picks the first piece of clothes, of education and career. The paternal influence follows him to maturity. His very material advantages over the others still further increase the need for invention and self-reliance in the younger children.

MARLE WOODSON DEAD.

Vinita, Okla., Oct. 2.—(AP)—Marle Woodson, the man who won and lost, died today at the State hospital here after long days of intense suffering.

The case of the former newspaperman and author who came to the hospital more than two years ago from Tulsa for mental disorder occasioned by dipomania, attracted very attention when he wrote a brilliant book from the viewpoint of an inmate. Woodson later recovered and was released.

Some weeks ago, however, he suffered an arm injury and a bone disease shattered his health. He returned to the hospital and, realizing he had but a short time to live, sent a letter to a Tulsa friend giving a "cheery farewell."

Forgotten Sweetheart

By MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, is deeply attracted to JOAN WARING, a pretty girl he has seen on a train en route to Memphis. Bob has come to Memphis in connection with his father's new textile plant.

Joan is a member of an impoverished family with an artistic background. Her mother longs for her daughters to have the social position rightfully theirs. Joan has left college before graduation to assist in the family's financial emergency. Her father, PAT, two years younger, loves pleasure and pretty clothes.

Pat has several tastes with JERRY FORRESTER, son of her employer. Joan believes Jerry is a spoiled playboy who is only amusing himself and tries to warn her sister.

BARBARA COURTNEY, a society girl whom Bob knew in New York, is scheming to win him. BOB WARING meets Bob and invites him to dinner. Joan, in a flurry of preparations, scarcely hears Pat's description of a description of a "knock-out looking man" she has seen with Barbara Courtney. Pat opens the door when Bob arrives that evening and recognizes him as the man she saw with Barbara.

But there is another side to it that is too apparent to miss. The first feisty in the pink crib is a wonder to his parents, his aunts, uncles, and grandparents. The miracle is theirs to cherish. We always cherish things more when they are a new adventure. The first baby is a new adventure.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VII Bob called for Joan early the next morning and they drove to the site of the new textile plant. As they rode along, the wind in their faces, he told her of the plans for the project. Two hundred and fifty acres had been purchased with a half mile frontage on the river.

Preliminary work on the water front was already under way. "Boring, and sounds are now being made," Bob said, "and specifications will be ready for bids within 30 days."

Joan understood little of the technical language he used but she was immensely proud that he should have even a small connection with anything so big and important. She was proud, too, that he wanted her to know about it.

Bob expanded the subject, pleased by Joan's look of interest. The company had decided on a southern plant to serve the trade of a large territory south of the Ohio, he said. Normally, the raw materials would be shipped north to the purchased plant but now finished products for the southern area would be shipped from Memphis, carrying a much lower freight rate.

"You understand, Joan?" "If think it's wonderful," she said. "And a good thing for Memphis." Bob went on, "because it will bring a big payroll here."

A good thing for Memphis, Joan was thinking, because it had brought Bob here.

She found her interest growing as she piloted her about the site, already a beehive of activity. Surveyors at work—machines being shifted into position—trucks moving about—automobiles coming and leaving.

Joan was excited. It was her first glimpse of a huge development in the making. Walking beside Bob, she noted the deferent of the workmen and engineers.

"How are you, Mr. Weston? Things are moving along fine." The chief engineer has some prints in his office he wants you to see before you leave, sir.

"Excuse me a moment, Joan," Bob said. "Sam, tell Miss Waring about the new type of machinery that is being used for the first time in this plant."

"He sure knows his business," said the man named Sam, as Bob moved away.

Joan wanted to ask what Bob's business was. "I'll wait until he tells me," she decided. "He's probably one of the young engineers or maybe a surveyor."

The drove back into town about noon. Bob suggested luncheon at a hotel.

"Let's stop by Fieldings for sandwiches," Joan said.

"He's inclined to spend his money too freely," she thought, "when he should be saving it. This car for instance, with its stream lines and powerful engine."

She didn't know what a young construction engineer might earn but she was sure it would not be a very big salary.

It was fun eating their sandwiches. Thrilling to have so many people staring at them.

"And no wonder," Joan thought. "He's terribly good looking."

excited fingers. The entire page was devoted to a feature article and pictures, with the caption: "Cost of Gigantic Enterprise to Exceed Three Million."

"I know all about it," Joan said, calmly. "We were out there today. It's marvelous."

"You knew all about it and you didn't tell us? Well, what do you know about that?"

"Know about what?" "That Bob Weston is the son of the man who owns the whole works." (To Be Continued)

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

When you have done the three posture exercises several times a day for a couple of weeks, you should be ready to stand correctly. Place your weight on the balls of your feet, heels together. Never stiffen your knees. They should be perfectly relaxed whether you are sitting, standing or walking.

Raise your head and straighten your neck just as you did when you were doing the posture exercise flat on your back on the floor. Draw in your chin, keeping the back of your neck very straight.

Thrust the lower end of your spine forward and upward as you did when you were practicing the sliding-down-the-wall exercise. See that your stomach is flat. It will be if you turn the end of your spine forward. Raise your chest. Make sure that your spinal column is straight and that there is no little hollow in your back.

Now look at yourself in a mirror. You'll probably be perfectly amazed at the flatness of your stomach and the slimness of your hips.

Don't try to stand correctly until you have mastered the exercises. Each one of them has a definite purpose and they greatly simplify the almost lost art of correct posture.

For a while you'll have to be posture-conscious. Think about yourself occasionally and if you've started back into the old slump, pull yourself upward, straighten your whole body. In a very short time it will be natural for you to stand and walk correctly.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Many mothers think that children of school age should have a hot drink for breakfast—particularly on those mornings when a hot cereal is not served. But with coffee considered taboo for growing girls and boys, and the ideal hot milk seldom proving popular, just what to serve becomes more or less of a problem.

Older children may find a cereal "coffee" of a cereal coffee quite to their liking. Young children from 6 to 12 years of age need a drink containing more actual food value than the cereal beverage unless it is made wholly with milk. A cup of hot milk flavored with one or two tablespoons of a cereal coffee makes a drink for the juniors.

Cocoa also makes an excellent flavoring for the cup of hot milk suitable for the junior's breakfast. High in Protein Fat, starch and protein are found in dry cocoa, and when whole milk is used and sugar added, the result is a drink of high food value, nourishing and wholesome. One cup of cocoa made entirely with whole milk furnishes 217 calories of protein, fat and carbohydrates.

Because cocoa contains starch, care must be taken in the making of the drink. Thorough cooking is necessary for the starch, but undesirable for the milk. Consequently the cocoa must be well cooked before the milk is added.

The "skin" which sometimes forms on top of cocoa is the albumin of the milk coagulated by heat. Care in not overheating the milk and constant stirring while the milk is heating do much to prevent this. Beating with a Dover beater after the milk is added increases the smoothness of the drink and tends to remove the "skin" if the milk was allowed to scald.

Chocolate and cocoa may often be used interchangeably, but cocoa is less rich in fat and easier to digest. This makes it a better beverage for small children.

THE TINYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN. Pictures by GEORGE SCARBO

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"Oh, gee, I'm happy as can be. It makes me feel that way to see the dog and pony safe and sound," said Dotty, with a grin.

"Our friend, the parrot, sure was brave to fly right out so he could save the frightened dog from drowning. Why, he, too, almost fell in."

"Why, I had fun," the parrot cried. "Of course, the first time that I tried to swoop down, I was blown away. But then I had good luck."

"When once my bill was fastened tight beneath the collar, 'twas all right. The dog held still and tried to help me. He had lots of luck."

Just then the pony snorted, and wee Scouty said, "I understand. The heat should feel real good. The dog and pony then can get real dry. Right now they're soaking wet." So all the Tinymites began to gather heaps of wood.

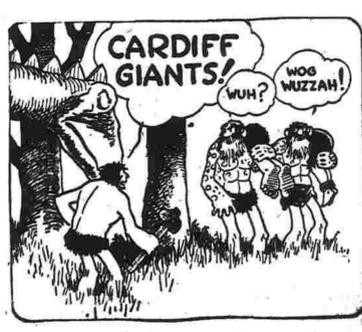

The blaze soon roared and, my, 'twas hot. It helped the shivering beasts a lot. It wasn't very long until they jumped up to their feet. The parrot said, "All right, you two can run along. We're through with you. You've done tricks for treat."

Then to the bunch the parrot cried, "How would you like to take a ride upon a rat? It's lots of fun. There's naught more here to see."

"All right, but you will have to make the raft yourselves. It will not take so very long, the parrot cried. "I'll find some logs for you. In just a little while, the bunch were working out the kind bird's hunch. "If we keep at this building," Scouty said, "we'll soon be through."

(The Tinies set sail on the raft in the next story.)

Patent Clerk—I'm sorry, madam, but that is a mirror.

It Little Willie's bank has remained unshaken in the crisis, it's Just because Little Willie's papa didn't hear anything when he shook it the last time.

JOSEPHUS—And why do you think I am a poor judge of human nature?
LUCRETIA—Because you have such a good opinion of yourself.

The community that prospers is always the friendly community. Today the world is seeking out such places. There is so much of travail and harassment in the everyday affairs of life that friendly havens beckoned from afar. If you want to be prosperous, to be known as a friendly spot, then you be friendly, too. It is a good message to carry with you—and it pays big dividends in happiness and prosperity.

Teacher—Junior, what three words are most used in the English language?
Junior—I don't know.
Teacher—Correct.

ABOUT TOWN

Mrs. Bertha Keckelsen and Mrs. Ida Probert arrived Tuesday from California to visit Mrs. Keckelsen's daughter, Mrs. John Schiebel, of 114 Summer street.

Unable to reach Hans Lasker, of 587 Center street, by telephone to relay a telegram message from Hartford to him, the message was taken at the police station and the information brought to him by Motorcycle Policeman Herman Muske. The telegram brought information that his mother is ill at her home in Forest Hills, New York, and he was requested to come at once. Mr. Lasker is employed in Hartford, but makes his home here.

An important meeting of the dance committee of the Junior Daughters of Italy will be held tonight at the clubroom at 7:30 o'clock. All members of the committee are urged to be present.

James Geehan, employed at Cleary's restaurant, has been unable to work for the past three days because of a bad cold, which has kept him confined to his room in the Selwitz building.

The annual meeting of the Highland Park Community club will take place this evening at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse. All residents of that section of the town will be welcome to attend.

St. Mary's Girls' Friendly society who gave a successful low-cost supper recently, are planning another for Thursday evening, October 19, and appointed Mrs. Dorothy Turner, chairman, and a large committee to have charge.

The Church Council of the Vernon Methodist church will meet tonight at 7:30 for its monthly business session, and not the North Methodist church Council. The latter held its meeting Monday evening.

Officers of the Daughters of Liberty will conduct a rummage sale Saturday from 9 a. m. on in the store at 805 Main street. The committee will be on hand to receive donations from members and friends Friday 1 p. m. at the store or articles will be called for if they will dial 7090, 8741 or 8273.

The monthly meeting of the W. E. A. Guard club will be held tomorrow evening with Mrs. Rose Stevenson of 91 Union street.

The junior and senior choirs of the Polish National church will rehearse tomorrow evening with Organist John J. Skowronek, the juniors at 6:30 and the seniors at 7:30. A number of new songs will be practiced and all the singers are urged to attend.

Chief Albert Foy of the South Manchester Fire Department spoke to the students of the local State Trade school at the regular weekly assembly this afternoon. His subject was "Fire Prevention."

Miss Dorothy Gordon has postponed the opening of her dancing classes until further notice. Miss Gordon is confined to her home as the result of an accident which occurred yesterday afternoon in Ellington. Miss Gordon's car struck a telephone pole.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Tedford of 48 Academy street enjoyed the World series games at New York yesterday. Mr. Tedford is a well known baseball fan, and has been playing this summer with the Manchester Athletics.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge members will be guests at a roast beef supper tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in Odd Fellows hall, arranged for by the members of King David Lodge who will hold brief meeting preceding the meal.

Mrs. John Cullin of Bond street received a letter today from her sister, Mrs. Clifford Moynihan, who with her husband are en route from Oregon, and expect to arrive in Manchester at the end of the week. Mr. Moynihan is attending the American Legion convention in Chicago with the Drum Corps Division. He is secretary-treasurer of the Salem Corps. The Moynihans left Manchester to make their home on the Pacific Coast nearly ten years ago.

The Women's Foreign Missionary society of the South Methodist church will meet tomorrow evening at 7:30, and all women of the church will be welcome. Rev. Leonard Harris will speak of some of the high spots in the Laymen's Missionary report and Mrs. Lydia Gilmore will be hostess.

The women's missionary societies of the North Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. C. I. Balch of 822 North Main street. Officers will be elected and mite boxes will be received at this meeting. Miss Emma Colver who has recently returned after spending the summer in Czechoslovakia with her niece's family and brother-in-law, Rev. J. S. Porter, for many years a missionary in that field, will tell of conditions as they exist today. Friends of Miss Colver or others interested in hearing her message will be welcome.

CENTER CHURCH WOMEN BEGIN THEIR SEASON

Mrs. John Pickles Presides for First Time—Music and Games Program.

The Center Church Women's Federation began the season's activities last night by an evening session which was attended by more than 50 members. It was also the first meeting with the new president, Mrs. John Pickles, and her associate officers in charge. Mrs. Pickles welcomed the women of the church and expressed her pleasure at the large attendance. Rev. Watson Woodruff, the pastor, who was present a portion of the evening, commended the work of the federation during its five years of existence, and made suggestions for its further cooperation and service for the church, along social and financial lines.

A delightful musical program followed consisting of piano solos by Mrs. Sydney French and duets played with her small daughter; a group of vocal numbers by Mrs. Harold Symington, concert soprano, were also well received. Adjournment was made to the parish hall where a period of games in charge of Mrs. Mary Crockett, assisted by Miss Jessamine Smith were engaged in by the women with as much zest as if they were school children. Mrs. Edna Case Parker, Mrs. C. W. Holman and several of the members of the evening group served sandwiches and coffee.

GET ACQUAINTED NIGHT TO OPEN CLUB PROGRAM

Men's Friendship Group at South Methodist Church to Begin Activities Monday.

The Men's Friendship Club of the South Methodist church will open its fall and winter program of activities with a meeting next Monday night at 8 o'clock in the church parlors. The meeting will be a "Get Acquainted" affair with special stunts for the occasion.

The Salvation Army orchestra will furnish instrumental music and there will be group singing led by Otto Nelson. An added treat will be a talk by Rev. Leonard C. Harris, pastor of the church. His topic will be "Getting the Right Perspective."

Refreshments will be served. Invitation to attend the meeting has been extended to all male members of the church, whether members of the club or not.

NRA SIGNERS HERE AT SATURATION POINT

Total of 600 Reached When St. Mary's Church Is Enrolled—Believed the Limit.

Lack of further signers of the President's Employment Agreement today led to the belief that Manchester, with a total of 600 signers to date, has almost reached the saturation point. St. Mary's church, the only religious organization to sign was the last reported at the local post office.

Tomorrow Night's Dance.
 The first announcement of the news that Otto Newbauer and his WDRG Diplomats were engaged to play for tomorrow evening's Community dance was received very favorably by the many who have been attending the dances at the School Street Rec since they were started. That this band has rapidly come to the front may be judged by their many radio broadcasts, as they are on the air three or four nights each week. This in itself is enough proof of their popularity and in securing them Director Frank Busch believes he is very fortunate. Dancing will be from 8 until midnight.

Children's Classes.

VOSS
 The Lowest Priced Electric Washer That Duplicates the Hand Washing Method

$54

The hand-washing principle takes advantage of the natural tendency of clothes to rise to the surface. The floating agitator acts directly on the floating clothes. This principle is fast and thorough—exactly as you would wash by hand.

The Model "H" is built of first grade materials. It is a silent, sturdy and trouble-free construction. And low-priced, too.

VOSS Is Today's Super-Value

1. Tub—full size genuine porcelain enamel, fused on heavy one piece tub of genuine rust-resisting "TON-CAN" steel.
2. Floating Agitator—The only agitator that exactly duplicates hand-washing action.
3. Genuine Lovell Wringer with 2 1/2" cushion rolls. Standard safety release.
4. Self Lubricating—Gears and mechanism run in oil.
5. Finger Tip Control—Starts and stops electrically with finger tip control.
6. Electric Motor—Specially designed for VOSS Electric Washers.

REGINA D'ITALIA PLANS CELEBRATION SUNDAY
 Society to Observe Second Anniversary With Banquet at Sub-Alpine Club.
 Regina d'Italia society will observe its second anniversary Sunday at the Sub Alpine club on Ellbridge street. Mrs. Delina, chairman of the committee of arrangements will be assisted by Mrs. Teresa Narretto, Mrs. Adele Janlungo, Mrs. Antonette Fontana, Mrs. Domenico Peretti, Mrs. Louise Eckerbert and Miss Adriana Grandi. Chef Gotta will be ready to serve the dinner at 12 noon. The menu will include assorted antipasto, chicken soup, roast chicken, peas, French fried potatoes, salad, rolls, mixed fruit, ice cream and demitasse. Following the dinner an entertainment will be given for the families of the members, and at its close sandwiches and other refreshments will be served. Music for dancing will be furnished by Garibaldi and Pucci's orchestra. Although founded two years ago with not more than 25 members, the society has tripled its membership, a gratifying record to the president, Mrs. Giacomina Monti.

At Age 59 You May More Than Double Your Income And Increase Its Security

When the interest rate paid by the savings bank in town was reduced to 3 1/2 per cent and it was generally expected rates would go still lower, an annuity guaranteed to pay 8.4 per cent for life was purchased. This gave the use of the principal for life, as well as the interest, instead of holding it for the estate.

The return depends upon age at entry and is much higher in the later ages.
