SEEK SETTLEMENT OF SILK STRIKES

National Labor Board Head, Workers and Manufacturers to Hold Meeting Tuesday.

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Chairman Wagner of the National Labor Board announced today that a meeting of all the interested parties would be held in New York Tuesday in an effort to settle the silk strike which has spread from Paterson, N. J., to other industrial sections of the east.

Wagner said that in addition to manufacturers and representatives of all labor organizations in the silk manufacturing and dyeing industries, Dr. Leo Wolman, chairman of the NRA labor advisory board, and possibly Walter C. Teagle, chairman of the industrial advisory board, would attend the conference.

The meeting, to be held in New York as a convenience to the manufacturers and labor leaders, will start at 2:30 p. m. in the state office building at 80 Center street.

"It will be a really fine accomplishment if we can compose these differences," Wagner said.

The session next Tuesday, he explained, will deal with the strike as a national problem rather than as a purely local strike in Paterson with representatives present from New England and other eastern states in which the strike has spread or is threatened.

Wagner said at a press conference he was to confer with President Roosevelt at noon on the work of the labor board but declined to divulge specifically just what phases of its activities were to be discussed.

The question already has arisen, he said, in Indianapolis where in one silk mill there is both a company union and an affiliated labor union.

The question may be taken up at a meeting of the board this afternoon, Wagner said.

Wagner expected also that the Brockton, Mass., shoe strike would be taken up at today's meeting and hoped that a final decision could be given tonight or tomorrow.

Wagner said the National Labor Board had taken no action in the various field strikes in West Virginia and Pennsylvania because it was tied up with the coal situation.

"It has been dealt with separately and we did not wish to intrude," he said.

GERMANY REJECTS TRIAL PERIOD PLAN

Spokesman Tells League His Country Will Not Be Placed on Good Behavior.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Germany will accept a period of disarmament "in which behavior would be expected to be on good behavior," an authoritative German spokesman declared today in confirming reports Germany has explained anew her disarmament position to Britain and Italy.

It was reported that neither France nor the United States had received the German explanation.

The Reich spokesman said Great Britain and Italy had been informed of the German attitude because Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Baron Pompeo Aloisi had put questions to the German foreign minister, Konstantin von Neurath, at Geneva, which seemed to need answers.

No Rearmament
The position of Britain, France and the United States has been that there should be no rearmament of Germany.

LABOR TROUBLES DELAY ADVANCE

Mercantile Review Reports General Pace of Trade Slower This Week.

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The general pace of trade, said the Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., weekly trade review today, has become perceptibly slower, with reports from nearly all parts of the country this week emphasizing a slackening of activity in both centers of production and distribution.

The review commented that the lower rate of manufacturing operations, which has persisted for more than a month, has been aggravated by labor troubles.

"The static condition of trade in many directions," it continued, "has been magnified, no doubt, by the gap between its present position and that which was expected to be attained under the influence of the usual seasonal stimuli, and the reactionary tendency of both commodity and security markets."

While consumers' reserves appear to be far from exhausted and retailers of merchandise are receiving the benefit of more than two billion dollars returned from hoarding since March, it is becoming apparent that wages are lagging behind advancing prices. The spread of the strike wave has intensified hesitation, bringing operations in some industries virtually to the point of cessation, and preventing

HAYES IS CHOSEN AS LEGION'S HEAD

Lawyer from Illinois Elected by Veterans to Direct Their Organization.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—(AP)—America's Legionnaires packed up their bags and marched homeward today, determined on a threefold peacetime war—against crime, Communism and the economic recession.

Under the leadership of a tall attorney of Decatur, Ill., Edward Hayes, now 42, an ensign at the Great Lakes Naval station during the war against Germany, the American Legion was definitely committed to aid authorities in the suppression of crime, to oppose and help whip the depression by supporting the NRA.

Florida Next Year
The Legion's views on these and other subjects, including rehabilitation for disabled former soldiers, were outlined in resolutions adopted yesterday before adjournment of its 15th annual convention, which meets next year in Miami.

The new commander, said he would stress the rehabilitation program and the building up of the defenses of the Nation, and added he planned to call on President Roosevelt within the next two weeks to lay the Legion's action before him.

Commander Hayes, who succeeds Attorney Louis A. Johnson of Clarksville, W. Va., is married and has four children.

Other officers named included: Vice-Commander Emil F. Schall of New Britain, Conn.

President Pitches First Ball

Braving the elements to launch the third game of the World Series—and the first in Washington—President Roosevelt is shown here as he pitched the first ball from his flag-draped official box. PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM IS OUTLINED BY McNEIL

Hartford, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Mayors of many of the cities of the state and scores of sectmen of the small towns gathered this afternoon in the hall of the House of Representatives at the Capitol to receive from the advisory board of the Federal public works department, NRA, information on the functioning of the Industrial Act.

Archibald McNeil of Bridgeport, chairman, presided and made the opening address in which he outlined the public works program. He said the situation was largely in the hands of those present and that the National Treasury "is waiting to be drawn upon for hundreds of millions of dollars for useful public works."

McNeil told that the board could do for those who took advantage of the opportunity. He said in part: "We can give you money, we can help you x x x but we can't make you borrow your share of the money unless you want to do so, and therefore we are here today to make clear the advantages of the public works of the NRA act."

After welcoming the gathering, Chairman McNeil said: "The purpose of this gathering is, first, for our board to outline to you the purposes and provisions of the Public Works Department of N. I. R. A. as it applies to Connecticut municipalities and towns and, second, to answer any and all questions that may enlighten you further on the necessary procedure, in order that your community may avail itself of this unusual opportunity. It is now largely in the hands of the Mayors and town officials of Connecticut to determine whether the public works program, as it applies

Pioneers in Pennsylvania Discovered Five Day Week

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—(AP)—of Switzerland said a letter he wrote to relatives in Europe contains a statement which, while written in praise of conditions, he found, is almost prophetic in its present day significance.

"The farmers or husbandmen live better than lords," he wrote. "If a workman will only work four or five days a week, he can live grandly."

German American societies have prepared elaborate programs for a three day celebration this year, including sessions of the German-American Congress at which Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador, is to be a speaker.

TERRY'S HOMER ONLY SCORE OF 4TH CLASH

INTEREST AT PEAK FOR TODAY'S GAME
Crowds Flock to Stadium for 4th Contest; Enthusiasm Rises Overnight.

By EDWARD J. NEEL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Hope and enthusiasm raced high today as the skies turned friendly again and the vanguard of the capital's baseball faithful moved into the American League stronghold for the fourth game of the World Series between the Senators and the Giants.

Only one down now in the game count due to Earl Whitehill's 4 to 0 shutout of the National League champions yesterday, the crowds came to root and the Senators to battle desperately for a decision today that would even the series at two victories each. The Giants won the first two games in New York before the scene shifted here for three matches.

Only baseball, of all American sports, can produce the contrast that showed all over the Clark Griffith stadium and the environs of the nation's capital today as the city swung wholeheartedly behind the revived Senators, returned now to the hitting form that swept the team through to the American League championship.

Where yesterday clouds hung heavy over the field and spilled rain before game time, and the second smallest crowd at a World Series since the war sat apathetically and resigned to more defeat, today there was a re-birth of the excitement and enthusiasm Washington knew in the glamorous series days of 1924 and 1925.

The moment the gates were opened this morning, the few hundred bleacher seats set up in a triangular site some architect took in

ASKS INVESTIGATION OF STEADY LITIGANT

Conn. Co. Lawyer Shows That Damage Seeker Is Profiter by Accidents.

Hartford, Oct. 6.—Judge Simpson reserved decision in the Superior Court late yesterday in the damage suit of Miss Elizabeth Mansell, a Bristol nurse, against the Connecticut Company, after counsel for the defendant company had declared that Miss Mansell was a proper subject for investigation by the state's attorney.

The defendant company entered a statement showing that Miss Mansell had been a frequent litigant in damage suits that have netted her, in the past four years, through verdicts or settlements, $8,000 in a variety of claims.

COMMUNISTS KILLED
Havana, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Two young Communists, Felix Viti, 23, and Luis Melian, 19, were killed and two companions were wounded early today when three unknown gunmen fired on a cafe in which they were assembled.

As scattered looting continued in some sections of the city hit by this week's storms, robbers broke into the offices of the Singer Sewing Machine Company, an American concern. However, the capital general remained quiet.

HITS FOR CIRCUIT

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Bill Terry's booming home run deep into the temporary bleachers in far off center field with none on in the fourth inning swept the Giants into a 1 to 0 lead over the Senators today before a crowd of 25,000 in the crucial fourth game of the world series.

Young Monte Weaver, right hander upon whom Joe Cronin depended for victory today and a fighting chance for ultimate conquest of the series, got safely past a rocky start only to leave his fast ball into the favorite groove of the Giants' manager with one out in the fourth. Terry swung from his heels and the drive sailed far into the stand for the longest hit so far in the series.

Depending upon Carl Hubbell, masterful left hander who won the first game, the Giants were forced to pull the screw ball star from but one hole in the fourth inning. After retiring the first nine Senators to face him in order, Hubbell allowed his first hit, a single by "Goose" Goslin off Terry's glove with one out in the fourth and then walked Heinie Manush. Joe Cronin walked to Mel Ott in right, and the uprising was over as Fred Schulte grounded weakly into a force play at second.

By ALAN GOULD
Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Despite cloudless, much warmer weather and the prospect of seeing Carl Hubbell try to check the Senators comeback, another below capacity crowd turned out today for the fourth game of the world series. The south-paw ace of the Giants was opposed to Monte Weaver, young right hander of the American League champions. There were no changes in either lineup although Frank (Lefty) O'Doul, pinch hit hero of the second game took a brief part in the Giants batting drill and was prepared to enter the proceedings if and when summoned.

The U. S. Army band marched on the field at 1:30 p. m., adding a colorful touch to the scene. President Roosevelt's box was still flag-draped and ready for its distinguished occupant by the chief executive was unable to attend today's contest.

The government was nevertheless, well represented by its baseball followers, many of whom occupied field boxes. The stars and stripes were raised to the center of the field while the military band played the National anthem. The covered stands were well filled again, but the outfield bleachers showed big unoccupied sections. It appeared there were few if any more cash customers than yesterday when the official attendance was 25,727.

First Inning
GIANTS: Moore walked, the fourth ball being inside. Critz lined to Myer and Moore was doubled off first on a quick throw Myer to Kuehl. Terry rapped a grounder over second for a single. Myer barely getting his hands on the ball, Ott popped to Bluege who came in on the grass for the catch.

Senators: Myer lifted a short fly to Moore in left center. Goslin hoisted to Ott. Manush grounded out sharply, Critz to Terry.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Second Inning
GIANTS: Davis dribbled the first ball to Myer who threw him out at first. Jackson fanned, swinging at a change of pace. Weaver was working very fast. Mancuso lifted a high drive that Goslin caught on the run in deep right field.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Senators: Cronin lifted a high pop fly to Terry. Hubbell took time out in an attempt to chase away the pigeon that has made its home on the ball field for two days. The pigeon finally flew out into the upper grandstand. Schult flied out to Ott in short center. Kuehl flied out to Davis.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Third Inning
GIANTS: Ryan lifted a short fly to Manush. The wind took the ball and Heinie had to jump back for the catch. Hubbell ruled to Bluege who made a nice pick up and threw to first for the putout. Moore rapped a grounder to Cronin and was thrown out.

BILL TERRY

to Critz who ran back of second for the catch. Seven of the first eight Senators had gone out on fly balls. Weaver grounded sharply to Critz who made a nice stop and threw to Terry for the putout.

No runs, no hits, no errors, none left.

Fourth Inning
GIANTS: Critz tried to bunt and missed; Critz grounded out, Cronin to Kuehl. Terry smashed a home run into the bleachers in deep center field. Ott walked, the fourth ball being low and Cronin came in for a talk with his young pitcher. Davis grounded to Bluege for a scratch single, the third baseman had to run in for the pickup and did not even make an attempt to throw to first base. Ott walked, the fourth ball being low and Cronin came in for a talk with his young pitcher. Davis grounded to Bluege, who made the catch a few feet from third base. Mancuso walked on a fourth straight ball. Ryan fanned, swinging at a fast ball inside, and the crowd let loose a roar.

One run, two hits, no errors, three left.

Senators: Myer bunted to Hubbell and was called out on a close and spectacular play. Hubbell fell to the turf after grabbing the ball then picked it up and made the throw out while reaching almost on his back. Goslin got a single on a hard drive that Terry was unable to handle. Manager Bill got his glove on the ball but it was too hot for him to hold. Terry and Manush went to the box for a talk with the southpaw. Manush walked, the fourth ball being wide and Goslin moved to second. Cronin hoisted to Ott and Goslin ran to third after the catch. Manush remained at first.

There was another conference of the Giants infield around their pitcher. Schulte grounded to Ryan and Manush was forced out at second. Ryan to Critz.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

Fifth Inning
GIANTS: Hubbell lined out to Cronin. More slugged a single to left. He slipped to the ground and Cronin had a chance for a two bagger. Critz lifted a Texas Leaguer that Myer caught on the run well back of first base. Terry connected with another long drive which Schulte grabbed close to the fence in deep left center.

No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Senators: Kuehl fanned, swinging at a sweeping curve and missing the ball by a foot. He was Hubbell's first strikeout victim. Bluege drove the first ball pitched on a line to Moore in left center. Sewell cracked a single over Critz's head. Weaver fanned swinging hard at a scrawball.

MASONIC HEAD COMING HERE

Grand Master Moyle to Visit Manchester Lodge Next Week Friday.

Manchester lodge of Masons will observe a gala occasion a week from tonight, Friday, October 13, when Grand Master Samuel A. Moyle, of the Grand Lodge of Connecticut, will come here with his staff to meet the officers of eleven Masonic lodges east of the Connecticut River. Grand Master Moyle is making Manchester the central point for the occasion of an official visitation to all eleven lodges. Because of the great amount of work he is called upon to do Mr. Moyle decided to eliminate visitations to a large number of the smaller lodges and to confer with them in joint meetings.

Manchester was chosen for this particular visit because of the spaciousness of the Temple here which can accommodate the large number of Masons expected to attend. All Master Masons are welcome to attend the communication.

Other Notables
In addition to Grand Master Moyle other honored guests will be Past Master F. A. Verplanck, Grand Secretary W. A. Buck, District Deputy Peter Wind, Past District Deputy Lewis Brock, Past Grand Master Howard Middleton, Past Grand Master Parkman, Associate Grand Chaplain J. Stuart Neill, District Deputy Halving of the Fifth Masonic District and the Masters of the eleven invited lodges.

Following ceremonial work there will be occasion for addresses by Grand Master Moyle, Grand Secretary Buck and Past Grand F. A. Verplanck. Opportunity will be given for a forum on questions relating to the fraternity. Refreshments will follow the food being donated largely by the A & P stores.

Astonishing Angle
An astonishing angle of the case presented itself after John Larson of Britain, motorman, had testified to the condition of the step of his car on the occasion of the accident when Miss Mansell asserted she received injuries. He swore he had once examined the step and found it without defect. He had two witnesses examine the step also, and these men testified in support.

the center field fence when the park was designed, were filled in the first rush across the diamond. The boys park out there, about 500 all told, for $1.10, the least expensive seats on the premises.

May Be Sell Out
With a bright sun spraying warmth over the field, there was considerable more activity than yesterday in the huge open stand that sweeps across the limits of the outfield from the left field foul line to the flag pole in deep center, where the National colors stood at half mast as a tribute to Bill Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, who died yesterday.

Lack of enthusiasm on the part of the paying guests yesterday for the open stand seats, now priced at $3.30 instead of the 55 cents that was the regular price through the season, had considerable to do with the lack of numbers in a crowd that totaled only 26,000, among them President Roosevelt and his official party. The citizens marshaled earlier, too, in the reserved seats, and there was a possibility that a capacity crowd of close to 40,000, the first sell-out of the series might turn out.

What a Snake!
The ground crew was out early with "Petunia," known as the longest snake in the world, a big black hose with which they sprayed the dirt of the infield after rolling it down. He was extremely correct, although the wagering was 10 to 7 on Hubbell, screw ball artist and the outstanding pitcher of the past major league season. Victory today for Hubbell, with Hal Schumacher, the sinker ball ace, available tomorrow, would just about wind up the Senators' chance of winning the world title. As it is, no team in the history of seven game world series ever has come back to take the title after losing the first two games as Washington did.

Giants Appear
The Giants gathered confidently in front of their dugout to warm up before the Senators had finished belting the pitches of Al Schacht, comedian coach. LeRoy "Tarzan" Parmelee, Terry's tall, young fire ball never got off by himself and warmed up carefully.

ASKS UNION MEN TO SUPPORT NRA

Farley Tells Laborites All Classes Must Cooperate in Present Movement.

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Continued orderly support of the recovery program was asked of the American Federation of Labor convention today by Postmaster General Farley and a number of NRA's Labor Advisory Board.

Their request came at a time when thousands of workers were on strike and while even some delegates to the convention were expressing open dissatisfaction with the speed of the recovery program.

Farley told the convention "the turn in the tide has come." The response of all classes, he said, to the request of cooperation has been "one of the most encouraging signs of the times" and added:

"Never has it been more important to set aside with all determination all counsels of division. If we don't hang together now we're all certain to hang separately later."

Many New Jobs
Citing reports of 2,800,000 new jobs and increased pay rolls, he warned nevertheless that "most of our work lies ahead."

"Organized labor can make a great contribution to this upward movement by continuing to exhibit a spirit of cooperation," Farley said.

The convention, listened to speeches while awaiting reports of committees on more than 100 resolutions, some demanding deviation of all NRA codes to provide shorter hours and higher wages and some asking greater speed in the public works program.

Farley also was asked of the convention by the Rev. Francis J. Haas, member of the NRA labor advisory board.

"Specifically," he said, "I have in mind the necessity of wiping out narrow jurisdictional lines when those lines stand in the way of the larger interests of all, the necessity of adjusting the legitimate weapon of the strike to the arbitration machinery, National and local which the government with the cooperation of the states is setting up and on which organized labor is to have representation equal with employers."

Just before the convention met, President William Greer of the federation reported "satisfactory progress" in the move to admit the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, with its 138,000 members, to the A. F. of L.

GOLDMAN IS ASKED TO RESIGN POST

New York Official Denies O'Brien's Statement That He Did Not Do So.

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Commissioner Albert Goldman, of the Department of Plant and Structures today made public a letter to Mayor John P. O'Brien in which he said the mayor had asked for his resignation yesterday.

Goldman's letter informed the mayor that he would not resign. The commissioner made public his letter as a result of the mayor's denial that he had asked any of the Bronx office holders supporting Joseph V. McKee, "recovery" candidate for mayor, to resign.

The letter was made public by Goldman was addressed to the mayor and read:

"Since you sent for me yesterday afternoon, received my assurance that I am a supporter of Joseph V. McKee and his associates in the current municipal campaign, and that you have asked for my immediate resignation, I have been considering your request.

"Quite naturally, then, I was much surprised to see you quoted in today's newspapers as saying that you had made no such demand of any city official, and as denying particularly that you are going to fire Commissioner Goldman.

"Let me recall to you that I asked you yesterday if my resignation was sought because of any inefficiency or neglect in the conduct of my work and that you conceded that my services are, and have been, eminently satisfactory as commissioner of the Department of Plant and Structures.

"Confident that the people of New York share that view, which my conscience assures me is the correct view, I decline to submit to you, now or hereafter, my resignation.

"I need not remind you or those who are guiding your actions that it is your privilege to remove me whenever you see fit, regardless of the fact that you lack cause."

TERRY'S HOMER ONLY SCORE OF 4TH CLASH

Mancuso was intentionally passed on a fourth wide pitch. Ryan rolled out, Weaver to Kuehl.

No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

SENATORS: Myer beat out a sharper grounder than Ryan by stepping the shortstop made a nice pickup of the ball behind second base, but his throw was a trifle late and it went for a single. Goslin bunted to Jackson and was thrown out at first, sacrificing Myer to second. Myer ran to third on Mancuso's sharp grounder that Critz grabbed and threw to Hubbell at first for a putout on a close decision. The Senators kicked long and loud in the belief that Mancuso had beaten the throw by Critz who had made a spectacular stop of the ball. Terry was out of position and Hubbell just got to first in time to take the throw. Cronin went to the plate after losing his argument. Cronin struck out, swinging hard at a screw-ball and Hubbell was out of another jam. The disgruntled crowd let loose some bores as the Washington manager went back to his position but it was apparently directed at the umpires.

RORABACK WRITES OF CONTRIBUTIONS

State G. O. P. Leader Says He Gave $1,000 to His Party in 1924.

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A letter from J. Henry Roraback, Connecticut Republican state chairman and president of the Connecticut Light and Power Company, saying he contributed $1,000 to the Republican National committee, in 1924 was introduced today during a Federal trade examination of the Northern Connecticut Power Company.

Roraback was questioned by Robert E. Healy, chief counsel of the commission, June 27 regarding the influence his power companies in state legislation. His letter was a reply to a request from Healy for further information on the influence of power company officials on elections.

"The statute law of Connecticut," Roraback wrote, "prohibits any corporation making a political contribution to any candidate or committee for use in campaign purposes. This statute has been strictly observed by all of the companies which I am concerned in Connecticut and no deviation whatever has been permitted."

Has No Information
"So far as contributions by individual members of the corporation are concerned I would be unable to give you any definite information, due to the fact that our offices are denuded throughout the various points of Connecticut, in almost if not all of which, local committees solicit contributions for all parties and make returns to the town clerks of the various towns within a stated time after the holding of the elections."

"So far as I am personally concerned, I recall but one contribution which I made I think in 1924, of $1,000 to the Republican National committee."

At the same time William T. Chantland, commission counsel, introduced vouchers which he said showed the Northern Connecticut Power Company had spent $480.40 to buy copies of public service magazines for distribution in 1928, 1930 and 1931 to a selected list of customers. A letter from H. J. Gorden, publisher of the magazine to Harry J. Farrell, president of the Middle West Utilities Company saying the magazine proposed to secure and publish facts to refute statements appearing in another publication advocating public ownership of utilities.

TREASURY ARRANGES TO LIQUIFY DEPOSITS

Depositors in Closed National Banks to Get 50 Per Cent of Their Balances.

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A total of $398,735,000 in deposits in the list of 376 banks for which reorganization plans have been approved by the Treasury.

Of this amount the Treasury estimated today, depositors will receive approximately 50 per cent when the banks carry out the plans agreed upon and are licensed to open for business.

A total of $31,151,000 in unrestricted deposits is held by the 376 banks.

While frozen deposits of these National banks amount to $398,735,000 this does not mean that such a sum will be released to depositors when and if reorganization plans are acted on and individual banks are reopened, the Treasury said.

However, it is estimated that, in most instances, depositors will receive an average of slightly better than fifty per cent of their balances when and if these unlicensed banks re-open, with additional percentages being available as slow or doubtful assets are converted into cash.

ROCKVILLE

SHIFT TO PERMANENT ROAD MAKING POLICY

Public Works Department Plans to Quit Patching and Put Down Long-Service Paving.

The construction of permanent roads in Rockville in place of patching the worn macadam or asphalt roads about the city is the policy which is being adopted by the Public Works Department.

One of the best demonstrations of the construction of a new road under the direction of Supt. of Public Works George Milne is on Market street from the railroad tracks to the intersection with High street. This is a very steep grade and there was demand for the reconstruction before cold weather.

The work of applying the "penetration asphalt" was down late yesterday morning. A coat of three-quarters inch of asphalt from New York was laid on top of the hot asphalt but the application of a second coat of asphalt had to be postponed on account of rain.

The change of the policy of the Public Works Department from resurfacing several roads each year to the rebuilding of permanent roads, good for a score or more years, is expected to meet with public approval. It is doubtful if the benefits will be seen for a year or more because of the limited appropriations but within five years all main arteries leading to Main street are expected to be reconstructed.

Hopes are entertained here that some time a state trunk road from New York and Hartford to Boston will pass through the Main street of Rockville. A direct route through Rockville would be from Union street to Main street to Grove street through the old "sandpit" of the Rockville and Stafford Trolley Line and possibly other streets.

The enrollment date of the Rockville Public Evening schools, originally scheduled for last evening, has been postponed until Monday evening, October 9, according to the announcement made last evening.

Classes are being offered in all commercial branches, English, sewing, woodworking, machine shop practice and possibly other subjects. The subjects will be determined on the number who desire to enroll in the different classes.

This morning a collection of pen and ink drawings of glamorous Parisian hats and shoes reached my desk. One shoe of five-tone ribbon effect was intended for wear with any evening gown. Two of the most modern models were of light and dark lizard. A stunning shoe, cut high over the foot was of suede with patent leather trim. The hats were all of the small type but of diversified shapes, with one exception, the large, soft, formal hat sponsored by Paris.

For Pineapple Marshmallow Charlotte—One half cup whipping cream, 1-2 cup cut marshmallows, 1-2 tablespoons granulated gelatine, 1-2 cup cold water, 1 cup crushed pineapple, 1 1/2 cup sugar, 1 dozen lady fingers. Dip scissors in cold water when cutting marshmallows in small pieces. Whip cream until stiff. Use a rotary beater to whip the cream which should be thoroughly chilled. Combine cream and prepared marshmallows. Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Bring pineapple to the boiling point and add soaked gelatine. Remove at once from the fire and add sugar and lemon juice. Place the sauce in a small pan of ice water and stir constantly. When it begins to thicken add the whipped cream and marshmallows folding them into the gelatine mixture. To make a spoonful of jelly over the whipped cream mixture, mixing it lightly. Line paper cups with lady fingers which have been split, putting the split side in. Pile charlotte mixture lightly in the cups, cover with waxed paper and chill in the icebox until wanted to serve. The recipe makes four servings.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Stocks generally stumbled meaninglessly today as speculative and investment sentiment was of a mixed and highly cautious character.

In the early hours equities shifted from one foot to another as gains and losses gave the list a decidedly spotty appearance. Some specialties showed a tendency to improve at one time, but profit-taking in the metals brought a later shading of prices in most categories. The trading volume was considerably under that of the previous session. The markets appeared to be waiting for developments in the administration's fiscal program. Gains turned rather heavy in the afternoon and cotton and other commodities were a trifle irregular. Bonds maintained a fairly firm tone. The dollar moved up in foreign exchange dealings.

Small advances were recorded by shares of Celanese, Industrial Rayon, Sterling Products, Congoleum, Allied Chemical, American Can and General Motors. Declines of fractions to a point or more were suffered by American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Dupont, United Aircraft, Case, Chrysler, Sears Roebuck, Standard Oil of California, Balfour Beatty, New York Central, Santa Fe, Union Pacific, U. S. Smelting, Dome, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, McIntyre Porcupine, National Distillers, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and Socony.

Carrier stocks, as a whole, failed to exhibit any unusual enthusiasm over a reported increase in freight car loadings for the week ended Sept. 30, at 9,958 over the previous

JUNGLES OF COLOMBIA AS DIVORCE GROUNDS

Norwalk Woman Says Husband Refused to Leave His Native Country.

Bridgeport, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Love in the jungles of Colombia, South America, was not just what Eliza Lambert of Belle Island, Norwalk, bargained for when she married Pedro De Haraso, a native of that country and son of one of its most prominent families, she told Judge John Rufus Smith in the Superior Court today, in quest for a divorce upon an allegation of desertion. Decision was reserved.

She declared that in September following the marriage, and while her husband was in Colombia, her baby was born. Upon his return to America, she and the child agreed to accompany him to Colombia with the alleged understanding that he would again come to America with her if she did not like to remain there. In 1924, Mrs. De Haraso returned to her home here and her husband refused to accompany her.

KIDNAPERS MAY KNOW THEIR FATE TOMORROW

Oklahoma City, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The eleven-year-old Geraldine Arnold, and her father, whom chance made key figures in the capture of George (Machine Gun) Kelly and his comely wife Kathryn, were called upon today to support the government's prosecution of the Kellys for the Charles F. Urechel kidnaping.

The trial will begin Monday, Federal Judge Edgar J. Vaughn decided, brushing aside attempts to delay it during a swift and carefully guarded arraignment yesterday.

Luther Arnold, the father, already has told officers how Kathryn Kelly, then a fugitive, had befriended the Arnolds while they were traveling in Texas last Labor Day; how she had persuaded him to engage a lawyer for her to defend her mother and step-father, then under arrest for the kidnaping; and how the Kellys in a last frantic flight, took little "Jerry" with them as a "blind."

Subsequently, Geraldine, no longer useful, was sent back to her father by Federal agents, she told of the couple's Memphis hideaway. The next morning, they were caught.

Unless motions for new trial or arrest of judgment are granted, the seven already convicted of the conspiracy will receive sentences tomorrow. They are Harvey Bailey, Albert Bates, R. G. Shannon, his wife, mother of Mrs. Kelly; their son, Armon; Barney Berman and Clifford Skelly.

DEFENSE LOSES POINT IN SEN. DAVIS TRIAL

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Attorneys defending United States Senator Joseph P. Davis today lost a hard-fought battle for inclusion of evidence to show that Davis assigned his Loyol Order of Moose organization contract prior to alleged Moose lotteries.

The government has shown that money received from Moose charity balls in 1930 and 1931 was shared with the organization department, the purpose being to show that Davis, as owner of the department, profited personally from the alleged lotteries.

Argument on the point began at 9 o'clock today and Judge Johnson Hayes made his ruling in favor of the government shortly after 10:30, the regular court hour. The jury was excluded from the room.

The government's objection to evidence by which the defense sought to show that Davis assigned the organization contract to Joseph Watkins and Fred W. Jones in August, 1930, came at the close of court yesterday. The defense sought to have Albert Smith, a member of the Moose Supreme Council, testify that assignment of the contract was approved by the council at a meeting in Sharon, Pa., in August, 1930.

DEMUROR OVERULED

Hartford, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Judge William M. Harvey, in Police Court today, overruled the demurrer of Attorney Thomas F. McDonough of New Britain, in a liquor violation case, claiming that the state liquor laws are invalid. The lawyer asserted that while the last session of the Legislature repealed the id liquor laws dealing with "hard liquor" a section of the liquor control act states that the laws "shall not become operative until the necessary number of states have finally ratified the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment."

SENTENCE WHITE SLAVERS

Bridgeport, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Stephen Morgese, 29, and Nicolio Ranieri, 28, both of New York, today were found guilty on charges growing out of alleged white slavery activity, and were sentenced by Judge Ernest A. Inglis in the Superior Court, Morgese to states prison for three to five years, and Ranieri for two to three years.

The jury was called for Tuesday, and were arrested in Stamford last June. They both passed the lie, from the witness stand, to the testimony of the State's chief witness, Marion Rutledge, of New York, an actress, who declared that at the time of their arrests, Ranieri and Morgese were transporting her to Wallingford, in connection with their white-slave activities.

A meeting of the Loomfixers and Twisters Association of Manchester will be held in Odd Fellows Hall, Saturday Morning, October 7, at 9 o'clock.

TAMMANY'S LEADERS PLANNING REPRISALS

Rumors Say Many of the Independent Chiefs Will Lose Their City Positions.

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Reports of contemplated reprisals by Tammany Hall against deserters to Joseph V. McKee, independent Democratic candidate for mayor, followed in the weeks today of widespread defections in the Tammany political machine.

Surprised by the ticket formulated by McKee and by the open break of the regular Democratic organization of the Bronx, Tammany Hall was understood to be muzzling its strongest weapon—discipline backed by control of city patronage.

Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany candidate for re-election answered rumors of reprisals with denial. John F. Curry, Tammany leader kept his own counsel.

But, despite the mayor's denial, one of his close associates said that resignations of Bronx job holders among the revolting leaders would be on O'Brien's desk.

The break from the regular organization to McKee gained impetus last night when two Democratic clubs in Brooklyn and one in Manhattan declared for him.

Major Florento LaGuardia, fusion candidate for mayor, speaking at a Young Republican club dinner rapped McKee's candidacy as a vehicle for promoting "farley to the executive offices at Albany and, in 1940, the White House."

AMUSEMENTS

"LADY FOR A DAY" SCREEN MASTERPIECE

Acclaimed as Year's Outstanding Film Achievement—Fine Cast.

To the Columbia Studios, to Director Frank Capra, to scenarist Robert Rankin, to Damon Runyon, the author, Warren William, the star, to May Robson, Guy Kibbee, to the cameramen, props and technicians, in fact to anyone who either directly or indirectly took part in the production of "Lady For a Day" go the plaudits of the movie-going populace for having turned out one of the most entertaining pictures of this or any other year.

"Lady For a Day," which has its initial performance Sunday locally at the State Theater is destined for a prominent niche in screenland's Hall of Fame. Like "Seventh Heaven," "Broken Blossoms," and "Humoresque" it possesses that indefinable quality that distinguishes greatness. It has tremendous universal appeal—a charming, fairy story that will stir on the heart-strings of the entire world. Hard-boiled men and tender-hearted women, sweep young debs and sophisticated flappers, impatient youngsters and sleepy-eyed elders will laugh and cry and thrill alike to the touching, pathetic story.

FLOOD MENACES TOWN

Teguigalpa, Honduras, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Several hundred persons have been made homeless by flood waters of the Grande river, which went out of its bank Wednesday night, damaging many homes, bridges and business places. No casualties have been reported.

Fears were expressed here the town of Choluteca, near the mouth of the river, might be seriously affected when the flood waters reach that point. The President sent a commission by airplane to lay plans for evacuating the town if necessary.

Advices from Progress in the northern district reported considerable damage to a school from a flood of the Uluva river, which went out of its banks due to recent heavy rains.

AT THE CURLEGS

A closely guarded silk train racing against time, a murder in the baggage car, two special and trusted guards secretly working to stop the train at any cost, still another murder, a dying man and his daughter counting the minutes from Seattle to New York, a hawk detective trying to solve the mystery—that's the list of characters and the sort of drama you're going to see when Warner Brothers' "Silk Express" opens at the Circle Theater Saturday.

It's a very unusual sort of mystery this, photographed almost entirely on board the only train that takes precedence over a President's private special—the silk express. Spectacular shots include rolling shots down inside the entire length of the speeding train—and many interesting and exciting shots of the leading silk train.

But it is the mystery aboard the train, the death of two of the passengers and the attempted killing of a third by a member of the group riding on the train which gives it the proper flip of suspense. Everyone is suspected. Everyone, in fact, is justified in suspecting everyone else. For everyone else, at some time or another during the running of the film, does something worthy of being suspected for. It is an excellent example of sustained suspense in a mystery film.

NOW IT'S THE PHASANT THAT ARE GETTING TAKEN

Bird, Usually Obstreperous, Submits to Capture in Telcottville Without Scrup.

The squirrels have been monopolizing the news of nature for the past few weeks, but yesterday a cock pheasant whose habitat is in the vicinity of Telcottville decided to take some of the spotlight.

John Monaghan who delivers groceries for Talcott Brothers Company's store was making a delivery at the C. Denison Talcott home yesterday when he noticed a bird strutting about in the flower garden. He walked towards it but the bird disappeared among the flowers. Noticing that it hadn't taken to the air, Monaghan started to look for it. He soon found it and succeeded in picking it up. The bird was a cock pheasant and gave no fight. Usually a cock pheasant will peck at anyone close to it and put up quite a battle before it can be captured. This one, however, did not fight. Monaghan examined the bird and saw that it had not been injured in any way.

Now he's wondering if the pheasant, like the squirrels, have decided to get acquainted with the town folk and get their meals in back door yards.

MENCKEN TO QUIT AMERICAN MERCURY

Noted Publicist to Devote His Time to Writing Books and Editorials.

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Henry L. Mencken, the sage of Baltimore, has decided to retire as editor of the American Mercury, the green backed monthly which has been under his guidance since it was started ten years ago.

In confirming news of his retirement, Mencken said he felt he had been editor of the Mercury long enough. He wants to devote his time to writing books and to newspaper work.

Alfred A. Knopf, Mencken's publisher, said the magazine will continue to be published along its present lines. He did not announce the name of the Mercury's new editor.

During the first years of its existence, the American Mercury served as a medium of expression for Mencken and George Jean Nathan, who were co-editors of the old Smart Set. Nathan retired from the Mercury several years ago.

New Period of Life

Mencken regards his retirement, after twenty years of magazine editing, as something in the nature of an adventure. He expects this new period in his life to be just as exciting and perhaps more pleasurable.

The first thing he is going to do is finish a book on morals. After that he plans a trip to Europe and then he is going to write another book—"Advice to Young Men."

"There is a discrepancy," said Mencken, "between what the average young man is told he can't do and what he finds out later most people do themselves. I want to tell what I found out about this discrepancy."

The noted publicist, who is 53, said he probably would do more newspaper work than he has done in some years. He said he would continue writing a column for the Baltimore Evening Sun of which he is advisory editor and on which he first rose to fame.

OPEN FORUM

TOWN ENGINEER'S JOB Editor of The Herald: In reading the account of the first meeting of the new Board of Selectmen my attention was called to the difference of opinion in the appointment of the town engineer. It seems to me that Mr. Smith has been assistant to Mr. Bowen for fifteen years and understands the conditions of the work thoroughly. I cannot see why he would not be a very fine selection for the position. Why there is such a difference of opinion among seven Selectmen I cannot understand unless personalities are entering into it. The feeling of the townspeople is that Mr. Smith is really entitled to the appointment. In order not to make any disappointments it would be a fine idea to let Mr. Smith remain as head of the engineer's department. CHARLES ROEHLAN. Highland Park, October 5, 1933.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 6.

says, certain groups of squirrels that appear to be on their way somewhere afar. But certain it is that there are great numbers of them which distinctly appear to have arrived at the place to which they have been going; and that place is about every back yard and every clump of trees in town. They seem to have no faintest idea of proceeding anywhere else.

It used to be said of Manchester, because of the one-sided development of its principal business thoroughfare, that this was the only busy town anywhere where you could buy a gun on one side of the street and shoot squirrels on the other side. This, from all accounts, is no distinction this year for it seems that all towns are alike. The trouble is to keep squirrels out of your hair. They are thicker, so to speak, than pea soup.

Also, this year's squirrels appear to be the evanest tempered squirrels on record—mad all the time. They sit up in the trees and bark and snarl and pound their tails as though they were trying to scare the population away so that they might have the whole place to themselves. It can't be because they're hungry, because they'll swear at the family cat or at the old man or the children and keep up that tall thrashing, with both cheeks stuffed with seeds and an scorn in their paws.

There's one thing that we have noticed about squirrels this fall that we don't recall ever seeing explained. Perhaps some reader can tell us why it is that a squirrel, while engaged in the delivery of his hymn of hate against you or your dog or whatever animate thing may be within his sight on the ground, should hold one hand on his chest, after the fashion of a seventeenth century gallant doffing his plumed hat. Watch the little professor the next time his angry chattering commands your attention, and see what you make of that performance.

He seems to be pumping up the wind for his noise like a Scotch piper.

Anyhow the very uncommon visitation of squirrels makes an interesting interlude. They do an enormous amount of bustling about and they make a tremendous amount of rather small racket. But they don't really appear to be getting anywhere other than where they are. Perhaps they are being sent to us by an all-wise Providence by way of example—or warning.

COMPLIANCE BOARDS.

Though there may have grown up an impression that a good deal of hallyhoo was being employed in the emphasizing of the NRA, it is beyond question that a great deal of very hard work has been done and is being done in furtherance of the great re-employment measure without any noise at all.

Very little, for example, has been heard of the operations of the local NRA Compliance Board, which is already functioning and which has volunteered for a rather thankless but extremely important job.

It is upon these local Compliance Boards that the NRA must almost entirely depend for the thrashing out of the immense mass of complaints and grievances that will inevitably arise in this far reaching attempt at governmental control of industry and business. It will facilitate the local board in its work if the public will appreciate at the outset that this little group of Manchester citizens constitutes, for this area, the eyes and the ears of the National Recovery Administration and that it is, locally, the spearhead of the government's power of enforcement.

There should, however, be no impression that the local Compliance Board is animated by any ambition to "get" anybody, to distinguish itself proudly by the exercise of power. What it seeks to do is to iron out misunderstandings and misconceptions, assist puzzled NRA signatories in the interpretation of their obligations and, if occasion arises, to point out the error of their ways to those—it is expected they will be very few—who may seek to evade their responsibilities under the Blue Eagle. It is anticipated that in these latter cases it will not be necessary to do more than admonish for it is extremely unlikely that there is in this area a single concern or individual who would care to court the explicit condemnation of the National Recovery Administration.

But all this involves work. The members of the Compliance Board will, by the nature of their labors, be called on to make sacrifices of their time and labor for which they can expect, unfortunately, neither reward nor active gratitude. They will be required, no doubt, to deal with many petty complaints, some of them arising from spite, some from a childish zeal, some from self interest; and likely enough they will sometimes weary of their task.

The path of an NRA Compliance Board is not a road to glory. But it is the way of service. If the National Recovery Act proves to be a success it will be in no small degree because all over the country there are citizens laboring diligently in these little local organizations, the multitudinous "feelers" of the Recovery Administration, for the well being of the nation.

GUNS.

Hartford bank clerks have organized a revolver club. Not at all a bad idea. In these days when there is some question as to whether the country is to be ruled by law or by the gangs it does not contribute to the advantage of good citizens that all the firearms and all the familiarity with them should be on the side of the criminals.

Yet it is precisely to that end that the trend of statute laws has tended for a good many years. New York's Sullivan law was heaven's best gift to the mobster, the gunman and the robber. It has amounted to little short of a patent of monopoly of physical power made out to the criminals of the state.

The laws against the possession of weapons or their carrying stand not lower than next under federal prohibition in the list of legal blunders. Perhaps, indeed, they come first. Everywhere good citizens are stopped from protecting themselves against violent attack. No where does the thief, the racketeer, the kidnaper or the killer experience the slightest inconvenience as a result of these laws.

It is not alone bank clerks that should be encouraged to learn how to draw and shoot. There would be a speedy end of these thousands of filling station holdups and murders if every proprietor and attendant wore a belted gun at his thigh, Wild West fashion, and knew how to use it. And the same thing holds true everywhere.

The Pilgrim Fathers went to church with blunderbuses over their arms. It did not make criminals or murderers of any of them. How would a Sullivan law or a near-Sullivan law have operated in New England in those days? How does it operate now?

Plenty of pistols and pistol practice among decent people would probably do more to deterrone the gorillas and stickups of this country than all the repressive laws that ever could be invented.

ANOTHER "MEMORIAL".

Not long ago there died in Bridgeport a lawyer, Jacob B. Klein, who had lived there all his life and who loved his native city. He left the bulk of his estate, accumulated through honorable industry in his profession and through wise investment, for the establishment of the Klein Memorial Auditorium fund and the erection of such an edifice as is indicated by the name of the foundation.

There is nothing in New England comparable to the Bushnell Memorial in Hartford; nothing, so far as we know, that approaches that magnificent institution either in its architectural features, its sheer interior beauty, the liberality and wisdom of its administration or its extraordinary cultural usefulness to the community fortunate enough to be adorned by it. It is conceivable that the Bridgeport lawyer may have been inspired to his founding of the Klein Memorial by the example provided by Hartford's majestic gathering place.

It would seem to be a little improbable that the proposed institution in the Park City will be quite so luxurious, quite so magnificent as Bushnell Memorial, since the sum available for its construction is not as large; but if, as is now understood, some six hundred thousand dollars is to be devoted to this purpose the prospects are that Bridgeport will have a very splendid public auditorium which, after all, may not be of appreciably less beauty or serviceability than the lovely creation in the Capitol City.

It is through such employment of wealth as in these two instances that the best justification of large private fortunes is found.

REMEMBER JACK?

Amid all the shooting it remained for the little old Washington Pathfinder to remember that the United States has a Vice-President. According to that ancient publication "crowds of tourists," during the past summer have been visiting Uvalde, Tex., "just to shake the Garner's hands."

Well now, we're right glad to hear that! Glad to know that little Ruby Neck Jack is not only in the land of the living but there are really some who know where to find him. But what we'd be almost equally glad to learn is what kind of people these are who go touring in Texas in the summer time.

IN NEW YORK

By JULIA BLANSHARD

New York, Oct. 6.—Champ Primo Carnera rapidly is becoming "Pitt's" best-dressed man. The Man Mountain must have everything made to order except his neckties, suspenders, collar buttons and cuff links. Therefore he can indulge his fancy, which this fall leans toward the new ruddy brown, in single-breasted suits (in case you want to be "up" on the latest heavyweight styles).

All his shirts are monogrammed. But a kind of naive modesty comes out in this respect. The monogram that he has picked is so tiny as almost to be invisible against his vast expanse of chest.

Carnera has never had a toothache—and dreads the prospect of ever having one. Now he is having two teeth filed, his first dental work. That's just a preventative.

Just a little American "culture" goes a long way in primitive countries, in the opinion of Carleton Beals, author of "The Crime of Cuba" and several Mexican books, who has just arrived from the interior of Mexico.

On Saturday Beals arrived in Oaxaca just as the street markets were in full swing, with gaudy native wares displayed everywhere. As he was walking around, enjoying the sight, he was stopped in his tracks by seeing the best-looking Mexican of them all, a fine figure of a man all dressed in gay native trappings, white trousers, sandals and a sombrero, holding up for sale one single item, a huge, naked, key-hole doll, obviously "made in America."

The sight struck Beals as so funny that he laughed aloud, practically in the vendor's face. That, why he drew himself up straight, his face black with anger, and to Carleton's astonishment fairly spit at him and loosed an amazing string of oaths, all in perfectly good American.

Autumn jettings from a bus-top: Indian summer is bringing out new little green leaves all over the small trees at the corner of the Fifth avenue library yard. . . . Between 42d street and Washington street, 21 stands, piled high with grapes and other fruit, stood at curbs on side streets leading into Fifth avenue. . . . At 18th street an enterprising firm has built sidewalk book stands—reminiscent of Europe—along the side of the building with all school books ranged neatly on shelves. . . . From 12th street on down, within five blocks' distance, five sidewalk cafes are jammed daily, for afternoon tea and then dinner. . . . There are increasing numbers of single cafe loungers making their appearance. Some few even dare to come without a paper or magazine and openly just sit there and enjoy it.

At the reception given for Ruth Plumly Thompson, ghostwriter of the majority of the Os books, one of the latest noted and by far most interesting guests was Charles Dillingham, the producer. Dillingham now is snowy white and "trailer" than he was about 30 years ago when he saw possibilities for the stage in the book "The Wizard of Oz."

Dillingham tells an interesting story about the difficulty he had in getting the stage version of the book written. And then about the search he had for actors. Finally he hired a new team, a frisky couple of lads who took life in such a gay way that they disturbed rehearsals and caused even Dillingham to question his own sagacity in hiring them.

However, later events proved his wisdom. For they were, of course, the team of Montgomery and Stone.

COUGHING A COMMON SYMPTOM

A human being has been known to cough so hard as to break a rib. Many people dread the period of winter because they develop an annoying cough which keeps them from resting at night and produces a sore, irritated feeling in the throat which is unpleasant. A severe cough may last for fourteen days or may hang on for months, and is especially troublesome at night, when the chilly air makes the coughing spasms increase.

A cough consists of a deep breath, a closing of the opening at the top of the windpipe, followed by a sudden explosion of the breath outward which forces any foreign substance upward, together with the sound which we call a cough.

A cough is the way provided by nature to remove any material which is in the breathing passages and which should not be there. Such material may have come from the outside and have been swallowed down the windpipe or may come from the inside and be caused by waste in the breathing passages and disease changes. A lasting cough notes an irritation in the throat, windpipe, bronchial tubes or lungs. When harmful bacteria producing pus set up an inflammation in the breathing passages, the mucous membrane lining them begins to throw out excessive amounts of mucus with which to wash the irritating material away. As the mucus accumulates, the nerves of the throat are excited and they release the signal which causes the cough. Both the mucus and the intruding substances are then coughed up and out.

A cough is often helpful as a diagnostic symptom which tells the doctor about the disorder which is present and a cough may change during the course of a disease. For example, in acute infectious troubles of the throat the cough at the beginning is tight and dry. Later it becomes loose and raises quantities of phlegm which is often frothy. At a still later stage, yellow pus is brought up.

Coughing may be caused by smoking or by inhaling acid gases and coughs are notable features of several disorders and may be found with all of the following: asthma, bronchitis, colds, influenza, tonsillitis, pneumonia, chronic catarrhal inflammation, tuberculosis, laryngitis, croup, whooping cough, some forms of heart trouble, some forms of pleurisy, and is also associated with emphysema and bronchiectasis. A nervous cough may be present in neuroathenia. In every one of the above disorders except the heart trouble and the nerve weakness, nature is trying to get rid of some type of irritating material and this is what is causing the cough.

When a cough is succeeding in clearing out the air passages it should be encouraged, not stopped. Some patients make the mistake of stopping the cough which is doing great deal of good by taking various cough preparations which stop the cough. This procedure interferes with the natural means of removing the offending materials and leaves it in the body. There is a danger in prescribing a remedy for chronic coughs for one's self in that some of them contain morphine and the patient may unknowingly become addicted to this drug, if the medicinal preparation is taken for some time.

A better plan is to try in every way to help the cough to do its work, knowing that when wastes are no longer present, the cough will disappear.

If you are bothered by a weakening cough, I would suggest that you make a short fast on orange juice. In the simpler forms of acute disorders this one measure will cause the cough to promptly subside in many cases. Of course, where the cough is due to some more serious disorder such as tuberculosis, the cure is more complicated. To prevent the return of the cough, change your diet and eliminate starches, sugars and milk for a time.

It may be beneficial if you will sip lemonade sweetened with honey; the lemon juice cuts the mucus and also leaves the surface cleaner while the honey seems to have a beneficial effect in soothing the throat, covering with a woolen cloth which is securely pinned over it.

If you are able to find a doctor with a deep therapy lamp have him bake the chest and upper back with this light, as it will bring brief relief. Once you have recovered from your cough, you should try to get outdoors several hours each day, as fresh air is so helpful in preventing coughs. Those who work may find this difficult, but at least they should stay outdoors all day Sunday, which will help to produce a healthier and stronger condition of the breathing passages.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 6.— Cotton farmers, despite their shrieks and those of their politicians, are much better off.

Their situation would be worse than ever, on the other hand, if there had been no New Deal agricultural program. The success of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to date has surprised many experts.

The aim is to give farmers purchasing power proportionately equal to what they had in the 1910-14 period. Cotton then averaged 12 1/2 cents a pound. Parity now would mean a price of 13 1/2 cents prices of what farmers buy are higher. August's average cotton price was 8.8. But 8.8 is distinctly better than the 6.5 price of August, 1932, when 13.3 would have meant parity. It left cotton farmers 5.1 from parity instead of last year's disparity of 6.8. True, cotton went to 10.6 in July and they were then only 2.7 below parity, but they're still a cent nearer than in June.

Crop Value Higher

The AAA is adding about $150,000,000 to cotton farmer incomes by crop reduction and option benefits. Value of this year's crop at recent prices is about $850,000,000 as compared with $397,000,000 last year. Farmers are sore because the July price didn't stay up. Also, their marketing peak comes in October and better prices on this year's crop after November would benefit only those who hold the cotton.

A fine cotton year plus a 13,000,000 bale carryover last year prevented the AAA from achieving all it hoped. A 12,400,000 bale crop this year and a 11,700,000 carryover, even with about a fourth of 40,000,000 cotton acres removed from production, means a supply of 24,000,000 bales against normal consumption of 14,300,000.

Carry Over Reduced

Without the plowing-under program there would have been 28,000,000 bales—two million more than ever before—and cotton prices would have tobogganed below last year's.

A 10,000,000 bale carryover for next year seems a fair estimate, whereas 4.5 to 5 millions is a reasonable amount. To meet that, the AAA will announce a drastic reduction program for next year of about 40 per cent on the five-year average production and try to eliminate some of the surplus through non-competitive channels. It hopes this announcement will boost prices in the near future.

Virgin Island Rum

The secret is out. President Roosevelt's great-great-grandfather sold rum. At least, he was in the sugar business, importing from the West Indies, and U. S. Customs "in all probability" he handled rum as a sideline, although family records don't show it.

A caller stated that about the same time pointing out that the Virgin Islands, which were used to be a great drink, and the restoration of the St. Cruz Rum industry in the islands might mean their economic salvation. Roosevelt thought it was an "interesting" idea and passed it along to Secretary of the Interior Ickes, boss of the islands, for investigation.

Washington's Commissioners

One question invariably brings a general laugh at the twice-a-week Roosevelt press conferences: "Mr. President, is there anything new on the District commissioners?"

That's been asked ever since March 4, without fail, by local reporters. The answer always is that there isn't.

The commissioners are the three men who supervise the government of the District of Columbia. Those of the Hoover administration are still on the job.

Berths on trains are made up with pillows toward the engine so that passengers will suffer less from draft by sleeping with head in that direction; also the faces and shoulders are better protected from dust and cinders.

February 1932 output of motor vehicles in the United States totaled 83,541 units. This is a decrease of 22 per cent from January production.

GRAPEJUICE FOR HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE?

Question: Mrs. Genevieve W. writes: "I would like to know if grapejuice is harmful to people having high blood pressure. I am very fond of it, but having high blood pressure, would like to be sure whether or not I should drink it."

Answer: Grapejuice is an excellent food drink and when used should be taken in place of a meal or between meals, but not in addition to an ordinary meal. Those with a tendency to high blood pressure should use grapejuice to which no sugar has been added.

(Height of Heels)

Question: Kay McD. writes: "When changing from high-heeled slippers into low-heeled ones, I seem to have a cramp in my foot, and just before I get into the low-heeled slippers, my foot seems to snap like when you try 'finger-breaking.' Can you tell me what this is and what to do about it?"

Answer: The change from high-heeled slippers to low-heeled ones must be made gradually. The unnatural position of the foot in high-heeled shoe changes the positions of the bones of the foot, and it takes some time before they will return to their normal shape after such a shoe has been continually worn. The "cracking" is due to the bones or ligaments slipping into position.

enough exercise, or may be due to varicose veins. Try using a cold shower bath on the legs two or three times daily, the showers to be taken just after you have completed some exercises in which you have vigorously used the leg muscles.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Deafness in Children)

Question: Mrs. Lyle V. writes: "My little girl is unable to talk. She is six years old and the reason seems to be that she cannot hear except very loud noises. Is there anything that can be done for her?"

Answer: Sometimes through a correct diet it is possible to improve hearing in children. I would suggest a diet similar to that outlined in my article, "Save the Tonsils," as this will tend to relieve any catarrhal condition which may be interfering with her hearing. If this does not produce any favorable results, it might be well to get some apparatus to assist your child in hearing other talk so that she could learn to speak herself.

(Legs Cramp at Night)

Question: Mr. Isaac W. writes: "I walk the floor every night from three o'clock until daylight with cramps in my feet and legs. Am 50 years of age. Please tell me the cause of this and a remedy."

Answer: Cramps in the legs are caused by poor circulation. This may be either from too much or not

Drafting	0	4	.000

The supremacy of the 2nd half of the Trade School Baseball League was settled yesterday at Mt. Nebo when the Carpenters team took the Machine boys into camp by a score of 8 to 2. By virtue of this win the Carpenters Dept. kept their slate clean with 4 straight wins out of 5 games and as champions of the 2nd half will now enter into a little World's Series of 2 out of 3 games with the winners of the 1st half, namely the Textile Dept. This final series has created much interest between the teams and is anxiously awaited.

In the above game Orlovski was outstanding for the winners while Lemek was the big noise for the Machinists, contributing 2 hits each out of 3 times at bat.

DRAFTING VS. TEXTILE

Wednesday afternoon at Charter Oak Field the Drafting Dept. boys held the Textile Dept. players to the score of 3-0. This was by far the best game that Drafting has played this half of the series and was in a way a pitchers' battle; Kesh for Textile striking out 11 and Quartus for Drafting 10 in 7 innings. Textile scored their total of 3 runs in the third inning when Vince hit a ball to deep center field which Hyson dropped and Kesh followed with a hit in succession to drive in the winning runs.

Quartus, Drafting pitcher reached third base twice but was unable to score. Zdanis at catch played well and Porcheron out in right field made a nice running catch a long drive by Kesh which prevented a sure score for Textile in the seventh inning.

Coach Kelley seeks the strongest possible lineup against League champs, unbeaten by Red and White since 1929; play starts at 2.

Seeking its first victory over Bristol High since 1929, Manchester High will send its strongest lineup into the fray when the Red and White tackles the Bell City outfit at Mount Nebo tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, a contest that brings together the outstanding sports rivals of the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League.

Despite reports that Coach Tom Monahan has a much weaker eleven than last season, indicated by defeats at the hands of the Alumni and New Britain and a close victory over East Hartford, Coach Tom Kelley is not taking any chances. His charges have a fine chance of avenging the defeats suffered in 1930, 1931 and 1932 and the local mentor will attempt to gain victory with the strongest team he can place on the field.

Manchester's forward wall showed great weakness in the game against Hartford High out improved considerably for the first league encounter at Middletown. Coach Kelley has been devoting much time to bringing about even greater improvement and it is possible that a few changes may be made in the starting lineup in the guard and halfback positions.

Trio Of Veterans
 Bristol has a trio of veterans in the backfield, Kwiatkowski at left half, Cote at right half and Maro at full. Engels will call the signals. On the line Bristol has DiGiovanna at left end, Messier at left tackle, J. Riley at left guard, Monahan at center, Kilby at right tackle, Audin at right end.

Manchester will have Mozzer, Bob Smith, Chucky Smith and possibly Judd in the backfield, a quartet that turned in a fine performance against Middletown in the last half. The Red and White team functioned brilliantly in the last two periods last week and a similar performance through the entire game tomorrow should bring the desired result.

EAGLES DRILL HARD FOR SUNDAY CONTEST

"Ding" Farr, the Eagle football coach, put his men through one of the stiffest workouts to date last night in the final drive toward the All-Plainville game to be played here Sunday. The men were out for a long night's session, that was comprised chiefly of stopping forward passing attack. In the work out held last night, concentration was made on a review of power and deception plays, also. Farr is anxious to iron out many of the weaknesses displayed in the All-Burnside game particularly in getting in and breaking up or blocking passing and punting plays.

The Eagles team must develop much greater speed and finesse in their plays. It is expected that the All-Plainville team will have considerable advantage on them in weight and speed. All members of the local squad have worked strenuously for this game Sunday. There will be many new faces in the line up but not any of these players are salaried men.

"Al" Pentore, former Cub player, will fill the center position in the opposing lineup. Speedy Ken Smith, former Vermont U. player, will also oppose the locals.

OLYMPIC JUVENILES TO PLAY TOMORROW

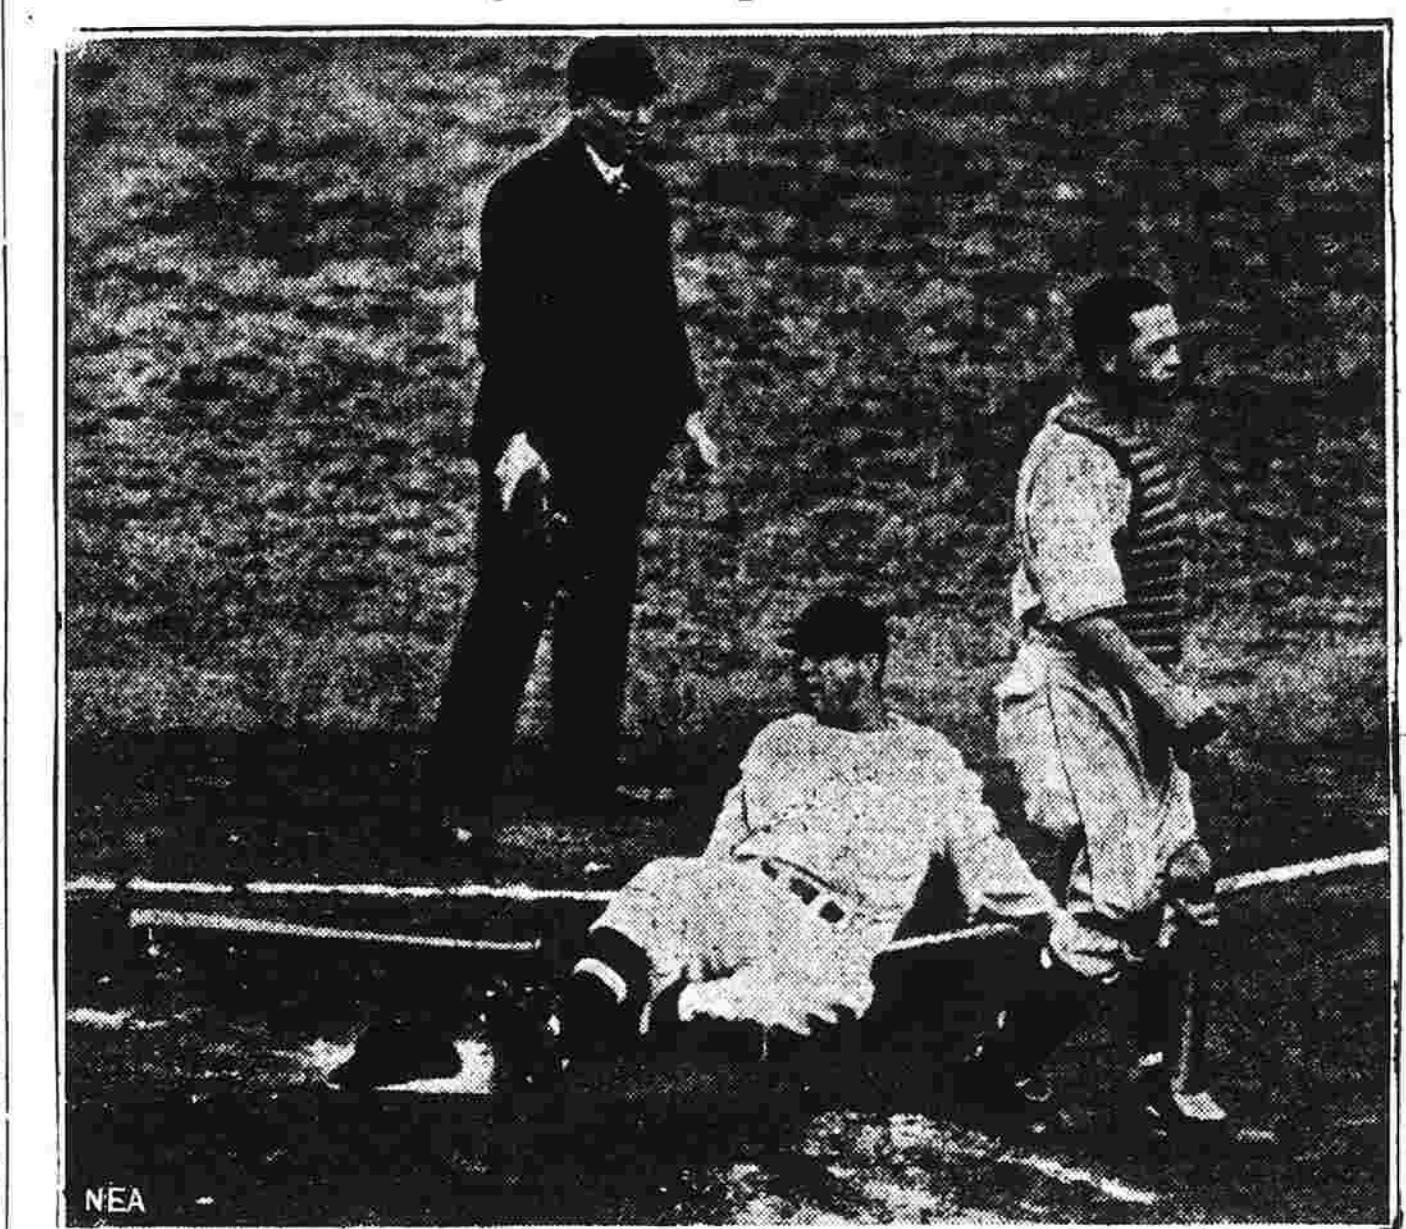

The Olympic Juveniles will play the Y. M. C. A. soccer team from the north end tomorrow afternoon at Charter Oak street. The kick-off is scheduled for 2:30 p. m. The Olympic Juniors are to report at the ground at 2 p. m.

A practice of the Olympic Senior players will be held at Charter Oak street tomorrow afternoon at 2:00 o'clock. The team will have no game on Sunday. This is due to the fact that there are only seven teams in the Hartford county Junior League and each team must take its turn to be idle.

Sunday morning at the West Side fans will see what will probably be the last game of the town championship when the West Sides and Sub-Alpines meet. The West Sides now have one game under their belt and are out to make it two straight. Elmo Mantelli will probably pitch for the Sub-Alpines, and Godek for the West Sides.

Myer Marks Up First Run

IN EXPLANATION

Although it is entirely out of keeping with an umpire's code (of not getting mixed up in any newspaper wrangling) I feel justified in replying to the article published in yesterday's Evening Herald concerning the Rockville City series of which Francis Mahoney local high school athlete and myself were the officials. The controversy arose over a play at the plate on which a runner slid into home and was tagged out. A few minutes elapsed and then a spectator on the first base line told a player the ball had been dropped and picked up again quickly, which might have been the case, but my position when the runner was tagged was such that I did not see the dropped ball if there actually was one. My only recourse was to appeal to the base umpire who also said he had not seen the ball dropped. That left the decision as called. The players resumed their position, also the batter. The batter was ready when he was called out of the box. There was more wrangling during which Lesig, a Clerk A. C. player used language (which is unprintable) in his remarks to me for which I removed him from the game. There was more arguing at the end of which I gave the Clerks the allotted five minutes to continue play which they refused to do and my only procedure was to forfeit. The captain of the Clerks came over to me and said Lesig wanted to apologize but I told him the removal from the game would teach Lesig that if he was to continue to sports of any kind he would have to curb his tongue. Later I agreed to recall my forfeit decision for the benefit of the fans who were entitled to see a full game, but the Polish Americans refused the offer to a man and also most of the fans saying that the Clerk A. C. had gotten away with the conduct for years and they appreciated the fact that I handled the situation as I had done. This is not the first trouble in Rockville by a long shot as Mahoney and myself are the sixth set of umpires used there this year. Rockville has the reputation of being the worst city in the state to officiate in any sports.

The object of this letter is solely to offset the impression which Brother Rudy seems to want to instill in our minds, an alibi for the Clerks, whom he has been partial to all year.

Inasmuch as your paper was kind enough to give such prominence to an article written by an out of town writer, I trust you will be equally generous in regards to this item, which explains (not in part) but exactly as it happened.

Thanking you for the space required.

RALPH RUSSELL.

CONTINUE SERIES

Chicago, Oct. 5.—(AP)—In accordance with William Veck's last wishes, the city series between the Chicago Cubs and the White Sox goes on today.

The death of Veck had its effect on the Cubs yesterday as they played a listless brand of ball and lost their second straight game 2-0.

STRESS IS PLACED ON THE SAFETY OF FOOTBALL PLAYERS

Coaches Are Becoming More Concerned With the Individual Says Sutherland, Pittsburgh Mentor.

By JOCK SUTHERLAND (Football Coach, University of Pittsburgh)

(Copyright, 1933, NEA Service Corp., Pittsburgh, Oct. 5.—Officials, rule-makers, school athletic authorities, coaches, physicians and trainers have been working for a long time to make football safer for the player, and this year, regardless of the number of casualties and injuries, it seems everything possible has been done.

We have all been concerned in eliminating injuries by changing the rules. In fact, practically every important change in the code for the last two seasons has been made with that end in view. In the last few years we have seen all hard-surfaced protection in players' uniforms covered with soft padding; the outlawing of the flying block; and the flying tackle, with stricter penalties for violation of this rule; disappearance of the flying wedge on the kickoff; more rigid enforcement of the rule preventing clipping; curbing use of hands on defense—the linemen's punch—to protect blockers from taking a beating around the head.

Coaches are growing more and more concerned, year after year, with the individual. The emphasis is being placed on instructing the player in tackling hard, yet with the least possible danger to himself and to the ball carrier.

The ball carrier himself is taught the same thing. There no longer is any blind charging and blocking. The player is not instructed to go "and die for dear old Rutgers." We prefer to have him play smart, safe football.

Muscle control and balance have been added to a keen knowledge of what to do in different unexpected situations as prime requisites of a good football player. He must be able to perform his task in the most effective and easiest way. The mechanics of the game have undergone radical changes while under the coach's microscope.

More fun and less danger is the watchword. No longer can one hear the pulley on the tackling dummy buzzing up and down all morning and afternoon, as used to be the case. Live tackling is preferable—and not too much of it.

There is more effort on the part of the school athletic department and the coach to co-operate by means of efficient medical care for the athletes. The team physician and trainer are trained specialists now.

We now know and recognize that football injuries are in most cases different from other injuries. As a result, trained and efficient medical men are on the lookout for injuries, instead of waiting for them to be reported to them.

In the last few years, the efforts made to handle the individual have been safe and sane. He is treated as an individual, not as part of a group.

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—All the Washington Senators had to do today was to get back on even terms with the New York Giants in the world series was beat Carl Carl Hubbell, the southpaw master of the screw-ball.

From a neutral point of view that looked not one whit more difficult than any of the faded twelve labors of Hercules. The last time the Senators saw Hubbell he mowed them down with five hits in the opening game in New York 4-2.

Nats Must Beat Hubbell To Square World Series

Task Does Not Seem Impossible in View of Yesterday's Outcome; Weaver May Hurl for Senators Instead of Stewart; Is Second Best.

By EDWARD J. NEIL A. P. Sports Writer

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—All the Washington Senators had to do today was to get back on even terms with the New York Giants in the world series was beat Carl Carl Hubbell, the southpaw master of the screw-ball.

From a neutral point of view that looked not one whit more difficult than any of the faded twelve labors of Hercules. The last time the Senators saw Hubbell he mowed them down with five hits in the opening game in New York 4-2.

A Powerful Change
 But today a powerful change had swept over the series picture, a change so threatening that Bill Terry, leader of the National League champions, turned as he had done all through the last season.

From a stunned, shaken, struggling team, wandering dizzily about, the Senators reformed their ranks yesterday under the eyes of President Roosevelt and swept the Giants back in the third game.

Behind the flawless pitching of Earl Whitehill, southpaw ace, the Senators stepped out and clubbed down Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons as the Giants had slugged Wally Stewart and "General" Alvin Crowder.

Weaver To Hurl
 Great as was yesterday's 4-0 triumph, it could bring little ultimate satisfaction to the Senators unless the recovery carried on today. Therefore Cronin entrusted his pitching to Young Monte Weaver, the Virginia mathematician who through the closing days of the American league season, tossed the finest ball of any man on the Washington staff.

Weaver, a cool, calculating young man with a grand curve and fast ball, has been Cronin's ace in the hole, and Senators believe he can beat the Giants, even with Hubbell pitching. Should that baseball miracle happen, the teams will enter the third and last game here tomorrow tied at two victories each, the series then continuing in New York with a sixth game Sunday, and a seventh Monday if required.

Weaver, if much of the season, rallied strongly in the final month of the American league campaign. He and Whitehill stopped the Yankees short in a doubleheader in New York, after the former world champion had opened a crucial series with a double victory.

"He has been pitching the best ball of any one on the Washington staff with the sole exception of Whitehill," said Clark Griffith.

Today's probable lineup:
 New York Giants: Moore, 1b; Critz, 2b; Terry, 1b; Ott, rf; Davis, cf; Jackson, 3b; Mancuso, c; Ryan, ss; Hubbell, p.
 Umpires Plate—Ormsby (AL); First base—Moran (NL); second base—Mortuary (AL); third base—Firman (NL).

SAYS STEWART SHOULD BE ABLE TO DUPLICATE EARL WHITEHILL'S FEAT

Washington Has Come Back to Look Like Team That It Really Is; Expects Nats to Hit Hubbell Today; Confidence Is Restored After Results of Yesterday.

By WALTER JOHNSON (As told to Bill Braucher, NEA Service Sports Editor.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 6.—The rally that was expected finally occurred. Washington, led by Whitehill, has come back to look like the team that it really is.

Showing a well regulated change of pace, Whitehill was master of the situation after the first few innings yesterday when he seemed nervous. His curve ball, and half-speed delivery, kept the Giants guessing. Terry's team seemed to me to be off balance.

Stewart May Repeat
 Although the series still stands two to one, I would say that the Senators go into the fourth game with a great deal of assurance. Walter Stewart should be able to repeat what Whitehill has done. Earl showed yesterday what a left-lander can do against the National League champions. Walter figures to win.

Brilliant Fielding
 Brilliant fielding plays were part of the picture of yesterday's game. Fitzsimmons was given the benefit of sparkling work by Joe Moore and Hughie Critz. The stop that Critz made on Kuehl's hard ground drive in the sixth inning was one of the kind of performances that pitchers dream about.

Confidence Restored
 Confidence that seemed to be lacking in New York returned when Washington, came from behind. There will be that much more today in favor of the Senators. The knowledge that they could beat Fitzsimmons will be helpful. Time after time during the season, the Nats have shown the ability to rally.

Washington was a different ball club after the first inning. As soon as the bats began working, a new spirit seemed to take hold of the team.

This was remarkably shown in the eighth inning. One was out when Moore rolled to Cronin. It was the kind of ball Cronin would field perfectly nine times out of ten. But Cronin muffed.

Joe was undaunted. With a wave to the outfielders, as Critz came to the plate, he restored assurance that all was well. The team showed in that instance that it understood Cronin would not do that again. When a ball club has that feeling, it is a hard team to beat.

Pitched To Terry
 Critz went out, Whitehill to Kuehl, the runners advancing. Peel, a pinch-hitter was on third now, with Moore on second. Terry walked to the plate. Ordinarily Terry would be walked. Here was the most dangerous hitter the Giants had, with two runs possible on a single.

Whitehill pitched to him. Terry took the first one, a ball inside. The second was a strike that he looked at. Whitehill wasted the next one. Then Terry took his cut, a terrific swing—and popped a high foul that Sewell took.

A victory for courage and confidence was enacted in that inning. With the same attitude in today's game, Washington still stands my choice to beat the Giants.

By MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, is deeply attracted to JOAN WARING, a pretty girl he first saw on the train en route to Memphis. Bob has come to Memphis in connection with his father's new textile plant.

Joan is a member of an impoverished family with an aristocratic background. Her mother longs for her daughters to enjoy the social positions that is rightfully theirs.

Joan's sister, PAT, two years younger, loves pleasure and pretty clothes. She is infatuated with JERRY FORRESTER, son of her employer. Joan believes Jerry is merely amusing himself and tries to warn her sister.

BARBARA COURTNEY, a popular society girl whom Bob had known in New York, is scheming to win him.

Bob takes Joan to see the textile plant. They have a tentative engagement for that evening but he is compelled to break it when he learns Barbara has included him in a dinner party. Pat reads of the party in the newspaper and also learns Bob is the man who owns the textile plant.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII
Joan's bewildered, incredulous eyes met Pat's. "So you didn't know!" Pat was saying. "Somebody's been putting things over on our little Joan. Listen to this!"

Posing dramatically, Pat read: "Construction of the first unit of the new Weston Textile Mill plant to be erected near Memphis at an initial cost of between $3,000,000 and $5,000,000 will begin as soon as preliminary work on the waterfront site purchased by the company is completed, it was announced today by Robert Weston, representing his father, James Weston of New York City, owner of the company."

"Pat," said Joan, "you're making all of that up. Give me that paper!"

"There's more," said Pat. "Just listen to this!" She read aloud: "The Weston Mills has a nominal capitalization of $65,000,000, with 1,000,000 shares of common stock quoted at $60 on today's market and 5000 in preferred stock. It is intended to issue 60,000 shares of common stock in connection with the company's plants at Niagara Falls, another in New Jersey and the Tennessee project. Read it all if you're interested."

"Great Scott! What do you know about Joan grabbing somebody like that!"

Joan's eyes were wide, her face a little pale. She met her mother's astonished eyes.

"My dear, you didn't dream?"

"No, of course not," Joan said. "What difference does it make?"

"What difference?" Pat exclaimed. "Oh, none in the world! Rich men go around every day falling for poor girls, like King Cophetua and the beggar maid. Only they don't marry them these days."

"A millionaire," said Bill. "Well, Sis!" He stopped, warned by his mother's glance.

Pat was deep in the society page now, characteristically forgetting for the moment the subject which had engrossed her so shortly before.

Joan was thinking. "Well, of course, he didn't tell me. He wouldn't say, 'I'm the son of the man who owns the whole thing.'"

"I see where Barbara Courtney is having another party," Pat put in. And then, "Well, of the double-timing man! Guess he thought you didn't read the society page, Joan! Guess he didn't know that every little thing Barbara does gets in the paper!"

"What are you talking about, Pat?" Joan asked.

"About your friend, Bob, standing you up for a dinner date with Barbara," said Pat.

"He didn't!"

"Well, maybe I can't read. Maybe Miss Wilson made a mistake when she wrote this. If you want to read about the party at the Courtneys tonight here it is—with Mr. Robert Weston of New York as big as you please in the guest list!"

There was a silence and then Mrs. Waring, with a glance at Joan's white face, said gently: "Pat, how you go on! Maybe the young man can explain."

"He will," Pat said scornfully. "But I hope Joan won't listen to him."

Joan said slowly, unhappily, "Pat, you're a jealous, suspicious, little cat."

"I'd hate to have you lose your head over him when it won't do any good."

Joan smiled. It was a queer little smile that didn't linger, that didn't reach her eyes. Funny for Pat to be talking to her about losing her head.

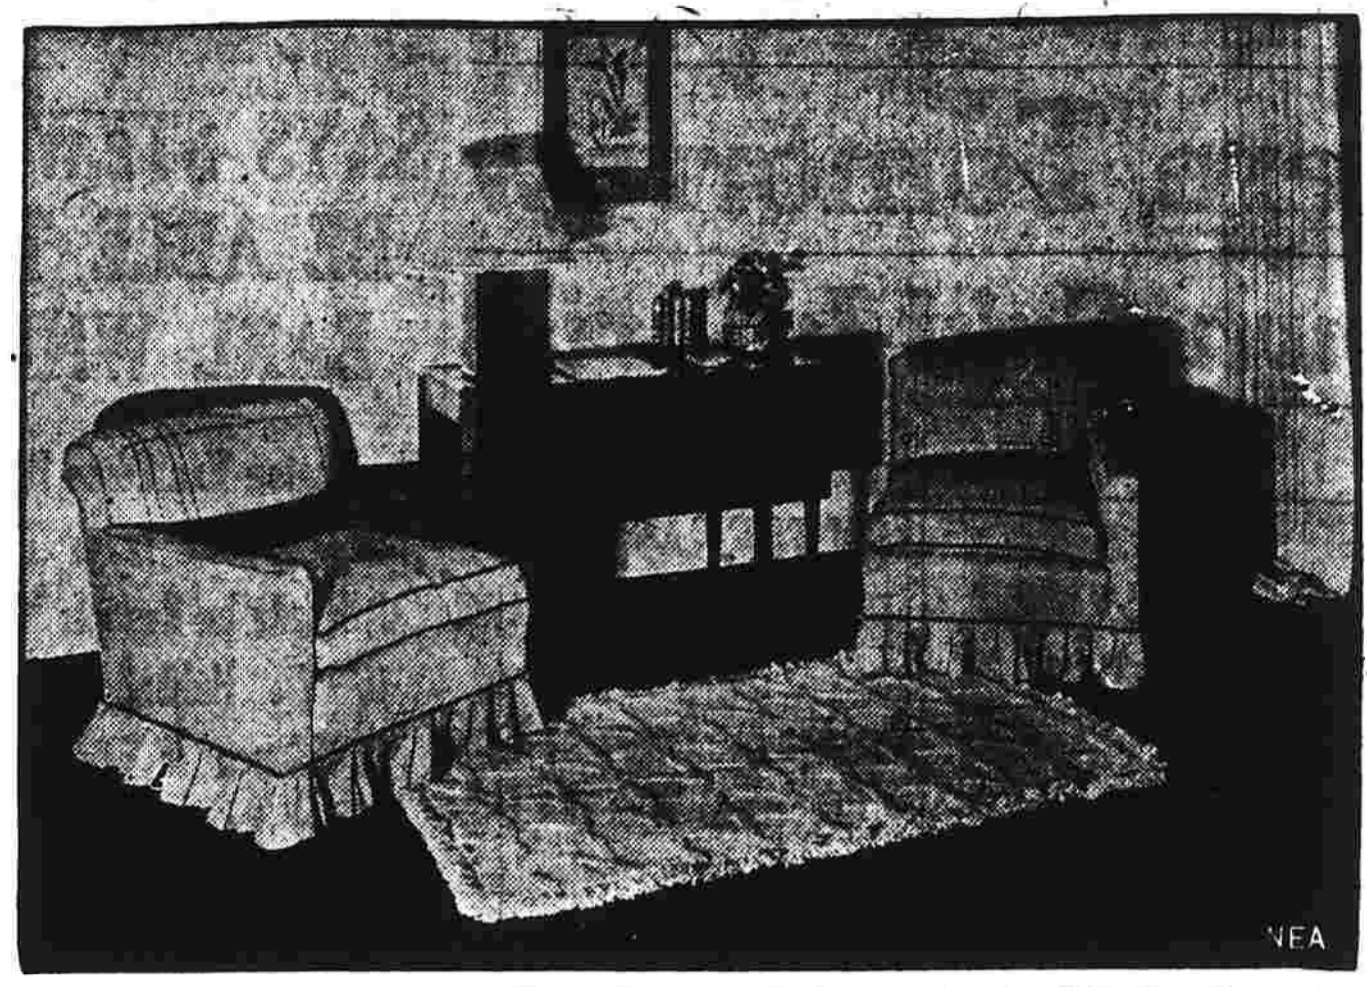

"I'd hate to see anybody making a fool of you," Pat continued. "I could have told you before. He was the man I saw with Barbara at the Book Shelf. I didn't tell you because I hated to spoil the dinner for you after you had worked so hard. I hope you'll drop him like a ton of bricks if he's started two-timing."

"I'm going up stairs," Joan said. "Don't worry, Pat. My heart's intact!"

She wanted to be alone. Upstairs in the hallway there was a window. Joan paused there, staring at the darkness outside. If Bob had been casual or indifferent it wouldn't have occurred to her to believe he was beginning to care. But he hadn't been casual. He had seemed eager to be with her. He had been tender and protective—not possessive. The way he looked at her, the way his deep voice dwelt on her name. Well, another girl was probably thinking the same things and coming to the same conclusion. Bob had preferred to be with Barbara evidently and had broken a date to go there. The chief engineer!

"I would be like this," Joan determined bravely. "I've always despised suspicious, catty people. I'll just forget him!"

But there was no lifting of the shadow in her eyes. She opened the door to Benny's room. "Benny, you've hardly touched your dinner!" she exclaimed.

"Didn't have much appetite tonight."

Joan stood looking down at him. Her heart ached. How thin he was, and yet how dear and uncomplaining.

"Joan, that Mr. Weston who was here last night is a regular fellow, isn't he? I liked him."

"Yes," she stopped and patted the thin hand. "Tomorrow you're going to the clinic again and he thumped and pummeled." She lifted a pillow and shook it before slipping it under her brother's head.

"Joan, Mr. Weston likes you a lot, doesn't he?"

"Benny," Joan broke in breathlessly. "You romancer! I barely know him."

She sat down beside the bed and began reading. The book related the adventures of Richard, a modern lion-heart, whose deeds furnished a thrilling saga.

Once when dangers were piling up for the valiant Richard she stumbled over the words.

"Why Joan," Benny exclaimed. "You're crying. Richard won't die. You don't think they would drop a hero right in the beginning, do you?"

Yes, you would drop a hero right in the beginning unless you wanted to suffer terribly.

"You look tired," Benny said. "There are black smudges under your eyes."

The black smudges were still there in the morning. But they were not there an hour after breakfast. It is wonderful what magic there can be in a telephone call.

"I'm afraid I called you too early," Bob's deep voice came over the wire. "But I couldn't wait. Happiness came flooding back."

"I was wondering if you couldn't arrange to have lunch with me today. And, Joan, I want to explain about last night."

"It doesn't matter."

"All right, go on being a soft-boiled egg!" came Pat's vehement whisper.

"It was a party a girl I know had planned. She had been trying to get me all day and counted me in anyway. It would have upset things if I had dropped out at that hour. I was sure you would understand."

He knew she would understand! She had been silly.

"About lunch?"

"You're absolutely a sap if you don't show some spirit," from Pat. "I'm terribly sorry," Bob, but I'll be teaching until noon and I'll be busy this afternoon, too."

"Well, all right. It's got to be a long day for me. But I guess I'll find plenty to do at the plant." His voice sounded cheerful. He had no idea that he was being punished, Joan decided.

"Shall I drop around about seven?"

"Fine," said Joan.

Pat stood in the doorway, her coat and hat on. "You're letting him come tonight?" she asked scornfully.

"Yes," said Joan radiantly. "I am."

"You don't know the first thing about handling men," Pat said. "Not the first thing! Imagine letting him off as easily as that."

"I'm never going to be so silly again," said Joan. "You had me imagining all sorts of things. And there was no reason for it."

She might have felt less light-hearted if she had known that Bob had just put down the telephone when it rang again.

"Hello," said Barbara. "Wasn't it cruel of me to get you up when you had just gone to bed?"

"I had five good hours of sleep. Edison said four was all anybody needed."

"I had to call. You slipped away so early. Couldn't you get me up for lunch. There's something exciting I want to tell you."

Two-timing is admirable—in furniture. The new double and triple utility pieces strike a practical note in home furnishings.

For the hostess who has little space but, fortunately, lots of company, there is a new divan which comes apart to make three separate chairs. Two of the chairs have arms on opposite sides, making them perfect for reading. The center piece is armless and can be drawn up in front of your desk to make a comfortable writing chair. Put together, you have aavenport.

New bedside utility cabinets serve three purposes. They are made with open compartments on the two lower shelves and a couple of drawers at the top. You use the little open cubby holes for your shoes and the drawers for handkerchiefs, nightgowns and the like. The flat top itself is sturdy enough to hold a reading lamp, as ash tray and your bedtime reading matter.

Triple Utility Piece

Also introduced this fall is a new three-in-one piece of furniture which looks like three narrow chests of drawers. They fit together along the wall of an apartment living room. The piece on the right opens up to show rows and rows of bookshelves. The one on the left reveals three or four drawers. The center piece has a split panel across the front. The top half of the panel drops down and then you have a writing desk. You can use them together, or, lacking space, use them separately.

Quarter coaches fit together to make a circular divan. They are handsome love seats for either side of a fireplace when used separately. One has an arm on the right side, one left. A particularly lovely pair of these circular quarter couches comes in pale green velour.

A chaise longue that looks like an arm chair at one end is appropriate for either bedrooms or library. It appears to be merely an elongated easy chair. And beautiful it is, with a short arm on one side and the other arm extending all the way to the foot.

Right in the double utility mood is a desk table that is plain and simple enough to be used as a luncheon table in the small apartment. It has a thick glass top, making it ideal for writing purposes. Put a pad and a linen cloth over the glass and there you are—all set for lunch.

One Legged Bridge Table

A bridge table that is heavy and solid, with one large leg instead of four little wobbly ones, stays up all the time. Place it in one corner of a large living room, with its chairs grouped close to it, and besides being decorative, it is always ready when you want to play cards or serve refreshments.

There is a beautiful eighteenth century library table (shown between the two chairs in the picture) that is grand for an apartment. You can use it as a regular dining table, as a dinner table. Use the nice little end drawer for silver.

A very large, round table (about four feet in diameter) can be used as an ordinary library table. And also for a tea table if you are a hostess who gives large parties. It is just the right height so that a table lamp placed on it will shed rays of light on the book held by a person sitting in a club chair near the table itself. And it is large enough to hold dozens of tea cups and many platters of sandwiches and cakes.

By all means investigate the two-timing furniture trends and see for yourself how useful and decorative these new pieces can be.

Pat stood in the doorway, her coat and hat on. "You're letting him come tonight?" she asked scornfully.

"Yes," said Joan radiantly. "I am."

"You don't know the first thing about handling men," Pat said. "Not the first thing! Imagine letting him off as easily as that."

"I'm never going to be so silly again," said Joan. "You had me imagining all sorts of things. And there was no reason for it."

She might have felt less light-hearted if she had known that Bob had just put down the telephone when it rang again.

"Hello," said Barbara. "Wasn't it cruel of me to get you up when you had just gone to bed?"

"I had five good hours of sleep. Edison said four was all anybody needed."

"I had to call. You slipped away so early. Couldn't you get me up for lunch. There's something exciting I want to tell you."

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

HANDLING THE CHILD WHO REFUSES TO DO HOMEWORK

"Do your lessons, Algy!"

"Oh, those old lessons! I hate them!" Algy kicked the speller that had fallen to the floor.

He wouldn't and didn't do his nightwork. He wouldn't and didn't do anything at school but fool away his time. He was smart enough because his other teachers had said so. And up to the present time he had behaved pretty well and made his grades.

Conflicting Views

When he was in bed his mother spoke to his father. "I'm worried about Algy. What are we going to do with him? He's getting terrible. I think I'll go and have another talk with the principal."

"And I think I'm going out and cut a nice birch rod and whale the life out of the kid," declared his dad.

"Oh, Tom, you can't do that. He's only eight."

"Don't care. He's got to learn to obey people and do what he's told whether he likes it or not."

"Well, I think you're wrong. I know children are supposed to learn unquestioning obedience, but I know when I was little and had to walk the chalk mark something was boiling up in me all the time. I think it's wrong to make children do things they hate day after day, especially when they are so young. As they get older and understand the why and wherefore of education better, it's different."

"That's all blather. What that young fellow needs is a good trouncing."

"All right. But if I had that Miss What's-her-name for a teacher, I think I'd do just what Algy's doing. She has no personality, no understanding, no nothing. Just discipline. Lessons are bad enough without having everything connected with school turned into something you hate. I feel terribly sorry for Algy. He liked his other teachers."

Mother's Appeal

Next day she said to Algy. "Will you listen to Mother, dear? It's about school. I don't blame you for hating it. But I hate housework and I dislike my dog. And every day with every day. But I do what I have to do because it just has to be done. The same way with Daddy. He never did like his work, but see what a good job he makes of it."

"And I do what you call being a good sport, my dear. And manly. But how's this? We can work better if we think we're going to have a good time afterward. I'm going to get my dog. And every day with every day. We'll take Charlie along, too."

"Don't you think you could work better if you were thinking, 'I'm a big man and I do a big job. And every day with every day. But I do what I have to do because it just has to be done. The same way with Daddy. He never did like his work, but see what a good job he makes of it.'"

Algy buckled down to work. He became interested in many things but cut halves the long way. He thought his mother was wiser than his dad.

HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

It is practically impossible to live, and it is only with the help of proper apparatus that they are enabled to do so.

One British investigator found that degeneration of the organs through deficiency of oxygen begins at a height of about 20,000 feet and gets steadily worse as one goes higher.

The question has arisen as to how high an aviator can fly when breathing oxygen. Leonard Hill determined to find out this fact by making some tests on animals.

In a review of this topic, Leonard Hill, the famous British physiologist, points out that Captain Owens, with the aid of oxygen-breathing apparatus and electrically-heated clothing, recently climbed in an airplane to a height of almost 44,000 feet.

Two investigators, Mallory and Irvine, after reaching 28,000 feet on Mt. Everest, lost their lives in attempting to climb the last 1000 feet without the oxygen-breathing apparatus. Because of the shortage of breath at these immense heights, the observers find

NEW VANITY CASES NEAT AND PRACTICAL

There's a new fall crop of beauty aids. Just pick out what you need.

If you're tired of carrying an evening bag which is over-crowded with an assortment of cigarette, lipsticks, r-ticks and powder and rouge compacts, take a look at some of the new ensemble evening vanity cases.

One particularly nice one has a place for a few cigarettes inside of its case, a lighter on the top and a panel which opens up to reveal rouge and powder. Almost everything you need during an evening is right there in one case. Merely add a lipstick, a comb and a handkerchief and there you are—with a neat, flat bag instead of one which looks like a little stuffed pillow.

Speaking of combs to carry in your evening bag—have you seen the ones which come in little beaded cases? Besides being very decorative and feminine, they keep dust and tobacco from getting in between the teeth of the comb. You can get them in white and in all colors to match your gown.

While shopping around for beauty gadgets for yourself, you might give a thought to the guests who will visit in your home this winter.

Bath mits which are little cotton bags filled with powdered soap are very nice for your guest bath-room. They come in all colors and take the place of the ubiquitous wash cloth and cake of soap.

Your neck should match your face.

There is simply no use in taking excellent care of the skin on your face, keeping it soft and youthful, if you are going to allow your neck to get old and dry.

In the first place, cream it as often as you cream your face. When using cleansing cream, apply it from the base of your throat right on up over your forehead. Do likewise with skin tonics.

Even if you don't use an astringent on your face, it's a good idea to pat some into the skin on your neck, particularly under your chin.

Necks have a tendency to become saw-toothed. Use a bleaching cream to correct that condition. Bleaches which are a little too strong for your cheeks, lips and nose are about right for your neck, chin and forehead.

Always use a muscle oil and a thick skin food to remove the bleaching cream.

Put your powder foundation on your neck as well as your face. And powder it with the same shade of powder.

Remember that a nightly massage with tissue cream will go far toward preventing dryness in the skin on your neck. Always pat and lift the skin upward when you are massaging.

CITES RADICALISM OF HITLER REGIME

This Book is Good Picture of the Nazi Policies.

By BRUCE CATTON

"Germany Enters the Third Reich," by Calvin B. Hoover, is perhaps the best appraisal yet written of the Nazi regime.

The imbecilities of the Nazi anti-Jew campaign, and Hitler's rampant chauvinism, says Prof. Hoover, are most of us to underestimate the real achievements of the party and its leader.

German Fascism, he points out, is not quite like the Italian brand. It contains an element of genuine Socialism. So far it is inclined to the Left in a startling manner. It is undervaluing nothing less than that public selection of the directors of industry which Donald Richberg used as a bogymann before the New York merchants not long ago. It has made the labor unions militant and compact. It seems to be preparing to go to the mat with the junk landowners of East Prussia.

Furthermore, Professor Hoover does not believe there is much chance that the Nazis will re-establish the Hohenzollerns.

The German republic fall, this book asserts because its leaders could offer no solution to the economic depression but a policy of waiting for the upturn—which proved uncomfortably slow in coming. Only the Nazis and the Communists offered definite programs. Germany chose to go nationalist instead of red.

Prof. Hoover warns that the Nazi regime is apt to last a long while. It is firmly entrenched and utterly ruthless in the use of terror. Only a complete economic collapse or defeat in a foreign war, he believes could overthrow it.

Published by Macmillan, this book sells for $2.50.

PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM IS OUTLINED BY McNEIL

to our State, will serve its purpose in aiding in the economic recovery so much desired in our State.

"The National Treasury is waiting to be drawn upon for hundreds of millions of dollars for useful public works. The Administration in Washington can approve your projects and advance funds necessary to complete them—but there is a point beyond which we can not go. We can give you money; we can help you to decide what projects to undertake; we can assist you in the preparation of your plans and the letting of construction; we can aid you in supervising the work; we can meet the proper charges of your contractors when they fall due; and we can encourage you to speed up your projects—but we can not make you borrow your share of this money unless you want to do so and, therefore, we are here today to make clear the advantages of the Public Works plans of the N.I.R.A. Act.

Great Opportunity

"The public works program contemplates the expenditure of funds in excess of $1,750,000,000.00 for state aid municipal and town projects, and offers the greatest opportunity for municipal and town improvements in the history of any country. Washington is willing to advance you an outright gift of 30 per cent of your outlay for labor and material on any approved plan. We ask you to pay for the balance of the project, but we are willing to help you finance your share. We will advance you the remaining 70 per cent upon approved security, and by approved security we don't mean that we will be as technical about the security you offer as would the investment bankers with whom you are accustomed to deal. We will lend you this 70 per cent at 4 per cent interest and permit you to amortize it over a period not to exceed 30 years. Here is an opportunity to build necessary and desirable public works on more favorable terms than your community has ever had before or that you are ever likely to have again.

"Do you need waterworks, improved sewerage system, bridges, viaducts, public building, roads or new schools? These things and many others you may have on unbelievably generous terms. We appreciate in Connecticut that many municipalities and towns have reached the limit of their bonding powers, real estate values have gone off so sharply that the tax yield from the necessarily lower assessed values is not now sufficient to meet current expenses, but this situation is met by the provisions of the N. I. R. A. act. A special act of the General Assembly, known as the Emergency Act, passed the last session of that body, under the terms of which cities and towns may, with certain restraint, apply for this Federal aid and I venture to say that we can in most instances solve your problem as it applies to your debt limit if you desire these public works projects with Federal aid without the necessity of a special session or an Enabling Act.

No Red Tape

"Washington will not be technical with you—those who cry out 'Red Tape' are, in many instances, themselves tangled in 'Red Tape'. We are ready and willing to give any municipality or town the benefit of the doubt. We do not even ask that you submit to us a municipal or town project in perfect engineering, legal or financial form before we will approve it. Secretary Ickes has adopted a system of tentative allocation of funds and a special board of Public Works at Washington adopted a resolution which I quote in part: 'Resolved that upon a proper prima facie showing that a proposed municipality or town Public Works Project is socially desirable, engineeringly sound and can be financed under the law, the Public Works Administration may make an allocation of the money required on condition that not later than 30 days afterward the other necessary data will be forthcoming.'

"Here is concrete evidence from Washington of their willingness to proceed without loss of time and with a minimum of technicality. Come to us at once with a sound case and we will set aside the money for you and then you can proceed later to supply our Board with the necessary explicit engineering, legal and financial data. The Public Works Board is more liberal than any leader on a large scale since the beginning of the world and we are anxious and willing to co-operate with you, but we are not dropping taxpayers money into the hat of a blind man. You ought to know whether the works you propose are legal and financial point of view. If you do know, there is no sensible reason why you should not quickly take us into your confidence. Bring us your projects supported by the facts that are certainly within your knowledge and you will receive prompt action from the Federal representatives of the Public Works Act in Connecticut.

Many Still Idle

"Winter is rapidly approaching. Millions of men and women are still idle. Thousands of people will be on your relief list this winter. The majority of these unfortunate people are splendid American citizens anxious and willing to work and ashamed and reluctant to accept charity. Why not put them to work in useful public works projects, economically desirable, financially sound and designed to improve the living conditions in your own communities? Your townpeople will approve of your action in making application for a Federal loan for use in public projects. Don't you want your share of the funds coming to Connecticut? Already five projects have been approved and legal and financial point of view. If you are working on a project approved by our Board and the Federal authorities.

"If the situation in your community warrants a public works improvement of any character coming under the scope of the act and you do not avail yourselves of this unusual opportunity for Federal assistance, then the responsibility clearly rests upon your shoulders as the constituted representatives of your constituencies and you will be accountable to them, whose servants you are.

"The facilities of our Board are at your disposal. We invite your questions and we pledge you our undivided interest and sincere help in expediting any project you are ready to present to us."

SON OF O'CONNOR NAMED IN PROBE

Shipping Official Discharged Because He Would Not Approve a Loan.

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Benjamin A. Harnett testified before the Senate ocean mail investigating committee today that he was discharged as operating manager of the Black Diamond Line after he had refused to approve an "extra labor" item for Steve O'Connor, whom he identified as a son of T. V. O'Connor, then Shipping Board chairman.

Harnett told Senator Black, committee chairman, that he refused to approve a bill he viewed as "an overcharge of $52 or $62." Charles Hamilton, chief stevedore of the Black Diamond, said Harnett, then came to him "and told me the circumstances."

"He said," Harnett testified, "that Steve O'Connor—"

"Is he any relation to T. V. O'Connor?" interjected Black.

"Son," answered Harnett.

"He came to me," resumed Harnett, "and said Steve had gotten into the habit of borrowing money and the only way he could get it back was to get an extra labor permit to cover the loan."

Hamilton, said Harnett, complained to J. E. Dockendorff, president of the Black Diamond, and Dockendorff called the operating manager into his office.

"I was told," Harnett testified, "that I needn't lean backward to be honest. He accused me of not cooperating and asked my resignation. So I resigned."

Black asked the witness if he knew how long Steve O'Connor remained in the New York office of the Black Diamond. Harnett said he did not know but that O'Connor "finally was transferred to the Washington office."

After he left the Black Diamond, Harnett said, he served for a time with the Shipping Board.

POLICE COMMISSIONERS TO ORGANIZE MONDAY

Expect C. R. Burr to Be Chairman As At Present — Consider Teletype Service.

The police commissioners will meet on Monday evening at 7:30 for organization. The meeting is being called by C. R. Burr, who has served as chairman of the board for the past year. He will undoubtedly be elected to continue as chairman of the board with Commissioner Harry B. Bissell as secretary. John Hackett is the other member, making the same set up as in the case last year.

The board has had under consideration for some time the installing of a teletype machine and it is expected that early action will be taken on the securing of this kind of a machine at once.

GOV. LEHMAN ORDERS PROBE OF RACKETEERS

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Governor Lehman today called a special session of the King's County Supreme Court to investigate charges of bribery of public officials in connection with the laundry racket in Brooklyn.

The session will start November 1 and will be presided over by Supreme Court Justice Pierce H. Russell of Troy.

District Attorney Geoghan of Brooklyn is superceded for the purposes of the investigation of State Attorney General Bennett.

The governor's order was based on a case heard in King's county before Judge Alonzo G. McLaughlin and involving charges that intimidation had been used against small laundry owners by racketeers.

The defendants in this case — Jacob Mellon, Edward Rotherberg and Morris Lollo—pleaded guilty and received suspended sentences of three years.

The case was brought to his attention, the governor said, by District Attorney Geoghan and Judge McLaughlin, who recommended that the investigation be carried on by means of Special counsel, a special Grand Jury and an extraordinary session of the Supreme Court.

NEW FEDERAL PROJECTS

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Public Works administration today allotted $6,565,066 for sixteen non-Federal work projects in eight states to provide 52,000 man months of immediate direct employment.

The projects include school buildings, roads, alteration plants, water works, hospital buildings, airport improvements, highways, bridges and sewers.

Eight of the allotments were direct grants representing 30 per cent of the cost of labor and material with the remaining 70 per cent to be raised locally. The remainder received grants and 70 per cent in the form of loans.

The allotments made on the basis of loans and grants included Dover, New Hampshire, a grant of $12,600 for its water supply.

COVENTRY SUPPER NEXT WEDNESDAY

Annual Harvest Menu Offered by Fragment Society — All Kinds of Vegetables.

Wednesday evening, October 11, is the date set by the Coventry Fragment Society for its annual Harvest Supper. The place will be the Chapel Hall at North Coventry, and the committee in charge of the project, Mrs. A. L. Reed and Mrs. E. J. Koehler.

The menu will include ham, mashed potato, and all the vegetables available. Some of them will be both buttered and creamed. On the list will be cauliflower, cabbage, turnips, onions, beets and squash. A variety of relishes made by the good cooks of Coventry, apple, mince and pumpkin pie, rolls and coffee, will round out a tempting meal.

The committee will be ready to serve promptly at 6 o'clock, and they are looking forward to greeting many of their Manchester friends.

MILK PRODUCERS HOLD THEIR FIRST MEETING

Hartford, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Completing its organization and preparing an outline of its work in drawing up a milk marketing scheme for the state, the newly-formed Connecticut Milk Producers' Council, its membership completed at county elections Tuesday, had its first session at the Hotel Garder here today.

The council, representing all elements of the dairy industry in the state except non-producing dealers, was formed as a result of a movement initiated by the State Federation of Farm Bureaus, assisted by officials at the Connecticut state college. It consists of 14 members, eight of them elected at county meeting of all producers, and six appointed by as many farmers' organizations in the state, with a view to setting up a body which would fairly represent the interests of all factions in the troubled industry.

BEER PERMITS REVOKED

Hartford, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The state liquor control commission, today announced revocation of one beer license, two suspensions and one reinstatement. Tavern permits of William W. Clague, 9 Grove Street, Ridgefield, and Nazareno Lavaroti, 9 Danbury road, Ridgefield, are suspended until further notice.

The restaurant permit of Fannie Branchini, 308 Main street, Branford, was revoked because the commission holds that her establishment is not a restaurant under the liquor act definition. The package store permit of Jennie Capozzi, 1365 State street, Bridgeport, was revoked August 25, but has been reinstated.

Yesterday the A. B. C. bottling works of New Haven surrendered its wholesale permit before a hearing came up on the charge of selling to a non-permittee. Recently the permit was suspended pending a hearing.

Edward J. McKeon of New Haven, manager, was permittee for the distributors.

TO ERECT WORLD WAR MONUMENT

Memorial to 45 Who Lost Lives in Conflict to Be Placed at Hospital.

A new monument honoring the men of Manchester who died in service during the World War to replace the 43 trees planted on the grounds of the Manchester Memorial hospital in memory of these departed comrades of 1918, will be purchased by the Armistice Day committee it was decided at a meeting held last night.

The trees surrounding the hospital lawn were planted shortly after the hospital was built in 1919 and each year since, the exercises in connection with the observance of Armistice Day, have been held at the hospital. The hospital was dedicated as a memorial to the men of the town who served on land or sea during the World War, and the Armistice Day committee has annually held the services at the historic hour, 11 a. m., on the hospital lawn, at the conclusion of the Armistice Day parade.

Must Remove Some Trees

During the years that have passed the trees have grown large and the upper branches have spread on each side so that it will not be long before several of them will have to be removed. Several of the trees have died during the past 15 years and were replaced with smaller ones. Due to these facts, the committee felt that a permanent memorial should be secured and placed on the lawn of the hospital. According to present plans, a monument will be purchased of granite or brown stone, 44 inches in height, on the face of which will be a bronze tablet on which the names of Manchester's 45 World War dead will be inscribed.

Flanking the names on each side of the bronze tablet will be the figures of a soldier and a sailor. The committee has approved the bronze tablet which is to cost $260. It is now planning for the purchase of the stone and base. The total cost of the memorial is not expected to exceed $400.

To finance the purchase of the monument the committee will try and secure the funds necessary through contributions from the large number of ex-service men in town and will not make any regular campaign among Manchester people for this purpose. Those who care to assist the committee, however, may make their contribution to any member of the Armistice Day committee.

Hope To Place It This Year

LINDBERGH VISITING RELATIVES IN WALES

But Reporters Are Prevented from Interviewing Famous Flying Couple.

St. Erle's-Super-Ely, Wales, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Behind chained and locked gates here today Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh were supposed to be visiting Mrs. Lindbergh's sister, Mrs. Audrey Morgan, but confirmation still was not forthcoming as excitement increased among South Wales village folk regarding the mysterious guests.

Mrs. Lindbergh arrived from Southampton Eng. yesterday and it was believed her husband joined her shortly afterward.

The local police superintendent and a policeman went to the Morgan home this morning and on leaving told reporters they had been called by Morgan and that newspaper men were liable to be held for trespass if found inside the grounds.

"I can neither confirm nor deny that Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are here," Morgan said. "If they are here they won't be interviewed because it is a strict rule of the family not to give out any information."

NOT TO ATTEND GAME

Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—President Roosevelt had such a good time at the World Series game yesterday that he is considering going to tomorrow's game.

Reports that he would attend today's game were denied at the White House, officials saying this afternoon's Cabinet meeting and a heavy engagement list would preclude his attendance.

Put more SUNSHINE days on your calendar

How many days in the month do you feel your best? You can add to these sunshine days by simply obeying nature's laws.

The first of these laws is regular elimination. Avoid common constipation by eating a delicious cereal.

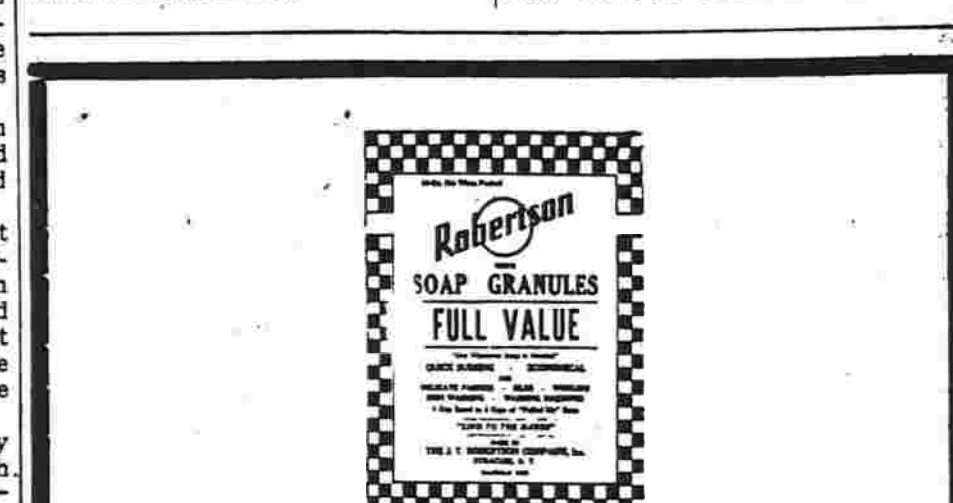

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN furnishes "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to help aid regularity. ALL-BRAN also contains twice the iron of an equal weight of beef liver.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much more pleasant than pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Serve as a cereal or use in cooking. Directions on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TRAMPING SEASON IS ON IN STATE Every Pleasant Week-End Sees Many Parties Hiking on State Trails.

New Haven, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The fall tramping season is on in earnest. Robert M. Ross, secretary-treasurer for the Connecticut Forest and Park Association said today.

Every pleasant week-end sees many parties tramping over the blue marked trails, of which there are over 300 miles in Connecticut.

The Bridgeport section has completed over twenty miles, running northward from Bearse park to the scout camp on the Housatonic river. This trail, named Pomperaug from an Indian chief who was well known to early settlers, is being extended to meet the Naugatuck trail now under construction from New Haven to High Rock, on the Naugatuck river.

Part of Trail Marked Portions of the Naugatuck trail are already marked; it is possible to climb the eastern end of Beacon Hill to the big boulder on the summit with its commanding view.

The New Haven section has laid out two new paths to the head of Sleeping Giant, one by the abandoned quarry and the other to Tuttle Avenue. An observation point is being marked on the flat rocks on the northwest corner of the head.

Members of the C. C. C., are laying out trails as their recreation in spare hours. At Camp Tourney they are completing a section of the Appalachian trail over Mohawk mountain. Mr. Burkhardt, one of the camp officers, has contributed a brass plate, properly mounted, to indicate the trail's progress to be seen from the pinnacle.

At Camp Hook other members of the C. C. C. are laying out a trail along Cawdwood Lake to connect with the Appalachian trail.

The Norwich trail section has completed the Mohogah trail from New London to Norwich. This will be formally opened October 14. The trail will be inspected in the afternoon. There will be a picnic supper and the connecting Hiramack trail which is to run north to the Massachusetts line is complete as far as Scotland Dam, and the Storrs trail section has finished a number of miles above Willimantic.

WAPPING Mrs. Sude L. Briggs and two sons, Ernest and Maynard Briggs, arrived home last Tuesday afternoon from a visit with relatives and friends in Manie.

The annual reunion of the "Old North School Association" will be held at the Wapping school hall Saturday afternoon at two o'clock. There will be a basket lunch and a short program. Manchester Grange members will present a short play.

STRIKERS MAY PICKET FORD'S MAIN FACTORY

Officials at Dearborn Plant Decline to Say What They Will Do If They Arrive.

Detroit, Oct. 6.—(AP)—If striking workmen from the Edgewater, N. J., and Chester, Pa., assembly plants of the Ford Motor Co. reach Dearborn in accordance with plans announced in Edgewater, they will be the first Ford strikers ever seen there.

In Edgewater, the strikers said they expected to start picketing the Dearborn plant Monday with a general strike there as their objective. Ford officials here would not comment.

V. E. Doonan, chairman of the Dearborn safety committee and in charge of the police department, said that since there has never been a strike at the main Ford plant, he knew of no precedent by which to be guided.

Other Dearborn City officials, including Mayor Clyde M. Ford, a distant relative of Henry Ford, and Police Chief Carl A. Brooks have declined to discuss what their attitude would be toward the non-tide Ford strikers who invaded the city.

Two years ago, four persons were killed when Dearborn police battled with several thousand persons in a "march" on the Ford plant that was headed by avowed Communist sympathizers. Another similar march last spring was turned back without bloodshed.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Detroit—It was moving day, explained Modie Gray, 33 years old negro, when he was arrested with a razor in his pocket.

But," asked Recorder's Judge John P. Scallen, before whom he was taken on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, "what other personal effects did you move?"

"Just the razor," Gray replied. "That's my only personal effects."

"Two to five years in Jackson prison," said the judge, "and leave the razor behind."

Durand, Mich.—"Who's there?" asked Joseph Smith when his wife awakened him with the news that a burglar was in the house.

"Oh, Hello Joe," came a voice out of the darkness.

By the time Smith got around to investigate, the nocturnal caller was gone. So were $52 and some railroad passes.

New London, Conn.—If she's a freshman, the well dressed girl on the Connecticut college campus wears a loose fitting burlap bag reaching to the knees and a false nose. The sophomores dictated the style.

HILLIARDVILLE BRIDGE FIRST OF TOWN JOBS

Badly in Need of Repair Highway Committee Decide to Entirely Rebuild It.

One of the first undertakings of the highway department this year will be the construction of a bridge over the Bigelow brook that flows into the Hockanum river at Hilliardville on Hilliard street. The town meeting, on the recommendation of J. Frank Bowen, recommended $2,500 for new bridges for the coming year, but it is not expected that more than $500 will be expended. The highway committee of the present board of selectmen have taken occasion to ride around town to see what work should be taken up at once and completed before the snow storms come on. They visited the small bridge on Hilliard street and found it badly in need of repair. This bridge was washed away in a flood in 1908 and was replaced as a temporary bridge. Since the bus line on the Rockville-Hartford line are now routed over the bridge it has become weakened and it was conceded that it should be taken care of at once. The bridge on Adams street, also rebuilt in 1908, is a well erected structure and while a little narrow is of sufficient width to take care of the traffic.

GERMANY REJECTS TRIAL PERIOD PLAN

(Continued from Page One) definitely to what extent other nations were ready to reduce armies and armaments, beginning now. Depends on Answer On the answer to that question, the spokesman explained, will depend the exact nature of the arms Germany will expect to possess. He added that if Germany accepted the short-term army of 200,000 men she naturally would require armaments of a defensive character sufficient to cover her needs. Asked if Germany had repudiated the idea of a "trial period," the spokesman replied that the British was not opposed to successive stages of disarmament based on technical considerations, but rejects what he called "the good behavior period."

It was understood the communications to London and Rome were oral.

LABOR TROUBLES DELAY ADVANCE

"In most parts of the country, retail trade was held fairly steady last week's level, but gains which should be accumulating at this period were almost entirely absent. While no feeling of apprehension can be discerned, the attitude of consumers generally is one of hesitation, awaiting the force of some strong impetus to release the funds which admittedly are nearing double those available a year ago for the acquisition of merchandise."

"The most active lines this week have been cotton, silk and woolen dress goods, women's and misses' ready-to-wear and accessories, shoes, millinery, notions and food-stuffs."

REPORT ON STORM

Havana, Oct. 6—(AP)—The National Observatory announced at noon today that a storm which was centered approximately 450 miles west northwest of Bermuda was headed toward Bermuda.

ROCKEFELLER PLAN OF BOOZE CONTROL.

fore-word to a report on liquor control recently completed by Raymond B. Fosdick and Albert L. Scott after an eight-month survey sponsored by Rockefeller.

The first aim in a program of liquor control, Rockefeller said, in his statement, is the abolition of lawlessness, even if "the immediate result is temporarily away from temperance."

Temperance Next

The second aim is temperance—"the focusing of all forces of society upon the department of self-control and temperance," in the use of alcoholic beverages.

"To develop the habit of temperance in individuals, to take up again the slow march of education—this is the real and fundamental approach to the problem of alcohol," Rockefeller said.

The report, regard liquor taxation, as it should be regarded, primarily as a helpful factor in forwarding these objectives and only incidentally as a means of producing income.

Another Principle

"Another principle which the report develops is that only as the profit motive is eliminated is there any hope of controlling the liquor traffic in the interest of society. So to approach the problem from any other angle is only to tinker with it and to insure failure. This point cannot be too heavily stressed."

Rockefeller reaffirmed his personal devotion to total abstinence, but reiterated his belief, first made known a year ago, last June, "in the regrettable failure of the 18th Amendment," and the necessity for its repeal.

You will find this method of preparing fish superior to those methods calling for gravies and sauces, for you will get all of the benefit of a good protein food without any of the harmful effects produced by the addition of starch or spicy seasoning."

BRITISH LABOR URGES RUSSIAN RECOGNITION

Hastings, Eng., Oct. 6—(AP)—Approval of a resolution demanding permanent trade treaty with Soviet Russia was the chief business before the trial session of the British Labor Party conference here today.

Reaffirming their long maintained friendly attitude toward Russia, the Laborites have urged adequate credit facilities to support trade with the Soviet Union.

R. C. Wallhead, M. P., asserted the refusal to recognize Russia or grant trade and credit facilities was due to "sheer unadulterated hatred of the principles upon which the union was founded."

The present British government recently resumed diplomatic relations with Russia and now is negotiating a new trade treaty. Meantime, while the Conservative Party at Birmingham was voting its approval of the government's caution in handling the India problem, the Labor Party passed a resolution protesting against the policy now being pursued and demanding the release of all political prisoners.

Montana has nine institutions of higher learning; one to every 60,000 of population.

SAVANT EXPLAINS MOVING MOUNTAIN

Nothing Volcanic About It, He Says—Coal Bed Is Burning Up.

Washington, Oct. 6. — (AP) — Carbon mountain, Colorado's seething rumbling, and rambling hill, is that way because it's just like a huge cookstove the housewife went off and forgot.

Such was the scientific explanation of John E. Reeside, geologist at the National Museum here, of this week's latest manifestation of the lone mountain that apparently wants to be a range.

It upheaved and threw down hundreds of tons of rock, taking its own top off sixty to one hundred feet, so the Colorado accounts said. "There's nothing volcanic about it," said Reeside, who knows Carbon mountain intimately. "Durango is a coal district, and near the base of Carbon mountain is a coal bed twenty feet thick.

"The mountain's heat, smoke, and smell, is due to the combustion of that coal in the ground. Coal fires can start naturally, by chemical action or by lightning striking, or they may start through the carelessness of miners.

Carelessness, Cause "It would be my guess that carelessness at some time started the coal beds of Carbon mountain burning. As long as this bed of coal burns to ash, everything above it has to come down.

"Everything above it has also been dried, cracked, and loosened by the heat. Above the Carbon mountain coal there happens to be soft rocks, clay, and shales.

"All this is in excellent condition to start moving if it is helped by torrential thundershowers late in the season.

"Sometimes such coal beds burn slowly for years, the air needed for combustion seeping in slowly through the cracks in the rocks.

"As long as that coal bed continues to burn, the mountain will move, as the rocks above are displaced during storms.

"And once it gets moving, it goes a long way. Given enough moisture to soften somewhat that baked and loosened material, it is likely to move like a stream."

Play Part as They Begin Their Traditional Initiations — Must Wear Odd Costumes.

Freshmen at Connecticut College had to play the part of clowns last night. The role was imposed upon them by the Sophomores in a circus in the gymnasium which began their traditional initiation. The initiation ceremonies will continue until Saturday noon.

During this time the Freshmen will wear their blue broadcloth gym outfit covered by a loose fitting burlap bag costume to the knees. One long black cotton gym stocking, one short white sock, and high heeled shoes will be worn.

The head dress will be a gym stocking tied with a pale blue ribbon, and the hair will be severely out of sight. False noses will complete the facial effect. Stuffed animals must be carried and offered on bended knee to each Sophomore whom they encounter.

Manchester girls who are Freshmen at Connecticut College are Mary Dolan of Plymouth Lane and Lucy Barrera of School street.

HOOKS AND SLIDES
by WILLIAM BRADUCH

Hard Luck!
A routine dispatch from Urbana, Ill., the other day read as follows: "University of Illinois freshmen gave the varsity stiff competition in a practice game. One of the casualties of the season was Douglas Monson, a junior from Chicago, who sustained a broken ankle in the scrimmage. Two bones in the ankle were fractured and it is believed Monson will be out all season."

But that isn't all the story. Here's a bit of background that ought to be added to the story:

He Wanted a Letter
Something like nine years ago a young fellow named Charles Douglas Monson, just turned 21, matriculated at the University of Illinois. Football was his passion. He wanted to wear a letter earned playing under Bob Zuppke. He went out for 28 freshmen team, played hard and earned the commendation of the coaches.

Then he was called home. Doug had to work to help support the family. One thing and another came up, this form of hard luck and that to prevent his returning to school to get that cherished letter.

But the desire persisted. Doug Monson often sat in the stands to watch his team play and hope for the day when he could be down there with the boys. After seven years the wish still burned undimmed. So he went back to school and announced he was ready to play.

Thirty years, old ready to play.
The Conqueror Spirit
Zuppke looked him over and studied his record. A guy who stuck to his youthful ambition after seven years must be ready to go places. Doug was. In the long, arduous practice sessions, his spirit helped to make the squad forget its weariness. This old man Monson had it!

Monson had the kind of spirit that never has failed to captivate Zuppke. So the coach put him in at guard against the frosh, with the command, "Show 'em how an old man can go, Doug!"

Old Man Monson went as hard as he could, a little too hard, perhaps, for after one of the fierce charges, there he was, spread out on the grass, racked by pain.

Zuppke swung out and bent over. Monson looked up.

"I couldn't help it, Zupp." That was his farewell to the gridiron.

State Grid Briefs

By Associated Press
New Haven—Head Coach Reggie Root put the finishing touches on his first Yale varsity eleven today as the men tapered off in their work for the opening game of the season tomorrow against Maine.

After braving the rain yesterday to run through a dummy scrimmage, the eleven men already named by Root to start the first game were to hold secret signal practice this afternoon, in the Bowl.

Middletown—Only a light workout was scheduled for Wesleyan today after a strenuous indoor scrimmage yesterday against the freshman team. The rain yesterday kept the squad from Andrus field, but the play in the alumni athletic cage took on all the appearances of a full-fledged game, with the freshmen showing rare resistance to the varsity.

The Cardinals play their last home game for a month tomorrow against Connecticut State College.

Series Slants

By ALAN GOULD
Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Now that Earl Whitehill has pitched the Senators back into the world series scramble with a shutout conquest of the Giants, the "inside story" may be told as to why the American League champions delayed sending one best flinging bet to the firing line until the third game.

Had a Sore Arm
"Whitehill, as most of you fellows figured, was selected by Manager Joe C. Quinn to oppose Carl Hubbell in the opening game of the series," revealed Clark Griffith, president of the Senators, "but he developed a sore arm for the first time in his life by bearing down too hard in a work out against the Yankees last week."

"We had counted on Whitehill to give Hubbell a great duel, possibly win and put the Giants in a hole at the very outset. It was the logical thing for us to do. But he worked just a bit too long and too hard against the Yanks, and we switched to Wally Stewart as the next best man likely to stop the Giants."

"As it turned out Stewart lacked just enough control to be at his best, x x x You saw what Whitehill did to Ott as well as Terry yesterday. He had them handcuffed. Together, he got only one ball out of the infield."

Solves Question
Griffith's disclosure solves one of the things that has been pulling the experts most since the series started: By what devious process did the Senators arrive at their plan of pitching strategy?

On the basis of today's evidence, it develops that the strategy was all right, but that the execution was spoiled by Whitehill's sudden development of a sore arm. Had Whitehill been able to produce on the opening day the kind of pitching he showed the Giants yesterday, the entire complexion of the series would have been changed. In all probability he would have beaten Hubbell, whose shaky defense let in two runs, and the Senators would have enjoyed the stimulating effect of being "on top" instead of being punched back on their heels so quickly they did not recover until they lost two straight.

Faith In Weaver
So what? So the Senators now have a shutout pitcher who probably won't be ready to pitch again unless the series goes the length of seven games. It is not an alibi now, for the Senators have strong faith in Weaver, as well as in the ability of Stewart and Crowder to come back and Whitehill to be ready for the finishing touches.

No SPECIAL SESSION
Washington, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Chairman Ashurst of the Senate judiciary committee told newspapermen today President Roosevelt "has too much sense" to call an extra session of Congress to regulate liquor imports and enact tax legislation in event of prohibition repeal.

"No contingency could arise in this connection which would necessitate a special session," the Arizona Democrat said.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, said yesterday upon arriving from Europe that it might be necessary to call Congress a month earlier to legislate on liquor taxes.

Circles close to the White House, however, have maintained there is very little likelihood of this.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Oct. 6.—Domestic wool consumption in August totaled 56,120,000 pounds, a record for that month, says the New York Wool Text Exchange Service. July consumption was 59,974,000 pounds, while the amount for August, 1932, was 50,215,000 pounds.

Pennsylvania railroad's net income for August is estimated at about $3,700,000 after taxes and interest on $28 cents a share on the capital stock. This would bring net for the year's first eight months to around $9,900,000, or 75 cents a share.

Wall street hears that Corn Products Refining Co. had third quarter net profit approximating the $1.05 a common share earned in the three months ended June 30.

FAIL IN ATTEMPT

WHO'S THE NEW COACH? BY JIMMY DONAHUE

Back in 1928 they were calling Howard Harpster "the guy who beat Notre Dame" . . . which was quite an honor, for few quarterbacks had led a team to win over the Irish . . . Today they're calling the same lad coach . . . he's only 26, and the youngest coach of a big time school in the country . . . Harpster takes over the field of Pittsburg at a time when football there is threatened with sinking out of major status . . . and he's in a tough spot, with a schedule that includes battles with such veteran coaches as Pop Warner, Jack Sutherland, Hunt Anderson and Noble Kizer . . . During Harpster's senior year at Carnegie, when he was leading that great 1928 field team, Chick Mehan, coach at N. Y. U. at the time, made the following remark about the kid: "When a team plays a team with that Harpster on it, it has to play against ten players and a coach."

Which explains why Tech decided to take a chance on the young fellow . . . whose brilliant playing and team handling earned him an All-American berth in 1928 . . . Comes from Akron, O. does Howdy . . . and he aspired to an architectural career before the football bug bit him so forcibly . . . His coaching career started at Shady-side Academy, Pittsburgh . . . and included a two-year term at Geneva College . . . where he won two Tri-State titles and missed a third by one game.

Major Gridiron Elevens To Battle On All Fronts

New York, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Football's major elevens deploy on all fronts tonight and tomorrow with "tune-up" games still the rule. The Friday schedule is topped by a pair of intersectional duels at Los Angeles and Stillwater, Okla. In the California city, the Utah Indians face U. C. L. A. At Stillwater, Oklahoma A. and M., of the Missouri Valley conference will play Colorado University, another Rocky other intersectional eleven. An mountain conference test will send George Washington University of Washington, D. C., against North Dakota at Grand Forks.

Other Leading Games.
Other leading games include the meeting of Bucknell and Duquesne at Pittsburg; Kansas State and St. Louis at St. Louis; Detroit and Western Michigan Teachers at Detroit and Butler vs. Drake at Des Moines.

Salient features of Saturday's program by sections follow:

East.
Temple's invasion of Pittsburg to face Carnegie Tech offers the best chance for hot competition with Pitt's panthers a standout over West Virginia in the only other contest between major elevens. The "Big Three" of Yale, Harvard and Princeton, open their campaigns against small college teams.

Midwest.
Notre Dame's initial start against Kansas; the intersectional combat between Nebraska and Texas, and a big ten conference battle involving Minnesota and Indiana headlines the midwest slate.

South.
Georgia and Tulane, Georgia Tech and Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi State, Alabama and Mississippi, Florida and Sewanee, are paired in southeastern conference games.

Far West.
Southern California and Washington State hold the Pacific coast conference spotlight all by themselves. But Stanford, California and Oregon State stack up against strong non-conference rivals in Santa Clara, St. Mary's

SENSE and NONSENSE

One of Life's Little Jokes.
The child of our neighbors has eaten from birth. Just the things that he wanted — from pickles to earth. Now our child has eaten the things which he should. Regardless of whether he thought them so good. Yet the child of our neighbors seldom is ill. And we're always paying on some doctor's bill.

As soon as a man gets wise enough that it's a pretty hard job to fool him, everybody refers to him as a regular old knocker.

Man—There's a decided uniformity in the contents of my mail this morning, Julia.
His Wife—How do you mean, dear?

Man—About all my letters begin with the same word—"Unless."

Overall plants report an increased demand for their products during the last three months. Well, if anything turns up we'll be dressed for it.

Fly Fisherman—Did you catch all those trout with nothing but worms?
Boy—Oh, no. There was brains at the other end of the line.

God created the world in six days, and the nature of the job is shown by the fact that it has taken men centuries to wreck it.

Sergeant—Say, Top, how would you like to lend a friend a five?
Top Sergeant—Buddy, I'd like it, but I haven't a friend in the world.

"POLICE NOTICE: Locate airplane flown by young woman of high wing monoplane type with green fuselage and orange nose."

The doctor ordered the old minister to take some hot whiskey daily.
Patient—But doctor, I'm afraid that my housekeeper would object and leave me.

Doctor—She need never know. Just tell her you want some hot water for shaving.

Some weeks later the doctor called to inquire about the old minister.
Housekeeper (quivering) He's gone mad, sir. The poor unfortunate gentleman is shaving himself morning, noon and night.

RESPECT OR APPRECIATION DOES NOT ALWAYS GO TO THE MAN WHO MOST DESERVES IT.

A GIRL USED TO TEACH SCHOOL BECAUSE SHE COULDN'T GET MARRIED. NOW SHE CAN'T GET MARRIED BECAUSE SHE WOULD LOSE HER JOB TEACHING SCHOOL.

SIMPLE TRUTHS—Never take a man's last dollar. He's liable to turn around and borrow five from you. Several men want jobs so they can get a vacation. Officials claim to be practicing economy. No man ever claims he's sober until he's drunk. Throwing his hat in the ring won't elect a man nowadays. He has to toss in his pocketbook too. Women don't mind dieting themselves but they hate a man around the house on a diet. An ambitious wife is many a man's self-starter. Some people think that wishey-washey is a Chinese laundryman. The gay young butterfly often gets her wings singed from a love match. Many matrimonial bonds are of short term variety. That all men are created equal is one thing everybody says and nobody believes. Only a skillful girl can chew gum so that nobody will notice it. We don't hear so much about the wolf at the door nowadays. Maybe the beast got in and starved to death. As wise men do not need it and foolish men will not take it, we keep our advice tightly corked. Mid pleasures and paucities though we roam, we still long to raid the ice box at home.

Young Author—The art of telling a story consists of knowing what to leave unsaid.

Married Rounder—It doesn't make any difference, my boy. My experience is that she finds out anyway.

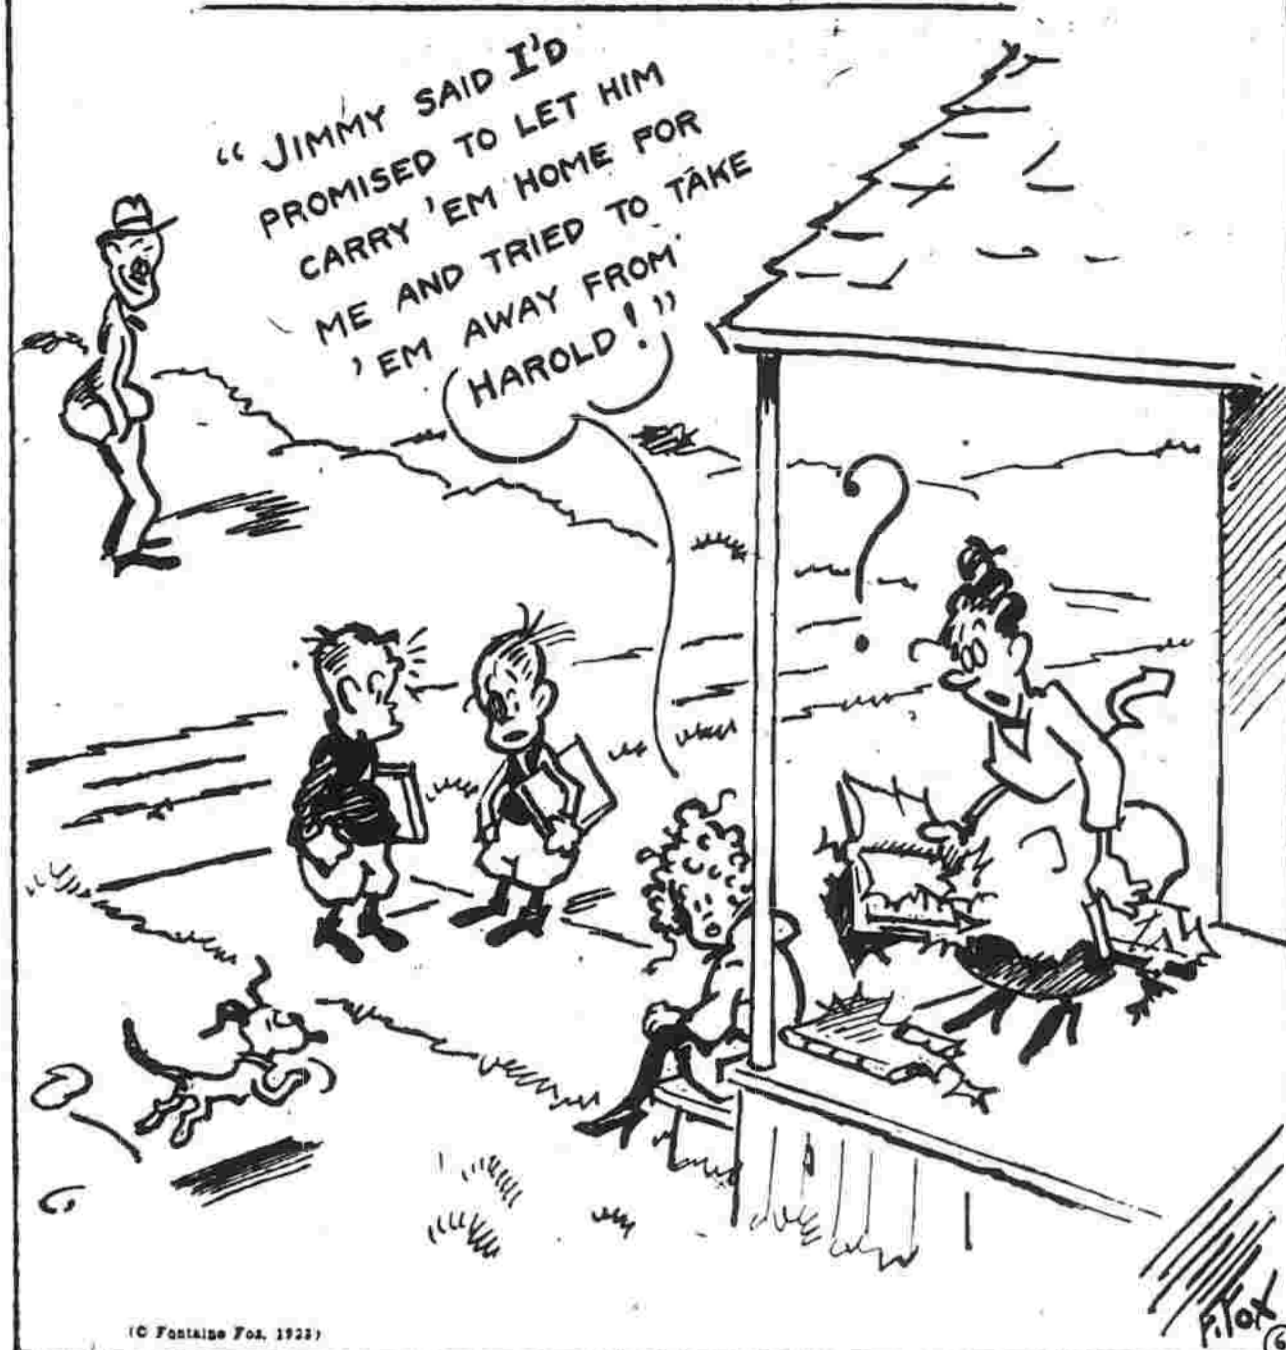

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

A girl with an iron constitution often has to prove her mettle.

NO NRA VIOLATORS BEFORE BOARD YET

Several Complaints Heard But All Are Misunderstandings; Procedure.

The Manchester NRA Compliance Board, of which Rev. Watson Woodruff is chairman, reports that since its institution it has not had to call before it any person accused of violation of the President's Re-employment Agreement, though several complaints have been lodged with the board of alleged infractions. The Board's policy has been to deal with such complaints through personal conferences with the firms or individuals against whom accusations are brought and it has been discovered that this method produces excellent results. In most of the cases it has developed that whatever failure to live up to the Blue Eagle agreement existed was due to a misunderstanding of the code under which the insignia is carried.

Methods Changed. The Board announced today the fact that the Blue Eagle Division of the National Recovery Administration has inaugurated a change in method of dealing with complaints against Blue Eagle signers. Hitherto it has been the practice for these complaints to be received and handled by correspondence from Washington with the accused delinquents. Now, however, all such complaints sent to the National Recovery Administration are to be returned to the local Compliance Boards. It will be useless, therefore, for complainants to address themselves to Washington. The proper procedure will be to address any complaints to the Compliance Board of one's own community, direct. The local Board has adopted the policy of paying no attention to anonymous communications and, as required by law, all communications informing the board of infractions or injustices practiced by Blue Eagle signatories must be made to the board in writing. The members of the board, who serve without compensation, are, besides the chairman, Charles Ray, Attorney W. F. Shea, James H. McVeigh, Dennis F. McGuire, Mrs. Emma L. Nettleton and Earl G. Seaman.
