NEW BRITAIN MAN A KIDNAP VICTIM

Dragged into Auto by Three Men and a Woman; Quartet Arrested Passing Through Northampton.

New Britain, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Warrants were issued here today charging three men and a woman, under arrest at Northampton, Mass., with kidnaping Charles Okulicz, 40, of 8 Warren street, this city, last night.

The prisoners are Constable W. Leroy Bixby, Tony Frokulewicz, his wife, Mary and John Janowski, all of Cavendish, Vt.

The quartet visited Okulicz's home yesterday and as they were about to leave, Okulicz went out to their automobile to bid them farewell. They are alleged to have attacked him and dragged him into their car which was driven away.

Police Notified

Mrs. Okulicz notified the police, who spread the alarm over the automatic typewriter system and the quartet was arrested at about 2 a. m. today in Northampton.

When a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. Okulicz, 14 years ago, he received a $1,000 Liberty bond from his godfather, Stanley Shumsky, of Springfield, Vermont. Since then Shumsky has married and relatives are reported to have pressed him to receive possession of the bond. Shumsky brought suit against Okulicz in the local City Court, but the case was thrown out because of the statute of limitations. Criminal action was brought against Okulicz in Springfield, Vt. He went to that city and posted a bond for his appearance. Returning home he was advised by his lawyer to forfeit the bond and remain away from Vermont. It is said.

Victim With Them

The three men and woman arrested in Northampton are believed by the police to have been interested in the return of Okulicz to the jurisdiction of the Vermont courts. Okulicz is said to have been with them when they were arrested in Northampton.

Mrs. Okulicz was taken by surprise when she saw her husband dragged into the automobile. The quartet came to the Okulicz home apparently for the purpose of paying a social visit, she said, and she was not aware of their alleged intention to kidnap her husband.

WIFE'S ST. TEMENT

Mrs. Okulicz told the police that when her husband went out to the visitor's automobile, she heard one of the quartet say "Give us the money." Immediately they set upon him; she said, and that they were hurrying him into the car and hurrying away.

Police Sergeant Patrick A. McAvoy will go to Northampton today to bring Okulicz back to this city. The police have been advised that the quartet will fight extradition to this state. Okulicz has only one arm. He is a night watchman in a local factory.

START BIG ATTACK ON MCKEE'S RECORD

LaGuardia and Solomon, Socialist, Assail Record of Independent Candidate.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Fiorello LaGuardia pulled some burning adjectives from the oratorical forge today to toss in the direction of Joseph V. McKee.

LaGuardia, carrying the Fusion group hopes in as roaring a mayoral campaign as New York has seen in years, announced he would not mince words tonight when he replies in detail to the opening campaign shafts of McKee, independent candidate for mayor. McKee dubbed LaGuardia a "demagogue" and as "spiteful Congressman who had 'thwarted every concerted action that might have aided our Nation's recovery.'"

"The McKee speech," said LaGuardia to an audience that packed a high school auditorium in the Bronx last night, "was the most brazen compilation of political hypocrisy ever delivered in a political campaign. I shall answer that speech paragraph by paragraph. Incidentally, McKee will hear something about his own record. There is one thing that (Postmaster General) Farley and (Secretary of State) Flynn, cannot do for their boy, Joe. They cannot destroy public records."

Another of the four mayoral candidates, Charles Solomon, Socialist, also chose McKee as his target in last night's speechmaking. McKee's promise of unemployment relief, education and transit unification, Solomon said, "are not to be trusted."

McKee's record on relief as president of the National Unemployment Relief Association, Solomon said, "is a record of failure."

THINK TIME BOMB WRECKED AIRPLANE

Find Bottle in Wreckage Which Might Have Held Explosive.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Stains which investigators believe might have been caused by a time bomb were found on the wreckage of an air transport liner that crashed Tuesday night, killing seven persons near Chesterton, Ind.

Investigators for the Department of Commerce brought fragments of the wreckage to a Chicago laboratory for examination.

The fragments, including small pieces of the metal fuselage and the wreckage of a bottle, here stains which investigators believed were caused by gun powder or nitroglycerine.

A Federal official said holes torn in the fuselage and wreckage in the baggage compartment of the huge air liner also indicated a terrific explosion had sent the plane crashing to earth as it sped from Cleveland to Chicago with a cargo of passengers and air mail.

Evidence of Explosion

"There is considerable evidence of an explosion," said the Federal official who reported finding of the stained fragments.

"If it was an explosion, then a time bomb secreted in the plane for purposes of murder and sabotage appears to be the only answer."

He said the investigation had shown there was no explosion of the gasoline tanks in the air. He said there was no evidence indicating some passenger had exploded as a bizarre means toward suicide.

The bomb theory has been subscribed to in part by Coroner Carl Davis of Porter county, Indiana, an other investigator of the crash. Farmers in the vicinity reported hearing a loud explosion before the plane spun to earth from an altitude of about 1,000 feet. Although Dr. Davis said he was not convinced of any explanation, he acknowledged that the bomb theory was being investigated.

EXILE UNIVERSITY ORGANIZED TONIGHT

Intellectuals Ousted by Hitler to Teach in New York Hereafter.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—For Adolf Hitler's American learning-through his ousting of many of Germany's intellectuals from their professional chairs—New York educational circles will express appreciation tonight.

The occasion will be the formal inauguration of "The University in Exile," the graduate faculty of political and social science of the new school for social research.

On the faculty are 10 professors whose achievements in Germany won them international recognition. Among them are several Hitler deemed hostile to the Nazi state. Some were removed outright from their posts some given indefinite leaves of absence and others went into self-imposed exile.

The faculty list includes: Karl Brandt, agricultural economist at the University of Kiel; Arthur Faller, professor of economics, formerly at Handel Hochschule, Konigsberg.

Hermann Kantorowicz, professor of jurisprudence, University of Kiel.

Emil Lederer, economist, University of Berlin.

Hans Spier, associate professor of sociology at Deutsche Hochschule fur Politik, Berlin.

Inaccessible Prison Island For Racketeers of Nation

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—An inaccessible prison island for dangerous incorrigible Federal convicts is soon to become a reality and the enactment of a law compelling life imprisonment for those who make a business of crime is under consideration by the administration. Both moves are in connection with the Justice Department's relentless war to free citizens from the fear of kidnaping and business

NRA QUARTERS SCENE OF RIOT IN MANHATTAN

Mounted Police Used to Keep 3,500 Radicals from Storming Hotel — Over 50 Arrests Are Made.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Mounted police rode their horses through crowds of rioters today at NRA headquarters at the Hotel Pennsylvania in midtown New York. Police said radicals numbering 3,500 were responsible for the disorders. More than fifty arrests were made. Groups of demonstrators, bearing placards and banners, were pushed back to sidewalks and police attempted to chase them out of the neighborhood.

More than 2,000 strikers in the cleaning, dyeing and tailoring industry assembled at the hotel at 10:30 a. m.

NRA officials charged the demonstration was inspired by a Communist faction which refused to be taken into Right Wing unions following NRA mediation in a threatened strike of 25,000 workers in neighborhood shops.

Terms of Settlement

Under the terms of the mediation Right Wing unions were to be recognized and cut prices in the industry were to be abolished by the demonstrators carried by the demonstrators proclaimed a right to select their own labor organizations.

The original 2,000 gathering at the hotel were shortly augmented by 1,000 more from the Left Wing of the boot and shoe workers, also on strike. As noon the demonstrators were swelled by the addition of 500 men's custom tailors.

Many Spectators

Many hundred bystanders watched the melee from safe vantage points beneath the pillars of the Pennsylvania railroad terminal. The cleaning and dyeing group attempted to rush into the lobby of the hotel, but were prevented by patrolmen on guard. They then marched around and around the block, displaying their banners and making several unsuccessful sorties toward the entrances.

A delegation of twelve was finally permitted to enter to confer with Thomas J. Donovan, acting head of the NRA Interpretations Bureau, and Ivar Axelsen, executive secretary of the mediation committee.

While they conferred, the parade on the street jeered at arriving policemen, and unseated one of the mounted contingent.

When it appeared that trouble was brewing, Charles C. Green, executive vice-chairman of the local NRA administration, telephoned Chief Inspector John O'Brien asking

YOUNG MAN KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Two Other Young Men and Two Girls Injured in Bridgeport Crash.

Bridgeport, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Thomas McDonald, 21, son of Pauline McDonald, died at Bridgeport hospital early today, a victim of an early morning crash in Fairfield, in which two other young men and two girls were injured.

McDonald, passenger in the rumble seat of a sport roadster operated by Raymond Shields, 28, of this city, was thrown out of the vehicle when it skidded on the wet pavement, careened across the road and overturned after crashing into a boulder on the side of the road.

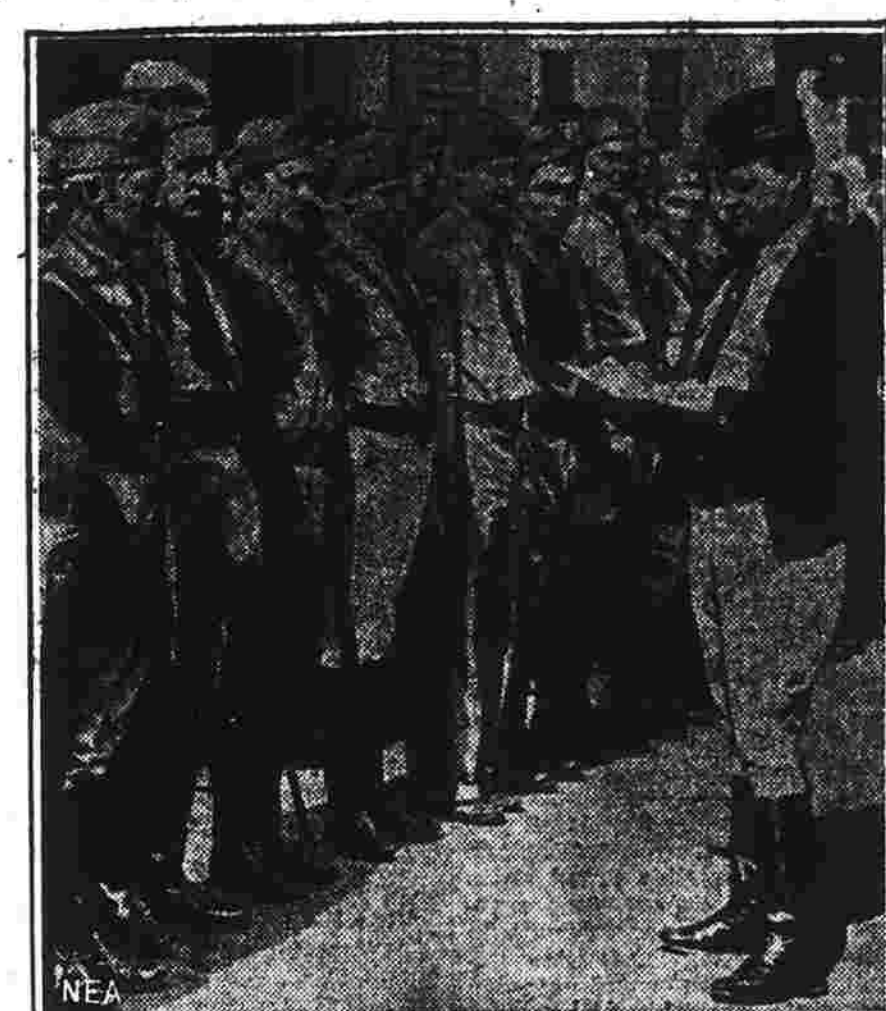

Others injured in the crash were: Margaret Lyons, 18, scalp injuries and body bruises; Shields, the driver, lacerations of the left hand and possible internal injuries; Helen Gallahue, 22, body bruises and lacerations of the hands and face.

Clifford Kreuter, bruised about the body.

Min Lyons and Shields are in Bridgeport hospital, while the other two were taken to their homes. All of them belong in Bridgeport.

Their Dictatorship Plans Frustrated

It was all in vain that members of the Khaki Shirts lined up at Philadelphia as shown here, to hear their "Commander," Art J. Smith (right) give them orders to march to Washington and set up the President as "dictator of the United States." For, shortly after this picture was made, police raided Khaki Shirt headquarters, seized guns and ammunition, and arrested 21. The raid was made after authorities learned of an alleged plot to steal weapons from the Third Regiment Armory.

ITALY SUGGESTS DUCE AS MEDIATOR IN ARMS

Chief German Delegate Quits Parley at Geneva Resentful of Plan to Keep Reich Unarmed.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A German spokesman today said that any attempt to haul up Germany and ask her to sign on the dotted line on a disarmament decision imposed by others will be followed by the withdrawal of the Germans from the conference and perhaps from the League of Nations.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The Italian delegates today unofficially suggested Premier Mussolini as a mediator in the tangled arms problems as Dr. Rudolf Nadelin, the chief German delegate, left for Berlin, apparently resentful of a plan to introduce a disarmament resolution which in effect would bar the Reich from any defensive armaments.

Dr. Nadelin will confer in Berlin with his chief, Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The German circles here said they expected President von Hindenburg, as commander-in-chief of the Reichswehr (the German standing army), to share with the chancellor the responsibility of deciding Germany's arms position.

FORD CO. LOSES CONTRACT SUIT; $100,000 DAMAGE

Detroit Manufacturer Sued Philadelphia Firm Which Started a Counter Action for $168,000.

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A verdict of $100,000 against Henry Ford was awarded today by a jury in the suits involving the Detroit manufacturer and the Sweeten Automobile Company of this city.

JUDGES CHARGE

Philadelphia, Oct. 13.—(AP)—After a half hour charge by Judge Harry S. McDevitt, the suits involving Henry Ford, the old Lincoln Motor Company and the Sweeten Automobile Company, of this city, went to the jury today in Common Pleas Court.

Ford is suing the Sweeten company, which is in receivership, for $8,800 admittedly due on promissory notes.

The Sweeten concern filed a counter action against Ford for $168,000 which it contended it lost by reason of Ford purchasing the Lincoln company.

This claim was reduced yesterday to $180,100. The Sweeten company is the distributor of Lincoln cars for the Philadelphia territory.

Judge McDevitt told the jury that if the Sweeten company "actually suffered a loss through a breach of contract on the part of the Lincoln company and if the Fords in purchasing the Lincoln company for $8,800,000 assumed the legal obligations of the Lincoln company, either orally or in writing, then the Fords must pay."

Judge McDevitt discussed the testimony of Wilfrid C. Leland, Sr., former executive of the old Lincoln company, who had described negotiations of himself and his father, Henry M. Leland, with Ford and his son, Edsel.

The court said the fact that the Lelands had brought a suit against the Fords in Detroit has no weight in the case except as "to its bearing on the credibility of the witness."

"You cannot jump to the conclusion that a man is testifying in malice and revenge simply because he previously had a law suit against the person he is now testifying against."

Judge McDevitt said the Ford interests had a right when they purchased the Lincoln company to assume orally the debts of the concern.

STATE MILK BOARD SCORED BY ALCORN

Calls It a "Vicious Piece of Legislation" at Superior Court Hearing.

Hartford, Oct. 13.—(AP)—"The milk control board act is an unconstitutional piece of legislation, and a vicious piece of legislation," said Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn in the Superior Court today where he argued for the retention in court of the appeals of Kent E. Stoddard, of Newington, from the Board of Milk Control's revocation of Mr. Stoddard's license to sell milk.

Revocation of the license was because Mr. Stoddard, a large dairyman, was alleged to have sold his milk under the price established by the board. He took an appeal to the Superior Court from the order of revocation which was made on September 15, giving him until to dispose of his business. The attorney general of the state, representing the Milk Control Board, pleaded in abatement of the appeal and claimed the court did not have jurisdiction because of the form of the appeal.

Assistant Attorney General H. Roger Jones and Attorney Alcorn argued the matter today before Judge Ernest C. Simpson, who took the question under consideration.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—The position of the Treasury October 11 was: Receipts $72,890,330.90; expenditures, $72,325,602.43; balance $1,168,280,545.44; customs receipts for the month, $11,958,017.27.

Receipts for fiscal year to date (since July 1) $831,999,037.64; expenditures, $1,065,978,054.15; including $315,682,124.98 emergency expenditures; excess of expenditures $233,979,016.51.

DOCTOR SENT TO JAIL

Putnam, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Dr. Samuel J. Turcotte of Williamstown, a practicing physician, was ordered committed to jail by Judge Patrick B. O'Sullivan today unless he shall have purged himself of contempt of court through failure to pay $725 in alimony to Ann E. Turcotte who divorced him in September 1929.

The physician made effort to borrow money to avoid commitment. The charge of contempt was based on the failure of Dr. Turcotte to pay the alimony.

ITALY'S BLUEBEARD PAYS FOR CRIMES

Is Executed for the Murder of Three Women — Cut Bodies Into Bits.

Spezia, Italy, Oct. 13.—(AP)—A volley of bullets in the back at dawn today ended the career of Cesare Serviatti's gruesome career as Italy's modern "Bluebeard."

Serviatti was tied to a chair and shot in the spine by a squad of carabinieri.

He was convicted and sentenced in the Court of Assizes on 11 counts July 7, all connected with the mysterious disappearance and subsequent confirmation of three young women who had given him their affections and lives savings.

One was Beatrice Margarucci, formerly of Long Beach, N. J. He made matrimonial advances to her shortly after she arrived in Italy.

After obtaining her savings he murdered her Oct. 30, 1930. Her body was cut in pieces and thrown into the Tiber at Rome.

Another woman, Pasqua Bartolini, was killed and disposed of in the same way. The debacle in Serviatti's bloody amorous affairs came when he devoted the three-year system of disposing of them. Italy was aroused last November with the finding in railway stations of suitcases containing portions of a woman's body.

The contents of the suitcases were identified as portions of the bodies of Paulina Gorietti, "Bluebeard" was arrested and confessed. Prosecutors drew from him full confessions regarding all three.

TELLS OF PROFITS BY SALE OF BONDS

Member of Dillon, Read Co. Sold Shares for $53 — Bought for Less Than $1.

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Testimony that James V. Forrestal, a member of Dillon, Read & Company, sold 16,788 shares of stock for $53 a share which he had acquired for less than a dollar each, was given today to the Senate banking committee.

Revealing how he had formed a private company for tax purposes which was controlled by himself and Mrs. Forrestal, he said he had obtained 37,000 shares of U. S. and Foreign Stock, a Dillon, Read & Company investment trust.

He testified he bought 7,500 at 20 cents a share, 17,000 at 75 cents and the remainder at $10, a total of $139,250—one-seventh of what he obtained for the 16,788 shares.

The witness said he had filed an income tax return for the Beekman Corporation, Ltd., of Canada, which he controlled, as a result of testimony before the Senate banking committee.

His return was filed on June 16, 1933, he testified, adding no return had been made until then for 1929, 1930 or 1931. A tax of $6,000 was paid, he said.

Blood by Hunters.

The blood from each mouth had spread to cheeks and run down the necks.

On the car floor were newspapers. Four men—Joe Sabanski, Lovern Baird, Fred and Philip Zanavari, who were out hunting crows found the car.

Police officers were sent to the place and Medical Examiner Fliesch also responded quickly and made an examination of the bodies.

for police assistance. Up to that time the demonstrators confined themselves to shouting "We want bread." Some 40 of them were herded into the subway entrance adjoining the hotel. As other delegations arrived a detective turned in a riot call. Four emergency squads and twelve police patrol cars responded. These, with a dozen mounted men, brought the police strength to 150.

Few women were among the demonstrators. Police started to drive the crowds into side streets and clubs were brought into action.

Meanwhile, the delegation of 12 elected to visit Donovan selected as their spokesmen Simon Kalos, president of the Cleaners, Dyers and Pressers Union of Greater New York; Louis Davidson, business agent for the union, and William Davey. Davidson and Davey said they represented the inside workers.

The three denied they were a party to the agreement entered into when a shutdown was averted in the cleaning and dyeing industry August 31. They claimed that of the 25,000 in the industry only a few hundred were affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, while the great majority were loyal to the industrial, or Left Wing Union. They insisted their union be recognized by NRA officials for purposes of collective bargaining and were told that the NRA was willing to treat with any delegation that had been selected by the workers for purposes of bringing about peace and stability in the industry.

Neither the boot and shoe workers nor the men's custom tailors sent delegations upstairs.

The delegation that visited Donovan said the workers wanted a 50-hour week with a wage scale beginning at 42 cents an hour for unskilled help.

Few women were among the demonstrators. Police started to drive the crowds into side streets and clubs were brought into action.

ITALY SUGGESTS DUCE AS MEDIATOR ON ARMS

Nadoly, France, the United States and Great Britain quickly decided to change their tactics and allow Sir John Simon, the British foreign secretary, to make a report on the situation when the full conference resumes next Monday.

The chief German delegate was reported to have told German newspaper men that the other powers were trying to impose their will on the Reich. He also was said to have mentioned the usefulness of continuing the conversations here.

It was understood Norman H. Davis, the American ambassador-at-large, had taken a prominent part in the decision to drop the resolution idea. The Americans were described as remaining open-minded on the problem of the length of the first period of disarmament, now termed a stage of experience, in order to avoid offending the German view.

Mr. Davis was sticking to his policy not to impose a convention on Germany. The American, however, still took a stand with the British and the French on the principle there shall be no rearmament of Germany in the first period being armed beyond the arrangements of the Treaty of Versailles.

It was stated Premier Mussolini, for reasons of prestige, would like to see the disarmament conversations transferred to Rome, but he said he would not insist upon this move if progress really can be achieved at Geneva.

The Mussolini doctrine was described as not conversations under a four-power European peace pact, but negotiations within the spirit of the pact, with Mr. Davis participating.

Baron Alois Pompeo, II Duce's disarmament delegate, still was absent from Geneva. This filled the other delegations with doubt as to how far Premier Mussolini would back the three-power stand that there shall be no rearmament of Germany.

It was announced Sir John will report on the situation at tomorrow's meeting of the steering committee along the lines supposedly included in the resolution. The British will speak in behalf of the French and the Americans, who have been given a draft of his report.

Dr. Nadoly told the other leaders in the arms discussions that a substitute would take his place at the steering committee meeting.

PATROLMAN FITZGERALD IN BIRD CATCHING ACT

Baby Canary Falls from Perch and Hits Copper as He's Walking Past.

Michael Fitzgerald is a patrolman and not a bird-catcher, but he did the latter role today. Shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, while in front of the Tinker building when a bird fell from above, struck against him and dropped to the walk. He picked it up, recognized it as a canary and was looking around for a nest that it might have fallen from. There was no nest along the side of the building, but in looking up he attracted the attention of others and he was soon informed that a man who had a room on the third floor raised birds and that the canary might have come from there. Investigation proved this to be the case.

The canary, too young to fly, had perched itself on the window-sill and then hopped out. It did not know how to use its wings properly, but spread them just enough to reach the ground without injury. Policeman Fitzgerald is pleased that some of the larger animals don't try to learn to fly.

SIMPLE SIMON SHOP MENU TOMORROW

Hostesses at the Simple Simon Sandwich Shop, the former Oakland schoolhouse, advertise elsewhere this week a special supper for tomorrow afternoon and evening, in addition to the regular Sunday dinner, served at noon or early evening to suit the convenience of patrons.

The shop has been operated daily since just before Memorial day and has become popular not only with tourists and regular travelers on the Boston, Worcester and New York highway, but with many local people and organizations.

A special chicken pie dinner was served for 18 of the members of the Windham Girls club the past week, and several other group affairs are in prospect.

DISBARMENT ACTION AGAINST 3 LAWYERS

Grievance Committee of New Haven County Bar Starts Proceedings.
New Haven, Oct. 18 (AP)—Disbarment proceedings against three New Haven attorneys were filed in Superior Court today by the grievance committee of the New Haven County Bar.

Those against whom the grievances are asserted are complained in Col. Ernest C. Isbell, Herman Horowitz and E. S. Snyder. The complaint against Col. Isbell was based on his handling of an account for the Miller Lime Products Corporation of New Haven.

The complaint against Mr. Snyder was based on his handling of an account for the Miller Lime Products Corporation of New Haven. The complaint against Mr. Snyder was based on his handling of an account for the Miller Lime Products Corporation of New Haven.

DAVIS ACQUITTED AT LOTTERY TRIAL

other, propelled him to the jury box. Tears still streaming from his eyes, he grasped the hand of each of them.

"Thanks! Thanks!" he choked. Miller lay his head on the shoulder of George J. Mintzer, his attorney. He too, shot the hands of the jurors and muttered sobbing appreciation.

Writes Statement
Davis broke away from his well-wishers to write a statement. He completed it hastily and mounted the platform on which sits the clerk of the court.

"I thanked my God when I heard the verdict," he read. His voice broke. "I knew I was innocent."

Margiotti made a passionate plea for his client on Wednesday. He called him a "great humanitarian" and told the jury not to convict him without first picturing the news of the verdict reaching Mrs. Davis, reaching Davis' children, his old, blind father, reaching the children of Mooseheart, "who adore him as a father."

Against this appeal to the emotions was the cool, dispassionate discussion of the evidence by Louis Mead Treadwell, 28 year old prosecutor, who sent his case to the jury with no plea for conviction, but merely the words:
"It is only my duty to lay the facts before you."

ABOUT TOWN

Group 3 of the Memorial Hospital auxiliary, Mrs. D. M. Caldwell, leader, will meet on Monday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A.

A large number of Masons will be in attendance at the special communication of Manchester lodge when Grand Master Samuel A. Moyle of New Haven, officially visits 11 lodges east of the Connecticut river. Many guests will be present and a special program has been prepared.

G. Huntington Byles who has been studying music in Paris and playing the organ at the American church there, has returned to this country and will resume his duties Sunday at the South Methodist church as acting organist, or until Organist Archibald Sessions returns from abroad.

Local circles of Junior King's Daughters will be represented at the state convention of Juniors, to be held at Groton, Saturday, October 21.

The name of Miss May Weir was omitted from the list of officers of Anderson-Shea Post, V. F. W. Auxiliary in yesterday's Herald. Miss Weir was elected Chaplain for the ensuing year.

A good attendance of members of D'Worth-Cornell Post, No. 102, American Legion is requested by the post officers in the East Hartford sesqui-centennial parade tomorrow afternoon. Big parades will be furnished members who report at the Army and Navy club not later than 1:30 p. m.

A tempting display of apples grown by T. D. Trotter, of Summit street, is being shown in the window of the Manchester Plumbing & Supply company. The apples include the Northern Spy, McIntosh, Baldwin, Winter Banana and Stark's Delicious varieties and they certainly are beauties.

Friday, the 13th, is not a hoodoo day for the local post office, as thirteen applications for the job of mail messenger have been filed with Postmaster Frank E. Crocker. Bids will be closed tomorrow at noon.

Many Manchester residents are planning to attend the sesqui-centennial celebrations in East Hartford and Longmeadow, Mass. today and tomorrow. Big parades will be staged in both communities tomorrow.

Trading in the stores here was about normal yesterday and proved that it pays to keep open on Columbus Day. It was reported today, Business was just as good, if not better than on other days.

Women of the South Methodist church whose names begin with B and C will provide the "second monthly parish supper" at the South Methodist church, Wednesday evening, October 18, Miss Hazel Driggs, reader and her brother Collins Driggs, pianist, will be the entertainers. Rev. Leonard A. Harris will give an illustrated talk. Mrs. Albert Holman and Mrs. Rossa Brookings will be co-chairmen of the supper which will feature roast lamb.

Mrs. Frank Handley of Delmont street was elected treasurer of the Educational club at its meeting held yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Handley succeeds Mrs. James A. Irvine who has left town. It was announced that a sufficient sum of money is available for furnishing milk and lunches for under-nourished children in the various schools of the town. Under the supervision of Miss Hannah Jensen, domestic science teacher, jelly has been made by her pupils to use in making sandwiches. The finance committee has several ideas for money-raising, in addition to a play to be given in the near future and a lecture in the spring.

Mrs. LeVerne Holmes, Mrs. E. A. Lydall, Miss Ida Holbrook and Miss Harriet A. Townsend, a group of Main street neighbors, are expected home this evening after a tour of the White Mountains.

A meeting is called for 7 o'clock tonight at the Emanuel Lutheran church of the committee who had charge of arrangements for the convention of the district Order of Vasa, held here in September. Financial reports will be given and it is hoped every member of the committee will be present.

Rev. E. R. Danielson who recently returned from the African mission field, will speak at the regular meeting of the Brotherhood at Emanuel Lutheran church tonight at 8 o'clock. Rev. Danielson, whose home is in Meriden went to Africa immediately upon his ordination in June of 1928. Inasmuch as this is one of the youngest and most successful missions under the jurisdiction of the Augustana Synod, Missionary Davis will undoubtedly have much of interest to impart. Women as well as men are urged to attend this meeting.

Mrs. J. A. Johnson of 71 Ridge street will leave tomorrow for Chicago, to visit her daughter, Mrs. Norman S. Bayne, and to attend the Century of Progress Exposition.

The annual rally of the Council of Congregational Women, Hartford District, will be held all day Wednesday of next week at Immanuel Congregational church, Hartford.

Rev. and Mrs. E. P. Allen, of Auburn, Mass., are visiting the family of their son, Rev. F. C. Allen, of Main street.

Douglas Anderson, small son of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Anderson, of Hamlock street, returned today from St. Francis hospital where he underwent a tonsil operation.

The Women's Service League of the Second Congregational church will hold its regular meeting Tuesday instead of Wednesday afternoon of next week. After a brief business session they will set and decorate the tables for the Harvest supper Tuesday at 6:30. This will be the first social and financial activity and the church people and friends are urged to reserve the date.

Patrick Moriarty, third trick man on the Main street railroad crossing gates, is back at his boarding place on North Main street after a long term at the Manchester Memorial hospital. He has been missed during his absence around the railroad station and on Depot Square where he has been employed for a number of years at different kinds of work for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company.

Frieda Wunderlich, professor of economics and sociology at the Berlin training school.

The distinguished group of exiles began classes at the Social Research Institution more than a week ago.

Dr. Alvin Johnson, director of the new school, William A. Neilson, president of Smith College, and Edwin R. A. Seligman, professor emeritus of political science at Columbia University, will welcome the faculty.

Professor Lederer will respond in behalf of his compatriots.

IDENTIFY MYSTERY MAN BY HIS FINGERPRINTS
Bridgeport, Oct. 18 (AP)—The mysterious, bullet-scarred man who had said he was "Edward Foley of Omaha, Neb." after he was taken to Bridgeport hospital in a critical condition from tetanus early yesterday, was identified today in a message from the Department of Justice fingerprint clearing house at Washington, as Harry Kiasowitz, of 424 Livonia avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Twice, according to the message from Washington to Captain John Regan, commanding the detective division, Kiasowitz was arrested for burglary in New York.

Hospital surgeons here said the man, whose tetanus condition developed from a barbed wire cut, had a possible chance of recovery.

CROWDED OFF ROAD PLUNGES INTO SWAMP

Ernest E. Champagne of Raymond street, Rockville, went over an embankment, knocking down four rails of fence and landed in the swamp on Hilliard street late yesterday afternoon. Although escaping uninjured himself considerable damage was done to his coupe.

Mr. Champagne was on his way home from Hartford and intended to make a call or two on Main street before going to Rockville, so decided to take the road that diverts from the new Love Lane-Buckland road and turn into Hilliard street. He had come around the corner when another automobile going west crowded him so that he pulled over to the left to avoid being struck and before he could get his wheel straightened out he had gone down the embankment, crashed through the poles and landed nose down into the swamp. The wrecker from the Depot Square garage was called and pulled the car out. The left front part of the car was damaged. It could not proceed on its own power so it was taken to the garage.

dent of the Board of Aldermen and later (for a brief span), as mayor, Solomon stated in his keynote address, was "actually hostile." The McKee record on education, in Solomon's opinion is "positively bad."

McKee, who resigned a trust company presidency to enter the contest for mayor as head of the Recovery Party did not talking yesterday and had none on the program today.

O'Brien Dodges Politics
Mayor John P. O'Brien devoted most of his speech-making yesterday to Christopher Columbus in observance of Columbus Day.

Tammany Hall, harassed first by a determined Fusion assault and now blistered by the oratory of Mc-

Kee, remained tight-lipped. John F. Curry, Tammany chief, kept quiet as to what plans may be brewing. The McKee group addressed its portance to the announcement of Samuel S. Liebowitz, criminal lawyer, that he would campaign for McKee "in Harlem or anywhere else." It was Liebowitz who headed the counsel for the defense at the Scottboro trial of several negroes.

Mayor O'Brien will make two campaign appearances tonight. LeGuardia's program called for luncheon, dinner and after dinner addresses.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

"Housecleaning Time" is here again and as usual the vacuum cleaner plays the leading part. If your vacuum cleaner is not in the best running order, Dial 4080, the Norton Electrical Instrument Company and they will repair and clean it to your satisfaction.

The breakfast menu in many families remains almost unvaried from day to day. The fruit, toast and coffee meal that can be quickly prepared and quickly eaten is apparently satisfactory and the busy housewife is inclined to follow the line of least resistance. During cold weather every one needs heartier food and if breakfast were more interesting a more adequate meal might be eaten and the day started with greater vigor. Hearty breakfasts and light lunches balance the day's menu better than the breakfastless or very light breakfast regime.

The men don't want to be left out when it comes to Norton's shoes and who can blame them? Due to popular demand the Norton shoe is now carrying men's shoes at the regular Norton price—$3.00.

Brooches are better than necklaces this fall. That's natural because the new high-in-front necklaces crowd necklaces out. Drag out your family brooches. If you haven't any, hunt for just the right type of huge one that gives your evening or daytime dress "tone". And live up to it!

If you have an old dress that you'd like to have made over along the newest and most individual lines take it to Sylvia's Specialty Shop, 142 Bissell-street.

Add salt to root and tuber vegetables when they are about half cooked. Remember, too, that these vegetables require more salt than the delicate summer varieties.

Think of fresh strawberries, raspberries, asparagus, peas, fresh fish and even fresh corn on the cob and think of having them now. You can get them all at Pinehurst—Dial 4151.

When the World War enforced a combination of economy and food conservation, the U. S. Food Administration advocated the division of the food allowance into fifths and this simple, workable basis for the division of foods was worked out: "One-fifth, more or less, for fruits and vegetables." "One-fifth, or more, for milk and eggs." "One-fifth, or less, for meats, fish and cereals." "One-fifth, or less, for fats, sugar and other groceries and food adjuncts." "If you will try this arrangement for a week or two you will find that you are serving well-balanced meals which furnish protein, fat, carbohydrates, mineral constituents and vitamins."

FRANCE BACKS DANUBIAN UNION TO AID AUSTRIA

Paris—(AP)—Fear of German expansion, diplomatic circles believe, is driving France and Italy toward a common program of economic relief for Central Europe.

These two nations, after being unable for years to agree on any plan for setting the Danubian countries back on their feet, are reported as talking seriously, under pressure of a threatening Nazi Germany, of a five-power Danubian customs union.

Economic strengthening of Austria is sought so that she can ward off Nazi plans for Federation with Germany and maintain the independence decreed her by the Versailles treaty.

New Markets Wanted

Almost the entire continent is opposed to Austro-German union and efforts are being redoubled to wean away German sympathizers in Austria by opening up new markets for her products in Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia, where she already sells about 30 per cent of her exports. Germany, however, is Austria's largest single client.

Austria, Hungary and Yugoslavia on their own initiative recently made agreements among themselves for freer exchange of wood and wheat. Wood is one of Austria's principal exports and the French are preparing lenient customs duties on Austrian timber.

Mussolini, on his part, is reported to have offered Chancellor Dollfus, who is fighting to keep Austria free from political entanglements, use of the Italian port of Trieste, which belonged to the pre-war Hapsburg empire.

Politics Stand in Way

Barriers in the way of a five-power tariff convention are chiefly political. Mussolini, who sees the power of France behind the Little Entente, does not want the countries composing the entente—Czechoslovakia, Rumania and Yugoslavia—to dominate such a union.

Also, fears are expressed by Italian, French and British exporters that Czechoslovakian manufacturers would, at their expense, be the

TRY TO TAKE HORSE, THREATENED BY KNIFE

Joe Brule of West Stafford Arrested by State Policemen After Assault.

Rockville, Oct. 13.—Joe Brule, age 46, of West Stafford, who was involved in the "human skull mystery" which was solved only a few days ago by Sergeant Harrison J. Hulbert of the Connecticut State Police Barracks at Stafford Springs, is now held under bonds of $1,000 as the result of a criminal assault on Columbus Day. Brule was arrested on a technical charge of breach of peace about 11 o'clock yesterday morning at his home in West Stafford by State Policemen Harold Shaw of Hartford and Thomas Abbotts of Stafford Springs.

The investigation developed that there was an assault committed on Mrs. Leona Morris and her fifteen year old son, Thomas Morris, as they endeavored to recover possession of the fancy driving horse, owned by Edward Morris of North Wilbraham, Mass., who is staying at the "Tochus" farm, at the residence of Walter M. Morris. The Morris' went to the Brule farm about 10 o'clock Thursday morning to recover the horse. A disturbance resulted and Brule is accused of assaulting young Morris with a knife, which is now in the possession of the state police.

Sergeant Harrison J. Hulbert has taken charge of the case and has possession of the knife. The officer sent the Morris family to Dr. W. B. Bean for examination and as a result Joe Brule is held under a bond of $1,000 for assault. The case has been continued until October 28th by Judge W. H. Heald, who fixed the bond furnished by Mrs. Brule.

To Fix Crossing

After several weeks of waiting the Public Works Department of the city of Rockville has completed a denmark word that the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad is to make several needed improvements along their tracks particularly at the intersection of Market and Brooklyn streets. This is pleasing news to the city officials and it will be finished possibly on next Monday or Tuesday. Other improvements will be undertaken next week about the freight yards and old depot.

Further requests were made to the main office of the railroad at New York and an engineer came to Rockville this week and made a careful survey of the condition of the crossing and falls. The actual work was started yesterday of replacing the plank between the rails with a penetration asphalt section the same as the city road and it will be finished possibly on next Monday or Tuesday. Other improvements will be undertaken next week about the freight yards and old depot.

Gun Club To Test Skill

The Rockville Fish and Gun Club have decided for a new test of the skill of its members with a combination of both gun and dog in a contest which will be held this month. The extent will be of unusual interest and will be held at the Gun Club Range on Mile Hill in Tolland on Sunday, Oct. 23.

A combination of trial and skeet shoot will be held on this occasion which is expected to prove popular with the sportsmen in this section. The plan now under consideration calls for the members to demonstrate their ability in handling their dog in the field and then coming back to the skeet range and shooting a round of 25 shells.

The winner will be decided by the totaling of the two scores and prizes will be awarded for the best scores in the combined events. Definite plans are expected to be announced within a few days but at the present time it is hoped to have the field trials in the morning and the skeet shoot in the afternoon.

As this is the first time that such an event has been held at the gun club, it is expected that many sportsmen will be attracted from all parts of Connecticut.

G. A. R. Meeting

State Senator Henry M. Bradley, Jr. of Derby was the speaker at the meeting of the American Legion, Daughters of the American Revolution, which was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edwin G. Butler on Park street.

Senator Bradley delivered an interesting address after the meeting had been called to order by Mrs. Butler.

HUSBANDS LIVE LONGER, CENSUS STATISTICS SHOW

Washington—(AP)—The old contention that married life, particularly for men, is conducive to health and longevity, is supported by statistics, which show the death rate of husbands to be lower than that of bachelors.

Analysis of vital statistics compiled by the bureau of the census discloses that at ages between 35 and 45 the death rate of husbands is not more than one-half and at all ages between 25 and 65 it is not more than two-thirds that of bachelors.

Prof. Walter F. Wilcox of Cornell university, who made the analysis for the bureau says that while the statistical results are uniform, the explanations are diverse. Young husbands, he says, are doubtless healthier on the average than men of the same age who do not marry.

"The question remains whether the continuous process of selection through marriage suffices to explain the great and persistent difference," he said. "Those who doubt or deny it claim that married life is intrinsically normal, at least for men, and conducive to health and long life."

"In support of the contention, they point out," he added, "that widowers as well as husbands have been through the selective process of marriage and yet the death rate of widowers is about the same as that of bachelors and much higher than the mortality of husbands."

A fact, baffling to aviators, is that very violent electric storms take place at high altitudes, but no indications of the storms can be observed from the ground.

EX-CONVICT IS KILLED IN WAR OF GANGSTERS

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—George Gruber, 38, a former convict with several aliases, was found shot to death today in front of 540 West 40th street.

There were wounds in the back of the head and in the abdomen and the victim apparently had been tossed from an automobile after being shot elsewhere.

Police said his record showed that Oct. 16, 1925, under the name of George Gross, he had received a sentence of from nine months to fifteen years in the New Jersey state penitentiary for atrocious assault and battery, and one of three years, both to run concurrently, for possession of weapons.

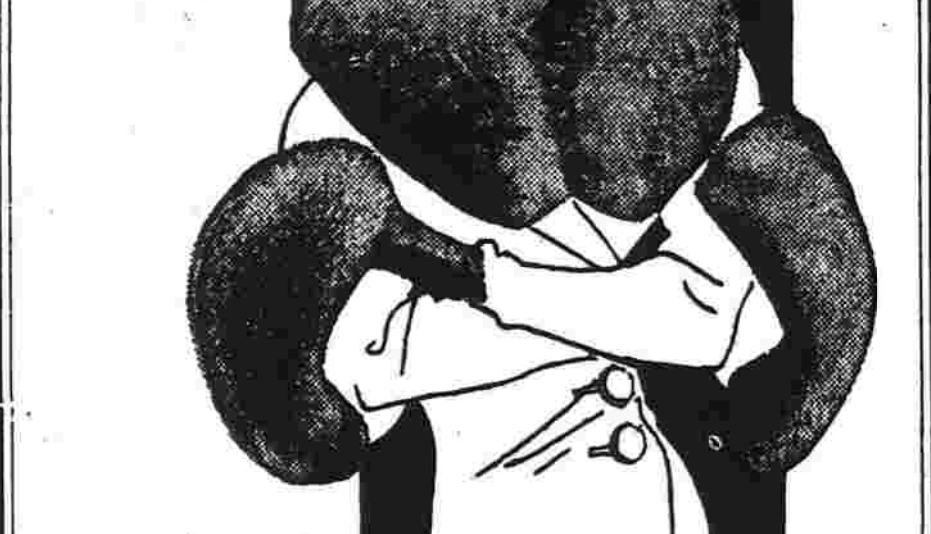

There were ten other arrests beginning in 1917, police said, all in New York City.

On the police record were the aliases of Gruber and George Ross were listed and in a pocket of the neat dark suit he wore were found automobile operator's licenses for the past three years issued to George Gray, of the Palace hotel, 182 West 45th street. The night manager of the hotel said he never had seen the man.

The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. estimates sales for the four weeks ended September 30 to $60,661,478 compared with $63,634,883 for the same period last year. Tonnage sales for the period were estimated at 357,688 against 391,868 last year.

Sales of Kroger Grocery and Baking Co. for its four weeks ended Oct. 7 were $19,326,851 compared with $15,977,973 for the same period in 1932, an increase of 3.10 per cent.

Sales of the Simmons Co., not including subsidiaries, for September were $2,130,801 compared with $1,522,261 in September, 1932, an increase of 40 per cent.

FOUR U. S. WARSHIPS
REMOVED FROM CUBA

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Quieter conditions today prompted the removal of American warships from four Cuban ports, but 16 vessels remained in the island waters.

The vessels stationed to safeguard American nationals at Manzanillo, Mantanzas, Cienfuegos and Puerto Padre were included in the withdrawal. They were respectively the Destroyer Hamilton, Coast Guard cutter Hunt, Destroyer Goff and the Coast Guard cutter Greenham.

State Department officials said the action meant no change in the status of the present Cuban government so far as recognition was concerned.

ORDERED TO PROSECUTE
44 HOARDERS OF GOLD

Washington, Oct. 13.—(AP)—United States attorneys today were under orders to prosecute the 44 persons known to be holding more than $1,000 in gold illegally.

Attorney General Cummings demanded the immediate action in a letter to prosecuting attorneys calling attention to the administration order against gold hoarding.

Later, Cummings plans to prosecute those hoarding more than $100 in gold. He told the attorneys: "You should feel free to call upon special agents of the division of investigation for any additional information or inquiry which you deem necessary."

Queer Twists
In Day's News

Milwaukee—Chosen to officiate at the wedding this fall of Miss Alice Scribner of Stevens Point, the Rev. Roscoe A. Barnes of Milwaukee, instead will take charge of funeral services for the young woman at Stevens Point Saturday. Miss Scribner, a stewardess for United Air Lines, was one of the seven persons killed in an airplane crash near Chesteron, Ind., Tuesday.

Chicago—This being Friday the 13th, the Anti-Superstition Society of Chicago decided tonight would be a good time to sponsor a production of "Ten Nights in a Bar-room."

Thirteen actors will defy all 13 of the very best superstitions. There are 13 members of the organization, formed a year ago with the idea of proving that a jinx is not a jinx.

St. Joseph, Mo.—To symbolize the spirit of the times, the Blue Eagle of the NRA is being painted on the green "go-ahead" signs of all traffic lights in St. Joseph. The Chamber of Commerce sponsored the idea.

Wheeling, W. Va.—"The meeting will come to order," cried the presiding officer, Grand Smasher Edward F. McKee, as he walked to the altar with his gavel. A black cat was released in the meeting room and 18 new members were initiated. It was the customary Friday the 13th ceremony of the Anti-Superstition Club.

East St. Louis, Ill.—Ruth Wilson, 30, readily admitted, police said that she had passed worthless checks for $23.

"But," police quoted her as saying, "I have never passed bad checks on a friend. Anyone who cashes a check for a stranger deserves to lose his money. I have found it easy for a good-looking young woman to get money on checks."

Bolton, Conn.—The Center Congregational church will have its first wedding in 38 years Sunday and the bridegroom will be its pastor, the Rev. Harold Wiltz. He will be married to Miss Edna May Ritchie of Chicago Heights, Ill.

Sullivan, Ind.—Martha Drennan's birthday party is "out" until National Guardsmen lift the nine p. m. curfew imposed on this troubled mine town.

She asked the guardsmen to allow her guests to stay until a later hour. They said no.

"Nix on a 9 o'clock party," said 16-year-old Martha. "We'll wait a while."

Oakland, Cal.—A book of poems with a bullet hole through it became one of 16-year-old Meredith Gardner's treasured possessions.

She was reading from the book as the bullet, accidentally fired from her brother's gun, struck it. Physicians said the reason Miss Gardner's wound was only superficial was that the book deflected the bullet.

Quotations--

You can't legislate peace. You only can people the world with peaceable nations.—Henry Ford.

Rights prove most valuable when used with sound judgment and exercised only when necessary.—William Green, President of the American Federation of Labor.

Cuba isn't feeling so well this morning.—President Roosevelt.

People are like children in a nursery, always calling for something now.—Premier Mussolini.

If we insist on being loyal to our party instead of our ideals, then let us lay the blame for bad government where it belongs—at your door and mine.—Ray Thomas H. Whelpley of New York.

MUTINY IN SIAM

Bangkok, Siam, Oct. 12.—(AP)—Martial law was proclaimed here today after two up-country regiments mutinied and seized the Donmuang airbase, the headquarters of the Royal Aeronautical Service. Firing occurred in a clash between the up-country troops and troops from the capital, thirteen miles outside the city. Whether there were any casualties was not immediately reported.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 13.

OVERSPREAD EAGLE.

The NRA's demonstration of its might through the taking away of the Blue Eagle from two or three of the many thousands of little chiselers, while unassailable on moral or ethical grounds, is not, it seems to us, very well calculated to further impress the country with the deep seriousness of the National Recovery movement. It can hardly fail to suggest to the observer the thought that the government is starting its hunt with the bagging of some very small game indeed—shooting mosquitoes while there are roundabout numerous man eating tigers at whom no gun has yet been fired.

Of course it is beyond criticism for the NRA to take away its emblems from persons and concerns that are dishonestly evading the responsibilities they incurred in subscribing for it. There is no question whatever on that point. At the same time, to begin the campaign of punishment with little restaurants and beauty parlors can hardly fail to have an injurious effect. Too many people will get the impression that the NRA is more courageous as a midge hunter than as a giant killer. Which was something to have been avoided at any cost.

The plain fact is that the NRA created an enormous amount of trouble for itself—seven made considerably less certain the success of its great purpose—when it undertook to spread the wings of the Blue Eagle over some millions of tiny enterprises which probably couldn't have been effectively regimented in five years, let alone in five months. Nobody in high place can have failed by this time to sense the mistake that was made. But nobody in high place has yet developed the temerity to suggest that it might be better to withdraw from an untenable position of no great strategic value than to attempt to hold it merely because, in its enthusiasm, the NRA overran its proper objective.

If tomorrow the National Recovery Administration should announce that all Blue Eagles and Blue Eagle requirements were herewith withdrawn from industries or businesses employing less than a prescribed number of persons—certainly not fewer than twenty-five—and that the attempt to apply the NRA obligations in quarters where it could not or would not be lived up to in a very large proportion of cases had been abandoned—it is extremely probable that the Blue Eagle would gain infinitely in the respect of the populace and become an instrument of far greater effectiveness than it is now.

We believe absolutely in the principle behind the NRA. We believe, however, that the over-extension of the Blue Eagle has created and will continue to create an enormous amount of difficulty, the mass of which may become so vast and so tangled that the Recovery Administration will become mired in a huge mud-pie created by its own tramping.

DAVIS' ACQUITTAL.

It is possible for a New York jury to find a defendant guilty of a crime of violence, but it is substantially impossible to get together twelve citizens of that community who will agree on the conviction of anyone for getting money by being "smart"—in the New York conception of that word.

The offense with which United States Senator James J. Davis was charged—which, stripped of its detail, was the charge of garnering great sheafs of cash through the operation of lotteries disguised under a mantle of fraternal society benefit—falls into the category of "smartness"; and how New Yorkers do love a guy who can put over something "smart"!

It is therefore merely the realization of a practical certainty when a federal court jury in the metropolis acquits the senator of all charges in the celebrated lottery case.

The trouble with this acquittal, as is the case in many similar instances transpiring in New York, is that the verdict falls to carry with it into the public mind any very definite conviction of the defendant's complete innocence. In the present one quite possibly Senator Davis may be the real loser. He may have been as free from any intentional wrong doing as a babe in arms. His purposes may have been lily-white in their benevolence. Unfortunately things have arrived at that pass where a mere acquittal by a New York jury will fail to definitely convince the average citizen. So it comes about that the fixed habit of refusing convictions against wheedlers and grifters becomes something of a two-way cutter. Those juries can and do keep plenty of people out of jail but their clean bills of health are not very authoritative in the belief of the average man.

If Jim Davis had been acquitted somewhere else besides New York he could get a deal more satisfaction out of it.

ALCATRAZ PRISON.

Attorney General Cummings' scheme of converting Alcatraz Island in San Francisco Bay into a selective prison for especially hard nuts among the nation's convict guests assuredly has its points. Any comparison between Alcatraz and France's Devil's Island, however, is a little bit strained. Devil's Island is a long, long way from home—or anywhere else; and the French criminal who makes his escape from it is not very likely to figure again as a nuisance to his home community or to any other. Alcatraz, rather unfortunately, is only a mile or two from shore.

Still and all, it would be a hardy swimmer who, if he had made his escape from the actual interior of the prison there, managed to negotiate the currents of the bay and reach the California mainland, even if the prison guards didn't pot-shot him into eternal god behavior while in the water. Almost anyone, it is conceivable, would as soon see Machine Gun Kelly interned at Alcatraz as in some penitentiary where he had only to get over or under a wall in order to step into an automobile and resume his interrupted career of kidnapping and murder.

It is, on the whole, rather gratifying to be told that this is not a mere tentative proposal on the part of the attorney-general, but a plan the fulfillment of which is already in the making. Mr. Cummings is quoted as saying that it will probably be no more than a month hence before Alcatraz will be ready to receive a considerable group of the toughest and meanest individuals among the many tough and mean residents of the various federal pens.

Alcatraz has already entertained, over a period of many years, a good many unwilling guests who got there because they thought they were both tough and smart. According to all accounts not one of them has ever left the island until the authorities were ready to have him leave. Possibly there may be escapes in the future. But they will be rare indeed.

ARTHUR'S RACKET.

Revolution as a racket is, in a sense, something new. To be sure, under a broader conception, revolution is generally a racket and the oldest of them all. But Commander-in-chief Arthur J. Smith of the Khaki Shirt revolutionary army is the first leader of an ambitious insurrection, so far as we know, who got up his scheme of overturning a national government merely for the sake of what he could get out of selling trench coats and brown shirts and collecting two bucks apiece from such recruits as had it and would part with it.

Smith, who held forth in Philadelphia and promised to take an army of a million and a half men to Washington to enthronize President Roosevelt as a dictator, lived the life of Riley until the police came around, raided the Khaki Shirts' headquarters and confiscated a couple of bushel baskets of pistols, knives and clubs which, apparently, constituted Smith's war armament. Then the commander-in-chief went out of a back window; and if his disillusioned followers catch him it's going to be a rainy day for Arthur.

It is doubtful if the artichoke racketeers, the cleaning and dyeing racketeers, the poultry racketeers will find much about this revolution racket to tempt them away from their older and more conservative activities. Its field, after all, is rather limited and the returns not such as would be likely to make multi-millionaires out of commanders-in-chief. By next week, probably, General Art will probably be looking for coffee and stinkers, in some bread line far away from the Quaker City.

TRAGEDY.

Among the more or less frequent "human interest" stories that come up in the news none recently has possessed greater poignancy than the one of Frank Cy Foster and his son. The father was long a professional baseball player—played in 1911 with the New York Giants. Eighteen years ago, being a widower, he left his four-year-old boy with a family in Topeka, Kan., while he went off for a season's professional engagement. In the fall the family had disappeared, the boy with them. Foster could not find his son.

The other day Foster found his boy, now a man of 22. He is in jail charged with murder. He had taken the name of the family with whom he had been left, and is known as Roy Mann. It appears that the head of the family, James Mann, is but little good. He abandoned his wife but kept the boy. Four years ago he was sent to jail. Since then the boy has been on his own.

Now Foster, blaming himself for not having made still greater effort to find his child, is setting himself to the desperate task of saving the son from conviction and the gallows.

IN NEW YORK

By JULIA BLANSHARD

New York, Oct. 12.—Given the private lives of orchids are no longer safe from public scrutiny. An orchid specialist discloses the fact that the best orchid growers keep stud books. Before breeding two orchids, the pedigree of both is inquired into. When two perfect parents have been selected, the actual crossing is done in the morning of a bright day—and seven to ten months are required to produce the seed.

No incubator baby gets more careful care than these precious seeds. Each is put into its own little saucer, on a bed of agar-agar, with sterilized cotton letting in air but no germs. The seeds are fed balanced rations and eventually bring forth a tender little orchid plant. And it takes this little plant almost a decade to grow up big and strong enough to buck the world and produce a bloom.

During those ten years, the plants are given the tenderest of care, with certain "pre-school" years spent under glass. Eventually they are transplanted to a community where, presumably, they may happily fraternize with other solons of our best orchid families.

A Rich Maine Harvest

Bessie Beatty, playwright and president of the Actors' Dinner Club, and her actor-husband, William Sauter, have just arrived from "Goose Gables," their Mt. Desert, Maine, summer home, bringing a harvest of $710 which they reaped there to help feed unemployed actors this winter.

Having worked all last winter and most of the summer managing the thriving club, Bessie planned to take August and September off. On September 1 she received a wire asking her to come back and start raising money for the winter. But Maine is far too lovely in September to leave. So the Sauters broadcast placards advertising an old-fashioned lawn social. That's how they raised the $710 fund.

Not on the Menu

On a recent night the comparative quiet of Billy-the-Oysterman's famous restaurant was split by the stentorian voice of a mountaneous, sordid man who demanded in no uncertain terms to be served "the biggest lobster in the place." When it was brought to his table, he apparently was startled by the size and bellowed for the manager.

Billy, suave but genial, approached the man, in a peremptory tone said, "Are you the manager? Well, sit down here and show me how to eat this giant."

Billy motioned to the waiter, who seated him, brought him a table set-up, and moved the lobster platter over in front of him. Billy attacked it skilfully, explaining the how and why of each process, cracked the claws and began to eat. The man ordered another, followed Billy's instructions and apparently enjoyed the fish. What he didn't enjoy, however, was the check. It listed "two lobsters" and charged him for both. He complained loudly and bitterly. But Billy was adamant. "You ordered both," he said, in final tones. "You invited me to eat one. What I really should have done was to have charged you for instructions, too!"

The man paid the bill.

She Bides—and Talks

With the Rodeo moving into Madison Square Garden this month, one girl from the Golden West is sure of a warm reception in the big city. She is Florence Randolph, a hard-boiled broncho buster, one of the best women riders in the country. Partial credit for Oklahoma's going wet is accorded to Florence. She

"hook the saddle" against prohibition and rode all over Oklahoma making speeches against it. "Out there they call her the 'silver-tongued cow-girl.'"

New Yorkers who agree with her sentiments are arranging several parties in her honor.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

DIGESTIVE TROUBLE OFTEN COMES FROM "SICK" GALL-BLADDER.

You may imagine that digestive trouble only when there is something wrong with the stomach; this is not true, because one of the most common causes of indigestion is a "sick" gall-bladder that is, a gall-bladder which is not doing its work well. Almost any symptom of an upset stomach you could think of, is found in gall-bladder trouble. Many of you who believe you have stomach complaint really have gall-bladder disorder.

The amazing feature of these cases is how long the patient will worry along with his symptoms before seeking help. Very often he will wait until the pain and nausea show that patients have endured gall-bladder disturbances over a period of thirty-five years, without using any treatment. Of course, the distressing symptoms are not present all of the time, the gall-bladder may have times when it is working fairly well, in between the periods when it causes distress.

Gall-bladder disease is most frequently found after the age of forty is reached, but may appear before thirty. Inflammation of the gall-bladder is not a disease which commonly causes death and may exist with or without gall-stones. When gall-stones are present, the condition is usually that of a mild chronic inflammation of the gall-bladder and its ducts, or there may be acute attacks. Those symptoms may then arise which so wisely confuse the patient and lead him to think he has stomach trouble.

Some of the digestive symptoms of gall-bladder disease are: belching of sour-tasting fluid, bloating of the stomach and intestines from excessive gas, discomfort after eating which is made worse when special foods that the patient has found to disagree with him are taken, heartburn, "sour stomach," and poor appetite. The patient may also describe such symptoms as "feeling sick at his stomach" or a pain over the top of the stomach, vomiting, or may say he becomes dizzy, has blinding spells or feels weak.

In using a home-treatment to relieve himself he has usually tried soda, which may help and has also tried skipping a meal, which may also cause some improvement. Whether a doctor should be called upon with the above symptoms he should suspect the gall-bladder as a possible cause. In diagnosing the case, certain tests are advisable to determine whether the gall-bladder empties as it should and whether gall-stones are present.

If you have a "sick" gall-bladder the entire system may be poisoned day after day, and you may be sure you will lose your distressing symptoms only after the gall-bladder has been returned to health. My experience in my private practice has shown me that the largest majority of these cases are corrected by proper diet. The first thing to do is to clean out the liver and gall-bladder through fasting, using olive oil, and restricted diet. The next thing to do is to teach the patient how to live so that his gall-bladder will not be "sick" again.

In overcoming gall-bladder trouble you should avoid: over-eating, all rich foods, pastries, fats, spiced foods, gravies, and alcoholic beverages. The patient should drink plenty of water each day and should keep up intestinal stimulation, using the enema if necessary. The dietetic treatment of gall-bladder disease is advisable in all cases where a mild inflammation is present as remarkable improvement follows in practically every case.

I have a "fluah" or heat wave. These are preceded by a most depressing sensation. I have had them for about ten years.

Answer: You probably have some kind of functional heart disorder which makes your circulation irregular. Systematic exercise and diet, if persisted in, will bring about a cure.

(Sweet baths for itching)

Question: N. V. T. writes: "For two years now, both winter and summer, I have been troubled with an itching under the arms. Please tell me a cure."

Answer: Do everything you can to produce more skin stimulation. Take a sweat bath two or three times weekly, or induce a daily sweat by vigorous exercises. Take one or two shower baths daily. Local applications to these parts are dangerous and are not necessary.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

Every Time You Turn Around in the Capital You're Bound to Stumble on a Code. . . Beer Lant Answer to Hotel Men's Prayer . . . "Here's the Cash; Come and Get It," Chants Feltes.

By WILLIS THORNTON

Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 12.—The codes for the big key industries were constructed in the spotlight, as befitting their vital importance to millions. The pulling and hauling, bluffing and culling, all were fully reported.

Few realize, even here, the vast amount of labor, frenzied argument and protest, desperate insistence and driving, that goes into the making of the hundreds of codes in less vital industries. No newspaper could report them fully. There are too many of them; they come too fast; yet each is vital to its own group.

Talk Nothing—But Codes

On any of the "ast trains" into Washington from New York you will see groups of earnest men rehearsing, in a circle of brief cases, the arguments with which they intend to overwhelm some deputy administrator on the morrow when their code is discussed. Smoking car-conversation has changed from the off-color story to the economic homily.

Your correspondent was regaled in the smoker on the Congressional Limited by a earnest industrialist, who spent half of the four hours of the New York-Washington trip in marshaling his economic theories of what could be done and what couldn't in his in stry.

But when his hearing came in Washington the next morning, he was given five minutes' "tell it all, told to stick to facts and never mind the oration, and finally presented with a code that laid low every theory he so extravagantly had expounded at the train.

Wide Variety—Hearings

"At one hotel is being conducted the hearing on a code proposed by the National Association of Manufacturers of Smoking Pipes and the American Association of Smoking Pipe Manufacturers. At another is scheduled the hearing of the Stationery, Tablet and School Paper Manufacturing Association. The Cast Iron Pressure Pipe Industry comes next. (That's separate from the Pipe Nipple people.)

Make way for the Novelty Curtain, Drapery, Bedspread and Novelty Pillow Industry, which comes next, the Hair and Jute Felts folks, and the Viscose Extrusion Industry, all of whom must have their say as soon as the National Bottled Gas Association has been heard.

Complaints arise that codes are hastily framed and imperfect. It is just as well to recall that the Lord look six days to make the world, and even He had to take the seventh. Surely we must have had every human deputy administrator in making a new industrial world against the stopwatch.

Receivers' Mismanaged

Chief Memon of the Secret Service personally supervises the arrangements these days when President Roosevelt enters or leaves the city. He is on the job in the flesh, personally inspecting every detail of the protective cordon. Miami and the w' bullets of Kansas are not forgotten.

The return of beer has been a disappointment to hotel men, who were among the loudest oriers for it as a savior. At least so reported W. C. Roper of the Atlanta Editmore at the hotel code hearing. Too many licenses to small taverns and stands, the hotel men claimed. Now they look to repeal.

Public Works Chief Iakes (he's also secretary of the interior, but nobody thinks of those old titles any more) is making desperate efforts to get the cities to drive-up and haul away money for socially valuable public works. Pressure has been put on him to speed up.

In an appeal to mayors to "come and get it," he conducted a stirring address with "A city can accept a 50 per cent grant without diminution of pride or self-respect, both of which would be impaired, if not destroyed, if it relied altogether upon generosity of the federal government." One Washington cynic grunted, "Well, better to keep 70 per cent of your self-respect than none."

59th ANNIVERSARY SALE

Solid Maple for the Dining Room, 6 Pcs.

Choose Provincetown maple if you're furnishing your dining room informally. Consider this Anniversary value, too, for it has many marks of merit. FOOTBALL DEATH RATE INCREASES

Authorities Take Steps to Reduce Alarming Growth of Casualties; Probe Shows Many Deaths Could Have Been Averted.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Alarmed by the mounting number of deaths from football injuries, mostly in high school ranks, authorities of the game redoubled their efforts today to bring about closer supervision, better medical attention and a closer study of the rules.

Coincident with an Associated Press survey which revealed 14 deaths attributed directly or indirectly to football already this season, as compared with 12 at the same time a year ago, Major John L. Griffith, athletic commissioner of the Western conference and president of the National Collegiate A. A., and Dan E. McGuinn of Vanderbilt, president of the American Football Coaches' Association, indicated these organizations were continuing their efforts to solve the problem.

Griffith said an investigation by the N. C. A. A., had shown lack of supervision, ignorance of the rules and poor medical attention were responsible for a majority of the deaths and that an educational campaign to "eliminate these faults" was being conducted.

McGuinn, agreeing with these views, said "nothing should be left undone in studying the causes of injuries and their elimination by coaches, rule-makers and others."

Of the 14 deaths so far reported, but one occurred in college ranks and only three involved sandlot players. The other fatalities all were high school students, an increase of four over the comparative figures for last year.

Of all the deaths, however, only two occurred in actual competition. Two resulted from blood poisoning. Geographically the fatalities have been distributed as follows: East, six; South, four; Far West, three, and Middle West, 1.

BILL TERRY HERO IN OLD MEMPHIS

Folks "Back Home" Bask in Glory of Giants' Pilot.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 13.—(AP)—Now that Bill Terry's New York Giants have won the baseball championship of the world, nothing else seems very important to folks in the old home town.

On Front Street's Cotton Row, in the fried fish and oyster stand, on the neighborhood sandlots and at the oil company where Terry works in the winter time, nobody will talk of anything except the Giants' victory over the Senators.

"Memphis' home of Bill Terry, manager of the world's champion Giants," has in the imagination of many, supplanted such old standby slogans as "Memphis, the Mississippi," and "Memphis, the largest inland cotton market in the world."

WEST SIDES HOLD BATTING WILL WIN

Manager Angelo Says Team Members Have Averaged Around .300.

Confident that they will take the Greens into camp during the baseball game Sunday noon on the West Side diamond, members of the West Side nine claim their hitting strength will be responsible for their victory.

Averages compiled by Manager Nick Angelo show that the players have been doing better than .300 with the stick. "Big George" Stavitzky is leading the tribe with an average of .378, while Ernie Dowd has been hitting .341, a clip of .389, which good stickwork in any man's language. Fred Burkhart has been batting .349 for 29 games and Hank McCann has been cracking them out to the tune of .341. Fritz Wilkinson has a record of .310 to his credit, which Sam Hewitt's average totals .308. The other members of the team, while not quite so sensational at bat, have succeeded in maintaining an average of .300.

Stavitzky is leading the pack in the number of doubles and triples, but the West Sides have been short on home runs during the season, with a total of only eight. However, this is explained by the fact that the size of the West Side lot makes it almost impossible to smash out a four-bagger unless the ball is set by a mighty healthy swing.

Manager Angelo points with pride to the work of his ace moundman "Big Face" Godek. Frank Hewitt also has shown commendable stuff on the mound. The West Side team is relying on Godek to tie up the Greens Sunday and, if the pitcher's arm is right, expect he will baffle the opposing batters as easily as did Carl Hubbell the Senators in the World Series.

TRADE SCHOOL LADS OPEN DEPARTMENT BASEBALL SERIES

Textiles Trim Carpenters by 4-0 Score; Oriowski Allows Three Runs in Fifth Inning.

The first of a series of baseball games to decide the championship of the Interdepartment Baseball League at the Manchester Trade School was played at Mount Nebo field yesterday afternoon, and resulted in the Textiles taking the measure of the Carpenters by a score of 4 to 0.

The victors put across a run in the first inning and held the leaders until the fifth when they again scored, but this time accounting for three tallies. A double by Oriowski and a triple by Laahinski were responsible for this rally. Oriowski pitched splendid ball until the fifth. Raguskus had a field day at bat, knocking out two hits in two times at bat. The score:

Table with 2 columns: Player Name and Statistics. Includes Vince, Felsh, Laahinski, Raguskus, Demko, Butler, Vojick, Carabino, Lucas, Haberer, and Totals.

FEWER RESERVES FOR NOTRE DAME

The Eagles football team will need the services of the four new players when they face the strong New Britain Triangle eleven here Sunday. The Hard varsity City outfit is composed of the stars of the former Pawnee, college and high school elevens. In their lineup appears Freddie Novak, star for Maryland college in 1931. He will carry the fullback position and is said to be a triple threat man.

Johnny Dombrowski at center will be remembered as playing against Hartford High school two years ago, in the same position he now holds down. Every other place is held by fast, experienced men, including "Red" McCormick, who played for the Manchester Majors two years ago.

The Eagles have strengthened their line with the services of two former players with a snappy professional team in the state, and also have received the services of an ex-West Point player to hold down a backfield berth. Another well known local player might be added before Sunday, it was said today.

State Grid Briefs

By Associated Press
New Haven, Oct. 13.—There were two blue teams ready today to start against Washington and Lee, and the big question at Yale remained— which is the first team and which is the second?

Head Coach Reggie Root said he was undecided which team to start tomorrow against the Southerners, but which ever eleven he uses would go in as a unit.

The game is scheduled for 2:30 p. m.
Middletown—The Wesleyan squad left for Brunswick, Me., today to meet Bowdoin tomorrow in its first 1933 game on a foreign gridiron.

Coach Jim Oberlander regarded this annual affair as the toughest on the Cardinal's schedule this season. With the exception of Wallace, a veteran guard, however, Wesleyan was at full strength as it entered, and that victory last Saturday over Connecticut State, plus a week of mid-season work, left the Cardinals ready for anything.

Hartford—Trinity tapered off its work today, preparatory to entertaining the Coast Guard Academy tomorrow in their inter-collegiate clash.

Denied Return Bout By McLarin, Ex-Champ Takes $200 Highway Job

Only a few months ago Young Corbett, 3rd, basked in the sports spotlight as welterweight boxing champion. Now he's teaching his fellow highway officers how to keep in trim and tracking down an occasional speeder. Declares he'll stick it out until McLarin fights him again.

Sacramento, Calif., Oct. 13.—With the title of "inspector" in the state traffic division the 27-year-old Italian youth will draw down a salary of $200 a month. His share of the purse when he lost the welterweight title to McLarin in a one round knockout amounted to $35,000.

While he could have continued in the pugilistic field as the first ranking challenger for the 147-pound crown, Corbett held out for a return match with the new champion rather than embark on a "take all on comers" campaign.

Lengthy negotiations failed to materialize into another bout with McLarin, so the name "Inspector Ralph Giordana" was added to the state's payroll, and boxing, temporarily at least, has lost "Young Corbett, III."

EAGLES GET READY FOR NEW BRITAIN

The Eagles football team will need the services of the four new players when they face the strong New Britain Triangle eleven here Sunday. The Hard varsity City outfit is composed of the stars of the former Pawnee, college and high school elevens. In their lineup appears Freddie Novak, star for Maryland college in 1931. PITT'S PANTHERS READY TO TACKLE STRONG NAVY TEAM

Rip Miller's Middies Will Have to Break Down Rugged Line and Fast Backfield.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Forty-three members of the Naval Academy football squad rolled into Pittsburgh today for the first battle against the Pittsburgh Panthers in 17 years.

Lead by Head Coach Rip Miller and a group of naval officers, the navy men prepared for a light afternoon workout preparatory to tomorrow's clash at the Pitt Stadium in Eastern Football's first big game of the season.

Against a confident Navy team, rated by experts as the best in ten years, Coach Jack Sutherland will hit a Panther eleven with a rugged line and a fast backfield that has been a bit weak on blocking in the first two games of the season.

Chicago, Oct. 13.—Professional football is keeping in stride with the college brand in drawing increased crowds this year. George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears, said today.

"The eastern clubs are drawing big crowds and are in fine shape financially. Halas said on his return from the east. "Pittsburgh, a new member of the national professional football league, also is drawing very well, and so are the western teams."

Halas increased his controlling interest in the Bears last night by purchasing the stock held by Charles Bidwell, Chicago sportsman. Bidwell recently purchased the Chicago Cardinals and was forced to sell under league rules whereby no man can have an interest in more than one club.

ORIOLES TO CLASH WITH BALDWIN A. C.

The Orioles will clash with the Baldwin A. C., in what promises to be an exciting football duel at Hickey's Grove Sunday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock.

Last year the Orioles were the junior champions of the town and this year they expect to equal their record. The Baldwins are made up of last year's Cleary's Lunch team, who were runners-up for local junior championship honors.

The Baldwins have been practicing diligently all this week in preparation for Sunday's game, and will appear with new jerseys to prove they are up-and-coming. As the Orioles and Baldwins are about evenly matched, it is anticipated that a large crowd will be on hand to watch the fracas.

Local Sport Chatter

All members of the Bluefields A. C. who are interested in forming a basketball team this fall are requested to report Monday night at 7:30 o'clock at Jack Struff's on McKee Street. It is the hope of Coach Jim Kenney to put a fast team on the courts this year. Kenney says there is enough material to make this possible.

The Charter Oak girls will roll the Middletown girls at the Charter Oak alleys tonight. With the victors will be Miss Marion Coe, the lass that defeated one of the leading male bowlers of the town in a three string totter.

The record for refueling distance flight has stood since 1930. It was established by John and Kenneth Hunter, who were aloft 553 hours and 41 minutes. Aircraft engines have increased between 10 and 15 per cent in power for the same gross weight during the past two years.

LOCAL HARRIERS BEAT OLD RIVALS

Cross Country Run Held Over New Course in Town.

Manchester High school's harriers scored an easy triumph over Glastonbury High school over the new course here yesterday, the score in the cross country run being 15 to 40. The recorded time was 14 minutes and 34 seconds or 56 seconds slower than the record established during a practice race.

Five of the Manchester runners came in first, flashing across the line neck and neck, while a sixth, Manchester led was sixth. He was ahead of the Glastonbury runners, however. Murch, Packard, Donahue, Leary and Coburn tied for first honors, while Peckenham, the sixth man, slightly trailed them. The Glastonbury runners were Kusak, Hollister, Millek, Kamaker and Stee and a sixth whose name was not learned.

The new course starts at the trolley terminal at Charter Oak street and passes through Gardner street, Spring street, onto Mt. Nebo, over the fields at the rear of the Rogers' paper mill and finishing in the soccer field.

Coach Charles L. Wigren announced that the local harriers would meet Middletown here a week from today, Hartford at Hartford on October 27, Bristol at Manchester on November 3, Weaver at Manchester on November 10. The state cross country meet is scheduled to be held in New Haven on November 15 or 16. Coach Wigren is highly confident of his charges capturing first honors in the state meet.

Decisive Tests for at Least Six Elevens in Saturday's Frays; Notre Dame and Northwestern May Rally to Redeem Selves.

New York, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Tomorrow will bring decisive tests for a half dozen teams annually conceded a place near the top of the football rankings.

Notre Dame and Northwestern are asked to rally from opening game disappointments. The Ramblers, outplayed and held to a scoreless tie by Kansas, will seek to regain lost prestige against Indiana's Hoosiers, who took advantage of one break to earn a tie with Minnesota's highly regarded Big Ten title contenders.

Northwestern has even more ground to regain for the Wildcats were beaten by Iowa in their opening game two weeks ago. A decisive triumph over the invading forces of Stanford will go far toward wiping out the memory of that unexpected reverse.

Michigan, undisputed champion of the Big Ten a year ago, will run a favorite over Cornell but will find the Itacans a handful. Pitt, likewise will be the public choice over Navy in the East's one big time struggle of the day.

Tennessee will be no heavy favorite over Wallace Wade's Duke outfit. Purdue seems to rate no better than an even choice against Minnesota, but Southern California will be expected to continue its winning ways even though the opposition will be furnished by the St. Mary's Gels.

If football dynamite seems more likely to be concealed in these seven games, there are at least a score more important contests involving sectional or inter-sectional prestige.

Starting off with such games tonight as those involving Haskell and Temple at Philadelphia, Clemson and Georgia, Washington at Washington, and Detroit and Washington & Jefferson at Detroit, the schedule provides a host of other interesting pairings for tomorrow.

In the East, Syracuse and Ohio Wesleyan, Virginia and Columbia and Washington & Lee and Yale will offer the inter-sectional flavor while West Virginia-Fordham, Colgate-Rutgers, Georgetown-Manhattan, Bucknell-Villanova and Lafayette-New York University are the principal domestic duels.

The Vanderbilt-Ohio State, Carnegie Tech-Xavier, Kentucky-Cincinnati and Marquette-Mississippi contests will supplement the mid-west's inter-sectional program while Wisconsin and Illinois are locking in a Big Ten battle and Nebraska meets Iowa State and Kansas State faces Missouri in Big Six struggles.

Georgia and North Carolina, Auburn and Georgia Tech, Alabama and Mississippi State, Louisiana State and Centenary, Maryland and Tulane, and Florida and North Carolina State, round out the southern schedule, while Arkansas meets with Brigham Young and the Utah Aggies must with Denver headline the Rocky Mountain conference program.

JANITOR SUPPORTS COMMUNIST'S STORY

Says Torgler Was Not Excited on Night of the Reichstag Fire.

Berlin, Oct. 15.—(AP)—A night janitor at the Reichstag building today definitely threw down the allegation that Ernst Torgler, one of the five men on trial charged with setting the Parliament House fire, left the building hurriedly and excitedly on the night of the blaze.

"He left as always—there was nothing suspicious," said the janitor of Torgler, who formerly was the Communist floor leader in the Reichstag.

Previously Torgler had provided a dramatic moment in the day's hearing by asking Helmut Poeschel, a police sergeant who arrested Martinus Van Der Lubbe, another of the defendants, whether he had found anything on the young Dutchman's person besides a passport.

The sergeant replied that the only thing he found was the passport and not a "leaflet or other printed matter."

Inspector's Story.
A house inspector, Alexander Scranowitz, testified that he saw at least 25 smaller fires in the plenary hall of the building in addition to a large blaze around the speaker's table. He testified these appeared to have been placed at regular intervals.

"I was under the impression it took at least eight persons to start such a fire," said the inspector.

(Van Der Lubbe has admitted setting the fire, but has refused to answer questions whether he had assistance.)

Scranowitz said that when he discovered the Dutchman in the build-

TOBACCO CHECKS NOT YET RECEIVED

No Growers Here Have Government Payment; Some in Bay State.

Although tobacco growers in Suffolk, Essex and Massachusetts communities already have received checks for the first payment on some of the tobacco crops that had been curtailed this year in order that Federal aid might be obtained, none of the Manchester growers has come into possession of one of these checks, so far as is known.

These checks, which represent $47 per acre at the present time on the curtailed areas, are the first part payment. The early batch is for those who signed up early in the season and, it is expected, checks for the others will be in the hands of the other growers by November 15.

Leslie A. Buckland of Bush Hill road, whose father, Forrest N. Buckland, is an extensive tobacco grower, said today he did not know whether his father had received a check from the government. The elder Mr. Buckland was not at home.

At the house of Harry H. Cowles, of Hillstown Road, it was said that Mr. Cowles did not apply for Federal aid, nor has the Hartman Tobacco Co., a representative of that firm declared. E. D. Lynch of Manchester Green applied for a Federal grant but has not yet received any money. Emil Seelert, of Spencer street, applied for aid on reduced acreage, but Mr. Seelert could not be reached today.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Oct. 13 (AP)—Stocks and staples tapered nervously today under the "sound money" implications of the administration's Liberty Loan conversion proposal involving the issuance of new lower-yield long-term bonds totaling some $2,000,000,000.

While there was no great selling rush in those equities and commodities whose substantial springing rise was based partly on the belief there would be a drastic inflation of the currency, prices generally sagged in spiritless trading. Dullness ruled in most stocks. Some of the highest grade issues, which might benefit by an anti-inflationary program, showed resistance. Wheat dropped about 3 cents a bushel and other cereals were soft. Cotton was a little heavy. "Gilt edge" bonds were steady to firm. The dollar soared in foreign exchange dealings.

In shares, fractional advances were recorded by American Telephone, consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and some other utilities. Losers of 1 to 2 or more included Allied Chemical, Chrysler, DuPont, New York Central, Baltimore & Ohio, Delaware & Hudson, Liggett & Myers, Union Carbide, U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Santa Fe and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

Banking and brokerage circles, for the most part, were agreed that speculative inflationary hopes had been decidedly lowered by the Treasury's re-forecast plan. Financiers pointed out that the offering of 10-12 year bonds bearing 4 1/2 per cent interest the first year and 5 1/2 per cent for the remainder of the maturity could mean only that the government would not attempt any unusual monetary expansion—at least in the near future—but would base its plans for recovery largely on the building up of the capital and credit markets and the re-establishment of confidence through the maintenance of an "honest dollar."

At the same time some market observers warned that the big bond issue was not the last word in the inflation controversy. They recalled that the inflationary propaganda of the President are still present and that, even if he does not use them a session of Congress may make currency expansion mandatory. There are a number of influential political leaders, it was added, who continue of the belief that the Liberty loans should be paid off in greenbacks.

The decrease of 7,899 in freight car loadings for the week ended Oct. 7 was larger than the usual seasonal decline registered at this time of year. The total of 654,428, however, was 29,389 ahead of the same week last year. The drop under last week's aggregate was attributed partly to high coal prices and the holding up of shipments as the result of labor troubles.

As an offset to the lagging of freight traffic, Dun and Bradstreet reported a sharp increase in retail distribution over the United States. The week-end review found the "most impressive pickup of the fall season" occurred in general trade movements.

McNEIL DENIES REPORT ON GRADE CROSSINGS

Says Documents on Hartford Projects Have Not Disappeared from the Files.

Bridgeport, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Archibald McNeil, chairman of the State Public Works Advisory Board, said today that plans for the city of Hartford grade crossing elimination project are on file in his office and will be taken to Washington by him Sunday night for presentation to Major Philip Fleming, deputy administrator of public works under the NRA.

Mr. McNeil's statement was made after newspaper reports printed at Hartford and declaring that documents on the grade crossing elimination project disappeared from the files of the public works administration in Washington. Mr. McNeil denied this assertion.

Mr. McNeil said that John J. Pelley, president of the New Haven railroad voted in favor of the Hartford grade crossing elimination, and is on record in the files of the public works board to this effect.

Mr. McNeil explained that the state board has not definitely approved the project because of two technical complications which will refer to Major Fleming for resolution.

He said that two pay scales are involved in the work, one being that of the railroad and the other being that set up by the Public Works Board for laborers engaged in public works projects under governmental aid. McNeil declared that the railroad would be required to do a considerable amount of labor on the project and that difficulty was viewed in paying two different scales of wages to laborers doing practically identical work on the same job.

A question as to whether the work is eligible for government aid under the conditions of the Public Works Act has also been raised, Mr. McNeil said. He declared that the board has been given to understand that the Public Utilities Commission has ordered the crossing removed, and pointed out that the public works code does not provide for government aid on projects which must or will be done regardless of the NRA Public Works Act.

He said that Mr. Hoffmann will accompany him to Washington over the week-end and it is hoped to get a Federal ruling on the two objections now standing against board approval of the project.

Mr. Hoffmann was in Providence today and could not be reached for a statement on Mr. Falloiti's suggestion that he resign.

Traces of visible gold were found in an Alaskan area, gold nuggets weighing two or three times each.

BIRT IS APPOINTED

Waterbury, Oct. 13.—(AP)—Robert F. Birt, former commander of the Corporal Coyle Post, American Legion of Waterbury, was named today by President Roosevelt as a member of the reviewing board of compensation claims at the U. S. Veterans hospital in Newington, Conn. He will sit with two other members and will pass judgment on the claims of the veterans who are presenting evidence to prove their right to compensation for the disabilities connected with service.

NOTED SINGER FOR REVIVALS

Prof. J. Byron Crouse To Be Heard at Nazarene Church Services.

One of the noted singers in the Evangelistic field, Prof. J. Byron Crouse of Greensboro, North Carolina, will be heard in Manchester during the next two weeks at the revival services to be held in the Nazarene church, 466 Main street.

Prof. J. Byron Crouse

The Southern singer and musician has recently returned from a tour of the world's missionary fields, and will conduct missionary services during the revival series each Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Rev. Harris B. Anthony, pastor of the Church of the Nazarene was extremely fortunate in securing the services of one of America's most noted woman preachers for this series of revival meetings in Rev. Stella B. Crooks of Chicago. Rev. Crooks has preached in nearly every state of the Union from coast to coast and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border, and her burning messages during the past 20 years have been of unestimable good throughout the nation in bringing the story of sin and salvation to the people of all stations.

The Nazarene revival series will open tomorrow with a grand Sunday school rally for all ages. The goal of attendance at the Sunday school services Sunday morning at 9:30 a. m. is 500 and members of the church are trying to equal, if not surpass, this number.

Services each week night will begin at 7:30 p. m., except Saturday night, when services Sunday morning at 10:45 and at 7:30 p. m. A special Missionary service will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at which meeting Professor J. Byron Crouse will be the speaker.

Professor Crouse will be assisted during the campaign by Mrs. Crouse, a pianist of extraordinary ability.

AMATEUR ARTISTS' EXHIBIT PLANNED

St. Mary's Church to Give Chance to See Work of Local Painters.

Arrangements are in the making by workers of St. Mary's Episcopal church under the leadership of their rector, Rev. J. Stuart Neill, for an exhibition of paintings by local artists, largely amateurs, to be held in the Parish House during the first week of December. In connection with the exhibition, on one of the evenings during which it will continue, the women of the church will serve a supper.

There are more amateur painters in Manchester than is generally realized whose work is of a sufficiently high quality to justify exhibition, and it is anticipated that the hangings will be numerous enough to provide a very interesting show. It is possible that some or all of the several professional artists whose homes are in this town will lend pictures, though the greater

JOHNSTON, NOT JOHNSON, SAYS NRA BOSS' KIN

Washington, There's another Johnston laboring down in the labyrinth and five-ring circus that houses the Recovery Administration presided over by dynamic General Hugh Johnston.

He's Alexander Johnston, and he's Hugh's brother despite the different spelling of names. For several weeks, Alexander has been working no briefs as assistant to the solicitor of the commerce department, handling shipping board cases.

The general's younger brother (he's 41, and the general's 50) is a Tulsa, Okla., lawyer. He's a politician, too, and ran a close race for Congress against W. W. Hastings, incumbent, second Oklahoma district. He says he may take another whack at Hastings' seat next election.

You might think Alexander's job came to him through General Hugh. But Alexander says no. "I was one of the original Roosevelt men," he says smilingly.

The matter of the name came up again. "It's this way," explains Johnston, waving a negligent cigaret. "I guess Hugh is the only one of the family that spells it Johnston. His own son, Lieut. Killbourne Johnston, has gone back to the original way."

His uncle, Alexander Johnston, was a famous history professor. He occupied Woodrow Wilson's history chair at Princeton, and wrote a section on American history for the Encyclopedia Britannica. He spelled it with a "J."

"But I guess when Hugh entered West Point the 'J' got lost in registration, and he just let it go."

part of the proceeds will be from the brushes of men and women who paint for their own recreation.

The Parish House is regarded as a particularly good place in which to hold such an exhibition as there are several rooms, plenty of wall space and excellent light.

DON'T TRIFLE WITH COMMON CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Brings Relief

Constipation gets its grip on a person almost unawares. It often starts with such little things. Headaches. Listlessness. Bad complexion. Unpleasant breath. If unchecked, it may seriously impair your health.

Fortunately, you can avoid this danger by eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides two things needed to overcome common constipation: "bulk" and vitamin B. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of iron for the blood.

Biological tests demonstrate that the "bulk" in bran is similar to that in leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

How much better than taking unpleasant patent medicines. Two tablespoons of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. Serious cases, with every meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

MENUS

For Good Health
A Week's Supply
Recommended
By Dr. Frank McCoy

MENUS

Dr. McCoy's menus suggested for the week beginning Sunday, Oct. 15, 1934:

SUNDAY

Breakfast—Wholewheat muffins; codded eggs; stewed figs.
Lunch—Okra and cauliflower au gratin; celery and ripe olives.
Dinner—Celery soup; roast veal; green peas; asparagus; stuffed beef salad; ice cream.

MONDAY

Breakfast—Small piece of broiled ham; crisp waffle; apple sauce.
Lunch—Potato and the half shell; string beans; salad of endive and lettuce.
Dinner—Lima bean loaf; cooked celery; spinach; salad of shredded raw cabbage and parsley; baked apple a la mode.

TUESDAY

Breakfast—Coddled eggs; re-toasted shredded wheat biscuit; stewed peaches.
Lunch—Stewed corn (canned); cooked lettuce; salad of raw cauliflower with peanut butter dressing.
Dinner—Salisbury steak; mushrooms en casserole; steamed carrots; raw celery; dish of berries (canned).

WEDNESDAY

Breakfast—Cottage cheese and stewed figs; melba toast.
Lunch—Raw apples as desired; small handful of pecans or almonds.
Dinner—Vegetable soup; roast beef; stewed tomatoes; mashed turnips; head lettuce; cup custard.

THURSDAY

Breakfast—Poached eggs; melba toast; stewed prunes.
Lunch—Cream of spinach soup; apricot and tomatoes baked.
Dinner—Stuffed pork chops; steamed rutabagas; string beans; salad of raw grated carrots; stewed peaches.

FRIDAY

Breakfast—French omelet; re-toasted shredded wheat biscuit; stewed raisins.
Lunch—One pint of buttermilk; 10 or 12 dates.
Dinner—Broiled Filet of sole; spinach; buttered beets; salad of tomatoes, celery, cucumbers and lettuce; plain Jello or Jell-Well.

SATURDAY

Breakfast—Baked stuffed apple, with small amount of cream; one or two slices of melba toast.
Lunch—Mushroom soup; shredded lettuce and raw cabbage.
Dinner—Roast mutton; baked parsnips; cooked greens; coddled salad of peas, celery, beets; Carrot and date pudding.

CARROT AND DATE PUDDING: grate a sufficient quantity of small tender raw-carrots and to each cupful add one-third cupful of dates that have been cut into small pieces. Mix together thoroughly and bake in custard cups or a pudding dish for ten or fifteen minutes under cover. Remove from the oven and cover with a meringue that has been slightly sweetened with honey, and return to the oven until the egg-white becomes golden brown. Serve warm or cold, with plain, or unsweetened whipped cream.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Symptoms and Remedy of Tapeworm)

Question: Mr. Keith F. writes: "What are the symptoms of tapeworm and what is an effective remedy?"

Answer: Many times a tapeworm may be present without causing any symptoms, and it is probably not a serious trouble. If any symptoms appear, they may include a large appetite, nausea, digestive pains, losing of weight and sometimes anemia. The usual treatment for tapeworm is to cleanse the alimentary canal by means of a fasting diet for a few days, using enemas. Early in the morning of the fourth day the patient is given a substance repugnant to the worm which assists in causing it to relinquish its hold. Pumpkin seeds and extract of male fern are two substances commonly used. These are known as "olive" and "olive" and the fern leaves the body. It is important to make sure that the head is passed, as, if the head remains, it will form new segments and the treatment must be taken again. The treatment for children is milder, a five-day fast on acid fruits very often being all that is needed to rid the child of the worm. Sometimes children are given pumpkin seeds, using three ounces of the macerated seeds after a three-day fast. A few hours later an enema is given which should cause the expulsion of the worm.

(Drink Milk Slowly)

Question: Mrs. Henry G. inquires: "Should milk form curds in the stomach?"

Answer: Curdling is the first step in the digestion of milk. Milk should not be taken in too large swallows or the curds will be large. The digestive juices penetrate small curds more quickly.

Vitamin D Milk

Question: Mrs. George D. asks: "Will you please tell me what vitamin D milk is? Is this milk treated in any special way to contain vitamin D, or is it prepared from milk in its natural state?"

Answer: I have been on a raw milk diet for the past two weeks and so far feel that it has done me a lot of good. I use between three and four quarts of milk every day, a glass of milk every hour. What is your opinion of this diet?"

Answer: Vitamin D milk is usually produced by feeding cows with the addition of irradiated yeast. Experiments tend to prove that some of the vitamin D is passed on to the cow's milk. The milk may be either raw or pasteurized without affecting the vitamin. The milk diet is very good for some people, and I often advise it. It is usually necessary to work up to four quarts a day to maintain weight.

(Baby Troubled With Gas)

Question: Mrs. F. writes: "Please let me know if it will be beneficial to the health of a young baby troubled with gas to be given pargoric between feedings."

Answer: Feed the young baby nothing but orange juice and clean milk, and it will not be troubled with gas. You might just as well teach your baby to smoke opium as to take pargoric.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Friday the thirteenth is with us once more. We wish they would hurry with that 18-month calendar. Every thirteenth will be on a Friday then. Thirteen unlucky thirteens a year should either practically ruin the human race or wipe out most of its fool superstition.

Boys are waiting until after Halloween before starting to wear the balloons which they will have—more or less—until after Christmas.

Man—Quick, Doc, my wife's fainted!

Doctor—What's the trouble?
Man—She showed me her new hat and the bill at the same time, and I didn't say a word.

It may be possible to write a sensible love letter, but it would not be satisfying to the recipient.

I'd rather be a has-been than a might-have-been by far. For a might-have-been has never been:

But the has-been was and are.

Friendship that is merely an intermittent fever of fervor, is not real friendship. Nor wind, nor tide, nor prosperity, nor adversity, nor joy, nor sorrow, nor any material consideration sways or alters genuine friendship, than which there is nothing nobler on earth.

Joybell—I've no use for that fellow Robert Cunningham.

Dorothy—Oh—what's the matter with him?
Joybell—He's the sort of chap that pats you on the back before your face and hits you in the eye behind your back.

Real statesmen are men who can solve the grave problems that wouldn't exist if there were no statesmen.

Woman—Before we were married you told me I would never want for anything.
Her Husband—That shows how little I knew of you then.

Woman—Nora, did you sweep behind that door?
The Maid—Yes mum, I sweep everything behind that door.

Henry Hardup of Brushville claims Friday the thirteenth would have to be a humdinger to be any unluckier than any other day as far as he is concerned.

Girl—I can never be yours. I will return your presents.
Her Sweetie—All right, but who's going to return those cigars I bought your father and the dimes I gave your little brother?

Obnoxious Onnie opines: "A boy recovering from a heartache, is like the intoxicated person nursing a headache, he swears never again till the next time."

Judge—You say that your husband, doesn't buy you any clothes?
Woman—No, Judge. If my tongue were coated it would have to be at my own expense.

Most men confide their business troubles to their wives, especially when the latter want to buy something.

Tramp—Mister, give me a quarter for a meal, I'm hungrier than a bear.

Rich Dyspeptic—I'll give you $5,000 for your appetite, my man.

Why didn't we think, during the great watermelon season, to suggest that the melon-colic days had come?

Jasper—Tommy Heitman gets along with his wife very well.
Casper—Why shouldn't he? His dad owns a millinery store.

Quite often the Mother-in-Law is blamed when what is wrong is a poor Son-in-Law.

Weather forecasters say that, contrary to popular opinion, the moon has no effect on the weather.

About 16,000,000 thunderstorms occur annually throughout the world.
