U. S. TO RECOGNIZE RUSSIA, IS REPORT

Important Announcement Expected—White House Does Not Deny Reports from Moscow.

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—An important announcement regarding the long closed diplomatic relations between the United States and Soviet Russia appears in prospect, but whether it would come first from Washington or Moscow was not clear this afternoon.

Reports from Moscow that an exchange of correspondence between the two governments would be released later today brought no denial from the White House.

Secretary Hull smiled when asked about the reports and replied: "I will have to wait until I have checked over the latest reports."

Important Statement
It was known that President Roosevelt had an important declaration in mind for later today, but his subject remained undisclosed.

At his press conference the Secretary of State referred all inquiries regarding Soviet recognition to the White House. It was made plain that President Roosevelt was handling whatever situation was developing.

Reports that Russia might send one of its high officials to this country to discuss matters pertaining to recognition were not immediately denied.

It was stated in usually reliable quarters, however, that some discussion of problems existing between the two countries probably would be necessary before any full recognition could be granted.

Among the problems incident to officials here are matters of debts owed in this country by Russia for many years past, and propaganda activities.

MOSCOW REPORT
Moscow, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Unconfirmed reports circulated here today that President Roosevelt had made a direct overture to Mikhail Kalinin, president of the U. S. S. R., looking toward recognition.

The reports said the Russian executive had expressed the Soviet government's willingness to consider the question.

According to this unverified information, Kalinin had responded in cordial terms, leaving Washington to set the time and the place for the negotiations.

ASSUMED RADICALS SET BERLIN BLAZE

Nazi Leader Declares All Nation's Troubles Were Started by the Marxists.

Berlin, Oct. 20.—(AP)—A former Berlin Nazi storm troop leader, Count Wolf Helderoff, testified in the German Reichstag building fire trial today that he issued orders for the arrest of leading Communists and Socialist deputies at eleven o'clock the night of the fire last February on the assumption they had started the incendiary.

"According to our view," he said, "criminal elements in the stars are generally Marxists."

Today's session of the trial in which five men are accused marked the beginning of the court's campaign to clear Nazi leaders of "Brown Book" allegations.

"The Brown Book" was published by a commission under the leadership of Lord Marley and listed a number of allegedly authenticated cases of Nazi mistreatment.

Helderoff was reluctant to answer the questions of Ernst Torgler, former Communist leader in the Reichstag and one of the defendants, who posed a question as to whether Helderoff had acted as a public official or as a Nazi leader. Helderoff now is police president of Potsdam.

"The simplest thing," said the judge apologetically, "is for you to answer."

Georgi Dimitroff, the defendant whose questions and remarks have brought down the ire of the court on many occasions, asked:

"What is your evidence that the Communists and Socialists were the incendiaries?"

"After the Reichstag was ablaze," Helderoff replied, "there was not a doubt for me that the miscreants would generally be findable in the ranks of the Marxists. For this and reasons of safety I had prominent Socialists and Communists taken into protective custody."

When Dimitroff further asked what Helderoff observed on the streets the night of the fire that led him to think there might be a Communist uprising, the judge, apologetically, again said:

DRIVER CONFESSES HE STOLE POUCHES

Tells Police He Invented Story That He Was Held Up by Bandits.

Wilson, N. C., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Police today said Hugh Hawley, 26-year-old mail truck driver, had confessed his story he was robbed of three mail pouches containing $50,000 was a fabrication and that he hid the pouches in a woods himself.

After making the announcement Hawley had confessed, the officers took him before United States Commissioner G. L. Parker and he waived examination on a charge of tampering with the mails and asked an immediate trial. He was bound over to the term of United States District Court beginning at Wilmington Monday.

Bond was fixed at $1,000. He was unable to make it and was returned to jail.

Hawley's Story.
Hawley reported to police early Wednesday that a lone bandit held him up at the railway station and forced him to drive to a wooded section near Wilson where two other men joined the bandit and took the three pouches of registered mail from him.

The mail pouches were found by police several hours later in the woods with the money safe in them.

HERBERT LEDERER COMMITS SUICIDE

Husband of Isabel Leighton, Writer, Kills Himself in His Apartment.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Herbert B. Lederer, broker and husband of Isabel Leighton, biographer of President Roosevelt, committed suicide today by hanging himself in his apartment at 1045 Park avenue.

Lederer was 44 years old and a customer's man employed by the brokerage firm of Edward B. Smith and Company, of 14 Broad street.

Lederer's body was found by a maid when she went to the apartment to prepare breakfast for Lederer and his wife. The body was hanging from the kitchen transom by an electric iron cord.

Miss Leighton recently was appointed vice-chairman of the Independent Citizens Committee for Joseph V. McKee, Independent Democratic candidate for mayor. She was absent from McKee headquarters, where it was said she was at home ill with a cold.

Police said Mrs. Lederer was asleep when the maid found the body.

Lederer was at his office yesterday. Associates said they noticed nothing unusual in his behavior and that he appeared to be in good health. He had been employed by the brokerage firm since March, 1931.

LITTLE EVIDENCE OF STRIKE.
New Haven, Oct. 20.—(AP)—There was little evidence of a strike at the Whitney Blake plant in Dixwell avenue, Hamden, this morning. A few men who appeared to be picketing were in the street. State officers were not far distant.

The factory has been having three shifts of wire workers. Last night when it was time for the night group to go in, the crowd outside the gates ran into many hundreds. The crowd and police said the night workers went on. F. B. Kingsbury, the general manager said those employees were in the plant. It was played the factory was dark during the early morning.

Police Hunt a Mad Cat That Always Disappears

Gloucester Bay, N. S., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Nathan Green's cat went on a rampage and here's what happened:

Tabby attacked Mrs. Green and the maid, who repulsed her broomstick and sent for Green.

Green rushed home from work and Tabby had disappeared once more.

The seventh act was under way today. A half-dozen policemen patrolled Gloucester Bay, armed with rifles in search of Tabby, believed to be mad.

He retreated. Tabby disappeared. Police got a call from the Green home. Tabby had turned up again, and Mrs. Green and the maid had looked themselves in a room for safety.

Police arrived at the Green home, but Tabby had disappeared once more.

A policeman ordered Mrs. Green to throw a scratching post into the yard. Tabby found a scratching post and hid the rumble seat.

Another Monarch of Finance Faces Inquisitor Pecora

The depression hit the Chase Securities Corporation to the tune of about $120,000,000. It was revealed at the Senate Banking investigation at which Albert H. Wiggin (left), retired head of the Chase National Bank, was a chief witness. He is shown during the hearing with Ferdinand Pecora (right), counsel for the Senate committee, and William D. Embree (center), attorney for Winstrop Aldrich, present head of the Chase National.

BENEFITS FOR WAR VETS CUT MORE THAN A HALF

Special Boards Have Already Reviewed 50 Percent of the Presumptive Cases Washington Says.

(Copyright 1933, by A. P.)
Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Less than half the war veterans whose future benefit payments depend on proving their presumptive disability to be service connected today seemed in line for continued compensation.

Special boards of the veteran's administration have reviewed fifty per cent of the presumptive cases. Unofficial but closely checked figures showed only forty per cent of this cross section entitled to retain their benefits.

Brig. General Frank L. Hines, veterans administrator, has asked President Roosevelt to extend the October 31 deadline for the boards to pass on the remainder of cases where compensation has been paid on the presumption the former soldiers contracted their disabilities during war service.

Will Help Veterans
Such an extension would mean veterans who have been getting 75 per cent of their former compensation since March 20, when the economy act was enacted, will continue to receive that amount until their cases are acted on.

Although previous estimates of the presumptive cases have ranged as high as 150,000, a wall informed source today placed them at nearer 50,000.

Conclusions of the review boards were awaited eagerly by veteran organizations.

Court of Last Appeal
Of particular importance to them was the personnel of the general board of review—the court of last appeal from decisions of the state groups—which was reported today to be ready for announcement next week.

The fate of the presumptive disability veterans has overshadowed the bonus and other elements of past veterans efforts. The veterans of foreign wars is continuing its bonus-inflation campaign, but the American Legion at its recent convention did not pass a bonus resolution. Both are more concerned now with keeping to a minimum the benefit losses.

TREASURY BALANCE
Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The position of the Treasury on October 18 was: Receipts for October, $1,189,731,856.86; expenditures, $212,209,371.89; net balance, $1,029,129,437.35; customs receipts for the month, $18,669,811.95.

Receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1) $864,113,924.97; expenditures, $1,232,854,670.45, including $349,152,606.10 for emergency relief; excess of expenditures over receipts $368,740,745.48.

Processing Taxes
Today's status of processing taxes levies: A $348,000,000 processing tax on hogs and one with estimated receipts of from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 on corn which Secretary Wallace has ordered into effect Nov. 5, for two years.

A thirty cents a bushel tax on wheat which went into effect July 9, with receipts forecast at $136,000,000 next year.

Cotton—The 4.2 cent per pound tax levied since August 1, is scheduled to yield $150,000,000. The administration is committed to its continuance for another year to finance its new average control program, so it will yield $90,000,000.

Tobacco Tax
Tobacco—Taxes on various types of tobacco recently ordered into effect are scheduled to yield at least $20,000,000 this year and another $20,000,000 next year.

Milk and milk-products—The farm administration contemplates a levy of one cent a pound on butterfat to yield up to $30,000,000 during each of two years.

Rice is one more farm commodity listed in the farm act as "basic" but here the production control-price boosting program is being handled by the Federal Reserve Bank.

ASKS FOR BOOZE BEFORE HE DIES
Condemned Man Refuses to Plead for Clemency—His Wish Gratified.

San Quentin, Calif., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Dallas Egan, who asked for whiskey and nothing else, hangs on the San Quentin prison gallows today, his wish gratified.

Informed Egan had refused to plead for clemency, but asked for whiskey, Gov. James Rolph, jr., told Dr. L. Stanley, acting warden, to "give him all he can stand and let him go happy."

The condemned man drank from an eight-ounce bottle of Kentucky Bourbon given him last night by Dr. Stanley. "It's good," he said. "Thank the governor for me."

"I'm all set and ready to go," Stanley said the killer told him. "The gallows are the best way out."

GERMANY BOUND BY THE LEAGUE, GENEVA CLAIMS

League Covenant Is Part of Treaty of Versailles, Officials Say; Different Than Japan's Withdrawal.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 20.—(AP)—League of Nations officials emphasized today that Germany is bound indefinitely by the Covenant of the League despite its resignation, since the covenant is a part of the Treaty of Versailles.

This point was emphasized while the officials drew attention to the wide difference between Japan's bolt from the organization and Germany's withdrawal.

Japan resigned because the League Assembly condemned her Manchurian policy. Germany announced her intention as a protest that the League has not done enough for her.

Hence, league quarters believe that it will be easier for the Reich to return to Geneva than for Japan, but they admit this hinges on whether concessions are made to Germany.

League circles ascribed Chancellor Hitler's sudden decision to dispatch the resignation to the fact that the four-power conversations had not advanced.

It was reported that Premier Mussolini of Italy had stayed Hitler's hand while sounding out the powers, but that when the soundings failed, the German chancellor decided to break with Geneva before awaiting the Reich plebiscite of Nov. 12.

It was explained that the view concerning Germany's League withdrawal was based on the expectation that political tension in Europe will be increased.

Instead of being a voluntary association in world peace machinery created by the League, some quarters felt, Germany may now become a hostile outsider.

As receipt of the official notification.

DALADIER FIGHTS FOR CABINET'S LIFE

French Premier Says Right Wing Will Gain Control If It Falls.

Paris, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The government's chances of surviving improved overnight as the supporters of Premier Edouard Daladier frightened the Socialists with the prediction that the Right Wing would gain control if the Cabinet fell.

Mr. Daladier's fight for the Cabinet's life and the protection of the franc will begin openly Sunday, when the Chamber of Deputies debates budget.

Despite the overnight improvement, the Cabinet admitted the precariousness of its position in the face of the opposition to many of the budgetary measures, particularly the reduction of the functionaries salaries and pensions.

As a last possible resort in his battle for passage of his legislative program, the Premier considered a direct appeal to the Chamber of Deputies to vote on his budget balancing measures.

As things stood today, the opposition had no uniform plan of action and it was considered possible Daladier might get variously composed majorities for separate articles.

Chances of obtaining a majority for the whole, however, appeared slim.

His program, in part, contemplated raising eight billion francs (about $440,000,000) through economies and taxes.

FALLS TO DEATH FROM 10TH FLOOR

Former Mayor of Fort William, Ontario, Suffers a Heart Attack.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Eugene Murphy, former mayor of Fort William, Ontario, fell to his death today from a tenth floor window of the Waldorf Astoria hotel.

Murphy's mother, Mrs. James Murphy and his brother, James Philip Murphy, were in an adjoining room.

The body landed on a wire screen over a skylight set in the roof of a fifth floor extension of the hotel on the 49th street side, near Park avenue.

The Murphy brothers, operators of a coal business formerly conducted by their father who died five years ago, registered at the hotel with their mother Tuesday. They were to have started back tonight for their home in Fort William. James Murphy told police that they were here on a coal agency proposition.

Heart Attack
James told police he believed his brother suffered a heart attack at the moment he opened a window in his room to let fresh air in. He recalled that his father had died of a heart attack. After an investigation, police pronounced the death an accident. Besides the brother's story, they learned from other guests with windows on the same floor that Murphy collapsed as he raised the window, fell against the draft pane, breaking it, and then fell to his death.

James said his brother was mayor of Fort William in 1921 and 1922 and since then had been engaged with him in the coal business. He was 55 years old.

MORGAN PUZZLED OVER BANK RULES

Famous Banker in First Interview Says He Is Ignorant Concerning Details.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—J. P. Morgan, America's most noted banker, was in a quandary about the new banking laws as he returned on the Berengaria today from a sojourn of three months in Europe.

"It is the business of banks to obey the law," he said, "but I don't know yet what that means."

Morgan's interview was the first he ever granted to ship news reporters.

He talked enthusiastically about improvement in England but declined to comment on the NRA or anything that had been going on in this country.

"Don't you see," he said, "I want to get the feel of the water and talk to those who do know what's going on."

"Do you feel," he was asked, "that private bankers will have to concentrate on investment banking rather than commercial banking as the result of the new banking law?"

Needs Information
"When I went away three months ago," he replied, "I said I didn't know what the new laws meant and that we would have to find out first and then do whatever we are supposed to do."

He was told that another banker had stated the new banking law was "impossible" and would have to be rewritten.

"If it makes banking impossible, then it is hardly worth while to have banking, is it?" he said.

Morgan sat with his legs crossed.

PART OF AUSTRIAN ARMY GOES OVER TO GERMANY

Socialist Paper Says Seven Battalions Have Deserted—20,000 Austrian Nazis Leave Also.

Vienna, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Orders to shoot to kill Nazi demonstrators were issued today to the police of Dornbirn in the Vorarlberg district to impress the populace with the seriousness of the situation.

Vienna, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The government today made public a decree authorizing the immediate dismissal of railroad employees and the immediate cancellation of the pensions of inactive workers who further anti-government movements.

Meanwhile, the secretly circulated Socialist organ, "Wahrheit," said approximately one-tenth of the Austrian army has deserted and gone to Germany. This would mean the defection of seven battalions.

It was not apparent yet whether the railroad decree would be applied first against the Nazi workers or the members of the Socialist railway unions.

Instructions were circulated among the Socialist railway workers to be prepared to strike if the unions are touched.

The Federal railways have 65,000 active employees and 73,000 pensioners.

CUBA NOW FACES BRAND NEW CRISIS

Powerful ABC Radical Society Threatens to Withdraw Its Support Soon.

Havana, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Threats of a new crisis faced the troubled regime of President Ramon Grau San Martin today.

They loomed in the prospect of an impending break away by the powerful ABC radical society—one of Grau's strongest supporting arms when he took over the reins after the overthrow of Carlos Manuel de Cespedes.

They were intensified by reports of unrest bred of labor difficulties throughout the island, the spread to 24 of malaria cases in the city of Havana, trouble concerning the imprisonment of officers captured in the National hotel battle.

The ABCR (not to be confused with the ABC) student organization of which it is an offshoot, is "disgusted with the government's proceedings," said Amado Rodon, the leader.

To Withdraw
"It lent its support disinterestedly and got nothing from the participation. Now it is withdrawing. Even after this, however, efforts were continued to patch up differences.

A newspaper printed a letter from Senator Borah of Idaho, to President Grau which said "the major-

Washington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported by Representative Trux (D., Ohio), today, after a conference between them, to be ready to take action in the face of unrest among farmers. The House member, who had taken to the White House a proposal for price fixing on agricultural commodities, told reporters on leaving that Mr. Roosevelt was confident that the "farm revolt" would be adjusted.

Trux proposed prices of a dollar a bushel for wheat, 7 cents a pound for hogs and 10 cents for cattle.

"The President is confident at the situation working out," he said, "and I think he has some very definite ideas in his mind in the way of prompt action."

He said he did not know just what was in the presidential mind.

The Ohio Democrat, severely condemned the administration of the Agriculture Adjustment Act and asserted that Secretary "Wallace and his professors are doing no good."

He told the president that "the old Hoover Republicans" were administering the farm relief program in his state and "trying to discredit the act and get the President in a hole."

He complained of the administration of the farm refinancing program and said the appraisers "are insulting the farmers by appraising property one third of its value."

Mr. Roosevelt conferred at length with Mr. Trux in addition to other callers.

A presidential press conference was scheduled for late afternoon, with indications that something important would be forthcoming.

Taking special notice of the central northwest movement, George N. Peck, farm administrator, in a statement expressed sympathy with farmers but asserted that fundamental adjustments in agriculture are essential before extensive relief to farmers will be possible.

Credit Extension
Meanwhile, other officials authorized a statement that special credit extension plans for wheat and corn are being studied by the newly created Commodity Credit Corporation.

The corporation's first assignment is the extension of loans of eight and ten cents a pound on cotton held by farmers who agree to join the administration's production control program for next year.

It was said that the credit plans for both wheat and corn are still in a "semi-embryonic" state.

"All these people are trying to do is to save their homes," Peck read. "I, too, would fight to hold my home."

How Was Warmed
"We have been warming the east for 12 years that things like this would happen unless the incomes of farmers were increased."

"We have been fighting to raise farm prices and also to hold supply so as to support higher prices and being permanent recovery rather than merely invite new surpluses and new disaster."

"Every department ever made to meet prices without reference to

REACH NO DECISION ON STORES CLOSING

Merchants Debate Question Over an Hour Without Setting a Schedule.

After more than an hour of futile discussion on a closing schedule under the proposed retail code, a general walkout of merchants present at a special meeting of the South Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce at Watkins Auditorium this morning made it necessary for the few members remaining to table the matter and adjourn until one week after the retail code has been accepted.

Exactly twenty-five members of the Division attended the meeting to discuss and take action on four important items of business relative to the fall and winter activities of the Division. When the matter of a closing schedule under the proposed retail code, which has not yet been signed, was brought before the meeting, discussion followed discussion and motion followed motion, until it was completely impossible to restore a semblance of order. At last, when it was seen that no agreement could be reached, a majority of those present left the meeting.

Little time was lost in endorsing the first three recommendations of the executive committee of the Division, all of which were passed without a dissenting voice. On motion of Fred Blish, Sr., it was moved that the stores close from 10 to 12 o'clock on Saturday, Armistice Day, in response to a request from the Joint Permanent Armistice Day committee.

Christmas Lights. On motion of Herbert B. House it was voted that the chair appoint a committee to raise funds for the annual Christmas lighting project, this project to be carried out as far as funds will allow. November 20 was set as the date on which the entire amount necessary to finance the lighting, estimated at $600, must be obtained.

On motion of Elmer Weden it was voted that local stores remain open until 9 o'clock each night of the week before Christmas, this being a slight alteration of the Executive Committee's recommendation to include 9 o'clock opening on Monday night also. As the result of this vote, stores will remain open until 9 o'clock from December 18 through December 23. Christmas Day falls on the following Monday.

Code Requirements. Chairman Leroy Slocum was the first speaker on the closing schedule under the retail code, advocating that local stores increase their hours from 60 per week to 63 per week, as under the latter schedule it will be possible to employ help 48 hours per week under the proposed code. Under the 60 hours per week schedule, now in force as a result of action taken at the annual meeting of the Division last January, employees can be worked 44 hours per week under the provision of the retail code. The President's Reemployment Agreement calls for 40 hours per week for employees, with the exception of food stores which are allowed to employ help 48 hours per week.

William Rubinov advocated the continuation of a 40 hour week for employees and suggested that stores open at 9:30 o'clock each morning of the week and close at 5:30 o'clock with the exception of Thursday and Saturday evenings, a reduction of five hours in all for the week. Several present expressed favor with the suggestion for 5:30 o'clock closing but not 9:30 o'clock opening.

John I. Olson brought up Wednesday afternoon closing, pointing out that sixty per cent of the local stores have continued the half-day through the fall. Leonard Richman endorsed Olson's suggestion that all local stores close Wednesday afternoon throughout the year, as did William Lyons of Montgomery Ward. C. Elmore Watkins stated that the policy of Wednesday afternoon closing would injure the business of the stores and that Watkins Brothers would not be able to follow such a procedure.

E. J. McCabe read a letter from Philip S. Comstock, first vice president of the Atlantic & Pacific States in which the latter pointed out that a majority of the stores would be in direct violation of the spirit and letter of the NRA and that under no circumstances would the A. & P. chain follow such a course, despite the action of other local stores.

Longer Hours. Mr. Rubinov brought up the state law which limits the employment of women ten hours per day to only one day a week. Elmer Weden stated that the codes of the NRA will take care of this question. Mr. Slocum again reiterated that to shorten store hours would defeat the spirit of the NRA and again advocated longer hours.

Mr. Richman proposed that Thursday night opening until 9 o'clock be eliminated. Warren Keith asked for the signing of the meeting in regard to shorter hours but the request was overlooked when Mr. Rubinov made a motion to table the question until the retail code is signed.

Mr. House defended Wednesday afternoon closing after E. J. McCabe had said that the stores are not following the agreement made at the annual meeting to keep open every day of the week, save in the summer when Wednesday afternoon closing is in effect. On motion of Fred Blish, Sr., it was moved that the stores close from 10 to 12 o'clock on Saturday, Armistice Day, in response to a request from the Joint Permanent Armistice Day committee.

Mr. Rubinov requested that the question before the meeting, namely to table the matter, be considered. Mr. McCabe spoke against the motion, urging that action be taken at once in order that a uniform closing schedule could be maintained, pointing out that the stores will otherwise continue to break down the present schedule.

Many Leave. Mr. Rubinov later said that it was the purpose of his motion to include continuation of the present closing schedule and Mr. Weden then withdrew his support of the original motion. At this point, shortly after 11 o'clock, the members began to walk out until only a scattered few remained.

Fred Blish, Sr. then moved that the meeting be adjourned and the question be tabled until one week after the code is signed. This motion was seconded by Mr. Rubinov and voted by about seven members who were all that were left of the original group present.

MAY INCREASE BUILDING FEES

In Discussing Code for Contractors Matter of Licensing Is Introduced.

A general increase in fees for building permits for the town of Manchester and provisions for a more strict regulation and inspection of the affiliated tradesmen were approved by the Board of Selectmen and representatives of the Manchester Construction League last night at a conference of the two groups in the Municipal building. Action was taken last night to draw up an approved code for the building and affiliated trades which will be presented at a town meeting to be called later.

What If Adopted Now. The proposed building code was presented to the board several days before the annual town meeting, but due to changes to be made, which could not be effected before the town meeting, action was deferred until later in the season. At the time of the first meeting to consider action for increasing building permit fees and more stringent examination and licensing of operatives, it was the consensus of the Construction League representatives that the new code should be approved and placed in operation without delay, as proposed regulations governing new construction in town would render the office of Building Inspector self-supporting.

At last night's meeting, the entire code was read and taken up in sections by the assembly. Chairman Aaron Cook presided and the contractors and tradesmen were represented by Gustave Schreiber, local contractor.

Under the new code examination for licenses of tradesmen will cost $5, examination of the tradesman to be made by an executive board consisting of two master tradesmen and the building inspector. The annual fee for a master tradesman was proposed to be $35 and $5 for journeymen workmen. Renewal for the former will be $5 and $1 for the latter. Only master tradesmen may take on contract work and the licenses of all workmen will run from January 1 to December 31 each year.

It is the intention of the committee to call for a special town meeting when the changes in the code have been approved by the committee and the Selectmen. It is expected that there will be considerable local opposition to the proposal of the committee to license contractors, the fee to be $50. The latter proposal was not approved after a long discussion. It was given to the town counsel for legal approval.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

My highest compliments this day to Mrs. Baker's showing of boucle and novelty yarn dresses on the second floor at Hale's. They're stunning, they're smart, they're well, see them yourself and you'll be lost for words!

Every debutante or other young girl longs for a black dress. To the young that seems the ideal of sophistication. This being a sensible era, black dresses are now made for the day. But they are made on such youthful lines that they make her seem younger and sweeter, instead of blase.

Found! A way to save on many unclay-like expressions—just buy Marvo—Wear stockings at Hale's. They are amazing. You can now smile at rough deck corners. These stockings are a chignon service in the newest autumn shades and are $1.15 a pair.

Chocolate stains are hard to remove if you don't know how, and ordinary washing may "set" the stain so it's almost impossible to remove it. First sprinkle the stain with powdered borax and soak in cold water for twenty minutes. Then stretch over a bowl and pour boiling water through it.

What a terrible thing—to have your vacuum cleaner break down in the middle of housecleaning. But don't worry too much if it does because you can have it repaired very quickly and reasonably at the Norton Electrical Instrument Company—dial 4060. It might even be a good idea to let them look over your machine before you start cleaning.

Did you know that the idea of buttons and vent on men's coats sleeves had its origin at the time when men's sleeves were made much as shirt sleeves are today so that they could easily be turned back when there was work to be done; that the lapels on men's coats collars used to stand up with lapels that could be buttoned across the chest? The small notch in the button hole have survived to this day.

Here's something else about Watkins' 59th Anniversary Sale. You can get one of those Beagle-Dual ranges on anniversary terms—$2.50 a week. This type of stove bakes or cooks with either gas or coal. These ranges are very attractive as well as most practical. You can see them in the window now.

GOV. CROSS ANSWERS REV. LACKLAND'S CHARGE

State Executive Says He Had Two Churchmen on the Liquor Study Board.

Hartford, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Replying to the Rev. George S. Lackland's accusations yesterday at New Haven before the Women's Christian Temperature Union convention that he had shown partiality to the wet cause in the selection of his liquor study commission, Governor Wilbur L. Cross today said:

"Perhaps if the Rev. Mr. Lackland had been recommended to me by anybody, as a member of the commission, I appointed, to draft the liquor control bill, he would not have been overlooked. "Having no acquaintance with him, I appointed two other representatives of the church, the Rev. Robbins W. Barstow and the Rt. Rev. William Flynn, chancellor of the Roman Catholic diocese of Hartford. I still think that they were the very best men available for this important public service.

"I am glad to be informed that Mr. Lucius F. Robinson dictated some of the liquor portions of my speeches. This is the first news I have received of having a ghost writer. I often wish that I had one."

WOODS WORKER ARRESTED.

Torrington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Lindsay C. Beveridge, 22, of Oakville, was arrested at the Civilian Conservation Corps camp at West Goshen this morning and is being held at the Canaan state police barracks in lieu of bonds of $5,000 awaiting trial in the Litchfield court tomorrow.

It is alleged that Beveridge, in company with Daniel Burns of Waterbury and Hollis H. Mosnier, a soldier at Fort Wright, now held in New London in connection with a robbery there, held up Mitchell's restaurant in Litchfield on the night of September 1.

Here's a Combination Cabbage Salad—This salad is appetizing with game and fowl or almost any kind of meat. Three cups sliced cabbage, 1 cup sliced carrot apple, 1-2 cup thinly sliced pineapple, cooked salad dressing. Let cabbage stand in cold water to become very crisp. Drain and combine at once with prepared apple and carrot. Add enough acid dressing to make moist and serve on a bed of lettuce.

Be sure to read Janet Beth's new twenty thousand dollar prize novel "No Second Spring" at the Remnant Room Library, Cheney hall. They also have received some fine new novels and non-fiction.

If you're going to have a large party and are at a loss as to what to do with a few suggestions. For the chicken salad allow four large or five small chickens and 12 heads of celery. You will need one hundred sandwiches. Two loaves of a light cake such as angel food, four lawyer cakes and some coolies, three gallons of ice cream and one and one-half pounds of coffee and three pints of cream for the coffee—and a good time should be had by all.

Don't fail to visit Chaney Brothers' Salesroom next week. They're having an autumn sale on velvets. It's just the time to select the material for that evening gown or dinner dress you are going to want very soon. There are five hundred yards to be sold at a special price—$2.25 a yard.

TO REVOKE LICENSE OF CREDIT COMPANY

Hartford, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Commissioner M. A. Connor of the state motor vehicle department, has revoked the license of the Colonial Credit Company of East Hartford as dealers and repairers. Before leaving for Harrisburg, Pa., yesterday Colonel Connor advised the company of his decision following the hearing in which it was brought out that agents of the company had apparently induced prospects to sign bills of sale under the guise they were signing documents to cover the absence of dealers' markers, should their absence be noted by inspectors of the motor vehicle department.

Yesterday Judge Richard O'Connell of the East Hartford town court dismissed charges of obtaining goods under false pretenses, which had been filed against James Finerty, an employee of the company, for lack of sufficient evidence to convict. He reserved decision Monday, when the case was tried.

MCKEE IN ATTACK ON OGDEN MILLS

Says Former Cabinet Officer Is In New York Campaign to Help Self.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Presidential ambitions for 1938 were ascribed to Ogdan L. Mills today by Joseph V. McKee, Independent Democratic candidate for mayor, who characterized the former cabinet member's support to Fiorello LaGuardia as a subtle attack on President Roosevelt.

McKee's assertions and Mills' publicly announced support of LaGuardia, progressive Republican seeking election on the Fusion ticket, threw wide open the National aspects of the New York city mayoral campaign.

McKee said Mills, secretary of the treasury under President Hoover, knew LaGuardia "is a Communist at heart," and "unworthy" of election.

"He sees in the campaign an opportunity to set up the Republican machine here in this city as a vehicle for Mills' candidacy for President in 1936," McKee declared.

Mills has been regarded as the outstanding figure in the ranks of Old Guard Republicans, and his entrance into the New York campaign has been regarded by political camps here as of great significance.

McKee said Mills, Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, former United States Attorney Charles H. Tuttle and other Republicans were lending their support to LaGuardia for political advantage.

McKee said the most "implicable foe" of both Mills and President Hoover during the last days of the Hoover administration was then Representative LaGuardia who sat on the Republican side of the house.

"Mr. Mills knows," McKee asserted, "that LaGuardia is a Communist at heart." "Why is Mr. Mills in this campaign?" "He sees in this campaign an opportunity to set up the Republican machine here in this city as a vehicle for Mills' candidacy for the Presidency in 1936. He wants to change the Tammany machine for the Republican machine."

"In this support of his it is not love for LaGuardia, but that Mr. Mills sees in it a grand opportunity to strike at President Roosevelt and aid his own personal chances for the Presidency in 1936."

"He is trying to make the administration of the affairs of this city the opportunity for the advancement of the Republican party."

Queer Twists In Day's News

Indianapolis—A certain blond young man has found employment. Last Saturday he robbed two church choir singers of a $68 watch and some cash, saying he "would not have to steal" if he could get work. One said she would pray for him. Yesterday, a blond youth entered the church and left a "package for the pastor." It contained the watch and a note saying "Your prayers are answered."

Kansas City—For a half hour, the Sun-Treaders Club, an amateur astronomy group, stood atop an apartment hotel counting what they thought a shower of meteors.

Then one of the "torontide" honked. Mixed in the count with the celestial shower were wild ducks, their wings made luminous by city lights.

Navy, Okla.—Like the praying colonels of Centre college the University of Oklahoma football squad men enter their games with a benediction in their ears.

Casey Cason, a big blond tackle from Lakeland, Fla., leads the Sooners in prayer, before they trot out to face the foe.

Bob Dunlap, Oklahoma's triple threat all-day six quarterback, teaches a Sunday school class, "Waynesburg, Pa.—The Canadian 'mounties' are good, too, but deputy Sheriff Neo W. Howard likes to get his man himself. Seeking Charles E. Burklely on a morals charge, Howard traced the man to Indianapolis to Baltimore to Philadelphia and finally to the Mounted's own Canada. There he caught him.

Fairmont, W. Va.—Postmaster Harry Engle gave several persons counterfeit $10 bills and asked them to try to pass them at the postoffice just as a test. Not one got by.

Cincinnati—A man with a mustache robbed Frank Smith, Harry Angling, 24, was taken into custody. During a night in jail, he pulled out his mustache, using his fingers for tweezers. The robbery victim has yet to attempt to identify him.

Now! you can get the money you need.

Here you can get from $10 to $100 cash on just your own signature without security. Only cost is a monthly charge of three per cent on the unpaid balance. For example the average monthly cost of $100 is only $1.65 when repaid in 10 monthly payments.

AL SMITH RECALLS HE WAS A CANDIDATE

Says He Has Recollection That He Once Ran for President of the United States.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Alfred H. Smith testified in Supreme Court today that he had "a recollection" that he was the 1923 Democratic candidate for President of the United States.

The former governor was a witness in the trial of a suit brought by the County Trust Company, of which Smith is chairman of the board, to recover $50,000 on a note signed by Timothy J. Mara, sports promoter, and $20,000 on a note signed by Patrick F. Kenny, plumbing contractor.

When Smith took the stand he was asked by Joseph M. Proskauer, counsel for the bank, if he was the man who had been referred to in previous testimony as the 1923 Democratic candidate for the presidency.

"I have a recollection of it," Smith replied, without a smile.

Both Mara and Kenny have contended that they were told by the late James J. Riordan, president of the bank before his death in 1929, that they were to sign the notes merely as a formality and that they were not expected to make them good.

Smith testified that Mara had replied, without a smile.

OXFORD MOVEMENT IS 100 YEARS OLD

Episcopalians to Hold a Catholic Congress Next Week in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 20—(AP)—Celebrating the centenary of the Oxford movement, Episcopalians hold in Philadelphia next week a Catholic Congress which promises to be outstanding in the denomination's American history.

Opening Sunday and concluding Thursday, the program reaches its climax with a Congress mass in the Municipal convention hall Tuesday. One thousand bishops, priests, acolytes and choir singers are to march in the procession.

England, the home of the Oxford movement; Canada, Central America and all parts of the United States will be represented.

The Rev. Dr. James De Wolf Perry, of Providence, R. I., presiding bishop of the church, is to preach the sermon at the Congress mass while the Rev. Dr. Benjamin F. P. Ivens, bishop of Milwaukee, and the Rev. Dr. Francis M. Taft, bishop of Pennsylvania, also will have thrones on the altar.

Start of Movement

This Congress commemorates the beginning of the Oxford movement within the Church of England, generally dated from July 14, 1833, when the Rev. John Keble preached his assize sermon, criticizing what he considered to be imminent danger of national apostasy.

Dissatisfied with the liberalism of the church in their day, Keble and his associates brought forth a series of 90 tracts reaffirming the old faith and vastly influencing the church's subsequent history.

England will be represented by Will Spier, C. E. E., vice chancellor of Cambridge University, and the Rev. Dr. George D. Rosenthal, of Birmingham.

Among the many prominent Americans on the program are Bishop William T. Manning, of New York; Bishop George Craig Stewart, of Chicago; Bishop Samuel E. Booth, of Vermont; the Rev. Dr. James O. S. SAYS 3.2 BEER DRINKERS ARE MOST DANGEROUS

Chicago, Oct. 20—(AP)—The accuracy of University of Chicago chemist whose experiments recently found 3.2 beer to be nonintoxicating was challenged today by the Women's Christian Temperance Union.

The W. C. T. U. said there were stages of intoxication and that some of the early stages were more dangerous than "staggering drunkenness."

In an article prepared for the Union Signal, W. C. T. U. official paper, Miss Emma L. Transeau, research secretary of the Scientific Temperance Federation of Boston, charged that the Chicago Chemists actually proved that opposite of what their report showed.

"These investigators, so far as we can learn, showed that one to four bottles of 3.2 beer can produce as much as five parts of alcohol in 10,000 parts of blood," said Miss Transeau.

Miss Transeau quoted Dr. Walter R. Miles of the Carnegie Nutrition Laboratory in Boston as finding the following scale of toxic symptoms: Two parts of alcohol in 10,000 parts of blood, dizziness and willingness to talk.

Three parts in 10,000: Expansiveness and willingness to loan money. Four parts in 10,000: Clumsiness and loud talk. Five parts in 10,000: Forgetfulness of inhibitions.

"It is not the man who is staggering drunk, with 10 parts of alcohol in 10,000 parts of his blood, sagging his car along the road who is the worst menace," said a W. C. T. U. bulletin. "He advertises his condition and doesn't get far before he is stopped. The drinker the public has most to fear is the one in the lower stages of intoxication."

LIVES OF HOMELESS BOYS BARED IN FILM

"Wild Boys of the Road" Tells Sensational Story of Half a Million Wandering Youngsters.

The newest sensational picture of actual happenings to follow "I Am a Fugitive From a Chain Gang" out of the First National Studio is "Wild Boys of the Road," which comes to the State Theater on Sunday.

It was feared when "Fugitive" was made that people would not believe that such conditions existed. The same fear governed the production of "Wild Boys." Yet the facts are true and unvarnished—although unknown to perhaps ninety per cent of the population of the country.

In the juvenile court of Judge Blake in Los Angeles alone, from sixty to seventy of these "Wild Boys" are tried every day. And this is duplicated in every city of the country. Caught in the freight yards, they are haled into juvenile court, where they are offered their choice of serving a term for vagrancy or going to work for the state at seventy-five cents a day.

They invariably accept the latter alternative and are put to work by the state on roads and farms. Their pay, however, is not given to them, but saved for them until an amount sufficient to pay their fare home has been earned, when they are taken off the pay roll and shipped to their home towns.

Among the seventy boys tried by Judge Blake, three or four are generally girls dressed in boys' clothes! The picture paints the adventures and hardships in the lives of

SIXTY-SIX ARE LOST AS JAP SHIP SINKS

Kobe, Japan, Oct. 20—(AP)—Sixty-six persons, including an English woman, were feared to have perished today when the coastwise steamer Yashima Maru foundered in a typhoon off Suma near here.

Owners of the vessel said their figures showed that of the crew of 58 and 59 passengers, 51 survivors had been reported. She was en route here from Beppu, Japan.

The Yashima Maru, formerly the British mine sweeper Sunflower, at first was reported to have burned but later it was learned she succumbed to the storm, almost within sight of her destination, according to survivors.

The typhoon also carried death to fishing fleets. Several ports reported that craft fouled or missing with their crews totaled nearly 100.

FRIDAY, OCTOBER 20, 1933.

PINNACLE, PRECIPICES

No other President ever came to office with such a tremendous rallying of the nation behind him as Franklin D. Roosevelt. None other ever presented so bold a program of more uncompromising and earnestly pledged himself to the extirpation of injurious economic error. Almost as one man the people flung themselves under his banner.

No one—always excepting a numerically unimportant group—doubted the profound sincerity of the new President's planning for the common weal; no one questioned, or now questions, the depth and earnestness of his purpose to bring better times to the scores of millions of the common people, re-employment to the jobless, markets to the products of agriculture and orders to the books of the industries.

Within the next six weeks, in all human probability, it will be determined whether President Roosevelt is to continue to be the white-plumed Henry of Navarre about whom the whole force of American effort centers or whether he shall suffer the most spectacular eclipse that has ever come to an American chief executive.

Every observer whose opinion is worth a straw's weight agrees in the conviction that Congress is, by an immense majority, desperately determined on instituting a regime of inflation and that nothing on earth can prevent it from adopting such a policy in the early hours of the forthcoming session if in the meantime Mr. Roosevelt has not anticipated such action by effecting a very real extension expansion of the currency by executive command.

Congress—and not only Congress but industrial and business circles throughout the country—is seething with unrest over the suspicion that the same deflationary interests which have succeeded in destroying almost half the value of the national inventory since 1929 have regained so much influence at Washington that they are, for the time being at least, in control of the government's fiscal policy.

Such a course could easily be construed, and very certainly would be construed by many, as a mere device to forestall Congressional action of possibly much more drastic character. If Congress ever does become convinced that the President has turned to inflation solely for the sake of saving his leadership and not out of conviction, then heaven help the leadership. If he does not turn to inflation at all, even belatedly, Congress, we may be quite sure, will attack him with a violence that will completely outdo the enthusiasm with which it followed him last spring.

There is already a stormy undercurrent of muttering that Mr. Roosevelt has surrendered to the very people who betrayed Mr. Hoover in his efforts to restore business through "credit inflation," that he is losing his conviction that the currency must be expanded in order to raise values, in favor of the old, old fallacy that the nation can be made prosperous through more lendings, the piling up of more debt and the building of a still greater structure of interest; which is the banker-pawnbroker philosophy.

To this fear, which carries with it the implication that the President is after all a vacillating person of no fixed fiscal creed, we do not at all subscribe. We have a theory that the President knows very well that none of these "credit expansion" moves is worth a hoot in the dark, but is giving them their chance for the sake of the record, and that he has every intention of resorting to inflation—after he has shown conclusively that no other recourse is of any avail.

There is in this, however, if it is what the President is trying to do, an element of danger that we do not believe he fully realizes. He is in far more peril of losing his grip on the country, meantime, than he probably dreams of. Time presses. Business in October is showing the effect of serious deflationary poisoning. Thousands upon thousands of enterprises which entered wholesomely into the Roosevelt Recovery adventure are becoming frightened.

They are bad friends of the administration, bad friends of national recovery, who withheld from the President the knowledge of this gathering storm of revolt against deflationist influence in the government, be that influence real or apparent. There are always king-flatterers and history is full of the wreckage they have caused. He will prove himself the best and truest friend of this administration who succeeds in making Franklin D. Roosevelt see that the pinnacle on which he has stood for seven months is faced by precipices that fall straight down into an abyss.

LUNCHLESS SHIFTS.

From one or another badly informed source there has come recently more or less criticism of certain Connecticut industries for "compelling" their employees to work for unusually long periods without opportunity to leave their tasks for lunch. Instances of eight hours of steady employment without a break have been cited as indicating the lengths to which some employers will go in exacting the last ounce of effort from their workers and their willingness to treat human beings as if they were machines.

Insofar as it is attempted to apply such criticism to the textile mills in this vicinity scarcely anything could be more unfair. It is, to be sure, rather shocking to a good many people to learn that men and women are kept at their machines for such a long period as eight hours at a stretch, and there would seem to be little question about such extended periods of uninterrupted labor being beyond the physical or nervous capacity of the majority of workers; that any such long continued strain must result in all but a very few instances either in constitutional impairment or in temporary nervous or temperamental strain reflected in discontent, unhappiness and the permanent grouch.

But less indignation be too speedily aroused against the employers of people thus overworked let time be taken of one extremely relevant fact: The condition is the result of the choice not of the employer but of the workers themselves.

Not in Manchester, Rockville or Talcootville, so far as we have been able to ascertain, is there a single instance of a manufacturing concern compelling its employees to work an eight-hour straightaway shift. In every case where such a system has been adopted, according to our information, the eight-hour straightaway is the result of the expressed desire of a majority of the employees—in Manchester, at least, of the almost unanimous vote of the workers when the choice was given them of a straightaway or a broken shift.

It is very doubtful indeed if there is a single manufacturer in these two counties who conceives himself or his concern to be benefited by eight-hour periods of labor without a break. Most of them, it is certain, would prefer a less nerve-racking arrangement, in the shape of interest of efficiency, for tagged and unhappy workers are not profitable. But since labor has obtained a louder voice in shop arrangements, and since the workers in their enthusiasm over shorter hours have become anxious to spend as little time as possible between the start of the day's work and its finish, the operatives have had their own way about this matter of straightaway shifts.

They probably won't last very long. Eight hours is much too long for men and women to work at top speed without a breathing spell—or at any speed for that matter. No doubt the workers will soon be requesting a change—and no doubt they will get it. In the meantime those who have been criticizing the employers for the unduly long straightaways, if they have any doubt as to the responsibility for the system, will do well to inquire. Let them ask the operatives who proposed the elimination of lunch periods in the mills.

NEBRASKA REVOLT.

It is not surprising that the first open revolt against the NRA among Democrats should develop in Nebraska, since in that state party designations and affiliations mean less and party loyalty is held in slighter esteem, probably, than in any other state in the Union. It makes no difference to the Nebraska farmers whose political ox is gored, Republicans, Democrats or whoever's; if they conceive the idea that something is going on out of which they do not stand to get at least as much benefit as anybody else—and usually they demand a good deal more—they begin to throw their horns around. The mere fact that they voted for a President or a Congress does not in the slightest degree restrain them from demanding his or its scalp the instant they begin to suspect things; and they are inherently suspicious.

Thirty-six Nebraskans voted for Roosevelt last year for every twenty who voted for Hoover. But that doesn't prevent them from shouting now that they have been betrayed. The fact is that Nebraskans seem to have a way of voting, not for party labels or for men, but for measures. They voted for higher prices for their crops through inflation. They haven't received what they voted for and they are whooping out of the reservation.

At all events they are no pusy-foots. Nor are they hampered by any sense of loyalty to a political party—or to the recipients of their votes last year. They are merely howling lustily for what they want and what they believe in. There is something about the Nebraska revolt for the administration to think about, and think fast.

IN NEW YORK

BY JULIA BLANSHARD. New York.—Movers' increased prices have made October make days a serious problem for the less prosperous Greenwich Villagers. Therefore, artists and writers of the neighborhood have taken "Move Yourself" as their slogan.

The result has been a new type of hand-moving. The crooked streets of the neighborhood afford a regular parade of men and women carrying hampers, curtains on poles, arm loads of clothes still on hangers, baskets of gaudy bathroom bottles, hand-made knickknacks and loads of sheet music, books, shoes and hat boxes. Some gave "moving parties" and enlisted their willing guests to help carry their Lareds and Penates to new quarters.

Howard Dalton, popular song writer, had perhaps the most original idea. On a late Saturday night the new tenants in his apartment moved right in on him unexpectedly before he had had a chance to move out. He broached the subject to the movers of turning around and moving his stuff. They refused, wanted to get home. So Howard asked them all to a party going on downstairs—and sent out for more spirits. The movers caught his mood after an hour of dancing with the girls present and about 2 a. m. invited everybody present to help move Howard. They all fell to, and by 4 a. m. he was not only in his new quarters, but practically settled. Then the entire party went out and had scrambled eggs, sausage and coffee at Childs'—on Howard.

The movers refused to take a cent of pay. Never had had such a good time, they declared. Offered to move him free next year, too!

Saving Sinclair's Face. At a dinner at the home of Frances Adams (the artist) the other evening, a minor revolution was threatened when Carlton Durant, Joseph Freeman, Kenneth Duran and other liberals and radicals told Upton Sinclair to his face just what they thought, personally, of his movie, "Thundering Over Mexico." Old Art Young, probably the most lovable artist and cartoonist who ever drew breath, saved the day. In drawing breath for the event, Art in his mellow way softened everybody when things got hottest by putting on what his friends call his "Mississippi Senator" manner and doing an impromptu take-off on just how to break up a dinner party through being too polite. In this he talks in glowing terms to the guest-of-honor's second wife (without knowing who she is) about how wonderful a first wife he had. Then he moves over and condemns divorce in ringing terms to a famous four-ex-husband lady.

Art Young lives in Danbury, Conn., no, in rooms lined with the originals of his pictures and cartoons that appeared in most of America's best publications, in years gone by. Naming the Streets. The mechanical way in which New York gets its "phone change names" (they are scientifically concocted for their numerical value to make dialing possible) is a far cry from the natural way some old New York streets got their appellations.

Fear street was so called because in olden days it used to be piled high with pearl shells. Vesey took its name from the Rev. W. Vesey, who preached his first sermon there in Trinity Church back in 1897. Chinatown's two main streets, Pell and Mott, were named after two American butchers, respectively named Pelland Mott, once had shops in the neighborhood. Beaver street was the original fur center of Gotham, when beaver was one of the chief furs bartered. Moore street was so called because the first ships tying up in New York harbor were moored at the foot of this street. Fulton was named for Robert Fulton.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Supreme Court Stand on New Deal is Awaited Eagerly. Revolution is Visioned in Railway Operation. Old Pennsylvania Avenue Faces Loss of Its Prestige. By WILLIS THORNTON, Manchester Evening Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Oct. 20.—As the Supreme Court convenes again, to sit until May or June at the latest, is focusing on the "nine old men" who are almost certain to have to make vital decisions on the New Deal social legislation. Dean now of the court, the liberal Justice Brandeis is within a month of his 74th birthday on Nov. 14. By the way, Princeton University Press will celebrate the day by publishing a new book which will show how many of Justice Brandeis' dissenting opinions have won acceptance in Congress and in the Supreme Court itself.

Age of the other justices are: Hughes, 71; Van Devanter, 74; McReynolds, 71; Sutherland, 71; Butler, 67; Stone, 61; Roberts, 58, and Cardozo, 63.

That's a total of 613 years of accumulated wisdom (or prejudice, according to your point of view) and sets definitely the average age of the "nine old men" at 68.

Court is Not Almighty. Consideration already is being given here to what would happen if the Supreme Court went the limit and threw out all the New Deal legislation, lock, stock, and barrel, as unconstitutional.

There would be undoubted inconvenience and confusion, but Congress would not be as helpless as many resignedly believe. Faced by such a situation, before the elasticity of our "rigid constitution" met the test.

It was done by Congress changing the number of members of the court. There have been, at various times, ten, six, seven and nine members. The last change was made in Grant's time, in 1869, when two members were added, and Grant saw to it that the proper two were added to get the result he wanted.

So don't be too concerned about the possibility of the Supreme Court upsetting the New Deal applicability. Even venerable Justice Holmes once declared, "I do not think the United States would come to an end if we lost our power to declare an act of Congress void."

The court meets in the Capitol building which is to house it until not be completed for at least another year. The heavy construction end of the NRA drive is apt to get sidetracked from an unexpected source. The fatal wreck recently down east has led to a cry for abolition of all wooden cars on railroads.

A high railroad official also has stated that if the new streamlined trains being built for western railroads are a success, it will mean the end of the entire railroad plant of the country, trains, roadbeds, stations and all.

Prestige Loss Faced. "Historic Pennsylvania Avenue," for decades the route of the nation's greatest pageants and parades, may be eclipsed soon by Constitution Avenue, the new movement to route future inaugural parades and other spectacles on this thoroughfare. It is being widened and soon may present a more stirring approach to the Capitol than the historic route.

X-RAY GREAT HELP IN DIAGNOSIS

Having x-ray pictures made is a safe procedure and you will find it as easy as having a snapshot taken. Only 88 years ago the x-ray was invented by Dr. Roentgen. It is also called the roentgen-ray and is now widely used in finding out what type of disease is present. The x-ray examination, two different types of equipment are used. One is the fluoroscope, which is the better for studying organs while moving. In making it, the doctor must be sure that no objects such as pins, buttons, buckles or keys are on the clothing, or these objects will probably show up in the picture.

If you have not seen x-ray pictures of the bones, you would find them of great interest. When you try to see the bones with the naked eye you are hindered because of the muscles and skin which hide them. But the eye of the x-ray stripe aside the coverings of flesh and reveals the bones just as they are, even though they are hidden deep within the body. A good x-ray picture shows the bones plainly and clearly and one sees them almost as well as though one were looking at them. Without the x-ray the doctor may have to cut open the tissues to examine the bone, but with the x-ray he can see without cutting.

In addition to making pictures of the bones, the x-ray may be used to get a permanent record of the intestines, the gall-bladder and stomach. By means of this machine it is possible to tell whether the stomach is empty, and whether the intestines have fallen, become bound with adhesions, and are of normal outline, or have become either pouched, or narrowed by spastic contractions.

A few of the diseases and accidents in which the x-ray helps to make a better diagnosis are: tuberculosis of the lungs and spine, arthritis, gall-bladder disorders, kidney stones, tumors, fractures, dislocations, sinus trouble, infected teeth, prolapus, adhesions, sinking of the colon, accumulation of fluid in the chest, mastoiditis, pyorrhea, rickets, bone inflammation and many others.

In making a correct diagnosis by means of the x-ray a great deal depends upon the skill of the operator who makes the pictures and also upon the experience and judgment of the doctor who interprets them. When the time comes for you to have someone explain to you what your x-ray pictures mean, it is a good plan to have a doctor whom you know is fully experienced in x-ray work.

Many people hesitate before having x-ray pictures on account of the cost. However, you must consider that the sum spent on two or three partial examinations which do not accurately locate the real source of the trouble, will cost as much as the full x-ray examination. Furthermore, after the x-rays are made you enjoy a feeling of certainty and assurance not present after a less complete examination.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Letter is Skin Disorder) Question: Mrs. Belle S. asks: "Will you please, tell me what causes blisters to come on my hands, which itch intensely. After these are opened a scab forms. I find this occurs after handling most any kind of vegetables. I have been told it was Tetor." Answer: Tetor is a popular name for a large variety of skin disorders. From the symptoms mentioned in your letter, you are probably suffering from eczema. It is a self-addressed, stamped envelope. I will be pleased to send you my article on this subject together with a diet which should prove very beneficial. Sunbaths or physiotherapy treatments should also be helpful.

Question: R. Y. asks: "What can a person do who makes blood 'too fast'?" Answer: You need never fear that you will make too much blood, as long as it is good blood. The idea of too much blood originated in the middle ages and is still believed in by some physicians. At one time the practice was to treat everyone who was sick by "blood letting." This relieves certain cases, such as those with high blood pressure, because it simply reduces the pressure inside of the arteries. But even this method now seems foolish when it is possible to reduce the quantity of blood simply by cutting down the intake of liquids, and improving its quality by using carefully selected food. I occasionally hear of some doctor who practices blood letting and this is perhaps excusable with the physician treating high blood pressure cases if he does not understand scientific dietetics.

(Fallen Arch) Question: Mr. Ralph B. asks: "What is the best exercise to take to strengthen the arches of the feet?" Answer: The best one I know of is to walk with a pigeon-toed part of the foot. When you are taking your daily walk, try to walk about one-third of the time slightly pigeon-toed, catching your weight on the big toe side of the ball of the foot.

GROUP OF NATURAL RIVALS BATTLE IN EASTERN DIVISION

Low Receipts of Past Few Years Have Forced Colleges to Schedule Games Attractive to Fans.

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—An echo of the hard time football has faced in the past year or two is found in the west's program in the east as a group of "natural" rivals clash in the big games in the sector.

Resume Relations As a result Princeton and Columbia meet Saturday for the second time since 1905 Cornell and Syracuse resume their football rivalry which lapsed in 1909 and Dartmouth and Pennsylvania, which have been playing until last season, get together again.

Another category of games this week includes the Yale-Brown and Harvard-Holy Cross games, where a "minor" opponent grew up and managed to give the big fellow a fumble story year.

Other games which promise competition of a high order include Fordham-Boston College, Lafayette-Bucknell, and tonight's Temple-West Virginia struggle.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 20.—Still undefeated and going into their third tilt of the season, the Wesleyan Soccer team will meet a visiting Clark outfit tomorrow afternoon on the Wesleyan field.

Coach McCurdy, in his practice workouts the past week, has worked on the right half of the line which still shows a tendency to be weak in the offensive attack.

GLENNEY'S

Forgotten Sweetheart

By Max Raymond

BEGIN HERE TODAY. BOB WESTON, son of a millionaire, comes to Memphis in connection with his father's new textile plant. He falls in love with JOAN WARING, pretty Memphis girl. The romance progresses happily until Joan and Bob are invited to a house party in Mississippi. Through the scheming of BAH-BABA COURTNEY, who is trying to win Bob, Joan and Bob become estranged.

Joan drives back to Memphis with JIM WARFIELD. During the next few weeks Bob turns to Barbara's factory for consolation but when he sees Joan at a dance he realizes that he still loves her. He decides to see her next day and try to bring about a reconciliation.

The same night Joan's sister, FAT, is in an automobile accident and her escort, JERRY FORRESTER, is killed. Bob's father reads about the accident and learns Fat is Joan's sister. He asks Bob not to see Joan again.

Pat, miserable and heart-broken, runs away to New York. Joan leaves on the next train after writing the "Travelers' Aid" and holding Pat for NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY of the city." The woman wrote down the address and handed the slip of paper to Joan.

A short while later Joan was established in a decorous little room, fashionably neat, with ruffled curtains at the window to add a home-like touch. But she did not feel at home. She was utterly lonely and discouraged and heart-sick.

She went to the window and looked out, but turned away with a shudder. Fat was so young to be alone in the great bewildering place, spread like an enormous, glittering net about her. Pat was alone here tonight, just as Joan was. Poor little thing, unhappy Fat!

Joan's head was throbbing. She decided to go to bed. Tomorrow she would begin her search for Fat, the search which must succeed soon! Joan got into bed, turning her face against the pillow which was wet with tears.

Two weeks of loneliness, of social bills mounting like large ones. Two weeks of stifled fears and determined courage. Joan became conscious of commiserating glances when she entered the hotel lobby. She passed through the lobby on her way to the street, through it again to go to her room. The process seemed mechanical. It was so exactly the same every day.

She had visited all the employment agencies on the list given her by the Travelers' Aid representative and many others, as well. She had interviewed personnel managers in department stores. She had searched crowds on the streets until her eyes ached, her heart leaping at the sight of every slender, blond girl who for a moment looked like Fat.

She had inserted a message in the classified columns of a morning and evening newspaper, begging Pat to call her. She had tried every means she could think of to reach her sister, every mean that had been suggested to her, and she had failed. Joan's face was thin and worn from strain, worry and weariness. One day at noon she sat in a small restaurant on Broadway, eating a frugal meal of soup and crackers and milk. Her thoughts were running their troubled course. Her funds were very low. Unless she could find work she must return home soon. Counting pennies and practicing every economy would no longer help her longer.

"I can't leave without Pat!" Joan thought desperately. "I'll stand in the bread line first!"

Two girls, attractive, self-assured with the unmistakable stamp of those who are their own way in the world, sat down at the table. Their animated chatter flowed about Joan. It was Saturday afternoon and the girls were planning to attend a movie.

"Have you seen Norma Shearer at the Capitol?" one of them asked, turning to Joan. "She's swell!" Joan shook her head. "I've been too busy to see any shows lately." Then on impulse she asked, "Do you know where I could get a job?"

It's pretty hard to retain your poise as well as your reputation as a good cook if some member of your family is consistently late for meals. The wise homemaker will do well to have on hand recipes for two or three dishes which can be kept warm in the oven without losing any of their flavor. There is no use in trying to keep warm things which dry out and lose their appetizing appeal.

For the housewife who has a husband who is unavoidably late for many dinners each month, there just isn't anything nicer than potted steak. Cooked in a casserole, it can be left there to keep hot for an hour or so without drying out.

You can cook enough potted steak for the whole family or simply one portion to remain in the oven until the golfer or detained-at-business-conference man comes home.

Here's the recipe for one portion of potted steak. Multiply it by whatever number of persons you intend to serve.

Take eight ounces of juicy, lean round steak and dip it in flour. Put it in a frying pan with a little suet and brown on both sides, without allowing it to cook on the inside. When nice and brown, put in a casserole and add enough water to cover. Put in one-half of a sliced carrot, one small onion and a couple of mushroom caps.

Cook until the meat and vegetables are tender and leave in the oven to keep hot. It won't dry out for several hours.

CURTAINS AND DRAPES OFFER NEW DECORATIVE SCHEMES

By MARIAN YOUNG

Lucky is the October bride who sets out to buy new curtains and drapes this fall. They have never been more varied and decorative.

The wise homemaker regards her windows as a fitting background for all the other furnishings in a room. If you have a figured rug and chairs upholstered in a definite patterned fabric, by all means have plain drapes. If the reverse is true, choose draperies that are figured.

For example, a room with a pale taupe rug, plain taupe and brown chairs should have drapes of an intricate design. Why not have plaid ones? Perhaps a brown, taupe and orange plaid.

Plaid for the kitchen. Speaking of plaid, there just isn't anything newer than plaid taffeta for the living room and library. And you'll go a long way to find anything cuter than plaid-singham for the kitchen.

Shadow lace, voile, marquisette and theatrical gauze make charming glass curtains. Always hang them with an eye to making the window look larger than it is. Windows can't be too large. New modern homes are built with all one side of the living room entirely of glass.

Fringe is practically taboo these days. Glass curtains with plain hems are newer and smarter.

Glass curtains are never so important as in the sun parlor. There they reign supreme with many an overdrapes to hide any of their glamor.

If you want to be chic and give your home a real fall treat, substitute venetian blinds for window shades. You don't use glass curtains with venetian blinds. Drapes will suffice.

Draperies Reach Floor

When you have carefully chosen glass curtains go on to the draperies. The ones in the living and dining rooms should reach the floor. When it comes to the bedrooms, they can reach either the floor or the end of the window sill. It all depends on what you like.

Box pleated valances are grand for rooms with high ceilings. If the ceiling is low, leave the tops plain to give the illusion of greater height.

Damask, velvet, velour, taffeta and satin are ideal fabrics for the draperies of your more formal rooms. Cretonne and chintz are lovely in bedrooms. However, some of the heavier cretonnes are designed to go in any room in the house.

Linen drapes are highlighted this season. A new idea is to have pouf-glass curtains in your boudoir. Put gay linen drapes right over them.

Draperes never should be less than three feet wide. The heavier materials must be lined. If you buy them ready made, all that is worked out for you. If you make them yourself, choose linings that are durable enough to last as long as the drapes themselves. Nothing is more annoying than to have to re-line draperies every season.

Crisis-Cross Bedroom Curtains

Bedroom glass curtains can be hung in crisis-cross fashion. And it's a charming, completely unshop-tended arrangement. You do not need overdrapes if you choose to hang the glass curtains that way.

If you're one who likes this new idea of modernizing your home without a lot of new modern pieces, the drapes are your forte.

One young New York artist wanted to do just that to her apartment, which was furnished with eighteenth-century pieces.

She took down her figured tapestry and lawn glass curtains and the drapes themselves. Substituting scrim for lawn and satine for tapestry, she modernized her whole room.

She hung 36-inch black satine drapes over the scrim glass curtains. Then put 24-inch red satine draperies over the black. She finished it off by putting 12-inch white drapes right over the red. When she had placed a few modernistic pillows on the divan and set a brand new modernized lamp on the table the effect was charming.

You can work out original ideas to suit your individuality just as the New York artist did. Why not try it anyway?

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

Whole meals cooked in the oven at one time are a boon to the busy housewife. The constant watching usually necessary for top-stove cooking is eliminated, leaving time for other things, and work while economy of fuel is effected.

Everything can be prepared earlier in the day with each food put into the pan in which it is to be baked. Then, at the proper time, the oven can be lighted and the prepared dishes put in. The meal will cook without attention while other things are being done and will be ready to serve when wanted directly from the oven.

Meals of this type can be prepared in two ways, using either long or short periods. Long cooking periods demand a low oven temperature, while short cooking periods necessitate a high temperature. The housewife who wants an afternoon "quick" but has dinner in the oven before she leaves and come home to find it cooked ready to serve if she regulates her oven to a low temperature.

Heat Regulator Ideal

Food for the whole oven meal should be chosen with some thought. Those which can be cooked at the same temperature and for approximately the same length of time must, of course, be selected when the entire meal goes into the oven at once. However, very often a most satisfactory combination can be worked out in which the temperature remains the same but the cooking periods vary. Foods which require the longest time for cooking are put in the oven first and the others are added with sufficient time allowed to insure their being done when wanted for serving.

The stove which is equipped with an oven heat-regulator is ideal because the meal practically can be forgotten when the food is placed in the oven and the regulator adjusted to the desired temperature. If a regulator is not part of your equipment, an oven thermometer insures an accurate temperature.

Oven Temperatures

For long time oven meals, the meats are seared at a high temperature, 400 degrees F., for ten minutes. Then the heat is reduced to 325 degrees F. and the whole meal cooked three hours or longer.

The short time oven meals are managed by putting the meat into a hot oven and then keeping the oven hot. Sear the meat at 450 degrees F. for twenty minutes and reduce the heat to 400 degrees F. for the remaining cooking period.

Pastry, tart shells, thin crisp cookies or anything which requires a high temperature can be baked during the searing period. As an instance, tart shells are baked early in the afternoon when the meat is put into the hot oven, the shells will be cold ready for filling in time for dinner.

"Poor Splendid Wings" by Frances Winwar, is the colorful story of an artistic movement which once upon a time looked exceedingly big and important—the "pre-Raphaelite" movement that had its origin in the same in the middle of the last century.

A little band of artists tried to break away from formalism. They decided that the artists should paint the things as he sees it for the God of things as they are, as if he were put it, long afterward. They looked what seemed to be a clean new wind in the rather stuffy confines of British culture.

And what a crew they were, these pre-Raphaelites! Miss Winwar presents them in all their color, their self-consciousness, and their Greenwich-Village-madness; Dante Gabriel Rossetti, talented and flighty, who dug up the body of his wife seven years after her death to read a book of poems he had buried with her; Ford Madox Brown, plugging along without recognition; William Morris, who turned back to medievalism and dreamed of killing industrialism; Ruskin, perhaps the greatest of them all, hugging his

Headgear Prevents Serious Skull Injuries; Accident to Brain Revealed by Dizziness and Loss of Memory

This is the last of a series of articles by Dr. Fishbein on "How to Stay in the Game" by prevention of athletic injuries.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEGIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Tossing away your football headgear at the height of the conflict may be a magnificent gesture, but don't do it.

There have been far too many cases of concussion of the brain and even fracture of the skull in football to take a chance without adequate head protection.

Most important of all, however, is to get a player promptly off the field when he has sustained anything resembling a serious injury to an ankle or any other joint. The extent of the injury should be determined immediately.

If there is any evidence at all that the injury is serious, such as a fracture, he should be taken promptly to a hospital for an X-ray picture and suitable medical attention.

Most serious of all injuries are those affecting the brain and the skull. A concussion of the brain means that the brain tissue actually has been bruised, with possible small hemorrhages into the tissue.

The first sign of such injury is loss of memory for recent events. The least important sign is a slight dizziness. But coaches and trainers should not, however, be unexpressed when a player comes out of a sudden impact with another player merely slightly dizzy or dazed.

The first thing to do in any such accident is to put the player immediately at rest, to determine extent of the injury. When a player has had a head injury, he should be put into a reclining position, questioned as to headaches and dizziness, and given the best rest as to his memory for recent events.

If he cannot remember the names of his opponents, which side is on the offensive, the score, the day of the week, or similar matters, it is not safe to permit him to play again. If, however, he merely should be permitted to stand and move about, to determine whether he has lost his sense of balance.

Any sign of a loss of sense of balance is serious, and the player should be removed from the contest.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

A semi-monthly clay pack facial is one good way of preserving your skin beauty throughout the winter. There are several excellent clays on the market today. The best thing to do is try out several varieties until you find one that actually stimulates your skin and cleanses it of all impurities.

You may like the kind which comes in powder form and has to be mixed with cold water or a skin tonic. Or you may prefer the kind that comes prepared in creamy form. All you have to do is smooth it over your face and neck, allow it to dry and then remove with warm water.

Always pat your skin with ice water or a cold astringent after the mask has been removed. This is very essential, as it closes the pores and keeps dust and dirt from getting into them again.

A new facial mask professes to contain natural minerals which dissolve the dirt in the pores. It looks very much like a thick tissue cream.

First of all, clean your face. Then put on a lavish coating of the facial clay. Lie down for about half an hour or until the clay is thoroughly dry and then remove it all with warm water. Notice how much more radiant the lines around your mouth and eyes have become.

Finish with an astringent and then you're ready for a powder base and your makeup.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barrow

VALUABLE TEACHING OPPORTUNITIES TO CHILDREN

Should we do a lot of explaining when we tell a child to do something or not to do it? Should we go into details about reasons, why he should obey and why we command him?

I don't give a snap of my fingers for the child who has to be harangued and scolded before he makes up his mind to do what he's told.

Give me the boy or girl who would jump into a bar barrel if his parents gave a order.

Thus, notwithstanding myself, I shall have to explain.

In the first place, the parent a child obeys is the parent he trusts. I don't mean the flimsy parent either, the one who never gives an order that will interfere with his child's pleasure. I mean the parent whom the boy or girl respects as having sense and judgment and respect. A spoiled child does not have this feeling. He may obey, but this is because he knows he will never be told to do what he doesn't want to.

Necessity for Obedience

In the next place, you may be thinking, why do I say this when I have written many times about the wisdom of talking to children and explaining why such and such a thing must be done. Why do I about now and cry out for unquestioning obedience?

It is not hard to recognize the two. The one is the foundation for the other. I think every human being has to have ingrained in his character the necessity of absolute obedience to authority. Every one of us is obeying laws, a hundred laws every day. The sooner we learn that lesson the better.

Then and then only are we ready for and entitled to an explanation of new laws as they come along, or anything unusual that comes our way.

It isn't so much the fact that a good child will obey implicitly that counts, as the state of mind that acknowledges law as it is.

Now we come to the big objection to the "obedience" method. That such children are unworldly, lose their spirit and self-reliance and never make new tracks for themselves. I acknowledge this, too.

Gain Child's Confidence

It is true that the child who can't call his soul his own often turns out to be a spineless creature, or a freely-wild, or, if he has it in him, sometimes he becomes a rebellious outlaw altogether.

Just the same if a child is allowed to grow up obeying no law but himself he is going to square an injustice as a wild out in a bar-brawl arrangement.

Parents should tolerate in every child one fundamental idea, "We must be obeyed." But at the same time they must show the child that they are reasonable, square, and human—and gain his faith, love and confidence. Also there are sure to be times when it is much the best policy to explain "why" to a child, and to show him how matters stand. I like this very much. Children are keen. They have sense. They easily see the justice of things.

But too few of our children have any real idea what the word "must" means. And no mortal on earth will have real grit or backbone until he learns it.

CARE OF LINENS

Every housewife takes infinite pride in her household linens, but the life-long beauty of all linens is dependent on its care. Correct methods of washing and ironing are vastly important. Careless handling and harsh soap solutions are often responsible for lock-hairs, lines. Strong alkali soaps and bleaching mixtures destroy the natural luster of linen and the heavy satin texture of damask.

Choose a pure mild soap and wash linens in hot water, scrubbing with sudsy water through the fabric rather than rubbing. Few laundresses realize that rubbing roughens the fine fiber and shortens the life of the linen. Linen naturally washes easily since it does not hold the dirt in the obstinate fashion characteristic of cotton.

Use very little bluing in the last rinse water for linens. Linen absorbs bluing much more readily than cotton fabrics.

Never starch linen. This applies to all household linens. Linen possesses a natural sheen and body that does not require the addition of starch.

The final finished beauty of damask lies in the care with which it is ironed. It must be quite damp and ironing must be continued until it is perfectly dry. Ironing on the wrong side first and then on the right, and working from selvage to selvage. This will gain the highest possible lustre and body.

Fasteners in Blouses

Many beauty make the mistake of not ironing their damask dry enough and not having it damp enough to begin with. Too hot an iron is another common fault. It takes time to get the steam and the finished article to iron damask.

Rubber upholstery in automobiles is a British development that does away with springs, metal frames and wooden parts.

FOX THEATER CHAIN SOLD AT AUCTION

Over Two Millions Bid by the Bond Holders Organization.

Hartford, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The Fox theater properties in Connecticut, part of the chain acquired by the Fox interests in 1928, and now under foreclosure, were bought in by representatives of the bond holders' reorganization committee on a bid of $2,226,000 at an auction in the Capitol theater here this noon.

Thomas J. Spillacy, special master in the proceedings, named by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the United States District Court, made the sale, the formal proceedings consuming about an hour.

W. B. F. Rogers and John A. McLaughlin of Halsey Stuart & Company, New York city, representing the reorganization committee, were the only bidders.

The sale in Hartford was the second in connection with the foreclosure whereby Sylvester Z. Poll, New Haven theater magnate who built up the chain, will resume control of the property which he sold to the Fox interests for some $18,500,000 five years ago. He holds 75 per cent of the first mortgage bonds given by the Fox interests when the chain was taken over.

Second mortgage bonds secured by first mortgage bonds on the property, were purchased for $650,000 at a sale here several days ago.

The proceedings will be concluded at a sale in one of the Fox theaters in Springfield, Mass., this afternoon, when the reorganization committee was expected to take over the Massachusetts properties in the chain.

The several sales will be up before Judge Thomas for approval.

PART OF AUSTRIAN ARMY GOES OVER TO GERMANY

In the recent Cabinet shakeup, recently intimated that Austrian patriotism might be made a test for further employment.

The government decree also revised a previous order forbidding elections before Oct. 31 to make it read "before March 31, 1934."

The Wahrsheit asserted that the soldiers who have deserted and are on German soil do not include the Nazi army within this side of the border and the troops between them in the so-called "barbed-wire border."

The latter line stretches as harmless as any pasture fence with an average of 12 men, mostly green auxiliary guards recruited from the Heimwehr (Home Guard), protecting each 20 kilometer stretch (about 12 1/2 miles.)

The paper cites recent instances of Austrian officers assigned to border duty immediately seizing the opportunity to cross into Germany.

Germany Invades

If the Wahrsheit's figures are correct, this means that Germany—which in the last six months allegedly has been threatening to invade Austria—meanwhile has been "invaded" by seven battalions of Austrian soldiers and at least 20,000 civilian Austrian Nazis.

NOTED COACH'S FUNERAL IS HELD IN ROCKVILLE

Steve Farrell's Body Brought to His Native Town from Ann Arbor, Michigan.

Rockville, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The body of Steve Farrell, retired track coach of University of Michigan, who died at Ann Arbor, Tuesday, was brought home to this, his native town, for burial today.

The body reached here at 11:30 a. m., and was taken to a funeral parlor where had gathered many scores of his boyhood and life long friends. The floral tributes were many.

The committal service was in St. Bernard's cemetery, and a squad from Stanley Dobos Post, No. 14, American Legion, fired a salute over the grave.

The Rev. George T. Sinnott, pastor of St. Bernard's church read the service. The bearers were boyhood chums, John and David McCormick, Cornelius and Arthur Murphy, Henry Finney and Lawrence J. Conrick. Delegates from the Elks and Ancient Order of Hibernians were present.

ABOUT TOWN

A series of Saturday night dances is planned for the Masonic Temple with the first being held tomorrow night. Dancing will be from eight o'clock until midnight and a popular orchestra will furnish music. A small admission fee will be charged. If the crowds warrant it these dances will continue through the winter.

Nathan Shapiro of 49 Westland street, Hartford, will be presented in court tomorrow morning for selling products here without a license. Shapiro was previously arrested for the offense but on the truck at the time was his father who possesses a license. On this occasion however, Shapiro was alone. He will be represented by Judge William S. Hyde.

Oscar de la Torre, another leader of the ABC radicals, conferred with President Ramon Grau San Martin last night. Thereafter a Grau spokesman said the ABC as an organization was not withdrawing its support but that it was busy forming a new political party to participate in the coming elections.

It was known that a large portion of the ABC is dissatisfied with the present government, although willing to continue support of the army of Colonel Fulgencio Batista, the chief of staff.

Persistent reports said a number of Batista supporters met secretly last night at Camp Columbia, an Army post. The peace refused, however, to admit that the meeting had been held.

The city was quiet throughout the night.

LABOR AND WAGES

Dr. Edward G. Dolan, chairman of the state recovery board, stated today after a survey of complaints received from all parts of the state during the past few weeks.

In particular, the oil-burning industry in Hartford was warned to adjust hours of labor and wage surveys at once to comply with provisions of the oil-burning code, under which the Hartford companies are operating "as there is evidence of violations," Dr. Dolan said.

KILLED IN CRASH

Hartford, Vermont, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Miss Harriet Hope, 18, of Closter, N. J., was killed instantly today when an automobile in which she was a passenger swerved from the road and struck a tree.

The driver, Harry Powley of Fort Jefferson, N. J., and other passengers were taken to a hospital. Powley said his car struck a soft section of road and he lost control of it. He said they were hurrying to reach a ferry at Stamford, Conn., so they could get to Brooklyn tonight.

WOULD ASK LOAN FOR MERRITT ROAD

Suggested That Semi-Public Corporation Take Over the Project Now.

Bridgeport, Oct. 20.—(AP)—It was suggested to the special committee on Merritt highway of the Fairfield County Planning Association last night that the project might be carried through by a semi-public corporation, such as the Tri-Borough Bridge authority in New York. The committee had met with directors of the association to discuss once again the proposal that Governor Wilbur L. Cross be requested to call a special session of the General Assembly to consider the Merritt highway financing.

Dr. W. H. Coon who outlined the powers of a corporation created under the title of "Authority" was of the opinion the highway could be built without costs to the state other than past expenditures which would include the rights of title to be offered as a lien for the necessary loan.

The meeting voted that the steering committee of the association request Governor Cross to ascertain if the Federal government would recognize a semi-public corporation created by the Legislature and loan it money without collateral security. The legislative committee was authorized to prepare a bill for a corporation modeled on lines of the Port of New York Authority.

The association's engineer was instructed to prepare a report on possible tolls and charges.

The directors of the Bridgeport Chamber of Commerce earlier had adopted resolutions requesting Gov. Cross to call a special session of the General Assembly to secure Federal funds for the Merritt highway.

YALE STUDENTS WARNED TO BEHAVE THEMSELVES

Dean Mendell Says Youths Are Causing Disturbances on New Haven Trolley Cars.

New Haven, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Yale students were admonished by Dean C. W. Mendell today to show better behavior on trolley cars running to and from Yale field.

A notice published in the Yale News and signed by Dean Mendell, urged the students to avoid disorders, lest the trolley company be forced to use "police methods."

The notice reads: "Trenuous complaint from the trolley car authorities indicate that on each Saturday, and in particular last Saturday, considerable nuisance has been caused by members of Yale college on the trolley cars serving Yale field, x x x

"Disorders on the cars, refusal to pay fares and dangerous behavior in entering and leaving the cars should be avoided by all members of the University, not only on general principles, but because of their obligation to the company, and the company should not be put in the position of having to enforce the common rights of passengers and of the company by police methods."

TWO KILLED BY AUTOS
Hartford, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Ade's B. Shane, five year old, of Hartford, and Henry A. Caulkins, 65, of Hartford, were killed by automobiles yesterday in front of their homes in different sections of the city.

The child was struck by a car driven by Fireman Angelo F. Gerundo of Hartford. She died soon afterward in Hartford hospital. The driver was released under $1,000 bond on a charge of criminal negligence.

Caulkins, who was walking with his dog, was struck by a car driven by Arthur M. Ives of Hartford. He was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Francis hospital. The driver said that in swerving to avoid hitting the dog, he had struck Caulkins.

PARIS BOOS CHICAGO FOR ROWDY FILM

Parisians See Themselves as America Sees Them and Then—the Raspberry.

Paris, Oct.—Paris is boosing Chicago, loud, long, and hearty. If Chicago suddenly turned itself into one man and started walking down the Avenue de l'Opera, Paris would do what "Big Bill" Thompson used to threaten to do to the King of England—bust him in the snout.

What is burning in Paris is the movie reproduction of the French exhibit at the Chicago Fair. This movie has just appeared here and is being shown in a big new cinema on the Champs Elysees.

It isn't a very good movie. Taken by a French firm, it makes no effort to show details of the extraordinary structures which feature the Chicago fair. It doesn't give any indication of the brilliant educational and scientific displays there. It specializes in the Coney Island aspect of the show—and, especially, on the French concession.

The Semi-Nudes
"Here is the cream of the jest!" the title flashes on the screen. And then begins a series of the semi-nudes on parade who were such a sensational feature at Chicago.

The audience begins to rustle. A stir is heard. Then a guffaw—not a cheerful, but a bad-tempered one. Then come occasional whistles—the French form of boosing.

The film changes. One sees a throng of merry-makers whooping it up along a reproduction of a mean Paris street. A silly agent de police (Americans call them gendarmes) reels along in front, in a costume which went out when the war came in. The street is featured by a small round building which, while administering to the physical comfort of citizens, doesn't add to the aesthetic charm of the scene. The whistling becomes general. A loud hum of irate conversation rises. The French are awed.

The Final Blow
Then comes the final blow—the Cafe de la Paix and the Place de l'Opera. Or so these places are

AVOID THE DANGER OF CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Overcomes This Condition Safely and Pleasantly

The first signs of constipation may be headaches, tired feelings, sallow complexion, sleeplessness, loss of appetite. If neglected, constipation may seriously impair health.

Today, you can banish constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action similar to leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, and gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of common constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

called on street signs, though in fact they bear not the slightest resemblance to this busy, dignified center of Paris and its world-famous restaurant and cafe. Bewildered adds the one doing duty to the resentment in the theater. How could anybody be so ignorant, a Frenchman asks his neighbor, as to imagine this scene as the heart of Paris?

Onto the square prance a pair of Apache dancers—a dance of the vintage of 1908. Now the audience is frank, shouting with angry laughter. The whistling gets shriller and the picture ends.

Sharp Contrast
The rowdy and frivolous picture of France is in sharp contrast to the charming scenes in a Belgian village, to the Nuremberg display, and to numerous other exhibits which Paris has a chance to watch on the screen. The audience is keenly aware of the difference.

The outspoken comments on the morals, manners, and intelligence of the Americans make any representatives of that nation in the audience keenly aware of their unpopularity. Nobody has yet stood up in the auditorium of the Marignan, however, to tell his French neighbors that they themselves are responsible—through their government—for the unhappiness they now feel about what happened at Chicago.

France Was "Out"
France refused to have any share in the Chicago Exposition. While Britain was sending over her "Royal Scot" Italy her Balbo armada, Belgium, Germany and other nations their respective exhibits, France firmly declined. The government couldn't find the money—not very much money really, but too much to squander on the prestige of this republic in America.

The result was that the French concession was a private one, arranged by an enterprising American producer as a money-maker.

BLUENOSE IN POET

Toronto, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Bluenose, Lunenburg queen of fishing schooners, will be berthed here for the winter, it was decided today. Accepting an invitation from the City Council and harbor commission, to lay up his craft here until next year when Toronto celebrates her centenary, Captain Angus Walters set his crew at stripping the vessel of her gear.

The Bluenose arrived here last week and from Chicago where she spent most of the summer at the century of progress. Thousands of persons have visited the craft on her present trip and her visit in the summer and civic officials desired to give Islanders an opportunity of seeing her next year.

Automobile production for the first half of 1933 was more than a million cars, compared with 911,000 during the first half of 1932.

BLERIOT WILL FLY CHANNEL AGAIN

Pioneer Airman, First to Hop Across, Will Thus Mark Anniversary.

Paris.—Bullet-fast speed such as has never before been approached by man in the cards for aviation in the near future.

So thinks Louis Bleriot, French pioneer of flying, who established the first over-water air record when he trundled across the English Channel from Calais to Dover in his rickety flying-machine.

The twenty-fifth anniversary of that historic flight will not occur till next July 25th but Bleriot is already being honored by celebrating that event. And Bleriot expects to repeat the flight of 1909—in a spectacularly new-type machine whose design he already has under way.

Five hours between New York and Paris—forty hours around the globe at the equator—New York to Albany in fifteen minutes. Speeds like that Bleriot thinks may be quite reasonable at a not very distant date.

Prize Awaits Speed King

It was to stimulate activity in that direction that the inventor some time ago put up his Bleriot Cup, now on exhibition in the Aero Club of France. The cup will become the permanent possession of the first aviator to reach 1,000 kilometers—625 miles—an hour in a sustained flight of at least 30 minutes.

"America may take the Cup," said Bleriot. "Enthusiastic and vigorous research is going on in the United States with commercial planes making a regular schedule from coast to coast in 20 hours, it's a good start."

"But just now it seems that Italian aviation is the lead. They have reached enormous speeds already and are working along the lines which seem to be required for breaking records."

Stratosphere Must Be Reached

A fundamental requirement for the new bullet-flying Bleriot declared, is to get up into the stratosphere. "If airplanes such as already have been competing for the Schneider Trophy could lift themselves to a height of, say, eight miles, they could go at the rate required with their present equipment," he said. "The man who gives airplanes enough lifting surface to reach such heights without sacrificing speed will be the next pioneer."

"There are problems connected with propulsion too. Perhaps the idea of two propellers in tandem, spinning in opposite directions, will serve to keep stabilization in air—and that is important."

The hardest problem of all, Bleriot thinks, is that of landing. Speed records have hitherto been made with seaplanes because, granting decent water conditions, seaplanes have an almost unlimited expanse of landing surface to come down on. But their pontoons naturally are obstructions to speed. Therefore, said Bleriot: "The solution of the problem of bringing down high-speed land planes without danger will undoubtedly produce a tremendous development in the rate of flying."

"As far as my Cup is concerned," he continued, "I don't care how the competitors come down. Maybe they will accomplish it by means of a gigantic parachute, to land both passengers and the ship itself. The pilot would lose speed until the machine was just on the point of dropping like a rocket, stick. Then the big parachute could be released and the plane would ease down."

New Type Planes Sought

Bleriot also argued that the present form of airplane must be radically altered for developing great flying speed. The lifting surface, the carriage, motor space and passenger accommodation may some day be combined in one unit, he predicted, somewhat like the modern speedboat.

Well on in years, Louis Bleriot keeps on at the work he began as a young man. His airplane factory at Surmes is still turning out machines. The "Joseph Le Briz," in which Odoos and Rossi broke the world's record for sustained flight, is a Bleriot model.

It was the experience of the "Joseph Le Briz" a slow affair though everlastingly powerful—that has turned its designer's mind anew to high speed flying.

"The day for 1,000 kilometers an hour isn't very far off," he said, in parting. "And after that—who knows what speeds can be reached!"

BLOOMFIELD REENGAGES ITS CANADIAN TEACHER

Bloomfield, Conn., Oct. 20.—(AP)—Miss Nellie K. Paget has been re-engaged as a teacher in the Bloomfield Center high school after five months' absence in the Board of Education caused by her Canadian citizenship.

The board last night held its first meeting since two new members were elected Oct. 2. It voted 4 to 2 in favor of accepting the recommendation of Charles M. Leacock, superintendent of schools that she be retained.

Re-engagement of Miss Paget was opposed by some because she was a Canadian citizen. At a special town meeting September 18, however, a resolution was adopted urging her retention.

Miss Paget has been a teacher here nine years. Her home is in Coldstream, New Brunswick.

W. W. Ashburnham, who quit high school at the age of 14 to take a job that paid $2.50 a week, now is superintendent of schools at Mansfield.

GREENLAND AIR ROUTES ALL RIGHT IN SUMMER

London, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Prospects of a North Atlantic air line via Greenland next year faded today as British aviation experts discussed the results of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh's Arctic survey as disclosed to them by the American aviator.

From their conversations with the pilot, now on a visit here with his wife, the experts have reached the conclusion that Lindbergh's summer survey led to his forming the opinion that summer service offers no difficulties which could not be overcome.

The idea of winter service, however, is considered out of the question for the present and there would need be a test of winter flying before a definite conclusion on this point could be reached.

However, the Telegraph's commentator reported today, Lindbergh "is manifestly in no way perturbed in respect to arctic storms or fogs or provision of suitable landing places."

The Times' commentator said "a winter flight along the route may be expected to follow Lindbergh's summer survey and no one can forecast its result."

"The flight which has just ended is a step in the right direction although establishment of regular service by any route may have to await a number of other experiments."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Growth, Mole and Superfluous Hair

Question: Miss Adelaide S. asks: "I have a small growth about a quarter of an inch around under my nose. It started in red like a pimple, but instead of rising like a pimple, it flattened out with a lump in the middle. The doctor says it may be a small cyst. How could it be removed safely? Is the electric needle a good way to remove the superfluous hair from the face? I have only five thick hairs on the face, one being in the center of a hair-mole. I pull them out with tweezers now; is that a bad thing to do?"

Answer: You should have the growth under your nose treated as soon as possible, as such things may develop into more serious trouble if allowed to continue. Any doctor acquainted with electro-therapy should be able to remove it. The electric needle is a safe way to permanently remove superfluous hair. It is not so expensive if you only have a few hairs to be removed. It does not hurt to pull the hair out with tweezers, but it will grow back again. As to having the mole removed, you should have the mole removed electrically as it might be irritated by pulling the hair out.

Dryness in Mouth

Question: Mrs. Everett G. inquires: "Would like to know what causes a very dry mouth when I wake up in the mornings. Mine gets so dry at times that I can scarcely get it moist."

Answer: The dryness in your mouth when sleeping is most likely due to the fact that you sleep with your mouth open, which may be caused by habit or by enlarged tonsils or adenoids. If you can find out the trouble exactly, I will be pleased to send you my advice and instructions.

BURGERS IN TORRINGTON

Torrington, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Burglars early this morning smashed the plate glass in the doors of two First National Grocery stores here and made off with approximately 100 cartons of cigarettes. So far as could be ascertained today nothing but cigarettes were taken.

SEEK TO REVISE WAGE MINIMUMS

Silk Workers Say Cotton Code Does Not Apply to Their Work.

Washington, Oct. 20 — (AP) — Senator Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board, prior to attending an executive administrative conference today on problems arising under textile codes, said he would recommend revision of wage minimums in the codes as "the only solution of strikes affecting approximately 65,000 silk workers."

Silk manufacturers and workers have repeatedly sought adjustment of the minimum of $12 in the south and $13 in the north, the same as now applying in the rayon and cotton industries. They have asserted silk and rayon must operate on a competitive parity above cotton.

Big Delegation

Approximately one hundred representatives of labor and manufacturers were here today to present their cases, delegations came from New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and other New England silk centers.

NO. COVENTRY HARVEST SUPPER WEDNESDAY

In compliance with many requests, the Ladies' Fragment society of North Coventry will give another Harvest supper, practically the same as the one served two weeks ago. The date is Wednesday evening, October 25, and the place the Chapel Hall in North Coventry.

The committee in charge of next week's event will be Mrs. E. J. Koehler, Mrs. J. E. Kingsbury and Mrs. A. B. Porter. The menu will be almost identical with the previous supper: ham, mashed potato, turnip and creamed or buttered carrots, onions and cauliflower, baked squash, beets, cranberry relish, apple, mince and pumpkin pie, rolls and coffee.

After reading the account in the Herald of the recent Harvest supper by the Fragment society, a Wetherfield party called to reserve places for a party of 16 at the supper Wednesday evening.

OAKLAND CROSSING NOT OPENED YET

Tracks Cleared Following Big Wreck But Planks Have Not Been Laid.

The Oakland street crossing, which was torn up at the time of the railroad wreck, is still closed to the public. The greater part of the work from the roadbed where the locomotives overturned back to the building of the Manchester Grain Company, east of the crossing has been cleared up and the broken up cars taken away. The crossing planks were torn from their place at the time of the wreck and they had not been replaced today to allow for the opening of the crossing.

The repair work on the damage to the locomotives that turned over is being done at the East Hartford yards and it is reported from there that both locomotives will be back in service next week, one on Tuesday and the other on Thursday.

There was more damage to the locomotives, it is claimed, in getting them back onto the rails than was caused by their overturning.

When they are six to eight weeks old, cocklers should be separated from the pullets.

GERMANY BOUND BY THE LEAGUE, GENEVA CLAIMS

ation by the League secretary was awaited here, the Journal des Nations asserted Chancellor Hitler's act proved the Nazi house of cards built on "Pacifism" has collapsed.

The newspaper interpreted Hitler's declaration that Germany will fulfill her international obligations in so far as possible as a warning that the treaties not signed by the Hitler government—including the Treaty of Versailles—will not be observed.

International circles believe Germany will insist on the creation of more precise ways and means of securing the revision of treaties than that provided in the League Covenant, should she later change her mind and cancel her resignation.

There was more damage to the League's position, it is claimed, in getting them back onto the rails than was caused by their overturning.

MORGAN PUZZLED OVER BANK RULES

in a deep chair in the parlor of his suite.

"Universal statesmanship," he said, "is not my business."

One of the newspaper men told him that it was now considered common knowledge that the United States soon would recognize Russia.

"That's interesting,"—and he said it in a manner that indicated he had no intention to talk about it.

"Some bankers feel there is a tendency of the government to drift toward Socialism," he was told.

"There again," he said, waving his hand and puffing hard on his meerschaum, "you are talking about an American question and I do not know what has been going on."

He was asked, also, about the court inquiry into salaries received by bankers and corporation officials.

"It is snapped," "I'll not comment on that."

"Is there anything you can think of, Mr. Morgan?"

"I can't think of a thing that I want to say," he replied.

"How about grouse shooting?"

"Oh, the grouse shooting is lovely," and he sat up straight in the chair and illustrated by gestures as he talked. "There you have those beautiful, rolling, heather-covered hills and passing clouds. It is the grandest sport there is. Of course, a good duck shoot is nice too."

REFORM SOUGHT IN MERCHANT MARINE

Senator Black Will Battle Wasteful Subsidy Plan at Next Congressional Session.

By WILLIS THORNTON
NEA Service Staff Correspondent

Washington, An entirely new merchant marine policy for the United States may emerge from the hearings now being conducted by the Senate's special committee investigating air mail and ocean mail subsidies.

Senator Hugo Lafayette Black of Alabama, who fathered the investigation and has been its spark-plug, believes he has enough evidence to show that the present subsidy system can not go on without considerable revamping.

He feels certain that the revelations to come in his committee's hearings will compel Congress to make radical changes at the coming session.

"Don't get me wrong," Black cautions, "we want a merchant marine. Every member of our committee wants a merchant marine—we want to keep the flag on the high seas. But I believe there can be no sound merchant marine built on an unsound and dishonest basis."

Black, long an opponent of government subsidies for shipping or air lines, estimates that the government has thrown a billion dollars into shipping subsidies of one kind or another.

Yet, he says, 48 per cent of our trade sailed in American ships in 1929, whereas government operation still was being carried on, and only 34.9 per cent in 1931, after the billion had gone glimmering.

"If it proves necessary for the government to subsidize shipping, it must exercise more control over the money it spends, and the lines are operated," Black says. "Any subsidy should be extended directly, and the subsidies appropriated honestly and openly for the purpose, and not disguised as mail contracts at $11.335 for one pound of mail carried."

"That was what the government paid the American Export line in 1929, testimony before the Black committee already has shown."

"That is a deliberate deception," Black believes. He thinks it unfair to burden the Postoffice Department with such subsidy appropriations in the name of mail contracts.

Evidence already given shows that government loans for shippers were made at rates varying from 1-8 of 1 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent, and that ships built by the government at a cost of more than $500,000 were sold for just over $400,000—all in the name of subsidy.

Thirty-six American steamship lines were beneficiaries, in one way or another, of government subsidies.

"We've shown that when some of these lines got big subsidies from the government, their officials turned their attention to raising their own salaries and to lobbying for more subsidies, instead of running their ship lines," Black says.

The Export line, for instance, settled with Beacon Steamship, former Coolidge secretary, for $15,000 on a little bill of $50,000 he presented for work as an intermediary in purchase of ships from the government.

And Henry Herberman, Export line head, spent nearly $12,000 in 30 days in Washington for "entertainment," at a time when he was trying to borrow more government money, though his line already owed the government three times its assets.

Loans Are Spent For More Lobbying. "The government was put in the position of lending money to ship companies in these subsidies, and then seeing the money spent in lobbying for more money," Black puts it.

"If the government is going to have to give the money on these things, it gives the taxpayer an interest in the lines, and indicates, if not actual government operation, at least greater government control than ever before on how the money is to be spent," is Black's analysis.

New Haven—On the eve of what promised to be its first real test, the Yale team was afflicted today with an epidemic of minor injuries.

Storrs—The Connecticut State Freshman stole the limelight from the varsity as they went into action today against the Stockbridge School of Agriculture of Amherst, Mass. The big team travels into Massachusetts for the second consecutive week to take part at Medford tomorrow. They lost last Saturday to Massachusetts State college.

Middletown—After the disastrous trip north last Saturday to meet defeat at the hands of Bowdoin in Maine, Wesleyan turns south this week and to play Haverford at Philadelphia. A revamped lineup was promised in an effort to make this trip a more successful one.

Columbus, Ohio—Sam Willaman, Ohio State coach, is sure of being on the sidelines of the football game between that and the old smooth covered ball. Ohio has been using the old type, but switched to the rough ball for this week's workouts so the players would be accustomed to both.

Philadelphia—Coach Earle "Greasy" Neale of West Virginia and "Pop" Warner of Temple have a tie to play off when their teams meet tonight. In 1921, Neale's first year as coach at Washington & Jefferson, the Presidents beat Warner's Pittsburgh team 7-0. The next season Pitt won 12-0. The coaches haven't encountered each other in action since then.

South Bend, Ind.—Hunk Anderson, Notre Dame coach, has decided to fall back on one of Knute Rockne's favorite stunts in the struggle with Carnegie Tech. BRIDGEPORT DIVORCES

Bridgeport, Oct. 20.—(AP)—Mary Lovely Manning of New Haven, a student nurse, was granted a divorce by Judge John Rufus Booth from Anthony Manning of Rochester, N. Y., who is alleged to have told her after three years of married life that he was finished and she would have to care for herself.

PETROLEE FAVORED

New York, Oct. 20.—(AP)—The unexpected defeat of Kid Berg led boxing experts to take another hurried look today at the relative fighting merits of Billy Petrolle and Sammy Fuller who will clash at the Ridgewood Grove here tomorrow night.

Petrolle remained a 7 to 5 choice to whip Fuller, the Boston gamester, with whom he fought a stinging draw at the Hub a few months ago.

Talk of 'Labor Party' Finds Administration Watchful, Says Price

Underground pressure for democratic patronage is growing every day.

President Roosevelt's political managers picked up their ears intently when agitation for a "labor party" suddenly was revived at the Washington convention of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Roosevelt has made no secret of his desire to unite all "liberal elements" into a continuing working organization under democratic and insurgent republican leadership.

Although the project appeared to be getting nowhere with federation leaders, the President took occasion to reassert his leadership when he spoke at the dedication of the Gompers statue.

All in all, the Roosevelt managers appeared unworried by the net result. President Green of the federation, who a few days before had been complaining that the NRA did not give labor enough, praised Mr. Roosevelt in his convention speech and asked his colleagues to stand by the government. Whatever the background of that speech, it cheered administration leaders immensely.

These leaders do not now look for the development of any powerful independent labor movement in politics, but whether labor as a unit can be kept in line behind Roosevelt remains to be seen.

In the past, efforts to corral "the labor vote" on a national basis for anybody have resulted in repeated failures.

Underground pressure for democratic patronage is growing every day. As weeks go by with many appointments still unmade, members of congress are wondering whether the patronage lever isn't being reserved to ease administration legislation through at the January session.

The strange part about it is that, although Postmaster General Farley continues to smile and take it on the chin, in his estimable role of "patronage dispenser" the real decisions are being made by the White House, itself.

It Looks Bad For Saury!

By HAMLIN

"TUM ON ITTY SAURY—FI!"

"NO BREAKFAST! M-P-P!"

"WHAT'S THAT?"

"IT'S FOURLEGGED TROUBLE, AN' COMIN' THIS WAY FAST!"

"UP WITH YA! SCRAM!"

"WE FORGOT ITTY SAURY! CH THE FLOOR LIL' THING'LL BE EATEN ALIVE!"

"CHECK WITH MI! HE'S A GONE GAWMUPUS NOW!"

"KEEP GOIN' OR WE'LL BE GONE TOO!"

"The Tinny Ship, the Indian land a wigwag in the next story!"

"The breeze will carry them down to that stake, and then the race is through." Wee Dotty's won. The other boats just didn't have a show.

Soon, back to camp the whole bunch ran, and there they saw a funny man. "I am the Medicine Man," said he. "I've come to make you well!"

"Way, we're not sick," said Goldy. "Say, you may as well be on your way." But then the man said, "Food is what I'll give you. 'Twill be swell!"

"I know you're hungry. That is why I'm asking all of you to try the finest medicine there is; good food that is well done."

The Tinny cheered and cried. "That's great. Bring on the food. Gee, we can't wait." And soon they all were eating, and it was a lot of fun.

(The Tinny Ship, the Indian land a wigwag in the next story)

As soon as one canoe was done, wee Dotty cried, "It would be fun if we each had a small one. Then we'd have a dandy race. 'Til something I would like to try down in the stream that's right nearby." "A good plan," said the Indian, with a smile upon his face.

"You Tinnyites can lend a hand. By now, I guess you understand just how birch bark canoes are made. Let's gather 'em up now."

"Go. It from trees upon the ground. You'll find some, if you look around." The Tinny started searching. To them all 't was a lark.

Soon Scouty said, "I need no aid. I know just how these things are made. And then, to prove that he was right, he made a fine canoe."

The others also worked away until they heard the Indian say, "Let's stop! We've made six canoes, and I'm sure that they will do."

Then to the stream the whole bunch ran. Their friend, the kindly fisherman, said, "Line the boats up. Tinny. When I holler, let them go!"

CLEAN FOOTBALL

JOCK SUTHERLAND FAMOUS PITT COACH

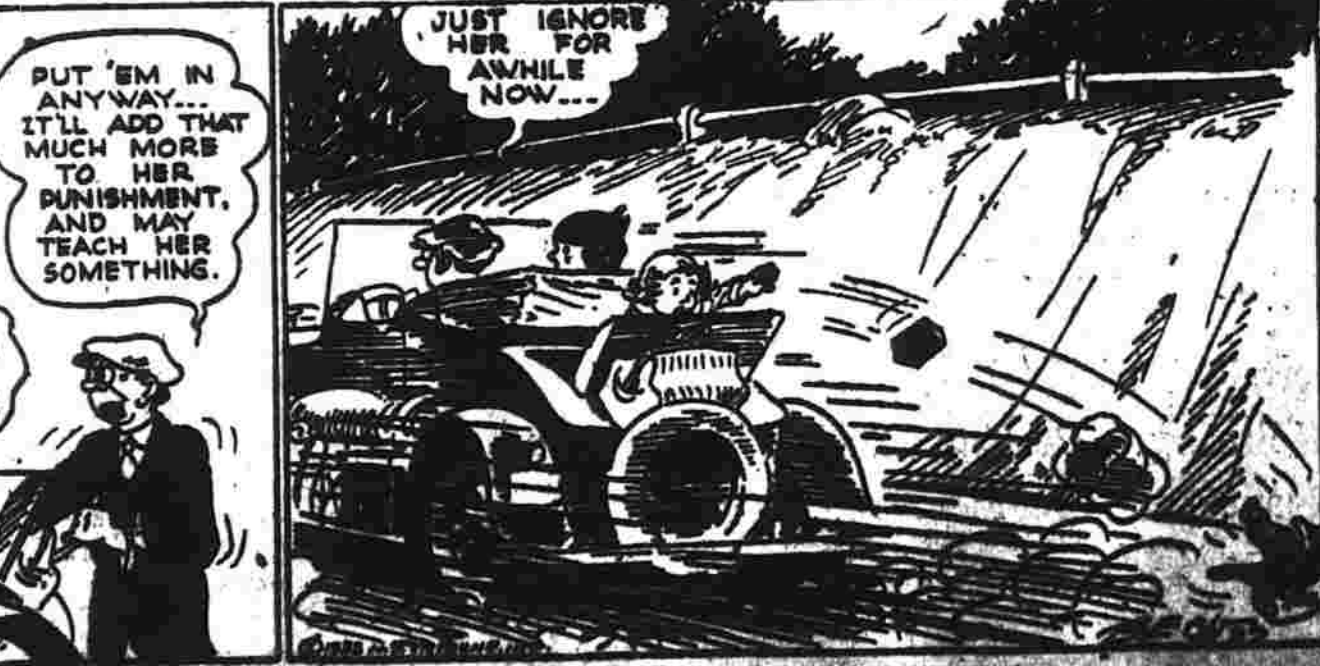

Of all the rule violations in football, tripping is probably the most vicious and deliberate. It has no part in the game, and is only made use of by a fellow who fails at the job of getting his man in a legal way. A lineman may resort to tripping when he misses blocking his opponent. This action in turn sets the tripped player to the extent where revenge is the first thought in his mind. And there you have the start of a minor feud that may play havoc with team play and the game. A wise coach will remove such a player immediately. Referees of late have been quick to punish the tripper. Stricter enforcement of this rule would make the game safer and more exciting to watch, as elimination of tripping would bring about smoother play. The sketch illustrates tripping.

TWO BUSINESS CHANGES PLANNED FOR NOV. 1

F. E. Bray to Move Store Into State Theater Block—Cat's Meow Tavern to Move.

Two business changes are to take place on Main street by November 1. Frank E. Bray, who has occupied the north store in Dr. James Farr's building since it was completed, is to move from that building to the store in the State Theater building, just south of the one now occupied by Fred Woodhouse. He will occupy the store by November 1. Mr. Bray has been in business in Manchester for nearly twenty-five years, with the exception of the time that he served in the World War, and has established a good business. He is already making plans for his moving and expects to be able to carry on business as usual while the changes are being made.

The large south store in the Aaron Johnson building, which was recently divided into two stores, is to have as one occupant the Cat's Meow Tavern, now located in the one story brick section of the Montgomery-Ward store. The tavern is to be moved from that location into the south store of the Johnson building.

ing. The interior is now being painted and plumbers and electricians are at work getting the necessary changes ready for the move which is to be done by November 1. Work has been delayed because of the non-arrival of the mill work that is needed for the interior of the Hotel Sheridan. The bar as well as the booths have not arrived, which will again postpone the opening date, which was planned for tomorrow.
