KIDNAPERS MURDER SON OF RICH MAN

Two Men Confess They Killed Brooke Hart a Few Hours After They Had Abducted Him.

San Jose, Calif., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Efforts to recover the body of Brooke Hart, which authorities said would complete the case against his alleged kidnapers and slayers, were pressed by state and Federal authorities today.

John M. Holmes, 29, and Thomas H. Thurmond, 28, who Department of Justice agents and state officials said confessed to throwing Hart to San Francisco bay after abducting him, were held by a San Francisco jail.

Grappling hooks brought up a strip of white cloth with thin purple stripes from the bay near the place the two men were quoted as saying they tossed the 22-year-old San Jose store executive.

Authorities said the material matched the description of a shirt of Hart's which he had changed at a San Francisco bay, where a "ransom demand" was made by telephone to his family November 9.

Slayers Confess
The effort to recover the body were started shortly after Holmes and Thurmond allegedly confessed yesterday and were taken to San Francisco to prevent possible mob violence from San Jose residents who swarmed about the courthouse.

As quoted by Sheriff William J. Emery, who trapped Thurmond, and other officials, the men said they abducted young Hart while he was leaving a parking lot in his automobile, took him to the bridge, knocked him unconscious with a brick, bound him and weighted him down and then threw him into the bay.

22 STUDENTS HURT IN MEXICAN RIOTS

Three Police Officers Also Injured in Trying to Stop Fights—67 Arrested.

Guadalajara, Mexico, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Sharp clashes between students and police had resulted today in injuries to 22 students, including two women, and three officers.

Fighting started when police attempted to oust the students from the local normal school which they took over yesterday in their strike against education officials here.

Sixty-seven students, including seven women, were arrested and booked for assault and abusive language.

As striking students took possession of the school, destroying show cases and other fixtures prepared for an industrial exhibit, police were called.

Police Officers Injured
Officer Roberto Cabrera was injured severely when students pelted on the roof threw a huge rock. Assistant Chief Martin Lupericio and another policeman were injured by bullets allegedly fired by strikers.

Two other policemen were injured earlier in the day when they attempted to disperse a strikers' meeting.

A student was shot by a friend, authorities said, when he refused to attend the meeting in which local officers and teachers were bitterly

MONARCH HOPEFUL FOR DISARMAMENT

King George Tells Parlia- ment That Geneva Parley Must Go On.

London, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Parliament was prorogued until the opening of the new session, November 21, after the reading of a speech by King George today in which he expressed hope that world disarmament difficulties can be overcome.

"My government have throughout taken an active part in the disarmament conference," His Highness said, "and the British draft presented March 16 was adopted as the basis for a proposed convention."

"I earnestly trust that the difficulties which have since arisen may be surmounted.

"The withdrawal of Germany a month ago from the deliberations at Geneva necessarily dislocated the program, but work for international disarmament by agreement between the nations must be vigorously pursued."

General Situation
Regarding Britain's general situation, King George said "the continued willingness of my people to bear heavy sacrifices made it possible for this country almost alone among the great countries of the world to maintain a satisfactory balance between its national income and its outlay."

"The prorogation came after a session lasting just five days less than a year. The members will have little more than time to go home for the week-end, since they must return Tuesday.

"The session brought the government new problems connected with the Irish Free State and a writing disarmament conference in Geneva. Too, it brought announcement

NATION'S BUSINESS NOW SPEEDING UP

Dun and Bradstreet Says En- tire Trade Picture Has Changed This Week.

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Dun and Bradstreet weekly trade review said today that "the entire trade picture has changed almost completely by the momentum gained in retail distribution, following the vigorous movement which started a week earlier."

In many of the cities from which reports were received, the review asserted, the largest sales for the season were recorded and stocks started to move at an accelerated pace.

"In addition to the influence of auspicious weather," added the review, "the substantial headway already made by Christmas shopping has engendered activity in departments aside from this identified with the provision of heavy apparel and winter merchandise.

The Chief Gains
"The chief gains have occurred in the sales of women's coats, fur garments, men's overcoats, suits, hats, shoes, blankets, dry goods and floor coverings. The best reports came from widely scattered agricultural sections, where the distribution of government bonus payments have been turned into merchandise, and in urban centers where the sudden lowering of temperatures has almost cleared accumulations of low priced heavy wearing apparel, shoes, hardware, winter automobile accessories and rubber footwear.

The trend of industrial indices, the recession in severities of which was checked last week, now has resumed an upward course."

Cold Wave Brings Death To 13 Throughout Nation

(By Associated Press)
A moderation was promised today of the frigid temperatures that brought death and discomfort to much of the North American continent east of the Rocky mountains this week.

Additional deaths, attributed to the cold snap, helped to swell the list of those who died earlier in the week. One of the deaths occurred as far south as Hopkinsville, Ky., the victim was an unidentified man found frozen to death yesterday. Three other deaths were reported in Rhode Island.

Three men believed lost in a sailing boat, were taken aboard and

ASKS FEDERAL CONTROL OF THE STOCK MARKET

Member of New York Ex- change Urges Senate Probers to Work Out Idea —Confidence Is Needed.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Creation of a Federal board to regulate stock exchange practices was recommended today in a letter to the Senate Stock Market committee from Henry Goldman, Jr., a member of the Exchange.

Goldman submitted his recommendation in a letter to Chairman Fletcher, enclosing a letter he has written the Exchange asserting "the banks and the bankers" have lost the confidence of the public.

The writer said his father for many years up to 1917 was senior member of Goldman Sachs and Company.

His Suggestion
He recommended that the government appoint a board of six men, composed of two members of the Exchange, and two business men to "establish rules and regulations on the various stock exchanges for trading in securities which are not only legal, but fair and equitable to all concerned."

The board should have power, he said, to "supervise, regulate and control the activities of Stock Exchanges, Stock Exchange firms and Stock Exchange members."

Called "Drastic"
Goldman's recommendations, believed here the most drastic ever proposed by a member of the Exchange, were placed before the committee today by Fletcher at the opening of the hearing into organization of General Theaters Equipment, Inc.

The committee chairman characterized them as very important but made no comment on the wisdom of the proposal.

Goldman said he was proposing a means by which the exchanges could operate "without the constant storm of criticism from the government and the vast public."

"In my opinion," Goldman said, "the banks, bankers and stock exchanges of the country have lost the confidence of the public, and I believe that this confidence must be restored as a part of the general program of recovery.

"The Securities Act of 1933 is the direct outcome, in my opinion, of the acts of banks and bankers. That reform was necessary, I agree 100

U. S. GOLD PRICE REMAINS THE SAME

For Fourth Successive Day No Increase Set—Try to Steady the Dollar.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—For the fourth successive day, the administration held the price of domestic newly mined gold at an unchanged level today, an action which many interpreted as increasing evidence of an effort to steady the wildly fluctuating dollar.

The dollar at this figure was 20 cents stronger than at yesterday's London close, but it quickly weakened and ran down to $5.40 only to recover to $5.34.

Rumors are thick and fast, prominent among them a report,

THRUSTS KNIFE INTO STOMACH TO TAKE LIFE

Charles Chaponis Finds Ham- mer and Axe of No Effect So He Stabs Self—Bel- ieved Insane.

Charles Chaponis, 42, a tobacco grower living at 287 Burnham street, in a sudden stroke of insanity committed suicide at his home last night, using a hammer and an axe to lacerate his head in 19 places and then, finding he was not getting the desired results, pushed a butcher's knife into his body. The slight blade sank to the hilt into the flesh, a distance of two inches of the handle. But he lived long enough to reach the Manchester Memorial hospital before he died.

The Chaponis home is located near the intersection of the South Winchester, East Hartford and Manchester lower lines and was known as the Burnham home, having been occupied by Robert Burnham before his death.

Hard Worker
Mr. Chaponis was employed about the place raising tobacco and shanks and later, after the death of Mr. Burnham, purchased the house. He was a hard worker and there was but a small mortgage on the property. This year he had raised a good tobacco crop and in addition to this had a fine potato crop. He was subject to bad headaches at times, which made it impossible for him to work, and eight months ago entered the Norwich asylum for treatment.

He returned to the farm and while he would at times have the severe headaches, he would recover and go on with his work. Yesterday afternoon he was again seized with an attack.

Advised to Rest
Herman Bronkie, who has done business with Mr. Chaponis for several years, the latter being a subscriber in the selling of fertilizer, called yesterday afternoon. He suggested that Mr. Chaponis take a rest and that this morning he would take him to a specialist in Hartford to try and find the trouble.

The family, consisting of his wife and four children, retired early and later, shortly after Mr. Chaponis went into the cellar to get a drink of water. He was in the cellar, with a light burning over his work bench, when he first made

TREASURY CHIEF TAKES OVER POST

Oath Is Administered to Henry Morgenthau, Jr., at the Capitol.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Henry Morgenthau, Jr., today took the oath as undersecretary of the Treasury and prepared to take charge of the department as soon as Secretary Woodin goes upon his leave of absence.

The oath was administered by Frank Bigfield, chief clerk of the Treasury, at the White House in the presence of a large group of government officials.

President Roosevelt said he was sure that Morgenthau would find an efficient and loyal body of co-workers at the Treasury.

The President's remarks were relayed to newspapers by Stephen Early, his press contact secretary. There being no stenographer present, no transcript was available. Reporters were not present for the occasion.

Early quoted the President as having told his hearers the credit of the government is as good or better today than at any other time in history.

Frances Woodin
He praised Secretary Woodin for his services, giving him credit more than anyone else, for carrying the country through the banking crisis of last spring and maintaining the confidence of the people in the government.

While Mr. Woodin is away, Mr. Morgenthau is to carry on as acting secretary. Early said the President expressed confidence that Woodin would return at an early date and that he and Morgenthau would make an excellent team at the head of the government's finances.

Previously Woodin had praised his associates at the Treasury and said that Morgenthau would be one of the most loyal and efficient groups possible.

Among the group which assembled for the brief ceremony in the oval room of the White House was David A. Johnson, secretary resigned as undersecretary.

Others on hand included Morgenthau's father, mother, wife, and children. Mrs. Morgenthau's address is 1000 Massachusetts street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

35,000 NEEDY IN STATE TO GET WORK AT ONCE

Government's Plan Puzzles Officials

Frankly admitting he was in a quandary because of the influx of constantly changing instructions with regard to the new civil works program and its application to proposed public improvements in Manchester, Town Treasurer George E. Waddell this afternoon went to Hartford to confer with E. H. Little, civil works deputy administrator in Connecticut, in the hope of obtaining complete details of the government's latest program to relieve distress among the unemployed this winter.

Officials Puzzled
As late as 10 o'clock this morning Mr. Waddell and other harassed town officials, struggling through a maze of instructions and counter instructions, were prepared to discard the Summit street extension, approved by the Selectmen this week, and throw the men eligible for employment on "made work" schemes back on the charity rolls.

The reason for this drastic step was the fact that when the Summit street job was figured, the estimates were based upon an hourly wage rate of thirty cents. Then a telegram arrived announcing that the government had established a minimum rate of 50 cents an hour. This would have increased the cost of the Summit street extension from $7,000 to about $10,000.

Solution of the problem last night seemed to be as far away as ever. Town Treasurer Waddell then decided the situation warranted immediate action on the part of the Selectmen. The result was a meeting of the Selectmen was called for and held this morning in Mr. Waddell's office.

Government Job
Shortly before the time came for the Selectmen to assemble, word reached Mr. Waddell from Hartford headquarters that the government would pay the entire cost of all contemplated public improvements coming within the scope of the civil works program. This again threw a different light on what seemed to be a hopelessly muddled situation and gave town officials renewed hope that everything was to be straightened out satisfactorily.

However, complete details are not yet available, and to acquire a correct understanding of the program, the purpose of Mr. Waddell's trip to Hartford this afternoon. It

SEN. PITTMAN PREDICTS SILVER BACKED MONEY

Asks for Inflation Through the Issuance of Green- backs or Currency Backed by White Metal.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Prediction that President Roosevelt would act for the "restoration of silver" was voiced today before a monetary conference here that heard also a call for inflation through the issuance of "greenbacks or currency backed by silver."

Senator Pittman (D., Nev.), in a speech before a group of Senators and economists gathered in closed session at the Senate office building, asserted the President has "under consideration now various plans to accomplish" price rehabilitation of the metal.

Senator Thomas (D., Okla.), who with Senator Smith, (D., S. C.), called the conference, declared that while the administration's present gold purchase policy "has been helpful" it "has not helped enough and the question is what kind of new money ought to be issued."

Time Is Near
Taking cognizance of the RFC purchase price for newly mined gold, which has remained unchanged at $33.56 for the last four days, Thomas said the time to stabilize was near.

The President has driven the purchasing power of the paper dollar down around 60," he said. "It ought to be stabilized there or lower, perhaps at 50."

Besides Thomas and Smith, Senator Harrison (D., Miss.), attended the meeting. All three come from cotton states.

Others participating were James H. Rand, Jr., head of the committee for the nation; former Mayor John F. Hyland, of New York; Prof. Irving Fisher, of Yale; George Leblanc, former vice president of the Equitable Trust Company of New York; and Robert Harris, economist, of New York.

Pittman's Plan
Pittman told the conferees one plan he had submitted to the President for restoring silver "is the opening of the mints of the United States to the coinage of silver produced in the United States."

"Our President," he said, "has never had the occasion nor the opportunity, nor the time to give to

Chairman of State Emergen- cy Relief Board Makes Announcement on Return from Washington — Ex- plains Workings of New Civil Works Program.

Hartford, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Newton C. Brainard, chairman of the state emergency relief commission, returned from Washington today with the announcement that Connecticut's quota in the National effort to put 4,000,000 unemployed to work in three months through the $400,000,000 civil works administration will be 35,000.

The "state relief commission, Mr. Brainard said, has named civil works administrator for Connecticut, and in this capacity it has been empowered to approve all work relief projects proposed in towns, cities and boroughs and by the state itself.

The first step to be taken by the state commission will be the appointment of local civil works administrative committees, Mr. Brainard said. These committees will consist of the selectmen in the town governments, and while in the cities the committee will be made up of executives of the public works and welfare departments under the chairmanship of the mayors.

Local Projects
All applications for projects must go to the local committees first, he said, and then to the state committee for approval or rejection.

Mr. Brainard at this time was not prepared to state what work projects will be opened up in Connecticut. He indicated, however, that responsibility for creating work opportunities must arise in the localities themselves or from plans of state departments and commissions. The state commission will probably meet Monday to authorize the chairman to proceed with the plans outlined at the Washington conference with Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator who is in charge of the new civil works program.

Preference will be given to projects where the community shows a desire to help by assuming part of the burden themselves, such as providing materials, transportation for the workers and the loan of public tools and equipment," Mr. Brainard declared. "However, in cases where it is justified, the state commission has power to make an appropriation for materials and other expenses from unallocated funds received from the Federal emergency relief funds recently."

No project will be approved by the state commission unless it is "worth while," Mr. Brainard said, and by that he meant projects that have some lasting value. Work programs like the removal of ashes and snow and the cleaning of streets, are barred, as are new buildings whose construction requires time in the supplying of materials, and therefore cannot keep pace with the program. However, Mr. Brainard pointed out, repair of existing buildings will be encouraged.

"Otherwise," the state chairman went on, "there are no specific restrictions, except that no new project which is on file with the public works administration at Washington for approval can be taken over. On the other hand, such a project may be recommended by the public work administration in Washington to the C. W. A., but the recommendation must come from Washington and not from the applicant."

Mr. Brainard was not able to say at this time what would happen if the public works board rejected a project for some other reason than its worthwhileness. If the Hartford grade crossing project should be definitely rejected for some other reason than its desirability, he indicated, he might be able to consider it under the new program.

As To The Funds
Neither the state nor local committees will disburse any of the C. W. A. money, Mr. Brainard said. The government will utilize the existing offices of the veterans' bureau for handling the payment to towns and, if necessary, additional disbursement units will be set up.

The unemployed now on "made work" will be the first to be put on a wage basis, Mr. Brainard said, and in this group to be first served will be the 25,000 who are now listed in the state commission as public dependents. After work has been found for these, jobs will be found for the Bridgeport, Nov. 17.—(AP)—A company's gas station, he looked both ways along the sidewalk to see if it was clear. He explained that as he looked out he felt a slight impact. Then he found Mrs. Shelton's body. She died immediately from a crushed chest.

Children from a nearby school in which Mrs. Shelton had taught, gathered around the body, until it was removed. They had just been released from a school.

The driver, George Luppold, held for the coroner's inquest, told police that before he looked out of a

STEEL INDUSTRY TO RENEW PACT

General Johnson Sends An "Enthusiastic Report to the President."

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson, today sent to the President an "enthusiastic report" from the steel industry on its code operation, and inferred the industry would seek renewal of the compact upon its expiration next month.

At his first press conference since returning from the midwest speaking trip Johnson said the steel reports did not refer to renewal specifically but that he did not expect difficulty.

The NRA expected the President to sign a code for the steel industry, the general paper and pulp field and for automobile tool and die plants before his departure for Georgia late in the day.

Enforcement conditions he repeated earlier assertions he was satisfied with the degree of enforcement secured by local compliance boards and that "we will come out in a few days with complete plans," for dealing with the situation.

He declined to detail what would be done.

Asked what he expected to do if the forthcoming investigation of price fixing which revealed clear cut cases of price gouging, Johnson said he would expect the code authorities to deal with offending members of the respective industries, making them reduce the prices to a proper figure.

In reply to questions regarding the heavy criticism recently directed at NRA, the administrator observed:

"I'm not shaken at all in my faith."

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Stocks and staples were inclined to take a breathing spell today, after their sharp spurt of yesterday, but only small portions of the advance generally were yielded under profit taking sorties.

Although the price of domestic gold was again unchanged, the British pound rallied about 5 cents to $5.31 and French francs recovered .05 of a cent to 6.45 cents. Both, however, gave up most of their gains later. Gold mining shares were a trifle heavy, and a few of the alcohol slipped, but most other equities held to a fractional range. Grains and cotton were a bit easier, as were some of the other commodities. U. S. Government bonds were slightly lower in quiet trading.

WAR ORPHANS HIT BY ECONOMY ACT

American Legion Head Declares Children Must Bear the Burden.

Indianapolis, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Milt D. Campbell, chairman of the American Legion's National child welfare committee, said today that regulations issued under the Economy Act had taken away compensation or pension from dependent orphans of World War veterans and would have the same effect on the annual conference of department commanders and adjutants of the Legion.

He said these orphans now are receiving only board, clothing and institutional care and at the age of eighteen will be put upon their own resources.

"Had their fathers lived," he said, "or had they been in position to make livelihoods these children would have the same chance as yours or mine to start the battle of life fully prepared."

National Defense

James P. Ringley, National executive committee member from Illinois addressed the conference on the subject of National defense.

Ringley declared it is entirely indefensible that National defense should be a matter of casual change by the transient political power of economical experiments.

"The time has come for all of us, in full confidence," he said, "to assign our qualified builders—the War and Navy Departments—the construction of our National defense and to see that the work is done in permanent fashion in accordance with their minimum recommendations."

others selected from the unemployed all hiring to be done through state and Federal employment agencies. The second group will be employed solely on the basis of their unemployment and capability to handle the work assigned.

"No personal investigations of the two groups will be made, nor will any man have to go to any relief agency to get on the payroll," Mr. Brainard said.

Purpose of Move

The main purpose of the program is to take people off the relief rolls and enable them to earn wages, the chairman declared. The minimum pay for unskilled workers will be 50 cents an hour and 30 hours is the maximum working period. Skilled workers, however, may get $1.20 an hour.

The state commission expects to be able to make public recommendation on projects by Tuesday. Meanwhile, the highway commissioner is working on a statewide road improvement program and the state park and forest commission is also at work on plans, Mr. Brainard said.

In the interview, Mr. Brainard said, Mr. Hopkins approved a number of modifications in the general program to meet local conditions in Connecticut. Though in other sections of the country, the administration of the C. W. A., will be under county committees, in this state the program will be decentralized to cities, towns and boroughs. The 37,250 quota for this state was submitted originally on the county basis as follows:

Hartford	10,320
New Haven	10,690
Fairfield	9,125
New London	2,645
Litchfield	1,825
Windham	1,045
Middlesex	1,190
Tolland	410

WINS EACH WITH DEATH

With 262 heads of families, or men qualified to be assigned to relief work, already listed on the town's relief rolls, it was said today that the transfer of 14 men to the gypsy moth control and 10 men to roadside improvement jobs would leave 188 men available for employment on the Summit street extension.

It was learned today that increasing numbers of persons, who are unemployed at present but heretofore have not applied for charitable aid, are asking the town to be placed on the charity rolls because of the calling for a minimum wage rate of 50 cents an hour. This fact alone is presenting an additional problem, according to town officials.

Another aspect of the government's participation in the drive to relieve distress this winter is the reported anxiety of private concerns, paying workers less than the 50 cents an hour rate, over the possibility that their employees might leave their jobs and seek work from the town in the hope of increasing their income.

Wages Cut

Mr. Waddell said this morning the town ran against another problem when it was found that the regular town employees would receive $15 per week and the unemployed given work under the civil works program $13 per week. Town employees have been receiving 50 cents an hour for a 40 hour week. The civil works employees would be paid 50 cents an hour for a 30 hour week.

Although 114 men between the ages of 18 and 25 are available for the gypsy moth control campaign, it was said this afternoon that probably not all of this number would be accepted, as only 500 men are allotted for that part of the state out of the Connecticut quota.

A meeting of the department with

GOVERNMENT'S PLAN PUZZLES OFFICIALS

was indicated following the September session this morning that work on the Summit street extension would be started Monday morning. Wire reports from Washington today said President Roosevelt had ordered the departments concerned in the civil works program to have the first pay checks ready by a week from Saturday morning. This apparently means that Manchester men going to work on Summit street Monday will be paid on Saturday, November 26.

Commission Absorbed

As matters stood when this edition went to press, the cost of the Summit street undertaking will not be apportioned between the town and the State Emergency Relief Commission, the former to bear one-third of the cost and the latter two-thirds. The understanding of Mr. Waddell is that the State Emergency Relief Commission has been absorbed, or swallowed whole by the new civil works administration and that the expenses of municipalities in carrying out public improvements would be met in their entirety by the civil works body.

Manchester, Mr. Waddell said today, was the second town in the State to file a works project with the Civil Works deputy administrator. Greenwich led the state in this respect.

Gypsy Moth Crew

Word was received by Town Treasurer George H. Waddell yesterday from Dr. W. E. Britton, state and station entomologist attached to the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station at New Haven, that the town was expected to furnish a crew of 14 men to the gypsy moth control, a list of the names of Manchester men between the ages of 18 and 35 who are to be put to work exterminating gypsy moths in this area.

Mr. Waddell today mailed to Mr. Ashworth the names of 114 local men, now unemployed, who come within the specified age limit. How much wages they will receive was a question Mr. Waddell was not prepared to answer. Purchases of the first time in months. This, it was explained, indicated that normal investment demand had been absorbing the selling.

Quiet Today

Today's stock commodity markets were relatively quiet, and narrowly changed in the early dealings.

The R. F. C. continued to leave its gold price unchanged at $33.56 an ounce, the figure set on Tuesday. News that high financial authorities in Paris had said they had been assured by Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve bank that a permanent gold price would soon be fixed in this country provoked a prompt denial at the Reserve bank that Governor Harrison had given any such assurance, although it was acknowledged that Reserve officials had been in communication with Paris, as they frequently are in the normal conduct of business.

Sterner Measures

International banking quarters, in confirmation of reports late yesterday that action was planned to curtail the export of gold from the country, said they had been given to understand that the exchange control under the direction of Fred I. Kent at the New York Federal Reserve bank, was beginning to intercept more rigidly the executive orders of March 10 under which it operates.

It was understood in Wall street that there might be no official announcement of the "clamping down" on export of gold, but as requests for foreign exchange were submitted to the control for approval, they would be more closely scrutinized than heretofore, and that requests for foreign exchange not manifestly "for legitimate and normal business requirements" would be refused.

Heretofore, it was explained, the control has allowed considerable latitude to seekers of pounds sterling or other currencies for the purchase of securities in the London market. The plea that they wished to "diversify" their investments has usually been accepted without question.

Financial circles felt that it would be practically impossible to plug up all means of getting money out of the country. Persons with funds here, it was pointed out, might buy commodities, export them, and leave the proceeds to the bank deposit with foreign banks. However, it was believed that the recent outflow could be very substantially reduced.

ONE MILLION IDLE NOW ON PAYROLLS

Their First Checks Will Be Ready Week from Today, Officials Say.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt received governmental reports today that a million men have been changed from relief rolls to the Federal payroll through the civil works administration.

Fortwith, he ordered the departments concerned to make sure that the first pay checks are ready a week from tomorrow.

He named the veterans' administration as the disbursing agency in the financial operation.

"Swinging into action on the Roosevelt order, Frank T. Hines, veterans' administrator, said the newly employed men can feel sure they will have pay checks in their hands Saturday, November 25, in time for Thanksgiving dinner or other needs. They will not be paid before their checks through the disbursing officers of the veterans' administration in their state.

Machinery Ready

While the work of disbursing pay weekly by check to the men on civil works administration projects is a huge task, Hines has the machinery already set up to accomplish it. The administration expects to disburse $400,000,000 on men on such projects between now and February, and has estimated four million jobs will be made available.

Disbursing offices in each state except Delaware, which is handled through the Pennsylvania regional office at Philadelphia, will receive the payrolls from civil works officers in that state on Friday of each week.

Immediately they will set their staff to work preparing the checks to be given out on Saturday of each week. Preparation and issuance of the checks therefore is a 24-hour job for each disbursing office.

Details Perfecting

Details of the plan of payments were perfected today by Harold W. Briening, assistant administrator in charge of finance. It may mean extra work in some instances but each state office is equipped with the latest check devices for writing and signing and an adequate staff to do the work.

In some states where the payroll cannot be assembled in the regional offices and paid in time, assistants will be designated in the localities of the civil works projects to do the work. The veterans' administration has about 2,000 assistant disbursing officers who can be used.

The experience of Hines' organization in paying out checks with the state office is equipped with the latest check devices for writing and signing and an adequate staff to do the work.

VALUE OF DOLLAR TAKES NEW DROP

Foreign Exchange Market Quiet After Yesterday's Wild Upswing.

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The dollar slid down a little in relation to other currencies in the earlier exchange dealings today, after a speculative upswing yesterday. The pound sterling, which tumbled yesterday from a high of $5.32 1/2 to $5.26, came back to $5.31. The French franc, which had dropped from a top of 6.73 cents to 6.40, recovered to 6.45.

The Foreign Exchange Market was generally much more orderly than yesterday, when some of the most violent fluctuations in the history of this market were experienced.

U. S. Government bonds sagged a little further in the New York Stock Exchange, but the volume of selling in the Federal issues was but a fraction of yesterday's.

Financial quarters which had felt the Federal Reserve system must have been actively supporting the government bond market during the recent selling were astonished to note in the weekly statement that the system had all but halted open market purchases of government securities the first time in months. This, it was explained, indicated that normal investment demand had been absorbing the selling.

Quiet Today

Today's stock commodity markets were relatively quiet, and narrowly changed in the early dealings.

The R. F. C. continued to leave its gold price unchanged at $33.56 an ounce, the figure set on Tuesday. News that high financial authorities in Paris had said they had been assured by Governor Harrison of the New York Federal Reserve bank that a permanent gold price would soon be fixed in this country provoked a prompt denial at the Reserve bank that Governor Harrison had given any such assurance, although it was acknowledged that Reserve officials had been in communication with Paris, as they frequently are in the normal conduct of business.

Sterner Measures

International banking quarters, in confirmation of reports late yesterday that action was planned to curtail the export of gold from the country, said they had been given to understand that the exchange control under the direction of Fred I. Kent at the New York Federal Reserve bank, was beginning to intercept more rigidly the executive orders of March 10 under which it operates.

It was understood in Wall street that there might be no official announcement of the "clamping down" on export of gold, but as requests for foreign exchange were submitted to the control for approval, they would be more closely scrutinized than heretofore, and that requests for foreign exchange not manifestly "for legitimate and normal business requirements" would be refused.

Heretofore, it was explained, the control has allowed considerable latitude to seekers of pounds sterling or other currencies for the purchase of securities in the London market. The plea that they wished to "diversify" their investments has usually been accepted without question.

Financial circles felt that it would be practically impossible to plug up all means of getting money out of the country. Persons with funds here, it was pointed out, might buy commodities, export them, and leave the proceeds to the bank deposit with foreign banks. However, it was believed that the recent outflow could be very substantially reduced.

ABOUT TOWN

The Cat's Meow Tavern located at 713 Main street will offer an attraction tonight and every Friday night thereafter—a setback tournament. The tavern will offer two valuable prizes to the winners of each evening's play. John McConville will have charge of these tournaments.

Superintendent of School F. A. Verplank and Principal Arthur Hilly of Manchester High school are in Boston today attending a meeting of the New England Association of School Superintendents.

The Luther League of the Emanuel Lutheran church will hold its annual meeting at 8 o'clock tonight. Leonard Johnson and his camp committee will be in charge.

Direct traffic between the West Side and the East Side via Park street has been closed for the past two days by all but foot travel, as there is a new flooring being laid on the bridge over the South Manchester railroad. Men in the employ of the town's highway department have been removing the worn out planks. The work has proceeded so far that it is expected that it will be finished by tonight and open to traffic tomorrow. The footpath on the north side of the bridge has not been closed.

The Buckland Community club will have a setback party Monday evening in the school hall for the purpose of raising funds to give the children in that part of the town a Christmas party. The club, or its predecessor, the Buckland Parent-Teacher association, has been working for years for the benefit of the school and community. It is hoped that a large number of players, both in and out of that district will support the project. Only one prize will be awarded, but that will be well worth working for—a Thanksgiving turkey. It will be given to the player running up the highest score for the evening. Refreshments and a social time will follow.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred A. Howland of Strickland street have as their guest Mr. Howland's sister, Mrs. Eva Lillabridge of Scranton, Pa.

The Highland Park Community club will give a dance tomorrow evening for everybody in the Highlands and outside who cares to attend. The Merry Makers will furnish music and Cornelius Foley will announce the old-time sets.

COMMITTS SURE ON FRIENDS GRAVE

Meriden Man Takes Life in Hartford Cemetery—His Sweetheart Died Monday.

Hartford, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Death in Zion Hill cemetery ended a romance last night. The body of Richard Newell Tracy, 36, a claim examiner at the Hartford Accident and Indemnity Company, was found on the new grave of his sweetheart this morning.

He had shot himself through the head, according to Medical Examiner Henry N. Costello. A .38 caliber pistol was found in his hand.

Tracy had long been a friend of Miss Ruth Sybil Thomson, staff nurse at the Hartford hospital, who died suddenly of a heart attack at the hospital Monday night.

She was buried Wednesday afternoon. Tracy, apparently unbalanced by the shock, took the revolver with him to the grave last night and shot himself. Police received no report of the tragedy until this morning was found by caretakers this morning.

He left a note to the Thomson family, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Thomson of 62 Imlay street, and the contents were not given out, but it indicated that he had been unable to bear his grief.

Tracy lived with his mother at 132 East Main street, Meriden, and committed to his work in Hartford. The body was taken to the Farley and Molloy funeral parlors on Capitol avenue.

The driver, Ray Carroll, was taken to Stoughton where he was held by two of the robbers until the wine was taken away with the truck.

ANNUAL FARM BUREAU MEETING TAKES PLACE

Editor of Publications at Connecticut State College Delivers Principal Address On "Organization."

"Organization" was the topic of the address delivered by Walter Stemmmons, editor of the publications at the Connecticut State College at Storrs, which was delivered last evening at the annual meeting of the Tolland County Farm Bureau.

Due to the wording of the by-laws of the Tolland County Farm Bureau it was necessary to open the meeting in the Farm Bureau office in the Prescott block at 6:30 o'clock. The session was called to order by President Robert E. Foote. This meeting was made up mostly of the different committees and an adjournment was shortly taken to the Grange Hall at Vernon Center.

The session at the Grange Hall opened at 6:45 o'clock with President and Mrs. Robert E. Foote and State Senator and Mrs. Edwin R. Dimock as head of the receiving line.

The evening's program was formally opened at 7 o'clock with a supper served by the Ladies Aid Society of the Grange, after which group singing was enjoyed with Lewis D. Eaton, of Bolton, as the leader.

Shortly after 8 o'clock the business meeting was held, at which the reports for the past year were presented and officers elected for the ensuing year.

The Mr. Stemmmons delivered his address and pointed out some points of interest in perfecting the organization of the Tolland County Farm Bureau.

Immediately following the address by Mr. Stemmmons the gathering adjourned to the dance hall at Grange Hall where both modern and old fashioned dances were enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

A feature of the evening's program were the acts of magic by Ernest K. Schildge, of Manchester, after which games were enjoyed. Both modern and old-fashioned dances were enjoyed for the remainder of the evening.

Much credit is due the committee in charge of the seventh annual meeting of the Tolland County Farm Bureau, which was headed by Senator Edwin R. Dimock.

Succeeds Squires as Tax Collector
William A. Kuhnly, who has been connected with town and city politics for many years, has just been selected by the Board of Selectmen as tax collector of the town of Vernon to succeed Charles M. Squires who has declined to accept the nomination.

Mr. Squires accepted the nomination with the understanding that the work would be performed by the employees of the Rockville National Bank, of which he is assistant cashier.

Since the selection of Mr. Squires the directors of the Rockville National bank have declined to accept the responsibilities incumbent with the office of tax collector as the tax collectors are responsible for all uncollected taxes.

The present state law insists on the collection of all unpaid taxes and holds the tax collector under bonds for the payment of same. This has been the cause of much unpleasantness, and for this reason the officials of the Rockville National bank wish to have Mr. Squires relieved of the duties.

Mr. Kuhnly is well versed in town politics and has served in the Common Council as a member of the Board of Selectmen, having been chairman of the public works committee of the council for several years.

County Commissioners Submit Report

Moly, Jr., 18, also of Brooklyn and a freshman at Dartmouth, escaped injury.

The car, after hitting three trees and a telegraph pole, rolled down a gully. The curve was the scene of an accident about a month ago in which three Dartmouth students were fatally injured.

CCC YOUTHS TO GO TO ARMY SCHOOLS

Educational System Planned for New England Boys in First Corps Area.

Boston, Nov. 17.—The 17,000 youths and their war veteran "buddies" grouped in 125 companies of the New England Civilian Conservation Corps, numbering all told approximately 25,000 men at 100 camps in the six states, are going to attend school. An educational system, patterned somewhat after the New England district school, has been planned for the New England camps by First Corps Area army authorities as a solution to the problem of keeping the men occupied after working hours, during the approaching short winter days.

Spare Time Use
"As the season of short days approaches," states the instructions authorizing the establishment of a school system at the New England camps sent from Corps Area Headquarters here, "the question of the employment of the spare time of members of the CCC becomes important. In order to provide for the educational betterment of the men who desire to improve themselves, company commanders will immediately take steps to establish a suitable systematic school program for their respective camps."

The school program will include instruction in those whose education has been handicapped. The Three R's, and geography, grammar and history will be pursued. Necessary texts and reference books will be furnished to the "students" without charge. An advanced course for selected groups also will be offered. Forestry, sanitation, hygiene and first aid are other subjects which the CCC men at the New England camps will be taught by members of the Forest Service and officers of the Medical Corps of the Army and Navy.

Practical training as cooks, storekeepers, carpenters, plumbers, and similar vocations are other features of the new school program for selected groups. Selected CCC members may be used as instructors for some of the vocational training.

New Service Stripes
A new service stripe for wear on the winter uniform which is being supplied to the New England CCC men, has been authorized for each six months service in the Corps. The service stripe will be of forest green, two inches in length and will be worn on the left coat sleeve.

Winter Construction Ends Tomorrow
Construction officers have reported to First Corps Area Headquarters here that they expect all the New England CCC companies will be quartered in their new winter camps by tomorrow night. It was stated that the winter construction program for the 125 companies was completed generally throughout the New England states several weeks ago but that camps for six of the 23 companies engaged in flood control in Vermont will not be ready for occupancy until tomorrow when, it is hoped, the entire New England CCC will have occupied their new winter camps. These are of reinforced construction and will be well heated.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Prominent men from all parts of the nation gathered in Chicago today to pay final respects to Edward N. Hurley, war-time chairman of the Shipping Board, at his funeral in Holy Name Cathedral.

Henry M. Robinson, who served with Hurley on the Board, arrived from Los Angeles, and John D. Hertz said he would come from New York by plane, while Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to the late President Wilson, was reported en route from Washington. Heading the list of honorary pallbearers was the name of President Roosevelt, the others, all close friends or business associates of Hurley, included Newton D. Baker, Bernard Baruch, James M. Cox, Thomas W. Lamont, Gerard Swope, Owen D. Young and Walter C. Teagle.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas V. Shannon was named to celebrate the requiem high mass after which the body was to be laid to rest at Calvary cemetery.

C. Simpson. Young Merz was riding a bicycle home from school when struck by an automobile driven by John Carabino near the junction of Strant street. The lad was taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital where he died shortly after. The plaintiff was represented by William J. Shea, of Manchester, and Robert Butler of Hartford, while Charles J. ### LAGUARDIA IN PANAMA, GREETED FRIENDS THERE

Panama, C. Z., Nov. 17.—(AP)—Arriving on the liner Pennsylvania, Mayor-elect Fiorello LaGuardia of New York City was on deck at 6:30 a. m. today to greet a welcoming party with his wife.

He hesitated about going on through the canal but was finally persuaded to make the trip. He has completed plans to fly to Miami via Pan-American Airways, taking off Monday, arriving later at New York.

"I have a little town up there," he said, "I must get back." Frank Tichenor, magazine publisher and campaign aide, is making all the plans to which LaGuardia is affably agreeable. Tichenor said the trip had been delightful and quiet and LaGuardia appeared much rested.

McLEVY SPENT BUT $50

Bridgeport, Nov. 17.—(AP)—It did not cost Mayor Jasper McLevy, Socialist, much to campaign for the office which he won over Democratic and Republican opponents.

McLevy filed campaign expense report yesterday showing he contributed $50 to the Socialist town committee.

None of his fellow party members whom he carried into office spent much either. Their accounts run from $38.00 down to zero, most of them paying out less than a $10 bill.

FIRST TIME TWIN IGNITION in a Low-Priced Car

1934 Nash Big Six Brougham, $795, f. o. b. Kenosha, Wis.

1934 NASH

EVERYBODY expected Nash to do something brilliant in designing the 1934 Nash—and sure enough, the new Nash "Speedstream" style simply sparkles with grace, smartness and good taste. And everybody expected Nash to step out and go the limit in making its 1934 models crowning examples of motoring luxury. But who would have thought it possible for Nash or any manufacturer to go so far as to power the lowest-priced models of a new line like the higher-priced models, with Twin Ignition valve-in-head motors? That's exactly what Nash has done—in spite of rising manufacturing costs—in spite of the greater cost of building a Twin Ignition valve-in-head motor—and in spite of the fact that Twin Ignition never before has been engineered into a car selling under $1,200! There's almost a magic difference between a motor car with Twin Ignition and one without it. You can feel the difference in smoothness—and tests reveal the big difference of 22% more power, 5 more miles an hour top speed and 2 more miles to a gallon of gasoline! Nash for 1934 has just about everything—including a new improved type of built-in draftless ventilation, providing unobstructed vision—a new synchro-shift transmission with all gears quiet at all speeds—and a new coincidental starter—everything to give Nash the edge in any comparison. See Nash before you say "Yes" in deciding on any new car.

NATIONAL OFFICERS TO ADDRESS LEAGUE

Two Executives to Be Guests of Women Voters at Conference in Greenwich.

Two officers of the National League of Women Voters will speak at the convention of the Connecticut League of Women Voters in Greenwich on November 21, 22 and 23. Miss Ruth Morgan of New York City, chairman of the department of international co-operation to prevent war, will lead a discussion meeting at the home of Mrs. Harry Tarbox on Tuesday evening, November 21. The luncheon speaker on the closing day of the convention, Thursday, November 23, will be Miss Katherine Ludington of Old Lyme, Conn., national finance chairman.

Miss Morgan has been a member of the board of the National League and chairman of its international relations department since the early days of the organization. This will be her first visit to the Connecticut League in four years. Miss Ludington likewise has given long service to the national board for which she has been treasurer or finance chairman since 1923. For several years she was chairman of the League's radio committee in charge of the Voters' Service programs broadcast weekly over a nation-wide hookup of the National Broadcasting Company.

Mrs. Frederick S. Chase of Waterbury will preside at the conference on November 21 when Miss Morgan is to be the speaker. The meeting will be the annual conference of the state League's department of international co-operation to prevent war and will take place at 8 p. m. following a buffet supper at the Pickwick Arms Hotel.

The presiding officer at Thursday's closing luncheon will be Mrs. Otto G. Wiedman of West Hartford, state finance chairman. Miss Ludington's speech will be preceded by the annual address of the state president, Mrs. Edith Valet Cook of New Haven and by a dramatic skit, "News Flashes from Station L. W. V.," which will be presented by members of the Darien League under the leadership of Mrs. Wilgar Coleman.

DOESN'T BLAME CROSS

Editor Manchester Herald:
Kindly allow me to take exception to your editorial of Nov. 15, concerning Gov. Cross and the Federal Recovery Highway projects. The "lag" in starting work is not caused by any fault of Gov. Cross or, of our State Highway department.

In September the Highway Department sent a letter to every town in the State informing them that the Federal money for public works was available and advising each town to apply for $150,000, adding that they could not tell how much of that amount would be allotted to them as it was unknown how many towns would apply.

The town of Bolton got busy at once, called a special town meeting and voted to apply for our allotment and voted where to put it, which vote was sent to the Highway Department in proper form. The Department then sent out their surveyors to do the preliminary work. Next came along a big stack of papers to be filled out in quadruple giving a very complete statement of the financial condition of the town, which was done and sent in, and we were "all set."

Now, some time later, we have just received a larger stack of papers to be filled out, and also told we must hire a town attorney to send in a statement with the other papers, declaring that the town estate is on solid ground and not liable to run away.

So, that is as far as we have gotten since September. The "road lag" is caused by the necessary (?) red tape which accompanies all Federal activities.

THEATER HOURS

Editor, The Manchester Herald:
It is very difficult for anyone who attempts to study social conditions to understand the attitude of the several Boards of Selectmen which have refused to allow our theaters to open on five o'clock on Sunday afternoon.

Some years ago, as a member of the Board of Selectmen, I very strongly favored the opening of theaters on Sunday afternoon. At that time our Board of Selectmen did not make a hasty decision. We studied social conditions and were positively convinced that it was much better to allow folks to attend theaters than to stand around the streets or go to places which might have made for unsatisfactory conditions.

Hartford but twenty minutes away by motor and but thirty-five minutes away by trolley, opens its theaters at five o'clock on Sunday. I doubt that anyone in Hartford would oppose this arrangement. Please understand now that I am not entering into a discussion of theaters as a place of amusement. If theaters are wrong on Sunday they are wrong on week-days but I am convinced that they are a distinct asset to any community. Every theater is having great difficulty in paying its taxes. It is, therefore, grossly unfair to ask the local theaters to pay taxes and place them at such a disadvantage.

I hope the Board of Selectmen as a matter of fairness will allow the theaters to open at five o'clock.

Cordially yours,
WILLARD B. ROGERS.

CUT CHARITY COSTS BY SUMMIT ST. JOB

Large Number Will Go Off Aid Lists As Work Is Started.

Town Treasurer George H. Waddell and Town Engineer Frank J. Bowen were in conference yesterday to check up on the work that would be started Monday, the money to pay for it coming from the State Emergency Relief fund. This will greatly reduce the number of families now securing aid from the town and will mean they will go off the aid list.

Summit Street First
Summit street is the first of the projects to be undertaken and work will be underway Monday. In order that this may be done without delay in getting the men to work, an inventory was taken yesterday of the number of wheelbarrows necessary for the men to use. A check-up also will be made to see if there are sufficient picks and shovels and also enough axes and grub axes with which to provide the men so as to get the work going.

To Use Man Power
It is the intention to use man power as much as possible. With this inventory completed and necessary tools purchased to carry on the work, there will be no hold up in the work when it gets started Monday.

Culvert Work Goes On
The town's regular outside gang will continue to work on the culvert over the Hockanum stream in Hillardville and a few extra men now out of work and not on aid will be given employment there. There is also the work of cutting down the tree near the home of Robert Richmond on South Main street and changing the roadway.

Increase In Charity
The work to be done under the emergency relief is to be paid from funds at present coming from the state, but which will later be added to by the civic relief fund from the government. This makes possible the release of many of the men now on the town's charity list. There was an increase in the amount of money spent for charity during October and new applications are being received.

Where a person has been on the list and given charity, then went off the list when work was secured and is again applying for help, a full history is being taken as though it had never before been considered. These will be checked. When the work starts on Monday men taken from this list will be given work under the emergency fund, $22,000 of which has already been received.

Helps Town's Credit
The fact that Manchester is receiving this assistance and is likely to obtain more has helped the credit of the town. The notes signed last week for $70,000 and sold to Putnam & Company, resulted in the money being placed to the credit of the town yesterday, and all bills approved at the Selectmen's meeting Tuesday night, amounting to $48,000, were being paid yesterday. Mr. Waddell signed these checks and had them ready last night. In addition to the $70,000 already released by Putnam & Company, Town Treasurer Waddell yesterday sold another bond on temporary note of $10,000 at the same rate of interest to the same company, but this money has not yet been received.

1,500 On Present List
On November 1, Manchester had 262 on its charity list. These were heads of families. They represented, in addition to themselves, other dependents that brought the total to 1,300. When the new work is started Monday there will be several taken from this list as men on aid are given jobs. What they earn will support them sufficiently to warrant taking them off the charity list. To those not on the charity list work of another nature will be found. It is specified that in the money provided by relief work it must be spent to provide work for those receiving charity.

Storm Water Sewers
One of the projects that will be taken up where men not on town aid will be employed, will be work on storm water sewers. There has been a special appropriation made by the town for this kind of work and the works committee of the highway department is arranging for this to be done mainly by men not on aid but out of work.

COLLAPSES IN STREET
Middletown, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Harry Connor, 65, of Long Island City, N. Y., alighted from a Boston to New York bus when it stopped here today, and a few minutes later collapsed on the street.

A fellow passenger, Dr. Hollister of Bellevue hospital staff, recognized the man as a former patient at the institution. At Middlesex hospital, to which Connor was taken, it was said later his condition was critical. He was suffering from anemia. His identity was confirmed by papers in his clothing. Connor had been visiting in Providence.

AUTO VICTIM DIES
Easton, Pa., Nov. 17.—(AP)—General Harry C. Treadler, chairman of the board of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company and a widely known banker of Allentown, Pa., died here today of injuries received in an automobile accident.

On his way home from New York City last night, his car side-wiped a large oil truck and trailer parked at the side of the highway near here.

He owned one of the largest fruit orchards in the state and his agricultural holdings total more than 7,000 acres in Lehigh county.

TROLLEY CO. WARNS AGAINST 'THUMB' RIDERS

Says Motorists Who Befriend Strangers Also Violate Spirit of NRA Code.

"Motorists who give rides to 'thumbers,' besides taking a chance that the befriended strangers may prove to be criminals, are in reality violating the spirit, if not the letter, of the NRA codes, since they are putting themselves in unfair competition with street railway and bus services," it was declared in a statement issued by The Connecticut Company today.

"Like other transit companies throughout the United States, the Connecticut Company has signed the code prepared by the American Transit Association, and approved by the administration; and it is abiding by the provisions of that code despite the fact that it has caused increased expenses and much inconvenience in the rearrangement of schedules and working hours," it is pointed out. "For this reason," it is claimed, "it is unfair for any motorist who has signed an NRA pledge card to place himself directly in competition with the company by picking up strangers and depriving the street railway company of legitimate fares."

"Street car revenues had been seriously affected even before the depression by the growing legitimate competition of the private automobile," the statement said. "But the depression has inflicted far more serious blows just as it has in other lines of business. It has necessitated many economies, wide alterations in the trolley properties and the substitution of bus for rail services on many lines where the traffic did not justify the expenses of rail maintenance. Due to these changes and the fact that the private automobile competition has reached at least a partial limit, the company will be in a much better position with respect to earnings when better times return. Better times for the rail and bus lines will be materially delayed, however, if motorists continue to furnish free transportation for thumbing strangers, thus taking that business from the transit company to which it rightfully belongs."

"In some parts of the country, to emphasize the point that those who give free rides to strangers are violating their NRA pledges, windshield stickers bearing Blue Eagles and the words, 'No Riders,' are being circulated among motorists. These not only warn away would-be free riders and are a reminder to other drivers, but they also help to protect motorists from the evils of 'thumbing,' which include robberies, violence and law suits."

DOCTOR POISONED TESTING SPIDERS

Wondered Whether "Black Widow" Was Poisonous; He Goes to Hospital.

University, Ala., Nov. 17.—(AP)—For many years, arachnologists—they study spiders—have wondered whether the "Black Widow" spider was poisonous to human beings.

Dr. Alan W. Blair, 33 year old associate professor of medicine at the University of Alabama here, can now answer that question with a loud affirmative.

Dr. Blair allowed one of the insects to bite his little finger. Two days of extreme pain in a hospital here was the result.

For 18 months the professor tried the insects on small animals. Dogs and cats were not affected. Guinea pigs were made sick and rats and mice died.

Dr. Blair began collecting the "Black Widows." He dissected many of them and looked at their poison sacs under microscopes.

But he still had not solved the problem of whether they were poisonous to humans. Two medical students at the university and Mrs. Blair offered to allow him to make the tests on them. Dr. Blair declined but finally determined to take it himself.

Poison Spreads
After the insect had been permitted to bite his little finger Dr. Blair said he felt a sharp pain in his hand, which later spread as far as his shoulder.

He thought his symptoms would end there, but a few moments later he was seized with violent abdominal cramps. His blood pressure sank rapidly, and in extreme pain, he refused narcotics until his reactions had been registered on the electrocardio-graphic table at the hospital.

This ordeal over, Dr. Blair went to bed and spent two days in intense suffering despite continued injections of opiates.

Today he was back at home, weak and pale, but able to eat again for the first time since the experiment.

And, whatever other arachnologists may think, Dr. Blair is firmly convinced that the "Black Widow" spider should be given a wide berth

STEAMSHIPS SOLD WAY UNDER COST

Vessels That Cost $205 a Ton To Build Disposed Of At $1.50 a Ton.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Testimony that ten ships, which cost $205 a ton to build, were disposed of by the Shipping Board in 1928 at about $1.50 a ton, today was entered before the Senate mail investigating committee.

Raymond D. Sullivan, vice president of the South Atlantic Steamship Company of Delaware, testified that his concern had bought the vessels for $3 a deadweight ton. It was brought out, however, that the ships had been operated for the government by the South Atlantic Line of Georgia, and were turned back to the Shipping Board for re-delivery after reconduction to the newly organized Delaware concern for operation under a mail contract.

Chairman Black (D., Ala.), read board figures showing the total mail price was $234,930 or about $3 a ton and that the repairs cost was $105,244, or $1.49 a ton.

It was also brought out that two vessels bought from the government in 1929 by the Strachan Southern Steamship Company, the stock of which was acquired by the South Atlantic company last February, were purchased for $6,300 or 50 cents a ton; whereas they had cost $5,657,393 to build.

Black sought again today to obtain records of James E. Reynolds, formerly connected with the Republican National committee, to whom J. E. Dockendorf of the Black Diamond Steamship Company testified paying $50,000 for advisory services. Black plans to call Reynolds as soon as he returns from a trip abroad the end of this month.

after police said he "lifted" them along with other "jewelry" from a local five and ten cent store.

Fairmont, Minn.—Millard Finlay didn't cast a line when he went fishing during a gale here, but he went home with fish for dinner.

As he was about to turn back reluctantly after deciding the wind was too strong for fishing, an obliging wave (he says) tossed an elegant perch at his feet. More followed.

When the wind got too cold for him, he went home, with seven perch the wind had brought in. He'd prove this by the fish, only they've been eaten.

New Kensington, Pa.—Aroused by the barking of her pet dog, Mrs. Michael Gehm found her house in flames. She and the dog fled to safety, but they had been out of the house only a few minutes before the dog dashed back in again. All efforts to call the animal out of the house failed and he perished in the fire.

Cottage Grove, Ore.—Winter, calendar insists, is hardly more than a month away, but residents of this western Oregon city are enjoying either an advance or a throwback of spring. Black berries are ripening on the bush. A dogwood tree is in bloom. Wild violets are blossoming. Roses have started to bloom again.

Worthington, Minn.—Mrs. Carl Mitchell believes in patronizing home industries. When she smashed into a bridge railing near Peoria, Ill., enroute to visit relatives in Central Illinois, she promptly telephoned Worthington, to have her car towed back for repairs—a mere 600 miles. She hasn't got the bill yet.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Willard, Ohio—The overall length of Mutt, eight year old mare, and the delivery wagon she pulled for Dewey Whitehead is 15 feet, 10 inches.

City Council is adamant about its ordinance—aimed at large trucks, limiting the length of parked vehicles to 15 feet, six inches.

"Can't you traile her to turn her head toward the sidewalk to allow for the extra length?" asks Councilman Boyle.

"No," says Whitehead, and there the problem rests.

Chicago—Policeman Daniel Garrity knows how to get his man. Eduardo De Ramos, accused by police for posing as a doctor, broke away from Garrity. The policeman fired one shot low. The bullet struck the heel of Deramos left shoe and knocked his feet from under him. He was unhurt.

St. Paul—Two lucky rabbit foot charms were very unlucky for Emmet Johnson. He found himself in the city jail.

cover the whole ground. Wherefore the whole situation is muddled up by an announcement that the communities must share the cost of the enterprise.

Another disappointment? Something else to be misunderstood and misinterpreted and muddled? Something more to bewilder and handicap local authorities and to bring half a dozen conflicting sets of orders in a week? Still another good intention gone to make hot pavement?

If so, well beyond any question, we can thank our friends of the A. F. of L. who, down there in Washington, are throwing a succession of monkey wrenches into the machinery because they can sense nothing and see nothing but high wages that must forever remain theoretical so long as the country is full of idle and hungry men who want jobs and to whom fifteen dollars a week means more than a hundred means to a labor agitator.

The Roosevelt administration are being shown the door. Now if Mr. Roosevelt will also baptize from his council every official and member of the A. F. of L. we may get somewhere.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Behind Washington Correspondent Washington, Nov. 17.—General Johnson's western barnstorming tour to sell NRA is more than a mere effort to appease dissatisfied farmers. NRA is under fire on other fronts and the administration, disturbed, decided on a major counter-propaganda campaign.

Reaction to Johnson's attack on Henry Ford, which was backed by President Roosevelt himself, has been a little sour. Some administration folks have chafed up an error for "the general," feeling that he should have waited for a more clean-cut case against the automobile manufacturer.

The effort to make support of NRA a patriotic duty, reminiscent of war days, is somewhat bogged. The Hearst press bombards the recovery organization daily and many Republican newspapers are anticipating the party attack expected in the next Congress.

Hostility of steel and other big interests is recognized. NRA people in the field have reported an increased disquiet. Capital thinks labor is getting too much, and vice versa. Confusion of policy at Washington headquarters irks many business men, who tell sad stories about visits here in attempts to learn things. Altogether, Warhorse Johnson has a job on his hands.

Sliffs for Bullitt Special Assistant William C. Bullitt, State Department mystery man, has been a frequent unheralded visitor to the White House lately in advance of the Litvinov conferences. He is Roosevelt's special Russian adviser, but State Department career men regard him as an outsider and still sniff at him.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Nov. 17.—While controlled conviviality lurks just around the corner with December 5 and formal repeal, the hot-spots are making hey-hey while the sun shines. The lid has come off with a loud pop, and the resulting effervescence is reminiscent of the closing days of the previous era—just before prohibition.

Practically every club is serving liquor openly, so are many of the taverns and tap-rooms, and some of the better hotel dining rooms. Speakeasies are taking the latches off their doors. Everyone seems of the opinion that there is considerably more liberty and license now than there will be after repeal.

For example, the "Merry-Go-Round," which not so long ago was being raided with discouraging regularity, now is one of the places which will admit anyone from your Aunt Minnie to a sight-seeing prohibition agent. This is the establishment, on East Fifty-Sixth Street, where guests perch on carousel horses and ride slowly (one revolution every eleven minutes) around the circular bar. Food also is served, but on substantial tables.

Then there's the Cafe des Beaux Arts, which became a hide-away rendezvous with the advent of prohibition. Recently, old patrons who remember it as one of the most colorful of dining spots in earlier days, have discovered that it's flourishing anew at the same old stand.

Another place in the "Round-Round" category is the King's Terrace, a Broadwayish establishment with gaudy decor and lively entertainment that verges on the rowdy. Its latches are out to anyone these nights.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

BY DR. FRANK McCUOY Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Dr. McCuoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, for reply.

EGGS HAVE MANY USES IN DIET. In Borneo, to provide the family with eggs, the husband hunts for turtle eggs buried three feet under sand. These turtle eggs are very large and only the yolk is eaten.

There is no reason to serve eggs the same way day after day as they may be prepared in a variety of ways and may be cooked, soft-boiled, poached, and made into omelets. Combined with milk, eggs make wholesome custards.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. (One Side Larger Than the Other). Question: C. Q. O. writes: "One side of my body seems larger than the other. What could cause this, and what can I do about it?" Answer: Exact measurements will usually show that one side of the body is larger than the other. This may be caused by unequal growth during childhood. There is another theory, believed in by some, that sleeping on one side makes the body larger on the side nearest the bed.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mr. Stanley L. asks: "Will you please advise me how often a person could give blood transfusions in an ordinary state of health without its being injurious to physical conditions?" Answer: Giving the blood for blood transfusions is not a healthful occupation and is liable to prove injurious at any time.

Question: Mrs. Sarah J. asks: "Would eating too many oranges cause my fingernails to become soft?" Answer: The oranges cannot hurt and, in fact, if you use oranges properly, they should help in correcting your trouble.

FISTIC FRAY FEATURES
RANGERS FIRST VICTORY

Rookie Jean Prusie Displays Talent With Fists as World Champs Defeat Red Wings, 2-1; Black Hawks Whip Senators, 2-1.

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR. (Associated Press Sports Writer.)

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings hockey team's new rookie crop, Jean Prusie of the New York Rangers, seems sure to become a popular favorite if he can only play the brand of hockey demanded by the big league.

Shows Fistic Talent
Prusie, a big fellow who came up from the Vancouver Maroons—heralded as a comedian, a rough and tumble artist who once tried professional wrestling as a sideline and came out with a cauliflower ear to show for it, as a scoring star, already has made good with the fans in one of those categories.

Playing in the Rangers' first home game last night, Prusie didn't have much chance to show his hockey ability in a close, hard fought game that brought the world champions a 2 to 1 victory over the Detroit Red Wings. But he played the leading role in a brief fistic flurry that was one of the high spots of the game. The big and rather awkward defense player dashed into a minor and came out with Eddie Goodfellow, big Detroit center, as his opponent.

They were separated before any damage had been done, but out in the middle of the rink, Prusie peeled off the discolored cap he wore, tossed aside his gloves and waded in again. It took the combined efforts of three or four players and a referee or two to subdue him.

Is Turning Point
The fight turned out to be one of the turning points of the game, which saw the Rangers chalk up their first victory of the new season and Wings drop back into second place in the American division while Prusie and Goodfellow were serving major penalties, the Rangers' famous Cook-Boucher line got into action and scored the first goal. A few minutes later they tied again and the rest of the time Detroit was trying to catch up.

The Chicago Blackhawks meanwhile went to the top of the division, turning back the Ottawa Senators 2-1. It was Ottawa's first defeat of the year and left three clubs deadlocked for the Canadian division lead. The other two, the Montreal Maroons and New York Americans, played a 2-2 tie, at Montreal.

Battle To Tie
Hooley Smith was the outstanding player in a rather dull encounter between the Maroons and Americans, figuring in both Montreal goals he almost got several other tallies but since he didn't the Americans were able to gain a draw when George Patterson notched a goal less than three minutes before the finish.

WESLEYAN IN LAST
BATTLE OF SEASON

Game With Rochester Also Marks End of Oberlander's Coaching Career.

Middletown, Conn., Nov. 17.—Entraining for Rochester, N. Y., early this morning, the Wesleyan University football team will wind up its 1933 football season tomorrow afternoon when it faces the University of Rochester seven for the first time since the team's victory at the stadium. And this game will also wind up the football career of Coach Andrew James Oberlander, the steady-haired Dartmouth flash who made football history on the Indians' battle ground back in 1925 and who, for the past four years, has trained Wesleyan eleven and developed the stars of the Cardinal gridiron. For "Jim," a coach respected by those who have played under him, will shortly forsake his place as a football mentor to become a full-fledged M. D. when he leaves for Cleveland to commence his internship in the Lakeside hospital.

In preparation for this closing episode of his activity on the football field, Coach Oberlander has not put his men through any scrimmages, but has ordered no scrimmage sessions for the past week's program. Practice consisted mostly of light signal drill and polishing up of the aerial attack which worked so smoothly in last week's victory over Williams—a game which put Wesleyan in line for 1933 Little Three honors.

The starting lineup will probably find Leoutsacos, MacInnes, Burton and Johnson in the backfield, Brown and Frost at ends, Burt and Wallace at tackles, Berrien and Bartlett at guards, and Fyerly at center.

Old Glory Trotting
Sale Opens Nov. 28

New York, Nov. 17.—(Special) Thirty-ninth in an unbroken annual series, the Old Glory sale, 1933 edition, will open its doors November 28th for a two-day auction of the aristocracy of American trotting horses.

Old Madison Square Garden was the scene of the inaugural Old Glory in 1896, but ever since 1920 the blue ribbon auction has been held at Squadron "A" Armory, 84th Street and Madison Avenue. This year's sale, according to E. J. Tranter, its manager, will substitute quality for quantity in the parade around the tankard.

Biggest Consignment
Walnut Hill Farm, Lexington, Ky., will have the largest consignment stabled at the Armory with 95 yearlings curried and combed to go under the hammer. Hanover Shoe Farms, Hanover, Pa., is shipping 57 horses to the sale, of which 50 are yearlings headed by Lawrence Hanover, brother of Hanover's Bertha, 1:59 1/4, Charlotte Hanover, 1:59 1/4, and Miss Bertha Hanover, 2:00.

Among other leading farms and stables which will be well represented at the Old Glory this year are E. M. Stout, Pontiac, Mich., the estate of W. H. Nelson, Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; W. F. Caton, Syracuse, N. Y.; the Josedale Estates, Indianapolis, Ind.; Peninsular Farms, Fremont, O.; Arden Homestead Farm, Goheen, N. Y.; Fred Egan, Lexington, Ky., and others.

Case's Horses
The Good Time Stable owned by William H. Case, of Harkness, N. J., and Goheen, has announced that all but two of its horses more than two years old will be sold Nov. 28-29 at the Old Glory. In explaining his dispersal of aged horses, Mr. Case, who is well-known for his promotion of the $50,000 Hambletonian Stake, declared that his blue and gold colors would be raced only in the colt classes and futurities.

Foreign buyers will descend upon the annual auction in force with considerable probability that gold from abroad will try to outweigh American dollars in purchasing the cream of the trotting and pacing world up for sale. Last year, some of the best harness stappers in America were sold across the water, with The Marchioness, Hambletonian victor, preceding her brothers and sisters abroad before the Old Glory.

Mary Reynolds Out
Mary Reynolds, owned by W. N. Reynolds, Winston-Salem, N. C., is not up for sale even though a top price might be secured for her following a great string of victories culminated by the Hambletonian, Brown Berry, the property of J. I. Lyle, Plainfield, N. J., will not go under the hammer either, although he, too, won fame by proving Mary Reynolds' most persistent rival.

Stadium in the first major boxing program of the Chicago season. His more expensive championship, the lightweight title, will not be directly involved. The stubby Boston battler probably will weigh in at 139, while the champion will scale as much as three pounds less.

CINCINNATI REDS
DO SOME SWAPPING
Get Two Pirates in Exchange for "Red" Lucas and Outfielder Roettger.

Galveston, Texas, Nov. 17.—Larry MacPhail, soon expected to be named president of the down-trodden Cincinnati Reds of the National League, today announced the acquiring, through a trade, of Tony Pitt, second baseman and Adam Comorosky outfielder.

In exchange for these two Pirates, the Reds sent to Pittsburgh the veteran pitcher, Charles F. "Red" Lucas and Walter Roettger, outfielder. MacPhail declined to say if any cash was involved.

This trade, one of the major swaps since the 1933 season ended, came on the third and final day of the thirty-second annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues. Having adjusted all their amendments to the major-minor league agreement and the major-minor league rules yesterday, today's final session was for the formality of accepting Dan Hill of Asheville, N. C., as a member of the executive committee, which is the governing body of minor leagues. Hill will serve as representative of all class B, C and D leagues. He succeeds Dale Gear of Topeka, Kansas.

MICHIGAN HAS NARROW
EDGE OVER MINNESOTA

Grid Expert Names Pitt to Top Nebraska, Georgia to Whip Auburn, Princeton to Tounce Navy, Harvard to Overcome Brown.

By HERBERT W. BARKER

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Another banner array of big time games complicated by tradition and all the uncertainties that traditional rivalries bring, presents the puzzled football fan some nice problems this week. On the basis of what has occurred so far, the prospects for the major clashes line up something like this:

Fordham Has Edge
Fordham-Oregon State—A slight leaning toward Fordham can be explained by the Rams' apparent superiority on the attack.

Michigan-Minnesota—The crucial hurdle for Michigan's undefeated and untied Wolverines who rate a narrow edge on the rested Gophers. Pitt-Nebraska—Their own national aspirations ruined, the Pitt Panthers hope to wreck Nebraska's perfect record and look slightly stronger in this clash of evenly matched eleven.

Georgia-Auburn—Most football observers are content to string along with Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs.
Oregon By A Hair
Southern California-Oregon—There's no tougher one on the list.

The weak offense the Trojans have shown so far gives the Northwest outfit an all but invisible edge.
Princeton-Navy—Princeton's unbeaten Tigers rule pronounced favorites and deservedly so.
Harvard-Iowa—The Boilermakers should win but Iowa undoubtedly will put up a strenuous argument.
Duke-North Carolina—The records point to another triumph for unbeaten Duke.
Colgate-Syracuse—Syracuse has been too inconsistent this season to warrant any prediction for a victory over Colgate.
Chicago-Illinois—The Illini look far superior.

Tulane-Kentucky—Tulane has played winning football since it stopped fumbling and the greens are favored.
Picks The Indians
Dartmouth-Cornell—Old rivals these, with Dartmouth apparently the better team this season.
Washington-U. C. L. A.—This Washington outfit beat Stanford at home and was trounced 33-0 by California at Berkeley. The UCLA game at Seattle, inspires a timid ballot for Washington.

Northwestern-Notre Dame—The looks like the best bet in this match between fumbling, uncertain eleven. Notre Dame's running attack, at least as far as the ten yard line, is more powerful.
Harvard-Brown—A close game in prospect but maybe this is the spot for Harvard to begin to click.
Denver-Utah—It doesn't look now as if Denver could stop the champion Indians.
Texas-Texas Christian—An important clash in the topsey-turvy southwest conference campaign with Texas rated slightly ahead.
Columbia-La Fayette—There's no choice here but Columbia.

For Quick Apple Meringue Pudding—1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup sugar, 2-eggs, 1 cup thick apple sauce, 1 lemon (juice and rind) 1-2 pkg. Holland rusk. Cream 1/2 cup butter and sugar, add beaten egg yolks, apple sauce, lemon juice and grated rind. Roll rusk fine and put three-fourths of them in a layer in a thickly buttered loose bottomed layer-cake pan. Spread over this the apple mixture. Beat egg whites stiff and spread over apple mixture. Sprinkle with remaining crumbled rusk, dot with remaining butter and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees F) for 20 minutes. Make 8 inch pudding.

Thanksgiving greeting cards this season would seem to indicate that the turkeys have gone peacock for the modest plumage may be found in the gayest of colors. Probably as a tribute to the first lady, one proud bird has its feathers garb colored Eleanor blue, with a dash of jade and beige. It tells you cheerfully, "I'm wishing you the happiest Thanksgiving you ever had and— I'm making no bones about it— Puritan figures, with a helpful youth in attendance. A typical verse reads, "Thanksgiving greetings, friendly sincere; Feeling thankful? I have so! Here's luck and good cheer!"

This present mode, however, demands rhinestones and reproduction of all precious stones, emeralds, rubies, diamonds and pearls. The stunning new brooches and bracelets, exact copies of real stones, are beautifully made and worthy of the elegant costumes they complete.

MALMGREN MEMORIAL FUND IS POPULAR

Letters from Donors Say Cause Is Worthy and Deserves Full Support.

In October the trustees of the Manchester Memorial hospital voted to establish a fund for research work in the Pathological Laboratory. This fund to be known as the "Hanna Malmgren Memorial Fund" in memory of Miss Malmgren who was superintendent there from 1922 to 1930. It seemed to the trustee to have the memorial take this particular form would be in keeping with the wishes of Miss Malmgren, as the idea was conceived in her mind. As soon as this fact was known letters began to come in from here and there containing contributions toward the fund. One donor said "I regret I cannot give the whole amount for in my opinion the cause is so worthy it should receive full support." Another said "I feel that if the proposed fund will be lived up to by those who are to be benefited by it, with the same unselfish thought and high purpose which Miss Malmgren so courageously stood for, it will be worthy of its name." Still another said "It is a pleasure to help to continue the memory of so courageous a person."

They left the college in a body singing the Turkish national anthem. The Turkish ministry of instruction opened an inquiry into the demonstration.

MORGAN ON VISIT TO THE PRESIDENT

But What They Discussed Was Not Divulged to White House Reporters.

Washington, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Another tea-cup conference was behind President Roosevelt today—a meeting with J. Pierpont Morgan and Myron C. Taylor at which anything from cabbages to kings might have been discussed. White House attaches told newsmen, after it was discovered that the New York financier and the chairman of the United States Steel Corporation were late yesterday callers, that the meeting was purely "social."

But upon what subjects the chat over the teacups touched were not revealed. At the executive mansion it was reiterated today that there had been no "business" at the meeting.

Morgan's Statement "You know it would not be proper for me to discuss with you what I talked to the President about," said Morgan to newspapermen under the White House portico. Taylor followed suit with similar words. Both were smiling and genial and apparently pleased with their visit.

The President sent two other afternoon tea callers away in a pleasant humor earlier this week. Alfred E. Smith, whom Mr. Roosevelt once termed "The Happy Warrior," and John J. Raskob were the visitors. Observed one of the guests today that since both Morgan and Taylor are such important figures in the financial world, that at least some talk on money policy or such subjects might have crept into their chat with the Chief Executive.

However, it was pointed out at the White House that Mrs. Roosevelt participated in the tea conversation, which was held in an upstairs sitting room of the White House.

CEROSUOLO BOUND OVER TO THE HIGHER COURT

Involved in Hartford Election Riots He Is Also Suspected of Murder.

Hartford, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Pasquale Cerosuolo, 36, of 31 Kilburn street, arrested here on the night of November 7 in connection with alleged election day disorders, was arraigned in Police Court today on a charge of participating in an attack upon John D'Amato of 111 Talcott street. Two others are to be presented in Police Court on D'Amato's complaint next week. In the case of Cerosuolo, Judge William M. Harney decided this morning to have the accused bound over to the January term of the Superior Court. The court accepted the recommendation of Prosecuting Attorney Cornelius Shea and fixed the bail at $5,000. Cerosuolo is the fifth man to be bound over to the higher court for election day disorders.

Cerosuolo is said to be wanted in New York city for the alleged murder of his cousin, John Alessio, last March. He was interviewed at the Hartford county jail by two New York detectives a few days ago. The visiting officers stated before leaving for New York, that they will seek an indictment against Cerosuolo in that city, claiming that they had sufficient evidence to link the man held here with the murder of Alessio in New York.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Nov. 17.—Larger letters for highways and other public works projects lifted the volume of heavy engineering contracts to $38,951,000 in the week ended Nov. 13, says "Engineering News-Record." The wool cloth market is now in "a pronounced lull," largely because of seasonal factors, says the New York Wool Top Exchange Service. However, retail sales of women's wear improved this week, with the result that manufacturers reduced stocks and took a firmer attitude on prices.

PAINTER SCORES HOLLYWOOD STARS

Penrhyn Stanlaws Certain There Is Not One Perfect Beauty in the Lot.

New York, Nov. 17.—(AP)—Despite all the hallyhoo, Penrhyn Stanlaws, eminent portrait painter, is convinced that there is not one perfect screen beauty among Hollywood's stars.

There would be if one of them had Lulu Veles' profile, Joan Bennett's facade and a boyish figure. Stanlaws would add a touch of lip stitche, rouge and mascara.

In 1922 Stanlaws lost his job as a Hollywood director because he spoke out on Hollywood's pulchritude. He spoke out again today with no job to lose: Mae West: "Her head, eyes and mouth were constructed for a simple nose, but nature presented her with a complicated one—interestingly so, but bringing the eyes too close together."

Katherine Hepburn: "Her chin and the lower part of her face project too far. Anthropologists have a name for such a facial type; they call it prognathism. Artists call it 'beak.'"

Constant Bennett: "A real symphony in jazz—her nose too small for her face." The Great Greta Greta Garbo: "She has a sleepy, sophisticated look, attained by deep eye sockets and a peculiar slant of the upper lip. These are not aids to beauty, but schoolgirls find the effect more alluring than beauty."

Jean Harlow: "She has a graceful and expressive figure—between that of the '90's and the boyish radiance of the '20's." Katharine Hepburn: "but more caused by her nose projecting at too sharp an angle."

Lulu Veles' figure is the "true maidenly" one, he said, and her face is mobile so she "can look sophisticated or innocent at will." Stanlaws said he would like to see her body—oversized triceps of the arms.

Mary Pickford: "There is no one in the films who has her sculptural modeling and harmony of features. Mary hasn't it," however." Marlene Dietrich: "Take Mary Pickford's face, replace it with one slightly out of focus, and you have heavy eyelids and sunken eyes and you have Dietrich—a sophisticated Mary."

Joan Crawford and Joan Blondell, Stanlaws said, have Mae West's unusually prominent features, but their "akulu" construction isn't large enough to carry them."

TO REBUILT OIL PLANT

Tiverton, R. I., Nov. 17.—(AP)—The Town Council, after a heated five-hour public hearing, early today granted permission for reconstruction of the oil storage plant of the New England Terminal Company, which was destroyed by fire early this month with loss of three lives and $800,000 damage. The new plant would have a 500,000 barrel capacity.

Through their counsel, one group of residents announced they would appeal to the courts to prevent rebuilding of the plant. Louis D. Pierce, one of the owners, said construction would begin immediately and that the new plant would meet all the fire-prevention and other requirements of an ordinance adopted by the town since the fire.

FAKE SOLICITORS SEEK FUND HERE

Red Cross Canvassers Have Receipts and Stickers to Issue.

Reports of fraudulent solicitation by fake representations of the Red Cross, caused R. K. Anderson, chairman of the current Red Cross Roll Call campaign, to issue warnings to townspeople not to make donations to canvassers, unless the latter can provide a receipt and a Red Cross sticker in return. All bona fide workers in the drive possess these materials.

It has been reported to the Chamber office that a canvasser is making the rounds asking for donations to the Red Cross without leaving a receipt or a sticker, a practice that leads Red Cross officials to believe that a fraudulent attempt is being made to secure funds.

All workers in the drive have been assigned certain districts to canvass and the workers have reported that their territory has already been canvassed in some instances by persons not known to be a member of the campaign organization.

FREEDOM OF PRESS DEPENDS ON PRESS

and it will be for the coming generation to decide whether the press shall be kept decent enough and respectable enough to be worth fighting for. For it is a too-often-forgotten axiom that great institutions seldom perish under attacks from without. They crumble from within.

Inward Greatness

"Let us remember that through the years American journalism will stand if it maintains its inward greatness, and will fall if it loses it."

Price said that greatness "was built on truth and fairness in the printed word."

"Do not be deceived," he continued, "into thinking it was built on the publication of gossip and rumor, wisecracks and insinuations, scandal for scandal's sake, libel and misstatement for the sake of sensation. It always is easy to write strikingly if you do so irresponsibly; but the truth does not always go about clothed in such brilliant colors."

"The American people made the Constitution, and wrote into it the guarantee of a free press. The American people can remove that guarantee when they choose. They are not likely to do so as long as the press maintains its prestige as an honored and responsible institution. Will they not do so if that prestige and responsibility are tossed away by the frivolous, the gossips, and the rumormongers who may gain a foothold in the city?"

U. S. GOLD PRICE REMAINS THE SAME

later denied in government quarters here, that the administration was preparing to clamp an embargo on export of capital and the offering of dollars on foreign exchange, on the strength of which the dollar underwent a spectacular recovery late yesterday in New York.

Whether the government is buying or not buying gold abroad at present, officials as usual would not say. They are guarding this delicate phase of the gold operations against leaks which would supply speculators and others with information on the Government's plans.

Reason for Plan

The purpose behind the domestic and foreign purchases is to increase the price of gold in the expectation of influencing commodity prices upward. The latter have shown a definite trend toward higher levels which has been extremely gratifying to the administration.

However, a coincident result has been to unsettle the dollar and set it to fluctuating over a wide range with a tendency to drop precipitately. Government bond prices have tended downward.

O. M. W. Sprague, special financial advisor to the treasury, declined to comment today on reports that when he called on President Roosevelt yesterday he carried his resignation with him, but was persuaded by the chief executive to withhold it.

Sprague, former Harvard economics professor, and a conservative on money matters, came to the government from an important post with the Bank of England.

LEGION CIRCUS DRAWS ENTHUSIASTIC CROWD

More Than 500 Attend Opening Performance and Applaud Many Thrilling Acts.

An audience estimated at more than 500 persons attended the opening of the American Legion indoor circus at the State Armory last night and roundly applauded the seventeen acts presented by Wallace Brothers. Typical circus acts were offered and the crowd seemed well pleased with the program.

The circus will be continued tonight and two performances will be given tomorrow, the first in the afternoon and the second in the evening.

the silver problem the study he would like to have given it; in this period when his mind and his body are burdened with problems of such magnitude and complexity as were never before presented to any ruler in the world's history, he must seek and act on the advice of those he considers most competent.

Give President a Chance

"Let us not insist on too much from the President at once. Let us give him a chance to try out by experience the truth of the varying advice of his numerous advisors."

Pittman asserted later there was nothing that would "help the country and in fact the rest of the world so much as the reinitiation of silver."

"It would be a sound safe and natural reflation of the currency of the world," he said, "and would, in my opinion, start the purchase of our surplus production by peoples who have been deprived of this opportunity through the unnatural depression on the exchange value of their only money—silver."

"Let us get behind the President in the plan to coin silver produced in the United States, in the hope and belief that such action will be followed by Indiana, Canada, Mexico, Peru and Australia. This would mean world reflation which is more to be desired than solely domestic reflation, no matter how valuable that may be."

only yesterday that the government's opposition would be increased by about 80 members of Sir Herbert Samuel's Liberal group which decided to cross the floor at the next session.

When the two Houses reassemble to hear the speech from the throne, they will be faced by pending legislation to change administration of unemployment insurance so as to add hundreds of thousands to the rolls of those entitled to its benefits.

The closing session saw bitter criticism leveled at the administration's handling of the British case at Geneva. The opposition charged the government with lack of zeal in pursuing a policy of arms reduction and of failing to reflect the desire of the nation at large for peace.

the attempt to kill himself. There was a carpenter's hammer on the work bench and he first used this, using the claw end of the hammer to hack at his head. There were no stains on the hammer head but the claws and handle showed stains of blood. Nearby was an axe, using the blunt end on the axe, he continued to hack away at his head, blood stains and hair being found on the axe. The entire handle was also covered with blood.

Walks Up Stairs

Mr. Chaponis started from the cellar, walked up the narrow stairs which opened into the kitchen. It was in the kitchen that he picked up the knife. Members of the family were aroused by the groans and coming downstairs, assisted him to a chair. While in the chair, he assumed a leaning position. The family started to attend the wounds on his head and a call was sent to William Quish by his daughter to get the ambulance to the home at once.

Knife Not Noticed

All of the time that he was sitting in a leaning position and attention was being given to his head he was pushing the knife into his body, cutting into his vitals. No time was lost in getting him to the hospital, although he was in a dying condition. Nothing had been said about a knife and as the doctor drew back the flannel cloth that was across the stomach it was then noticed that there was a large cut and the knife was found. The knife blade was withdrawn and soon after this was taken out the man died.

Word was at once telephoned to the police and to Dr. D. C. Y. Moore, head of the hospital board and also to Dr. W. R. Thacker, medical examiner. Sergeant John McGinn after going to the hospital and seeing conditions drove to the home and asked that nothing be moved until this morning when a further investigation might be made. This was done and this morning Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon, Lieutenant William Barron and Sergeant John McGinn went to the home and made an investigation. The theory that there might have been any foul play was blasted by the investigation.

FORMER PASTOR HERE ACCEPTS NEW CALL

Rev. C. M. Calderwood to Be in Charge of Church in Ventura, California.

Rev. Charles M. Calderwood who for several years was pastor of the Second Congregational church here has written The Herald telling of the call he has just received from the Community church in Ventura, California. He is at present in Santa Barbara, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Calderwood during their residence here made many friends in the church and in Manchester.

The church to which the Rev. Calderwood has been called is a strong organization composed of Congregational and Presbyterian parishes which united a few years ago and built a new church building, considered one of the finest and most complete on the Pacific coast. The city has a population of 15,000 and is 30 miles south of Santa Barbara. With the completion of the new Maricopa highway, now under construction it will become the gateway to the great San Joaquin Valley.

Rev. Mr. Calderwood announced his resignation last Sunday to take effect December 15. He assumed leadership of the church in Santa Barbara on December 1, 1930. Previous to that he had been pastor of one of the Congregational churches in Phoenix, Ariz. A graduate of Grinnell College and Yale University, he has been a pastor for 25 years. His first pastorate on the Pacific coast was at Glendale where he supervised the erection of a fine church edifice.

Greenville, S. C., Nov. 17—(AP)—George Green, middle-aged negro, near here early today by a band of men robed in white, shot and left dying.

Authorities said they knew of no reason for the slaying of the negro. They were conducting an intense investigation, spurred on by indignation of citizens in the community.

Green's wife said a band of 10 or 12 men, wearing robes and masks, appeared at the house and demanded that the negro come outside.

The woman said one of the men pulled off his mask and revealed he was white. She fled and notified officers.

Two deputies arrived at the scene just before Green died but he did not rally enough to make a statement.

San Jose, Cal., Nov. 17—(AP)—Mysterious crimes have quickly lost their element of mystery in San Jose county during the three years William J. Emig has been sheriff.

Solution of the kidnapping and slaying of Brooke L. Hart is the latest of several spectacular crimes untangled by Emig who transformed himself from a traffic officer into a criminologist.

The dogged persistence which characterizes his investigations had been repeatedly shown in minor cases before Mrs. Lillian Babcock was slain and her husband, William Babcock, prominent Manila exporter, seriously knifed in a Los Altos home.

The girls are reminded to bring their donations of fruit or vegetables.

The Manchester Green Community club will hold a business meeting tonight at 7 o'clock in the Green School hall. The weekly setback and dance will follow at 8 o'clock sharp. The usual cash prizes will be awarded the winners tonight.

The library is displaying its new children's books next week, November 20 through November 25. The exhibition will be in the main entrance room of the library on School street. A Children's Story Hour is arranged for Saturday morning, November 25 the exact hour to be announced next week.

THESE CHANGING TIMES

A Student of the Modern School Looks At Today's and Tomorrow's Problems.

By JACOB E. RUBINOW

MANAGED CURRENCY AND THE NATIONAL CREDIT: THE ADMINISTRATION'S DILEMMA

Something has been happening during the past two weeks that puts the Administration in a decidedly uncomfortable position. Since the first of the month the prices of Government bonds have been going steadily lower. There are unmistakable signs that small investors and even large institutions here and abroad are selling their bonds and converting the proceeds into investments that promise to have a more stable purchasing power, principally foreign internal bonds and francs, pounds, belgas etc. This is the explanation of the simultaneous fall in prices of Government securities and rise in the price of the currencies of other countries.

It is perfectly clear that this flight of capital has been due to fear of drastic inflation and consequent depreciation of the dollar. Holders of Government securities have become alarmed lest the purchasing power of their bonds, which bear a fixed income, should be severely reduced by a sharp rise in prices. Hence they have rushed to unload their bonds in order to make investments which will maintain their purchasing power irrespective of the course of American prices.

It seems to me that the fears of these people are wholly unreasonable. American prices are going to rise, but it is ridiculous to believe that they are going to rise to any such extent as these people anticipate. When the Administration decides to stabilize the price level will be far below the price level of 1919 when most of these bonds were issued, and will not even be as high as it was in 1929, a year when United States Government bonds were considered the world's premier investment.

But investors, rightly or wrongly, have been selling their Government bonds. No amount of reasoning can alter that fact. In other words, the United States Government will no longer be able to find a ready market for its securities. This is a particularly serious problem, for the Government will have to borrow upwards of $6,000,000,000 during the next year in order to finance its recovery program.

This situation leaves three courses open to the Administration: first, it can ignore the decline in price for its bonds; second, it can attempt to restore confidence in its securities by renouncing all intentions of inflation; third, it can support the market for its securities by forcing the Federal Reserve Banks to buy them.

The first alternative is impracticable.

Overnight A. P. News

Boston—Massachusetts state recovery board says statistics indicate the NRA is accomplishing definite improvement in the stabilization of business in the Commonwealth.

New Bedford, Mass.—Public schools of New Bedford close until Dec. 1, because the city lacks $45,000 to defray expenses.

Dover, N. H.—John W. Hogan, 64, publisher of the Dover Tribune for 25 years and New Hampshire newspaperman for 40 years, dies.

Boston—Alcoholic beverages control commission reports Massachusetts and its municipalities have profited to the extent of nearly $2,000,000 through beer and wine taxes and license fees.

WAPPING

The Federated Workers will hold an all day meeting at the church today for a general discussion.

The Pleasant Valley club will hold a bridge and setback party next Saturday evening, November 18, at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Skinner. The proceeds will go for the new Wapping Community Church House. It is hoped there will be a large crowd as it is for a worthy cause.

Herbert Cunningham was very pleasantly surprised at his home when about thirty of his friends and neighbors called to help him celebrate his birthday. He received many useful and pretty gifts. Cards were played. Mrs. Oscar D. Strong and William Armour received the first prizes and Mrs. Randall and Frank C. Stoddard the consolation prizes. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

The South Windsor A. C. basketball team which had a successful season last year has organized for its 1933-34 campaign and will start

SUNDAY MUSICALS BEGIN THIS WEEK

South Methodist Series To Be Started Under Organist Byles.

The first of this season's Sunday evening musicals to be given by the choir of the South Methodist church will be presented on Sunday evening November 19th at 7:30 o'clock. G. Huntington Byles, acting organist and director has arranged a program made up of compositions covering a wide range in which well known composers, and others not so well known are featured.

One of the choral numbers is a setting of the 24th Psalm, by Lili Boulanger, a composer whose works are well known in France, her native land. This composer has to her credit many excellent choral works of a very unusual type, and at her death at the age of 25 years in 1918, many expressions of regret at her untimely end were featured in the musical circles of Europe. Another choral offering is the better known composition "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" from the German Requiem, by Johann Brahms. The concluding choral number is a composition set to the hymn of St. Francis of Assisi. "All Creatures of Our God and King" by Edward T. Chapman, one of the younger school of present day English composers. There have been but few of this composer's works heard yet in this country but because of the excellence of his work it is certain many of his works will grace programs throughout this country.

As organ offerings Mr. Byles will present, Choral Prelude on "Nun komm, der Heiden Heiland" one of the masterpieces arranged and composed for organ by J. S. Bach. Another offering of merit is the "Third Verse" by Marcel Dupre, the well known French master in organ, and under whom Mr. Byles studied while in Paris this past season.

His concluding number will be Fugue and Variation by Cesar Franck, this being one of the earlier compositions by this composer, and is a work that is full of beauties in organ technique.

John and Dixie English, 81-year-old twin brothers, have lived 42 years on the same farm north of Ralls, Tex.

BIG TRUCK BURNS
Ches. st. Mass., Nov. 17.—(AP)—A ten-ton truck and trailer of the Consolidated Motor Lines, enroute from Albany, N. Y., to Springfield, was destroyed by fire early today with a loss estimated at $10,000. State police believed the fire might have been set by a brand thrown as the truck crept slowly up the west slope of Jacobs Led-der.

Consolidated Motor Lines is one of the concerns involved in a western Massachusetts truck strike which, during the last four weeks, has been marked by outbreaks of violence. Several trucks have been set afire and destroyed and others stoned and damaged.

LONG "NOON HOUR" ALLOWED STORES

Exception in Retail Code Becomes Effective Sunday, It Is Announced.

Manchester merchants who have allowed employees to have one and one-half hours off for luncheon will be able to continue this practice starting next week, an exception to the retail code of the NRA having been adopted to become effective Sunday, November 19. Under the certain provisions of the code only one hour was allowed for the lunch period and a petition for an exception to this ruling by the local merchants was denied by the New England office of the National Recovery Administration.

In announcing adoption of the exception, signed by R. W. Lee, acting administrator for National Recovery, on November 9, it was stated that it had been found that certain provisions of the retail code impose an undue hardship upon certain retailers and upon application for relief by said retailers, and upon recommendation of the National Retail Trade Council, the following exception was hereby granted: "In communities where there has been an established custom to allow employees an interval longer than one hour for the mid-day meal such custom may be continued on the same basis as previously provided that in no case shall the interval be longer than one and one-half hours. In accordance with Article V, Section 6, the interval thus established need not be counted as part of the employees' working time. Upon the establishment of a local Retail Trade Council, authorized by the Administration of his Code, within a local area, the approval of such Council shall be necessary in order to permit further continuance of such custom.

"This order shall become effective within ten (10) days of the date hereof unless prior to such time cause to the satisfaction of the Administrator shall be shown to the contrary."

The UNKNOWN BLOND

BEGIN HERE TODAY

On a stormy November evening DAVID BANNISTER meets a pretty blond girl and offers her a lift in the cab in which he is riding. Her handbag opens and he sees a revolver inside.

Next morning Bannister reads that TRACEY KING, orchestra leader in a movie theater, has been found dead in his apartment. Police are searching for an "unknown blond" who visited King the night before.

He goes to see his old friend, JIM PAXTON, editor of the Tremont Post, and arranges to work on the King murder case for the Post.

DOLFE GADNEY, star reporter, go to police headquarters. They learn that HERMAN SOURLACH, unemployed, is in jail, accused of writing a threatening letter to King.

Bannister decides to take a look at the room where King died and leaves. On the way he stops to see Juliet France. He is informed that she has left the hotel.

CHAPTER VIII Bannister repeated, in a tone of disbelief, "Checked out? You mean she's gone? But there must be..."

"Miss France checked out of the hotel early this afternoon," the voice over the wire told him crisply.

Bannister heard the click that meant that the telephone call had been disconnected. He put down the instrument. He had been holding it rather stupidly for an instant and then turned away. He walked slowly across the lobby toward the door.

But he had not taken a dozen steps before he was back. He said to the room clerk, "I understand that Miss France has left the hotel. Do you know if she left a message for me? My name is Bannister."

"The room clerk turned. 'I see, sir,' he said and began sorting through a collection of envelopes. A moment later he shook his head. 'There's no message,' he said.

"And she didn't leave a forwarding address?" Bannister persisted. He knew, even as he asked, that she hadn't.

Or did this disappearance have an entirely different meaning? Did it mean that the story the girl had told him that morning was a tangle of lies, made out of whole cloth to appeal to his sympathy?

Did it mean she was a clever adventuress?

"No, there's no forwarding address," the clerk said briefly.

Bannister thanked him, turned back toward the door. This time he went out to the street, hailed a taxi and told the driver to take him to the Shelby Arms.

He felt rather as though he had dived from a high spring-board and landed flat. The more he thought of it the more he was convinced that the girl had used him to suit her purpose—and how well she had done it, too!

What those purposes were, what part he had played in them, Bannister could not guess. Of course her story about going to see Tracy King to ask for the job was ridiculous on the face of it. So was her explanation about the revolver. And she had said she had no friends and was so terrified of the police and the tears had come into her eyes!

Bannister muttered, "Damn!" and drew his brows together. He had forgotten that he had gone into this thing to help Juliet France, that his visit to Jim Paxton's office and the sudden, impromptu suggestion that he should go to work for the Post had all come about because of the girl. He wanted to know now, more than ever, who Juliet France was. He wanted to know whether or not she had killed Tracy King and if so, why.

The cab slowed and came to a halt. Bannister got out, paid the driver and walked slowly up the steps. For an instant he had a vision of a slender, green-clad figure silhouetted against that entrance—a figure that drew back from the stormy night then darted into it. But the vision was gone almost as quickly as it had come.

Bannister pulled the heavy door open and stepped inside. He was in a large, oblong entrance, carpeted and furnished almost like a room in an impressive private home. Chairs, a divan and tables were arranged with taste. He noticed a tapestry that he did not like and a tall vase of bronze chrysanthemums placed before a mirror. The only detail that was unlike a home was the hotel desk at the rear. A man stood there. A little at his left sat the switch-board operator and as Bannister moved forward he heard the operator's softly uttered, "What number are you calling?"

Bannister addressed the clerk. "Are you Mr. Link?" he asked. "My name is Bannister and I've a note here from Chief Henley."

A swift change of expression—was it alarm or something stronger?—came over the clerk's face. "Yes I'm Mr. Link," he admitted. "You say Chief Henley sent you?"

Bannister presented the envelope containing the note. It had been scrawled with a pen and was nothing more than a request that Mr. Bannister, the bearer, be permitted to see the rooms Tracy King had occupied in the hotel.

"Why—why, yes, certainly," the clerk agreed quickly. "I'll take you up myself. If you'll just wait a moment while I get someone to take charge of the desk—"

He disappeared. The telephone operator, a pretty girl whose Irish ancestry was unmistakable, had been watching Bannister with open interest. Now she kept her eyes averted, became elaborately preoccupied with her switchboard.

"Doesn't want to talk," Bannister decided. He turned his back on her and continued to inspect the large room.

Link was back shortly, a younger man beside him. The newcomer stepped behind the desk. Link said, "Now Mr. Bannister—in the tone he might have used with a prospective hotel tenant, and led the way to the elevator."

Neither spoke during the ascent. Bannister thought that the uniformed youth who operated the elevator displayed considerable interest as they stepped out on the third floor and that he lingered to see which direction they would take. Then the sliding door closed and the elevator was on its way.

Side by side the two men moved down the corridor. Evidently Mr. Link was not overly experienced in the ways of police departments and detectives. "You're a special investigator, are you? Mr. Bannister?" he asked "Is that why you're here?"

Bannister said, "yes" and felt that he was not misrepresenting the facts.

"It's a terrible thing—Mr. King's death," the hotel clerk went on. "Nothing like it has ever happened since I've been here. It's been a shock to everyone—the guests, the help, everyone! They all knew Mr. King. He was always so pleasant. Such a fine looking young man—"

"It was you who found him, wasn't it?" Bannister asked.

"Yes, Mr. Druggan and I. He didn't come back to the theater and Mr. Druggan came to find out what was the matter. When he knocked and couldn't get an answer he came downstairs and we went back together."

"I suppose the police are sure it couldn't have been suicide?"

"Oh, impossible! The corner said that was out of the question because there were no powder burns—and then there wasn't any run No. It couldn't have been suicide. Besides Mr. King had no reason to do such a thing!"

"I wonder," said Bannister. A moment later he asked, "Isn't there anyone from headquarters here now?"

"Not now," Link said with a shake of his head. "There were half a dozen here last night. The Chief, too. This morning there were two men—detectives—out, asking questions of the servants and some of the tenants. I'm afraid they didn't learn much. If the would only find that woman—"

His words broke off as he turned the key in the lock. The door swung open.

Bannister saw a living room, longer than it was wide, with three windows at the end. There was an attractive, figured chaise longue at the windows. Aside from the details the room was completely in disorder. A desk, standing before the window had been rifled. Chairs were at all angles, one of them overturned. Pillows from the seven divan had fallen to the floor. Drift had been trampled into the carpet and there were several places where ashes had been spilled.

"We haven't done anything to the rooms at all," Link was quick to explain. "Everything is just as they left it last night. Captain McNeal said they weren't to be touched. I locked the door myself and it hasn't been opened since."

Bannister considered the wreckage before him. That was to be expected, of course. The photographs at headquarters would give a record of the appearance of the room exactly as it had been when King's body was found. The disorder indicated that the search of the apartment had been most thorough. No chance that Henley's men had missed anything.

"In there," said Link, "is where we found him. In the bed room." A boyish voice called from the corridor, "Oh, Mr. Link! Mr. Link!"

The clerk turned. "Excuse me," he said, "I'll have to see what they want. I'll be back in a moment—"

Bannister nodded. He heard the door close behind him as he moved forward, halting in the entrance to the bedroom.

It was smaller than the other room and it, too, had been completely disordered. A dark, brownish stain on the gray carpet told its unmistakable story. Bannister knelt to inspect the stain.

Even before he heard a sound he was aware of the presence behind him. There was no time for action. Cold perspiration stood on Bannister's forehead; he would have turned but he could not. Then something landed on his back.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

"I win again," said O' Blaw Blow. "Get, how I made old Thunder get. He always disappears from sight whenever the sun comes out. It is his job to stir up rain. When Sol is out, his work is vain. Now that he's in his drum, he'll sleep for hours and hours, no doubt."

"Well, gee, I think 'twas fine of you, to help the sun come shining through," said Scouty. "All the kids on earth can run right out and play."

"They won't get soaked by rain, you see, and they'll be happy as can be. No one can have a bit of fun, when it's a rainy day."

Just then the bright sun shouted, "Say, now that the clouds are blown away, I want to thank you, Mister Blow, for clearing up the sky. I'm going to shine for all I'm worth and spread cheer all around the earth. I'll do it now, because the clouds will drift back by and by."

"It's a terrible thing—Mr. King's death," the hotel clerk went me! I'm just as hot as I can be. I think we're too close to the sun. How can we get away? "If I was positive just where I'd land, I'd jump into the air. It won't be long until I'm melt, if on this cloud I stay."

"Now, wait," exclaimed O' Blaw. "I guess I'll help you all out of this mess. Star Island is not far from here, and it is cool down there."

"If you'll agree, I'll blow some more and through the air you all will soar. I think you'll find it lots of fun to sail right through the air."

"We're game, but you're not strong enough," said Scouty. "Why, you'd sink and puff!" Then Blow replied, "I'll use my bellows. They will do the trick."

He found his bellows, right nearby. The Tinnies soon were in the sky, and as they sailed along, wee Goldy shouted, "This is slick!"

(The Tinnies land on Star Island in the next story.)

SENSE and NONSENSE

The big man, who had just been introduced to one of his host's guests, stood staring blankly at him for some time.

Big Man (after a while)— You know, sir, you look like a man I've seen somewhere before. Your face seems very familiar; you must have a double. Strangely enough, I distinctly remember I formed a strong dislike for the man who looked like you, but I don't remember having met him socially.

The Guest — Yes, I think I'm the man you mean. I passed round the collection plate for two years at the church you attended.

"Life wouldn't be so bad if it weren't for interest and taxes," say the farmers. The same goes for us, too.

A Scotsman paid a visit to a friend in New York, but stayed far longer than was expected. Time dragged on, and still the visitor made no attempt to leave. At length the friend dropped a gentle hint.

Friend — You think that your wife and children would like to see you again?

Scotsman — Thanks verra much. It is most awful kind of you. I'll send for them at once.

A friend of this Colyum endeavors to describe the difference between clerks and managers as follows:

"A clerk is a man who knows a great deal about a very little, and who goes on knowing more and more about less and less, until finally he knows everything about practically nothing."

"A manager is a man who knows very little about a great deal and who goes on knowing less and less about more and more until finally he knows nothing about practically everything."

There Are More Men Than Women In The World, But At That, The Women Make Twice As Much Noise.

Sandy McNab had found lodging with a landlady of a very mean disposition. For one thing she never overfed her boarders. At the dinner table McNab was handed a very small helping indeed. Eyeing it ruefully the Scotsman said:

Scotsman — You've made a mistake, haven't you, Mrs. Brown?

Mrs. Brown — Not that I know of. Why?

Scotsman — Because my name is Sandy, not Gandhi.

A man evidently from the country was in Manchester recently and saw an article in a music store, but could not understand the purpose for which it was used.

Country Man (indicating article in question) — What is that thing for?

Clerk — That, sir, is a chin rest.

It is used quite a lot by lady violinists.

Country Man (giving a cry of joy) — Give me one of them! (then a pause). No, I'll take two. We got the missus' mother staying with us as well.

It Isn't The Brevity Of The Skirts That Worries Fathers. It's The Short Length Of Time They Are Worn These Days.

Tourist — I don't suppose you keep anything so civilized as dog biscuit in this run-down jay town, do you?

Brushville Merchant — Oh, yes, stranger. Quite a few folks like you come through Brushville from the Big City, and we aim to have everything called for. Do you want them in a bag or do you want to eat them here?

Mabel — Do you see Helen often?

Janet — Quite frequently.

Mabel — Is she happily married?

Janet — Is she? I should say so. Why that girl is so happily married that she has to go to the moving picture theater for a good cry.

I'm sorry to have to do this," said Junior, as he spread the jam on the visiting baby's face, "but I can't have a suspicion pointing its finger at me."

Aunt Miranda Tatters of Brushville says matrimony is the only state that allows women to work twenty-four hours a day.

THE rule state that a lineman may make use of his arms, if he keeps his hands together; if he does this he may legally use the projecting parts of his arms on offense.

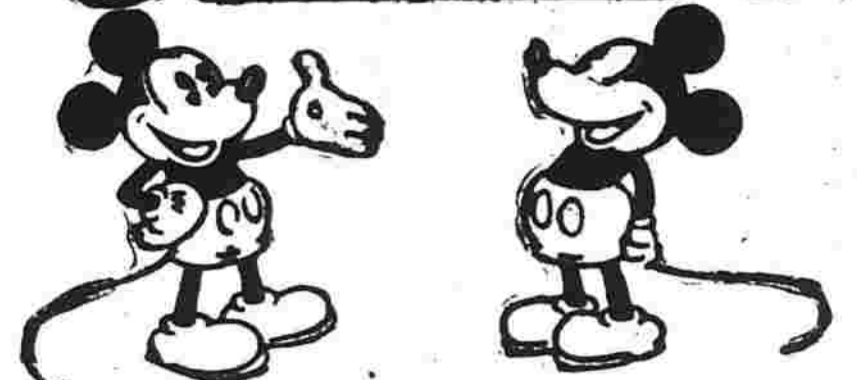

This rule gives the lineman a great many opportunities for poor sportsmanship. The accompanying sketch shows why.

Here the offensive lineman on left is attempting to throw his opponent backward. His hands are joined together, which is intended to mislead the referee, but his arms are NOT close to his body. He has thrown them out and up, catching his opponent under the chin and delivering a blow that can break the defensive lineman's neck.

Officials cannot be too strict on this type of play. The penalty of half the distance to the goal line is hardly a deterrent.
