SAY SOME CWA WORKERS HERE ARE FAVORED

House Owners With Independent Means Get Jobs It Is Charged — Hint Politics Enters Situation.

Repeated complaints lodged with members of the local CWA board, charging that a number of men now employed on local CWA projects are owners of real estate and said to be self-supporting, is likely to result in a wholesale investigation of the whole Manchester list of employees, numbering nearly 450, it was learned today. It is alleged by the complainants that several of those now employed are in the category of "self supporting" residents, as owners of rented houses, stores and who are said to have substantial bank balances.

Believe System Unfair

The complainants who know the town and its residents are frank to say that the system by which the workers have been selected here, as in other parts of the State, has not been fair to the large number of men who, while they have not asked for charity, are nevertheless in a condition to warrant their choice above property owners receiving rents and other revenue.

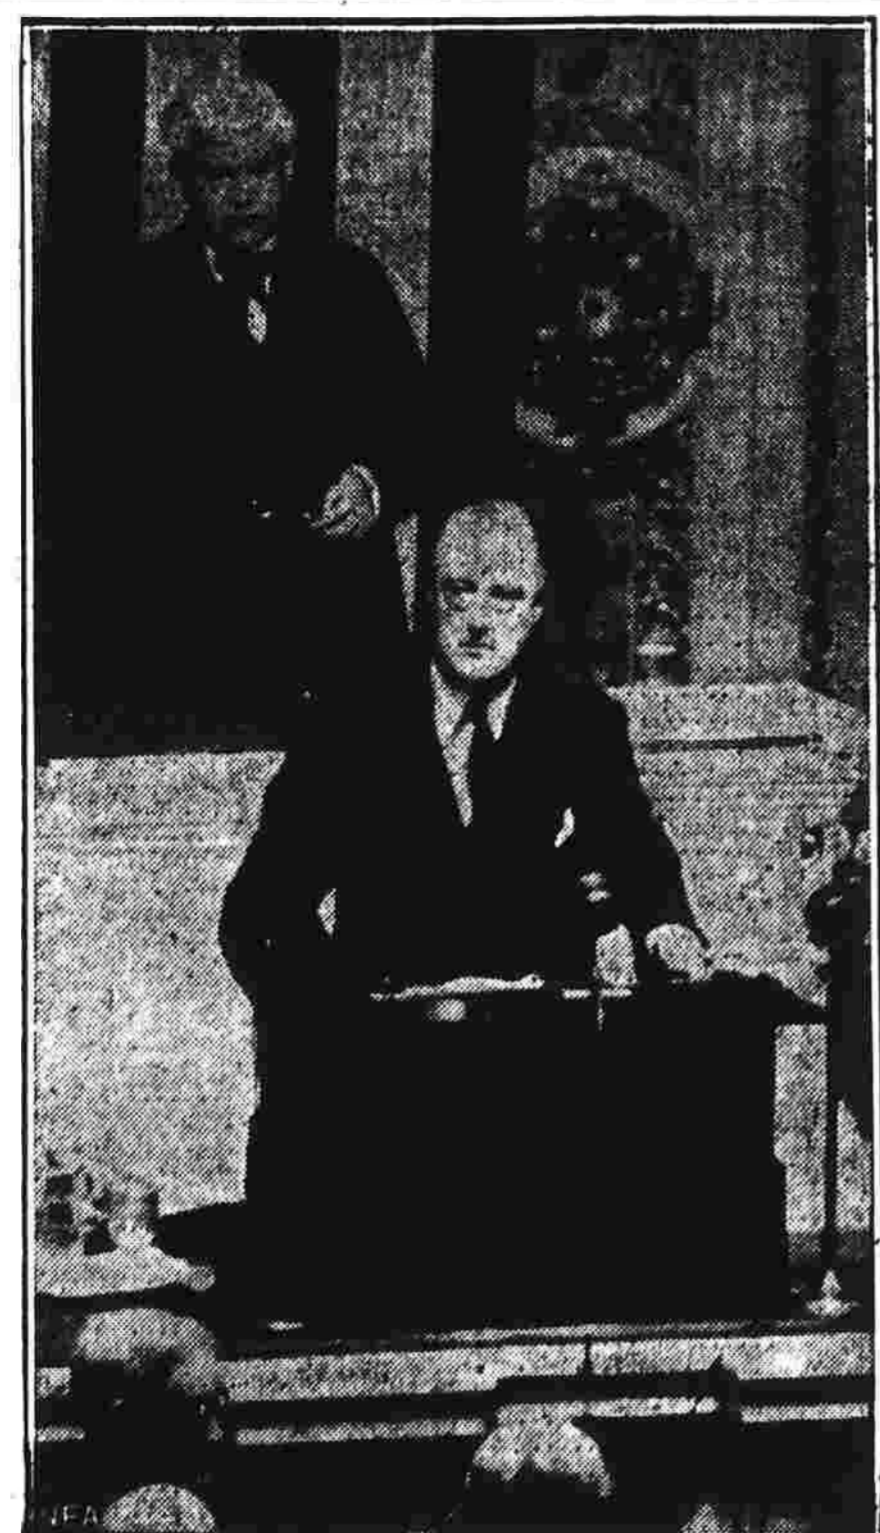

The selection of these men by the State unemployment bureau has started a round of discussion among men on the various jobs during the past two weeks. Many of the objectors argued that in view of the inability of the local committee to rectify matters, a visit of several selected leaders from the CWA gangs to the Hartford office might be necessary. The facts have been placed before Ettore Costello, State Unemployment supervisor and he has notified the local committee that action will be taken at once.

Promise Not Kept

The promise made to the local committee that an investigation into the local situation would be forthcoming, has not yet been fulfilled, it was learned today. The complaints were registered over a week ago and as far as members of the local committee know, no action has yet been taken.

Charges that partisan politics has played an important role in the selection of several men for local CWA jobs have been made openly here, and there appears to be some ground for the belief that the appl-

As President Reports New Deal Is Working

The hard beginning is over... we are definitely in the process of recovery... it is our task... in all cases to go forward. These were the reassuring words of President Franklin D. Roosevelt when, as shown in this historic photo, he addressed a joint session of the two Houses of Congress on the "state of the nation." Standing in back of the President is Speaker of the House Henry T. Rainey.

SENATE BODY IN FAVOR OF NEW TREASURY HEAD

Long, Who First Said He Would Oppose Morgenthau Nomination, Changes His Mind.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The way was cleared in the Senate today for speedy confirmation of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., as secretary of the Treasury when the finance committee reported the nomination favorably and Senator Long, (D., La.), announced he would support it.

Long arose to explain to the Senate that he had asked for examination of Morgenthau because of several newspaper reports of statements made by the Treasury head about settlements pending in the Internal Revenue Bureau which he said were unwise and irregular.

Opinions Divided

He told the Senate Morgenthau had admitted to the committee in executive session that he had made the statements and there was some

NO FAVORITISM WILL BE SHOWN, DODGE ASSERTS

New York District Attorney Says That Political or Church Leaders Will Wield No Power With Him.

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—District Attorney William C. Dodge, of Manhattan, declared today that neither "the leader of my party nor the minister of my church" will escape prosecution if they are accused of crimes and there is any evidence to support the accusations.

"I will conduct prosecutions to the utmost of my ability, no matter who is involved," said Dodge, one of the few Tammany Democrats to survive the Fusion landslide in the last election.

Dodge's statement was made in a discussion of the proposed prosecution of employees of the State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, who have been charged with irregularities by Edward P. Mulrooney, board chairman. The district attorney, however, said his declaration applied to all cases.

Issues Subpoena

Dodge said he had sent a subpoena to License Commissioner Sidney B. Levin to appear before a Grand Jury today and disclose what evidence he has obtained regarding alleged irregularities in the issuance of Newstadt licenses. The district attorney said he wanted the Grand Jury to know what legal evidence Levin's office had in connection with the matter and that he believed Levin could disclose this evidence better than anyone else.

The district attorney also announced he would ask the Grand Jury to indict Irving Bits, who forfeited $25,000 bail last October when he failed to appear for trial on a pistol carrying charge.

Lindbergh Agents

Bits and Salvatore Spitalo obtained widespread notice when they were retained by Col. Charles G. Lindbergh to act as liaison agents with criminals in an effort to obtain a clue to his kidnaped son nearly two years ago. Last January the Tammany Board arrested and Bits and Spitalo were arrested and Bits was held on a pistol charge. Spitalo proved he had a pistol permit and was released.

Meanwhile, Corporation Counsel Paul Windels plunged into an investigation of bus franchises granted by the Tammany Board of Estimate in its closing hours last year. The inquiry was ordered in a resolution adopted by the new board yesterday and calls for a check up on the 25-year grants given the Fifth Avenue Coach Company, the New York City Omnibus Corp., the Madison Avenue Coach Co., the East Side Omnibus Corp., and the Comprehensive Omnibus Corp.

LAGUARDIA SEEKS REFORM OF COURTS

New York Mayor to Abolish Dual System to Do Away With Graft Rumors.

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's "unorthodox experiment" in municipal government, barely three days old, threatened today to destroy another of the traditional political entrenchments of Tammany Hall.

The Fusion mayor, setting a new pace in municipal government, prepared to submit to the State Legislature next week a bill abolishing the city's dual court system of magistrate and special sessions of courts.

Went End Graft

In the event of accomplishment, Mayor LaGuardia would bring to a climax the sensational allegations of graft and corruption in the Magistrate Court system made by Samuel Seabury in the Hofstadter committee investigation.

This latest move follows a trip hammer attack on New York's civic problems, the heritage of 16 years of Tammany administration and four years of depression.

To date, he has launched a move to establish a ten months financial "dictatorship," suspended bus franchise contracts and ordered an investigation into the awards; forced through $5,000,000 of relief appropriations; abolished two boards of estimate jobs; and consolidated a fusion working majority on the board of estimate of 12 of the 18 votes.

NAVY REMEMBERED BY THE PRESIDENT

Generous Funds Provided for Both Ships and Men in the Budget.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Navy was dealt with generously in both ships and men by President Roosevelt today in asking funds for the service in his annual budget.

The government asked Congress to appropriate $53,819,334 for new vessels and continued work upon those already authorized, an increase of $1,622,927 over such authorized obligations during the 1934 fiscal year.

ROOSEVELT SEES NINE BILLION DEFICIT IN NEXT TWO YEARS

Pertinent Paragraphs In Message on Budget EXPECTS TO SPEND BULK OF IT IN 1934

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Federal year show an excess of expenditures over receipts of two billion dollars.

"We should plan to have a definitely balanced budget for the third year of recovery and from that time on seek a continuing reduction of the national debt."

"The total debt, if increased by the sum of two billion dollars during the fiscal year 1935, would amount to approximately $31,834,000,000 on June 30, 1935."

"It is my belief that so far as we can make estimates with our present knowledge, the government should seek to hold the total debt within this amount."

"It is clear that the necessity for relief and recovery will still be with us during the year 1934-35."

"In the next six months we shall have to borrow approximately six billion dollars of new money and in addition four billion dollars to meet maturities of a like amount."

GOVERNMENT SPENDING OVER BILLION A MONTH

Treasury Report Forecasts This for First Half of 1934—Seeks a New Peak in the National Debt.

Washington, January 4.—(AP)—Government spending at more than a billion dollars a month for the first half of 1934 and a new peak in the National debt was forecast today in the Treasury's annual report to Congress.

The report was in the name of William H. Woodin as secretary, having been prepared before President Roosevelt of New Year's Day by Henry Morgenthau, Jr., to the Cabinet today.

It estimated emergency recovery costs alone would be $6,357,486,700 during the fiscal year that ends June 30, and general expenses $3,533,661,767, for a total Federal outlay of $9,891,148,467 and an operating deficit of $9,831,236,711.

Woodin predicted a public debt at the fiscal year-end of $28,679,969,728 as compared with $22,538,672,560 last June. The previous debt high, a result of war costs, was $25,484,506,000 in 1919. The post-war low was $16,185,906,000 in 1923.

Pay As You Go Plan

For the fiscal year of 1935, the treasury foresaw a return to a pay-as-you-go basis for both general and emergency expenditures, with the latter dropping to $723,286,500.

The operating deficit for 1935 was estimated at $511,997,021, a figure smaller than the sinking fund requirement and indicating consequently a $15,477,708 reduction in the public debt.

It was estimated that the government would spend nearly three times as much in the first six months from now until June 30 as in the first half of the fiscal year. For emergency purposes alone the spending will be about five times as fast.

Largest Spenders

Biggest estimated spenders were the Reconstruction Emergency Corporation, Public Works Administration, the

ASKS RESTORATION OF FEDERAL WAGES

Republican Leader Says Recovery Officials Get Large Salaries—Others Suffer.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Representative Snell, the Republican leader, said today he favored restoration of the full 15 per cent reduction in Federal salaries because of what he called the big pay the administration "is allowing under the recovery program."

"When the administration is pouring out money or big money in emergency enterprises, I see no reason why Congress should cut the salaries of honest employees who have spent the better part of their lives working for small pay," Snell said at a press conference.

"I am going to vote for the full restoration of the 15 per cent reduction," he added.

"We were asked to cut the salaries on the excuse that it was being done to balance the budget. That excuse does not exist now."

Many Rejected

"Under the recovery program, the administration has poured out money for projects, not only not ap-

BROKERS PROPOSE MARKET REFORMS

Leaders Suggest Sweeping Changes in Organization; Complaints Are Cited.

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—It has become an open secret in Wall Street that members of some of the leading commission houses are proposing sweeping changes in the form of organization of the Stock Exchange.

Renewed strivings of this sort are heard in brokerage quarters this week, with the reassembling of Congress, and the resumption of hearings by the Senate Finance committee, which is preparing to consider specific legislation to control the Exchanges.

One of the chief complaints of some of the larger firms has been the fact that under the present form of organization, the Stock Exchange is operated entirely by the floor members. In many Stock Exchange firms, the actual Stock Exchange seats are held in the names of comparatively young men, some of whom have been advanced from positions as order clerks to do the actual mechanical work of floor trading, but whose other responsibilities are few.

Another Complaint

Another complaint heard among some of the big commission houses is that a large proportion of the members are unqualified. It is estimated that 25,000,000 will be members in 1934.

Here Are Main Figures In the Budget Message

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—1935 will fall within estimated receipts, but including emergency recovery costs, this fiscal year's deficit will be $7,809,000,000 and next year's $1,898,000,000.

By the end of 1935, the government expects to have assets pledged against loans with a book value of $5,461,969,000. Repayments would go to debt reduction.

Revenue for 1934 is estimated at $5,259,000,000 and for 1935 at $5,474,000,000, but these figures do not include a possible $200,000,000 annually from liquor taxes and income tax law tightening.

The President will ask $1,168,000,000 for "necessary" expenditures in 1934 which were not included in the budget. This was over and above the emergency appropriation. He estimated $2,000,000,000 will be needed for relief in 1934.

In Budget Message President Says Program Involves Borrowing 10 Billions in 6 Months; Plans Pay-As-You-Go Basis by 1936; Deficit Figures Disregard Any New Revenue from Taxes; RFC Aid to Reach Four Billion; Regular Budget Cut $684,913,000 Below Last Year's.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—President Roosevelt frankly reported to Congress today a prospective nine billion dollar recovery campaign deficit for the next two years and asked that the lid be clamped down to put the government on a pay-as-you-go basis by 1936.

In his message transmitting the budget, he estimated expenditures chargeable entirely to the recovery effort of almost $7,800,000,000 for this fiscal year ending June 30.

3 Billion Next Year

He asked for a two billion dollar war chest to continue and taper off this drive in the following year.

All of this, he said, involves government borrowing of ten billion dollars during the next six months, but he expressed no doubt of meeting this problem.

The nine billion dollar deficit, which would swell the public debt to the all time high of $31,834,000,000, does not take into account prospective new taxes.

The executive did recommend restoration of one-third of the 15 per cent cut in pay for federal employees, effective July 1, and favored continuation of the three per cent non-local mail rate.

As in his personal address in the House chamber yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt spoke optimistically of the business outlook.

The prospective seven billion dollar deficit for this year includes $1,168,000,000 additional to be asked from Congress for continuing until summer the vast Civil Works Administration and financing the Home Loan Bank system.

Mr. Roosevelt told newspapermen he would just as soon have the two billion dollar recovery fund he has asked for next year in a lump sum.

The huge Reconstruction Corporation called on to finance much of the business and banking structure of the nation, is charged with almost $4,000,000,000 of the seven billion deficit for this year.

The President announced the endorsement of executive orders extending the authority of director of the budget, Lewis Douglas, over all extraordinary expenditures hereafter and also the audit authority of the comptroller general over these items.

In his message, he noted that the budget for the new year—the first he has submitted to Congress—shows a reduction of $684,913,167 in the regular ordinary expenditures over the budget submitted a year ago by the outgoing administration.

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said the sums recommended were the "largest in peace time we will have to slow down in the peace spending or we will never come back in earnings."

Senator Reed, (R., Pa.), who has urged return to a single budget and lower expenditures lest the present system lead to radical inflation or heavy taxes, said the country was "perfectly able to end the debt as large as $31,000,000,000 and if we can depend upon the President's assurances after that debt is reached that the budget will be balanced in fact there is nothing to worry about."

Senator George, (D., Ga.): "That is what was expected under the circumstances. The deficit is being cared for in a very intelligent way."

MONSTER EXPENDITURES

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The new budget shows President Roosevelt intending to spend, for all purposes, between now and July 1, a total of $8,400,000,000, a sum without parallel in peace time expenditures.

That outlay will be needed to arrive at the total of $11,057,000,000 calculated (inclusive of debt retirement and new appropriations) by the budget message. The latest Treasury statement shows cash outlays to date for the fiscal year of only $2,621,870,000, inclusive of Reconstruction Corporation, outlays and public works funds spending.

Here is how the year's total spending is listed:

Public works fund through Treasury issues—$3,800,000,000.

Reconstruction corporation issues—$3,969,740,000.

Normal expenditures from Treasury receipts—$8,833,881,000.

Contemplated additional appropriation—$1,118,000,000.

Total—$11,057,178,000.

CONGRESSIONAL CHUCKLES

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Amiable Senators today quipped off for Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico the Senate seat once occupied by former Senator Bratton, ready to point out Hatch has taken three of Bratton's vacated jobs.

"First a law partnership, then a New Mexico judgeship, and now the Senate job."

Senator Lewis shook his off-dressed pink whiskers in some derision today, at a reminder that he sometimes has too many friends.

The Illinois Democrat, immensely lately garbed as usual, was unheeded unceremoniously from an aisle of the House chamber yesterday, before President Roosevelt spoke to Congress. All the seats reserved for Senators were filled with the members to shake hands with Senate members.

Mrs. Oliver B. Kemp and J. S. Sanders, Jr., called to attention Louisiana Senator's "The Budget Message."

Representative Snell of New York, the Republican leader: "I am so overcome and shocked by the amount these fellows propose to spend that it will take several days to catch my breath."

Representative Somers, (D., N. Y.): "That debt is within reason. Government deficits in time of depression are beneficial."

Representative Rich, (R., Pa.): "Increasing the debt to $31,000,000,000 makes the figure much higher than it should be."

Representative Maps, (R., Mo.): "What everyone is eating is where the money comes from. It is a very intelligent way."

Senator McNary of Oregon, the Republican leader, said the sums recommended were the "largest in peace time we will have to slow down in the peace spending or we will never come back in earnings."

Senator Reed, (R., Pa.), who has urged return to a single budget and lower expenditures lest the present system lead to radical inflation or heavy taxes, said the country was "perfectly able to end the debt as large as $31,000,000,000 and if we can depend upon the President's assurances after that debt is reached that the budget will be balanced in fact there is nothing to worry about."

All Lamps Previously Removed Being Replaced - Continue Demonstration.

In conformity with the agreement between the Manchester Electric Company and the Town of Manchester, the restoration of the town's system of street lights, including 14 miles of demonstration high-powered lights is nearing completion.

The complete 14 miles of demonstration lighting, located at hazardous and poorly lighted areas on main thoroughfares, will be replaced, including the removal of street lighting and the installation of street lighting.

The agreement approved by the president of the Manchester Electric Company and accepted by the selectmen, resulted from conferences with company and town officials and the Public Utilities Commission.

The President advised Congress he was directing the comptroller general to audit and the Budget Bureau to control emergency expenditures, just as it does usual departmental expenditures.

FUNDS FOR FARMERS.
Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A total increase of $31,836,842 in expenditures of the Agriculture Department during the fiscal year 1935 was provided for today in the budget submitted by President Roosevelt to Congress.

THE PRINCIPAL SHARE of the increase and the major part of the total appropriation estimate of $897,668,662 was granted to the agricultural adjustment administration to reduce farm acreage through rental and benefit payments, make crop loans, and buy surplus products on commodity markets.

The farm administration's expenditures for 1935 were estimated at $831,022,800, an increase of $561,413,428 over the present fiscal year ending June 30.

THE SPENDING FOR 1935 takes into account repayments to the Treasury of funds already advanced, such repayments to be from processing taxes levied on cotton, wheat, tobacco and pork.

SILVER ADVOCATES VISIT PRESIDENT

Senators Wheeler and King Say They Are Satisfied With Interview.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The proposal for free coinage of silver was laid before President Roosevelt today by Senators Wheeler of Montana and King of Utah, who declared themselves "very satisfied" with the interview.

Previously 18 western House members unanimously adopted a resolution favoring bimetalism and free coinage of both gold and silver and agreed to the appointment of a special committee to attempt to reach an agreement with other groups on silver legislation.

The senators declined to predict presidential approval of their plan but did indicate they expected further moves on silver by the president.

Say They're Satisfied "He is thinking about silver," said Senator Wheeler, (D., Mont.), "and we are very satisfied with the interview."

"The president has a fine grasp of the silver problem," asserted Senator King, (D., Utah).

"Do you think we have heard the last of silver from the White House?" the senators were asked by reporters.

"I don't think so," said Wheeler. "President Roosevelt already has provided for coinage of all newly mined silver on a fifty-fifty basis with American producers."

Wheeler said he expected a vote in the Senate this session on his bill for free and unlimited coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1 with gold.

Adopt Resolution The House group adopted, after attempts to postpone a decision, the same resolution as that approved earlier in the week by a number of senators. The resolution says:

"We favor bi-metalism with free coinage of gold and silver at a ratio to be prescribed by law."

This was approved at the insistence of Representative Scroggins, (D., Nev.), who had called the meeting, although Representative Fleeter, (D., Ohio), another leading silver legislation advocate, asked that decision be delayed until sentiment could be sounded further.

To forestall opposition by groups which favor other legislation, the meeting then empowered Scroggins to appoint a committee of five to discuss the situation with other House members, reporting back in a week.

All of the lessons given by Mr. Turkington are private and this method has been proven to be the most successful as the pupils are given very close personal attention. Mr. Turkington can be reached by phone, as is mentioned in an advertisement carried in today's Herald.

MILK BOARD HAMPERED BY INCORRECT REPORTS

Hartford, Jan. 4.—(AP)—As the time approaches for making equalization adjustments for the first month's business under the state-wide marketing pool plan, the Board of Milk Control has itself seriously hampered by the incompleteness and incorrectness of dealers' reports now being received as the basis on which the distribution of the surplus milk burden is made.

Reports should be all in tomorrow so that the price for excess milk sold in December can be announced January 9.

Though several hundred have been received by the board and others were coming in fast today, William E. Templeton of the board disclosed that many dealers are failing to make them out correctly and the board must get in touch with them immediately to correct the situation and prevent delay in administering the pooling feature of the plan on schedule. So far as the number of dealers who have reported early by sending reports is concerned, Mr. Templeton expressed satisfaction.

The time and place of the annual meeting of the Connecticut Milk Producers Association was announced today by mail to the 108 recently elected district delegates, who represent the 3,000 members. It will be held Tuesday, January 9, at 10:30 a. m. at the 1450 Asylum street, Hartford, when for the first time the delegate form of government will be used.

"POUND PARTIES" ARE BEING REVIVED HERE

Old fashioned "pound parties," sometimes known as "poundings," are being revived locally with the announcement that several such parties have been held here recently. The custom, a flourishing one in the gay 80's, supplied neighborly aid to families stricken with sickness, injuries or ill-fortune in any form.

Many of the older residents will long remember the old-time social and house-warmings of other days, also the joyous house raisins and huskies, a characteristic custom of that period, now almost forgotten.

DEFICIT OF STATE OVER 6 MILLIONS

That Is Estimate for June 30, the End of the Fiscal Period.

Hartford, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Unless all signs fall the state of Connecticut at the end of this year, the end of the fiscal period, will have a deficit of approximately $6,000,000 or $7,000,000, it was learned today. The present indebtedness, represented by money borrowed on short term notes is $3,400,000.

During the first half of the fiscal year the state treasurer has found it necessary from time to time to borrow money on short term notes to meet the current obligations of the state, amounting to $3,900,000 but has paid off $500,000. In effect, the situation has been that the state for the first half of the fiscal year has been approximately living within its income, as the deficit at the end of the biennium was approximately $4,000,000, about equal to the amount already borrowed by the treasurer.

Actually, however, the state has not been able to meet its obligations through revenue received, but has borrowed heavily from the highway fund, thus saving interest. The amount would have been necessary to pay had this money been obtained from outside sources. With large payments soon to be made for highway construction, the treasury will again find it necessary to borrow outside, which will bring the deficit close to the $6,000,000 mark.

An additional million will probably be necessary to carry the state to the end of the fiscal period, representing $3,000,000 in addition to the $4,000,000 with which the year started.

In his communication this week to the Retail Beer, Wine and Liquor Merchants' Association, Governor Cross is planning to call a special session of the Legislature for a revision of the Liquor Control Act for the purpose of raising additional funds through liquor licenses and thus meet the deficit in the state treasury, pointed out the policy the state is to follow in the emergency.

The governor said the Legislature had knowledge of the financial condition of the state as it then existed and had reason to believe the deficit would increase during the fiscal year.

The governor pointed out that it was the opinion then the best policy was to appoint a commission to study the tax structure of the state with a view to a revision at the next session of the Legislature, meeting such deficit as might occur with short term loans. It is this policy which is now being pursued.

4-H Club News

The Original Challengers held their regular meeting Tuesday at the home of their leader Mrs. Lussier of 129 Bissell street. The girls planned a program of winter work which includes the making of an entire outfit of clothing, remodeling of last year's garments, mending and darning. They also discussed the means by which money can be raised to help the County Fair committee in its plans for an annual Fair Association.

The Fairy Needle Club held its meeting Tuesday at the home of Lois Kesh. Some of the members were unable to attend because of illness but we hope to see them soon.

Mrs. Lussier and Mrs. Hall wish to thank the Club members and families for their generous contributions for the Christmas baskets.

Some of the members attended the Senior 4-H Club meeting in Hartford last Friday, in spite of the intense cold. We sincerely wish more of the Senior members would attend these meetings as the benefit derived from the individual discussion groups is more than helpful in their respective projects, and the social hour following is lots of fun.

At the Senior 4-H meeting Russell Anderson, County Club Agent, discussed plans for an annual 4-H fair. Last year it was held at Granby through the courtesy of the Granby Grange, but because of lack of funds it is to be discontinued. Therefore, Hartford County would like to sponsor a strictly 4-H Fair to be held sometime in August. Club members will hear more about this later.

World consumption of coffee from July 1 to Dec. 31, 1933, totaled 11,749,000 bags, or 6.2 percent above the same period of 1932 and a high record for the interval, says the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange. The United States consumed 49.5 percent of the total, using 7 percent more than in the 1932 period.

X-RAY CLINIC HERE JAN. 15

Picture Taking Equipment Can Detect Tuberculosis in Children or Adults.

An opportunity to utilize the X-ray in finding cases of tuberculosis among school children and adults will be given to Manchester Monday, January 15, through a program sponsored by the State Department of Health, the State Tuberculosis Commission and the State Board of Education in cooperation with local school authorities. It was announced today by Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplanck.

A recent development in X-ray equipment for taking pictures rapidly at low cost, known as the X-ray case finder, will be brought to Manchester and set up in the Nathan Hale school Monday, January 15, giving this community an opportunity to have X-ray pictures made of those who wish it. If a minimum of 500 pictures are taken the cost will be 75 cents for each picture, while a lower number will make the cost one dollar a picture. Not only school children but adults may take advantage of this service, which Mr. Verplanck believes to be "a most worthwhile project."

THE MESSAGE

If in no other way, President Roosevelt surely excels any other President within the memory of Americans now alive in one very important point: he has a positive genius not only for keeping rancor out of his own attitude toward those who oppose him but for avoiding its excitement in their hearts.

As a chart for the proceedings of Congress during the new session, as a schedule or a blueprint or as an indication of what the administration proposes to ask Congress to do, yesterday's message of the President wasn't worth tuppence. There is hardly a point of decisiveness, of fixed determination as to ways and means, that you can read into the message which you can't immediately read out again if you happen to become so disposed. But as a gesture of friendly confidence in Congress and at the same time as a bid for the confidence of all well meaning people in the administration it was worth a thousand proofs of the rightness of administration policies and the wrongness of all critics.

Mr. Roosevelt, in a twenty minute chat with Congress, got away with a situation in which, with less skill, he might very easily indeed have lined up against himself an active opposition. There is no time in a session of Congress when it is so easy for a President to lose supporters as during the delivery of his opening message. Mr. Roosevelt, by his very friendliness and by his ingenious assumption that members of all parties of course have no purpose but to aid in national recovery, bridged that crucial hour with a success as complete as it was easily attained.

There are a lot of people in Congress who do not like anything that Mr. Roosevelt stands for; but yesterday he turned up the corners of their mouths, so to speak, and made them smile with him.

And when the President sends along his specific recommendations, as he will probably do quite soon, and when some of them turn out to be altogether shocking to some of the members, as they certainly will, there will still be the subconscious influence of yesterday's love-fest to qualify somewhat the sharpness of their protests, the memory of the friendly applause with which they greeted his handsome generalities to soften any asperity in their criticism.

You can't catch a hard boiled American Congress with applause but you can do a lot in that general direction with Mr. Roosevelt's high-art recipe of friendly confidence and honey.

A JOB OF SERVICE

Whatever the determinations arrived at by the meeting tomorrow evening of the depositors of the closed Manchester Trust Company—which is a matter wholly within that meeting's province—there is one fact which those who attend cannot, in any fairness, fail to bear in mind.

That fact is that the labors of the Depositors Committee—and they have not been light—have been performed without a single cent of compensation, either for time or expenses; and without expectation or thought of such compensation.

The Herald makes this statement of its own knowledge and because it believes that the committee is entitled to have that knowledge imparted to the depositors in advance of the meeting. If there should be a single depositor who has been laboring under the impression that its committee, or any member of its committee, has received or will receive or has expected to receive so much as a solitary nickel of pay for his time or in reimbursement of his expenses, he should disabuse himself of that notion before arriving at the meeting.

There is no intention here to anticipate in any way the report of the Depositors Committee which will be made tomorrow night, nor to attempt to influence the action of the meeting toward any recommendations the committee may make; but we do believe that it is inherent in any just estimate of that body's work that the wholly gratuitous character of its services should be borne in mind.

Nor does this involve the slightest suggestion of apology. The committee has devoted itself generously to the cause of the depositors. Its members have given a great deal of time to the work. Particularly has the chairman, Attorney William J. Shea, given many hours of service to the interests of the depositors every week since the committee organized early last May and into the bargain assumed a substantial volume of expense for which he has steadfastly refused to accept any remuneration whatever.

If there be anywhere in town skeptics who find it hard to believe that groups of citizens can be found to thus labor in the interests of their neighbors and friends without seeking to get something out of it for themselves, they might as well accept this as an illuminating example; because these are the facts.

One other point: There may be depositors who would like to know more details concerning the assets of the closed bank than they are likely to learn at tomorrow night's meeting—just how much this, that or the other individual or concern owed the Manchester Trust Company when it was closed and the exact nature and value of the security. It is highly improbable that this kind of curiosity will be gratified—and for that fact the Depositors Committee is in no sense responsible. Certain information of this nature was indeed obtained by the committee, but only on the condition, emphatically imposed by state banking authorities, that it should not be given out. The reason for this is patent. No possible good could result from the dissemination of such facts but on the other hand the interests of the depositors themselves might be seriously injured.

In any event the committee is pledged to a necessary secrecy concerning certain details. Depositors, in fairness to their representatives, cannot ask them to divulge information which, until the final closing up of the bank's affairs, belongs to the Banking Commission alone.

WAR OVER POWER

Newspaper readers outside of New York state who, quite naturally, disregard altogether the battle within the Republican party that has been going on over so apparently small a matter as the election of a clerk of the Assembly of that state may be missing an affair of major significance.

W. Kingsland Macy, Republican State Chairman, has been waging war against the re-election of Fred W. Hammond to the clerkship. The fight has been one of the most serious within either party to occur in New York in many years.

The clerkship of the New York state assembly is no mere job. Its occupant, because he controls a large amount of patronage and because he is generalissimo over some 200 employees of the legislature and can control all their activities, becomes a very great power in matters of legislation; nobody in Albany exerts more influence over it, in fact, save the speaker and, less directly, the governor, if, as is the case with Mr. Hammond, the clerk continues in office for a long time. Hammond has been Assembly clerk for more than twenty years.

Macy's campaign against the Assembly clerk is predicated, according to his repeated statements, on the belief that Hammond in the past has influenced legislation in the interest of the "power ring"; that the people of the state believe that Hammond and former Speaker Macbald—now a power corporation official—used the Republican party for the furtherance of the power interests in the legislature and that this suspicion has done the party incalculable harm with the voters.

Power interests, as everybody knows, have exerted considerable political influences in many states—through the Democratic party in Democratic states and through the Republican party in Republican states. Nowhere else, so far as we know, has any such attempt as Macy's in New York been made to relieve the dominant party of all grounds for suspicion of power control.

For that reason the outcome of the New York intra-party warfare is well worth watching. If the major political party in that state makes up its mind that it cannot afford to be linked up in any way with the fortunes of the power in-

AN INSTANCE, PLEASE

It is a curious thing that substantially every scrap of argument advanced against currency inflation is hung upon a single peg and that there is not the slightest evidence in the world that the peg itself has any real existence—that it is anything but a shadow on the wall. This same assumption was employed the other day by David Lawrence, the well known Washington publicist. He said:

Too many folks think of currency inflation as a matter of volition. When it comes there is no way of stopping it.

It would be interesting to have Mr. Lawrence or anybody else cite one single instance of a currency inflation that was not stopped—and stopped by the same government that started it provided that government was not destroyed by forces having nothing to do with the currency. Our own Civil War inflation was stopped—far too promptly. The French post-war inflation was stopped at the moment it became advisable to stop it. Even the much mooted German inflation—a mere device for the repudiation of a defeated nation's war debt—was stopped suddenly and effectually when its purpose had been attained.

There simply is no record of an inflation that was not stopped. And yet we are told over and over again that the peril in inflation lies in the fact that there is no way of stopping it.

It would be precisely as sensible to say that there is no way of stopping a railroad train or a motor car.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, Jan. 4.—Hard times have somewhat dimmed the luster of the Metropolitan Opera, what with the shortened season opening a month later than usual, and with some famous names and jewels missing from the Golden Horseshoe.

But a long-lost part of the Met's sparkle also has returned this year—along with a neatly-framed liquor license. As it was in the beginning, champagne is being served in the boxes during intermission, and the big upstairs lounge, with its old bar and many little tables, is a busy place again. Over coffee and liquor the boiled-shirt-and-ermine crowd now can discuss each preceding act and aria, and toast in vintage wines the new darlings of the opera.

Boxes for Rent

The Horseshoe boxes, thirty-five of them and all upholstered in red velvet, are owned in perpetuity by various wealthy people, or by estates. They fluctuate in value like seats on the Stock Exchange. Originally they cost $100,000 each—a handsome sum which the fathers of the enterprise calculated would make up any deficits. Yet there might not have been any opera at all this season but for the efforts of Mrs. Lucresia Bori and Paul Cravath (the latter successor to Otto Kahn as chairman of the Association) to raise an endowment fund.

Nevertheless, they are, most box-owners are not above renting their spaces for certain nights, or even an entire season. A few weeks ago one box was advertised for rent for the opening night, an unprecedented honor for a box which had never been rented before. Last season Otto Kahn himself rented his box to the Kingdom Gouls, who aren't even listed in the Social Register. He's back now, though, and is looking for a new owner who haven't leased some of their seats for the season. (Some boxes hold six; others eight). Owners who never have rented their boxes are Vincent Anton, Edward Manville, the dowager Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, J. P. Morgan, Frazier Selkoe and Seward Webb.

Many a haughty lorgnette is raised to inspect the Morgan box, because more often than not it lends it to business friends who are unknown in society.

ALL IS SO WELL!

The people of Connecticut are to be congratulated. There is, in this state, no emergency. Governor Cross says so. The Home Loan Corporation entanglement does not constitute an emergency—not, that is, for Governor Cross or for anybody else except those unfortunate persons who face foreclosure of their homes at the hands of people like the eight-dollar-an-hour receiver of the Bridgeport banks. And for such inconsequential persons the Governor has the same deep sympathy as the old time poker room proprietors had for their busted customers when they put up the traditional sign, "Dead fish can float out."

There is no emergency in the liquor law situation. Governor Cross says so. It is not an emergency when the people of the state discover that they have had foisted on them a liquor law much worse than the slovenly statutes of prohibition days. Why hurry to a fire when the lot if not the building will be there next week—and what difference will it make a thousand years hence, anyhow? Why not turn over and take another nap?

There is no emergency in the fact that the state is broke and faces a deficit—wasn't it broke and facing a deficit when the General Assembly was in session? If nothing was done then why bother to do anything now—let her rip!

Everything is lovely in Connecticut—for retired elderly professors whose personal incomes are secure, who draw down modest emoluments from the state whether they do anything but eat and sleep and vacation by mountain lakes or not.

So why on earth invite the turmoil and conflicts of a special session of the Legislature when God is in His heaven and all's well with the world?

Wires Crossed Here

Someone got the signals mixed—or else Prof. George F. Wagner is not as completely on the inside track with Roosevelt as he was. The capital wonders which.

Chairman James H. Rand of the Committee for the Nation telephoned Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma that the administration was negotiating with the banks of England and France for dollar stabilization at 82 cents. He said he had the hope from government officials and "other" sources that the stabilization talk was "worse than a bad guess."

Glossily affiliated with Rand's committee is Warren, chief currency adviser to it and to Roosevelt. Hence the question is: How did Rand and Thomas get off on the wrong foot?

Tempest in Milk Can

Big milk distributors protested last night so powerfully when the A.A.A. Consumers' Guide questioned consumers on milk problems. But they won, in the vote against municipal milk plants, by 2 to 1.

On the other hand, consumers voted nearly 2 to 1 for government control of milk sales.

Shaky Start

It was 50 years ago that the Met opened its doors to an excited throng that went about exclaiming over the modernity and luxury of the place, which cost $1,732,000. It was lighted with gas in those days, but a far-sighted architect had made provision to install electricity if such newfangled ideas of illumination ever became economically practicable.

Looking over the list of patrons today, you'd never guess that the Metropolitan was a semi-proletarian project which grew out of war of social castes. Operas previously had been presented at the Academy of Music, a small house which was bought up almost solidly by the seigneurs of the old Knickerbocker regime. So a group of what might be termed the newly-rich organized their own company. Among them were James Roosevelt, father of the President, William K. Vanderbilt and Robert Goetz.

Things went pretty badly at the opening, when "Fauti" was Signor Vianesi, figured he was as important as the artists themselves, and had raised Cain until the harassed officials evacuated the orchestra nearly to the level of the stage. As a result the singers were in almost total eclipse. Shortly before curtain time came the distressing news that the sly old Academy of Music had got an injunction to prevent Mrs. Lablache from appearing as Marta. The day was only partly saved when the star's daughter, Louise, stepped into the role and did, as the critics admitted, "her best."

But the critics didn't show any all. Especially uncomplimentary were they about the newly-acquired "matronly curves" of Christine Nilsson. Nobody was surprised when the Met lost $600,000 on its first season. But it emerged triumphant, for all that, because the rival company soon went out of existence.

NON-SLIP BATHTUB

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—What the American home of today needs more than anything else is a non-slip bathtub. Frederick J. Kiesler, furniture designer, told buyers attending the National Furniture Show.

Furthermore, he said in an address last night, designers are at work attempting to perfect a "smooth, but not slippery" tub.

It is a matter of life insurance statistics that 25 per cent of all accidents in the home occur in the bathtub, he said.

HOLD TWO SUSPECTS

Waterbury, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Achille Alpi, alias Kelley, and a woman, both residents of Brooklyn, N. Y., were arrested here last night in the holdup and shooting of James Bossett, 28 of this city, in an alleged gambling den here the night of September 18.

Alpi is the last of four suspects arrested.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 4.—Bitter war is brewing over Section 7-a, labor clause of NIRA.

Friends of Chairman Bob Wagner of the National Labor Board say he promises to "explode" on the Senate floor. As a senator he will cite his experiences with recalcitrant industrialists in labor disputes in an effort to "clarify" 7-a.

That's important, because Wagner is author of NIRA, as well as the public works and unemployment relief measures. He has been talking about 7-a with Roosevelt, who is believed to approve changes favorable to labor.

Abolition of company unions is one likely result, Wagner believes. Labor Board elections of collective bargaining representatives are none of the employers' business. He thought industry would be so pleased with freedom from anti-trust laws under NIRA that it willingly would labor organize.

But many big employers persist in attempting to defeat organization, by his unionism method. Wagner thinks Congress should complete severance of all employers from employ organizations.

The Labor Board's position will be solidified, if Wagner has his way. He is seeking his union for arbitration and compulsory up to a certain point, postponing, but not denying, the "right to strike."

Wants Double Work

Perplexity assails Wagner as whether he can continue as Labor Board chairman after the Senate meets. He would like to do both jobs, but he is such a bearcat for work that they're equally full-time tasks.

He wouldn't mind dashing to and fro between the Capital and NRA headquarters if it seemed possible. The Senate would be glad to have the question is: How did Rand and Thomas get off on the wrong foot?

THREE NEW BOOKS FOR MYSTERY FANS

"Murder by Clue" is Best of End-of-the-Year Lot

A survey of the end-of-the-year mystery stories reveals a handful that might give you some entertainment.

The best of them, perhaps, is Henry C. Beck's "Death by Clue" (Dutton, $2). It has to do with a gentleman who is killed in his house in New Jersey. Interested in solving the murder are a county detective, a newspaper reporter, and a high-church Episcopalian rector.

The murder itself is an ingenious affair neatly detected by all things, is the lethal weapon—and the story is worked out logically and with the proper amount of suspense.

Mr. Beck can do what few mystery story writers seem able to do: present reporters and cops who talk and act the way real reporters and real cops talk and act. All of which helps to make "Death by Clue" entertaining.

Then there's "The Bowstring Murders," by Carr Dickson (Morrow, $2), which is of the wild and woolly school. A highly eccentric English nobleman is found strangled amid his collection of old armor in his ruinous castle on the English seacoast, a charming young girl is suspected, and the guilty party is nabbed by a private detective who can't work unless he's full of brandy—which is an idea, at that. The yarn is dizzy, but somehow convincing.

Mr. Fortune Wonders, by H. C. Bailey (Crime Club, $2), is a series of short stories about this delightful English detective whose favorite oath is the expression, "My only aunt!" They are first-rate stories, too, and at least a couple are splendidly eerie and shuddery. If you like your mysteries in short doses, you ought to go for this in a big way.

A GENTLEMANLY THIEF

Waterbury, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Marcella Acha, of 83 Draher avenue, today told police of an experience yesterday with a gentlemanly, though Tarzanish, thief.

Miss Acha said she was walking on Chase Parkway when a strange man roughly seized her purse and ran. The only articles of value in the purse were two pay checks that bore her name and address.

In this morning mail, Miss Acha received the checks.

SOME SYMPTOMS OF BRONCHIAL ASTHMA

When the three main causes of asthma are present, the patient is likely to develop an attack at any time and all that may be needed to set it off is some exciting cause; such an exciting cause might be the breathing in of house dust, or dust from animal fur or from face powder, which might be irritating to the sensitive bronchial tubes. Or, the patient may bring on an attack by eating certain foods to which he is hypersensitive and which are capable of producing irritating materials after being digested. The irritating substance is carried in the blood to the bronchial tubes.

However, I consider that the exciting causes will cease to bring on the attacks just as soon as the three main causes are removed. These exciting causes only serve to set off the attack in those patients who have some abnormal condition present in their systems and they are abnormally hypersensitive to the healthful person who can breathe or eat certain substances every day in the year without the slightest hint of asthma ever developing, although the same materials might bring on an attack in the unhealthy individual.

Attacks of bronchial asthma may come on at more or less regular times or they may come unexpectedly. The symptoms are frequently mild at the time the disease is starting, which is before the age of 25 in most cases. The attacks often grow more severe with time and tend to come closer together. The most outstanding symptom is the spasm in breathing. The patient finds it hard to get enough air into the lungs, and even harder to get it out. The lungs fill up with air and the diaphragm becomes fixed. The chest muscles will step in and try to do the work of the diaphragm and will attempt to bring about the movements needed for breathing. This kind of breathing causes the patient to stoop over.

To give you a plain picture of what happens, I am going to compare the air trapped in the lungs with men trapped in a mine. As you know, when the narrow shaft leading to a mine caves in and becomes almost filled with rock, the men are trapped and may suffer from lack of fresh air. In the same way when the bronchial tubes leading to the lungs become nearly closed with mucus or swelling—the air becomes trapped in the lungs and the patient is in agony because he is not getting as much clean air as he needs. When he tried to draw air through the clogged tubes, this produces the peculiar wheezing sound heard during an attack.

The patient will say that he feels as though he has a ten story office building piled on his chest, and his face turns blue. After he succeeds in raising a characteristic sputum containing little round white beads like tapioca, relief begins.

When asthma continues for some length of time, such complications as chronic bronchitis and emphysema occur and the attacks of asthma may then be present nearly all the time. It is therefore advisable to overcome the asthma before such complications take place.

In the treatment of asthma, I advise the use of the fast, as the magic of the fast is more quickly seen in the treatment of this disorder than almost any other. The fast should be used at the start if you wish to see the wheezing stop within two to forty-eight hours.

I have prepared three articles on asthma which describe the best treatment I have found for this disease. If you would like to best a copy of the articles, I would suggest that you write to me in care of this newspaper, following the correspondent's instructions as given at the heading or end of today's article. Please enclose one large, self-addressed envelope and add two loose three cent stamps. Ask for THREE ON ASTHMA and the articles will be sent you by return mail.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Recipe for Parsley Tea)

Question: Joan C. D. inquires: "How do you make parsley tea?"

Answer: Parsley tea is made by simmering one bunch of parsley for about ten minutes in one quart of water. Strain and drink the liquid as a beverage between meals. As a substitute you may use the dehydrated parsley such as can be bought at a Health Food Store, using about one tablespoonful of the parsley to one quart of water. You will also find it enjoyable to drink any water left after spritzing with parsley. Parsley tea can be used for the wheezing stop within two to forty-eight hours.

(Value of Peanut Butter)

Question: Miss R. asks: "Of what value is peanut butter?"

Answer: Peanut butter has a high food value, containing as it does a large amount of oil and dextrose. Peanut butter combines well with any other kind of food, including wholeheart bread.

(Baby Holds Breath)

Question: Mrs. William P. writes: "My baby holds her breath until she scares me. Why does she do this?"

Answer: Babies learn to hold their breath this way in order to attract attention. However, it is possible that there is something wrong with the child and I would suggest that you take her to a baby specialist. If you find that she is holding her breath only because it has become a habit, you need feel no alarm, as she will begin to breathe again before there is any danger.

(Time for Swimming)

Question: John asks: "When good in swimming how long should one stay in the water?"

Answer: About twenty to thirty-five minutes.

Praise and Criticism Of President's Speech

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Repeal of the President's message is a publican criticism that President Roosevelt was proposing repeal of the Constitution mingled today with Democratic praise of the annual message to Congress.

"The finest repeal of the Constitution I've ever heard," Senator McNary, Republican leader of the Senate, commented after hearing the President's concluding paragraph that "the impulse of the common purpose declares a union between the executive and legislative branches of the government."

"That's the first declaration of language from a President of the United States in his message to Congress that molds the three functions of government into one common purpose," McNary added.

From the Democratic side, Speaker Rainey said:

"The President's message is an inspiring document and correctly and in general terms sets out what has already been done and what will be done. It is typically Rooseveltian in its brevity and directness."

McNary said he would help Mr. Roosevelt fulfill his promises, adding:

"The program is exhilarating, and the address very fine praise of Democratic achievements in the past nine months and a promise of multiplied more during the next few months."

"I hope all his promises will be fulfilled and I shall make all reasonable offices as a Republican to do my part."

"I sincerely hope his last message will bear a statement of achievements as strongly as this one does of hopes."

N. Y. DETECTIVES PICK UP SUSPECTS

New Orders from New Mayor Start Big Drive Against the Underworld.

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Spurred to action by warnings to "clean up or get out," uniformed policemen and detectives canvassed speakeasies, cafes, night clubs and known criminal hangouts and herded a mob of suspects to police headquarters for the line up today.

The lineup clerk found his desk a litter of record sheets. The cells at police headquarters were jammed and containers of coffee and sandwiches were brought from restaurants for the prisoners' breakfast.

"There was no specific order from John F. O'Ryan, the new police commissioner, or any other official for the roundup. The word was simply passed out by commanding officers. The old detective custom of returning to the station house a few hours after midnight for a long nap was discarded, as was the uniformed man's occasional habit of spending a few hours off post in a warm restaurant or saloon.

"We've stopped out, all right," one detective said. "It's just what we war. We don't mind going out after them if we're sure we'll be backed up."

"Mayor LaGuardia means what he says," a patrolman said. "We know now that we won't lose our jobs if we arrest the wrong guy."

Most of the arrests were made in Brooklyn and Manhattan, although the lineup sheets listed a number from all boroughs. The charges ran the gamut from criminal offenses, from narcotic addiction to extortion.

CLAIMS ROOSEVELT SILENT ON MONEY

London Paper Disappointed Because President Did Not Announce Policies.

London, Jan. 4.—(AP)—London financial quarters expressed disappointment today at the absence of fresh light on the American monetary policy in President Roosevelt's message to Congress yesterday.

The financial editor of the London Telegraph wrote that he considered the message gave little new information on the President's monetary plans, but said perhaps the budget message today would lift the curtain a little more.

"One passage of Mr. Roosevelt's message will raise a smile," the writer said.

"He suggested that it is internal difficulties of other leading nations which are holding them from considering all-around stabilization. He must surely be aware that other nations will talk just as soon as they have Mr. Roosevelt's assurance of what monetary course he is going to steer."

The Daily Mail's financial editor termed the President's reference to his gold program a "reiteration of his intention to create a commodity dollar."

"It would seem the President still intends to depreciate the dollar to the point where relationship between commodity prices and internal debts is re-established at the level ruling when the debts were incurred," the writer asserted.

"Whether he proposes to endeavor to maintain the internal price level by varying the price of gold remains to be seen."

NAVY AIR FLEET GOES INTO BATTLE PRACTICE

Dirigible Theoretically Destroyed Three Times by Cruisers and Sky Squadrons.

With the U. S. Fleet off Southern California Coast, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The navy's big armada of the skies—the U. S. Macon—went into its second battle practice today.

The first time the world's newest dirigible was put to sea with the fleet it was theoretically destroyed three times. Twice it barged into the range of the guns of the light and heavy cruisers and then it was trapped by a swarm of destroying air squadrons.

Commander Alger H. Dresel, its skipper, today was under orders to be wary of superior air forces. The big bag flew as a scouting unit for the main power of Uncle Sam's navy, under the command of Admiral Joseph M. Reeves.

An opposing force was led by Vice Admiral Frank M. Brumby, commander of the scouting force. More than a hundred fighting ships formed the opposing fleets spread over an area 100 square miles, south of Catalina Island and west of San Diego.

SEE ENCOURAGING TREND IN FURNITURE INDUSTRY

Officials at Chicago Mart Gather to Greet Buyers of Nation at Exhibit

Chicago, Jan. 4.—(AP)—Officials of the American furniture mart were enthusiastic today over what they called an encouraging trend in the industry as the twentieth annual furniture show swung into stride with buyers arriving in increased numbers from all sections of the nation.

A survey of the hundreds of exhibits in the spacious mart on Lake Shore drive indicated the price trend was about a third higher than the low mark of last March and approximately 20 per cent above last summer's quotations. The rise was attributed to advanced labor costs under the National Recovery Act.

Style for the most part followed the early American and Georgian periods with the demand for the much talked about modernistic kind only fair.

NERVY THUG GETS $9

Net Haven, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A youth who strolled casually into a Whalley avenue tall, shop took $9 at gun point from a woman clerk and escaped, was the object today of a police search.

The young man, unmasked and acting in matter of fact fashion, staged his robbery yesterday at 5:15 p. m. as hundreds of persons passed the store on the way to their homes.

An alarm was sounded by the store clerk, Miss Josephine Lee, after the robber had stuffed the $9 in bills into his pocket and walked slowly from the store, but the youth had made good his escape.

INN ON POST ROAD DESTROYED BY FIRE

Meriden, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The Eight Acres Inn on the Boston Post road near "Death Corner," a half mile south of the Meriden-Fallingford town line was totally destroyed by fire, discovered at 8:30 o'clock this morning. The loss is unofficially estimated at $10,000. An overheated chimney is believed to have caused the fire.

Vincent Avina, manager of the inn which was re-opened on New Year's eve and two employees asleep in the second floor room, were forced to jump 15 feet from a window when the flames prevented an exit by way of the stairs.

The building was owned by a Miss Bradley of West Haven, and only recently had been leased to a manager's daughter, Miss Angeline Avina of West Britain.

COURANT EDITOR LAUDS ROOSEVELT

Maurice S. Sherman Tells Rockville Lions President 'Practical Not Visionary.'

Rockville, Jan. 4.—President Franklin D. Roosevelt was described as "not a visionary but a practical man" by Maurice S. Sherman in his talk, "Recovery and the New Deal," before the Rockville Lions club Wednesday evening.

Mr. Sherman, who was guest of honor at the semi-monthly luncheon, recited the happenings of this country from the starting of the World War. He told many interesting incidents of the happenings in Washington since the "depression" and traced recovery from the beginning down to the present day.

In his praise of President Roosevelt, Mr. Sherman told of the letters he received from President Ernest M. Hopkins of Dartmouth college in which he told him of President Roosevelt, whom he knew personally, saying that President Roosevelt was outstanding in anything he participated in before his sickness, whether it was athletics, tennis, or anything else.

This letter from President Hopkins also informed Mr. Sherman that President Roosevelt took up the study of the "welfare of the United States" after his illness and, as a result, today he is not "visionary but practical" in his recommendations and actions.

Mr. Sherman answered scores of questions after his talk which were of much interest, as they concerned National affairs.

ROCKVILLE JUDGE SETTLES CIVIL ACTION OUT OF COURT

Hartford Hairdresser Sues Husband Living in Coventry Over Property Dispute.

After nearly three hours had been taken up in the hearing of testimony, Judge Frank P. McEvoy, of Waterbury, presiding judge at the winter term of the Tolland County Superior Court took both the plaintiff and the defendant into chambers and settled the only civil action before him Wednesday.

The case was that of Rose D. Vanasse vs. Theodore E. Vanasse, husband and wife, in a suit involving property in Coventry, now held by the husband but which the wife, who is living apart from her husband, claims a right to one-half.

The trial of the case, which is the first civil trial of the present term, started yesterday morning after the short criminal case was disposed of by the court.

Married in 1918
Rose D. Vanasse, now living in Hartford, where she is a hairdresser, was married in Norwich September 23, 1918, to Theodore E. Vanasse, but they parted April 7, 1933, and the husband lives on the property in Coventry involved in the law suit.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vanasse opened the City Tire Company in Rockville and with the money derived from the store purchased property in Coventry from John H. Cheney.

This property was purchased in October, 1923, for $350 and the title remained in the name of Theodore Vanasse. When the City Tire Company was sold for $250, Mr. and Mrs. Vanasse went to live in Coventry where they conducted a gas station and small store. After about two years, Mrs. Vanasse took up hairdressing at the Hartford Academy and paid $150 for a course.

Made $80 Per Week
She testified that she made between $75 and $80 a week in the Ideal Beauty Parlor in Hartford.

In 1928 Mr. and Mrs. Vanasse secured a $1,000 loan from Raymond P. Dunn of Hartford, but $300 was for a bonus on $300 with the remaining $700 a half and sun parlor at the Coventry gas station were constructed.

Mrs. Vanasse testified that she repaid this $1,000 loan and also $500 secured from a private bank in Hartford.

On November 9, 1924, Theodore Vanasse deeded his property to his wife because of a contemplated lawsuit. After six months he demanded his property. Mrs. Vanasse testified she deeded it back because her husband "made it so miserable for me." Part of this land at Coventry was sold to the state for highway purposes for $925, which Theodore Vanasse kept, according to his wife's testimony.

CODE STABILIZES PRICES OF SILK

Curtailment of Production Also Is Reducing Stocks, Statistics Show.

Preliminary statistics in the hands of the Silk Code Authority indicate that the production curtailment order is having the effect of reducing stocks on hand and stabilizing prices on staple fabrics, it was stated following the weekly meeting of the Silk Code Authority held at the headquarters of the Federated Textile Industries, Inc.

A clearer view of the present market situation will be available when all manufacturers and converters have made the required statistical returns to the Code Authority. These returns are compulsory. They must be made on blanks which have already been distributed to the trade by the Code Authority. New blanks requesting this information were sent to converters last week. Returns must be made promptly by both manufacturers and converters.

Must Reimburse Workers
Fourteen mills have been ordered by the Code Authority during the past week to reimburse their employees for underpayment. Names of employers violating these wage provisions a second time will be published.

Labot departments of silk states have agreed to send their inspectors to silk mills coming under the Silk Code, to see that wage and machinery operation posters are being displayed, it was reported. These labor inspectors have also promised to do all in their power to see that the code is enforced, and have stated they will report violations where found. Special blanks for reporting firms failing to display the mill poster have been mailed to state factory inspectors in all silk sections of the country in order to facilitate code enforcement.

25 Percent Time Reduction
A few applications for exemption from the production curtailment order continue to be received by the Code Authority, but the claims of "undue hardships" the Code Authority felt were not justified. All cases presented were therefore refused. In many cases there was evident misunderstanding of the curtailment order, the applicants being under the impression that the curtailment was a 100 percent shut-down for 30 days. It was pointed out that the curtailment order requires only a 25 percent reduction of the maximum time allowed by the code.

A ruling was made that interest charges on overdue payments may not be waived and must be collected.

RAILROADS IN U. S. ON BETTER BASIS

L. C. C. Report Shows Them in Better Condition Than a Year Ago.

Washington, Jan. 4.—(AP)—The railroads were found by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its annual report today to be in a better condition than a year ago.

In a document covering the year ending December 1, the commission found the carriers' business improving, with operating costs reduced and conditions in general on the up-grade.

Only one recommendation for legislation was made. All others will be left until such time as Joseph B. Eastman, Federal co-ordinator of transportation, completes his study by the railroads. Then, the commission said, it will publish its comments.

The lone recommendation was that the 1920 Transportation Act be tightened to prevent special favors being granted shippers who send freight from one foreign country to another over American railroads.

Prior to 1920 the commission could control such shipments while in the United States. By the wording of the 1920 Transportation Act, however, it is said that a shipper in Canada for instance—sending goods to Mexico for example—across the United States, can be given favors without running afoul

The plane landed at 7:10 o'clock local time (5:10 a. m. e. s. t.), for a flying time of 18 hours, 17 minutes for the 1,970 miles.

The four-motored hydroplane is the French entry in a race with Germany to set up the first trans-Atlantic airmail line between Europe and South America via Africa.

Within two months, the French government hopes to initiate daily service between Paris and Rio de Janeiro—with a non-stop hop scheduled over the South Atlantic.

These figures indicated also new Federal borrowing in excess of $6,000,000,000 to provide the needed money.

An expression of the administration's confidence in economic improvement was contained in estimates that income taxes, forecast to return $64,000,000 this year, will jump to $1,285,000,000 in 1935.

In discussing the future, the Treasury also noted: "Of the emergency expenditures made up to and including the fiscal year 1935, it is roughly estimated that $2,500,000,000 represents loans that will be repaid to the government during the fiscal year 1936 and subsequent years, which repayments will be available for reduction of the public debt.

"The estimates of expenditures of the RFC are contingent on the enactment of legislation extending the corporation's authority to incur obligations to June 30, 1934. If the authority is not extended, the estimated expenditures for 1934 will be reduced by $90,000,000 and the net repayments for 1935 ($480,436,000) will be reduced by $74,000,000.

In estimating government revenue for the current year at $3,259,900,000 and for 1935 at $3,974,700,000, the treasury said: "The uncertainties affecting the estimates of revenues are particularly important under present unusual economic conditions.

"Estimated receipts from internal revenue and customs for 1934 include the following amounts not covered in estimates presented to Congress last December: "$150,500,000 for taxes levied by the Act of March 22, 1933 (chiefly the tax on beer); $403,000,000 for processing and floorstock taxes levied by the secretary of agriculture; about $153,700,000 for taxes levied by the National Industrial Recovery Act, exclusive of certain changes in the income tax; and $174,400,000 for additional receipts from existing internal revenue taxes and customs duties on distilled spirits and fermented liquors as a result of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution.

"The government's activities and its finances are affected to an important degree by legislation enacted with a view to providing means for dealing with problems of the depression.

"The government's recovery program which is based upon this legislation involves the use of the public credit in three ways. Provision for a variety of emergency activities has been made both by direct appropriation of treasury funds and by authorization of advances by the RFC, the financing of which involves the government's credit.

"In addition, the home owner's loan corporation and the Federal land banks are authorized to issue obligations in respect of which the government assumes a contingent liability to the extent of guaranteeing interest payments; and the Tennessee valley authority is authorized to issue bonds on the credit of the United States."

The Treasury report, while containing estimates for the future, was devoted more specifically to the fiscal year of 1933 which ended last June. It reviewed factually the March banking crisis but made no mention of the emergency program.

It mentioned also the currency inflation powers given President Roosevelt and his orders against gold payments and hoarding.

Charts showed that in the fiscal year of 1933 income taxes provided only 36 per cent of the government's revenue, compared with 60 per cent in 1930—the highest post-war percentage.

Corporation Collections "Indicated corporation collections in the full calendar year 1933 show a decline of 27 per cent as compared with collections in 1932," the treasury said.

"An even greater decline in taxable incomes was partially offset by the fact that the tax rate on the increase in the tax rate from 12 to 18 3/4 per cent with an additional tax of three-quarters of one per cent on net income reported on consolidated returns and the elimination of specific credit for corporations with small incomes.

"Indicated current collections of individual taxes over the full calendar year 1933 show an increase of 30 per cent over the preceding year, the decline in taxable incomes being more than offset by the increased taxes under the revenue act of 1932.

"Receipts from miscellaneous internal revenue taxes were $858,200,000 in the fiscal year 1933 as compared with $503,700,000 in 1932, an increase of $354,500,000. In 1933 about 95 per cent of miscellaneous internal revenue came from six sources—tobacco taxes, manufacturers' excise taxes, documentary stamp taxes, the tax on checks, the tax on fermented liquors and the estate tax.

"Customs receipts declined from $327,700,000 in the fiscal year 1932 to $250,800,000 in the fiscal year 1933, a decline of $76,900,000. This amount includes $168,150,762 of assessments and $1,478,847 of rejected abatement and credit claims."

It has also been stated by several complainants that when the state registration was made at the armory, members of a night shift in a local plant reported for the registration. Several of these men have been called for jobs, it has been suggested that the night workers might have thought that they were due to be laid off after the holidays and that they sought the federal jobs in the event the mill work was terminated.

Employed But They Registered "It has also been stated by several complainants that when the state registration was made at the armory, members of a night shift in a local plant reported for the registration. Several of these men have been called for jobs, it has been suggested that the night workers might have thought that they were due to be laid off after the holidays and that they sought the federal jobs in the event the mill work was terminated.

The responsibility for selecting the local registrants for jobs here was taken out of the hands of the local committee when the CWA plan was first initiated. This authority is vested in the hands of the state unemployment director and the Hartford bureau. This fact, although given sufficient publicity, has failed to check the number of persons who daily apply to members of the CWA committee for consideration. Members of the committee emphasize the fact that they are lowering the place any man on a local job for which money from the Civil Works Administration has been allotted, regardless of the worthiness of the applicant.

Make Suggestions "The committee has made suggestions to the Hartford office from time to time regarding special cases which have come to their attention. In some cases these suggestions have been honored, others have not.

The system of calling the men to work is not as effective as it might be, local officials of the Hartford office, for example, the local committee has no knowledge who the local workers will be. A project is selected and given local approval and is then sent to Hartford for the state endorsement. With such project application for a sufficient number of men for the work is made. When the job receives the state unemployment bureau's approval, the workers are picked from the Manchester registration list and those selected are notified to appear at the town garage. Until they report at the garage, the local committee does not know who the workers will be.

An increase of 50 or more men will be asked of the state bureau it was indicated at the meeting of the CWA committee yesterday. The local quota of 439 men has been agreed and there are sufficient work projects ahead to provide jobs for extra men. It is understood that several other towns have applied for and have received additional to their quotas.

Get Pay Regularly Preparation of the weekly CWA payroll has caused the members of the office staff to work late each Wednesday evening so that the workers can receive their checks and Saturday noon. All checks have been distributed each week on time.

proved but absolutely rejected by Congress. "The House appropriations committee, which has tried to keep up as well as it can, might as well quit.

"Nearly every item cut out of estimates for departments last year, has been allotted out of public works and other funds.

"Downtown there is an appropriations committee that is more powerful than the one in Congress.

"It has gotten so that every time a person dares to criticize anything that the administration is doing, that he is called a traitor.

"However, I received number of telegrams last night from people over the country saying that they were glad that someone had enough courage to express views of his own on the President's speech.

"I honestly believe that exactly what the people want to know is what the President's financial program is going to be and his real attitude toward legitimate business.

"If he had stated this in his message, I believe, it would have done more to restore prosperity than any one thing that is being done at the present time."

tinuance of work on 15 vessels now being constructed with regular appropriations and the laying down of the last of the planned 10,000-ton eight-inch gun cruisers next January. In addition the construction of 33,000 tons of six-inch gun cruisers could go forward.

Terms of Treaty "These cruisers, under the terms of the London Naval Treaty could be either three of 10,000 tons or five of 8,500 tons. All of these ships are separate apart from the 33 vessels to be constructed with the $228,000,000 of public works funds turned over some months ago to the Navy by executive order.

The budget, 1935 estimate, including a restoration of one-third of the 15 per cent pay cut taken by the services, called for $228,000,735. This was $5,996,818 less than the authorized obligations for 1934.

It was estimated, however, that with accrued balances to be carried forward to the 1935 fiscal year and use of unexpended funds from continuing appropriations, there would be available for expenditure by the Navy $316,891,021.

Of this available amount, it was estimated actual withdrawals by the service from the Treasury would total $316,180,900.

In addition to the partial pay restoration, provision was made for a 90 per cent restoration beginning July 1 of the promotion and longevity pay in both the Navy and Marine Corps.

An additional sum of $2,700,000 was provided to increase the total enlisted strength from 79,700 to 82,900 and Marine enlisted strength from 15,000 to 16,000. This increase was made necessary by the addition of new vessels to the fleet.

Officials Believe Ten to 20 Million Dollars Lost in Bank Failure.

Paris, Jan. 4.—(AP)—France was stirred today by charges that ten to twenty-million-dollar frauds have been revealed by the collapse of the Credit Municipal Bank of Bayonne, which was the city's pawnshop, and the disappearance of its mysterious founder, Serge Stavisky.

The manager of the institution was jailed December 30 and an warrant was issued for Stavisky in connection with the recent alleged issuance of unauthorized bonds.

Premier Camille Chautemps, with names high in French governmental quarters involved in the affair, declared Stavisky, who police said had many aliases, will be brought to justice and the case sifted thoroughly.

Insurance companies were reported by investigators to have been the principal victims of the sale of fraudulent pawnshop bonds, which Stavisky—operating under the name of Serge Alexandre—is charged with issuing for from three to ten times the pawnshop's legal limit of 50,000,000 francs (about $3,000,000).

Distributed Circulars Stavisky is accused by police of using in the sale of the bonds a circular in which Albert Dalimier, as public works minister, in the Cabinet of former Premier Edouard Herriot, advised insurance companies they were legally permitted to invest in municipal pawnshops.

M. Dalimier issued a statement today explaining that the circular was a routine matter and that he never favored the Bayonne bank or had relations with anybody connected with it.

Stavisky, a 47-year-old, Russian-born, naturalized French ex-jeweler, lived in a lordly manner, witnesses said, entertaining lavishly and cultivating friendships in official quarters.

disagreement among committee members as to whether they constituted a violation of the law. "I think they were irregular," Long added. "Nevertheless it seems the irregularities were with intent to favor the public, so I will make no objection to this confirmation."

Harrison replied to Long, saying he could not accept the statement that members of the committee disagreed over the question of law violation.

"I don't believe there was much difference of opinion," Harrison said. "I don't think I ever saw any man make such a favorable impression on a Senate committee."

THE NEW YEAR!
I'll try to keep my eyes open and to see
That little part of life that is me;
I'll try to keep my ears open and to hear
The softly creeping movements of the year;
I'll try to keep my mouth open and to sing
That there is love and beauty in everything.

A northern farm-hand went to work for a Texas rancher. There had been an unusually long drought in the region and everyone on the ranch was hoping for rain. One day it did start to sprinkle, and the farm hand, to show his delight, proceeded to dance in the rain.
Rancher (shouting)—Come in out of that rain!
Farm Hand—Oh, I don't mind these few drops.
Farmer (bellowing)—Who cares about that? We want every bit of that rain to fall on Texas.

Wife—George, you don't love me any more. You always used to give me the bigger helpings, now you do the reverse.

NEED ADDITIONAL SUM FOR TRAFFIC LIGHTS

Commissioners Awaiting Action of Selectmen—Think Plan Will Be Big Help.

The police commissioners are waiting until after the meeting of action on the installation of police lights at different points on Main street where the traffic is such as to cause a hazard. The commissioners at their meeting a month ago went on record as favoring lights at Main and Park streets, at the Center and at Main street and Middle Turnpike. Several different concerns that deal in this line of signal system have been in Manchester with small signal systems to demonstrate them, but the installation of the signals will cost more than the appropriation now made for the police will carry. An additional sum for this has been asked from the selectmen. If action is taken favorably on the recommendation of such an additional appropriation, the police commissioners will give further consideration to the traffic lights at their meeting next Monday.

Entertainment With Monologues and Music Will Be Given Jan. 12 in Orange Hall.

Daughters of Liberty, L. L. O. L. No. 125, have selected Friday evening, January 12, for an Irish tea and entertainment, to be held at 7:30 in Orange hall. Details of the program have not been quite completed. There will be monologues, vocal and instrumental music and stereoscopic and motion pictures. The guest lecturer will be Rev. Robert Bell of the Church of the Epiphany, New Haven. It will be recalled that Rev. Bell gave his lecture, "From New England to Old England," this fall under the auspices of St. Mary's Bible Class. On that occasion the parish hall was filled to overflowing. Many who did not see the picture have expressed the wish that he be invited to repeat the lecture for the Daughters of Liberty, and he consented.

The committee in charge of the tea and program includes Mrs. Esther Haugh, chairman; Mrs. Elizabeth Smith, Mrs. Lillian McCaughey, Mrs. Emily Pratt, Mrs. Rachel Barr, Mrs. Frances Stratton, Mrs. Lillie Lindsey and Mrs. Minnie Brown.

BON AMI CO. GIVES AN EXTRA DIVIDEND

Financial Strength of Firm Shown by Statement Just Announced.

Some idea of the financial strength and apparently improving business status of the Bon Ami Co., is found in the firm's declaration of a regular quarterly dividend on the Class A stock and an extra dividend of 50 cents on the Class B, in addition to the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the latter stock. Class A dividend is payable January 31 to stock of record January 18, and both Class B dividends are payable January 17 to stock of record January 13. The 1933 price range of the Bon Ami stock is 78 high, 53 low and 74.25 last. There have been no sales this week, but with the dividend action known in Wall street it is expected there will be a demand for the stock. The company this year also distributed about $14,000 in Christmas bonuses.
