

HUGE BANK SCANDAL MAY UPSET CABINET

Over 40 Millions Involved in Collapse of French Bank—High Officials Are Asked for Explanations.

Paris, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Parliamentary circles predicted today that Premier Camille Chautemps and his Cabinet might be overthrown when Parliament airs the $40,000,000 scandal of the Bayonne pawnshop.

The government sent out a second series of messages to ships at sea and to French representatives in North and South America in an effort to arrest Serge "Houdoume Alex" Stavisky, founder of the collapsed municipal enterprise which received government financing.

Premier Chautemps called Albert Dalimier, minister of colonies to his office at noon and demanded a clear statement of his connection with the Stavisky affair of which the minister asserts he is entirely innocent despite rumors.

Danger Is Real In Parliamentary circles, which until a few days ago had conceded the present government several months of life, it was said that the cabinet's days are numbered.

Police said that Stavisky had sent out letters urging insurance companies to invest in government bonds without, however, specifying the Bayonne arrangement.

These circumstances, oppositionists declared, indicated laxness to say the least.

Handsome Alex made his last public appearance in the company of Jean Chiappe, Paris prefect of police, with whom he sat in a leather box at the box which Stavisky held under lease.

Meanwhile police declared they had uncovered evidence that only the sudden collapse of the Stavisky project had prevented his launching a program calculated to net another $40,000,000 of the state's money.

DEMOCRATS TO FORCE CAUCUS ON PATRONAGE

Leaders Not Satisfied With Number of Jobs They Are Able to Give Their Constituents.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The possibility of forcing a Democratic caucus on patronage matters today was discussed privately by several members of that party on the House side of Capitol Hill.

Many admittedly are not satisfied with the jobs they have been able to bestow upon constituents. Several stated frankly the replacement of hundreds of Republican office holders with Democrats would increase their own political strength at home.

The caucus could be forced by submission to the caucus chairman, Representative Lea of California, a petition signed by 25 Democratic House members.

Following a caucus last session which was addressed by the chief patronage dispenser, James A. Farley, postmaster general and chairman of the Democratic National committee, many conceded Farley is co-operating with the jobs he controls.

Those who favor the caucus idea assert they do not intend it to be understood as a threat to bolt the administration. They say they are sure if the thing were called for by enough to President Roosevelt's attention, he would do something about it.

Where 200 Died In France's Worst Rail Disaster

Ten miles from the Marne battlefield, where 19 years ago ambulances, taxis and trucks carried off war dead and wounded, there occurred a repetition of this grim scene when, in the little town of Lagny, 200 persons perished the collision of two express trains. The wreck, called the worst rail disaster in French history, is shown here in one of the first pictures of the tragedy to reach this country.

FINANCIERS CONSIDERING PRESIDENT'S NEW BUDGET

Wonder If It Will Tend to Push the Gold Price Lifting Plan Into the Background.

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Monetary authorities are possible effects upon the Federal government's monetary program of the $10,000,000,000 Treasury financing program outlined by President Roosevelt in his budget message.

MORGENTHAU STARTS FINANCING CAMPAIGN

Mail Pilot, Fog Bound, Lands After Four Hours

Newark, N. J., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Dean Burford wrote another thriller of the night skies early today when he brought his mail plane safely down at the Newark Airport after being storm-bound more than four hours.

It was his second air adventure within a month. Last December 11, he bailed out of a mail plane over Cambria county, Pennsylvania, when his plane was caught in a terrific snowstorm.

Burford took off from the airport at 12:08 o'clock, this morning, with a valuable mail cargo bound for Pittsburgh. Forty-five minutes later he advised the field by radiophone, his wings were coating with ice.

Heavy fog settled over Newark and a sleet and rain fall began. The radiophones went suddenly silent, and ground officials expressed alarm. Communication was restored at 3:45 a. m., at which time Burford said he had sufficient gas to remain aloft seven hours, and that he would remain in the vicinity of the field for an opportunity to attempt a landing. He landed at 4:40 a. m.

Burford was one of two pilots who took to their parachutes Dec. 11, when their planes were caught in an Allegheny snowstorm. He landed unhurt while the $35,000 plane was wrecked. A cargo which included a shipment of diamonds valued at $75,000 was salvaged.

Justice Department in Its Report Asks That Traffic in Firearms Should Be Under Supervision.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Laws to broaden the Federal government's anti-crime powers through regulation of the fire arms traffic and prevention of interstate transportation of stolen property will be asked of Congress by Attorney General Homer Cummings.

In his annual report to Congress today, Cummings said: "Suitable bills and supporting memoranda will be prepared and made available to the appropriate committees.

"Amongst these measures may be mentioned: Regulation of traffic in machine guns and firearms; prison escapes, including complexity of complicity of prison officers or employees; resisting and killing a Federal officer; interstate transportation of stolen property; simplification of removal proceedings; escape from lawful custody while awaiting trial; waiver of indictment in Grand Jury in certain criminal cases; and regulation of alibi defenses.

"Congress should also give serious consideration to the enactment of laws providing for uniformity of practice and procedure in proceedings."

Head of Treasury Says Market Reaction to President's Budget Message Was Very Good—Sales of Bonds to Be First Steps.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Terminating market reaction to President Roosevelt's budget message "very good," Secretary Morgenthau said today the Treasury will begin "right soon" on its ten billion dollar financing program.

This tremendous task, as shown by President Roosevelt in his budget message to Congress yesterday, involves borrowings by sales of bonds.

Such procedure is in line with expectations. There has been no reason to expect the administration to use printing-press money, indications constantly pointing against resort to such practice.

In his message, Mr. Roosevelt spoke of the government having "to borrow approximately six billion dollars of new money," meaning money in addition to sums already borrowed. The remaining four billion of the ten to be borrowed in the next six months is for refunding previous obligations.

The President's chief financial aide, whose confirmation in his new post by the Senate is expected next week, also disclosed that an intensive effort to collect back taxes is in the making, he having summoned internal revenue collectors and agents to confer with him January 17.

Back taxes exceed $800,000,000, he told reporters, and the Treasury plans to see how much of this can be brought in to aid the Treasury whose books—the President told Congress yesterday—would be some nine billion dollars of balance within two years because of the recovery program.

To Work Out Quotas "We will work out a quota on back taxes for each internal revenue collector, put the quota up on a blackboard and see how far the collectors can bring down their quotas," Morgenthau said.

Boston Merchant Declares Plan Should Have Been Adopted Years Ago.

Philadelphia, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Edward A. Filene, chairman of the Massachusetts State Recovery Board, said in a speech for delivery before the American Academy of Political and Social Science today that "it will be destroyed by those very business men who believe most profoundly in the profit system and are shouting the loudest about individual initiative."

"At present, however, I see no danger of this," Filene said. "Practically all America seems to be behind the President in his great effort to discover the underlying laws governing production and distribution and thus to effect an orderly arrangement of the processes."

"The recognition of our responsibilities in a machine age has come upon us suddenly, after three or four years of headache; but the responsibilities existed long before they were recognized.

ATLAS TACK HEAD ORDERED ARRESTED

Philip H. Philbin Refuses to Answer Questions During Stock Probe.

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Philip H. Philbin, Jr., who controlled Atlas Tack Corporation's stock today, its recent rise and fall on the market, was ordered arrested today by Assistant Attorney General Amos B. Brown, Jr., after Philbin refused to answer questions during a stock probe.

Detective Lieutenant James F. McCoy was summoned. He took Philbin, accompanied by his attorney, Paul McCauley, and J. C. Call, the Elizabeth street police station, to the office of the chief of police, where he was held in a misdemeanor charge, alleging violation of a section of the general business law that has to do with failure to answer questions after being served with a subpoena in a lawful investigation.

Philbin's Remarks The arrest was made on complaint of McCauley and Assistant Attorney General Jacob Gruber. Philbin, remarking on the two complainants said: "Isn't there anyone else over there that wants some publicity so we can put their names on here, too?"

Philbin said he was 35 years old, unmarried and an investor. He was taken to Tombs Court for arraignment.

At the inquiry into the market activity of Atlas Tack stock, Philbin's counsel had protested that McCauley was not within his right in arresting Philbin, since the witness had not refused to answer questions but had replied "I don't know" to a long series of questions about the individual checks which had been drawn to his account by Philip H. Philbin, Jr., Inc., a company he formed when he began negotiations for the purchase of Atlas Tack stock.

NEW YEAR'S TRADE HAS A GOOD START

Dun & Bradstreet Review Says Many Concerns Now Out of the Red.

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet weekly trade review said today that business entered the new year reflecting "cheerfulness over the outlook for the retail and wholesale divisions of trade in consumer goods during the first quarter."

"With the confirmations pouring in regarding the unexpected large totals of retail sales last month," asserted the review, "uncertainty regarding the strength of consumer buying power is being dispelled."

"While after-inventory reports are not spectacular, except in a few isolated instances, for the first time in four years many houses are showing the balances on the right side of the ledger, while countless others had the figures on the other side reduced to such a small amount that they have become convinced that recovery is off to a good start.

Cold Helps Sales. The leading industrial indices reflect less than the normal seasonal receding for the year-end period. Even though retail buying lacked the stimulus of sub-zero temperatures of the week preceding, the weather was sufficiently cold to keep sales nearly on a par with the previous week's level.

The wholesale market opened the year with activity general in wearing apparel as well as in staple lines, the inquiries indicating the light inventories of retailers in nearly all divisions.

Manchester Overeats, Thompsonville Wins

Masons Take Trimming From Doric Lodge As Local Men Stuff Themselves Before Taking Part In Contests.

Members of Manchester Lodge of Masons returned a social visit to Doric Lodge, of Thompsonville last night and were beaten in a close contest of games. Points were scored as follows:

Doric Manchester Lodge	5
Setback	10
Ping Pong	5
Pool	10
Bridge	15
Cribbage	15
Checkers	5
Baseball (Dart game)	0
Totals	55

The setback contest was a nip and tuck affair until the last table when Doric Lodge won out on James Baker's bid. To avenge the setback defeat the Ping Pong trio went out and captured the contest easily. Manchester then went into the lead by capturing the pool matches but they soon relinquished the lead as Harold Preston and his tribe of cribbage players did not score a single point. Doric Lodge increased their lead by a very closely contested bridge contest; Charles Bunzel and Albert Todd losing out at the last table by a decisive margin. Manchester's hopes were inspired in the checker contest but Tom Weir lost out without getting a ring. Last but not least came the most important event of the evening, the baseball dart game. Manchester won the first game, 15 to 5, by a seven-run rally in the ninth due to the home run hit of Charlie Wilkie with the bases loaded. Doric claimed that the first team was the shock team so they sent in their first team to get some pointers and Manchester proceeded to show them that they were only warming up in the first game and won the second game easily by the score of 15 to 5. Manchester won the next event without scoring a point when Doric served refreshments which were quickly disposed of. Doric then challenged Manchester to another ball game and with all their stars and Manchester's handicap of overeating they lost a very close game 5 to 3.

A good time was had by all and Manchester Lodge expressed their appreciation to Doric Lodge for their very pleasant evening and left for home at a late hour.

The case of Robert J. Donnelly, of Cooper street, was listed by State's Attorney Hugh Alcorn, but it will not be heard as Mr. Donnelly died suddenly of a heart attack last month.

The firemen's setback tournament, which has been under way at fire headquarters at Main and Hilliard streets since early in the fall is growing towards a close and the Lynn Leather Company is still in the lead, followed by the Rosebuds. ### AVIATRIX OF U. S. KILLED IN FRANCE

Miss Evelyn Frost Burned to Death When Her Plane Hits Wires.

Nevers, France, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Evelyn Frost, the American aviatrix, was burned to death today in the crash of an airplane.

Miss Frost, who was piloting the plane, enroute to Egypt, collided with high tension wires in a fog. The plane burst into flames immediately and the flier was trapped in the flaming mass of wreckage.

The British flier, Rutledge, who accompanied her, was slightly injured. The accident occurred several miles north of Nevers along the Paris-Nevers road.

Miss Frost and her companion had left from Orly at 6:30 a. m. They smashed into the wires at 1:00 p. m.

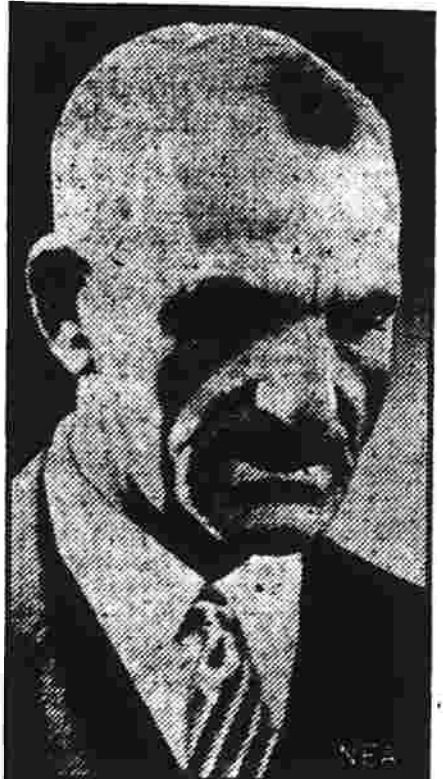

The plane had been purchased only recently and was a tourist model.

In Orly Miss Frost, who kept her tourist biplane hanged there was well known as an aviation enthusiast.

She received her license here a year ago and has made frequent flights. Yesterday she flew to Orly with Rutledge.

It was reported Miss Frost's parents live in London.

THE SLOW DECLINE OF A PROUD FAMILY

Ursula Parrott's New Book Tells of Boston Irish

The story of the decline of a proud old family in the confusion of modern America is not a new one. Ursula Parrott gives it a new twist, however, in "The Tumult and the Shouting," by setting her story in Boston—and then making her fame Irish.

She introduces us to these people in post-Civil War years; young Irish folk newly arrived in Boston, solid and ambitious, honest and devout, fighting their way up in this strange new land, rising steadily to the top as the old Boston aristocracy slowly goes into its decline.

Then, following them down the years, she shows them undergoing the same sort of decline. The older generation had faith and a hard, sure driving power; their present-day descendants have neither, but are adrift in a time of doubt and confusion.

The older generation knew what it wanted, got it, and followed its code as rigorously as the aristocrats of Beacon Hill; the new one does not know what it wants, wouldn't know how to get it if it did, and does not know where in heaven or earth to find a code it can follow.

Covering a span of three generations in a novel and making all the characters real and interesting isn't easy. Miss Parrott has done it admirably, and has woven into her story a series of charming and moving romances.

"The Tumult and the Shouting" is a very excellent novel; the best, I think, that Miss Parrott yet has given us.

Published by Longmans, Green & Co., it sells for $2.50.

PRE-WAR AUSTRIA'S GLITTER AND COLOR

"Radetzky March" Is Tale of An Empire That Died

"Radetzky March," by Joseph Roth, is a fond glance backward at the last days of the Austro-Hungarian empire. It is a book designed to arouse that old kind of homesickness which makes one want to get back to a place where he never has been at all; a tale of moonlight and roses, bright uniforms and Viennese waltzes, lovely women and gallant officers.

Yet it is not uncritical. If it puts a halo of romance over the vanishing realm of the Hapsburgs, it lifts the halo enough to show the dry rot that had infected that society. It may offer sentimental regrets that such a society passed away, but it never pretends that its passing was not inevitable.

The novel is built around the life of one Carl von Trotta, a young army officer.

The lad's grandfather, son of a peasant, had saved the life of the emperor, Franz Josef, at the battle of Solferino, years before. As a reward he had been made a noble and promoted to a captaincy. All his life he was known as "the hero of Solferino."

His son, entering the civil service, was "the son of the hero of Solferino" and was promoted beyond his merits.

And the grandson, picking the army for his career, was "the grandson of the hero of Solferino," and it generally was understood that because of that fact a brilliant career lay ahead of him.

But he was a weakling, a softy. Instead of a brilliant career, he got into disgrace. To be sure, Franz Josef got him out of it, because of his grandfather, but that had led an empty life in a crumbling society, and he knew it.

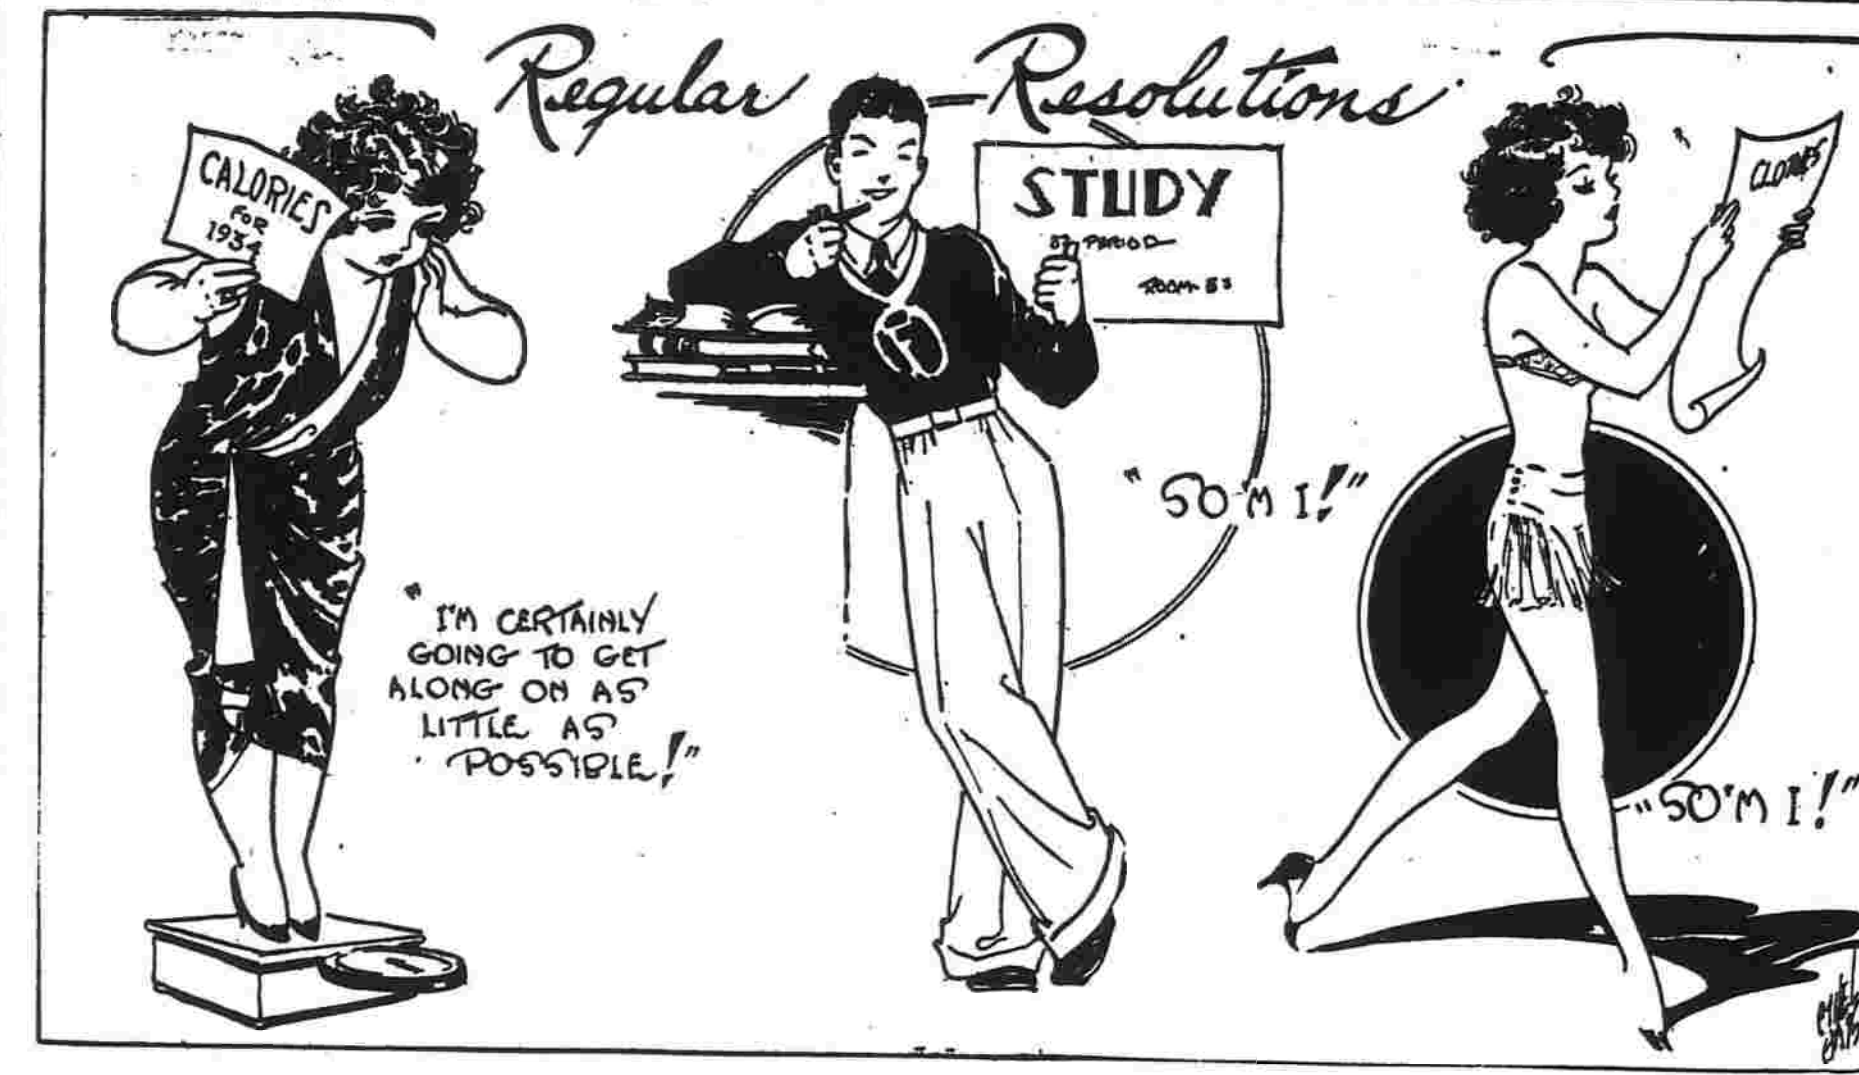

He died in one of the first World War engagements—not gallantly saving a life, but fetching a bucket of water for the men of his platoon.

"Radetzky March" is published by the Viking Press and costs $2.50.

A TENEMENT GIRL RISES TO THE TOP

Here Is a "Rags To Riches" Novel By John Held, Jr.

In "Crosstown," John Held, Jr.,

traces the progress of a New York girl from poverty to riches, and writes a story which probably will make a very famous movie.

The girl in the case is a child of the West Side tenements. She grows up amid all the sordid squalor that you might expect, and in her early teens she gets a job in a department store.

Then, seeking fairer fields, she runs away from home (domestic troubles involving a drunken father) and begins what only can be described as a steady drifting toward success.

First she's a taxi dance girl, and then she is a chorus girl, and then she gets a couple of lines to speak, and presently she's a great actress.

She has a heart of gold, too, this young lady. She's kind to unfortunate, and she sends money to her mother. Furthermore, she's a good girl, retaining her virtue amid temptations which leave her practically frigid.

In the end she gets her name in the bright lights and finds the love of a good man, and mellowed by the years, she abandons her old plan to get even with all the men who have sought to do wrong by her in the course of her struggles.

This book, incidentally, is one of that growing number which you might classify as the mammary school. Their authors sometimes forget to describe their heroine's faces, but they always go into detail about their—ah—bosoms.

In this book you learn about it on page two.

"Crosstown" is published by the Vanguard Press, and sells for $2.

HEAD OF MILK DEALERS GIVES UP CONTROVERSY

Waterbury, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Morton E. Pierpont, president of the Milk Producers-Dealers Association of Connecticut, said today he did not expect to continue the exchange of letters with Charles G. Morris, chairman of the State Board of Milk Control in the controversy over the fluid milk quota of 60 per cent as set by the board for December.

He said he believed the board and the public understood his position with regard to the board and its program and methods without prolonging the exchange of correspondence with Mr. Morris.

Pierpont also said that as producer-dealer, he had sent in his report showing the amount of milk handled by him during December. He did not intend, he declared, to send any money under the board's state pooling plan.

The Producer-Dealers Association he explained, had advised its members to make reports honestly, but not to send in any money.

A year of systematic target practice raised the average score of Hutchinson, Kas., policemen from 31 to 90 per cent.

After Flood Paid a Hurried Call

Occupants of this house fled to safety not a moment too soon as flooded waters ripped away the ravine bank and toppled the structure into the torrent which roared down the gulch at Verdugo Woodlands, Calif. The car in the garage in the rear hung over the ravine, but did not fall into the flood.

CITY SAVES $10,000

New Haven, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Employment furnished by CWA projects was credited today by Hugh J. Garland, superintendent of charities, with a drop of more than $10,000 in the city's grocery bill for the needy in December against the preceding month.

The city paid $24,298 to feed its needy in December compared with $35,788 in November.

Garland said two thousand names have been removed from the charity lists as a result of CWA projects and predicts that the cost of operating his department would be greatly reduced because of the distribution of Federal commodities.

Salvage operations have been projected to save as much as possible of the remaining timber in the Tillamook forest in Oregon where more than ten billion feet were swept by fire.

COACH OF PASSAIC 'WONDER TEAMS' RAPS THE TEN-SECOND RULE

Newark, N. J., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Ernest A. "Prof." Blood, gray-haired maker of basketball champions, hasn't much use for some of the new rules governing the court game and is especially at odds with the so-called "ten second" provision.

"It takes all the science out of the game," said the chubby little "professor," famed for his state championship teams at St. Benedict's prep school, where he coaches now and for his wonder teams at Passaic high school.

"It makes basketball a game for the big men who can drive their way through to the basket."

The "ten second" rule makes it necessary for the team with the ball to move past mid-court within ten seconds after it gains possession. It further prohibits that team from returning to the back court in the same scoring drive.

Aimed at "stalling" teams, Blood said the rule places a premium on size and hurls the game he has taught to many title-winning teams here and at Passaic. He is a scientific games theorist, today sent to a carefully planned attack that starts deep in the back court and works its way gradually into scoring position. Under his system, the small, fast-breaking player has equal chance with the big fellow as his game depends on fast passing, on foot speed and on the back court.

The veteran coach said the west, "which uses only big men in basketball, forced in the ten second rule and the east let them do it. Doc Meanwell wrote it in after his team had lost two games—both to smart, fast outfits."

McALLISTER LEADING MIAMI GOLF TOURNEY

Miami, Fla., Jan. 5.—(AP)—A sparkling 66, four under par, which tied the course record, today sent Charles McAllister of Forest Hills, L. I., into the lead of the early finishers in the first 18 hole round of the $2,000 Miami open golf tournament.

McAllister carded a pair of 38s which tied the course record hung up last year by John Revoita of Menominee, Mich.

The Long Island pro picked up five birdies on his sensational round, two of which were ducies, and played the remainder of the holes in regulation figure with the exception of the short 180 yard par three 11th, where he missed the green on his tee shot and took a four.

Finishing two strokes farther back was gray-haired 48-year-old Willie Dow of Miami, with a pair of 34s for a 38. Dow collected ten pars and five birdies.

CHARGES DISMISSED

New London, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Charges of smuggling against the eight members of the crew of the schooner Lucia, seized October 28 as a run-runner were dismissed today at a hearing before U. S. Commissioner Russell H. Cochrane here today.

The members of the crew were Peter Bruce of Revere, Mass., John Flaherty of Portland, Me., Amedee Dunn of Cambridge, Mass., Martin Roger of New York, James Martin of Portland and Chester Martin of New York, John Savage of Brooklyn, and W. Dooley of East Boston, Mass.

SCHOOLBOYS SCORE TOUCHDOWN FREAK

New York, Jan. 5.—The outstanding touchdown freak of the 1933 gridiron season was probably pulled off in the Brooklyn Prep-St. John's game here recently.

John O'Brien, of St. John's, attempted a kick from his own 40-yard line. The punt went straight up in the air where it encountered a heavy wind. The wind carried the ball back toward the St. John's goal, landing it on the 5-yard line and blowing it across the goal line.

Charley Luzon, Brooklyn Prep player, fell on the ball for a touchdown.

ANTI-FRENCH TALK AT HOUSE PARLEY

Enlivens Debate Over Tax on Liquor — President Orders Speed.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Anti-French sentiment in the House due to the war debt defaults enlivened today's debate preceding settlement of differences over the almost $500,000,000 bill for liquor taxes.

President Roosevelt, meanwhile, passed the word to the Legislators through a luncheon conference with Senator Lewis (D., Ill.), that he expects Congress to get its work done and be gone by mid-May at the latest. Lewis opined July would be nearer the case.

With the Senate in recess over the week-end, the administration forces among the representatives made short shrift of opposition to the $2 a gallon hard liquor tax, calculated to return $300,000,000 a year to the needy Treasury.

Committees ground out most of the work done on both sides of the Capitol. The Congressional machinery apparently will take a little time to get working in fast style, but the Senate banking committee proceeded smoothly with its long investigation—now dealing with Michigan banks and bankers.

The House ways and means committee decided to take up its income tax tightening bill Tuesday.

The opposition to France was brought up in the House by Representative Kautson (R., Minn.) in a proposal to tax imported sparkling wines and champagne more than the domestic product.

"Do we owe France anything?" he demanded.

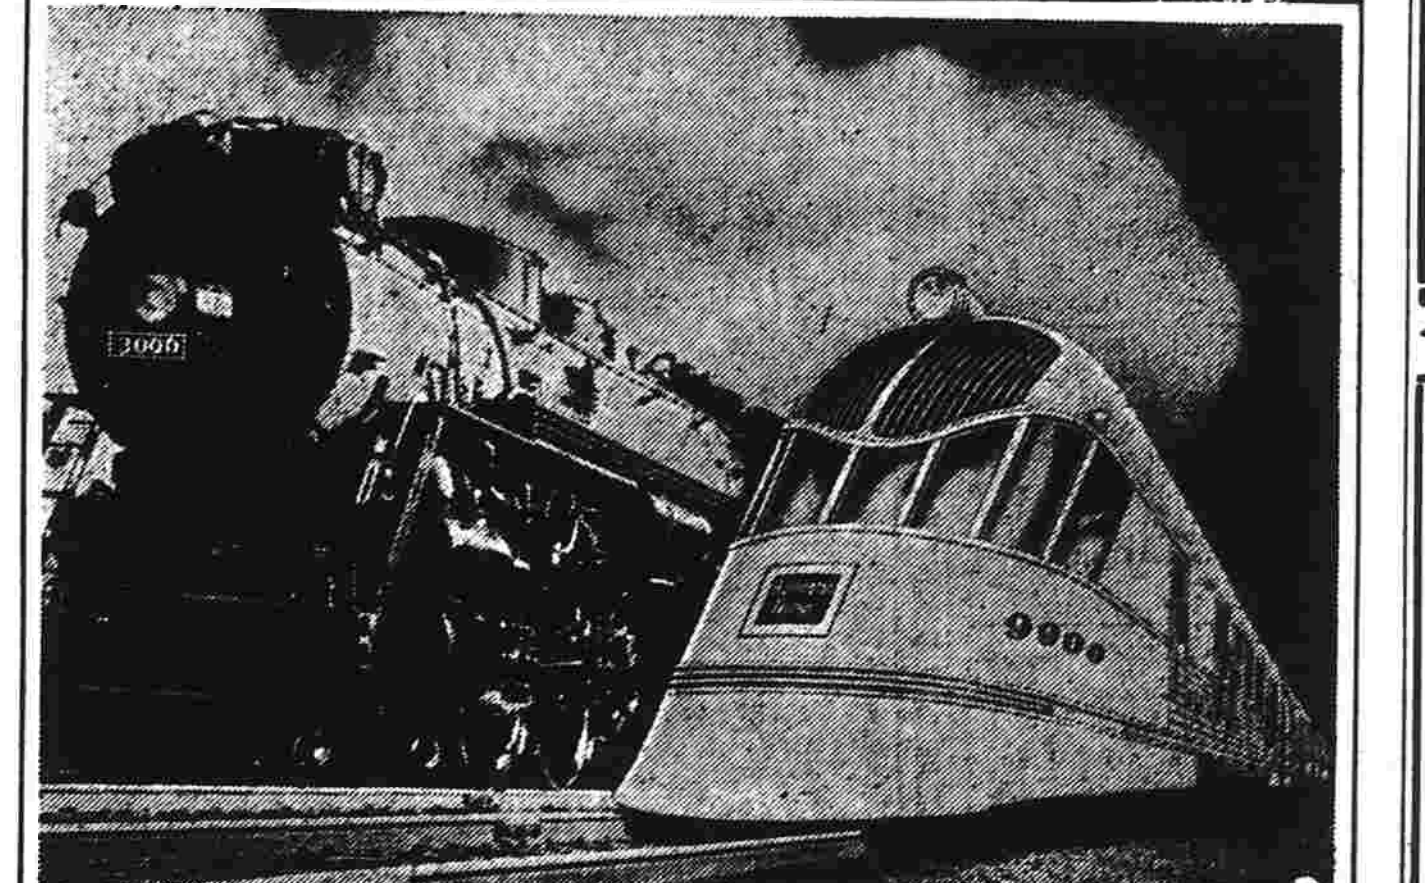

"We let her have four billion dollars and when we want her to continue to pay it, she tells us to go to hell."

Chairman Doughton of the ways and means committee agreed that the debt should be paid, but added that such a "def" embargo on French wines might affect American sales to France.

The House judiciary committee decided to hold hearings January 15, on the Pierce bill to permit dissemination of birth control information.

San Diego, Cal., expended $100,000 to dredge Alexander shoal in the upper San Diego bay to make an anchorage space for cruisers and destroyers.

VETS' PENSIONS ON CWA REDUCED

Men Earning More Than $50 Month Will Be Cut to $6.

Veterans drawing pensions who are employed under the civil works agreement or under the public works agreement, may not receive more than $50 monthly or their pension will be reduced, Capt. Niels I. Poulsen, chairman of the employment committee of the American Legion for New Haven county advised.

The ruling is as follows: "Employment with the civil works program or public works program is considered government employment and if the disabled veteran so employed receives more than $50 in salary or wages for any one month because of such employment, his payment of compensation or pension will be reduced to $6 per month for such period as the salary or wages exceeds $50 per month.

FINANCIERS STUDYING PRESIDENT'S NEW BUDGET

terday had been no increase in the R. F. C. gold price, which had led to renewed rumors in Washington and Wall street during the past week or two of approaching stabilization of the dollar.

President Roosevelt made it clear in his message to Congress on Wednesday, however, that stabilization was at this time impossible, and he again described the administration's monetary policy as "arriving at a medium of exchange which will have over the years less variable purchasing and debt paying power for our people than that of the past."

No Change in Policy There is no indication in Washington that the administration has decided to give up its program of varying the price of gold, as a method of lifting and stabilizing commodity prices, but following the temporary dip of U. S. government bonds in November increases in the gold price have been relatively small, although commodity prices are still far from the frequently suggested objective of the levels of 1928.

Now what the monetary experts wonder is whether the announced necessity of a great market for government bonds to permit borrowing $6,000,000,000 in new funds and refunding present obligations in the aggregate of $4,000,000,000 in the next six months, may tend to push the gold price lifting plan still further into the background.

The administration has made it clear that lifting the gold price is experimental, and is only one of the several forces which it is bringing to bear to restore commodity prices. It has also been explained that the desired commodity price objectives may not be achieved for some time. Monetary experts, furthermore, assume that the government would scarcely ask investors to buy $10,000,000,000 in bonds repayable in dollars of less purchasing power than those raised by the sale of the bonds.

If the gold price raising program were delayed, it is suggested, the government might take care of its more immediate requirements by selling short-term issues. One of the more novel suggestions made was that the government might sell bonds repayable in such a number of dollars as will have the same purchasing power of those paid for the bonds, the number to be determined by the commodity price index at the time the bonds mature. Some bond experts are dubious over that plan, however, suggesting that it is so novel that investors might be wary of it.

One suggestion heard in Wall street is that part of the $6,000,000,000 of additional funds sought by the government during the next six months may be desired to establish a large fund similar to the British equalization fund, to bring the dollar under more definite control. This would be considered a step toward stabilization.

FILENE EULOGIZES RECOVERY PROGRAM

Harry Eaton, of Washington, in a paper on Human Elements in the Recovery Program, said the mainstay of the recovery program at present is the expenditure of government money. He asserted that unless future developments require abandonment of the whole constitutional system, the effort to use the police power as an agency in National planning must be looked on as a passing phase.

"As leaders, the Public Works Administration and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have been sops," he said, "through themselves and the Civil Works Administration, they have been making red headway since the President had given the signal to shoot. The Agricultural Adjustment Administration has shown some pronounced results in certain sections of the country because the money has been given away, not lent."

SEEKS BROADER POWERS TO BATTLE CRIMINALS

ings involving the acquisition of land by the Federal government." Stealing of Autos Cummings did not give additional details as to the legislation he had in mind. It is known, though, that his aides would like to obtain an expansion of the Dyer Act, which makes interstate transportation of automobiles a Federal offense.

They feel, too, that extradition proceedings now are so involved in some instances as to delay if not hamper justice. There has been considerable discussion also of requiring attorneys who plan an alibi defense to submit their contentions to the prosecution before the trial. Various firearms control plans have been advocated, among them by Senator Copeland (D., N. Y.) chairman of the Senate crime investigating committee, under which licensed and Federal records be of scratches left on bullets fired from each weapon. These records, it is argued, would permit future positive identification of the firearm from which any bullet was fired.

Malloy's Statement Included in Cummings' report were statements by heads of sundry Justice Department agencies, among them this from Pat Malloy, resigned assistant attorney general in charge of the criminal division whose place has been taken by Joseph E. Keenan. Malloy said: "It has been the policy to assist state authorities in every manner possible. Marked progress has been made in this connection with so-called racketeering and gangster cases, as well as those involving kidnaping and extortion."

J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the division of investigation, added: "In the past year there have been perhaps more kidnapings than at any prior time, this in the face of the fact that a rather unusual record of crime solutions and swift punishment therefor was achieved by the division." Hoover said that in the last fiscal year, ended June 30, convictions were obtained in 3,896 cases in which his agents performed investigative activities were said to be many, not only because of kidnapings but also because of regulations making gold hoarding illegal. Approximately 10,000 names—500 of them fictitious—of suspected hoarders were given to the division of investigation for investigation.

After Higher Ups The result of concentration against big makers and transporters of illicit liquor, instead of the smaller fry also was shown. The Prohibition Bureau made 75,664 cases for prosecution in the year compared with 90,217 the year before. Federal Court convictions were 52,797 while of 12,975 cases instituted in state courts 10,885 terminated in convictions.

The total of prisoners in Federal institutions at the year end was 13,188, or 1,126 less than the year before. The decrease was attributed to "a change in the attitude of the public toward Federal prohibition and action taken by Congress to broaden the probation system." Included in the report, without comment, was a statement by Chief Justice Hughes on the judicial conference of senior circuit judges held last September summarizing legislative recommendations by that conference, among them one to prevent invalidation of a Grand Jury indictment because one or more jurors is disqualified provided 12 who were qualified concurred.

7 ELECTION CONTESTS ARE BEFORE THE HOUSE

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The House moved today to dispose of election contests involving seven members. Reports on the contests were sent to the House by its clerk, South Trimble. Speaker Rainey referred them to elections committees for consideration. Contests in which testimony already has been taken, Trimble said, were: Chanahan vs. Beck, Second Pennsylvania; LaGuardia vs. Lanzetta, 20th New York; Casey vs. Turpin, Twelfth Pennsylvania.

Trimbale reported also that Loyal G. Reese, who had filed notice of a contest of the election of Russell Ellzey from the Eighth Mississippi District, had withdrawn the contest.

POLISH CHURCH'S 5TH ANNIVERSARY High Goal Set For Mellon Jr.

Plan Observance Sunday In Two Services — Banquet to Be Held.

The Polish National church on Golway street will celebrate its fifth anniversary Sunday at the 10:30 a. m. mass, and at a special meeting to be held at 3 o'clock in the afternoon at Turn Hall, North street. Rev. Peter Latas heads the committee in charge of the program which will consist of music, declamations and speeches appropriate to the occasion. At five o'clock a banquet will be enjoyed in the basement of the hall. Mrs. Frank Rydzewicz and Mrs. Ludwig Sumielauski are serving as co-chairmen and they will be assisted by a large committee from among the men and women of the church. Tickets for the meal are in the hands of the Rev. Latas, and this group as well as in this and surrounding towns a cordial invitation to join with them in observation of this fifth milestone in the life of the church, regardless of whether or not their beliefs coincide with those of the Polish National denomination.

HIGHWAYS OF STATE COVERED WITH ICE

Hartford, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Sliding on heavily iced highways in all parts of the state this morning, Connecticut motorists believe Friday spells bad luck at the wheel. Today, and exactly three weeks ago when a serious ice storm arrived, traffic and especially bus transportation, were affected while state and local road crews spent the early hours sanding hills. Rain and sleet froze on the ground. The worst delay to buses began at 6:45 a. m. on outlying routes. Trolleys were reported to be adhering to schedule. Those of the 800 state highway men who are located near the shore began sanding at midnight, and inland work began at 3 a. m. Windham county is the least affected although ice covers the entire state. With temperatures hovering near the freezing point the ice was softer than three weeks ago, heavy vehicles securing better traction. The mercury at Hartford this morning at 9 o'clock hovered around 30 degrees.

SIAM'S KING TO VISIT AMERICA ON APRIL 16

Bangkok, Siam, Jan. 5.—(AP)—King Pradjitpook's concern over his eyes is the chief reason for the journey he and his Queen will start Jan. 12 to the western world. It was learned today that both the King's eyes are stricken, the right more seriously than the left. Their tentative program in America is as follows: Arrive New York April 16; Visit Washington April 23 to 25; Return to New York April 25 to consult Dr. John M. Wheeler, who operated on the King's left eye three years ago as to whether another operation for the removal of cataracts should be performed. It was understood that the King and Queen have accepted the invitation to be guests at the White House extended by the President and Mrs. Roosevelt, their Majesties will travel incognito as Prince and Princess Sukhodaya and they plan to leave the United States June 22.

BANK DEPOSITORS MEET TONIGHT

To Take Action on Proposed Loan Making 20 P. C. Division Now.

Depositors in the Manchester Trust and Safe Deposit Company, closed since the March 4 bank holiday, will meet tonight in Tinker Hall at eight o'clock to hear the proposal of the State Banking Commissioner that a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation be accepted so that a 20 per cent division of deposits now frozen can be effected.

Up To Depositors Complete arrangements for a loan of $365,000 were made by the State Banking Commissioner's office and by Attorney William J. Shea, chairman of the Depositors' committee last week, but the proposal made by the R. F. C. involved so much detail with regard to repayment that it was thought advisable to put the matter squarely before the depositors. If the $365,000 loan is accepted it may be impossible to realize on the balance of the deposits for a period of from four to five years. However, it is believed in banking circles that the present Congress will take definite action to further relieve closed banks and if so the local situation will be remedied. For that reason it is thought advisable to accept the 20 per cent division now available.

Advices Acceptance Congressman Koppelman in a telegram to his friend, Edward J. Murphy, today expressed himself as being of the opinion that the R. F. C. loan would be of great help to Manchester people if the depositors endorsed the loan proposition.

Congressional Chuckles

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Pettie Mrs. Isabella Greenway, Arizona's new Congresswoman kept a careful lookout for even the smallest signs and arrows during her meanderings today about the Capitol. Yesterday she got lost in the intricate system of corridors and spent so much time, trying to find the meeting room she was half an hour late to a silver caucus of intermountain representatives. Bewildered tourists sympathized.

Leader of the Republican debate on the liquor tax bill before the House, Representative Crowther of New York allowed himself two minutes to speak. The gavel banged; time was up.

RAIN AND SLEET IMPEDE TRAVEL

Walking and Motoring Are Treacherous — One Serious Accident.

Rain that started during the night and froze as it fell, turned to sleet at 6 this morning, changed again to rain at 10 and covered the ground with a treacherous coating of ice which made both walking and motoring hazardous. Indication of the coming storm appeared last night when the weather moderated after a penetrating cold yesterday that did not however approach the zero mark within 22 degrees.

Travel Dangerous Sidewalks and streets all over Manchester today were glazed with ice, and one had to be extremely careful to avoid a fall. Motorists also had to drive slowly because of the danger of skidding. Ephraim Cole, of 10 West Middle Turnpike, was badly injured this morning when the Pinehurst delivery car in which he was riding was struck by a trolley car on Center street. It is believed that the sleet covering the windshield and the front glass of the trolley car obscured the vision of the auto driver and the trolley operator.

Street department employees, regularly employed by the town, were on the job again today sanding the streets about the community. Particular attention was paid to the hillside streets. Merchants in the downtown section at an early hour had the sidewalks made safe with liberal spreadings of sand and ashes.

No Other Injuries At the Manchester Memorial hospital it was reported that no persons had been treated for injuries from falls during the day. CWA workers were recalled from duty today because the rain and sleet made work on the roads and in the woods practically impossible. Checks for this week's work will be distributed Saturday by Town Treasurer George H. Waddell.

COURT SETS THE DATE FOR KAMINSKI'S TRIAL

Springfield, Mass., Jan. 5.—(AP)—Three men charged with first degree murder were arraigned in superior court today and pleaded not guilty. They are Alexander Kaminski, 24 of New Britain, Conn., and Paul Wargo, 21, of Wallingford, Conn., indicted for killing Merritt W. Hayden, a county jail guard last October at the time of their escape from jail, and Joseph Zygarowski of Chicago. The last named is charged with murdering his wife with an axe ten years ago.

The trial of Kaminski and Wargo was set for Feb. 26. The golden wedding anniversary party of Mr. and Mrs. William Perrin in Long Beach, Cal., was attended by Mrs. Perrin's parents, who have been married 69 years.

FEARS A. A. PLAN WILL HIT DAIRIES

Vermont Governor Sees Danger Ahead for New England If Put in Operation.

Worcester, Mass., Jan. 5.—(AP)—"There is danger for New England farmers in the present situation at Washington, if provisions for the dairy business are forced upon them which would help the middle western farmers at their expense," Gov. Stanley C. Wilson of Vermont said today at the meeting of the Massachusetts Dairyman's Association.

"Up-to-date most of the operations of the A. A. A. have resulted in injury to our New England farmers," said Gov. Wilson. "They are entitled to some consideration, when they ask for help in the milk market. No Surplus Here "There is talk of surplus production of dairy products. It is said that New England has too many cows. In fact, New England farmers do not have enough to provide milk, cream and butter for their own natural markets. Great quantities of butter, cream, condensed milk and powdered milk are shipped into our New England from other states. If New England products could only have preference in New England markets one great trouble of our farmers would be ended.

"It is now proposed, I understand, that farmers be required to kill off a certain percentage of their cows, and be paid for such cows by a processing tax. This is a measure of very questionable wisdom, aside from its Socialist characteristics, as it would justify bringing in western milk and cream. It may be well to cull our herds. But it is difficult to lift ourselves by our bootstraps. "We must stimulate the sale of milk and cream." By cutting nine miles from the highway between San Francisco and Los Angeles the highway department eliminated 539 curves.

ROCKVILLE LENGTH OF $5,000 LAW SUIT DELAYS DECISION

Whole Day Taken Up Hearing
Testimony in Action of Collins vs. Blonstein Brothers.

After a whole day had been taken up in the hearing of testimony, the $5,000 lawsuit of Frank D. Collins, of Brookline, Mass., against Reubin Blonstein and Joseph Blonstein of Rockville, remained unsettled.

Judge Frank P. McEvoy, of Waterbury, presiding at the winter term of the Tolland County Court, being held in Rockville, completed the hearing of the testimony at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

At the request of the court, the attorneys are to present their arguments before Tuesday next, in writing, after which Judge McEvoy will render a verdict.

This case is the outgrowth of an automobile accident at North Haven, December 22, 1932, at which time a coal truck, owned by one of the Blonstein brothers, struck the Pontiac sedan owned by Frank P. Collins and the sedan and injuring Mr. Collins.

Edward Mandell, of Hartford, a civil engineer, presented a large map of the section of North Haven where the accident occurred.

Frank D. Collins, a salesman of the firm of Connelly & Collins, dealers in ladies coats, testified at length regarding the accident.

Collins told how he had seen a sign on the roadside in North Haven, reading "eggs for sale" and was turning in a driveway when his car was struck by the Blonstein truck. He was injured in the spine and head by the force of the impact.

Dr. Edward F. Ormsby, a surgeon of Worcester, Mass., who is visiting surgeon at Cambridge Memorial hospital, testified to treating Collins December 23, 1932 at his home and finding injuries to his back and head. He treated him some eleven times.

William R. Rowe, an exporter at North Haven, also testified as to the accident, as his place of business is located across the road from where the accident occurred. He stated that the truck had not turned out of its course it would not have struck the Collins automobile.

Defense heard Joseph Blonstein, 19, testified as the first defendant, stating that December 22, 1932 he owned the Reo two ton coal truck which he purchased for $150 from Henry Hiller of Hartford, March 5, 1931.

He was also operating the truck when it was involved in the accident and was on his way to New York City to trade the truck in for a new one. Garage markers were on the truck at the time.

Reubin Blonstein, an older brother, testified as to riding to New York with his brother Joseph. He told of securing the registration for the truck and garage for the trip. He also testified as to asking Collins after the accident, "What did you want to do, commit suicide?"

William V. Badack, secretary of the State of Assessors, testified as to the Reo truck being registered in the name of Reubin Blonstein and assessed in his name on the town books.

This completed the testimony and, as it was 4:30 o'clock, Judge McEvoy made the request to have the arguments submitted in writing.

Both attorneys agreed to have the arguments ready by next Tuesday.

The second case scheduled for yesterday was that of Joseph Malava vs. Frank Modarsky and Sophie Modarsky, which was continued until next Tuesday due to the length of time required by the first case.

Five Jury Cases Five jury cases have been assigned for next Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, at which time the jury panel of 18 will be present. This is the largest number of cases to be assigned for one session for jury trial in Rockville for several years.

The jury cases will be heard as follows: Lewis H. Chapman vs. Harold R. Schiele; Henry Holley, a miner, vs. Earl Berger and others; James W. Lutz vs. Frank W. Lutz; Charles Louis Franke vs. John Adamson; Rosa Wilson vs. The J. Newberry Company.

Four civil cases have been assigned to follow the jury cases for next week. No date has yet been set for the next short calendar but one is expected next Friday morning.

Distribute New Bank Stock The shareholders of the former Rockville National Bank, now known as the "Rockville Branch" of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company, received notice yesterday that they were to receive new shares of stock in the Hartford-Connecticut Trust Company on January 23, by surrendering their stock of the Hartford-Connecticut Company.

The corporate existence of the Hartford-Connecticut Company will be terminated January 18 and a special dividend will be payable the day previous, January 15.

A consideration of this stock is now owned in Rockville as the former 19 directors of the Rockville National Bank were the only ones holding the original stock of the local bank. This was a necessity under the law. All other stockholders in 1929 received shares of the Hartford-Connecticut Company in exchange for the Rockville National Bank stock.

No changes have yet been made in the personnel of the "Rockville Branch" but several have been contemplated in the immediate future. The only outward change is the charging of a fee for the cashing of checks for non-residents drawn on non-resident banks. This fee amounts to one-tenth of one percent with a minimum of ten cents.

The cases were disposed of as follows: number discharged, 38; number of x-rays taken, 22; number of accidents, 17; number of births during the month, five; number of operations, seven; largest number treated in any one day, 18; smallest number treated in any one day, six; daily average, 10.

A very interesting program has been arranged for the occasion, including selections by William Lester, G. F. Handel, J. S. Bach, R. S. Stoughton, Richard Wagner, Edward Sturges, Will C. MacFarlane and others.

Mrs. Sarah E. Read Mrs. Sarah E. (Guy) Read, 69, wife of Ashur Read, died at her home on Lawrence street on Wednesday night. Death was caused by complications following a short illness.

Mrs. Read was born in Jewett City and has lived in Rockville for over a quarter of a century. She is survived by her husband, Ashur Read, two sons, Nelson and Ernest Read, both of Rockville; a brother, Robert Guy of Jewett City, and four sisters, Miss Isabel Guy, Miss Annie Guy, Mrs. Royal Dearland, all of Jewett City and Mrs. Robert Woodworth of Providence, R. I. The funeral will be held in Jewett City.

William Richards, 63, of Brooklyn street, died last Wednesday afternoon after a short illness. Death was caused by complications following a short illness. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anne Higgins Richards. He was a member of the Rockville Painters' Union and the Norwalk Lodge of Red Men.

The funeral will be held from the Quish Funeral Home on Park Street Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Bernard's Catholic church at 9 o'clock. Rev. George W. Simeon, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Following the meeting, refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Elmer Thoren, chairman; Miss Sigrid Freeburg, John E. Johnson, Trustees for three years; Carl E. Thoren, Manager of the degree team; Arvid Gustafson, Assistant Master of Ceremonies, and Erik Modan, auditor to Hall Association Svea.

The Follies will be staged under the supervision of Manager Hoover of the State theater and will be given as an added attraction to the regular show. Mr. Hoover would like all children who are interested in singing, dancing or who play any musical instrument to report at the State theater tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

NEW YORK AUTO SHOW WILL OPEN TOMORROW

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—"Plink tail cars—tear drop cars—snow shoe cars—cars that bend their knees—cars that shoot ahead as smoothly as a grape being squeezed out of its skin."

All these and more are being arranged for the 44th annual National Auto Show, which opens tomorrow in Grand Central Palace.

The accent this year is on streamlining. Engineers found icebergs, moving through water, are round in front, pointed behind—like a snow shoe or a fish. Another school of thought favors more favorable lines. Everything looks faster, smoother.

The show, put on by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, represents an industry which in 1933 produced goods with a wholesale value of $1,400,000,000. It will be open all next week.

Scandia Lodge Installs Newly Elected Officers and Hears Annual Reports.

A total of $2,513.50 was paid out in sick benefits to members by Scandia Lodge, No. 23, Order of Vasa, during the year 1933. It was reported last night when the newly elected officers of the lodge, headed by Elmore Anderson as president, were installed at a meeting in Orange Hall. The lodge, which has a membership of 390 and assets of $11,967.59, also donated $370 to the Swedish Relief Fund during the year.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Chicago—The allegation was made in a divorce petition that Patrick Linton left his wife, Mary, 61 times since they were married in 1925, but that each time she permitted him to come back and be reconciled.

Mrs. Linton, however, was not the plaintiff. It was Patrick who sued and he charged cruelty.

Engelwood, Col.—It seems that Davy Jones' parrot can tell good liquor from bad.

Sparks, the 30 odd year old bird, enjoyed a regular whiskey diet when Jones sailed the sea. When prohibition came, Jones offered Sparks a drink of moon. For three days the bird was as seasick as any land-lubber. Never again would he touch a drink. After repeal, Jones bought a bottle of legal liquor. Sparks gave a parrot's imitation of a lip smacking scene and asked for more.

Oklahoma City—State Bank Commissioner W. J. Barnett, said "Kingfish" his dog, to go to the front porch of his home and bring in the morning paper. Now, says Barnett, "Kingfish" goes about the neighborhood collecting newspapers from the porches. The commissioner returns them.

Seattle—A holdup pair accosted M. A. Rider, 29. Rider handed over a $20 bill, a five and two ones—complaining it was all he had.

"We aren't the kind of guys that would take a man's last dollar," one of the robbers said. "Here, take this."

He handed Rider one of the bills. Rider looked at it, when he got home. It was the $20.

Denver—Through the courtesy of President Roosevelt and the cooperation of Denver Knights of Columbus, a little orphan girl is slipping about with a song in her heart and a belated Christmas gift on her bureau. When the Knights of Columbus Santa Claus asked 12 year old Dorothy St. Clair what she wanted for Christmas, she said a picture "of our good President."

Brockfield, Conn.—Spring L near! Or maybe this bird forgot it was winter.

Mrs. Harry Tucker discovered a robin among the chickadees, sparrows and starlings that come to her yard daily for food.

Phila. Inphs.—Constable John McDonough served summonses on eleven store managers in adjacent Upper Darby. Eleven store managers chorused "baloney!"

Several weeks ago the same constable had given them all "summons" which turned out to be a stratagem to get them to a Boosters' meeting.

But McDonough gets the last laugh in court today. The State Labor Department has accused each manager of overworking women employees.

Fergus Falls, Minn.—Joseph Pollock's story of using moonshine as a body "ub for his livestock" court and he was fined $200.

Charged with concealing liquor without a revenue tax, Pollock told Judge M. M. Joyce his 13-year-old daughter found the five-gallon crock of "moon" in a brush pile and that he hid it in a hayloft for use in case his 24 head of cattle needed a rub down.

St. Paul—There's going to be a $5 "service charge" hereafter for all first offense drunks appearing in local municipal court.

Judge Clayton Parks said that effectively today he would impose the charge.

PITTSBURGH TAKES UP CWA OFFER OF ARTISTS

Pittsburgh, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Mottor and Goose sold fairy tale pictures for CWA artists assigned to paint panels for the Little Red School House, but more sophisticated motifs will guide the brushes of CWA artists assigned to paint panels for Pittsburgh schools.

"The men will try to make an artistic interpretation of school activity," says Elmer Stephan, director of art education in the city schools.

He discloses that Lee McQuaide, widely known Pittsburgh artist, will do a two-part panel for the Board of Education's administration building—one portraying "the older type of education restricted to a few," the other depicting the "modern type of education for all."

Of one to be done by Henry Moser, Stephan says: "Here in Pittsburgh we have high schools and universities that are the preparation ground for thousands of potential workers. His picture will show the students coming from the schools to absorption in many lines of industry."

Six other assignments are to be made and while the panels will not be murals in the strict sense of the word, they will attach to the walls with a special moulding that will give them mural appearance.

Rich Couple Receives Note From Kidnapers

Boston, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Threats to kidnap the children of Mr. and Mrs. William Payson Viles, 800 Park avenue, New York, were made recently, it became publicly known today. The Viles are prominent in New York, Boston and Augusta, Me., social circles.

The threat was said to have been made while Mrs. Viles was confined in a New York maternity hospital and demanded payment of $20,000. The Viles defied the command and informed the Department of Justice, Bureau of Criminal Investigation.

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—William Payson Viles acknowledged today that a threatening letter was received by him recently, but he declined to give any details.

"A letter of demand was received some weeks ago, which letter was placed in the hands of the proper authorities," Viles said.

He declined to discuss the case further, referring all questions to his attorney.

Viles and his wife, who live in Augusta, Maine, are in New York spending some weeks at the home of Mrs. Viles' mother at 800 Park avenue.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 5,

THE BUDGET SHOCK

There is nothing either surprising or frightening about the proposed federal budget. Even so conservative a Republican senator as Mr. Reed of Pennsylvania accepts the news without a tremor and says
 the country is "perfectly able to endure a debt as large as $31,000,- 000,000." As a matter of fact the total accumulated debt of the nation, according to the administration's figures, will be, in 1934, somewhat less than it had been planned to expend in carrying on the late World War during the single year of 1919.

The real shock comes not from the size of the proposed recovery expenditures but from the manner in which it is proposed to finance them. The administration, it appears, is going to borrow itself out of debt. Instead of taking advantage of its opportunity to issue gold backed Treasury notes to an amount sufficient to finance this whole recovery undertaking, it is going to let the banks print the money rather than print it itself, and then pay
 the banks four or five hundred millions a year in interest for the use of the money it authorized them to manufacture.

The significance of this bonding proposal, in its illumination of President Roosevelt's monetary principles, is enormous. Those who feared that we might be facing something very like a revolution in monetary reform may set their minds at rest. Those who hoped that we might be entering upon such a period will find themselves bitterly disappointed. It is perfectly clear, from this determination to finance the recovery job in such a way that the banks will eventually sop up pretty much all of the gravy,
 that nothing is going to be changed importantly—not, that is, through any initiative of the President or the Treasury Department.

What Congress may have to say about this proposal to let the banks instead of the government run the printing presses, at a total profit of many billions, remains to be seen.

PICKING FOR CWA

It is a matter of no difficulty to understand why the federal CWA
 does not leave to local authorities
 the full choice of work projects and the number of men to be employed on each and all of them, because any such system as that would merely run wild, of course. It is also comprehensible why the CWA should make its own rules as to the classes of persons to be employed on the projects for which it is paying and should specify certain evidences of the condition and necessities of the beneficiaries. But when it comes to making the individual selections, the actual picking of the men who are to be put to work—which unescapably involves also picking those who must be disappointed—it is impossible to see why this should be done by some out-of-town official who certainly has neither the time nor the opportunity to learn the particulars of each case.

It is not to be wondered at that there should be, with such a system
 in effect, a very general suspicion that the selection of those to be given jobs is not wholly free from partisan politics. While a state unemployment director cannot possibly give the time to find out whether Jack Smith or Jim Jones of Manchester is in the greater need of a CWA job, it would be very easy to have it so arranged that by reference to a little list he could ascertain whether Smith or Jones was a Democrat or a Republican.

It may be that no such policy has ever intruded into the selection of CWA workers. On the other hand, if there is no such policy, where is the possible advantage in having the job-getters picked by anybody

 but the local CWA board?
 Surely a group of Manchester's citizens, selected with a view to their fitness for this responsible work, is better qualified to ascertain the most needy and the most deserving of federal aid than some bureaucrat who likely enough never saw the town in his life and knows nobody in it but, possibly, a politician or two.

BECK'S NEW JOB

It is not surprising that Senate
 friends of wild life conservation should be protesting to President Roosevelt against the action of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace in creating a new committee to supervise a nation-wide plan of promotion and protection.

There are already several such bodies in existence, headed by such experienced and devoted wild life conservationists as our own Senator Walcott and Senator Pittman of Nevada, but apparently Secretary
 Wallace was not even aware of it.

Thomas H. Beck of Wilton, this state, publisher of Collier's Weekly and for several years chairman of the Connecticut Commission on Fisheries and Game, has been made head of the new committee. His record as a game conservationist is not very long. If he runs his federal committee as he has run the Connecticut fish and game board
 the results should be interesting,
 at least.

Mr. Beck, if we recall correctly, did not approve of a proposal to lower the cost of angling licenses
 during the depression; they are now three times as expensive as they were a few years ago; but he did conceive the brilliant idea of establishing a state preserve, with a salar-ized woman game warden, for the exclusive use of women fly casters—
 of whom, outside of a little society
 group down around Greenwich,
 there might possibly have been six in the state. Part of the angler's $3.35 goes to the support of that unique and extremely classy enterprise.

What Mr. Beck will think of in the way of providing entertainment for the "Park Avenue set," with the whole country and the United States Treasury at this disposal, we have haven't the slightest idea. That it will be something very swanky and expensive, however, is a good bet.

TWO KINDS OF STICKERS

Representatives of thirty-three dry organizations—the same thirty-three who used to declare that they commanded the support of more than half the voters in the country —have been holding a convention in Washington. They adopted a resolution declaring that prohibition as a political issue has not been repealed. It says:

The delegates to the conference
 are of the unanimous conviction that the prohibition of alcoholic liquor was the greatest political and patriotic experiment ever undertaken by this nation and the most noble in motive—more so even than that which was launched in 1776.

If that isn't sticking to your guns, even though the guns be spiked and thrown overboard in half a mile of sea water, we don't know what is.
 The only people comparable to the prohibitionists, for hanging onto an idea despite it being blown into the middle of the next century, are those equally tenacious individuals who continue to shout for the restoration of the gold standard.

JIMMIE BANK

Every national bank and every state bank which is a member of the Federal Reserve System, and, in addition to these, seven thousand non-member banks, have come in under the deposits insurance plan.
 One bank, obligated by the terms of its charter and by the law to join the Deposit Insurance Corporation, has refused to do so. Just one bank in the whole United States.
 That one is the First National Bank of Englewood, Ill.

The officials declare that it is an injustice to assess their bank for the purpose of insuring deposits in banks less ably managed.

The First National Bank of Englewood is not, perhaps, the biggest bank in America nor is Englewood
 a very big town—just a suburb of Chicago—but the directors of that institution have given the country an heroic example of following the theory of rugged individualism to its logical conclusion.

Ten thousand other banks wrong, one bank right! They're all out of step but Jimmie!

ANTARCTICA

This Antarctic continent toward which two American expeditions are now making their way wasn't always as tough a spot as it is now.
 After all, despite the excellent dramatization the Byrd expeditions have received, Antarctica isn't altogether unknown. For quite a number of years various expeditions have visited the polar continent and have done more or less poking around down there for facts.

 One of the things they have found is coal—lots of it. One forty foot seam is known to be a hundred miles long. That means that forests once stood, and for many centuries, on the spot where the coal now lies.
 Fossils of trees a foot or two thick have been found. All of which would indicate that time was when the South Pole—or what is now the South Pole—would have made, in all likelihood, a first class summer resort.

Anyhow, if the Byrd and Ellsworth expeditions don't get where they are going pretty soon they may find their way blocked not by ice
 but by whaling ships, of which it has been reported that no less than a hundred were outfitting for the season at Capetown a short time ago.

A good many of these whalers are Norwegian and a good many of them are British. For several years expeditions from both Great Britain and Norway have been charting the Antarctica shores and off-shore waters for the benefit of their whaling industries.

The first thing we know, exploring in Antarctica is likely to be about as lonely and heroic an activity as rallying forth to discover Coney Island on Memorial Day.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Distillers Fined by Close Inspection . . . Free Cheese Gets the Publicity . . . We Keep Our Yankee Habits . . . Fear Sabotage in Soviet and U. S. Relations . . .

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 5.—When you expect to return as a popular hero, it's disconcerting to be treated as an ex-convict.

Distillers are disconcerted. The administration has turned a cold, fishy eye upon them, refusing to treat them as an ordinary industry.

They grumble and gripe, but dare not protest seriously. They know it will be just too bad if they don't behave properly.

The code imposes federal supervision over prices, production, and distribution. Government has virtual "life and death" power.

Distilling is the one industry
 thus far subject to quality and labeling standards federally imposed. It probably will have to submit, on the bottle how much raw alcohol and water it uses in its blends.

Finally the liquor business becomes the one industry to be laid open officially to foreign competition. Enthusiastic pushers of foreign trade will swap exports of pork and other farm products for Scotch or Irish whiskey and other foreign alcohols.

We can't sell abroad if we don't buy. That's officially admitted
 now. Trouble has been to find types of imports which wouldn't raise a terrible howl from domestic industries.

Well, the "beat minds" finally found one. They think the distillers can consider themselves
 lucky, whatever happens.

Goos Over Strong
 The best way for an industry to make a hit here is to bring free samples.

The cheese industry knew that obtaining enormously valuable free publicity for "National Cheese Week," Mrs. Roosevelt, finding herself with a pill of cheese, announced that cheese
 would be served at the White House all week.

Even the supreme court, invited for dinner, would be eating it. And a group of senators was delighted to be photographed with a huge slab of free camembert.

Keep Our Yankee Ways
 "We're still Yankee traders," grinned President Roosevelt when asked if we would "export" foreign markets for farm products in return for promises to let in foreign liquor quotas.

Fear Monkey Wrenches
 Whispered charges of sabotage against Russian-American relations are going the rounds. Some officials who lived through 15 years of non-recognition, absorbing and nourishing the anti-Soviet attitude, aren't reconciled.

You can get bets in the State Department that there'll be a
 "Riga-trained" consul and diplomats within six months and that relations will be broken off by 1936.

Ambassador Bullitt has been warned not to overload the foreign service in Russia with
 "Riga-trained" consuls and diplomats. For years the department has rotated young men through Riga, taught them the Russian language and schooled them on Russian affairs in preparation for possible recognition.

Friends of Russia here regard
 most of them as "poisoned."

Warren Delano Robbins, handsome minister to Canada and second cousin of the president, was making a speech at Queen's University —which gave him a degree—when a messenger told him his garage and automobile were burning.

"The bonfire probably is in celebration of the ceremony
 here," he said—and continued.
 He got a big head on that.

PAIN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, Jan. 5.—Earl Carroll,
 as is his custom, passed a questionnaire among the chorus girls in "Murder at the Vanities" the other day, and the returns are no less delightful than usual. Practically all of them this year declare an ambition to become dramatic actresses, a trend doubtless traceable to the fact that the introduction of a murder in the usual Vanities has given them their first taste of melodrama.

One girl's ambition, though, is simply "to always look my best."
 Lovely Villa Mill wants to "marry and have a dozen children." Altera Kerwin confesses that she hopes to marry a rich man. Pretty Anne Rothey says she wants to become an Eleanor Duse, a Pavlova, or a "successful parasite."

Asked to list her favorite ten books, Miss Rothey was completely by high-brow and named "Jurgen,"
 "Penguin Island," "Schopenhauer's Essays," and the poems of Swinburne and Byron. Miss Rothey is from Boston. . . . Ruth Hilliard dismissed the question with a flourish;
 she merely wrote Shakespeare's words, "I am a woman, I admit, with blunt honesty, "I can't remember the different names."

Fame Just Eludes Him
 Great fame has come very close to Edward J. McNamara. About as close as some of the bullets which were shot at him when he was a cop in Paterson, N. J. He is just as happy now that he was missed by fame as well as by bullets.

Mr. McNamara is appearing in the musical comedy called "Hold Your Horses," which has started a gallop around the province. He has a secondary role, that of a New York political boss of the nineties,
 and he sings a song.

About 20 years ago, in addition to being a Paterson patrolman, he was an Elk, and a great favorite at smokers and home-talent shows.
 The town decided to stage a music festival one spring, and engaged Mrs. Schumann-Heink as the guest star. Then it discovered that there was no money left to hire other artists, and so rather in desperation, McNamara was begged to fill in.

After the concert, when he had taken bows side by side with Mrs.
 Schumann-Heink, she declared that he had the best voice of any American she ever had heard, and that she was going to take him on a tour.
 Caruso For Teacher

At the end of the season he was back at the Elks' Club, no longer a cop but now a celebrity. One day a friend, Senator William Hughes (Woodrow Wilson's backer) called McNamara over to New York to settle a bet. He had mentioned to another friend, a hotel manager,
 that he knew the world's best tenor.
 The hotel man laughed and said the world's best tenor was staying right in his hotel. The three of them went up to a room and McNamara was dumbfounded to find himself in the presence of Enrico Caruso. The great man commanded his guest to sing. The former cop warbled a song from "Faust"; then at Caruso's insistence sang it twice more.

Caruso announced solemnly that this was the best voice he had ever heard in America.

And who was McNamara's teacher? McNamara never had a teacher. This pleased Caruso more than ever because he had been skeptical of teachers ever since one had advised him in his youth to take up bricklaying.

Caruso became McNamara's
 teacher however; gave him lessons for seven months before he had to return to Europe.

After the war McNamara began singing again and was backed by Otto Kahn for several months while being groomed for a Metropolitan audition. The Met turned him down, though, and the expoliceman went on the stage, singing in some roles, acting in others. Four years ago he acted the part of the cop in "Ethel Dishonorable," but almost was fired during rehearsals because the author protested that McNamara didn't know how a cop should act.

McNamara is very fond of the stage, and glad of the occasional periods of leisure afforded by his relative mediocrity as a performer.
 He gave him a chance to loaf around the Elks' Club in Paterson, and to assist at benefits to swell
 the pension fund of the police force.

 other day—and attended on crutches.

DIZZINESS

When you are dizzy, objects near you seem to be whirling around, the floor tilts under your feet and you have a disagreeable sensation of falling. While dizziness may last for only a second, a severe attack is usually accompanied by other symptoms such as black spots before the eyes and a sickened feeling at the pit of the stomach.

A temporary dizziness may follow looking down from a height, or a scare which startles you or may be due to being rapidly turned around. The dizziness which is of interest to most of us is that due to an abnormal condition in the body and is of the type which often returns, so that the patient suffers from dizzy spells at various times.

So many causes of dizziness exist,
 that it is impossible to tell what the exact cause may be in any particular case without knowing more than the fact that the patient becomes dizzy. I do not encourage my readers to try to diagnose the cause of their attacks for themselves, but advise them to have an examination made by a doctor who is best able to find out why the dizziness is appearing and whether it is a serious symptom or whether it is of little meaning and will be cured by simple treatment.

In today's article I will discuss some of the common causes of dizziness. Most causes of vertigo come from some trouble in the digestive organs, including the stomach, intestines, liver or gall-bladder. As you know, when you have a "sick" stomach or you are bilious, you are likely to become dizzy and when the body is poisoned from impurities absorbed from the large intestine, the same symptom may occur. In all of these conditions, wastes are carried in the blood until they reach the brain, where they act upon the brain centers which help you to keep your balance. The centers are temporarily jangled and you become confused regarding the relationship between your body and the objects near you.

In maintaining your balance there must be at all times a close coordination between several different parts; for example, news flashes from the eye tell the brain how close you are to bumping into an object nearby; another news flash from the ear, in which is located your chief organ of equilibrium, tells your brain if you are leaning to one side;

and thousands of messages are flashing in from the nerves in your legs, arms and trunk, giving instant information as to your position and whether you are walking, standing and so on. The brain fits all of these news flashes together and you keep your balance. However, during the attack of dizziness, all of this precise timing is disturbed and you lose your balance. You feel as though you are lurching, reeling or swaying.

From what I have said about the part played by the eye and ear you will readily understand that in order to keep your balance the messages from these organs must correct. In diseased conditions, the messages may become distorted and produce dizziness. When vertigo is due to ear disorders, it is often associated with ringing noises; when due to eye defects, it may be completely overcome when the eyes are correctly fitted with glasses.

Dizziness is a common symptom
 in the following disorders: high blood pressure, low blood pressure, hardening of the arteries, and anemia may be present in gallbladder trouble and heart disease.
 Toxic vertigo may occur when the body is poisoned by alcohol or quinine or during the systemic toxemia present during acute diseases.

If you are troubled with dizziness,
 I would advise you to use a cleaning diet and to avoid constipation to see if this brings about an improvement. If these measures do not completely cure you, have your eyes tested as you may need glasses.
 When the dizziness persists after the dietetic treatment and after the eyes are tested, it is wise to consult a doctor who is good at diagnosing and have him tell you what disease is causing your attacks of vertigo.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Baby's Weight)
 Question: Mrs. W. W. Allen: "What should my baby weigh now? At birth he weighed 7 1/2 pounds and is now ten months old and when I weighed him this morning he tipped
 the scales at 19 1/2 pounds."

Answer: According to the weight tables for healthy babies, your baby is exactly the right weight. However, it is a good plan not to depend too much on such tables as if the baby is healthy and contented it is all right for him to weigh a little less than the table requires. From now on he will gain about one pound
 a month.

(Ingrown Toenail)
 Question: Alice M. writes: "I am getting an ingrown toenail. Will you please tell me how to prevent its getting any worse?"

Answer: Any chiropodist can treat your toenail and show you how to make it grow into normal shape.
 One method of treatment is to shave
 the nail in the center so the edges will be encouraged to grow toward the center, making the nail more narrow. Ask your chiropodist to show you how to use this method of treatment.

New York, Jan. 5.—Since 1927 when Gene Tunney retired after knocking old Tom Heenan's eye-brows down on his chest, the heavyweight prize ring has been largely a parade of in-and-outers. The outlook for 1934 isn't much more brilliant than it was for the Midville nine that day Casey took his cuts at the empty air.

Names with which cauliflower critics have become all too familiar during the last six years still remain in the first flight on heavens. Primo Carners is champion, but would you bet your shirt on him—even that one with the helicopter stripes that Santa Claus brought? Max Baer must be ranked next, and he looks to be a sure pipe to take Carners, but I'd bet another you just never know about.

Going on down the line through Levinsky, Loughran, Schmeling and Sharkey there appear to be no surprises at least not happy ones. Levinsky outpointed Sharkey somewhat recently but he also managed to lose to Ritko and Loughran in 1933. Loughran beat Sharkey, but he too was licked by Ritko. Ritko, in turn, lost to Patry Perroni and Gypsy Daniels.

Of all these the record of Schmeling seems most respectable. He was knocked out by Baer and he recently but he also managed to acquire a few speed either with hand or foot.

Neusel is a young giant from Germany, former amateur champion and winner of more than half of his forty odd bouts by knock-out. He started his American career by knocking out Stanley Forada and Les Kennedy, two better than average trial horses.

One of these four may change in 1934 what has been a very dull picture. At any rate they still must be regarded as "promising comers," which is something.

Married Flirts

MABEL McELLIOTT

REGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married in a simple ceremony in a suburb of New York on the same day that LILA ROTALING and DEREK BLISS marry with pomp and circumstance in the city's most fashionable church.

October, Gypsy thought, was exhilarating in the city. It was a season, it held a mood, which belonged to Fifth Avenue, with its well-dressed women, its alluring displays behind plate glass windows.

They had decided against living in a made-over "walk-up," as those apartments which have been wrestled from the interior of stately old brown-stone fronts are called in Manhattan.

Their own particular cubbyhole consisted of two rooms, a living room and bedroom, and a kitchen and bath. The kitchen, in that quaint fashion known peculiarly to the New York apartment dweller, opened directly on the entrance hall, and the upper half of the door was a glass door.

The whole place was finished pleasantly and inspired in a cream-colored plaster, marked off by imitation paneling. Gypsy, used to the faded papers and liver-colored paint of the house in Blue Hills, thought it very modern and restful.

"Isn't it perfect?" Gypsy, her brown curls tucked back, a smudge on her charming nose, her frock completely hidden by a coverall of blue linen, demanded approval of her labors. The little room shone with cleanliness and fresh paint and good will.

"Later, of course," Gypsy planned, "we'll get some deep chairs and some rugs. We simply can't manage them yet—and what does it matter?"

Tom, who had been hanging pictures, stepped down from his stool to embrace her. What a darling she was, how good, and brave and beautiful! Why, she might have had everything, this girl, and she had chosen instead to link her way with him! He couldn't believe in his luck, quite yet.

"You'll have to get some sort of part-time maid," Tom told her, firmly. "You can't work all day with those kids and come home to beds and dishes."

"We'll see about that," Gypsy said. But privately she was sure she was equal to anything. Let's see... she got $28 a week at the Settlement, and Tom's salary was $75 now. He'd had to take two reductions. That was more than $100 a week. It seemed riches to the girl.

Tea Time

If I should buy a frosted cake And brew the tea until Its aromatic fragrance climbed Across the window-sill—

And if I left the curtains wide, Do you suppose he'd see That I'm dressed up for company, And come to call on me?

the bedroom. She loved every inch of it, from the green and white counterpane, reproductions of some old pattern to the dressing table, which, draped in green and white organdy, had cost the startling sum of $11! The beds were low-posted, of imitation mahogany. There was a hooked rug on the floor. In a week or two, she told herself, there would be apple-green curtains fluttering at the windows and a lamp or two to add notes of charm. Wasn't it a darling room? They had done it all themselves. She didn't envy people who could afford expensive decorators. They missed half the fun.

The phone rang and she ran to answer it. She sounded impatient and young matronly, to herself. "Tom, I think it's long distance," she said, holding her hand against the mouthpiece. "They're so long about it...." Her heart began to beat rather fast. Perhaps it was Mother! Perhaps she was really ill, this time.

"Yes, yes," Her expression changed, ever so slightly. "It's Mrs. Weaver, speaking. No, not my mother, his wife."

Glacially she spoke to the tall, fair-haired young man beside her. "Someone for you, Tom."

She went back into the living room—the telephone was in the hall—and tried not to listen. Tom's voice was stiff with embarrassment—and something else. What was it all about? A high, imperious, feminine voice summoning him from some unknown place. Gypsy had made up her mind long ago—as long ago as last June, in fact, when she and Tom had become engaged—not to be a suspicious wife. But she couldn't help the sudden outcropping of a perfectly natural jealousy. Her resolutions faded in the face of it.

"Yes, that's great." How awkward Tom sounded! What was this mysterious woman saying, to make

Your CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

It is always a tender question, how to break the news of a new baby to the "other baby"—the little two or three-year-old who has been the center of the universe until the latest birthday in the family.

You can get around it very well with the older child, the little boy or girl of five or six. They can be told the baby is coming, help to get ready for it, and be partners in "our baby." But the younger child won't understand all the preparations and he won't be ready.

One little fellow I know who has a sister. He hasn't seen her yet because she is still in the hospital and he has a way with them about segregating new babies from street germs that visitors may bring in, even nice little brothers.

No one in the family has said, "You're not mama's baby any more. She has a new baby now." Great care has been taken to avoid and teasing about "nones being out of joint" and all that kind of talk.

Eight Glasses Daily Right Amount, Says Dr. Fishbein, and You Can Take Them at or Between Meals, if You're Normal

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The water you drink makes up 90 per cent of the fluid part of your blood. It carries through your body the essential food substances, the salts and the waste material that is to be eliminated.

Water is absolutely necessary to life. Although you may be able to go 40 days or more without food, you can live only four or five days without water.

Practically all physiologists agree that six glasses of water daily is a minimum for health and that eight glasses should be the average. But it is also important to bear in mind that you should not overdo the drinking of water and that too much may be as bad as too little.

If you are a normal person, you may drink one or two glasses of water at a meal. Water, therefore, may be taken in moderation between meals and at meals for the good of your health.

Because of the necessity for adequate amounts of pure water to be consumed by every human being daily, it is desirable that a good water supply be easily available, both at work and at home.

Good drinking water is preferably cool, but not ice cold. It should be available in a clean, well-lighted place. Possibility of contamination must be avoided.

Nowadays, paper cups are provided freely in most places, and where the paper cup is not available, the drinking fountain should be constructed so as to make it possible to drink in comfort and without contaminating the faucet.

FAMILY'S FIRST FOR THIS CABINET WIFE!

Mrs. Morgenthau's Greatest Joys Are Her Children and Civic Interests

Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., wife of Secretary of Treasury, with her pet red cocker spaniel, Timmie.

BY JANE LASATER RUBY Washington.—Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., is one of the growing group of women in Washington's official family much more concerned with her family and her own wide interests than with the usual round of capital entertaining.

The theater, public health and the removal of tonias, foreign travel, horses, dogs, politics, the Senate, Russia, and the Tugwell Pure Foods and Drugs bill are only a few of the interests which have filled Mrs. Morgenthau's life.

She is the daughter of Morris Fatman, New York manufacturer, and devoted Republic. Her mother is a sister of Governor Lehman. She was born in fashionable uptown Manhattan, on the same street where Henry Morgenthau grew up.

Her activity in the theater began at Vassar College where she helped organize the "Work shop," which has since grown into one of the outstanding college theaters in the country.

For two years' following her graduation from Vassar in 1913, she taught and directed children's plays at the Children's Education Theater and at the Neighborhood Playhouse in New York.

Then she married Henry Morgenthau, Jr., "whom I have always known," she says. "But" she didn't know a thing about farming before I married him.

She and her husband first lived in a charming but very old house on one of the farms which Mr. Morgenthau had purchased at Hopewell, in Dutchess County, New York. Mrs. Morgenthau says, "there wasn't any electricity. We did have good modern plumbing, but my husband often had to tease the water pump."

Mrs. Morgenthau continued her theater activity with the organization of the Community Theater in Poughkeepsie. She and her husband worked side by side in establishing the first public health service in Dutchess County.

When Henry 3rd, Robert and Joan, their own three children began growing up, and the old house became too small for comfort, they remodeled a Victorian house on the other part of the farm along Colonial lines. Spacious enough to take care of any number of guests, with a skating pond close by and a swimming pool and tennis courts for summer, it is a haven for the children's friends.

According to Mrs. Morgenthau, "We all think the farm is the most beautiful place in the world, and though we like Washington, we grow very homesick for it. It's only 64 miles from New York, but you seem to have left cities forever behind. There is a great deal of unspoiled timber land, beside that used for orchards and pastures. It isn't any show farm. My husband actually runs it as a business."

The Morgenthau and the Roosevelt families have long been friends. Mrs. Morgenthau's interest in community work led her into politics, and she worked with Mrs. Roosevelt from

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

The housekeeper who does not know broccoli will surely welcome this vegetable with enthusiasm. It comes to us from the Italian area and is a true aristocrat among vegetables.

Although broccoli belongs to the cabbage family, it is very delicate in flavor and texture and most invitingly green.

There are several different ways of serving broccoli, but Hollandaise sauce seems to be most suitable for it. The Italian people often toss it in a hot mixture of olive oil and lemon juice after boiling it. Sprinkle with grated cheese and crown with the broiler flame is another favorite way of serving it. It can also be served with cream sauce, but this is not the best way.

Discard Large Leaves No matter how broccoli is to be served, it must be well washed and looked over. The very large leaves should be discarded. Imperfect leaves, of course, are pulled from the stalks and thrown away. The blossom is more tender and delicately flavored than the stalks and leaves and often is cooked separately. Large stalks should be pared and the thick ends split up. This enables the thickest part to cook more quickly and prevents the tender heads from being overcooked and crushed. The outer covering of the stalks toughens as the vegetable matures and is stringy and woody, much like the ends of asparagus. Paring removes this covering and the stalks are made tender and palatable.

Cook in an uncovered kettle in as little water as possible to prevent burning. Drain thoroughly before dressing and serving. Salt is added after the vegetable is about half cooked. Allow 30 minutes for the leaves and stalks and about 20 minutes for the head or blossom.

Broccoli is particularly good with fish, since the same tart butter sauce is good over both, but it is also good with beef or veal, lamb or mutton.

Easy Hollandaise Sauce Four tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup white stock or water, 2 egg yolks, 2 tablespoons lemon juice.

Melt 2 tablespoons butter in sauce pan and stir in flour. Cook without changing color until mixture bubbles, stirring constantly. Slowly add stock or water, stirring constantly. Cook and stir until mixture boils. Remove from the fire and add about 1/2 cup of the sauce to the yolks of eggs well beaten. Return to remaining sauce and beat well. Add lemon juice and butter, bit by bit, beating constantly over hot water. Cover and keep hot but not boiling water until wanted for serving.

Owing to unseasonable fall heat and other adverse crop conditions, the Imperial valley of California will harvest only 8,000 to 10,000 carloads of winter lettuce, according to a crop estimate.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

When the Wilrose Shop announces a sale it's your cue to pick up your hat and run all the way up there. An astounding sale on everything is going on right now.

Innocent looking off-the-face hats will be sweeping numerous boy friends off their unsuspecting feet this winter. From old-fashioned baby bonnets of hatters' plush, complete with chin straps to swagging Tyrolese of felt, with colorful feathers at their peaked crowns, the world is assuming an open-faced countenance.

Every gal to her type, however, for, needless to say, the baby bonnets are for the demure while the sweeping brim of the Tyrolese might crown a tall Diana and the veiled dinner cap would only become a true sophisticate. The chin straps on some of these are more necessary than ridiculous for without them they would soon become off-the-head hats.

How do you use your left-over potatoes? Always the same old imagination? Maybe these suggestions will help you work out some innovations of your own that will be appetizing and unusual.

To begin with potatoes in one of their simplest cooked states—boiled. A good method of variation is to dice the cold boiled potatoes and reheat them in a tomato sauce. Then just before serving sprinkle grated cheese over the top.

Left-over mashed potatoes may be used in many ways, too. Mashed potato cakes can be made a little more interesting if a little grated cheese is added to the potato before it is formed into cakes. A well beaten egg can be stirred into about 2 cups of mashed potato to make richer cakes. The little flat cakes can be rolled in flour before browning if a crisp crust is liked.

Never can you have too many towels! Here's your chance to stock up on some. Hale's are having a sale on large Cannon bath towels $2.44—four for 85 cents, and they are unusually good quality.

Everybody has gone so completely mad about pretzels they seem to have overlooked the dozens of other crackers that go well with whatever-you're-serving. There are for instance fascinating morsels flavored with celery seed, some with poppy seed, and some with caraway seed. All three flavors come in the same tin and once you start eating them you can't stop unless forcibly removed from the scene. Then there are all kinds of cheese varieties, simply devastating in flavor. All these crackers are dainty and appetizing, and in their own way capable of producing fully as much zest for food and drink as the well-known pretzel.

If you want to get the most out of the crackers you serve, it's worth your while to take care of them. Keep them in a cool, dry place, away from foods or other kitchen products that might transmit a foreign flavor. Be sure that the container is kept closed, so that the contents are not exposed to steam or moist air. And if you can possibly manage it, tuck the crackers in the oven for a few minutes before serving. It will give them extra crispness, extra goodness.

Home owners are going in for pictures in a big way. And they're not worrying much about frames either. Instead of the traditional water color scene, the snug little oil and the cute thing, it's smart to decorate the walls of your home with man-size murals—just like you've seen in the big buildings and halls.

Only instead of hiring an artist for a job you depend on your trusty camera. From it you'll get some surprisingly handsome murals that any pocket can afford. Even if you haven't a camera, you've your photograph album to fall back on.

The idea of the home-mural began with Margaret Bourke-White, the famous photographer, when she covered a wall, 10 by 16 feet, in Rockefeller Center, New York, with some of her enlarged photographs. The idea was enthusiastically. That's how the vogue began.

"The fun of the thing lies in taking your own snapshots," says Miss Bourke-White. "When they are developed, select the best ones and send them off to be made on canvases into large photo-murals. You can cover all four walls of a room, or just one wall, or, if you like, simply have large, individual murals here and there."

JOHNSON TO HEAR BANKERS FEB. 15TH

Announces Public Meeting to Discuss Service Charges to Depositors.

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Hugh S. Johnson will hold a public hearing February 15 on the proposal of American bankers to adopt uniform service charges to depositors under the bank code of fair competition. Johnson said he was laying down no rules as to whether the bankers should bring in new proposals for the public hearing or whether they could present the high schedule of charges which the code authority had sought without his consent to establish the first of the year.

The NRA chief announced this plan at a press conference today. He also said he probably would call in the code committees of the almost 200 industries now under agreement for a general session in February to reconcile conflicts between industries, complaints against the functioning of individual codes and the "whole flock" of administrative troubles.

Johnson said the bankers could bring in "anything they want" and representatives of the banks themselves and of the public would have full opportunity to air their objections.

Time Extended
Pending the hearing the time for placing service charge schedules in effect was extended indefinitely. In addition to the general session on code complaints contemplated for February the NRA will hold an open hearing January 9 on specific objections to the lumber industry code. That pact and the electrical code, debated yesterday, are regarded by the NRA as having caused the most trouble.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Perplexed financial markets, forced to figure in budgetary billions, appeared to be overcome with indecision today and were unable to move very far in any direction.

Stocks were almost at a standstill in the early hours, with most of the speculative favorites dipping and rallying only feebly. The metal group turned a little heavy, after its late rally on the previous session, when inflationary protagonists lost some of the fervor which they had drawn from implications of the government's huge expense account.

The dollar also recovered in foreign exchange dealings. Grains, cotton and most other commodities held to a narrow groove. U. S. Government securities eased a bit, but other bonds did little.

There was a mild demand for utility shares, with American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, Public Service of New Jersey and North American moving up moderately.

Douglas Aircraft rallied a point on word that the War Department planned to buy a large number of planes. Canadian Pacific, Du Pont, Allied Chemical, General Motors and Union Pacific were fairly firm.

Chrysler, U. S. Industrial Alcohol and American Can dropped a point each. U. S. Smelting, McIntyre, American Smelting, Dome and Alaska Juneau yielded fractions to more than a point. Minor changes ruled elsewhere.

While the financial district was still wondering just how the government was going to spend all of the $10,000,000,000 it intends to borrow

PLANS INSPIRATIONAL MEETINGS IN CITADEL

Salvation Army Adjutant Will Present Local and Out of Town Speakers.

Adjutant R. E. Martin of the Salvation Army is arranging for a series of inspirational meetings at the citadel to be held on Sunday afternoons during the winter. Local and out of town guest speakers will be a feature of each service which will begin promptly at 3 o'clock.

Special music will be provided by the Songster Brigade under the leadership of Fred Clough, Jr., and the band under Bandmaster David Addy. These meetings will be open to the general public, and through the Herald a special and personal invitation is extended to all to be present.

The aim is to make these services bright, happy and inspiring, calculated to help and encourage all who attend them.

The speaker at the afternoon meeting the coming Sunday will be the Rev. Leonard C. Harris of the South Methodist church. It will be his first appearance as a speaker at the local corps, and there should be a capacity audience to greet him.

For Sunday afternoon, January 14, Adjutant Martin has secured Ensign George Windsor of Bristol. He is negotiating with several other clergymen, some of whom are favorites with Manchester audiences

RELIEF FUND REPORT

Washington, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The Federal Emergency Relief Administration granted $324,428,488 in states and territories for emergency relief between last May 23 and Dec. 31.

This was made known today by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal emergency relief administrator, who at the same time announced grants to seven states, including $100,000 to Connecticut for civil works service.

Hopkins said that January 7 there was $175,000,000 left of the original $500,000,000 fund of the administration and he expects this to last until around April 1.

KIWANIS SEEKS MORE MEMBERS

Want Two Doctors First, Then They'll Go After Other Professions.

Wanted: Local physicians, two at least, to become enrolled as members of the Manchester Kiwanis Club.

Perusal of the club's classification list shows openings for doctors, lawyers, dentists, druggists and several others.

"Start after the doctors first," admonishes Secretary George H. Wilcox. "Two at least should be brought in."

Efforts are to be made to increase the membership and a campaign in this direction will be launched at once.

Robert Hamilton, of Coventry, will describe his experiences during a two year stay in England, at the luncheon meeting of the club Monday noon in the Hotel Sheridan. Harold R. Burr will donate the attendance prize.

Several of the local club are expected to attend the district Kiwanis convention in Worcester, Mass., next Friday.

OPEN FORUM

MANSIONS IN HEAVEN.

Editor, The Herald:

The question as to whether there are any mansions in Heaven and what are the conditions if any, that enable men and women to avail themselves of this wonderful promise, of course all depends upon the correct answer to that great question which has been in the minds of men since the day of Adam down through the ages and is here today.

That question as it was presented to Adam was: "Ye hath God said?" and the same question comes to each individual today in these and similar words:—Is the Bible the Word of God? and the way in which we individually and collectively answer that question decides our attitude towards all that this Book has to say in regard to the great mystery of life, both here and hereafter.

If the Bible is the Word of God, then it is true and it is a good thing to read and believe the things that God, who is the author of the great scheme of life, has to say in regard to that great Kingdom of God which He had in mind when the Heavens and the earth were created. It surely is a comforting thought to believe that God has something better in store for us after this life is over with all of its difficulties and trials and hardships.

If the Bible is not the Word of God, as many believe, then there are no Mansions in Heaven as far as we know, for outside of the Word of God, what has the believer to offer us, as a hope beyond the grave, when we are destined to meet that appointment called death and there is no escape. "For it is appointed unto all men once to die but after this the judgment."

If life is a God given grace, and after death we shall be called upon to give an account of ourselves to One who knows all about us, then it is surely the better part of wisdom to know how to live this life as the Author and designer of life designed that we should live it, and get all the benefits of life as we go along and then be prepared for the future and glad to give an account of ourselves to the glory of God and our own good.

If any man on earth falls to have a place in those Mansions in Heaven, it is surely not God's fault. "For He was not willing that any should perish, but that all men might come to repentance," and when we have repented God and what He has done to pay the price of our redemption from sin, giving up Heaven's most precious gift in order that these Mansions might be available to the whole world, and the last command given to His disciples just before He went back to Heaven, was to go into all the world and tell this good news of the gospel of Christ to every creature; it is sure evidence that God loves the sinner with all His heart.

It was also revealed at the cross of Calvary when Christ died for the sin of the world, that God hates sin with all His heart and the sinner must avail himself of that cleansing from the guilt and power of sin or he would never be at home in those Mansions, for sin can never enter there and spoil Heaven as it has spoiled much of the grace of God here on earth.

"For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish but have everlasting life." John 3:16.

As far as the great mass of people who have never heard this good news of Christ is concerned I am willing to let God judge them according to his great mercy and love and grace as well as according to his righteousness and if there is any one to blame for these folks not hearing this gospel it can be laid at the doors of those men who have failed to go into all the world and preach the gospel. We professed Christians are to blame if any one is to blame.

The party who signs his name "Citizen" makes a statement which he puts in question marks and states that "The Lord declares The few that will be saved on the last day are like the few ears of corn that stand in the field of corn after the sickle of the reaper," etc.

The writer has read the Bible through many times and studied it more or less for over 45 years and have never seen that particular verse, and would be glad for the Citizen to get out his Bible and look it up and let us know where to find it and I feel pretty sure that if he will keep reading the Bible through and through till he finds that verse

Wallace Farm's Crop Cuts Won't Stop Seed Corn Hunt Secretary's 'Pet' Project

Grimes, Iowa.—(AP)—The secretary of agriculture's 435-acre farm will participate in the federal corn-hog production control program, but development of hybrid seed corn to obtain larger yields from smaller fields will continue as before.

Increasing the acreage yield is in harmony with the government's program to relieve agriculture, says Nelson Urban, business manager of the Henry A. Wallace farm near here.

Tests Secretary's Theory
Intensified production, he says, is the first of two premises on which Secretary Wallace based his theories.

These premises, Urban said, are: That by increasing yield per acre, the cost per bushel may be reduced to the minimum, thereby increasing the margin of profit, and—That by controlling the acreage planted in view of extant surpluses and demand, the market price may be bolstered or maintained.

Also, Urban said, increasing the maximum yield of each acre of corn and controlling the number of acres planted, to keep down surpluses, will shorten hours of labor necessary to obtain the desired gross yields.

Encouraging Soil-Building
It likewise will enable the farmer

to improve the unused land each year, he said, by planting soil-building crops.

"Because of declining market prices, the farmer has been devoting an increasing number of acres to corn—to obtain the total income necessary to meet his expenses," Urban continued.

"Now, with a mounting surplus, it is necessary to curtail the total yield of corn for the nation by reducing acreage. However, efficient tilling of the reduced acreage is as necessary as before."

Scientific anticipation of the yield per acre, Urban contends, is as much a factor in controlling production as reducing the acreage.

Corn Acreage Out
Complying with the corn-hog program, the Wallace farm will reduce its 212 acres planted to corn seed. The farm also will cut the number of prize Tamworth hogs raised for sale.

In furthering its hybrid corn experiments, however, the farm may contract additional acres from other farmers. This year about 500 acres were contracted. In 1934 contracting will be confined to participants in the corn-hog program.

The outlook for 1934? "Very good," Manager Urban said.

NEW HAVEN ASSOCIATION 150 YEARS OLD TODAY

New Haven, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The New Haven County Medical Association—the second oldest in the country—observed today the 150th anniversary of its founding.

Founded January 5, 1784, "for the future regulation of our salutary art" the New Haven association was preceded only by the Massachusetts Society founded in 1781.

It took a prominent part in the formation of the American Medical Association and the Connecticut State Medical Society, and from its membership came the first presidents of each of these organizations.

Exercises were scheduled for this afternoon in the auditorium of the Sterling Law buildings, with addresses by President James Rowland Angell of Yale, the Rev. Oscar E. Maurer and Judge John L. Gilson.

A reception at the New Haven Colony Historical Society was arranged for late this afternoon, and a general convocation of the association will be held this evening in the Sterling law auditorium.

Al Smith to be Pitcher For Giants This Summer

New York, Jan. 5.—(AP)—Watch out, you National Leaguers who thought the New York Giants pitching was pretty tough last summer. Bill Terry's firing squad will be augmented in 1934 by Al Smith.

Not the big derby-man from the sidewalks of New York, but Young Al Smith, a left-hander, carried as a coach by the Giants last year.

Jim Tierney, secretary of the Giants, is one who believes Smith is destined to cut a wide swath through league batmen next campaign. And the Giants who forced to hit against him in batting practice day after day are inclined to agree.

They missed too many of Young Mr. Smith's wide breaking curves to feel otherwise.

The Giants will depart for the south along about March 1. Tierney expects few if any salary arguments. As world champions the Giants as a whole may expect at the very least no wage cuts.

Shifting over to the New York Yankees, it appears now as though any dispute Babe Ruth and Col. Jacob Ruppert may have over George Herman's 1934 honorarium will be conducted here rather than in Florida where it has been an almost annual feature of the spring training season.

Col. Ruppert has gone on record as being strongly opposed to another long tangle with Ruth as well as against a trip to the south in order to get Ruth's name to a contract. The Babe agrees, perhaps because his side contracts will keep

A Sergeant-at-Arms Salutes His Chief

Wildly cheered by Congress following his first annual message, President Roosevelt got another hand as he emerged from the House of Representatives, where the speech was made. Here Kenneth Romney (left), House Sergeant-at-Arms, congratulates the President while James Roosevelt, the President's eldest son, looks on.

STATE WILL MAKE FARM TAX SURVEY

Information as to assessment methods and ascertain where possible, of reasons for failure to pay farm taxes.

The state survey will be directed from the state college where much of the analysis of figures will be carried through. Dr. Clarke in charge is a member of the governor's commission, which is studying tax laws of the state.

Conflicting Dates Cause A. A. U. Officials to Worry

New York, Jan. 4.—(AP)—A hint of warfare among the leading athletic clubs for the spotlight in what promises to be one of the liveliest indoor track seasons in several years arose today, a few days before the campaign was scheduled to start with the Columbus Council, Knights of Columbus games in Brooklyn.

The New York Chapter of the K. of C. which usually holds its big indoor meet in March, has tentatively set the date, this year's meet, in Madison Square Garden for Feb. 9 in order that Luigi Beccali, the Italian ace who is expected here this winter, might enter. The date conflicts with the Boston A. A. games a week later and both clubs have protested to Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the amateur athletic Union.

Beccali, Olympic champion and world 1,500 meter record holder, has been listed to compete in the Boston and N. Y. A. A. games as well as the Milrose meet, Feb. 3, and the National championships at Madison Square Garden, Feb. 24. His signed

FIRE DAMAGES BLEACHERS.

Boston, Jan. 5.—(AP)—The centerfield bleachers of Fenway Park, home of the Boston Red Sox, in the process of reconstruction, were badly damaged by fire today. Damage was estimated at thousands of dollars.

A 110 foot boom holding a large derrick crashed down on the bleachers during the fire. More than 150 of the 700 engaged in the construction work at the park were on the centerfield bleachers job.

None were known to have been injured.

The blaze was caused by a spark from a cement mixing machine, fire officials said.

MORGENTHAU LAUNCHES FINANCING CAMPAIGN

"A deliberate deficit of more than a thousand million pounds," this newspaper said, "is like a desperate gamble, but bearing in mind that Americans have an annual income of sixteen thousand million pounds, the bet does not appear so heavy."

HOUSE CONFERENCE

Washington, Dec. 5.—(AP)—President Roosevelt called in House leaders in charge of appropriations today to plan his recovery-deficit reduction effort in the first of the proposed Executive Congressional co-operation conferences.

Mr. Roosevelt arranged to talk with Chairman Buchanan of the House appropriation committee and the chairmen of the subcommittees on appropriation with a view to keeping expenditures within a $10,000,000,000 budget for this year and the $6,000,000,000 budget announced for next year.

The Capitol apparently was recovering from the sudden realization of the cost of the recovery drive, revealed by the President yesterday in his message to Congress.

The disclosure that the public debt will be boosted to $31,000,000,000 by 1938 startled Washington, but Congressional leaders informed the President that the news was surprisingly well received.
