Stamford Man Among Those to Serve Six Months for Assault on Guards on Mallorca Island.

Madrid, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Four United States citizens were sentenced to six months and a day imprisonment today for assaulting a civil guard last year at Palma, Mallorca.

At the same time the court acquitted Rutherford A. Fuller, Columbus, Ohio, one of five Americans concerned in the incident.

Those sentenced to jail are Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood of W. at Springfield, Mass.; Roger F. Mead of New York, and Edmund W. Blodgett of Stamford, Conn.

All five of the Americans were arrested last year following an altercation in a hotel with a civil guard. Under the Spanish law the matter was rendered serious and the subject of a court-martial.

The military court, however, acquitted them of guilt; after they had been held in jail six weeks while the United States government sought their release.

Verdict Refused

This verdict was later refused by military court officials who placed the case in the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the Republic. The prosecution asked prison terms of six months and one day for each defendant.

In its ruling today the court did not recommend a pardon but the government can be asked to pardon the defendants.

It was reported in governmental circles that cabinet ministers would ask for the pardon of those Americans found guilty.

In any case, it was said in judicial circles, consideration probably will be made of the approximately 46 days each of the Americans already served in jail in the event that a pardon is requested.

The sixth section of the Supreme Court based its decision today on Article 255 of the military code which provides penalties for a spoken insult against the armed forces of Spain.

The court gave as its opinion that the armed forces had been insulted in the Mallorca affair and that, therefore, the Americans could not be acquitted of the charge. It found

NEW CUBAN CHIEF TO RESTORE PEACE

Carlos Mendieta Calls Out Soldiers to Search All Autos for Arms.

Havana, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Carlos Mendieta gave Cuba proof today that he is determined to restore peace and order to the strife weary island.

After a day and night of riotous celebration of his inauguration as President succeeding young Carlos Hevia, Mendieta called out soldiers to make a general search of all automobiles for arms.

Doctors May Strike

Havana doctors prepared to strike unless Mendieta moved to quash a recent decree giving the Cuban medical federation virtual control over all hospitals, including those owned and staffed by Spaniards.

Confusing the general situation still further Havana lawyers renewed their threats to strike unless military authorities heeded a ruling of the civil courts that officers imprisoned after the National hotel battle be released.

Newspapers Out Again

On the brighter side of the picture, however, the newspaper union called off its projected strike and newspapers appeared as usual.

At Santiago, employees of the Cuban Electric Company returned to work when company officials reached an agreement with workers and military authorities on Mendieta's promise that he would appoint commissions to negotiate in the labor situations generally under government guidance. He indicated he might act as arbitrator.

Figures In Pawnshop Scandal That Shook the Government of France

A leading figure in the Bayonne pawnshop scandal that threatened to upset the French Cabinet, Albert Dalimier (right), Minister of Colonies, is shown with former Premier Edouard Daladier as they arrived at the Ministry of Interior in Paris for the fateful Cabinet meeting called because of the crisis. Dalimier, who resigned his post after the Cabinet exonerated him, is said to have urged insurance firms to invest money in municipal pawnshop bonds which, in the Bayonne case, are reported to have defrauded French investors of millions.

Serge Stavisky, the promoter who headed the Bayonne pawnshop whose fraudulent collapse precipitated a political crisis in France, is shown at top. Stavisky, who later committed suicide, was suspected of having backed the newspaper La Voix of which M. Dubarry (lower left) is director. Magistrate M. Ordonneau (lower right) conducted the official investigation of the case.

SEVEN CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM KANSAS PRISON

Among Them Bob Brady and Jim Clark, Desperadoes Who Were Involved in Another Jail Break.

Lansing, Kas., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Seven convicts scaled the walls of the Kansas state prison here about 7 a. m. today amid a fusillade of shots. Two of those who fled were Bob Brady and Jim Clark, who were recaptured and returned to prison after escaping with nine others last Memorial Day.

Prison officials believed some of the convicts were wounded. No guards were hurt.

The convicts were believed to have scattered into the timber surrounding the prison and are not believed to be armed.

In their escape they used, as a rope, a long piece of hose which they were using in their work.

All available prison guards were sent in search.

Also aiding in their escape was a hastily constructed ladder, made of scrap lumber.

Overpower Guard

The convicts overpowered their guard, Clyde Deer, took his keys, looked him in Cell House No. 2 but did not harm him.

FATHER COUGHLIN VISITS PRESIDENT

Tells Reporters Roosevelt Is Not a Poet But a Very Practical Man.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Father Charles E. Coughlin, after a call at the White House told reporters that "the President regards silver as a precious metal to be used, and he is also very much aware that the present currency in the country is inadequate."

The Detroit priest declined to amplify this brief statement which he gave to newspapermen late yesterday after his visit.

"I discovered that Mr. Roosevelt is about 20 years ahead of the thought current in the country today.

ASK MORE FUNDS TO KEEP UP CWA

Federal Officials Want to Keep Up the Work Until Spring, at Least.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Seeing the time growing short before exhaustion of Civil Works employment funds, the administration put under way today a plan to expedite the President's recommendation to Congress for over a billion dollars out of which the CWA would be financed until spring months.

Protests against diminution of this job-making activity deluged Harry L. Hopkins, its administrator. With a liaison in effect between his office and the White House, it was apparent also that Democratic leaders on Capitol Hill intended to hasten the funds to be asked soon by Mr. Roosevelt.

The order cutting hours in cities to 24 a week and in rural districts to 15 a week, Hopkins said, was the result of "an original bad guess" as to the size of payrolls and average pay.

"We estimated at the outset that the $500,000,000 of Federal funds would last until February 15," he said.

Weekly Payroll

"I estimated the average weekly payroll on the basis of an average of $12 a week per person. It ran

SINCLAIR NAMED IN SWINDLE CHARGE

Twenty-four Other Financial Leaders Cited for Embez- zlement in Oklahoma.

Tulsa, Okla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—With a mixture of feelings Tulsa today awaited judicial sifting of embezzlement charges against 25 of its financial leaders, including Harry F. Sinclair, oil magnate.

The charges filed on complaint of J. M. Springer, special investigator appointed by Governor William H. Murray, grew out of the crash last spring of the Exchange Trust Company, into which clients and investors had poured $23,000.

The accused men were directors and officers of the company.

Springer's complaints allege embezzlement of $23,989.93 through manipulation of trust accounts.

Called Evident

"Ridiculous," "Absurd," and "instituted by political dislike, were terms used by several of the accused financiers in commenting on the charges. Others withheld statements.

Harry Sinclair's reaction to the charges was not available. His New York office pointed out, however, that he had not been active in management of affairs of the trust since he left Tulsa about 20 years ago. His office said he was vacationing in Florida.

Accused men besides Harry Sinclair include Frank Haskell of Shreveport, La., oil man.

OPPOSITION LOOMS IN CONGRESS OVER ROOSEVELT'S PLANS

PRESIDENT TO ASK CLEAN UP OF LOBBYISTS

Determined That Party Lead- ers Shall Not Come to Capital to Set Up Their Law Offices.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt was reported today to be ready to sanction far-reaching legislation barring law-lobby activities in Washington by politicians.

This became known as the legislation took form on Capitol Hill in the wake of the President's declaration against party members coming to Washington to set up law offices.

The White House position, however, was understood to be that any legislation should be comprehensive enough to include all such practices. Democratic leaders are pointing out that members of the Republican National committee and others in the Republican Party councils have maintained and are maintaining law offices here to practice before the government.

Senator Vandenberg (R., Mich.), introduced a bill yesterday to forbid committee members from practicing law in Washington.

Jackson Resigns

Robert H. Jackson of New Hampshire announced his resignation this morning of his seat on the Democratic National committee after the President declared against party leaders practicing law here.

An early conference is in prospect between Postmaster General Farley and Arthur Miller, Nebraska National committee member, and vice chairman of the National committee, who established a law office here after March 4.

Administration leaders are convinced Mr. Roosevelt wants a clean sweep and in this connection would like to see legislation include members of Congress and government officers who resign to go into private practice here.

The Present Law

The law now prevents employees of the Internal Revenue Bureau from practicing before the bureau within two years after resignation. An extension of the law to include all government departments is believed to be favored by the White House.

The President, however, is leaving the initiative on legislation to Congress which appears to be in a mood for action.

He is leaving to Postmaster General Farley the job of dealing with members of the National committee.

Friends of Farley say he wants to get out as chairman of the National committee and devote his full time to being postmaster general but with this situation arising the President is insisting upon Farley remaining for at least several months.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The trial of Dr. Alice Lyndsay Wynekoop for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Ethel, was postponed until ten a. m. Monday.

Defense attorneys announced Dr. Wynekoop's condition was grave and that she had spent a bad night, aggravated by nausea. Her pulse was given at 100 and her temperature as 99.6.

Dr. Earle Gray, a heart specialist warned the woman's condition was such that her life was in constant danger. He said a stroke might come at any time.

Looking extremely tired and her face an ashen gray, the aged defendant was wheeled into court a few minutes before the trial was scheduled to get underway, but she was soon wheeled out again.

After a conference of principals for half an hour in the judge's chamber it was announced that the trial would be postponed until Monday.

A conference of members of the Wynekoop family and relatives was called in Judge David's chambers and the judge announced he would appoint a physician to determine whether Dr. Alice was sufficiently strong to survive the ordeal of the remainder of the trial.

Two physicians, Dr. Earle Gray and Chauncey Mayer examined her last night and reported her condition was "very serious."

Defense Attorney W. W. Smith said he refused to take the responsibility of keeping his client on trial. "Can you blame me?" he asked. "She may die of a stroke at any moment."

Assistant State Attorney Charles S. Dougherty would not confer with Smith in asking the postponement of the trial. In discussing the matter with Judge David, he said:

"As I understand it this woman may live for two years or she may drop dead in ten minutes."

The judge appointed Dr. Arthur Eysland, heart specialist and Dr.

Montreal, Jan. 18.-(AP)—Fire which started early today in the home of the parish priest, Cure N. Pilon, almost totally destroyed the church of St. Vidal, in Montreal, North.

Montreal firemen were called out to aid the Montreal North department and when they arrived the fire had gained such headway the home of the parish priest was destroyed and flames were sweeping through the church itself. A heavy snowstorm, and sub-zero temperature caused the firemen considerable trouble in their efforts to subdue the flames.

No estimate of the damage could be obtained as the fire was still raging several hours after the outbreak.

WASHINGTON SURPRISED
Washington, Jan. 18.-(AP)—The sentencing of Mr. and Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood and two other Americans to six months and a day in a Spanish jail surprised State Department officials who believed the military auditor who reviewed the case would dismiss the charges.

Five Americans were arrested at Palma, Mallorca, last year after an altercation in a hotel and charged with assaulting a civil guard. Mrs. Lockwood and the others were kept in jail for several weeks before they were released on bail.

Palma officials held the offense was against military law and must be tried by a military court.

Although the prosecutor tried to get six-year sentences for the Americans in their trial last October, they were virtually exonerated. But the acquittal by the military court required confirmation by a military auditor to make it final. This was believed by American officials to be a mere formality, but the military auditor apparently revised the verdict of the court.

Dean Arthur J. Glasier, of Portland, Maine, to Be Missioner.

Over thirty members of St. Mary's parish, representing the various organizations and societies of the church met last night at the parish house to make preparations for the "Teaching Mission" to be conducted the week of January 28 to February 4, at St. Mary's church. Groups from the following organizations will make personal calls upon all of the families of the parish, leaving with them information relative to the mission:

Very Rev. Arthur J. Glasier

Women's Auxiliary—Mrs. Anne Waje, chairman. Ladies' Guild—Mrs. Ethel McKay, chairman.

Girls' Friendly Society—Edith Thrasher, chairman. Young People's Fellowship—William Davis, chairman.

Men's Bible Class—James Harrison, chairman. Altar Guild—Minnie Smith, chairman.

Primary Dept., Church School—Margaret Harrison, chairman. Junior Dept., Church School—Lucille Kilpatrick, chairman. Intermediate Dept., Church School—Erwin Rother and Margaret Robinson, co-chairmen. Senior Dept., Church School—Robert H. Smith and Ethel Hadden, co-chairmen.

The missioner will be the Very Rev. Arthur J. Glasier, dean of St. Luke's Cathedral, Portland, Maine. Dean Glasier was born at Orange, N. J., and is a graduate of Lehigh University and the General Theological Seminary of New York. He has served as rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Hamburg, N. J.; assistant rector of Trinity church, Mount Vernon, N. Y.; rector of Trinity church, West Pittston, Pa.; rector of Trinity church, Bethlehem, Pa.; and as dean of St. Luke's Cathedral, Portland, Me., since 1926. He is a member of the Diocesan Council, the Board of Examining Chaplains, and president of the Standing Committee since 1929. He also served as deputy to the General Convention in 1928 and 1931. Rev. Neill has received the following:

ing letter from the Rt. Rev. Frederick G. Budlong, Bishop-Coadjutor of the Diocese of Connecticut, concerning the coming mission: "My dear Friends of St. Mary's Parish, Manchester. I learn with great interest that it is to be your good fortune to have Dean Glasier as your Missioner. His wide experience, deep spirituality and preaching ability insure your having a helpful mission."

"Throughout the diocese the Teaching Mission has brought inspiration, courage and renewed strength to our people. I trust that every member of St. Mary's Parish will attend the special services and that you will bring your friends and neighbors with you. Affectionately, FREDERICK G. BUDLONG, Bishop-Coadjutor."

The following is a copy of the card which the workers will leave with the parishioners on their first call. It is to be filled in with the name and address of the parishioner, the name of the person making the call and the organization of which he or she is a member. This card should then be brought to one of the Mission services and placed on the Alms Basin.

"Why do people go to church, if they do go? What do they really want to hear, though they may not have formulated their need clearly in their own minds? What is the unasked question for which they are seeking an answer? Why do they go again and again, in spite of many disappointments, yearning deeply, listening intently, as if the word they want to hear may at any moment come to birth and bring the blessing they seek? They go seeking, as of old, the healing touch which makes them know that they are not alone in their struggle for the good; wanting to hear the forgiving, redeeming, all-exclusive, all-solving Word of God which embraces the whole of life—the one Word alongside of which there is and can be no other."

It is the sincere hope of the rector that the parishioners of St. Mary's will make every effort to attend these daily services of the mission, from which they will receive much help and guidance.

GUARD MAE WEST AT COURT HEARING

Judge Gets Warnings Over Telephone; Actress Sleeps on Grand Jury's Couch.

Los Angeles, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Threats of violence brought orders to strengthen the cordon of guards today in the court room where the asserted robber of Mae West is on trial.

Superior Judge Harry Sewell regarded the anonymous telephone warnings he received yesterday lightly, but authorities who already had assigned four personal guards to the actress, took no chances.

Three times, district attorney's investigators said, the jurist was told violence might occur in his court room unless he took "the easiest way out"—instructing the jury to acquit Edward Friedman of robbing the blonde star 15 months ago.

Work of Cranks Nevertheless, Judge Sewell scorned an offer of a body guard. He said he thought the phone calls came from "cranks."

The degree of police apprehension was indicated when detectives halted a curious man who was trying to get a close-up view of Miss West. Officers thought he had been shadowing the actress and wanted to know why.

Miss West herself took things comfortably on the Grand Jury's couch in a room adjoining the scene of the trial, which lost most of its allure to court audiences when the state's star witness completed her testimony the previous day.

So, well guarded and with 17 men wrapped around her long black velvet gown, she slept on the couch, "just like old trouping days."

Hours Cut Down and All New Jobs Cancelled — Over Four Million Men Are Effected.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A sudden stop order on the parcelling out of 500,000 new jobs, coupled with a drastic slash in all working weeks, was the answer to the Works Administration today to its fast dwindling money supply.

Official estimates were that about four million CWA workers in every section of the United States would draw reduced pay envelopes.

All civil workers giving throughout the country, where many applications for work were still being filled, was called to a halt. The only exception made was for replacing workers who had quit and been paid off.

Thompsonville Tax List DROPS OVER $100,000 Thompsonville, Conn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The grand list of the town of Enfield last year showed a loss of $107,000 owing to reduced acreage devoted to the growing of tobacco.

The reduction was disclosed in the report of the town assessors completed today. Acreage formerly planted in tobacco but not cultivated was listed as unutilized land and its valuation reduced correspondingly.

The total list was $238,722 lower than a year ago, the principal other item of loss being automobiles, the value of which fell off $90,000. The assessors' total net list is $19,407,912, more than one-third of which $7,883,300 is the assessment of the plant of the Bigelow Sanford Carpet Company.

Senator Lonergan to Limit Legislative Program Introduces Fewest Number of Bills Possible to Aid President's Plans. Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—Twelve private bills, and several public bills, were introduced in the Senate this week by Senator Lonergan (D) of Connecticut, who has announced, however, that he will limit his legislative program to cases of extreme importance during the present session.

This is in conformity with the wishes of the President, who is anxious to have the Senate devote its entire time to his recovery program. In the emergency session of Congress last spring, few private bills were introduced in the Senate, at the request of Senator Robinson, Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader, and this policy, though no longer in effect, is followed as closely as possible by legislators.

Aside from the private relief bills for individuals, Senator Lonergan now has pending before the Senate, the following bills and resolutions: S. 1463: To reduce the rate of certain interest payable to the United States to the rate of 4 per centum per annum.

S. 1468: To permit the importation of goods made by indentured labor only to the extent necessary to supply American demands which cannot be met by American production, and for other purposes.

S. 1892: Making federal securities subject to the income tax laws.

S. J. Res. 61: Providing for a constitutional amendment on tax-exempt securities.

S. J. Res. 44: Providing for the ratification of constitutional amendments by popular elections.

S. 1778: Authorizing the issuance of a special postage stamp in commemoration of the three hundredth anniversary of the founding of the Colony of Connecticut.

Noank Shipyard Relief Senator Lonergan has also introduced a bill authorizing payment to the Noank Shipyard, of Noank, Connecticut, the sum of $1,700, with interest at 4 per centum per annum from March 1, 1928, to complete payment for repair work to an Army mine planter under a government contract.

A bill, S. 1650, was sponsored by Senator Lonergan just before the close of the first session of this Congress, extending the federal judicial district in Connecticut and changing the date when federal court would sit at various places.

DEMANDS A PROBE OF NRA PROGRAM

Senator Nye Says Codes Were Too Hastily Drawn—His Charges.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Demand for Senate investigation of NRA was threatened yesterday by Senator Nye (R., N. D.), unless the recovery agency "is prepared to correct" quickly alleged inequities in the administration of codes. In the first floor attack on the NRA, Senator Nye told the Senate the industrial codes had been "too hastily drawn to insure against unfair advantage being taken by monopolists." Declaring it was encouraging to learn that the NRA "is about to reopen and study all codes," he added: "A reversal of policy at the NRA, the adoption of a policy that would, if need be, find the government derelict in the business world, will open the door to real progress for America under the recovery program." "If what seems to have been the policy of NRA is continued, the plunderers may well adopt 'the Last Roundup' as their theme song and trample under heel whatever remains of independent business and make the consumer a mere slave to their interests. "If there can and will be a strong hand exercised at NRA in the re-consideration of these codes we shall see selfishness and greed driven from the temple of NRA and the accomplishment of such codes as will protect and aid the small business man, labor and the consumer. "In its present state NRA, and many of its codes are termed 'swindles upon consumers,' and not altogether without cause. "It must be evident that fear has been a large element in code experiences thus far. Many communications I have received beg that the identity of the writing small manufacturer be not revealed. "Thousands want corrections made and remedies afforded, but few are daring to openly fight for plainly that which is their right and nothing more than fair play."

SAYS GREAT BRITAIN FORCED U. S. GOLD ACT

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Formerly reporting approval of the administration's money measure, the House coinage committee said today that Great Britain forced the United States off the gold standard and the proposed $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund was intended "to prevent a repetition of this experience."

With the dollar giving below $5 to the pound on the foreign exchange market, Democratic House leaders were rushing plans to bring the monetary legislation up in the House tomorrow. Great Britain's operation of her equalization fund, the committee formally reported to the House, "was so effective in driving our dollar up but we were forced off the old gold standard." "It is to prevent a repetition of this experience that we create the stabilization fund preparatory to the return to gold redemption." The proposed stabilization fund was termed "the most ingenious instrument ever developed in the monetary system." "It is equally effective in attack and defense," the committee added. "The reason for its establishment in this case is to defend the American dollar and our gold stocks against the invasion of a similar fund operated by competitor nations." Florida, with its land area of 54,861 square miles, has 114 miles of shore line.

NEW SILHOUETTE FOR GIRLS' COATS

National Influence Comes to Light in Form of a New Cossack Creation.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A new National influence on American spring styles came to light today in the form of a Cossack coat. This full-skirted coat, leather-belted, is sponsored by Sussman Fgoote for very young girls. It is an effective costume coat, and an important new silhouette. Navy blue will be the leading color for untrimmed spring coats, this house believes, and black for dress coats with fur. Several dress coats were seen today in soft black wool, fitted at the waist and belted, but tied in a bow at the front. They had luxurious collars of silver or blue fox. This house shows as the successor of last year's swagger coat the Tuxedo box coat, which hangs from the shoulder but hasn't so much flare. They show it in plaids, checks and monotone tweeds. A straight-hung box coat of this type may be worn with skirt and blouse as a suit. Coat lengths have not changed, but the waistline is more fitted than last season. All the designers agree that suits will be more important this spring than for several years. The tailored suits seen today had slightly squared shoulders—not the exaggerated shoulder of last spring, but merely slight padding to give a square effect. The costume suit—a three-quarter box coat with a dress under it—is featured this spring as a popular post-repeal costume. The dress has a shirt-sleeve top of satin or printed silk. With the coat, it may be worn on the street, or to the office, minus the coat, one is dressed for cocktails or restaurant dining. One shown today was in gray wool, the dress top of plain gray satin. The box coat had elbow sleeves with wide bands of gray fur.

MISS CHENEY RE-ELECTED CHILDREN'S AID OFFICER

Annual Meeting Held Yesterday in Hartford—Encouraged by Reports.

At the annual meeting of the corporation and board of directors of the Connecticut Children's Aid Society held yesterday at Webster Memorial Hall in Hartford, Miss Marjory Cheney was re-elected to membership on the board of directors. Henry R. Murphy, executive secretary, compared conditions prevalent in child welfare agencies in other parts of the country with those experienced during 1933 in Connecticut. Encouraged by the fact that the Connecticut Children's Aid Society had been able to care for applications received for service to needy children in all counties of the state except New Haven where similar work is carried on by the Children's Community Center, he said that foster homes had been found for twelve more children in 1933 than in 1932. Throughout the state, the society cared for 258 children in such homes. One hundred and eighteen of these were Hartford County children.

Such care, 32 children were supervised in their own homes through the work carried on by the department of advice and assistance. This phase of the work has continued to grow indicating that the society is well abreast of the present goal in children's work which is to have the child remain with his own family wherever possible.

More applications were received because of illegitimacy than for any other reason. Illegitimacy was the second cause. Likewise more appeals were made on behalf of delinquent children than at any previous time since the society has dealt with such cases.

In outlining sources of income for service given outside the Hartford Community Chest area, Mr. Murphy stated that reimbursement by parents who had formerly contributed toward the support of their children had fallen $6,000 behind the 1932 figure. Other income to carry on the work was received from towns and societies and contributions from friends throughout the state. Funds for work in metropolitan Hartford were received from the Hartford Community Chest.

This compares with 960 farmers in a similar group in December, 1932, while last July they numbered 1,039.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Officers' Association

At the annual meeting of the Girl Scout Officers' Association, plans for the Rally were discussed, the date being advanced to February 10. Two girls will be chosen from each troop one to act as usher and one to sell candy bars.

Mrs. John Pickles is chairman of the properties for the rally, and Mrs. Raymond Goslee, chairman of scenery.

The Badges and Awards Committee would like each Scout to keep a record of the date on which she took an examination for a badge, the name of the officers and the date the badge was awarded. Leaders must call the examiners for their girls. Edward Montie is the examiner for electrician, now. The list of badges must be in by January 19.

On behalf of the Council, Mrs. Charles Oliver, Scout commissioner, invited the Officers' Association to a Valentine party to be held on February 15 at 6:30 at Highland Park clubhouse. This will take the place of the regular monthly meeting of the officers. A training course for leaders will be given at the convention at Derby-Shelton, February 8.

Mrs. Sidney Wheaton announced that courses for Dancers and Artists' songs will be given after the rally. A first aid course for leaders Thursdays at Scout headquarters began last evening.

The Brownie Leaders' Association held its bi-monthly meeting at Girl Scout headquarters. Interesting reports concerning the Christmas activities were given by the Brown Ovis of each of the four packs. Mention was made of the first aid course every Thursday for six consecutive weeks, also of the State convention to be held at Derby-Shelton, February 8. This is to be a training course for Girl Scout officers and Brownie leaders. Everyone was urged to support the Girl Scout rally February 10. Matters in regard to the Brownie program completed the meeting.

At our last meeting Doreen Davis received her tenderfoot pin. The parent committee was present to help with the rehearsal of our part in it.

The weekly meeting was held at the Nathan Hale school. Because of the X-ray pictures, which were being taken at the school this week, the meeting was held in the lunch room. Captain Agard and Mrs. Charles Oliver visited the troop. Mrs. Harold Agard took the girls who are trying for first class signaling. The girls worked on their Scout work and practiced the songs to be sung at the rally.

The meeting was opened with the horseshoe formation with Eileen Vennard in charge. The motto, slogan, promise and laws were repeated. Patrols were formed and dues collected. We then had classes in observation, health, signaling and training tenderfoot Scouts, others planned what Girl Scout equipment they wanted with the money they earned selling Christmas cards.

The meeting of Troop 5 opened with the horseshoe formation with Marion Alley taking charge. We then went to patrol corners. Miss Jane Grant gave instructions on the Indian War Dance to some of the girls, while others played games. The girls who are taking part in the pageant met at Captain Smith's home for rehearsal.

Taps were played by Althea Moxie.

Our captain taught us two songs "The Embers of Campfire," and "Short'nin' Bread." Following that we worked on first aid, signaling and nature. Mrs. Harold Agard was at the meeting to tell us about the rally, February 10. Janet Elliott will be an usher from our troop. Every girl who has a suit is supposed to wear it to the meeting. This was requested by Captain Giglio a few weeks ago. Let's all try to remember this request, so that it won't have to be repeated every week. We formed a circle and sang several songs, while Captain Giglio was in conference with Mrs. Agard. Then we rehearsed our two songs for the rally.

Brownies—Acorn Pack

Acorn Pack held its weekly meeting Wednesday at the Hollister street school. At this time golden bars were presented to Florence Pitkin, Janet Brown and Jean Millkowski.

The Rally Pageant

The pageant "Evolution of the Campfire," begins with the preliminary campfire by Troop 1. The second episode is the Gypsy campfire taken by girls from Troop 8, followed by the Indian campfire by Troop 5. The Pilgrims will be girls from Troop 6 and the "Forty-niners' Campfire" will be presented by Troop 4. The final episode, "The Girl Scout Campfire," will include all of the girls from the 10 troops.

Mrs. Sidney Brown is making weekly visits to the troop meetings to coach the girls in their parts and dances.

The demonstration of Scout work will be very instructive as it will include rope and coat stretchers, signaling, a lean-to made from poncho, knots and a guard line, also bandaging and artificial respiration.

The meeting was opened with the horseshoe formation with Eileen Vennard in charge. The motto, slogan, promise and laws were repeated. Patrols were formed and dues collected. On March 20, 1929, the complaint alleges, it extended to Mossop the exclusive agency for its machines in Fairfield county for ten years, with the understanding that the local man would order and accept delivery on 12 mixers during the following 18 months. The mixers were not ordered by Mossop, it is charged.

The contractor also agreed to pay royalties of five cents a cubic yard for all concrete mixed in machines leased to him by the plaintiff, it is claimed, but discontinued these payments after a few months.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 19.

ing a sufficient volume of information as to the effects of the NRA on the large and small business to justify an immutable opinion on the merits and demerits of the Recovery Act; it is to be doubted, for that matter whether there is one.

So that the spectacle of Senators Borah, Norris and Glass, on the one hand, and General Hugh S. Johnson, on the other, getting into each other's hair is not one to take too seriously. Borah, Norris and Johnson are all, really, on the same side of the fence in that they are all profoundly concerned about having life made tolerable for the average American; Mr. Glass, it is to be suspected, is merely suffering from a grouch from seeing himself deposed as his party's oracle in matters of finance.

We do not know, and we don't believe anybody knows, including Johnson, Borah or Norris, whether this scheme of conditionally suspending the anti-trust laws is going to work. We don't know, and we don't believe any of these gentlemen know, whether government price fixing may become necessary. But we are decidedly of the impression that a good deal of bunk is being talked about the way consumer prices are being boosted.

When Senator Nye says that there has been a "rapid rise of prices to the consumer, in many instances to a higher figure than those of 1929" he is talking a language incomprehensible to the people of the country. What single essential thing is selling at retail for more than it did in 1929—or for as much?

That there may be forces operating in the direction indicated by the NRA critics is entirely possible. That the business groups of the country are incapable of self government under any such light harnessing as that provided by the Recovery Act may turn out to be the sad fact. That the NRA is faintly suggestive of the Rube Goldberg method of opening a window or ringing a bell—in that it is a complicated and roundabout way of getting at an objective—is hardly to be denied. But if it opens the window and lets in the air, even after a ridiculous lot of lost motion, that surely is better than leaving the window closed and letting the country die of economic suffocation.

The machinery of recovery as so far set up is, of course, crude and full of knocks and rattles, of wobbles and friction. That it would have to be rebuilt everybody has known from the start. But proposals that begin the rebuilding by chucking the whole thing onto the junk pile and returning us to the ways of yesteryear are not likely to be greeted with wild enthusiasm by the people.

some years ago as a prisoner. The clergyman said: "He was my friend." One friend is a good many to have—one friend who, when one's life has been such that the thousand casual associates of the days of his prosperity are ashamed even at the grave to confess acquaintanceship, still has the feeling to declare his friendship. There are a great many men who, if they die in the circumstances of Lamar, are unlikely to excite any such declaration from anybody. The completeness of their friendliness, however, is likely to be less their own fault, as measured by the one-friendliness of Lamar, than the fault of their luck. Lamar was always lucky; he was lucky enough to have had, in spite of himself, one friend.

That was, all things considered, monumental good fortune. Perhaps the stars have something to do with it. Perhaps the good, generous heart of Rev. John Callaghan had still more.

IN NEW YORK

By JULIA BLANSHARD
 New York, Jan. 19.—Now that U. S. Judge John M. Woolsey has handed down the decision that the banned "Ulysses" (by James Joyce) is a "true, sincere picture of real life" and not "indecent, pornographic matter" and it is to be printed here for the first time in January, such credit for this victory should go to Morris Ernst, attorney.

Ernst is America's valiant crusader against censorship of literature as it has been exercised by the Society for the Prevention of Vice's Anthony Comstock and John S. Sumner before him. Ever since the early 1820's, whenever the case of some good book that has been suppressed comes to trial, it has been Morris Ernst's keen mind and learned tongue that have fought nobly against censorship.

His best-known victories have been won in the interest of the Mary Ware Dennet pamphlet, "The Sex Side of Life," Radcliffe Hall's "The Well of Loneliness," and Dr. Marie Stopes' "Married Love," though he has at least a dozen other victories to his credit. His own book on censorship, "To the Pure," did its bit, too.

Morris just doesn't look the least like the usual crusader. Of medium height, wiry, black-haired, he dresses in handsome custom-made clothes, is tremendously interested in his home, children, good food, outdoor sports, the theater, good books and good company.

He is utterly sophisticated yet has the most charmingly simple, natural and direct manner, is one of the wittiest conversationalists in New York, and looks upon life through bone-brimmed spectacles with snapping eyes that always manage to see the humorous side of things. Pleading a case, he is quicker than a bullet out of a gun.

Renévous for Liberals
 No. 21 Irving Place, the lunch room started last year by Mrs. Norman Thomas, wife of the Socialist, has become the noon-time mecca for all the Liberals in the Graspery Park section of town.

Dropping in to lunch any day you may see Alfred Bingham, Howard Y. William, or John Herring of "Common Sense"; Dr. Harry Laidler, Mary Fox, or Norman Thomas himself from the League for Industrial Democracy; Sidney Hillman from the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, or Leo Wolman, now special advisor to the Labor Board under the NRA. Reinhold Niebuhr, Oswald Garrison Villard, Roger Baldwin or Mary Van Kleek. The survey crowd and various publishing companies, such as Dutton's, eat there too, and many organizations hold their monthly luncheon board meetings in the private upstairs dining room.

This-and-That
 Alice Duler Miller's hobby is upholstering furniture. She has done the chairs and divans for her private sitting room in rose satin and flowered materials and they really look like professional work. She is delighted just to have learned that George Sand had the same hobby.

Amelia Earhart is designing aviation clothes for a sport dress manufacturer... Ota Wiese, editor of McCalls' is (figuratively speaking) clanking his spurs about the office these days, for he is just back from Gibson, Mont., where he bought himself a 3,500-acre ranch.

Carleton Beals, author of several books on Mexico and Cuba, has just left for Peru, after being the guest of honor at several farewell parties this past week... Raymond Loewy, industrial designer, started a group of New Yorkers at a party the other day by predicting that by 1950 autos will fly, just like airplanes, will be built on airplane lines, with motors at the back, and will be equipped with wings and able to go 200 miles an hour, taking to the air after gaining a certain amount of speed.

two weeks; I have never seen a single case in which such severe eye trouble occurred in all the thousands of patients I have placed under the ultra violet ray, but I have read of such burning when the doctor or the patient was careless about protecting the eyes.

When the ultra violet ray is used under the supervision of a doctor, there is so little danger of burning that the patient may dismiss this thought and should only look for the good effects of the treatment.

 THESE MURDERERS ESCAPED REMORSE

Maughan Writes An Amusing Set of Tales In "Ah King."

Reading a book of stories by Somerset Maughan is rather like sitting on a club veranda in Singapore and listening to some worldly-wise, cultured, and gently cynical story-teller skin tales about the white men who spent their lives in the Far East. (Oh, well, I've never done it, but I imagine that it is.)

Mr. Maughan's newest book, "Ah King," is a collection of six stories, and in them Mr. Maughan is his pleasing self—urbane, tolerant, utterly unconcerned with anything in the nature of a moral lesson, devoted solely to the telling of an entertaining yarn.

He has, for instance, one story about a woman and her lover who club together to kill the woman's husband—and who, getting away with it unscathed, seem to escape remorse completely, marry each other and live out their lives in unworried peace and happiness.

To cap this there's a rollicking tale of a drunken beachcomber who married a gaunt female missionary—married her in spite of himself, so to speak, and all because he fell for her. He was a criminal assault on her person, as she expected him to do, one night when shipwreck cast them away on a lonely island together.

Then there's a story of a betrayed husband who comes to understand that his betrayal is, after all, unimportant, and that, instead of being the heavy English male, he just as well might go on serenely as if nothing had happened.

Published by Doubleday, Doran, the book costs $2.50.

ADVERTISE IN THE HERALD—IT PAYS

THE ONLY BAD MONEY

By an eleventh-hour modification of the United States Treasury order relating to the continuation of the hoarding of gold coins or gold certificates, the reception of such coins or certificates by banks or fiscal agencies of the government, at their face value, is made permissible for an indeterminate time.

It would be most unwise for persons owning gold coins or certificates, if they expect to realize anything from that possession, to retain them, because it is inevitable that, under the present governmental policy, neither gold coins nor certificates will have any convertible value at all when the lid is at last permanently clamped down, as it is certain to be soon.

The latest Treasury Department order undoubtedly was issued more as a matter of fairness to the uncomprehending part of the public than from any desire to squeeze out of the possession of the citizens every last possible coin or certificate. The department must have recognized that no adequate picture of the consequences of withholding the proscribed money had ever been presented.

The people had not had it adequately impressed upon them that if they continued to hold onto their gold and certificates they would find themselves owning nothing but outlawed money, which they could not spend nor, in the case of the coins, even sell for bullion without violating the law and dealing with bootlegging law violators. This, however, is exactly what hoarders will find themselves up against the moment the Treasury Department calls off its present temporary period of tolerance.

Gold coins or certificates, presented to any government fiscal agency after the expiration of this temporary period, will be redeemable for only such value as shall remain in them after the imposition of whatever penalty the Treasury Department shall see fit to impose. Perhaps you will get nine dollars in currency for your ten dollar eagle or your ten dollar certificate, perhaps five—perhaps nothing, since the Treasury has the legal right to penalize the coin to the extent of its full value. At all events it will be extremely poor money—the only poor money in the country. Nobody, in such circumstances, will accept it. Nobody would be accepting it today if it had not been for the extension of time granted yesterday by the Treasury Department.

This serious situation is something that gold hoarders did not realize in many instances. They thought they were going to be able to hang onto something that would become more precious. They forgot all about the Constitutional provision that makes the government, not custom, the creator of money values. They did not realize that the government had the power to make their hoards valueless as money—and that that is exactly what is going to do.

So far as we can see there is nothing in the operation of the law and the regulations to prevent a person retaining in his possession keepsake or souvenir gold coins on which he may place a sentimental value. He must, however, be prepared to think of them as something of no convertible value, like an old family photograph.

So those who have gold coins or gold certificates tucked away, be the amount large or small, if they are figuring on them as a financial asset, should make the utmost haste to cash them in for legal money of the United States while there is still opportunity. It won't be long now.

SHIP MERGER

The merger of the Cunard Steamship Company and the White Star Line, only unofficially announced as yet but authoritatively said to have been accomplished as of Jan. 1, news of the combination having just reached this country, brings under one control the two British steamship lines best known in this country. The history of these lines covers the whole period of the development of the steamship from an experimental anomaly to the dominating and well nigh exclusive force in oceanic transportation.

The Cunard Company was started in 1840 and derived its name from Samuel Cunard of Halifax, who had sailing ships trading from Boston and Newfoundland to Bermuda. Its steamers were the first to cross the Atlantic on regular schedules. The White Star flag was first hoisted over a fleet of clipper ships in the middle of the last century. The company went into steam in 1869 and had a fleet of high-class ships built for the New York-Liverpool route by Harland & Wolff of Belfast—probably the first ships ever built on the cost-plus plan.

What the name of the merged lines is to be has not yet been stated, but since the Cunard is the senior company it will probably come first if the simple device of hyphenating is adopted. Whether its new ships, as they come along, will bear names terminating in "ia" or "ic" is something less easily compromised. Perhaps they will be alternated.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

The "paying-guest" sailor-passengers of the schooner Alamyth who listened to the beguiling tales of owner Allison Laytham concerning the staunch seaworthiness of the old yacht, who thereupon started gaily out for a romantic cruise in Southern seas and who narrowly escaped drowning when the ancient ship fell to pieces under them 75 miles off the New Jersey coast, may have missed the sardonic implications of the vessel's name, formed by mixing up the letters of the name of the owner and which to all intents and purposes is "All-a-myth."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Evening Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 19.—A Caesarian operation will be performed on the goose with the golden eggs.

Roosevelt has become saturated increasingly in the proposal to take nearly $4,000,000,000 "profit" out of the gold in the Federal Reserve banks when the dollar is devalued. Many of his advisers regard the operation as inadvisable.

No one will admit it, but it is Roosevelt himself who suggested that Senator Elmer Thomas of Oklahoma introduce a bill empowering the Treasury to impound the gold. The Reserve banks would be paid gold certificates representing devaluated dollars, and the Treasury would issue an equal amount of new currency which could be used to pay government expenses.

The President feels he hasn't legal authority to take over the gold. But he wants it.

A Tart Comeback
 Prof. Irving Fisher's list of 19 men "who understand the real meaning of money" left out many who thought they did.

Col. Leonard P. Ayres, the Cleveland economist-statistician, is credited here with the subsequent tart comment that he guessed Gresham's law applied to economists as well as money. (Gresham's law: Bad money drives out good money.)

More Grief for Johnson
 The sensational NRA "Executive Order No. 53" was aimed at certain zealous young staff members of the Labor and Consumer Advisory Boards who insist on protesting vainly against industry's codes. The NRA management sees to it that the industries get what they want, but is annoyed by the protests and wants labor and consumer representatives to act as rubber stamps.

The latter are used to being over-riden roughshod, but don't like to be told to keep out of the way.

The order was issued by NRA Executive Officer Alvin T. Brown by order of General Johnson. Its threat to abolish the advisory boards if they don't "adopt an attitude of conciliation" is so much moonshine.

"Executive Order No. 53" already has piled up more congressional trouble for Johnson.

Distillers Feel Spur
 Members of the Federal Alcohol Administration met and privately brainstormed a newspaper story quoting Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Rex Tugwell as criticizing their failure to prevent sale of expensive bad liquor. They decided, however, to stick pins in the distillers.

The distillers had taken their time organizing a code authority and it finally dawned on the FACA that they might be stalling, preferring to reap the largest possible harvest before coming under real federal control.

Questions of quality and labeling are supposed to be determined by the code authority, composed of distillers, subject to FACA approval. So the FACA had felt reluctant to act until the code authority began to function. But finally it has demanded action.

One member promises that federal labeling requirements will permit the drinker to know just what's in his bottle and how much blending has been perpetrated.

A Tip From Prison
 Prison magazines published by inmates of federal institutions often contain helpful hints. Here's one just culled.

ULTRA VIOLET RAY LAMPS SAFE WHEN PROPERLY USED

I have been receiving many letters asking me about the safety of the ultra-violet ray as used in the doctor's office and I find that some people are afraid of this treatment, on account of the mistaken idea that they may be burned.

In today's article I am going to tell you something about the ultra violet ray, and will discuss for you the safety of this type of equipment.

The needless fear which seems to be uppermost in the minds of my readers is a fear of being burned and I wish to state at the beginning that it is impossible to get a true burn from the ultra violet ray, similar to the burn which you would get from a red-hot poker applied to the skin. A redness of the skin may follow exposure to the ultra violet ray lamp, if such exposure is continued for a long enough time, and symptoms may appear similar to those of sunburn, but the light developing some time after the light treatment has been given. When the ultra violet ray strikes the skin for a long time, the outer skin may redden and the body may throw water in between the outer, dead skin and the true, living skin underneath. I do not consider this an actual burn, as the ultra violet ray is not a heat ray, it is a cold ray. Some types of equipment generating ultra violet light may seem to throw off heat due to the fact that the mercury in the lamp must be heated, but many modern lamps do not heat the mercury and therefore throw off light, but no heat.

The ultra violet ray is often used for a desired effect of causing the outer skin to slough off. It is useful in the treatment of skin disorders such as eczema, psoriasis, and in acne, especially where there is much pitting or scarring of the skin. It has a great value in the treatment of these skin conditions and the amount of scar tissue which may be caused to slough off is truly remarkable in many cases. However, these skin changes are not burns, they are produced for a definite reason in those special cases where it is desirable to cause this skin reaction during which the dead skin separates and comes off and a new, healthy skin is reformed to take its place.

The ultra violet ray treatment often acts as a general tonic and many patients note that they improve after taking it. It has a beneficial effect in increasing the number of red blood cells in the circulating blood. I myself have seen an increase of one-half million red blood cells in the blood examination after an exposure of the body to the ultra violet ray for four minutes as given with the powerful equipment suitable for a doctor's office. This increase in the red blood cells lasts for only a few hours, but the patient gets the benefit of these revitalized, rejuvenated red blood cells for that length of time and says he feels better. At the same time, there is less need for the scavenger cells and therefore the number of white blood cells in the circulating bloodstream will decrease while the red blood cells are increasing.

When the best type of ultra violet ray lamp is used for a specified length of time, with the patient a specified distance away from the rays, and wearing goggles, there is not the slightest danger of any marked burning and it is therefore ridiculous to avoid such treatments if any condition such as skin disease, anemia or rickets is present, where the lamp would prove of great benefit.

The only conceivable danger I have heard of in using the ultra violet ray is in danger of injury to the eyes where goggles are not worn. The ultra violet ray light seems such a soothing pleasing light to look into that the patient may not realize it could cause a severe burning of the retina of the eye and may also produce inflammation of the eyelids. Such effects are said to last

MERIDEN IS HOST TO M. H. S. IN LEAGUE TUSSLE TONIGHT

SILVER CITY FIVE FAVORITE TO BEAT LOCAL SCHOOLBOYS

Clarkmen Need Victory to Stay in Running But Are Given Little Chance With Strong Rivals.

Manchester High's luckless hoopsters invade the Silver City tonight for a Central Connecticut Interscholastic League tussle with a highly-touted Meriden High team that has been defeated only by Bristol in League competition. The Red and White with two victories and two defeats is given only an outside chance to win but a local triumph looms as a possibility if the Clarkmen can display the form shown against Bristol and Hartford.

A Manchester victory would tighten up the League race considerably if East Hartford takes its predicted shellacking from the leading Bristol High aggregation, as it would bring about a three-way deadlock for second place. Middletown and West Hartford, already out of consideration due to four consecutive defeats each, meet in the other League encounter with practically nothing depending upon the outcome.

Meriden, with a veteran quintet from last season, has turned in decisive triumphs over West Hartford, Middletown and East Hartford, leading by only three points to Bristol, 27 to 24, in a closely-contested struggle. Coach Frank Barnikow has two outstanding forward in Sbee and Oliver and a scoring ace in I. Zajac at right guard. The rest of the team includes Hobson and B. Zajac, guards, and Gormley, center.

MAPLE LEAFS, RANGERS CLASS OF ICE LEAGUE

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—It is much too early to start making predictions about the end of the National Hockey League season when the second half of the campaign has barely begun, but at the present stage the Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Rangers are the "class of the circuit," and seem to be headed directly for the first place playoff series.

Toronto, leaders of the Canadian division since the end of November, increased its lead to 15 points last night by sweeping the Boston Bruins 6 to 2, and the Rangers fought their way to the top of the American division with a five to 0 triumph over the Chicago Blackhawks, with whom they had been tied.

Kebart Turns Back Rice In Close, Exciting Duel

One of the most exciting bowling matches so far this season was rolled last night at the Charter Oak alleys between Walter Rice of Meriden and Charlie Kebart of this town. This, the first ten games of a 20 game home and home match was not decided until the last half of the final game.

Rice who is practically unknown here and given only an outside chance to defeat Kebart, started out strong by taking a lead of 92 pins in the first three games.

Kebart hits 'Em Aroused by this big lead, Kebart started to hit wood and in the next five games picked up 6 pins to take the lead by 24. Rice, however, came

Announce Choice of Eli Mentor Early Next Week

Factions Urging "Outside" Coach See Victory in Report But New Contract to Reggie Root Is Also Indicated; No Official Word.

New Haven, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Athletic powers that be at Yale bent prodigally today before the gusts of graduate and undergraduate controversy and hastened to pick a football head coach.

"They're speeding up," reported the official spokesman for the Yale athletic association, and the date for the announcement for the choice—once set for February 1—now stood "the first of next week."

Taken As Victory This announcement was taken immediately as a victory for the factions urging that Yale break her tradition of graduate coaching and select an "outsider," preferably Harry G. Kipke of Michigan.

The original indication of a February announcement aroused protest that the delay was designed to let the agitation for a non-graduate coach build itself out before another Yale man was chosen. The quickening of the process of naming the coach was interpreted to mean the authorities may have yielded at last to the pressure for a change.

Another Side But there was another side to the story—a side indicating the speed matters there might be a few negotiations to be conducted, that a new contract for Reggie Root might be all that was necessary.

For all such speculation, the athletic association had a single answer: the decision has been made on any part of the staff.

Malcolm Farmer, director of Athletics, spent a busy week, with the board of athletic control meeting at New Haven and the advisory football committee reported in session at New York.

As for the goal of these meetings, the official word was:

"They are doing everything possible to expedite it."

BROUILLARD IS AFTER THREE WORLD TITLES

Brouillard already has one and lost—the welterweight and middleweight championships and now is gunning for the lightweight crown worn so debonairly by Maxey Rosenberg.

He makes his first serious gesture in that direction tonight when he battles Bob Olin of New York in the ten-round feature at Madison Square Garden. The winner may get a match for the title Rosenberg will defend against Joe Knight in Miami, February 1.

ACE HIGH JUMPERS BATTLE ON BOARDS IN MILLROSE MEET

South and West Threaten Eastern Supremacy in Indoor Track and Field Activities This Winter.

By NEA Service
New York, Jan. 19.—Supremacy of the east in indoor track and field activities is threatened by hard-running and high-jumping sons of the south and west. While antics on the boards were confined to athletes of the Atlantic coast until 1932, in the last few years invasions from other sections have been under way.

Little Emmett Toppino, Loyola sprint flash from New Orleans, started the ball rolling in 1932, when he journeyed north and won a series of brilliant dashes in winter meets. He repeated last year with victories over Frank Wykoff, Pacific coast sensation.

While Wykoff's fate in the east was unfortunate, it in no way dented the ambitions of other boys from the west. They're planning an assault on the eastern forces starting with the 27th running of the Millrose meet here, Feb. 3.

Leading the western contingent will be two world record holders—Walter Marty, Fresno State high jumper, and Bill Graber, Southern California pole vaulter.

Marty will arrive here in time to contest with George Spitz, New York University's holder of the indoor high jump record, in the Millrose games, but Graber's impending duel with Keith Brown, Yale vaulter, will come later in the season.

Marty's high jump record, made outdoors, is 6 feet 8 1/2 inches. His indoor performance has been few and he may be at a disadvantage meeting Spitz, indoor records holder at 6 feet 6 1/2 inches.

The two met during the National A. A. U. meet at Chicago last year. This meet, held outdoors, didn't see the two at their best because of unsatisfactory night lighting. They cleared 6 feet 6 inches, but both are capable of better.

Jumping on a board is more hazardous than outdoors, and less likely to create new records. Rubber-soled shoes are worn on indoor duels with Keith Brown, Yale vaulter, and the high jumper, but both are capable of better.

Another invader from the south—Emmett Toppino will be back—is Glenn Hardin, brilliant hurdler and 440-yard runner of Louisiana State. Glenn was undefeated in the 440 run and the 200-yard and 400-meter hurdles during 1933.

Hardin's coming tilts with Ivan Furdus, Indiana University's A. A. U. 400-meter champion, may see well accounted for 13 points.

The game was void of excitement, the winners drawing first blood to hold a comfortable lead through the entire game. Both teams displayed good pass work at intervals, but lacked the fight and spirit that makes a game a success from a spectators point of view. Campbell and Opizzi were the outstanding players for the Annsald team while Bowers and Vinick played well for the losers.

Local Sport Chatter

We understand that Manchester has a host of hockey fans who avidly follow the results of games in the National and Can-Am Leagues, but to us it seems a waste of time and energy to worry much about the relative standing of the teams during the playing season.

Due to the playoff system now in vogue, which is a team's position in the league standing makes no difference when the Stanley Cup series starts. Experts have advanced this as the reason why the New York Rangers are not fighting their heads off to gain first place.

With the basketball season reaching its peak, this seems a good time to again remind those who desire to have the results of their games published to make certain that the box scores are made out correctly and also to write on only one side of the paper. It's the only way of making certain that the results will be printed.

VINES BEATS TILDEN TO EVEN PRO SERIES

Cleveland, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Young Ellsworth Vines has evened the road tennis series with Big Bill Tilden at three matches all in a short power show which included a spray of baffling drives and a breath taking service good for 17 aces.

Tilden utilized his contract privilege to shorten the match to three sets last night when he saw the crowd of 200 at the collar virtually spilling over the edge of the court. Vines' victory was an scores of 6-3, 5-6, 6-3.

Vines appeared to be at top form, but for Tilden the crowded space, the lights and some of the line-man's decisions added nothing to his poise.

Wesleyan-Amherst Meet In Little Three Clash

Middletown, Conn., Jan. 19.—The Wesleyan University basketball quiet will meet a Williams aggregation on the Cardinal court tomorrow night in the first of the winter's Little Three contests between the two traditional rivals.

Wesleyan's initial big for Little Three honors in basketball competition failed last Saturday when the Amherst outfit took over the Cardinal, 25-20, for the Sabians' first basketball victory over Wesleyan in twelve consecutive games. The Cardinal outfit, tall and fast, has been powerful all season in its offensive attack, but was completely disorganized under the scrappy play of the Lord Jeff hoopsters.

Baer-Carnera Go Is Off; Levinisky May Get Fight

Garden Fails to Agree on Max-Primo Battle So Kingfish May Be Groomed for Title Shot; Has Already Been Beaten by the Champ.

By HERBERT W. BARKER
New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—If Madison Square Garden promotes a heavyweight championship bout in June, the chances are just about ten to one, the challenger won't be Max Baer. But it might be King Levinisky.

Finding it impossible to tie Baer up to a contract to fight for the Garden in the event he won the championship, Colonel John R. Kilpatrick, president of the Big Arena and his match-maker, Jimmy Johnstone, have dropped all negotiations with Baer, his manager, Ancil Hoffman, and Promoter Jack Dempsey, and turned to Levinisky instead.

Book Two For King The first move toward building the talkative ex-fish peddler into the status of a title contender, the Garden's directors have booked him for two matches, one against Charley Massera, young Pittsburgher, the other against Walter Neusel, blonde puncher from Germany, Feb. 9, and March 2 respectively.

If the Kingfish can get by those two hurdles, he may be asked to agree to one more tuneup before getting into the main event. Baer, always assuming the mammoth Italian succeeds in beating Tommy Loughran in their 15 round bout in Miami, Feb. 22.

If Levinisky, his sister-manager Lena, and a delegation from the Chicago stadium had not been in town in an effort to arrange a Levinisky-Max Schmeling battle, the Garden might never even have thought of the Kingfish.

Since he was in town, and especially since he got nowhere whatever in a conversation with Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, it was only natural for the King to drop around to the Garden.

There was no particular stress laid on the fact that Carnera already has whipped Levinisky once. That was in November, 1931.

With an agreement with the Garden apparently further away than ever, Dempsey now may attempt to match Baer and Schmeling for a return match in San Francisco, possibly next month.

West Side Rec News
The doubles pool tournament at the West Side Rec opened up last Monday night with the match between Stewart Vennert and Dave McConkey as partners against Francis Mahoney and Bert McConkey. The Vennert-McConkey combination had to shoot good pool to win 100 to 88. Since the opening night the following matches have been played: the junior champion and his partner Tommy Hagenow defeated Francis Brimley and his mate Tommy Cole, 100-62; Larry Mahoney and Earl Bissell took Wilson McCormick and Bob Carney into camp, 100-62, and Benson and "Bing" Frazer won from Eddie Werner and Jason Chapman, 100 to 88. To reach the finals of the tournament Benson and Frazer will meet Stecky and Hagenow and Mahoney and Bissell will have to prove they are better than Vennert and McConkey.

Ping Pong
An effort will be made to start a Ping Pong tournament and all those who care to enter such a tournament are requested to sign at the office. Milton Nelson won last year's tournament and will be expected to defend his title.

Take Wide Lead Malin, Brink and Carukin led the whirwind attack of the Kevin Barry in the first half and swiftly piled up a wide margin, leading 8-3 at the end of the first period and 23 to 10 at halftime. The Guards battled on even terms in the next period and outscored their opponents in the final quarter but were unable to come within threatening distance. Chapman and Falkowski, the scoring aces of the Guards, were effectively silenced by the close guarding of Brink and Kennedy.

Floor Very Small The Lyceum floor is far from being spacious and the limited surface, so different from the huge Armory floor here, was an outstanding factor in the Guards inability to get started against the fast stepping Kevin Barry. A return game will be played here in the near future.

AS BRIDGEPORT TONIGHT
Malin, Carukin and Brink stood out for the winners and Turkington and Farr were best for the Guards. Tonight the town champs travel way down to Bridgeport to meet the General Electric Hotspots in a return game. The locals won here by a score of 33 to 30.

Orders Received Here to Reduce Amount of Work Being Done.

Effective immediately, all workmen under the Civil Works Administration in this town will go on a 24-hour labor schedule in conformity with a ruling received in Hartford yesterday afternoon by Miss Eleanor H. Little, acting CWA administrator for Connecticut from Federal Administrator Harry L. Hopkins.

The order directed the immediate reductions in working hours ranging from 20 to 50 per cent, which will result in the sliding of $145,000 a week from CWA payrolls in the state.

The reductions in working hours are made necessary, the administration states, due to the fact that the average weekly wages for the Civil Works have exceeded the original estimates.

Frank Cheney, Jr., chairman of the local CWA board, stated this morning that the reductions will be put into effect here at once in conformity with the ruling of the federal administrator.

First Issue of Connecticut Journal Given Limited Distribution.

First issue of the Connecticut State Journal, a new monthly magazine dealing in the governmental and political affairs of Connecticut, will be distributed throughout the state today to a selected mailing list and will be given a limited newstand distribution over the week-end, its publisher, William A. Hendrick, announced last night.

The policy of the new publication will be announced in this first issue as follows: "It is the ambition of the editors, as time goes on, to make it increasingly interesting as a commentator on public and political affairs in Connecticut. It will also, however, express opinions and cover events each month of interest to the Democratic party."

"Son of Kong" Thrills With Castaway Romance

"Son of Kong" RKO-Radio Pictures sequel to the epic fantasy "King Kong," at the State today and Saturday, is an entirely different yarn than its startling predecessor, according to word from Hollywood following a recent preview.

The theme of the story tends to romance with adventure, rather than toward unmitigated terrors, which, in "King Kong," reached a high peak in the gigantic ape going to his doom because of his pursuit of a beautiful woman. "Son of Kong," offspring of this monster, proves to have startling instincts of gratitude and chivalry.

In "Son of Kong" the hero, Denham, hearing of a chest of diamonds, supposedly buried in an ancient temple on Skull Island, leads a new expedition to that lost land and its prehistoric monsters, accompanied by a small crew and a girl, who, falling in love with him, has smuggled herself aboard the ship.

Fearing the horrible fate of Denham's former crew, the sailors mutiny and flee with the ship, leaving Denham, the girl, and three others stranded.

The younger Kong proves a totally different personality than his tremendous forbear, and to the astonishment of the entire group of adventurers, appoints himself as a persona, bodyguard for Denham and Denham's sweetheart.

The strange spectacle of this oddly assorted band, the ape towering above his companions as they dare death in search of treasure, is said to provide even greater thrills than the original story.

ARREST POLICEMAN IN HARLEM FIGHT

As one of the men alighted from the car he announced "I'm a policeman." It was Carney. He was arrested with his two companions.

Three hours later police enroute to the hospital to question Sykes saw the other car and started a chase that ended several blocks away with the arrest of the car's four occupants.

"Duke" Schultz, whose correct name is Arthur Wigenheimer, allegedly headed the rear racket in the Bronx. He has been a fugitive for a year on a Federal income tax indictment. Only a few days ago Chief Inspector Valentine ordered police to bring him in remarking it was "a shame" that a man known to so many police should remain at liberty so long.

DOLLFUSS AGAIN WARNS GERMANY

Most press comments stressed the coincidence in the Dollfuss declaration having been delivered on the way of Suwich's arrival.

There was a general disposition, however, to await further developments before attempting to gauge the importance of the speech.

The country or state which practically assumes an attitude of might against a small neighbor, the speech said, "runs the risk itself of being outlawed with respect to other states and peoples."

As Suwich continued his conference with government leaders today, the purpose of his visit still was unclear. It was generally regarded, however, as a gesture of encouragement by Premier Mussolini to Dollfuss in his drive for a "united front" in Austria.

SEVEN CONVICTS ESCAPE FROM KANSAS PRISON

(Continued from Page One) In addition to Brady and Clark those who escaped were: Charles Clifton McArthur, 29, serving 5 to 10 years for second degree burglary, with previous prison terms in Texas and Oklahoma. In Oklahoma he was sentenced to life for murder and paroled. Used Alias Claude Newton.

Fred Cody, 33, serving 10 to 50 years for bank robbery from Morton county, Kansas; previous prison term from Greenwood county, Kansas, for child desertion and assault to kill.

Tommie McMahan, 20, serving 20 to 42 years for first degree robbery from Douglas county, Kansas; previously served at State Reformatory for auto theft from Johnson county.

Frank Delmar, 30, alias Frank Brennan, 20 years for second degree murder from Leavenworth county; previous reformatory term for auto theft from Miami county. Benjamin Young, 19, 2 to 4 years for jail break, sent up from Harvey county, Kansas; previous term at State Reformatory for motor car theft.

Brady and Clark were captured last fall near Tucumsari, N. M., and were returned to the penitentiary. Brady was wounded originally in an attempt to escape capture.

Of those who escaped in the Memorial Day break, only Ed Davis remains at large.

The Memorial Day escape was followed by a reign of terror throughout the southwest in which a trail of murder, kidnapings, and robberies were left.

Death has ended the careers of two of those who participated in the Memorial Day break. Wilbur Underhill, desperado, was captured at Shawnee, Okla., Dec. 30 and died a week later in prison of wounds received as he fled from officers' fire.

Kenneth Conn, the other, was slain in a bank holdup. Harvey Bailey, a big name in southwest crime records and one of the leaders in the escape, is in Federal prison at Leavenworth serving a life sentence as one of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma oil man.

Others who escaped but who have been captured and returned to cells are Lewis Bechtel, Billie Woods, Frank Sawyer and Clifford Dopson, and Alvin Payton.

In the Memorial Day break Kirk Prather, then warden, and two guards were overpowered and kidnaped. Being taken outside the prison, and carrying the warden and guards as hostages, the prisoners made a wild dash for hills of northern Oklahoma. Prather and the guards were released at Welch, Okla.

It was the last day of Prather's service as warden. He was succeeded by Lacey Simpson, the present warden.

The Lansing prison is not far from the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. There are wooded areas along the Missouri river which fugitives might well use as a hiding place.

Cell Block No. 2, from which today's escape was made, is the section where the most dangerous criminals are confined. Forty-two other prisoners in the cell block made no effort to escape. Guard Deer was unarmed.

Old U. S. paper money is ground into pulp and sold.

county; previous reformatory term for auto theft from Miami county. Benjamin Young, 19, 2 to 4 years for jail break, sent up from Harvey county, Kansas; previous term at State Reformatory for motor car theft.

Brady and Clark were captured last fall near Tucumsari, N. M., and were returned to the penitentiary. Brady was wounded originally in an attempt to escape capture.

Of those who escaped in the Memorial Day break, only Ed Davis remains at large.

The Memorial Day escape was followed by a reign of terror throughout the southwest in which a trail of murder, kidnapings, and robberies were left.

Death has ended the careers of two of those who participated in the Memorial Day break. Wilbur Underhill, desperado, was captured at Shawnee, Okla., Dec. 30 and died a week later in prison of wounds received as he fled from officers' fire.

Kenneth Conn, the other, was slain in a bank holdup. Harvey Bailey, a big name in southwest crime records and one of the leaders in the escape, is in Federal prison at Leavenworth serving a life sentence as one of the kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, millionaire Oklahoma oil man.

Others who escaped but who have been captured and returned to cells are Lewis Bechtel, Billie Woods, Frank Sawyer and Clifford Dopson, and Alvin Payton.

In the Memorial Day break Kirk Prather, then warden, and two guards were overpowered and kidnaped. Being taken outside the prison, and carrying the warden and guards as hostages, the prisoners made a wild dash for hills of northern Oklahoma. Prather and the guards were released at Welch, Okla.

It was the last day of Prather's service as warden. He was succeeded by Lacey Simpson, the present warden.

The Lansing prison is not far from the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth. There are wooded areas along the Missouri river which fugitives might well use as a hiding place.

NEW YORK RACKETEERS TO END, SAYS KING

Commissioner Confident Of New Deal for Poultrymen; Visits LaGuardia.

Hartford, Jan. 18.—Connecticut poultrymen are to receive a new deal and a square deal on the New York City Live Poultry Market in the opinion of Commissioner of Agriculture Oloott F. King...

Commissioner King was appointed chairman of a committee from the Council to wait upon Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York City and present evidence to show that racketeering and racketeering practices as carried on in New York City are costing the poultrymen of the Northeast a small fortune each year.

Commissioner King, in talking with Mayor LaGuardia, commended him for his pledge to wipe out racketeering and urged him to vigorously prosecute his campaign against poultry racketeers as a means of saving thousands of dollars which the poultrymen could ill afford to lose.

"The racketeers in New York City, through their vicious and parasitical activities, are not only causing Connecticut poultrymen to lose thousands of dollars each year but are also causing consumers to pay higher prices for poultry meat," said Commissioner King.

"Connecticut is vitally interested in the New York City poultry situation, for the racketeers, through their strong arm tactics and methods of intimidation, have made it practically impossible for Connecticut poultrymen to do business in the city without paying exorbitant cash tributes in exchange for alleged services."

"After my visit with Mayor LaGuardia I am firmly convinced," continued the commissioner, "that he is sincere in his efforts to clean up racketeering in New York City. However, he made it perfectly clear that the thing he wanted most of all was concrete evidence which would make convictions possible."

"I hope every poultryman in Connecticut and the remainder of the thirteen northeastern states will come forward with these facts so that in the very near future it will be possible for Connecticut poultrymen to sell their product in New York City without interference from the racketeers who have been strangling legitimate business."

"The Council has made a noble effort which should be appreciated by every poultryman even though it is not customary for him to sell his birds in good faith and then was prevented from taking them to his store unless he elected to pay the racketeering charges or be hauled into court."

"Mayor LaGuardia showed no surprise when we presented our complaint about poultry racketeering. In fact, his remarks indicated that he is quite familiar with the situation."

"The Mayor declared, 'The live poultry markets are lousy with racketeers, but what you people must understand is that the Mayor and the police department are helpless to cope with these racketeers unless the persons expelled cooperate with us to drive them out.'"

Those on the committee who visited Mayor LaGuardia in addition to Commissioner of Agriculture Oloott F. King were: T. E. Charles, head of the Poultry Department, University of New Hampshire, Durham, N. H.; G. Henry Hoeker, President of the Pennsylvania Poultry Association, Millville, Pa.; Harold Rotzel, President of the Massachusetts Federation of Poultry Associations, West Medway, Mass.; Alben E. Jones, Chief of Poultry Marketing for the New Jersey Department of Agriculture, Trenton, N. J.; Wallace E. Moreland, News Editor of the New Jersey College of Agriculture, New Brunswick, New Jersey; and L. C. Parsons, Publisher of the New England Poultryman, Boston, Mass.

EXPECT AUTO SHOW THIS YEAR TO EXCEL

Henry Schaller Chairman of Committee — To Be Held February 14-17.

An Automobile and Home Appliance Show that is expected to be the best ever held in Manchester, will be presented at the local State Armory from February 14 to 17, Wednesday to Saturday inclusive, it was announced last night, following the meeting of the committee appointed to handle the event by President E. J. Holl of the Chamber of Commerce.

"It will be the finest show that Manchester has ever had," said Henry Schaller, who was named as chairman of the committee, and E. J. McCabe, executive vice president of the Chamber. The committee also includes W. A. Cole, James Shearer, Elmore Hohenthal, Parker Soren, John Echmuller, Leon Thorp and Fred Fitchner.

At its meeting last night the committee expressed its confidence that business conditions were definitely on the upturn by fixing a budget to provide for a most elaborate show, one that it is planned will stress educational features. The Armory will be lavishly and beautifully decorated, an orchestra will furnish musical entertainment during afternoon and evening and as a special attraction, a cooking school will be held in the Armory basement each afternoon from 1 to 3 o'clock.

This class will be in charge of Mrs. Marion Rowe, home economics expert of the Manchester Electric Company. Seating facilities in the Armory basement are such as to accommodate a crowd of close to 600 persons.

Many Changes This year's show, the first since 1932, should prove most interesting to the general public, in view of the revolutionary improvements that have been made in the automotive field this year. Fifteen different automobiles will be on display, all the very latest models. The fifteen cars that will be featured by the local dealers are: Buick, Pontiac, Ford, Dodge, Plymouth, Chevrolet, Oldsmobile, Essex, Hudson, Chrysler, DeSoto, Willys, Reo, Nash and Studebaker.

In addition to the automotive display, there will be thirty exhibits of home appliances, including radios, electric refrigerators, washing machines, vacuum cleaners, oil burners and a host of miscellaneous articles, which will be on display in booths erected along the sides of the Armory. The automobiles will be displayed in the center and along the rear of the auditorium.

OPEN FORUM

Editor, The Herald: Here is a little item that might interest some of the residents of Manchester it being a very striking coincidence.

ODD COINCIDENCES

Miss Emily C. L. Milton who comes from Boston and Danvers, Massachusetts and who is spending several weeks at "The Edgewood House" states the following rather singular coincidences and striking similarities. Of those whose names appear on the rolls of the political leaders and town officials, also the medical and commercial profession as she asserts that on the honorable cards of selection in both her home town, Danvers, Mass., and also here in Manchester there are two of the same name, Mr. Williams and Mr. Cook, two policemen by the names of Fitzgerald and Gordon, three well known physicians who bear the names of Moore Moriarty and Reynolds, a well known and popular lodge and church woman in both communities, she being a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and a worker in the Congregational churches by the name of Mrs. Viola Trotter and that both places have people named Bill Russell, Chester Ferris, Virginia Johnson and George E. Keith. It would seem a rather singular coincidence that this should be the case in the two towns in which she spends the greater part of her time.

URGES EXTENSION OF MARKER PERIOD

W. S. Grant Asks Governor Cross to Allow Auto License Grace.

W. S. Grant, proprietor of the Midland filling station, 311 Main street, in an appeal directed to Governor Cross and Michael A. Connor, asks for a special emergency extension of the 1933 marker period for automobiles until June 30, 1934.

Grant has written Governor Cross to act in a special emergency for the extension of the 1933 marker period for the assistance of those owners and drivers who cannot afford to register their cars at this time.

Virginia's Plan In his letter to Governor Cross, Mr. Grant pointed out that the State of Virginia, due to a postponement of auto registration, put 50,000 cars on the road in the winter months. He quoted the "Gasoline Weekly" to the effect that postponement of the marker date would keep two and one-half million automobiles on the road at an estimate of $310,000,000 additional money in circulation during the winter months. Defering the marker date would help owners of cars and business men alike, Mr. Grant stated.

Mr. Grant believed that the State of Connecticut would receive from $250,000 to $500,000 more income from 100 percent marker collection and 100 percent gasoline tax collection, which is needed at this time.

Mr. Grant quoted the Governor of Wisconsin, as saying in connection with an extension of the marker period in that state: "I wondered why this marker question had not been brought to my attention previously."

Commissioner's Opinion In his reply to Mr. Grant, Michael A. Connor, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles stated that the department had seriously considered the matter of changing the date of expiration of registration of motor vehicles, and found, after investigation, many points in favor of such a change.

The principal difficulty, Mr. Connor pointed out, was the fact that the Connecticut statutes distinctly define the registration period, necessitating a special status to cover any such action. Whether or not a statute of this kind could be put through the legislature is a matter of serious question, Mr. Connor believes. As for granting the extension of time now on the expiration of 1933 registrations, the Motor Vehicle Department is powerless to act, Commissioner Connor wrote.

Mr. Grant has not received a reply from Governor Cross as yet. Mr. Grant contends that Governor Cross, in view of Supreme Court Justice Hughes' recent decision that an emergency knows no law, could forget our present Motor Vehicle law for the present—laws that were enacted when times were good—and proclaim a temporary relief for car owners and business men.

Added Gas Revenue In the event temporary relief was granted car owners that the state would receive from $50 to $100 additional revenue per person in gasoline taxes from the first of the year until June 30th.

From the business man's standpoint, Mr. Grant says that he has taken special note of business conditions existing after January 1 of each year over a ten-year period. The result of his observations showed a decided reduction in sales from January 1 until April 1. In 1933, especially, Mr. Grant found that sales dropped 50 per cent after January 1 and did not reach normal level again until after July, 1933. At the present time sales have dropped 75 per cent, which shows plainly, Mr. Grant believes, that the January 1 marker date is not consistent with good business ethics.

Mr. Grant urges a state-wide drive of automobile owners, gasoline stations and other related business concerns, through their representatives, senators and Governor Cross directly, appealing for immediate action on this necessary relief measure.

SAYS NRA EMBLEM IS SOVIET SYMBOL

Norwalk, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Intimating that somebody might have put a clever piece of Soviet propaganda over on the people of the United States, Mrs. Grace Lincoln Broseau of Greenwich, past president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, yesterday afternoon told the members of the local D. A. R. chapter that the NRA eagle, with its broken talon, strikingly similar to the Russian eagle.

Mrs. Broseau further stated that the new NRA stamps bear the sign of the eagle—another Soviet symbol. The former National head of the D. A. R. delivered a bitter attack on the re-ognition of Soviet Russia by the United States. She assailed the Red anti-religious activities and Soviet military preparations.

"It behooves us all to be on our guard to combat Red propaganda," she declared.

JOHNSON SET TO FIGHT FOR RECOVERY IDEALS

Raps Republican Independents for Criticizing NRA — Says They Refused to Confer With Him.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Further retaliatory outbursts in the Senate against the NRA today appeared a certainty as a result of notice served by Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, that he was ready to do battle for his ideas. Critics of the NRA—and Johnson apparently pointed at least in part to two Republican Independents who led yesterday's attack in the Senate—were scored by the Administrator last night in a New York speech filled with colorful language. Johnson dealt at length with the question of monopolies and profiteering, the focal point of criticism by Senators Borah of Idaho and Nye of North Dakota yesterday. He did not name them, but said:

"I asked the very gentlemen who are not concerning themselves with this kind of problem to sit in here and try to see that only good results. They did not accept, x x x. "I believe that they preferred to sit aside and conjecture x x x. So long as they both shall live they will have to answer as to why they did not consent."

VIOLATED THE LAW FOR OVER 2 YEARS

But Mortgage Company in New York Was Allowed to Do Business.

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Testimony in a state investigation closed today that the State Title and Mortgage Company of West Chester county, was permitted to remain open almost two years after state examiners had unearthed evidence of violations of the law in its operation. The examiners also had found "alarming conditions" in connection with the company's finances.

With George S. Van Schaick, state superintendent of insurance, on the witness stand, Alfred A. Cook, counsel to the investigation, produced an examiners' report of the fall of 1931, which expressed alarm at the company's condition and management.

Another report said that, despite the provision of the insurance law prohibiting a company from investing more than 10 per cent of its assets on the security of any one firm or state. The State Title and Mortgage Company had made investments of more than $2,500,000,000 are now tied up.

Allowed To Go On Despite the examination disclosures of 1931, the company was allowed to remain open until August, 1933, when the insurance department took it over for rehabilitation along with thirteen other mortgage companies, in which investments of more than $2,500,000,000 are now tied up.

Cook, questioning Van Schaick, demanded: "I just wonder why with a report such as had been made, and in view of the subsequent history of the company, why it should have been permitted to live."

Van Schaick replied that he left to the chief examiner and subordinated the details of what should be done. He added that he gave "specific instructions that everything should be done that could be done under the law."

In regard to another matter Van Schaick previously had testified that the guarantee mortgage business and problems had grown to such "tremendous proportions" that the "state policy in regard to examinations lagged woefully."

Van Schaick said that in regard to the State Title and Mortgage Company, one of his deputies had called his attention in 1931 to the "terribly complicated set-up of affiliates and subsidiaries," a set-up which Van Schaick called "exceedingly blind." The superintendent said he advised the Legislature to prevent investments in affiliates.

TWO PERSONS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Baltimore, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Two persons were killed near here early today when their automobile left a corkscrew curve on the Hartford road and crashed into a tree.

The dead: H. Thomas Dee, 34, advertising solicitor for a Baltimore newspaper, Miss Mary D. Morrison, 30. Dee, who was driving, apparently mistook the last twist of the curve, the last of a series of a line on a grade leading down into the valley of the Gunpowder Falls, for the straightaway.

Baltimore county officials discovered the wrecked automobile with both its occupants dead. Dee is survived by his mother, Mrs. Anna Dee, and a brother, Robert, of Concord, N. H., and a sister, Anna, who is Sister M. Borromeo, at the Convent of Mercy, East Boston, Mass.

Rambrandt, the great Dutch painter, died a bankrupt. Franz Hals, the great artist, continually in debt, lived at the end of parish valley.

ESTIMATES GIVEN ON SEAWAY PLAN

President Tells Senate 70 Millions Annually Would Be Saved by Project.

Washington, Jan. 19.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent to the Senate today a special War Department estimate that the transportation savings on traffic by the proposed St. Lawrence seaway project would be $70,000,000 annually.

The treaty was still before the Senate, Senator Shipstead (F.-L., Minn.) speaking in its favor. The War Department report showed its estimate was based on a calculation that the export and import tonnage over the seaway annually would amount to 13,000,000 tons.

The net cost to the United States was estimated by the Department at $182,726,250, assuming the New York power project would carry $89,726,750 as its share of the cost.

Completion of the seaway, said the report, would enable 70 per cent of the world's ocean freight cargo tonnage to reach the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence ports in the United States, serving an area with 45,000,000 population. In his speech, blame for opposition to ratification was placed by Shipstead at the door of the "banking masters of the nation" and the railroads which he termed "errand boys."

Meanwhile, another attempt for a reservation to the treaty appeared today, Senator Lewis (D., Ill.), offering one holding Lake Michigan is not an international boundary water.

"It is hereby declared," the reservation said, "that said Lake Michigan is now and at all times during the existence of the United States of America has been an American lake wholly within the jurisdiction of the United States, and in no wise within the jurisdiction of any foreign or international government."

The 1933 wool clip of Montana has been estimated at 32,000,000 pounds.

TOLLAND

Mr. and Mrs. James Clough celebrated their sixty-third wedding anniversary last Friday. They received many cards of congratulations and telephone calls. Gus Hochman will be the speaker at the Federated church next Sunday morning service. The regular Tolland Grange whist will be held in the Community House, Friday evening, January 26, when the public are invited to attend. The Ladies' Aid society of the Federated church will serve a banquet to the Tolland county Y. M. C. A. in the church dining rooms Friday evening, January 26.

The men's Community club will be held in the social rooms of the Federated church Saturday evening, Jan. 27, when Judge Ernest S. Fuller of Somers will entertain with moving pictures of his recent European tour. All men are invited to these meetings. The late Frankly DeHaven was awarded the Salmagundi Prize of $50, a few hours before his death from a painting which he had entered in the animal exhibition and auction sale of the Salmagundi Club in New York. The jury of awards of the club met the same day that he died, but it was several days afterward that it was learned he had been a prize winner, the rules of the club forbidding announcement of prize winners until the exhibition opens. The picture which won the prize is a small oil entitled "November," depicting a scene in a forest. A green fern with a purple ribbon has been fastened underneath the painting. Mr. DeHaven was a former president of the Salmagundi club and a resident of Tolland and New York City.

In 1880, the total railway mileage in the United States was only 23 miles.

How to Reduce Heating Costs
by JOHN BARCLAY,
Heating Expert

Today I would like to talk to you about the operation of your furnace during cold snaps such as we have had recently. The weather man has been so easy on us that when real cold weather does come we are not prepared for it. However, if you follow these few suggestions, zero weather need hold no more terrors for you.

First, be sure to carry a heavy fuel bed. We have gotten so into the habit of carrying a light fire during milder weather that we forget that when the temperature drops, it is necessary to burn more fuel to meet the demand for more heat.

Secondly—it will also be necessary to open the turn damper in the smokepipe slightly more than you do in milder weather. Remember, however, to change it gradually. Try moving it a sixteenth to an eighth of an inch at a time until you find you are getting ample heat. But, before changing the turn damper, mark its position on the smokepipe with a piece of chalk or pencil. When you have found the correct setting for extreme cold weather mark that position also. Then you will be all set for any weather that comes along. No more guessing—no more experimenting—you will know that the turn damper should be set somewhere between these two points.

And one last reminder—be sure and keep the ashpit clean. I have already told you why this is important, and it is even more important when in cold weather you are using more fuel and consequently must allow more air to pass through the ashpit and up through the fuel bed to burn this additional fuel.

Answers To Questions
Mr. H. W. Roscoe, N. Y. There is no one point which will be the most efficient spot for the damper to be set for all weather conditions. Usually the turn damper need not be open more than one-half, but in mild weather it may be shut. Therefore it will be necessary to change the dampers as the heat is required. Automatic control is more satisfactory and gives a more uniform heat with less attention.

Mr. O. W. Jamestown, N. Y. The burning of soft coal in a furnace without making smoke is difficult unless there is a specially designed furnace, or the coal is very low in volatile matter. You do not mention whether this is for use in a home or an industrial plant. Different methods are used in each, and if you will send more detailed information I shall be glad to help you with your problem.

(If you have any heating problems address John Barclay, Room 1814, 120 Broadway, New York City. He will be glad to reply in a personal letter.)

30 CRIPPLES IN CRASH
Brooklyn, N. Y., Jan. 19—(AP)—A school bus carrying 20 crippled children was struck today by another car, overturned and demolished by fire. Three of the children were slightly injured.

The collision occurred at 16th avenue and 64th street, and both vehicles caught fire immediately. William Reisman, driver of the bus, quickly broke the windows of the overturned bus and pulled the screaming, terrified children out one by one. Only three of them required surgical attention and they were cut about the hands by glass.

Some 300 persons are living on Robinson Crusoe's Island.

JELLIED TOMATO BOUILLON
—Prepare a consommé by boiling together for one hour, then simmering until liquid is reduced to one pint, a half pound of ground steak (discarding all fat), one cup of ground celery, one tablespoon of ground parsley, and a diced carrot, to one quart of water. Simmer about two hours cooking, strain through a cloth and add a half pint of canned tomato juice and reheat. Have ready one and a half tablespoonful of gelatin which has been soaking in a little cold water. Stir this into the hot liquid, remove from fire, and pour into a flat enameled pan. When firmly congealed, cut into cubes and serve in bouillon cups.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

(Treatment for Boils.)

Question: Ida from Idaho Falls inquires: "I have been having many boils and I would like to have your advice on the correct treatment. Should I try to scabber the poisons throughout my body or should I try to draw the poisons out through the top of the boil?"

Answer: Boils are produced from causes from both inside the body and from outside infection. When the body reaches a certain stage of acidosis, and the system becomes enervated, this offers a chance for the growth of any outside bacteria. If you will write to me and ask for my article on boils I will be pleased to send it to you. Remember to enclose a large self-stamped envelope. In most cases I recommend that the patient wait until the boil practice-ally opens itself, possibly encouraging it to soften by repeated applications of hot towels or hot compresses.

(Regarding Red Noses.)

Question: F. V., Los Angeles, Calif., writes: "I see that the newspaper is featuring a statement by a doctor that red noses are not always due to liquor. I noticed this because I received this information from you at least four years ago."

Answer: I am glad to know that you remember my answer to you regarding red noses. However, what I would like to know is what good results you obtained from following the treatment I advised.

(Agar-Agar.)

Question: From Phoenix, Ariz.: "I would like to have the instructions for agar-agar in prune juice."

Answer: Pour three or four ounces of boiling hot water over three or four tablespoonful of agar-agar and let stand for about fifteen minutes. Then add a small glass of prune juice and drink.

DAMAGE OF $75,000 BY FIRE IN BOSTON

Boston, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A five-story brick building at 105 State street, in the heart of the banking district, was swept by fire today with loss estimated at $75,000.

The building housed the stationery firm of Thomas Groom and Company. The upper three stories were burned out completely and the first two floors suffered smoke and water damage. An adjoining building, at 109 State street, housing a branch Western Union office, a club and a lunch room, was badly damaged by smoke and water.

The fire was discovered by Mrs. Bessie Giblin of the Brighton district, a charwoman in the Postal Telegraph building, directly across the street. She was working on the fifth floor and upon seeing flames in the building opposite, rushed to a telephone and summoned fire apparatus.

Four alarms were sounded as a precautionary measure. The firemen were hampered by the dense smoke sent off by a huge stock of smouldering paper stored in the upper floors of the Groom building.

The cause of the blaze was not known.

A Thought

Forsake the foolish and live; and go in the way of understanding.—Proverbs, 9:8.

Teach a man to read and write, and you have put into his hands the great keys of the wisdom-box.—Hudley.

Birthmarks of various kinds have been removed effectively by light treatments of the gamma rays from radium.

HAVE you noticed that your happiest hours occur on days when you feel your best?

Have more of these happy days. You and all your family. Guard health while you have it. Keep on the sunny side of life.

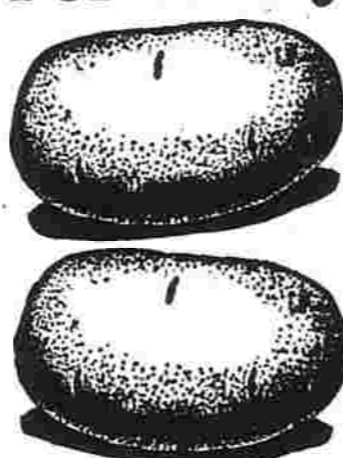

The greatest enemy of health is common constipation. It may cause loss of appetite and energy. Certainly it kills enthusiasm! Yet it can be banished by eating a delicious cereal.

Laboratory tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies "bulk" and vitamin B to relieve common constipation. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables. How much pleasanter to eat this delicious ready-to-eat cereal than to take patent medicines. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

© 1934 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement school.

After returning from his honeymoon in Europe Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARK O BROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in HILDA BLANCHARD. After the party Tom and Gypsy quarrel, but peace is later restored.

Shopping for Christmas, Gypsy meets Broughton who offers her a job cataloging his library and gives her an advance payment of $50. She uses the money to buy Tom's Christmas present, a watch.

Tom and Gypsy spend Christmas at the Morell home. Through-out the gaily Gypsy is troubled by the fact that Tom does not know about her work for Broughton and she knows he would be sure to disapprove.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIV

Mrs. Weaver was expected. Mr. Broughton's man-servant said, quietly. There was something about his matter-of-factness that calmed Gypsy's nerves. Of course it was all right? Why shouldn't she work for Mark? He knew she had dabbled in library work before she had gone into the settlement.

What she had expected, exactly in the way of a reception, she could not say. Only this quiet, high-celled room, with its dark Bokhara rug, its wood paneling, its shelf of volumes, was distinctly reassuring. She felt a man's hand on her shoulder and she saw her hand over her unruly curls. Gypsy looked rather like a little girl today in her dark green jersey frock with its demure white collar. Then she forgot herself, her surroundings, her nervousness, in the serious business of her task.

It was fascinating—Mark's books themselves were that! She lost herself in the absorbing work. She climbed the ladder a dozen times. She sat at the typewriter the man had disclosed, cleverly hidden in one corner of the mammoth walnut desk. She listed and rubbed out and listed again.

And the light waned, the lamps were snapped on by an unseen hand, and still Gypsy worked, unnoted, as if she were alone.

She was aroused by a footfall on the deep rug. Looking up, startled at the interruption, she saw Mark. "My dear child!" His gentle tones betokened surprise, and Gypsy flushed.

"I quite forgot the time," Gypsy stammered, her eyes on the crystal clock face nearby. It was half past five! And she had meant to leave at five at the very latest. She had said something casual to Tom about napping. But she had meant to be home early enough to get dinner. Dinah was "off" tonight. Now she was to be late.

"Ah, you mustn't run away like this," Mark protested, mildly. "Bates will shake us up a cocktail, or you may have tea, if you'd prefer."

Gypsy's one thought was to rush away, to get back to the apartment. Yet she didn't want to offend Mark. She said something vague about a dinner engagement.

"Oh, quite, quite," drawled Mark. "Another time, perhaps. He wasn't in the least the satyr type. Gypsy reflected, pulling on her little hat. He was just kind, friendly, generous. She would have to have an understanding with him about the $50 though. They would have to come to some entirely businesslike arrangement.

But when she spoke of this, Mark waved it aside. "Nonsense," he boomed. "That was merely a retainer. If you do the work as well as I know you will, that amount will only be a drop in the bucket."

He saw her to the door, pressing her hand gently. She was a treat to any one's eyes, he told her fulsomely. She quite lightened up his lonely home. But then everybody knew Mark's gallantries. They were just the casual coin of every day. He was like that to everyone!

Gypsy rode down in the elevator with the sense of being released. She must rush home to Tom now, inventing an excuse for her late return.

She took a trolley bound southward and it seemed fairly to crawl, stopping at every corner, starting again with painful jerks. Gypsy's nerves were taut. At last she alighted at her own corner and turned east. A sharp wind was blowing up from the river and she shivered, buffeting it with her slim figure. She tried vainly to determine whether or not her own apartment windows were lighted but in the darkness she could not be sure. She was conscious now of an intense fatigue, sharpened by her growing sense of nervousness.

Reluctantly she inserted her key in the lock. Was Tom home? And if so, what was she going to say to him?

But the door swung into a darkness that seemed fairly to crawl, stopping at every corner, starting again with painful jerks. Gypsy's nerves were taut. At last she alighted at her own corner and turned east. A sharp wind was blowing up from the river and she shivered, buffeting it with her slim figure. She tried vainly to determine whether or not her own apartment windows were lighted but in the darkness she could not be sure. She was conscious now of an intense fatigue, sharpened by her growing sense of nervousness.

But Gypsy's face was cold, still, closed to him. Without a word, she stripped the gayly laid table, put silver and china away in cupboards, folded the cloth. Without a word she left him, scrubbed, brushed and bathed meticulously. She told herself her heart was quite, quite dead. And she had been feeling so soft, so utterly dependent on Tom just when everything was changed—everything, she told herself passionately. Tom had betrayed her trust. He had not only forgotten her completely, he had lost money that belonged to them both. She had worked for it, as well as he. There was simply no justice in it. Deliberately she closed her eyes to his possible motives. The facts were these: he had been drinking and gambling all day, while she had been pulling her weight in the boat.

Nothing, said Gypsy, would ever be the same again. Tom slept on the daybed that night. She locked her door against him.

PHILADELPHIA OBSERVES NOTED POET'S BIRTHDAY

Philadelphia, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Edgar Allan Poe was born 125 years ago today, and Philadelphia is celebrating the anniversary with programs in the schools, visits to the Poe house, where he once lived, and a dinner for which 1,600 persons have accepted invitations.

It was while living in Philadelphia that Poe produced many of his most widely known works. "The Raven" is among them. In contrast is a recently discovered bit of literature by the master which will be published for the first time on the banquet menu.

Many other bits from the world of literature will also be presented, varying from the greeting of George Bernard Shaw to Professor Albert Einstein's analysis of the complex essay, "Eureka."

Guests at the dinner will include Edgar Allan Poe, of Baltimore, a descendant, and Lieutenant Governor E. C. Shannon, who will represent in the state because of the illness of Governor Pinchot.

COLLEGE BASKETBALL

Middletown, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Wesleyan University and William College will clash on the basketball court here tomorrow night in the first of the winter's Little Three contests between the old rivals.

Wesleyan's bid for Little Three honors in basketball failed last Saturday when Amherst took over the Cardinals 25 to 20 for their first victory over Wesleyan in 12 consecutive games.

"LOOSE CHANGE" MAKES A HIT

Legion Show Fine Production—Cast Does Excellent Work.

"Loose Change" a musical comedy presented under the auspices of the American Legion, made its premiere performance at the High School hall last night before an average sized but appreciative audience.

Cast Excellent.

The production was well directed by Robert S. Bancroft of the John E. Rogers Producing Company. While the production in its entirety showed excellent work on the part of the entire cast certain players were deserving of special mention. Gladys Stevenson as Verbera Zilch undoubtedly won first honors. Her characterization of the stage struck country "gal" was perfect and her song numbers were put over with enough vim and pep to more than make up for any lack of finesse there might have been in her singing. Dorothy Moorehouse as the private secretary handled her rather uninteresting role capably and her few appearances in song numbers were one of the features of the show. She appeared natural and the rendering of the song numbers was excellent, undoubtedly due to the fact that she has a clear pleasing voice.

Victor Swanson as Paul Brooks gave his usual capable performance and as the lead in the show contributed more than his share towards the success of the production. Julius Radding as "Speedy" handled the comedy role excellently and along with the two scrub women played by Hazel Griggs and Emily Stavitsky gave one of the best characterizations that has been offered in any amateur show of this type in recent years. Robert S. Bancroft, Ruth Stavitsky and Jay Greenberg were pleasing in the parts assigned to them. Other players who contributed their bit towards making the production worth while were: Louis Genevalet, Leon Bradley, Chester Sendrowsky, Betty Stavitsky, Ann Treske, Stewart Taggart, Russell Potterson, Samuel Heron and Gertrude Gardner.

The chorus went through their numbers with enough pep and vim to put them over and were all ones could possibly expect in an amateur show. The members of the chorus, in the order that they appeared in the numbers of the production, were:

Guests—Lillian McKeown, Zita Brennan, Frances Wandyeh, Alice Bonczek, Joy Squatrito, Ella Bidwell, Marjorie Lahey, Ruth Crough, Marie Moonan, Helen Copeland, Mary Draghi, Loretta Chapman, Elizabeth Polyott, Doris Geer.

Office Girls—Barbara Chambers, Loretta Oida, Elsie Schaefer, Mary McGuire, Marie Moonan, Ruth Crough, Elsie Kelsch, Doris Geer.

Tea Servers—Ella Bidwell, Teresa Madden, Lillian Humphreys, Eleanor Keish.

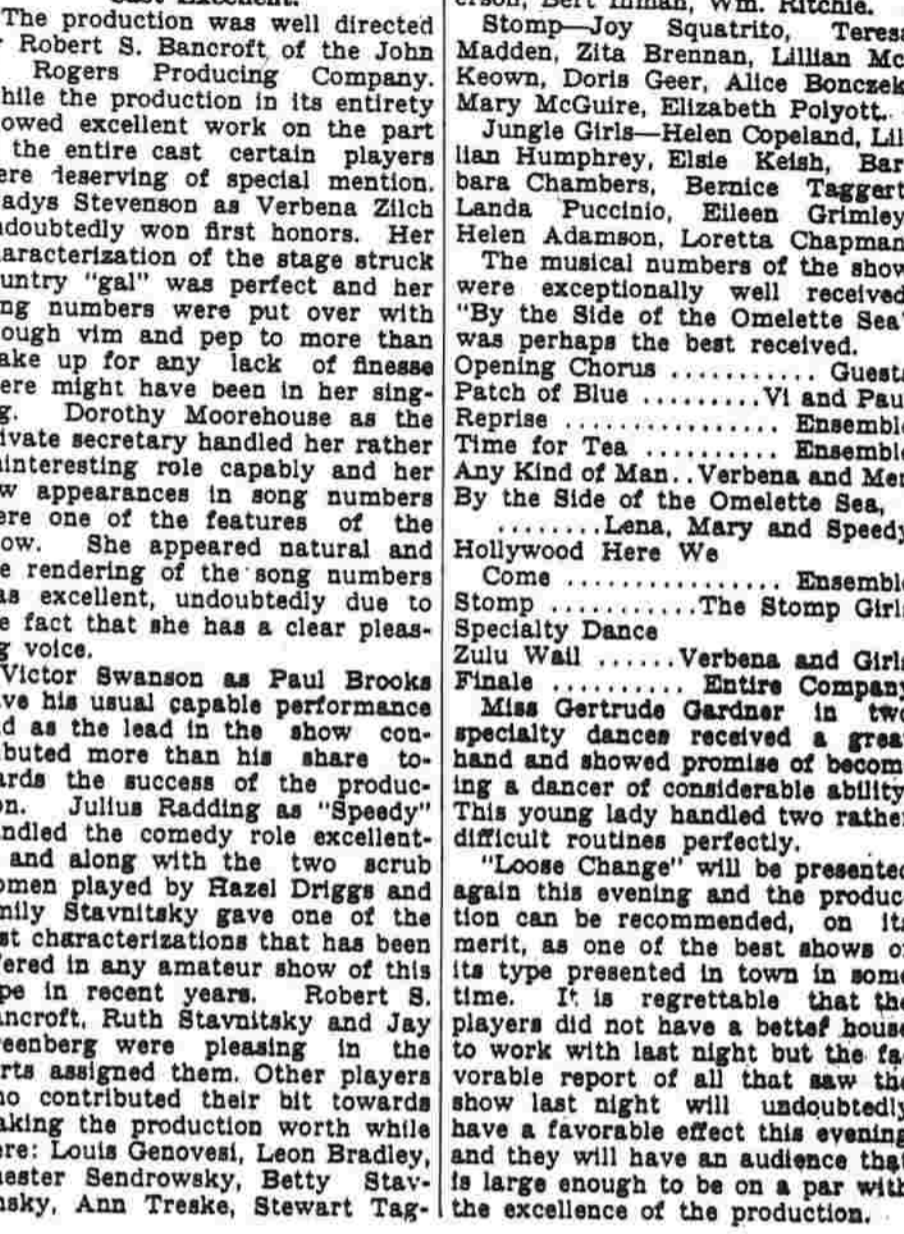

Men's Chorus—William Brennan, Harold Oida, Max Wagner, Oscar Taggart, Leon Bradley, Oscar Anderson, Bert Inman, Wm. Ritchie.

Stomp—Joy Squatrito, Teresa Madden, Zita Brennan, Lillian McKeown, Doris Geer, Alice Bonczek, Marie Moonan, Helen Copeland, Lillian Humphrey, Elsie Kelsch, Barbara Chambers, Bernice Taggart, Landa Puccino, Eileen Grimley, Helen Adamson, Loretta Chapman.

The musical numbers of the show were exceptionally well received. "By the Side of the Omelette Sea," was perhaps the best received. Opening Chorus..... Guests Patch of Blue..... VI and Paul Farjane..... The Musical Numbers of the Time for Tea..... Verbera and Men By the Side of the Omelette Sea,..... Lena, Mary and Speedy Hollywood Here We Come..... Ensemble Stomp..... The Stomp Girls Zulu Wall..... Verbera and Girls Finales..... Entire Company

Miss Gertrude Gardner in two specialty dances received a great hand and show of appreciation. This dancer of considerable ability, this young lady handled two rather difficult routines perfectly.

"Loose Change" will be presented again this evening and the production can be recommended on its merits, as one of the best shows of its type presented in town in some time. It is regrettable that the players did not have a better house to work with last night but the favorable report of all that saw the show last night will undoubtedly make a favorable effect this evening and they will have an audience that is large enough to be on a par with the excellence of the production.

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

When Scouty saw the Eskimo drop down and ended Scouty's scare. The other Tines then came out and Goldy shouted, "Gee!"

"I'd like to climb upon his hide and have him take me for a ride. I'll hang on good and tight and be as safe as safe can be."

"Now, wait," replied the Eskimo. "I s'pose you all would like to go." Wee Duncy jumped and waved his hat. "You bet we would," he said.

The friendly Eskimo replied, "All right, then, get set for a ride. But, first, please help me hitch my husky bear up to a sled."

A fine dogged sled soon was brought forth. "Here's where we ride out of the north," said Copy, as they worked away to make the big sled hold.

"I hope our trip is nice and long. The polar bear looks pretty strong. I'll be glad to leave this place. For me, it's much too cold!"

(The Tines start away on an interesting trip in the next story.)

POLICE COURT
 Elle Jodoin of Birch street was before the court this morning for intoxication and breach of peace. He was defended by Attorney W. S. Hyde. Jodoin was arrested on complaint of his son, Paul. It was brought out in the evidence that Mrs. Jodoin is apparently a little jealous of her husband for no good reason. This is cause of most of the trouble. Jodoin works steadily every day and supports the whole family. His son Paul, it was stated, has not worked in three years. Attorney Hyde believed that the man attempted to drown his family trouble in a little too much liquor. He argued that the trouble was confined to the home.
 Judge Raymond Johnson found Jodoin not guilty of breach of peace and for the intoxication charge he placed him in charge of the probation officer for three months.
 Frank Majak caused trouble at a north end soda shop last night and consequently was arrested for intoxication and breach of peace. He admitted he drank some of the new high pressure beer and when he visited Conran's lunch counter he apparently was looking for trouble. It was after midnight and in order to avoid a scrap Mr. Conran called in Officer David Galligan. A fine of $10 and costs on each charge was imposed.

PLANS FOR THE YEAR
 Mrs. C. J. Strickland Announces
 Committees of Second Congregational Workers.

The Women's League of the Second Congregational church held an interesting meeting Wednesday afternoon at the church. The president, Mrs. Charles J. Strickland, announced the committees to serve for the year and the plans of the executive board for activities during the same period.
 Mrs. Frank Phelps was appointed chairman of the work committee, Mrs. E. P. Walton, Mrs. Millard Park and Mrs. Frank V. Williams on the membership committee.
 The first social affair will be a supper on February 23, in charge of the Women's League and the music committee of the church. The fifty-five proceeds will be used for Easter music and for the furnishing and redecoration of the choir room, which the League at its meeting yesterday voted to undertake, under the supervision of Mrs. Strickland, Mrs. Joseph Wright and Mrs. Harry Rylander. The League also voted to purchase new shades for this room and the primary room.

 Mrs. Strickland announced that at the League meeting, February 7, Mrs. Alexander Bunce of Bolton will be the guest speaker, and her subject, "Work in the South With the Negroes." The hostesses for this meeting will be Mrs. Frank Williams, Mrs. Joseph Wright, Mrs. C. E. Wilson and Mrs. F. C. Allen. All women will be welcome to attend, whether members or not.
 The president reminded the members that articles for home and foreign missionary work should be ready by April to be sent to Mrs. Welles of Soatic. Sweaters, scarfs, flannel gowns and material for sewing will be acceptable. Each one attending the next meeting is requested to bring two bean bags.
 Motion was made by Mrs. Larry Rylander and carried unanimously that the Women's League contribute $100 toward the note of the business committee due at the Manchester Trust Company February 6.

 President Strickland explained that the plan was to have some social and money-earning project every month. In March the penny bags will be handed in, in April a supper and play will be given. A May dinner will follow, and at the same time a quilt exhibit will be held. Mrs. Fred Pohlman will be in charge of a quilt, "Grandmother's Flower Garden," numbered orders for which will be sold and the quilt drawn at the annual sale in November.
 In June a strawberry festival will be held at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Williams in Buckland. A harvest supper will be the attraction in October, and in November the annual Christmas sale will be held under the name of the "Mother Goose" bazaar.
 Sandwiches and tea were served yesterday by Mrs. E. P. Walton, Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. Milo Wells and Mrs. John Wolcott.

Thirty members of Hose Co. No. 2, of the Manchester Fire Department attended the monthly meeting at the fire house last night. This included several of the honorary members. A live committee served a turkey supper consisting of the following menu:
 Half grapefruit, roast turkey, stuffing, mashed potatoes, turnips, peas, celery, olives, cranberry sauce, home made rolls, squash pie and coffee.
 While the meal was being served the Happy-Go-Lucky Boys' orchestra furnished lively music and later a program of several selections. The boys can sing as well as they play and they did a good job. The orchestra has been going for some time and apparently have had many hours of practice.

 Following the business meeting the firemen played softball.
