WANTS TO PROTECT SMALL INDUSTRIES

Head of NRA Seeks Additional Legislation to Assist the Smaller Tradesmen.

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt conferred today with General Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, on the issue of protecting small enterprise under the NRA, and Johnson said afterward he hoped additional legislation would be unnecessary.

"I'd like to see this law given a real test," said Johnson at the White House, "and while some amendments may be necessary I would prefer to meet the problem of helping small business without legislation.

"Some of these codes have been in operation for only three months. Let's give it a real test."

Asked what he thought of the Roosevelt order naming the Federal Trade Commission and the Department of Justice to act upon complaints against the NRA, Johnson replied: "Well, I wrote it."

Find Little America Just As They Left It

Aboard Admiral Byrd's flagship in the Antarctic, Jan. 20.—(Delayed)—(By Mackay Radio)—The thrills of prowling over the scenes of his earlier experiences in the deep Antarctic was Admiral Byrd's today. Just as he left it, he and his men found the weather station buried in the snow and ice, a pot of frozen coffee on a table, old calendars on the walls, articles of clothing flung here and there. Admiral Byrd even found a fruit-jar half full of kerosene which had been his reading lamp. Lighted, it revealed the empty bunks against the walls—all just as when the camp was abandoned Feb. 19, 1933.

It was Meteorologist Haynes who dug into the administration building located the roof of the weather station and then dropped through a hole to be followed by the Admiral and the others working to reclaim the buried winter city.

The task is highly hazardous, owing to the dangers accompanying the transporting of supplies from the flagship to Little America—two and one-half miles distance. Two tractors caught fire and were damaged before the flames could be extinguished. The second of the tractors had just been dropped over onto the ice, its engine having been started in the hold, when a serious accident was narrowly averted.

Pete Dumas chief of the tractor division, warned that the ice was starting to crumble beneath its treads, drove it to safety just as the whole piece collapsed and plunged into the water.

Walter Magee, friend of the Bremers, could not be found. He is the only note from the kidnapers shortly after Bremer was seized about 8:30 a. m. last Wednesday.

At the Jacob Schmidt Brewing Company, of which Adolph Bremer is principal owner, the telephone line of the personal friend of President Roosevelt was kept clear by the company's operator.

To Start to Work Police headquarters was virtually deserted by the detectives who have lounged about deferring efforts to apprehend the abductor at the request of the elder Bremer. One officer said "this is the last night of this" referring to inactivity.

Adolph Bremer, it was believed, might be the medium through which the kidnapers planned to arrange a rendezvous for payment of the ransom, since Magee, the first selection, has been constantly watched by law enforcement officers working on the case.

The latest development came after the 123rd hour had passed without word from the kidnapers as a despair of hope for early release of the 37-year-old owner of the Commercial State bank.

An hour later, with Magee and the elder Bremer still absent, Minneapolis police broadcast an order to all squad cars to pick up a small truck seen downtown with three men in the cab and a fourth lying on the floor of the rear of the vehicle.

Simultaneously, orders to bring in everyone with underworld connections were issued by Fred Ohman, captain of Minneapolis detective, in the hope questioning might glean some information concerning the Bremer kidnapers.

Several Minneapolis men were linked with the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping by possession of part of the ransom money.

AMERICANS ARE FREED BY SPANISH OFFICIALS

Had Been Charged With Assaulting Civil Guards in Mallorca—Spent 46 Days in Jail.

Madrid, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Spanish government today ordered four Americans, released immediately.

Officials said no sentence had as yet been issued by the Supreme Court which, last Friday, annulled a previous acquittal by a military tribunal of the charge that they had assaulted a civil guard.

Five Americans became the center of an international controversy last summer at a hotel in Palma, Mallorca.

The cause of the controversy itself was a minor affair, judged by American law, that it was a scuffle with a policeman. The policeman in this case, however, happened to be a civil guard, a member of the military force of Spain.

Under Spanish law, one who molests a member of the military force of Spain has assumed the military authority and becomes liable to jail sentence.

The Americans were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McCooney, and

THINK CONTACT HAS BEEN MADE WITH KIDNAPERS

Friend of St. Paul Banker Cannot Be Found and Unusual Activity by Members of Family Is Noticed.

St. Paul, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Unusual activity by police and members of the Bremer family today provoked renewed speculation over whether contact with the kidnapers of Edward G. Bremer, wealthy banker abducted for $200,000 ransom, was impending.

Walter Magee, friend of the Bremers, could not be found. He is the only note from the kidnapers shortly after Bremer was seized about 8:30 a. m. last Wednesday.

Danbury, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. George J. Stevens, 42, of 25 Elizabeth street, Bethel, was instantly killed late last night on the Danbury Bridgeport road south of Newton when the car in which she was riding with her husband skidded on a steep highway fence after the right front tire blew and the vehicle got out of the control of the operator.

SOVIET NOW FEARS ATTACK BY JAPAN

Russian Leader Says Conditions in the Far East Are Tense; Russia to Prepare.

Moscow, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A warning that "we must be prepared for an attack at any moment," from Japan was sounded by L. M. Kaganovich, head of the Moscow Communist Party and member of the Soviet Central executive committee, in a speech at a party conference January 17, made public today.

"Conditions are very tense in the Far East today," Kaganovich said, "and we must be prepared for an attack at any moment. We have told Japan if you want to seize the Chinese Eastern railway it won't be so easy and will cause a serious conflict."

Not Seeking War "At the same time we are not seeking war with Japan," the leader continued, "and want to keep peace. If Japanese generals dare plot against our frontiers, they will find the might and power of our Red army."

He said he must remember the Soviet Union is not a neutral Russia of 1904. Kaganovich's remarks followed the line of recent speeches by Maxim Litvinov, commissar for foreign affairs, and Vyacheslav Molotov, president of the Council of Commissars, all of which reflect growing concern here that a clash with Japan may not be avoided.

SILVER SENATORS WORK ON MONEY AMENDMENT

Want Changes to Be Made TO BUILD UP NAVY TO TREATY LIMITS

in Dollar Revaluation Bill; Visit the President to Discuss Topic.

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Advocates of silver threads among the gold in the dollar revaluation bill set to work today for the cause closest to them instead of joining the perfunctory Senate and House debates on less glamorous subjects.

There was little enough of the definite; but after a delegation waited on President Roosevelt with their ideas, an attempt to attach a silver amendment was indicated—regardless of the administration attitude.

Headed for a rocky road on this measure, the Senate had easy going on the farm mortgage bond guarantee bill and learned that the Home loan bond guarantee proposition would be up before long.

Navy Supply Bill The Navy Supply bill, almost $285,000,000 and authorizing more building to get treaty limits, was introduced in the House by the appropriations committee for its dispatch to the Senate. The administration, meanwhile, advocated an even more complete construction plan that that now in effect.

It was decided to shunt the St. Lawrence waterway treaty aside in the Senate, for disposition of emergency matters, and the legislators were given something to think about in what may be another administration bill, one introduced by Senator Byrnes, (D., S.C.), banning any lobbying before government departments by members of Congress.

No Particulars Just what led the silver friends planned to follow was being discussed privately in their ranks. Calling on the President were the Montana and Utah Democrats, Senators Wheeler and King, and Representative Fiesinger (D., Ohio). All they would say later was that the discussion was general.

Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader, told the Senate the President was opposed to the pending Smith bill authorizing another $100,000,000 for crop production loans this year unless the amount was reduced and more restrictions placed on individual loans.

BOSTON STUDENT HAS CLOSE CALL

Clings to Door Handle On Fast Train; Train Following Is Stopped in Time.

Boston, Jan. 22.—(AP)—An attempt to catch the first section of the midnight express to New York early today nearly cost the life of Paul W. Wetstein of Holyoke, who fell to the tracks after being dragged two and one-half miles.

Wetstein, 21, a Dartmouth student, was found lying on the tracks of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad at the Boylston street station in the Jamaica Plain section.

He was taken to City hospital suffering from severe lacerations and contusions.

The youth's baggage, which he dropped along the tracks as he clung to the rear platform of the speeding train, probably saved him from meeting death beneath the wheels of the second section, rumbling five minutes behind.

Train Is Stopped The engineer of the second section saw the baggage strewn in the tracks and halted his train. The interval Wetstein was found, un-

WARREN EXPLAINS TO SENATE AIM OF MONETARY PLANS

BROTHER, SISTER DROWNED IN CANAL

Ansonia Children Break Through Ice; Eight Other Violent Deaths Reported.

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—One of President Roosevelt's principal money advisers, Prof. George F. Warren, told the Senate banking committee today that home owners, farmers and debtors would realize "the greatest benefit" from the administration's monetary program.

He expressed his views to the committee conducting hearings preparatory to Senate action, while President Roosevelt went over the silver problem at a White House conference.

Indications grew that an effort would be made to attach silver legislation to the dollar-devaluation bill passed Saturday by the House.

The Corbell professor was questioned sharply about his contentions that the price of commodities was determined to a considerable extent by the price of silver.

Senator Walcott (R., Conn.) asked if "we might be driven into a period of extreme inflation" should the proposed $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund fail.

Warren replied that every extreme inflation in the past had been preceded by government bankruptcy, violent revolution or a long period of war and that if this country drifted into that condition "it would be an unusual historical incident."

Walcott said he did not see how the fund could succeed.

Senator McAdoo (D., Calif.) said there was a great deal of misapprehension about the bill and asked Warren to state its "specific purpose" and tell what benefits would result from its enactment.

Can Raise Prices "By cutting the gold content we can raise prices," Warren said. "Raised prices will make it easier for men to pay their debts. Business will start, profits will accrue. It becomes easier to pay taxes."

"Wages will rise, since business will start."

"The greatest benefit will be realized by the home owner, the farmer and other debtors."

"It will be one great benefit to holders of life insurance because while the policies will be of less value in the smaller dollar the companies will remain solvent."

Warren added that it would be "impossible" for America to pay its public and private debts without devaluing the dollar.

MRS. VALLEE QUITS N. Y. LEGAL SUIT

In Surprise Move She Discontinues Action to Set Aside Agreement.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee in a surprise move today, discontinued her suit in Supreme Court to set aside a separation agreement made with her husband, Rudy Vallee, orchestra leader, and to restrain him from suing for divorce anywhere except in New York state.

Benjamin Hartstein, counsel for Mrs. Vallee, announced discontinuance of the suit when he and Samuel Gottlieb, counsel for Vallee, appeared before Justice John McGehegan to argue a motion by Vallee to restrain Mrs. Vallee from proceeding with a suit for separate maintenance in California.

Hartstein said that Supreme Court Justice Richard F. Lydon had approved discontinuance of the suit early today.

Come As Surprise The announcement apparently astonished Gottlieb who declared he had had no warning and added "they are trying to perpetuate a fraud on the court."

After a brief conversation with the lawyers, Justice McGehegan said he would hear Vallee's motion later today.

Vallee attacked the California suit on the ground that his wife was a resident of New York. The orchestra leader already had scored twice in the action here, Supreme Court Justice Isadore Wasservogel having denied Mrs. Vallee's plea for an order restraining Vallee from going outside of New York state for a divorce. The appellate division of the Supreme Court upheld Justice Wasservogel's decision.

In the action to set aside the separation agreement, Mrs. Vallee contended her husband misrepresented his financial status when he secured a divorce. She sought to have the agreement set aside.

STRANGLES HIS TWO SONS; SAYS GOD ORDERED DEED

Seattle, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A 37-year-old fisherman, Oskar Hestness, a self-styled "messenger of God," today was charged with first degree murder for strangling his two little sons.

Chief of Detectives Luke S. May said Hestness gave as his motive "vision from God" ordering him to "choke the devil out of" the boys. Authorities were to study the man's mental condition.

In words including many religious references, the strong handed fisherman described the killings. The victims were his only children, John 10, and Henry 4.

"I killed John first, last Tuesday he came from the Pentecostal temple, and I asked him who sent him. He wouldn't answer. Then, I asked him 'who is in you?'"

"He said 'the devil is in me.' Then God appeared to me and told me to choke the devil out of him."

He added that he killed Henry Wednesday.

HOUSE BURNS DOWN WATER IS LACKING

Hayes Home in Oakland Destroyed—Firemen Unable to Save Structure.

Lack of water in the Oakland district was blamed for the total loss by fire Saturday evening of the Charles C. Hayes house on Deming street, North and south end firemen were called and an effort was made to draw water from the Hockanum river 350 yards away by using two pumps. The water was too shallow, however, and the pumps were unable to lift the stream up the hill to the blazing house.

Outside District The house, a 10-room structure with an ell, was totally destroyed, a loss of between $6,000 and $7,000 being sustained. The blaze was first discovered in the back lower room when thick smoke began to pour from the room. A call was put in for the Manchester fire department.

Chief Albert Foy of the South Manchester Fire department was called and he consented to cover the north end area and he also dispatched a truck to the scene. The north end firemen today expressed their thanks to Chief Foy for covering their territory while they were out of the district.

Spread Rapidly Little could be done to save the house when it was found that no water was available. Some furniture was removed but the fire spread so rapidly that the family and firemen were given but little time to act. It was said that a valuable silver service had to be abandoned on the dining room table as the flames drove the firemen out of the house.

The home is well known to those acquainted with the Oakland district as the former J. D. Henderson place. It was constructed as a home for John D. Henderson when he came here to be superintendent of the Oakland paper mill. Later the late Harry Goodrich's family occupied the home. It was purchased by Mr. Hayes from Morris Houses who had taken over the company houses when the American Writing Paper Company sold its Oakland holdings. The house had recently been renovated and was in excellent condition.

Traffic Well Handled Since the fire was on the main Boston to New York highway considerable traffic piled up but the local police did an excellent job in keeping it moving and at the same time kept the big crowd of spectators from interfering with the firemen.

JAMES M. BURKE DIES SATURDAY OF PNEUMONIA

ter, who died April 4, last year, was a grandson of the deceased. Funeral Tomorrow The funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 8:30 from the W. P. Quinn Funeral Home and at 9 o'clock from St. James's church, of which the deceased was a life-long member and regular attendant. Rev. James L. Burke S.J., of W. ton, Mass., grandson of the deceased, will celebrate a solemn requiem mass. Burial will be in St. James's cemetery.

Worked At 11 James M. Burke started out earning his way in the world at the age of 11 in the old Cheney dye-house along the bank of Hop brook. His work was to chip soap for Sanford Cheney, dyer, oom boss, and fisher in the brook. He was a sickly boy in those days, and yearned for an outdoor life. Consequently, he started as a young peddler selling, teas, coffee and marmalade from farm to farm in Manchester and surrounding towns, his only equipment being a large hand basket. He judged the dusty roads and lanes a foot.

A New Venture Later he bought a horse and wagon with his earnings. Success did not come to the young vendor at the time. The farmers were not used to door-to-door delivery, as life-long had not dawned. The old Cheney store on the corner of Charter Oak and Hartford Road was flourishing, carrying a large stock of all kinds of needed merchandise. No serious effort had been made to appeal to the customers direct until James Burke went out over the rough, country roads with his stock of teas, coffee and various kinds of produce.

For six years he traveled, winter and summer, to Glastonbury, Andover, Hebron, Storrs, Colchester and Glastonbury selling his wares. Then he decided to open a store on the corner of Spruce and Wells street. That was in 1877.

Always Fair His contacts with a large number of people in Manchester and surrounding towns stood him in good stead when the store was opened. He always treated his customers fairly, giving them the best gift that was ever made of the rising young grocer was a load of foundation stones delivered to him at the store one morning, drawn by a six-horse hitch and presented by a group of admiring customers from the surrounding towns.

When James Burke started in business on Spruce street, Main street was but a winding country lane. From the Terminus to the Center there were but two stores and a dozen homes. The west side of Main street was a dense grove of oaks.

Wide Range in Stock In the new store on Spruce street, Mr. Burke carried the largest stock of goods possible. The population of Manchester at that time was about equally divided between Irish, Germans and Americans, the tastes of these peoples requiring a wide range of stocks. He labored in the store from 1886 until 1926, a period of 40 years.

DEATHS HIT, RUN DRIVER KILLS FORMER LOCAL MAN

John Connors Dies When Struck by Auto Near Glastonbury Home.

John Connors, 60, a native of Manchester, but for the past twenty-five years a resident of Glastonbury, died at the Hartford Hospital last evening at 10:15 two hours after he was struck by a hit and run driver near his home. According to information secured by Glastonbury and State police, who are investigating the case, Connors was walking towards his home on North Main street and was near Station 90 when struck from behind by what witnesses say was a light roadster. He was thrown into the air and to the side of the road about fifteen feet. The driver of the car made no attempt to stop, but continued on his way without the numbers being secured. In being thrown through the air Connors struck a utility pole.

He was first treated at the office of Dr. L. E. Whittles of Glastonbury and given first aid, but was soon after removed to the hospital, where he died.

John Connors was born in Manchester the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Connors. His father was one of the early Irish immigrants to the late in Manchester about the middle of the past century and for many years made his home on West street.

Two sisters, Mrs. Frank Robinson of Hartford and Mrs. Catherine Wetherell assisted by Herbert Berenson and rushed him to the hospital. It is believed today that Burke's condition is improved. It will be a day or two before X-rays can determine whether or not there is a skull fracture, but it is not there is a skull fracture.

U. S. TO RECOGNIZE CUBAN GOVERNMENT

Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today notified the diplomats of Central and South America that he was ready to recognize the new Cuban government.

An early statement is in prospect. The President met very briefly with the Latin-American diplomatic corps, reporting what has occurred in Cuba and outlining his own attitude for recognition of the Menéndez regime.

The diplomats left the White House to communicate with their own governments and a general recognition of the new Cuban government appeared in prospect. There was no round table discussion.

The representative of the American governments, said Secretary Hull, "that the disposition of the United States government is to recognize the Cuban government in view of our belief that it has the substantial support of the Cuban people and is entirely capable of maintaining law and order."

ASK POSTPONEMENT OF MURDER TRIAL

Dr. Wynekoop's Lawyers Argue That Defendant May Die If Case Goes On.

Criminal Courts Building, Chicago, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A petition by Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop asking that her murder trial be postponed because of ill health was filed with Judge Joseph B. David today.

Judge David previously had indicated he would grant such a petition if it were made. He had listened to the request of several physicians that subjecting her further to the rigors of the trial might have a fatal effect.

After receiving the petition Judge David recessed the court until 2 p. m., under the request of prosecutors, indicating he would rule on the petition shortly after that time.

Not in Court Dr. Alice did not appear in court. Her attorney, W. W. Smith, told the court she had collapsed twice from heart attacks while Miss Mary Kennedy, county jail matron and nurse, attempted to dress her to go to court.

Prior to the recess, the judge listened to arguments by the state attorneys in opposition to the petition. They were based partly on the ground that there was no precedent in this judicial district and partly as Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Dougherty said, on the belief the defendant was able to stand trial.

their aid to the Bremer family in the hunt for the abductors.

WASHINGTON ANGLE CONTACT Washington, Jan. 22.—(AP)—In its search for the abductors of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul, the Federal government today intensified its long hunt for Verne Sankey, under indictment in Denver for kidnaping there of Charles Boettcher II.

"Use your judgment," cryptically returned J. Edgar Hoover of the Justice Department when asked whether the orders were in direct connection with the Bremer case. Sankey also is wanted for questioning in connection with the kidnaping of Haskell Bohn of St. Paul.

He is 42, a naturalized Canadian, and has been mentioned at various times by law officers working on the Lindbergh kidnaping. County Attorney M. F. Kinkaid of St. Paul recently said that the government wanted him in connection with that case, but justice officials refused comment.

Sankey's only conviction occurred in 1923 when he was fined $400 for a prohibition violation. His full name is Rio Verne Sankey. Of stocky build, he has a ruddy complexion, blue eyes, light brown hair, bald in front, three small moles on the left side of his chin and a small scar on the back of one hand. He was a railroad engineer by occupation. Department of Justice information is that his wife, Fern May Sankey, lives at Denver, and that he has a brother, Frank, in Clark, S. D., and another brother, Joseph Floyd, at Watertown, S. D.

 DEVALUATION BILL

The tremendous vote by which the administration's gold devaluation bill passed the House of Representatives on Saturday night—360 to 40, despite the fact that there are 117 Republicans in the House—indicates that the measure, practically as presented, will speedily become law. It would seem unlikely, in view of the overwhelming majority in the House, that either the opposition of conservatives in the Senate, or the dissatisfaction of the silver expansionists with the relative conservatism—from their point of view—of the devaluation measure, will operate either to defeat or unduly delay the passage of the bill in that body.

That the devaluation bill as passed by the House alone will solve the nation's troubles, or even have an appreciable effect on them, is improbable. It is to be regarded as constituting an absolutely necessary foundation upon which is to be built the superstructure of a currency system that will unshackle industry, agriculture, business in general, and help the debtor class out of the Slough of Despond. There is, of course, a possible alternative. It is conceivable, though it seems to us highly improbable, that the superstructure will never be built; that the President and his advisors will consider the foundation itself a serviceable structure and will rest content with the devaluation of the dollar at the maximum provided by the law and with protecting it at that point in the exchanges of the world through the employment of the stabilization fund provided by the law.

That there is some fear of this contingency on the part of some currency reformers is not to be doubted. Father Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit, spokesman for a very considerable group of currency radicals, manifested that fear in his radio address yesterday, when he took it more or less for granted that the pending devaluation measure practically pegs the dollar at a gold content between 50 and 60 per cent of the present statutory weight. That, indeed, has been a pretty general assumption. Also there has been a general assumption that the bill grants assurance to the hard money element that there will be no issue of treasury notes against the impounded gold. We may be mistaken but we don't believe that either of these assumptions is justified.

The devaluation act fixes a maximum level of gold content of the dollar. It does not fix a minimum level. The minimum of 50 per cent in devaluation was set by the emergency legislation of the extra session. It is extremely doubtful that it will be operative in face of this displacing legislation. Neither does the devaluation act, so far as we can see, make it either impossible or difficult to employ paper currency backed by the normal forty per cent reserve of treasury gold.

We are a long way from setting up an ideal currency system in this legislation, or in any legislation likely to be adopted for some time; but there is every indication that for the first time the United States government is about to do what the Constitution intended it should do but which it never has done—take full charge of its own currency instead of delegating that function to private interests as an extraordinary and altogether unjustifiable special privilege. If we make mistakes we can correct them in the interests of the people and of general business. Recognition of the fact that the regulation of the value of money is not only the right of government, alone but very profoundly a duty is perhaps the most important economic step ever taken by this nation.

The rest will be a matter of no very great difficulty, even if we do pull a boner now and then as we go along. In course of time no doubt we shall solve the problem of a truly scientific medium of exchange.

STEP ON THE GROUCH

Aside from the depth of appeal that attaches to the movement for a heavily armed crusade against that dread enemy of the human race, infantile paralysis, and aside from a very general desire to pay a compliment to a President of the United States who is striving hard to make existence supportable to a distressed people, there is another reason why the folk of this community should make a great event of the Roosevelt ball on Tuesday night of next week, the President's birthday.

The people of this town, like those of every other town and city, have been sitting in the shadows for four long years. We have got out of the habit of laughing as much as we used to. It is difficult for most of us to stir up within ourselves any great measure of pleasurable excitement over anything. We have been singing too many blues songs in our souls. The general level of spirits is lower than it was. We have, in degree, reverted to the solemnity of those war days when the casualty lists were coming in.

It is unquestionably true that we are a good bit better off materially, than we were at the lowest depths of the depression, but we don't rebound very much, spiritually, over the improvement. The mourning habit is strong upon us; so strong that, if we permit ourselves to go on this way, it will take a good deal more prosperity than we can reasonably expect in order to rouse us from our lugubrious grouch.

That's a bad state to be in; but we are likely to remain in it until we take ourselves by the neck and shake ourselves out of it.

This Roosevelt birthday ball is the best possible opportunity for making a success of this rousing-up operation. It is something absolutely unique in that it gives us a chance to take part in the biggest thing of its kind ever undertaken in this country or in the world. In five thousand halls, armories, ballrooms, from one end of the United States to the other, people by the hundreds of thousands—yes, by the millions, will be dancing at the same time—taken out of themselves, given over to the common purpose of having a good time and contributing to the common end of aiding one of the most splendid humanitarian enterprises ever set on foot.

There is something stimulating and inspiring about being a part of the biggest thing—about living in the biggest city or the biggest country or on the biggest farm or belonging to the biggest church or the biggest lodge or whatever. And Lord knows we all need stimulation and inspiration just now. The long, draggy end of the winter lies ahead. Most of us will be the color of indigo if we don't have some kind of a toot to break up the grouch and the monotony.

Then let's get set and all get together and have one darned good time at the Armory on January 30—even if we do have to eat beans the rest of the week because we blew in part of our grub money on the ticket!

FOUNDRYMAN'S BOOKS

A little while ago N. W. Pickering, president of the Farrel-Birmingham Company of Ansonia, turned economist-author. Collaborating with Allen W. Rucker he has, for the education of his fellow manufacturers and business men, been writing and publishing a series of what he calls booklet-editorials, dealing with the depression and its causes. The latest of these he has titled, "Inflation Delays Recovery."

It is illuminating particularly in the manner in which it evidences the tendency of individuals whose lives have been wrapped up in one particular field of thought to see the larger field of general economics from just one angle.

Mr. Pickering sees the problem of depression from the angle of a manufacturer of "capital goods." The Farrel-Birmingham Company manufactures heavy machinery. It depends on the regular production of long-use goods. It, like many other manufacturing concerns, for many years found its usefulness in providing the constantly and rapidly increasing industrial plant of the nation. It cannot see any prospect of full employment of its facilities until the country is again increasing its industrial plant as it increased it between 1914 and 1929.

The fact that the country is already over-mechanized to the point where unemployment, even in boom days, was a serious problem, does not appear to dismay Mr. Pickering. He must have some hope for the reasonably immediate future of the heavy product industries, else he would be in utter despair.

He tells us that it is only through the restoration of the capital goods industries that things, generally, can be got going again. He thinks that fears of inflation have been delaying the resumption of factory building and equipment and a return to the old system of making more efficient the nation's industrial plant.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE

By Dr. Frank McCoy

IMPROVE THROUGH FASTING

When studying the many treatments for the cure of distress which man has used through the ages, fasting is one of the very few which has been worth enough to remain in use all through the thousands of years from the time of the cavemen until today.

I have been using the fasting treatments for overcoming disease for over 20 years and I have yet to find a case where the fast has been harmful, while I have seen many remarkable recoveries follow the use of sick people get well by the fasting method I have not found any other treatment good enough to take its place.

One of the reasons I have had so much success in prescribing the fast is that I thoroughly believe in it and I take the time to explain to each patient what benefits he may reasonably expect the fast to produce. I find that in every case, he will have more confidence in the treatment and will also improve more quickly when he understands this sensible form of treatment.

In today's article I am going to tell you about the fasting treatment of disease, just as though you were a patient sitting here beside my desk, having a personal talk with me.

Your own common-sense will tell you that when you are in pain, or when you are not digesting your food, that eating will do you little good, as your body will not digest the added meals. In such cases the best plan is to stop eating. Nature tries to give you a strong hint that you should not eat when she takes away your appetite. If you listened to her you would push away the food that seems so distasteful.

In this respect an animal such as a dog is wiser than man, for when sick, the dog will refuse his regular meal, although he may take a small amount of grass. At such a time the dog realizes that it would be better not to eat.

Fasting is also known to many of the lower forms of life. It is intensely interesting to observe that in the lower forms of life fasting will bring about truly tremendous changes. For example, if a flatworm fasts, it will seem to be rejuvenated or to become entirely young again. During the fast it shrinks in size, becomes the same as it was when young, and when it begins to eat, it will grow once more. If the fast would do the same thing for you, you would be able to go back, say, to the same size you were when ten years old, and could then grow up all over again.

Even though the fast will not accomplish the same remarkable changes in your body as it does in the flatworm, nevertheless, the fast will have a decided value in helping you to improve. If you are now suffering from any of the symptoms I strongly urge that you learn more about the fasting treatment.

Some of the benefits I have seen gained through the fasting method are the following: the appetite is increased so that each mouthful is delicious; the tongue begins to clear up; the skin is made softer and given a healthy pink color; any tendency to shortness of breath is greatly lessened; the step is lighter and more brisk. I have had hundreds of patients tell me that after the fast they felt as though they were "walking on air." In addition to these physical changes, there is an improvement in the mental powers. Dullness and discouragement change to alertness and optimism. The whole expression of the face becomes more alive. The above are some of the benefits you could expect to gain in your own case, if you

JAMES M. BURKE

When a citizen like James M. Burke comes to the end of life and quietly passes over into the beyond it is something like the removal of a sound, well fitted stone from the facade of a church. The stone itself never called out for your attention; but the gap it leaves is patent to even the most unattentive.

For almost eighty years James Burke was an integral part of this community. For the greater part of it he was a business man—a man of small but sound affairs. "Without ostentation, without soaring ambitions, he possessed the social instincts of the instinctive citizen, recognized his obligations to his fellow men and found them no burden, lived for many decades the life of the average intelligent, useful individual who sees at once his duty to his neighbor and his neighbors' duty to him; who knows the balances of civilization.

We shall miss this good stone from the structure of our community.

Rain water can be used in storage batteries: it is much the same as artificially distilled water.

Even though the fast will not accomplish the same remarkable changes in your body as it does in the flatworm, nevertheless, the fast will have a decided value in helping you to improve. If you are now suffering from any of the symptoms I strongly urge that you learn more about the fasting treatment.

Some of the benefits I have seen gained through the fasting method are the following: the appetite is increased so that each mouthful is delicious; the tongue begins to clear up; the skin is made softer and given a healthy pink color; any tendency to shortness of breath is greatly lessened; the step is lighter and more brisk. I have had hundreds of patients tell me that after the fast they felt as though they were "walking on air." In addition to these physical changes, there is an improvement in the mental powers. Dullness and discouragement change to alertness and optimism. The whole expression of the face becomes more alive. The above are some of the benefits you could expect to gain in your own case, if you

Ernst Lubitsch, who directed Frederic March, Gary Cooper and Miriam Hopkins in "Design for Living," declares that outstanding screen performances are not every picture occasions for the same reason that every novel, play or painting is not a masterpiece. Let's quote from Lubitsch: "All masterpieces are the result of ideal circumstances. When casting, directorial assignment and story treatment all meet the nearest perfect requirements of a player, then comes an outstanding performance."

You can pay your light bill and exchange lamps at the branch of The Manchester Electric Co., located at The Murphy Drug Store on Depot Square.

Mrs. Clinton B. Lockwood, West Springfield, Mass.; Roger F. Mead, New York; Edmund A. Blodgett, Stamford, Conn.; and Rutherford Fullerton, Columbus, O. Rutherford Fullerton was immediately arrested and placed in jail, where they were held incommunicado for some time. They spent 46 days in all in cells before they were brought to trial by a military court which acquitted them and ordered them freed.

The court martial verdict, however, did not meet with the approval of the military auditor given the task of reviewing it, and the Americans were ordered to jail.

They appealed to the Supreme Court at Madrid last Friday, the court action. It decided Fullerton was innocent but that the other four defendants were guilty and should go to jail for six months and a day each.

The United States government, which was acting through the Embassy in Madrid in bringing about their release from the original arrest, immediately took steps again to obtain a pardon for its citizens.

TO BUILD UP NAVY TO TREATY LIMITS

$9,085,000, however, will bring the actual cash withdrawals from the Treasury for the Navy to $283,833,000.

Admiral Standley urged the committee to increase Navy enlisted personnel at 85,000, although saying he realized President Roosevelt had asked for only 52,500 men.

Maintenance Cost
If the United States built up to the London treaty requirements, he said, the annual maintenance cost would be $458,535,000. At the end of the fiscal year 1935, however, he asserted, the United States on the basis of 90 per cent compliance, would be short 10,025 enlisted men and twelve ships, not including replacements of destroyers and submarines.

Even the newest battleships, Standley said, should be modernized but not in the immediate future. They include the West Virginia, Maryland, Tennessee, California, Colorado. He said the already modernized Oklahoma, Texas and New York need new engines.

"The condition of the remaining battleships, in my opinion, is not satisfactory," he added. x x x

HOURS ARE REDUCED ON CWA PROJECTS

State Officials Ready to Carry Out New Policy; Will Increase Charity Cases.

Hartford, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The state CWA today was preparing to carry out the new retrenchment policy with detailed instructions to local administrators regarding the reduced work hours ordered by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal administrator.

If the curtailment continues, it was indicated, the relief rolls which have been reduced by the CWA may be increased in some communities. Though some towns have been unable to show a drop in the relief rolls because of local industrial and other factors outside the control of CWA, Miss Little reported that whereas in October the relief rolls of the state totalled 21,421, that figure dropped to 15,725 as of the end of the year, the reduction being 5,696.

List of Cities
Hartford with 2,391 cases in October when the CWA began to function, had 2,143 by the end of the year, a reduction of 748. Other large communities which have benefited financially as a result of the decrease in the public relief rolls follow:

Bridgewater, which had 1,768 cases in October had 887 on December 31. Bristol drop from 511 to 223; Ansonia, from 306 to 238; Derby, from 179 to 94; East Hartford, from 278 to 218; Enfield, from 138 to 98; Fairfield from 416 to 269; Manchester, from 271 to 185; Meriden, 790 to 453; Middletown, 343 to 134; Milford, 343 to 127; New Britain, 1,866 to 1,048; New Haven, 2,263 to 1,103; New London, 572 to 390; Norwich, 377 to 333; Norwich, 399 to 337; Southington, 85 to 34; Stratford, 309 to 128; Torrington, 450 to 293; Waterbury, 284 to 232; West Haver 495 to 108; Windsor Locks, 83 to 56.

WARREN EXPLAINS TO SENATE AIM OF MONETARY MEASURE

Which he, Secretary Morgenthau, prof. or James H. Rogers, another administration monetary adviser, and Treasury experts gave their views.

With this preliminary questioning out of the way Warren began presenting figures to show the results of the administration's gold buying program of recent months, of which he has been credited with being the originator.

Warren said the price of gold from February to December increased 5 per cent in England and 56 per cent in the United States. "This 56 per cent is not the R. F. C. price," he explained, "but the London price combined with the exchange rate in New York. This is the general world price."

He said the disparity in price fluctuations was due to currency relationships between the two countries. "The Englishman buys cotton in his own currency," he said, "we buy in our own currency."

Senator Kean (R., N. J.), brought out that in countries still on gold there had been little change in commodity prices.

Warren estimated the cost of living had risen about 6 per cent since February.

code authorities but to the compliance boards which are outside."

Donald Richberg, counsel of the NRA, accompanied Johnson. Meantime, recovery executives were busy pushing their code revision program, examining complaints received in recent public hearings on price increases and related topics. They expected to complete within a week a definite program for handling each case. In some of these, code amendment may result in other prosecution for illegal actions may be started.

By the end of the week Hugh S. Johnson, the recovery administrator, expects to have a detailed report on the operation of open price systems which in reverse, have resulted in price-fixing agreements not sanctioned by NRA. The open price formulas of codes may be restricted generally as a result of the present survey unless evidence gathered shows that the misapplication of them has developed only in a minority of cases.

conscious, on the tracks at Boylston street station, about a mile away.

The train from which he had fallen sped toward New York, its crew unaware of the accident. Railroad officials said that apparently Wetstein made a last minute dash down the stairway to the lower level of Back Bay station and grabbed for the door handle at the rear end of the last car as the train was pulling out. They believed he found the vestibule closed and managed to hang onto the handle in the biting cold until the train reached the Boylston street station, where, his strength gone, he dropped from the speeding train.

TWO STILL ALARMS WITH SMALL DAMAGE
Two still alarms commanded the attention of the South Manchester fire department over the week end, but no real damage resulted. No. 1 got the first call on Sunday at 10 a. m. when a fire that had started in an automobile owned by John Godburn of Canaan caught fire near 161 West Center street. Chemicals extinguished the blaze. No. 2 an hour later was called to extinguish a fire in the rear of 216 Middle Turnpike, East, the first grass fire for the year.

A BOOK A DAY BY BRUCE CATTON
A STRIKING STORY OF AN ALIEN FOLK
Julia Peterkin Tells About Lives of "Gullah" Negroes

In "Roll, Jordan, Roll," Julia Peterkin gives us a remarkable book about the lives of the colored folk of South Carolina—a book which tells how they worship and how they play, written with sympathy and an utter absence of condescension.

On the plantations, the small farms and the remote villages these colored folk—the "Gullahs," made famous in Mrs. Peterkin's earlier books—like lives that seem unbelievably remote from modern America.

Many of them still are under the psychology of pre-war slave days. Superstitions stemming from their jungle heritage still condition their thoughts. Their religion is the devout and awfully Christianity which produced the negro spirituals.

Mrs. Peterkin has a rich fund of anecdotes about these people. Some of her little stories are deeply humorous, some are tragic. A sample: Two old colored women believe they have been ordered by God to warn the Pope that he is soon to die. They sell their property, go off to Italy—they never been outside their own county before—see "one of the Pope's head priests," present their warning, accept a gift of money from some sympathetic Vatican attaché, and return home in triumph because the Pope actually has died while they were on the ocean.

The book is illustrated with many striking photographs by Doris Ullmann—pictures which somehow catch the spirit of Mrs. Peterkin's writing exactly.

All in all, the book is a fine and understanding description of a life which alien to us, although it lies right in our midst.

Published by Robert Ballou, the book sells for $3.50.

SERIES OF REVIVALS AT NAZARENE CHURCH

Rev. Alfred Carey of Beacon, N. Y., to Conduct Services Beginning March 25.

Announcement of a spring series of revival meetings in the Church of the Nazarene was made by Rev. H. B. Anthony at the service yesterday morning. Rev. Alfred Carey of Beacon, N. Y., will conduct the revival services assisted by Mr. and Mrs. J. Byron Crouse, singers. The services will begin on March 25 and will end April 8.

During the past week 300 seats have been installed in the Church of the Nazarene, 466 Main street. Parishioners used the seats for the first time at yesterday's services and satisfactory comments were expressed by those that attended the meetings.

The seats secured by the church were part of the 1,500 seats removed from the State Theater.

JAPAN'S WAR HEAD RESIGNS HIS POST

the genuineness of Araki's illness from pneumonia, reported to have been the cause of his resigning, believed that the war minister—foreseeing a decline in the army "clique" fortunes—seized this plausible opportunity to retire with his prestige unimpaired.

Other authorities pointed out that General Hayashi, while not likely to indulge in bellicose garrulity, with which his predecessor periodically excited world chancelleries, nevertheless is a grim soldier and a man of action.

When the Manchurian conflict broke out September 18, 1931, General Hayashi was commanding a garrison in Korea. He dispatched his brigade from Korea to Manchuria on his own responsibility to assist in expelling the Chang Hsiao-Liang regime.

During his incumbency in the war office, Araki was the spokesman and leader of the more chauvinistic elements in the Army.

He attempted, usually successfully, to dominate all phases of imperial policy in foreign affairs, finance and agrarian problems.

Hayashi, although an equally staunch Nationalist and patriot, is credited with the belief that the army should remain aloof from politics.

Hayashi was graduated from the Military Academy two classes ahead of Araki. Therefore, he is older and more conservative—standing between the Araki-ites and the more liberal army elements of which General Isseai Ugaki, governor general of Korea, is considered the leader.

BIRTHDAY BALL GROUP TO MEET

Want to Get Check-Up Tomorrow Night On Tickets Sold.

A full committee meeting will be held tomorrow night of those working on Manchester's birthday ball for the President to be held in the State Armory, Tuesday, January 30. Tomorrow night's meeting will be held in the Municipal building at 7:30 and the first opportunity will be given to learn how the ticket sale has progressed. Those who cannot attend are asked to send their reports by some other committee member or else call Francis E. Bray who is chairman of the ticket distribution committee.

General Chairman William J. Thornton today expressed himself as well satisfied at the reaction of the townspeople to the Birthday Ball idea. He expects the Armory to be packed next week Tuesday night for the party.

TO ADD 2 TEACHERS TO HIGH SCHOOL STAFF

Enrollment of 100 New Students at Mid-Year Makes Additions Necessary.

Two teachers will be added to the faculty of Manchester High school next week, it was announced today by Superintendent of Schools A. Verplanck, due to the fact that close to one hundred students will enter the school at mid-year, grammar school graduation at that time. This increase in enrollment will bring the total number of pupils at the High school to nearly 1,400.

The additional teachers will be David J. Harkwell, a graduate of Harvard University, who has been teaching at Manchester, N. H. He will teach English and history, and Robert L. Millbury, a graduate of Boston University, who has also taught at Manchester, N. H. He will teach commercial subjects.

ICE ON HALIFAX HARBOR

Halifax, N. S., Jan. 22.—(AP)—For the first time in 10 years ice formed on Halifax harbor over the week end during a cold wave that held the province in its grip.

The ice was about two inches thick at some of the piers, and a thin sheet extended to George's island, but it was no hindrance to great liners which shattered it easily.

The mercury stood at 10 below zero today, while much lower temperatures were reported from other parts of Nova Scotia. Readings around Truro last night ranged from 24 to 32 below.

Over 1400 additional families have adopted electric cooking during the past year and today over 4700 families are enjoying this method in Hartford and vicinity.

Following the plan of Hartford, we are offering our customers, who act now, a trial of electric cooking, with no charge for the use of the range until June 30, 1934, and with no obligation to keep the range. Also as in Hartford, if the house is not already wired for cooking the Company will absorb the major part of the cost of the changes.

THREE LEADERS OF EASTERN LOOP VIE IN CAGE CONTESTS

Yale Plays Penn Tomorrow Night, Cornell on Saturday in Only Games Slated; All Undeclared.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The three leaders in the eastern intercollegiate basketball league, Penn, Yale and Cornell, will have the stage entirely to themselves this week.

Due to the usual lull in activities because of mid-year examinations, only two games will be played with Penn traveling to New Haven to play Yale tomorrow night, and Yale invading Ithaca for a clash with Cornell on Saturday. Yale and Penn were tagged from the start of the season as first-rank contenders.

The Ithaca's first victory, a 30-29 triumph over Columbia, indicated no particular strength but their 40-35 conquest of Dartmouth at Hanover last Saturday night gave the rest of the league something to think about.

Whether or not they succeed in beating West Virginia's Mountaineers at Pittsburgh Saturday night, Pitt's Panthers are certain to hold the lead in the Eastern Intercollegiate conference for at least another week. The Panthers have won their first three games while Georgetown, in second place, has won the odd game in five.

The only other conference game this week will be played at Philadelphia, also on Saturday night, with the Bucknell Blons tackling Temple. Although beaten twice in three straight Temple figures to win from the Blons with several yards to spare.

The defeat of Syracuse by Colgate, 21-16, last Saturday further reduced the list of unbeaten teams. Among those still unbeaten are Colgate, Penn, Duquesne, Penn State, City College of New York, Long Island University and New York University.

SHOTTEN TO COACH REDS THIS SEASON

Deposed Phillies Manager Is Named as Mentor of Cincinnati's Team.

Cincinnati, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Burt Shotten, Philadelphia's former dean of managers, will be coach of the Cincinnati Reds during the 1934 season, the Redland club announced today.

For a time, the former St. Louis pitcher and coach had been mentioned prominently as likely manager of the Reds, though he was pilot of the Phillies. Then Bob O'Farrell, another St. Louis product, was named to run the club here, Shotten was deposed at the helm of the Phillies by Jimmy Wilson, whom he had traded to the Cardinals years before.

GOLF TOURNAMENT OPENS

Revival of Poughkeepsie Regatta Sign of Upturn

BY BILL BRAUCHER (NEA Sports Editor)

Things are definitely on the upturn. Aichblades. Soon you'll have those chickens in the pot and two cars in your garage—if you still own one. For the Poughkeepsie regatta is to be revived this season, and you know, Al, that the boys called it off last year because of lack of funds.

The regatta—ah, there is a sports spectacle! To our mind nothing can be as vivid as the picture of those frail shells plunging through the water over the four-mile course driven by the rhythmic beat of oars pulled by strong young arms and backs.

Oh, That Depression! But to stage a regatta between Columbia, Syracuse, N.Y., Cornell, Penn. California, Washington, Stanford and those other schools costs dough, big dough.

So, we can take it that the resumption of this rowing classic is an indication of prosperity is here again. Happy days!

CONACHER, HOCKEY ACE, MASTER OF ALL SPORTS

Star of Blackhawks Has Been Fistic Champ, Pro Wrestler, Lacrosse, Grid, Track and Baseball Luminary; His Career in Brief.

By JIMMY DONAHUE (NEA Service Sports Writer)

Chicago, Jan. 22.—The greatest all-around athlete in the United States is not Jim Thorpe, the famed Carlisle Indian nor is he Jim Bausch, the Kansas Cyclone who ran rampant on gridiron and won the 1932 Olympic decathlon with a record number of points.

Conacher, now defense for the Chicago Blackhawks, National Hockey League entrant, is one of the greatest hockey players ever developed in the Dominion.

Well, Gus, if you didn't know that thing, you're excused, for the modest Conacher isn't on going around touting his own horn. But he was all of those things, and more!

Connie started his colorful career back in 1918. At 16 he won the Ontario wrestling championship at 125 pounds in a row.

In 1918 he took up hockey as an amateur, and has been battling a puck hither and yon ever since, with the exception of brief excursions into lacrosse, football and fighting.

His football career started in 1920, as fullback of the Toronto Argonauts. After playing rugby in Canada, he switched to the American game when Pop Warner took him to Pittsburgh with the idea of making him a star in this country.

Along with his football activity and hockey, young Conacher took up boxing in 1921. That year he won the light-heavyweight championship of the Dominion, and the same year boxed four rounds with Jack Dempsey.

Tiring of football, Connie turned to baseball. While he didn't reach the major leagues, he did star in the International League pennant drive and little world series of 1928, and might have reached the big leagues if he had chosen to remain in baseball.

But hockey was in his blood, and he devoted most of his time to that game, clicking as a defense star with the Pittsburgh Pirates, New York Americans and finally the Blackhawks.

of the following by all schools taking part:

Racing shell, $1500; eight oars at $20 each, $160; rowing coach at a salary close to $5,000 a year; bought for chicken feed; maintenance of training quarters; uniforms; shell rigging, including slides and oarlocks; transportation of crew and subs from as far away as Washington and California.

A Tidy Sum. Calculating on an average of six crews in a race, and you can see nearly $120,000 going past when they finish in front of the spectators in the "Kopsie."

Let it here be said that the spectators are of a rare type. They are of the non-paying variety simply because the schools have no way of building stands along a four-mile course, and no way to fence in a body of water to keep out prying eyes.

Rowing as a sport is full of thrills. It is a mark on the credit sides of the ledger for colleges that they have decided to renew this non-commercial contest. But then, perhaps, the increased attendance at football games last fall had something to do with it.

helped Conacher in his hockey game, he says. "The reason I stop those attacks on the net is because, unconsciously, I fall back on other sports," Conacher asserts.

ROSS-PETROLLE GO TOPS FISTIC CARD

Meet in Non-Title Bout Wednesday; Canzoneri to Face Cleto Locatelli.

New York, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Barney Ross, champion of the lightweights, and three of his challengers furnish most of the fun for boxing fans this week.

The champion himself meets Billy Petrolle, hard punching veteran from Duluth, in an overwight 12 rounder at the Coliseum here Wednesday night while Tony Canzoneri Cleto Locatelli renew their feud in Madison Square Garden Friday night and Frankie Klick of San Francisco, recent knockout conqueror of Kid Chocolate, faces Frankie Wallace at Cleveland tonight.

Although Ross holds one decision over Petrolle, he figures to have all kinds of trouble with the veteran this time. Wednesday's bout is at 142 pounds, a weight at which Petrolle has been beaten in recent years only by Jimmy McLarnin, present welterweight champion.

Miami Beach, Fla., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, world's heavyweight champion, today set headquarters at an ocean front club on the beach here and announced he would begin immediate training for his title bout Feb. 22 with Tommy Loughran.

The giant Italian, arrived here last night and said he would start at once to trim his avoirdupois down to 268 pounds, at which he weighed in for his bout with Sharkey. He now weighs 267.

Announcement has been made that Loughran has selected Palm Beach as the site for his training camp.

BEAVERS BUT HALF GAME FROM BOSTON

Quebec Has Chance to Take Lead in Can-Am League Away from the Cubs.

Boston, Jan. 22.—(AP)—The Quebec Beavers today had but a half game to go to take the Canadian-American Hockey league leadership away from the Boston Cubs.

The Beavers took Boston's measure 2 to 1 in a Sunday afternoon game and their chance to jump into the lead comes Tuesday night when the two teams meet again in Quebec.

The scoring list leaders remained in their order. Tommy Anderson, Philadelphia center led with 20 points. Joe Jerwa, Boston defenseman, continued as the league's highest penalty carrier with a total of 55 minutes against him.

NEW YORK JAN. 22.—(AP)—

The National Hockey league club put in a week confounding the critics of the game, who have been arguing that they didn't get as many goals as they should. Of 18 games played in the past week, only two ended with fewer than four goals and two went as high as eleven tallies.

The Toronto Mapleleaves, ran into reverses in a double weekend schedule. The Chicago Black Hawks held them to a 2-2 tie Saturday and at Detroit last night, the Red Wings gave Toronto a 4-2 thumping.

Last night the America got out of the Canadian division cellar with a smashing 4 to 2 triumph over Boston, and Montreal's maroons tied Chicago, 2-2.

OLD BOXER DIES

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 22.—(AP)—Life-long friends of Jimmy Clabby's crowded into a funeral establishment to pay last respects to the dead boxer, who, 20 years ago, was recognized as welterweight champion and later one of the outstanding fighters in the world.

Clabby was found dead of starvation and exposure in a shack in Calumet City, near here last Friday. He was 43 years old. He had gone through a fortune estimated at $500,000 earned in the ring.

BEARS WIN AGAIN

San Francisco, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Chicago's Bears, with little rest, defeated an all-star football aggregation here Sunday 21-7. AP.

Approximately 35,000 fans watched the 1933 National professional league champions play methodically, while their opponents futility piled up yardage.

Football 'Perfect Alliance Of Force and Intelligence'

Rio De Janeiro, Jan. 22.—(AP)—A move to introduce American football in Brazil, now a hundred per cent soccer country, has been launched by the afternoon newspaper A Noite, which sees in Uncle Sam's pigskin sport "a perfect alliance of force and intelligence."

Brazilian universities don't go in much for athletics, and A Noite, in offering to help install American football in colleges, opined that the game would stimulate "athletic necessities recognized as vital in the formation and development of peoples."

The newspaper opened its campaign with a front page article headed by a photograph of the Carnegie Tech squad and said: "American College football is the name of that truly electrifying sport of which cinema news reels and some films have given us a glimpse. The game not only presents a vic-

Resembling nothing short of an old sea walrus, with his tusks flashing and a woolly coat wrapping around his huge frame, Primo Carnera, heavyweight champ, is shown above as he arrived in New York. The Y. M. C. A. quintet showed real form against the Wapping Men's Club Friday night and won easily by the score of 47 to 6.

The locals had their defense working to perfection to keep their opponents from getting under the basket.

Wapping began play with the zone defense but soon changed to the man-to-man system which proved to be of little trouble to the local quintet.

The locals started off at a fast pace, set mainly by Welles and Bycholski, to lead at the quarter 18 to 0. The visitors failed to score until the final period when Frisbie broke the jinx and scored on a "sucker" shot.

Each member of the locals played heads-up basketball with Welles working exceptionally well in the bucket. Bycholski had an eye for long shots to sink on after another.

In the preliminary the "Y" intermediates easily defeated the Wapping Uncas by the score of 27 to 21.

Married Flirts
 MABEL MCELLIOTT
 MCELLIOTT NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury, while Gypsy intends to go on with her job, teaching in a settlement school.

After returning from her honeymoon in Europe Lila invites the Weavers to dinner. Among the guests is wealthy MARCO BROUGHTON, who once asked Gypsy to marry him. He showers her with attentions which she accepts because she is jealous of Tom's interest in HEIDA BLANCHARD. After the party Tom and Gypsy quarrel, but peace is later restored.

Shopping for Christmas, Gypsy meets Broughton who offers her a job cataloging his library and gives her an advance payment of $50. Gypsy decides not to tell Tom about this. She uses the money to buy his Christmas gift, a watch.

Gypsy, working in Broughton's library on a Saturday, has just finished for the day when she hears someone arrive and recognizes Lila's voice. Gypsy manages to escape unseen.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XVI
 The narrowness of her escape left Gypsy with a shaken feeling. She longed with all her heart to be finished with the work at Marko's so that she should not any longer lay herself open to the danger of being misunderstood. There was no reason on earth why she should not now, to Lila or anyone, quite simply and openly say: "I'm doing some work at Marko's place, but he couldn't be in the world. Only—well, she wouldn't understand. "But you say she started just before Christmas. Why... why...?"

Directed to go to Marko, telling him her last visit would be the second Saturday in February. She sealed and stamped it with a distinct feeling of relief. After this, she promised herself so solemnly, no more deceptions—not even tiny ones. It made her too uncomfortable to realize that she was doing something she didn't want her young husband to know about.

It was a bitter winter. Gypsy shivered at night when she plunged homeward through the darkness, hating the blind on icy pavements, gutters, the bitter wind that whistled at her skirts. Often and often she encountered gay groups of young people spilling out of apartment house doorways, on pleasure bound, young women in white fur wraps with silver slippers, young men in expensive slippers. Yet this in evening clothes. She and Tom weren't partying much just then.

"Oh, I hate being poor!" Gypsy burst out rebelliously one night when they had spent the better part of the evening going over the accounts together. She was sorry the moment the words were out, as Tom was uncommonly sensitive on the subject. With dignity he shut the

SENSE and NONSENSE

BETWEEN THE EARS

The average human body is made up approximately of the following: Iron enough for a ten penny nail. Fat enough for seven bars of soap. Sugar enough to fill a small shaker. Lime enough to whitewash a hen coop. Phosphorus enough to make 2,200 matches. Magnetism enough for a ten-cent skyrocket. Potassium enough to explode a toy cannon. Sulphur enough to fill a small dog of his fleas.

Your value therefore does not depend on your weight, nor height, nor girth. Everything depends on what goes on between your ears.

"Keep your mouth shut," is given as a good way to avoid a cold, and the same advice often will prevent a black eye.

Lady (engaging new servant) — And what denomination are you? Applicant — Well, lady, Mother goes to the Baptist church and Father to the Methodist, but speaking for myself, I'm wireless.

Your responsibilities are tremendous, but don't be afraid of them.
One cannot always win, but don't be disheartened by failure; neither be too elated by success.

Sweet Young Thing (dreamily) — Yes, I could love a poor man.
Youth — Then why not marry me?
Sweet Young Thing (going on) — But not enough to have the alarm clock wake me out of pleasant dreams to get up and make his coffee and fry him an egg before he went to work every morning.

The Press Pass
The editor stood at the pearly gate, his face was worn and old. He meekly asked the man of fate admission to the fold.
"What have you done," St Peter asked, "to seek admission here?"
"Oh, I ran a country printing plant on earth for many a year."
The gate swung open sharply as Peter touched the bell.
"Come in," and take a harp, you've had enough of — trouble.

Hirman — Rufus ain't much of a farmer, I'm afraid.
Jerry — Naw, he keeps foolin' round with his crops so much, he don't half tend to his fillin' station.

Son — Yeah? Why all the crepe?
Father — Well, she impresses me as a girl who'll always be more interested in a bare skin on the beach than a bearskin on the living room floor, and that means a bare cupboard in the kitchen.

SWEDISH YOUNG FOLKS GUESTS OF EPWORTHERS

Congregational Society Attend Devotionals at the South Methodist Church Last Night.

The Epworth League of the South Methodist church had as its guests last evening at the regular Sunday night devotionals, the Young People's Society of the Swedish Congregational church. The devotional meeting was in charge of Carl Johnson, president of the visiting group. The program included a most interesting talk by Rev. S. C. Green, pastor of the Swedish church, piano selections by Esther Peterson and a group of hymns by a male quartet. Rev. Green spoke on the subject "Christ, My Ideal" and urged all young people to follow after the pattern of Christ in all that they do in this life. Following the devotionals, a light supper was served by the host league. The committee in charge of serving the supper was: Mae Moriarty, Marjorie Crockett, Grace Legg, Helen Gardner, Carleton Harris and James Lewis. The tables were attractively decorated and the supper consisted of salads, biscuits, pickles, celery, coffee and cake.

The Epworth League is planning, through its first department, a series of meetings for the next few weeks that should be interesting to all the young people of the church. Next Sunday evening the speaker will be Helge E. Pearson, organist and leader of the musical groups of the Emanuel Lutheran church. He will speak on a topic that will be helpful to the young people in relation to church music.

Scout Activities. Mr. McComb was a Scout in Troop 3 of the Center Congregational church from 1916 to 1918; Assistant Scoutmaster in Troop 3 from 1923 to 1927; Scoutmaster from 1927 to the present time. He organized a Scout Troop in Mitchell House (settlement house) in Hartford in 1931 and also serves as Scoutmaster of this troop.

Citation. In nominating Mr. McComb for the Silver Beaver Award, the Executive Committee of the Council cited his record of exceptional service to boyhood, as follows:

"He has devoted himself assiduously to Scout work and during the seventeen years in which he has been interested in Scouting, his interest has never lagged. This was demonstrated quite clearly when he agreed to serve as Scoutmaster for the Mitchell House. This in addition to his regular troop placed a double burden on his shoulders which he has carried with credit to himself and the Boy Scout organization. He has imparted to his boys how to own fine qualities of character and citizenship and there are many boys in

DRIGGS PLAYS ORGAN PIANO AT ONE TIME

Puzzles Listeners When He Broadcasts Music from Both Instruments at Once.

Collin Driggs, who will direct his Aristocrats at the President's Birthday Ball at the State Armory January 30, did something brand new in his broadcast from the Allyn theater Saturday morning. Mr. Driggs' listeners were puzzled to hear their favorite play a piano and organ simultaneously. Here is how it was done. A dual console of one manual or key board for the organ was used. This manual was connected to the organ by an extension cable and placed on the top of the grand piano. This explanation simplifies matters a bit but an organ and piano duet is still a lot of music for one person to play. Mr. Driggs' broadcasts originate in the Allyn theater and are heard on the air three mornings each week.

PIPE BAND BIRTHDAY FILLS ORANGE HALL

Following the entertainment program, Collin Driggs and his Aristocrats layed for dancing. The door prize, an electric clock, was won by Miss Myrtle Matchett of Center street.
