

KNOWS OF NO PROBE OF STATE CWA JOBS

Head of State Organization Declares Federal Investigators Are Not Here, Despite Reports.

Hartford, Jan. 26.—(AP)—If the Civil Works Administration at Washington is investigating the operation of the CWA in Connecticut, the study is being made without the knowledge of Miss Eleanor H. Little, acting state CWA head.

Miss Little said today that no investigator from Washington is in Connecticut, and that so far as she knows, none will be sent here. At least no indication has come out of the office of Harry L. Hopkins, federal administrator, that Connecticut was to be subjected to an investigation except the report that complaints have been received there from all states but Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire.

The report that the Connecticut CWA payrolls were being scrutinized at Washington was without confirmation, Miss Little stated, though she pointed out that the state CWA always studied the payroll and that these were under no more active review than they have been before whenever a complaint of illegality reaches her office, she says her first step is to check the payroll.

Egan's Charges Miss Little expressed surprise that John J. Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, was making an issue of alleged discrimination against union men particularly in the places, New Haven, Middletown and Greenwich.

Miss Little denied that she contemplated an investigation. Furthermore, she said, she supposed she and Mr. Egan had reached an understanding whereby union wages would not be reduced below the maximum of work hours now provided.

Seemingly in contradiction of Miss Little's statement is the fact that two federal inspectors are today at work in Manchester checking all records of the Civil Works Administration. They are in conference here with Town Treasurer G. H. Waddell and Engineer Hayden Griswold.

PURCHASING POWER BEING STABILIZED

President's Monetary Expert Tells Farmers That Great Progress Has Been Made.

Danville, Ill., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Dr. Frank A. Pearson of Cornell University, advocate of the administration's monetary policy, assured Illinois agriculturists today that progress is being made toward a stable purchasing power.

"We should not be too disturbed because so little progress has been made in the past," he said. "Inertia is such a dominant force in our thoughts and actions, that great changes rarely occur until an unusual event forces them upon us. The unparalleled peace-time rise in the value of gold forced the issue and very rapid progress is now being made." "As a result of the unparalleled chaos of the last three years and the present widespread knowledge concerning the problem, it is possible that we may get a stable measure of value so that our children and our children's children will not suffer from the violent fluctuations in the value of gold which this generation has experienced."

"If we get it, the price we are paying, although high, is cheap in terms of human progress." The professor, who with Dr. George F. Warren of Cornell devised the elaborate theory of the relationship between gold and commodity prices, reviewed the economic history of the plan.

COURT RESTRAINS STATE MILK BOARD

Temporary Halt Granted by Court — Stops Work of Equalization Plan.

Hartford, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Its hands tied by the strings of a court order, the Connecticut State Milk Control board was restrained today from operating its equalization fund.

Temporary injunctions, signed by Judge Edwin C. Dickinson of Superior Court, were issued to the Milk Producers Dealers Association of Connecticut, with headquarters in Woodbury, and to Morton E. Pierpont, a Waterbury dairy farmer.

A member of the Milk Control Board, William E. Templeton of Kent, countered with the assertion that the board welcomed the injunction as a test of its powers.

If the court test shows the board does not have the power to carry out its program, Templeton said last night at a milk meeting in Naugatuck, then some other body must handle the problem.

Templeton was heckled by several score Naugatuck and Beacon Falls Milk Producers-Dealers as he spoke. Pierpont, president of the Producers-Dealers Association and Marcy I. Berger, its secretary, also spoke at the meeting.

CENTER SPRINGS MECCA TONIGHT FOR ICE PARTY

Costumed Skaters to Take Part in Carnival on Park Pond—"Queen of Ice" to Be a Feature.

Manchester's first skating costume party scheduled for this evening, beginning at 7:45 p. m., at Center Springs rink, bids fair to show to a capacity audience with the prospects of good weather in store.

A large group of young and old are planning to dress up in their finest and funniest costumes.

Grand March First The affair will get under way at 7:45 with a grand march around the rink, led by Harold Dwyer, chairman of the committee, and Miss Miriam Davenport, one of the leading performers of the evening, and a star in her own right in New England skating circles.

Miss Davenport has exhibited on several occasions in this town and her grace on the ice, coupled with her beauty and ease in the many difficult evolutions of the free-skating act, gives to observers an indelible impression of natural poise which has earned for her the title of "Springfield's Queen of the Ice."

Following the grand march, there will be 15 minutes of free skating, with none but costumed skaters allowed on the ice. Then will come ten minutes of waltzing, a colorful spectacle for those gathered on the shores of the pond in cars to watch the carnival of sport.

Musical recording will be played on the magnavox installed for the convenience of the skaters by Poterter and Krab, local radio dealers. Exhibitions The exhibition program will consist of a double act by Mr. and Mrs. Myers of Cheshire, Mass., Wicket and Foley in a double comedy act, barrel jumping by the darling Leo LaBelle of Meriden; and a solo free skating and figure exhibition by Miss Davenport.

Harold Davenport, Miss Davenport's father, will team with his daughter in a double figure and free skating act which will be seen to advantage under spotlights directed from the skating lodge. All of the acts will be centered, as near as possible, in the skating area. The concluding number on the program

DILLINGER, DESPERADO IS CAUGHT IN ARIZONA

Three of His Pals Also Caught in Police Net — Surrender Without a Shot Being Fired.

Tucson, Arizona, Jan. 26.—(AP)—John Dillinger, midwestern desperado, and three henchmen were drawn into a police net and captured late yesterday.

Officers, working swiftly and calmly, found the men unprepared for battle. Not a shot was fired although two of the four attempted the use of pistols.

A hotel fire, the keen eyes of two firemen and the remarkable memory of a policeman for a "soft voice" were responsible for the arrest of the quartet wanted for a long series of crimes, including murder, robbery, prison breaking and jail delivery.

Admits Identity Dillinger himself calmly surrendered under the threat of leveled guns and admitted his identity after his asserted followers were taken into custody one by one. They

Several gangsters and about 800 of their underlings who had been in virtual control of the institution until the commissioner started a sudden investigation Wednesday were still in solitary confinement. While the inmates were hungry they had been selecting the choicest of the prison foods which was cooked to a turn over fires made from prison library books.

Stringent restrictions placed on all of the prisoners since the start of a cleanup of what MacCormick termed "the worst prison in the world" were eased somewhat yesterday. Some of the men were permitted to exercise in their cell blocks and a few were permitted to walk in the yard.

Rome, Jan. 26.—(AP)—A strong Japanese protest will be made tomorrow to Premier Mussolini personally against a recent article written by Italo Calvino in the Far East.

Japanese Ambassador Hajime Genda, who will deliver the protest, verbally, also will voice his government's objections to a speech by Italo Calvino in the Chamber of Deputies.

Explosive circles have hummed for days with rumors that such a protest was to be made. Matsumura requested the appointment following the receipt of instructions from Tokyo and the hour was fixed for Saturday afternoon.

RUSSIA VIEWS JAPAN'S PLANS WITH DISTRUST

Soviet Press Declares No Changes of Policies Can Be Expected Because of Change in Military Heads.

Moscow, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Suspicion and distrust of Japanese intentions in the Far East were voiced in Soviet Press today in the first reaction to the speech of Foreign Minister Koki Hirota before the Japanese Diet and the resignation of General Sadao Araki as minister of war.

Declaring no changes in Japanese policies can be expected to result from Hirota's declaration of policy and Araki's retirement, the newspaper Ivestia added:

"It is regrettable that neither event gives any indication of a decision by the Japanese government to begin a decisive liquidation of its tense policy toward the Soviet Union."

The speech of Hirota, which could have played such a positive role in the improvement of international relations, can hardly be considered as having accomplished this purpose.

Tries To Blame Russia Declaring Hirota tried to explain the present tension in the Far East by attributing to the Soviet government a change in its former policy, this government organ then went on to say:

"By saying this he obviously wanted to minimize the responsibility for sharpening Russo-Japanese positions in the Far East— which responsibility lies entirely upon the Japanese government."

"He cannot remove this responsibility by pronouncing sentence. The Soviet Union, by proposing a guarantee pact, by participating in a Soviet-Manchukuo-Japanese frontier commission and by agreeing to sell the Chinese eastern railway proved its readiness to maintain peace in the Far East."

"This policy will not be changed unless the Japanese government carries out its aggressive plan and preparations which are now being carried on."

Concerning the Japanese foreign minister's reference to stabilization of peace in Asia, Karl Radak—writing in the same paper—warns that "peace is in danger despite and owing to the 'stabilization measures' of Japanese imperialists."

Best For Imperialists "The stabilization of peace in the Far East," which Hirota mentions means the establishment of such order as best will serve the interests of Japanese imperialists. In other words peace can be established in Washington, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Majority pressure was turned on in the Senate today for enactment of the dollar devaluation bill, without immediate indication of getting down to a vote.

The story in the House was much the same as for days past, another revenue departmental appropriation on the way for certain passage by late afternoon. This one would give $200,000,000 to run the Treasury and Post Office through the next fiscal year.

In the distance from both Capitol ends could be discerned another farm aid dispute. It will hinge, apparently, on efforts for compulsory reduction of such crops as cotton and wheat.

LAURETTI REFUSES TO GIVE FACTS AT PALLOTTI HEARING

Democratic Chairman of Hartford's Fourth Ward Is Silent When Questioned About Collections from Business Men in the Second Ward.

Hartford, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Alessandro Lauretti, Democratic chairman of the Second Ward, this morning refused to answer questions put to him in cross-examination at the trial of Rocco D. Pallotti, Edward Orsini, Salvatore Malone and John Patrizio, on the ground that to answer would incriminate him, before Judge Dickinson in Superior Criminal Court today.

Lauretti was on the stand when court adjourned yesterday and had been asked questions by Attorney Walfried G. Lundberg, of counsel for Mr. Pallotti, relative to collections which Lauretti, Michael Mizano and three others had made from business men in the Second Ward.

Conspiracy Charge Pallotti, Orsini, Malone and Patrizio are charged with conspiracy to interfere with the progress of an election, with intimidation of voters with assault on Mizano, Saverio Acanto and William F. Galvin, Jr., and with breach of the peace. Attorney Lundberg resumed his cross examination when court resumed this morning, with Lauretti on the stand.

Attorney Edward J. Daly, counsel for Patrizio, brought out that Lauretti did not see Patrizio any time during election day.

Reporter's Witness John R. Case, a reporter for the Hartford Times, and formerly a secretary to former Mayor William F. Rankin, was the next witness.

The next witness was Officer John J. Murphy, who was on duty at the Court House at 9 a. m., 10 15 p. m., on election day. He testified, in answer to questions by Mr. Alcorn, that he saw a disturbance in the morning, during which he saw Orsini holding Officer Healy by the arm.

Victim Identifies Three Men Who Held Him in Captivity for Days.

Criminal Courts Building, Chicago, Jan. 26.—(AP)—John Factor today named Roger Touhy and two co-defendants as the men who kidnaped him for ransom last July. His face trembling, Factor three times stepped down from the witness stand, walked dramatically across the courtroom and pointed out the defendant, Bloomer Gus) Schaefler, Albert (Folly Nose) Kator, and finally Touhy.

Factor said he sat up all of his first night in captivity and slept the next night in a vermin infested bed. During all of his abduction period he never took off his shoes and could do but little walking now because of infection in his feet.

Touhy struck him shortly after he was seized, Factor said, and accused him of throwing a big roll of dough into his car to hide it. Factor denied that.

On the second day, he said, the man identified as Touhy came to him and said: "Well you're going for a ride; your friends are talking too much."

"I replied, 'My God! Is this the end?' and the man who was kind to me patted my hand and said: 'Don't worry. They put me in an automobile, drove for about 30 to 50 minutes and took me to the second floor of another house."

He spent a quiet Sunday in captivity, Factor said, one of his kidnapers reading the newspapers to him, chiefly the stories about the kidnaping. After that, he was treated brutally.

PRISONERS CHEER NEW JAIL ORDERS

Steam Tables to Cook Food and Civilian Chef Ordered by Commissioner.

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Boos and jeers at the city prison on Welfare Island for Austin H. MacCormick, new commissioner of correction, have given way to smiles and cheers.

Orders for quick installation of steam tables and services of a civilian cook have convinced 1,400 of the inmates who have been starved and improperly prepared food that the commissioner is not such a bad sort, after all.

"They think I'm on the level now," he said, "and it's up to me to show them that I am. I can do that immediately by at least starting to carry out my plans. Unless I do I'm liable to lose this great advantage."

Several gangsters and about 800 of their underlings who had been in virtual control of the institution until the commissioner started a sudden investigation Wednesday were still in solitary confinement. While the inmates were hungry they had been selecting the choicest of the prison foods which was cooked to a turn over fires made from prison library books.

is to be kept sound for the creditor and the debtor, it is commodity prices that need to be kept stable, not the weight of gold for which a dollar will exchange. By changing the price of gold, this or any other nation can establish and maintain any desired internal price level.

Gigantic Experiment.
"The world is now conducting a gigantic experiment in varying the price of gold to overcome the devastating effects of the rising value of gold and declining commodity prices. Most of the world has been conducting this experiment for more than two years. Thus far the United States has been the last to join the world movement.

"It is generally assumed that rising prices for gold are accompanied by reduced prices of fixed income securities. The facts do not substantiate this philosophy. "It is now commonly believed that creditors will lose by a restoration of an equilibrium in the price structure. The slight loss in purchasing power of the creditors' income is, however, more than compensated by the elimination of huge losses of principal from which the creditors would otherwise suffer.

"Therefore, the policy of raising the price of gold to reestablish an equilibrium in the price structure and thereby restore incomes and profits of incalculable value to the creditor class of this country."

Dr. Pearson showed that in the last 10 months of 1933 the price of gold rose 6 per cent in the United Kingdom and 56 per cent in the United States, and that prices of commodities in the United Kingdom rose 15 per cent and in the United States rose 56 per cent.

COLUMBIA

The annual installation of officers of Columbia Grange was held Wednesday evening at the hall with the supper before the meeting. At 7:30 about 80 patrons of Husbandry and their friends sat down to a bountiful and delicious supper of baked fresh shoulder, mashed potatoes, carrots and peas, rolls, pickles, coffee, and all varieties of one crust pies. Several Columbia friends spent the day Thursday at the home of Mrs. Mary Ink in honor of her 85th birthday. Miss Tulle Friedrich, who has been making the survey in this vicinity of farm homes for the CWA has about completed her work. The heavy rain and spring-like weather following has spoiled the skating for the present. This sport has been enjoyed by many, some going on the ice for the first time in many years. It is a long time since the skating conditions have been so ideal.

INSPECTS TOWN'S RECORDS ON CWA

Federal Agent in Manchester Today—Covering Entire State.

M. H. Miller of the Federal Re-employment office, Hartford conducted an inspection of the files of the Manchester office this morning, assisted by George H. Waddell, certifying officer and Hayden L. Griswold, supervising engineer. The inspection, Mr. Waddell stated, is similar to inspections being conducted in other towns of all workers on the CWA lists.

Start Green Project
The Manchester Green sewer job was begun under the CWA department this morning with 20 men employed. There will be much deep digging on this project to lower the sewer so that it will enter the basement level of the Manchester Green school. A contract for approximately 1,000 feet of pipe for the job has already been let.

The payroll for the past week has been completed, and $5,524.75 will be distributed next Monday on the various jobs to 420 workers, in conformity with a ruling of the CWA board made last Wednesday.

Hamlin St. Job
The Hamlin street sewer, begun by the CWA but turned over to the town as a project on which extra employment might be given work to help relieve the unemployment situation, will be started by town employees Monday.

The men will be paid 40 cents an hour for a 32 hour week.

INSULL MAY QUIT GREECE VIA PLANE

Rumor Circulated That Magnate Has Hired Flying Boat in Athens.

Athens, Greece, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Samuel Insull has chartered a hydroplane and ordered it held ready for a flight to an unknown destination, it was rumored here today.

With the circulation of this unconfirmed report, it also was rumored that his destination if such a flight were undertaken possibly would be Abyssinia.

The possibility that he might attempt to make a clandestine departure before the date of his scheduled expulsion, January 31, had been discussed earlier.

It was stated officially, however, that Insull will be permitted to remain in Greece until his health is satisfactory provided he applies for a prolongation of his police residence permit and an official physician certifies that deportation would be dangerous.

"The Greek government will deport Insull February 1, if he does not leave voluntarily by January 31," said a statement released by Premier Tsaldaris.

"On the other hand," he added, "if Insull requests a prolongation of his sojourn permit on the grounds of health and if the minister of the interior's doctor finds his health dangerous, the Greek government will prolong the permit until his health is satisfactory."

"It was not fitting for any country to forcibly deport any sick man."

FATHER'S FIRM FAILS, SON GETS IRRITABLE

That Is Grounds for Divorce Advanced by Son's Wife—Other Bridgeport Divorces.

Bridgeport, Jan. 26.—(AP)—When his father's $3,000,000 brokerage firm in New York collapsed, George M. Pynchon of Greenwich became an inconsiderate and ill-tempered husband, according to testimony offered by Alice Bennett Pynchon; also of Greenwich, in the Superior Court today. Judge Carl Foster granted a decree and custody of two minor children, but held the papers pending the filing of an alimony agreement.

Louise A. Bohn, a high school teacher in Stamford was given a divorce and alimony of $75 a month in her action against Frank Bohn, also of Stamford, who she charged had threatened to kill her on several occasions.

Audrey Hatch Andrews of Danbury was given a divorce and custody of a minor daughter, in her action against Clifford Andrews, also of Danbury.

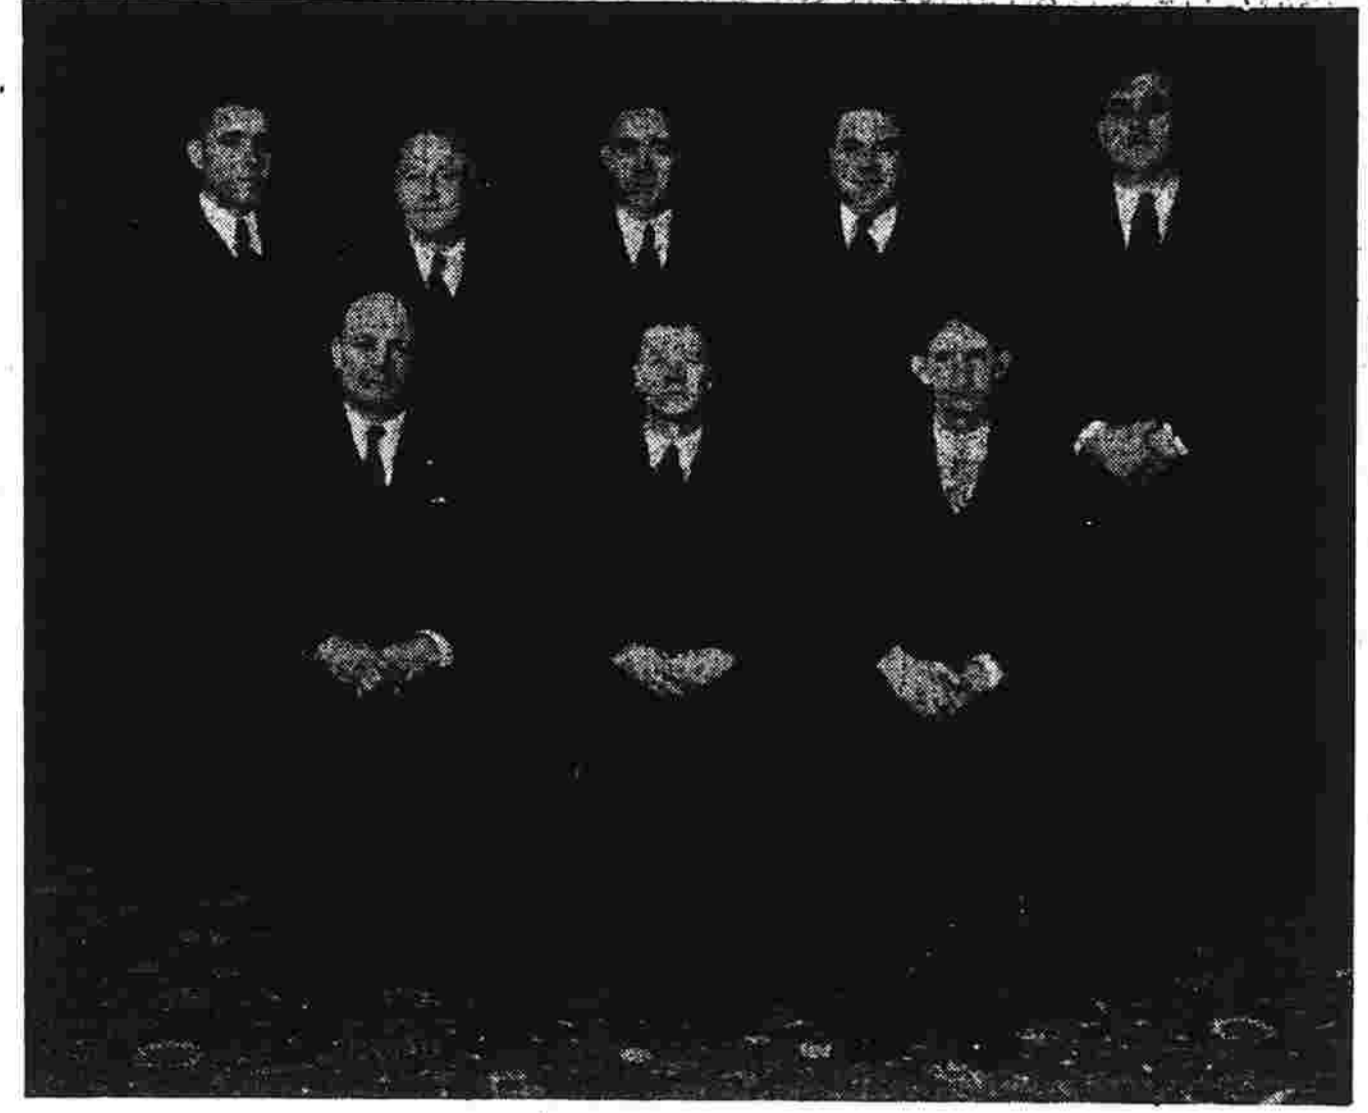

Two trials at married life ended disastrously for William H. Sickles of Darien. He was granted a decree from Carrie L. Sickles, also of Danbury.

Mary Rau of Danbury was given a decree from Henry Rau, also of Danbury, who she declared deserted her in 1927.

Sarah K. Bryan of Norwalk was granted a divorce from Arthur Bryan, also of Norwalk, who she declared refused absolutely to do any work.

DEADLINE IS SET IN HOTEL STRIKE

Unions and New York Employers to Take Action at 5 This Afternoon.

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The hour of five o'clock this afternoon holds promise of double-barrelled action in New York's hotel strike situation.

The Amalgamated Food Workers Union has set that hour for a general walkout of its chefs, busboys and waiters in most of the city's hotels, unless the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where a strike was called Tuesday night, makes peace with the union.

The management of the Waldorf-Astoria countered with an ultimatum of its own, also fixing five o'clock this afternoon as the deadline of its patience.

In a "notice to striking restaurant employees" the hotel offered to give consideration to employees who might apply for the jobs they abandoned at the dinner hour Tuesday night, but it fixed a 5 p. m. deadline for reemployment.

To FWH Positions
"After 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, January 26, all open positions will be filled," the notice said. Former employees who do not intend to return should get their personal property from the hotel lockers, because otherwise it will have to be removed and stored at their risk."

The strike already has spread from the Waldorf-Astoria to the New Weston and Lincoln hotels where many kitchen and dining room employees walked out at dinner time last night.

There have been no general wage

NOTED PLANE BURNED

Newcastle, Del., Jan. 26.—(AP)—The Columbia, only airplane thought to fly the Atlantic, is in ashes.

With four other planes, it was destroyed by a fire which swept a large barn at the Bellanca Airport Corporation's field near New Castle late yesterday. Officials estimated the loss at $250,000.

The Columbia's first trans-Atlantic flight was its best known venture. Then the craft of Charles E. Levine, the Columbia carried the New Yorker and his pilot, Clarence Chamberlin, to Germany.

Another long-distance Bellanca was among the planes destroyed. It was that of Harry Jones, of Old Orchard, Maine.

BADEN-POWELL'S CONDITION

London, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Lord Baden-Powell, 77-year-old founder of the Boy Scout movement, was reported to be "holding his own" today in a hospital where he underwent two operations earlier this month. Physicians said he passed a fair night.

Despite efforts of attendants to dissuade her, Lady Baden-Powell insisted on remaining in attendance at the bedside during the night.

NEW BUS SERVICE ANSWERS DEMANDS

Rockville People Can Go Direct to Insurance Offices West of Hartford Depot.

Since the Connecticut Company started the bus from Rockville that runs through to the insurance offices to the west of the railroad station in Hartford there has been an increase in the number that have been traveling. A second bus has been added and even this has resulted in complaints being made that there is not sufficient room.

This morning a checker in the employ of the Connecticut Company came into the transfer point at Depot Square and checked the number that left the bus that arrived at the square at 7:30, to ascertain the number that took the Manchester Green car across town or who did not travel any further than Manchester.

The extra bus was put on by the Connecticut Company to try and furnish better transportation to Rockville residents and to compete with private car competition.

TO DRAW PICTURE OF WAR BELGIUM

Col. Winchell, in Series at Citadel, Worked Under Herbert Hoover.

Colonel Wallace Winchell, who is conducting a series of revival services at the Salvation Army citadel, will give his famous lecture, "Six Months with Herbert Hoover in Belgium," tomorrow evening at 7:45 in the auditorium of the citadel. The lecture will be illustrated by 100 views made chiefly from the only photographs taken in Belgium from behind German lines. How these pictures were taken when America was at the breaking point in 1918, and how they were brought through the German and English lines, after Winchell had been tried as a spy, will be answered by documentary proof in the colonel's lecture.

Dispensed Clothing

During the month of October, 1918, Wallace Winchell was asked to disburse a large sum of money that had been sent from Australia for the specific purpose of feeding and clothing the Belgians who were in the part of Belgium occupied by German. Before this effort had been made to get Salvation Army officers of high rank from such neutral countries as Switzerland and Denmark, but the German Army refused them passports. Herbert C. Hoover, director for the Commission of Relief in Belgium, was appealed to by the International Headquarters in London. He replied, "If you will select some American, native born, with a stout heart and a ready mind, capable of taking in an unexpected situation and acting wisely, I will make an appeal to the German general staff."

This was agreed to, and Colonel Winchell was chosen. In order that Mr. Hoover might assure the Germans that he was responsible he paid Winchell's passage both ways. When Winchell arrived in Holland he found that Mr. Hoover was in New York and he had to wait two weeks for his return. In the interim Winchell unwittingly visited the camps of Belgian refugees in Holland and talked with a Mrs. Husa, a woman who was on the British Army payroll and the associate of Edith Cavell, the English nurse who was executed as a spy. This was noticed by the German agents and when Mr. Hoover made an appeal in his behalf entrance was refused on the ground that he was a spy.

Help of Almighty. "In spite of the fact that Mr. Hoover, who was probably the most influential man in Europe, being trusted by both sides, could not effect my entrance, the gates of steel and fire of the great German army swung wide open and gave me an abundant entrance. That this was accomplished by the power of Almighty God is the Colonel's firm conviction and he will tell about it in the lecture. How the power of God can use the simplest things to bring honor to Himself and avert tragedy from humans, through those who have been cleansed and regenerated was the theme of Colonel Winchell's address last night. He illustrated it by telling the story of a bouquet of roses that prevented a murder when he was stationed in Jersey City.

TEACHING MISSION TO BEGIN SUNDAY

Committee Completes Its Plans for Week's Services at St. Mary's.

A fine turnout of members representing the various organizations of the church was present last night at the final meeting of the general committee for the "Teaching Mission" to be conducted at St. Mary's church beginning Sunday, January 28, and continuing through Sunday, February 4. Further literature was distributed to the workers by the Secretary Mrs. Ethel McKay, consisting of a program of the services for the Mission, and a program of the regular Lenten and Easter services.

The following letter has been received by the pastor from Dean Glasier, of Cathedral Church of Saint Luke in Portland, Maine, who will be the Missioner: "To the people of St. Mary's Parish, South Manchester, Conn. 'I send you greetings in the Name of Him who loved us and gave Himself for us. As the opening day of the Mission draws near, I find myself thinking of this great word from the lips of the prophet Isaiah:—'In returning and rest shall ye be saved; in quietness and confidence shall be your strength.' It is my prayer, and I trust that you will make it your prayer too, that the Mission may be fruitful in bringing many to a new understanding, and a new assurance of just this truth. The word needs God. You and I need Him."

"No matter how we run, or cry, or strive, we cannot hope to live as true men and women apart from God. The object of the Mission is 'to establish, strengthen, and settle us' in the faith that God is our life. But to accomplish the purpose of the Mission, we must have the devoted assistance of many. Knowing your pastor, and his careful preparation for the Mission, I am sure of this. Please pray for me. Faithfully yours to Christ, J. Arthur Glasier.

The program of services for the Mission is as follows: Holy Communion, Jan. 28: 8:00 a. m., Holy Communion and Meditation, 9:30 a. m., Church School; 10:45 a. m., Morning Prayer; "What is a Teaching Mission?"; 3:00 p. m., Highland Park Sunday School; 7:00 p. m., Evening Prayer, "Belief in God." The Teaching Mission Services with: Hymn, Prayers, Notices, Hymn, Sermon, Hymn, Intercessions and Thanksgivings and Hymn. Sunday evening through Friday evening at 7:30 p. m., Preaching by the Missioner. Simple Services, old Hymns, Question Box.

Subjects: Belief in Sunday—God; Monday—Man; Tuesday—Belief; Wednesday—Jesus Christ; Thursday—The Church; Friday—The Kingdom of God. Holy Communion Services: 8:00 a. m., Sunday, Jan. 28; Tuesday, Jan. 30; Thursday, Feb. 1; 10:00 a. m., Monday, Jan. 29; Wednesday, Jan. 31; Friday, Feb. 2. Children's Services: 4:30 p. m., Wednesday, Jan. 31; Friday, Feb. 2. Saturday, February 3, 7:30 p. m.; Meditation and Preparatory Service. Sunday, Services Feb. 4 as Sunday above; 10:45 a. m., Holy Communion, "The Fruits of a Mission," also 3:00 p. m., Concluding Service for men, by request. Sunday, Feb. 11 at 3:00 p. m., Confirmation, Rt. Rev. Chauncey E. Brewster, D. D., retired Bishop of Connecticut. Glad To Come. The following letter was also received from Dean Glasier in reply to the invitation extended him to be the Missioner: "My dear friends: I shall be glad to come to St. Mary's Parish for the Teaching Mission and count it a privilege to be with you. I like the topics and will build the Mission around them, combining inspiration and instruction. May we have a box marked 'Intercessions' at the door of the Church. The prayers of the people are asked for the Missioner as well as the Mission. With all good wishes in Christ Jesus, I am Faithfully yours, J. Arthur Glasier. The parishioners are reminded to bring with them to the Mission Services the card left with them by the workers and place it on the Alms Basin. During the Mission the senior choir will sing on Monday, Tuesday and Thursday evenings, and on Wednesday and Friday evening the junior choir will sing.

Now that the U. S. naval squadron proved how easy it was to fly 2,400 miles to Hawaii, the boats will be as popular as ever.

AUTOS AID INDUSTRIAL RECOVERY BY SPENDING

Plymouth Sales Manager Says Output Has Been Kept in Line With Demand.

"The automobile industry has shown its faith in industrial recovery by expenditures amounting to millions of dollars in introducing new models to the public at the New York, Cleveland and other Shows," H. G. Mook, general sales manager of the Plymouth Motor Corporation, told Cleveland industrial leaders at a luncheon marking the opening of the 1934 Automobile Show.

"The automobile industry is a shining example of what can be accomplished under our existing system," Mr. Mook said. "It has advanced in two decades from nothing to the largest of America's industries. Through weekly reports it has kept output almost exactly in line with demand. It has been financed largely out of earnings and has an insignificant bonded indebtedness.

"It has paid better wages, it has developed concerns to give consumer credit and has made enormous progress in engineering and equal progress in manufacturing.

"Each year the automobile industry offers the consumer better products for less money. The industry has developed parts and accessory companies which specialize in certain parts. The industry has paid dividends to stockholders. It has established a nationwide network of dealer and repair shops.

"The automobile industry has stimulated the petroleum industry so that fuel is available everywhere. It has enlarged trading areas, taken the people out of the congested areas into the suburbs, helped the farmer market his crops and aided the schools of the country to consolidate so that better educational facilities are available to all the youth of the country.

"The automobile industry further, has asked no favors and still is one of the most heavily taxed of all the nation's businesses. Some 11 percent of all taxes paid to governmental agencies are paid by those in the automotive industry, and those who use its products.

FRIDAY, JANUARY 26.

MR. ROOSEVELT'S WAY

Those persons who, some months ago, were asserting that President Roosevelt had no monetary mind of his own but was merely putting into effect, by virtue of his position, the ideas of advisors like Professor Warren have every reason now to amend their views. Mr. Roosevelt has a mind of his own, and it is leading him into trouble. He is, it now appears certain, quite determined to abide by half measures, stopping at a midway house in the march he started toward currency expansion and waiting there to see what will happen.

What is extremely likely to happen is a definite slowing down in the progress toward recovery. At this writing it appears most probable that the gold devaluation bill will pass—may have passed before this sees type. It is a good bill as far as it goes but it is a fair guess that within three months the country will have forgotten that it ever was passed, so far as any definite improvement in general conditions shall have resulted from it. It is, as we have said before, a perfectly good foundation without any house built on it. We may be able to live in the cellar but not in great comfort. By smuggling against the weather walls we may keep out of the bitterest of the depression winds but it won't keep out the rain of depressed values.

Wednesday the Treasury's issue of a billion dollars in interest bearing notes and certificates—equivalent to brief-term bonds—was oversubscribed three and a half times. This fact is joyously hailed as indicating that the "credit of the nation," about which so much worrying has been done, is still sound in spite of the fact that some nine billion dollars more of interesting bearing securities loom in the near future.

But where does this money come from? It comes from the banks. It will continue to come from the banks as long as the government provides this kind of gilt edged investment. The government, becoming the greatest borrower ever known in peace time, has entered into competition with industry and business, which are starving to death for capital with which to carry on.

Try to get a banker to make a normally sporting business loan for the purchase of commodities in the regular course of trade—in the face of bids for cash from the government on the iron-clad security of the whole United States!

There are a dozen men in the councils of the administration who know well enough that the machine is going to stall as a result of this throttling down process that is going on during an uphill pull—but Mr. Roosevelt is going his own way; and Congress is whooping along with him.

Senator Borah, however, is not going along. If the Utah senator had half the energy that he has intelligence he might have saved the whole situation. His proposed amendment making mandatory an issue of new currency on the basis of the gold profit from devaluation would, if adopted, merely compel the administration to carry out its own policy to its logical conclusion. It would energize business, lift buying power and values and accomplish at one stroke what otherwise will not be accomplished for a long time—not until we have tried out the cellar hole and found that it will not serve as a home.

PLANNING BOARD.

There has just come to our notice a statement of the Connecticut planning board organized by Governor Cross, explaining its objectives and proposed activities. The purpose of the board, it is set forth, is to furnish a means of co-ordinating and integrating information pertaining to the growth and development of the state, collected from sources existing and to be organized and so formulated this information that all agencies of the state may pursue their several functions with the assurance that they are each operating in the light of all available information.

What is particularly interesting, not to say overwhelming, about the statement is its description of the board's field of action. Without the batting of an eyelid this is announced as follows:

Some of the divisions of the information to be co-ordinated and integrated will be: Land use and classification; population distribution; bus routes and truck routes and their effect on general traffic, on highway maintenance, new highways and taxation; zoning of roadside areas and developments; public interests in navigable waters; drainage and sewerage and the assurance of future outlets; the relation of state parks and forests to semi-public watersheds and to municipal parks; public health—preventive measures, physical and mental—and future hospitalization; uniform standards in estimating and budgeting; all state building programs; types and distribution of schools; town plans and regional plans; assessments, taxation and exemption of various classes of property; limitations of "police power" and power of "eminent domain," particularly as pertaining to littoral rights; long range planning and financing; legal aspects of short and long range planning.

This, we venture to remark, constitutes altogether a fairly sizable order. One can't help wondering if, by the time the Planning Board gets into full swing, we shan't have to build yet another state office building in its exclusive behoof.

There is something about it that faintly suggests the Department of Commerce at Washington, which started with four people and in a few years had seven or eight thousand job holders.

The statement relieves any anxiety about the finances of the work—in the immediate future—since it appears that the PWA or the CWA or the National Planning Board or all of them put together propose to furnish the cash. But how about by and by? Nothing is more certain than that a lot of these federal fountains are going to dry up pretty soon. Is Connecticut going to get into a planning enterprise that may extend over a hundred years and take into itself state office holders by the hundreds or the thousands as it grows in age and responsibilities and size?

MONEY CASCADE

Where does the money go that the people of big cities are taxed to provide?

Any high school boy or girl, particularly one who has studied civics at all, can give quite a long list of services for which big city people pay—police and fire protection, schools, pavements, public lighting, health and welfare agencies, hospitals, charities, etc. But even a pretty close student of civil government would be hard put to it to account for expenditures constituting even the bulk of the budget. There are odds and ends plenty.

For instance, how many people, even smartly intelligent residents of New York, would ever think of such a matter as the cost of property condemnation proceedings in the light of a major expense of city government? Yet it has just been disclosed that the metropolis paid, during the last four years, no less than one million, two hundred and forty-one thousand dollars to twelve "experts" for serving as witnesses or appraisers in such proceedings.

One gentleman, Ira L. Terry, was paid $278,170 in these four years. He was high hook. In 1930 the smallest sum received by any of the dozen was $17,811.85—that was to a Mr. Gaynor and we don't know what he did with the eighty-five cents—while the largest pickup that year was Mr. Terry's $69,870—magnanimously he charged no odd cents.

That was the banner year; the city paid its condemnation proceeding experts $428,548.80. Last year, the worst, the depression reduced the experts to comparative penury. One of them actually only pulled down a wretched $9,706 and the best that any of them did was $48,888—again Mr. Terry, who seems to have had quite a way with him.

JAIL ROASTERS

When Miss Edna Purcell of the State Labor Commission described so effectively to the Manchester Women's Democratic Club on Wednesday evening conditions in Connecticut workshops prior to the days of the NRA it is to be hoped that she spoke out of fuller and better information than when she embarked on her criticism of the Hartford County Jail, describing the state of that institution as "deplorable," with especial reference to the women's section.

It was probably inevitable that Miss Purcell, as one of the considerable army of official uplifters in this state, should take a crack at the Hartford county jail. Sooner or later they all do. It is like speakers at drummers' conventions telling a story about Pat and Mike—it just has to be done. Precisely why, no one knows, but it is part of the proceedings.

Miss Purcell may have visited the Hartford jail at some time or other, but the chances are that she never did. Hardly any of its critics ever have. Generally they get their impression from some one who got it from the man who struck Billy Patterson. If Miss Purcell did ever see the inside of the Seymers street bastille it is pretty conclusive that she has seen few others and knows little about jails.

The Hartford County jail is not deplorable in any sense other than that is perhaps deplorable that there must be jails because people will not behave. It is not a model jail—praises be!—but it is not a bad jail, let alone a deplorable one. It is a pretty good jail. The conditions of life there—not forgetting the plumbing or its occasional lack—are much superior to those in Greenwich Castle when Queen Elizabeth lived there, in relatively modern times. Also the food is better; and the medical attention; and the general state of cleanliness.

Still and all, it is probably necessary for state office holders, whose job seems to call for their going about and making talks to clubs, to have something to dramatize and view with alarm. Possibly it might as well be the Hartford County jail as anything else. Its shoulders are broad and it can stand a good deal of roasting without worrying about a possible investigation. And when people are thinking about the horrors of the Hartford County jail they are not likely to be thinking, at the same time, about the comparative expense and uselessness of the Labor Department.

NO NEED TO HAVE "TIRED FEELING"

Some people are tired when they get up in the morning, others go through a tired slump in the middle of the afternoon, while many are tired all of the time. In most cases, the condition is one of chronic tiredness and could not be called a state of real exhaustion. However, since one who is very tired may easily become sick, you should try to banish that tired feeling within the next two months, and I am sure that you are going to find it possible to do this and to replace your present tiredness with an abundance of strength.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

SEE MANY CHANGES AHEAD FOR AMERICA

Of books analyzing the present administration's record there seems to be no end. One of the best of the lot is "The Future Comes," by Charles A. Beard and George H. E. Smith.

The New Deal, these men state bluntly, is nothing less than a break with the American past. It recognizes the memorable trend toward collectivism in American economy, and, instead of fighting it, it seeks to harness, use, and control it.

The decisions that President Roosevelt takes in the next few months "will be fateful beyond all measurement."

The steps so far taken, the authors believe, are decisive, even if incomplete. The entire industrial recovery program is only a beginning, a laying of the foundations.

The agricultural program, taken by and large, represents the first step toward gearing agricultural productivity to effect consumptive capacity within the nation, and seems to point in the direction of solving the "paradox of want within the very presence of abundant supply."

For the unemployment relief program the authors have high praise. If it proceeds along present lines, doing away with the entire psychology of "charity," they believe that the foundations will have been laid "for one of the greatest advances in practical humanity the world ever has seen."

The book is not unorthodox, and it indulges in no hoop-la. It looks upon the New Deal as the beginning of a transition, not as a complete program.

It finds, in it much that is encouraging, but it foresees a long struggle.

Published by MacMillan, the book sells for $1.75.

they tire too soon. At this stage the difficulty is probably easily corrected. If you want to banish that tired feeling, I want you to do this: write me a letter. Use two sheets of paper on one side only and try to pack your letter with as much information regarding your case as you can. Then send it to me in care of this newspaper and enclose a large, self-addressed, envelope and a three cent stamp. I will then be glad to send you any rules for gaining strength which I believe would prove helpful to you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Pus Pockets May Cause Rise in Temperature)

Question: From Ocean Springs, Miss.: "I have several bad pus pockets on my tonsils and I notice that I have been running a temperature once in a while. An X-ray of the chest and sputum examination shows that I do not have tuberculosis. What do you think is wrong with me?"

Answer: The presence of the pus pockets in the tonsils might be sufficient to cause an occasional rise in temperature. Since you do not give me your name; I am unable to send you some instructions which I believe you would find helpful.

(Food After Fast)

Question: A lady from Mississippi writes: "What kind of food should I use after the orange juice fast? Do you have a treatment for bronchial asthma?"

Answer: If you will write me again and will repeat the three questions given on your postal card, I will be pleased to see that you receive an answer. Kindly enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Daughters Still Wet Bed)

Question: A "hopeful mother" from Philadelphia, Pa., writes: "My daughters are aged eight and ten and they still wet the bed. Could you help me to teach them to overcome this habit?"

Answer: Before I could give you any advice I would need to know more details. In some cases enuresis or bed wetting is due to bladder weakness; in other cases it may have a psychological basis and sometimes it is simply the result of a bad habit. I am going to ask you to write to me again, giving your name and address and enclosing a large, self-addressed envelope so that I may send you some information which I am sure you will find of value.

(Will Diet Clear Complexion?)

Question: Jane Marie of New Orleans, La., writes: "I suffer from constipation and my skin is very bad and at times my body becomes itchy. I can't seem to find anything to do to help myself. Do you think that the right diet would clear up my complexion?"

Answer: As the instructions for you to follow are entirely too long to be given in a short answer, I believe that the best plan would be for you to write to me again, giving your name and street address. If you will enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, I will be pleased to advise you.

(Fish Is Wholesome Food)

Question: From Rutherford, N. J.: "I have often wondered if you have any article on the subject of fish. Do you consider fish a wholesome food?"

Answer: I am pleased to send you a copy of my article on fish, which I feel sure you will find of interest. I recommend this form of protein as I consider it wholesome. Some of the kinds of fish which I have found to be good are: sole, halibut, sea bream, flounder, fresh cod, perch, black bass and tuna.

THOSE NIGHT CLUB CUTIES ARE BARELY ADVERTISED ON BROADWAY

By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, Jan. 26—Meanderings: Night clubs, especially those presenting rather pretentious revues are competing for attention of passersby with the display of more and more daring pictures of their chorus cuties.

Three small boys were wandering past the Hollywood Restaurant the other afternoon when one of them glanced at a photo-poster of an undraped charmer and went into a mock faint. "C'mon!" grumbled the others. "Whaaaaa, matterwithyou?"

"That's Miss Adams," gasped the stricken youngster, pointing to the picture. "Taught my grade in school last year, an' was stricter'n anything. An' look at her now!"

Literary Note

Hervey Allen, who took four years to write Anthony Adverse, is quarantined with the Internal Revenue people. He believes part of his income tax, which has jumped into a pretty high bracket, ought to be checked off against those unremunerative years.

Here's a late holiday note—late, because Jimmy Duffy, a vaudeville actor, has just gotten around to telling about it. He was booked during the festive season as the constant companion of a millionaire, and wherever they went Duffy was supposed to be the life of the party with a running fire of jokes.

Another Mike Romanoff, the importer-prince, tells inquiring friends he went home for the holidays. What he did was visit Tombs prison, where he used to be a guest, and pass around a few cartons of cigarettes. Edith Waters, who probably makes more money than any other member of her race, provides most of the support for nearly 200 Negro orphans.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

The Herald's Washington Correspondent

Washington, Jan. 2.—The Roosevelt honeymoon isn't over yet. The bride still gurgles.

You hear a lot about the trouble the President is going to have at the next session of Congress. But there's no shred of confirmation from the next session of Congress, as well as those representing industrial areas.

A Presidential election today would give him more votes than he had in 1932. You can get that opinion from farm state Senators, as well as those representing industrial areas.

Muscle In On NRA

NRA now finds itself on the side of the gangsters. AAA had the same experience when it learned that racketeers were the chief enforcers of its minimum price milk agreements, especially in Chicago.

With NRA it's the cleaning and dyeing industry. Price schedules for cleaning garments were increased 30 per cent or more by the code in some instances. Many cleaners frankly admit they're violating the code because the set prices are too high and threaten to ruin business.

The high-price cleaners either send bomb throwers and acid throwers after their cut-rate operators or call on NRA to put them in jail.

Milk and dry cleaning experiences are disillusioning New Dealers from industries to set new high prices to end "ruinous and cut-throat competition." It has been shown that milk can be sold and clothes dry cleaned at a profit for much less than code prices.

Some "brain trust" members believe that any time retail prices are fixed by NRA or AAA, the minimum should be set at a known efficiency margin, allowing low cost operators to set the pace. That policy is likely to be tried out by the AAA.

No Rest For F. B.

The steady diplomatic reception at the White House was held as usual. The unusual thing about it was that right afterward Roosevelt went off to the executive office with stenographers and tackled his correspondence.

He didn't achieve a clear desk until well after midnight.

The Home Town Suffers

Early hosannas over remarkable increases in mail order sales in districts where opp reduction money was paid to farmers have been somewhat tempered.

Word came that many farmers had bought goods by mail because they were up to their eyes in debt to local merchants and felt the need of new merchandise more than the necessity of paying.

Another factor which sent new farm income to Chicago was that mail order catalog prices in retail stores were going up.

Bullitt's "Toughened In"

Ambassador William C. Bullitt, accused by his critics of being pro-Russian, has survived that sort of thing before. When America entered the war, his friends recall, he returned from his newspaper correspondence job in Berlin and was rewarded widely as a "pro-German."

But Wilson employed him in a confidential capacity, and because one of the wartime president's chief sources of information about

"Beat the Giants," Manager Max Carey and Business Manager Bob Quinn will tell their hired hands.

"Beat everybody else if possible, but be sure to beat the Giants." The rivalry between these metropolitan district teams is old stuff, but it will be intensified this summer, and all because Bill Terry cracked wise.

RICKEY PREDICTS BRIGHT DAYS FOR BASEBALL'S FANS

Cardinals' Expert Says There Are More Boys Playing Than Ever Before.

St. Louis, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Branch Rickey, master farmer of the St. Louis Cardinals vast farm system, sees brighter days ahead for the major leagues.

"When times get better," he predicted today, "we'll have more minor leagues working than ever. The reason is obvious, as transportation has developed to such a degree that operating expenses for minor league clubs have been reduced considerably."

Not Dying Out: "I've heard a lot of talk about baseball dying out but I don't think it ever will. There are more men than ever playing the game now than there were ten years ago."

In the operation of their farm system, Rickey estimated the Cardinals each year have dealings with 500 to 1,000 players. "Each year," he said, "we turn out hundreds of players whom we try out and find wanting in ability. As a rule, we do not retain any boys who do not show promise of eventually graduating to our major league club, the Cardinals, or to some other major league team."

MICHIGAN COACH COMING TO YALE

Reports Indicate That Bennie Oosterbaan Will Get the Coveted Post.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Once again reports have strongly linked the name of a Michigan football coach with the gridiron staff at Yale University, but this time it is that of Bennie Oosterbaan, coach at Michigan of the ends and pass receivers, and not Harry Kipke, head coach.

The Detroit Free Press today says Oosterbaan's appointment as line coach at Yale will be announced Sunday. The Free Press also says that Jack Blott, line coach at Michigan, is being considered for the Yale staff.

It was reported here on good authority that Oosterbaan and Blott conferred in Detroit Thursday with Malcolm Farmer, athletic director at Yale. At his home in Ann Arbor, Oosterbaan indicated he had reached no definite agreement with Yale authorities, but declined to comment further.

Yost's Decision. Meanwhile Fielding H. Yost, athletic director at Michigan announced definitely that Coach Kipke will remain at Michigan, at least through 1934.

However, close observers point out that with Ivan Williamson, former Michigan star, already signed as freshman coach, and the possibility of at least one of Kipke's assistants joining the Yale staff this fall, an ideal ground-work will have been laid for introduction of Michigan's system on the gridiron.

During the recent purported negotiations between Kipke and representatives of Yale alumni, it frequently was stated that Kipke would ask as one essential of any agreement that at least two of his assistants accompany him.

Maroons Beat Torontos In Worst Upset of Season

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—It may be old stuff to say "the bigger they are, the harder they fall," but ask the Montreal Maroons.

For more than half the National Hockey League season, the Toronto Maple Leafs were the "big" team, rolling up big scores against almost any rival. But the fall came last night and when the smoke cleared away the Maroons were on top by a 6-0 count. It was the worst beating of the six Toronto has encountered so far and only the third shutout the Leafs have met.

The only result of this upset was to draw the third place Maroons closer to the second place Canadiens who lost a 2 to 1, overtime decision in Chicago. The big changes came in the American section where the New York Rangers, victorious over Ottawa's last place Senators by a 6 to 3 count took the undisputed lead with the Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Blackhawks trailing at one point intervals. Detroit and the New York Americans played a 1-1 tie.

"Y" SWAMPS COLTS OF CITY LEAGUE

Beat Second Place Hartford Industrial Leaguers 33 to 13 Last Night.

The local "Y" team traveled to Hartford last night and handed the strong Colt's out a 33-13 trouncing. The "Y" Colts gave topped a program of three games at the Hartford Trade School gym in which the United Aircraft defeated the Soony Five and the Chance.

Half-time found the "Y" team leading 12-7, Colts registering only one field goal, but stayed in the running by registering five points from the free throw line. However, soon after the second half opened the locals started to click and rolled up a commanding lead which the Hartford team could not match.

Another bad man of the mat, George Zaharias, Colorado Greek, will hook up with Mike Romano, oogy Italian star from New York, in the 45-minute semi-final fray. Only this week here, Clinkstock defeated Tony Draak, the "Great Unknown" of Schenectady, N. Y., in two straight falls, retaining his mythical crown as king of the bad men.

Getzewich is bound to give Clinkstock the toughest tussle he has had here thus far this season, for Al is tremendously strong; he has youth in his favor and asks no odds of any opponent. This was amply demonstrated on last Tuesday night when Getzewich, the former "Red Devil," not only held Jim McMillen to a draw in the 45-minute semi-final, but actually outpointed the ex-Illinois grid star during the battle.

The Getzewich-McMillen match was one of the finest exhibitions ever seen at the arena and if in the manner in which he tore into McMillen, it means plenty of trouble for the tom-tom tigger here on next Tuesday night. So far this season, Clinkstock has defeated Dick "Bull" Martin and Tony Draak, and has engaged in a no-decision battle with Gino Gabardi.

Two other time 'mit matches will be made to complete the card and Promotor Alley will announce them within a day or so.

Going into the second half on the short end of a 5-2 score the locals outclassed their rivals and scored at will.

Tolland the "Y's" next opponent will be the winner of the County League and if successful in that game will travel to Storrs College to compete in the tournament for the state championship. They have one leg of the silver loving cup offered to the state champs. Box score:

Players Point to Close Score of Last Game—Expect Grim Battle from Whistle to Whistle—The Lineup Expected to Start in Tonight's Contest at the Armory.

Unwilling to concede one iota of superiority to the Bristol team, leaders in the C. I. L. and with ten straight wins to their credit this season, the Red and White players are planning to throw a monkey wrench into the smooth-working machinery of Coach Monahan's charges in the return game at the Armory tonight. Their record during the first game does not give them occasion to be very cocky, but the players point to the close score and the real battle that the Red and White gave the Monahanmen in the Bristol game before they blew up in the final period. Basing their hopes on the first game, Coach Clark's three quarters Coach Clark's charges will be all set to go out there and give the down river boys the battle of their lives.

Is a Natural. The game tonight, is a natural, as games between Bristol and Manchester for ten years have always been. Intense rivalry exists between these two schools in all sports, likened more or less to the rivalry existing each fall between Harvard and Yale. Standing in the league and very little difference to the local players if only they can pin a defeat on the Bell City boys. They are going into the game tonight with a ragged record of seven defeats in ten starts, but the heads of the Clarkmen are up and willing to extend themselves to the limit if only they can submerge the common enemy on a local court.

While it is not expected that M. H. S. will administer a sound trouncing to the league leaders in view of their impressive record, it is expected that the score will be close and the way if the Red and White youngsters keep their heads and play a close game, even as they did in Bristol.

Against other teams of lesser abilities, the Red and White has fared miserably to date. The reason for the poor showing this season is lack of a slam-bang fighting spirit at times. This spirit was expressed in the uncertain quality in the initial encounter with Bristol and the play of the Clarkmen and the closeness of the score through three-fourths of the game, had Coach Monahan sitting on the edge of his seat. But in the final minutes of play the team slipped the few notches necessary for a defeat. It was the best game of the season for the local team.

It will be interesting if Manchester again solves Bristol's zone defense on the large armory floor tonight. In the game at Bristol, Manchester led the Bell City tusslers 7-6 in the first quarter, and trailed by one point, 15-14 at the half. At the close of the third period Bristol was in the lead 19-17, which goes to show that the local boys did (and can) play a steady game. The Manchester team lost its two forwards and the team cracked.

In the game tonight Bristol will lead the attack with Utke, Maro and Cote forwards; Zebrowski and Monahan centers; and DiGiovanni and Sonstrom, guards. Maro and Sonstrom are the shooting acts of the squad but in the previous encounter all three were held to less than ten points in one of the worst scores of the season.

Manchester is expected to start its first string lineup, as follows: Johnson and O'Leary, forwards; Sheldon, center; Smith and Judd, guards. Clarke, Leon, Turvel, Garrone and Diamonds will probably see service.

The game was fast all the way, the game being won by the spectacular shooting of George Dixon, right forward of the Baptists, who accounted for 18 points.

MCLARNIN IS WILLING TO MEET BARNEY ROSS

Berkeley, Calif., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Charles "Pop" Foster, manager of Jimmy McLarnin, will be glad to negotiate for a fight in New York between his welterweight champion and Barney Ross, lightweight titleholder.

But the shrewd manager of the scrapping welterweight wants to be sure he and Jimmy get their share of the purse. He indicated a $35,000 guarantee wouldn't satisfy him. He wants a larger guarantee and a percentage of the gate which estimated would be $200,000 or better.

"Jimmy has been five years getting the welterweight title," Foster said, "and he is entitled to his share to make something for himself."

But "Pop" won't commit himself definitely until he has received an offer directly, and then he will start talking turkey to promoters in New York.

HUSKIES FACE TEST IN CALIFORNIA MEET

Seattle, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The University of Washington eight, National sprint champion in the intercollegiate rowing world last year, will compete at Foughkeeps this year, if it beats California.

Coch A. Ubricksen, who not so many years ago stroked a husky shell to victory on the Hudson, has the National classic in mind as his ultimate objective, he said, but it all depends on who follows who over the finish lines in the three-mile contest on Lake Washington here in April.

Always among the strongest crews on the Hudson, the Huskies were the variety contests in 1923, '24 and '25. Ubricksen's big problem this year will be in finding a powerstroke for the middle of the boat. Four of the men who helped defeat everything in the way of competition they met last season were graduated.

Ornstein says he will be able to present new evidence that the Nazi government in Germany still is discriminating against Jewish athletes.

Married at 15 to a banker three times her age...patroness of a Paris salon that attracted the great...of France...so ravishingly a beauty that people lined the streets to glimpse her...banished by Napoleon...immortalized in painting and sculpture...These are the dramatic high spots in the remarkable career of the lovely Madame Recamier, whose fascinating history is told by Alice Robe in this, the second of 12 Articles on The Woman in the Painting.

BY ALICE ROBE

thing of the stress of the past months; her feeling of weakness and misery, the heat of town, their release when Tom had found this place Lila had her long, slim-fingered hand on her cheek and looked at the younger girl with wide, serious, concerned eyes.

"But my dear, you might not have known? You might have come to us."

Now she was more like the old playmate Gypsy had played sand tag with on the beach in Maine for so many happy summers. She had for the moment dropped her air of boredom and artificiality and was simply another girl, sympathetic, sincere and loving.

Gypsy laughed and loved at the picture of herself in her old gingham and dimities, among Lila's Southampton crowd. "You're awfully kind," she said. "It's sweet of you to say that, but I've wanted to leave Tom, anyhow."

The heat of the afternoon deepened around them. Birds sang in the bushes and a salt breeze blew off the sound and still Lila stayed on.

Gypsy asked about Derek and it seemed to her that his young wife answered hastily and almost coldly, that she turned her eyes fleetingly away.

"He's all right. He's splendid," she added most unconcerningly. What was the matter with Derek these days, Lila asked herself with a frown. He was always so tired, taciturn, reserved. You grew tired of playing up to a man's moods. She herself didn't believe in it. Men ought to realize that women are always hard—that the woman, the wife, was the important cog in domestic affairs. She made happy. It was the man's business to find money as much as possible, to surround his wife with lovely things, give her the setting she deserved.

She wasn't like Gypsy, to be content with a rich and blue aprons and rickety little shoes. She had to have life, movement, color. What was it Marko had said to her the other night? "You're like some bird, . . . bird of paradise, flashing by, . . . bird of paradise, that made you feel young, precious, infinitely desirable. She said abruptly, "Marko's wonderful, isn't he, Gypsy? I wonder you ever had the courage to marry him."

Gypsy looked up, surprised.

"Why, yes, I suppose he is. But marriage . . ." Her voice trailed away, her eyes were on the glossy floor with a handkerchief long bush just under the living room window. Marriage with Marko Broughton! Out of the question, her rebellious heart said. Marriage meant Tom and shared simple meals and apricots in a green bowl.

"Why, I couldn't have married Marko," Gypsy said wonderingly. What was Lila thinking of?

"Lila shrugged her shoulders. It was none of her business, after all. "Hilda Blanchard often asks about Tom," she said carelessly after a moment. "She thought he was a marvelous looking. Hilda's a bit of a devil," she added admiringly.

Gypsy felt the color rise in her cheeks. She knew it was foolish to care. It was horrid, too, to be so possessive, but she just couldn't help it. She hated that girl who had behaved so outrageously at Lila's dinner party.

"She's very attractive," was Gypsy's contribution.

But Lila had already forgotten Hilda in some recital of a real or fancied grievance. Did Gypsy remember the Ransom Howes? Well, they had been at Newport—they didn't go to Maine any more—and Ellen Howe had rung her up to say they'd like to come down to lunch-son. They had all descended, bag and baggage, a week before, with four dogs, but she just couldn't leave it. Four! And Noggins (that's my new chow) was in a heat of a temper. I was a wreck when they pulled out.

Gypsy listened, agreed, nodded. She had a feeling that under Lila's chatter there was a deep undercurrent of restlessness, a hidden meaning. Lila was talking at random. She didn't really care what the Howes did, nor how long they had stayed.

It all seemed very petty and shallow and (in spite of the electricity

From babyhood the conviction that beauty was the only thing worth while was instilled into her mind. Even at the convent her mother saw that she acquired only such accomplishments—singing and playing the harp—as exhibited her charms. And she was taught never to mar her beautiful face by excitement or emotion.

She became so beauty conscious that it would be unfair to call her vain. She just didn't know anything else. And evidently it was enough.

Madame Recamier was born at Lyons of a handsome, well-to-do father and a beautiful astute mother. Her name was Julia Adelaide Bernard. Queen Marie Antoinette was so impressed by her childish beauty that she sent for her to visit the Royal apartments. Later all Paris went mad over her. People lined the streets to glimpse her. In her old age she said she knew everything was over when the little Savoyards no longer turned to stare at her.

Banished by Napoleon. Although she was married during the Reign of Terror she was obviously unaffected by the horrors surrounding her life. When Napoleon who had banished her friend Mme. de Staël, asked her to be lady-in-waiting at his court—and the order was equivalent to a command—she declined. Shortly after her husband's bank failed! And then Napoleon banished her for visiting Mme. de Staël.

After Napoleon's death Madame Recamier returned to Paris where in a single room at the Abbaye du Bois her salon was again visited by the great of all nations. She died in 1819 of the cholera which she dreaded as she did the loss of her beauty.

Many artists immortalized her in painting and sculpture. David's portrait in the Louvre is perhaps the best known. His classical style has reproduced accurately the black naturally curly hair, the delicate, regular nose, the small rosy mouth, the beautifully poised head, the lovely throat and shoulders and arms. Only the exquisite coloring of her complexion defied the artist's brush. Jacques Louis David "the classicist" was active in the French Revolution. He died in 1825.

and glamor) rather sad. Lila's life was a vain pursuit of pleasure and apparently she seldom achieved her aim. Gypsy enjoyed the unwanted sensation of feeling sorry for her friend. The contrast between them was great: one thin, brown, eager, with apricots tints in her cheeks and lambent lights in her brown eyes; the other willowy, elegant, scented, all in purest white, with rings on her slim fingers and paint on her lovely, restless, unhappy mouth. And yet, of the two, Gypsy felt the richer—the more content.

As long last, Lila rose to go. She would be slain, she said, when she arrived home. There were guests for dinner and she hadn't ordered the flowers. Koto would be in vile humor. He always was. With outstretched hands Lila implored Gypsy's sympathy on this point. "Servants, my dear," she said, with raised brows. "Servants!"

She seemed oddly loath to go. A parting she held Gypsy's hand fondly. "I didn't tell you what I came to say," she said in a half whisper. "I have something to ask you. Most important. But it will have to wait."

NEED THESE COMPLEXION HINTS IF YOU'RE GOING SOUTH

If you're planning to go south for a winter vacation, you should take a few beauty preparations that the warm climate demands.

A bottle of sun tan lotion is a necessity. It does much to protect the complexion from sunburn. Smooth a generous amount of sun tan cream or oil over your neck, shoulders, face and hands before you step out into the hot sunshine. It may not entirely prevent sunburn, but it certainly will help.

The make-up which you wear ordinarily will suffice for the first three or four days of your holiday. After that, the chances are that it won't harmonize with your newly-acquired coat of tan. So you'd better take a darker shade of powder, rouge that has orange lights in it and lipstick which matches the rouge. Once you start using darker cosmetics, you'll need a deeper toned foundation lotion. Just keep the bottle of light rachel or feathertone foundation until you've been back up North for a few weeks.

A supply of hand lotion is a necessity and so is some sort of healing ointment just in case you do get too sunburned. Wind, sun and sand on the beach will chap your hands unless you use hand lotion each time after you have washed them.

New Haven, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Petitions in bankruptcy were filed late yesterday by James A. Conroy of Norwalk, doing business as James A. Conroy Drug Company, with debts of $5,010 and assets of $500, and by Levy Brothers, Inc., of Danbury, with debts of $20,000 and assets of $6,021.

If, as some suggest, the government took over the business of banking, all our fun would be gone, with no private bankers to bother. Ohio experts to sell real whiskey for as low as $1.50 a quart. But the city will have to worry over its effect.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

On the President's Birthday, January 30th, there will be held all over the land charity balls the proceeds of which will go to the support of the children at Warm Springs, Ga.—little victims of infantile paralysis who are being nursed back to health in the "Warm Springs Foundation."

Every so often we see in the papers the picture of a little boy or girl suffering from the disease, excitedly reading a cheery letter from Franklin D. Roosevelt himself. A letter of cheer and encouragement that usually bears this message: "Courage, patience and a determination to get well."

And who should know if not the President, who fought the battle for years and won. He is still winning. Care and an indomitable will pushed through a time when most people would have given up in utter despair.

Nation-Wide Cooperation Needed
Now I write this article for two reasons. First, to advertise entirely unpublicized these balls. Whoever you live in, do try to get tickets whether you can go or not. This is something the entire country needs to pull together on, not just at the moment either, but with a concerted and continued effort that will not only help the children at Warm Springs today but all children at all times in all places who are stricken with the disease. Or who may be stricken.

Any such scourge is not a problem of the few alone. It is a national war we must wage and means must be found to carry on the fight against it. Such a plague is a war, a battle between germs and human beings. It is a common cause in that nobody knows who is likely to be next. Study is unceasing and scientists are moving heaven and earth to discover the reason and the cure of infantile paralysis. Both take money and it is for us to find the money.

The second reason is this. Do you know how long eight years is? It's a pretty long time—a long time to be ill and to keep courageous. That was the period of Roosevelt's convalescence.

"The Will to Live"
To me it is the quintessence of something that generates a fiery light, a guide and beacon to anyone who is suffering from any kind of disease whatsoever.

It is a fact that there are two kinds of people, those who win and those who lose. It is a fact that it is quite true or not it is a fact that some people lose heart and succumb to disease much more quickly than others. "The will to live" is a potent thing.

All over the United States of America there are people who live ill themselves or who have children with wasting diseases. We cannot of course "will" children back to health directly, but we can indirectly by cultivating a contagious courage and determination. As for ourselves, the battle is half won if we strive toward an attitude of mind that whispers "I won't give up no matter what the odds."

Endurance through long sieges is hard. Morale goes and strength is the militant spirit. The wise way is not to anticipate the worst but the best, and in the meantime as much as one can tolerate recovery. Cheerfulness, persistence and a stout heart do so much toward winning a cure both in ourselves and in our dear ones.

Your score should run high if you make and wear this trim, frock of rust wool crepe. Note the diagonal closing and the wrap-around skirt. Finish with brown buttons and a brown suede belt.

If you prefer, cotton tweed or rough silk might answer for material. Smart and easy to develop, this number is designed in six sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 14-inch material or 4 1/4 yards of 35-inch material, plus 1-2 yard, contrast, for the belt, cuff facing and inserts.

To secure a pattern and simple sewing chart of this model, tear out this sketch and mail it to Julia Boyd, 108 Park Avenue, New York, N. Y., together with 15 cents in coin. # DON'T ACCORD MEN TOO MUCH KINDNESS

By HELEN WELSHIMER

Most children grow up thinking their mothers don't like candy. They can prove it, too, they will tell you. Every time they have a bag of licorice drops or chocolate creams and pass them to their mothers, those ladies smile, thank them kindly, but add that they aren't taking any. Of course the child begins to think that his mother's sweet tooth was pulled long, long ago.

But the truth of it is that those ladies are being unselfish. They know that the youngster who went to the candy shop clutching a coin in a moist little hand has evaluated his purchase and knows exactly how long his favor will last. The mothers want to be unselfish. According to Mary Pickford, such women are making a big mistake. Wives, so she says, are often too kind. She goes so far as to suggest a school where they might be taught to be reasonably selfish. All in all, it is a fairly good idea. Women, wives and mothers and office secretaries should present their demands and ask credit. Just because a man likes lemon pie and a woman doesn't is no reason at all why every pie that comes out of her oven should be lemon. If pumpkin is her favorite, why shouldn't the man with the citrus taste sample a pumpkin pie occasionally? Or better still . . . only it's more work for the woman, of course . . . why not bake two small pies so each can eat in peace?

Because a man wants to spend his vacation on a peaceful farm in the country is no reason why his wife, who is hungry for cool mountain wind or the briny touch of salt air should devote her two weeks of relief listening to the lowing of the sheep, and drooping of the bees in the clover. If the two can't co-operate, each having half time in his chosen Paradise, why can't the woman pack her bag and stop pouring her husband's breakfast coffee for fourteen days?

But she won't. Not the usual

"FLU" EPIDEMICS COME IN 25-YEAR WAVES

Study Reveals Disease Caught by Group Susceptible to It, Followed by Other Allments, Like Sleeping Sickness.

By DR. MORRIS FISHERLIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

A study of the history of past influenza epidemics reveals that the disease seems to come in cycles, or waves.

In fact, scientists today believe that some of the epidemics, or plagues, described before accurately scientific medicine developed actually were of the same character as the influenza of today.

For example, the English "swatts" of the 16th and 17th centuries, the epidemics of fever that swept the continent of Europe in the 18th and 19th centuries, and the epidemics described as "dengue" may have been, and probably were, similar to epidemic influenza.

Apparently the length of time that any epidemic of influenza stays with a community depends on the number of people susceptible to the disease. Just as soon as that number has had the disease and recovered, the epidemic disappears and recurs when a new group of susceptibles develops among the population.

Waves of measles also occur in rhythmic manner, due to the disease and then recover. The disease then disappears until a new group of susceptibles develops and this apparently requires a certain definite interval.

One of the first influenza epidemics recorded was in 1411. Another occurred in 1510, and there are accounts of what might have been influenza in records dating to 412 B. C. and 385 B. C. and again in Rome in 48 B. C.

The great epidemic which swept the world in 1918 is noted especially because of the fatality to women about to give birth to children. An epidemic which occurred in 1870 and another in 1897 A. D., also were fatal in the same way. The next series of epidemics are listed as occurring in 1408, 1413, 1437, 1810, 1829, 1851 and 1850.

Notice that these epidemics occur, for the most part, in cycles of about 25 to 30 years. Moreover, the epidemic which occurred in 1510 also was noted for its terrific mortality among pregnant women.

After the epidemic of 1580, there were numerous cases of inflammation of the brain, similar to our modern cases of encephalitis, or sleeping sickness. These were observed again in 1713 and similar cases, followed the 1918 epidemic.

Following a great epidemic of influenza, there usually is a certain other type, due to his fact that the human body is weakened so greatly by the attack that it becomes susceptible to other disturbances.

The best advice, therefore, that can be given to anyone who has suffered from influenza is to make certain of a long rest and a protracted period of convalescence before undertaking serious work or exercise or submitting to any unusual exposure.

Yes, Miss Pickford is right. If the women who have made themselves into something resembling the valvat cost that Sir Walter Raleigh spread so England's queen wouldn't get muddy feet, would make some requests, their husbands and children would regard them more highly. Every woman sets her own price. No man who either is a steved or 17 or 37, maintains a steady admiration for something that is his for the taking. Yet, the unselfishness and kindness in women make them wrap their favors and send them to C. O. D.

Certainly women should be as kind as ever. As considerate and loyal and understanding. But if Miss Pickford's proposed school could teach them to order creamed onions when they want them instead of the cauliflower preferred by the men whom they love, honor and, yes, obey, they would make the menu considerably more inviting.

That is Elsie Janis' answer to Hollywood's reputation as a sure-divorce spot. Arriving from California, still married to her young husband, Gilbert Wilson, Elsie stood on the icy pier and looked across three trunks, a dozen pieces of luggage and two dozen friends to the custom men.

"Well, would you believe it, we're still married," she said, not with any cocky confidence but just as if stating a fact that hadn't occurred to her before. "When we said the little words 'do' I said to myself, 'Well, if this lasts six months, that will be a break.' It's two years!"

"Still, you never can tell. And you can't count on anything in this old world," philosophical Elsie added, quickly, as if suspicious of anything sounding even remotely like bragging might bring bad luck. "The play's the thing. If it goes well, there's a lot of luck in it, my good trouper just packs his props and moves on."

Seeing them together, it looks as if there ever was any "moving on" to be done, it won't be at the instigation of Mr. Wilson. He still wears a quiet happiness and a "I can hardly believe it" look to his face. When he introduces her, he almost bursts with pride as he says, "My wife, Elsie Janis."

ELSIE JANIS KNOWS HOW TO HOLD HUBBY

Scorns Makeup As a Way to Hold Mate Fourteen Years Her Junior.

New York. — "Write a good love story and the set doesn't make a bit of difference. You can play it against a Hollywood, New York or an Afghanistan background and it still holds up."

Therefore, she wears no makeup except lipstick, which isn't the least obvious. But she has a magnificent ruddy glow to her sun-tanned cheeks from her outdoor life. Her sympathetic big brown eyes with their merry twinkle are alive with light and happiness, she hasn't gained or lost an ounce in 20 years and she still has that dainty, little grace which is hers alone.

Her proud little head with its cropped chestnut hair, has a couple of gray hairs curling in it, about which she does nothing whatsoever. She's herself completely, satisfactorily the lively, witty, zealous, humorous woman to whom added years mean nothing whatsoever, except just that much more time to enjoy herself and get things done. The difference between her age, almost 44, and that of her husband, 30, has never made Elsie a speck self-conscious. She simply accepts them, dismisses them, apparently with never a thought towards doing anything kitchy to act and seem younger, as many a woman might who has a young husband.

Reviews Her Past. Someone mentioned the late Louise MacIntosh, the old actress who died in Elsie's Hollywood home, after Elsie and her husband had sailed. "She played with you in your first New York production, didn't she?" she was asked as she stood by her young husband's side. "New York, fiddlesticks," was Elsie's quick retort. "Let's see," and she squinted up one eye, tipped back her head and calculated. "Why do you know it was 38 years ago that I met Louise in Indianapolis. I wasn't quite six."

Again someone asked if she still kept her diary. "You bet," she answered. "Why, I've kept that diary 33 long years and some of the best things are going into it right now. Why should I quit?"

Happy as Elsie

"Home life in Hollywood? Why, of course, there's, real home-life there," Elsie was emphatic, in that husky, deep voice of hers. "Say, if a fellow can manage cheery home-life just behind the front line trenches, why should Hollywood be any obstacle?" Apparently the Gilbert Wilsons have worked out more home-life than most Hollywood couples. They breakfast together, early. Then she shuts herself in her room (she always writes in bed, with her typewriter on her knees) and he goes to whatever movie he happens to have a part in. They don't see each other until cocktail hour, when all the day's work is laid aside. They simply live in their huge back yard, swimming, playing games, lounging in easy chairs, chatting to friends who drop in.

Since Elsie's mother died, they have lived in Elsie's little house on Linden street. There's no "bakery" stuff in Elsie's bills of fare—it's all good old-fashioned cooking done by her two maids who have been with her at Tarrytown for years and years. Doris and Allene Frank, Elsie's chauffeur for 25 years, the one who drove her and her mother ("Senny," as Elsie always called her) through the war, still pilots the Wilsons around. At Tarrytown, old colored Hattie has been holding down the fort and now welcomes "Miss Elsie" back home.

HEPBURNS DENY RUMOR STARTED BY REPORTER

Hartford, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The assertion today by a Broadway gossip columnist in a New York paper that another Hepburn girl of Hartford had gone into pictures as an actress was denied at the family home on Bloomfield avenue. A younger sister of Miss Katharine Hepburn, screen and stage star, was reported to have signed up with Universal Pictures.

Richard Hepburn, a younger brother of Katharine said over the telephone "That is not so," when asked if any members of the family had gone or were planning motion pictures, beside Katharine, he said, "I'm sorry, but I cannot tell you anything." Dr. Hepburn at his office was non-committal.

HOUSE VOTES AGAINST FIRST LADY'S PROJECT

Forbids Post Office Department from Making Purchases from Reedsville Factory.

Washington, Jan. 23.—(AP)—The House voted today to forbid Post Office Department purchases from the factory at Reedsville, West Virginia, in which Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is interested.

The pending Treasury-Postoffice appropriation bill carried $804,800 for the purchase, manufacture and repair of mail bags, locks, keys, and other equipment for postoffices. At the instance of Representative Ludlow, (D., Ind.), an amendment was inserted limiting this expenditure to the equipment shops at Washington, D. C. House members arguing that other material could be purchased from the Reedsville plant. Mrs. Roosevelt, after a visit to the Reedsville area, became interested in the number of idle in that region. At her suggestion, the PWA allocated $825,000 for construction of a factory there.

Goss Protests. Representative Goss (R., Conn.), attempted to insert another amendment which he said would have prevented completion of the plant, already under construction, but it was held out of order.

He told newspapermen that he might bring in a resolution later to stop the project since "it is not our intention to let PWA funds be used to build factories which will compete with private enterprises." There was no record vote on Ludlow's amendment.

MOVE FOR QUICK ACTION IN NRA SUIT DEFEATED

George W. Alger, director of the Garment Code Authority in New York City and F. Nathan Wolf, a member of the Code Authority and John M. Keating, assistant counsel of the NRA, appearing in behalf of the Baltimore area, these affidavits asserted in general that the Connecticut manufacturers could not provide enough work for their employees because of an alleged advantage given by the code to manufacturers in the western area over the eastern area.

Hammond H. Chafetz, special assistant to the attorney general, objected to the introduction of the affidavits on the ground they were incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. He also objected to the introduction of any evidence dealing with the Baltimore situation, on the ground that the Connecticut manufacturers had not exhausted every administrative remedy.

The judge overruled the objections. Baltimore has been placed in the western area and the Connecticut manufacturers charge that as a result it has an unfair advantage in the New York market over the Connecticut manufacturers.

Seigel then presented an affidavit of Louis Wintz of New Britain, action. Judge Thomas ordered counsel for the manufacturers to proceed with the presentation of evidence in support of their plea for an injunction.

Seigel presented a batch of affidavits, most of them from employees of the five Connecticut firms. These affidavits asserted in general that the Connecticut manufacturers could not provide enough work for their employees because of an alleged advantage given by the code to manufacturers in the western area over the eastern area.

Hammond H. Chafetz, special assistant to the attorney general, objected to the introduction of the affidavits on the ground they were incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial. He also objected to the introduction of any evidence dealing with the Baltimore situation, on the ground that the Connecticut manufacturers had not exhausted every administrative remedy.

The judge overruled the objections. Baltimore has been placed in the western area and the Connecticut manufacturers charge that as a result it has an unfair advantage in the New York market over the Connecticut manufacturers.

Seigel then presented an affidavit of Louis Wintz of New Britain, accountant for the Independent Company 7th, of New Britain, one of the five manufacturers of the injunction. The affidavit stated that labor costs in the east were twenty-eight per cent higher than in Baltimore.

Chafetz objected to the introduction of this affidavit on the ground that the government should have an opportunity to cross examine the witness. When the court instructed Chafetz, Seigel called Wintz to the stand as the first witness in the hearing.

Wintz presented figures comparing wages paid in the western and the eastern areas. He specified that 5 per cent of the employees in his company were semi-skilled operators who were entitled to receive a minimum wage of 81 cents an hour under the code compared with a 68 cent an hour wage paid to the same type of worker in the western area.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

Are the members of your club pondering over something different to do? Wouldn't a luncheon or bridge in one of the Hotel Sheridan's private dining rooms solve the problem?

By the way the tomato is one vegetable that does not lose its vitamin value when canned or stewed—and you know how much we need vitamins.

Belles of the gay nineties will ring forth in their finest a week from tonight at the Wedding Gown Pageant and Musicals at the Whiton Memorial Hall.

It's a pleasure to go into Gerone's and see their fresh salad greens at this time of year. They have good sized hot house cucumbers for 15 cents each, rareripes, 3 bunches for 25 cents, okra at 35 cents a pound, wonderful ripe tomatoes at 23 cents a pound.

Usually statistics are just an uninteresting lot of figures but when Cheney's Salesroom statistics show that approximately 1,500 people went into the hall last week and 800 people made satisfactory selections all we can think is "some sale!"

Miriam Hopkins has lost her throne as Paramount's tiniest actress. Today it was discovered in the studio wardrobe that Joan Marsh had recently placed under contract by Paramount, weighs 95 pounds, is five feet tall, requires a size 11 frock and that her shoe size is 2.

Travis Banton, celebrated Paramount stylist, has foregone his annual trip to European style centers. Does that mean that Hollywood and New York, and not Paris and London are now the acknowledged fashion centers?

It's absolutely your last chance! Norton Shoe is continuing their sale for one week only. Their regular $3.00 shoes that are marked down to $1.95 are going back to original prices the first of February.

"Extry, extry"—delicious chocolates at the Princess Candy Shop for 59 cents a pound and another pound for 1 cent more.

Codfish, spaghetti and tomatoes is an excellent combination and furnishes a one-plate dish for luncheon or supper at small expense.

Tomato cheese toast is a good luncheon dish to use tomato soup to advantage.

One-fourth pound salt codfish, 1 cup spaghetti broken in small pieces, 1 pint canned tomatoes, 2 bay leaves, 1 small onion, 1 tablespoon minced parsley, 1 tablespoon oil, 2 tablespoons chopped olives.

Two cups chopped American cream cheese, 1 cup milk, 1 cup tomato soup, 8 triangles of toast. Put about 1 teaspoon butter in a smooth sauce pan, add cheese and melt over a low fire, stirring constantly. Slowly add milk, stirring until blended. Stir in soup and cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth.

Soak the codfish in lukewarm water for two hours or longer. Drain and cut in small dice. Cook spaghetti in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Simmer codfish and tomatoes with bay leaves for twenty minutes. Remove bay leaves. Cook onion, thinly sliced, and parsley in the oil for five minutes and add to the codfish. Add butter can be used. Add spaghetti and tomato mixture to onion and parsley and cook five minutes longer, stirring to prevent sticking. Serve very hot.

If you're planning to spend a vacation in the South, be sure and take a couple of pairs of shorts and shirts. They have practically replaced beach pajamas and dresses this season. The shorts themselves are longer than formerly. If you have plain colored ones, by all means get fancy patterned shirts or blouses to wear with them.

Of all things you can imagine a man carrying a croquet in a rope rack on the Boston wharves? You have no idea what an attractive bit of furniture it is—it's right quaint. This is only one of the eight different styles in $12.50 maple smokers marked down to $10.50 at Watkins Semi-Annual Sale.

The State Shoe Repairing Shop calls for and delivers your shoes—8888.

So endeth the Bargain Hound's sniffing about for this morning.

WAPPING BOYS ELATED OVER SUPPER'S SUCCESS

Raise Over $40 to Buy Equipment for New Community House There.

Returns of the chicken pie supper given in Wapping Wednesday evening by the Community Y boys at the new community house in that place, show a net profit of more than $40, which amount will be turned over by the boys toward the purchase of window guards in the new building.

They prepared and cooked practically everything but the pies, and these were baked by the mothers. Not only that but they elaborately decorated the tables with purple and orange crepe paper. They received many compliments from friends who declared they had never received better service.

MCNEIL TO KEEP HIS FEDERAL JOB Democratic Leader Says He Has Received No Official Word to Resign.

Hartford, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The assumption that Connecticut Democratic leaders holding Federal appointive jobs will be affected by President Roosevelt's order against lobbying and Federal job holding by men who are party officials is not being entertained by National committeeman Archibald McNeil.

Mr. McNeil indicated today that he has no intention of resigning as National committeeman because he also holds the position of chairman of the state advisory board on public works. Nor does he expect to resign the latter post in order to retain the former. The reason, he stated, was that no indication has come from the White House out of which his appointment came that the action against National party leaders practicing law in Washington was to apply to such office holders as himself or other Connecticut leaders.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Financial markets looked and listened today but displayed few indications of participating in either a bullish or bearish demonstration. Stocks were quite active in the first hour and a number of specialties were turned over for gains of a point or more.

The dollar advanced 2 or more cents in terms of sterling and was equally firm in relation to the French franc, despite reports of extensive gold purchase abroad by the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in an effort to depress the exchange value of the American unit.

The tobacco shares, including Liggett & Myers B, American Tobacco B and Reynolds B, stood out with gains of fractions to a point or more. Allied Chemical got up more than 2 and Goodyear, Motometer, Electric Auto-Lite, Nash, Case, International Harvester and some others improved. The metals dropped, U. S. Smelting losing about 2 points. The motor lasters of their enthusiasm. U. S. Steel, American Telephone, Chrysler, General Motors, Dupont and Santa Fe were hesitant.

line with previous estimates. The financial district was impressed by the country's foreign trade showing for December. A 4 per cent increase over November in the value of exports and imports represented a rise against the usual seasonal trend. Ordinarily, the Department of Commerce stated, the value of exports falls off about 8 per cent in December and imports decline around 1 per cent.

For the month of December, it was reported, merchandise exports totaled $192,000,000 against $181,614,000 in the same 1933 month and imports amounted to $133,000,000 compared with $97,087,000. It was pointed out, however, the gain in import values resulted almost exclusively from heavy receipts of spirits and wines.

While the foreign trade pickup has not yet attained the proportions of the domestic recovery, various industrial commentators express the belief that steady improvement may be expected over the next several months, barring political and economic disturbances in Europe.

VAL JEAN'S ORCHESTRA MAKES BIG HIT HERE

TAMMANY LINKED WITH "WORST JAIL"

Prison Expert Declares Political Leader Was Real Boss — May Disclose His Name.

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—The existence of a direct link between Tammany Hall and the "world's worst prison," where gangsters lorded it over 1,700 lesser prisoners living in misery, was charged today, Harry M. Shulman, prison expert and author of a detailed report on conditions at the Welfare Island penitentiary, declared that whenever a certain Tammany leader telephoned the prison, the warden would jump up as if shot from a catapult and rush into a telephone booth.
"Will you say who that leader was?" Shulman was asked.
"I will give the name if Commissioner Austin H. McCormack asks me for it," he said.
McCormack, Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia's new commissioner of corrections, led the raid on the prison which uncovered conditions that shocked the city.
Meanwhile, as McCormack strove to restore discipline today, seven men of a force of 40 employed in the prison bakery went on strike because of the sudden cutting off of their narcotics supply.
Questioning them separately, McCormack found them sullen and resentful. They acknowledged openly that they had quit work because they could no longer get narcotics, and they insisted they would not resume labor until their supply was available again.
District Attorney William C. Dodge, one of the few Tammany candidates successful in the general election victory last fall, warned that unless Commissioner McCormack submits to him evidence obtained in the raid, the commissioner will be subpoenaed before a grand jury.
Dodge expressed displeasure that he was not notified of the raid when it was being planned.
"They went ahead without me," he said, "now let them give me the evidence. I will show them how quickly I can act if they get the evidence."
Dodge previously had denied there was any possibility of leaks, if his office had been notified. He said he stopped all leaks when he took office.
E. R. Cass of the prison association saw political influence at the bottom of conditions on Welfare Island. He expressed the opinion that Joe Rao, prisoner who is alleged to have become one of the virtual rulers of the penitentiary, could demand an unnamed district leader's help because the boss had profited from Rao's racket. He believed the district leader could, in turn, dominate certain attaches of the prison because he had control over jobs.
McCormack summed up conditions at the prison, in effect, as follows:
Ninety per cent of the prisoners in a state bordering on slow starvation while the leaders lived the life of Riley.
The gangsters lived in the hospital wards, keeping birds and raising flowers while other prisoners were herded into 100-year-old cells.
Degeneracy was practically uncurbed.
A wholesale trade in narcotics existed alongside organized gambling, disclosure indicated.

BYRD'S PARTY BUILDS ROADS IN ANTARCTIC

Admiral Byrd's Flagship, Bay of Whales, Antarctic, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Mackay Radio)—Add road building to the accomplishments of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd's second Antarctic expedition.
Beaten hard by the feet of men and dogs and the heavy tread of tractors, a 15 foot highway has been shaped over the four and a half miles across the frozen flooring of the bay from the ship to the barrier on the run to Little America.
Over this smooth road moves an endless, night and day transport, 15 dog teams pulling sledges bearing gasoline.
Added to this train, the monoplane "Miss America Always" makes trips every half hour carrying food supplies to the camp from where the stores are taken off the flagship.
The work of unloading cargo was delayed when high winds drove the vessel away from her moorings but was resumed with renewed energy once she was able to get back again. Now the end of the tedious task is near.

NEEDED NO POLICE IN BOOZE ROBBERY

New Haven Man Takes Law in Own Hands — Victim Is in Hospital.

Waterbury, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Police today were inclined to wash their hands of a case involving hijacking of a truckload of alcohol and an alleged quick reprisal that put one of the suspected hi-jackers in a Waterbury hospital.
When Lucius Montano of 27 Asylum street, New Haven, lost a load of beverage to hi-jackers on South Main street Tuesday night, he waited six hours before reporting to police. He said the beverage was 23 cases of beer he was hauling from Troy, N. Y., to New Haven. By the time the case was brought to police attention, Montano had summoned his brother and several friends from New Haven to conduct their own investigation.
Needed No Help
"We'd rather take care of this ourselves," Montano said, according to police. He asked only one assistance from authorities, identities of the owners of car bearing markers K-(something)-411. The something was the second letter which he could not discern as he peered after the hi-jacker's car when it disappeared in the darkness. Police obligingly gave him data on the K-something license.
Next afternoon Anthony Trunciale, 30, of 71 Phoenix avenue, who has a police record and even now is at liberty under bond on a charge of breaking and entering a West Hartford store, was admitted to Waterbury hospital with multiple head injuries.
Trunciale's Story
Trunciale told Lieutenant William Pollard and Detective William Foley that eleven men invaded his home tapped him vigorously on the head with a monkey wrench of substantial size, smashed a sturdy jug on the same head, kicked him a few times and departed. He could give no explanation of the incident.
Police saw significance in the fact that Trunciale's mother, Mrs. Lena Rucio, also of 71 Phoenix avenue, has registration KP-411. Trunciale said he knew nothing of the hi-jacking.
In the meantime, Montano has shown little interest in the police investigation of his loss according to Captain William P. Keegan, chief of the detective bureau. But when

SAFEGUARDS ARE TAKEN AGAINST MOB VIOLENCE

Hazard, Ky., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Precautions against further mob violence were taken today while Perry county authorities pursued their investigation of the lynching of Rex Scott, negro, Wednesday night.
Ed Napier, Solly Collins and Marcel Fugate, indicted in connection with the slaying three weeks ago of S. C. Simmons, crippled pencil peddler, were removed to the Clark county jail at Winchester for safe-keeping.
Sheriff Filmore McIntosh said feeling against the three was high in Hazard, and it was considered best to remove them to a distant jail. County Judge A. M. Gross, however, said the community was quiet and "there will be no trouble."
Four men all miners were arrested in connection with the Scott lynching.
Gov. Ruby Laffoon issued a statement at Frankfort last night vigorously denouncing "lynch law," and said he would do all in his power to bring those responsible to justice.
Scott, the negro lynched, was charged with fatally slugging Alex Johnson, a miner.

FARLEY OFF FOR HUB

Washington, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley is leaving tonight for Boston to attend a dinner tomorrow night in honor of former Mayor James M. Curley of that city.
Mr. Farley will spend tonight in New York and leave from there tomorrow about noon for Boston.
Curley has been in Washington several times recently and visited the postmaster general each time. Earlier in the administration Curley was appointed by President Roosevelt as ambassador to Poland but he refused that appointment. It was stated at that time he desired to become ambassador to Italy.
Mount Vernon originally was planned by John Washington in 1876.
An acre originally was as much as a pair of oxen and a man could plough in a day.

GOLD IS TERMED NATURE'S PROBLEM

She Has Never Been Able to Make Use Of It But Man Has.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Millions of words have been printed about gold in its relation to world economics. Here is a story about gold itself—nature's "problem child."

By HOMER McCOY

New York, Jan. 26.—(AP)—Gold, today the subject of warring economic theories and of economic wars, is mother nature's "problem child."

Why is gold so precious? Why is it more valuable than a piece of iron, a bright-colored stone, a roadside pebble?

The chemical definition doesn't help much in answering these questions. It is: "Gold—a heavy bright yellow metal with a resplendent lustre. Symbol, AU; atomic number, 79; atomic weight, 197.2."

It stands alone. It is an island in the rocks. It resists the effects of nature's forces—winds, weathering, heat and cold. It stands alone.

Gold is anti-social, unsocial, individualistic. It shuns chemical combinations. Chemists call it an inactive metal; another name would be lethargic.

Because it preserves its entity so well, it is usually found in an uncombined state in the rocks or gravel deposits. And if it is united with other metals in the ore, the relationship is not hard to sever.

All these qualities—this disdain toward natural influences—make gold so prized. It is less than clay in human hands.

In Pure State. In the pure state, it is the most malleable and workable of metals. It can be beaten to 0.0001 millimeter. One gram can be stretched into a wire two miles long. One ounce can be spread over 105 square feet.

Gold is extremely durable, impervious to change. It will have nothing to do with oxygen which unites with and destroyed so many elements.

"Thar's gold in them thar hills" is the cry that spurred thousands on the search for wealth. And there probably was gold in "them thar hills," no matter where they were, even if nobody and nobody got rich looking for it.

Almost Everywhere. For gold occurs almost everywhere—in sea water, in the ground, in vegetation, usually, however, it is too scarce or too inaccessible to be extracted profitably.

The sources of commercial gold are rocks and the sands of streams. The age of gold cannot be placed definitely in any geological period. The oldest rocks bear it; so do alluvial deposits of comparatively recent origin.

Gold taken from stream beds by many methods, based on the principle of separating milk from cream. The sand is manipulated to allow the heavier grains of gold to settle and be removed.

It is mined from rocks much like other metals and is usually refined by electrolysis or acid treatment which dissolves or enters into union with the impurities of the ore and leaves the gold intact.

Gold mines are scattered throughout the world. Since 1493, when the Spaniards took over the New World, the Transvaal region of South Africa has produced 22 per cent of the gold supply, the United States 21 1/2 per cent, and Australia and Asia 17 per cent.

New London, Conn.—Henry Bill Seiden, 48, professor of fine arts at the Connecticut College for Women dies.

Hartford, Conn.—Operation of the equalization fund of the Connecticut State Milk Control Board suspended by two temporary injunctions.

NBA SAVES INDUSTRY
A typical case of worthwhile accomplishment through the NRA is cited by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

In the large house dress industry, whose plants employ from 1500 to 2500 workers each, women were forced to produce 75 dresses a night to make $4 a week. That kind of house dress used to sell for $1, but dropped to two for 40 cents. Neither maker, wholesaler, nor retailer profited. Five manufacturers were ruining the industry.

First the cotton textile code, then the house dress industry code came along. Now these women earn $12.50 a week, and have slowed down to 50 dresses a night. You may have to pay $1 for the dresses in the stores, as you used to, but you needn't be ashamed to wear them.

(Father Has Shaking Palsy)
Question: Mrs. Frank C. Reno, Nevada, writes: "I would like to find out about shaking palsy for my father who is 73 years old and has developed this trouble."

Answer: I have prepared some special instructions concerning this disease, and I will be very pleased to see that you receive them if you will write your question to me again and will enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Even though it is not always possible to entirely overcome shaking palsy, there is usually a great deal of improvement which may be secured by the right treatment.

SENSE and NONSENSE

It's not what you'd do with a million if riches should fall to your lot. But what you are doing at present with the $3.95 you've got!

A word to the wise may be sufficient but it might be well to say it over the radio to make sure and certain.

Next to literacy, the saddest sight in the world is the man with more education than he can use.

Next to making mistakes, the easiest thing in the world is to criticize the mistakes of others.

A dog has nothing to give his master but faithfulness and a good appetite—but he gives both to the fullest extent.

Noticed a newspaper headline the other day which read: "A Sad Death." Well, who ever heard of a merry one?

A man is as old as he feels before breakfast and a woman is as old as she looks before breakfast.

Another trouble with the world is that too many grass widows and not enough money are getting back into circulation.

Whenever a man is sick, people wonder if he hasn't been drunk. If a woman is ill, people say she is overworked, poor thing.

Women teachers don't get a fair deal. They should be paid enough to support a husband on before they get too old to want to.

We'll have faith in the sincerity of the rich man who desires to die poor when he takes to writing poetry for a living.

A man's success is not measured by the number who cheer him, but by the number who envy him.

A lad says that while sitting out in the moonlight may be bad for one, it appears to be all right for two.

There are folks willing to blame their troubles on the Lord and expect manna from the same source.

In the old days the youngsters used to be troubled with the whooping cough. These days they have the whoopee cough.

The one difficulty of the shortened work week is that it gives a man more chance to stand around and talk himself into trouble.

The two most unsatisfactory things in the whole world are soup and love that have grown cold.

Orange juice, we are told, is good for a cold, in case you need excuse after you have added the other ingredients to it.

You trust your wife. That's confidence. Your grocer trusts you. That's confidence too. You trust yourself. That's a mistake.

When we have universal finger printing it will certainly go hard with the small boy who samples his mother's jam.

Cider is very much like a man in one respect—the more it works the harder it kicks.

The machine age has brought many improvements, except to the political machine, which is the same pain in the neck.

A rabbit is a little four-legged animal that grows the fur that other animals get the credit for when made into a woman's coat.

A man begins to be money-wise when he doesn't want anybody to lend him any money.

Maybe they named it "Call" money because somebody wants some every time the front door bell rings.

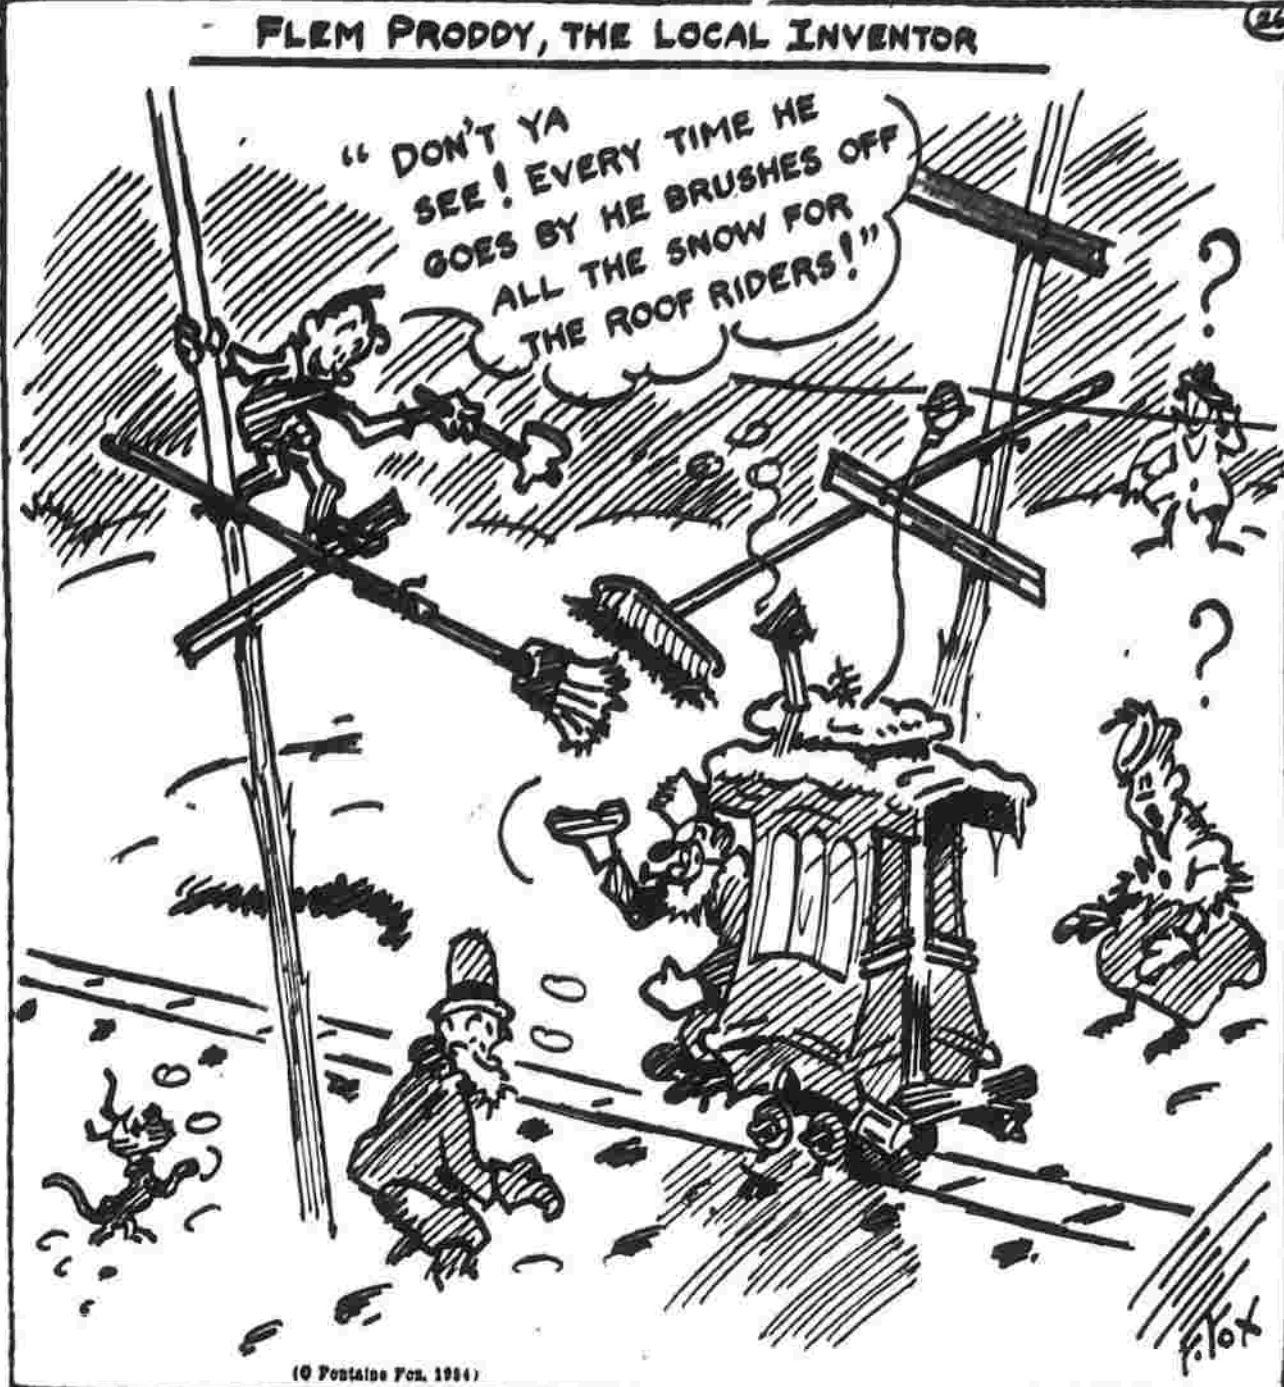

There are a lot of fellows who think misfortune is easier to take when they can cry into a glass of beer or whiskey.
