

SANKEY QUESTIONED ON LINDBERGH CASE

Notorious Gangster Finally Caught by Federal Men in Chicago—Admits to Two Kidnapings.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A solution of the long standing mystery of the kidnaping and slaying of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., was sought today through questioning of Verne Sankey, 42, one time ranchman who allegedly turned to the "smatch" racket.

Sankey, described by authorities as "America's Public Enemy No. 1" was seized late yesterday afternoon by Federal agents and city detectives in a barber shop, on information furnished by an anonymous source, and confessed, Melvin H. Purvis of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said, that he participated in two kidnapings—that of Hassel Kohn, of St. Paul and Charles Beethner, II., the Denver capitalist.

Denies Connection
The former Gann S. D. ranchman, and one time railroad engineer, denied he had any connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping, or the abductions of Edward G. Bremer of St. Paul, and William Hamm, Jr., also of St. Paul, but the authorities pushed their grilling of him in the hope of uncovering some new light on these "smatches", particularly the Lindbergh case.

From St. Paul county Attorney M. F. Kinkead was enroute to Chicago to aid in the investigation. It was Kinkead who announced last month he had found evidence which he said indicated that Sankey, long sought by the law, had had some connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping in New Jersey.

Call to Jersey
Hand writing experts, Kinkead said, had found a similarity in the writing of the Boettcher and Lindbergh ransom notes, and a telephone call from Minneapolis to an undisclosed town in New Jersey—scene of the Lindbergh kidnaping—had been uncovered. The call, he said, was made from a gasoline station, by a man who answered Sankey's description, ten days after the Lindbergh baby was seized.

The prosecutor also accused Sankey of a scheme to abduct the former heavyweight boxing champion, Jack Dempsey and Babe Ruth, the home run baseball star, adding that evidence to support his allegation had been found at the Sankey ranch.

Gangster Unarmed
Sankey was taken without a struggle. He was unarmed, but several pills, believed to be poison, were found in his possession, and Purvis said the prisoner seemed dejected and had remarked that he was sorry he had not swallowed them. Later, in the captured man's apartment investigators found a tin box containing $3,200 in $10 bills, $200 in $20 bills and $180 in $1 bills.

PREDICTS EARLY CONGRESS WINDUP

Speaker Rainey Tells Reporters House Will Be Through in Three Weeks.

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Now that the country is on what Secretary Morgenthau called today "a 1934 model of a gold bullion standard" and the administration evidently intends to refrain from recommending further legislation of major controversy, Speaker Rainey envisions an early windup of the congressional session.

With the House making ready to pass the four-department supply bill and St. Lawrence treaty discussion still before the Senate, he told reporters the House would be through in three weeks or so, leaving "the boys plenty of time to campaign" for the November elections.

As usual, it will be another story in the Senate. That it can speed was shown this afternoon, however, when it quickly approved a resolution asking the President for a "comprehensive plan" to guide legislation for non-wide flood control, navigation, irrigation and power.

Appropriation Bills
Four more appropriation bills, the tax bill still in committee and "some kind of reciprocal tariff" legislation is all that Rainey sees ahead for the House. Once these are shot through there, the House will "stand by and wait for the Senate to act."

Senator Costigan (D., Colo.) considers the Wagner-Costigan anti-trust bill as one proposal with the ranking pressure. Chairman Van Nuys of the Senate committee in charge of it has decided to invite Governors Ritchie of Maryland and Rolph of California to testify.

In view of the two kidnappings in Maryland and California, recently, if and when the governor appears, what they say will receive wide notice. There was little of that sort at the capitol today, a waterhouseness for the reception accorded the Roosevelt delegation.

When taken then were short measure, the report said.

No Shortages
Net contents of the packages representative of those sold under repeal were found to be in agreement with label declarations and there were no shortages in excess of reasonable tolerances provided by state regulations.

Bailey reported that of the 32 samples examined, 16 were labeled "whiskey," 16 were labeled as "blends," and they were passed as labeled.

"It is impossible to determine with any degree of certainty the kind and proportions of distillates that may be present in 'blends'," the statement made public by the experiment station read, "but a few of the blends examined appeared to contain very little matured straight whiskey."

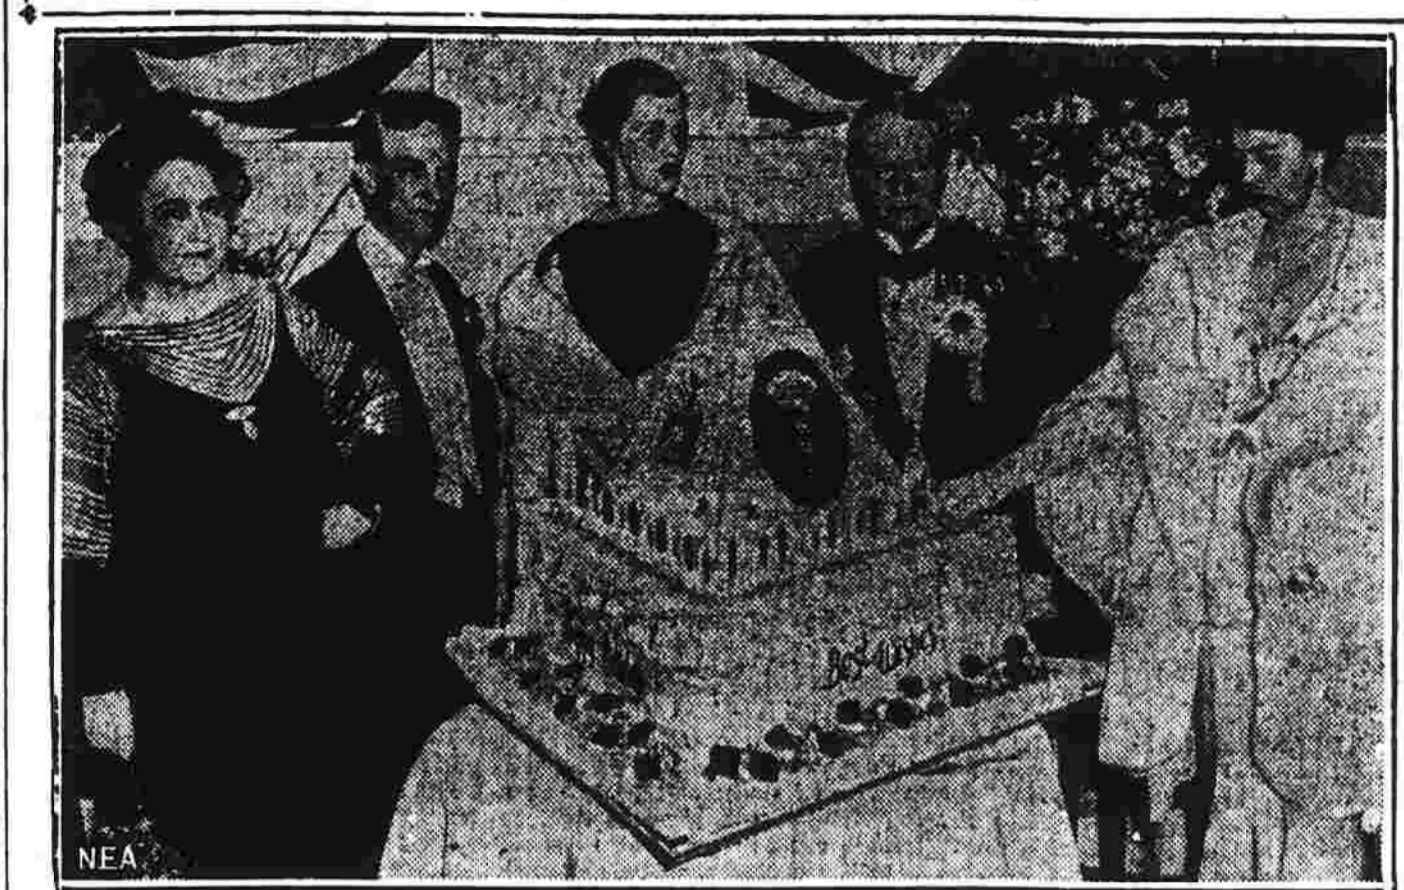

The expert pointed out however, that this is not a new situation arising either from prohibition or from repeal; whiskey of such character having been an article of commerce and trade for well over 100 years.

The experiment station report says further: "The label descriptions as to identity of products are in general accord with official understanding and accepted practice prior to prohibition. Unmixed distillates that may be present in 'blends' or flavored by storage in wood, or by the addition of caramel, which harmless flavoring, reduced the available strength, are entitled to the name 'whiskey' without qualification; and mixtures of such whiskeys are properly called 'blends'."

"There have been no government..."

STATE'S WHISKEY SAFE; DR. BAILEY DECLARES

No Poisonous Substances Found in Samples Tested by Chemists—Most of Labels Found Correct.

New Haven, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Poisonous and deleterious substances foreign to whiskey were absent from 32 samples purchased recently in various parts of Connecticut and subjected to tests by Dr. E. M. Bailey, head of the department of analytical chemistry at the agricultural experiment station here, it was disclosed in Dr. Bailey's report, made available today.

The report, made public by officials at the experimental station, showed that the alcoholic strength as declared or indicated by the "Proof" in the labeled statements, also was correct, or substantially so, in all cases. There was no evidence of undue dilution with water and the "proof" ranged from 86 to 100, the report said.

This was in contrast with a survey made in 1915 of bar whiskey sold in this state, when many instances of excessive dilution with water were found and many samples taken then were short measure, the report said.

Amateur Radio Operator Received Last Message from Soviet Aeronauts.

Moscow, Feb. 1.—(AP)—An amateur radio operator's log told today what was believed to be the story of the tragic death plunge of the balloon in which three balloonists ascended Tuesday to a record altitude.

The bodies of three men were found in the wreckage of the gondola yesterday. They died trying to land near Potiaki-Ostrog, 155 miles from Moscow.

Officials said the radio amateur had intercepted a message, presumably from the balloon, which said: "Attention! Sirius (The balloon's call letters) calling. We now in zone of heavy moisture. We helpless and being covered with ice. We fall downward. Two of my comrades feel very bad. I am ending this message."

CCC CAMP WORKER CRUSHED TO DEATH

Auto Truck Slips Backward in Gravel Pit and Kills Young Man.

New London, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Robert E. Ringland, 19, of Plain Hill, Norwich, was crushed to death by a truck this morning at Camp Loneragan, the Civilian Conservation Corps camp in Voluntown where he was stationed as a member of the 176th Camp C.C.C.

Ringland and other company members had finished loading the truck with gravel in a pit about a mile from camp. He was standing behind the truck when the driver, Daniel Digiovanni, 19, of Ansonia was given a signal to proceed out of the pit.

Truck Slips Backward
Digiovanni started to obey the signal but instead of going ahead, the truck slipped backward, pinning Ringland against the frozen side of the embankment. His chest was crushed and he died within a few minutes.

Lieut. Richard E. Hawes, U. S. Army, in command of the camp said the fatality was wholly accidental. He sent for the medical examiner of Voluntown and the state police of the Danielson barracks and the coroner.

Ringland was a graduate of the Samuel Huntington grammar school of Norwich Town. He enrolled in the C.C.C. October 18, 1933. His mother is Mrs. James Ringland of Norwich Town.

RT. REV. BUDLONG NOW NEW BISHOP

Elevation Automatic With No Ceremony; Succeeds the Late Bishop Acheson.

New Haven, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Frederick G. Budlong, New Haven who in December, 1931 became Bishop Coadjutor of the Protestant Episcopal church in Connecticut, is the new bishop of the diocese of Connecticut succeeding the late Bishop E. Campion Acheson, who died in Middletown Sunday.

The elevation of the Rt. Rev. Budlong was automatic, it was announced today and without ceremony. The only thing in that respect will be the diocesan convention scheduled for May either in Hartford or Norwich, when one of the matters to be considered probably will be the election of either a suffragan bishop or bishop coadjutor.

An assistant to the bishop is expected to be named owing to the rapid growth of the diocese work.

To Live in New Haven
The new bishop will continue living in New Haven, giving this city its first resident bishop for the Protestant Episcopal church in Connecticut since 1920.

In that year the General Theological Seminary was moved to New Haven from New York City because the students found living costs too high there and the Rt. Rev. Thomas C. Brownwell, then bishop, moved to New Haven also, to live and maintain close supervision over the students.

The Rt. Rev. Budlong was born in Camden, N. Y., the son of Rev. Frank Dorr Budlong and Sarah Elizabeth Hale (Grundy) Budlong, July 10, 1881. He attended the Shattuck Military School at Fairbairn, Minn., and was graduated from Hobart College and General Theological Seminary.

He received a degree of Doctor of Sacred Theology from Hobart College and a degree of Doctor of Divinity at the University of Pittsburgh.

ATTEMPT IS MADE TO ROB THE MAIL

Driver Forced to Curb, Steps on Gas and Escapes, He Informs the Police.

Westport, Feb. 1.—(AP)—John Maurer, 21, driver of the U. S. mail truck that operates between the Saugatuck railroad station and the Westport postoffice, reported to the police today that he believes may have been an attempt to halt his vehicle, loaded with $10,000 in registered mail, by a New York registered black sedan at 7 a. m. today at the intersection of Burr avenue and Riverside avenue, Westport.

Forced To Curb
Maurer was driving north on Riverside avenue with the morning's mail shipment from the Saugatuck railroad station. Maurer said that as he neared the corner of Burr avenue a large black sedan pulled out of the side street, forcing him to his extreme right, narrowly missing the picket fence across from the Catholic church property.

Steps On the Gas
Maurer said a man with a grey overcoat was seated next to the driver and that the door on that side of the car was held open a few inches by the man. Maurer pulled to his right and when he saw that

Perfecting a New Bullet To Penetrate Army Tanks

Montreal, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Men who mold the instruments of war look forward today to perfection of a bullet which may be sent by a rifle through the plated sides of the rumbling army tank.

Major-General A. G. L. McNaughton, chief of the general staff, told officers of the Canadian Grenadier Guards last night that a study of the effect of very high velocity light bullets on armor has suggested a special cartridge might be developed for use against tanks at short range.

It's just one small phase of the world-wide development of new inventions for modern warfare.

Recently, the general said, a rifle has been brought out which has better shooting qualities—and a more efficient spike bayonet which will penetrate winter clothing and web equipment.

There is a new simple and sure method of attaching the bayonet and grenade discharger. The new bayonet is a general simplification of the old.

General McNaughton said there is "intense development" of "weapon" and warlike stories "in all the principal countries of the world."

"In history," he added, "we are not long concerned with nations unable or unwilling to keep pace with armament development."

COUNTRY IS NOW ON GOLD BULLION BASIS

Broad Upward Surge in Exchange Prices

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A broad upward surge in stocks today greeted the Presidential proclamation setting a new price for gold of $85 an ounce and devaluing the dollar to 59.06 per cent of its former parity.

While mining equities led the upturn with gains of $1 to $10 a share, all other categories joined the early forward push. Advances of $1 to $3 or more a share predominated and the tick-tape was several minutes behind floor transactions as blocks of 1,000 to 10,000 shares changed hands. Prices were shaded later under profit taking.

The dollar opened a little higher in terms of sterling and lower in relation to the French franc. But the American currency soon firmness and the pound later showed a loss of 3 1/2 cents at $4.98 1/2 and the French unit was off .02 of a cent at 6.35 cents.

Cotton moved up about 50 cents a bale, and rubber advanced substantially. Wheat and other grains did not exhibit exceptional buoyancy. Wheat firmed about 1/4 to 1/2 of a cent a bushel and other cereals advanced proportionately.

Wall street, while expecting a formal devaluation of the dollar as a preliminary to the nationalization of gold, was somewhat surprised that the rate was not held at 60 per cent of former parity instead of being lowered. The consensus was that further depreciation would be decreed by the President if it was found necessary in the campaign to raise prices and control the exchange value of the American unit.

It was expected that the new $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund would be quickly put to work to hold down international dollar rates and support government securities in the bond market. At the same time, awaiting this morning's opening, Washington and London might reach some sort of a temporary exchange agreement which would obviate a threatened currency war.

The presidential proclamation "as issued an hour after security markets had closed yesterday, but the news was immediately greeted by a strong advance in stocks on Pacific coast markets which were still open.

New York Stock Exchange brokers found a large volume of orders awaiting this morning's opening. Trading proceeded at a rapid pace through the first hour, and it was not until late in that period that the ticker caught up with floor transactions. At one time it was seven minutes in arrears.

President Devalues Dollar by 40.94 Per Cent of Its Former Gold Content; Treasury Makes Over Two Billions Profit by Transaction; Reactions at Various Financial Centers.

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—America went to work today with its dollars devalued by 40.94 per cent of their former gold content, while the Treasury jingled a $2,770,000,000 profit in its pockets and watched for jingles in dollar levels abroad.

President Roosevelt had at his command today a stabilization fund made up of $2,000,000,000 of his new money. But early official indications were it would not at once be wielded drastically.

Further the United States was declared to be on a sort of "modified gold standard," or rather on an "international gold bullion standard."

Until "Further Notice"

By his unexampled steps yesterday, Mr. Roosevelt held that until "further notice" the dollar was revalued at 59.06 per cent of its gold content and that the treasury would offer $85 an ounce for "any and all gold."

In New York, President Roosevelt's proclamation devaluing the dollar approximately 41 per cent was understood by "Wall street" monetary authorities as virtually restoring the dollar to the international gold standard and opened the way to a huge potential credit expansion.

It is believed that stabilization of the dollar in terms of principal foreign currencies has probably been largely accomplished.

How rapidly credit expansion will work will depend on the manner in which the Treasury uses the increase in country's gold supply and on the pace of improvement in business. Credit expansion, bankers say, requires confidence on the part of business and they believe that confidence should grow as recovery progresses.

STATE BANK TAXES DECREASE $261,000

Big Increase Noted, However, in Real Estate Taxes Paid by Savings Banks.

Hartford, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The net tax payable to the state of Connecticut in 1934 by savings banks, savings departments of National banks and savings departments of trust companies amounts to $1,251,965.52 as compared with $1,512,965.46 in 1933, a decrease of $261,000.

The State Board of Equalization met today for the purpose of receiving and correcting reports.

The tax l. on-quarter c. 1 per cent of taxable deposits and from the gross amount of tax, real estate taxes paid by savings banks is deductable from the net tax payable.

Foreign exchange dealers said this premium should soon prompt a heavy flow of gold here from abroad, which would tend to remove it, but bankers were not yet sure as to the method of procedure to follow in importing gold.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Foreign exchange dealings were feverish and confused today, as they were yesterday, as virtually restoring the dollar to the international gold standard and opened the way to a huge potential credit expansion.

It is believed that stabilization of the dollar in terms of principal foreign currencies has probably been largely accomplished.

How rapidly credit expansion will work will depend on the manner in which the Treasury uses the increase in country's gold supply and on the pace of improvement in business. Credit expansion, bankers say, requires confidence on the part of business and they believe that confidence should grow as recovery progresses.

FRENCH GOLD FRAUD

The French gold franc, which with its new gold parity with the dollar should have risen to about 6.83 cents, advanced only to 6.41 1/2 cents in the early dealings, then fell back to 6.36, where it was .01 of one cent under yesterday's close. At that level, the dollar was a little above 61 1/2 percent of former parity, rather than just above 59 percent.

Pound Down
A heavy flow of funds from London kept the pound sterling down. It declined both in terms of the dollar and the French franc. In New York, the pound was quoted at $4.98 just before noon, off 4 cents from last night's close. In terms of the French franc, the pound dropped to about 78 1/4 francs off approximately 1 1/4 francs.

Should the French franc rise to its indicated parity of 6.63 cents, and the pound hold at 78 1/4 francs, foreign exchange dealers calculated that the pound should advance to about 5.20 in terms of our money. The pound was regarded as an uncertain quantity, however, since it might decline further in terms of the French franc.

LONDON'S REACTION

London, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Colin F. Campbell, chairman of the National Provincial bank, told stockholders at their annual meeting today that the future of the international money market will depend largely upon the result of the United States monetary experiment.

The necessity of a stable monetary standard was stressed by the speaker in discussing President Roosevelt's "bold revolution" which

LOOKS LIKE NEW BATTLE FOR HUEY

New Orleans Mayor Threatens to Beat Up Long When They Meet.

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Senator Huey P. Long, who argued prominently in the battle of Sands Point and in "the famous case of the cartridge calling card" today had another pursuer desiring to engage him in physical combat.

A bit of an electric atmosphere prevailed in the lobby of the fashionable Hotel Mayflower here. It stood as a possible battleground, since both principals reside at the hotel.

Six-foot Mayor T. Semmes Walmesley of New Orleans: "I don't intend to place myself in the position of a mayor lying in wait for a Senator, but if I see Long I'm going to beat him up."

Said Senator Long, self-styled "Louisiana Kingfish": "Well, here's hoping he doesn't run into me."

In Same Hotel
Long was speaking in his room on the fourth floor of the hotel. Walmesley's words were delivered in his quarters on the ninth floor. The newly re-elected mayor added:

"Well, I deliberately stopped in the same hotel that he occupies. He has a reputation for staying in his room here—but I run into him in the lobby."

The two prominent figures in Louisiana's turbulent political arena have clashed verbally more than once in the past. Long has said he wanted Walmesley recalled from his mayoralty post. Walmesley has served notice he would break up Long's political organization if possible.

No bookmakers quoted any odds this morning on a possible physical clash between the two, but friends of the two principals readily conceded Walmesley supporters would have to take the short end.

Sankey's true identity, was arrested for questioning. Although Purvis declined to disclose what questions were being put to the captive, it was learned that none of the bills found in his apartment or on his person was identified as part of the ransom money which Col Lindbergh had paid.

Purvis ceased questioning Sankey about 1:30 a. m., but announced that his subordinates would continue to grill the man throughout the morning. Purvis promised that later in the day he would give out some kind of statement, but gave no indications of what it might contain.

NEW JERSEY ANGLE

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Major Charles H. Schoffel, deputy superintendent of the New Jersey state police, said today no one would be sent to Chicago to question Verne Sankey about the Lindbergh kidnaping case until Federal agents there indicated they were not satisfied with Sankey's story.

Schoffel said he knew of no definite clues to link Sankey with the case. Told that M. F. Kinkead, county attorney of St. Paul had said handwriting experts had found a similarity in the script in the ransom notes in the Boettcher and Lindbergh kidnapings, Schoffel said he had not seen the Boettcher handwriting, but that what purported to be reprints of it in newspapers was not similar.

Captain John J. Lamb of the state police last night said that Sankey was wanted for questioning. He said he was a suspect "just as anyone in the kidnaping racket is a suspect."

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, superintendent of the state police, reached later at the Morristown headquarters, said he would make no plans about questioning Sankey until he had been notified of Sankey's arrest by Federal or Chicago authorities. Asked if he had ever had any reason to suspect Sankey of the Lindbergh kidnaping, Schwarzkopf remarked: "We haven't had anything to indicate that he was connected with the Lindbergh case."

today that offered little else savoring of tension.

The President himself gave no outward head to reaction to his slash of gold in the dollar to 59.06 per cent of what it has been for a century; but it was taken for granted that he—with the world—was reacting both the immediate economic and political effects and future possibilities.

Before returning to consideration of the St. Lawrence pact and the supply bill for the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor departments, members of the Senate and House respectively knew of the dollar's fresh fall abroad and opening of the markets at buoyantly better levels. Comment was slight.

They seemed glad enough to have the monetary question quiescent at least for a time, with consequent gladness for committee concentration on such subjects as taxes, mail contract and banking investigations and amendment of the farm act.

Elation was evident at the Justice Department over capture in Chicago of Verne Sankey, alleged kidnaper, at just this time—when that department's request for funds 1-1 up for House review. It appeared passage of this bill late in the day would freshen House action to ready to vote those immense funds, the Legislators took comfort in a new Treasury figure indicating $2,792,940,517 profit to the government from revaluation of the dollar.

TOBACCO GROWERS TO MEET SATURDAY
A. A. Chief John B. Hutson to Address Gathering in Capital.

Hartford, Feb. 1.—John B. Hutson, chief of the tobacco section, agricultural adjustment administration in Washington will discuss the Agricultural Adjustment Act as it affects Connecticut tobacco men at a combined meeting of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association and the newly organized Stalk Tobacco Growers' Association at the State Capitol Saturday, February 3, at 11 p. m.

Mr. Hutson is a native of North Carolina and thoroughly conversant with the cigarette tobacco industry but has never visited New England and is coming up this winter to gather first-hand information regarding the problems of the Connecticut Valley tobacco grower whose product is used primarily for cigars.

N. E. Meeting in Morning
The annual meeting of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association will be held Saturday morning when officers will report the work of the past year. New directors and officers will be elected for 1934 and a representative of the Production Credit Corporation in Springfield will speak on production credit for tobacco growers. Commissioner of Agriculture Olcott F. King will also discuss the tobacco situation as he sees it.

Asks Suggestions
Mr. Hutson has indicated that he is open to suggestions for changes in the method of figuring the base acreage on Connecticut Valley tobacco farms. It is hoped that Saturday's meeting will result in changes in the method of computing the base that will bring virtually all of the outdoor tobacco farmers in the Connecticut Valley under the A. A. contract.

Results of the state-wide survey conducted through the C. W. A. by the State College and Hartford County Farm Bureau will be available Saturday and it will be possible to show Mr. Hutson and the tobacco growers just how each proposed method of computing the base acreage will affect the 3,000 farms on which records have been secured through the survey.

Products Show
Plans for the New England Tobacco Products Show to be held in Hartford next March which was discussed at the meeting of the directors of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association, will be presented at the annual meeting of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association by Commissioner King who is chairman of the show committee. DR. KNAPP TO DIRECT CWA SAFETY WORK

Cheney Medical Officer is Certified for Appointment — 52 in Classes.

Dr. Robert P. Knapp, medical officer in the Cheney plant, was certified by the Federal Re-employment Commission as director and instructor of the Red Cross training school for safety inspectors. The first meeting of the group was held last night in the Municipal building and men were present from Rockville, Ellington, Vernon, Toland and Stafford.

Manchester's first aid group numbers 22 men and there are 30 from the various other towns represented. After being taught the proper methods to render first aid by Dr. Knapp, the men will be assigned to various projects in their respective districts and will give emergency treatment for minor injuries on the job.

The second session of instruction will be held at 7:30 tonight in the hearing room in the Municipal building. The sessions were originally scheduled for Rockville and all arrangements made by the Rockville chapter of the Red Cross. Due to the inability of Dr. Knapp to attend the sessions in Rockville, the meeting place was transferred to Manchester. Three evening sessions will be held next week.

Hope to Have Interiors of No. 3 and No. 4 Quarters Painted Under CWA.

E. L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., treasurer of the South Manchester Fire District in company with James Ford was taking measurements of the interior of No. 3's house on School street and also at the house of No. 4 on Spruce street this morning to figure the amount of material that would be required to paint both of these houses under the CWA projects.

There has been need of painting in the three houses in the district and last year the interior of No. 2 was painted and the cost met from taxes raised in the district. There is a lot of work that must be done in the fire district that is going to cost considerable money and while there is need of painting it was suggested that it be done under the funds that might be secured through the CWA. The local board is said to be willing to allow such a project, but it has also let it be known that the materials to be used must not cost more than the labor. In going over the houses today and taking measurements the plan is to get a figure on the amount and cost of paint that will be needed. The district may pay for the paint and the labor of applying it will be done by painters who get their pay from the CWA.

The work on painting of houses of the South Manchester Fire District will not include any work to be done at the house used in the storing of apparatus of Company 1 as this house is owned by Cheney Brothers, who have maintained it in the past. It has not been turned over to the South Manchester Fire District and there is no estimate of the cost of painting the No. 1 house included in the plan.

ATT. GENERAL'S SON MUCH IMPROVED TODAY
Dickinson Cummings Recognizes Father at Bedside—Had Been in Coma Since Saturday.

Norwalk, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Dickinson S. Cummings regained consciousness at the Norwalk hospital last night long enough to recognize his father, United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.

"Hello Pop," exclaimed the man who had been in a coma since he was injured Saturday night in a Darien automobile accident. "Hello boy," his father replied in a voice tinged with emotion as he saw his son's eyes open for the first time during his long vigil at the bedside. It was the third night in succession that he had spent more than an hour in the sick room since he rushed from Washington to Norwalk on Monday.

The following bulletin was issued at the hospital this morning: "Mr. Cummings' condition today shows progressive improvement and he is responding to questioning. His temperature, respiration and pulse are satisfactory and he is taking nourishment."

Signed: DR. W. J. TRACEY, DR. EDWARD J. TRACEY, DR. HERBERT M. BOWLEY.

Stamford, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Assured by attending physicians that his son was out of danger, United States Attorney General Homer S. Cummings departed early this afternoon for Washington.

STATE'S LABOR DEPT. AS MEDIATION AGENT

Bridgeport, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Official confirmation of the appointment of the Connecticut Labor department at Hartford as mediation agent in labor disputes is contained in a letter to John J. Egan, secretary of the State Federation of Labor, from Senator Robert F. Wagner, chairman of the National Labor Board at Washington.

Appeal from any difficulty arising before the state labor board will be made directly to either regional labor board in Boston and New York.

The new plan, removing the state recovery board from settling labor troubles, followed Mr. Egan's appearance before the National Labor Board three weeks ago, when it was charged that E. Kane Hubbard and the State Manufacturers Association were influencing decisions of the NRA board.

REVIVALIST REACHES MANY DIFFERENT TYPES

Comes in Contact With All from High to Low Estate in His Work.

Yesterday's work was an active and profitable sortie in the Salvation Army revival in Manchester. Colonel Winchell is a veteran in the matter of house-to-house visitation and personal contact in the soul-saving work. Business men, bankers and social class, as well as the "man of low estate," are among those, with veneration, "Bishop of the Bowery" makes his attack. This work in Manchester has brought marked success as Captain Reginald Martin has driven him from one family to another.

Four meetings were held beginning 9:30 p. m. when the colonel spoke to the address, "The Christian League; subject: 'Motherhood'; 4:15 children's meeting, subject: 'The Conversion of a Little Girl'; 7 p. m. at the church supper of the Married Couples at the Second Congregational church, subject: 'The Sidewalks of New York'; at 7:45 p. m. in the citadel the colonel took for his subject, 'At Grips with Atheism.' The Scripture reading is found in 2 Pet. 2. "Gross materialism has turned large numbers of people from the finer things of life to the pursuit of money."

"During the last hundred fifty years a few strong leaders have made an appeal against atheistic lines that have deceived many, among them was Robert G. Ingersoll, a lawyer from Illinois, who, in my boyhood days was the arch enemy of revealed religion denouncing both Christian, Jewish and all kinds of faith. Although reared in a Christian home, educated in Christian schools, and college, and taking oath on the Bible when admitted to the bar that the Constitution of the United States, yet he fought these very foundations that have made our nation the great Republic that it is. He was probably one of the most eloquent men that America has produced. In the month of February, 1894, Ingersoll was speaking at the Grand Opera House in New York City. At that time I had charge of the great Princess Rink on the West Side with a seating capacity of 2,200. I conceived the idea of putting the Devil on trial before judge and jury and having 2,000 subpoenas and a special subpoena to Mr. Ingersoll which read as follows:

"The people of Illinois do command you, Robert G. Ingersoll, to appear at the court house, 538 West Madison street, in the city of Chicago, on the State of Illinois at 8 o'clock p. m. in the year of our Lord 1894, February 1st, to defend the Devil in suit, wherein the Salvation Army is the plaintiff and the Devil, alias the Author of Infidelity, is the Defendant.

You are further commanded to bring with you a copy of the Bible which you are reported to have blasphemed, and a copy of the manuscript with which you uphold the said defendant, the Devil."

And this you are not to omit under the penalty of the law of conscience.

Signed, WALLACE WINCHELL, Sheriff.

(Seal) The controversy on religion and the report of this trial including Ingersoll's argument in favor of the Devil covered front pages of Chicago papers and was a chief topic in newspapers and religious and social circles throughout the world for some time after.

The colonel then proceeded to outline in detail the events of the trial. He also gave his experiences with atheists on the Bowery from time to time, and in Columbus Circle, N. Y., last summer when for 39 nights he conducted open air services under the auspices of the Salvation Army, and was opposed by some 2,000 atheists and Communists under the leadership of Smith and Clark.

The subject tonight has been chosen by the colonel as, "The Witness of the Spirit."

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL
And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks pink, don't swallow a lot of salts, minerals, laxatives and/or cathartics and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant full of energy and vigor. For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your discomfort is that your liver is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest, it just decays in the bowels. Gas bleats up your stomach. You have a sour, bad taste and your skin often breaks out in blotches. Your head aches and you are worn out. Your whole system is poisoned. It takes these good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. Buy them at your drug store or order a box of Little Liver Pills. Look for the name, Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Never substitute. See at drug stores. © 1933 C. M. Co.

BOARD OF RELIEF SESSIONS BEGUN

Members Expect to Have Plenty to Do as Complaints Are Filed.

The Manchester board of relief started sessions today and the indications are that they will have several requests for alteration of property assessments. The assessors in their work this year made a general reduction of 10 per cent on land and buildings in Manchester, but it was claimed by others that land values were too high in some places.

One of the big reductions in the list of this year over that of last year was in the value placed on automobiles. There is not expected to be any claims for any reductions in this value, but there will be claims presented in the values that have been placed on fixtures and in machine values.

The list of Cheney Brothers shows that the assessors did not allow the reduction that was asked for by that company on machinery. Allowing a cut of values on buildings owned by the company, which was about $1,000,000, they did not cut down the figures on the machinery and the assessment which the company asked to accept as compiled by the assessors is about $250,000 more than the amount that was sworn to by the representative of the company in filing their list.

ENDURANCE DRIVER A GOOD SAMARITAN

Takes Two Women, Who Lost Last Car, to Their Homes 8 Miles Away.

The invitation that was extended by the owner of the car that is being driven here in a 100-hour endurance test to call if a person wished to attend the President's Birthday Ball, was accepted by a lady a few, who went to the ball, but it was a life saver for a couple of young women from Rockville, who came to Manchester to attend the ball.

Like Cinderella of the glass slippers they stayed too long and when they reached Depot Square they learned, much to their regret, early yesterday morning that they had missed a connection with the last bus for Rockville.

They were standing on the walk in the hope that a friend might come along when the test car drove into sight. They were offered and accepted a ride and in this way got back to Rockville.

SAYS FASCISM IS LAST STRUGGLE OF CAPITAL

Former British M. P. Says Constitutional Guarantees Are Being Quickly Forgotten.

"There is a definite decline of liberty going on in England, and German Nazi emissaries are constantly in conference with officials and prominent people in England," said Miss Jennie Lee, former British M. P., speaking to the League for Industrial Democracy audience last evening in Center Church House, Hartford.

She warned people in democratically governed countries against feeling secure in their Constitutional guarantees of liberty. She said Fascism is the last desperate struggle of dying Capitalism to save itself and it is descending on the masses of people all over the world. When questioned about Roosevelt program, she said she believed him to be a genuine liberal but in the end he would suffer a broken heart, due to the sequence of natural economic causes. She emphasized the idea that there are no longer three sides to the economic question—that there are only two, Labor the side where people work for their living and Capital the side where people live on and by the labor of their fellows. She urged the audience to choose their sides. She cited instances of brutality and terrorism of liberals and pacifists in Germany, to say nothing of oppressive and brutal measures taken toward those opposed to the Nazi regime.

She gave examples of ingenious propaganda methods and stunts by which the German people have been illusioned into supporting Hitler. Granting that Hitler may really have had the interests of the German masses at heart in the beginning of his activity, she said he had had to appeal to the privileged classes for support, and then found that "whoever pays the piper calls the tune."

When questioned about Italy's situation she said so many years have passed since the terrorization beginnings of Fascism in Italy that the world does not have them in mind, that Italy has now become a place where the privileged have been grouped in control over the mass and all democratic rights they had before the war are gone. The function of Fascism she said is to preserve the Capitalist State but destroy the spirit and aspirations of the individual. That function is not peculiar to any country but to the system Fascism itself. When questioned about Russian dictatorship she said she was prepared to defend dictatorship in Russia because it is a dictatorship in the interest of 95 per cent of the people, not the 5 per cent specially privileged. But she had no mind to take orders from Moscow any more than from Berlin, inasmuch as she is English, an ex-

SENATE BODY REFUSES TO REMOVE SEN. LONG

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—The Senate elections committee decided today petitions seeking the ouster from the Senate of Senators Long and Overton of Louisiana did not present issues, "which the committee or the Senate could take cognizance of."

The committee decided, however, to conduct hearings within the next 10 days to permit those seeking removal of the two Senators to argue the "sufficiency of their complaints." Chairman George (D., Ga.), announced the decision following an executive session.

Ouster of Long has been asked in petitions by Louisiana citizens charging him with personal and political corruption.

The women's committee of Louisiana also has asked for unseating of Overton on the ground that he must be held responsible for corruption in his election.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1934

Because the French parliament would have aired the preparedness activities and made a row about them, and because the French executive absolutely wanted no row at all, a lot of financial skulduggery was indulged in—fancy bookkeeping that enabled the government to pile up a vast mountain of floating debt. When the war was sprung on her in 1914, with all this debt and private bankers holding big issues of installment bonds—payable in gold that the country did not have—which the bankers had bought expecting to peddle them to the country at a nice private profit, France had a pretty kettle of fish.

The war expenses were frightful. High taxes couldn't begin to meet them. Bonds—gold bonds—couldn't be sold in anything like adequate quantities. The absolute wealth of the country was melting away. Germany occupied France's richest mineral, industrial and agricultural areas. Hundreds of square miles of farms were destroyed, rendered infertile. Man power was disappearing; 267,000 industrial workers were slain and 130,000 disabled. The farm workers fared even worse in casualties. Until the United States came in and poured money into the allied cause France had to finance herself on "loans" from the Bank of France—paper money, "bank currency." These loans amounted to 44 billion francs, equal then to something like ten billions of our money.

After the war France was economically impoverished. She needed everything; had, as a nation, little but debts and ruins. Commodity prices were high partly from war time inflation, partly because everything was scarce. But France, like Britain, like the United States, like every country, had its industrial group of money tycoons who didn't like the high price idea. They succeeded in bringing about deflation. They had been lending cheap francs, they wanted to collect dear francs.

The franc had fallen after the war from a norm of five and a half to the dollar in 1914 to 17 to the dollar in 1920. By the imposition of a tremendous tax burden and by the contraction of the currency by paying off some of the Bank of France loans the franc was sent up to 11 to the dollar in 1922. Meantime prices and values shrank in two years more than 40 per cent. That's something the deflationists do not mention. It took almost twice as much muscle or embroidery or perfume to pay a debt in 1922 as that debt had represented when it was contracted in 1920. And the big private bankers and mortgage holders were scooping in what was left of France.

In 1923 inflationists got into the saddle again and there was some "greenbackism," with the result that in March the franc dropped to 27 to the dollar. But in the same year the deflation crowd regained control of the government and levied more taxes, contracted the currency again in the name of "sound money" and in a few months the franc rose to 14.8 to the gold dollar and prices were on the skids again. Within a few weeks that government went out and there was another return to inflation. When the franc was finally "stabilized" it was at a distinctly inflationary level, about four cents.

Now just what period are these folks talking about who keep telling us about the "crash of the franc?" And what do they mean by talking about the distress it caused? The stoutest argument the deflationists have is the one about wages never going up as much as prices. Here is what happened in France: Calling the pre-war half of 1914 the normal period and letting normal retail prices and wages each be represented by the figures 100, it is the recorded fact that as retail prices went up under the general trend of inflation wages stepped along with them with such extraordinary evenness that by 1924, when prices had risen to 435, there was the little old pay envelope, just a hairsbreadth ahead with 437.

Also, when was the French currency substantially any further depreciated than it is today? That "crash" has lasted a long time if there ever was one.

NEW "GOLD STANDARD"
 Historically the President's proclamation devaluing the gold dollar to the equivalent of 59.6 cents, old bullion value, is a document of exceeding interest. Practically, however, it had been so thoroughly discounted that the proceeding will have no spectacular effect. That it will even have the degree of effect at which it aims in improving the basic price and value level and thus stimulating general business, unless employed as the basis of a definite currency expansion is very doubtful. As a great many people see it, dollar devaluation and the capture of all monetary gold by the United States treasury, while constituting the most important step ever taken in the moral and philosophical redemption of the country from grievous monetary error, must be implemented if we are to receive other than moral and philosophical benefits.

The people cannot eat morality nor pay their bills with philosophy. Perhaps the most important immediate result of yesterday's climax of the devaluation proceedings will be found to lie in the fact that the opponents of the measure are now saving their faces by congratulating themselves and the country that, after all, we have gone back on "a modified gold standard." Those of them who have been having nightmares may now breathe more easily under this unctious belief and may feel less inclined to hug their money instead of putting it to work and helping to put the nation to work.

This victory of the gold standard is much like that which might be won by an advocate of painting the new church-black if it were finally voted that it be painted a pearl grey, for they could console themselves with the declaration that, anyhow, pearl grey is still black, let down by a sufficient dosage of white.

We don't in the least mind joining in any cheers for this kind of a "gold standard."

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Consumer Gets the Ax at NRA Price Powwows... It's Always Open Season on Robinson of Indiana... Call Nat on Post-office... Steve Won't "Poosh."

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent
 Washington, Feb. 1.—The consumer who expects to benefit from NRA's price hearings here is in an inauspicious position.

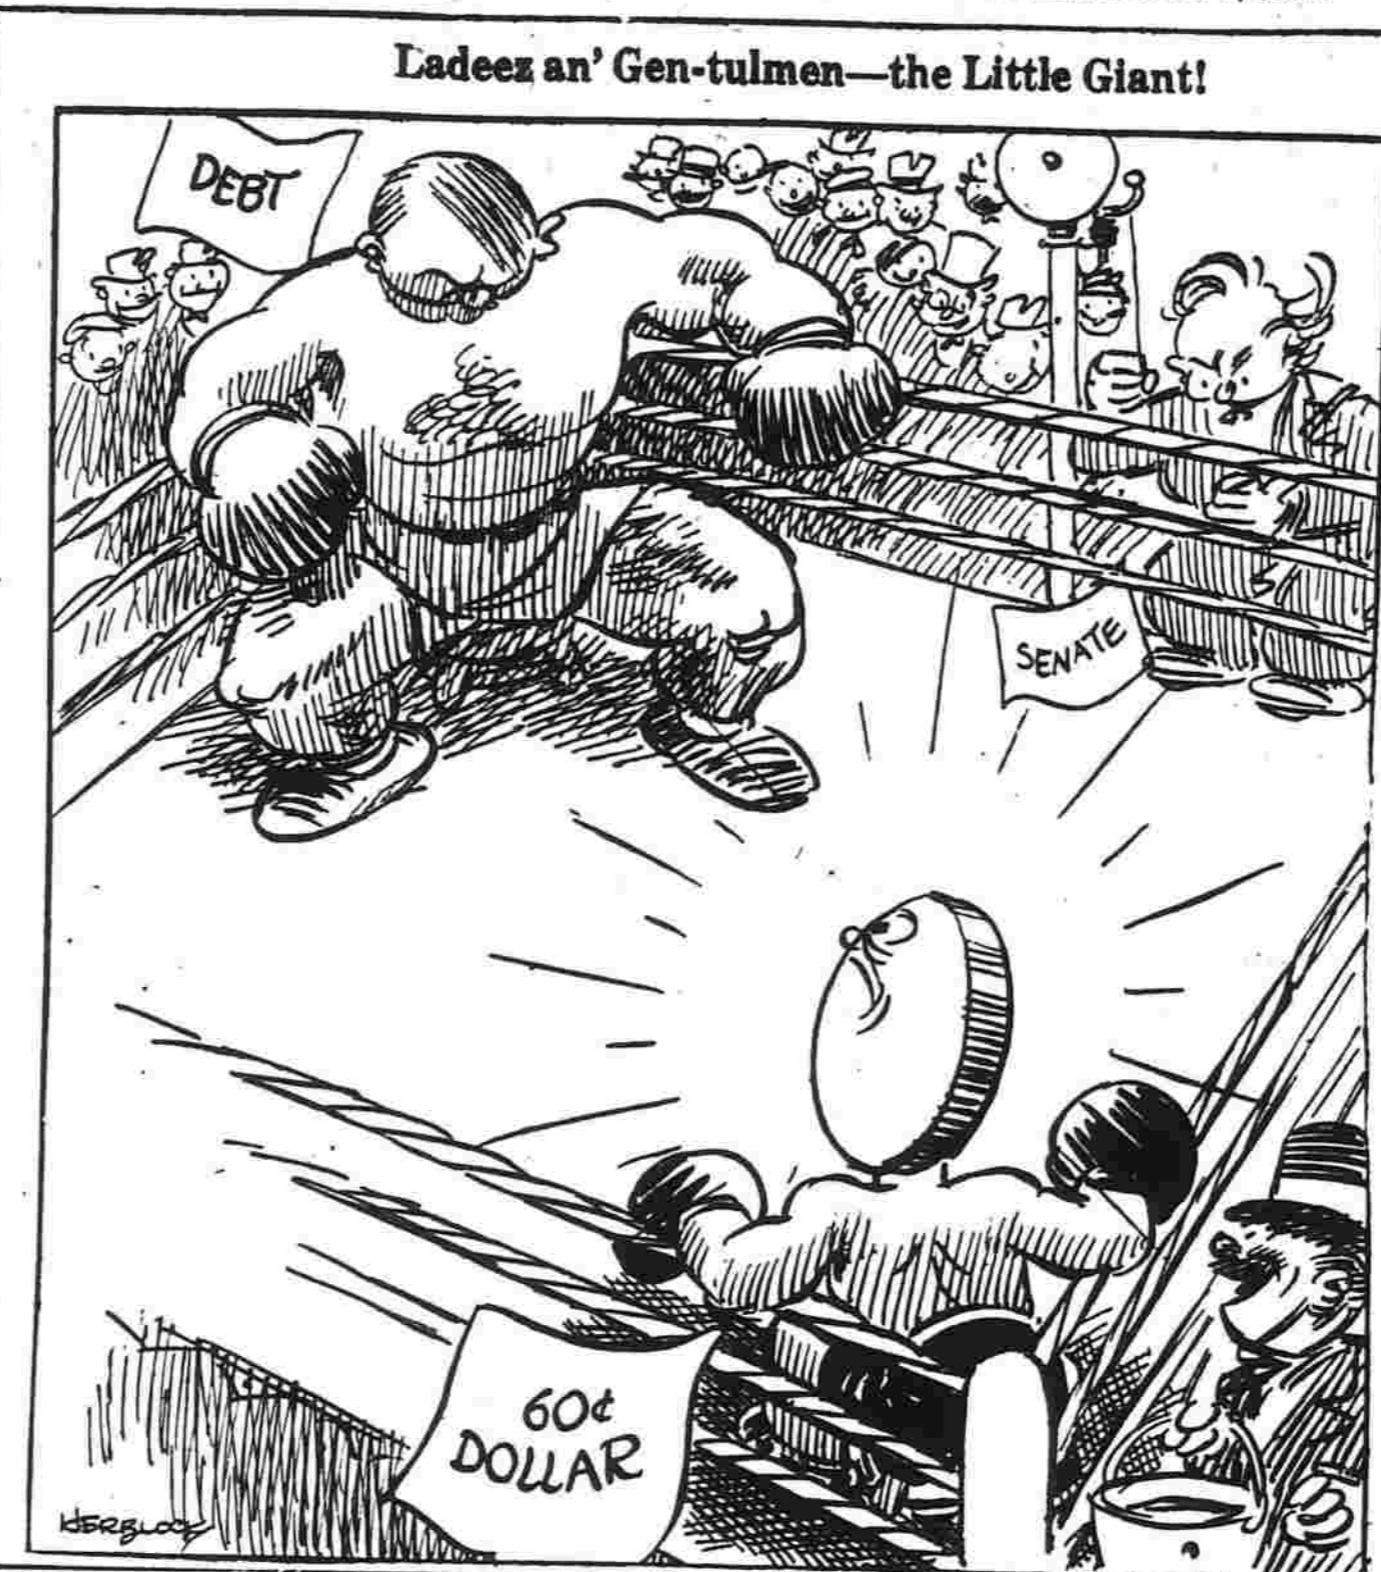

Some concerns which try to get away with murder may be called to task by NRA or its code authorities, but the official program calls for price-raising. Rising prices are to be controlled at all—almost entirely by competition. And competition is limited by NRA codes.

That's why the Consumers' Advisory boards was limited simply to presenting complaints as received from consumers. The consumers were business firms which buy from other business firms.

The CAB's hope of sitting in a judicial capacity on prices showed little likelihood of being realized. Nevertheless, there were some at the hearings who indicated a certain disquiet. Privately, several types of citizens questioned whether the outstripping of purchasing power might not have had a far more obvious effect on the business situation if Uncle Sam hadn't started pouring out his emergency billions.

Complaints from merchants in Broken Bow, Okla., and St. Edward, Neb., were first at the sessions in the ornate U. S. Chamber of Commerce auditorium. And you learned—at least partially—why what was a 10-cent pair of socks now costs 20 or 25 cents retail.

Higher cotton prices, yarn surcharge, processing tax, manufacturer surcharge, manufacturers' agent surcharge, wholesalers' surcharge and retail surcharge all went into the increase. All were attributed to increased cost under the recovery program.

IN NEW YORK
 By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, Feb. 1.—Odds and ends, mostly ends: On the New York police force, there's a man named Kopp. There's also a Dick, a Law, a Judge, a Gang, a Waiter, a Proudfoot and a Fattibone. And an Irving Berlin... ? ? ?

One of the rickety pueharts in the squallid outdoor market on Houston street—where one can buy anything from stale bread for a penny to a second-hand pair of shoes for a dime—offers among its old magazines and tattered books a copy of the 1931 edition of the Social Register. Glamorous Tullulah Headhead has two superstitions concerning the first night of a new play. There must be on her dressing table a photograph of her mother, who died when she was born. And her two secretaries must sip a little champagne—and then smash their glasses.

Mrs. Charles Sabin, head of the Women's Organization for Prohibition Reform, still is receiving dozens of cases of fine wines and liquors from grateful makers and importers. Mrs. Sabin sends the stuff to New York hospitals.

Bank Notes
 A fellow who works in a bank reports on the strange things found in safety deposit boxes when they're forced open because of long overdue rent. One box contained nothing but a single powder puff; another held only an old brass key; a third a picture of a little boy. Lots of them contain love letters and address books which would be highly negotiable and doubtless were being held for the very purpose... Black-jacks and revolvers occasionally are discovered, and a checkup almost always reveals that the person who rented the box is in prison.

After 30 Years
 Fritz Scheff, who was one of Broadway's very greatest sensations nearly 30 years ago when she sang "Kiss Me Again" in "Milk and Modiste," is working as hostess in the taproom of the Hotel Buckingham during the cocktail hour. Seems she has a house in Connecticut with a frequently extended mortgage on it. For more than a year there has been talk along Broadway of giving a mortgage-lifting benefit for Fritz. But somehow, nothing ever came of it... So she took a job in a showroom... "How do you do?" beams the gracious lady who once panicked a whole generation of theatergoers. "Would you care to sit here? I'll send a waiter right over..." Some of the patrons look at her curiously, wondering who she is. Emma Maschke—pardon—Helen Emma Morgan Maschke—no longer perches on the piano at the Simpson Club, singing those wistful songs and making those heart-distracting gestures with her white hands. She says, in fact, that

HOW TO GET FOOD CALCIUM
 Due to the many thousands of direct letters written to me personally by readers of my health articles in newspapers all over the United States and in Canada, I am in a position to know what food subject most of you are finding of the greatest interest. I realize that many of you want to know more about food minerals and particularly about calcium. The ordinary diet may lack this food mineral to such an extent that the average person is really starved for calcium.

Calcium is present in natural foods in order to make them keep better or to make them look better. Chiefly on refined foods are calcium is present in a great many natural foods and you have only to reach out and take them in order to get all you need.

TWO KILLED, THREE HURT WHEN AUTO HITS POLE

Orlando, Fla., Feb. 1.—(AP)—Two Rollins college students, one a varsity football player, are dead and three fellow-students are injured as the result of an automobile accident here.

The dead: John C. MacNutt of Rockville, Center, N. Y., varsity football player.

Thomas Trammell of Montclair, N. J.

The injured: Harry Lord of Pittsburgh, whose father is district manager for the American Rolling Mills Corporation, Edward Buttner of Plymouth, Mass.

The automobile, which college authorities said was owned by Trammell, crashed into a water hydrant and light pole as the students were en route here from Winter Park late last night. He said that Trammell again speeded up as soon as he gave the key back.

CHUCKLES

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A verbal joust with nimble-tongued "Jack" Britten of Illinois is not particularly relished by Representative Blanton of Texas, who is well aware of the "heavy wallop" carried by the Texan on the House floor to say:

"When he comes in here some mornings in proper array, with his bright necktie and spats and his hair properly curled, rouge on his face well perturbed and smiling sweetly, you do not know whether to kiss him or sock him."

"I shall refuse the kiss," Britten hastily interrupted. "I am not a Frenchman."

"But do not try to sock him," admonished Blanton.

Denver—As long as his wife keeps him in jail, Louis Nassau says he won't eat and his wife says she will keep him there as long as possible—until he starts to support her. But Nassau claims he can't make any money at his tailoring trade in jail and therefore has no money for his wife. Jail officials are threatening forced feeding.

Hagerstown, Md.—The weather was biting cold when a certain Hagerstown citizen went to bed. He placed his false teeth in a glass of water, as usual. Next morning the water was frozen solid. Fearing a rapid thaw would damage the plate, he went to work without his teeth—and breakfast.

Dartmouth, N. H.—While two police officers awaited a response to the knocks on the front door, Mrs. Martha Richardson, 35, who officers said weighs 200 pounds, leaped from the second story window of her home, scaled a fence and ran four blocks before the detectives overtook her. She was charged with theft of articles valued at $125.

Detroit—Three youths appeared in court Wednesday to answer charges of robbing a Rosedale Park church. Their loot, they said, consisted of four decks of cards, six pairs of dice and four ash trays.

Henry W. Hofkesbrink, church custodian said "the men had been having a meeting the night before and played a little cards and things. That's how the stuff was there."

SEC. ICKES REVOKES OIL PRICE ORDERS

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Secretary Ickes, oil administrator, today revoked his administrative order of October 16 proposing minimum prices for petroleum and its products. The schedule was to have become effective today, but the recently approved purchase and marketing agreements made it unnecessary.

In announcing revocation of the order, the secretary said: "The purchase and marketing agreements submitted to me by the oil industry and approved by me on January 19 are designed to achieve stabilization of the industry, the primary aim of the administration, and to make unnecessary the promulgation of the proposed minimum price schedule." The secretary said.

"Should it appear necessary in the public interest in the future to regulate petroleum prices, a new schedule will be prepared under my direction as a substitute for the schedule now being revoked, which was recommended by the planning and co-ordination committee representing the industry under the oil code."

The October 16 order was extended several times during the period in which representatives of the industry were seeking to arrive at purchase and marketing agreements satisfactory to them.

INTENSE COLD HITS NATIVE PEACH CROP

Predict Little or None of Local Variety Will Be Borne This Year.

Peaches from the Bolton hills will be scarce this fall, it was predicted at the meeting of twenty peach growers held at the Villa Louise in Bolton yesterday afternoon when a representative of Connecticut State College met with the group, heard their reports and gave advice on what was best to do to save the trees already planted for the crop in 1935.

The cold weather was so intense as to kill every possibility of a peach growing in Bolton. All of the growers reported that they had made a survey of their trees and explained the condition in which they were found. It was not necessary to go out and inspect the orchards to learn the hard truth that little or no peaches would be borne by the trees this year.

$5,000 Loss Growers were present who expected to secure crops from orchards that numbered from 100 to 700 trees. All were affected. In money it will mean that there will be a loss of over $5,000 in income in addition to the cost of labor in taking care of the trees. It was learned that the average price for a bushel of peaches picked and sold from orchards in Bolton in 1933 had been $1.75 and each tree is expected and in most cases, has given a bushel of peaches to a tree.

In the case of John Albas, who had 700 trees that would produce this year, there will be none that will escape. In like manner the others are affected, but Mr. Albas is the largest orchard owner present at the meeting yesterday.

What is true in Bolton is also true in and around the area near Bolton, affecting the trees in Andover, Elm, Glastonbury and Hebron. This will mean that few native peaches will be found in the local market next fall and that peaches used in Manchester will come from the South. It has been learned that peaches that housewives have depended upon for canning purposes, but there is not likely to be much of this done next fall.

Will Not Spray When it was brought to the attention of all that gathered yesterday that there would be no hopes of getting peaches there was a discussion on the best method that could be followed to save the trees for 1935. In this the Connecticut College representative had advised the growers to give attention to the trees and see that the land in between the rows of trees is kept plowed up and soft.

He advised that extra care be taken in keeping them well trimmed and allow the trees to become strong. In a more healthy condition they may be able to better the winter. A similar condition of weather should be so experienced next winter. He advised them not to spend money in spraying trees as this would be of little value, claiming that much more ground through the roots of the tree if the ground was kept soft, tilled up and instead of one plowing around the trees advised that it be done as needed to keep the ground soft.

F. C. DEXTER'S FAMILY LEAVES HERE SATURDAY

Wellington Road Folks, Long Prominent in Town, Going to Bound Brook, N. J.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin C. Dexter and son, Mrs. Dexter, of 61 Wellington Road, will leave Manchester on Saturday for their new home in Bound Brook, N. J. Mr. Dexter last summer secured a position with the Calco Chemical Company of Bound Brook, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Boston, he entered the employ of Cheney Brothers in 1919 and held several supervisory positions in the old mill, yarn dyehouse and other departments. His brother, Captain Allan Dexter, preceded him at the Cheney plant.

The Franklin Dexters have taken a prominent part in the social life of the town. Mr. Dexter has been considered one of the foremost bridge players in Manchester and is a certified teacher. Both were interested in scouting and devoted much time to that movement. They were affiliated with the Center Congregational church, and their departure will be regretted by a host of friends.

Franklin Jr., who came here as a baby is now a sophomore at Manchester High school, and is recently honored with a farewell party at his home by his school friends. Mr. and Mrs. Dexter built their new home on Wellington Road a few years ago and will leave it or offer it for sale.

COUNTRY IS NOW ON GOLD BULLION BASIS

he said was "regarded with some apprehension by those with long experience in financial affairs." He continued: "When the government of the richest nation of the world is making bold and astonishing experiments with its currency and has 4,000,000,000 in gold to fund to about $400,000,000 in the future trend of financial conditions must necessarily remain obscure."

The speaker emphasized that "we must remember how intense was the depression with which President Roosevelt had to deal. He said that it "remains to be seen whether this policy will be justified by the ultimate results."

SITUATION EXPLAINED

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Gold certificates are a thing of the past except for treasury and Reserve Bank vaults. All the gold certificates, as they trickle into the banks, are being sent to the Treasury for destruction. The new gold certificates now being printed are intended only for the Federal Reserve banks replacing the gold the government took from them.

Likewise, gold coins now are history. The "1934 gold bullion standard," as Secretary Morgenthau described it, contemplates the use of gold only in bullion form. The Treasury is busy drawing regulations for melting up all gold coin into bullion, probably 400-ounce bars worth $14,000.

'BEAR OF OAKLAND' HELPS BYRD'S MEN

Supply Ship of Expedition Reaches Bay of Whales in Nick of Time.

Bay of Whales, Antarctica, (Via Mackay Radio)—Feb. 1.—(AP)—Crews of the Bear of Oakland, supply ship which equaled a record run from Dunedin, N. Z., to the Bay of Whales, and of the Byrd flag ship today worked at a feverish pace discharging winter stores onto the bay ice, six miles from Little America.

Haste was necessary, as leaders of the expedition feared crumbling ice might again threaten the ships and supplies.

The Bear of Oakland since midnight has been berthed alongside the flag ship. The 60-year-old barkentine arrived at 10:30 last night, equalling the record trip of 12 days between Dunedin and the Bay of Whales made by the Steamer S. S. Eleanor Bolling in 1929 on the first Byrd Antarctic Expedition.

The young skipper of the Bear, Terrence Keough, shouted back "Thank you sir. We're all set to go."

A tractor was lifted from the Bear of Oakland and was put into service with the other tractors operating an "excursion line" between the ships and the camp. Two of the five tractors which have been in use are now out of commission.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

It is probable that the subject of good wines and how to serve them has caused more unadvised bushwa to be flung into the air than any other topic since the administration of Millard Fillmore.

The end of prohibition has brought us many books on this question. Most of them assume that we all have capacious cellars, formal dining rooms, and huge checkered accounts and that—having survived a decade of rough-and-tumble prohibition drinking—we henceforth shall taste nothing but such vintage stuff as would delight the most exacting of connoisseurs.

DR. SYKES RESIGNS AS UNIVERSITY HEAD

New York, Feb. 1.—(AP)—A committee appointed to consider the resignation of Dr. Richard Eddy Sykes as president of St. Lawrence University at Canton, N. Y., will report to the May meeting of the board of trustees.

The committee is to be appointed by Millard H. Jenks, president-elect of the board. Dr. Sykes resigned Saturday after 16 years of service, stating he felt he had completed the program of work which he undertook and that it now would be well to relinquish the duties.

Owen D. Young, at the same time, declined re-election to the presidency of the trustees, a post he has held for the past ten years. Young also felt that a cycle of activity had been completed under his and Dr. Sykes' administration, and that the duties now should pass to the on-coming generation.

Dr. Sykes and Young will continue active interest in the university after their terms end in June, for both are life trustees.

CWA WORKERS GET LEGION COFFEE

Men on Buckingham Job Get Hot Drink at Luncheon Today.

Dilworth-Cornell Post, the American Legion, today served 10 gallons of coffee to men on the CWA job at the watershed in Buckingham. If the cold continues the Legion will serve coffee at noon tomorrow to other CWA groups at work in town.

The coffee was furnished by Walter P. Gorman of the Pinehurst Grocery and was made at the Army and Navy club. Donald Hemingway delivered the hot drinks to the men in Buckingham. It was welcomed by the workers since there are no provisions anywhere near the spot where they are working. They have been eating sandwiches almost on stiff in the cold and the hot coffee warmed them up and refreshed them for their jobs. The Legion plans to do this during the rest of the winter on the coldest days when it will be most appreciated.

GIGANTIC PROFITS IN AIRCRAFT LINES

National City Bank Made Over Five Millions Witness Tells Senators.

Washington, Feb. 1.—(AP)—Profits of $5,895,111 made by the National City Company from United Aircraft and Transport financing from 1928 through 1930 were outlined to the Senate mail investigating committee today by Joseph P. Ripley, an officer of the investment concern.

Ripley, now executive vice president of the City Company, the bank affiliate's successor formed in May, 1933, said losses had resulted in 1933. United States operations since 1930. He told of interlocking directorships of the National City Bank and United Aircraft and Transport.

Gordon S. Rentschler, now president of the bank, is a United director, he said, adding that Colonel E. A. Deeds and W. E. Boeing also were directors in both organizations. Rentschler is a brother of F. B. Rentschler, who testified recently to having made millions in United stock from an investment of less than $250 in Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company.

The total going into the treasuries of Boeing Airplane Company and United Aircraft from the financing accompanying their consolidation was $13,789,000, he testified. May Cancel Contracts. Meanwhile, Postmaster General Farley reiterated at a press conference that the department was studying existing air mail contracts to determine whether any should be cancelled in view of recent disclosures before the Senate committee.

He indicated a decision might be reached within a week. The postmaster general has been advised by his attorneys that he has the authority to cancel contracts. Boeing and United stocks were first offered to selected lists, Ripley testified.

"I was 3,000 miles away in Seattle when the names were selected," he said, adding he thought the reports were compiled by H. B. Baker, sales manager of the company, assisted by Charles E. Mitchell, then president of the National City bank. The National City profits from the transaction by which Boeing Airplane and Transport, having absorbed Pratt and Whitney Aircraft Company, became United Aircraft, amounted to nearly $6,000,000, Ripley said.

This, he added, included profits made from stock purchased from F. B. Rentschler and associates for approximately $4,500,000. He testified that Rentschler is a brother of Gordon Rentschler, now president of the National City bank and then a vice president.

SENDS CUSTOMERS BUSINESS REPORT

Conn. Power Co. Adopts New Plan of Giving Patrons All Information.

Attempting an experiment in public relations which, as far as can be determined, has never been tried before, the Connecticut Power Company last night mailed to all of its customers a "Report to the Customers," similar in many respects to the reports to stockholders which are issued by all public utility companies. The report covers the year of 1933.

Reasons Given

The purposes of this publication are explained in its foreword by Samuel Ferguson, chairman of the board of directors, which reads as follows:

"To the Customers: "Since its inception, the philosophy of your company has been that it constituted a joint venture of customers, employees, and stockholders. Heretofore, its success has been largely dependent on the efforts of the employees and upon the support, both financial and moral, received from the stockholders to whom a report has been rendered each year.

"The company has now passed the development stage and its future progress will depend in large measure on your active assistance—hence this report. It is our hope that you will derive as much help and satisfaction from your report, which this year is being sent for the first time to every customer, as our stockholders have heretofore derived from theirs.

Brief and Clear

"In order that every member of your family may read and understand the report with ease, care has been taken to avoid obscure technical terms and to make it as brief as possible. More detailed information, financial, technical, or otherwise, will gladly be sent to any customer on request.

"Our ultimate goal is the complete electrification of every home with the use therein of from 800 to 800 kilowatt hours per month for light, cooking, refrigeration, hot water, and other uses. The price now paid by those of our customers who have fully electrified their homes is around 2c per kilowatt hour, and every effort is being made to make it even lower.

"Recently the Tennessee Valley Authority, backed by the resources of the Federal government, has avowed its intention of achieving a similar goal and it has been inferred that privately operated companies would suffer by comparison. Your company welcomes this challenge to match Yankee dollars and ingenuity against taxpayers dollars and the efficiency of governmental bodies."

Asks Cooperation

"Our objective can only be achieved by the combined efforts of employees, stockholders and customers. Their interests are one, and the success of their efforts will depend on the extent to which they cooperate with each other.

"Suggestions and constructive criticisms are more helpful than generally believed. They will always be welcomed whether sent by mail or personally called to the attention of any officer.

THE CONNECTICUT POWER COMPANY

Samuel Ferguson, Chairman of the Board of Directors.

Like the stockholders reports, the report to the customers begins with a financial statement of the past year. This statement, however, is in simplified form, so that it may be readily understandable even to those not familiar with such tabulations. This is followed by an analysis of the financial statement to further simplify it.

The report then continues with a review and explanation of the company's rate structure, the area charge, its new one-cent rate for water heating; it describes improvements which have been made in service, use of various electrical appliances, the method of sending out bills and making collections; it continues with a section on the company's taxes, another on stockholders and employees and closes with an item on customer satisfaction in which customers are urged to write to the company for information on any of the questions of the day concerning public utilities and their operation.

As 100 Hour Endurance Drive Began

Usher Winfield Martin is seen above just before he handed out Don Randazzo, famous stunt driver, to the wheel of the new 1934 Chevrolet sedan in the presence of Frank D. Riley, manager of the Riley Chevrolet Co., and Alvin Ostback, and Charles Fickett, Chevrolet salesman. The one hundred hour endurance drive will keep Don at the wheel, driving the streets of Manchester and vicinity until Saturday afternoon at 4:30. The drive was started Tuesday afternoon from in front of the Hotel Sheridan. Cold weather Tuesday and Tuesday night brought the driver a lot of sympathy from the people who saw him but at twelve o'clock he reported that the heater and radio in the car made it "just as comfortable as any front room." Already one of the hardest periods of the drive is over, according to Don. After the second night is over he finds it easy until he goes into the last thirty hours of the grind. During the drive the endurance car will become a familiar sight around Manchester. The driver will park for short intervals in front of the following business places whose managements are co-operating in sponsoring the drive, Ray Paris' Filling Station, Davis' Home Bakery, West Side Dairy, Arthur Drug Store, Adams' Service Station and the Oak Street Tavern. If you'd like to visit with Don hail him for a ride, he will enjoy your company.

And while the world shakes with fear and hope, Molly Prentiss, wife of a poverty-stricken mountain farmer, is risking her life to rescue the child.

How she causes the apprehension of the criminals and gets the baby

Married Flirts

By MABEL McELLIOTT
© 1933 NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVEE are married on the same day as LILA ROTALING and DEREK BLISS. Lila expects to live in luxury while Gypsy keeps her job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy MARCO BROUGHTON, a former admirer of Gypsy's whom they meet at the Ellises' home. When Gypsy learns she is to have a baby she gives up her job. The baby is born in September and is christened DAVID.

Derek and Lila are constantly involved in a gay social whirl. Derek dislikes this and one night when he begs off from a party Lila goes with Marco. Marco tells her he is mad about her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XXV

Flirting, of course, Lila was familiar with. She had flirted before. It was part of the game meant nothing. But this feeling for Marco, this slow dawning of excitement and suspense, was something new. It was because of this that she had meant to ask Gypsy a question when she had called at the little Long Island house. Had Gypsy really cared for Marco? Lila was devoured with curiosity about it. She knew Gypsy had been in the study that day last winter when she had dropped by to have tea with the great man. Lila had slipped into the dressing room to give Gypsy a chance to leave. Now that she believed Gypsy's presence there was anything but innocent, far from it. Still it was odd Lila had given Gypsy a dozen chances to explain the encounter, but had received no explanation.

Well, it didn't matter now. Marco was staring at Lila as if he'd like to eat her alive. She was used to adoring looks and, for all she knew, this might be part of Marco's famous technique. But it made her all shivery from head to foot, this expression. You played at the game of lover, you were through with the motions—note-writing, dining together at some little place—and it was all a game. You didn't expect it to go real on you.

Was Marco in earnest? His reputation as a playboy was city-wide. Then there was that woman—that Flo something-or-other who Derek said was Marco's common law wife. But did she matter?

All this flashed through Lila's mind in far less time than it takes to describe. Aloud she said coolly: "Don't trifle with a girl's affections, my friend."

"Little devil!" He said it admiringly. Lila laid her cigaret down and smiled at him.

"Shall we go now?" They were silent as they went down the magnificent staircase. "Night, Mr. Ewington. Good night, madam." She hiccupped and wrapped clutched around her. The rain had stopped and it was cold with a March wind blowing up from the river.

Now Marco was beside her in the car. She sat, daintily withdrawn. It was a conducting a mild affair with him. Life went awfully dead on you unless you were buoyed up by some inner excitement. And it wouldn't do any harm to play around with Marco. Derek was making a noise like a husband these days. Lila found it tiresome.

So she let Marco hold her hand, let him whisper extravagant compliments to her. It was all part of a delicious game. She wouldn't let him kiss her—not just yet, at least. Derek was asleep when she got home. At least his door was closed and she decided to sleep there. She glanced at herself in the mirror with quiet approval. A man's admiration certainly did something to you, she reflected. See how bright her eyes were! Why, it was a tonic to have some one politely in love with you.

Lila smiled at herself approvingly. Several blocks away Gypsy lay wide-eyed, thinking. Hunt had left around 11, and Tom had not returned. How amazing the tall, young engineer with the slate gray eyes had been, and what pretty speeches he had made to her without being in the least foolish or flirtatious. It did something to you, having a man so obviously admiring. It bolstered your self-confidence. Domesticity certainly is nothing of the sort and, although Tom still told her she was lovely and adorable, he said so at longer intervals now. With those business friends of his, she had been weighed down by a feeling of dullness, quite foreign to her usual state of happy assurance. She was a wife of the wanted woman. But something had happened to her ego of late. Dishes and beds, bottles and naps and routine had taken the edge off the first gay adventure of marriage. Were things going stale, Tom and she? The thought frightened her—brought her to a full stop. They mustn't lose the precious thing.

"Morning, darling. You were asleep when I came in last night. Sorry I was held up so late. Two of the men were Detroiters and wanted to see the town."
No hesitations. No evasions. He kissed the top of David's head, going on with the story. A night club. The contract signed. Gypsy felt her doubts melt away, listening to him. It all sounded perfectly reasonable. "There's a nice little commission in it for me this time," observed Tom, putting his open watch on the table beside him. "You can get a spring outfit—something you really want."
She was a beast, she told herself, to have such thoughts last night. He thought only of her—wanted to give her things. He was working for her and David and she repaid him with unworthy suspicion.

"Let's celebrate the victory," she said, eyes shining. "Let's go places and do things tonight." Tom's eyes flickered for an instant. "If I can get away in time," he said with some hesitation. "fact is, one of these chaps is staying over and may want another powder. We can have a party later."
She was disappointed but did not show it. "All right. Tomorrow night, perhaps."
"You're a grand sport." He held her close. "I'll be home as early as I can. But better not count on me to dinner."

She would not, would not think of the long lonely day before her. Resolutely she went through her morning tasks. Elsa was not arriving until one o'clock. David's bath. It was half past 10 before that was over. Beds changed. Elsa would leave too much for her. Tom's blue suit to the tailor's. Automatically she ran her hand through his pockets. She shed out a bit of linen. Dully she stared at it. A woman's handkerchief, ever so faintly scented. A twisted monogram in the corner. Tom had worn this suit last night.

See Yourself AS OTHERS SEE YOU!

A Knowledge of Your Qualities, Good and Bad, Is First Step Toward Acquiring Charm, Says Noted "Teacher of Stars"

CHARM isn't always inborn. It can be acquired—just as people of the stage acquire the poise, the smooth speech, the manners and mannerisms that enrich their personalities. Frances Robinson-Duff, famed dramatic coach whose pupils are Katharine Hepburn, Ina Claire, Helen Hayes and scores of other noted actors and actresses, points out in this article.

BY FRANCES ROBINSON-DUFF
Written for NEA Service.

Know yourself. That's the fundamental rule that has been practiced by every charming woman from Cleopatra to Katharine Hepburn, the one sure formula to follow if you would mold yourself nearer to the heart's desire of husband, lover or employer.

Frances Robinson-Duff

For no one of us can honestly know herself and still be unkind, arrogant or bad-mannered. As surely as a woman finds and frankly admits these loathsome tendencies in herself, she will begin to wish to blot them out and replace them with their opposites, and the opposites will act as magnets to attract the people who once found her harsh or disagreeable.

I warn you, though, that to know yourself sounds easier than it actually is. Most of us never see ourselves as others see us. To be sure, actors, authors and musicians often have the chance to look at themselves through the eyes of the public, but the rest of us must depend for such enlightening glimpses upon friends who hate to hurt our feelings and so dissimulate and withhold bitter truth.

Generally, then, it is up to us bravely to present ourselves to ourselves for inspection, gamely to acknowledge our flaws and then to do whatever we can about them. There is no quality so irresistible in a woman or so worth cultivating as genuine kindness.

If you find you have been thinking vindictively, erroneously or meanly of others, take yourself in hand now and change your attitude. Envy, spitefulness and desire for revenge, will wreck not only the

"KATHARINE HEPBURN" possesses unusual simplicity of character and is frankness itself in weighing her own qualities and faults," says Frances Robinson-Duff of the young screen-and-stage star who is one of her pupils. "She also is an excellent example of one who is sincerely interested in the careers of others, sympathizes with them in their disappointments and rejoices with them in their triumphs."

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

TRAVELED FAR, BUT DIDN'T SEE ANYTHING.
Voyagers on World Cruise Satirized in This Novel.

"Sea Level," by Anne Parrish, is another of those exceedingly clever stories about the follies displayed by a large group of people who travel around the world together on a big steamer. It is, in fact, so very clever that it becomes pretty irritating.

Miss Parrish rounds up for us a group of people who are trying, each in his own way, to escape from the cares of everyday life. Perhaps it would be more accurate just to say that they are trying. Surely a more disagreeable gang of round-heads seldom has gotten together in any one book.

Most of the voyagers seem to be snobs, back-biters, fakers, or plain dumb-bells—and some of them are all these things at once. They travel around the world to see its wonders and concern themselves chiefly with shipboard jealousies. They visit Madeira and think only of the shops; go to Darjeeling and use Mount Everest as background for snatches of wet-soaked kids; complain that stopping in Egypt is a bore, and make you wish, in fact, that the ship would go off to some secluded corner and quietly sink.

Miss Parrish devotes most of her attention to a woman who thinks she has had a shattering love affair and to a man who thinks he is dying of an obscure and incurable disease. Each, as it happens, is mistaken, and their experiences symbolize the experience of the whole crowd. When they get home, they're right where they started; they have escaped nothing and solved nothing. And all this becomes to my notion, a little bit tiresome. Miss Parrish condescends a little too much. The book is a shade too clever. Starsp is offering it at $2.50.

Your CHILDREN

One time in one of the smaller cities a man took his case to court to have a matter settled about his boy and his bicycle. The boy had been riding in the middle of the street. To avoid him a man had swerved his car and smashed it and hurt his wife. The plaintiff sued the father of the boy for damages, alleging that a city ordinance allowed no "wheels" on the street. The father got down to cases and dug up an old law that permitted all vehicles right of way alike. It was a clash between the charter law that had never been repealed and the newer city ordinance.

And the father won. After that council got busy and did some needed house-cleaning which should be done in all cities. Our legal attics are full of outmoded laws that constantly conflict with newer ones. Defying Danger However that is neither here nor there. What interests me is the psychology that lies behind any open defiance of death. "The law says—" How perfectly silly. The law allows a lot of things that we can take advantage of very nicely and get our money's worth if we live to enjoy it. One can row a boat above Niagara Falls if he likes.

It would be interesting to know if this man said to his son afterwards, in the interim before that repeal, "Go ahead, boy, and ride in traffic all you want to. A bicycle has as much right on the street as those buses and trucks. Show them! Stick up for your privileges!" Parents continue to allow their children to take all sorts of chances on the street. "Go out on your wagon, Johnny. You have as much right on the street as anybody. Let them look out for you." Or "Take where you want to, Mary. I've got a gun, and if any of those smarties hurt you, I'll settle his hash all right." Play In Safety We are all sorry for children who have no place to play. But sidewalks are safer than streets. The trouble here is that in many cities bicycles, wagons and scooters are not allowed on pavements either. Then what? It is best to move someplace where the children can exercise in safety. There is little gained in letting children take risks just to satisfy a parent's resentment against conditions. The grudge against the car-owner by the person without one is perhaps natural but it is useless. And it is criminal when children are used as a dare, like chips on the proverbial shoulder. Drivers are certainly are short of being perfect. In fact about a third of them should not have licenses at all. Too many cars are in the hands of the irresponsible and the "hogs." But that isn't the question when it comes to telling Johnny to keep off the street. The question is, "How about growing up, son, with all your arms and legs? Or growing up at all?" One more thought. All country roads should have a safe-by-path, kept in condition, where people can walk.

STIFF SHOULDER MAY MEAN TORN OR RUPTURED TENDON

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The joint of your shoulder has the greatest range of motion of all joints in your body. And it is because of this wide range of motion that the shoulder is injured most easily. When the shoulder joint gets stiff and painful, you may as well quit work, for any further effort would make matters worse. There are various conditions which bring about this trouble. According to scientific authorities, the shoulder has evolved from a walking joint, when man's predecessor walked on four legs, to a weight-carrying joint. Therefore, the human shoulder has lost much of its previous stability, strength and durability. It seems likely that the condition called "a stiff, painful shoulder" is due to rupture of one of the small tendons of the joint. This rupture is associated with the existence of deposits of material in the tendon around it. When the tendon was not found to be torn, the deposits were not usually present.

Apparently the way in which the rupture occurs is first a small break or tear of this tendon and, second, the changes that take place in the tissue become, and over years, blood supply or the presence of infection. Sometimes the tendon tears, due to a dislocation of the shoulder; in other cases due to the nature of the work of the individual. In one case the tendon tore following an attempt to toss a stone out of a trench; in another when a worker tried to pull down on a chain hook. In a third person, the tendon tore when he was trying a saddle girth and the strap suddenly broke. An middle-aged woman slipped on an oiled floor and, in trying to save her balance, threw her arm up so high that it tore the tendon. In another case a man took a job in which he had to pass heavy weights upward for long periods of time, and finally ruptured this tendon.

When the tendon ruptures, the pain may not be severe; however, as the changes take place in the tissues following the rupture the pain gradually becomes worse, usually more so at night, so that it prevents or interrupts sleep. It thus becomes obvious that in many instances stiff, painful shoulders are due to damage to the tissue and that only the greatest care of this damage can bring about relief. Sometimes the application of heat or of splints will bring help. Sometimes it is necessary to rule out diabetes, gout and rheumatic disorders. Finally, it may be necessary to open the tissue to determine whether there is need for cleaning and repair.

Correct sitting posture applies to the girl who works in an office as well as to the woman whose activities are largely social. If you have hours and hours of typing ahead of you, you'll get through it more quickly and certainly more easily if you put your feet directly in front of you, flat on the floor. Sit back until the base of your spine touches the back of the chair and then straighten out your spinal column, neck and head into one straight line. Don't get too near the typewriter. Give your arms a chance to work freely. If typing isn't in your schedule and you don't have to sit at your desk for more than half an hour at a time, sit back until the base of your spine touches the back of the chair and then straighten out your spinal column, neck and head into one straight line. Don't get too near the typewriter. Give your arms a chance to work freely. CONTINUE CWA JOBS DESPITE SNOWSTORM

Start Town Crew at Work on Hamlin St. Job — To Rotate Workers.

Work on the various CWA jobs continued today despite the snowstorm. Mild temperature permitted operations on the highway, forestry and sewer projects. The Hamlin street job, begun several weeks ago as a CWA project was started by the town this morning as a municipal project. It is expected that the gangs will be rotated, each group getting two weeks work and new gangs being given work.

Work was started on the Manchester Green sewer last week and was continued this morning. Twenty men were started on the Northfield street project, widening and grading.

BRIDAL PAGEANT TOMORROW NIGHT

Wedding Gown Display at Whiton Memorial to Start at 8.15.

Eighty wedding gowns was the number given by the committee today in charge of the Bridal Pageant and Musicale at the Whiton Memorial hall tomorrow evening at 8:15. Doubtless the number will continue to mount until the hour of the pageant, as interest in the local entertainment increases.

Mrs. R. K. Anderson has arranged an appropriate musical program, in which the following well known singers will take part: Miss Helen Berggren, contralto; Edward F. Taylor, tenor and Robert Gordon baritone. Mrs. W. W. Ellis will read the descriptive data in regard to the gowns and accessories.

There has been considerable curiosity with regard to whether or not the men would have any part in this pageant, other than as onlookers. The committee announces that they have persuaded the following young men to serve as ushers: Attorney Harold Garrity, whose New Year bride, the former Miss Wynne Moriarty, will begin the pageant; Ruthven T. Bidwell, John J. Cervoni, Raymond Woodbridge and Carroll Wilson.

Miss Betty Walworth will model the wedding gown of 1778 — the antique of the collection, and the following women will wear their own bridal regalia or wear gowns loaned for the pageant: Mrs. Harold Garrity, Mary Taylor, Katherine Shea, Helen Burke of Rockville, Lins and Helen Charnes of Hartford, Dorothy Hultman, Antoinette Jarroga, Frances Hoxie, Mrs. John Collins of Wapping, Mrs. Myron Lee of Bolton, Mrs. Henry Mutrie, Phyllis Fellow, Althea Burdock, Jane Grant, Marjorie McMenemy, Nellie Luce Eddy of Newington, Harriet White, Bessie Quinn, Charlotte Pelky of Cheshire, Mass., Mrs. John Pickles, Miss Margaret Robinson, Mrs. E. E. Segar, Marjorie Kelly.

Also Mrs. Gordon Weaver of Waterbury, Marion Robertson, Dorothy Loomis of Hartford, Mrs. Oscar Bailey, Helen Jamieson, Laurienne Strickland, Viola Shearer, Anne Scranton, Laura Murdock, Marjorie and Ruth Behrend, Marion Legg, Florence Donohue, Eleanor Bidwell, Hazel Rogers, Emma May Smith, Faith Burr, Mrs. Stanley Mason, Thelma Carr, Marion Brookings, Jane Harris, Eleanor Dwyer, Esther Wells, Ruth Watkins, Harriet Coburn, Mrs. Joseph Handley, Barbara Badmington, Mrs. Millard Park, Marion Reid, Dorothy Walton, Esther Pickles, Mrs. Hayden Griswold, Mrs. Albert Skinner, Marian Behrend.
