Costello, State Jobs Commissioner, Says Records, Cooperation Here Are by Far the Best Encountered.

Ettle P. Costello of the Connecticut Re-employment Commission, in charge of the registration of unemployed in Connecticut, in a statement to the Herald this morning complimented Charity Superintendent George H. Waddell for the condition in which he found the records of the town, and for the cooperation given by the local office in the recent investigation conducted by the state office here.

"Your Town Treasurer has kept a very, very fine set of books," said Mr. Costello this morning. My department has had occasion to investigate conditions in eight or nine towns of comparative size in the state, and the records of Manchester, by far, are the best yet found."

Mr. Costello told the Herald this morning that 16 men now on the CWA list here will be replaced next week by men eligible, by reason of preferential rating. Of the men to be removed, Mr. Costello stated, there are six aliens; four to be removed by reason of having been on aid after the expiration date and six regular replacements.

JOBLESS ACTORS GET FEDERAL AID

Dozen Plays Now Being Produced Through a Grant of $28,000.

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—If it's all right with the Senator from Nevada, the time may come soon when some of the countryside's better barns will be plastered with 24-sheet announcements:

"Tonight! At the Opera House The C. W. A. Presents 'Aida'."

With an all-star cast of CWA actors, together with a stupendous ballet and various elephants and camels. Gowns worn by Aida and hats worn by the soldiers are manufactured under strict NRA regulations. Banners carried by flag-bearers will bear lifelike reproductions of the Blue Eagle.

Admission fifty cents or what have you. That is George Junkin's dream, and Mr. Junkin is technical director in charge of drama projects under the CWA.

"I hope," he said today, "that the 12 plays now being produced through a Federal grant of $28,000 will prove to be the opening wedge for a gigantic program to include Grand Opera, pageants, and the return to the old road show, all to be financed by the Federal government."

The possibilities, given adequate Federal support, are limitless. Many Suggestions There have been many suggestions already, Junkin said, all hinging upon the availability of Federal funds which, in the last analysis, are dependent upon the Senators and Representatives.

One suggestion is for the hiring of 5,000 Harlem negroes to present a series of negro pageants from the pens of negro writers, the spectacles to be offered in various large auditoriums and stadia.

Another idea is to organize companies of experienced stage hands and stage technicians, ten men to a company, and have them visit schools and amateur theater groups, advising them how properly to produce plays.

A further hope is that the "road" may be revived under CWA benevolence, providing culture for the countryside and vitamins for the actors.

Some Theatians contend there is nothing like a dose of "MacBeth" or "Ben Hur" to pep up the farmers and send them racing into the wheat fields the next morning with new enthusiasm for the plow; and the farmers feel there is nothing like wheat, translated into bread, to add new lustre to the long hair of the actors.

Police in Washington Expect "Red Trouble"

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Secret Service operatives and Metropolitan police picketed sections of the capital early today after receiving reports of a possible "Communist" demonstration in which officers said perhaps 1,000 persons might take part.

Although conceding they possessed only piecemeal information as to what if any shape the projected demonstration might assume, police said they were ready for any eventualities.

At police headquarters the belief was advanced that Washington's third "hunger march" in as many years was the objective, and that the same organization—the National Unemployed Council—was behind all three.

Leaders of the reported movement began mustering their forces conspicuously yesterday at a Negro Masonic hall.

Lieutenant Benjamin Kuehling, chief officer of the early police shift, said:

"I understand some sort of demonstration is scheduled for today. We expect about 1,000 persons altogether. I have heard some talk of their going to Lafayette Park."

The park is directly across Pennsylvania avenue from the White House.

Early Reports "Early this morning," Kuehling estimated, "there were maybe 200 or 300 here, with more reported on the way from Chicago, New York, Pittsburgh and a number of other cities."

Police had not established definitely the identity of the leaders of the reported "Communists," but Secret Service men were directed to look into this angle. Virtually all demonstrations planned here for years past have been investigated by Secret Service and sometimes Department of Justice agents.

Police voiced confidence the demonstration would be handled with a little disturbance as last year's "hunger march," which resulted in an orderly parade of vociferous men and a few women.

No Dissect on Order The action was ordered without dissent by the Senate on a motion by Senator Black, chairman of the committee.

The writ, issued by Vice President Garner, orders Mr. MacCracken to be brought before the bar of the Senate Monday with his records.

The case was turned over to the local District Attorney for jury trial if Mr. MacCracken were found guilty of contempt at that time, due to destruction of his papers by Colonel L. H. Britten, president of Northwest Airlines, who with Gilbert Givens, secretary to Harris Hansehue, president of the Western Air Express, was permitted to take papers away.

FORMER AIR AID UNDER ARREST FOR CONTEMPT

MacCracken, Who Was Head of Aeronautics, Held by Senate Order for Refusing to Show Contract Records

Washington, Feb. 3.—William F. MacCracken, Jr., Assistant Secretary of Commerce in charge of Aeronautics under President Hoover, and later Washington representative of many air lines, was arrested late yesterday by order of the Senate.

The arrest resulted from his refusal to permit the Senate committee investigating ocean and air mail contracts to see the records of his negotiations with air mail companies, and a later admission by Mr. MacCracken that papers had been removed from his office with his knowledge and consent and subsequently destroyed.

BAY STATE COUPLE MARRIED 70 YEARS

Husband Is 91 and Wife 90; Married a Year Before Civil War.

Yarmouth, Mass., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Two pink-cheeked, white-haired Cape Codders—he 91 and she 90—today observed their 70th wedding anniversary. They are Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Kelley, who were married a year before the Civil War ended.

They don't point out any special virtues which have brought them health and happiness, other than: "We have worked pretty hard. We have had our ups and downs, but we have enjoyed life, and find contentment now in quiet living."

Mr. Kelley shipped before the mast when a lad of 14, and spent his 15th birthday in Calcutta. All Cape Cod youths went to sea then, and he did so, for several years.

20 School Children See Their Teacher Murdered

Harlan, Ia., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The bullet scarred bodies of a rural school teacher and 20-year-old farmer today bore evidence of the double tragedy that was enacted before the horrified eyes of 20 pupils.

The story of how Miss Margaret Graves, 23, the school "marm" of Monroe School, No. 2, near here, was shot to death yesterday by Herman Seick, a rejected suitor, who then fired a blast through his own heart, was told by the child witnesses.

It was during the last class of the day that they said Seick stalked into the room with a shotgun. Miss Graves saw him, they said, and screamed as she crouched under a desk for safety.

But, by that time Seick was close upon her, and as he pulled the trigger of the gun, a rain of slugs poured into the teacher's back.

DRIVE CAREFULLY OVER WEEKEND, IS APPEAL OF CONNOR

ORDERS PROBE OF DISHONEST U. S. OFFICIALS

New York Newspaper Says President Has Told Secret Service to Clean Up the Situation.

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The Daily News says President Roosevelt has ordered the Secret Service "to end the alliance of crooked government officials and the underworld."

Such action is without precedent since President Lincoln gave Allan Pinkerton, founder of the service, the double duty of spying behind the Confederate lines and tracking down enemies of the Union in official Washington.

Orders for the action by the Secret Service, whose duties are usually confined to protecting the President's person, trapping counterfeiters and acting as intelligence officers for the State Department, were issued by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, the News says.

Evidence of Frauds Already, the News adds, the Secret Service detail has evidence of Customs frauds and illegal re-exports of import duties that total $100,000,000; an underground railroad for transporting criminals in and out of the United States; a $50,000 bribe to a Customs patrol which resulted in a camouflaged rum runner sailing unmolested up the Hudson river as far as Haverstraw, N. Y., where she went aground, and a traffic in smuggled drugs and narcotics.

Moran Director William H. Moran, chief of the Secret Service and a government agent for 51 years, is heading the investigation, which is being conducted by a hand-picked group of his smartest veteran operatives, the News says.

Armed with hundreds of complaints of rackets and shakedowns which have reached the ears of the President and Morgenthau, the News continues, the operatives have been told to clean up corruption regardless of where their probe may hit. They were promised absolute cooperation and freedom from interference from any other government agency, or politicians, no matter how powerful.

Camp Chapman Members Complete Attractive Office Building—New Main Entrance Is Being Built.

New Haven, Feb. 3.—(AP)—C. C. C. boys at Camp Chapman in Niantic have just completed an attractive camp site office building at Rocky Neck state park, Superintendent Harold D. Pearson said today.

The building is situated on a knoll at the south end of the Circle camp sites which were also constructed by the C. C. C. boys from Camp Chapman and which were expected to be quite popular during the summer for camping parties.

The boys are also busy engaged in building a new main entrance road to the site.

At present about 3,500 feet have been graded, but it is expected before long the main entrance road to be done before it can be opened to the public. All the improvements at Rocky Neck park have been carefully planned to preserve and bring out the natural beauty of the spot.

New Office Building. The new office building is of one story construction and contains a large office with living quarters at three rooms for the camp site attendant. It conforms in appearance with all the other buildings in the park. Landscape work is also

LABOR TROUBLES WORRY MENDIETA

Cuba's President Threatens to Use His Army to Effect a Settlement.

Havana, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Grave labor difficulties rapidly approached a crisis today, one bomb damaged the Palace hotel and another a warehouse of the Westinghouse Electric Company. Still another bomb let go without any ill effects other than to add to the general disturbance in San Lázaro street.

Despite stringent efforts to prevent disorders during the night and early today, one bomb damaged the Palace hotel and another a warehouse of the Westinghouse Electric Company. Still another bomb let go without any ill effects other than to add to the general disturbance in San Lázaro street.

The bombings climaxed a night in which the President admitted that a "serious problem" had been created "for my government which might contribute toward its fall."

The possibility of a strike and sabotage cutting off Havana's light, gas, power and water facilities loomed as Mendieta prepared to return the plants of the American-owned electric company to the owners today.

In the face of threatening opposition from employees who objected to a new general manager appointed by the company to meet workers' demands for a Cuban executive, the President said:

"I have 100,000 men behind me ready to stifle any attempt to destroy the nation's sovereignty."

Rafael Grau, present administrator of the company and leader of the employees, could not be reached after a meeting with the workers told Mendieta they objected to the naming of Federico Porro Ortia. However, numerous employees said they would strike if soldiers were used.

The President threw guards of soldiers around the company's offices, plants and power stations and made ready for a showdown.

SANKEY, KIDNAPER, HEAVILY GUARDED

Every Precaution Taken to Prevent the Escape of the Notorious Racketeer.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Alert guards and menacing grins held in a prison cell today the $100,000 captive of the United States government, Verne Sankey—racketeer, gambler, bootlegger and alleged kidnaper.

Every precaution was taken to circumvent escape of the man accused of the abduction of Charles Boettcher, Second, Denver, Colo., who languished behind the bars after a hurried trip to the penitentiary here from Chicago where he was nabbed Wednesday.

"It must have cost at least $100,000 to catch him," said Calif Eiden, Federal district attorney, "and we won't take any chances on him getting away again."

Extra vigilance also characterized safeguards thrown about Gordon Alcorn to prevent his escape as he travelled toward Sioux Falls by train after his capture in Chicago Thursday. Alcorn, Department of Justice operative said, also has confessed to the Boettcher abduction.

Both Alcorn and Sankey—face prompt trials, at a special term of court. Life terms in prison cells would follow conviction.

Meanwhile, investigators worked secretly, dividing attention between the Sankey ranch at Gamewick, S. D., and questioning of Sankey, who has denied the Lindbergh baby kidnapping although M. F. Kinkadee, Ramsey county attorney at St. Paul, Minn., has said he had evidence that indicated Sankey was not entirely out of the Lindbergh kidnapping picture.

On his arrival yesterday, Sankey felt fine and though he couldn't "talk right now," he said "perhaps a little later I will have something to say."

CONGRESS READY FOR A BUSY WEEK

Bills Piling Up in Both Houses; Tariff Treaties to Come Up Soon.

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Congress opened itself today in one of its busiest weeks, a drive through a growing pile of legislation toward the administration decree of an early spring adjournment.

With both the Senate and House in recess today, President Roosevelt studied over what further legislative suggestions he will toss into the Congressional machine.

Secretary Roper is compiling a report recommending some changes in the "Truth in Securities" Act. Indications today were that it would urge modification in some regulations applying to the investment banking business. It probably will go to the Capitol.

Democratic leaders are expecting shortly a presidential request for authority to negotiate reciprocal tariff treaties to raise or lower import duties by 50 per cent without Senate ratification. The White

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Makes Special Plea to Autoists to Make Special Effort to Avoid the "Usual Disheartening Record of Auto Accidents."

Hartford, Feb. 3.—(AP)—An appeal to Connecticut motorists to exert every effort to avoid "the usual disheartening record of weekend automobile accidents and fatalities" was made by Colonel Michael A. Connor, state motor vehicle commissioner.

The commissioner's letter: To the Motorists of Connecticut: May I appeal at the start of this weekend to the motorists of Connecticut to make a special individual effort in the operation of their cars, so that the usual disheartening record of weekend automobile accidents and fatalities may stop.

Last weekend automobiles killed eight persons in Connecticut. The previous weekend the number of fatalities was seven, the week before that five. This takes account only of persons killed Saturdays and Sundays.

This toll is terrific. It appalls us each Monday as we read the record—too late to save any lives. Let us be appalled by the situation before killing people instead of merely after.

I appeal to every motorist to act to prevent this needless slaughter. Let us, each one of us, take and keep a pledge to give Connecticut one weekend, this weekend, free of automobile fatalities.

Will you, each one, by alert, careful and courteous driving, whether you are operating a passenger vehicle, a truck or a bus, strive to make this a record period in the elimination of accidents.

Personal Matter This is a personal matter. It concerns you, every one, both as to your own lives, the lives of those in your own family circle, or of others dear to some one.

Through the courtesy of the newspapers of the state this extraordinary method of appealing to you has been made possible. Let us all respond; let every driver throw not only the weight of his driving methods, but also his influence, on the side of safety. Let us talk with our neighbors about it and insist their aid. Then on Monday we shall be spared reading the heartrending story of fatalities and accidents to persons and property.

Carry this thought over this weekend, not merely as a thought, but as a purpose in your driving practice. It may demonstrate that your interest and sympathy in this humane endeavor can help to improve a terrible record.

Let us try it, every one of us. MICHAEL A. CONNOR, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles.

Governor Cross' endorsement follows: The appalling loss of life and bodily injuries from automobile accidents are greatly to be deplored. Most of the tragedy is preventable by individual thought and care in driving.

I heartily endorse the efforts being made by the commissioner of motor vehicles who, in the operation of the newspapers of the state to check the evils of careless drivers. WILBUR L. CROSS, Governor.

HITCHCOCK, LEAGUE PROPONENT, DEAD

Former Nebraska Senator, Big Figure in Post-War Controversy, Passes at 74

Washington, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Gilbert M. Hitchcock, Omaha newspaper publisher who represented Nebraska for nearly two decades in the United States Senate and House, died early today from heart disease at his new home here. He was 74.

As publisher of the Omaha World-Herald he was known throughout the country and was an international figure from the days of his unsuccessful fight for ratification of the Versailles treaty as chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in the Wilson administration.

Hitchcock was in the Senate until 1924, serving two terms, then after being three elected to the House—18 years of service in all. Only recently he declined to be a candidate for the present Senate seat, saying he would not be re-elected.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE UNUSUALLY ACTIVE

Markets Kept in Turmoil by Speculators as Balances Are Shifted About.

(By Associated Press) Foreign exchange markets were kept in turmoil today by feverish speculation and continued shifting of international balances prompted by the new gold value for the dollar.

The dollar showed some signs of declining to its new parties in the earlier dealings in Paris and London after its swift and perverse rise of yesterday.

But this tendency was quickly reversed, and after trading was transferred to New York with the close of the European market, foreign currencies began to fall again.

After the dollar had closed in Paris at the equivalent of 6.35 cents to franc, the French franc began to decline in New York, getting within .04 of one cent of yesterday's low level of 6.22 cents.

The dollar closed at London at 4.93 1/2 to the pound, and the pound later rose in New York to $4.94 3/4, up 6 3/4 cents from yesterday, but then it quickly fell back to close to $4.90.

Some foreign exchange quarters in Wall street said the most disturbing factor in the situation seemed to be heavy bear selling of .04 of a cent, as result of the desire of bear speculators to take short positions in this currency.

It was suggested in Wall street that the Bear of France might put a prompt stop to this by arranging for a big exportation of gold to support the franc, and announcing in convincing manner that it would continue to pay out gold to support the franc at parity.

Exchange dealers saw no indication that either the American stabilization fund or the British equalization fund were active, and it was assumed that they were both standing by, waiting for the situation to quiet down.

While it was understood that American banking authorities would like to see the movement of funds to New York slacken, and proceed at a more orderly pace, international banking quarters could suggest no feasible step to control the movement, until it had spent its force.

The reduction in the New York discount rate on Thursday was then explained in reliable quarters as in part a gesture to Europe that New York was not seeking to corner the world's gold supply, but it was felt that it could have virtually no immediate effect.

FOUND AUTO ROBE THROUGH HERALD ADV.

Harold Keating of the Manchester Credit Rating Bureau has found that Herald advertisements pay.

On Tuesday morning of this week he lost an automobile robe. Thinking that he might find it he did not advertise it until Thursday when he inserted a lost advertisement in The Herald.

Friday morning at 7:30 it was returned to him by a man who gave the name of Johnson. The robe was left at Mr. Keating's home and the finder left before Mr. Keating had an opportunity to learn his first name to reward him.

TO END HUNDRED HOUR DRIVE THIS AFTERNOON

Don Randazzo Scheduled to Quit Wheel at Rubino Building at 4:30 O'Clock.

Today at 4:30, Don Randazzo, stunt driver, ends his hundred hour endurance drive in the new 1934 Chevrolet sedan. The drive will end somewhere in the vicinity of the Rubino building and it is expected that a large crowd will be on hand to see Don quit the wheel.

Arrangements have been made to have an ambulance waiting in case he should need it. At the last check Don reported that he was feeling much better than he expected as would. "The snow has added a great deal to the nervous strain of his stunt. The Chevrolet, covered with signs of local business concerns, has been a familiar sight on the streets since Tuesday when Officer Winfield Martin handcuffed Don to the wheel and the long grind started.

The drive was sponsored by the Riley Chevrolet Company and the following co-operating merchants: The West Side Dairy, Davis' Home Bakery, Oak Street Tavern, Ray Paris' Filling Station, Arthur Drug Store and Adams' Service Station.

HIGHEST DEGREES FOR DE MOLAY BOYS

Two to Be Given Legion of Honor Award at Temple Monday Night.

For the first time since the institution of John Mather chapter, Order of DeMolay here, two members will be given the highest degree of the order when the Legion of Honor will be conferred upon Charles Theodore Morgan and Harry Bruce Fuller Monday night.

The investiture of the Legion of Honor degree will be a public ceremony and all friends of the order are cordially invited to attend. The meeting will be held in the Masonic Temple beginning at eight o'clock.

Charles T. Morgan is a Manchester young man but Harry B. Fuller now lives in New Jersey having formerly been a resident here. "Dad" Fred Palmer of New Haven will be in charge of the investiture acting as a deputy for the Grand Council. The ceremony is an impressive one and should attract a large attendance to the Temple.

SAITO ON WAY HERE, SEES ONLY AMITY

(Continued from Page One) be very happy," the new ambassador added. Discussing current agitation by some English speakers for action to meet the competition offered by low priced Japanese products, Saito pointed out that Japanese-American trade was comprised largely of silk from Japan and raw cotton from America, adding: "No real competition in the trade field ever will occur."

Manchuria Settling Down Turning to the question of the Japanese-assisted state of Manchukuo, he said that "recent progress shows the Manchurian situation is settling down. "The world will see that the firm establishment of Manchukuo will assist in bringing about worldwide peace and tranquility."

He recalled that some time ago a prominent European statesman told him that although it might be difficult to evaluate Japan's actions in Manchuria in the light of the current conception of its "legality," he could understand such moves in the light of conditions there. "This feeling also has been noted in America," said Saito.

The new ambassador, whose fluent English has a more American accent than British, and his wife both were greatly interested in reports that taxicab drivers were striking while snow piled up in the streets of New York.

The couple lived in New York for several years when Saito was consul there. They were accompanied by their two small, bright-eyed daughters who had quite a struggle carrying their dolls and other playthings through the crowded station lobby.

BAY STATE COUPLE MARRIED 70 YEARS

(Continued from Page One) house painter and up until five years ago followed that business. Not a Captain It was suggested he might be termed a captain because of his seafaring experience, but he scorned the title.

"I was captain of a paint brush," was his comment. In 1875 he built his home here and he and Mrs. Kelley have lived in Yarmouthport ever since. Both are descendants of seafaring people. They have three children, Miss Annette and Alfred F. of Yarmouthport and Frank Kelley of Fall River. They also have four grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

With Mr. Kelley, when he shipped as a lad on the clipper ship Brewster, named for his native Cape Cod town, was William F. Doane, oldest resident of Brewster, just as Kelley is the oldest resident of Yarmouth. Was Steady Smoker Mr. Kelley was a steady smoker for a dozen years in his youth, then "one Sunday I knocked off, and waited an hour for my next smoke. Then I thought I would double the hour. I kept on doubling. I never smoked again, and that was 55 years ago. I have probably saved thousands of dollars on tobacco."

He hasn't any strong opinions on liquor, but when, a few years ago during the prohibition era, he was ill and was forced to pay $11 to get a pint of liquor, he became soured on alcoholic beverages. Both Kelleys are up each day and do ordinary household tasks, prepare their meals and read the newspapers. Mr. Kelley does the dishes and perhaps that's why they get along so well.

Vanne of Hartford and Emil Olson of Sharon are new assistant leaders.

Landscaping Work. As soon as the weather will permit landscaping work on the camp grounds will be undertaken. Forestry department surveyors are now working on the plans for the work. Snow the last week has again provided skiing and snow shoe activities as a recreational pastime for boys at several of the camps located throughout the state and skating has also been pursued. At Camp Robinson, the boys recently received an attractive exhibit in the form of a grafting board which consists of material that illustrates methods of grafting and budding. It is a gift from J. H. OPENING STOCKS

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Stocks steadied following slight price irregularity at the opening today. Many industrials canceled minor dips and moved higher. Rails were steady.

U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, American Smelting, U. S. Smelting, Consolidated Gas, Allied Chemical, American Telephone and New York Central were factious to a point higher. DuPont gained 2.

The dollar reversed its upward trend in early trading, exchange dealings. The British pound recovered 6 3/4 cents at $4.94 3/4 and the French franc came back .09% of a cent to 6.32 1/2 cents.

With New York commercial banks ransacking foreign centers for gold, some exchange experts believed it would not be long before leading European currencies were pushed up to the new dollar's parity. It was estimated that between $25,000,000 and $30,000,000 of the metal has already been purchased for quick transportation to the United States where it will immediately be sold to the Treasury at a substantial profit to the importers.

Coincident with the early rally of the pound, bar gold in London declined 1 shilling 3 pence to 38 shillings 3 pence. Based on London's sterling opening, the dollar equivalent was $34.46 an ounce. This, of course, meant a difference between the British and American gold rates of 54 cents an ounce.

With bankers scrambling for gold in the world markets, it was assumed that the government's $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund would remain idle, at least for the time being, so far as operating in the exchange markets is concerned. Private buyers, it was felt, would account for all the metal available.

While some nervousness was evident regarding the possibility of France leaping off the gold standard, little fear of such imminent action was expressed by international bankers in close touch with the situation. A French gold embargo, it was thought, might only be instituted after a lengthy and severe drain on the republic's metallic resources.

Reports from London that England might, within a few months, return to the gold base which she deserted in 1931, were received with much interest in financial circles. At the same time it was generally expected that an agreement between Washington and London on a temporary dollar-pound tie-up would soon be reached.

BODY IS IDENTIFIED Hamburg, N. Y., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Mrs. Wesley H. Fletcher said today that the body washed ashore near Westerly, R. I., was that of her husband, missing for two weeks. Her father-in-law, Charles Fletcher, made the identification. Fletcher had been reported missing from a steamer which arrived in New York Wednesday. The body was found Thursday and an autopsy showed the man had drowned. Papers found on the body led police to believe it was Fletcher's and his father left immediately to attempt identification. The family said the man had been in for two years.

"Happy" Arrest J. Mark Trice, assistant sergeant-at-arms, assisted Mr. Jurney in making the arrest, which was in the nature of a happy meeting. Mr. MacCracken met the sergeant-at-arms with a handshake, and they laughed, exchanged greetings and smilingly posed for photographers. Finally Mr. Jurney read the warrant to him.

Mr. Hogan was present and conferred with his client and the sergeant-at-arms for about an hour. He indicated that he would attempt to avert the contempt charges by declaring that Mr. MacCracken had now received waiver rights from all of his clients and was free to permit all correspondence to be seen. He did not explain how he would meet the question of that which has been removed.

"Secret Meetings" on Contracts Senator Black said in the hearing today that testimony given to date indicated that there was a secret gathering for unlawful purposes of aviation operators adjoining the office of former Postmaster General Brown. The chairman of this committee, he added, was Mr. MacCracken and the arbitrator was the Postmaster General.

The Senate action followed a sensational disclosure that during a heavy snowstorm last evening Mr. MacCracken, who had claimed "lawyer's privilege" in not opening to the Senate his correspondence with airway companies, and with Mr. MacCracken's approval, left with some correspondence.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Putting God's Kingdom First

Text: Matt. 6:1-34. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for February 4.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist.

The message that Jesus brought to men concerned the Kingdom of God. It was a message for which many in Israel were prepared...

Into these controversies and critical speculations and interpretations it is not necessary that we should enter in order to profit by the teaching of Jesus concerning the Kingdom.

It was precisely this attitude that Jesus rebuked when he reminded those who were saying that the Kingdom of Heaven is "Lo, here" and "Lo, there," that it was a Kingdom within their own hearts.

When we approach the Kingdom of God in this way, these characteristics are marked rather plainly. The Kingdom of God is the Kingdom of His subjects...

Those who are sincere and single-minded in their hearts are not seeking earthly treasures. They are seeking the deeper treasures of the Kingdom of Heaven...

It is a Kingdom, manifestly, of those who have brought into your lives a scale of worths and values somewhat different from that of a selfish and materialistic world...

THE ROAD TO PEACE

By GEORGE HENRY DOLE

International Sunday-School Lesson Text, Feb. 4: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness, and all things shall be added unto you." Matt. 6:33.

In the vast majority of cases where there is distress, truthfulness self-examination will disclose that the affliction arises from dissatisfaction and disappointment over material things.

Into these controversies and critical speculations and interpretations it is not necessary that we should enter in order to profit by the teaching of Jesus concerning the Kingdom.

It was precisely this attitude that Jesus rebuked when he reminded those who were saying that the Kingdom of Heaven is "Lo, here" and "Lo, there," that it was a Kingdom within their own hearts.

When we approach the Kingdom of God in this way, these characteristics are marked rather plainly.

Those who are sincere and single-minded in their hearts are not seeking earthly treasures. They are seeking the deeper treasures of the Kingdom of Heaven...

They live in the present. They fulfill the order and have no anxious thought for the morrow. An indispensable element of happiness is, to live in the present and leave the future to the Lord.

Evil kills the body, and after that, it casts into hell. The Kingdom of Heaven is to be sought first in the Kingdom of truth in our minds.

Truth defends from anxious thought by showing the perfection of the providence over us, which, in loving kindness, turns every event to save from what is worse, or to advance our happiness in the life that never ends.

warring armies, each determined to have its own way though the heavens fall. The steel industry's open defiance of the government and its declaration of intention to fight for its "company union" system threatens at this moment to precipitate a serious crisis.

The worst of it is that, from the viewpoint of the average suffering citizen, nobody seems to be in the right. The "company union" system is, as everybody knows, of next to no value to the workers in relieving them from eventual domination by the employers. It is a subterfuge with a few ameliorating qualities that are merely side issues. As a medium for fair and square collective bargaining between independent workers and independent employers it amounts to next to nothing.

On the other hand the nation wide labor organizations where the alignment is by crafts and gradations of labor, wildly regardless of the special conditions existing in every plant and in every locality and in which union politics oftener than not provides the impulse for decisions, constitute no safe reliance either for labor or for the solvency of industry.

So far, the administration has seen fit to align itself behind the imperfect, frequently stupid and almost always narrowly selfish big labor organizations. Perhaps, as between the two horns of the dilemma, it has made the better choice. But the better choice is bad—necessarily bad.

There is unlikely to be any real peace between organized labor and its organized employers until both are so constituted that there will be compulsory fairness on both sides. The NRA has gone a long way in compulsion for the employers—but what has it done to compel fairness on the part of the unions?

One need have very little sympathy with the steel barons—or none at all—in this ill timed challenge of the New Deal in order to understand their fears of having their industry completely controlled by professional labor agitators who may be merely seeking justice for their followers or may, on the other hand, be working tooth and nail to destroy private ownership altogether.

Greenwich, Alaska is east of it. That meridian is the place where the day begins, croners or poets to the contrary notwithstanding. It will be the 14th in Borneo when the eclipse occurs but it will still be the 13th in Alaska.

There is one very convenient thing about having the day begin on the 180th meridian. The only places where the time shift could possibly cause it to be Monday on one side of the street and Tuesday on the other are places where nobody gives a boot what day it is. The meridian hits no mainland whatever except the remote northwest corner of Siberia, where nobody lives but a few Indian-Eskimo-like people who are unconcerned about washdays or meridians. From there it travels south over plain salt water till it bisects the Fiji Islands, prancing between a couple of the Aleutians just as it gets going. From the Fijis it is plain sailing straight to the South Pole. Maybe it may knock a fender off a coral island or two, but there's nothing bigger to bump.

That must be the reason why nobody ever raises a row about having two days at once in the same potato patch. The fish don't care what day it is so long as it isn't Friday.

and your feeling of self-confidence. Your health, too, will be benefited, for nothing is as necessary to health as a mind which is free from the poisons of disappointment and frustration.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Difficulty in Pronunciation)

Question: Kansas City, Mo., writes: "I am a student and I am hampered by a difficulty in the way I pronounce your words. I suggest that I leave off the ending of all words that end in 'd', such as received. Is there any way that I could improve?"

Answer: I believe that with persistent effort you can learn to pronounce your words. I suggest that you set aside a period each day during which time you practice speaking the words which give you trouble as plainly as possible. You might find that ten minutes twice a day would bring about a marked improvement. Usually when a person slurs the words in talking the cause is carelessness, and by giving each word a sufficient amount of attention you can learn to speak more clearly and plainly and will find that this habit will be a great help to you in reciting your lessons at school.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Feb. 8.—The annual spectacular Communist "hunger march" to Washington has been abandoned in favor of a milder demonstration.

The change in Red tactics coincided with exchange of ambassadors between this country and Soviet Russia, following an agreement forbidding Soviet-inspired radical activities over here.

No direct connection is traceable between that change and recognition. The only tip-off American Communists had from the Third International in Moscow as to recognition was an order to keep away from official Soviet representatives. Russian government employees here also are instructed to have no contact with American Communists.

Coincidentally or otherwise, however, the American party was urged to lay more stress on organization work — which implied less emphasis on parades.

Collaboration with other left wing groups and revival of "boring from within" among mass movements is also a part of latest Communist tactics.

So early in February comes the National Unemployed Convention, organized and dominated by Communist leaders, but attended by other radicals groups, to demand unemployment insurance to the amount of average wages and a 10 a week minimum.

The organizer is Herbert Benjamin, the veteran "hunger strike" leader, recently imprisoned in New Mexico for leading a coal strike.

About 1000 delegates will be lodged in cheap hotels. The usual attempt to make the government house them won't be made. The nearest approach to a mass demonstration will come when state delegations go to Capitol Hill to urge the unemployment insurance bill on their congressmen.

Consolidation and organization of unemployed groups and development of new leaders will be stressed.

Congresswoman Mary Norton of New Jersey, sometimes known as "Mayor of Washington," because she's chairman of the House District of Columbia committee, is mother of the capital's forthcoming liquor law. Private sale by the drink and bottle is permitted, but no bars.

Mrs. Norton declined to accept the validity of one member's argument that it was easier to detect intoxication if the customer were standing up than if he were sitting down.

She was supported by unofficial evidence that whereas serious drinkers ordinarily consumed three drinks at a bar in 15 minutes, the average time at a table for a like amount was at least an hour.

Administration forces in Congress think comparative per capita debt figures will provide a cogent argument to shoot back at Republican snipers at the budget.

A $36,000,000 public debt will mean an American per capita debt of only $280. That goes for every man, woman, and child.

Great Britain, on the other hand, has a per capita national debt of $858 and France $480. Canada's per capita debt is $251.

General Johnson's declaration for a shorter working week — inferentially a 32-hour week — was a complete surprise to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins. She and her aides had been making studies of the amounts of labor that might be absorbed by industry if hours were shortened further.

The study hadn't been completed and Miss Perkins was amazed to hear that Johnson had jumped the gun.

The playful streak in President Roosevelt is indicated by the menagerie on his desk—the most important desk in this world. His tiny zoo now consists of a plush donkey, a wooden donkey, a cloth elephant, and a china rooster. The elephant was left by the Hoovers. The other animals came by mail.

Miss Marguerite Lehend, Roosevelt's personal secretary, brings in any such contributions she thinks are cute and the President keeps those he likes.

LEVITT'S PARTY

Professor Albert Levitt, who was originally a Democrat, next called himself a Republican, then organized the Independent Republican party and who now holds a job under this Democratic administration, proposes to re-identify his Independent Republican party as the Taxpayers League party and enter it as a competitor in the state election next fall. Probably Mr. Levitt feels that, all things considered, it would be just a little too raw to try longer to maintain even so tenuous a relationship with Republicanism as he has attempted to.

So far Mr. Levitt has not disclosed whether he hopes to include in the platform of his proposed new party a declaration for re-enactment of the Eighteenth amendment—which it might be interesting to know in view of the fact that he made active use of prohibition advocacy in rallying to his Independent Republican party as many as he could of the ultra-dry. The professor is not likely to forget that every here and there is a die-hard prohibitor who would tie up with any party that promised to do the whole noble experiment over again. Recruits in other quarters may not be too easy to get and you have to get them from somewhere to make a party—even a teeny, weeny one.

WELLMAN

There is a whole generation of American newspaper readers to whom the name of Walter Wellman meant nothing until his death on Thursday brought him back into the news columns. Yet twenty-odd years ago Wellman and his exploits were the talk of the world over a considerable period. He was the first of the real explorers of the air. Twice he attempted to reach the North pole and he was the first adventurer who sought to cross the Atlantic by the atmospheric route. In none of his major endeavors did he succeed, but he always displayed an intelligence and intrepidity that earned the unstinted sympathy and admiration of the public.

A trained newspaperman and a facile and interesting writer, he made good copy and he was good copy. Anything written by Wellman or about Wellman over a considerable period of years commanded the immediate attention of thousands upon thousands of readers not only in the United States but throughout the world. His transatlantic enterprise created at least as much excitement as, many years later, did the first successful solo flight. And when, after seventy-nine hours out from Atlantic City and a thousand miles of travel behind him, he and his crew of five were rescued from their fainting dirgible by a steamship, he and they became national heroes. That was in 1910 and—what very few people at the time realized—Wellman was even then more than fifty years old; he was 75 when he died.

That was the last of his adventuring, which had included many daring feats—he had twice attempted to reach the North pole on foot before trying it by air. He was never injured, never lost a man, and after all his hazardous experiences he died, an old man, of natural causes.

To Americans of middle age the name of Walter Wellman is as familiar as Lindy's. Yet millions of younger folks had never heard of him. The lines of the generations are sharply drawn.

TWO-DAY ECLIPSE

The Navy is calling attention of shipmasters and voyagers in the Pacific to an eclipse that will be visible either on St. Valentine's day or the day before, depending on where one's ship may be. It is scheduled to start on Feb. 14 and end a day earlier, on the 13th. Which isn't as mixed up as it sounds.

The eclipse will be visible first in Borneo and last in Alaska. Borneo is on the west side of the international time meridian, 180 west from

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

NAGGING VERSUS PRAISING

It is a curious thing that in this world where our happiness depends upon our ability to associate with each other in a friendly way, so few of us have developed even the rudimentary techniques of being friendly and helpful. Sometimes those whom we love the most we find the most difficult to handle.

Regardless of your station in life, whether you are a merchant, a banker, a mechanic, a farmer or a housekeeper, your happiness depends upon how you handle the human situations which you contact. It might almost be termed the art of salesmanship.

Every one of us has a certain ability for doing good, but we sometimes have to watch that in trying to do good we do not become overbearing or nagging, especially with those in whom we are the most interested.

If you consider the failures in life you will see that they are in every instance those who have been unable to effectively and favorably hold the attention of others. In order to have any influence on most first catch the attention of the one who is to be influenced, and the attention must be attracted in an interesting and pleasing way. It is easy to attract attention by doing or saying something unusual, but this is not enough; one must elicit from the other person approval, interest and enthusiasm.

One should try to awaken favorable responses in other persons. With children, this is especially important. There is no need to have a child fussy jealous or subject to angry tantrums. It is largely a question of technique which anyone can learn. If mothers understood this technique, children would not be anxious to run away from home. Wives would not fear losing the husbands, nor husbands fear losing their wives' affection and loyalty.

Every person, regardless of his field of endeavor, should make a study of the art of getting along with others. There are many books on psychology and behaviorism which you can obtain at your public library, and a few hours spent in reading and studying these books will bring you a wonderful return upon your investment, and I am sure that any librarian will be able to give you a good list of these books, and I hope that if you have not already done so, you will go down as soon as possible and obtain some of these books. This study will aid you to be more efficient, secure the esteem of your friends and improve your environment of mind

(Diet for Burning in Throat)

Question: Mr. Martin Y. of Sublett, Idaho, writes: "When I eat certain foods I have a terrible burning in my throat and stomach. Do you think that the right diet would help me overcome my trouble?"

Answer: The burning sensation which you notice after using such foods as you mention in your letter is probably caused by hyperacidity of the stomach. It is entirely possible for you to overcome your digestive distress through following a diet.

(Food Mineral List)

Question: Savannah, Ga., asks: "Do you have an article which contains the names of some of the most important food minerals, and, if so, how may I obtain one?"

Answer: Yes, I have an article which should prove very interesting to you as it contains a discussion of the important food minerals, and lists the foods in which each may be found. This article may be obtained by writing me in care of this newspaper; please follow the instructions for questions and answers as given at the heading or end of this column; or send to enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

MR. HARTWELL TAKES OVER DEBATING CLUB

Miss Gertrude Oberempt, coach of the Debating Club, has voluntarily resigned her job in that capacity, to Mr. Hartwell, a new teacher of English and History in the Franklin Building. However, she will assist in coaching speakers for the big debate in March. Mr. Hartwell is well-fitted for the job of coach, as he has debated recently and has had a wide experience in coaching other debaters.

This new change will again indefinitely postpone the small debate on the subject of interscholastic athletics, which was to be held on February 7.

—P. Dreger, '34.

INDOOR TRACK BEGINNING

A meeting of boys interested in indoor track will be held after school next Monday. Coach Wigren announced. He urged all boys interested in any kind of track to attend, as it is good training. Only the State meet is scheduled although Mr. Wigren has said that he would try to arrange a meet with Wesleyan Freshmen.

COMPARES 'WORLD' WITH 'SOMANHIS'

Former Teacher Who Supervised First "Somanhis" Likes New Venture.

Mrs. Sidney Wheaton, originator of the former High School paper, "Somanhis", comments on the "good job" being done by "High School World" in its first issue.

"It is an improvement over 'Somanhis' in that the public are more closely in touch with high school classes, current events, and modes of teaching."

Mrs. Wheaton mentioned several of Manchester's leading citizens as once having taken an active part in the publication of "Somanhis".

Among the names mentioned were those of Ronald Ferguson, present city editor of the Herald; the former Hannah Moriarty, public school nurse at Manchester; and Robert Hathaway, local business man.

Miss Condon, art supervisor, did much to help in those early days too. Mrs. Wheaton praises her work highly and remembers that there was much of it.

Gladys Keith, '16, submitted the word "Somanhis" in a name contest. It was chosen because of its Indian sound which seemed to do justice to Manchester's Indian traditions and background.

When she came to Manchester, Mrs. Wheaton taught at East Hartford and Thomaston High schools. In 1918 she resigned her position as Senior English teacher at Manchester High School, still retaining a more or less maternal feeling toward the magazine she helped to create.

PRINCIPAL REVIEWS SCHOOL ECONOMIES

Center Church Federation Hears Mr. Illing on School Situation.

The Women's Federation of the Center Congregational church held a meeting last Wednesday evening at which Mr. Illing was the speaker.

The theme of his talk was the changes which Manchester High School has undergone.

He discussed the changes in enrollment and how this affects the number of pupils which each teacher must handle.

He also spoke of the economic problems which are faced by the school. Expenses have been cut down by increasing the size of classes, combining small groups, the conversation of subjects requiring laboratory work to general courses, and reduction of time which the students spend in school devoted to extra-curricular work such as dramatics and school publications work.

Many pupils are changing from college preparatory courses to business courses. These students who will have no further formal education, are given the opportunity of learning the things which will help them most in their after-school life.

EXPLAINS POINT SYSTEM IN GIRLS' GYM CLASSES

Highest Award Is Gold Emblem—Reward for Four Years' Performance.

Fun, good sport, and points for an award are the objectives of all the girls in high school gymnasium classes. The system of awards is definitely planned as follows:

"World" was an article entitled "Horseplay" by J. T. M. In this article J. T. M. remarked that he didn't know why old sweatshirts were worn by a group of Senior boys. He stated it was merely to draw a laugh out of some of the underclassmen and that this was bad practice for the school, and bothered those who came to study. I agree with J. T. M., that he didn't know what it was all about.

A RIDE IN A JAUNTING CAR

Two of my friends were traveling in Ireland. They thought that a trip to Ireland wouldn't be complete without riding in an Irish jaunting car, which has only two wheels and is drawn by a horse.

When they arrived in Killarney, County Kerry, they hired a driver and a jaunting car, and went for a ride. As they were driving along very slowly and peacefully, enjoying the beautiful scenery, the horse stumbled. The driver flew out of his seat on to the horse's back, while one of the ladies, very frightened, was either thrown or jumped out of the car onto the green grass and broke her leg.

The other lady, who had held on to the sides of the jaunting car for all she was worth, just sat in it and laughed, for she thought that it was a good joke.

A man came along and the driver told the ladies that here was a gentleman with some spirits. They wondered what spirits his were, but they weren't kept in suspense long because the gentleman poured some whiskey out of a large bottle for the one who was hurt.

They took her to the hotel where a doctor was called to attend her.

ONE FRIDAY IN ENGLISH CLASS

One Thursday morning in Sophomore Division 3 English class, the period was almost at an end when Miss Burke remarked, "Home work is on the side board."

The new lower-freshman class which makes itself so evident to us because of the lack of adequate space, now consists of ninety-eight students. One hundred and six have registered, but eight have not started school, due to sickness or other reasons.

These students occupy Rooms 3 and 6, and part of Room 5 in the Franklin building.

Twenty-six students are taking the College Preparatory Course; thirteen, the cooperative Trade School Course; and the rest General Academic. There is only one girl in this division who is taking a Cooperative Course.

SCIENTIFIC COLUMN PLANNED FOR WORLD

Surprising Facts Given in One Issue—Explanation in Next.

There have been several types of columns appearing in newspapers and magazines dealing with a wide range of "scientific facts"—that is, what we believe to be facts which we read them. A real scientist would hesitate to consider them as such. In truth, a great deal of the information found in such columns is plain "baloney."

With the interested help of Mr. Robinson, practical chemistry instructor, we are planning to publish a column twice a week dealing with statements which we feel sure will be of interest to all who read them. These statements have been proven to be facts and are weighed carefully before publication, to insure there being no question as to their truth.

Every other issue of the "High School World" will explain the facts of the preceding issue.

If there is any question or doubt concerning a given statement you may see with Mr. Robinson or a high school teacher for a more detailed explanation given you.

Starting but true! 1. There is no electricity in a storage battery. 2. Ice must melt in order to cool a refrigerator. 3. "Shut the door! You're letting the cold in!" is fallacious. Temperature usually rises during a snow storm. 5. No crystals of water are alike.

Watch next issue for explanations.

—Bernice Livingston, '35.

EXPLANATION

In Wednesday's issue of the "World" there was an article entitled "Horseplay" by J. T. M. In this article J. T. M. remarked that he didn't know why old sweatshirts were worn by a group of Senior boys. He stated it was merely to draw a laugh out of some of the underclassmen and that this was bad practice for the school, and bothered those who came to study. I agree with J. T. M., that he didn't know what it was all about.

Old sweatshirts were worn because the basketball team lost to Bristol. The players were a row that if beaten, they would wear old sweatshirts, which they did. This was followed by other members of the senior class who didn't know what the purpose was. It was very evident that J. T. M. enjoyed wearing an old striped jersey, and very gladly tied bow ties for different members of the senior class, to say nothing of wearing a bow tie himself. So we can "Practice what you preach," J. T. M.

TYPING TEACHERS STRESS ACCURACY

Forty-Five Words a Minute Required for "B" Fourth Period.

During this semester typing teachers are stressing the fact that accuracy is much more important than speed.

Second year students were required to pass three or more tests at forty words a minute with five or less errors during the third marking period to obtain a B in accuracy.

During the fourth marking period, the minimum speed required for a B in accuracy is forty-five words a minute with five or less errors.

Each student has five marking periods of typing and one of calculating and general business practice. The first marking period consisted of various types of business letters, the second, manuscript work, the third, statistical work; the fourth, legal work; and fifth, projects relating to business.

Florence De Vito and Pearl Dreger have passed the best speed and accuracy tests thus far. Florence has passed a record for typing with sixty words a minute with less than five errors and one test with sixty-one words a minute with no errors.

Pearl has passed three or more tests with fifty words a minute with less than five errors.

Students in the second year typing class who have passed speed and accuracy tests with forty words a minute with five or less errors were: Barbara Grezel, Beatrice Halladay, Rosalie Hicking, Eleanor Fatten, Caroline Rubacha, Ace Spencer, Edith Taggart, Doris Von Deck, Agnes Watson, Russell Wilson, Julia Yurgel, John Zatskoff, Ann Shveda, Ethel Lyttle, Josephine Karlsen, Ruth Holmes, and Ernest Taggart.

MANCHESTER GIRLS WIN SWIMMING EVENT HERE

Manchester was host to West Hartford, Bloomfield and Wethersfield High School girls, on January 31, at the Rec. The four schools enjoyed a very exciting afternoon.

Before the splash the four schools took their pictures taken together; each school had its team taken separately.

Following the picture event, time was allowed for the girls to get acquainted with the swimming pool and with each other.

Then the splash events started, the most unique event being the Comic Gve. Alice Madden from Manchester gave an imitation of a girl afraid to get wet. Miss Botby from West Hartford gave her idea of a scared life saver. These two girls saved the day by giving the schools a great laugh and a bad stomach ache.

The order in which the events took place was as follows: 20-yard dash—two heats: first heat, Buck Wethersfield, first, Sillimar, West Hartford, second; second heat: Arson, Manchester, first, Tolyer, West Hartford, second. Finals of the 20 yard dash: Arson, Manchester, and Buck Wethersfield first; Sillimar, West Hartford, second.

In the Cork race: Manchester, first place; Wethersfield, second; Bloomfield, third; West Hartford, fourth.

Diving, standing, and swimming: Olynik and Beston, Bloomfield; Magna and Stewart, West Hartford; N. Welles and J. Welles, Wethersfield; and Arson and Moorehouse, Manchester.

Optional dive, first heat: J. Welles, Wethersfield, standing and sitting; N. Welles Wethersfield, jack dive; Magna, West Hartford, swan dive; Stewart, West Hartford, hand stand; Beston and Olynik, Bloomfield, jack dive; Arson, Manchester, back fly; Moorehouse, Manchester, half twist. Second heat: N. Welles, Wethersfield, hand stand; J. Welles, Wethersfield, jack dive; Magna, West Hartford, half twist; Stewart, West Hartford, jack dive; Beston, Bloomfield, back dive; Olynik, Bloomfield, hand stand; Arson, Manchester, back dive; Moorehouse, Manchester, back dive.

"Tatum" back dive: first place—Manchester, (Arson, Haugh); second place—West Hartford, (Botty, McCutcheon); third place—Wethersfield, (Buck and Williams).

Human croquet: Manchester first place, and West Hartford second place. Comic diving: Botby and Harries, West Hartford; Manchester, Squamitro and Madden; Bloomfield, Tommany and Towner; Wethersfield, Woods and Roberts.

The total points for the teams: Manchester 34; Wethersfield 15; West Hartford 11, and Bloomfield 2.

SERVE SWIMMING TEAMS

With the aid of the cooking teacher, Miss Smith, a committee of girls planned and served a lunch for the girls who participated in the Splash Day event. Cocoa with marshmallows and sandwiches were served to sixty people, in a cafeteria style. The committee was as follows: Marjorie Mitchell, chairman; Margaret Haugh, Helen Deadalus, Marion Mahoney, and Kay Madden.

GIRLS LEAGUE BEGUN

A new scheme for girls who are interested in basketball has been formed. It is a league which will consist of a blue and a white team from each of the four classes. The League games will be played off after school. This League is the result of changes in home rooms, which prevented the play-off of home-room contests.

DIVISION IV ELECTS Margaret Haugh, Helen Deadalus, and Robert Weir were elected chairman and secretary respectively of Division 4 of the incoming-Freshman English.

RECREATION CENTER Items of Interest

Saturday night the Rec Girls basketball team plays against the Hartford Y. W. C. A. girls at the Hartford gym on Ann street.

The following girls will be used in the lineup: Ada Webb, Ida Coles, Doris Von Deck, Dot Wirtalla, Dot Lyttle, Peg Brown, Pauline Emmons. The Y team which has been organized for several years, are the favorites, but the Rec Girls will give them a good fight. Game will start at 7:30.

The girls' swimming team is now underway and their first scheduled meet is for Feb. 7. Any girls who are interested in swimming on the Rec team are urged to get in touch with Gertrude Fenerty at the Rec right away.

Volleyball The Recreation Volleyball team travel to Hartford this afternoon where they play the Y. M. C. A. in a league match. The outcome of this match will have a bearing on the team to play in the play-offs for the state volleyball title.

Recreation Dance Over 300 hundred attended the Recreation dance last night which was featured by the return of Art McKay and his orchestra. Art McKay has been absent from the dances for quite some time. In their return engagement they were very impressive and the prospects of many girls engaged to be married as they were asked for future dates by several representative groups. This band composed of well seasoned musicians are rapidly coming to the attention of various booking agencies who are desirous of playing well organized units in the leading dance ballrooms. Another dance will be held on next Thursday evening.

KINGSBURY JERSEY COW STATE CHAMP

Autumn View Farm in North Coventry Noted for Fine Products.

John E. Kingsbury, owner of Autumn View Farm, located in North Coventry near the Twin Hills, has established a record for breeding pure-bred Jerseys. Owner of a herd of 50 pure bred Jersey animals, Mr. Kingsbury numbers among the fine animals of his herd the State Champion two-year-old and yearling established through A. R. testing.

Autumn View Farm produces, besides raw milk and cream of highest quality, butter and cottage cheese, fresh eggs produced by Rhode Island farm. Autumn View Farm won first prize for the best display of market products, including Jersey milk, cream, butter, cheese and eggs. A separate prize for butter was awarded the North Coventry farm. The estimates of the judging jury, based on color, flavor, cleanliness, ripeness, and solubility.

Mr. Kingsbury has been working on the production of a dairy type of herd and at present has animals ranking high in the estimates of Jersey breeders of Connecticut and the Eastern States.

The proprietor of Autumn View Farm was for two years president of Connecticut Jersey Cattle Club and has consigned animals to the Connecticut Consignment sale of Jersey cattle held each August in conjunction with the Connecticut Jersey field day. Products of the Autumn View Farm are highly recommended by local physicians.

WAPPING

The Board of Relief will be in session Feb. 1 at the Town Hall from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Dwight Burnham of Ellington road was fined for passing on a severe cold.

Rev. Harry S. Martin will take for his Sunday morning sermon subject "Bearing or Being Borne." The regular Christian Endeavor meeting will be omitted as the Young People of the community will attend a meeting of the Hartford East Association of Congregational churches at the Central Church in the Wapping section. Supper will be served in the new Community Church House.

The Wapping Parent-Teachers Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at the School Hall, February 12, Monday evening, where "Founders Day" will be observed.

Mrs. Ward Grant is ill at her home on Belmont street, Manchester, and under the care of Dr. Caldwell. Mr. and Mrs. Grant were residents of Wapping for some years before moving to Manchester.

SOCIETY GATHERS AT SOUTH'S RESORT

Season Now in Full Swing at Palm Beach—Dinner Parties Popular.

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The opening of February in this famous resort of the socially prominent found the season in full swing with many events centering about house parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Vanderbilt have several guests at their ocean front estate and the party will be joined tomorrow by Col. and Mrs. Louis Jacques Balsan of Paris. Mrs. Balsan formerly was Consuelo Vanderbilt.

The art of dining is being cultivated in a wide degree as the favored method of entertaining. Grand Duke Dmitri and Princess Anna Ilyinskai, of New York, entertained recently with a buffet supper, followed by contract bridge. Mrs. Edward T. Stotesbury of Philadelphia, gave a smart luncheon at the Bath and Tennis Club Wednesday. Among the guests was Mrs. Edward E. Hut-ton who made her first appearance here this season at the President Roosevelt ball wearing satin and pearls.

Miss Antoinette Johnson appeared in black satin with fingerless dyed black satin with fingerless dyed jet black.

Mrs. H. H. Windsor, formerly Louise Hunter of the Metropolitan opera, sang at a dinner party Wednesday night given by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyne, Beverly Farms, Mass.

Other Dinner Parties Other dinner parties of the week included one Thursday night by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Harrington Chadwick of Chicago, and one Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Vall Brookway of Oyster Bay, N. Y. Mrs. Howe Elliott of Newport, widely known writer and daughter of Julia Ward Howe, is entertaining at a series of luncheons.

Another outstanding social event of the week was the meeting of the Garden Club, of which Mrs. George A. McKinlock of Chicago, is president. The club entertained 150 visitors at a meeting of the President's Council of National Garden Clubs of America.

Two outstanding heavyweight prize-fighters—Primo Carnera, the champion, and Tommy Loughran—have been taken under the wing of swanky society.

Fighters As Guests Loughran will be a stag party guest tomorrow afternoon of James H. Crowell, son of Mrs. Stotesbury. Carnera, more massive than ever in dinner clothes, has been seen at several smart restaurants and high clubs.

Another event of Sunday is a mid-day dinner at the Gulf Stream Golf Club by Mr. and Mrs. Bernard H. Kroger of Cincinnati.

The vanguard of artists and writers, who hold their annual golf tournament here, will be welcomed back this week-end.

The Rev. and Mrs. Milson Thomas, Hugh Dillman and Mrs. Thomas went to New York to attend the Metropolitan debut of John Charles Thomas.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Brady are among the prominent socialites spending the season here.

CONSULT YOUR WIFE

for Sound Advice....

MR. MAN, you may know more about the intricacies of the stock exchange, more of high finance, more of the whys and wherefores of politics, more of this and that—

BUT, when it comes to shopping, your wife has probably got you beat six ways to the jack-pot.

Now don't let your male egoism get the better of you and just say, "The bl—k she has,"—think about it. After all, women have made it their business to be good, economical shoppers. They have devoted thought and effort to the business "you haven't had time for."

Go to your wife and ask her how she handles this shopping proposition. She'll tell you, "Well, the first thing, and it's the most important, too, is to read the ads in The Herald."

And then she'll be glad to demonstrate for your benefit exactly how reading the ads led to economies and advantages in the purchase of everything from that club steak you liked so well last night to the new dress you've just been admiring.

Then, too, she'll probably welcome the opportunity of proving to you that she can save you money and assure you of better quality by buying your shirts and socks and such for you after checking the ads. Why not let her try it? She is a real expert at this shopping business. Above all, don't forget to follow her advice when you're shopping for yourself and check the ads in this paper before you start out to do your buying.

MANCHESTER IS RATED FIRST IN CWA STANDING

part of the transaction of the Hartford officials will be given to the local CWA board in advance of the next regular meeting of the group Wednesday noon.

At the recent investigation conducted by the CWA officials of the State Reemployment Bureau, it was disclosed that in the 220 jobs filled by the Hartford office from the registration taken in the state armory, preferential ratings were not at first observed.

Regulations issued by the federal government give vets with dependents first call on all CWA jobs. Citizens with dependents are second, single veterans third, aliens with first papers, fourth and aliens without first papers, last in order of preference.

Manchester's registration taken in the armory at the beginning of the CWA program in excess of 1,100 and since that time over 150 have registered from this town in the state armory, Hartford. Less than one-third of the list have obtained jobs.

It is expected that the regulations governing CWA appointments will be rigidly enforced after the current replacements have been made.

OVER 25,000 OUT IN TAXI STRIKE

Outlets bore out indication that probably 25,000 men were on holiday. The leading taxicab concerns said that about 10,000 cabs had been withdrawn from service because of the strike.

Mayor LaGuardia hoped for a settlement today, but took steps to prevent any violence. No Union Trouble. The cabmen, who appear to have struck spontaneously and not by order of any union, want the cab concerns to give them all the money that was collected as a city tax of five cents a fare under a measure adopted last September.

Approximately $500,000 was collected before the tax was declared illegal. The drivers want the entire amount returned to them. The companies offer to split it 60-40.

The only cabs operating early today were those of owner-operators, and the number of these was dwindling as the independents joined the strike.

In politics again. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the Senate in 1928. Born in Omaha in September, 1859, Hitchcock had a senatorial tradition as his father, Phineas W. Hitchcock, was serving in that capacity in Washington at the time. He studied law but left the profession to become a newspaper publisher, helping to establish the Omaha Evening World and later purchasing the Omaha Morning Herald.

New Resident. Mrs. Hitchcock was at the bedside this morning when the publisher died. Also present were Mrs. Henry Dooley, his daughter, Gilbert Dooley, Mrs. Richard Young, a grandchild, and Mrs. Edmund Kauntze, sister of Mrs. Hitchcock. He had only recently established a residence here. Funeral plans will be completed today.

CONGRESS READY FOR A BUSY WEEK. House stamp also has been placed on job insurance legislation. Income Tax Bill. At the capitol the House probably will receive next week the projected $200,000,000 general revenue and income tax amending bill. To debate on the $500,000,000 relief appropriation bill.

In the Senate the House-approved $70,000,000 Navy expansion bill is hanging fire. The long-controverted St. Lawrence seaway treaty ratification is due for a close vote by next week end. Veterans' benefits and the Federal payroll are slated for debate as an appropriation bill rider.

To the House meanwhile have gone the Senate-approved Smith $48,000,000 crop loan bill and the Johnson bill to penalize private financial transaction with defaulting debtors.

Cottage Street Package Store. Open Until 6 P. M. Cavalier Gin $1.15. Old Colony Gin $1.45 (100 proof). Capt. Kidd Whiskey $1.85 (90 proof).

Fritzi Scheff to Lose Her Home in Connecticut

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Fritzi Scheff—she once sang for $2,000 a week—ended her engagement today as a tap-room hostess.

So Fritzi, once of 'Mlle. Modiste' is out of a job, and a mortgage foreclosure looms ahead. A minus $2,000—what, in her heyday, would have been one week's salary—will part her from her home in two months, unless something turns up. The court has granted three extensions, and even optimistic Fritzi doesn't hope for a sale.

It was while she was singing at her tap-room engagement, 'I earned enough to live. But of course everything must have an end.' 'What will I do tomorrow, or two weeks from now? That's more than I can tell. But I'll find something.'

She sat in a West Side hotel; 'I'm not far off Broadway' where she made her fame. 'A toothpick,' she calls the room—'a little square.' On the walls were some prints of operetta scenes and a flower pot; some plants she won at Coney Island. Her dog, Ko-Ko, lay at her feet.

Fritzi tossed her Titan bob and shrugged her shoulders. 'I never lie down and die,' she said. 'Being sorry is a stupid attitude. I had success—I climbed high and stayed there quite a while. But you know what the world is. People pass on. There is always a new crop.'

Not that Fritzi has aged. She is just begun young. She was singing at 5, and at 18 was with the Metropolitan. 'Flexible,' she calls herself. She did everything, Opera, operetta, musical comedy—night clubs, park casinos, radio, 'The Road'—they all knew Fritzi Scheff. But now—she explains it this way: 'Young people are managing. They think of what they see on Broadway—the few of the present moment. Well, we were 'in Broadway, too. We counted.'

She has had her home, a four-acre place on a Connecticut mountain top, since 1917. She calls it 'Melodid Cottage.' There are fruit trees and flowers. 'You know how it feels when you've planted them,' said Fritzi.

Edward P. O'Meara, former judge, has died. He was a prominent member of the New Haven board of finance, died today after a week's illness at the age of 59 years.

A lifelong Democrat, he became City Court judge in 1913, serving until 1915. He was first appointed to the board of finance in 1905 after serving on the Common Council and was once more named to the board in 1926.

O'Meara, a widower, was graduated from the Yale Law School in 1899. His appointment to the bench of the City Court came after a bitter intra-party fight among Democrats involving among others David E. Fitzgerald, Sr., New Haven leader, and Thomas J. Spellacy.

O'Meara, formerly chairman of the New Haven Democratic town committee, was a trustee of St. Francis orphan asylum, president of the Knights of Columbus club for six years, president of the Catholic Laymen's Retreat Association of Connecticut, and an Elk.

He leaves a daughter, a senior at Vassar; two sons, one a student at Holy Cross and another a student at the College of Physicians and Surgeons; and two sisters.

A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated at 10 a. m. Monday in St. Bernard's church. Burial will be in St. Lawrence cemetery.

A BOOK A DAY BY GUY CATTON

HERE'S A SURE-FIRE MYSTERY THRILLER

Dashiell Hammett's Latest Book is Unusually Good

The current mystery story season is made immeasurably brighter by the fact that Dashiell Hammett has written a new book. It is called 'The Thin Man,' and it is by all odds the most entertaining detective story to reach the market in many months.

Mr. Hammett introduces us to a retired private detective who goes back to visit his old haunts in New York and runs smack into a murder. He has to look into the crime, for the simple reason that some people seem to suspect him of having committed it; once he does, the fun begins.

It is an odd fact that in this, the best of recent mystery stories, the murder mystery itself is of secondary importance. It's an ingenious tale, to be sure, marvelously

30 Cheat Death in Train-Bus Crash. Thirty pupils miraculously escaped death when the school bus crashed here was struck by a freight train Spangville, N. Y., carried a quarter mile, pitching and swaying on the locomotive pilot, and then hurled off, a gaping hole torn in its side. Four children were hurt seriously, several others cut and bruised, and a number fainted during their mad ride.

CAPACITY CROWD AT GOWN PAGEANT

Display of Wedding Attire Fills Whiton Memorial Library Auditorium.

The seating capacity of the Whiton Memorial hall was taxed to the utmost last night for the bridal gown pageant and musicale presented by the Women's Division of the Y. M. C. A.

Members, Miss Ruth Behrend, chairwoman; Mrs. C. B. Loomis, Mrs. W. S. Strickland, Mrs. R. K. Anderson and Miss Helen Maloney, were warmly congratulated on the artistic and thoroughly enjoyable entertainment provided.

Mrs. Anderson was in charge of the music and played a number of appropriate old airs, and as the pageant progressed introduced more modern compositions. She accompanied the soloists, Miss Helen Berggren, contralto; Edward F. Taylor, tenor; and Robert Gordon, baritone.

Mr. Gordon was the first singer, and his selection, 'Wherever You Walk,' by Handel, a very old song, was the first number after the display of gowns from the period of 1776 up to and including 1839.

Miss Helen Berggren sang the delightful, 'Long, Long Ago' during the showing of the gowns of the 1840's. Her picture of the period followed with that great favorite, 'Believe Me If All Those Endearing Young Charms.'

Additional numbers by Mr. Gordon were 'The Rose of Tralee' and 'Because.' With the approach of the 1900 gowns Miss Berggren sang a favorite at weddings today, 'I Love You Truly,' and Mr. Taylor's second number was the equally popular wedding solo, 'O, Promise Me.'

Mrs. W. S. Strickland was the historian and was attired in the beautiful gown worn by the late Mrs. John T. Robertson at her thirty-fifth wedding anniversary celebration.

Mrs. Strickland's picture of the street home of her son, William W. Robertson, soon after its completion. This gown was of white satin, with an overdress of black net embroidered in white and trimmed with black.

Mrs. Strickland prefaced her description of the gowns as they passed in review with a brief history of marriage, which was first by force, later by purchase and now as a general thing by love. She also explained the significance of the wedding ring, the use of orange blossoms, wedding cake which must first be cut by the bride, and other items of interest connected with the marriage of man and woman.

The groups of women wearing the gowns of each distinctive period assembled on the platform, and as each one was introduced and the gown described she stepped forward. The committee reversed their decision to have the bride of 1834 begin the pageant, but at the close of the period, the bride of 1834, Mrs. Harold Garrity, the former Miss Arlyne Moriarty, who was married on New Year's day, with her attendants led the nearly 100 women who were in line, affording a close-up view to the interested spectators.

It was really a picture of the youth for only silly girls could wear the tight-fitting bodices of the earlier periods. Many daughters were attired in gowns worn by their mothers, and a number of women, brides of recent years, wore their own wedding gowns.

The gown of 1776, worn by Miss Betty Fairbanks is the property of Mrs. Laura Munsell and was loaned by Mrs. Walter Smith of Wapping. It was a plain bronze green silk, full skirt, puff sleeves, with a bertha of lace around the low neckline. Another almost as early was worn by Miss Frances Hoxie, a gown of 1870 loaned by Miss Emma Hutchinson.

Mrs. John Alden Collins of Wapping modeled an interesting 'double gown', owned by Mrs. Hill Gowdy of Enfield, and loaned by her great granddaughter, Mrs. Walter N. Foster of Wapping. The gown, 123 years old, was originally the property of Mrs. Florida Hubbard Talcott of Manchester, and was loaned by Mrs. Hart Dexter of South Windsor.

Mrs. E. E. Segar loaned an interesting gown of 1822, the wedding dress of her grandmother. This was worn by Miss Althea Murdoch. An 1833 model, obtained by Mrs. Robert Cooper of South Main street, gown and bonnet to match, were worn by the great granddaughter of the original bride. Mrs. Nellie Luce Eddy, of Newington. Miss Jane Grant and Miss Marjorie McMenemy modeled quaint old gowns of 1834, the latter the property of Marjorie's great grandmother and the former owned by Mrs. Mary Spencer.

Miss Hattie White wore a voluminous gown of 1848, the bonnet of the vintage of 1870 and worn by Miss White's great grandmother. An 1855 gown loaned by Mrs. L. S. Burr, modeled by Miss Beattie Quinn, was worn originally by Mrs. Burr's grandmother, Mrs. Melitabile Hubbard Roberts. Most interesting in material and style were two gowns worn by the mother of Miss Mary and Frank Cheney. One was a rich red moire and the other a gray silk. The silk was doubtless woven in the Cheney mills and was the kind that people use to characterize as able to 'stand alone.'

Mrs. John Pickles exhibited a Quaker gown of 1860, the property of her grand-aunt, Lydia Lightfoot, one of the early pioneers in retail and style were two gowns worn by the mother of Miss Mary and Frank Cheney. One was a rich red moire and the other a gray silk. The silk was doubtless woven in the Cheney mills and was the kind that people use to characterize as able to 'stand alone.'

New York. Miss Marion Behrend, Mrs. Arthur J. Straw's wedding dress of 1890. Miss Ruth Behrend, chairwoman of the pageant and director of women's activities at the Y, wore the gown of her aunt, Mrs. Howard I. Taylor. Mrs. George E. Keith's wedding dress was worn by Marie Keating. Miss Ruth Connors modeled a gown of Mrs. Charles Pick; Mrs. Charles B. Loomis's wedding dress was displayed by Miss Marie Marlowe. Miss Marion Burr wore the broadcote blue silk with white collar worn by her mother, Mrs. C. R. Burr. Mrs. Ralph Rockwell wore an old-fashioned gown, cape and bonnet, loaned by Mrs. Burr and Mrs. J. M. Williams. Miss 1899 dress with tight velvet sleeves and diminutive hat was worn by Mrs. Frank Wittner, and was the property of Miss Emma Hutchinson.

Miss Lillian Sheridan appeared in the bridal regalia of Mrs. Edward Keefe of Terryville. Miss Janet Sumner, the gown of her mother, Mrs. Charles Sumner of Bolton, and Miss Evelyn Jones the wedding dress of her mother, Mrs. F. H. Jones.

Margaret Robinson of Buckland appeared in the gown of her mother, made by herself while a girl in England, with collar of Irish lace, bonnet and shawl property of Mrs. J. M. Williams, originally owned by her mother, Mrs. Aaron Cook. Miss Robinson showed a watch and chain of her great grandmother, 120 years old and still going.

Mrs. Victor Yates of Bolton, wore a gown loaned by Mrs. Elizabeth Bunn, the property of her mother, Mrs. Edward Ware of Atlanta, Ga. Miss Marjorie Kelly appeared in a wine-colored gown loaned by Mrs. E. E. Segar. Miss Dorothy K. Loomis of Hartford wore the 1831 wedding gown of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Norman Loomis. Mrs. Morgan White's wedding dress was modeled by Mrs. Oscar Bailey, and Miss Helen Jamroga appeared in the gown of Mrs. Calvin Tracy, mother of Mrs. Robert Richmond.

Miss Doris Mahoney wore the gown of Mrs. Gertrude Stoughton Sedgwick of Wapping. Miss Viola Shearer a dress loaned by Miss Nellie Hollister of the same period. Miss Ann Scranton wore a black silk of 1862, the property of Miss Helen Comstock and Miss Marjorie Gray of Bolton, loaned by Miss Helen Maloney, while Miss Marion Legg appeared in the 1875 gown of Mrs. Myron St. Clair Murr. Miss Florence Donohue wore an 1880 gown loaned by Mrs. Burton of Glastonbury. Mrs. Rosa Brooken's gown was worn by her daughter Ethel and Miss Beattie Mahoney wore Mrs. Claude Truxie's 1902 wedding dress; Miss Bernice Fohlman wore the gown of Mrs. George Potterton, a 1902 style.

Mrs. Burton Bell's own wedding gown was worn by Dorothy Hultman and Mrs. Frank Wolcott's by Irene Keeney. Miss Faith Owers wore her mother's wedding dress of 1903 and Mrs. Stanley Mason wore that of her mother, Mrs. Christian Nielson. Miss Thea Carlberg, daughter of Mrs. Thea Carlberg, wore at her wedding and Miss Marion Brookings, Mrs. Louis St. Clair Burr's wedding dress; Miss Jane Harris appeared wearing the wedding dress of her mother, Mrs. William W. Robertson. Mrs. Eleanor Dwyer appeared in the wedding regalia of her mother, Mrs. Edward F. Dwyer, and Miss Esther Wells modeled her mother's, Mrs. E. E. Segar's gown of 1822.

Miss Ruth Watkins appeared in the gown worn at her wedding by her aunt, Mrs. William Rush and Miss Harriet Coburn wore the wedding gown of her mother, Mrs. Frank Burr. Mrs. Barbara Birmingham modeled the wedding attire of her mother, Mrs. Leslie Badmington and Mrs. J. L. Handley wore the wedding gown and veil of Mrs. William W. Robertson. Mrs. William W. Robertson's own gown of 1914, Mrs. E. J. Murphy gown and accessories of the same year were modeled by Miss Marion Reed. Miss Doris Wray appeared in the wedding gown of her mother, Mrs. E. P. Walton, and the 1916 wedding costume of Mrs. John Pickles was worn by her daughter, Miss Esther Fohlman.

Another group that caused much amusement was that depicting the short-skirted era of the 1920's. Mrs. Hayden Griswold's wedding gown worn by herself, was above the shoe tops. Joseph Waller's about the same length, while Mrs. Stuart Segar's wedding gown of 1928 was exceedingly brief when viewed from the point of today's styles.

Mrs. Raymond Hagedorn modeled the bouffant style of 1929 with her own bridal regalia, her attendants being Miss Ann. Galler of Windsor and Miss Sylvia Hagedorn of this town.

Phyllis Fallow wore the 1931 wedding attire of Mrs. William P. Shea. Mrs. Henry Murtie wore her own wedding gown of 1932 and Mrs. Gordon Weaver, her white lace gown of 1933, with Miss Marion Robertson as her attendant. The final scene was that of Mrs. Harold Garrity and attendants.

SENATOR CAPLAN DIES AT AGE OF 52

Center of Many State Assembly Battles in '31 Passes in New Haven.

New Haven, Feb. 3.—(AP)—State Senator Jacob Caplan, former judge of the New Haven City Court and a member of the powerful judiciary committee during the General Assembly of 1931, died today at the age of 52 years.

The senator, central figure of numerous legislative battles during the 1931 session, had been ill for more than a year, returning recently from Boston where he was under medical care.

One of the founders of the Jewish Home for Children, Senator Caplan, a Republican, returned to the Senate during the 1933 session, but because his body was controlled by Democrats, he did not figure prominently during that session as he did in 1931, when his party was in control.

In addition to being on the judiciary committee, he served on the joint constitutional amendments, Federal relations and the joint rules committee in 1931. Two years later he was on the committees of cities and boroughs, legislative expenses and manufacturers.

A lawyer by profession, Senator Caplan was born in Russia. He was a member of Cosmopolitan Lodge A. F. and M., of which he was the first master; president emeritus of the Jewish Home for Children, former president of the Jewish Welfare Society and a member of many other organizations.

He leaves a widow, two sons, two sisters and a brother, Frank Caplan of Hartford. The funeral will be held at 11 a. m. Monday at the Jewish Home for Children. He will be buried in B'Nai Jacob cemetery in Westville.

SAILORS SUFFER BURNS

Providence, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Two members of the crew of the British steamship Blairgowrie were burned in an explosion of coal gas this morning soon after the ship dropped anchor at a quarantine here from Swansea, Wales. Boatswain Walter J. Bosue, 49, of Bristol, England, and John David, 22, of Cardigan, Wales, were burned on hands and face. Both are in a hospital in this city, but the condition of neither is considered serious.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

JOHN F. MINER DIES; FRATERNAL LEADER

One of Town's Best Known Citizens Passes Away—Was on Cheney Works Council.

John F. Miner, one of Manchester's best known citizens, died this morning following a long illness. He had been living in Hartford. Mr. Miner was 74 years of age and had lived in Manchester 37 years. He was born in New York City.

An employe of Cheney Brothers for 32 years most of which time he was chief officer in the spinning mill, Mr. Miner took an active interest in fraternal life in the town. He was one of the leading members of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in this town.

He was also a member of the Jewish Home for Children, a Republican, returned to the Senate during the 1933 session, but because his body was controlled by Democrats, he did not figure prominently during that session as he did in 1931, when his party was in control.

In addition to being on the judiciary committee, he served on the joint constitutional amendments, Federal relations and the joint rules committee in 1931. Two years later he was on the committees of cities and boroughs, legislative expenses and manufacturers.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE

Kent, Conn., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The body of William Waldeon, 23, was found in his garage about 7 o'clock this morning by his brother-in-law, Oliver Wolcott, with whom he made his home. Mr. Wolcott heard the sound of the running motor and opening the door was met by a cloud of monoxide gas fumes. The body of Waldeon lay on the floor. Relatives say the young man had been in the custom of charging his car battery by letting the engine run all night. It is believed, he was overcome while trying to leave the garage.

WALL ST. BRIEFS

New York, Feb. 3.—There were 23 favorable dividend changes in stock compared with 31 last week, Standard Statistics Co. says. Eight payments were increased and seven resumed. Seven extras and one initial dividend were voted. Six unfavorable revisions compared with 13 a week ago.

Freight traffic of the Chicago and Northwestern in January aggregated 87,273 cars against 84,062 for December and 77,278 in January, 1933.

LIQUOR TESTS NEXT WEEK

Hartford, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Two of the liquor control acts were assigned for argument in the Supreme Court next week, the case of the state against Joseph Faro of Hartford for Wednesday morning being a test of whether the law requires permits to sell liquor and whether it applies to non-permittees; and the case of Edward J. Murphy of Manchester against the liquor control commission being a test of the constitutionality of druggists' permits to sell liquor and the discretionary power of the commission to refuse to issue this class of permits. The Murphy case is the first argument for Thursday.

ED. HICKY TO SPEAK. Thompsonville, Conn., Feb. 3.—(AP)—The historic, century old Emerald Society for Detection of Thieves and Robbers is going to get some pointers on how to do today. Edward J. Hicky, Hartford county detective, will describe to its members modern methods of apprehending criminals at the society's 11th annual reunion and banquet at Hazardsville Feb. 13. Another guest of honor will be Charles R. Reed, warden of the state prison at Wethersfield.

Early in its history the society specialized in catching horse thieves. M. J. Liberty, president of the society for 16 years, has named Arthur R. Boatwick, former prosecutor of the Enfield Town Court as toastmaster.

WOMAN OF MYSTERY PUZZLES SLEUTHS

Seeks to Interview Dillinger the Desperado in Jail—Says She's a Reporter.

Chicago, Feb. 3.—(AP)—A mysterious young woman who traveled from Chicago to Brown Point, Ind.—and had but $2.50 in her purse to pay a bill of $16—in an effort to "interview" John Dillinger, the desperado, was in Chicago jail today as police sought to determine her identity.

She appeared at the Lake county jail yesterday shortly after Dillinger had been sentenced to a charge of murdering an East Chicago, Ind., policeman during a bank robbery, and introduced herself as Janet Harcourt, a reporter for a New York newspaper.

However, Prosecutor Robert G. Ewell confirmed his doubts of her story when the New York newspaper denied that she was an employe.

Then, she claimed to be Josephine Hunt, the wife of Captain Jonathan Hunt, U. S. A., and Richard Carley Hunt, a brother of the officer, said the captain had married a Josephine De Pre in about 1929 and was divorced a year later and had since remarried and was now in charge of a CCC camp in New England.

Finally local police decided to bring her back to Chicago, and further questioning brought forth the assertion of the woman that she was a native of Raymond, N. H., and had come here from the east to get material for a story.

Driver Worries. Meanwhile Max Sprigler, the taxi driver, cooled his heels around the police station wondering who, if anyone, was going to pay the taxi bill incurred by the long drive to Crown Point. The woman had ordered him to wait for her at the Crown Point jail and while he did he said the meter ticked up to a grand total of $28.50.

Louise Groody, the actress, threw some light on the mystery when she told police she had seen the woman as 'Mrs. Hunt' in New York through John Harriman, socially prominent New Yorker. In Chicago, Miss Groody said the woman had attempted to borrow money from her.

SELL LIBRARY STOCK AT SUBSTANTIAL PROFIT

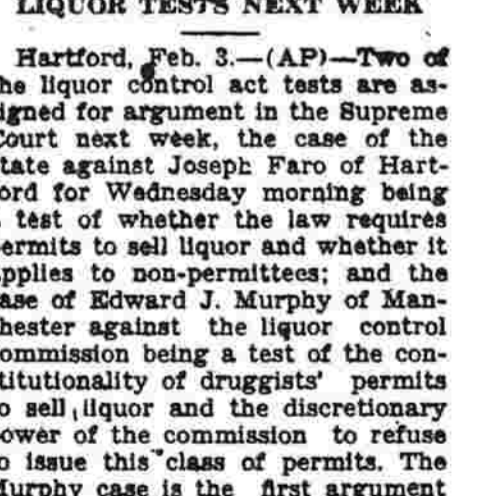

Securities of Whiton Estate Bring Enough to Cut Library Debt to Town to $1,437.95.

Chairman Aaron Cook of the Board of Selectmen and Town Treasurer George H. Wallace, under the authorization of the Selectmen yesterday sold 80 shares of Phoenix stock for 55 3-4 and 80 shares of National Fire stock for 47 3-4. The total of the Phoenix stock was $4,467.80 and that of the National Fire, $1,828. The profit over the book value is $3,105.65.

The Whiton Memorial library fund owes the Town of Manchester $8,284.80 for money loaned by the town for the construction of the library. When payment of the amount received for the stocks sold yesterday is deducted the library fund will owe the town but $1,437.95.

The reason for the sale at this time was to take a profit and to reduce the outstanding indebtedness of the library fund to the town.

THE PRIZE FIGHTER AND THE LADY

There may be nothing to that romance between Max Baer and Actress June Knight, but they were pretty close when this picture was taken as they basked in a Florida sun.

Married Flirts

BSIN HERE TODAY
GYPSEY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEERE BLISS, but Lila expects her job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy MARKO BROUGHTON, a former admirer of Gypsy's, whom they meet at the Blisses' home.

When Gypsy learns she is to have a baby she gives up her job. The baby is born in September and is christened DAVID.

Derek Bliss wears of the social whirl in which he and Lila live. This annoys Lila and she encourages Marko Broughton's attentions. On the morning following a lonely evening at home Gypsy finds a woman's handkerchief in Tom's coat pocket. She tries to banish her suspicions but cannot quite succeed. While visiting her parents' home a friend tells her of seeing Tom at lunch with a pretty girl. Gypsy is sure it must have been VERA GRAY.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVII

But before Gypsy had a chance to face Tom with what she assumed was plain evidence against him something happened.

Lila came. Gypsy was just carrying the baby's luncheon upstairs. Clyde had cooked it and there remained now only the task of seeing that David tucked it away as his mother painstakingly spooned it into his small mouth. He was having a few spoonfuls of pureed carrots and some beef juice.

Clyde came panting after her. "There's a lady asking for you, Miss Gypsy. She says she'll come up if you're busy."

Gypsy had a feeling of annoyance. She was tired; her head ached. She'd call her up later. Who on earth could it be?
Clyde produced a thin, ivory colored card. "Mrs. Derek Bliss."

"Oh, bring her up, of course," Gypsy frowned. How odd—how extremely odd!

Lila rushed in upon her a moment later, filling the big, high-ceiled room with scent and a feeling of excitement. The shades in the guest room had been raised to the top to allow every bit of morning sun to stream in. It lent the room a cheerful aspect but there was no disguising the shabbiness of the tan carpet, the fact that the wallpaper, with its roses and faded blue garlands, had long since been outmoded. David sat erect in his high chair, beating at the tray with a mother of pearl rattle to which were attached three silver bells.

"My dear, I'm so ashamed, barging in on you like this," Lila began. Gypsy silenced her. Lila was positively emaciated—her eyes were like great pools in her face and not all the cosmetics in the world could have hidden the tell-tale circles under her eyes.

"Go ahead, I'll watch," Lila said. She settled herself in the old rocker as Gypsy alternately coaxed and bullied her son into some show of interest in his food. The talk was necessarily desultory. Meantime Gypsy's thought roved wildly to the end of the family's common tongue. It wasn't like Mr. Weaver to go for the day without saying good-by.

Tom's long legs cleared the distance between subway and ferry house quickly. He was panting as the boat nosed its way out of the slip. This comming was no easy job, he thought, watching the water glide past. He would like, for Gypsy's sake, to have a house somewhere near Blue Hills. She could see the family often then. Maybe she wouldn't be so lonely. She was cooped up in that apartment all day with no one but the baby to talk to. It wasn't much fun.

For all his haste, he missed the train he had tried to catch. It was moving out of the station just as he rushed through the stile. What rotten luck! There was a wait of half an hour before the next one and Gypsy would be meeting him with the car. She might think he was not coming at all. It was not his fault; a chain of circumstances had led up to the telephone call, but it would be difficult to explain all this to Gypsy. She would not understand, might not even listen.

He went into a telephone booth and gave the number of the Morell house. It would help matters if he caught Gypsy before she left for the station. She would know he was on his way. As he waited he whistled loudly. Surely he was making a mountain out of a molehill. Gypsy was normally the sweetest and most reasonable being imaginable. What ever he had done or had failed to do she would forgive and understand.

He heard a buzzing, the operator's voice. Then Gypsy's clear tones came to him. He smiled, was just about to speak, but realized in time that he had broken into a connection. Gypsy said very distinctly, "Marko? I have a message for you. It's important. The flowers came, and it's very important." Tom put the receiver on the hook. The man waiting for his turn at the booth stared curiously. "Hurry, look mighty funny to me," he said later to his companion. "Looked as if he'd had bad news."

problem and she frowned. "I suppose I do."
"Some marriages just naturally turn out well," Lila observed smoothly. "Like yours, for instance. People with the same interests—the same ideas." She waved her hand to illustrate what she meant. "Now Derek and I want an entirely different sort of existence. Marko knows I must have things happening, excitement. And of course money."

"What do you want me to say to Marko?" Gypsy inquired, anxious to have the task over and done with.

Lila considered. How exquisite she was in this shabby room, reflected the other woman. Lila's clothes, her skin, her long shining shoes, all bespoke the woman of taste, of means, of elegance. Gypsy felt crude and unfinished beside her. Lila lifted her beautiful eyes in a vague smile. "Tell him that I'll be at the Ritz at five, the usual place," she said slowly. "Say I couldn't possibly get away before and that I wasn't able to write. Too many people about. Say I got the flowers and they were lovely. And, oh, of course, I want to pay for that city call!"

Gypsy demurred. The whole thing made her feel a party to some sordid affair. Why was she doing this for Lila? Why didn't she refuse? Ah, but when she had been little girls together Lila had done many charming and gracious things for her. You didn't refuse your friends favors just because they behaved in a manner you considered unbecomingly.

"I can't do it now, I'll have to wait until Mother takes her nap," Gypsy explained. Lila had to be satisfied with that. She had, she said, an appointment at the hair-dresser's in an hour and the chauffeur (a new one) would just be able to make it. So she went away, lovely and suave and just a little smug.

About this time Tom was rising from his desk in the office and glancing at the clock to make sure he would be able to catch the ferry which connected with the 1:57 train at Jersey City. He was anxious not to miss it. Gypsy would be waiting for him and she seemed oddly touchy recently about small things. When he was late she seemed suspicious and bitter, not like her old self at all.

The telephone rang as he reached for his coat and one of the stenographers in the outer office answered it.

"For you, Mr. Weaver." She was a forty-year girl with a friendly air, and she smiled at her. For the thousandth time the stenographer reflected what an enviable position Mr. Tom Weaver's wife had. Some girls had all the luck.

Some held the telephone cradle close and said hello. His expression changed slightly, took on a grimmer aspect.

"Sorry," he said. "I can't make it. I'm just leaving."

Evidently the person at the other end was impatient, because he had to repeat his excuses over and over. When he put the instrument down he looked very grim indeed. The girl in blue wondered mildly what had happened to upset him.

That woman—for it was a woman's voice that had asked for him—must have been a pest of some kind. It wasn't like Mr. Weaver to go for the day without saying good-by.

Tom's long legs cleared the distance between subway and ferry house quickly. He was panting as the boat nosed its way out of the slip. This comming was no easy job, he thought, watching the water glide past. He would like, for Gypsy's sake, to have a house somewhere near Blue Hills. She could see the family often then. Maybe she wouldn't be so lonely. She was cooped up in that apartment all day with no one but the baby to talk to. It wasn't much fun.

For all his haste, he missed the train he had tried to catch. It was moving out of the station just as he rushed through the stile. What rotten luck! There was a wait of half an hour before the next one and Gypsy would be meeting him with the car. She might think he was not coming at all. It was not his fault; a chain of circumstances had led up to the telephone call, but it would be difficult to explain all this to Gypsy. She would not understand, might not even listen.

He went into a telephone booth and gave the number of the Morell house. It would help matters if he caught Gypsy before she left for the station. She would know he was on his way. As he waited he whistled loudly. Surely he was making a mountain out of a molehill. Gypsy was normally the sweetest and most reasonable being imaginable. What ever he had done or had failed to do she would forgive and understand.

He heard a buzzing, the operator's voice. Then Gypsy's clear tones came to him. He smiled, was just about to speak, but realized in time that he had broken into a connection. Gypsy said very distinctly, "Marko? I have a message for you. It's important. The flowers came, and it's very important." Tom put the receiver on the hook. The man waiting for his turn at the booth stared curiously. "Hurry, look mighty funny to me," he said later to his companion. "Looked as if he'd had bad news."

CWA Miss Day's Work
The severe snowstorm caused the CWA road workers yesterday to lose another day's work. They were sent home at 8:30 o'clock when it was decided that the eight inches of snow was too big a handicap.

The ten workers who are refashioning the interior of the Memorial building continued operations yesterday. Painters were vanishing the woodwork in the town clerk's office while another group were putting a stinging coat of oil on the walls of the Common Council Chambers.

A third group was in the main hallway leading to the recreation hall, which is being washed down with several applications of soap and water. The men will resume their work on Monday morning.

The work on Mile Hill road will be completed early next week so that First Selectman Francis J. Shepard will move the men to another project. The other project now being considered is the so-called "Turner Road" at Vernon Center which has been approved.

Funeral of A. D. Stedman
The funeral of Albert D. Stedman, 83, of 157 Grove street, who died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Delos Rich, on Tuesday morning following a long illness, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Delos T. Rich at 157 Grove street on Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of the First Congregational church, officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Grove Hill cemetery.

Mr. Stedman was born in Tolland on May 19, 1850, the son of Daniel and Maria Crandall Stedman. He has lived in Rockville for 23 years and had many friends in this community. He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Delos Rich of Rockville with whom he made his home and Mrs. Elmer I. Olcott of Dobsonville.

Briefs
C. Elmer Weir of High street who has been seriously ill for several days, is slightly improved according to reports late yesterday. The inspection of the Auxiliary of Alden Skinner Camp, Sons of Veterans, which was scheduled for last evening, had to be postponed until a later date. The regular business meeting was held last evening in the G. A. R. hall.

EPWORTH INSTITUTE HERE LAST NIGHT

Fifth Session at the South Methodist Church With 77 Members Present.

The fifth session of the mid-winter institute of the Nutmeg Trail of Epworth Leagues was held at the South Methodist church last night with 77 members present representing 17 churches in the Hartford, Meriden, Warehouse Point, Hazardville, Rockville and Manchester.

Supper was served at 6 o'clock and consisted of pot roast, mashed potatoes, string beans, baked apple and whipped cream biscuits and coffee. Mrs. Crossen, Mrs. Dowd, Mrs. R. Lewis and Mrs. R. Turkington of the church prepared the supper and eight girls of the church Girl Scout troop served. Ethel Lyttle chairman, assisted by Miss Moriarty and Ethel Brooking, was in charge of arrangements for the evening.

Rev. Monson of Hazardville, speaking on "Christianity" thinks through the new Philosophies" compared the quest made by the scientist, Bertrand Russell as an educator, Theodore Dreiser as a novelist and Sir James Jeans as an astronomer. He stated that Einstein denies the freedom of our actions, physically and philosophically that man is compelled and controlled by necessity. Sir James Jeans stated that when Jesus said, "It is better to give than to receive what shall it profit any man to gain the world and lose his soul," he led us into a realm where science can offer no guidance.

Rev. David Carter of Wapping, teaching on Romance in Methodism, traced the growth of Methodism missions back to 1813 up to the present time. He related stories concerning missions in China, India, Africa and the Malay states, and also emphasized the adventure and romance in the lives of the early missionaries.

Miss Crawford spoke on the life of Jeremiah, the weeping prophet in her series of "Introducing the Prophets." Jeremiah preached for 40 years and his teachings were great contributions to his country and to the human soul. His life was one constant failure after another and twice an attempt was made to kill him, but he never was discouraged.

Rev. L. C. Harris of the local church was in charge of the devotional period and his subject was "Christ and Death." The social hour was in charge of Clarence Turkington recreational director for the institute. The next session of the institute will be held at Rockville next Friday night.

The net valuation of the town property according to the assessors report of Feb. 1, is $772,268, as against the grand levy of last year of $808,000. The town has a loss of gain of 8 houses is shown, a loss of 3 horses and 36 meat cattle. Other items remain about the same. The assessors are Alphonse Wright, Rathburn, and Winthrop S. Porter.

The regular choir rehearsal of the Congregational church was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Fillmore, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Henry R. Rathburn of Marlborough, directed the music.

The benefit bridge for Hebron Grange, given Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Owen in Anston, was not a well attended affair. Refreshments were served and it was decided to repeat the bridge at the Owen home two weeks from date, February 15.

Nearly ten inches of snow fell between Thursday night and Friday morning. A number of cars were stalled and there was almost no traffic. First Selectman Claude W. Jones, who started to drive to Danbury to attend a meeting of the Association gathering was an hour getting as far as Willimantic, where he decided to turn back and go home. On the way back he saw several cars wrecked or stalled by the roadside.

Mrs. Louise Blume, who has been located in Canaan the past few years, will spend the remainder of the winter at the home of her son Rowan and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Claude W. Jones.

The Rev. Benjamin H. Bissell, a former resident and a native of this place, who has acted as curate at a church in Cambridge, England, for the past year, has been appointed vicar. He is in full charge until another vicar is appointed. The work is keeping him very busy, in part, meantime, the parish being a very large one, numbering about 12,000. Mr. Bissell is delighted with the old world atmosphere and finds his work abroad full of interest.

Mrs. Grinton I. Will, statistician for the town, is spending the week-end with her husband of the Yonkers Public Library.

Owing to the snow storm Thursday evening the women's bridge club party was postponed until next week. A few members gathered at the home of Mrs. Marietta Horton and her sister, Miss Marion Gott, for a friendly game, however.

Miss Susan Pendleton and her niece, Mrs. Charles C. Sellers, returned from a delightful three weeks vacation trip to Bermuda, on Thursday, sailing on The Monarch of Bermuda, of the Furness line.

Grimly determined to regain their lost basketball prestige, the National Guards began their victory campaign last night by trimming

Harold Mattson

Broad Brook on the latter's floor to the merry tune of 38 to 28, staging a brilliant last half rally that overcame Broad Brook's 17 to 16 margin at intermission.

Reversal of Form

It was the Guards' eighth triumph in fifteen starts to date and their second in their last seven starts. The town champs displayed a complete reversal of the poor form shown in recent games and clicked smoothly from the outset to keep on even terms with their opponents, despite the limited confines of the floor. Every member of the Guards' quintet, with the exception of Gustafson and McHale, tallied from the floor, not once, but twice each.

Mattson Stars

Harold Mattson was the local scoring ace, dropping three double-deckers and making good on four tries from the complimentary circle. Broad Brook gained an early lead and clung desperately to its margin through the first half.

The Guards came back after halftime and swiftly went to the front, gradually piling up the comfortable advantage that meant victory. Tyler and H. Geissler featured for Broad Brook.

LOTS OF COMPETITION IN WEEK-END HOCKEY

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Although the Canadian division race has been limited for the present to a private argument between the two Montreal clubs, there is room for plenty of keen competition on the National Hockey League slate this week-end.

Going into the five game program two teams, the Chicago Blackhawks and the New York Rangers, are tied for the American division lead, with the Detroit Red Wings only a point behind.

Tonight the Rangers play the Maroons at Montreal while Toronto entertains the Ottawa Senators, last place club of the Canadian group. Tomorrow the Leafs hop to Detroit to face the Red Wings while Chicago plays host to the Boston Bruins and the Canadiens clash with the Americans at New York.

Announce Bout As Draw But Canzoneri Wins It

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—Tony Canzoneri had demonstrated his terrific superiority over Cleto Locatelli for the second time in six weeks today though it took a recount to get it into the record books. A small crowd of 5,000 saw the former lightweight champion give Locatelli another fine going-over in 12 rounds at Madison Square Garden last night, then listened in amazement when Joe Humphrey announced the decision as a draw.

But it turned out to be all a big mistake in the scoring of the judges, Abe Goldberg and Leach Cross, the draw verdict was cancelled and Canzoneri given a well merited decision. Both judges actually had voted for Canzoneri instead of splitting their Mechanics No Match for Veteran Quintet, Bow 42-26; Seconds Lose 31-16; Locals Host to Windsor High at Rec Next Tuesday.

Manchester Trade' inexperienced and luckless cage quintet ran into its eighth straight defeat yesterday afternoon, bowing to a veteran Plainville High aggregation at the School street Rec by a score of 42 to 26. Plainville went into an early lead and maintained its margin right to the final whistle.

Taylor and Corlett featured for the victors while Phelps and Raguskus went best for the Mechanics. The Traders will be host to Windsor High next Tuesday afternoon at 8 o'clock, a team that trimmed the local 31 to 19, in a previous encounter.

Manchester Trade's second j also took a beating from Plainville, losing 31 to 16. The visitors took a big lead in the first half and battled on even terms through the remainder of the game. Earl, featured for Plainville and Staklinski and Cowles for the Traders.

McCluskey in Two-Mile Millrose Event Tonight

New York, Feb. 8.—(AP)—The 27th annual Millrose A. A. games, featuring a renewal of the foot racing duel between Glenn Cunningham of Kansas and Gene Venka of Pennsylvania, will be held in Madison Square Garden tonight with prospects for a capacity audience of 16,000. The 26 event program begins at 8:15 p. m.

Despite the presence of Olympians, record holders and National champions in many other events, the Redman Wanamaker mile is the big magnet. The field will consist of Cunningham, Venka, Glen Dawson, of Oklahoma, Joe Mangano of Cornell and Frank Crowley of Manhattan, but it seems likely it will turn into a private fight between Cunningham and Venka. Venka should give Cunningham a terrific battle tonight though the Kansas defeated him consistently over the eight furlong route last season.

Among the other features are the high jump with George Spitz and Walter Hardy, indoor and outdoor record holders respectively; the 10 mile, with Ray Sears of Butler, Joe McCluskey and John Follows; and the pole vault, with Keith Brown of Yale.

Local Sport Chatter

The most logical explanation of the National Guards' litesless play this season attributes the cause to the decided decrease in attendance at home games. For some unexplainable reason the fans have withdrawn their support of the team and the slim crowds at the Armory have given the players no incentive to do their best. If local fans want a winning team they'll have to back the Guards to the extent of coming to the games.

We had a talk with a local authority on basketball the other day and he made no bones about calling Raymond "Doc" Campbell the best player in the state. Campbell is the scoring ace of Anasid's Masons and formerly played with the Rec Five. Campbell was on the bench in the final clash between the Rec Five and the Guards for the town title last season and it is the belief of this person that the Rec would have been on the long end of the 28 to 25 score if Campbell had been used in the last quarter.

Although Coach Wilfred J. Clarke isn't enjoying a very successful season with his Manchester High team he is decidedly optimistic about the future, pointing out that he is developing much fine material in the high school cage leagues which are in action every week at the Armory. He has been keeping close watch on every team in the leagues in order to discover material that can be used in molding the varsity quintet next season.

A town title series is much to be desired this year, not only to settle the question of basketball supremacy, but from a financial viewpoint. If such a series is to be played, it would be best if the West Side Recs, Anasid's Masons and the Y. M. C. A. to get together as soon as possible and arrange for a playoff, the winner to challenge the Guards for the town title.

Joe McCluskey seeks his third straight victory in the two-mile event of the Millrose games at New York tonight. The Herald has made arrangements to carry a special broadcast of the race Monday, written by Alan Dugout, sports editor of the Associated Press.

The West Side Boys Club will oppose the Swedish Five of Hartford this evening at the West Side Rec at 8:30 o'clock.

The Y. M. C. A. cage quintet will face the Emeralds of Hartford at 8 o'clock tonight at 9 o'clock, the Y Intermediates meeting the Collegians in the preliminary at 8 o'clock. The visiting team boasts a strong lineup and the Y will have to be on its feet to return a winner. Campbell and Waterman are expected to be in the local lineup.

The Bristol Hockey club will be unable to meet the Hartford Indians at the Central Rec as previously scheduled. Jack Whelan, manager of the Indians, was unable to book a substitute game. He regrets disappointing local fans but the circumstances were beyond his control.

WHO'S WHO ON THE ALLEYS

By JOHN A. DERIDDER Vice President, N. D. F. B. C.

INTRODUCING GEORGE L. ISEMANN Who is George L. Isemann? He is the "father" of the national duckpin movement. George first saw the light of day on January 18, 1890. He attended Central High in Washington, D. C., where he distinguished himself as a printer and hurdler. George pitched semi-pro baseball with teams in and around the National Capital and even had a try-out with a major league team.

During his spare time he sang baritone in the choir of St. Mary's Catholic church. When war was declared George joined the Army, anxious to go to France, (especially Paris) but his eyes failed to make the grade, and he was assigned to the general office in the War building. Following this was the thought he would become a lawyer, and soon he had his home littered with all sorts of law books. The subject seemed to have been too dry for a peppery youngster like George. So he next took a chance selling automobiles and real estate.

Organize Congress Bowling under proper conditions has been one of Isemann's aims from the start. He is of the opinion that in any games of sport rules should be carried out to the letter. To bring this about, his first move was for the registration of alleys through the country. With all alleys registered and all being equal, bowlers all over would be on the same footing. During the present season Connecticut has displayed the most progress for there are more alleys registered in this state than any other state in the Union. Foul line bowling is another of his main points to become a successful bowler. Much credit for the registration of alleys in Connecticut is due to the fine work being performed by George Parker of Willimantic who is in charge of the inspection and registration of the alleys. In Hartford every one of the public alleys are registered and this year new leagues are observing the foul line than ever before.

Ready to Assist In years past every one was claiming championship. They sprang up overnight coming in so fast that it was hard to keep up with them. Isemann adopted a set of rules that are now being carried out that gives to both men and women the only way to make a bowler. Much credit for the registration of alleys in Connecticut is due to the fine work being performed by George Parker of Willimantic who is in charge of the inspection and registration of the alleys. In Hartford every one of the public alleys are registered and this year new leagues are observing the foul line than ever before.

Does Perfect Job During the National tournament held in Hartford last year on the Morgan Recreation alleys, an official of the National Congress, I had the pleasure of working with him on many questions and not once did he display a bad temper. He was always ready to hear both sides of a question before he made a decision. And for the time through the public press I will state that in my opinion no other living man could have handled the details of the tournament any better and during the twenty-one days that the tournament was running not a hitch came up that caused him to change the schedule. He had outlined previous to the opening night. Isemann has mustered an array of workers to help build up the Congress in all sections of the country and such men have proven to have proven more successful. One of Isemann's aims is that in any city where the duckpin game is popular it is necessary to organize a local association that should build up the game and handle championships and such organizations. In Connecticut such organizations are working with success in Hartford, Waterbury and New Haven and soon similar organizations will be started in Bristol, Middletown, and in Bridgeport.

COX LEADS FIELD BY SINGLE STROKE Enters Final Round of Agua Caliente Open Determined to Win This Time.

Agua Caliente, Mex., Feb. 8.—(AP)—Wilfred Hiram Cox, resolution turned to the final round of the Agua Caliente $7,500 open golf championships today determined that history should not repeat itself.

The 36-year-old Brooklyn professional held a stroke lead with 18 holes to play, just as he did three years ago. But in 1931, Cox blew up under pressure, took a 79 on the final round and finished in a tie for eighth.

Johnny Golden, who was a stroke behind, went on to win the title in a play-off with George Von Elm after they had tied for the $10,000 first prize money and $3,500 second place cash.

It was the same story today, except that Cox hoped the ending would be different. His 210 for 54 holes of play was three strokes under par, but only one ahead of Willie Hunter, 41-year-old Culver City, Calif., pro, who had a 211.

At least three others were in striking distance. This trio was composed of Olin Dutra, Paul Fungva, defending champion, and Ky Lafoon, young Denver professional, who owes his place among the leaders to the fact that his tee shot on the ninth yesterday hit the green squarely and tricked into the cup. Their totals were 214.

A victory is worth $1,500; second brings $1,000.

ST. JAMES JRS. WIN A fighting Forbes' basketball quintet went down to defeat before a quick passing, accurate shooting St. James basketball team Thursday afternoon at the St. James gym by a score of 26-26. It was a thrilling battle all the way, first one team taking the lead only to lose it to the other. With seconds to play and Forbes' leading 25-25, the St. James team shot a basket to tie the game. It was about three minutes before Forbes' team shot a basket to win.

Manchester High lost its last chance to improve its standing in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League last night by taking a decisive trouncing from East Hartford High on the latter's court. The final score was 34 to 15, the result being that East Hartford will enter the league as the third place team, while Manchester remains tied with Middletown for fourth place.

Standings the Same. The results of last night's league encounter caused no changes in the standings of the teams, as Bristol kept its slate clean by chalking up its thirteenth straight victory at the expense of West Hartford, 48 to 20, and Meriden walloped Middletown, 31 to 21. West Hartford is still in the cellar with seven straight defeats.

Manchester was given a fine chance to topple East Hartford and gain a tie for third place last night, due to the fact that East Hartford needed an overtime win in the first encounter, 29 to 23, and since that time had slipped into a slump and taken it on the chin from admittedly inferior opponents.

Sadly Outclassed. But Manchester failed to fulfill pre-game predictions and was badly outclassed by an aggressive East Hartford team that pressed hard from start to finish. The Red and White seemed to play hard enough but the team lacked the vital spark of fighting spirit and initiative to win, performing like so many automatons. Their showing was disappointing to extremes and brought little hope to loyal fans that the team will be able to furnish New Britain High with much opposition at the local Armory tonight. It seems unlikely that Manchester will again enter the winning column this season, unless a radical change comes over the team.

The first half of last night's contest was played on fairly even terms, both teams scoring four times from the floor. Excessive fouling by Manchester gave East Hartford ten free tries, five of which were converted in the fourth quarter. A 13 to 9 lead at halftime Manchester's passing attack against East Hartford's zone was continually broken up through constant interception of passes, Manchester finding it well nigh impossible to break through, due to the small surface of the court. The locals' shooting was also off and they missed with greater and greater frequency at such times as the ball was worked into shooting range.

Seeds in Baseline. East Hartford started to click after halftime and went to the front by a 19 to 9 margin, at which point Coach W. J. Clarke removed his entire varsity lineup and substituted his reserves. East Hartford continued to pile up its advantage, Manchester being powerless to stem the tide. A double-decker by Earl Judd was the only local tally from the floor in the third quarter and another Earl in the fourth quarter yielded Manchester's scoring. Chopus, Berman and Foran featured for East Hartford.

Prelim a Wow. The preliminary was an exciting, hard fought tussle, marred by incompetent officiating. East Hartford defeated the local seconds in the closing minutes of play, 36 to 33, after a rousing, nip and tuck battle in which the lead see-sawed back and forth. East Hartford took a 12 to 7 lead at the end of the first quarter but Manchester cut it down to 19-16 at halftime. East Hartford held a one-point margin at the end of the third quarter, 27-

M. H. S. Mermen Trimmed By Crosby High, 55 to 20

Manchester High's aquatic team, an outstanding contender for the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League title this season, proved an easy victim for a brilliant Crosby High aggregation in Waterbury yesterday afternoon. The local mermen went down to a 55 to 20 defeat as Crosby chalked up its 11th consecutive victory in dual competition.

Crosby won first place in every event but the 100 yard back stroke, captured by Leary of Manchester in ten and four-tenths seconds. Stedehals of the Red and White took two places, third in the 100 yard breast stroke and second in diving. Messer, Carney and Brennan of the local team each took a third place.

Trial of Mankus for Throwing Hot Water on Son Is Put Off Till February 17.

The case of Stanley Mankus, Sr., accused of throwing hot water on his son, Stanley, during a fracas at their home at 132 Hilliard street on January 2, was again postponed today. The police court this morning, the date for trial being set for February 17. Young Mankus is still a patient at the Memorial hospital, suffering from second degree burns, and the case will not be tried until he is able to testify. His condition was said at the hospital to be "very good."

NOVA SCOTIA FLOODS FOLLOW WARM SPELL
Halifax, N. S., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Minor floods confronted Nova Scotia today as spring-like weather enveloped the greater part of the maritime provinces.

The mild spell followed in the wake of a howling winter gale that swept the coastline in company with a beating rainstorm. Roads were inundated in some municipalities from melting snows and over-flowing streams but no estimable damage was reported.

The steamers Svaristar and Jersfeld were safe in harbor at Saint John, N. B., after long, desperate battles to preserve their coal cargoes, brought from Scotland and Wales.

With abatement of the storm came relief for dozen families on Devil's Island at the mouth of Halifax harbor, temporarily isolated by ice floes and crashing breakers that prevented fishermen from launching their boats to obtain much needed food and other provisions.

FIRST S. A. OFFICER HERE TO RETURN
John E. Fletcher, Now of Springfield, To Be Speaker Tomorrow.

Colonel Wallace Winchell who has been conducting a mid-winter revival camp-meeting at the Salvation Army will give the last of his addresses tomorrow evening. Tonight he will present his illustrated lecture, "Gangs of New York" at the Citadel, at 7:45. Tomorrow morning he will speak at the Wetherfield state prison.

At the inspirational meeting at the Citadel tomorrow afternoon at 3 the speaker will be John E. Fletcher, a director of Trinity church, Springfield, Mass. Mr. Fletcher was the first man to officially open the Salvation Army in Manchester, being at that time, 1886, outpost sergeant at Rockville. A printer by trade he worked on the Rockville Journal, published by the late Thomas S. Pratt of that place. He married Lieutenant Tesh who was stationed at the infant Manchester corps, and entered the Army work. For five years he was in Mich., and with Colonel Winchell. In a letter received by the latter, inviting him to speak tomorrow, he replied:

"I sit here panoramas of the Sunday meetings at the cross-roads of the Center at the Congregationalists, Methodists and other whole souled christians, who wanted a place in the open ring and add their testimonies to ours of the all-powerful saving grace of our heavenly Father through our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ."

"You ask, 'Can you come?'" he answered, "I resist such a treat to be with you again, recalling the past days of youth in a place pregnant with memories of the good of my back in the eighties though seeming but a few days removed from the present."

"It might interest you to learn that the Manchester Herald was born in the printing shop where I was the printer's devil during a season that I was laid off at the cotton mill because of sickness. I pulled the first proofs on a Washington hand press and distinctly remember the deep concern of the late F. Wood S. II., its founder, for the balance and proportion of this first copy."

"When I gave my lectures in Tinker Hall in September 1921, I had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Ellis and his Manchester staff and he gave me abundant publicity. I had two weeks and had a profitable time and the churches benefited from it. My theme was "Practical Psychology." It was in the summer of the severe business slump after the Armistice, and I felt the inner urge to get out and do something."

STATE'S TOBACCO MEN GATHER IN HARTFORD
Hartford, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Growers of all kinds of tobacco attended the 51st annual meeting of the New England Tobacco Growers' Association today at the state capitol.

President Andrew C. Steels of Warehous Point, presided. Harold B. Waldo of Glastonbury, secretary, reported the deaths of three life members.

Addresses were made this morning by Commissioner of Agriculture Olcott F. King and Dr. Paul J. Anderson, director of the Windsor tobacco station.

The feature of the meeting this afternoon was the address of John B. Stinson, chief of the tobacco section, agricultural adjustment administration.

SETBACK TOURNAMENT TO END THIS EVENING
The fifth and last sitting of the present setback tournament at the Masonic Temple will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. The tournament has been well patronized to date and another large crowd is expected this evening.

The regular prizes given at each sitting will be awarded tonight, consisting of first and second door prize. A special prize, for the highest score for the entire series, will also be awarded. Following play, refreshments of sandwiches and coffee will be served.

The next tournament will start next Saturday night.

POLISH NATIONALIST BISHOP IS DEAD
Delegation from Local Church Going to Chicopee for the Funeral Tomorrow.

Rev. Peter Latas of the Polish National church on Golway street announces that the only mass at the church tomorrow will be at 8:30 a. m. Immediately after this service, Rev. Latas and a delegation of the church people will leave for Chicopee, Mass. to attend the funeral of Bishop W. Gawrychowski who was National church. He was also chaplain of the American Legion of Chicopee. His funeral will take place at 11 a. m. tomorrow forenoon. The delegation will return in time for the 7 o'clock tomorrow evening. The dress rehearsal will be held this afternoon at 3. Tonight at 7 o'clock a meeting of the board of directors will be held at the church.

DEPRESSION'S END TO BOOST COSTS
Princeton Economist Asserts Living Costs Will Double at That Time.

New York, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Prof. Edwin Walter Kemmerer, writing in the New York Sun, predicted today that the cost of living will be more than double that of last November when the depression is over and the results of the Roosevelt administration's dollar devaluation have completely worked themselves out.

Kemmerer, a monetary expert who is professor of international finance at Princeton University, forecast a general price level 118 per cent higher than last November's and a cost of living 126 per cent higher. He emphasized that these results would take time.

Each winning two points. F. Wenzler had high three string with 357 while W. Gess and F. Werner tied for high single with 134 and F. Wenzler was one pin behind with 133.

SENSE and NONSENSE

AT FORTY YOU WONDER WHERE TO PARK YOUR CAR, BUT AT TWENTY YOU WONDER WHERE TO PARK YOUR CAR AND GIRL.

Brushville Constable (to Brushville citizen, who had been knocked down by a passing motorist) — You didn't notice his number did you? And could you swear to the man? Brushville Citizen — I did swear at him but I do not think he heard me.

The following is from a newspaper reaching our desk: "The car left the highway, went down an embankment and landed in the river where it turned turtle." Appropriate, to say the least, say we.

Mose — Yo' car sho' do shake a lot tonight.
Rastus — Man, it am only quiverin' now. Jes' wait'll we pass de graveyard.

The only "Arms Conference" the younger generation is troubled about is that staged in the rumble seat of a fivver.

WHILE IT TAKES SOMETHING LIKE FIFTEEN HUNDRED NUTS TO HOLD AN AUTOMOBILE TOGETHER IT REQUIRES ONLY ONE TO SCATTER IT ALL OVER SOMEBODY'S FRONT PORCH AND YARD.

First Motor Cop — Did you get that fellow's number?
Second Motor Cop — No, he was too fast for me. That was a mighty pretty girl he had in the back seat, wasn't it?
First Motor Cop — It sure was.

Tough Luck.
"It's tough to be doggone homely," wailed
Poor Jane, a maiden all forlorn.
"No shiek e'er stops before your house
And for you madly blows his horn."

She was buying her first car. The salesman was trying to make everything perfectly clear to her non-mechanical mind:
She — Yes, I think I understand what the carburetor is for, and the differential and the transmission and all those other things you have explained to me. Now please show me the depreciation. All my friends who have cars tell me that depreciation on the average car is terrible.

Salesman (grasping for air a couple of times, then recovering his poise in a masterly effort) — Madam, there is no depreciation on our cars. Realizing the vast amount of worry and expense entailed by this troublesome feature, by an ingenious application of the latest principles of automotive science our engineers have eliminated it entirely. Other car builders will eventually follow suit, no doubt, just as soon as they can make the necessary changes in design and machinery. In the meantime, as always, we lead, others follow.

On the highway if you meet a car with a man at the wheel with a bottle in one hand and the cork in the other, or a woman at the wheel with a lipstick in one hand and a cigarette in the other, you had better look out, for it is likely to be the "end of a perfect day."

SPARE PARTS — You can tell quality folks. They make the chauffeur get out to buy the hot dogs... Fast driving at least keeps you from being late for your engagement with the coroner... Nothing makes a veterinarian sorer than to take his car to a mechanic... The crying need today is for fewer one-way streets, and more one-girl boys... If time is really money, the hitch-hiker should be pretty well fixed... Taxidermists and taxi-drivers are different in that they skin different kinds of animals... The one-eyed auto continues to get by but at some discomfort to the other fellow... Everything is all right as long as we are able to ride out the depression on pneumatic tires... Our idea of a real traffic jam is when two trucks loaded with jelly meet head on on the highway... In spite of the depression, the signs in front of tourists' homes impress one there is a large crop of chicken dinners... The dog has his day, the cat his night, and the road hog has all Sunday afternoon.

YOU CAN TELL WHEN YOU ARE APPROACHING A COLLEGE TOWN, SAYS A LOCAL MAN, BY THE INCREASED NUMBER OF POINTING THUMBS.

Many a man who owns a Lincoln (not adv.) envies the high school kids the fun they have in their fivver that has gone collegiate.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Mississippi ranks as the twelfth state in the nation in cheese production, manufacturing more than 5,000,000 pounds last year.

Hens will reduce their production of eggs and finally cease laying entirely unless they are supplied with fresh water.

Specimens of Mississippi's natural resources have been placed on display in the old capitol building at Jackson.

Roguesque cheese can now be made from cows' milk in this country instead of from sheep's milk, as in France.
