

RIOTS FLARE ANEW IN PARIS STREETS

Communist Bands Start Trouble; Several Fatalities, 1,000 Injured; Dou- mergue Issues Appeal.

Paris, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Communist bands which had created a night of terror were cleared from miles of riot-ridden streets just before dawn today.

Unconfirmed reports told of several fatalities.

Shots were freely exchanged. There was hand-to-hand fighting, and pitched battles across burning barricades.

Thousands of police participated in the drive against the rioters.

At dawn, the police held the Place de la Republique—a Communist rendezvous. Earlier, columns of rioters had split into small bands. There were a hundred or more hot fights simultaneously over an area a mile square in northeast Paris.

While the night-long fighting raged, Premier Doumergue ordered proclamations posted calling upon all Frenchmen to "do your duty" by refraining from rioting.

There were no details concerning the reported fatalities, but police listed 37 of their own number, as wounded, some by gunfire. They estimated the number of rioters injured at 1,000. Hospitals held 140 persons hurt during the fighting.

When police finally gained control of the streets, telephone poles were down and dozens of streets were strewn with wreckage.

Today the premier and the 20 so-called statesmen hand-picked for his "salvation ministry" concentrated on plans to end disorders and show the world "this country has no need for a dictator to assure its existence."

Doumergue had spoken of his desire for immediate action on questions of foreign policy. He had pointed to the imminent need of a balanced budget. But government officials saw in last night's outbreak a taste of what Monday's 24-hour general strike, called by the French Federation of Labor, might bring.

The rioters called their demonstration "the last word of the people."

CONNOR MAKES ANOTHER PLEA TO MOTORISTS

Encouraged by Last Week's Success, State Official Again Asks Autoists to Drive Carefully.

Hartford, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Anxious to prove that the success of his plea for careful driving was no coincidence when the state last week-end set a record of no automobile fatalities, Michael A. Connor, state commissioner of motor vehicles, renewed his appeal today.

In a move endorsed by Governor Cross, Commissioner Connor last week-end broadcast a statement vigorously urging safe driving, and nearly every newspaper in the state gave it prominent display. There were no fatalities over the week-end.

In the three preceding week-ends, the toll had increased from five to seven and then to eight, in automobile accidents. Newspapers in all sections of the state again today were carrying the commissioner's second appeal, as he sought to show that death on the highways can be diminished.

EXPECT FURTHER DELAYS IN THE STATE CONTESTS

Battle in Committee Over Fifth Connecticut District Tends to Put Off an Early Decision.

Washington, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A battle within the elections committee over Martin E. Gormley's contest against the election of Representative Goss in the Fifth Connecticut district, may delay the committee's report several weeks.

Representative Gavagan, Democrat, New York, chairman, said a sharply drawn fight loomed, and indicated the committee membership was almost equally divided. Party lines within the committee have been broken, he said, with members of both parties lined up for or against either candidate as they place differing interpretations on the evidence.

Thursday's executive meeting adjourned without any decision. From inside the committee room voices could be heard raised in vigorous discussion, but it could not be learned whether or not they discussed the contest. Another executive session is not expected until late next week, depending on the House calendar.

AIRCRAFT SHARES DROP IN MARKET

Cancellation of Contracts Starts Heavy Selling at Opening of Exchange.

New York, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Cancellation of the air mail contracts prompted heavy selling of aircraft shares in the early dealings in the New York Stock Exchange today.

Added to this depressing influence was anxiety over high marginal requirements proposed in stock exchange legislation, and a quarterly dividend of only 25 cents a share by Chrysler, against 50 cents in each of the two preceding quarters.

Douglas Aircraft opened with a sale of 3,000 shares at $19.37, off $3.75; North American Aviation opened with 11,500 shares at $4.12, off $2.82; Curtiss-Wright opened with a transfer of 15,000 shares at $4, off 25 cents. The opening of United Aircraft was delayed.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The position of the Treasury February 9 was:

Receipts, $10,219,698.99; expenditures, $43,654,026.69; balance, $4,881,486,343.24; customs receipts for the month $7,198,704.33; receipts for the fiscal year (since July 1), $4,578,240,081.91.

Expenditures $3,785,223,461.26 (including $2,074,974,937.33 of emergency expenditures); excess of receipts $788,016,620.65.

DEATHS, BLAZES FOLLOW STATE'S COLDEST SPELL

Man, Exposure Victim, Woman Burned to Death; Big Fire in Hartford, Another Reported in New Britain.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Slowly rising temperatures today brought relief from the intense cold the last 48 hours which established new records throughout Connecticut and left a trail of death and damage by fires.

The U. S. Weather Bureau branch in New Haven today reported an official low last night of one degree below zero with the temperature remaining steady throughout the night.

Readings during the night and early today showed the mercury failing to rise beyond one above zero in that period, but with the appearance of the sun today, it was expected a slow easing of the cold would follow.

SENTENCE ALCORN TO A LIFE TERM

Another Member of Boettcher Kidnapers to Pay Penalty—But One Left.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Feb. 10.—(AP)—The Boettcher kidnapers were at the end of their trial today.

Their leader—Verne Sankey, known as America's Number One public enemy—who chose to kill himself by hanging in the state penitentiary rather than submit to the law, was in a morgue, while the outcome of Mr. Alcorn's fight for life, will be charged with first degree murder. The youths are William J. Warren, 21, of 11 Wooster street, and Robert L. Bates, 19, of 115 Bellevue street, negroes, and Salvatore Spagna, 20, of 36½ Morgan street, and James Bozanno, 20, of 285 Market street.

FIND NEW CLUES IN KIDNAP CASE

At Least Five Persons Saw Kidnapers' Car; Its Num- ber Was Taken Too.

St. Paul, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Fresh clues—meager, but still holding possibilities—gave police and Federal investigators new hope today that awaiting his burial next Monday here he may be permitted to apply for a commutation of sentence and a subsequent parole.

Two other members of the gang, Arthur Youngberg and C. W. Peace, were arrested some time ago and already are serving prison terms for their part in the affair.

BASIC WORK WEEK IS NEXT NRA GOAL

Mass Meeting on March 5 to Initiate a Reemploy- ment Campaign.

Washington, Feb. 10.—(AP)—A leaning by the NRA toward a basic work-week of 32 hours for American industry was intimated today as Administrator Hugh S. Johnson summoned a mass meeting of all code authorities for March to initiate a re-employment drive.

Immediate explanation was given by Johnson that there would be no flat demand for all industries to assume a 32-hour week. In fact, he stated no hour reduction would be forced. He gave intimation, however, that a suggestion would be advanced for a considerable shortening below the general 40-hour level where possible.

Private Fliers Stripped of Their Contracts by One Swift Government Blow— Some Companies Say It Will Force Them Out of Business—Others Clamor for a Hearing.

Washington, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Private fliers of the American air-mails, stripped of their valuable contracts by one swift administration blow, cried out today for a hearing.

President Roosevelt's wholesale abrogation of existing airmail contracts, issued last week, becomes effective February 19. On that date the planes of the United States Army will begin flying the mail.

Demolition with a single pen stroke of the airmail subsidy structure was accomplished on grounds of collision in the obtaining of the contracts.

Operators of airlines holding airmail contracts were quick to deny any collusion. Some frankly said that loss of the contracts might force them out of business.

Victim of Holdup Passes Away—Murder Charge Against Suspects.

Hartford, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Abraham Klein, 49, who was shot when he resisted a hold-up in his grocery store at 23 Judson avenue, East Hartford, a week ago tonight, died of his wounds in the Hartford hospital shortly after 9 a. m., today.

His death may mean that the four youths, captured Tuesday evening and held without bonds pending the outcome of Mr. Klein's fight for life, will be charged with first degree murder. The youths are William J. Warren, 21, of 11 Wooster street, and Robert L. Bates, 19, of 115 Bellevue street, negroes, and Salvatore Spagna, 20, of 36½ Morgan street, and James Bozanno, 20, of 285 Market street.

AUSTRIA'S STATUS REMAINS CONFUSED

Chancellor to Continue Peace Parleys But Socialists and Nazis Defiant.

Vienna, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss' heroic efforts to weld Fascists and anti-Fascists of Austria into a happy family presented a confused picture to observers today.

An optimistic government spokesman said that Dollfuss' peace negotiations would continue at least over the week-end without a definite decision.

Plot Is Uncovered

Despite Socialist denials, they claimed to have uncovered "an unprecedented criminal plot of Bolshevism and Marxist element." Guns and bombs were said to have been found.

The raids climaxed a government anti-Socialist and anti-Nazi campaign. The Fascist Heimwehr Home Guard in which Fey is a leader has threatened to split from Dollfuss in his fight on the Nazis unless he dissolves the Socialist and all other political parties, too.

Let us prove that efforts at safe driving really had much to do with it. "If we can keep this week-end free of killings also it will demonstrate that effort does count and we can all feel that 'something can be done' about the terrific number of killings and that we are doing it."

"So I call upon the motorists of the state to exert their efforts once more in this direction. Let us drive safely, not recklessly. Let us remember that courtesy toward the other fellow is needed in a motor just as much as on foot and that it is a large factor in safety.

TWINS BORN UNDER TWO DIFFERENT ROOFS

Girl Arrives at Junior Street Home But Boy Prefers to Be a Hospital Baby.

Twins, a boy and a girl were born this morning to Mr. and Mrs. John Bujanczuk of 34 Union street, one at home and one at the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Miss Jessie Reynolds, welfare nurse was awakened at 1 o'clock this morning and told that an ambulance was needed to convey Mrs. Backus to the hospital.

At 1:40 the door bell rang at Miss Reynolds' apartment and the ambulance driver told the nurse that he had gone to the Bujanczuk home and found that he was too late. A baby girl, had been born, but there were signs of events yet to come.

MISS CHENEY ADDRESSES COSMOPOLITAN CLUB

Former Representative Tells Women's Group About Phase of Child Welfare Work.

Miss Marjory Cheney, former representative at this town, and well known to local audiences, was the guest speaker at the meeting of the Cosmopolitan club yesterday afternoon in the parlour of the South Methodist church.

Miss Cheney for a number of years has been interested in child welfare work and favors fostering parent care as compared with that given children in the county homes. She explained her reasons very fully. The development of a child in one of these families, she said, approaches that in a child's own home. They are less exposed to diseases in the private than in the county home. They have the privilege of association with children in the community and an opportunity for all-around development, in Miss Cheney's opinion.

She spoke of the work of the Children's Aid society, which for years has been successful in placing children in homes, visited by workers in the employ of the society before the children are sent there, and periodically visited by these field workers.

Miss Cheney deplored the high cost to the state for feeble-minded persons, about 4,500 now in the state training school at Mansfield and more than 900 on the waiting list of that institution.

Mrs. Raymond Burnham presided at the meeting. Mrs. C. E. Watkins was hostess for the afternoon, and the children are sent there, and periodically visited by these field workers.

Wheat and Rye Crops

Wheat and rye already planted which is not well covered by snow may also be ruined, agriculturists said, as well as the grass, alfalfa and clover crops.

The sub-zero weather has had an immediate effect on dairy production, it was reported at the State Milk Control Board, with a drastic curtailment in the amount of milk. This is not serious, however, for milk production has been above the average.

A serious shortage in the egg market also was predicted unless some relief from the cold weather is forthcoming immediately. The only advantage to the cold weather, agriculturists pointed out, is that it may aid in killing many insects which each year attack crops.

ABOUT TOWN

A meeting of the Junior Sons of Italy is called for tomorrow forenoon at 10 o'clock in Tinker hall.

Members of the YD club expecting to attend the banquet tonight at O'Sano's cottage at Bolton lake are requested to meet at the Army and Navy clubhouse at 6 o'clock sharp.

R. Wayne Gardner, president of the Eastern Nazarene College, Wollaston, Mass., will be the speaker at the morning service in the Church of the Nazarene, 468 Main street. Dr. Gardner is visiting the Nazarene churches in New England in the interest of the college. The Nazarene College Radio Male quartet will accompany Dr. Gardner to Manchester and will sing at all services tomorrow.

The men of St. James' parish will have a meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in St. James' hall on Park street, and all men, young and old, interested in social and recreational organization are welcome to attend. There will be addresses, entertainment numbers and a radio installation.

Miss Ann Lindberg of Myrtle street, Miss Minnie Olson of Pearl street and Miss Ellen Johnson of Clinton street are members of the committee of the Swedish Junior League sponsoring a Valentine charity bazaar for Thursday evening, February 15, at the Hartford Bridge Club on Farmington avenue.

The Cecilia club, under the direction of Thomas Maxwell, will provide the major part of the program at 7:15 service at the South Methodist church tomorrow evening. The club will have a number of chorus songs and will present a short Biblical drama entitled "The Ten Virgins," rearranged by Mr. Maxwell. It will be presented in two scenes, a garden setting and an interior. Rev. L. C. Harris, pastor of the church, will precede the drama by a short address.

Wallace Shearer who is employed at the Westinghouse Electric company in Springfield, is spending the week-end at his home on Hilliard street.

Members of the music committee of the Second Congregational church and the Women's League will give a roast pork supper and entertainment for the benefit of the choir, Friday evening, February 23. The choir under the direction of Organist F. A. Wilbur will furnish the greater part of the program. The committee includes Mrs. James M. Shearer, chairman; Mrs. Joseph Wright, Mrs. Frank Phelps, Mrs. Andrew Jespersen and Mrs. Roy Nash. Joseph Wright will see to the ticket distribution.

The first sitting of a new series in setback will be held at the Masonic Temple at 8 o'clock tonight. The usual first, second and door prizes will be awarded and refreshments will be served.

Due to an error, it was misstated in yesterday's paper that no rural mail delivery would be made on Monday, Lincoln's birthday from the Manchester post office. Regular deliveries on the holiday will be made. It was stated this morning by Postmaster Frank Crocker.

COLD WAVE HURTS NEW YORK'S CROPS

Fruit Growers and Grain Farmers Say Loss Will Be Very Heavy This Year.

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Severe losses by New York state fruit growers and grain farmers in 1934 were foreseen today by agricultural officials as the result of the intense cold of the present winter.

Orestes, Wayne, Wyoming and Niagara counties are the major peach producing sections in the state with Columbia, Ulster and Dutchess counties in the Hudson valley region also contributing many bushels each year.

The sub-zero weather has had an immediate effect on dairy production, it was reported at the State Milk Control Board, with a drastic curtailment in the amount of milk. This is not serious, however, for milk production has been above the average.

A serious shortage in the egg market also was predicted unless some relief from the cold weather is forthcoming immediately. The only advantage to the cold weather, agriculturists pointed out, is that it may aid in killing many insects which each year attack crops.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Mary McGann Mrs. Mary (Quinn) McGann, widow of Patrick McGann and one of Manchester's oldest residents, died last evening at the home of her son-in-law, Harry E. Hills, 138 Prospect street after a lingering illness. She was married twice.

Mrs. McGann for many years was a resident of the north end, coming to live at the south end about twenty years ago and making her home on Cedar street, later on West street and going to live with her daughter-in-law in recent years.

She is survived by six daughters and three sons. They are, Mrs. John Spillane, Mrs. Harry E. Hills, Miss Sue McVeigh, all of Manchester, Mrs. Florence M. Waldron and Miss Helen McGann of New York, and Mrs. Thomas Woods of New Britain. The sons are, Patrick J. McGann and Terrance McGann of Manchester and John S. McGann of Hartford.

The funeral will be held at 8:30 a. m. Monday at the home of Mrs. Hills and at 9 o'clock at St. James' church. The body will be placed in the casket for burial at St. James' cemetery.

Marcus Moriarty Marcus Moriarty, 72, a resident of Manchester for 56 years, one of the oldest and best known residents of the West Side, where he has made his home since coming to Manchester, died suddenly last evening. Death was due to a heart attack.

Mr. Moriarty until three years ago was employed by the Navy Brothers, having entered their employ in the spinning department soon after coming to Manchester from Ireland, where he was born. He continued to work in the spinning department until some fifteen years ago when he went to the velvet department, where he was employed until his retirement three years ago. He had not been in good health for year or so, but his condition was not alarming and yesterday he was about as usual. Last evening he visited the home of William Humphrey, 84 Florence street, and it was while there that he suffered the heart attack that resulted in his death fifteen minutes later, shortly after 9 o'clock. Dr. W. F. Tinker, medical examiner gave the cause of death as a heart attack and the body was removed to the undertaking room of T. F. Holloran.

Mr. Moriarty was the father of Dr. Mortimer Moriarty. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ellen Moriarty, two brothers, Hugh E. Moriarty of this place and Eugene Moriarty of Waterbury; a daughter, Miss Hannah Moriarty, who lives at home, and three sisters, Mrs. Catherine Connors of East Hartford and Miss Anna Moriarty and Miss Margaret Moriarty, both of New York.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 9:30 o'clock from the home and 10 o'clock at St. James' church. Burial will be in St. James' cemetery.

BOY SCOUTS GATHER FOR ROOSEVELT TALK

Manchester Troops Mobilize at Armory for Celebration of 24th Anniversary. The blare of the fire whistle at 11 o'clock this morning summoned Manchester Boy Scouts to the State Armory in the local observance of the nation-wide obligation of Boy Scouts as part of the twenty-fourth anniversary program of the Scouting movement in the United States.

At 11:30 o'clock, a bugler sounded assembly and the Scouts lined up by Troops for presentation of colors and allegiance to the flag. District Chairman Albert Dewey addressed the gathering of Scouts and the Roosevelt award was presented to Troop 3 of the Center Congregational church.

A radio had been installed in the Armory to receive an address of President Roosevelt over a coast to coast hook-up at noon. The Scouts were scheduled to demobilize at 12:30 o'clock.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS' POWER TO HELP

Text: Matt. 7:1-13. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for February 11.

Our lesson begins with that great principle, or admonition, of Jesus that we call the "Golden Rule."

Jesus did not announce it as anything new or original. It was not something that he had invented, or brought to men from outside their own lives.

Rather, it was a principle in harmony with the integrity of the universe, that already had been emphasized in the Jewish law and the prophets, and that constituted the very essence and substance of true religion in action.

It was in harmony with this insistence on the "Golden Rule" that Jesus emphasized the religious life as one of action. Action, of course, implies character and motive.

But in insisting that men must be known by the fruit of their lives, he was lifting religion out of mere thought, and theory, and speculation, and bringing it into that realm of more active life, in which true character and motives inevitably must find expression.

The profession of religion, no matter how high it might be, is not enough. It is the readiness to acknowledge divinity of the Master in words might be very poor examples of discipleship, if they did not acknowledge and express that divinity in their deeds.

It is amazing that these plain words of Jesus have not had more definite effect upon men throughout the ages. As in the time of Jesus himself, so in every successive period of the church, and in our own time, the tendency has been to lay a great deal of stress upon Christian doctrine than upon putting Christian doctrine into actual living.

Men have been ready even to fight and kill one another over this very doctrine of the divinity of Jesus—a doctrine that, if it had any reality for them, ought to have brought divinity into their lives and have made them kind and loving, even toward those whom they might regard as their enemies.

The ultimate test of a man's life is its real goodness as displayed in his action toward his fellow men. No sanctimoniousness or profession of piety, no formal alliance with the church, nor any other organization, can mark a man's life as good if his heart be corrupt and his words and deeds are mere pretense and where high integrity was not displayed in actual deeds.

Need one point to the institutions of assumed strength that have been swept away? On the other hand, here and there are institutions which, maintaining integrity of an individual, or of a group, preserved in spite of the storm.

It is not true, moreover, that institutions have stood or fallen in proportion as they were built upon sound foundations of honesty in purpose and in dealing?

In every phase of life, if we would but realize it, men and institutions are known by their fruits.

HOW MAN IS LIKE A TREE

By GEORGE HENRY DOLE

International Sunday School Lesson, Feb. 11: "Every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit is hewn down and cast into the fire."

A tree and a man are made on the same pattern. A man is a tree on the human level. Reproduction is similar in them. Botanists have regarded some trees as masculine and others as feminine. Because of the similitude of a man and a tree, Scripture often calls a man a tree and likens him to trees.

The blind man upon the restoration of sight, first saw men as trees walking. Man is a walking tree. Notice the marvelous likeness of the mind to a tree. It will give unlimited insight into numerous passages in Scripture.

A tree has roots in the ground, which puts up a stem. The stem grows into a trunk, which grows thicker and higher and puts out branches above the other. The branches divide and subdivide and the branches bear leaves. By means of these come flowers. Then comes the green fruit which gradually ripens and higher and puts out branches above the other. The branches divide and subdivide and the branches bear leaves.

Heavenly things grow in the mind like plants from seed. The Lord is the Sower. The seeds are His teachings. His truths grow like seeds, first the blade, then the ear, and after that the full corn in the ear. The prolifications in a tree are unlimited, but the power of multiplication of truth and good in a single seed from the Word, immeasurably surpasses all else.

Plants the garden of your mind full of them and watch their growth.

and divide and subdivide like branches of a tree. From perception come rational truths, like leaves from branches. Recall, the leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. Then come flowers, which are spiritual truths, and lastly there is the fruit, ripened, the purpose of our creation, as in the fruit of a tree.

The sun does not make a tree grow. Sun, rain, and earth but provide the conditions for growth. The inflow of life from the Lord causes growth. The mind does not grow of itself. The mind grows from the inflow of life from the Lord, just as sap flows from the vine into the branches. "I am the vine; ye are the branches." If a tree is useless, it is cut down. If one turns the life inflowing from the Lord into evil thought and desire, his mind will reject influx from the Lord, and of his own will he casts himself into the fire of consuming passions. Heavenly things grow in the mind like plants from seed. The Lord is the Sower. The seeds are His teachings. His truths grow like seeds, first the blade, then the ear, and after that the full corn in the ear. The prolifications in a tree are unlimited, but the power of multiplication of truth and good in a single seed from the Word, immeasurably surpasses all else.

Plants the garden of your mind full of them and watch their growth.

Plants the garden of your mind full of them and watch their growth.

Plants the garden of your mind full of them and watch their growth.

Plants the garden of your mind full of them and watch their growth.

Anderson-Shea Post, V. F. W. Meeting.

The regular meeting of Anderson-Shea Post was held Tuesday evening February 6 in State Army at 8 o'clock. A short service was held in memory of the Comrades of the Spanish War who gave their service or life in our Nation's cause for foreign soil or hostile seas.

V. F. W. Radio Hour The third annual "Hello America" broadcast of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be presented Thursday night, February 15th, at 11:30 o'clock, over the Blue Network of the National Broadcasting Company in New York City.

Remember the Maine February 15, 1934, will be the thirty-first anniversary of the destruction of the U. S. battleship Maine. This tragedy cost the lives of 262 American officers and men, and formed one of the direct causes of the war with Spain. The Maine, a battleship of the United States Navy, was on a mission of peace to a friendly government, was blown up at 9:40 o'clock on the night of February 15, 1898, entombing the bodies of the American officers and men who were trapped in their quarters.

A large and impressive Veterans of Foreign War membership is the strongest factor for every enterprise we undertake. A large membership means a large group of organized voters. Large groups of organized voters are the only groups that command respect from public officials. You can help by enlisting new recruits to add to our present forces.

Annual Party The annual V. F. W. party this year will be a joint affair with the Post, V. F. W. Post No. 140, the old Douglas, Clarence Wetherill, William Barron, Neal Cheney and Lawrence Redman have been elected to the committee to arrange for the affair for the Post. Pass any suggestions you have on to any member of the committee.

Recreation Center Night Comrade Clarence Peterson has been elected chairman of the committee for the annual Veterans night at the Rec. Members wishing to sign up for any of the teams see Comrade Peterson and file your entry.

County Council Meeting The next meeting of the Hartford District Council will be held in Middletown on Sunday, February 11, 1934. All delegates and alternates are urged to be present. It would be possible for Manchester members to go down to Middletown in a group. Make arrangements with Commander Cheney.

American Legion Auxiliary The first February meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held Monday evening at the State Army.

Plans for the membership supper were perfected, the supper to be held at the Y. M. C. A. on North Main street. The supper is for adults only, and the price of admission is $1.00. A small sum to cover cost of supper. Mr. McVeigh asks that all members attending be at the hall at 6 o'clock, so as not to keep the supper waiting.

Our membership is coming in, slowly but surely. At the present time we have 107 paid up members, but the membership chairman would like to be able to report 125 members at the end of the month.

Mrs. Hess contacted the Congressman and Senators in regard to the Legion Four-Point Program, and has received favorable replies from Senator Walcott, Congressman Koppelman and Representative-at-large Edward Dewey.

The Auxiliary is again to sponsor a Poppy Poster Contest in the Grade and High schools, a prize of $25.00 to be given to the winning pupil in each group. This contest is held each year, in connection with the Poppy Drive.

The Welfare Sewing Circle was started again, the first meeting held at the home of Mrs. Mary Brosnan, at which time garments for the Welfare Committee were started.

We are very glad to hear that Mrs. Mae Wilde, who has been confined to the hospital, is able to return home.

Connecticut by means of an educational campaign made much progress in the immunization of children against diphtheria during the past year. Harold T. Dyson, past grand chief of care of the 40 and 8 Miss Emma East, Chairman of the Auxiliary held Saturday afternoon at the Hotel Bond.

R. F. Gates, of the Child Welfare Committee of the Legion, Department of Connecticut, president of the American Legion Auxiliary, Mr. Dyson told of the work done in co-operation with the State Department of Health in educating the people in the prevention of diphtheria. A death rate of only 1 in 100,000 for the state in 1933, was far better than the records of some other states, he said. Mrs. Marietta McDonald, New England field secretary of the Legion National Child Welfare Division, praised the Department of Connecticut for its work.

The meeting of the Junior Group will be held Tuesday afternoon at the State Army. At this time a flag will be presented to the group, by the Americanism Chairman of the Auxiliary, and it is to be hoped that there will be a good attendance.

British War Veterans The regular monthly meeting of the Mons-Ypres Post, will be held Wednesday evening, Feb. 14, at 8 o'clock in the Army and Navy Club. A full attendance is requested as this will be the first meeting to be presided over by our new Commander, Albert Lindsay. We would be pleased to have every member present.

Quartermaster George Parks reports that his son, Jack, who has been very ill this past five weeks, is now very much improved. The boy had to undergo an operation two weeks ago since then has recovered rapidly. We wish the boy the best of luck and pray for a complete recovery soon.

It took a lot of hard work to get our bowling team out of its slump, but they came through last week by taking three potshots in the league leaders, the fast Army and Navy club. Here's hoping the boys will continue the good work.

Adjutant Arthur McGowan and Comrade Sandy Pratt representing the Mons-Ypres Post attended the proposed committee meeting which was to be held in the School Street Recreation building last Wednesday evening to formulate plans for the ex-service men's night which will be held on Friday, February 23. Due to the non-appearance of delegates from the other ex-service groups the meeting was postponed until next Tuesday.

The committee requests that all members who intend to take part in the ex-service men's night be present at our next meeting so that the names may be taken for the different events.

The condition of Comrade Joe Barr remains unchanged. He is still seriously ill at the Memorial hospital.

The Y-D Club will hold its annual banquet tonight in Osano's cottage in Bolton. We can't be in spirit and hope they have a good time.

Mons-Ypres Auxiliary The sewing circle of the Auxiliary held their weekly meeting at the home of Mrs. J. A. Pratt on Eidge street last Tuesday evening. Following the sewing refreshments were served and a pleasant time was enjoyed. The circle will meet next Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. James Hamilton.

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 21, the ladies of the Auxiliary will start a series of card parties. This will be the regular weekly meeting night of the Auxiliary which is held on Wednesday of each month. Following the meeting party will begin. These card parties will be open to all who care to attend.

As we would especially ask the ladies of the Auxiliary and the members of the Mons-Ypres Post to be present and to bring all their friends along. Prizes will be awarded to the winners and refreshments will be served as well as a little entertainment. Brown in Come and bring your friends.

Ward Cheney Camp, U. S. W. V. The regular meeting of the camp was held at the army, Thursday, Feb. 8. Commander Lawrence Cheney presiding. Few members were at the meeting, the cold weather keeping members at their firesides.

Comrade Curtis is on the gain and we hope to see him with us again soon.

A meeting of the monument committee will be held at the home of Commander Lawrence Converse, Feb. 14 at 8:30 p. m. All members are requested to attend. Comrade Arthur Keating is suffering from a bad cold this week.

Mary Bushnell Cheney Auxiliary U. S. W. V. The regular meeting of the auxiliary was held at the army Wednesday, Feb. 7. President Rose Converse was in the chair. One new member, Miss Margerite Lahey, was admitted. The following committee were appointed by the president: Legislative, Mrs. Phelan, Mrs. Eaton, Mrs. Warren; relief, Mrs. Hilton and Mrs. Buchanan; auditing, Mrs. L'Heureux, Mrs. Bell and Miss Keating; hospital, Mrs. Waterman, and Miss Custer; child welfare, Mrs. C. Sinnamon and Mrs. Dugan. It was voted to hold a food sale at a later date.

It was voted to observe the anniversary of the sinking of the battleship "Maine" at the next meeting at which time special observance of Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays will be noted.

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Lewis is improving in health and hope she will soon be with us.

The anniversary of the birthday of the auxiliary will be observed March 7. A supper will be served by the members of the auxiliary.

TUG FOUNDERS AT SEA CREW REACHES SHORE

Parrboro, N. S., Feb. 10.—(AP)—Her plankton torn by jagged ice floes, the Parrboro tug Vanessa foundered early today in the Bay of Fundy while steaming from Saint John to Parrboro. Her crew of four, driven to the lifeboat 10 miles from the mainland, made shore after rowing six hours in a bitter sub-zero sea.

Captain F. M. Tupper of Parrboro and his three fellow-towmen were exhausted and weak from exposure when they finally reached Horseshoe cove, near Cape Dor. Spray, whipped up by a strong northwest wind, coated their lifeboat and stiffened their scanty clothing.

With Captain Tupper were Captain A. B. Taylor, George Fullerwell and Burton Doyle.

The tug left the New Brunswick port last night, and was off Isle Haute, in Midway when she ran into the ice. She was shattered and the tug's sides finally and water poured in swiftly.

NO MORE SKYSCRAPERS?
 Discussing the plight of small home owners in New York on whom will fall much of the burden of lowered valuations on huge buildings, Mayor LaGuardia has expressed the belief that nobody "will live to see another skyscraper go up in this city."

While there are few Americans who have not been thrilled, either in the actual presence of the miraculous commercial towers of New York or by their tens of thousands of representations in printed photographs or in motion pictures, there are thousands who have never once gazed upon those amazing structures without an inexplicable but persistent feeling that, somehow or other, they were "all wrong." Wrong spiritually and wrong economically; wrong even artistically, despite their overwhelming grandeur.

There are any number of persons who are capable of high stimulation by the superlative movement and streaming of the life of the metropolis, who get a tremendous kick out of the consciousness of being in the midst of the biggest thing in the world—and the noisiest and the most crass and the most flou— who have never gotten out of the skyscrapers anything but a depressed and beaten down consciousness of their own littleness; and a feeling that the building up of these unreal and unbelievable piles was, like the building of a coral island, accomplished by the sacrifice of uncounted and uncountable entities.

The skyscraper is the physical manifestation of a period of economic madness—a period not likely to be revived. It is doubtful if there ever was a real economist in the world who, if he had applied himself to the question of the economic validity of the skyscraper would not have finished his calculations with the determination that such enormous contraptions had no economic validity at all. It is doubtful if there is a level headed engineer anywhere who, if put to full responsibility for the physical validity of the skyscraper, would not have refused to assume it.

For the better part of a generation the skyscraper has been rearing its facade and its pinnacles into the sky, dwarfing and belittling the upgrowth of a tremendous city over many generations, fouling the populace into swarms of lesser ants and massing human flesh and blood into a mere stuffing for its gargantuan carcass.

The skyscraper is like something in a dream but the dream is a nightmare. It is a tremendous thing to gaze out upon the city and its miles of environs from the topmost limits of the Empire State Building—but it is one of those tremendous things that quite possibly add nothing to the inner happiness of him who partakes of them.

It is a question whether a man can preserve the same sense of his own value and his own responsibility if he spends his days along the Broadway canyon as if he lived in a town of one-story buildings. And it seems to us there can be no question as to which is of the more account in the scheme of this world—a skyscraper, insensate and at best needless, or a man—with a soul.

If Mayor LaGuardia is right, and if no more skyscrapers are ever built—in New York or elsewhere—we suspect that will be all right with God.

STOCK REGULATION
 The apparent decision of majority leaders in Congress to make haste slowly in the matter of the proposed stock market regulation is well advised. This is not emergency legislation. Stock speculation is not, at this time, one of the great national dangers or handicaps; it is not likely to be for some time to come.

There is not the slightest question about the necessity of a drastic reform in the nature and scope of the speculative securities markets in the not too remote future. But such legislation is a good deal like legislation directed against common gambling—it is easy to pass some sort of a bill but no one yet has ever drawn and had passed an effective one.

If the present Congress should not pass any stock exchange control measure at all the result of such failure could hardly be disastrous, or even highly important. Certainly not before another Congress comes in will the burnt public have so far forgotten its sufferings as to play with the fires of 1929-30 over again. And it is vital that when a stock exchange regulatory measure shall be adopted it shall be bombproof and completely operative.

This is one Congressional job where good workmanship is more to be desired than haste.

BYRD'S MISSION
 We have found a man, a scientist, who when asked if he thought there was any real value to such expeditions as those of Admiral Byrd, unhesitatingly responded "Yes."

"You see," he explained, "there are as you know literally millions of people who never in their lives have experienced, consciously at least, adventure; whose most wildly exciting personal experience was the one time they saw a dog attack another dog on the street; people who, from their mode of life, their environment, have no reason to expect the slightest contact with adventure in their own persons. And yet the thrill of adventure is one of the most precious attributes of human life. An utter lack of it, or even of hope of it, leaves the existence of such shut-in and circumscribed people pretty drab."

"To such folks such an enterprise as the Byrd expeditions, with their elements of danger skillfully played up and with their picturesqueness and unusualness projected by radio and wireless stories into their very lives, as it were, supplies a vicarious thrill and uplift that, when you think it over, must be worth all the expeditions cost."

"Admiral Byrd knows the people. He is a splendid showman. I am sincere in saying I believe that there is very real value in what he is doing."

This was all new stuff to us and we were impressed. "But," we asked, "how about the scientific value?"

"Well," replied the scientist, "isn't enriching the lives of millions of human beings a pretty fine science?"

Convinced, we say, "Hurrah for Byrd and Little America." It has also just occurred to us that even bologna is pretty good food.

EATING AND WORKING

People who have to work for a living—which, in one way or another, includes just about all of us—will be interested in the recent statement of Dr. N. I. Kramogowski, famous Russian physician, that the human brain needs to loaf for about an hour after one eats a meal.

To be sure, most people who have enjoyed the feeling of mental lassitude that follows a good dinner always have suspected this. But the Russian doctor made laboratory tests to prove his point.

Nerve reactions are definitely slower after one has eaten, and usually about an hour elapses before they attain normal speed again.

And the worker profitably might take heed of this fact when he goes to lunch. If the brain loafs after a meal, it logically follows that it loafs more after a heavy meal than after a light one.

The wage-earner who does anything resembling brain work will find his efficiency badly impaired if he stuffs a big feed into himself every day at the noon hour.

SAVE THE WILD LIFE

Arthur Newton Pack, president of the American Nature Association, urges American friends of wild life to protest vigorously against proposed cuts in the Congressional appropriation for the U. S. Biological Survey.

These cuts, if put into effect, he points out, would eliminate the division of food habits research, and the investigations of water-fowl, and greatly reduce the acquisition of bird refuges and the protection of migratory birds.

enormous totals being spent for other projects.
 Preservation of wild life has been a program close to the hearts of many thousands of Americans for years. It would be highly regrettable if the program should collapse because of the government's financial difficulties.

WHAT PRICE REPEAL?

It is a little bit surprising to read that construction of seven new cutters for the Coast Guard, at a cost of $11,520,000, just has been authorized by the Treasury Department. In applying for funds from the P.W.A., the department announced that these cutters will be used to suppress rum running.

It is easy to understand, of course, that the laying of stiff import duties on liquor shipments will provide an incentive for smugglers; and it is only proper to recall that the Coast Guard was on duty against smugglers long before anyone ever dreamed of a federal prohibition law.

Nevertheless, this business of seven new cutters to stop rum runners is a little disturbing. Most of us, probably, had expected that repeal of the 18th amendment would put the rum runner out of business almost automatically. Aren't the fruits of repeal to be quite as rich as we had supposed?

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, Feb. 10.—Songs and sonnets have been written about it and that, village queen; but books will be written about the Queen of Greenwich Village.

For name is Cynthia White, and she looks less Bohemian than you'd expect—snapping black eyes, a ready grin, and feminine clothes. No air of languor or mystery, no nine-inch cigarette holder, no penchant for Surrealism or for poetry that doesn't make sense.

Cynthia is the Village Queen because she has lived all her life there, has known all the colorful people there for more than twenty years, and because she typifies the kind of honest liberalism that made the Village what it was. Also because she is about to give for the seventeenth time the annual Greenwich Village Ball, high spot of the year in Bohemia.

When she says, "Come when you like, with whom you like, and wear what you like," a few thousand people start dragging mandarin robes and Apache outfits out of the mothballs. With a lot of the gals, the question mainly is what not to wear. "Discreet," only do be discreet!" cautions Miss White. And they are, more or less.

Just the same, the police reserves have been called out several times to handle the mobs of would-be spectators trying to crash the gates of Webster Hall.

Hiring a Hall

It all started away back in the days of the Gullotine Society, when fervid patriots were looking askance at the Village's anti-militarists. The society decided to give a dance to raise money, but when an assortment of reds and pinks including Irving Caesar and Mike Gold, Harry Kemp and Louis Weitzenkorn (who wrote revolutionary poems long before he turned out "Five Star") appeared for the permit, it was denied them. . . . Webster Hall had been rented though, and some use had to be made of it. So Cynthia White said she'd take over the contract and give a Greenwich Village Ball. Willy Pogany drew the poster that has been used ever since.

She was born on East Houston Street, and knew the narrow, twisting streets of the old Village when she was a child. She went to a normal school and became a teacher—for two months. She became interested in suffrage, picked the White House, was arrested, and almost was disowned by her conservative family for getting her picture in the papers. She took part in the food plots of 1914, and made fiery speeches on street corners. She became identified with radical organizations and rendezvous—the Gullotine Society, the Liberal Club, and TNT, the tea room that Sammy Schwartz conducted.

Rendezvous of Authors

The Village Queen remembers when Polly Holiday ran the Greenwich Village Inn, where Harry Kemp, Floyd Dell, William Henrik Van Loon and their crowd talked about Freud and free love and the Hell Hole on Fourth Street, a favorite hangout of Eugene O'Neill, Maxwell Bodenheim and George Cram Cook. . . . and Jack's, where Benjamin De Casseres liked to sit and tell stories.

where gathered characters more curious than the curies he sold. She recalls Don Dickerman, when he was a toy-maker before he became a night club joy-maker. . . . Barney Gallant when he managed restaurants and the Village theater, instead of a speakeasy. . . . John Reed, long before he went to Russia to die and be buried against the wall of Lenin's tomb. . . . Earl Carroll, coming incognito to her ball to look for Vanities talent. . . . Playwright O'Neill meeting Charlotte Montet for the first time at the ball, and later marrying her. . . . Billy Seeman meeting Phyllis Haver at another Village revel; another marriage.

Cynthia travels a lot now—Florida, Havana, Europe. Her interests have widened too—a finger in politics occasionally; consultations on social and theatrical enterprises. Dozens of Broadwaymen have asked her to manage night clubs. But New York to her still means just one thing—Greenwich Village.

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE

BY DR. FRANK MCCOY
 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, for reply.

PEAS CONTAIN VITAMINS
 The green peas which are so familiar to everyone are an important member of the family leguminae. They were originally a native of Southern Europe and Asia, and have probably been used for food in the Orient for thousands of years. Even in Europe they were cultivated years before the dawn of the Christian Era. These seeds have been found in the lake dwellings of Switzerland, showing that they were used as a food during the Bronze Age.

This hardy annual is found with two main types, one with a wrinkled seed and one with a smooth round contour. While the plants are usually grown for seeds, there are several varieties with thick green edible pods, which may be eaten very much as we use green beans, and which are extensively used in Europe, but have not been well introduced in this country. The vines in the different varieties may vary from 12 inches to 12 feet in length.

The average shelled green pea contains 74.5 per cent water, 7 per cent protein, 5 per cent fat, 15 per cent carbohydrate, 1 per cent ash, containing good amounts of potassium, sodium, calcium, magnesium, phosphorus and sulphur. The dried pea contains a smaller amount of water, containing only about 15 per cent. It contains a larger amount of protein, approximately 22.5 per cent, and fat 1.8 per cent, carbohydrates 52 per cent, and mineral matter 2.5 per cent.

The fresh or canned green peas are especially valuable because they contain good amounts of vitamins A, B and C. The canned variety may be used to advantage in regions where other fresh vegetables are not obtainable. The dried peas may be cooked in soup or like dried beans. They should be considered a starchy vegetable and not used at the same time with acid foods or with other proteins. The very small green peas may be classed among the non-starchy vegetables, although as the pea becomes more mature it contains a larger amount of starch. Here are a few recipes which you will find interesting.

French Style Peas
 Wash one head of lettuce, thoroughly drain, and chop into small pieces. Add one cup of water and two pounds of peas, weighed before shelling. Cover and simmer for thirty minutes. If canned peas are used, the lettuce should be cooked for fifteen minutes before adding the peas. When cooked, remove from the fire, add butter and seasoning and serve.

Bacon With Peas
 Shell one pound of peas and cover with boiling water. Add a half teaspoonful of finely chopped mint leaves. Cook for twenty minutes and add three strips of bacon which should first be finely minced and browned in a skillet. Mix and serve immediately.

Peas With Vegetables
 Clean and dice six new potatoes, one bunch of carrots and two turnips. Cook for twenty minutes and add one can of peas. If fresh peas are used, shell two pounds and add at the beginning. Cook until the carrots are tender. Add butter and serve.

Peas In Turnip Cups
 Clean, remove tops and boil large turnips for about fifteen minutes. Remove a slice from the top and scoop out the interior, leaving a shell with a flat surface on the bottom so turnip will stand on its end. Fill with a mixture of equal parts of canned peas and chopped button mushrooms. Place on fire on top, bake until a fork penetrates the turnip shell readily, and serve while hot.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Will Send To Advice)
 Question: X. Y. Z. of Monrovia, Calif., writes: "I have heard that I can obtain some general instructions from you regarding the treatment for tuberculosis, and I want to know if this is possible."
 Answer: Yes, I will be pleased to send you these instructions, and I would suggest that you write directly to me in care of The McCoy Building, 1151 West Sixth Street, Los Angeles. With a large, self-addressed envelope, please enclose eight cents in stamps to pay the postage on the articles.

(Cold Water Not Harmful To Heart)
 Question: Elsie, from Redlands, Calif., inquires: "Would rinsing my face in cold water after washing it with soap in any way harm my heart?"
 Answer: I see no reason to believe that rinsing your face in cold water would damage the heart; in fact, I feel sure that this is a good thing to do as it will aid in toning up the skin.
 (Send Doctor's Report)
 Question: S. C. M. of San Antonio, Texas, writes: "I have been to several doctors and they tell me that my blood is bad. What is the quickest way to get my blood good again?"
 Answer: It is difficult for me to tell exactly what your doctor meant when he said that your blood is bad. I would suggest that you ask him to give you the name of the physician which he found present. If you will write me again and will enclose a copy of his report, I may be able to give you some helpful advice.
 Mrs. Lucille McGirt got out of her machine to crank the motor, accidentally leaving it in gear. The car started, catching her dress in the crank, and crashed through a wall, carrying her into a doctor's office.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, Feb. 10.—White-haired Democrats of other days still stalk about the capital, as well as young professors of the New Deal. Scattered in the big Mayflower hotel dining room the other night I saw large, portly Jesse Jones, little Joe Tumulty, fat Jim Hoey and honest Clem Shaver.

Just a big joke to the Democratic party less than five years ago, Jesse is now chairman of the RFC and one of the most puissant gents in town. He deals in billions. He lured the 1928 convention to his home town of Houston, Tex., where Al Smith was nominated. Democrats left, darning him for trying to pack the whole party into his own hotel and laughing at his hazy vice presidential boss.

Tumulty's name will be remembered as long as he lives, for he was secretary to Woodrow Wilson in wartime. Now he's an obscure lawyer here, seldom heard of and quite content with that.

During the long, savage Madison Square Garden convention of '24, Shaver labored incessantly for Dark Horse John W. Davis. Clem from law practice in a West Virginia town to chairmanship of the national committee. Shaver met inevitable defeat, then labored four years with a deficit. Now he's a "special assistant" in RFC.

Hoey isn't white-haired yet, but adds weight each year. An old sidekick and political manager of Smith, he ran for a borough presidency last fall and was the one man Al Smith supported in the New York election. Roosevelt made him New York's collector of internal revenue after his defeat, which was interpreted as a bid for Smith's friendship, but wasn't.

Keep Power at 75
 Carrie Chapman Catt, the Iowa girl who led the women's suffrage fight for 20 years, still dominates the annual National Conference on Cause and Cure of War, at the age of 75. It's her simple, direct personality, always full of humor.

To get here on time for the conference dinner, handsome Margaret Corbett-Ashby of London, only woman delegate to the disarmament conference, had taken a navy plane from New York. And you should have heard the peace ladies grouse and gossip about that!

Many were restless during the last speech—that of Ruth Morgan, Mrs. Catt's right-hand woman, and there was a rush for the doors at the close.
 Mrs. Catt announced that she wouldn't inform everyone that it wasn't proper for anyone to leave until Mrs. Roosevelt left.
 So everyone stopped in his or her tracks till the First Lady had been ushered out.

Reward for Toll
 Jim Landis—federal trade commissioner, former secretary to Justice Brandeis, and author of the securities act—works till 7 each night and drives to his home in Alexandria, Va. . . . The other day someone forged his name to a $100 check.

$1000 for Table
 Ten "honor tables" at the president's birthday ball at the Shoreham are selling for $1000 apiece. You can't take the tables home. You just sit at them.

First to seize the "honor" was Miss Helen Lee Dames Doherty, daughter of the utilities magnate—Henry L.

Miss Doherty, heroine of a $100,000 debutants party here a season or two ago, cabled from Denmark, where she is secretary-in-charge to U. S. Minister Ruth Bryan Owen.

For a Longer Honeymoon

NO ONE expects honeymoon days to go on forever. For you—or him—to get all-of-a-twitter every time you see each other would be asking just a little too much.

But—beware the stodginess of growing too matter-of-fact—of always wearing "practical" clothes, of always doing the practical thing.

A new and deliciously feminine negligee, a new dress bought just for the joy of it, can set your own heart singing and get a word of appreciation from that serious fellow who pays the bills.

So here's an end to Humdrum!

Turn now to the advertisements and let them take you on an adventure of shopping, and revived romance.

Advertising is one of the reasons why so many women today are so charming. They teach the secrets of the great beauty specialists. They give hints on health of inestimable value. They take you into the confidence of the famous dress authorities of New York and Paris.

ENTHUSIASTS INTRIGUED BY CHILD-NURSE TALKS

Members of Local Board Encouraged by Addresses of State Association Speakers.

Members of the executive board of the Manchester Public Health Nursing association who attended the sessions of the 13th annual meeting of the Connecticut Nurses association the past three days at the Hotel Bond in Hartford, were particularly impressed with the addresses made by speakers in the P. H. N. section, namely, Dr. Joseph L. Linde of New Haven, Miss Elizabeth Fox of the Visiting Nurses association of the Elm City, and Mrs. Daniel Croll, president of the Providence association.

Dr. Linde whose subject was "Objectives in a Child Health Program in the Private Organizations," stated that child health work had been greatly stimulated since the White House Child Health Conference during the Hoover administration a few years ago. Nine haven doctors had formed a larger organization than that in existence for the previous 20 years. Today these conferences are held in schools. In the city of New Haven physicians are having one of the best systems in the country. Where conferences were formerly overcrowded the attendance has been regulated by appointment and it is found possible for a doctor with two nurses and one or two volunteer workers to examine over 20 children in two hours. Consideration is given to prenatal care and periodical health examinations, nutrition and hygiene, protection against defects, including dental hygiene and posture; protection from diseases by immunization. Fully 80 per cent of child health work is through education, according to Dr. Linde.

Problems that harass the mothers are talked over with the visiting nurses and the doctor's time, such as simple and regular feeding, behavior problems, proper clothing and minor ailments. More than half of these conferences are held without the presence of a physician.

Miss Fox who spoke on the same subject, felt that this work through the health conferences, particularly for the infant and pre-school children was a priceless service to the community. During the first year of a baby's life it should be brought once a month to the conference if possible, entirely for health protection, any sickness to be extended to the family doctor. The mother soon learns to know when her child needs the care of a physician.

Salem, Mass.—Second general alarm of fire in 24 hours in Salem caused three-story wooden business block, 23 persons into water. Bad weather and causes damage estimated at $35,000.

Boston.—National Commander Hayes of the American Legion says organization is ready to cooperate with authorities throughout the country in an effort to eradicate crime.

Hartford, Conn.—About 50 persons driven from their apartments by fire in a Malabar street and street furniture store and roars to the second floor before being brought under control. Damage estimated at $50,000.

New Britain, Conn.—Fire destroys the farmhouse of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, near Elm street crossing, damaging two locomotives. A mechanic was seriously burned. Damage estimated at $20,000.

Norfolk, Conn.—Mrs. Frank Smith, 46, burned to death after fire clothing caught fire while placing wood on a fire.

Providence, R. I.—Gunnar store of Westminster street shoe store of $38.85 after covering the store.

Newport, R. I.—Newport topedo station closes over week end as ice prevents ferries from carrying 1,500 civilian workers from the mainland to Goat Island.

HEBRON

Thermometer readings made a lively showing early Friday morning.

At the Hebron reading, the thermometer showed a zero while at the Hiding place on the Amston road, about a mile south of Hebron village, 28 below was reported at 8 a. m. At Paul Coates' place in Hopewell, the thermometer plunged so low that it ceased to register. Twenty-two was reported from Post Hill, near the line between Hebron and Columbia, this being the lowest temperature ever recorded at that point, so far as can be recalled. At the Pendleton homestead the well was frozen over with a coating of ice about an inch thick, the first time it has been known to happen. In general those places located on the lowest ground were the coldest.

The Women's Afternoon Bridge club met at the home of Mrs. Albert W. Hiding, Thursday, from 2:30 to 5:30 p. m. Four tables were in play. Mrs. Mary E. Mitchell won first honors, Miss May Sparks second, Mrs. John Palmer and Miss Ruby Fesse were guests of the club.

Mrs. Edmund H. Horton entertained the Ladies' Afternoon Bridge Club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Two tables were in play. Mrs. Harry Woods won first prize, and Miss May Sparks second. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake, candies and coffee were served.

Miss Eleanor Coates was at home for a day and night this week from her work in Mansfield.

Pupils attending Windham High school had a half day off Friday, owing to the school carnival which took place in the evening. A number of parents and friends of the pupils attended, in spite of the adverse weather conditions. Dorothy Gray, who was scheduled to represent the

LACK OF LUXURY NOTED IN ITALY

Isolde Riva Tells History Class of Trip to Visit Grandparents.

Isolde Riva, of the sophomore class gave a most interesting talk on a trip she took to Italy in 1930, before students of Miss Oates' fourth period history class on Feb. 2.

In 1930, it seems, she was living in Long Island. One day upon returning from school she was greeted with the pleasant surprise that she and her father and mother were going to make a voyage to Italy. Her mother, who is an Italian by birth, wished to go back for a short time to see her own mother and father, who are now 84 and 87 years old respectively. After much ado, they obtained passports, travelers' checks, steamship tickets and all the rest, and sailed midnight, July 8, on board the S. S. Augustus.

They reached Genoa, having stopped for a short time at Naples, on their way. The journey across the Atlantic had been ideal but the stretch between Naples and Genoa was not so calm, and there were many cases of sea-sickness to be contended with. The trip from Genoa to the little town where Isolde's grandparents lived was completed by team and auto, the former being described as funny to look at and extremely uncomfortable to ride in.

Their arrival at the farm was indeed a pleasant surprise for the old folks and it wasn't long before a regular family reunion was held. The farm itself was just outside of Genoa, if one could call it a town. It had but one street, that being very narrow. There was electricity but no running water nor gas. The climatic conditions of the land played havoc with the Riva family at first, but after a few days they had become used to it, everyone felt better than ever.

About a week after their arrival, Mr. and Mrs. Riva decided to make a tour of northern Italy and promptly set out. Reno City was their first stop. A large castle there captured their attention first. The interior of this construction was described in some detail by Isolde. Italy, like Germany and France, has many of these beautiful castles sprinkled over the land and they are indeed quite beautiful. Each one has a garden that contains almost every kind of flower that can be found, and certainly aids in giving such a hugn and usually cold-looking structure a brighter air.

From this the family went to Milan, thence to Venice, and continued their circuit, going through some of the most picturesque and most famous parts of Italy.

The contrast between the life of people here in U. S. with that in Italy is quite sharp. Over there they have very few of the luxuries we have. Even the movies in Italy are not all of the vitaphone type. The pictures are featured in the larger cities only.

The Riva family returned on the same ship which had carried them to Italy. The entire trip, including all expenses, amounted to a little over $3,000.

Twisting A Lion Tale, Or Fooling The Gang

LITERARY WHISTLES

Tall Stories from the Glastonbury Hills Give Campers a Thrill and "Ray" a Big Laugh.

Whistles are of many different kinds, sounds, and meanings. Some signify the end of a day's labor; others warn us that something is being devastated by enraging flames; some remind us of the army of trains all over the country, speeding from one place to the next. There are those that proudly cry to all the earth that some strong, beautiful, and practical maiden of the sea is starting her first voyage over the white-capped waves of that both dreadful, mysterious and fascinating ocean; there are some whistles that suddenly pronounce the fate of a speeding autoist; and there is also the doleful whistle of the wind.

Factory whistles bring to my mind a very vivid picture of men and women pale, haggard and fatigued by hard work, worry, poverty and lack of both sleep and fresh air. When the whistle blows in the morning, to them it probably means just another day of factory routine, but when it dismisses them at night, it must seem like a gift of Providence.

The piercing cry of the fire whistle, immediately suggesting the picture of someone's property being savagely devoured by fire. Even when the recall is sounded, one is not certain but that perhaps a life's work and savings have gone up in smoke; on the other hand, perhaps the property has been saved, although probably not without some damage.

To me, both train and boat whistles suggest people, traveling, traveling, traveling on and on into eternity. Sometimes the shrill whistle of the train makes one wish to be one of the passengers rapidly speeding miles and miles away. The whistle of boats hint at wonderful vacations spent in magical dreamlands around the Mediterranean or on some enchanted tropical isle.

How numerous are the speeding autoists and reckless drivers who are suddenly startled by the shrill whistle of that man in the blue uniform who so inopportunistly interrupts their journey. He is a jolly fellow, if one could call it a town. It had but one street, that being very narrow. There was electricity but no running water nor gas. The climatic conditions of the land played havoc with the Riva family at first, but after a few days they had become used to it, everyone felt better than ever.

TEACHERS' COLLEGE TO ARGUE GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP OF RADIO

Advantages Many

Student There Urges a Course at New Britain Institution.

Ida Reichenbach, a student at Connecticut State Teachers' College at New Britain, recommends the school to all present students who are planning to train for the teaching profession.

Connecticut State Teachers' College was opened in May, 1880, as the State Normal School, with an enrollment of thirty pupils. It is the oldest normal school in Connecticut and one of the oldest in the country. For many years it was the only normal school in the state and it has, at present, over four thousand graduates.

The main library is equipped with tables and reading lamps, a central charging desk and appropriate files. It contains about 12,000 reading and reference books. In addition to this there is a text book library which contains approximately 8,000 text books. The students are trained to use the library through a course which is offered during the early part of the freshman year.

The auditorium, which comprises the left wing of the main building, has, with its balcony, a total seating capacity of six hundred and twenty. Behind the stage of the auditorium is a music room.

The new dormitory, with fifty double rooms and eight single rooms, will accommodate one hundred and eighty students. The regular service in the dormitory provides, in addition to rooms, three meals a day including Saturdays and Sundays. Charge for room and board in the dormitory is $325 per year, payable quarterly in advance.

The dining room is located on the first floor, directly opposite the entrance. For the morning and evening meals the students sit at small tables, with an upper classman acting as hostess.

The living room, which is located on the second floor, is the center of many informal dormitory parties, house meetings, and other social gatherings. The large fireplace, the radio, the grand piano and pictures contribute much to the general attractiveness of the room.

The city of New Britain has turned over to the State, for training purposes, the schools of three districts known as the Cambs, Vance and the Stanley schools. These buildings are modern and well-equipped and each has a gymnasium and auditorium. They are able to accommodate more than fifteen hundred children.

Since the laboratory school is the center of any teacher-education program, much attention is given to this aspect of the work at the college. Each student is required to spend approximately three hundred and seventy clock hours in observation and practice teaching, and especially student-teaching. Under this program not more than two students are placed in any room at one time. Each student must do acceptable work in the laboratory schools before she is permitted to graduate.

EDITORIAL

"SOAP"

GIVE THE OTHERS A CHANCE.

Many high school pupils are unfortunate compared to us. Why? Because they do not have cakes of pure Ivory soap furnished with their showers each week. We, however, are given soap so that we may be able to cleanse ourselves, coming back to our classrooms and refreshed. Many people think it's nothing to be able to have a cake of soap; so they throw it down in the showers, no caring where it lands. Probably it will find its resting place in a pool of water and will be trampled. Many people think it's nothing to be able to have a cake of soap; so they throw it down in the showers, no caring where it lands. Probably it will find its resting place in a pool of water and will be trampled. Many people think it's nothing to be able to have a cake of soap; so they throw it down in the showers, no caring where it lands. Probably it will find its resting place in a pool of water and will be trampled.

So, boys and girls of Manchester High, let's all co-operate with our school. They have to buy all this soap; we can do our part by placing all soap in the soap dishes.

Now some of you bright pupils will innocently say, "Where are these soap dishes?" They are on the walls at the left of the showers. By not wasting the soap, we help cut down on the financial expenses of the school.

EDUCATIONAL

The debating club, formerly under the supervision of Miss Obermeyer, is now continuing under the leadership of Mr. Hartwell, new English teacher.

The sophomore debate previously planned has been postponed for want of time. The club is now working on the triangular debate, which pits them against Middletown and Meriden.

Several members have dropped the club since the membership list was last printed because of the hard work included in their schedule. The remaining members have been working practically every night after school this past week preparing for the tryouts for the final team, to be chosen by a group of teachers the latter part of next week.

The "big" debate this year will be "Resolved: It is better for the Government should own, operate and control radio in the United States."

As yet, no definite parts have been assigned, but several leading candidates for parts are: Marion Fraser, Elizabeth Goslee, Pearl Dreger, James Guthrie, P. Haugan, B. Livingston, K. Wilson and Russell Willson.

VALENTINE DANCE AT TRADE SCHOOL

Low Admission Fee and Novelty Musical Numbers to Feature.

Friends of the Manchester Trade School are cordially invited to attend the Valentine Dance which will be held Monday evening, Feb. 12, at the school auditorium under the auspices of the Student Activities Association.

Music will be furnished by a group from the Trade School orchestra under the direction of John Marszałek, with novelty numbers by Pete Pautalak on his accordion.

During intermission, at 10:15, novelty attractions by the students will be given.

Refreshments will be available and checking is free.

An enjoyable time is assured all attending.

STARTLING FACTS TOLD BY SCIENCE

Here Are Answers to Queries Presented Here Last Week.

Explanations of scientific statements made last week.

1. There is no electricity in a storage battery.

Electrical storage batteries contain chemical energy which may be converted into electrical energy when the proper connections are made. Charging a storage battery merely brings about the proper chemical reactions to prepare those chemicals that may later react to form an electric current.

2. Ice must melt in order to cool a refrigerator.

Cooling anything requires the absorption of heat. Any agent that is used for cooling must absorb this heat. Naturally the absorption of heat by ice causes its melting—assuming, of course, that the temperature of the ice is at the freezing point of water. Wrapping ice in newspaper and other poor conductors of heat prevents the ice from melting. This saves ice but does not cool the refrigerator. A block of wood would cool a refrigerator as much as a well insulated piece of ice!

3. "Shut the door! You're lettin' the cold in!" is fallacious.

"Cold" is a word expressing a lack of heat. We shut a door to keep the heat in!

4. Temperature usually rises during a cold storm.

Slow or rain results from condensation of water vapor. Semi-condensation liberates heat; therefore, during a snow or rain storm the temperature usually rises.

5. No two crystals of water are alike.

Snow is made up of crystals of water. All of these crystals are six-sided but no two have ever been found to have the same structure.

Statements to be explained in next issue by Chester Robinson, practical chemistry instructor are:

1. Frost is not frozen dew.
2. There is not apt to be a frost on cloudy nights.
3. Compress sediment points to the geographical north pole.
4. Milk is 87 per cent water.
5. Ice is a poor conductor of heat.

ENGLISH STUDENTS HOLD COSMOPOLITAN PROGRAM

Many Countries Described by Song, Stories and Costumes; Feature of Miss Casey's Class.

A "cosmopolitan" program was recently given in one of Miss Casey's English classes. Native songs were sung, customs of the countries were described, and folk-lore stories were told. Poems were recited in various languages. Some of the students pronounced names or counted in their language.

Mary Draghi brought in two Italian shawls that had belonged to her great-grandmother. They were hand woven in beautiful designs. Helen Hohl showed two large pictures of the Swiss homes among the snow-capped Alps. Martha Gjellhammer showed some old Swedish coins and two magazines that had been published in Sweden at Christmas time. Frances Godieski brought in a Polish costume, which was modeled by Mary Orlando. Eva Hyson and Harriet Bailey played native songs on their guitars. Some of the countries represented were Italy, Poland, Sweden, France, Lithuania, Scotland and Ireland.

TRY NEW PERIOD FOR ACTIVITIES

Old "Seventh" Held After Lunch to Allow Glee Clubs Practice Room.

A new order of periods was tried on Thursday afternoon. The activities period was held during the usual fifth period time, and then the fifth and sixth periods followed in order. This was necessary because, every other week, the Glee club has access to the Barnard School Auditorium during the fifth period. Since the orchestra occupies the big hall during assembly hall seventh periods, the glee club must avail themselves of the opportunity of using the Barnard School auditorium.

LISTENING TO THE RADIO

One of my favorite pastimes is listening to the radio. Wednesday is my favorite night. I generally get my home work and the dishes done before eight o'clock come around. Then the Boston Minstrelsy ticks my funny bones for half an hour. "Dangerous Paradise" with Elsie Hitz and Nick Dawson, well-known radio actress and actor, thrill me for the next fifteen minutes. "Red Davis" worries me with his mischievous pranks. From nine to half past I read and listen to the music of the "Ipsa Troubadours." After Guy Lombardo with his music, Grace Allen and George Burns keep me entertained for half an hour. Then, my favorite program, "The Fred Waring and His Pennsylvanians" with his soothing music, perfect rhythm, harmony and David Ross's poetic voice, smooths away the worries of the day. Then I remember that school comes again tomorrow and I try to get to bed.

VISITING THE PILGRIMS

When I was a little girl and first heard about the pilgrims across the bay, I wished I could go to Plymouth. Last summer I had the opportunity. The first thing I saw was the Plymouth Rock, placed inside a portico to guard against people slipping off the rock. The rock is not very much left of the rock.

I next went up a hill at the top of which is a statue of Massasoit. A young fellow told me that this is the place where the Pilgrims stood watching the Pilgrims as they landed in the harbor. A few feet from the statue is a large monument which marks the first burying ground in Plymouth of the passengers of the Mayflower. On one side of the monument are carved the names of the people who died the first winter and on another side is carved the following sentence: "About a hundred souls came over in this first ship and began this work. God of his Goodness hath hitherto blessed. Let His Holy Name have Ye Praise. Bradford"

In the old burial ground, some of the stones are so old that it is hard to read what is written on them. There is one stone or tablet there which marks the place where the old Pilgrim foot stood, overlooking the harbor. The thing that disappointed me was that there is none of the original homes of the Pilgrims.

Just outside of Plymouth is a very large statue of a Pilgrim maiden. It is over one hundred feet tall, one finger alone measuring two feet. Last spring lightning struck the statue. There was about one thousand or more dollars worth of damage done. Lightning rods have since been placed on the statue. At the

BASE OF THE STATUE IS CARVING PICTURING THE PILGRIMS

After leaving Plymouth, I went to Salem where I saw the reproduction of an old Puritan Village. The houses were of bark and straw, but some were very dugouts. The furniture was very crude. For beds they had what looked like a large canvas bag filled with straw. This was placed on the floor at night. In the daytime it was hung on the wall. Governor Winthrop's home, which was made of wood, was better equipped with furniture which he brought from England. Other interesting things to see were: the whipping post and the stock which was used to punish people.

RAY AND MAY IN 1970

Ray and May jumped into their swift flying airplane Monday morning in the year of 1970. Ray was nine years old and May was six. They were starting to school for the first time that year. To my school that had just been built in Marsfield, Ray and May knew how to fly a plane, of course, because everyone did—even the three-year-olds. All you had to do was to push a button and there you were flying towards Marsfield. Push another button and down you would land on the roof of the school in less than five minutes.

When they arrived at school they had geography first; therefore they hopped into their plane again and visited Russia. After visiting Russia, they went to France. Their geography lesson was over, and the next lesson was ancient history. How they laughed and pined the girls and boys that lived in ancient times who had to sit in school and study about the different countries but couldn't visit them.

URGES RATIFICATION OF SEAWAY TREATY

Book Maseer Arguments for St. Lawrence Project

An excellent handbook on a live issue is provided in "The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Deep Waterway to the Sea," by Tom Ireland. While the U. S. Senate debates this topic prior to voting on the treaty which would make the seaway a reality, this book presents all the facts about it and arranges a cogent argument in favor of ratification.

The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway, says Mr. Ireland, could become the most important single factor in the transportation system of the continent.

It would give to a third of the inhabitants of the United States a direct connection with world markets. It would enable the west producing area of the middle-west to compete for overseas trade to far greater advantage than now is possible.

It would give the American farmer direct cash benefits on a large bushel of wheat he sold in the foreign market. And it would provide electric power of untold value.

It is the peculiar virtue of Mr. Ireland's book that, he takes up after another, all the objections that have been raised to ratification of the treaty, and answers them.

Would the waterway hurt the railroads? Would it harm the interests of the east and south? Would it be too expensive to build and operate? Mr. Ireland answers "No" to each question, and buttresses his answers with an elaborate display of facts, figures and logic.

All in all he has presented a tremendously powerful argument in favor of the seaway. With the seaway treaty now pending in the Senate, his book could not be more timely.

Published by Putnam, it sells for $2.

WHEN WE WERE VERY YOUNG

Some Sophomore English classes are busily delving into their pasts in an effort to round out an account of these life histories. Relatives and friends have been pressed into service to provide important items, such as: Baby was the cunningest baby ever. Frankie (now a five-foot eleven) had a weakness for playing house, and Ruby-Louise used to go riding on the butcher's cart.

TEN CENT WORD?

Freshman English 6 and 7 are coping with the word, "metamorphosis," located in the story "Silas Marner," which tells of a fervent church-member, embittered by false accusations, who finally gains happiness by means of an orphan baby.

FOREIGN MAPS SENT TO HISTORY CLASS

Several of Mr. Farr's history classes are beginning to work on foreign maps of European countries. Last week they received many different maps, hotel circulars, and pamphlets of places of interest from the Greek Ministry of Interior. The maps are like those which the Socooy Company issues. They mark the highways, towns, airports, and picnic grounds. Many of these pamphlets are printed in the German and French languages.

They expect booklets and maps from Germany and France.

INTERESTING WORK

One of the most interesting occupations I ever watched was the retreading of old tires. My brother works for a firm which specializes in retreading tires. A friend and I, wishing to watch this process, went into the shop after school. We were shown the whole thing by my brother.

First a worn smooth tire is roughened and cleaned by an electric buffer, removing any trace of the old tread on the sides. One coat of rubber cement, which is like liquid, is put on the tire and allowed to dry thoroughly. This takes about two hours. Again another coat is put on and thoroughly dried. Camel back rubber, partly cured, coming in large rolls is then put on the tire. The tire is clamped in the mold, which has a steam pressure of forty to forty-five pounds. This is kept in this position for forty to fifty minutes. It takes almost all the strength a man has to lift the tire out of the mold. There are small sections in the mold called matrices which make the tread on the tire. When the tire comes out, it looks like new.

The tire has to be free of oil or water because they cause a steam bubble between the carcass of the old tire and the new rubber. The steam bubble has to be cut away and the whole process goes over, causing a waste of time and money.

If a good quality of rubber has been used and pains have been taken in the process, these tires will go about ten thousand miles. They sell for about half the price of a new one.

ROCKVILLE

SUB-ZERO WAVE HITS ROCKVILLE BUSINESS

Garages Over-Active But Stores and Theater Suffer from Stay-at-Home Consequences.

The extreme cold spell on Friday proved a big handicap to the business of the community when the temperature was reported as being as low as 35 degrees below zero.

A great variation in the temperature was reported throughout the day but it remained close to zero the greater part of the day.

The temperature fell below zero about 9 o'clock Friday afternoon and accompanied by the high wind it was very unpleasant and kept many people from attending either the Firemen's Fair or the Palace theater.

The different garages and filling stations were kept busy all through the day helping to start automobiles which had been frozen while left unworked. No serious damage was reported to any.

Scouts Gather at Noon.

Troop No. 14, Boy Scouts of America, gathered in the Superior Court Room, Memorial Building, this noon at 12 o'clock to hear President Franklin D. Roosevelt deliver his radio broadcast to the Boy Scouts.

This is part of the celebration of the 24th anniversary of the forming of the Boy Scouts.

As part of their anniversary celebration the Boy Scout Troop members wore their uniforms to school on Friday.

The Girl Scouts held a meeting also this morning at the Methodist church and presented the Boy Scout troop with a birthday cake.

Scoutmaster A. E. Taylor was in charge of the gathering of the Boy Scouts today and many friends and relatives were also present at the broadcast in the Superior Court room.

Post Laureate Coming. Announcement will be made at the services at the Union Congregational church tomorrow of the coming of Wilson MacDonald, Canada's poet laureate, who is to come to Rockville on Sunday evening, February 18. Mr. MacDonald comes on invitation of the pastor, Rev. George S. Brookes and will read some of his poems.

CWA Remains in Again.

The CWA workers, who have been working outside for the month, were again unable to go to work yesterday morning because of the extreme cold spell. This made the fourth day they had lost because of the cold.

Many of the CWA workers will not receive any pay at the next distribution of the checks as they were not at work at all during the past week although many reported to work each morning.

A larger number were kept at work on their inside work in the Memorial building yesterday. As more painters had been put to work it was necessary to put about half a dozen men to work washing the woodwork and walls ahead of them.

Aviation Field Here.

The possibility of a state airport being constructed close to the Rockville line, but in the town of Ellington, presented itself yesterday when Charles L. Morris, state airport supervisor, sought ground in this locality.

The authorities of Ellington have suggested a site about 100 acres in area on what is known as Moseley Plains. This site is owned by Morris Silverthrust and is located between Sudd's Mills and Job's Hill, close to the Hathaway farm.

The site as yet has not been inspected but Henry Felber, first selector, has been in communication with Charles L. Morris, the State Airport Supervisor. It is expected that between $10,000 and $40,000 will be expended in this work. CWA funds and local labor would be used.

Probate Court to Close.

Judge John E. Fahey of the Probate Court, which has an office in the Memorial building, issued a notice yesterday that the local probate court would be closed on Monday, Tuesday and Friday, February 19, 20 and 23.

This arrangement has been made because of the men working in the Memorial Building are to give three days towards repaying the Probate Court rooms.

Judge Fahey stated that he was given due notice so that there would be no one disappointed by trying to seek an appointment during this time.

Employment Office.

Plans are under consideration for the opening of a Federal Re-employment office in Rockville soon after March 1. Captain Leonard J. Maloney, Veterans Placement representative, has been in Rockville this week looking for a suitable location. Mr. Maloney will take charge of State Director of Re-employment after March 1st.

At the present time all the territory surrounding Rockville, which includes practically all of Tolland County, has been served from either Storrs College or Willimantic.

Postmaster George E. Dickinson has tendered the Civil Service room at the Rockville Post Office for such a location. Should this be accepted it is hoped to direct all CWA and PWA work from this one office. Complete details are to be announced very soon.

Democrats' Luncheon.

At the Democratic luncheon at the Rockville hotel on Monday evening the toastmaster will be Thomas L. Arkin, associate judge of the Rockville City Court. The list of speakers will not be announced until tomorrow.

Plans are under consideration for election of permanent officers at its meeting on Monday evening as the matter was deferred at the meeting held on December 21st. County Coroner John H. Yeomans of Andover, who has always taken an active part in Democratic politics, is to be one of the speakers on this occasion.

Fair to Close Tonight.

After a successful two days, the 38th annual fair of the Rockville Firemen's association will come to a close in the town hall this evening.

A very interesting entertainment program was presented both on Thursday evening and again last evening. One of equal merit is to be presented this evening.

Many visiting firemen are expected to be present this evening as the guests of the Rockville firemen. Both modern and old fashioned dancing will be enjoyed to the music of Arthur Stein's orchestra.

The date selected for the annual senior dramatics of the class of 1934 of the Rockville High school is Friday, April 6 at which time they will present a play in the auditorium of the George Sykes Memorial school.

George Bilas of Rockville, who had several toes amputated at the Hartford hospital on Thursday after being frozen, is reported as resting comfortably.

Mrs. Walter H. Robinson will entertain the members of Sabra Trumbull Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at a bridge in the parish rooms of St. John's Episcopal church on Tuesday.

Improved Order of Red Men, No. 51, will hold a Past Chiefs' Night at the meeting on Tuesday evening. The chairs will be filled by the Past Sachems and it is expected that many visitors will be present in Red Men's hall.

James Galavin, president of the Rockville High School Alumni Association who has been a patient in the Hartford hospital has returned to his home much improved in health.

Rockville Branch, No. 2012, of the United Textile Union, have elected the following officers: President, William Dunlap; secretary, Frank Casan; recording secretary, Max J. Schmidt; treasurer, Frank Penick; conductor, Frank Kralek; sergeant-at-arms, George Winters.

Many Rockville 4-H teachers and workers are to attend the Tolland County gathering which will be held at the Community House at Storrs this evening at 7:45 o'clock. The annual County Achievement program will be discussed at this time.

Miss Gertrude Gardner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gardner of Manchester, presented a dance number at the Firemen's fair on Friday evening which was well received.

NEARLY ALL FIREMEN TAKE PART IN REC NIGHT

Listen to Music, See Boxing and Have Numerous Sports Contests.

Nearly all the active firemen in the six Manchester companies were guests of the Recreation Center last night for "Firemen's Night". Opening the evening's program in the main gymnasium, the four DeBardo brothers sang "hill-billy" and other popular songs. Bruno, 12 years and Victor 10, especially delighted with the songs and music duets. Tony and Peter are the senior members of the family. They played trumpet, violin, banjo and guitar. Albert Falcetti and his accordion also won plenty of applause.

Boxing exhibitions followed between George Beeny and Henry Schetz and two seven year old boys, Patrick Humphries and Eddie Fagan. The next two exhibitions were between members of the boxing class, each being of two rounds.

"Earl and Sam" entertained while the refreshments were being partaken in by the firemen.

At pool, playing for No. 4 Elevens and Stratton won from Keeney and Brennan of No. 1, North End; Eca-bert and Anderson of No. 2, South End, won from Smith and Hunt, No. 1, South End. In the semi-final, No. 2, South End, won from No. 4, South End; the finals being won by Yost and Keeney of No. 2, North End.

The volleyball matches found only four teams playing with the No. 1, South End, defeating No. 1, North End, 15-2 and No. 4, South End, winning over No. 2, North End, 15-9. The finals were won by No. 1, South End, from No. 4, South End, by the score of 15-2.

The bowling matches, were between two man teams, each bowling three games with the highest team score for the games counting and ended as follows: Winning team, No. 1, North End, with Schwartz, Tony and McCarty hitting 604; second, South End No. 3, with Joyce and Messier hitting 589; third, No. 1, South End, Lashinski and Bitwell, with 585; fourth, No. 1, North End, Messier and Brennan, with 578; fifth, No. 4, South End, Gravano and Sherman, with 575, with No. 2, South End, taking sixth place, Joyce and Larson hitting 542.

In the basketball games, Hose Company No. 1 defeated Hose Company No. 3, 10 to 5. The winners held a 4-3 lead at halftime and managed to stay in front to the final whistle. Angelo and Maloney starred for No. 1 and Hunt and Suhle featured for the losers.

In the other game, No. 3 turned back Hose and No. 4 by the astonishing score of 6 to 4, leading 4-2 at halftime.

Married Flirts

MABEL McLELLIOTT

REGIN HERE TODAY GYPSY MORE L. and TOM WEAVER are married on the same day as LILA HOTALING and DEREK BLISS but Lila's wedding is a society event while Gypsy's is very simple.

While Lila lives in luxury Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. She keeps her job teaching until she learns she is to have a baby.

Tom frequently away in the evening and Gypsy suspects he is interested in VERA GRAY. One day she sees them going to lunch together. She is heartbroken and refuses to listen to his explanations.

Lila contented with Gypsy, but she intends to divorce Derek and marry M A R K O BROUGHTON, richer and older.

Gypsy's father is seriously injured in a motor accident and she and Tom rush to the Morell home.

Meanwhile Lila tells Derek she wants a divorce.

He was kind, Gypsy thought, replacing the receiver. Everyone was kind. Neighbors and friends. F it they couldn't help. Only God could help them now.

That wasn't a real prayer but maybe God would hear and understand.

The moments dragged by. It was noon and the red-haired nurse went down to her lunch, bright, competent and alert.

She went to her room and sat when Miss McPherson does, and had commanded and Gypsy had to obey.

But she got little satisfaction out of the young nurse. All her questions were turned aside with professional skill and coolness.

Miss McPherson had a healthy appetite. She ate a chop and a baked potato and spinach and apple sauce. And Gypsy hated her.

TAKE YOUR VALENTINE'S DINNER TO HEART BY MAKING YOUR OWN TABLE EFFECTS Fashion Centerpiece From Wires, Cardboard

Here's a table set for a Valentine Day party—simple and gracious, and symbolic of the sentiment of the occasion.

A white damask cloth covers the table and under each plate is a large red crepe paper heart.

GUARDS BOW TO BROAD BROOK, 41-36; LOCAL TRADERS LOSE TENTH STRAIGHT

TOWN CHAMPS DROP HARD FOUGHT GAME TO EVEN UP SERIES

Rivals Take Lead at Outset to Gain 25-18 Margin at Halftime; Locals Eighth Loss to Date.

The National Guards found the going a bit too tough in their attempt to gain a second straight triumph over Broad Brook on the latter's court last night and their rivals evened the series by taking the town champions into camp by a score of 41 to 36. The Guards won the first game, 38 to 28, and it is expected that the third and deciding contest will be arranged for the local State Armory in the near future.

Broad Brook went to the front at the outset and sported a 25 to 18 lead at halftime that the Guards were unable to overcome as the home team fought with a determination and aggressiveness that left little doubt as to the final outcome. H. Geisler, Kristofak and Tyler stood out for Broad Brook, scoring thirty-eight points between them. Chapman and Falkowski featured for the Guards.

NET BODY SILENT ON OPEN TOURNEY

Rules Committee Refuses to Discuss Matter of Pro-Amateur Play.

Pittsburgh, Feb. 10.—(AP)—Rules changes, ranking controversies and the manifold problems on international competition held the attention of America's amateur tennis solons today.

After a night of secret deliberation, delegates to the annual convention of the United States Lawn Tennis Association ponder such troublesome questions as footfaults and general clarification of what are determined to settle the problem once and for all. The nature of forthcoming recommendations was closely guarded last night.

Smouldering in executive session is the matter of 1933 rankings, with Chicagoans this adamant in their desire to get George M. Litt, that Davis Cup doubles luminary, rated better than the No. 10 position assigned to him by the ranking committee.

Preparing for the meeting of the International Lawn Tennis Federation in Paris in March, the delegates are studying, among other things, the worldwide aspect of the effect of the increasing popularity of professional tennis.

An Open Tourney? With such topnotchers as Bill Tilden, Ellsworth Vines and Henri Cochet definitely aligned on the professional side and an increasingly insistent demand for a United States Open tournament, the pro-amateur question has obtruded itself into the international scene. Officials last night declined to disclose the U. S. L. T. A. S. attitude on the matter.

The schedule of games for the Rec Senior League teams on next Tuesday night at the School Street gym is as follows: 7:15 Ansaldo vs Celtics. 7:15 Dugout vs Phantoms. 9:15 Herald vs Dugout.

McCluskey And Follows To Meet Again Tonight In Two-Mile At Boston

Joe McCluskey makes another attempt to come back tonight in the two-mile event of the Boston A. Follows, his New York Athletic Club team-mate, who is being hailed as the fastest American two-miler since Joe Ray hung up his native record of 9 minutes 8 2/5 seconds eleven years ago.

Not Yet At Best McCluskey has engaged in three meets this year in his gallant bid to retain the eighteen or more titles he has captured during the past four years, returning to competition after a nasal operation that removed the necessity of hanging up his spikes forever. He placed seventh in the Manhattan Athletic League meet, second in the Kacey games at Boston and third in the Millrose games at New York. His time in all three meets was good but not as fast as the ex-Fordham ace is capable of doing.

Levinsky Gets Decision But Massera Wins Favor

Garden Officials Stick to Custom of Not Agreeing on Anything; Experts Convinced Kingfish Is Not a Challenger for Title.

New York, Feb. 10.—(AP)—The heavyweights have a new speller today, a serious faced, black-haired Italian, a youngster from the coal mining regions near East Monongahela—Charley Massera, 22 year old. He came within a split decision last night of belting King Levinsky right out of Madison Square Garden's plans for a heavyweight title fight between the Chicago Kingfish and Primo Carnera in June. Unofficially he convinced the experts, and a slim crowd of 3,500 that Levinsky had been beaten, that the Kingfish won't do as title challenging material.

Judges At Odds Massera couldn't win the decision of two judges and referee Gunbeat Smith, who once more followed out the custom officials have fallen into at the garden, never agreeing on anything. A week ago another trio got mixed up voting on the outcome of the Tony Danz and Leo Seltzer tellerweight match that they had to stage a recount to give Tony the decision after first calling it a draw.

With most of the experts agreed that Massera had won at least six rounds clearly, entitling him to the decision, one judge voted for Levinsky, the other for Massera, and referee Smith hauled off and presented a unique analysis of the situation. He didn't give anyone the tenth round, gave Massera four, Levinsky three, called two even, and awarded Levinsky the decision.

Since coming to New York for practical instruction to add to his theoretical knowledge, Massera, who turned up fighting when he lost his mining job, has been rapidly the beat Maxey Rosenbloom in a non-title light-heavyweight contest a few weeks ago.

Though he gained in ring prestige last night, he lost financially. Massera guaranteed Levinsky $5,000 and the total receipts were only $8,880, of which the youngster got less than half to pay both himself and the Kingfish.

Levinsky weighed 202 1/2 pounds to 183 1/2 for Massera. The whale shark is the largest fish known to mankind.

Expect No Major Change In Current Gridiron Rules

Atlanta, Feb. 10.—(AP)—After a preliminary review of suggestions advanced for changes in gridiron rules, the Intercollegiate rules committee plunged today into the task of revising the code to make the game better.

The most worthwhile proposals coming before the committee were selected at a meeting last night, but none of the committee made a statement on what transpired in the executive session. With this preliminary work out of the way the committee met for another session at which some actual revisions were expected to be made.

AMERICAN SCHOOL FOR DEAF DEFEATS MECHANICS 36-25

Visitors Rush to Fore at the Start, Leading 17-10 at Halftime; Seconds Beaten 23 to 17.

The American School for the Deaf experienced little difficulty in downing Manchester Trade's luckless hoopers at the school street Rec yesterday afternoon by a score of 36 to 25. The visitors gained a 17 to 10 lead by halftime and increased their margin to 20 to 19 by the end of the third period to win in easy fashion.

Trailing by seven points at the close of the first period, the Mechanics fought on even terms through the second, faltered in the third and came back in the fourth but lacked the punch necessary to overcome the wide margin gained by the West Hartfordites. Supinski and Dumond featured for the visitors and Phelps and Raguskus went best for Manchester.

It was the tenth straight defeat for Coach Walter Schober's charges this season. The Mechanics will oppose the Watkinson School of Hartford on the latter's court next Wednesday afternoon. The locals defeated Watkinson in a previous encounter, 30 to 28 and are determined to snap their losing streak next Wednesday.

The local game took the preliminary to the American School, the final score being 23 to 17. Manchester trailed all the way, a third quarter rally being halted before Manchester was able to close the gap. Hogan starred for the visitors and Misalok featured for the losers.

Lorraine Gull

INTRODUCING LORRAINE GULL

Rosalie Lorraine Gull of Washington, D. C., is mistress of all she surveys in the realm of duckpins. She is a top notch bowler who for the past five years has received the highest honor that the National Duckpin Bowling Congress—an bestow on any individual and that is the award as No. 1 ranking pin toppler of the United States. Lorraine is, perhaps, one of the most modest bowlers in the polished lanes. She is unable to see anything out of the ordinary in her duckpin feats, pointing out that her success on the long maples is due to close observance of the rules of the game. In social or championship matches Lorraine always observes the foul line and gives special attention to her foot wear by bowling only with bowling shoes.

Control Is Perfect In her picture you will note the position of her arms when about to deliver the ball, both are outstretched straight from the shoulder. When the ball is delivered it is within a few inches of the alley that does away with the so-called bouncing ball, something called bobbing ball and when the ball is delivered she has what is termed "follow through." She does not take such a long run back of the foul line, her speed is not above the average, but her control is perfect.

Lorraine has bowled in all parts of the country and is popular wherever she has performed. She is always willing to extend a helping hand to beginners and to try and correct the faults of any who seek her advice. She is employed by Uncle Sam in the Navy Department at Washington.

Ever since the first national tournament Miss Gull has been right up with the leaders and since 1928 and including the 1933 tournament she

NEW HAMPSHIRE LEADS WINTER ICE CARNIVAL

Tops Field by 12 Points and Seems Certain Winner of Title Held by Dartmouth for Three Years; Only Four Events Remain.

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 10.—(AP)—The University of New Hampshire holds the intercollegiate winter sports union championship in the palm of its hand as the Dartmouth College winter carnival swings into its finale. With only four events remaining, New Hampshire led the winter sports field by 12 points and there seemed little likelihood of any combination passing the 24-point total recorded by the Granite State University.

Green's Hopes Blasted St. Patrick's of Ottawa had 12 points, Dartmouth 9, Ottawa 6, McGill 3 and Cornell 1 at the close of the first day's events. Dartmouth's hopes of a fourth successive championship were shattered yesterday when two New Hampshire lads tagged the best of Big Green had to offer a bit about speed skating.

G. H. Meeker and R. F. Downs of New Hampshire took first and second place respectively in the quarter mile skating event, then, turned around and did the very same thing in the two mile speed event. Between them they gave New Hampshire 16 points. To clinch matters, William Andberg, a teammate, took top honors in the two mile snow-shoe race.

Miss Best Skaters Dartmouth was handicapped by the loss of two of its best speed skaters, Jack Shea, team captain, and Lawrence Goldthwait, double winner at Lake Placid earlier this season. Shea, Olympic international champion, was in poor physical condition, while Goldthwait was dropped from the team for disciplinary reasons.

Elk jumping was the feature of today's program, which included a Harvard-Dartmouth hockey game and a Yale-Dartmouth basketball game, the latter an Eastern intercollegiate league affair.

The hockey game was scheduled for this morning, with Dartmouth

Little Opposition West Hartford spread a zone defense that proved no defense at all as Manchester's offense clicked smoothly and ran up a 14 to 3 lead by the end of the first quarter, the visitors being held scoreless from the floor. The game was loosely played and uninteresting, Manchester never being forced to extend itself to keep well in front.

The varsity reserves took up the battle in the second quarter and the game proceeded on fairly even terms, West Hartford making its only field goal of the first half when Keane dropped a long shot late in the quarter to make the score 17 to 3 in Manchester's favor at halftime. The varsity and reserves played the game with less than five minutes to go before intermission and devoted the time to holding West Hartford's attack in abeyance.

Stage Brief Rally The varsity started the third quarter and increased Manchester's lead to 23 to 12 by the end of the period, Beard and Carey being the only West Hartford players to score from the floor. The count was 30 to 12 with three minutes to go in the final quarter when the reserves were again called into action and West Hartford unleased a brief rally that netted the successful two-pointers to bring the final score to 30 to 12.

O'Leary, Johnson and Sheldon featured for Manchester and Carey and Keane were outstanding for West Hartford.

Local Ends Upset A totally unexpected defeat was suffered by Manchester's seconds, who bowed to the tune of 19 to 16 before a team that they previously trounced by a 19 to 8 score. Manchester was unable to summon its usual fighting spirit until the very last minute of play too late to bring results. The Red and White took a 7-6 lead by the end of the first quarter and clung to its one-point margin at halftime, 11-10. West Hartford came back in the last half, however, to take the lead and remain in front to the final whistle.

Johnston and Kullik featured for West Hartford and Cobb, McCurry and Gavello went best for Manchester.

BRUINS HOCKEY TEAM TO PLAY 2 TOMORROW

The Manchester Bruins will play a doubleheader tomorrow at the Center Spring rink. The first game, starting at one-thirty will have the local South End Tigers as the opponent. The last game will be played against the strong Windsor team. Windsor lost to the Hartford Indians in a 3-2 battle. All Bruins players are requested to be there at 1 o'clock. A small admission charge will be made to defray expenses.

Local Sport Chatter
 A news release has reached our desk in regard to a state amateur elimination basketball tournament, to be held at Waterbury, March 1, 2 and 3. The interesting part of it is that the story states that such teams as the Blue Ribbons, Kevin Barrys, Hakoahs, Sport Centers, Knights of Lithuania, all of Hartford, are eligible, along with other leading teams generally classed as semi-pro outfits. It is also stated that players who have competed for a salary or fee are not eligible under amateur rules. It is most interesting to discover that the players on the aforementioned teams are playing merely for the love of the sport, or is someone being taken for a sleigh ride?

Charlie Kebart, Manchester's bowling champ, has entered the sweepstakes tourney being held at Willimantic today and it is understood that a large number of local fans will be in attendance to lend moral support to the town's finest pin toppler. Kebart has been hitting the ball in great style recently and will make a determined bid for the first prize money of $500 against the best bowlers in New England. The entrance fee is a mere $25.

An attempt is being made to capitalize on the fact that Miss Eris Brandecheit of Wallingford recently set a new world singles mark with 186, Miss Brandecheit having acquired a manager who is making arrangements for a New England tour. She will positively not appear locally, as local alley managers feel that it takes more than one exceptional game to make an attraction. Miss Brandecheit appeared here recently against the Charter Oak Club but failed to shine with any particular brilliance, averaging below a hundred.

Thomas Michael Monahan, who in case you don't know, is coach at Bristol High, has established a record in basketball for other coaches to shoot at during the next decade, or should we say, century. In eleven years his teams have captured 173 games and lost only forty-two. In that time he has established a record that time lost only forty-two. In that time he has established a record that time lost only forty-two. In that time he has established a record that time lost only forty-two.

Friends In Need!
 The North Ends eked out an unimpressive victory over Buckland in a "Y" Intermediate League game, 20-19. The victory, which lacked the calibre of basketball the North Ends usually play, definitely settled the leaders of the league. The North Ends and Oxford will play off the tie. There was no stars in the mediocre play of the winners while Donahue played well for the losers.

GRAVAT VICTORS
 Last night at Murphy's Alleys the Gravatt Dept. defeated the Necktie Crushers by 8 pins. War Horse Beebe staged his comeback with the Gravatts and it was some comeback. The Gravatts were 24 pins down going into the final game but that didn't faze War Horse in the least. Going into the final 2 boxes of the last game and his team just about beat, old War Horse pulled off his double strike to pull out victory for his team by 8 pins. War Horse hit 117 in the final string. Cap Lader War Horse's opponent also bowled big last night as he hit the wood for 314 which is the second time this year that he has hit over 300.

War Horse is out with a challenge to Old Pop of the Midget Smoke Shop, but as Pop wants them 60 or over we believe that War Horse will have to wait a few more years.

WEST SIDE DEFEAT
ST. PATRICKS
 The West Side Rec basketball team played a fast passing game and put up a good defense to win by the close score of 39-35.
 The West Sides were up against a zone defense which kept the score close all through the game, the score at half time being 19-18, St. Patrick's. In the last half Earl Bissell and Alf Brown got their eye and scored amply, the rest of the boys helping them out. The floor game of Mitt Nelson, Filt Mahoney, Tierney and Fred Bissell who entered the game in the last half, featured.

The game was attended by 100 West Side fans who are getting interested in the boys from the West Side. Gunnar and King played best for St. Patrick's.

 ten games. In the first five games Miss Gull hit for 337 and Pacini 590 and in the final five games Miss Gull had 598 and Pacini 624, and Miss Gull turned in an average of 123.5 for the ten games, an average that most of the men would be proud to have opposite their name in any event.

Holds Many Titles
 In the Washington Ladies' league on the Columbia alleys Miss Gull for 51 games had an average of 112.85. Several times during her career on the alleys Lorraine has set up new records for the women of the National Capital to shoot at and is still the holder of many championships during her past six years in the pin toppling game. In the summer time we are told that Miss Gull is coming to the front as a golfer but bowling is her game. It has been stated many times that Lorraine would miss a meal to get into a good friendly match.

Miss Gull will appear in Hartford on Saturday, March 10, to give an exhibition in the afternoon and evening at the Yankee sweepstakes that is being held as a benefit for the Hartford Times Farm Fund. It is expected that her pal, Billie Butler, will also make the trip to the Northland. It is planned to have Gull and Butler meet with the best women bowlers in the state. Right now a contest is under way that will give any of the girls in the state a chance to meet one of the Washington pair in the exhibition. Any member of the fair sex interested in entering the contest can write to John A. DeRidder, 43 Barnard street, Hartford. No entry fee is charged to enter the event, the only expense being that for bowling.

Next week the third of this series will appear on the sport pages of this paper and we will feature Mike Bogino, the 1933 all-event champion. Mr Bogino was to have been featured this week but we failed to receive all the information from the O'Avon farmer that was requested. Others to come include Nick Tronkski, Ann Griffin, Billie Butler and Astor Clarke.

James Richard of Plattville, Wis., preparing to make a try at, stuck out his hand. A speeding man, approaching from the rear struck his arm and broke it.

 ten games. In the first five games Miss Gull hit for 337 and Pacini 590 and in the final five games Miss Gull had 598 and Pacini 624, and Miss Gull turned in an average of 123.5 for the ten games, an average that most of the men would be proud to have opposite their name in any event.

Holds Many Titles
 In the Washington Ladies' league on the Columbia alleys Miss Gull for 51 games had an average of 112.85. Several times during her career on the alleys Lorraine has set up new records for the women of the National Capital to shoot at and is still the holder of many championships during her past six years in the pin toppling game. In the summer time we are told that Miss Gull is coming to the front as a golfer but bowling is her game. It has been stated many times that Lorraine would miss a meal to get into a good friendly match.

Miss Gull will appear in Hartford on Saturday, March 10, to give an exhibition in the afternoon and evening at the Yankee sweepstakes that is being held as a benefit for the Hartford Times Farm Fund. It is expected that her pal, Billie Butler, will also make the trip to the Northland. It is planned to have Gull and Butler meet with the best women bowlers in the state. Right now a contest is under way that will give any of the girls in the state a chance to meet one of the Washington pair in the exhibition. Any member of the fair sex interested in entering the contest can write to John A. DeRidder, 43 Barnard street, Hartford. No entry fee is charged to enter the event, the only expense being that for bowling.

Next week the third of this series will appear on the sport pages of this paper and we will feature Mike Bogino, the 1933 all-event champion. Mr Bogino was to have been featured this week but we failed to receive all the information from the O'Avon farmer that was requested. Others to come include Nick Tronkski, Ann Griffin, Billie Butler and Astor Clarke.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Automobile accidents are increasing. Careless drivers should be careful.

Tourists judge the many towns and villages that they pass through by the condition of their streets. For streets are an abomination, good streets and highways add to the glory of motor traveling.

Non-Skid
Bill Muffell said his car couldn't skid. This monument shows that it could and did.

We just heard of a fellow who missed the road and smashed up in a field when he mistook for an approaching car a fellow hunting mushrooms with a lantern.

Woman (to her husband who had stopped to investigate)—What happened, George?

Her husband (briefly)—Puncture. Woman—You ought to have been on the lookout for this. You remember the filling station operator back in town told you there was a fork in the road.

As soon as China becomes civilized and progressive enough to buy automobiles, she won't need these periodic wars to keep down the population.

So much money is being expended on highways that even the road to hell is said to be paved—with good intentions.

Old Dobbin may have been a crude means of transportation but you didn't have to drive him slowly during the first 500 miles to loosen him up.

Beneath the spreading chestnut tree The smith works like the deuce, For now he's selling gasoline. Hot dogs and orange juice!

One scientist avers that human intelligence is at least 450,000 years old. That gentleman never drove an automobile.

A milk wagon collided with an auto and many bottles of milk were broken. A crowd gathered. Benevolent Looking Man—Poor fellow, you'll have to pay for this accident, won't you?

Driver—Yes, sir. Benevolent Looking Man—That's too bad. Here's a quarter towards it and I'll pass the hat for you. Driver (after the crowd had contributed and dispersed, turning to a bystander)—Ain't he the wise guy? That's the boss.

He's Not the Only One The traffic lights are all right, remarked old Bill's Tote. But when I'm in a hurry they surely get my goat.

Sue—What makes the cop so fat? Mac—Probably too much traffic jam.

Bootleg fuel is bothering the authorities of several states, but thank heavens, nobody yet has discovered how to make bath tub gasoline.

There's almost as much thrill in trying out a new razor as in driving a new automobile.

Distinguished Gentleman—Young man, after receiving your diploma you must be inspired with some overwhelming ambition. You must be possessed with the desire to do some great deed. What is it? Senior—I would like to give the dean a swift kick.

About the only thing some people ever take up at a public meeting is space.

FUEL SUPPLY AMPLE IN THIS COMMUNITY

Unprecedented Demand for Coal and Oil Finds Dealers With Sufficient Stocks.

The cold weather has resulted in the consumption of an unprecedented amount of coal and oil in Manchester, but dealers all report that there is a sufficient supply on hand to meet the demands with more coal on the way which will insure the community that there will be no shortage.

"Coal" pockets were well filled by nearly all of the dealers at the start of the winter and a considerable number of Manchester's people had purchased their coal supply early last year and had it in their bins. There has been an unusual demand and heavy deliveries have been made all through the winter but the dealers have taken care of it by keeping cars ordered and arriving at all times.

Every dealer in town reports coal enough on hand and for immediate needs. Only one dealer reported "scarcity" of coal. He was declining orders from new customers, having only a sufficient stock for his regular trade at the present rate of consumption.

Fuel oil, which is being burned by the city, is reported as in ample supply to take care of all demands. In one or two places in the state coal dealers appear to have been well prepared for this extraordinary winter and New Britain is said to have something of a shortage.

SCOTCH-IRISH NIGHT TO BE A GREAT EVENT

Scotch Dancers, Irish Jiggers and Singers of Both Nations Booked for Next Saturday.

On Saturday night, Feb. 17 there will be an entertainment and dance in the Orange hall, given by Royal Black Preceptory, No. 13 and Manchester Pipe Band. That will be Scotch-Irish night and the entertainers will give special Scotch and Irish numbers.

The committee has again obtained the services of George Gillette, house-chocking musician and comedian who gave a side-splitting performance in Orange hall earlier in the season. Miss Ellenor Brown of Hartford considered the best Highland dancer in the Eastern states, will give an exhibition of dances in true Highland style. Real Scotch dancers are hard to find in this country.

Tommy Hines, also of Hartford, will supply the Scotch songs. He brings his own pianist, Jim Manning will hold up the Irish end of the show. He is a fine dancer and knows all the jigs ever invented and songs "by the hundreds." The rest of the program will be given over to the acts of Miss Joan Condon and The Two White Flashes. Miss Condon is a tap-dancing specialist. She does all her dancing on roller-skates and is an excellent singer. The Two White Flashes are a dance team rated as about the fastest ever.

The Manchester Pipe Band will play a selection of Pipe music and one of the pipers will play for the Scotch dances. There will be refreshments in the basement. One of the local orchestras will furnish the music for modern and old-fashioned dancing until midnight.

FIREMEN HERE STAND BY FOR HARTFORD BLAZE

Prepare to Give Aid in Two Alarm Fire on Market Street in Capitol City.

Chief Foy of the South Manchester Fire Department received a call from the Hartford fire department at midnight last night asking that he have one company ready and standing by to respond to aid in Hartford, if necessary. The call came as a result of a two alarm fire on Market street. The South Manchester Fire Department is a member of the Hartford County Mutual Aid and in case of a two alarm fire in Hartford, the South Manchester Fire Department is called on to stand ready to send one piece of apparatus to Hartford.

Last night Chief Foy arranged to have No. 3 ready to start for Hartford and the other companies in the department were prepared to take care of any call in No. 3's district. The Hartford firemen were able to cope with the fire and no aid was sent from Manchester.

There was only one call for the fire apparatus in the South Manchester Fire District yesterday. A chimney fire at No. 37 Spruce street called No. 3 on a still alarm. The fire was extinguished with chemicals with no loss.

TOWN BOARD O. K.'S POLICE ROOM JOB

Approves Changes in Town Court Building, Keeney St. Wants Cheaper Water.

Approval of interior changes in the Town Court building was given by the Board of Selectmen in special meeting yesterday afternoon, continuing upon the ratification of the Board of Police Commissioners. The matter came before the Selectmen at this time, due to the fact that painters are now at work in the building re-decorating under a CWA approved project and it was thought advisable to remove the large vault at the south side of the building, formerly used to store town records, when the building was used as the Hall of Records.

The vault on the police station side of the building has been used for several years as an office for fingerprinting and photographing prisoners and space for storage. With the addition of the police teletype more room is needed for police work. The removal of the vault will provide an extra room for the department.

Part CWA Job At present there are three rooms in the police station side of the building, one of which is the private office of Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon. A small room in the rear used as a night office by Captain Herman Schendel is now used for the police teletype.

The additional work suggested will cost $500, the Selectmen were told. If approved by the CWA the removal of the vault will be included in the current project, labor for which is being paid for by the government, the materials being provided by the town.

Keeney Street Water The Selectmen discussed proposed changes in the water rates for residents of Keeney street. While the utilities were owned by Cheney Brothers, users living in that section were required to pay three and three-eighths times the normal rate for water used, due to the extra cost of installing mains. Later the rates were reduced to three times the normal, under authority of the Public Utilities Commission. Users have petitioned the Selectmen for further reductions in the rate.

The Selectmen tabled a plan for thinning oak trees on the Porter reservoir watershed, referring the matter to the water committee for a study.
