Smiling Skies Draw Large Crowd as Skating Stars Perform on Smooth Ice at Center Springs Park.

Perfect weather aided by the largest and best cast of skating talent ever to visit a Manchester rink combined to produce the banner event in the history of the annual outdoor sports in this town on Center Springs rink yesterday afternoon.

The weather was ideal for outdoor activities and the ice was in fine condition. The carnival program was opened by Chief Announcer William Kraib, who introduced Chairman J. Andrew Holzheimer, of the Permanent Armistice Day Committee, sponsors of the carnival.

Activities started when Herbert and Marion Meyer of Springfield appeared in a double figure skating act at 2.50 p. m. Mrs. Meyer was dressed in a red skating ensemble and her partner was striking in white blouse and dark blue suit.

Wallett and Brown of this town in a double figure number pleased the crowd as also did Nova Baple, the greatest judge of skating talent in this country.

Wallett and Brown of this town, followed with a men's double number, featuring whirrs and spins and long figures. The local pair got a rousing welcome for their continued interest in the local rink when they appeared for their special number.

CLAIM U. S. LOAN FOR WAR PURPOSES

Japanese Official Says China Is Building Military Airports With the Funds.

Tokyo, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Reports that a portion of America's $50,000,000 cotton and wheat loan to China is being used in the expansion of Chinese airbases at Fochow and Amoy will be the subject shortly of Japanese diplomatic representations to China, it was learned today.

A Japanese foreign office spokesman said Akira Ariyoshi, minister to China, had been instructed to seize an early opportunity to ask the Nanking Nationalist government to confirm or deny the reports.

In the event of confirmation, the spokesman said, Ariyoshi will warn China that such use of foreign funds violates China's pledge not to employ borrowed money in military establishments along the Fukien province coast.

The spokesman said that many reports concerning Fukien air bases had reached Tokyo "from Japanese consuls and agents in other departments of the Japanese government."

"One of these agents," he said, "was that officers of an American gunboat lying off Fochow during the recent disturbances (in Fukien province) went ashore and inspected proposed airbase extension plans."

Another said houses surrounding the present flying field at Fochow were being condemned and demolished to permit the extensions. The spokesman added:

Picture Highlights In Life of Belgian Ruler

These pictures of the late King Albert and his family recall some of the highlights in the life of Belgium's beloved ruler. At upper left you see him in Brussels with the late President Wilson and Mrs. Wilson. At that time, King Albert was being hailed as one of the greatest heroes of the World War. He carefully trained his son for succession to the throne, and below are pictured Crown Prince Leopold, who now will become King, and his wife, Princess Astrid of Sweden. Next is an unusually fine character study of the dead ruler. Always daring and progressive, he was the first crowned head in the world to ride in an airplane, and the lower photo shows him in an open cockpit craft.

PRESIDENT O. K.'S NEWSPAPER CODE

Ask That Big Publications Place News Staffs on a 40 Hour Week.

Washington, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Approving the newspaper publishers code President Roosevelt made a request that newspapers with more than 75,000 circulation in cities of 750,000 or more place their news staffs immediately on a five day 40 hour week basis.

The President's executive order required that a study be made within 60 days to determine permanent policy on the employment of children as delivery boys and paper salesmen, and a further study to establish hour provisions for the editorial staffs of all newspapers.

In accepting the code, the President said he was "dissatisfied" with its child labor provisions, which provide that boys under 16 may sell papers out of school hours between 7 a. m. and 7 p. m. in winter time and 7 a. m. and 8 p. m. in summer.

The report on both questions will be made by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson rather than independently by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, proponent of the code.

As for the publishers' declaration for freedom of the press, the President said he was allowing it to remain because "it has no meaning," and observed that it was "pure surplusage."

May Impose Codes. Of the publishers' reservation that they would not accept any modification of the code by the President, he said that "of course a man does not consent to what he doesn't consent to."

The President then proceeded to assert this did not in any way affect his powers under the section of the industrial law which permits him to impose codes.

This policy has not been resorted to under NRA but the right to do so has not been surrendered by the administration.

Of the reference to freedom of the press the President also said: "Recitation of the freedom of the press clause has no more place here than would a recitation of the whole of the Constitution or of the ten commandments."

CONNECTICUT COMPANY RAISES WORKERS' PAY

Agreement Reached to Increase Wages of Employees Two Cents an Hour for Period of One Year.

New Haven, Feb. 19.—(AP)—An increase of two cents an hour in the basic wage of Connecticut company employees was awarded today by a board of arbitration named to settle the wage dispute between the transit company and its employees.

The memorandum of award written by Judge Robert L. Munger of the Court of Common Pleas, increases the basic rate for operators of one-man trolleys and buses who have been in the company's employ one year or longer from 60 to 62 cents.

14 YEAR OLD GIRL IS FOUND SLAIN

Police Seek Motive for Murder; In same District That Another Girl Was Killed.

Boston, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The body of Victoria David, 14, blood-covered and apparently murdered, was found this morning in a parking space in the South End, near Boston's Chinatown. The site is in the same general section of the city in which Ethel Zuckerman, school-girl bakery employe was slain several weeks ago.

The David girl, who had not been seen since 9 o'clock yesterday morning, was reported missing by her family at 11 o'clock last night and the police were asked to search for her.

When the body was found this morning her brother Fred was summoned and made identification. The girl apparently had been dead several hours, the police said, and they expressed the opinion that she had been beaten to death.

Like Other Murders. The mystery closely followed the unsolved and apparently motiveless slaying of Miss Zuckerman in a South End bakeshop which occurred while bakers and other employes were at work in another section of the bakery plant.

The parking space in which the David girl's body was found is located at Tyler and Kneeland streets, only a short distance from the girl's home at 76 Hudson street.

ADVISORY BOARD IN STATE QUILTS

Is Notified by Sec. Ickes to Wind Up Work; Many Projects Approved.

New Haven, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Connecticut Advisory Board of the Public Works Administration, one of the principal links in the National recovery system—winds up its work February 28, after devoting weeks to the consideration of projects running into several millions of dollars. Notice that the board would be discontinued was received by Archibald McNeil its chairman, from Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior and Public Works administrator.

While work on PWA projects in Connecticut got under way November 4, McNeil recently expressed the opinion that the state would not begin to feel the full benefits until early this spring. As of December 3, the Connecticut board had submitted applications for Connecticut projects valued at $8,840,569, of which $6,981,000 had been approved.

To Employ 14,000. McNeil estimated that the projects applied for would provide 4,400 man-hours work in the state and those approved would give 8,500,000 man hours or the equivalent to one month's work for 14,000 men.

Since its appointment, the board which consists of McNeil John J. Felley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad and State Senator Harvey L. Thompson of Middletown, has held numerous hearings throughout the state. At one time, McNeil, who is also Democratic National committeeman and intim— friend of President Roosevelt, suggested the board's work Governor Wilbur L. Cross, however, expressed the opinion that the need for a special session was not urgent enough.

Ickes' Letter. In notifying McNeil of the decision to discontinue the board, Secretary Ickes wrote: "With non-Federal projects pending in Washington for amounts far in excess of any sums that can be re-

WORLD MOURNS LOSS OF KING OF BELGIANS

Wethersfield Warden Knew Belgians' King

Hartford, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Warden Charles S. Reed of the State Prison at Wethersfield is one of the few men in this country who had a standing invitation to call upon King Albert of Belgium at the Brussels palace.

The warden, today, recalled two pleasant days spent with the king, then Prince Albert, when he came to this country incognito in 1898 and as a guest of the late railroad magnate, James J. Hill, visited Seattle, Wash. The warden then was chief of police. The period was the Klondyke excitement.

The Prince, the warden said, wanted to see "everything" in that city and Chief Reed was asked to serve as personal escort to the royal visitor.

"I was with the party for two days," the warden said, "and had a delightful time. The Prince was a wonderful fellow, democratic and a delightful conversationalist. He was a handsome fellow and one of the most delightful companions one could hope to meet."

Before the Prince left the city, he gave Police Chief Reed his card and invited him to call upon him if you ever come into my country," regardless of the rank he might hold.

The Prince became king soon afterwards and a few years after their meeting, Mr. and Mrs. Reed were in Belgium. They called at the Royal Palace where they were cordially received. But King Albert happened to be at his summer palace far from Brussels and their second meeting never took place.

Paris, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Concern was manifested in official quarters today regarding the possible effects of the death of King Albert I of Belgium on France's lineup of smaller nations against Chancellor Hitler's rearmament demands.

Belgium occupies a vital position in this lineup. The French are strengthening fortifications in the Rhineland region in the fear Belgium defenses are weak. Some French statesmen even have proposed to extend a chain of steel and concrete along the Belgian frontier.

With this situation obtaining, the three highest ranking members of the Cabinet went to Brussels today to bow at Albert's bier as official envoys of sympathy to France's closest ally.

Envoys from France They are Premier Doumergue and his two vice-premiers, Edouard Herriot and Andre Tardieu who entered shortly after the Chamber of Deputies had suspended its session for 15 minutes as a sign of mourning.

The French are wondering if Prince Leopold, as King Leopold III, will fight with his father's firmness against "Nazi intrigues" in Belgium—intrigues supposedly encouraged by Flemish extremists.

"The new king is still quite young and certainly will not have either the authority or the experience of his father," said the Paris Midl, "but already the sound rearing given Prince Leopold and his young intelligence—ripened prematurely in the sufferings of the war—give great hope."

Barthou's Eulogy. Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, in an eulogy before the Chamber of Deputies, said: "The immortal memory of King Albert will tighten the secular union between the two people which in the same invasion, the same resistance

Monarch Killed While Mountain Climbing — Funeral services on Thursday — Son Leopold Will Be Crowned on Friday — Flags All Over Europe Fly at Half Staff.

By Associated Press All the world combined today in mourning for Albert I, King of the Belgians, killed Saturday night in a fall while mountain climbing.

Belgium, bowed with grief, prepared to crown Albert's elder son as Leopold III.

Only the presence of Crown Prince Leopold assuaged the little nation's grief for the Belgian nation looks to Leopold, now 32 years old, as a worthy successor to his beloved father.

Leopold, like his father, served with the Belgian troops in the World War and gives evidence of being as democratic as the late monarch.

Love of the dead king and confidence in the new appeared to have united all the political factions of Belgium in the hour of trial.

Differences Forgotten. Socialists, Liberals and Conservatives stood side by side in mourning. Only the Communists expressed dissatisfaction with the succession to the throne and their declaration, calling on workers to refuse recognition to Leopold, was ignored by other political factions.

Sovereigns of other countries or their representatives, statesmen, and delegations from all walks of life prepared to go to Brussels for the funeral services Thursday and the coronation Friday.

Flags throughout most of Europe flew at halfstaff. A special messenger service was established in Brussels to convey telegrams and cablegrams of condolences to the sorrowing royal family in the palace.

Belgium's allies of the World War noted with satisfaction that the military leaders of Germany, headed by President von Hindenburg himself were among those who sent messages telling of their grief.

Belgium Mourns. Brussels, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Belgium today mourned her hero-king and prepared for the coronation of his surviving son.

Albert I, King of the Belgians and the Commander-in-Chief of their army when ragged, ill, ill-fated and suffering it stood off the forces of Kaiser Wilhelm during the World War, was killed Saturday in a fall while mountain climbing.

It was his favorite sport and he was an expert; but a bit of frost-bitten rock broke in his hand and he plunged 38 feet to death.

They found him where he had fallen, 10 hours later. Death must have been instantaneous. All events the 58 year old king did not suffer. His skull was fractured.

State Funeral. With all the pomp of royal ceremony the state funeral of Albert I will be held Thursday. Within 24 hours of the death the funeral of Crown Prince Leopold, will become, at the age of 32, the fourth king of the Belgians—Leopold III.

Prince Leopold and the Princess were vacationing at Adelboden, Switzerland, when word of the king's death reached them. The Prince, tired by a day of skiing was sound asleep when there came a pounding at the door, urgently summoning him to the telephone.

It was thus, in Switzerland, that the young Prince learned he must prepare to be King.

Break the News. He went at once to the quarters of his consort and broke to her the news. They started for Brussels immediately, arriving here early today.

NEW RECORD IS SET FOR AIRMAIL HOP

Eddie Rickenbacker Made Trip from Coast to Coast in 13 Hours, 4 Minutes.

Newark, N. J., Feb. 19.—(AP)—Captain Eddie Rickenbacker landed at 1:01 p. m. today to complete the last commercial air mail flight for the Transcontinental & Western Air, Inc.

The flight, a gesture to show efficiency in the handling of airmail by commercial planes, started at Los Angeles at 11:30 p. m. yesterday. TWA officials claimed it set a new record for commercial flights.

The plane, a Douglas airliner and the newest type of commercial ship, carried 35 passengers.

Rickenbacker made two stops enroute, the last at Columbus, O. He left the latter place at 10:37 a. m. today and was sighted over Newark airport at 12:58 p. m.

13 Hours, 4 Minutes. The elapsed time of the flight was 13 hours and 4 minutes. The TWA officials said the fastest previous commercial transcontinental flight was made in 18 hours and 30 minutes, elapsed time.

The record for the flight, made in a speed plane, is 10 hours and 19 minutes, set in 1932 by James Hailip.

Pilots for the Rickenbacker flight were Jack Frye, pilot Andrews and H. W. Tomlinson.

"That's what commercial airlines could do with the airmail," Rickenbacker said as he stepped from the plane.

BURGLAR IS RUN OVER WHILE FLEEING POLICE

Belief that a list of robberies in cities throughout New England may be charged to Irwin was expressed today as he admitted one such holdup in Providence and Boston police sought to connect him with another of the same type.

Yesterday, Irwin, who is 28, a native of Norristown, Pa., and a former convict paroled from Iowa Reformatory, Michigan, admitted when confronted with Matthew Oliver, owner of a shoe store in Providence, that he had robbed Oliver's store of $90 on Saturday, February 10.

Bridgeport, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Russell Irwin's career in banditry, ending in a sensational chase and capture Saturday night after he attempted to hold up a shoe store on Main street, may leave him a legless cripple for life.

At St. Vincent's hospital, it was discovered that both his legs were smashed by the truck which ran over him as he fled from the shoe store. X-ray pictures of his legs were being taken today to determine whether one or both legs should be amputated.

ROCKVILLE

LIONS CLUB ARRANGES LADIES' NIGHT PROGRAM

Clarence T. Hubbard of Hartford, to Entertain With Magical Tricks on Wednesday Night.

Clarence T. Hubbard, secretary of the auto department of the Aetna Insurance company, is to be the principal speaker at the second annual Ladies Night of the Rockville Lions club which will be held at the Rockville House Wednesday evening, February 21.

This is to be a gala event and more than four score members and wives and lady friends are to enjoy the delicious roast chicken dinner which is to be prepared by Chef Arthur Buch and served under the personal direction of Mrs. Ellen A. Chapdelaine, hostess of the Rockville House.

The subject of Mr. Hubbard will be "The Big Idea," and will include considerable wit and wisdom interspersed with mystifying tricks of magic.

The program is to be strictly informal. The party will gather at the Rockville House at 7:15 o'clock and dinner will be served promptly at 7:45 o'clock. The decorations will be simple, consisting of American flags and flowers.

Dr. Clarence E. Peterson, president of the Lions club, will be the toastmaster for the evening. The invocation will be offered by Rev. Henry B. Olmstead, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, who is the Lions' club chaplain.

At the conclusion of the dinner, community singing will be enjoyed under the direction of Mr. Gibson.

It is possible that two or three district officers of the Lions club will be guests on this occasion and address the meeting. The committee is now awaiting word from several who have been tendered invitations to attend.

The committee in charge consists of the following: Harry Conklin Smith, chairman; Myron J. Case, secretary; Roy A. Playdon and Luther A. White, with President Dr. C. E. Peterson, co-operating with the committee.

feated Democratic candidate, William C. Fox.

Celebrate 100th Birthday

Mrs. Mary E. Brigham of 49 Brooklyn street, will celebrate the 100th anniversary of her birth Tuesday, February 20, which is to be a big event in the history of Rockville.

A preliminary to this celebration a purely family reunion was held Sunday afternoon at her home, which was attended by her grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Brigham will be the guest of honor at the Lincoln-Washington celebration to be observed Tuesday night by Stanley Dobos Post, No. 14, American Legion, former United States Senator Hiram Bingham of New London, will be the principal speaker at this event, which has been arranged in connection with the annual visitation of state officers of the G. A. R. and the W. R. C. to the local corps.

The event is of unusual interest as Mrs. Brigham is the daughter of a Civil War veteran as well as the widow of a Civil War veteran.

On Wednesday a public reception will be held in the G. A. R. hall, Memorial building, for Mrs. Brigham at which many prominent guests are expected to attend.

One personage who is showing unusual interest in these celebrations in honor of Mrs. Brigham is Leverett N. Charter, Rockville's only Civil War veteran, who is to be a guest of honor at all events this week.

Small Fire Saturday

The Rockville fire department was called out Saturday afternoon at 2:40 o'clock for an alarm from Box No. 52, corner of Ward and Village streets, for a small fire in the Kaminski property on Village street.

The fire started in the basement of the section occupied by Charles Dulowski when a cigarette fell through a crack in the floor. The fire was discovered by Arthur R. Trinks, local oil dealer, who was delivering oil at the rear of the home. The fire was soon extinguished with chemicals and the recall was sounded within ten minutes after the alarm. The damage was slight and covered by insurance.

Elks Hold Meeting. Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B. P. O. Elks, are to hold an important meeting at the Elks Home, corner of Ellington avenue and Prospect street, Washington's birthday, at which Exalted Ruler Lewis H. Chapman will preside. A very interesting program has been arranged for this event.

Announcement will be made at the time of the sending of the Rockville ritualistic team to the ritualistic contest to be held in Willimantic Wednesday evening, February 28, at which time the Rockville and New Britain teams will compete for the honors. Originally it was to be a contest between the Rockville ritualistic team and the team from Middletown Lodge of Elks. At the last minute it was necessary to substitute the New Britain team for Middletown.

Case Nolle Prosequi

When the case of Albert F. Hannewald of Rockville was brought before Judge John E. Flisk in the Rockville City Court Saturday morning by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Bernard J. Ackerman it was nolle prosequi by order of the court.

Hannewald was charged with embezzlement as the result of allegedly converting to his own use some money which was given him by a woman to procure insurance on an automobile he had sold her. It was announced in court that Hannewald had made restitution and the court ordered the nolle prosequi but had not been presented in court on a previous occasion. He was ordered to pay the costs of the court.

Court Session Today

A special court calendar sitting of the Tolland County Superior court was held this morning with Judge Frank F. McEvoy of Waterbury as the presiding judge. This is the last short calendar session scheduled for the winter term of the court. Several short cases, including one divorce action, were heard.

New Buses Used

Many people have been attracted by the new "square ender" buses of the Connecticut company which have been in service on the Rockville and Hartford line during the past few days. It was originally planned to put these buses in operation on the "Shore line" but word was received yesterday that the company is to use one for the "insurance run" between Rockville and Hartford. Insurance employees are no longer permitted to transport people between Rockville and Hartford and hold their regular position in Hartford.

Rockville Briefs. Rev. Francis C. Hinchey, assistant pastor of St. Bernard's Catholic church of Rockville, was sub-deacon at the pontifical mass at St. Bridget's Catholic church at Manchester Saturday morning, celebrated by Rt. Rev. Maurice F. McAuliffe, auxiliary bishop at the funeral of Rev. Christopher T. McCann.

The public and parochial schools of the town of Vernon are closed this week in observance of the Lincoln-Washington vacation.

A membership meeting of the Connecticut Council of Catholic Women is to be held this evening in the hall of St. Bernard's school.

Miss Ellen Murphy of the Rockville High school faculty is spending a week at her home in Willimantic.

Mrs. and Mrs. Gustave Millix of 26 Windsor avenue, are rejoicing over the birth of a daughter, born at the Rockville City hospital Saturday morning.

The following committees have been appointed for the year by Ellen G. Berry Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, through Mrs. Iva O'Neill, president: Auditing committee, Mrs. Mary Stiles, Mrs. Pauline Smith and Mrs. Florence Thompson; sick committee, Mrs. Bertha Schaeffer and Mrs. Clara Hewitt.

Board of Selectmen will be held Tuesday evening with First Selectman Francis J. Prichard presiding.

A report of the CWA group will be made at this time. Ozark Ripley author and sportsman, has been secured as the speaker for the annual banquet of the Rockville Fish and Game club to be held at the Rockville House Thursday, March 8. Lieutenant Governor Roy C. Wilcox has also accepted an invitation to attend this banquet which will be attended by more than 100 sportsmen.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Lowell, Mass.—Benjamin Dery, 23, buckled down to business promptly at noon Sunday and a resonant rumble rolled through the room.

At 5:45 o'clock tonight, his arms weakened, the rumble scarcely audible, he collapsed.

Upon being revived, however, he claimed a new world's record. The old mark, he said, was 6:30:25, held by Fred Hawkins of Oklahoma, while he had kept going for six hours, 45 minutes and 34 seconds.

At what? Oh, rolling a snare drum.

Savannah, Ga.—Three year old Robert School had the measles and couldn't go out to play, so his father made a kite and flew it outside his window to amuse him.

Robert watched eagerly from the upstairs—too eagerly. He leaned out and fell to the ground. He died shortly afterward of a broken neck.

Baltimore—The artists of Baltimore more have hung a "for-rent" sign on their works and have inaugurated in installment for selling their pictures.

By the former plan, persons entertaining guests may rent the works of Baltimore painters for a day, week or month—at a rate agreeable to the artist.

The interested artists have formed an organization—its purpose not to sell the pictures but to get them into circulation.

St. Louis—A general alarm fire made a great "stew" on Commission Row here early today. Firemen fighting the blaze in a building housing a fruit and vegetable concern waded through a warm mixture of onions, potatoes, oranges and bananas cooked in the flames.

Chicago—Mrs. Agnes Edith Haas, a crystal gazer, was speaking to a police sergeant.

Overnight A. P. News

Newton, Mass.—Edwin Markham, noted American poet, pictures President Roosevelt as the American Karamazov who can save the United States from Bolshevism if any one can.

Boston—Relatives make known the death in Miami, Fla., of Andrew P. Lane, traffic manager of the Great Northern Paper Company for more than a quarter of a century and vice general chairman from Maine of the New England Shippers Advisory Board. He was 68.

Boston—Police guard thrown around Beth Israel hospital as police say they fear a plot to kill Robert Waigles, 25, to prevent him from identifying gun-men who shot him down in an attempted jewel robbery.

Boston—Massachusetts civil works authorities notified that 10,000 employees must be dropped from civil works and civil works service payrolls effective Feb. 23.

Haverhill, Mass.—Ralph Bastien, 28, arrested charged with arson after fire drives 30 persons from a four story business and dwelling block; Bastien was one of the occupants of the building.

Boston—Twenty one persons killed in motor vehicle accidents in Massachusetts last week.

NEW HAVEN RAILROAD ORDERS NEW COACHES

50 De Luxe Models to Be Put on Soon—Will Be Streamlined, Air Conditioned.

Gay colors, modern decoration, new seating arrangements, streamlining, soundless and dustless travel because of air conditioning, will make the fifty new de luxe coaches, soon to be built for the New Haven and Hartford Railroad, exceed in luxury and comfort anything now known to the traveling public, John J. Peley, president of the New Haven road, announced today.

The New Haven realizes the importance of comfort and pleasing appointments in coaches as a lure to win back the business lost to airplanes, buses, and other forms of transportation," Mr. Peley stated. "Because we want the new coaches to embody a close approximation of current consumer demand we have broken a tradition of the industry and have chosen a leading designer of consumer products to satisfy the public's desires in the new coaches. Walter Dorwin Teague, who will design the fifty new coaches, is the dean of industrial and consumer product designers and his wide experience and success in redesigning motor cars and many other products makes it certain that the new cars will embody a maximum of comfort, suitability, and design interest."

These fifty new coaches will be radically different in many respects, Mr. Teague explained: "My profession takes me to factories all over the country. Consequently, I spend much of my time on railroads and have a lot of ideas on how traveling can be made more enjoyable. Now I can realize them in these new coaches for the New Haven.

"I expect to make traveling in the new coaches closely approximate the comforts of an evening at home. In respect to air conditioning, the coaches will surpass the comforts of the airplane, because no matter how unpleasant the weather outside may be, the inside of the new coaches will always be kept at an even, healthful temperature. Moreover, this independence of ventilation from without, makes it possible to eliminate soot and dust and literally keep a white handkerchief as spotless as when the journey started."

The new cleanliness is possible because of air conditioning makes it practical for Mr. Teague to incorporate a new style of decoration and gayer colors. In the new de luxe coaches the general decor will be modern and the colors will be in a higher key. Nor will each coach necessarily be the same. Variations of color schemes will enliven the journey. Lighting will be indirect and diffused in such a way that reading will be easy on the eyes in any part of the coach. Also, the exterior of the coaches will be radically different. Each will be streamlined to reduce skin friction and thus add speed to the new comforts of the inside.

The executive committee of the First Congregational church met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis church last week.

The four-act comedy, entitled, "Penrod" which was presented at the Community church house at Wapping, by the Manchester Community Players, last Friday evening, was greatly enjoyed. At the close of the play the young people danced for a while to the fine music of the orchestra.

jury to the producers by cutting down the consumption of milk. The author evidently finds some difficulty in treating with any respect whatever the declaration made recently by the chairman of the Board of Milk Control that the higher the retail price of milk the more fluid milk the people will buy and consume. He politely shoots that nonsensical theory into tatters. The Milk Board gets its basis for this self-evident fallacy from the fact that the people did buy more milk in the midst of the boom, when not only milk prices but all other prices were at the peak, than they bought subsequently when the general price level had collapsed and they had very little money to buy anything with. As Mr. Hammerberg points out, if people will buy more milk in these straightened times at 14 cents than at 12 or 10, why stop at 14 in boosting retail prices—why not compel them to pay 20 or 30 cents and thus sell 50 or 100 per cent more milk still?

Mr. Hammerberg has a program for the Board of Milk Control. It is as follows:

1. Stop fixing uniform retail prices.
2. In any event stop fixing high retail prices.
3. Use authority granted for the purposes of fact finding rather than regulating, at least until the facts have been ascertained.
4. Place the responsibility for the creation of a serious surplus problem on the dealers and insist that they co-operate in solving the problem.
5. Seek to obtain a more equitable base for the allocation of quotas.
6. Solicit the co-operation of producers for the purpose of allocating to each producer his share or quota of current fluid milk sales.
7. And the most important function of all is to promote, encourage and foster co-operation among the dealers and between producers and dealers.

To this program, it is to be suspected, there is a possible addition to which almost all milk producers and all fluid milk consumers will subscribe—let the next Legislature repeal the whole milk control statute, every word of it, and adopt a new one constructed with sufficient cunning to keep any milk control body with arbitrary powers out of the clutches of the middlemen.

KING WHO MADE GOOD

On the first day of December, 1909, Prince Albert of Belgium took the oath of fidelity to the Belgian constitution and became king under the name of Albert I. In his speech from the throne that day he said, "Our prosperity depends upon the prosperity of the masses." Of the implications of that declaration he never, during all his reign, lost sight. He was one king, one national leader, who made good.

For almost a quarter of a century King Albert was probably more fervently beloved by his own people than any other sovereign in the world and for the greater part of that period was universally held as the knightliest figure that ever wore a crown in modern times. He shone forth in the World War with all the resplendence of some legendary national idol garlanded with almost superhuman virtues and transcendent valor.

Whether or not the moot question is ever settled as to who won the war, there is scarcely room for argument as to who kept the Germans from winning it at the very outset. It was Albert, whose mother was a Hohenzollern, and his devoted Belgian army that held the German invaders for weeks at a vital point in their strategic advance which they had firmly expected to pass in a matter of hours. And from that time until the remnant of his veterans helped to drive the enemy from the coast towns in the fall of '18 King Albert never left his army. He was a real soldier.

Nor was he ever for a moment less faithful to his trust in times of peace. He was king of the Belgians and for the Belgians—wise and brave and indefatigable; a plain, modest, profoundly intelligent gentleman who knew his responsibilities, was undismayed by them and who carried on, night and day, the task to which fate had dedicated him.

Deep sorrow sits on Belgium today for his tragic taking off—and in no small degree the whole world shares in it.

SOLOMAN RICKNER

Soloman Rickner was a hunched and thirteen years old yesterday. His birthday found him recuperating from the breaking of two ribs in a fall while chopping wood. He has resumed the daily walks he takes out in St. Paul, Neb., and his doctor says he will be as good as ever pretty quick.

One thing particularly impressive about Soloman is that he bears the distinction of having been too old for service in the Civil War. It is true that there were a lot of men—Americans—in the World War who were older than Mr. Rickner was at the time of the Rebellion. But he was 40 when the Reds fired on Sumner—and that was a boys' war. Very, very few men of forty fought on the side of the North. If Rickner had enlisted and been accepted he would have been "Pop" or "Old Man Soloman" to his company. His captain, in all probability, would have been only a little more than half his age.

Like enough Soloman Rickner could have stood the rigors of campaigning twice as well as thousands of the undeveloped striplings who made up the armies of Mead and Grant and Johnston. But in that war the man of 40 who held any rank lower than that of Colonel looked silly to himself and his family. So Soloman Rickner, at 113, has no need to apologize for not having marched with Sherman or helped hold the stone wall at Gettysburg.

Besides, he might have stopped a musket ball—and what a stupendous interference that would have been. For more than seventy years there has been a Soloman Rickner where there might have been not even a memory.

LINDY'S STOCK

Colonel Lindbergh, it appears, has been grievously maligned. He did not receive a quarter of a million dollars of free stock of Transcontinental Air Transport, as the Senate investigating committee gathered from letters disclosed to it some time ago—quite official letters. No free stock for the colonel. He bought his stock and paid for it. A quarter of a million—just like that!

And where did he get the money? Why, from Transcontinental Air Transport. Transcontinental Air Transport was so delighted to get the colonel and his popularity that it dug right down in its jeans and fished out a quarter of a million in cash and handed it to him just for agreeing to go to work. Well, maybe it was a check. And maybe it was a check that Lindbergh paid for his stock. Not necessarily the same check. At all events, according to the colonel's latest statement setting folks to rights, he did not get any free stock—he paid for it.

Everybody but the colonel is wrong again. The next communication from the ace of aces may show us all again how mistaken we are in imagining that it amounts to precisely the same thing whether the clothing store man gives an advertising model a suit of clothes or whether he sells him a suit of clothes and hands him the money to pay to the cashier.

Terrific stupid country this, with a terrible lot of stupid people in it—President, Senate investigators, Army fliers, newspapers and all. Everybody but Lindy, the boy who bet his life on an airplane flight against a reputation which Solomon might have envied—if it were universal—and won.

Health and Diet Advice

PREVENTING PNEUMONIA

I have before me a letter asking for an article on pneumonia. I am pleased to answer this request. Remember, if you are watching for any special article, you may write to me and ask for it. If I can possibly do so, I will run an article on the disease you want in this newspaper.

The letter regarding pneumonia comes from a lady who wants to know how best to prevent this disease. I am going to quote part of her letter: "My husband is now 64 and has had pneumonia the last two winters. The doctor took me aside and told me he can not live through another attack. Maybe you could just take time to tell me the best things to do for him. I guess you know how folks are, especially men-folks, the woman of the family has got to look after them."

While pneumonia may become a very serious disease, before it can develop, the resistance of the body must be lowered. The germs of pneumonia are often present to such mouths and throats of most city dwellers and do no harm whatever as long as the resistance is high. You therefore have certain defenses against the disease within your body and you can weaken or strengthen these defenses by the way you live.

Good habits of living are the best way to prevent pneumonia in any patient, whether or not that patient has had previous attacks of the disease. The patient who will eat the right foods, take sufficient exercise, get enough sleep, obtain regular intestinal movements each day, and avoid worry and overexertion, has found the best medicine in the world for preventing pneumonia.

In those cases where there is a definite tendency to the disease, it is undoubtedly helpful to have the patient avoid chilling, exposure to sudden cold, or wetting of the feet or clothing, as these may temporarily lower the resistance. Where the patient has had other attacks of pneumonia, I advise that in as far as possible, exposure to cold or wet be avoided until such time as the health can be built up in every way. This is just a simple, common-sense suggestion, which has a great practical value.

Those foods which are best to eat to prevent pneumonia are the following: a moderate amount of meat each day, 3 or 4 cooked non-starchy vegetables and 1 large raw salad and 1 medium sized salad. One daily serving of cooked dried fruit is also of value, using prunes, figs, peaches, apricots or raisins. To this list, I would also add canned pineapple and canned tomatoes. Such a diet will do this for you. It will give you an abundance of food minerals which you need to build up a high resistance, and it also provides the bulk help you to throw off wastes and poisons through the intestines. An extra benefit of this kind of a diet is that it will make you safe from acidosis.

This type of diet will not only help to prevent pneumonia, but within a short period of one month will make you feel better in every way. I have every confidence in making this statement, as I know it will work since I have personally seen many hundreds of patients improve in health after following a diet exactly the same as the one I am giving you today.

I know that some of you are go-

FOUGHT AS A REBEL AGAINST HIS WILL

An Irish Youth's Predicament Described in Novel

Unhappy Ireland of the black-and-tan era is the scene of Rearden Conner's new novel, "Shake Hands With the Devil," and the book pictures a society racked by needless bloodshed and suffering as few societies have been in modern history.

A young medical student in Dublin wanders into the line of fire as a black-and-tan contingent clashes with a Republican patrol. Quite unintentionally, he finds himself involved on the Republican side. If the government catches him he will be executed without a chance to explain.

His only possible course is to join hands with the Republicans. He does it against his will, caring nothing for the revolution, desirous only of finishing his education and becoming a doctor; but he does it because it is the only way of dodging the firing squad, and he presently finds himself a member of a terrorist patrol along the southern seacoast.

Then comes a startlingly bitter picture of the war that tore Ireland asunder. Mr. Conner asserts that there were equal amounts of treachery, cruelty and willful brutality on both sides; men were involved in the fighting who had no intention of being involved, sacrificed to fanaticism and stupidity in a land where blood-just reigned unchecked.

In the end, our young student goes to his death, crying, like Mercutio, "A plague on both your houses!" And Mr. Conner makes him a symbol of the meaningless sacrifice that the civil war required of all Ireland.

Many readers, I think, will feel that the author is unfair to the Republican cause. In any case, they will find his book graphic, swift, and moving; a dark record of a dark and bloody era.

Published by Morrow, it sells for $2.50.

(Apple Cider Recommended)

Question: Mr. D. D. of Little Rock, Ark., writes: "I want to ask you a question in regard to apple cider. Can apple cider, that is, when it is just turning or fermenting, be taken without any ill effects or do you recommend that one should drink the fresh, sweet cider?"

Answer: Yes, I do recommend apple cider and consider it a very wholesome beverage. However, I usually advise that the patient with any tendency to a stomach disorder use it while it is in the fresh condition.

(Carrot Juice)

Question: Mr. L. O. of Salt Lake City, Utah, writes: "Is carrot juice an alkaline or an acid food? With what other foods can it be combined?"

Answer: Carrot juice is an alkaline forming food and can be combined either with a meat meal or with a starch meal.

Spring flowers are here before April showers this year—at Anderson's Greenhouses.

Everyone who can go south or southwest to enjoy warmth and sunshine during part or all of the cold weather, but to those who cannot travel, our various warm states send their sunshine in oranges and grape fruit, in strawberries, celery, cabbage, cucumbers, green beans, peas, lima beans, beets, carrots, brussels sprouts, broccoli, cauliflower, lettuce, radishes, shallots, tomatoes and new potatoes.

Being smart this spring means wearing a knitted dress. There's just one thing you can do about it. Pick up your own knitted dress.

Cut thin slices across a carrot and press them against the window pane when the sun is shining. You will be surprised at the beauty of these carrot "flowers" when the sun shines through them.

A recent property transfer recorded at the town clerk's office is that of Judge Leon Rathbone's twenty acre tract with dwelling house and other buildings to John Everett Griffing. The place is near Judge Rathbone's home, and was formerly known as the John Howey place.

A father and son banquet is being planned, to take place at the Hebron Green Congregational church parish on Friday evening, the 23rd of the month.

Hebron members who attended the meeting of the Eastern Star Wednesday evening at Colchester were Mrs. Merton W. Hills, Mrs. Chauncey B. Kinney, Mrs. William Owen, and Miss Victoria Hilding, Sachem Chapter from Norwich was represented, and a large attendance is reported.

Services will be held through the Lenten season at St. Peter's Episcopal church Sunday evenings at 8 o'clock, and Wednesday evenings at 7:30, with address, in charge of the reader, Allan L. Carr.

Word has been received of the birth of a son, Feb. 14, at Leominster, Mass., to Mr. and Mrs. Verchel Wood. Mrs. Wood was the former Miss Gladys Broome, daughter of Paul Broome of Hopeville.

Four tables were in play at the benefit bridge given for Hebron Grange at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Owen last Thursday evening. Mrs. Chauncey B. Kinney won ladies' first prize, Miss Barbara Fish consoling prize. Robert E. Foote captured the first prize for men. Cakes, coffee and cookies were served.

Mrs. Anne C. Gilbert and sisters, the Misses Clarissa and Susan Peniston motored to New Haven Friday to attend a meeting of the National Society of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, held at the New Haven Lawn Club. A luncheon was served at the club rooms and a lecture on "Early American Silver and Glass Ware" was given by Miss Elizabeth Chase, of the Gallery of Fine Arts of Yale university. Miss Chase is a cousin of Professor and Mrs. Eugene P. Chase, who has a summer home in Hebron, and has been a visitor here.

Fliers Feed Ice-Locked Nantucket

With the ship channel from the mainland choked with ice ten to fifteen feet thick making it impossible for the usual daily supplies to be brought in by steamer, Nantucket Island has been fed for days by a flotilla of airplanes chartered by First National Stores.

On the first day a food shortage developed, First National rushed 12,000 pounds of meat, vegetables, fruit, bread, potatoes, lard, flour, eggs, butter and canned goods by three planes from East Boston airport piloted by (left to right above) Capt. "Bill" Wincapaw, Lt. Crocker and Johnny Polando, famed Boston-Istanbul, Turkey flier. Snow squalls forced Polando down on Martha's Vineyard. Wincapaw battled snow and gale to make three round trips and carry 6,000 pounds of food to the islanders in one day.

When the island continued ice-bound day after day, Finast established an air base at Marston's Mills air field, West Barnstable and engaged two planes for continuous ferrying of foodstuffs through the air to the 3,500 beleaguered winter residents of Nantucket.

The women's bridge club party was omitted last Thursday evening owing in part to the severity of the weather, also to the beginning of Lent.

LIVING CONDITIONS

Editor of Evening Herald: It is with gratitude to you for the public forum in your valuable paper where people can express their impressions and perhaps help another thereby.

Surely Mr. William E. Keith's letter of Friday was of that character. In 1930 I took a trip around the world and coming from a town where silk was manufactured was, of course interested to know about silk industries in Japan where our dollar was worth two of theirs, and in China and India where one of our dollars was worth three of theirs.

I brought home some very good silk from Shanghai, China for 80 cents a yard which may be seen for the next week or two at Cheney Brothers store on Hartford Road, Manchester.

In the United States silk of that quality would cost $2.40 a yard but the difference in their wages, which is a few cents a day and in consequence their standard of living is distressing to a person coming from a place like our own wonderful town.

Many thousands live in small river boats packed close together and others exist somehow in rice straw huts. It all makes me wonder if we as a people are thankful to God enough for our mercies and our blessings.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Stocks displayed symptoms of spring-time lassitude today and most of the leaders shuffled along in a trendless fashion.

A few specialties showed signs of life, but trading in the early hours lacked the lustre of the past week's sessions. Both buyers and sellers seemed to be shy, although most of the latter failed to offer what might have been considered "bargains."

Silver was a bright spot in the speculative armament, the spot metal advancing 1/2 cent an ounce to 46 1/2 cents, or within 1-8 of a cent of its four-year peak. TWO SUNDAY ALARMS FOR ONE CHIMNEY FIRE

Two alarms of fire sounded in rapid succession at 10:30 yesterday morning in the Manchester Fire Department whistle gave the impression of a general alarm and an unusually large crowd was attracted to Depot Square.

The first alarm turned in recorded as though coming from No. 35, which sent the department to Woodbridge and North Elm street, where no fire was found. After the companies had left headquarters the second alarm was turned in as from No. 12 North Main and North School streets.

The apparatus hurried back to the latter point only to find that its services were not needed.

The cause of the commotion was a chimney fire in the former R. P. Bissell building on North Main street which had been extinguished before the firemen arrived.

FOREST WORKERS IN GOOD HEALTH

In One Camp of 200 But 22 Have Required Hospital Attention.

Hartford, Feb. 18.—(AP)—First Lieutenant Herbert W. Sherwin, medical officer of Camp Fernow at Hampton has submitted a report which indicates that good health prevails in the C.C.C. camp in Connecticut. It was announced today.

Reporting for Camp Fernow alone, Sherwin said that only two men receive medical attention daily in a company of more than 200 and that since the camp was formed, but 22 persons have required hospital attention with only one serious accident reported.

Four hundred men have served in the camp. First Lieutenant Herbert S. Keimling, commander of Camp Fernow has been transferred. He was ordered to report to the commanding officer, Third C.C.C. District, at Fort Devens, Ayer, Mass.

$286 RAISED AS 7,500 SEE ICE CARNIVAL

Sports club, New York, in a singles number gave an indication of the artistry that was soon to follow, when he executed many new and difficult evolutions.

Next came Dr. Hulda Berger, former junior National figure skating champion. Dr. Berger, one of New York's best skaters visited the skaters of the Winter Sports club, was struck with the beauty of Manchester's outdoor rink and was also pleased at the remarkable condition of the ice.

Dr. Berger was followed by Arthur Jansen, also of New York, in a solo number, who gave an equally fine exhibition as his brother who had preceded him. Both are members of the Winter Sports club and are pupils of Baptie and Lamb.

Then came the first act of the famous skaters, Norval Baptie and his equally well known partner and wife, Gladys Lamb. In the initial act of the headliners of the carnival program, Baptie and Lamb showed intricate waltz numbers and wide, sweeping figures, to the accompaniment of their special recordings played on the amplifier by William Kraib of Potterton and Kraib, radio dealers.

The tenth number on the program was a barrel jumping act by Leo LaBelle and Ray Felix, both of Meriden. During the entire program, Eddie Crane of Springfield; Billy Blodoux of Holyoke, Mass.; and Eddie Flaherty of Holyoke, Mass., kept the crowd in good humor with their imitable comedy acts.

The Winter Sports club figure skating foursome, Dr. Hulda Berger, Miss Edna Harris, Arthur and Roland Jansen, presented for the first time on Manchester ice, a foursome figure skating act which was a delight to watch. The symmetry and poise of these noted performers was one of the highlights of the program.

While the leading performers were changing costumes for the remaining numbers on the program, the committee presented the Hartford Skating club women members in a special 220 yard dash, which was won by Miss Minnie Englemann, 13 years old, daughter of Jennie Englemann, former skating champion of this section. Miss Englemann led the skaters all the way around the difficult turns and gave promise of becoming one of the star speed skaters of this section.

Ray Takkar, leading Hartford racer, took an early lead over the big field of starters in the special 440 yard dash to win easily in fast time. Ray Felix was second and Sally Sansone third. There were 12 skaters in this special race.

Golden Gate Span Reaches for Sky

Towering to dizzy heights, the $35,000,000 bridge across the Golden Gate at San Francisco rises unit by unit, to the staccato tune of riveting machines, operated by workmen who sit in the cages shown suspended along the sides of the massive girders. Other riveters work inside the cellular sections of the giant span and its abutments.

ers of the country, were shown in this special doubles number. Spirals, spins, whirls, aeroplane spins and everything known to ice skating was presented in the six minute act. At the conclusion of the number the crowd responded to three cheers for the accomplished pair.

The final number on the long program was the frolicsome "fox chase" led by Norval Baptie. Ten picked boys, all good skaters, tried to catch the elusive 64-year-old star for five minutes. Having eluded them all, he finally ended the race by plumping into the arms of the youngest skater of all, to end the afternoon's show.

The committee headed by J. Andrew Holzmeier, chairman of the Permanent Armistice Day committee, had 50 or more veterans on the job early, assisting in the parking, selling tickets, and handling the crowd at the skating lodge and on the ice.

Skaters Given Luncheon Frank Cervini, Frank Bray and John L. Jenney were in charge of tickets. Edward Keeney headed the parking crew.

Following the carnival the visitors, numbering 27, were the guests of the Army and Navy club at a luncheon held in their honor at the clubhouse on Main street. Those who attended the affair were Mr. and Mrs. Baptie, Dr. Hulda Berger and Miss Edna Harris, all of the Winter Sports club, New York; Marion and Herbert Meyer of Springfield; William Blodoux, Lake Placid, N. Y.; Leo LaBelle and Ray Felix, Meriden; Eddie Crane of Springfield, Mass.; Edward Flaherty and Grace Borlen of Holyoke, Mass.; James Foley, Miss Margaret McKeever, Frank Wallett and Miss Mary Haggerty of this town; Reggie Hickey, Billy Tauscher, Sally Sansone, J. Murray, Eddie Tauscher, Ray Takkar, Carl "Cop" Englemann, Mrs. Carl Englemann and Miss Minnie Englemann, of the Hartford Skating club; Wilbur O'Donnell, of Holyoke; Park Superintendent Horace F. Murphy and J. A. Holzmeier of this town.

Proceeds Were $286 The finance committee reported shortly after the carnival that the proceeds from the sale of the tickets yesterday totaled $286 of which a good sum will be realized for the Veterans' Memorial Fund.

The committee wishes to publicly thank those who assisted during the carnival, especially Potterton and Kraib, radio dealers, for the use of the amplifying equipment, and William Kraib for his services as announcer.

The auxiliaries of the local veterans groups, headed by Mrs. Anna Barron, served coffee and cookies at the skating lodge during the performance and a group of women assisted Chef David McCollum in serving the luncheon at the club following the carnival.

Harry White, dressed in a fur coat, silver topper and silver megaphone introduced the performers from mid-ice adding a colorful touch to the spectacle.

WYNEKOOP TRIAL IS STARTED AGAIN

Chicago, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynkoop today went on trial for her life for the second time charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Wynkoop. Prosecutor Charles S. Douglas announced he again would ask the death penalty. Judge Harry B. Miller presided.

Dr. Wynkoop's plea was not guilty. Her first trial was declared a mistrial because of the dangerous physical condition of the defendant, in the court of Judge Joseph David a little more than a month ago. The trial got under way despite the illness of Milton Smith, defense attorney. In view of his absence, however, all parties agreed that today's session would be an abbreviated one.

wages and hours for all departments. Johnson also pointed out that while the regulation of child labor in the ANPA code affected the children employed directly by the papers, it would not reach those employed by news distributing agencies, for whom no code has been presented.

While the hours of street sales by children are expressly limited there is no limitation on time for home deliveries except that it shall not impair the health of the boys nor interfere with day school hours.

President's Request The President's request for immediate establishment of the five-day week on larger dailies was made in a separate letter to Johnson.

It's text follows: "My Dear General Johnson: "In addition to the conditions in the executive order approving the code of fair competition for the daily newspaper publishing business, I wish to make the following observations:

"(A) I am not satisfied with the child labor provisions. A special report and recommendations in regard to the carrying out of the provisions will be made to me at the end of 60 days.

"(B) The publishers of newspapers having a circulation of seventy-five thousand or more in cities of seven-hundred and fifty thousand population or more are requested to install a five-day, forty-four week for their staff or reporters and writers with the purpose of giving employment to additional men and women in the field. A report on this will be made at the end of sixty days.

"Sincerely, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT." The text of the executive order on the code follows:

"An application having been duly made, pursuant to and in full compliance with the provisions of Title 1 of the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933, for my approval of a code of fair competition for the daily newspaper publishing business, and hearings having been held thereon and the administrator having rendered his report containing an analysis of the said code of fair competition, together with his recommendations and findings with respect thereto, and the administrator having found that the said code of fair competition complies in all respects with the pertinent provisions of Title 1 of said act and that the requirements of clauses (1) and (2) of subsection (a) of section 3 of said act have been met:

"Now, therefore, I, Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States, pursuant to the authority vested in me by Title 1 of the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933, and otherwise, do hereby adopt and approve the report, recommendations and findings of the administrator and do order that the said code of fair competition be and it is hereby approved, subject to the following conditions:

"(1) The determination of hours and wages for news department workers shall be made not later than 60 days hence.

"(2) The government members of the code authority shall give particular attention to the provisions authorizing minors to deliver and sell newspapers and shall report to the President not later than 60 days hence.

"(3) Insofar as Article VII is not required by the Act, it is hereby approved, subject to the following conditions: While it has no meaning it is permitted to stand merely because it has been requested and because it could have no such legal effects as would bar its inclusion.

"Of course, a man does not consent to what he does not consent to. But if the President should find it necessary to modify this code, the same modification would not affect whatever obligations the non-consentor would have under section III (D) of the National Industrial Recovery Act.

"Of course, also, nobody waives any constitutional rights by assenting to a code. The recitation of the freedom of the press clause in the code has no more place here than would the recitation of the whole Constitution or of the ten commandments.

"The freedom guaranteed by the Constitution is freedom of expression and that will be scrupulously respected—but it is not freedom to work children or do business in a firetrap or violate the laws against obscenity, libel and lewdness.

(Signed) FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, The White House, February 17, 1934. Approval Recommended: (S) HUGH S. JOHNSON, Administrator."

The award is for one year and is retroactive to June 1, 1933 when the old wage agreement expired. The memorandum signed also by Joseph F. Berry of Hartford, the Connecticut company's representative on the arbitration board and Judge Patrick B. O'Sullivan, representing the employees, estimated that 1,750 men would be affected by the arbitration and that the increased wage scale would cost the Connecticut company not more than $92,000 for a year.

Dispute Reviewed. After a detailed review of the dispute and an examination of the company's financial ability, the memorandum said: "In my opinion the fact is established that the company can and should be asked to pay the increased charge of a wage of 62 cents an hour, which could not exceed in any event $92,000 for a full year and might be somewhat less.

"I find therefore, and award, after full consideration and under the terms of the arbitration agreement, that the basic wage for the period therein limited shall be 48 cents per hour for the first three months of employment, 51 cents per hour for the next nine months, and 55 cents per hour thereafter, for the two man car operator plus a differential of seven cents for the one man car and motor bus operator; and the wage rates of all other employees specified in the arbitration agreement shall be increased three and one third per cent.

Good for One Year. The memorandum pointed out that the board had power to fix wages only for one year, but that hope was expressed "that in justice to both the wage rate herein fixed should continue for the balance of the present calendar year."

The increases allowed by the board represented a compromise between the company and its employees. The men had asked a 15 cent increase in basic rate for bus and one car operators and an increase of seven cents, from 53 to 60 for two man car employees. The company had proposed a general 10 per cent cut and when this proposal was turned down suggested a five per cent cut.

Fair Return for Capital. "There is no finer ambition," Judge Munger wrote "in our time than to strive for the increased welfare of labor; but labor cannot advance if the board is to be a mere device for the present system without the concession of a right to a fair return to those who have placed their capital at the service of the enterprise which employs the labor.

"To say this is doubtless commonplace, but it is worth repeating for it is to cause us to recognize the very plain fact that if wages are to be fixed according to any principle or by any method which destroys the enterprise or gives no reasonable return to those who have invested their own savings in it, the employment of labor comes to an end."

MERCURY CLIMBS TO 40 HERE TODAY

Striking Contrast to Sub-Zero Weather of the Past Two Weeks.

In striking contrast to the sub-zero weather in evidence during the past two weeks was the relatively high temperature today.

Official readings of the thermometer taken at the plant of the Mutual Heating corporation at 2 o'clock this afternoon showed the mercury had climbed to 40 degrees above.

Heavy overcoats were discarded and light topcoats substituted in Manchester as a result of the balmy, springlike weather. Ice and snow that has been accumulating during an unusually severe winter melted rapidly under the warm rays of the sun and large patches of grass were visible on most of the lawns in town.

Rev. Leonard C. Harris Gives First in Series of Lenten Talks Last Evening.

Last evening at the South Methodist church, the pastor, Rev. Leonard C. Harris gave the first in a series of Lenten talks on "Seeing Christ Through the Eyes of the Great Masters." The subject was The Sistine Madonna by Raphael.

In his talk, Rev. Harris stressed the value of the motives which lie behind great works of art. He attributed the fact of their continuing value to the spiritual purpose behind them. This, he asserted, is the best guarantee to the permanent worth of anything. He contrasted this motive with the profit motive, which defeats itself by exploiting human values rather than contributing to human appreciations and happiness.

In interpreting the significance of the painting, Mr. Harris emphasized the dramatic suggestiveness of Raphael in portraying the wonder and mystery of the Incarnation. The speaker said that the Incarnation was not intended to be an isolated act of God, but suggestive of that which is supposed to continue — God's spirit becoming incarnate in human life. This gives us each the privilege of sharing in that which was only begun, when God became Man in Christ, namely, making life God-like.

Next Sunday evening the pastor will interpret Hofmann's "The Rich Young Ruler."

Married Flirts

BEGIN HERE TODAY
GYPSY MORELL and TOM WEAVER are married. TOM WEAVER is a handsome fellow and DEREK BLISS, but while Lila lives in luxury Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income.

After Gypsy's son is born her days become a dreary round of caring for him and caring for her home. Tom is frequently away from home evenings and Gypsy suspects he is interested in VERA GRAY who works in the same office.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XL

Vera said, "I'm afraid it's sprained." She said, "It's terribly stupid of me. That tricky ankle..." She smiled wistfully and bravely at the young man who sat beside her on the steps of the great station. The young man wore an anxious expression.

"The thing to do is to get you to a taxi as quickly as possible," Vera told her. "But he had been counting on rushing straight home. This would hold him up for a bit. But she was so brave about it—and the wretched thing was that he had to curb his annoyance in a small voice. He was half carrying her up the stairs now. People turned to look at them, the limping tall girl and the handsome fat young man with the do-or-die expression.

"Nonsense." He tried to inject some heartiness into his voice. "You didn't do it on purpose." "Tommy, you're a darling!" As he seated himself beside her in the taxi she turned to him impulsively. Almost before he knew what was happening a pair of warm lips were pressed to his.

"I shouldn't have done that!" She was covering in her corner now and she looked as though she were about to weep. "It—it just happened." Her lip quivered.

Tom wore the slightly bewildered expression of a man who feels the situation is getting decidedly out of hand. "I'm so—so awfully fond of you, Tom. You know that." The girl's voice went on confidentially. "It—I was just grateful to you, you see."

"She. Of course, I understand." He mumbled the words. "Then it's all right." "Perfectly all right." Did all men feel such fools when they got themselves into a domestic tangle? She had no mustn't bother about poor little me," Vera murmured when the cab drew up, with a screech of brakes, at the brownstone house on the street. She gave him a sidelong glance in which coyness and exasperation were oddly mingled. "I've kept you too long already."

Tom made the expected gallant denial. As Vera got slowly out of the cab her mouth twisted in a grimace of pain. That settled it. She would have to be helped up the stairs—all the way to her apartment, in fact. Three flights up. She had made the place charming and comfortable with deep chairs and soft cushions. There were one or two nice prints in black frames and there were rose-colored curtains. Into one of the chintz-covered chairs the girl now lowered her fragrant person, smiling whimsically at the man beside her.

been home long since. She had planned to leave early. What was he thinking of? "Don't go, Tommy," Vera said, putting a silken hand on his arm. "Don't! It's been so nice. I don't know when I shall get you to myself again."

"Sorry, but I'm afraid I must." Her cheeks were flushed and her eyes bright. "You mustn't," she said stubbornly. "I've been wanting to talk to you for ages... something important."

"Well, shoot." "You're not happy, Tom. Dear. I can see that. I'm devoted to you. I'd give the world to make you happy."

"What was she saying? He stiffened, tried to carry it off with a laugh. "Your imagination is working overtime, my dear. I'm perfectly happy."

"You're not happy, Tom. Dear. I can see that. I'm devoted to you. I'd give the world to make you happy."

"What was she saying? He stiffened, tried to carry it off with a laugh. "Your imagination is working overtime, my dear. I'm perfectly happy."

"You and I go separate ways now, Vera," he told her soberly. "We can be friends, of course..." She interrupted him. "Ah, but that's exactly it! We can't. We aren't any more. That's what hurts."

"The whole thing was absurd and Tom was suddenly weary of it. He put out his hand. "We'll talk about this some other time," he said. "It's all pretty foolish. You're tired and overstrained. I don't know how this all started."

"Well, I do, Tom Weaver. There's no use your hedging. There's something too big here for us to ignore. It's sweeping both of us into—into—" she groped for a word.

Tom groaned inwardly. This was what his drifting had brought him to, his casual luncheons and conferences. He had found her attractive; he had enjoyed her companionship. Now what?

"Gently he said, "I love Gypsy. There's no getting away from that." "Yes, but..." "There isn't any 'but' in my feeling for my wife," Tom told her, feeling like a prig and not enjoying it.

"Your wife doesn't understand you, darling, and you know it." "Oh, rats!" Tom grinned but she was not to be turned aside thus.

"She doesn't," Vera insisted stubbornly. "She's domestic and maternal and all that, and that's fine—I don't say it isn't. But not for you. Not for you, Tom killing you. It's a treadmill. You used to like adventure..."

"I'll do it," she said. "Well, what about it? You're tied to a petty routine. You can't go anywhere, do anything." Her voice rose almost to hysteria. "And it isn't as if she cared anything about you, really. Doesn't she gad all over town with that engineer chap?"

"He reddened. "Leave Gypsy out of this, please!" "I won't do it," her voice softened and a wheedling note crept into it. "Tommy, you know it. There's no use going into it; you're the only man I ever cared a single scrap about. Let's cut and run—go to the far east, China, or someplace. Let's have adventures, live life while we have it!"

decide we dreamed this scene in the morning. Midsummer madness. Somehow he got out into the hall. He ran down the three deep flights of stairs. The ridiculous side of the whole thing flashed upon him and he grinned ruefully to himself as he drew his first deep breath. Would anyone ever believe him if, conceivably, the incident were described. He rather thought not. What would the perfect knight do if confronted with Vera in a stormy mood? He didn't know but he felt he had behaved rather badly throughout it all.

He hurried along, taking prodigious strides. He would have to make some sort of excuse to Gypsy. Better not let her know anything about the matter.

But when he let himself quietly into the apartment it was not Gypsy who came to greet him, but a drowsy and bedraggled Elisa. "Ya, I think you never come," she said dully, getting into her black jacket. "Mrs. Weaver, she says she come home early. I keep your supper hot till after 10 o'clock..."

Tom listened to her with half his mind. The other half of it was busy with his own annoyed reactions to Gypsy's absence. How dared Vera speak of her in connection with Hunt. And yet—and yet it was after midnight. She had not returned.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton
© 1933 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

Yesterday I had in my mail an emissary from Tokio, Japan, a book entitled "Sakuri no Kaori." "The Fragrance of Cherry Blossoms." It consists of many short stories, and being in English, I settled myself for an hour of pleasure. What was my astonishment to read page after page of battles in Manchukuo, of the sufferings of the Japanese soldiers, the almost fanatical patriotism of the people at home and the "glorious spirit" that obsessed the warriors to die on the battlefield. There was not a cherry blossom in it. Accented most strenuously was the support given by school children and wives who often faced destitution. To die in glory on the battlefield seems to me, as far as I could get the picture, just about the highest achievement they can attain.

There was a time here, not so long ago, when we all felt the same way. If we didn't actually urge our soldiers to go and die, it amounted to the same thing. We sent them and then let loose the black jacket. "Mrs. Weaver, she says she come home early. I keep your supper hot till after 10 o'clock..."

Let the rest of the world attend to their troubles. We can use our influence as far as we go to affect peace. Idealism that goes far as war is not only stupid but criminal. We should be struggling with that kind of "idealism" forever.

I don't fight the network of protective machinery we must put up for safety at home. It would be a holocaust of disaster if invasion were imminent. Trained men are protected men and protective men. As far as that goes, every man, and woman too, as a matter of logic, could bear training.

When youth gets red-eyed, smells smoke and champs to go, it is our responsibility to show them the difference between a peppy regiment marching to a band, and having their bodies torn and maimed and tortured. The onus of any such situation rests with the mature and the knowing.

The Nazis are working on youth. Germany has gone fanatically patriotic. Very well, it isn't our business. Let us keep our heads, two ways, and not go berserk over any "gentlemen's agreements" that can involve millions of men for the sake of a "idea" or show the same work out better without any interference from Mars. We should have learned that, and perhaps we have, long years ago.

DON'T DISCARD YOUR SPECS YET FOR INVISIBLE GLASSES

Contact Lenses May Satisfy Your Vanity and Be Effective, Too, but They're Quite Costly and Hard to Manipulate.

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Although you may have read much about a new kind of eyeglasses that are invisible and can be worn under the eyelids, you needn't fear that your own type of spectacles soon will become old-fashioned.

Much can be said for the new kind of glasses, both as to appearance and effectiveness, but authorities say they never will replace ordinary spectacles, because they cost more, they are more difficult to manipulate, and they are less adaptable to ordinary requirements of glasses.

The contact eyeglass, which is worn under the eyelids, with the rim resting directly on the eyeball. The portion of the eyeglass directly over that part of the eye which sees usually is separated from it by a thin layer of salt solution, especially prepared so that it will not, like water, have an effect on the tissues.

Ordinary eyeglasses one-half inch from the eye simply cannot cure every error of refraction, because in higher errors there is distortion at the edge of the correcting lens.

The contact eyeglass, which is worn on the eyeball, becomes a definite part of the optical system of the eye and maintains the same correction for every position of the eye.

This is an advantage, and most people who wear contact glasses for the first time feel that the general clearness and brightness of objects is an improvement.

The contact glass has another advantage in conditions in which the cornea of the eye is distorted, as in the case of conical cornea. These cases are helped much by ordinary glasses, and are helped greatly by contact glasses.

Some people feel that the contact glasses are dangerous to wear, but actual trial has proved that they are safer than ordinary eyeglasses so far as breakage is concerned.

In some cases the contact glasses have been worn by persons for many months without any apparent harm to their eyes.

However, even where the contact glass is made to fit the eyeball perfectly, there is for a while a good deal of irritation to the eyelids. As the glasses are worn for a longer time, this irritation tends to disappear.

It is much harder to fit contact glasses to the human eye than to fit ordinary spectacles. They have to be tried again and again, then the wearer has to be taught how to insert them and to remove them, because there is a trick in avoiding air bubbles over that portion of the eye covered by the salt solution.

The contact glasses have to be removed and inserted several times daily. Workers on the stage, men indulging in sports of various sorts, and people with whom the question of appearance is paramount, probably will want to wear such glasses rather than spectacles.

Men, Mind Your OWN Business

By HELEN WELSHIMER
publishers of grand opera singers have this motive, of course. But there is an army of them who do so, according to Miss Moore.

Once upon a time there were women who were called gold diggers. Women who used their charm and beauty to further their business careers. The balance of power rested in men's hands then. But today, when a woman has as much influence as a man, some of the gentlemen are proving that the only reason they weren't business-diggers before was because women had no business to give.

Both men and women are human beings. And men may be just as feeble as their curved contemporaries. Women may be just as susceptible as their trousered brothers.

For you can tell a man that he is wonderful and he will raise your wife or buy an egg beater for his wife, if egg beaters are your line. Or a man may tell a girl that she has a provocative mouth or dark hair that should be combed to reveal, instead of concealed, her ears, and she will order 10 dozen pairs of shoes if it's shoes he is trying to sell.

Oh, yes, a girl who has something to offer in business may have luncheon dates, tea dates and theater dates. She may see the boat race at Foughkepple and the Army-Navy game. But it takes all the feminine intuition she has to discern whether or not the man wants her heart or her influence. He usually lets her know. Subtly, of course. She thinks she is conferring a royal favor by offering the thing he bought two eight-dollar theater seats to obtain.

No, business women's wooers can't even offer synthetic affection. The only way a man can prove to a woman that it is the pleasure of her company he wants is to keep business out. And business, as any man will tell you in an unguarded moment, comes first with a man.

HOW TO GIVE A CHUCKLE AD PARTY

The hostess who invented this entertainment received her inspiration from want ads in her daily newspaper. The idea was suggested to her by the display of want ads in the paper.

In preparation for the party the hostess provided a classified page (from various issues) for each of her twelve guests. She also secured a generous supply of newspaper, cut in half-page sizes. Guests were seated at card tables, with four to a table. On each table was placed a paste pot, scissors, pencils and the newspaper for each guest.

After guests were seated at the tables, the hostess explained: "You are going to write Chuckle Ads. I know you have never heard of a Chuckle Ad, but it is a paragraph composed of at least four complete lines from that number of separate Want Ads. The lines are combined to make sense (the funnier the better)."

"You will probably find it better to write the Chuckle Ads on paper," the hostess continued, "when you are composing them. When you complete a Chuckle Ad, cut out the different Want Ads you use, and paste them one underneath the other in the correct order. Circle or underline the lines you use, and then write the Chuckle Ad on a separate sheet of paper."

Following these instructions, guests began scrutinizing their want ad pages. Ridiculous combinations soon started the mirth-spontaneous laughter that caused as much fun as professional entertainers could have created.

After several hours of juggling want ad lines, the guests ceased to write. The display looked like a school exhibit at the county fair. Then the guests were instructed to act as judges. Each guest made his own ballot, making first, second and third choices.

Gifts were in keeping with the character of the party. First prize was a mechanical pencil; second a bottle of ink, labeled "printer's ink"; and third, a generous pad of newspaper scratch paper.

When it came time for the "writers" to eat they were told that this was their noon hour. Guests stood at a counter made from a pine board, twelve feet long, while they ate sandwiches and drank coffee.

Here are some of the Chuckle Ads that the party produced: FORCED SALE First $60 takes my nearly new hot Apa Back to the Farm.

REDS CROWD LEADERS IN CAN-AM ICE LOOP

Boston, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The Providence Reds are crowding the first place Boston Cubs these days as they battle for top honors in the Canadian-American hockey league.

The Providence aggregation had apparently been content to loaf along in third place until a week ago, when they swapped positions with the Quebec Beavers, early season runner-up. Quebec languished in third place, Philadelphia continued in fourth position and New Haven remained in the cellar.

Comie King of Philadelphia scored two goals in the New Haven game last night to tie his teammate, Tommy Anderson for top honors in the scoring list. Each had 29 points after the Sunday night 2 to 2 tie between Philadelphia and New Haven. Lloyd McIntyre, Quebec, followed with 22 points.

LOCALS GAIN EVEN BREAK IN 4 GAMES

Boys' Club and Heights Are Winners; De Molay and Newsboys Defeated.

Manchester teams split even with Hartford teams Saturday night in a schedule of four games before one of the best crowds of the season. The Junior teams of the West Side Boys Club and Heights were returned victors over the Burnside Guards, both from Burnside, while in the Senior games the Hayes Dairy and Atlas team of the insurance city finished on the long end of the score against the local DeMolay team and the Herald Newsboys.

Fast and Close

Reimer and Della Fera led the Heights Juniors to a 30-27 victory over the Burnside Guards in a fast and close game. The Burnside team had won one game and both teams were anxious to win the deciding game, but the visitors were unable to stop the local team.

Given Cage Lesson

The Hayes Dairy team of Hartford gave the DeMolay team a lesson in basketball in the third game, when they soundly trounced the local team by a score of 47-24. The visitors presented one of the best teams to appear on the Rec Court in basketball in the third game.

Speedy and Rough

The closing contest brought out the Atlas of Hartford and the Herald Newsboys, the former team winning 35-28 in a game which was noticeable for its speed and roughness. The visitors created a very strong defense, checking their men so close that locals were only able to score two field goals the first half.

Stechholz Swims to Record As M. H. S. Trims Roxbury

With Ewald Stechholz setting a new school record in the 100 yard breast stroke, Manchester High's mermen swam to victory over Roxbury Prep of Cheshire at the East Side Rec pool Saturday afternoon. The final score was 43 to 32, the meet being close and exciting all the way.

Recreation Center Sports

The first bracket of the pool match between Paul Ballsieper, East Side tournament winner and Bill Russell, West Side tournament champion, will be played at the School Street Recreation building at 7:30 p. m. The winner of this 300 point pool match will be crowned the Rec Champ. A large audience is expected to witness this play-off as both are playing brilliant pool and it is hard to predict the final outcome at this time.

ARROWS VICTORS

The Arrows defeated the Oxford Juniors by the tune of 46-34. The Arrows now are the champs by reason of four victories in five games. Johnnie Bycholski and Joe Sudoff were outstanding for the winners, while George Bashe and Joey Vandy were best for the losers. Andy Sudoff played a good floor game. The Arrows would like to hear from any junior team between the ages of 13-15. Call 6565 between 5:30 and 6:30.

Meets Once More

The result was, perhaps, no more conclusive than the margin of one solitary vote by which Cunningham nosed out Bonthron for the prized Sullivan memorial award for the outstanding amateur athletic performance of 1933.

IN NEW YORK

BROADWAY MAGICIANS PRODUCE (PRESTO) GRAY HAIRS ON HEAD OF SPCA AGENTS.

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, Feb. 19.—The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals does a very fine job in New York. Goes around putting blankets on shivering horses, jailing brutal drivers, depriving beggars of little dogs which they train to bark constantly, rescuing white mice from motorized treadmills—and so on.

Several inspectors have called upon Fred Keegan, the actor-magician who likes to make a bird cage with a live canary disappear, and have gone away convinced that the canary was still singing more than momentary astonishment.

But the strange case of Gall-Gail has the SPCA men completely baffled. Gall is a fakir from the Far East (maybe from the far eastern side of Manhattan), who until recently was engaged by a smart food-and-drinkery called Marlborough House to amuse its patrons.

He went around the tables doing all sorts of sleight-of-hand tricks, and among the things he made appear and vanish were some little chickens.

Well, one of the humane people called on Gall and ordered him to perform. Gall said: "Yes, yes—I show," and reached into the fellow's pocket and pulled out an egg. He made a pass over the egg and there was a chicken. He fed the chicken a few crumbs of bread, and there were two chickens. He put these into the hands of the inspector, who discovered there now were three chickens. Gall made some noise of quick motion, and there were no chickens.

"You see?" he said, beaming proudly. "Gall not hurt chicken." "Oh, yeah?" said the inspector. "But where are the chickens now?" "In ze gen'mun's own pocket," retorted Gall. "Maybe ze gen'mun hurt chicken, but not Gall!"

The inspector reached inside his own coat and found three fluffy, cheeping birds. Somehow, he went away from there.

Taking in the Money. Applause is a nice sound in the ears of actors, but a lot of them also like the crackle of currency as it's pushed through the box-office wicket.

When Eddie Cantor made a personal appearance here with the opening of "Roman Scandals" he spent half the morning selling tickets to the long line of customers.

Al Johnson, too, gets a kick out of handling admissions; rather do it than sing a mammy song. Douglas Fairbanks, back in his days in the flesh-and-blood theater, hung around the counting room, anxiously watching the bill roll up.

Ed Wynn, when he's in a show, does senny duty in the lobby right up to the minute when he has to rush back stage and make up.

George M. Cohan likes to stand in the box office, but doesn't handle money and ducats because people recognize him and try to make conversation.

Courtney Burr and George White both like to get right up to the counter and serve their customers.

In the case of Millard Mitchell this process has been reversed. He used to work in the box office of the Little Theatre, but wanted to act instead. Finally he got a chance, and now he is in his second successive show of the season. Just grins at the box office man as he walks grandly by.

Fortune Hunt. Broadway is snickering over the story of the hunt for an heir to a rather sizeable estate in California.

The heir in question came to New York a couple of years ago, soon squandered his money in the gay spots, and then became a black sheep and went around fleecing people. He received no word when the family fortune was broken up by the death of an elder relative, and he wasn't to be found when a lawyer came here to deliver his share of the money.

Somebody suggested that the quickest way to reach the young man would be through the police, so the attorney visited the detective bureau and explained his mission. A few detectives made casual inquiries in some of the black sheep's haunts, and in no time the heir was tipped off that the police were looking for him. He skipped town and hasn't been seen since. You can write your own moral.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

CWA Most Popular of All Recovery Agencies... Private "Lift" Used by Morgenthau... Substantial Aid Planned for Cuba... States Get No Favors on Imported Liquor... Kidnap Bill Author is Ex-Pedagog.

Washington, Feb. 16.—The NRA fan mail is arriving in bulging bags. But recovery officials aren't as pleased as you might suppose. The posties are being tossed, not at NRA, but at the civil works program, to which business men attribute most of the recent improvement.

CWA is by all odds the most popular phase of the recovery program and it's the one Roosevelt proposes to eliminate by May 1.

Uncertainly, it also might be the most dangerous phase, since its cost at the present rate would be $3,000,000 a year.

No one—possibly excepting Roosevelt—expects CWA to be entirely abandoned this spring. But it will operate on a greatly reduced basis rather than the present schedule of employing 4,000,000 persons at an average of $14.30 a week.

The extent will depend on the degree to which Roosevelt's hopes of re-employing 4,000,000 persons elsewhere are realized.

Money for the extension is in sight. Besides the $350,000,000 asked for finishing of the official program, $600,000,000 has been asked for general relief. For the next fiscal year Roosevelt asks not yet allocated.

Those who have talked with him say he thinks relief requirements from that sum may run anywhere from 300 to 800 millions and that he plans about 500 millions for public works.

Thus there will be nearly two billions from which new CWA funds might be obtained.

Use Private "Lift". The only cabinet member who has a private elevator is Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau.

Lots of people became indignant during the Hoover administration when it was learned that Secretary Lamont was using a private lift in the new Commerce Building. The fact was denied officially.

ONLY ONE BID RECEIVED FOR U. S. POSTAL STATION

For Second Time a Single Store Makes Offer of Contract—Two More Days.

Only one bid was received Saturday by Postmaster Frank Crocker in response to his advertisement for bids for a contract postal station near the site of the old post office at the south end.

Mr. Crocker announced today that in view of this fact he had posted a notice in the main post office asking for additional bids. The notice will be on display today, tomorrow and Wednesday.

The final hour for the reception of bids will be 5 o'clock Wednesday evening, Mr. Crocker said.

This is the second time that but one bid has been obtained for the contract postal station. The bid earlier in the winter and the one last week were submitted by two different stores, Mr. Crocker said.

CATCHES YEARLING FOX HIGH IN PINE TREE

Constable Duffy Captures Animal Alive After Dogs Chase It Into Birds' Territory.

Constable James Duffy came into possession of an uncommon pet at 10:30 o'clock this morning when his three beagle hounds cornered a young grey fox, probably a yearling, in the rear of his yard at 232 Henry street.

The fox sought refuge from the dogs in the upper branches of a pine tree and there he was captured by Mr. Duffy.

Attracted by the unusually vociferous barking of his dogs, Duffy thought at first they had rounded up a rabbit. Investigation disclosed, however, that a handsome young fox was the object of the commotion.

Telling Joseph Coughlin, of 185 North Main street, who was with him at the time, to stand in readiness with a gun in case Reynolds eluded his grasp, Duffy climbed the tree and carefully made his way to the top limbs.

REV. C. A. CAPWELL FUNERAL

Norwalk, Feb. 19.—(AP)—Funeral services for Rev. Charles A. Capwell, 84, retired Episcopal clergyman, who died last night in the Norwalk hospital as the result of injuries received Saturday in a train accident, will be held Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock in St. Paul's Episcopal church here. Burial will be in Riverside Cemetery.

Rev. Capwell was injured when the Pittsfield Express struck the automobile he was driving at the Catherine street grade crossing of the New Haven railroad. An inquest will be held in the office of Coroner John J. Phegan in Bridgeport on Thursday afternoon.

Civil Works Administration is responsible for development of 226 new landing fields and improvement of 250 existing airports.

THE TWYMANITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The squirrel with the little cart behind some big trees tried to dart. Then Nature Nick cried out, "Hey, Fluffy, do not run away."

"I'm sure no harm will come to you, regardless of what you may do. Please be polite, because you have nice visitors today."

"Who are they?" questioned Fluffy. "Gee, you don't know how they frightened me. I cannot stop my work for long, 'cause I have lots to do."

Then Scouty said, "We'll introduce ourselves. We're Twymans! What's the use of being frightened? We have merely come to play with you."

"What? Me play at a time like this? Why, think of all the work I'd miss," the little squirrel snaped. "My partner's waiting for me, now. We're storing nuts high in a tree. That is the safest place, you see. It isn't hard to hide them. Come along, I'll show you how."

"I'll pull your little cart along," said Fluffy. "I am good and strong." "Oh, thank you," exclaimed Nature Nick.

"I really worked real hard to find this cartful, so if you don't mind, be careful. Hours would pass before another load was found."

"The whole bunch traveled for a spell and then they heard wee Dunce yell, 'Ah, there's your little squirrel friend, perched high up in that tree.'"

"The squirrel looked down and said, 'You're right. Oh, gee, those nuts are quite a sight. We'll hide them in this tree trunk. Come on, toss them up to me.'"

"Twas fun to watch the two squirrels work. Said Nature Nick, 'They do not shirk when there is any work to do. You'll note they both are strong.'

"And, also, they are very wise. Just stop and think. You realize that nuts they're storing now will feed them both all winter long."

(Robin Redbreast proves a good worker, too, in the next story.)

BOZEMAN IS AGAIN LEADING CUE PLAY

Cochran, Layton, Hoppe Also in Battle for 3-Cushion Billiard Title.

New York, Feb. 19.—(AP)—The quest for the world's three-cushion billiard championship narrowed down today to a battle among four players, with 27 year old J. N. Bozeman, Jr., of Valle Jo, Cal., the youngest competitor, setting the pace for three more experienced stars—Welker Cochran, the defending champion, Johnny Layton, and Willie Hoppe.

Bozeman, Cochran and Layton have lost only one game each, but the youthful Californian's standing read seven victories as compared to six for his two rivals. Close behind, still very much in the battle which will end Friday night, is Hoppe with only two setbacks in eight matches.

The Californian touched new heights last night in defeating Kinney Matsuyama, of New York, 50 to 25 in 27 innings.

Both Cochran and Layton had chances to catch their younger opponent today. The defending title holder was matched against Al Hamilton, Kansas City, met Aurie Kickhefer, Chicago, while at night, Kinney Matsuyama tangles with 71-year-old Alfredo De Oro.

The other two games bring together players out of running for the title. In the afternoon, Tim Denton, Kansas City, met Aurie Kickhefer, Chicago, while at night, Kinney Matsuyama tangles with 71-year-old Alfredo De Oro.

Help for Cuba. Cubans had a lot to celebrate when they cheered American recognition of President Mendieta.

Roosevelt is convinced there'll be more disturbances there unless we do something for the island's economic restoration. Shipment of surplus foodstuffs to Cuba will be followed by administration cooperation toward scaling down the national debt.

Studies on which the White House relies indicate that Cuba can be kept stable and her Mendieta regime in power if she sells about 3,000,000 tons of sugar a year. Europe now buys about 1,000,000 tons and this country about 1,300,000.

Cuba's plight is largely due to our increased imports of Filipino and other duty-free sugar. So the administration is figuring on letting in about 2,000,000 tons of the Cuban product under a new import allocation agreement.

No Favors on Liquor. Sovereign states which have their own liquor monopolies can't import wines and liquors from abroad except under allocations by the Federal Alcohol Control Administration, they're finding. And they're on the same basis as private importers when they apply for permits.

None of the states got in on the first quota period. Those which opened their own liquor stores thus far have had to buy foreign goods from merchants in New York.

Congressman John Buell Snyder of Pennsylvania, who proposed the brilliant idea of bringing Lindbergh's tale a congressional committee to talk about kidnaping, in connection with his "firing squad" kidnaping bill, used to be a school teacher in Upper Turkeyfoot, Pa.

He became a salesman of educational books, founded the Pennsylvania Inter-High School Literary, Debate, and Musical League, and was swept in here by the Democratic landslide of 1932.

TRIBUTES TO FATHER McCANN AT ST. BRIDGET'S

Fifty-six members of the Holy Name society of St. Bridget's church attended mass in a body Sunday morning and received communion, which was offered up in remembrance of the late pastor, Rev. C. T. McCann.

This morning a mass arranged for by a group of members of the church was celebrated in the church for the repose of the soul of the deceased pastor.

Those who accompanied the body of Father McCann to Westport where the burial took place on Saturday, express much appreciation of the manner in which the state police acting as escort, took charge of the traffic on the way from Manchester to the cemetery in Westport. Not once was the funeral cortege held up. The escort took the procession through the cities, by routes developing the least traffic.

At the grave in the cemetery a marquee had been erected under which the funeral party stood during the committal service.

It was after 7 o'clock Saturday night when the automobiles with Manchester friends and relatives returned here from Westport.

WORTHY RELIGION SERMON SUBJECT

Rev. F. C. Allen Is Guest Speaker at the Salvation Army Citadel.

Another of the popular Sunday afternoon special services was held in the Salvation Army citadel yesterday, with Rev. F. C. Allen, pastor of the Second Congregational church the guest speaker. Rev. Allen took for his subject: "Is Religion Worthwhile?"

"If you take the religion of the Hindus with their countless gods and dark practices—I would say no," admitted the speaker. "Also, if you mean the Koreans and Chinese with their demon worship, I would also answer in the negative. But if you mean the religion that causes you to sacrifice that others may derive benefit, that fortifies you in the closing hours of life; that helps you to go through life with a smile—I would say 'Yes.'"

"Abraham Lincoln, whose birthday we just celebrated, had this brand of worthwhile religion," continued the speaker. "On bidding farewell to citizens of Springfield, Illinois upon his start for the White House he said: 'A greater task awaits me than was given to Washington and without divine guidance I will fail, but with His help I cannot fail.'"

"Yes, religion cannot fail," concluded the speaker.

Rev. Allen sang a special solo and
