All attendance records for a Cooking School in Manchester were broken today when hundreds of additional homemakers from Manchester and surrounding towns turned out for the second session of the Manchester Herald Cooking School.

The questions were plentiful and interesting at the second session and Mrs. Edna R. Crabtree gave helpful and interesting replies.

The stage kitchen was orderly but busy from the time the session opened until it closed.

There was increasing excitement in the audience as the session drew to a close, for the women knew that not only would the women receive the recipes, but that other

STREWEL CONVICTED; FACES LONG TERM

Involved In O'Connell Kidnaping He May Get a 50 Year Sentence.

Albany, N. Y., March 14.—(AP)—Manny Strewel, convicted of kidnaping Lieut. John J. O'Connell, Jr., faces a possible 50-year sentence.

Strewel, accused of plotting the abduction and writing the ransom notes, took the verdict calmly last night when the jury filed in after three hours deliberation.

When the court clerk asked if he had anything to say, there was a trace of emotion in his voice as he answered: "No, Nothing at all."

District Attorney John T. Delaney studied today plans to bring others to justice. Three suspects, John and Francis Oley, brothers, and Percy Geary, have fled, police said.

Former Beer Runner Strewel, former beer runner who acted the part of go-between in negotiations for ransoming the young member of the politically powerful O'Connell family, will be sentenced Friday.

The length of his term hinges on a legal question. Strewel acknowledged that he had been sent to prison twice for violation of Federal laws. If the offenses are found also to be violations of this state's laws, the maximum term of 50 years will be mandatory.

Young O'Connell, 24 years old, was abducted last July. He was held prisoner in New York City until July 29 when a ransom of $40,000 was paid by Ed O'Connell, Democratic county chairman, and Dan O'Connell, chief of the National Guard office.

Daniel H. Prior, veteran criminal lawyer and Strewel's counsel, today expressed his appeal of the verdict.

IL DUCE SEEKS PEACE THROUGH TRIPLE PARLEY

Holding Conferences Today With Austrian And Hungarian Leaders To Solve The Danubian Problems.

Rome, March 14.—(AP)—Two little men with big ideas—the square jawed Benito Mussolini, master of Italy, and the dapper "Napoleon of Austria," Engelbert Dollfuss—sat down at a polished desk in the Venezia palace today for the first of a series of conferences that may write history.

A third government leader, Premier Julius Goemboos of Hungary, was not at the council table at the meetings planned to last through Thursday began. Previously, it had been understood the three would seek in three-cornered parleys a solution of Austria's and Hungary's economic and political ills.

Regardless of the manner of their meeting, the three hope before Thursday night to reach an agreement which, while proving mutually advantageous immediately, eventually may serve the idea of peace and better times in Europe as a whole.

The three men will be together only at the brilliant social functions planned—including a dinner tonight and the opera tomorrow night.

In well-informed circles, it was said Mussolini believes that to talk with Chancellor Dollfuss and Premier Goemboos separately offers the best approach to an agreement between Austria and Hungary, themselves, as well as among Austria, Hungary and Italy.

Beginning with the long conversation with Dollfuss today, Il Duce is believed to be mounting discussions pretty generally around his Danubian plan, promulgated last autumn. It outlines a course whereby Mussolini hopes the difficult economic situation of countries in the Danubian basin may be remedied.

But, forming an undercurrent of general speculation today, is the general belief that Mussolini hopes as a prime but little-commented

JURIES TO DECIDE ON TAX DODGING

President Makes Known His Policy On Income Tax Cases; All Treated Alike.

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has determined the policy that all Federal income tax cases decided whether criminal intent is involved shall be left to Grand Juries.

This policy was made known today at the White House press conference, together with word that several hundred income tax prosecutions are impending.

Likewise it was made clear that all taxpayers involved are going to be treated on the same basis whether the amount is small or large.

Because of the problem of determining the motive behind failure to pay an adequate tax, Mr. Roosevelt believes this should be decided by Grand Juries rather than by a single government official.

Too Big a Burden He feels that it is too much to place on the shoulders of one or several government men the question of determining motives.

If the motive is to cheat the government, criminal action will be involved. Otherwise, several proceedings lie against a person who had underpaid the government.

EX-GERMAN KAISER HIT BY DEPRESSION

Finances Suffer Because Of Hard Times—May Go Back To Germany.

Doom, Holland, March 14.—(AP) Hard times have overtaken the once immensely wealthy former Kaiser Wilhelm II of Germany.

ut how hard the Hohenzollerns have been hit is not known. A year ago, representatives in Berlin admitted their finances had suffered.

But the man in the street might not consider their losses consequential—even today. For, in talking of the reverses, the Berlin representatives were combatting published reports that the former German ruler had a fortune of about $175,000,000.

"He hasn't one-tenth of that," the representatives indignantly declared.

May Retain Home So serious have financial difficulties become, it is said, that the return of Wilhelm to Germany is not altogether impossible. There was, however, no official comment on the heavy losses reputedly sustained through the fall of the dollar and British pound and the ban on the exportation of German money.

An Actor Plays Role of Real Executive In Corporation Headed By Mother, 82

Long before Frank Morgan became a screen favorite, it was the wish of his mother, Mrs. Josephine W. Wupperman, that he should one day become an officer in the liquor product corporation of which she is president.

The 58-year-old mother saw her wish fulfilled when, as shown here in her New York offices, she presented her son official notification of his election as vice president of the company.

President Wants Every Phase Of Subject Studied; Is Not Satisfied With The Present Set-Up.

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt has ordered a detailed and comprehensive survey of every aspect of American aviation designed to give the United States a unified air policy.

Every governmental division in any way interested in aeronautical questions is to be called on to make a study and report so the entire question can be studied by an individual, or commission, for creation of an up-to-date coordinated plan.

President Roosevelt is satisfied the present governmental aeronautical set-up does not work and has determined that a definite, efficient, workable plan of unified control be worked out and put into practice.

COMPROMISE FAILS ON VETERANS' BILL

House Leaders Defeated In Attempt To Reach An Accord On Subject.

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—Administration House leaders were defeated today in efforts intended to bring about a compromise acceptable to President Roosevelt on the Senate liberalization of allowances to war veterans and government employees.

Democratic insurgents and Republicans rejected a move to send the independent offices supply bill to conference to compose differences on $354,000,000 in veterans benefits and pay restoration voted by the Senate.

This threw the bill open for a direct House vote on the Senate's offer. Only last Monday, the House voted for cash payment in new money of the $2,200,000,000 soldiers bonus over administration wishes.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY IS REJECTED BY SENATE

Paper Money's Danger Is Seen by Roosevelt

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—Without mentioning directly the House action in voting for cash payment of the bonus, President Roosevelt said today there was danger in paying off government obligations in paper money in that it might lead to meeting running expenses of the government by such a method.

The President expressed this opinion at his press conference as the House sought to send to conference with the Senate the independent offices appropriation bill increasing by $350,000,000 allowances for veterans and government employees, and others—will demand with some justice similar payments.

Therefore, it was made plain that if the bonus bill should pass the Senate it will be vetoed.

U. S. GUNBOAT ABLAZE; CREW TAKES TO BOATS

Warship Abandoned In Chinese Waters; 108 Men Picked Up; Search Continued For Others.

Hongkong, March 14.—(AP)—The crew of the burning United States gunboat Fulton abandoned ship at 10 p. m. tonight in Bias Bay, 50 miles northeast of here. One hundred and eight survivors were picked up and rescue vessels continued a search for others.

The British destroyer, H. M. S. Wishart, took aboard 60 of the Fulton's crew and a Chinese ship picked up 48.

All of the Fulton's boats, however, had not been accounted for. The Wishart carried on a search for the other boats, considerably hampered by a pea-soup fog.

On patrol duty against pirates, the Fulton sent out a message at 8:21 p. m. saying she was on fire and the crew was preparing to abandon the ship.

Only Meager Details Only meager details of the destruction of the gunboat came to the naval base from H. M. S. Wishart. The British destroyer made its first report at 8:21 p. m.

Received radio from Fulton stating ship burning seriously. Wants help. Going to assistance." At 10:30 p. m., the Wishart reported: "Arrived. Taking crew from boats. Ship abandoned. Tainan also taking survivors. All boats not yet recovered."

The British naval authorities advised Douglas Jenkins, United States consul, who went to the U. S. S. Mindango now in drydock, to obtain additional news.

The U. S. S. Tulsa had left Hongkong, bound for the north and no other American warship was close to the Fulton.

The rescued men will be accommodated at the Sailors' and Soldiers' Home and the new, palatial China Fleet Club. Naval and port authorities are extending all courtesies.

BUILT IN BAY STATE New London, Conn., March 14.—(AP)—The United States gunboat Fulton, after off the China coast, was originally assigned to be built in 1914 at New London, but was constructed at the Fore River shipyard, Quincy, Mass.

Records of naval vessels in the marine registry list the Fulton as having been built at Groton by the New London Ship and Engine Company.

Vote For Ratification Of Treaty With Canada Was 46 To 42 Far Short Of Two-Thirds Required; First Major Setback For Roosevelt Administration.

Washington, March 14.—(AP)—The Senate today rejected the St. Lawrence waterway treaty with Canada.

The vote was for ratification 46 to 42 against, which was far short of the required two-thirds.

The vote administered the first major legislative setback for the Roosevelt administration.

President Roosevelt had urged ratification in two communications to the Senate as a step toward opening vast interior areas of the United States to ocean commerce and providing cheap electricity for his own state of New York, but the opposition of a large group of Democrats and Republicans proved too strong.

Only a while before the treaty vote he told reporters he would send the treaty back for reconsideration when there is time, the giant waterway is going to be built anyway and he feared that failure of ratification would place the seaway entirely under Canadian control.

To reach the vote, treaty opponents withdrew all reservations to the resolution of ratification, paving the way for a clear-cut vote on the pact without strings.

PRÉSIDENT'S STAND Washington, March 14.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today told the St. Lawrence waterway was going to be built regardless of the outcome of the Senate vote on ratification of the treaty with Canada; but the final defeat of the pact would place the seaway entirely in the hands of Canada.

This view was made known as the Senate began its final day's debate on the long-pending proposal. Administration leaders openly conceded ratification was highly improbable.

The President considers the seaway a natural development and therefore cannot be prevented. He explained that if the United States refuses to take part in the construction it can be built by Canada and then used by Canada in Canadian domination.

The President had word from the Senate that in all likelihood the treaty would be defeated by lack of the necessary two-thirds majority.

At his regular press conference, Mr. Roosevelt, in response to inquiries, discussed some of the issues involved in the treaty proposal. He said Chicago was entitled to all the water required there for drinking and sewerage purposes.

Illinois Senators have been fighting the pact. It was emphasized that if the Senate fails to ratify the treaty in some form it will be sent back again for consideration when time permits.

In the Senate, Senator Diederich (D., Ill.), rather than prolong the arguments, already two months long, withdrew his reservation that ratification would be with the understanding that the United States would have exclusive control over diversion of water from Lake Michigan.

Senator Bailey (D., N. C.), also withdrew a reservation, after Senator La Follette (R., Wis.), had read at the desk an editorial urging ratification.

HOW THEY VOTED The roll call on the ratification resolution follows: For ratification: Democrats: Ashurst, Bachman, Bankhead, Barkley, Black, Bone, Brown, Bullock, Bulow, Bynes, Costigan, Dill, Duffy, Erickson, Gore, Harrison, Hatch, Hayden, Logan, McAdoo, McKellar, O'Mahoney, Pittman, Pope, Robinson of Arkansas, Sheppard, Smith, Thomas of Utah, Thompson, Van Nuys, and Wheeler—31.

SEN. WAGNER SEES ECONOMIC CRASH

Intent of NRA He said the NRA was intended to set up a system of checks and balances between industry and labor, but that developments under it presented a danger "of a worse balance than persisted in the past."

Wagner said the Labor Board had relied upon the prestige of its members and public sentiment, but that in recent months the board has been confronted by some large employers who ignore public sentiment, who float the clear intent of Congress, and who are a law unto themselves.

SOCIETY MATRON

DIES FROM BLOWS

Arthur W. Morse, Wall Street Broker, Charged With Homicide By Police.

New York, March 14.—(AP)—Arthur W. Morse, Wall street broker, surrendered to the police last night of Mrs. Edna Leavett of Brookline, Mass. He is charged with homicide.

Morse told police he went to his apartment at 6 o'clock last night, packed up some clothes and left. He refused to say where he had spent the night.

He was accompanied to the police station by his attorney. He appeared nervous, and smoked numerous cigarettes.

Following a round of Greenwich Village "hot spots," the New York police say, a disturbance was reported by neighbors of Arthur Morse, broker and Harvard graduate, who lives at 7 MacDougal alley in the village.

Detective Matthew McKeever of the Eighth Squad in New York led a raid on the place and found Morse allegedly intoxicated, scratched and angry, he says, and Mrs. Edith Field, of Brookline, Mass., lying unconscious on the floor.

At the hospital, it was said, she was suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and severe lacerations of the scalp and jaw.

In Essex Market court yesterday, Magistrate Joseph E. Goldstein listened to the plea of Attorney Edward T. Welch, of 72 Wall street, who asked low bail and immediate release of his client, claiming that Morse's services were indispensable at his firm of Church and Morse, 48 Wall street. Bail of $50,000 was fixed and trial was postponed awaiting further information concerning Mrs. Field's condition.

The young woman—she is 26—had been in New York for a week, registering at the Hotel Albert, under the name of Mrs. Edna Leavett. Her first husband, now dead, was named L. vet. She is said to be divorced from Field. Friends are carefully shielding her maiden name and the name of her grandparents who live in Brookline. Morse is 41 and a bachelor. Detective McKeever said Morse was intoxicated when arrested and he believed Mrs. Field had been drinking. The quarrel, police say, was caused by Morse's jealousy concerning his companion's attentions to other men.

The vote showed the opposition obtained about a dozen more votes than necessary to defeat the pact.

The positions of the remaining five Senators—Caraway, Fletcher, King, Thomas, Okla., and Trammell—were not announced.

The final vote came after more than two months of intermittent debate.

The treaty is not expected by Senate leaders to come up again this session.

No debate preceded the vote, but opposition leaders further revealed their confidence by withdrawing all remaining reservations.

The vote disposed of a subject which had served frequently as a stumbling block to other legislation this session. Democratic leaders immediately raised the "full speed ahead" signal for the remainder of the major items.

NEEDLE WORKERS IN STATE STRIKE

Expect That 2,000 Are Affected In Various Cities; Dispute Is Over Wages.

Bridgeport, March 14.—(AP)—A general state wide strike in the house dress and children's wear industry began at noon today, John Egan, secretary of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, announced. The walkout will affect 2,000 workers in Bridgeport, Waterbury, New Haven, Derby, New London and Wallingford, he said.

The state-wide strike will be coordinated from New Haven by Bernard Schub, state manager for the union.

Strikers to Meet Strikers in Bridgeport are scheduled to meet during the noon hour, when strike committees will be formed for negotiations with the employers here.

The chief complaint of the employees in the industry is against wages under present schedules.

The house dress industry, which union men say is the last remnant of the so-called "sweatshop industry" in Connecticut, is alleged to have been paying wages as low as $8 and $6 a week for full working hours.

TOBACCO COMPETITION Hartford, March 14.—(AP)—About 400 samples of Havana seed and broadleaf tobacco were in competition here today, preliminary to entrance of prize winners which will be entered in the New England tobacco products show at the Hartford Times progress exposition Saturday.

BAN EXTRA JOBS FOR SKILLED MEN

Complaints To CWA Board Bring Today's Action; Lay Off 34 This Week.

Hearing complaints that skilled workers receiving $1 an hour doing work for the CWA in Manchester, had taken jobs "on the side" for three days a week, thus materially increasing their income, the local CWA board today took steps to correct the evil by passing a resolution which emphasizes that any skilled worker on the CWA payroll found to be engaged in outside work would be held liable for immediate discharge.

Down To 320
Thirty-four CWA workers will be laid off this week, in accordance with instructions received from CWA state headquarters in Hartford. This reduces the local CWA quota to 320 men. The fact was stressed at today's board session that George H. Waddell, CWA certifying officer, and Hayden Griswold, CWA supervising engineer, had nothing whatever to do with the weekly laying off of the workers.

Mrs. Buckley, who has been assigned by the state CWA headquarters to conduct an investigation into the financial status of CWA workers here, submits her findings and recommendations to the board. She has been in town during the past week and has inquired thoroughly into the family and financial background of the 34 who are to receive their "blue tickets" this week. A few of her pungent comments follow:

Some Comments
"This man receives a government pension and has been on a drunk for the past week."

"Income in this family is over $50 a week."

"Investigation discloses this party has $3,000 in the bank."

"This person complained about a large hospital bill for his wife, but it was found he had never even visited his wife and that a social agency was paying the hospital expenses."

It was indicated at today's meeting that reports on the remaining 320 CWA workers would be ready by next week.

Continue Painters Wage
Decision was made to retain the wage rate of $1 an hour for painters at present engaged in painting the schools and firehouses in Manchester until further instructions from Hartford governing this matter are received. The board favored appointing a sub-committee to go into the matter of wage adjustments for the skilled CWA workers, but this committee will not function until more complete data is available. Work painting the municipal building will be started Friday, it was said.

Approval has been made of the suggestion to round out improvements at the North End playground, but when work on this project will be started is problematical. The old mill building on the playground is to be torn down and other improvements made.

ROADSIDE TEA ROOMS ARE NOT UNDER CODE

Hartford, March 14—(AP)—Roadside fruit and vegetable stands, "hot-dog" counters and tea rooms in small towns which are not close to "trade areas" are believed to be benefited by a new interpretation of the restaurant code received today by the Connecticut NRA compliance board from Thomas I. Emerson, assistant counsel in the legal division of the NRA at Washington.

The ruling is that restaurants are included within the area or the President's executive order of October 23, 1933, therefore "restaurant" employers operating in towns of less than 2500 population not within the immediate trade area of the large towns and cities, who are engaged locally and have five or less employees, are exempted from all provisions of the restaurant code.

August Brauer, executive assistant at Connecticut NRA compliance board headquarters explained that the roadside stands and tea rooms in small towns are benefited by this ruling. The term "trade area" had already been interpreted as the area bordering on a large town or city.

It also has been ruled that cash discount on meal tickets does not constitute an unfair trade practice.

JOSEPH LOEFFLER NOW AT SHERIDAN

Popular Springfield Hotel Man Resumes Charge Of Local Hotel Again.

Joseph Loeffler, who leased the Hotel Sheridan, later returning to Springfield and sub-letting his interests in the hotel to Simon Lanice, of New York, has returned to Manchester and last evening again took over the personal management of the hotel.

Shortly after Mr. Loeffler returned to Springfield, Manager Lanice brought in help from New York. A week ago, while Mr. Lanice was in New York, his assistant left Manchester. The attention of the conditions at the hotel were brought to Mr. Loeffler's attention, and he came to Manchester Sunday. When he returned to Springfield he made necessary adjustments to take care of his Springfield interests, and last night came to Manchester to resume charge of the hotel here. Mr. Lanice returned today to New York.

Mr. Loeffler built up in Springfield an enviable reputation as a first-class hotel man, and his knowledge of hotel management is confidently expected to react to the benefit of the Hotel Sheridan here, both in the cuisine and the room service.

TWO GIRLS HURT IN AUTO CRASH

Miss Josephine Karlson And Miss Thelma Jackson Taken To Hospital.

A sedan owned by Walter W. Keeney of Buckland and driven by his son, Richard, collided last night with a utilities pole on Tolland turnpike near the Glode Ice house. The left side of the automobile was smashed, the top torn off from the frame and the running board ripped away, but the occupants were fortunate to escape with but minor injuries.

In the car with young Keeney at the time was Miss Josephine Karlson of 31 Galloway street, and Miss Thelma Jackson of 1343 Tolland turnpike. Miss Jackson had been visiting at the home of Miss Karlson and Mr. Keeney had volunteered to take her home in the automobile. They were headed west on Tolland turnpike, which is narrow and from which all of the ice has not melted. When the car neared the Manchester-East Hartford town line it skidded on the ice, went out of the driver's control and then crashed against the pole.

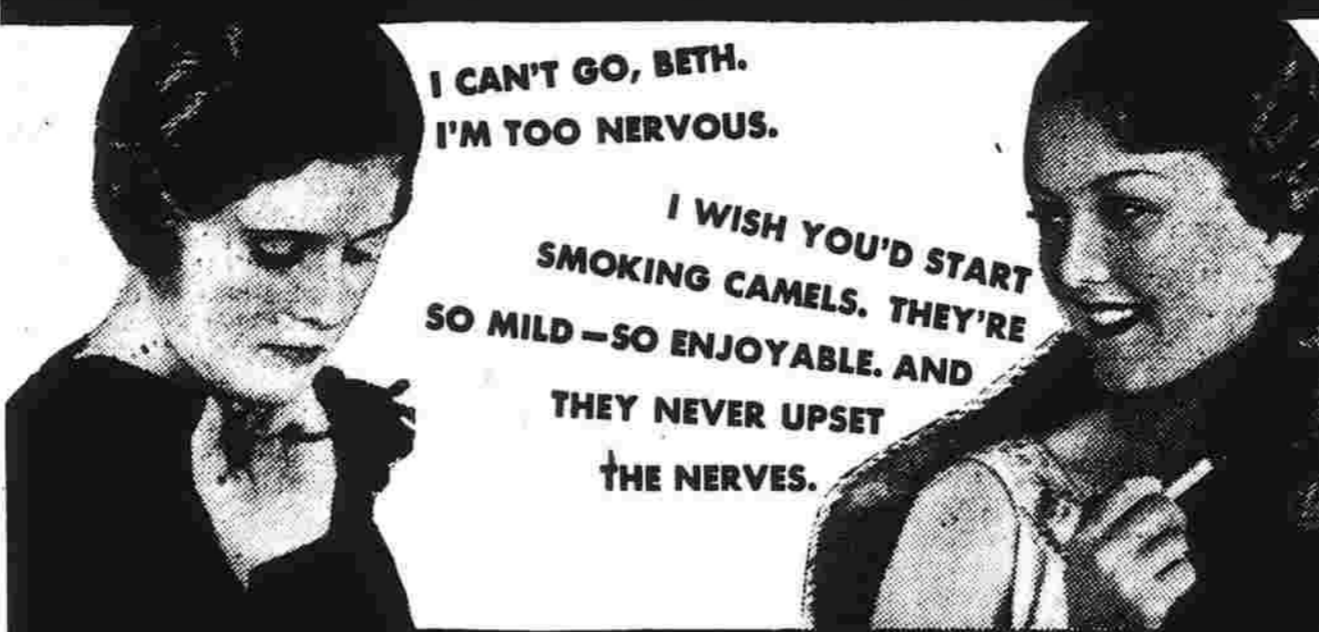

The accident occurred at 9:45 p. m. and the noise attracted people living in that vicinity. They went to the aid of the three motorists, who were badly shaken up and cut from flying glass. First aid was rendered while another automobile was being secured to take the two girls to the hospital. They were given further treatment at the hospital. Miss Karlson's injuries were not serious and she was able to leave the hospital this afternoon, but Miss Jackson, who had a hip injury and suffered from shock, will be kept at the hospital for another day for observation.

This play by Rene Clair, which represents a satire on the machine age and mass production, was one of a series of foreign pictures being presented at the Avery Memorial auditorium.

LITERARY COLUMNS

ESSAY ON PASSING

To such great epic as the journey of Aeneas in the "Aeneid," I would like to add the story of my daily attempts and various successes in making the perilous journey from the type room in the basement, up two flights of stairs, and from there down again and thence outdoors, at noon.

Difficulties, which are thicker (if not more plentiful) than the trials and tribulations which attend the way of Christian in "Pilgrim's Progress," strew my path. Two lengthy flights of stairs must be climbed before the coveted goal of my desk is reached.

In order to strengthen myself for the coming onslaught, I covertly begin to put my work away a little early in order to be that much ahead of everyone else. Woe betide! A difficulty, the first, arises. The all-seeing eyes of the teacher confront me accusingly. Slowly I begin to sink back further into my chair. I feel myself gasping. Into my mind I silently wonder, "Is it really worth while?"

The bell rings and it is the signal for the first round. I dash contentedly from my seat, only to be held up at the door by a milling mass of human beings, all bent on seeing how many can squeeze through the limited doorway sharp at the same time. Several sharp elbows are shoved in my path, unwittingly, or else, still barriers to my progress. I gain the hall and find myself confronted by a second trial, the first flight of stairs.

I start wearily to trudge up the second half flight of stairs, which, I note thankfully, is not long. Unfortunately for all concerned, the stamper of a high top shoe, which I am wearing, is suddenly and without warning, shrugging into as he ply along, unfeelingly hits me in the eye as I come up.

At the top of the stairs, I encounter the real beginning of the "Thundering Herd." There is a long period of waiting until an opening presents itself. I plunge into it, silently praying under my breath that I won't get swept along with the crowd down the stairs. After a few unheeded apologies for stepping on people's toes etc., I once more find myself in a space large enough to draw a breath and to find out if I came through the mill as unbroken as I was in the beginning.

CHEMISTRY KINKS

The following are statements given in a previous issue and explained by Mr. Robinson, practical chemistry instructor. "Frost is not frozen dew. When air has more moisture than it can hold, some of that moisture must escape. It does this in the form of rain, clouds or dew. Cold air can hold less moisture than warm air. If the air contains considerable moisture at a fairly high temperature, when it becomes saturated with the air cools at night and moisture collects on objects. This moisture is called dew. If this dew comes out of the air when the temperature is below the freezing point of water, small particles of frozen water or water crystals settle on objects. This is frost. There is not apt to be a frost on cloudy nights.

"Frost results from a rapid cooling of the earth and consequent condensation of moisture at a temperature below its freezing point. The pressure of clouds above earth, prevents the radiation of heat from the earth's surface and, therefore, cooling is slowed up to prevent reaching a freezing temperature. A compass seldom points to the geographical north pole.

A compass contains a magnetized bar of steel balanced horizontally so that it may float on the surface of water in order that it cools to the freezing point. It is a proven fact that ice is formed more rapidly on a lake. After a layer of ice is formed, freezing takes place at a steadily decreasing rate as the thickness of the ice increases. This is because heat from the water must travel through the water to get out. The ice sheet retards this flow since it is a poor conductor of heat.

When the sun is seen before the small clouds are formed, the gas from a gasoline engine that has just been started is more readily than that produced after the motor warms up. (4) Water that has been heated and then cooled should not be used in a gold fish bowl. (5) The speed of light is practically instantaneous.

Honos Carior Vitae

By WILLIAM LUETGENS

A Continued Story About the Consequences That Came To a Young Man Who Lived Up To the Motto.

"Golly, this is queer," said Hudson, taking the pin and examining it on both sides. "What's queer?" "Why, the number on the back is 214. You ought to know that numbers mean something. Mine is 212. This pin belongs to someone initiated at about the same time I was. Mind if I take it? Don't mention it to me until you hear from me."

"Upon his return to the house, Hudson consulted his fraternity's list of members but said nothing of his findings. This is what he spoke only briefly of his visit: "Virginia will be glad to see you. You'd better call her. By the way, I may have news for you later," he added, turning to go upstairs and leaving Karl mystified and puzzled.

MAIL TIME

The minute the whistle of the noon train is heard, a hurried and expectant atmosphere spreads over the inhabitants and summer residents of the tiny New Hampshire village. All work is hastily put aside and many unnecessary delays, we finally launch the canoe. From that time on all efforts are bent upon reaching the village as soon as possible.

Nature, however, does not favor us, for a strong noon wind springs up as soon as we get well out on the lake and, for a time, we bob up and down at a stand-still. Strength is needed even to manipulate the oars through the air, so greatly does the wind resist our efforts.

Suddenly the breath of Zeus gives us as quickly as it rose and we continue our watery way a little less vigorously than before. Finally we reach the destined shore and rush up the steps of the small wooden post office, hoping that we have not missed too much of the village gossip.

Seated on the counter near the door, a sophisticated young debutante and her followers are importantly discussing a recent house party while in another corner the "hick-town" farmers lazily munch tobacco and knowingly discuss politics, boldly forecasting inconceivable events.

Cars of all kinds line the side of the street. Except for the lazy, summer breeze which whips up the many posters and age-old announcements of the "Mardi-Gras" or "Ladies Aid Food Sale," the heat seems unbearable. We retreat to a vacant corner with our friends to await the coveted mail which, after a seeming eternity, is sorted and the small social center of the village is again deserted.

CIVICS CLASSES STUDY SUBJECT OF TAXATION

By A. Kaminski, '35.

Tax payers are not the only ones who are bothered with taxation problems. At present, the subject of taxation and all its fundamentals are being studied by Miss Oberem's civics classes. Not only do they gain knowledge from their text book, but they also learn what they can from a person who has had experience in this tax collector was interviewed by the Manchester High School. From him we learned the principle of fixing a rate that was to be paid by the taxpayers for the ensuing year.

Besides studying taxation, Miss Oberem states, "It is probable that the Civics class will probably meet in the classroom. In this way the students will gain both practice and experience in the conduct of such a meeting, which will be of value to them in the future."

SCHOLARSHIPS BY WORCESTER TECH

Three Additional Money Awards For Rank—One For Ingenuity.

Worcester Polytechnic Institute, where several Manchester boys have studied, has increased the number of scholarships at-large for the coming year. These scholarships, which are open for competition among high school seniors and post-graduates, have been increased to five, each scholarship amounting to $300.

The awards will be based on the results of three examinations of the college entrance examination board: mathematics A, English I and II, and the scholastic aptitude test. The five who achieve the highest ratings will receive the scholarships; the five next highest will be named as alternates.

Another scholarship is available which is quite unique in character. It is called The Fuller Scholarship for "Yankee Ingenuity." This scholarship provides the recipient with the sum of $600 for his fresh-year at the Institute, and, if he qualifies for a full Institute scholarship for the sophomore year, he will receive an additional $200 from the Fuller Fund.

Tolstoy's Daughter Hopes For Return To Policies Taught By Father; Faculty Member Hears Countess In Address.

Concerning Alexandra Tolstoy, daughter of the late Leo Tolstoy, who spoke at the Broadway Community Church Sunday evening, Mr. Nathan Gatchell, English teacher, who heard her, said: "She is a large, motherly sort of person, very approachable; perhaps not entirely at home on the speaking stage, but one to whom you could talk in a garden or in her home."

She is very gracious and sympathetic, according to Mr. Gatchell, and her warm personality permeated the whole lecture. Her topic was "My Father and the Russian Revolution." Her exposition of this topic was a slight disappointment because it was the Russian Revolution which she mainly discussed. The Countess, however, sympathized with those of her father, as czarist, who is opposed to the Soviet government because it adopted policies contrary to Christian philosophy. Recently there has been a rebirth of religion in Russia, and there may come a time when Countess Tolstoy's teachings will dominate the philosophy of Russia.

The Countess, a resident of Had-dam, Connecticut, seemed chiefly concerned with the poor class, the Russian people. She painted a dark picture of the life and future of this working class. A man is given two cards by the government for existence, a food and clothing card. Nothing may be purchased for money in a store unless it is with foreign currency. This is enforced so that the government will have in the coffers of State foreign currency, which is not as plentiful as a distressing lack. This money is needed to carry on foreign trade.

The workman must eke out an existence on a pitifully short supply of ration cards. The family are limited on meat to three and one-half pounds per month. In the Ukraine section of Russia, conditions were so bad that newspaper men were barred from the place; literally a "no press" district. This Ukrainian district is one noted for grain raising, yet every ounce of grain, without exception, must be turned over to the government for exportation. If a native is caught hoarding as little as a half pound of grain he may be executed.

School conditions are deplorable. In some schools, there are so few texts that as many as twenty pupils share a single book. Paper is scarce, in fact an ad was inserted in the Moscow papers requesting that any scrap of paper big enough to be written on be turned over to the schools for the purpose of making students from nine to ten years old are not to tight mathematics, science, etc; instead they are taught about the Communist State and the importance of taking part in local politics. A controversy among pupils do not graduate; some are not able to go to school because of lack of clothing; yet it is estimated that of the pupils who go to school, only one per cent learn to read and write well enough to apply it in later life.

BANANAS A VEGETABLE AS WELL AS A FRUIT

Cooking Makes Them A Delightful Addition To Any Menu—Is Versatile Food.

Bananas are certainly coming into greater popularity every day—not just as a dessert or delicious fruit, but as a vegetable as well.

The idea of cooking bananas is a new one to many women, although experts, dietitians and chefs have known of it for years. In fact, bananas are a surprisingly versatile food.

When baked, broiled, fried or sautéed, bananas are delicious served as a vegetable. If you've never tried a mixed grill with bananas you'll want to do it soon.

Sautéed bananas are very simple to prepare. Just peel them, cut in halves, and sauté in a small amount of fat in a hot skillet.

STORMS COST $600,000 TO NEW HAVEN ROAD

New York, March 14.—(AP)—February blizzards cost the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad approximately $600,000, President John J. Felley said today.

Last month's wintry weather was the worst in the road's history in the New York and New Haven areas, he asserted.

"However, March freight business is running over 20 per cent better than in February and 33 per cent better than a year ago.

OPEN FORUM

LABOR ORGANIZATION

To the Editor of The Herald, May I please ask a few questions of "Old Factory Hand" whose letter appeared in last Thursday's paper?

"Old Factory Hand," do you know why the local silk firm has been exceptionally "free from labor troubles in the past generation?"

To speak of a hundred or fifty years ago is of course to bring up a picture of industrial life incomparable either in quality or quantity to the industrial problems of today.

Do you know that industrialists in this state have been so highly organized and unified in their efforts to make use of workers as mere imperishable commodities, that they failed to foresee that by virtue of their perishability, industry could not afford to compete ruthlessly against itself without inevitably bringing human disaster in the wake of its handiwork?

Do you really believe the local silk firm has always managed its own business without interference or dictation from the outside? Do you think the introduction of the "system" was a bright idea of theirs or did it come from the outside?

Woman Pays London Niece's Fare Home But Makes It Third Class.

New York, March 14.—Mrs. Margaret Denman, sixty-five years old, of 107-25 164th str et, Jamaica, who recently paid for her niece's first class passage to this country from London, decided yesterday in Jamaica Court to buy her niece a passage home again, third class.

The peripatetic relative, Miss Ellen Smith, forty years old, would have remained with her aunt in Jamaica had she not brought with her a dog, a cat and a bicycle. The arrival of these items with her niece vexed Mrs. Denman and there was a quarrel, in the course of which Miss Smith allegedly struck the older woman in the eye.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 14

VIRGIN ISLANDS

The nearest thing to a purely socialist undertaking, set on foot by the United States government, if we except the devotion of public income to the feeding of the hungry under the short lived federal relief program, is the scheme for the betterment of conditions in the Virgin Islands. It is planned to institute a government owned and operated corporation which will use about a million dollars of PWA funds in the establishment of a homestead subsistence system and in the erection of a distillery and a tourist hotel, the latter in St. Thomas.

It is proposed to purchase 6,000 acres of sugar land, cut it up into small plots and erect thereon two-room houses—the present Virgin Island home usually has only one room—and raise sugar, part of it to be sold in the United States. The houses are to be sold to the workers on long time payments smaller than they now pay in rent. The company will pay wages and handle the sugar business, buying some from growers not corporation employees. Part of the sugar will be distilled into rum for sale in this country or wherever market can be found. The hotel is a side issue, planned to draw in some tourist trade.

All profits made by the corporation are to be divided into two parts; one is to go to corporation employees and small growers from whom sugar has been bought, the other half to go to the island's welfare fund.

If there is any place in the world where this sort of an enterprise ought to work it is in the Virgin Islands. The people there can come so near to making a living without aid, while completely failing to do so that it would seem as though the relatively small capitalization supplied by the new corporation, together with a little sensible direction, should be able to push the scheme over the top to success.

But how long will it be, we may wonder, before the Virgin Islanders are one day told that the way to make themselves really prosperous is to burn up the sugar after it is raised?

ARROW-HART DECISION

The extent to which the Supreme Court of the United States inclines to the winds of public opinion is seldom realized by those who think of that institution as an entity of god-like austerity and aloofness from all human emotions. Twice recently the court has rendered opinions in majority which, had they come only a very few years earlier, would have fairly taken the breath of American conservatism. And who can believe that, had the same questions come before the court prior to the recent revolution in public opinion, they would have been answered in the same way?

There is nothing improper about this—nothing weak. After all, it is public opinion, not the Supreme Court, that makes the law—that is the law, in fact.

But the current of public opinion, like most other streams, has its eddies and backwaters and the voyager who never gets caught in one, be it individual or court, must be a skillful paddler indeed. White Chief Justice Hughes, Justice Stone and those pronounced liberals Justices Brandeis and Cardozo, in the merger case brought by the Federal Trade Commission against Hartford's Arrow-Hart & Hegeman Company, swung consistently along downstream with the pull of the newer economic philosophy, Justice Roberts, who had been paddling in exact stroke with the liberals lately, turned in for once with the conservative back-paddlers and thereby perhaps kept the court from some bad watermanship.

The case against the Arrow-Hart concern was one, obviously, in which any sort of opinion might be reached. In a time like this, when there is universal suspicion of and disgust with that policy of mergers which so ruthlessly closed down many factories, threw countless workers out of jobs and made unearned fortunes for promoters, there is no question but that the current of general opinion sets against all forms of industrial combinations.

But Justice Roberts seems to have kept steadily in mind one salient point—was this combination of two electrical supply manufacturing companies against the public interest or favorable to that interest? Was this a stock-jobbing enterprise or a bona-fide undertaking to make two manufacturing companies more useful by uniting them under one management which would enable them to produce more systematically, avoid the economic waste of cross-purpose competition and actually cause them to make and distribute more product at lower prices and give more employment. Finding, upon examination of all the evidence, that this was exactly the case Justice Roberts did not hesitate to swing the court craft out of the sweep of the anti-merger trend and to cause it to find for the defendant corporation.

Not only will the news of this disposal of a long pending case bring much satisfaction to the many hundreds of Hartford people who get their living out of the Arrow-Hart & Hegeman industry, but there is an interesting side light. The head of that industry, Board Chairman Edward R. Grier, in favor of whose serious embarrassment the liberal members of the Supreme Court voted, holds perhaps the most pronouncedly liberal views of any manufacturer in Connecticut and has not hesitated to put them into print on more than one occasion. If the minority justices had only known it, they were, so to speak, belting one of their own kind.

LINDBERGH

The selection of Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, together with Orville Wright and Clarence Chamberlin as members of a special committee of aeronautical authorities to investigate the conditions of Army mail flying, and to recommend elements of equipment and training necessary to fit the Army aviation forces for this or any other service, reflects credit on the good sense of Secretary of War Dorn. Colonel Lindbergh probably knows as much about the practical side of aviation as anybody alive and the appointment provides him with opportunity to square himself for his very badly considered rush to the support of the airmail contract ring. It is scarcely to be doubted that he will welcome that opportunity.

Lindbergh, as an advisor on ways and means of safeguarding mail flying and the protection of human life in the air, is a very different proposition from Lindbergh, in an utter mistaken sense of loyalty to his aviation associates, taking upon himself the responsibilities of a monitor over the administration on a question of governmental policy in which he himself was a financially interested party.

The position in which the colonel placed himself on that occasion was far from a pretty one. The present appointment gives him opportunity to cancel the loss of prestige resulting from it and there is no doubt that he will gladly avail himself of it.

PAYING

That addle pated youth John Kaminski, whose life for the next twenty-odd years is to be spent behind the unattractive walls of Charlestown prison in payment for a brief melodramatic gesture that lasted a couple of minutes, comes pretty near to being a perfect example of the modern American criminal poseur.

A good deal of the animus behind the youthful set-ups, gangsters, gunmen and gorillas consists of a mixture of laziness and a desire for unearned increment but probably a still greater part of it is made up of sheer childish showmanship.

There was something almost pathetic about this young man, armed like a comic opera pirate with about every kind of weapon he could lug, bursting in on the murder trial of his brother with the bareheaded hope of scaring everybody into paralysis and so effecting a blood curdling rescue. It was all so infantile and impractical, so completely a reflection of the romantic imagination of a mind incapable of measuring facts, so much like small boy playtime adventuring.

Unfortunately there is deadly danger to every decent person in all such frenzied flights of imagination and society must restrain those given to them with a ruthlessly firm hand. While Kaminski did not seriously injure anybody it was all luck that he didn't, and the heavy penalty inflicted by the court for his crazy challenge to the law and to civilization will appear excessive only to those who secretly sympathize with such exhibitions perhaps because they have a little of the same twist as the Kaminski brothers.

COPPER

Senators from a number of copper producing states have petitioned President Roosevelt to urge the use of as much copper as possible in federal building projects. They point out that there are now closed copper mines that should, if operating normally, provide a living for a quarter of a million people—workers and their families. An idea of the state of the copper business may be gathered from the fact that while production reached a value of $303,000,000 in 1929 it had shrunk to one-fifth that value last year. This does not, of course, mean that only one-fifth as much copper was mined in the latter year as in the former, since a large part of the shrinkage was in the price. However, copper mining is in the doldrums.

Copper is one of the most beautiful of all metals. It is beautiful when it is bright and shining; it is beautiful, in architectural places, when it is grey-green, like new moss, from the action of damp. And, unlike so many building materials, it lasts practically forever.

The use of copper in public buildings makes for dignity, permanence, eventual economy. It is a hundred times more artistic than the aluminum and chromium shininess that has been introduced of recent years. It is to be hoped for more reasons than just one that Mr. Roosevelt will pass along the word to give copper a show.

And one of the reasons is that if the metal parts of some of these contemplated buildings are gotten out now they will need to be more than ordinarily enduring, from all indications, if they are not to rust or corrode into nothingness before the buildings are done.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, March 14.—Meanderings: O young man, probably a college fraternity initiate, roller-skating along Broadway wearing tails and a top hat....

A very pretty blonde doing an intricate bit of crocheting on a subway express, oblivious alike of the stares of men and the approving nods of old ladies.... A garbage truckman wearing spats and plush carmuffs, salvaged somewhere on his grounds.... An organ grinder, product of the mechanistic age, whose music is ground out for him by a motor hooked up to a storage battery. No doubt he's on the lookout for a robot monkey.... A hibulous fellow wrapping his scarf about the neck of a policeman's horse, and leaving it there.... That's Manhattan.

Lady Suzanne Wilkins, who quit the stage when she married Sir Hubert, is considering a theatrical offer.... A famous maitre d'hotel of pre-prohibition days is now an ordinary waiter in a cheap little restaurant dancer, who was a partner of Mae Murray, is a doorman at a place nearby....

Incidentally, one of those small establishments which can't afford a liquor license has a law-evasion scheme that has the enforcement fellows puzzled. If you buy luncheon the proprietor will give you a cocktail.

Actors Take the Floor
 Clifton Webb, the actor-dancer, and his mother, Mrs. Mabel Webb, usually have a houseful of celebrities before and after theater. One is likely to stumble over—literally stumble over, because some of them sit on the floor—Ina Claire, a few Russian Grand Dukes, the ubiquitous Elsa Maxwell, Louis Bromfield, Helen Hayes, Clark Gable, Roland Young, and Prince Whits-His-Name of Lichtenstein, who's still in town with his Texas wife.... Lilyan Tashman, who's bound to live up to her best-dressed-woman-in-Hollywood reputation, stalked into that shop the other day and ordered a hat. "You select them," said Miss Tashman, and wandered out....

One of the things the Jessel had to tell was that he expected to appear in a Theater Guild play. He always has wanted to be a legitimate actor....

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

By RODNEY DUTOCHER
 Herald Washington Correspondent
 Washington, March 14.—The "money changers" are encountering a stiff fight from the embattled administration liberals.

The battleground is the White House, where every possible ounce of pressure is being directed against the Senate effort to modify both the Securities Act and the stock market control bill now before Congress.

Disciples of Justice Brandeis lead the counter-attack. They receive inspiration from the snow-haired liberal jurist, who believes the rigid provisions of the Securities Act are nothing which honest men can meet; from Prof. Felix Frankfurter of Harvard, Federal Trade Commissioner James Landis — two chief sponsors of the act and bill — and Treasury Fiscal Adviser Marriner Eccles.

Like-minded are Senator Duncan Fletcher and Congressman Sam Rayburn, committee chairmen who have the bill in charge.

But standing with Wall Street in this issue is Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., and liberal foes that Roosevelt is being won over to the other side.

Countering the argument that penalty provisions in the Securities Act are impending restoration of the capital goods market, Eccles and other liberals are pushing for a huge program of government-subsidized bank loans for home building and repair.

Plea Saves Hogan
 Senator Hugo Black, the airmail investigator, was all set with a resolution to cite Attorney Frank Hogan for contempt of the Senate. But Senator Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina called him off.

Byrnes pleaded fervently, not as an administration spokesman — which he often is — but as an old friend of the smart lawyer who kept E. L. Doheny out of jail during the oil scandal that had incurred Senate wrath by his guidance of William P. MacCracken in the latter's vain attempt to avoid a contempt trial.

"Lay Off" Manchukuo
 Don't go believing reports that this administration soon will ratify Japan's Manchurian conquests by recognizing the state of Manchukuo. Officials privately say they're quite comfortable in their position of non-recognition and interested only mildly in stories that Germany soon may reach an agreement with Japan.

Although it may become expedient for us to recognize the "puppet state" sooner or later — possibly in connection with next year's naval treaty negotiations — present feeling is that we aren't losing any Manchurian trade by our existing attitude, whereas recognition might offend the Chinese and seriously affect our large export trade with them.

Swanson May Quit
 Secretary of the Navy Claude Swanson, the oldest cabinet member and lately not in very good health, is likely to resign before long. But no one is worrying much about that or the identity of his successor.

Former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston is a candidate and he or some other politician doubtless will be named. But Roosevelt, once an assistant secretary of the navy and always enthusiastically interested in the fleet, always will be "his own secretary" there to a greater extent than in any other department.

Spar on Veteran Issue
 The Senate veterans' bloc had a Huey Long filibuster ready to spring on the Democratic leadership when Byrnes and Joe Robinson, administration sponsors, tried to bring the veterans' benefit issue to a final vote before the bloc was ready.

The advocates of large-scale restoration were sore because the test had been postponed while Byrnes was ill a couple of days, but were being pressed thereafter when they were of their big guns—Cutting, Wheeler and Reed—suddenly went on the sick list.

But Robinson of Indiana and other veteran friends meanwhile came so long-winded that the vote went over the week-end and Huey's effort wasn't necessary.

In the 10 years he has been flying, Colonel Lindbergh has covered more than 800,000 miles.

BY DR. FRANK MCCOY
 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, for reply.

MORE ABOUT VITAMIN "D"
 Other substances rich in vitamin D are: Cod liver oil, Haliver oil, Yostarol, any one of which may prove helpful if there is a marked lack of vitamin D where it is not possible to get the vitamin by sunbaths or some other means. For some unknown reason certain fish have the power to manufacture this vitamin even without sunlight—something which the human body cannot do.

In the cod, the liver is especially rich in the oil which contains vitamin D. This vitamin occurs in considerable quantity in the body oils of New Foundland herring, the California sardine, and salmon. Those people who live on a fish diet, such as the Icelanders, and who also secure a limited amount of sunlight, do not have rickets as they seem to get enough vitamin D from the fish to prevent it. Egg yolk is a common food rich in vitamin D, and the amount of this vitamin which may be present can be increased by feeding the hens a special diet, or by exposing them to sunlamps providing ultra-violet rays.

You can also secure vitamin D through taking sunbaths. However, weather conditions, working conditions, smoke, and lack of a suitable place may make it hard for everyone to get sunbaths regularly, and therefore man has invented artificial sunlight as given us by sunlamps. They are also called ultra-violet ray lamps. This is the same kind of equipment used to irradiate the year's fed to cows in producing "Vitamin D Milk." However, in the case of the milk, the ultra-violet ray lamps are turned on the food, and in the case of the humans the rays are allowed to directly strike the skin.

Many different types of sunlamps have been worked out suitable for home use so that you can take these ultra-violet ray treatments at home where the full benefits are gained by allowing the light to shine over the entire body. The same lamp is also supplied in a far more powerful form to be used in a doctor's office. In my own experience, I have been successful in curing rickets by the use of such a powerful lamp, in another case, it might be best to use Vitamin D Milk, and conditions, such as in anemia and in skin disorders such as acne, eczema, athlete's foot, dermatitis herpetiformis, and also in many other disorders.

I have mentioned all of these different ways of getting vitamin D hoping that from among the list, you will find some suggestion which will prove helpful to you. In one case, it might be wisest to use the sunlamps, in another case, it might be best to use Vitamin D milk, and those who live in the country where it is not too cold for sunbaths may find that natural sunbaths offer them the best method of securing vitamin D. In some cases where the patient lives in the far north, it may be necessary to use some preparation, such as cod liver oil. The problem of securing vitamin D is the hardest to solve at this time of year, and one good thing to remember is that when the sun returns next summer, it will not be so important for you to consider whether or not lack of vitamin D has a great deal to do with your health problem or with the health of your children.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Bad Breath)
 Question: From Mrs. K. M. Columbus, Ohio: "What would you suggest for my son who has such a bad breath that he is sensitive about it. He is also underweight and complains of a bad taste in his throat."
 Answer: It may be that your son's bad breath is due to catarrh of the throat, or it might be due to some form of stomach trouble or to constipation. I want you to write to me again in care of a newspaper publishing my health articles and enclosing one large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. Please give me more of the facts about this case, and be sure to tell me how much underweight he is also whether he notices any mucus in the throat. It is all right for your letter to contain 100 words, but I do ask that you write on one side of the paper only. After I have learned more about his case, I will be in a better position to send some helpful advice.

(Fasciitis Elimination)
 Question: Mrs. P. T. of White Plains, N. Y., writes: "I have one ailment which I do not seem to be able to overcome, and this is a fasciitis elimination. I have had my trouble all my life."
 Answer: In the average case, fasciitis elimination can be overcome through using a correct diet and taking plenty of exercises. Until such time as the intestines empty regularly, I suggest the use of the enema. In those cases where these common sense suggestions do not achieve successful results, it will be found that there is some abnormal condition present which is interfering with the passage of wastes through the intestines. Such a condition might be due to adhesions, kinks, proapsis, or to be spastic contraction of the colon.

While hope was expressed that the strike situation would be settled, most market commentators were of the opinion that some stock groups would continue to hesitate until threats of a tie-up in the motor division are obviated.

The action of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in recommending to its members the inauguration of a 36-hour week with compensating wage increases was seen as a step toward cooperation with the administration in its campaign to expand employment.

In some quarters it was believed that, while corporate profits would be somewhat curtailed as a result of the labor realignment, the enlargement of public purchasing power might make up part of the difference.

Buying in the rail stocks was attributed not only to prospects that the labor difficulties here would be adjusted, but to early estimates that freight car loadings for the week ended March 1, will show more than a seasonal gain and will record a record advance over the corresponding week of the preceding year when business was virtually at a standstill.

OPEN FORUM

Editor, The Herald: In the last two years there has started a war on peddlers in a few surrounding towns, caused by some petty politician, or a vendor who has plenty of money and a political drag for his personal reasons.

The peddler is just like all others wanting to earn an honest living, and that should not be denied him in an artificial way by placing a prohibitive fee of $100 because he comes from out of town, while peddlers living in Manchester pay little or nothing. To me that's class legislation and is not fair.

A year ago there was a bill in the Assembly whereas an itinerant vendor was to pay $200 per year. At the hearing, there were quite a few Manchester men, here to voice their opinion. That bill was defeated. Why shouldn't Manchester repeal the peddlers' bill?

REPORT AUTO SHOW FINANCIAL SUCCESS

Eight Exhibitors Did Business Of $37,819 As A Result, They Say.

An indication of the overwhelming success of last month's Automobile and Home Appliance Show was given yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Board of Control, when it was reported that a total volume of business of $37,819 was done by eight of the twenty-six exhibitors of the show.

The Board also authorized a mail referendum on two amendments to the by-laws of the Chamber concerning Chamber meetings and the classes of membership.

Value Proved: All eight exhibitors expressed satisfaction over the results of the show. The total amount of business done during the show was $16,112 and the amount reported as the result of the show was $21,707. With twenty-two more exhibitors to report, the Chamber feels that the value of the show will be conclusively proved.

A financial statement on the show was also submitted and approved, showing total income of $1,472.70 and actual expenses of $1,327.10. The latter figure not including the salaries of the Chamber office staff, which devoted its entire time to the show. The expenses itemized were as follows: Rent and janitor, $165; decorations, $175; entertainment, $240; advertising and publicity, $318.20; new equipment, $58.95; labor, trucking, supplies, printing and other items, $369.95.

The Board also agreed to handle the clerical work for the forthcoming Memorial Hospital drive for a quota of $15,000, on request of the hospital board of trustees.

H O L C Branch: The question of asking for a local branch of the Home Owners Loan Association was also discussed and it was voted to drop the matter temporarily. It being felt that it is not a great inconvenience to go to the Hartford office and as this is also state headquarters it was felt

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are compounded as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

The Board also authorized a mail referendum on two amendments to the by-laws of the Chamber concerning Chamber meetings and the classes of membership.

GEORGIA AUTO PLAN NOT HONORED HERE

Registration Outside State Made Violation By Commissioner's Ruling.

Commissioner Michael A. Connor of the state department of motor vehicles has ruled that "all residents of Connecticut, operating particular motor vehicles in this state are required to take out Connecticut registrations for such motor vehicles."

The only exception to this ruling is when Connecticut residents have a business location outside the state jurisdiction and operate commercial vehicles wholly without the state or in interstate business.

This ruling is of particular interest at this time because of the interest all automotive circles are taking in the Georgia registration matter, the southern state offering registrations at a flat rate of three dollars.

The official ruling is as follows: RULING AS TO THE REGISTRATION OF MOTOR VEHICLES OWNED BY RESIDENTS OF THE STATE OF CONNECTICUT OR MOTOR VEHICLES ENGAGED IN CONNECTICUT INTRA-STATE BUSINESS.

(1) All residents of Connecticut operating particular motor vehicles in this state are required to take out Connecticut registrations for such motor vehicles, excepting that in a case of commercial motor vehicles where such residents of this state maintain an office or place of business in another jurisdiction and operate particular commercial motor vehicles wholly without the state of Connecticut or wholly in interstate business.

(2) All motor vehicles engaged in intra-state operation, i. e., where cargoes are picked up in one part of the state and delivered in another part of the state, are required to have Connecticut registrations.

(3) In case of passenger motor vehicles only, owners having legal or occupational residence in this state are required to register such motor vehicles as are used in the state of Connecticut.

Commissioner Connor has received a notice from Motor Vehicle Commissioner Hartnett of New York that police authorities in the latter state have been instructed to enforce rigidly the marginal lights and reflector requirements on trucks passing through New York state.

For the benefit of Connecticut truck operators Commissioner Connor has sent the notice to trucking authorities to be passed on to the individual operators.

No Wonder Rome Fell For Them!

Eddie Cantor and Goldwyn Girls in "Roman Scandals"

AMUSEMENTS

CANTOR COMING SOON IN "ROMAN SCANDALS"

Pop-Eyed Comedian's New Picture To Be Featured At State Starting Sunday.

Eddie Cantor in "Roman Scandals" comes to the State theater Sunday for three days.

Ruth Etting, Gloria Stuart and David Manners appear with him in the pop-eyed comedian's fourth annual musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn, succeeding his "The Kid from Spain" of last year.

Its story is that of a wide-eyed, brow-beaten lad in West Rome, Oklahoma, who, by the power of his imagination, is carried back to strange adventures in the Rome of the Caesars. Fair maids in distress among the Emperor's captive beauties, intrigue in the affairs of state and a deep secret with which Eddie tries to escape figure in the riotous story, which ends in a thundering chariot race to the sea.

Samuel Goldwyn has maintained his tradition for lavish production. Beautiful girls and luring music, A. Dublin, Harry Warren and L. Wolfe Gilbert have given Eddie three new tunes and written a plaintive ballad for Ruth Etting. Busby Berkeley staged the big dance spectacles.

"Roman Scandals," was directed by Frank Tuttle for United Artists release.

TELL WATKINS FORCE OF NEW REFRIGERATORS

Improvements In The Norge Are Stressed At Meeting Of Duncan Phyfe Club.

Watkins Brothers' Duncan Phyfe club held its March meeting at the Watkins store last evening, the meeting being given over to a presentation of Norge Refrigerators for 1934. Most of the salespeople of the store attended a Norge convention in Springfield Monday, and last evening brought the story of the 1934 Norge to the club members.

Following a talk by Mr. Watkins on business in general, James McVeigh talked on "The History of the Norge Refrigerator." William Frazier showed the new Norge features for convenience; Eskil Buckland gave the story of the Refrigerator pump; H. W. Swanson outlined the 1934

Norge advertising program, and Mrs. Ebba Glennay and Harry Roth gave a skit showing the correct use of an electric refrigerator in the home.

J. W. Conrow was another speaker of the evening, giving an interesting story on the construction of upholstered chairs.

Those in the Watkins organization who attended the all-day convention at the Hotel Kimball, Springfield, Monday were, C. Elmore Watkins, Charles F. Marano, J. W. Conrow, Henry E. Smith, John Tierney, James McVeigh, Eskil Buckland, William Frazier, H. W. Swanson, Harry Roth, and Norman Thrall of Watkins' Hartford store.

FAVOR WAGE INCREASE

New York, March 14.—(AP)—"Iron Age" said today that the steel industry "seems disposed to follow the President's suggestion that wage rates be raised, and might agree to an advance of as much as ten per cent provided that prices might be raised sufficiently to cover the increase in cost." "Further shortening of hours in the steel industry," stated the review, "is not a practical possibility since the average work week per employe during operations under the code has been only 29.2

LAST OF TOUHY GANG CONVICTED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, March 14.—(AP)—Basil Banghart—"The Owl"—can nest in a cell from now on.

A jury convicted him last night as one of the John Factor kidnapers and prescribed a 90-year prison sentence as his punishment. The jury deliberated about one hour.

When he heard the verdict and the penalty, Banghart grinned. His conviction virtually wiped out the "Touhy gang" which feasted on ransom when prohibition beer rackets collapsed. Roger Touhy himself, Albert Kator and Gustav Schaefer were previously convicted and given 90-year sentences. Factor, who paid $70,000 for his freedom, pointed out Banghart as one of his captors. He also was the principal witness against Touhy and the others.

WRESTLER IS KILLED

POLICE STATION PLANS CHANGED

Little Additional Space Gained As Result Of New Alterations Scheme.

Changes in the plans proposed in the alterations at the Manchester police station and the town court room have been made and, as a result of the decision not to go through with the plans as first presented, there is to be little gained in the way of increased space in either part of the building.

The plan as first proposed would have resulted in the removal of both vaults, the old probate record vault and the town clerk's vault, but aside from taking off the doors, tearing out the metal lining of the vaults and re-laying a floor in the attic, there has been no little gained for the expected improvement that it is going to be of no value.

The space in the town court will be enlarged less than 18 inches and the extra room provided for the judge, clerk and the keeping of records is only what was the interior measurements of the vault on that side of the building give. The brick wall has been removed in the town court room, but there will be no wall removed in the police station side of the building.

The fireplace in the police station side will be removed, but it will leave a jog in the wall. Instead of having the three rooms on the south side of the police station the additional room now to be provided will be so small that little has been gained. There will be no further brick walls removed and instead of having rooms built in where the vaults were located the frame partitions will not be installed and this prevents the securing of the additional space that was expected.

HEBRON

A meeting of local dairymen, adjourned from March 1, will be held at the Town Hall, Hebron, Green, Thursday evening of this week to talk over and study the new plan for milk selling and distribution under the Connecticut Milk Producers' association. A meeting under the auspices of the C. M. F. A., which was held at the hall last Saturday afternoon, and attended by about 60 milk producers of this district, for the purpose of securing contracts, ended by only five signing up for the year. The general manager of the association, Henry W. Feinmann, was present and explained section by section the articles of the new plan, answering questions and explaining difficulties. Assistant Manager William Robb was also present, as was the general manager of the Ice Cream Corporation of New Haven, William M. Bryant. The majority of the farmers present were unwilling to sign contracts until they could more fully discuss matters at their meeting Thursday.

The regular meeting of the Christian Endeavor was omitted Sunday evening at the Green, as the members were invited to attend a union Lenten service in Gilead at the church. A student from the Hartford Theological Seminary was in charge. Edward A. Smith carried a truck load of Hebron members. Next Sunday evening the meeting will be at the Hebron church, with Gilead invited. A student from the Seminary will be in charge. The holding of Lenten services is something novel in the Congregational churches here.

Mrs. Robella Waldo attended the wedding of her niece, Miss Ruth Ellis, at the Gilead Congregational church, Saturday, at 3 p. m. The roads all over the town are in a bad condition owing to the action of the frost, which has broken and heaved the pavements in many places. The melting snow has penetrated and softened up the surface.

Mrs. Henrietta Rathbone, who is in her 95th year, fell on the floor of her home Saturday evening, as she was taking care of her plants for the night. This is the second fall she has had this winter. Though rather badly bruised and lamed by the fall, she suffered no broken bones and is said to be recovering. She is said to be the oldest person living in the town.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Horton and children were visitors at the home of Mrs. Horton's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur V. Linde Sunday.

Mrs. Anne C. Gilbert and her sister, Miss Susan B. Pendleton, called on their sister, Miss Clarissa L. Pendleton, Monday afternoon in Colchester. Miss Pendleton is assisting in the care of William Curtis, who has been having a delirious attack. He is reported as improving, though his advanced age makes his condition serious.

Mrs. Mary E. Cummings spent a few days this week as the guest of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Porter and family in Gilead.

Paul Coates reports seeing a large flock of robins, 30 or more, near the Fickett place on Jones street a few days ago.

TO ERECT FIREPROOF VAULT FOR RECORDS

Fire Commissioners Consider Plans To Protect Files From Danger Of Future Fires.

The Board of Fire Commissioners of the South Manchester fire district has decided that the time is ripe for the records of the district to be stored in one place and properly protected. To that end plans are under way for the erection of a fireproof vault in which the records will be placed. The vault will be located in the quarters of No. 4 company on School street and will be of brick and concrete construction of sufficient thickness to withstand fire.

The building of the vault can now be accomplished at small cost as the fire commissioners have purchased two heavy steel doors formerly used in the old Hall of Records building. A steel frame holds an inner door and this is protected by an outer door which has a combination capable of withstanding the heat during a fire that might destroy the building in which the new vault is to be placed.

Up to the present there has been no place where the complete records of the district have been kept. It is thought that all of the old records of the district can be gathered and placed in files and stored in the vault. The only records that might have been lost were private records of No. 4, as their building, built of wood and located on the site of the present house on School street, was destroyed in the fire that consumed the school buildings on School street 20 years ago.

READY TO HANDLE CODE COMPLAINTS

With Appointment Of Several Field Adjusters, Director Meany Can Proceed.

William S. Meany, State NRA Compliance director, has announced that, with the appointment this week of several field adjusters, his office is prepared to handle complaints of violations of the various codes of fair competition of the National Recovery Administration.

Mr. Meany is assisted by August Brauer, Jr., who is his executive assistant. Mr. Brauer will handle all complaints regarding trade practice violations of the codes which are not referred to the code authorities. Mr. Meany is also assisted by Morgan R. Mooney, who has been appointed labor compliance officer, and who will handle all complaints regarding the wages and hours provisions of the codes. Mr. Brauer has been in the New York office of the NRA since it was organized, and was formerly connected with the U. S. Department of Commerce. Mr. Mooney has been in charge of the minimum wage division of the Connecticut State Department of Labor since his graduation from Yale University.

The office of the State NRA Compliance director is located at 301 Federal Building, Hartford, and all complaints of violations of the codes should be sent there. This office has been instructed by the NRA to secure compliance with all of the codes which have been approved by President Roosevelt and General Johnson. The policy of the NRA is one of industrial self-management and opportunity is given to industry to govern itself; therefore, some of the complaints which will be received by the Compliance director will be referred to the several industrial adjustment agencies that have been authorized by the NRA, after careful consideration, to adjust complaints in their own particular industries. Even where an industrial adjustment agency has been authorized to handle complaints in the first instance or on reference, a complainant always has the right to file his complaint with the NRA, either in Washington or through the state director, at Hartford, in order to protect his or her public interest.

Mr. Meany's office has a competent staff, the members of which are experienced in the NRA and will be able to assist in giving full information about the NRA, and to assist employers in their interpretations of the various codes.

The state director will also receive the full cooperation of the State Department of Labor and will have at his disposal, to act as field adjusters if necessary, all of the labor department inspectors.

It is the experience of the NRA that many complaints have been made due to unfamiliarity with the codes, and it should be explained that the State NRA Compliance director can only take action when a definite violation of a code has occurred. For this reason, all complaints received are carefully studied to determine whether or not the code has been violated. Therefore, before the State Compliance director can take action, it is necessary that all alleged violations be explained in detail by the complainant, whose name is kept in the strictest confidence and is under no circumstances divulged to the firm against which the complaint was lodged, without the expressed permission of the complainant.

If an employee is dismissed for filing a complaint against his employer, Mr. Meany has received instructions from the NRA in Washington that he is not to consider a complaint adjusted until the complainant has been reinstated in his former position and until all back wages shall have been paid, if any were due.

If any person is dissatisfied with the action on his complaint taken by the State NRA Compliance director, he is at liberty to request the Compliance director to refer his case to the state adjustment board. The chairman of this board is Rabbi Abraham J. Feldman, of Beth Israel Temple, of Hartford, who will represent the interests of the public, and, in addition to Rabbi Feldman, the board is composed of William F. Steinmiller, vice president of the Connecticut Federation of Labor, who will act in the interests of employees, and D. Hayes Murphy, president of the Wiremold company, of Hartford, who will act in the interests of the employers. Rabbi Feldman was appointed to this position by President Roosevelt upon the recommendation of the other two members of the Board. After this board has considered a case that has been referred to it, it will make its recommendations to the State Compliance director for the necessary action.

Mr. Meany will secure compliance with the NRA on the basis of voluntary agreement and every opportunity will be given each employer to comply with his code. If it is felt that the violation is a willful one and the employer has a intention of complying with the code, the State Compliance director will send the complaint immediately to the National Compliance director of the NRA, in Washington. If the National Compliance director is unable to adjust it, the case will be referred to the enforcement agencies of the government—the Department of Justice and the Federal Trade Commission.

MORE TO SANDWICHES THAN JUST FILLING

Bread Is Important Since Flavor And Texture Can Ruin Best Sandwiches.

"It is a great mistake to launch into sandwich making thinking only of the fillings," says Mrs. Edna R. Crabtree of the Manchester Herald Cooking School. "Fillings are important, naturally, but so is the bread. It isn't too much to say that the flavor and texture of your bread can make or break your most carefully concocted sandwich combinations."

Give a Thought to Your Bread
"The bread that we demonstrate in the cooking school is ideally suited to sandwich making. The reason is very simple. It is firmer—with some of that sponginess and puffiness that cause wasteful crumbling. Its flavor, too, is richer—more like a home-made loaf. For those thin, delicious rolled sandwiches, as well as other sandwiches of the party type, I particularly urge you to use a compact, fine textured bread.

"Bread for sandwiches should be fresh, not more than a day old. In slicing, use a sawing motion and don't bear down on the loaf.

"The butter should always be creamed, that is, worked with a stiff knife, before spreading. A simple way to make piquant party sandwiches is to mix such seasonings as these with creamed butter; mustard, grated or prepared horseradish, lemon juice, anchovy paste.

"For sandwiches of the hearty type, the ready-sliced loaf is a marvel of convenience. One filling that I like for school lunches is cooked carrots, well mashed with butter and seasoning. This sandwich has vitamins A, B, and C in the carrots and when you put this filling between slices of Sunshine Vitamin-D bread, it's a highly nutritious combination, just about perfect for growing children.

Below are three other sandwiches recommended by Mrs. Crabtree:

Broiled Tomato Sandwich

Toast slices of Bond bread on one side. Butter the untoasted side of each slice and cover with slices of tomato. Season with salt, pepper and a dash of cayenne. Cover with short strips of bacon and broil until the bacon is browned.

Cheese Logs

Inside each thin, buttered slice of Bond bread roll a strip of soft cheese. Seal edge with butter and set under low broiler flame to melt cheese and brown rolls lightly. Serve hot.

Baked Bean Sandwich

Mash well cooked or canned beans. Season with chopped mustard pickle and tomato catsup. Spread between slices of Bond White bread, buttered.

Hanover, N. H., March 14.—(AP)—Robert Henry Michelet, 22, of Washington, Dartmouth honor student and athlete, one of the four recently-chosen Rhodes scholars from New England, died today of pneumonia and complications. He was one of the outstanding figures in college football in recent years and was captain of the varsity track team. Michelet was known as Dart-

Contracting another cold, he went to the infirmary March 1. For days he was critically ill with bronchial pneumonia and then complications developed. His father, Simon Michelet, prominent Washington lawyer, was called and was at his son's bedside when he died at 4:15 a. m. today.

The illness of Michelet forced him out of two recent track meets, one of them the Harvard-Dartmouth-Cornell triangular meet in Boston. One of the fields of athletics in which Michelet had distinguished himself was as a 35-pound weight thrower.

Cook with CRISCO—it digests quickly

MOTHER SCOLDS ANNE

Anne, why'd you buy Crisco? I have plenty of my shortening on hand.

Oh, Mother, I want to make a butter-scorch pie for Dad tonight—he loves it!

ANNE'S TAKING DOMESTIC SCIENCE

You know your father has indigestion when he eats pie.

But, Mother, the shortening may be the trouble. In cooking class today, Miss Abbott told us Crisco is often used in diets because it's so wholesome.

CORONATION BUTTERSCOTCH PIE

(A pie that doesn't look like a pie—it has 8 layers like a cake!)

The Filling:
2 tablespoons Crisco 1 1/4 cups brown sugar
1/2 cup flour 1/4 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks, lightly beaten 2 cups milk (hot)

To make filling—Mix sugar, flour, and salt. Add milk and cook until mixture thickens. Just before removing from stove stir in beaten yolks and Crisco. Let stand while preparing delicious sweet-tasting Crisco pastry.

Digestible Crisco Pastry
2 cups flour 1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup Crisco 1-cup cold water

To make pastry—Sift flour and salt. Cut in Crisco with two knives until the size of peas. Add water (6 to 8 tablespoons) enough to hold dry ingredients together. Divide the dough into 8 parts and roll each out to a sheet. Cut into rounds, 8 or 9 inches in diameter. Place separately on baking sheets, pricking each well. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) until delicately brown. Put pie together like layer cake, with filling on top also. Cover with meringue made by beating 3 egg whites thoroughly with 8 tablespoons sugar. Brown slightly in slow oven (325° F.). Serve as soon as cool.

Crisco is the registered trademark of a shortening manufactured by The Procter & Gamble Co.

DAD SAYS ANNE'S RIGHT

Take this, John—you'll need it to settle your stomach after eating so much pie.

Mother, I told you! Dad can eat Crisco pie-crust. Crisco is a quick-digesting fat!

No, ma'am, I haven't had a bit of trouble.

CRISCO

digests quickly

At The Herald Cooking School, conducted this week in the State Theater, Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern, quick-digesting shortening.

TOWN OF VERNON FIXES TAX RATE OF 16 MILLS

Deficit Of $7,611.60 Will Be The Consequence; B. J. Ackerman New Corporation Counsel.

In hope of Board of Selectmen being able to economize in the expenses of the town of Vernon during the ensuing fiscal year, a tax rate of 16 mills was laid at the adjourned town meeting in the Town Hall last evening.

There was strong sentiment for the 16 mill tax rate, which is the same as in 1932-33, although it means a deficit on the books of the town of $7,611.60.

Farley B. Leonard presided at the meeting which was adjourned on October 2 when the matter of laying the tax rate was deferred until the completion of the work of the Board of Assessors and Board of Relief.

The grand list of $9,986,880, after all deductions were made, was announced by Town Clerk John B. Thomas who recorded the minutes. The rate was recommended by First Selectman Francis J. Prichard.

Other projects on the warning were voted upon recommendation of the Board of Selectmen including the voting of the sum of $15,000 to be used on several projects including the improvement of Bolton road from Shea's corner to the Bolton town line; the sum of $5,000 for resurfacing roads built under town aid; to reserve the sum of $2,750 to be used by the state highway commissioner.

The Board of Selectmen was also empowered to accept deeds for the land needed for the proposed state highway as voted at the annual town meeting October 2, 1933.

New Corporation Counsel Bernard J. Ackerman of the law firm of Ackerman & Peizer of Rockville was appointed corporation counsel at the regular meeting of the Common Council Tuesday evening.

Attorney Ackerman replaces Judge John E. Flisk who has held various city offices for nearly 30 years and is also judge of the city court of Rockville.

The position of tax collector of the city of Rockville was awarded to Harry Bartley, inasmuch as the Rockville branch of the Hartford Connecticut Trust company, refused to serve any longer. This is due in part to the so-called "financial responsibility" of the tax collector for all uncollected taxes.

Superintendent of Public Works George B. Milne was reappointed to this position which he has held for several years. Mr. Milne is also chief of the Rockville fire department.

Claude A. Milne, recently appointed town tax collector, was appointed treasurer of the sinking fund, which position was held for several years by Farley B. Leonard, who declined to serve any longer.

Dr. E. M. Metcalf was re-appointed city health officer.

The position of rate maker was again tendered to City Clerk Raymond E. Hunt, who has held this office for many years.

Butterfield to Speak Tonight Dr. Ernest H. Butterfield, Commissioner of Education for the State of Connecticut, will be the principal speaker at the Vernon Parents-Teachers association meeting this evening at the Dobsonville Methodist church.

TENNESSEE VALLEY POWER PLAN IS HIT

Engineers At New Haven Meeting Told Market Is Not Available.

New Haven, March 14.—Of all the problems which face the Tennessee Valley Authority, the greatest and most difficult of solution will be that of finding a market in the backwoods territory which its plants will serve for the huge amount of power it proposes to produce. Archer E. Knowlton, associate editor of "Electrical World," declared Monday night in addressing the monthly meeting of the Connecticut Section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers at Yale's Strathmore Hall, C. T. Hughes, president of the section, presided at the meeting.

Mr. Knowlton, who was formerly a member of the Yale faculty, has made an intensive study of the Tennessee Valley project, and last night he described its almost inconceivably gigantic size.

Costly Venture

"Hailed as providing the first real yardstick by which to measure the propriety of the rates charged by the electric utility corporations of the country," its cost will run upward of $1,000,000,000 and the present modest appropriation is merely a mild beginning, he declared. The rest of the country, he said, is to contribute about $10 per capita in capital to help pull the citizenry of the Tennessee Valley out of the log cabin era.

"Even those who are its staunchest proponents admit that there are many obstacles in the way of easy success," Mr. Knowlton stated. "The Tennessee Valley Development is far more than an engineering commitment. It has much broader significance than the Columbia River scheme, Boulder Dam or the St. Lawrence project. It is a stupendous venture. Anyone will admit that it is a daring one.

"In its full unfolding it represents upward of a $1,000,000,000 of an outlay. The present modest appropriation is a very mild beginning. Thus far the Tennessee Valley Authority has had only $50,000,000 allotted specifically to it. Other funds have been made available to the extent of $2,000,000 for beginning Joe Wheeler Dam under the Civil Works Administration. These will enable a beginning of the social, industrial, agricultural and cultural rehabilitation of the whole Tennessee basin; and in motion the promotional activities needed to create a market for the 25,000,000,000 kilowatt hours the Authority will have for sale by 1938 in the Nation's greatest backwoods area.

Years Behind

"A Century of Progress left Tennessee in general years behind and the people of 7 other states are now to provide some $10 per capita in capital so that Tennessee can not only catch up but at the same time become a Utopian model of elevated self-sufficiency. Much of the region is still where Lincoln was in his log-cabin boyhood. Half of the rural population there never sees more than $100 of cash a year. There are several counties where the average cash income is as low as $46 a year. A great deal will have to be accomplished if each of the 2,000,000 people who live on farms in the basin is to become prosperous enough to use $5 to $10 worth of one cent electricity every month as now destined for him by the TVA.

"The TVA's ultimate plan for the Tennessee and its tributaries embraces the building of 200 dams with requisite locks for 8-foot and 6-foot waterways clear to the headwaters in the West Virginia coal fields, 1,900 miles of waterway all told.

"The Joe Wheeler Dam, 15 1/2 miles above the Wilson (Muscle Shoals) Dam, will be 50 feet high and 6,000 feet long. Its lake will be some 100 square miles in area and reach 80 miles upstream. The Norris Dam, 20 miles above Knoxville, is to be 236 feet high, 185 feet wide at the base and 1,800 feet long at the roadway along its top. Its pool will inundate 35,000 acres at normal stage and 12,000 acres at flood stage. The lake will total 80 square miles and have a shore line of 800 miles.

NOT TO BACK ROXY FAIRBANKS ASSERT

Both Father And Son Deny Rumors Of A London "Radio City."

London, March 14.—(AP)—Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., emphatically denied today reports published abroad that he is associated with S. L. "Roxy" Rothafel in plans to build a "Radio City" in London.

"The report is absolutely untrue," said the senior Fairbanks. "I have no connection whatsoever with Roxy."

And Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., promptly added: "I know nothing whatever of Roxy's plans. I have put up no money to back him in anything, whatever. I have no connection with him of any kind."

Friends were quick to declare that the only interest of the father and son here now is in the making of pictures.

Doug, Sr., is now working on one and intends to return to the United States as soon as it is finished.

Doug, Jr., plans to make two pictures and also appear on the stage with Gertrude Lawrence in a new stage play this spring. He is leaving for North Africa tomorrow.

Takes a Lot of Money

Persons close to the elder Fairbanks made the observation that it is a matter of record that it always takes a lot of "real money" to back "Roxy" in any of his ventures. They said Fairbanks would not be likely to tie up such a sum and furthermore that it is unlikely he would be the person to whom Roxy would go in seeking it.

Rothafel himself, when seen by an Associated Press representative, said reports that he had already signed up with Fairbanks and others were all "a lot of applesauce, plus."

He declared he is dealing only for himself. He said he is in touch with two or three corporations and that when he leaves for the United States tomorrow he hopes to have a statement to make.

TO LECTURE ON GROWING AND TESTING OF SEEDS

Expert Will Reveal Interesting Facts To Market Gardeners At Hartford Meeting Thursday.

An illustrated lecture on growing, testing and treating vegetable seeds will be held at the County Building, Hartford, Thursday evening, March 12 at 7:30 p. m., under the auspices of the Hartford Market Gardeners' association, according to an announcement today by J. F. Schliman, secretary of the association.

This meeting will be open to the public, Mr. Schliman stated, and all gardeners in the county are invited to attend.

The speaker, C. W. Clemmer, manager of the seed department of the Eastern States Farmers' Exchange in Springfield, Mass., will illustrate and discuss the various sources of vegetable seed, how they are grown, how they are tested for quality of product and how to treat them for the prevention of seed-borne diseases.

The Hartford Market Gardeners' association is a farmers' cooperative association, more than 507 years old. Monthly meetings for the promotion of the welfare of market garden industry are held throughout the year.

In commenting on the Thursday evening program, County Agent, Chas. D. Lewis said that he had heard many favorable comments about Mr. Clemmer's talk and that he anticipated hearing the talk and seeing the slides Thursday evening.

TREES AND SHRUBS KILLED BY COLD

Severe Winter Causes Much Damage In State To All "Immigrant" Varieties.

Stamford, March 14.—(AP)—Tremendous killing of trees and shrubs in the recent northeastern cold was announced today by the Bartlett Tree Research Laboratories.

They were "immigrant" trees and shrubs steadily imported from farther south, and lived through the mild winters of the past 15 to 20 years until their owners began to think of them as permanent.

Their destruction, spread among some 400 varieties, shows that only man may believe with impunity in the tale about "grand-father's weather" being gone forever. The imported trees and shrubs acquired no hardiness in the mild northern winters, and died by the thousands in the February frozes.

"Virginia's plant growth," says the Bartlett statement, "was introduced into Massachusetts and the flora of Louisiana grew luxuriantly in Virginia. Trees which were hardy in Massachusetts were introduced into Canada.

"Privet, holly, box, American sycamore, willow oak, persimmon and scores of other plants have been widely grown out of their native habitats and have suffered severe injury.

"Nectarines and peaches have practically been killed. Cherries both sweet and sour, and plums, with the exception of the Siberian variety, have been severely damaged. Climbing roses have suffered extensively and the silver moon rose has been killed to the ground line.

"Remember, BANANAS are both fruit and vegetable," says

Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree of the Manchester Herald Cooking School

"They're grand when yellow with green tip. This is exactly the right stage of partial ripeness for cooking as a vegetable—baked, broiled or sautéed especially with meats.

"They're great when yellow ripe, particularly for salads and desserts. This is the stage of all-round usefulness. For while readily digestible for eating as fruit, they are still firm enough for cooking.

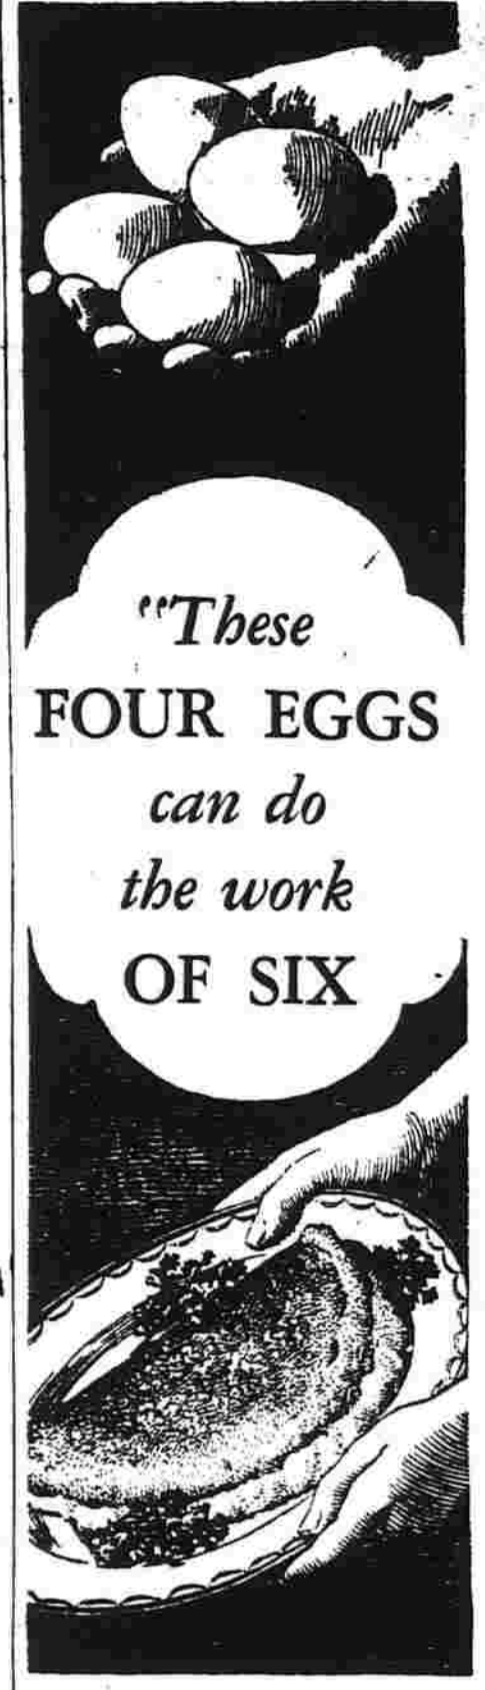

"They're marvelous when fully ripe—yellow flecked with brown, delicious to peel and eat—to slice and serve with milk or cream, or combine with your favorite cereal."

A FAMILY TREAT—BANANA FRITTERS

Peel 6 bananas and cut in halves, first lengthwise, then crosswise. Sprinkle with 2 tablespoons lemon juice and powdered sugar. Dip in fritter batter made as follows: Mix and sift together 1 1/2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 tablespoons powdered sugar, 1/4 teaspoon salt. Combine 3/4 cup milk with 1 well-beaten egg, then add to dry mixture, beating constantly. The batter should be thick enough to coat the fruit entirely. If too thick, add more liquid; if too thin, add more flour. Fry in deep hot fat (395° F.) until brown. Turn frequently while cooking.

For extra pep and energy—BANANAS
New research also proclaims them an excellent preservative food—rich in five of the six vitamins (A, B, C, E and G) and a good source of important minerals. And their alkalies reactant makes bananas helpful in warding off acidity.

with the help of Bond Bread

Says Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree at the Manchester Herald Cooking School

"USE Bond Bread to piece out costlier foods and you'll discover they taste even better."

That's what food lecturers tell their hearers about Bond Bread as a cooking ingredient.

Try this Thrifty Omelet: Add 1 cup soft Bond crumbs to 1 cup milk and beat until smooth. Add 4 beaten egg yolks, then fold in 4 stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into melted fat in heavy skillet and cook over slow fire 25 to 30 minutes. When top is firm to the touch, fold over and turn on warm platter. Serves 6.

Bond is full of flavor, full of substance. It can't have that flat-tasting sponginess because the rising is stopped at the flavo-peak.

Remember, too, that Bond Bread brings you a rich supply of sunshine vitamin-D—one of the elements you must have for building and maintaining good-looking, sound teeth. Using Bond as an ingredient doesn't affect this vital element. Toast it, turn it into any savory dish—its protective vitamin-D is here in every crumb and slice... Always order an extra loaf for cooking. Bond is fresh from the oven at your grocer's.

FREE TO YOU

THE BARGAIN HOUND

Weren't they the best looking things—the suits modeled by Fradin's at the Cooking School? I'm afraid you're just going to be out of it if you don't have a suit this spring. Go to Fradin's and try on their suits (and when you see their dresses you'll have to have one of these too!)

One of our shops in town is showing the quaintest little plaid organdy blouses. It's just "love at first sight" when you gaze upon them.

Coolness $1.98 to $5.98! How lucky to be able to purchase it so cheaply—and yet you can be wearing a Nelly Don. Those you who saw the Nelly Don dresses modeled at the Cooking School yesterday won't be happy 'til you have one or two for the spring and summer. I know. Aren't they the coolest, freshest looking frocks? Hale's have them in all styles—just loads of 'em!

Here's a nice new dessert for you—

- Banana Custard
1-2 cup sugar
3 tablespoons flour
1-4 teaspoon salt
3 egg yolks
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups sliced bananas.
Mix the flour, sugar and salt. Add the egg yolks and milk and cook slowly in a double boiler until a little thick. Stir constantly to prevent lumping. Add the remainder of the ingredients and pour into glass baking dish. Cover with meringue, brown meringue in the oven.

The smartest swaggers suits—a whole new shipment of them—have arrived at the Wilrose Shop. There are checks, large and small, tweeds, rough and hard finished, and lovely plain colors in green, blue and beige. They are moderately priced at $16.75 and $19.95. While on your week-end shopping trip stop in and see them.

Dr. Walter H. Eddy tells us that "the proteins of milk, meat, eggs and cheese are rich in ALL the essential amino acids, while those of cereals are not," and that in selecting our protein requirement from natural foods we insure against amino acid deficiency by including in every day's diet enough milk, eggs or meat to obtain protection against the possible deficiencies of cereal or vegetable proteins. Especially is this important if we reduce our total protein intake to near our minimum requirement."

That's a splendid center aisle showing of Kroehler made divans and two-piece sets at Watkins. There are several different styles, each one so individual and attractive that it's hard to make up your mind just which one you like the best. And the prices, oh, they're way down. Stop in and stroll down the center aisle.

It seems that flower trimming will be a potent item in the wardrobe this spring. Unusual blooms, such as nasturtiums, marigolds and red geraniums will be used as boutonnières.

13 MEN RESCUED FROM JAP WARSHIP

over a small group of men in our compartment, glad hands and prepared to die. We should have been rescued by the Emperor and for the Imperial Navy.

About noon, thirty hours after the accident, breathing became extremely difficult. Suddenly a gust of fresh air came through the hatch. Three of us were sufficiently revived to be able to open a hatch, through which we saw a diver beckoning to us.

Flashed to Surface
We emerged and floated to the surface. It is a miracle that we are alive now.

Through the long hours of rescue work, searchlights lit the scene outside in a cold rain and a heart rending tapping of rain on the heads of survivors in the darkness inside.

Pumps worked at full speed to stave water from the hull while air was forced in from the Tomozuru lay bottom up in the dock. Just as she had been floated in, with her masts and funnel pointing downward.

The vessel met disaster during maneuvers Monday off the Hasebo naval base. Waves swamped her, heavily laden with armaments, despite machinery designed to prevent capsizing.

A naval board of inquiry was appointed to study the cause of the disaster which may become a national issue.

Survivors said the skipper of the Tomozuru, Lieutenant Commander Okuchi Iwasaki, was on the bridge when she turned over, and must have been swept to death.

Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, a member of the Supreme War Council, is on the way here from Tokyo to head a board of inquiry composed of admirals and experts to fix the responsibility for the disaster.

Strict Probe Needed
Japanese newspapers say that the naval high command is determined that Admiral Nomura's inquest must be most exhaustive for three reasons: First, to dispel the nation's doubts as to the competency of men who are spending millions of dollars building scores of heavily armed small tonnage warships; second, to prevent deterioration of the navy's morale; and, third, to restore the sea force's popularity.

The most rigorous tests are planned on the two sister ships of the Tomozuru—the Chidori and the Manzuru.

According to the newspaper Komin Shimbun, a navy spokesman said that 16 more torpedo boats are projected each weighing 70 tons more than the Tomozuru—that is, 397 tons, three under the treaty limit. These would be capable of replacing some of the smaller destroyers.

CWA AUTO PATROL

Norwalk, March 14—(AP)—Unknown to most drivers, a CWA motor patrol was to work today under the supervision of the State Motor Vehicle department and the National Re-Employment Commission.

The CWA men stop no automobiles and make no arrests, but take the registration numbers of automobiles, the drivers of which are observed violating the motor vehicle laws, and send them to the motor vehicle department.

Five Norwalk men have been stationed along the Boston Post road today and similar patrols will be organized in other parts of the state.

Upon the reports of the CWA, patrol the motor vehicle department may take action to suspend the operators' licenses of drivers seen breaking the laws.

EX-GERMAN KAISER HIT BY DEPRESSION

The former Kaiser remained in his estate, safely inside an eight-foot barbed wire fence, hidden from the stares of the curious by a huge, thick hedge.

Agreement Reached
As a result of a plebiscite in 1926, a compromise financial agreement was reached between the Reich and the Hohenzollerns. The ex-Kaiser was given 15,000,000 marks in cash and retained title to 165,000 acres—some of it valuable forest land.

The Hohenzollerns likewise retained a number of palaces. It has been reported though not confirmed, that officials of the royal household have been making trips to Germany and returning with the maximum amount of money a traveler is allowed to take out of the country now.

Marlene Makes Peace With Nazi Government
Berlin, March 14—(AP)—The German capital was electrified today by a sign of reconciliation between Nazi Germany and Marlene Dietrich, the motion picture star.

Carl Cuschen, president of the newly-organized Nazi Natural Film Chamber, announced Miss Dietrich had contributed "a considerable sum" to the chamber's welfare fund.

Although the film star left Germany before the advent of the Nazi regime, Berlin wondered why she met her husband in Vienna last summer instead of coming here to her home town. It was suspected that there was trouble between herself and the Nazis.

At that time the Nazi press was expressing severe disapproval of her wearing trousers and it was said here that she objected to being dictated to in her choice of costumes.

Democratic Leader Byrns of Tennessee previously had predicted victory for the proposal but his forces split.

Speaker Rainey voted "aye" for rule. During House debate, Representative Small of New York, the Republican leader, said since the Democrats had been in power they had turned "the House of Representatives into a collective Socialistic state."

"In trying to make a New Deal you have made a 100 percent misdeal," Small asserted.

Representative Bulwinkle (D. N. C.), replying to Small, said that in all the years the Republicans were in power not one opportunity had been offered for the House to vote on a separate veterans issue.

'ERSTWHILE SUSAN' IS WELL RECEIVED

Mark Holmes And Miss Faith Follow Give Stellar Portrayal Of Roles.

"Erstwhile Susan," the play made famous by the late Mrs. Minnie Maddern Fluke was revived with tremendous success by the Manchester Community Players last night at the Whiton Memorial hall.

From the moment the curtain arose on the first act, the audience was in sympathy with the players and frequently applauded them when an especially telling situation or speech appealed to them. This real American folk play depicting as it does the life and customs of the Pennsylvania Dutch, so-called, who settled in the eastern part of Pennsylvania, abounds with interest and homely American humor. Such expressions as "We feel fur gittrin married," "I ain't give her the dare," "I guess anyhow not," and so on kept the audience in a state of laughter.

As a problem play it drives home a realization of the handicaps under which the women of these households formerly lived, hopeless and despondent until death came as a blessed release.

Mark Holmes in the leading male role of Branby Dreary, a tinsmith, advertised for his third wife through a matrimonial bureau. His tyrannical, miserly cruel ways make life unbearable for his 16-year-old daughter, Barnabette, played by Miss Florence Spillane, who is obliged to perform the household drudgery formerly carried on by the deceased wives, and for his sons, Jacob, (Thomas Conran) and Emanuel, (Arthur Stranton).

To this uninviting home comes the talented actress and lecturer on woman's rights, Juliet Miller, played by Miss Faith Follow. Her lawyer, Judge David Jordan, (Richard Owers) tries to dissuade her from her avowed purpose of marrying Branbary and mothering his children, but she is determined, and her efforts in transforming the home and the manners of the children, and the sweetness with which she put up with Branbary's cantankerous ways, provided the whole story.

Miss Follow has a natural ability for the stage and she endeared herself more and more to the audience as the play went on. It would be difficult to decide whether Miss Follow or Mr. Holmes did the better work last night. Both gave splendid portrayals.

Richard Owers gave a dignified interpretation of Judge Jordan, and his scenes with Barnabette who, through the influence of her step-mother is educated in Boston, provided the love interest in the drama.

Joseph Handley, another suitor of Barnabette and, according to his own opinion, the best match in the rural town of Reinhartz station, furnished much of the comedy and his lines were many of the laughable phrases. Mrs. Mark Holmes, Miss Florence Donohue and Miss Sylvia Hagedorn, all had minor parts but played them true to form, and added considerably to scenes in which they appeared by their pleasing stage presence.

Another touch of realism was added to the story in the third act, after the depotic Dreary's life comes to a sudden end and in a fall from the "Methody" church roof, (which he received the contract for re-lining), when they all assemble to hear the reading of the will and find that it has been destroyed. Among those who had hoped for legacies are Dreary's sister and her husband, who are Mennonites. Mrs. Ethel Keller and Walter Henry, garbed in somber black and gray after the fashion of this religious sect who emigrated in colonies from Germany in the '70's and settled in Eastern Pennsylvania were the Mennonite relatives. Russell Potterton and Louis Genovaev were others in the supporting cast.

Mrs. J. L. Handley, director for the Community Players, and Orford Parish Chapter, D.A.R. which presented the cast in "Erstwhile Susan," received many compliments at the close of the performance last night, which will go down in history as one of the best balanced and best acted plays since the organization of the group barely two years ago.

The Trade school orchestra under the direction of William J. Hanna played a number of spirited selections during the evening. Young lady members of the Community Players were ushers.

IL DUCE SEEKS PEACE THROUGH TRIPLE PARLEY

upon consideration to prevent an Austro-German union through the agreement expected to be reached. In semi-official circles, it has been said that if Austria and Hungary can be put on a firm foundation economically any possible threat of German domination over Central Europe will thus be effectively removed.

Briefly, Mussolini's plan provides for bilateral agreements mutually binding Italy and Austria, Italy and Hungary and Austria and Hungary, each to aid the other; exportations through customs preferences, special treatment of the other's industrial and agricultural products and partial reservation of markets.

One idea back of the entire program is to establish ultimately an area of freer exchange which eventually may be widened through the participation of other countries.

On all sides, it was said that preliminary negotiations had left no doubt that the three-premier parley would result satisfactorily for all concerned.

Duce and General Goemboes held two long conversations yesterday, thus paving the way for Dolfuss and Mussolini to get down to business without delay when they met shortly before noon today.

This morning Dolfuss and Goemboes checked statistics with their respective staffs of experts over their breakfast coffee in final preparations for the actual start of the meetings.

At the palace, the little Austrian chancellor was greeted first by Fulvio Suvich, Italian under-secretary for foreign affairs, who ushered him into Mussolini's office.

For General Goemboes, the morning was free. He spent most of the time at the Hungarian Legation talking with his economic advisers.

Joe McCluskey Wins 2-Mile Handily in State Meet

MURCH PLACES 4TH IN 800 METER TITLE RUN; M. H. S. LAST IN RELAY

Former Fordham Ace Runs Own Race, Leads Nearest Rival To Tape By Seventy Yards In 9:36.6; 1500 Meter Run Finish Feature Of Meet.

Running his race from start to finish, Manchester's leading contribution to the athletic world, Joe McCluskey, captured the two-mile event of the Connecticut A.A.U. indoor championships at the New Haven Arena last night before a scattered crowd of about 1,000 fans, winning just about as he pleased in the slow time of nine minutes, 36.6 seconds.

Murch is fourth in the 800 meter race, stepped out in the 800 meter Connecticut A.A.U. title event under the colors of the Manchester Recreation Centers and finished fourth in a field of fourteen. Charles Donahue, running unattached, placed in the tenth place in the same event.

In the high school relay event, Cude, lead-off man for Manchester High, ran a neck and neck race in first place with the Fitch High entry and Carpenter did the same on the second leg but lost almost ten yards in the exchange of sticks at the finish. Shedd, running third, did brilliant work in catching his man and was two yards in front when he finished but Rowell, anchor man, was pocketed time and again on the steeply banked turns of the board track and finished poor third as Fitch took first and Hillhouse second.

The half mile walk was stricken from the program and Jimmy Crowe, veteran Buckland marathoner, ran a leg in the club relay, won by Knights of Columbus of New York. Crowe competed for the New Haven Harriers.

The outstanding event of the meet was the 1500 meter open event in which the Manchester High boys of Boston A. A. bested Glenn Dawson, brilliant Tulsa, Oklahoma athlete who has competed against McCluskey a number of times, in a hair raising finish that brought the crowd to its feet. James Gallione of Fordham set a fast pace in the event and held the lead until the final lap when Dawson went to the front and seemed a certain winner.

The present intercollegiate champion and world record holder, Keith Brown of Yale, who Thompson of Yale and O. Suremister of the Boston A. A., both former intercollegiate title holders, met in the pole vault event. Brown and Thompson finished in a tie for first place at 13 feet, nine inches, Suremister dropping out at 13 feet, six inches. Both Brown and Thompson tried for a new world record at 14 feet, six inches but missed by wide margins.

A field of seven started in the two-mile event but the race soon resolved into a duel between McCluskey, Mike Portnova and T. F. McDonough of the Boston A. A. Portnova, New England 3,000 meter champ, took the lead at the start with McCluskey second and McDonough a close third. More than a yard separated the three leaders through the first three-quarters of the race.

LOCAL TRADE TOPS WILLIMANTIC FIVE

Take Lead At Start To Gain 33-26 Victory Over Rivals From Thread City.

After a brief sojourn in the valley of defeat, Manchester Trade returned to the winning column yesterday afternoon by downing Willimantic Trade at the School Street Gym, 33 to 26. It was the seventh victory in twenty starts for the local Mechanics, who will again be in action this Friday afternoon as hosts to Bridgeport Trade.

Manchester took the lead at the start yesterday and was never headed although Willimantic staged a desperate rally in the final quarter to outscore the locals, 9-3. Coach Walter Schober's charges, who have won five of their last six games, held a 7-4 advantage at the end of the first quarter and increased it to 17-11 by halftime. The locals went on a scoring spree in the third quarter to gain a 30-17 margin that proved too much for the visitors to overcome.

Novack and Keish featured for Manchester and Woodworth and Goodrich went best for Willimantic.

Manchester Trade (88) Score at halftime, Manchester 17, Willimantic 11. Referee, Boggini. Time: Four 8 minute periods.

The Jaffe Jewels won the playoff of the second round of the Rec League last night at the School Street Gym, beating the Phantoms in a hard fought, bruising battle by a score of 38-30.

Phantoms made repeated thrusts to overcome the Jewels, but the Jewels fought off every rally.

Nelson was the man the Phantoms could not stop. He solved their defense for a total of 14 points. Faulkner with ten points was another star in the Phantoms. T. Salmonds and Courtney were standouts for the losers.

Handed First Defeat In the other game the Rangers lost their first game of the season at the hands of the Sport Center Reserves of Hartford in a close and interesting struggle, the final score reading 26-25.

The Ranger team did not present its first string players on the floor until one minute and twenty-three seconds of playing time remained.

ROMANTIC RUNAWAY
 by KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR
 BEGIN HERE TODAY
 PABLITO, a handsome 17-year-old Florida, works at the palatial Florida home of millionaire JIM FIELD. When Field's daughter, ESTELLE, arrives he falls in love with her almost at sight.

she had raised her face to his. His misery was a tangled mania. He had never needed Noyes as he did then. Before his thought had been always that Noyes might need him. When he spoke the girl at his feet shifted a little and groaned and shivered. He slipped from his velvet jacket and put it around her. Beau moved, changing the tempo of his more. To Pablito the night was a year of hell—hard hell. Puritan hell. At three o'clock the wind died to a feeble whisper and the stars began to dim. At five came a gray, late dawn and a spectacular, short rain storm. Lottie groaned in her sleep and Beau awoke to curse her. Awake, he rubbed his eyes, yawning, stretched and set to planning.

YOUR CHILDREN
 By Olive Roberts Barton
 During the years before school, a little child is feeding his "self" instinct. If he appears to be indifferent to the comfort of others it is not to be worried about. On the contrary he needs help in satisfying the urge that nature has put there. If he is to develop an assurance and self-confidence it is now that the seed is well-sown and fertilized. The fertilizer is praise. It is quite common to give the little boy or girl material things to instill a feeling of natural pride. This is a mistake. To be sure he needs toys, and many of them, to keep him busy. Also it does set up a "possession complex" which is strongly associated with the "self-complex." But when it comes to assurance of worth in himself, possessions alone fall far short of the mark.

Popular New England Orchestra
 Harry Brinkman's band has been organized now for some odd 12 years and in the course of the years they have been in the dance field they have played such engagements as Yale, Taft, Wesleyan, Vassar, Roton Point Park, Hamilton Park, Ritz Ballroom at Bridgeport, Pleasure Beach at Bridgeport, and played many of the Firemen's annual balls and musical organization very much like McEnelly's orchestra. Their tempos and rhythm are exceptionally fine. The opportunity to hear this band has been made possible by their coming for this week's dance to be held on Friday evening at the School Street Recreation building.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF
 By Alicia Hart
 The woman who manages a home is justified in saying that it requires great resourcefulness to keep perfectly groomed, what with the housework and all. Obviously, it's not easy to dust under the beds and keep a coiffure in order or to wash dishes and have hands stay smooth and soft. Just the same, by devoting twenty minutes to personal appearance before you go down stairs to get breakfast, you're less likely to feel droopy when the lady next door drops in to return your cake tin.

FEAR HUGE LANDSLIDE
 Nice, France, March 14.—(AP)—The inhabitants of Roquebillere today are deserting their village in the mountains 30 miles north of here, fleeing from a threatened landslide. Hundreds of families are camping in the old barracks at the edge of the village in which they fled in their night clothes last night when huge rocks began to tumble down the mountainside.

FOOZY!
 "Oh, ho! You're going to disobey! I'll prove to you that I mean't pay," exclaimed the nymph. "I never let bad bubbles stay around." He took his bubble pipe and tried to poke the bubble in the side. "I finally succeeded, and there came a real strange sound. "I heard the puff," cried Copy. "Gee, at first it rather frightened me, but now that that fat bubble's gone, I guess there's naught to fear." "Of course not," said the nymph. "You try to poke a bubble in the eye. Perhaps I'd better blow some more, or there'll be no more here." (Duncy has some fun with a bird bubble in the next story.)

SENSE and NONSENSE

"The problem nowadays isn't whether the bride can make cake like mother made, but if the groom can make the 'dough' that father made."

They were quarrelling, and "he" wasn't doing well.
He—You didn't have a rag on your back when I married you!
She—Anyways, I've plenty now.

LIVIN'

Jes, enough to eat and wear, Jes' a few years free from care, Jes' someone your lot to share.
—That's Livin'.
Jes' a place to sleep at night, Jes' some friends to treat you right, Jes' looking towards the Light.
—That's Livin'.

The new theme song in Washington appears to be "Who's Afraid of the Big Bad Deficit?"

Youth—There's something dork-like about that girl you introduced me to last night.
His Pal—Yes, she's pigeon-toed and she can coo, too.

NOBODY KNOWS WHETHER THE CHAP WHO HAD SENSE ENOUGH TO REMAIN SINGLE WOULD HAVE HAD SENSE ENOUGH TO MAKE A GOOD HUSBAND.

A certain old lady who was so concerned about a man who was unable to write, that she persuaded a teacher in the city schools to give him some lessons. Some time later she met the man unable to read and write and said to him:
Lady—Well, friend, I suppose you are now able to read the Bible fairly easy?
Man—Lord Bless you, madam. I was out of the Bible and into the baseball news over a week ago.

An opportunist, defines Jim, is a man who, when left holding the sack, cuts it up and makes himself a suit of clothes.

City Man—What a beautiful view that is.
Farmer—Well, perhaps it is. But if you had to plow that view, harrow it, cultivate it, hoe it, mow it, fence it, and pay taxes on it, how would it look?

No one can believe that the woman who is always harping will make a good angel.

"Be kind to insects," says a writer. We never lose an opportunity of patting mosquitoes on the back.

SOME TIME IT MAY HAPPEN THAT A WOMAN WHO HAS ACHIEVED NATIONAL SUCCESS WILL ADMIT THAT HER SUCCESS WAS DUE SOLELY TO HER HUSBAND.

AGITATED CALLER—I want something to quiet my nerves.
Lawyer—But I'm not a doctor.
CALLER—Yes, I know. I want a divorce.

We've just heard the last word in patriotism. Now they are telling the children it is the BLUE EAGLE that brings the babies.

Young Salesman (in cafe, as pretty waitress laid the menu card down before him, smiling sweetly at her) —Pretty day, isn't it?
Waitress—Yes, and so was yesterday, and my name is Jane, and I know I'm a peach and have pretty brown eyes, and have been here quite a while and I like it very much, and I don't think I'm too nice to work in a place like this. My wages are satisfactory, and I don't know of a show or dance in town tonight that I'd like to go to, because if there was I wouldn't go with you, and I'm from the country, and my brother is the owner of this place, and only yesterday he nearly killed a salesman who insisted on making a date with me. What will you have, sir?

Salesman (gulping)—I'm not hungry now. Just bring me a cup of coffee, very black.

Do not imagine that because a man is an expert mathematician he always counts with the fair sex.
