

PACKAGE STORE BAN IS LIFTED IN CONNECTICUT

Temporary Injunction Granted Which Opens Door for Test Case Over Validity of Control Act.

Hartford, Conn., March 17.—(AP)—The door was opened temporarily today for unrestricted sale of liquor by Connecticut package stores and a possible test in the Federal courts of the validity of the state liquor control act.

Under a temporary injunction issued by Judge Edwin S. Thomas of the U. S. District Court all of the restrictions governing the sale of liquor by package stores were lifted. The restraining order was lifted for 10 days, effective today, and added another chapter to the turbulent history of the control act which was enacted last April.

All Enjoy Privileges While the injunction was granted last night on the application of only one package store proprietor, William Shore, of Hartford, under its terms all other owners of such establishments may enjoy its privileges by joining as "parties plaintiffs" to the action.

Shore's Complaint Shore in his complaint charges that the control act violated the 14th amendment of the Federal Constitution, asserting that it deprived him of equal protection by giving "unfair, discriminatory and unlawful advantages" to the package stores.

JUNIOR HIGH PAY SLASHES GREATER

Teacher in State Elementary and High Schools Are Better Paid.

Hartford, March 17.—(AP)—Teachers in Junior High schools of the state received a greater decrease in salaries during the last year than did teachers in elementary schools or in high schools, according to statistics compiled by Roger M. Thompson, senior supervisor of research and finance of the state department of education.

HOUSE DEMOCRATS PREPARE TO DEFY SEC. MORGENTHAU

MARTIN J. INSULL LODGED IN CELL

Toronto, Ont., March 17.—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, his last recourse gone, waited in a common cell today for American police to come and get him.

The brother and associate of Samuel J. Insull in a vast utilities network lost an appeal to the Supreme Court yesterday. Chief Justice Sir William Muloch ruled that he must be extradited to the United States to face trial in Chicago for embezzlement and larceny.

Deprieved of his most cherished consolation, a blackened pipe, Insull was lodged in a cell. Last night the once powerful utilities man slept on a prison cot, rough blankets covering metal springs.

Await Decision In Washington, the Justice Department indicated it is waiting the result of an Appellate Court issue in Illinois before pressing extradition proceedings against Insull.

No evidence was given to support some of the charges but he said "our opinion is that a prima facie case is established in regard to the alleged theft of $344,720 and $20,000."

Martin Insull started his fight against extradition almost 17 months ago. Asked if he had any message for his wife, he said: "Tell her I'm feeling fine."

TWO MORE DEATHS IN DILLINGER HUNT

Negro Aide and Under Sheriff Succumb to Injuries After Gun Battle.

Port Huron, Mich., March 17.—(AP)—A "hot trail" marked by two more deaths snapped the eyes of authorities toward Canada today as they hunted John Dillinger, wooden gun desperado.

Under Sheriff Charles Cavanaugh died last night of bullet wounds he suffered when he and other police trapped and fatally wounded Dillinger's negro pal in crime, Herbert Youngblood.

Before he died, Youngblood said that Dillinger had been in Port Huron Thursday night. Quickly there came a report that Dillinger had crossed the St. Clair river from Port Huron to Sarnia, Ont., in a rowboat with two Indians.

RURAL EDUCATION NEED OF RELIGION

Speaker at Yale Urges Broadening of the Field—Scores Churches.

New Haven, March 17.—(AP)—Broadening of the field for attaining "the knowledge of God" to improve rural education was urged today by Warren H. Wilson of New York, at a seminar on the town and country church.

The speaker, associated with the Board of National Missions of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, told representatives of various churches boards meeting at the Yale Divinity School.

"It has long seemed to be that because of the inadequacy of the education in our schools, and the shocking deficiency of the country churches, that we should broaden our field for attaining the knowledge of God. We should enlarge the field of religious education beyond its present literary and biblical limits.

Enlarge Interest "I suggest that we enlarge our religious interest by interpreting the discoveries of the sciences, and the investigations which have broadened the curricula of the universities to which we have never adapted our religious education."

Wilson charged that while agricultural college teachers "to become skilled farm hands" they do not... (Continued on Page Two)

Hasten Plans to Take Up Silver Legislation as Challenge to Treasury Hear Speaker Rainey, Angered by Secretary's Insuendo, to Call Up Dies Bill Monday; Storm of Protest Hits Morgenthau.

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—Angered by Secretary Morgenthau's statement that some silver advocates were not entirely disinterested, Speaker Rainey announced that he would call up on Monday the Dies silver bill, which provides for the exchange of American surplus farm products for foreign silver.

"I don't think much of Mr. Morgenthau's statement," was Mr. Rainey's reply to a question just before the House met. "Here, look at the headlines in the papers. They say 'Stock Market Reacts!' 'Silver Tumblers!' and such things."

Republicans laughed at the situation that confronted the administration. "They are in another row and it's going to be serious," said one of Representative Smith's lieutenants.

Referred Dies Bill Mr. Rainey believes the Dies bill preferable to that of Representative Ferguson to authorize purchase of 1,500,000 ounces of silver on that basis. The Coinage, Weights and Measures Committee has reported out both bills.

A member of the committee will be recognized Monday to move for suspension of rules to pass a bill. This motion requires a two-thirds majority.

Chairman Somers said he would call up the Dies bill. Wheeler To Act Senator Wheeler announced meanwhile that he would ask the Senate Agriculture Committee to open hearings on his two-silver measure, which, as an amendment to the Monetary Bill, failed in the Senate by a vote of 45 to 43.

MAKLEY CONVICTED; TO DIE IN CHAIR

Member of Dillinger Gang Found Guilty of Murder—Jail Is Heavily Guarded.

Lima, O., March 18.—(AP)—Charles Makley, second member of the notorious John Dillinger gang to face a charge of murdering Sheriff Jess Barber, today was convicted without recommendation of mercy by a jury of 11 men and one woman. The verdict makes mandatory a sentence of death in the electric chair.

A similar verdict was given a week ago to Harry Pierpont, named as the trigger-man in the slaying which was committed last Oct. 13 when members of the gang freed Dillinger from the Allen county jail here.

Heavily Guarded With several battalions of machine guns manned by National Guardsmen commanding all approaches, Makley and Pierpont now are prisoners in the jail, as is Russell Clark, who will be brought to trial on the same charge later.

The special precautions to prevent a delivery of the trio have been maintained ever since they were brought here. Since Dillinger's recent escape from the jail at Crown Point, Ind., the guards have been increased several times.

The jury reached its verdict just an hour after resuming its deliberations today. Two and a half hours were spent deliberating last night before the jury was locked up for the night.

Foreman Mason said the jury was unanimous on the guilty verdict on the first ballot, but refused to sleep over the question of mercy.

Investigation Discloses Easton Road Builder Had Violated Wage Agreements in Contract.

Bridgeport, March 17.—(AP)—The PWA administration for Connecticut acted upon its first case of contract violation when it ordered the removal of sub-contractor Thomas Lanese, working on the Easton state highway road contract project.

Several weeks ago complaint was registered with the state engineer that the sub-contractor was violating certain of the labor conditions of the general contract. Investigation of the case substantiated some of the claims when it was found that some of his workmen had not been paid in over four weeks.

That the contractor assume and meet the payroll obligation of sub-contractor Thomas Lanese and that he submit to this office satisfactory evidence of compliance with this requirement.

That sub-contractor Lanese be removed from the job both as sub-contractor of the state engineer and that the general contractor be at liberty to take the work over either under his own direction or with a new sub-contractor for the approval both of your office and this office.

Massacre in Turkestan;
Britain-Japan Involved.

Moscow, March 17.—Several members of the British Consulate's staff tonight were reported killed or wounded and 2,000 Uigurs, comprising most of the civil population of the town of Kaangar in Sinkiang, Chinese Turkestan (just north of Kashmir, India), were massacred in Kashmir fighting between rebellious Uigur natives and forces of the newly proclaimed "independent" government of Turkestan.

This information was contained in reports from Tashkent. Kaangar itself was virtually sacked during the combat, which occurred during the evacuation of British troops from the area. A number of fatalities among its personnel.

Retreating independently, the government troops joined scattered detachments under the Emir of Khotan and occupied Jarkent, while partisans groups of Uigurs and Kirghiz, supporting the independent government, forced took positions on roads and cut off Kaangar.

Meanwhile, General Ma Chu-ling, leader of the Kaangar independent government troops, was reported marching on Kaangar with remnants of his army, which was defeated in the north by provincial government forces.

The dispatch added that British agents in Kaangar, Khotan and Jarkent—three strategic towns in Southwestern Sinkiang—have advocated a unification of these three districts into an independent Moslem domain ruled by an unidentified Moslem prince from British India.

It reported that this advice conflicted with "Japanese plans" in Sinkiang.

HOTEL MEN'S STAND

New Haven, March 17.—(AP)—It was here today that the package store men would not be followed by the Connecticut hotel men in the action to have a constitutional court pass on the state liquor control law as begun yesterday through federal injunction proceedings.

The attitude of hotel men may be determined tomorrow at a general meeting held in Hotel Taft.

Hotel men said their aim was a special session of the Legislature that the entire situation, which they claim, has been adverse to their business and should be remedied as possible.

Temporary Relief
William E. Carr, of Hartford, president of the Connecticut Hotel men's Association said today, "nothing but temporary relief will come through the courts."

He said the matter of a Federal injunction against the liquor law had been discussed several weeks ago, with opinion held that the end sought would not be gained that way.

As to injunction proceedings, Rogers said the hotel men felt they were not to be ordered.

MEETING TOMORROW.
Hartford, March 17.—(AP)—A statewide meeting of package store owners has been called for tomorrow at 1:30 p. m. at the Hotel Gardner at 535 Main street.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Cora Irons and Fred Trowbridge were the winners of first prizes at the Manchester Green Community club's setback last night at the Green school.

Friday evening, April 13, has been set for a revival of the Father and Son banquets at the North Methodist church, which have been held for a number of years. Rev. M. S. Stocking and Mark Holmes are co-chairmen of the arrangements.

A large congregation attended the month's mind mass celebrated in St. Bridget's church this morning at 8 o'clock for the repose of the soul of Rev. C. Christopher McCann, who died February 14. The mass was sung by Rev. John Kenney, acting pastor of the church, and in the sanctuary during the mass Rev. William P. Reilly, pastor of St. James' church, Rev. F. J. Kileen, assistant pastor of St. James' church, and Rev. Michael Martin of Bridgeport occupied chairs.

Mrs. Kenneth Mescham of 19 Newman street will greatly welcome to her home this evening for a card party for the benefit of Memorial Temple, No. 33, Pythian Sisters. All players will be welcome. The games will begin at 8:15. There will be prizes and refreshments.

Manchester Assembly, No. 15, Order of Rainbow for Girls, will attend in a body the morning service tomorrow at St. Mary's Episcopal church. The advisory board has also been invited. The girls are requested to meet at 10:30 in the vestry.

Special entertainment will be offered at George's Tavern on Oak street tonight in honor of St. Patrick's Night. Bob Chaney and Sammie Green, two well known comedians and Miss Betty Green, popular girl's orchestra leader will entertain.

Leo Web's orchestra, which is now playing under the name of Jim Rhodes' kitchen dance orchestra, will appear at the Hartford Times progress show at the State Armory on the streets in Hartford tonight, playing from 9:45 to 10:15 o'clock. The orchestra includes a number of local players.

The Board of Selectmen inspected the work being done in the Town Court building, the plans for rushing the work through to completion next week will be inaugurated Monday.

The regular monthly meeting of the Municipal Finance Committee will be held in the Municipal building on Tuesday evening. Bills for the month of February will be read and turned over to the town treasurer for payment.

The automobile business in Manchester is looking up. Last night a load of cars, consigned to Ernest Roy, proprietor of the Depot Square garage, was spotted in the Manchester freight yards and this morning they were unloaded.

Mrs. Alice Gilbert, wife of Edwin Gilbert, who disappeared from his home here December 13, was this morning appointed trustee of his estate. In the petition presented to the probate court last week she set forth that she had made a diligent search for his whereabouts and had not been able to locate him. She asked that she be named trustee. At the session of the probate court this morning her petition was accepted and she was appointed.

Mrs. James W. Foley of 161 North Main street received a letter yesterday from her cousin in Londonderry, in Hartford, a box containing a quantity of real Irish snuff, picked in the open fields near the ancient town. Though carefully wrapped in damp cotton, the leaves seemed badly wilted.

Miss Mary Carney of New Haven has leased a store in the State theater building and will open this afternoon. The store will deal in women's millinery. Miss Carney has had considerable experience in this line, but it is her first business venture on her own account.

Attorney Harold Garrity, who has had an office in the Park building, today moved into a vacant office in the State Theater building. He will occupy the room formerly used by the Manchester Rating and Credit company, and in addition to this will have another room across the hall which can be used for consultations.

BOSTON FLOWER EXHIBIT DRAWS LOCAL RESIDENTS

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burr, Miss Carrie M. Johnson and Mrs. Albert Hemingway attend.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Burr and Miss Carrie M. Johnson, assistant treasurer of the Burr Nurseries, have returned from Boston where they attended the flower show in Metropolitan hall. They give an enthusiastic report of the show which this year is finer than ever, and call attention to the exhibit, which occupied the stage on the main floor, by Sherman Eddy, who is well known to many Manchester people because of his connection with the County Y. M. C. A. as well as his work as a landscape architect.

Mr. Eddy is now the proprietor of the Townp'n Gardens, Hartford, and his arrangement of an old New England cottage, with its old-fashioned plantings, well-swept steps and other accessories was a gold medal winner. Mr. Eddy staged a similar exhibit at the national flower show held at the State Armory several years ago, but the Boston exhibit is more elaborate and has attracted a great deal of favorable comment.

Mrs. Albert Hemingway and her daughter, Mrs. Harold Belcher, are other local people who have been attending the Boston show, and are expected home today.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. E. F. Robinson
Mrs. Bertha May (Hastings) Robinson, wife of Ernest F. Robinson of 452 Main street, died yesterday afternoon at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. J. McKee. Mrs. Robinson was formerly on the nursing staff of the Manchester Memorial hospital and for four years was assistant supervisor in the Rockville City hospital. She was a graduate of Wesdon Memorial Hospital Training school in Springfield.

Besides her husband and her mother she leaves three brothers, John and Thomas Hastings of Taillville and Cedric Hastings of Woodfield. She also leaves a sister, Mrs. Harriet Armstrong of Hamden.

Mrs. Robinson's funeral will take place at the Thomas G. Dougan Funeral Home, 59 Holl street, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. The Rev. Francis Bachelor of the Taillville Congregational church will conduct the service and burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery, Taillville.

With the increased postage which will be developed under these changes and rates of postage, Rickenbacker told the committee, "I am convinced from studies which I have made that not only would all airlines which operated on February 19, 1934, be able to exist without subsidy within a relatively few years, but new routes might be added to the network of airlines which existed at that date."

The post office department, he added, would receive more from stamp sales than it would have to pay air operators.

SPRING OPENING
NEXT WEDNESDAY

New Merchandise in the Latest Styles to Be Put on Display.

The 1934 spring opening of local merchants will be held next Wednesday — which is officially the first day of spring — it was announced today by Elmer Weden, chairman of the executive committee of the Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce, which is in charge of the annual event. The committee also includes Robert E. Seaman, William Lyons, Samuel Kemp, C. Elmore Watkins, Thomas Brennan and William Kronick.

New spring merchandise in the latest styles will be attractively displayed by all participating merchants. There will be no restrictions and merchants will be allowed to put on style shows, give away coupons or arranged any form of attraction which is permissible under the NRA code. Every merchant will do everything possible to attract the interest of the public and it is reported that many special features are being planned to make the event the best ever held in Manchester.

Arrangements have been made to issue a special spring opening section of The Herald on Tuesday, in which the merchants will announce their new spring merchandise. In addition, there will be four periods of broadcasting over WDRG on Monday and Tuesday to announce the event outside of Manchester.

HARTFORD MAN HELD
Dayton, O., March 17.—(AP)—Thomas Murphy, 27, Hartford, Conn., and James Lee, 25, Louisville, Ky., charged with having slain George Silvers, a special watchman during a holdup at the St. Joseph's Mission here on March 5, were indicted for first degree murder by the County Grand Jury, which reported today.

SCORES HITLERISM
New York, March 17.—(AP)—Rabbi Stephen S. Wise said today on his sixtieth birthday "while the shadow of Hitlerism lies over the world Jewry and over civilization no birthday celebration can be a happy one."
Dr. Wise is founder and rabbi of the Free Synagogue and president of the Jewish Institute of Religion.
"The tragedy of tragedy is that Hitlerism has come to pass in a country which has been nominally Christian for nearly 1,000 years and in which Jews have lived and toiled and prospered for thousands of years."
He continued: "Hitlerism does not presage the destruction of Judaism or Israel, though it brings immeasurable and inexorable hurt to the Jew. Hitlerism is, however, a terrible shock to those of us who have come to believe that such things could never again be in a Christian country."

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus Responds To Faith

Text: Matt. 15:21-16:13
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for March 15.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist.

This lesson, which has been designed to teach and emphasize the reality of faith, has been a stumbling block to many people. If we were to read it with cold and prosaic literalism, it would present the Master in a character far different from that of the full picture that we have of him in the Gospels.

Instead of thinking of him as ready and eager to perform a deed of love and mercy, he would appear as very reluctant and hesitating. He would seem almost to share the prejudices of those who despised people of a foreign race and take pleasure in having that gentleness and graciousness that we associate with him in the blessing of the little children, and in other contacts, he would seem to have spoken and acted with a strange harshness.

What are the facts? As Jesus came into the coast of Tyre and Sidon we are told that a woman of Canaan met him, appealing to him to heal her daughter, who was " grievously vexed with a devil," or, as we should probably say in our terminology, and afflicted with some form of disease.

We are told that Jesus paid no attention to her, not answering her at all; but the disciples, troubled with her beseeching, came to him and asked him to send her away.

The reply of Jesus to the disciples seemed as harsh and unsympathetic as their own attitude, for Jesus said, "I am not sent but unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel."

When the woman came then and worshipped him, appealing to him for help, the words of Jesus seemed even more stern, for he said, "It is not meet to take the children's bread and to cast it to dogs."

But the woman was persistent. Great in her faith and her determination, she matched the challenge of the Master by replying, "Truly, Lord, yet the dogs eat the crumbs which fall from their masters' table."

Are we, then, to read this passage entirely apart from the picture that we have of Jesus in the Gospels, and utterly without the light and suggestiveness that the whole portrayal of the Master throws upon it? Surely only a very blind and prosaic reader could interpret the passage in that way.

Would it not seem to be the truth, rather, that Jesus was rebuking the attitude of the disciples who sent the woman away altogether, that he was trying them as he was trying the woman herself?

Is it not much more nearly the truth to believe that, when Jesus, in response to the woman's pleading and desire to cast it to dogs, there was a mildness and kindness in his eye that belied his words? As if he were playfully referring to a narrow and bitter prejudice, that other men felt, in the very moment when he was going to perform for the woman the deed of love and mercy that she sought.

This would seem to us the only true and natural interpretation—an interpretation entirely consistent with both the spirit and the teaching of Jesus. He intended that the emphasis should be, as it is for us, upon the woman's faith, upon the faith that could triumph over prejudice and the insulting attitude even of the disciples. That, in trustfulness of the Master's goodness, she could believe that all things with God, through him, were possible.

A mild and gentle lover of children, in dealing with them, often will assume a playful harshness that the children do not misunderstand. It was in that spirit that Jesus acted and spoke the very moment that he was about to reveal his love and goodness in an act of mercy.

The Supreme Healing Power

By GEORGE HENRY DOLE

International Sunday School Lesson
Text: March 18. "Ask and it shall be given unto you; seek and ye shall find, knock and it shall be opened unto you." Matt. 7:7.

There is no healing power comparable to that which comes from the Lord when the mind is at peace with Him. By command and magic touch, He healed all manner of diseases and even raised the dead. This He did not only to disclose His power to heal bodily infirmities, but also to reveal and to give access to higher powers that reign over all things of the physical body and is the index of spiritual health, heavenly peace and quiet in the mind. The omnipotent powers of the Lord environ us now, like the sphere of gravity or like the undescended laws of nature. The Lord is the same yesterday, today and forever. "Ask and it shall be given to you." "But," replies one, "I have asked, prayed, beseeched; yet I do not receive." That this subject may appear in rational light, the laws of the Lord's operation must be known. Grasp this wonderful fact concerning the Lord's nature. Remember it, and get the strength and consolation in it; namely, the Lord is of such a nature that He cannot turn His face from anyone, nor look with a stern countenance upon any mortal. He answers every prayer in the fullness of one's reception. This may not seem true, because man asks with reference to what is temporary and of this world, while the Lord answers with reference to what best promotes happiness in the everlasting life. He promises whatever we ask in His name, which is to ask not for what is in this world, but for the qualities of life in Him. If we saw mother at a distance throwing her treasures overboard, we would think her insane. But upon coming nearer, and seeing that the ship is on fire, we would see her to be merciful. Do not judge superficially; do not judge upon appearances. The Lord sees that our ship is on fire, and when distresses come, they always save from something worse, and if rightily taken they advance the eternal life. The woman who had long suffered, said that if she could but touch the hem of the Lord's garment she would be healed. She did, and felt the rectifying power operating within her. Jesus felt virtue going forth from Him. The hem of the garment is the divine order in externals. Touch the hem of the Lord's garment. Bring the external life into Divine order. Thereupon virtue will flow from Him into us and work its wonders. "Ask and ye shall receive."

Notes
A special Holy Week service for the women of the parish will be held on Tuesday evening, March 27 at 7:45. A program of high merit is being prepared under the direction of Mrs. Louis St. Clair Burr. Friday evening of Holy Week, the traditional service which has been conducted by the Rev. Leonard C. Harris for the past twelve years will be held in the sanctuary. The service is called, "The Shadows." The Pastor will be assisted by the choir, singing—"DuBois" "The Seven Last Words."
The cast of young people which so successfully presented recently, "Here Comes Charlie" has received requests to repeat the play in two different communities. The first engagement, definitely set for Coventry, will be on April 10 and will be under the auspices of the Coventry Grange.

EMANUEL LUTHERAN.
Knut E. Erickson, Pastor.
Sunday School and Bible classes at 9:30.
All services will be English. The morning service will be held at 10:45. The sermon theme will be "Which of you Convicteth me of Sin?" The Emanuel and Junior Choir will sing. At our 7 o'clock service we will conclude our study of "The Passion of Our Lord in the Light of Prophecy." Special music will be provided by members of the Emanuel Choir. We trust all will remember the offering to be lifted for missions and charities. The annual concert of the G. C. Chorale will be given in the church on Tuesday evening. The chorale will be assisted by Senta Hofmann, harp; and Ivar Nelson, violinist. Arvid Anderson of Worcester will accompany Mr. Nelson at the piano. A musical treat of exceptional merit is assured. Tickets are on sale and are to be had from members of the G. C.

Plans for the annual Washington trip of the senior class of the Rockville High school are fast materializing. The chaperones were announced yesterday and the detailed itinerary will be ready within a week. The party will leave Rockville on Saturday morning, April 20, going by bus to Hartford where they will take the train to New York.

Prof. Philip M. Howe, principal, will be in charge of the party and will be assisted by Miss Georgy Cook, teacher of biology and general science, and Miss Elizabeth Weed, teacher of English and civics.

Plans are now being made for a party to take this trip from Rockville in one group. The trip from New York will be made over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad. Several side trips are now under consideration. Details of the party are being worked out by Paul Sullivan of the city, special agent of the "New Haven" railroad.

Minstrel Show Tonight. The old time minstrel show to be given tonight in the town hall in celebration of St. Patrick's night is sponsored by the two divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, whose members feel sure that it will be one of the best productions in many years.

Frederick T. Hartenstein will act as interlocutor. William Hahn, Jr. directed. An appropriate stage setting was arranged yesterday for the dress rehearsal held last evening.

There will be six end men in this evening's production, including two professional black faced vaudeville entertainers. These taking part are "Charlie" Pressler, "Howie" Dalley, "El" Hartenstein, and "Johnny" Gillich of Rockville and Ralph Doucane and "Ray" Coburn of Hartford.

There will be dancing after the show with music by Ernie Rock and his Hotel Bond orchestra.

The event is for the benefit of St. Bernard's Catholic church. St. Patrick's night minstrels have been given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians for more than 40 years.

MacHugh Concert Sunday. Edward MacHugh of Brookline, Mass., well known radio gospel soloist, will sing at the Rockville Methodist church on Sunday evening. The service will commence at 7:30 o'clock and will be open to the public. John F. Wilby, church organist, will preside at the organ. An invitation has been tendered to all music lovers of Rockville and vicinity to attend this concert by Rev. Charles S. Johnson, pastor, who will offer prayer while the scripture will be read by Rev. E. L. Nield.

Textile Meeting. An open meeting of Rockville Local, No. 2012, United Textile Workers of America, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, is to be held this afternoon in the Prescott block. This meeting was announced last week following the regular business meeting and an invitation was extended to all textile workers to attend.

Funeral of John J. Lee. A masonic funeral service was held at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening for John J. Lee, aged 53, of 19 Park street who died on Monday evening at the McFab Private Hospital at Waterfield. The service, held at the home, was in charge of Fayette Lodge, No. 69, A. F. & A. M. after which Rev. D. George S. Brookes, pastor of the Union Congregational church, officiated. Burial took place this morning in the North Woodus cemetery. The committal service at the grave was conducted by the delegation from Fayette Lodge, No. 69, A. F. & A. M., which accompanied the body from Rockville. The bearers were members of Fayette Lodge.

John H. Moore, aged 47 years, of 22 Main street, Vernon, died at the Rockville City hospital on Thursday evening following a long illness. Death was caused by complications. Mr. Moore was employed in Talcottville by Talcott Brothers as a machinist. He was a member of the Sacred Heart church at Vernon. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Moore, a daughter, Miss Mary E. Moore, a sister, Mrs. Fred Behrend, and a brother, Everett Moore of East Hartford.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church at Vernon at 9 o'clock. Rev. Father Reed will officiate. Burial will be in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Funeral of Mrs. Osterag. The funeral of Mrs. Sophie Osterag, wife of Henry Osterag of 72 Union street, who died on Monday evening, at her late home following a week's illness, was held at her home on Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Philip Beer of New Jersey officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Grove Hill cemetery.

Funeral of John Lanz. The funeral of John Lanz, aged 71 years, of 178 Union street, who died suddenly on Monday afternoon after a few hours illness, was held yesterday afternoon at the Christian Apostolic church. Rev. Philip Bayer of Lewis county, New York, and Rev. Walter Wartman of Union City, N. J., officiated. Burial was in the family plot in Ellington cemetery. The bearers were Jacob Ruch, John Moser, John Isch, Nicholas Isch, Christian Götter and Gottlieb Zahner.

Briefs. Miss Elizabeth Towle, teacher of French and English at the Rockville High school, is spending the week end at her home at Dover, N. H. The work of making up the rate book for the town taxes is now being completed by Miss Edith Casati, assistant town clerk. The work of collecting the taxes will be started on April 1 by Collector Claude A. Mills. A special communication of Fayette Lodge, No. 69, A. F. & A. M., was held on Friday evening at 7 o'clock in Masonic hall. Carl Gerich, popular barber at the Taylor barber shop on Market street, is showing improvement after having been seriously ill with pneumonia at his home on Tolland avenue.

Arthur T. Bisell, who has been spending a vacation in Florida, has returned to his home in this city. Miss Margaret E. Fay, daughter of Mrs. Andrew Fay of East street has entered the Brooks hospital at Brookline, Mass., to study clinical laboratory diagnosis. Miss Mary E. Loring, a member of the Rockville High school faculty is spending the week-end at her home in Springfield. A large number attended the dance last evening at the Elks Home, corner of Ellington avenue and Prospect street, held under the sponsorship of Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B. P. O. Elks, for members of the lodge, their wives and lady friends.

The Ladies Aid Society of the Rockville Methodist church will hold a public card party on next Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Henry Gungell of Thompson street. Prizes will be awarded and refreshment served. The Postal Telegraph Company has opened a station in the office of Dowding & Martin in the Henry building.

Chicago—After a police squad had dashed out with all the equipment needed for smoke catching it developed that the desk sergeant had made a slight error. He had written a word in his complaint book that looked like "snake" but which turned out to be "smoke." Residents who sent in the complaint wished the police to abate a smoke nuisance.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Montreal—Lucian Guay having been convicted of dealing in magic, has until Tuesday to determine (by power of magic) what sentence Judge Tetreault will give him. The court gave Guay three hours yesterday to figure it out, at the end of which time the magician said he was still very much in the dark. The judge said he had not figured it out either and that Guay could have until Tuesday to try to determine what the punishment is to be.

Campbellton, N. B.—John Perron, of Val d'Amour asked his cousin, James Perron if the latter were "as good a man as I am" and James replied in the affirmative. John knocked his cousin down, bit off the end of his nose and used fists to inflict other injuries, according to James complaint in court. John is now in jail waiting trial.

Chicago—The police said Albert Dolman, a candidate for Committeeman, lived up to the slogan on one of his campaign cards, which read: "Action speaks louder than words." They accused him of springing away from Policeman G. McGillicuddy when he left a cleaning and dyeing shop, with several allegedly stolen articles. He was finally caught but the exertion of the sprint made him ill and he had to be taken to a hospital.

Stafford Springs, Conn.—Paul Joseph Brizard, 29, pleaded guilty in court to theft of $37.33 from a grocery store and then told the court he had spent some of the money in the same store. He was bound over to the Superior Court.

Baechler's story as finally elicited by the officers was this: Last Monday he telephoned his wife in Toronto that he would drive to the city and take her home from a shopping trip. Baechler told the officers he drove a second-hand machine to Toronto, sold it, and started to wander. He crossed the border at Niagara Falls, he said, and hitchhiked to Syracuse. His funds becoming exhausted yesterday, Baechler said he started back and hitched rides through Rochester. He had started west in Buffalo road, he said, when he became hungry and exhausted and "just laid down."

Baechler said he was the son of Andrew Baechler, who served 14 years as mayor of Tavistock.

EXHAUSTED HIKER TELLS WEIRD TALE

Speaks of Losing Memory and Then Jumping from an Auto After a Fight.

Rochester, N. Y., March 17.—(AP)—Under prolonged questioning by deputy sheriffs, Joseph Baechler, 30, automobile dealer of Tavistock, Ont., who was found lying in Buffalo road at the city late early today, admitted he was just a weary, hitch-hiker and not the victim of a lapse of memory.

"I just became exhausted from hitch-hiking and lay down in the road," Baechler told the persistent sheriffs in charge of the investigation.

Soon after being found in the road Baechler was taken to General hospital. There he told sheriffs he was unable to remember anything leading up to his predicament.

A somewhat vague assertion, the deputy sheriffs said, he had jumped from an automobile after a fight with three men "in a big sedan" proved to be just imagination.

SATURDAY, MARCH 17

THE CRY FOR PEACE

During the last five years an enormous amount of effort and a tremendous sum of money have been expended, in this country alone, in pursuit of the objective of international peace. So many national and world-wide organizations, leagues, alliances and associations have existed or been created, each in a great faith that it knew the road to the ending of all wars, that it would take an expert to catalogue them. Foundations have been established, with great endowments, whose sole purpose was the fostering of peace. Conferences and congresses without end have been held. The peace literature of half a decade would fill a good sized library.

And everybody in the world knows that, without the existence of any new cause whatever, we are closer to war today than at any moment since the 11th of November, 1918.

It is, of course, impossible to know whether or not all this vast employment of pressure against the making of war has been wholly without effect—whether war clouds now so darkly threatening would not have broken into tempest before this if there had been no such forces at work to restrain them. Nor is it yet beyond every possible chance that the efforts for peace may, somehow, still prevail. But it takes a sanguine soul indeed to believe in either of these bare possibilities as even a probability.

Rather is there some question whether we might not have been less close to war if there had been much less misdirected effort to prevent it. We have talked so persistently about peace that it is entirely possible our chatter has evoked many thoughts of war that might not else have taken form. One cannot but reflect that there may be some psychological similarity between this stirring of the war spirit all over the world and the stirring of the appetite for liquor by the clamor for and about prohibition.

Prohibition advertised the consumption of alcohol into a social obsession. May it not be that a thousand organizations and a thousand rostrums bellowing, each in its own key and each from its special viewpoint, for peace have overadvertised war and made it seem desirable out of somewhat the same curiosity of youth as, under prohibition, put flasks on the hips of high school boys?

It is the young men of the world on whom the war-makers depend for flaming support—young men who have heard nothing but demands for peace from their cradles, and who know perfectly well that the sincerity behind these demands is usually limited by the self interest of the shouters.

A hundred great groups in the United States urge peace, day in and day out—yet America is not prepared to make any real sacrifice whatever for peace's maintenance. All over the world it is the same. There is no real sincerity. Yet the noise goes on—and perhaps after all it is nothing, in its effects, but baloney for the periodic coming of Mrs. Greatest Show on Earth.

TOO SLOW A PROCESS

Secretary Morgenthau—the administration's "front" for the singular monetary philosophy which tucks half the world's gold away in absolute inactivity and then issues bonds by the billions at high rates of interest—expresses himself as entirely satisfied with the rate of advance of basic commodity prices. He has just said so to the silver men in Congress in notifying them that he does not approve of any silver legislation.

Last week commodity prices basic wholesale commodity prices went up three-tenths of one per cent. That brings them up to 73.8 per cent of where they were in 1926—the often expressed goal of Mr. Roosevelt's fiscal policy. A year ago when the country was groveling in the very depths of the slough and when the bottom had fallen out of everything, the price level stood a fraction below 60 per cent. The net gain in the year has been, then, about 14 per cent.

To get that gain of 14 per cent the most extraordinary forcing methods have been adopted. Hundreds of millions of money have been poured into a score of government services having nothing in the world to do with the monetary system. Agricultural production has been curtailed through government bonuses. Vast areas have been taken out of tillage. Hogs have been destroyed to boost up pork costs. The country has been taxed to meet processing imposts. And we have moved from the 60 per cent of the panic prices of last February to less than 74, after the employment of every artificial forcing device that the administration could think up and which unlimited expenditure of money could put over.

At the rate of last week's price movement it would take about a year and a half longer for basic prices to reach the 1926 level providing the advance were continuous. A year and a half to wait for the restoration of a condition which, when reached, would be hardly more than a jumping off place from which to start a restoration of prosperity and employment. In a year and a half of such waiting this country can go flat.

But with a continuation of the monetary system under which the government is being operated last week's price movement is not in the least likely to continue for any year and a half. Mr. Morgenthau's open declaration against silver's mandatory rehabilitation knocked down the price of future silver two cents an ounce in one day—and basic prices have been traveling almost exactly with silver for many months. If next week's price level shows any three-tenths per cent gain it will be a most amazing phenomenon. It will be surprising if the price level does not drop sharply—unless something occurs to revive deflationary hopes.

Nothing of that sort, all too obviously, is to be hoped from Mr. Morgenthau, who is just the same kind of a secretary of the treasury as William G. McAduff or Lyman J. Gage or John G. Carlisle—a reactionary with a plausible veneer of politeness toward liberalism. Nor, apparently, is anything of that kind to be expected from President Roosevelt, whose talk about driving the money changers from the temple is beginning to be reminiscent of Lloyd George's declared intent to hang the Kaiser—not to be taken too seriously.

Mr. Roosevelt's Congress is beginning to be convinced of these things. That is why it is seething with revolt. That is why it is still possible that the national legislature may, before it adjourns, do several important things intended to bring about recovery without a waiting period of a year and a half or two or three years—a period to be spent in finding out if it isn't somehow possible to revive industry, agriculture and trade without discommodating the money trust.

A DIFFERENCE

It is just a little difficult to understand the New York Herald-Tribune's attitude toward Sam Insull. It doesn't appear to have any respect whatever for Mr. Insull. It refers to him as "the most notorious guest that latter-day Athenians have had for generations"—and Athens has harbored some pretty tough birds in its time. It also calls him "the venerable and weepy absentee from Chicago's justice." It intimates that he is a sneaking old malingering and refers scorchingly to the application of stethoscopes "to a heart that palpitated under a fat wallet."

Yet Samuel Insull has never been convicted of anything; he has never had a "fair" trial or any other kind of a trial for his alleged proceedings with the Middle West Utilities Company; he has only been indicted. Nevertheless the Herald-Tribune goes right along with the assumption that Insull is heap big rascal and a very yellow dog into the bargain.

Meanwhile on the same page of the same issue in which the Herald-Tribune howls with the mob against Insull it becomes almost frantic in indignation over the cancellation of the armistice contracts and against any and everybody who sees a not remote resemblance between what Insull did in Illinois and what the aviation magnates did in Washington in the matter of the contract divvy. The Trib fairly shakes in outraged passion over the injustice of "condemning those companies without a trial."

Perhaps the difference between Insull and the aviation companies, in the Herald-Trib's unexpressed view, is that Insull is all washed up and everybody knows it, whereas the aviation contract jugglers are not—yet. Most anybody can get up nerve enough to kick a fellow who is down and already sufficiently kicked. Maybe, in the course of time the Trib will be less vociferous in its defense of the aviation deals. We seem to remember that there was a time, not exactly ages ago, when it would have been properly outraged if anybody had referred to the great Mr. Insull as a crook.

COAST GUARD

That Cinderella of the sea services, the Coast Guard, would of course get it in the neck in any "economy" spasm. Away go the jobs of a thousand sailors. Away go all but three or four of the Coast Guard bases—to be re-established in a couple of years when the fallacy of the economy is discovered. A hundred little ships are to be hauled out to rust—pretty quick new ones will be building, no doubt. Guardians with families will have to move to distant points or quit the service. How comes Connecticut to have the luck to have one of the three or four retained bases kept at New London is beyond guessing. But likely enough, as soon as some of the discontinued bases with more pull at Washington get up steam and begin to raise rime, there will be another order shutting up the New London base and opening one in some more dependably Democratic state.

Always the Coast Guard gets the worst of it. Always that magnificent service has to live on the crumbs, as best it can. The present ham stringing is no more than it is used to.

But it isn't always that the Coast Guard is deprived of its due at the very moment when it is proposed to enlarge the enlisted personnel of the Navy by several times as many men as are to be dropped from the Coast Guard—which is the case right now.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington, March 17.—There are two forms of salutation in this capital.

One is "Whaddayaknow?" The other is: "When's Congress gonna adjourn?"

The first question is answered in several stereotyped fashions. The other is answered by guessing anywhere between April 15 and June 15.

It's just a guess, because things may happen to change the mind of Roosevelt, the mind of Congress or both. But your correspondent is guessing that adjournment will come nearer the middle of April than the middle of June.

One of the most successful gamblers in town just has bet your correspondent three cigars that adjournment will be by the middle of April—and your correspondent has taken the bet, expecting to lose.

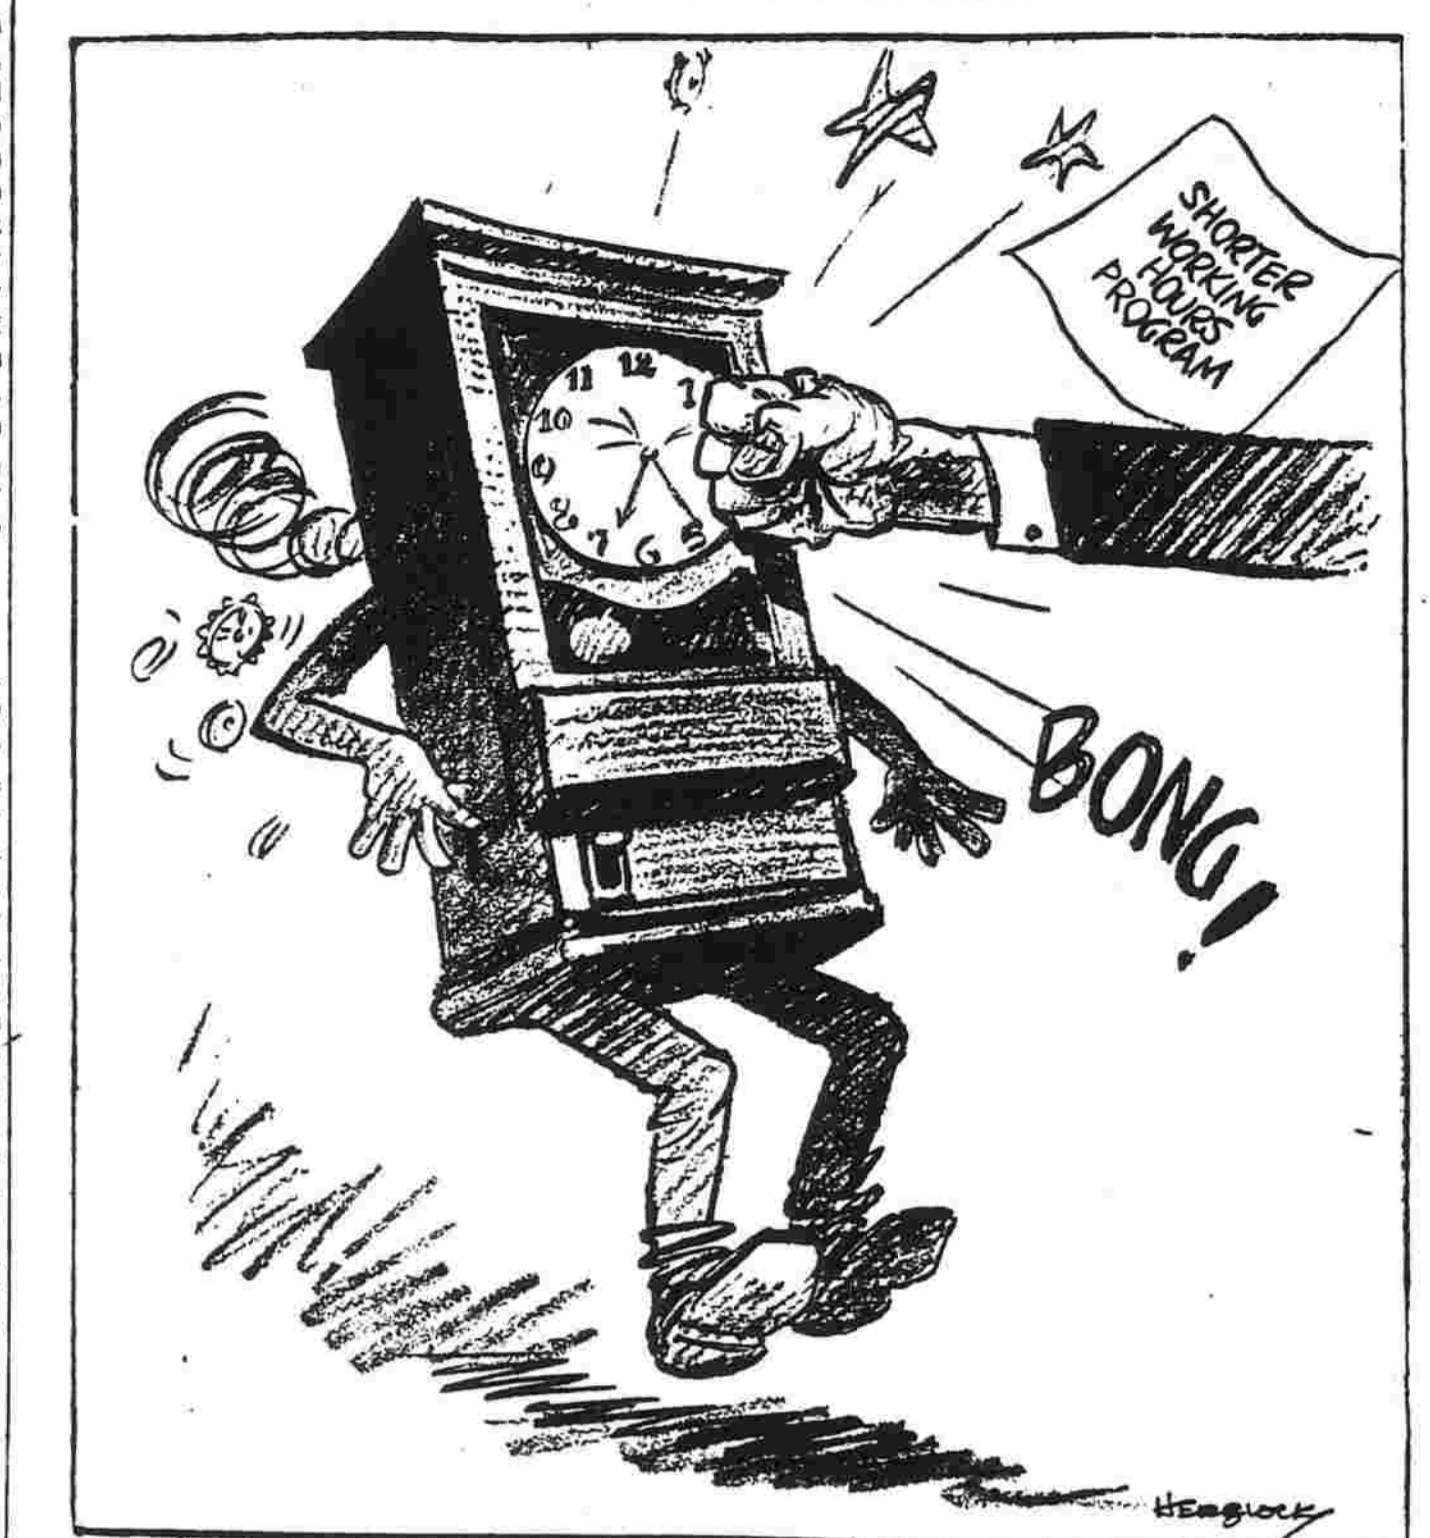

The fact is that no one wants to prolong the session. Controversial issues are arising—such as the bonus issue—but it's amazing how quickly the leaders can get together and jam things through.

If the Republicans saw any point in dragging out the session, they could combine to cause delay. And they may decide to do just that.

But right now most of them share the general desire of Congress to get back home and work on the problems presented by the nominating primaries and the fall elections.

Roosevelt prefers an early adjournment. As usual, that probably will decide the point.

Punching The Time Clock

with depreciation added to the 15 per cent federal salary cut, often have found their incomes reduced 30 per cent and more. Some ambassadors, including Claude Bowers at Madrid, have been helping lesser officials by contributing from their own depleted salaries.

The State Department attributes more than one suicide to hardships thus caused, plus several nervous breakdowns. An American minister had to remove his children from school and join with his legation secretary to maintain a common household to reduce expenses.

Other foreign service ministers have returned their wives to this country to live with their parents. An American girl clerk in a consulate in Italy found the value of her $40-a-month salary reduced more than 50 per cent.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

MUCOUS COLITIS

Sometimes I believe that the most discouraged patients in the world are those with colitis. Read over the letter I have just received from a young woman with colitis: "I am so blue that I don't know which way to turn. My trouble is colitis and I am aware of a dull ache on the lower left side of the abdomen which often grows worse until the whole abdomen is sore and tender. I find my meals do not agree with me, I am always tired, and I notice that I have gas, am weak and nervous, and am bothered with a rapid banging of my heart. Part of the time I struggle with constipation and then I have diarrhea with several watery movements a day, pass a great deal of slimy mucus and feel the pain grow worse. It has gotten so I just live to watch and see what new thing is the matter with me."

The above description of colitis is a good one and undoubtedly comes from one who has learned the symptoms by actual, first-hand experience. I am very glad that the person concerned wrote to me in care of the paper in which she reads my articles, as I was able to mail her an article on colitis, and also a diet, which I sincerely hope will help her to get well.

Colitis is a curable disorder, although the cure may take some time and the patient must be willing to follow directions for as long as necessary to return to complete good health. Mucous colitis means an inflammation of the large intestine or colon and it is said to occur just five times as often among women as among men. It is rather rare in Europe and is most frequently found among those who live in cities, are constipated and who are always in a hurry.

While lack of intestinal elimination or constipation is one of the main causes, nevertheless, the taking of laxatives or cathartics which irritate the colon must be considered as a contributing cause. The disease is marked by a discharge of mucus; the patient notices shreds of soft, white mucus which look about like egg white. The stools are watery and periods of diarrhea alternate with periods of constipation. At the height of the attack, the pain may grow severe and resembles colicky cramps. At other times, the pain is like a dull, dragging ache. The patient with colitis may notice an increase in distress after eating foods which are chemically irritating such as hot spices, or after eating those containing a great deal of roughage, such as bran and green corn.

A general outline of the treatment I advise is as follows: The patient is to use a short fast which will assist in lessening the inflammation. If any soreness is present, he will find that hot applications over the entire abdomen will prove soothing. He is to use the enema each day, taking the water as hot as it can be borne. After the fast, continue the daily enema and follow a careful diet.

If you wish more complete information regarding colitis, I suggest that you write to me in care of this newspaper and enclose one large self-addressed envelope and 6c in stamps. I will be glad to send you my article on Mucous Colitis together with the Cleansing Diet and the article giving the instructions for taking the enema. I am only able to offer you these free articles through the help of the editor of your newspaper as he helps pay the cost of preparing them. Many of you write and thank me for the articles, but I wonder if you ever write to your editor to thank him, also?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Foods Contain Iodine)
Question: Margaret M. of Passaic, N. J., asks: "Will you please give me the names of some of the foods which contain iodine?"

Answer: Some of the foods which contain iodine are: Cod, Salmon, herring, and such seafoods as crab, lobster, shrimp, oysters and clam.

Iodine is also secured from those vegetables which are grown close enough to the seashore so that they absorb this food mineral from the soil.

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON
New York, March 17.—Corse Payton died, and Broadway scarcely noticed. No crowds filed by his bier to honor the memory of the theatrical pioneer. Only a few old-timers fell to telling anecdotes beginning: "I knew him when—"

And so maybe it is just as well that the old man's body went back to rest for his boyhood town of Centerville, Iowa. For Corse Payton belonged to the suburbs and the interland and the village copy house. There must be many who remember him as a stock company matinee idol, a producer of melodrama, and as "America's best bad actor." For something like fifteen years, beginning with a play called "Dora, or a Farmer's Iron Will," he tramped the midwest. At the turn of the century he started a repertory company in Brooklyn, and originated the "ten-twenty-thirt" scale of prices and the expression that became synonymous with low-priced melodrama.

Those were the great days. Police reserves were required to handle the crowds storming Payton's box office and the throngs of women waiting at the stage door. His income was $100,000 a year. Racehorses and babies were named after him, and everybody on Broadway knew his tall, distinguished figure. Dorothy and Lillian Gish, Fay Bainter, Mary Miles Minter, Richard Bennett, Bert Lytell, Ernest Truex and Ed Wynn were some of the people who appeared at various times in his shows, which ranged all the way from Ibsen to "Charley's Aunt."

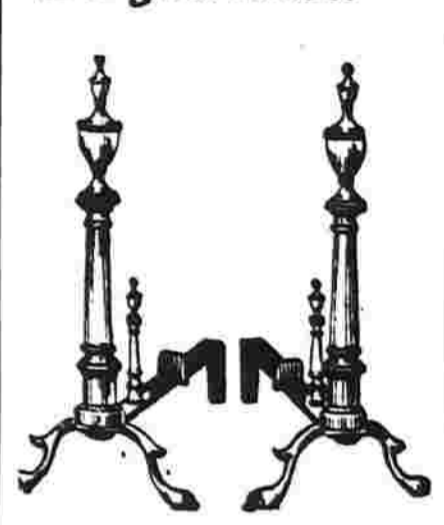

The Movies ruined him, but he took defeat stubbornly, parrying ridicule with wisecracks, moving to smaller and poorer theaters. In 1931, his fortune gone, he was found presiding as master of ceremonies in a cheap Second Avenue night club.

For twelve years now, Mr. Wesley Osman has been going around tapping glasses. Even in restaurants and at banquets, he can't resist a stemmed, empty glass; leans over and gives it an experimental ping, and listens attentively. If nobody stops him, thinking he is crazy, Mr. Osman will go all along a table doing this. "Beg pardon," he will say. "I would like to listen to your glass."

The reason is that Mr. Osman makes his living playing on musical glasses, and he is always on the lookout for any that have a perfect tone. You can't order an E-flat glass as you would a fiddle string, he explains; nobody can blow or mold a glass and know beforehand how it is going to vibrate. After it is made you can put water in it and change the tone, but the tone isn't so pure.

Mr. Osman performs in vaudeville, and at events such as the Wine and Liquor Exposition. A small, patient man, he now uses 72 glasses which he has collected in the twelve years, but he would like some more for the upper and lower registers. Plays anything from classical music to fast jazz, using both hands and stroking the edges of the glasses with dampened fingers. He is very proud of the glasses he has now, and can tell you a story about each one of them. The especially mellow low G glass was discovered in a speakeasy on Fifty-second street just before the place was raided. He had a hard time getting it out intact. Several others were found in restaurants hereabout, one on shipboard, one in a dining car.

You ought to know the Browns

MAYBE you don't know the Browns. They're a little family of four. There's Jim Brown, who sells life insurance, and Betty Brown—who was a Jones before she married Jim. And there are the two Brown children: Jim, Jr., and Griselda.

Like a thousand other families, the Browns are just starting to lift themselves out of the count-every-penny circumstances which the past few years imposed on them. But they have one advantage.

Betty Brown studied economics during that time. She didn't enroll at the University. She didn't take a special home-course by mail. She learned a great deal about buying from her DAILY NEWSPAPER.

She followed the advertisements. She compared price and quality, and struck a practical balance between the two. Today she knows how to buy so that Jim's bank account can begin to grow again. And she hasn't got pinch-nosed by doing it.

In fact, one of the Browns' greatest delights is planning the weekly shopping tour. They virtually make a game of it, and always a profitable game.

You ought to know the Browns. They haven't the money they once had. But it won't be long before they do. And in the meantime, they're living well!

MUSIC NOT WORDS PUT OVER OPERA

Prof. William Lyons Phelps Says Gertrude Stein's Lines Are Meaningless.

Although Gertrude Stein's opera, "Four Saints in Three Acts" was a bit in New York, it was so because of its music and not because of its words, which are meaningless. During his lecture at the Hartford Public High School on Monday, Dr. William Lyons Phelps pointed out that Roebuck cata yug put to music would be just as good.

"Work of Art," Sinclair Lewis' newest and best selling novel, is free from noise and hysteria and contains two qualities which have not been found in any of his books before—charm and beauty. "Our Mr. Wren" was Lewis' first book and in it can be found the germ for the rest of his novels. "Dodsworth" is the most realistic and next to "Work of Art" is the best American novel. "Ann Vickers" is the least good, Dr. Phelps believes.

Mark Sullivan, well-known newspaperman and historian, has completed "Over Here," which is the fifth volume of the history of America which will cover the period from 1900 to 1934. This volume tells about the excitement which was prevalent before the outbreak of the World War. Professor Phelps believes that Mr. Sullivan teaches us history as we should learn it. He begins in the present and works backward.

In his biography, "Charles Dickens," Stephen Leacock says that Dickens is greater than Shakespeare, William Lyon Phelps, however, does not agree with Leacock although he thinks that the two writers are alike in that they both created real, living people. It is only recently that Charles Dickens has received tribute from the critics. Like many other authors, his popularity eclipsed his fame.

Stephen Foster, "America's Troubadour" and writer of such folk songs as "Way Down Upon the Swannee River," "Old Kentucky Home," is just beginning to receive the praise and admiration due him, according to Mr. Phelps. A tablet has been placed at the mouth of the Swannee river with words to the effect: "Stephen Foster has immortalized that stream. A Mr. Howard has written a complete biography of him.

Somerset Maugham is again heartless, unemotional, and analytical in his group of seven novelettes, entitled "A King." Dr. Phelps considers Gilbert Chesterton's volume of essays, "On Running After One's Hat," full of wit and humor. "Men and Hall Illusions" is the link between cruelty and courage in "Nor Against the Sea."

Like many of us, Professor Phelps enjoys murder stories and the best one he has read up to this time is "Two O'clock Courage" by Gilbert Burgess, the man who put the words "bromide" and "bromidic" in the American vocabulary when he wrote "Are You a Bromidic?" (A "bromide" is a person who says the same things every body else says—worn out statements.)

Hair-raising mystery stories recommended by Dr. Phelps are "Monstrous Blackbird" by David Greene; "Curtain of Storm" by Joseph Gold; "Murder Mansion" by James H. Wallis; "Murder of a Missing Man" by Arthur M. Chase; "The Unfortunate Prisoner" by R. C. Hutchinson; and "The State Versus Elmore Norton" by Mary Roberts Rinehart.

STATE INDOOR TRACK MEET ENTRIES FILED

Local Harriers to Compete in Meets at Hartford and Middletown Shortly.

As the result of the tryouts held this week in the Rec. Coach Wigen announces the team that will represent M. H. S. in the state indoor meet. All of the members have had experience in track or cross-country, but Coach Wigen expects no extraordinary results from them. The meets to be competed in are the state meet held at Wesleyan March 24, and the meet at the Hartford Armory April 14. Manchester took second in the state meet last year.

The entries for the state meet follow:
45 yard dash—G. Fraser, A. Judd, Bob Smith.
60 yard—Rowell, Diana, Peckenham.
Kilometer—Packard, Donahue, Shedd.
700 yard relay—Fraser, Smith, Salmonson, Judd.
1400 yard relay—Cude, Carpenter, Haefla, Rowell.
League relay—Fraser, Pratt, Rogers, Judd.
High Jump—Ralph Smith, Gavello.
Broad Jump—Judd, Rogers.
Shot put—Garrone, L. Johnson.

STUDENT COUNCIL DUTIES OUTLINED

Officers of Class Work on Standards and Traditions of School.

The newly-elected home room chairmen of the freshman class met during the activities period Monday morning to discuss what is expected of them in this capacity. Their main duty is to represent their home rooms on the student council, so that each home room may have a voice in determining school policies, and to preside at home room meetings.

They discussed group responsibility for maintaining standards of the group and the traditions of the school. Another topic was "Prevention vs. Punishment as a Menace of Student Development."

The Civic Service committees (school housekeepers) met at the close of the meeting of chairmen to discuss their standards. They discussed these topics: care of home rooms, boards, desks, floors, care of corridors, care of grounds and ways and means of securing general co-operation in the matter of neat surroundings.

These groups will meet every two weeks to discuss developments in their own field of activity, and to consider further ways and means of promoting student self-control as a means of student progress.

HI-Y CLUB DEFEATS SONS OF ITALY TEAM

Basketball Five Contains Several Former High School Varsity Members—Score 28 to 22.

By a score of 28 to 22, the High school Hi-Y club defeated the Sons of Italy's rag team at the Rec. Wed. night. Both teams had members of the High school varsity team in their lineup. The teams were on even terms until the closing minutes, when Judd and Muldoon each sank a basket and decided the issue. Leone played best for the losers.

High School Athletes Set Up Kissing Record

By J. MISTRETTA
Do the High school athletes desire to be social lions of the Gene Tunney type? Are there any future Clark Gables battling for the glory of our schools? Have they ever kissed girls in love? To ascertain the truth, I sent questionnaires to our athletes and their answers, to say the least, were rather surprising. Here are the questions which appeared on the questionnaires:

- (1) Can you dance?
- (2) How is your dancing; fair, bad or good?
- (3) Have you ever been to the Prom?
- (4) Have you ever been to any formal social affair other than the Prom?
- (5) Are you bashful in the presence of girls?
- (6) Have you ever been out with a girl?
- (7) Have you kissed over 15 different girls?
- (8) Have you ever been in love?
- (9) Do you go out "steady" with a girl now?
- (10) Would you rather play your favorite sport than go out with a girl?

Fairly Good Dancers

The boys delighted me by answering all the questions promptly, and they say, honestly.

In answer to the first question, "Can you dance?" it appeared that there were four of the 10 who could not.

To the second question all the boys who could dance answered that they were fair.

The third and fourth questions had to do with their social whirl in the town. The third question revealed that only three of the 10 had been to the Junior Prom.

The fourth question showed that there was only one person, aside

EXAMINATION WEEK

When I think of the word "examination," the whole world seems to turn to ashes, cinders and dust. It brings pessimistic does not do me any good.

I sum up my energy (by energy I mean the part which is left after getting over the shock of the title) and dig with clarity into the deepest part of my brain. Then I search diligently in every nook and cranny of my grey matter for some thought that might be a pleasure concerning examinations. Ah, there at last I see a light! I certainly am getting optimistic, for I have thought of the dollar which I receive after examinations. But one time I was thinking so much about this that in a Math test I put down "one dollar" for an answer when it should have been "three dollars." Such is life!

But when you get right down to brass tacks and think about the pleasures, it is almost like popping corn, for here and there a little idea comes popping right at you. Examinations really give you a chance to show what you have learned. Studying hard like this for one week gives you a chance to make up. After all, examinations are only about what you have learned, and if you keep your ears open as wide as when you listen to Mary and Jane gossiping about their Annie Browns, you can't fall on your exams.

Still, the greatest pleasure is when they are all over and you are rewarded for your work.

TRACK ERROR

Although a number of boys wanted to be on a story in the last issue of this paper, the track squad is already chosen, that fact is not true. The boys listed are merely the ones who are out for the team and are practicing at the present time.

"Would you rather play your favorite sport than go out on a date with a girl?" The answer to this showed why the boys were playing for the honor of our alma mater instead of being in Hollywood doubling for the big boys.

The boys would rather take part in their pet form of athletics than go out with girls. This settles the fact that boys prefer their careers in place of girls, and that, after all, their athletic training makes them into strong, upright men.

DEVISE NOVEL METHOD TO RAISE DENTAL FUND

A gift basket is the novel money raising being used by the Educational club to increase its club funds for dental hygiene work in the schools. The basket goes from one member of the club to another. When one receives the basket, she finds in it a gift, for which she places 50 cents in the basket. Then she herself puts in a gift of 50-cent value and passes the basket to another member of the club.

The Educational club hopes, by this means, to extend the work done for the teeth of the school children.

"SOME BITING REMARKS"

The school has received three copies of "Some Biting Remarks," a series of talks by "Happy" Goldsmith, who was speaker in the recent assembly. These talks are in Happy's easy, humorous style.

Accompanying these booklets was a set of posters, each of 50-cent value of milk as a food. One set of posters is in the cooking room, one in the general science room, and the booklets are in the cooking, science and biology rooms. They are put out by courtesy of the Connecticut Dairy Council.

Trade School May Start A Class in Shoe Making

"Make your own shoes," suggested Edward Matthews, formerly of Antioch College in Ohio, at a Trade School assembly held Tuesday morning. Mr. Echemialar, the director of the Trade school, introduced Mr. Matthews.

Mr. Matthews told the students they were obtaining the best education anyone could wish for, and when he saw some of the boys wearing overalls, he said it made him feel right at home for being a cobbler, he too, wears them. He said that the students of Antioch College alternate five weeks of study with five of work for which they receive marks as well as pay.

Mr. Matthews knows a great deal about shoes and said that most girls wear high heel postures because they think that is the only way to walk. He showed the walk of a woman weighing approximately 200 pounds and wearing shoes a size or two too small. If a slow motion picture were taken of the way in which girls look when walking in high heeled shoes, they would change to the low, sensible heel, said Mr. Matthews. He suggested that a girl give her feet exercise every morning by tramping a definite distance. In this way she would not only be benefiting her feet but she would acquire healthy feet as a result of the exercise.

A shoe designed and patented by Mr. Matthews was shown. This shoe is made in four parts, not including

LOCAL TRADE SCHOOL BEATS WILLIMANTIC

Thread City Basketball Team No Match for Manchester Tossers—Score 33-26.

The Willimantic Trade school basketball team played a return game with Manchester Trade school at the School street Rec Tuesday afternoon March 13. The locals had beaten this team a week ago at a game held in Willimantic.

Manchester Trade took an early lead in the first quarter of the game, making the score of 7-4. In the second quarter, Manchester increased their lead to six points so that the score was 17-11 at the half. During the third quarter the locals had a scoring party in which they led their antagonists by thirteen points; making the score 30-17. In the last quarter three substitutes were sent into the game for Manchester. Willimantic led by making a last chance to roll up their score nine points more to three for Manchester; and as a result the final score was 33-26.

The iron-man center for the locals, starred by scoring 15 points; while Phelps and Noveck played a good game as well as scoring five and seven points, respectively. For Willimantic Woodworth, Kelly, and Goodwin led by making a total of 25 out of the 26 points scored.

CIVICS ELECTIONS EVERY SIX WEEKS

Classes Practice Parliamentary Law to Develop Sense of Cooperation.

Every six weeks marks the beginning of an election campaign in Miss Oberempi's civics classes. At each of these campaigns is elected a class chairman and a class secretary. Each chairman and secretary has the same duties to carry out. In the absence of the teacher, the chairman conducts the class and keeps it in order previous to class time.

The secretary keeps a record of events in class and the assignments which are issued by the teacher. The assignments are kept in order, so that if a student has been absent he can gain information concerning the assignment which he has missed. The secretary also reads, each day, the minutes of the preceding class session.

By this procedure the class, as a whole, acquires parliamentary law training by practicing it each day. The purpose of this procedure is to develop a sense of responsibility and cooperation in each member of the class. It also creates a feeling of loyalty to the class and each student contributes his best attention throughout the class period because he believes that, as a part of the class, he must make it at all times a successful meeting.

NOON HOUR CLUB WORK INCREASES

Hope for High School Orchestra to Complete Recitation Possibilities.

Approximately 280 students regularly attend the Noon Hour Club, conducted by Miss Mary McGuire, which is held in the High school auditorium for the entertainment of pupils who carry their lunches to school.

Once a week, a community sing is conducted by "Ray" Hildebrand, of the Merry Makers orchestra, who leads and accompanies the singing on the piano. It is hoped that in the near future the singing programs can be used as a medium for practicing school songs.

Other activities of the club include dancing and card-playing, with setting and pinning games predominating. Miss McGuire disclosed today that, although incomplete as yet, plans have been formulated for a noon hour orchestra.

ART STUDENTS INSPECT THE AVERY MEMORIAL

Tuesday Afternoon Devoted to Exhibits and Visit to School in Hartford.

School routine in art classes was abandoned Tuesday afternoon when Miss Condon, with about 15 pupils of her senior and junior classes, devoted an entire afternoon to browsing through the Avery Memorial, the recently constructed addition to the Hartford Art Museum.

The architects had some difficulty in deciding upon the style of the Avery Memorial, for being connected with the Hartford Art Museum, it could not be built so that it would be conspicuously different. The result is a happy medium of the modernistic style and the style of the older building.

Many of the valuable paintings, vases, and sculptures were contributed by the late Mr. Avery, who was an avid art collector.

The pupils had an opportunity to visit the Hartford Art school, which is now situated in the Avery Memorial. They were shown around by the principal, Mr. Hynes, and one of the art students they saw was Irene Skinner, a graduate of M. H. S., who is finishing her third year at the school.

SPORT SLANTS

Although M. H. S. didn't fare so well at the New Haven arena last Tuesday night, it was indeed a treat to see former Manchester High man, Ray, at the arena. He was in the 5,000 meter run, competed in the two mile run and easily outclassed the field.

The relay team consisting of Carpenter, Cude, Rowell and Shedd did splendid work in their event and although they were beaten they put up a splendid show.

In our opinion they looked as good as the winners and if they had only known how to take the corners would have taken first.

Manchester's present "Iron Man" ran true to form again and captured two blisters and a few split toes after taking the precaution to tape up all his toes.

From Hartford High comes the news that Ray Boucher, crack miller, is not eligible and will not compete this spring. This news will not make some millers at M. H. S. sad.

Incidentally, we noticed one of our "Keith Browns" down at the meet gazing awestruck at the bar which was hovering near the fourteen foot mark.

Charley Donahue also competed, taking a tie for tenth place in the 800 meter Connecticut title run. Charley ran a nice race but the 800 was a little too fast for him. We'll be hearing more of him this spring.

"Bing" Fraser sprained his back and it is doubtful whether Coach Wigen will be able to use him next week. However, "Bing" announces he'll be O. K. for the Hartford Armory meet next month.

DEBATE TOPIC RELATED TO PRESIDENT'S BILL

The subject of the triangular debate is, "Resolved, That Legislation Be Enacted Providing For Federal Ownership, Operation, and Control of Radio in the United States." This topic is particularly suitable at present due to the bill that President Roosevelt has recently placed before the Congress. This bill is to place all communication under the Federal Communication Commission. Radio, telephone, and telegrams are included to be put under the control of the federal government.

TEACHER SEES RARE BIRD

A new winter visitor has been in New England this year. During the last vacation, Miss Elizabeth Olson, while visiting her relatives in Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass., saw a rare specimen of bird, the evening grosbeak. Miss Olson said that she was very pleasantly surprised because it is quite unusual to see this bird so far east at this time of year. The people with whom Miss Olson was visiting were in the habit of feeding the birds—gold finches and chickadees.

This year a flock of about thirty grosbeaks have been coming to feed. The grosbeak, which is about the size of a robin, has been seen in large flocks by other people throughout New England this year.

CLUB AGREES HONESTY ALWAYS BEST POLICY

An informal discussion of honesty was carried out by the members of Hi-Y at its regular monthly meeting at the Center church, Tuesday. Most of the members had read the article in the last issue of the "Scholastic" magazine concerning the topic. "Honesty" was discussed in its relation to High school but also in government, home, business and in one's relations with his friends.

Mr. Robinson, leader of Hi-Y, told of many instances of honesty and of dishonesty and he proved that honesty will always pay in the long run. Some of the boys who work in stores showed how honesty pays in business. The worst criminals were discussed, and it was shown that many of the criminals really start during high school age.

Mr. Robinson pointed out that a great deal of benefit can be derived from such a discussion, because everyone gives his opinion and not only one person's side of the question is presented.

Milk and doughnuts were served after the meeting.

SOCIAL AFTER DEBATE

Manchester's debaters on the negative team for the coming triangular debate received an invitation from the Middletown team, to meet at a cafeteria for a social hour after the debate at Middletown, March 23. Manchester has also planned a social hour after the debate here, to which they are inviting the negative Meriden team and the judges. The food will be prepared, served, and the room arranged by the members of Miss Smith's cooking classes. It will probably be served in Mr. Robinson's class room. Miss Gertrude Oberempi has charge of the social.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Protection of Eyes After Measles)
Question: Mrs. M. J. Burbank, Calif.: "I have two children with the measles and I would like to know how long I should keep them out of school in order to protect their eyes. I understand that the eyes are weak after a case of measles."
Answer: How long the children should be kept out of school depends a great deal upon how severe the measles are. If they have had, and how well you protected them, the eyes will be weak. The best advice I could send you regarding this matter is to keep them home as long as the eyes seem weak or irritated. Of course, if they have light attacks, it is probable that as soon as they have fully recovered, it would be all right for them to attend school.

(Pain In Right Side)
Question: "Worried Mother" of Lubbock, Texas: "My daughter-in-law has something wrong with her right side and her arm jerks until she can hardly use her hand. It is hard for her to talk, but she has a very good appetite."
Answer: It is difficult for me to give you any very complete instructions in regard to your daughter-in-law in such a short space of time and I strongly advise that you write to me again, addressing me in care of the newspaper where you read my articles, and sending a large self-addressed, stamped envelope. Please be sure to give me your complete name as I have some material I would like to send which I believe will give you some helpful information. I note the many kind things you have to say in regard to your daughter-in-law, and I can see that you have a very harmonious relationship between you. I only wish that more mothers-in-law would take the same attitude that you have. I know that this would mean much greater happiness for everyone concerned.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Stammering)
Question: From a "Daily Reader," St. Louis, Mo.: "Could you help me in regard to my daughter's speech. She has been very sick with many attacks of bronchitis and now she stutters quite a bit. Do you think that chiropactic or osteopathic treatments might help her?"
Answer: I will be very pleased to send you some instructions which I believe will help your daughter to overcome the stammering, together with an article on stammering, if you will write to me in care of this newspaper and will enclose a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope. It seems to me that the most important part of the treatment is to overcome the tendency to bronchitis and after her death has been fully built up, you will obtain greater success in overcoming the speech defect. The treatments about which you inquire would very probably prove beneficial.

MOVE ON TO HALT AUTO MEN'S STRIKE

Special Meeting to Be Held Monday in Effort to Keep Employees at Work.

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—Proposals made by Hugh R. Johnson for settlement of the threatened automobile strike will be considered by the executive committee of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce at a special meeting in New York on Monday.

The announcement was made today by William S. Knudsen, executive vice president of General Motors, after concluding a series of conferences in which Johnson, N.R.A. chief, outlined proposals for averting a strike.

They involved creation of an impartial arbitration board of review to pass on workers' claims of discrimination, and that an election be held to determine what union represents the workers.

"The executive committee will report with some proposal for action Tuesday morning or thereabouts," Knudsen said.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The executive committee consists of Alvan Macaulay, Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., and Walter Chrysler.

Knudsen said it is the purpose of the industry to help create some agency not only to avert a strike but to prevent others. WHO'S WHO ON THE ALLEYS

By JOHN A. DERIDDER Vice President, N. D. P. B. C.

THE SWEEPSTAKES

During the forty years that I have been connected with sports, not since as a competitor, but as an official or reporter on the sidelines I have never had the pleasure of seeing an individual break and create three world's records on the same day, as I did at the Yankee women's sweepstakes held in Hartford last Saturday.

The duckpin game to many of the bowlers is known sometimes as a game of luck. It was somewhat of the same opinion until I saw Miss Gull perform on the polished maple at the Morgan alleys. Her control of the ball was 100 percent perfect and her aim was right to the spot. I have seen Miss Gull in several of her big matches in Baltimore and Washington on the National and she has shown me in her delivery of the ball it was impossible to hear the ball take to the alley and like Nick Trosky her finger tips are close to the floor or the runway when she delivers the ball. She takes a full arm swing but her speed is somewhat slower than usual. In fact her entire delivery was much different than when she performed here in 1933 at the National tournament. She took a run of at least ten feet and losing the National and from the foul line with her right arm stretched over the live giving her a perfect follow through position.

In her record breaking performance in ten games she only missed ten spare breaks, collected a total of 11 strikes and averaged 10.7 pins. I do not think she missed the No. 1 and No. 3 pocket combination more than three or four times. Miss Gull makes some of the most remarkable spares known to the duckpin game. She has broken one spare in her second game. On No. 7 she hit into the No. 2 and No. 4 combination clearing off the No. 2, No. 5, No. 8 and No. 9 leaving the No. 1, 6, 7 and 10 pins as a combination for a spare. She hit between the No. 1 and No. 3 pins and cleared them and caused it to roll over and clear off the No. 7 while the No. 3 tossed off the No. 6 and No. 10 pin for a beautiful spare. Another time that brought the 700 fans to their feet was in her fourth game when she made the No. 1, 6, 8, and 9 pin. She was sure death on the No. 7 and No. 10 pin, bowling a cross alley ball for each pin. In her ten game record piling stunt, Miss Gull only twice was working on a double strike. In one of her games she collected six straight spares. There were no doubts in the mind of any one of the spectators that Lorraine is one of the greatest duckpin shooters that has ever lived the foul line.

Miss Gull has been awarded with a world's record for 5, 6 and 10 game totals. In her five game performance she collected single strings of 117, 120, 133, 145, and 308 for a grand total of 693. In her sixth game she made a 147 single to bring her six game total up to 799. In her next four strings she collected a total of 512 with single strings of 112, 141, 150, and 109 or a ten game pinfall of 1311, breaking the former mark of 1139 held by Miss Helen Randlett of Richmond, Va.

Then to top off her brilliant exhibition of pinning she came through with a six game total to capture the sweepstakes championship of the North for 1934. Her scores in the sweepstakes were 112, 141, 150, 109, 121, and 104, or a total of 737. Miss Gull had two spare games in 1933 or 1936 or an average of 10.6 that no doubt is an average that has never been equalled by any woman bowler in the country. In an interview following her great performance she informed me that every time she advances the foul line she is confident of hitting the pins for a heavy pinfall and regarding as to what the spare break may bring her she is just as confident of making her spares. On bad breaks she seldom missed pinning out the ten pins. Although she has been ranked No. 1 bowler of the world for women since 1929 she has never won a National championship tournament title. She expressed delight in the number of pin bowlers who took part in the sweepstakes and she suggested that the women bowlers take a more active part in sweepstakes, mixed doubles and special matches than in regular league games.

Miss Clara Jackmore of Manchester who finished second to Miss Gull is one of the most promising bowlers I have seen in some time. She has form, a good medium fast ball that she has almost perfect control over. Her chief fault is that she does not follow through on her delivery. Although the sweepstakes was her first real test in fast company she made a most wonderful showing and I am sure she would have given Miss Gull a run for her money if her over anxious friends had not interfered in her last two games that she needed a spare and that she needed so many pins to fill on her spare. Miss Gull out pinned the Silk town girl by a margin of 37 pins. And if my memory serves me right she missed enough spares in her last game that had she secured half of them she would have been the 1934 Yankee champion.

Miss Jackmore should be congratulated and I do not hesitate in making the statement that she is on the road to higher honors and that she is due to be given a place among the National ranking is announced. In 1933 she hit for 599 in the Connecticut sweepstakes and this year she hit for 625 in the same event. She has an average of 10.1 in the state league. I hope that looking forward with high hopes that Miss Jackmore will be able to give a good exhibition at the National tournament in Baltimore later in the month. Jennie Schubert and Flora Nelson both from the Silk town made a fine showing and Miss C. Bachman of Bristol along with Dorothy Cook and Florence Decker are to be congratulated on their fine showing. From Thomaston Mamie MacDonnell and Helen Lumpkin hitting over the 600 mark should not feel discouraged as two or three missed spares would have brought them right up with the first ten or fifteen bowlers. The ladies from Torrington being their first big event Miss Catherine Zifack and Sue Dinda are worthy of special mention as several of the best pin topplers from Hartford finished below the Torrington girls. I suggest that whenever they have the chance to enter any individual events they can. Both appeared to have a little stage fright and with that overcome and a little more perfection in shooting for spares they will be right up there with the other stars of the state.

An interesting feature of the sweepstakes with 600 games rolled by the 100 women only five fouls were called and fifty-one turned in scores well over the 600 mark. A mixed double championship is in the works and I suggest that these women from Torrington, Torrington, Bristol and Manchester enter the event as it will do them more good than fifty league games for they will have the help of a good partner who will explain their faults. First of all if your speed is too great cut it down until you have control of the ball then increase it if you wish. Get the fear of the foul line out of your mind. Work out on one, two and three pin spares. Most of the women bowlers today have a fine first ball but they are lost when it comes to spare bowling. During the National tournament from time to time I will keep my readers informed as to what is going on down in the southland. Next Saturday I will introduce to you Nick Trosky the greatest man that ever stepped the foul line, the holder of more records than any other live bowler, and star pin toppler of Frank Barber's Shell Blue Ribbon team, one of the greatest money combinations in the country.

THIS MAY BE TREASON BUT HERE'S A REASON FOR CELTICS' SEASON

"They Shot from Everywhere, the Only Trouble With That Was, the Basket Wasn't There."

David Kerr, star forward on the West Side Celtics basketball team, was so impressed with the "wonderful" showing his team made in the Rec Senior League that it drove him poetic. So Mr. "Shakespeare" Kerr took up his trusty pen and after many sleepless days and nights brought forth the following little poem, giving the cage "fans" who have witnessed the Celtics in action, an idea why the Celtics "won" so many games this season. It was submitted, by an interested sports fan from the West Side Rec.

Those West Side Celtics
There was a team from the good old West
The Celtics was the name,
In almost every game they played
The result was just the same.

Although they seldom won a game,
The team went over well,
The girls all flocked into the gym
And the boys all played like ? ? ?

It must have been their sex appeal,
That drew the girls around,
Composed of "lovers" like "Smookey Joe"
The best that can be found.

There was "Red" that eagle eye,
Who shot from everywhere,
The only trouble with that was,
The basket wasn't there.

And then old "Sarg" as you might know
Could never be called a "Quitter"
But held the ball so long the boys,
Began to call him "Dribbler".

With "Phil" Mahoney at the helm,
The team could not be beat,
"Bring on Ansdall's" was their cry,
"The Masons are our meat."

And when the Celtics took the floor
The teams all looked great,
Here was a team that looked like
"Champs"
But Oh! they finished last.

Will hold this team decides that they
Will hold a banquet too,
I pity the fellow that brings his girl
And expects to get what's due.

And when the Celtics took the floor
The teams all looked great,
Here was a team that looked like
"Champs"
But Oh! they finished last.

LOCAL TRADE DEFEATED BY BRIDGEPORT IN SEASON'S FINALE

M. H. S. Mermen Nose Out Commercial High, 40-35 In Last Meet of the Season

By taking the final event of the meet—the medley relay—Manchester High's swimming team nosed out Commercial High of New Haven at the latter's pool yesterday afternoon, winning by a score of 40 to 35. The meet brought the Red and White's season to a close with five victories in eight starts, an impressive record, of which Coach Alton Johnson and his team can well be proud. Ewald Stechholz, Captain Bob Carney and Brennan were the first place winners for Manchester, while McNerny starred for Commercial. Stechholz took two first places, in the 100 yard breast stroke and the diving, Carney winning the 220 yard free style and Brennan the 100 yard free style.

BRISTOL AND CENTRAL IN NEW ENGLAND FINAL

Winner and Runner-up in State Tourney Meet Again Tonight, After Gaining Impressive Victories in First and Second Rounds.

Bristol High and Bridgeport Central High winner and runner-up respectively, of the Connecticut state basketball championship last night paved the way for their second meeting of the season, in the finals of the New England cage tournament at Tufts, by gaining easy victories in their semifinal tussles.

Impressive Wins
Bristol turned back the Pawtucket, R. I., representative by a score of 23 to 11, while Central eliminated Chelsea High of Westfield, Mass., 24 to 18. The defending champions, Bristol, easily outclassed their opponents but the Bridgeport five was hard pressed to gain victory. Both Connecticut teams chalked up decisive triumphs in their opening games of the tourney. A Rousing Battle
In the final of the tourney, Bristol and Central, who battled through two overtime periods in the Yale tourney before the Bell City titlists emerged with a 35 to 33 victory, meet this evening in the finals of the New England tourney. The game looks as one of the best ever played between scholastic teams and it should be an even struggle all the way, with Bristol ruining a slight, and very slight, favorite to retain its honors.

DOWN HILL SKI MEET

Francis Notch, N. H., March 17.—(AP)—Seventy-two down hill ski racers, including Ned Grant of Denver, the Western champion, and Richard Durance, Newport, N. H., youngster who holds the course record, have entered the third annual down hill title race of the United States Eastern Amateur Ski Association that will be held tomorrow on the Taft Trail. Indications were that H. S. Woods of Dartmouth would be hard pressed to retain his championship, he won last year on Mount Moslaure.

YMCA TEAM IS WINNER

The Y. M. C. A. bowling team took two games and toted a pinfall from the Hartford Five in a special match at the Y alleys. Monroe of the visitors hit high single with 182 and Dave Hamilton of the Y captured high three string with 878.

ADD NEW MATCHES FOR RIFLE TOURNEY To Be Held March 23-24 at Hartford — Experts of State to Compete.

New Haven, March 17.—(AP)—Two new matches for marksmen have been added to the program for the second annual John Soley Memorial gallery of the Connecticut State Rifle Tourney to be held March 23 and 24 at the Hartford Electric Light Company rifle range in Hartford. These are a two-man team, open, off-hand, any sights, twenty shots per man, two shots at each bull ring medals for the three high teams. The other is a limited entry under the same conditions, with prizes awarded based on entry fees.

Feature Match
The feature match will be the Memorial one, shot for the first time last year and won by Eric Johnson of New Haven, who holds the trophy—the gold medal and title. The other winners were, in order: A. J. Lynch of Hartford, silver medal; Ward Hunt of Milford, gold bronze medal; William Breuler of New Haven, bronze medal; J. T. Moran of Hartford, bronze medal for high handicap and R. P. Rehberg of Ansonia, NRA medal for high tyro.

There were 47 entries last year and a fifty per cent increase is expected this year. The trophy is in memory of a deceased member of the sponsoring rifle club who was a good shooter and ardent enthusiast. Among teams entered who are classed as crack marksmen, are Eric Johnson and W. C. Hunt of New Haven; E. Doyle and W. Breuler of New Haven; A. J. Lynch of Hartford with C. E. Lyman of Middletown and E. Morrill and G. Lucis of Norwich.

ICE CLUBS ENTER THE LAST WEEK-END Second and Third Place Arguments Still Unsettled in Both Divisions.

New York, March 17.—(AP)—The second and third-place arguments in both divisions remained unsettled today as the National Hockey League clubs entered the last week-end of their regular season and the two page setters were delegated to do the settling. The Montreal Canadiens and Maroons remained tied in the Canadian division as they approached their final games and the New York Rangers led the Chicago Blackhawks by only a single point.

The Rangers and Blackhawks both played Toronto to decide their arguments but even if they gain the expected victory at Toronto tonight and the Hawks entertain them at Chicago tomorrow. The Maroons play at home tonight against the Ottawa Senators, tailors of the circuit, but even if they gain the expected victory they won't be sure of second place until after the Canadiens play the Detroit Red Wings, American division leaders, at Detroit Sunday. Five Volley Ball Teams In Action at Rec Today

At 1:30 o'clock this afternoon, five of the outstanding volleyball teams in the East will go into action at the School Street Rec in a four-state round robin tournament sponsored by the Recreation Centers—the first of its kind ever held in Connecticut. This event is expected to draw a huge crowd of spectators, as the brand of volleyball ball that will be played will be of the highest caliber.

McCluskey Disconsolate As Follows Shifts From 2-Mile to Mile Tonight

Joe To Seek New American Record in Knights Of Columbus Meet At The Garden.

Although he has been victorious in his last four starts and is heavily favored to continue his streak in the two-mile event of the Knights of Columbus games at New York tonight, Joe McCluskey, a Manchester boy who made good, is disconsolate today.

Follows in Mile
The reason lies in the fact that all of his powers of persuasion have come to naught. He spent more than an hour the other night trying to persuade John Follows, the new distance sensation, to forswear the Columbian Mile. Follows, a New York A. C. teammate of Joe's, would like to test McCluskey's rediscovers prowess in the two-mile run but Johnny has pledged his word to run the mile and the mile it's going to be. "I wanted Johnny to run against me to set a pace for a new American record," declared McCluskey yesterday. "Now I guess I will have to set my own, and, believe me, I can do it. But Johnny would have helped," he added regretfully.

TRADE SCHOOL STARTS BASEBALL ON APRIL 25

Winners of League Title Last Year Hope to Retain Honors; But Three Veterans Back; Conference Rules Weaken Prospects.

Manchester Trade's baseball team opens its season on Wednesday, April 25, playing its initial game of 1934 with Windsor Locks High in Windsor Locks. Coach Frank Crowley expects to begin baseball practice during the early part of April and to have three regulars of last year, around whom he plans to mould an entirely new squad. Last year, Crowley's nine played top-notch baseball and was awarded a bronze plaque in recognition of winning the State Trade School Baseball League championship.

The baseball schedule for the coming season is progressing rapidly with 12 games definitely slated to date. The Traders will again engage in two games with Coach Tom Kelley's nine, whom they played last year. In the past, the Trade School-High School contests have attracted much interest and are played with much interesting rivalry. This year will be the Mechanic's first season of Conference baseball and they are now members of the Connecticut Conference Athletic Conference. Through this membership, the team has lost two valuable veterans of last year: Mitchell Babel, first-string pitcher and "Bud" Farwell, southpaw, who are still in school but are either over age or are high school graduates, which, in either case, renders the two twirling artists ineligible.

A lead gained in the first half stood Bridgeport Trade's quintet in good stead yesterday afternoon at the School Street Rec and Manchester Trade bowed in defeat in its final basketball game of the season, 31 to 25, after a nip and tuck battle from start to finish. Coach Walter Schober's team played twenty-one games in all, winning seven and losing fourteen. Hold Slender Margin
Bridgeport went into an 8-5 lead in the first quarter and increased it to 16-10 by halftime as the local Traders seemed unable to get started. Manchester came back after the intermission, however, to outscore their opponents and shave two points from the six-point margin but Bridgeport rallied in a closely contested final quarter to emerge victorious.

YMCA ALLEYS RECEIVE REGISTRATION NOTICE

The Y. M. C. A. alleys have just received their official registration as a member of the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress. An inspector from the Congress has visited the alleys and all requirements have met with their requirements. For the last two years the National Congress has been putting forth a special effort to promote better bowling, and especially to impress four line bowling. A number of the Hartford leagues have been bowling four line this year with great success, and lots of others will follow suit next year. For the information of bowlers as to what a registered alley means to let us state that no score is accepted by the National Congress unless bowled on a registered alley, with a foul line judge, and sent in by the bowling alley manager.

MOTHER DIES WITH BABY IN ARMS DURING BLAZE

Five Burned to Death as Fire Destroys Home in Memphis Residential Section.

Memphis, Tenn., March 17.—(AP)—The Memphis fire department reported that five persons burned to death in a fire that destroyed a home in the residential section early today.

Those dead, the fire department reports, are: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hammond, whose home was burned; Mrs. Hammond's sister, Miss Kitty Kay, 21 Earl, Jr., 3; and an infant girl as yet unnamed.

Neighbors said Mrs. Hammond had recently returned from a hospital where the baby was born several days ago. The baby's death apparently was caused by suffocation. The mother had shielded the child's body from the flames. She died with the baby in her arms.

First reports indicated the family was trapped by flames on the second floor of the home. The cause of the blaze was not determined immediately.

A fire alarm was turned in about 3:38 a. m., a routine fire report.

MANCHESTER MASONS BEAT THOMPSONVILLE

Doric Lodge in Carpet City Gives Local Delegation Evening of Good Fun.

A large delegation of local Masons traveled to Thompsonville and enjoyed a pleasant time with the members of Doric Lodge last night. It was a great night for Manchester. Doric Lodge had a fine program arranged and Manchester won five contests, tied one and lost one. Wayne Emery is still the undisputed checker champion and no saved Thompsonville from getting a shut out.

Henry Patnaude's quartet of cribbage players showed improvement and held the Doric members to a tie. Peter Wind made several substitutions in his set-back lineup and they worked out very well. Holger Bach had several of his Monday night bridge champions in his lineup and they played true to form.

Robert Boyce played all comers in ping-pong and won very easily. John Hood's trio of pool players won in three very easily contested games. Manchester's dart throwers won two straight games of baseball but not until after a hard fight.

The second game was won in the ninth inning. Thompsonville then challenged Manchester Lodge to a real game of ball to be played after their spring training season is over. Total number of points scored: Thompsonville, 33; Manchester, 67. Refreshments were served following the contests and an enjoyable evening was had by all.

SCENERY LIKE FAIRYLAND FOR MASONIC BALL HERE

Entire Ceiling at State Armory to Be Canopied and Brick Walls Covered.

The twenty-third annual Masonic Ball, to be held at the State Armory Monday, April 2, will take place in a setting more beautiful than ever before, according to plans now in progress by the decorating committee of which James McCaw, Jr., is chairman. It is also announced that tickets for this outstanding social event are being disposed of rapidly, indicating that a huge crowd will again be in attendance.

The entire ceiling will be canopied and the walls paneled to eliminate the completely red brick and stucco girder effect of the huge drill shed, transforming the hall into a veritable fairyland of beauty. The orchestra platform will be decorated to represent an Italian garden scene.

The Shrine orchestra of Hartford, a musical aggregation of twelve pieces that is widely known throughout the east, will furnish music for dancing. Charles Buntzel, past worthy master of Manchester Lodge of Masons, is chairman of the ball and he and the various sub-committees are bending every effort to make the event the most successful in its long history.

INCOME TAX RECEIPTS

Washington, March 17.—(AP)—Income tax receipts well above both last year's figures and this year's estimates brought broad smiles to the faces of administration officials today.

Collections for 1934, to the closing of tax returns March 15, were $147,000, compared with corresponding 1933 receipts of $98,847,000. The figures are not strictly comparable, however, as the filing time for returns was extended to March 31 last year because of the bank holiday.

Nevertheless, the Treasury now expects total March income tax payments to reach $250,000,000. March netted only $174,000,000 last year.

SPORTS WRITER DIES.

Springfield, Mass., March 17.—(AP)—William F. Moriarty, 35, well known in New England as a sports writer died in a hospital here last night after a brief illness of pneumonia. He had been employed on newspapers in Springfield, Hartford, New Britain and Meriden, Conn., and contributed to horse racing magazines.

For a number of years he was clerk on the course on the Bay State Circuit for Springfield meetings and served in the same capacity for harness races at the Eastern States Exposition. Moriarty leaves his widow and two daughters.

"DANGEROUS CORNER" AT PARSONS NEXT WEEK

Rawlinson and Bayne to Appear in Famous Mystery Comedy on Monday.

J. B. Priestley's "Dangerous Corner," which thrilled New York audiences for a full year and those in Chicago for five months, will provide the welcome attraction at Parsons' Theater, Hartford for one week, starting next Monday evening, with such favorites as Herbert Rawlinson and Beverly Bayne co-featured in the leading roles.

"Dangerous Corner" is a quasi-mystery comedy, in which several people assembled in a drawing room are engaged in the chat-chat of the average "tea-fight" when discussion

Herbert Rawlinson who is co-featured with Beverly Bayne in J. B. Priestley's successful mystery drama, "Dangerous Corner," at Parsons' Theater, Hartford, the week of March 19 and argument is provoked by the display of a musical cigarette box, formerly the property of a deceased member of which some of the management of which some of those present have been associated. To clear up matters, they all resolve to tell "the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth," thus coming to the "dangerous corner" from which the title of the play is derived.

In the course of this truthful discussion, it is revealed that all of those present are but "whited sepulchres"; all have been guilty of indiscretions, major and minor, and the deceased partner shows up as the worst of an extremely bad lot.

Mr. Priestley has established himself as a master of literate dialogue and exciting plot, and in "Dangerous Corner" his ability is revealed at its best. An extremely novel twist at the end brings matters to a satisfactory conclusion.

In support of Mr. Rawlinson and Miss Bayne will be seen such accomplished protagonists as Charlotte Wynters, Grandon Rhodes, Isobel O'Madigan, Eugene Chapel and Donald Koehler.

ONE FILM EACH YEAR ENOUGH FOR CANTOR

Comedian Requires Time for His Literary, Radio and Philanthropic Work.

Eddie Cantor is the only star in pictures who consistently and successfully follows the practice of making one picture a year. "Roman Scandals" showing at the State Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday is his fourth annual screen musical comedy for Samuel Goldwyn. The other three were "The Kid from Spain," "Palm Day" and "Whoopee."

Four years ago, Eddie announced that he was through with the stage. Taking up a picture career, he wanted to concentrate. That meant long and careful preparation for his single yearly film. And the spare energy it left him was valuable; he needed time for his literary, radio and philanthropic interests.

Eddie was once a Hester Street brat down on New York's lower East Side. He learned how much milk and fresh vegetables and a vacation in the country could mean to a tenement boy. Now that he is riding high, Eddie doesn't forget that there are other boys and girls and mothers in the tenements who need those things. And then he holds the presidency of such great organizations as the National Vaudeville Artists, with its big santarium at Saranac, and the Jewish Actors' Guild.

Among Eddie's published writings are four short, humorous books, his autobiographical "My Life in My Own Hands" and the forthcoming Ziegfeld story, "King, Queens and Jack."

His last stage show was "Whoopee," preceded by the Ziegfeld "Follies" of 1927, in which Cantor, for the first time in the history of those institutions, was starred. Before that, there was the record-breaking "Kid Boots."

The years before had seen Eddie in a succession of Ziegfeld reviews, produced by two excursions with the Shubert in "The Midnight Rounders" and "Make It Snappy" at the Winter Garden. It was Ziegfeld who first brought Cantor to New York for his "Midnight Follies" and later the "Follies." Eddie had been appearing in "Canary Cottage" in Los Angeles, a graduate of vaudeville and the Gus Edwards school.

Eddie is looking forward to his first trip abroad in nine years. He takes with him his wife and the five Cantor daughters. But before that Eddie has to make another film for United Artists release, in which he will have the deep dark deeds of piracy on the Spanish Main as a background.

WALL ST. BRIEFS

New York, March 17.—Standard Statistics Co. reports 31 favorable dividend changes in the past week compared with 33 the week before. There were fourteen increases, nine reappearances, seven extras and one initial payment. The week saw eight unfavorable revisions, the same number as in the previous week.

INDULGENCES PROMISED

Vatican City, March 17.—(AP)—Pope Pius announced today to 1,200 Irish pilgrims headed by Joseph Cardinal MacCarthy that when the Holy Year ends April 2 he intends to extend it to all countries so that any Roman Catholic, by visiting his local church, may obtain Holy Year indulgences.

BOMBS EXPLODED

Vienna, March 17.—(AP)—Forty windows were shattered and one apartment ruined when three bombs exploded today in a house occupied by a member of the Dollfus-Fatherland Front at Wilten, a suburb of Innsbruck. No-one was injured.

TWO KILLED BY BLAST

Melle, France, March 17.—(AP)—Two workmen were killed and a dozen injured last night in an explosion at an alcohol distillery at Forges D'Aunais.

Part of the two-story plant collapsed from the force of the blast and the main railroad line from Niort to La Rochelle was blown out.

The shock was reported felt at Niort, 30 miles southwest of Forges D'Aunais, but as the plant was located in the open country, damage outside the distillery was slight.

ELECT J. T. MUNSIE CLAN MCLEAN HEAD

James Barr, James Findlay and James Edwin Are Named Trustees.

John T. Munsie was elected chief clansman of Clan McLean, No. 253, O. S. C., at its meeting held last evening with Chief Clansman James Edwin at his home on Hollister street.

His associate officers will be as follows: Taniat, Robert McIntosh; past chief, James Edwin; chaplain, James Munsie; secretary, Alec McBride, Jr.; treasurer, Charles Garrow; senior benchman, Alex Ferguson; junior benchman, James Barr; seneschal, Robert Chambers; warden, Samuel Little; sentinel, James Findlay; pianist, James Barr; stand bearers, Alexander Marshall, Clarence Porterfield.

These officers will be installed on April 20 by installing Royal Deputy Alexander Frazier of Clan Gordon of Hartford.

Trustees elected last evening were James Barr, James Findlay and James Edwin.

"Aw, gee, the balloon bird looks forlorn. A big hole in its side is torn," said Duncy. "It's flopped to the ground. All of the air came out.

"The other bird had lots of gall to spoil my ride and make me fall. I'm glad I wasn't injured. I'm a lucky lad, no doubt what are we going to do?" asked Cobby. "I just wish I knew a way to fix the 'b'ion bird up so he could fly again.

"A puncture patch would do the trick, and I can put them on real slick. One time I owned a bike. I used to fix it, now and then."

Then Nature Nick cried, "Wait right here. I'll shortly fill you all with cheer. Back in my little home I have what you are wishing for."

"We'll see if little Cobby can fix up the bird," then, off he ran. "Wee Duncy cried, 'Hurraay! I guess some more rides are in store!'

It wasn't very long till Nick came running back. "Say, this is slick," said Cobby, as he eyed the patch their kind old friend had found.

"Now, everybody stand aside, and watch me while this patching's tried. I'll bet that I will soon have the balloon bird off the ground."

He worked away a little while, and Goldeny broke into a smile. "My, you're all fingers," she exclaimed. "Here, let me lend a hand."

And so the two tots worked away and soon the bunt heard Goldeny say, "At last the task is finished, and it really looks just grand!"

The funny bird began to rise, when, blow to twice its former size. "Hey, catch it," shouted Cobby. Duncy grabbed it by the feet.

He promptly called up in the air, which gave the Tinnies quite a scare. Poor Duncy yelled, "Oh, stop me. With an accident I'll meet."

(Duncy lands in a strange place in the next story.)
