THINK ROOSEVELT ON WORKERS' SIDE

Labor Leaders Send Cheery Telegrams Back Home Saying He "Will See Them Through."

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—A feeling that President Roosevelt was siding with them in their controversy with automobile manufacturers was evidenced today by labor leaders.

The union spokesmen had another afternoon conference scheduled with Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who has been active in the strike-averting efforts. President Roosevelt was ready to receive the men on either side of the dispute, it was felt, and was especially interested in whatever position the manufacturers would take on his plans.

Meanwhile, the labor leaders sent telegrams back home expressing "elation" and confidence that President Roosevelt "will see us through." The strike was being held in abeyance pending the outcome of the negotiations.

At this afternoon's meeting the union men expected to hear some definite word from the administration, but had no assurances as to what was planned.

FEW RESIDENCES BEING BUILT NOW

Very Disappointing Reports Issued from Various Parts of Nation This Week.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The response of one of the largest potential sources of employment to various recovery efforts, according to many business analysts, has been distinctly disappointing.

This is building and construction. Despite the substantial public works expenditures, the total volume of this business, both private and public, remains at extremely low levels, giving employment to but a fraction of some 6,000,000 workers estimated to have been engaged directly or indirectly in building and related lines in the decade ended in 1929.

Various measures of priming this huge industry have been considered in Washington, and by large building interests, particularly those producing supplies and materials.

Automobile Workers Confer With President

Stepping into the National crisis in the automobile industry to espouse the cause of unionism, representatives of the United Automobile Workers of America are shown outside the White House after their conference with President Roosevelt. In the front row, left to right: J. T. Gilbert, Pontiac, Mich.; H. H. Richardson, Flint, Mich.; F. J. Dillon, Indianapolis, Ind.; Alexander Marks, New York; and Norman R. Fletcher, Flint, Mich. Rear row, left to right: Dave Land, Flint, Mich.; Marvin Owen, Detroit, Mich.; John Milker, Kenosha, Wis.; Harry H. Halsey, Flint, Mich.; Ernest C. Nickel, Flint, Mich.; Ray Borisch, Milwaukee, Wis., and James H. Larissey, Flint, Mich.

READY FOR PARLEYS

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Laying out his ideas to both sides in the strike-threatening automobile controversy President Roosevelt made known today he was ready for further conferences at any time the disputants desired such action toward settlement of the difficulties.

He left the issue temporarily to the two groups with Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, acting as intermediary.

At the White House, it was said there had been no overnight developments since the President presented his plan of action to the labor representatives.

No Reply Reported.—Also, it was said there had been no reports from either side up to 11 o'clock this morning.

Labor leaders, on the basis of their talk with the President last night, held the strike in abeyance. It was the understanding at the White House this would continue pending conclusion of the negotiations.

Mr. Roosevelt kept his engagement list open today to receive at a moment's notice either Johnson, the automobile executives or the labor group.

Frenchmen Back to Paris After Perilous Trip Over Deserts, Say Fierce Arabs Are Guarding Ruins.

Paris, March 23.—(AP)—Fierce Arabs are believed by Andre Malraux, French explorer, to be guarding the secrets of the rich lost metropolis of the Queen of Sheba's reign against modern exploration.

Malraux, who with his pilot, Captain Cornillon, returned here yesterday, is sure they found the "Paris" of the Glamorous Sheba in a cluster of ruined towers and temples on the southwestern edge of the Ruba-El-Khali desert, which he identified as the City of Naith.

The possibility that immensely valuable archaeological treasures, including the tombs of the Queen and her dynasty—lie buried in the sandy waste is seen by Malraux, author and archaeologist.

"The Arab nomads who fired upon our plane when we flew over the city must be driven off, however, before exploration will be possible," Malraux said.

"Further research must await British pacification of the region."

REPORT BIG GAINS IN EASTER SALES

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Dun & Bradstreet said today that "reports received from all parts of the country this week reveal sales of Easter and spring goods surging above anticipated quotas."

"The average gain in retail sales over those of last year," stated the review, "is placed at 48 percent, while in many instances the 1932 figures have been passed by 10 to 12 percent."

"Because of the prevailing rising market inventories have been doubled, as retailers are anticipating needs in advance of normal requirements. Wholesalers report even greater gains than retailers, and are expressing concern over the inability of manufacturers to supply some grades of the most popular types of merchandise, because of restrictions on operations by NRA provisions."

"The course of leading industrial indices," the agency said, "now is showing greater uniformity in reaching higher positions, production almost without exception being at definitely higher levels in comparisons with the same period last year."

MAKE NEW RULING ON FREE PRETZELS

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—The free pretzel, recently ruled out as a code violation, is back again to stay, but with a new twist to its function as an indispensable companion to a glass of beer.

William S. Meany, state NRA compliance director, was notified today by John Swope, chief of the field section of the compliance division of the NRA, at Washington, that the ruling out of free pretzels has been reversed.

New Ruling
Henceforth, the new ruling provides, wherever beer is sold, pretzels or other items of food may be served free, but there is one restriction. It cannot be advertised by itself as free, although it can be combined with beer under the advertisement, beer and pretzels, 10 cents. The advertisement, "beer 10 cents, pretzels free," under the new interpretation, is taboo, because Mr. Swope finds, it violates the restaurant code. The new interpretation of the code states that "it does not prohibit the giving of pretzels or any other item with the sale of beer if the advertisement therefor does not advertise pretzels or other items as free."

10 SAILORS SAVED BY COAST GUARDS

Elizabeth City, N. C., March 23.—(AP)—Coast Guardsmen early today rescued the crew of the beam trawler, Nova Julia, of Gloucester, Mass., driven ashore on Currituck beach by high seas which have lashed the North Carolina coast for the past two days.

The vessel struck the beach only a few hundred yards south of Currituck beach Coast Guard station about 2:25 a. m. and Guardsmen from Currituck, Caffey's inlet, and Wash Woods station lost no time in taking off the captain and his nine men, whose names were not learned.

The first man was taken off in a breeches buoy at 4 a. m. and 45 minutes later the rescue was complete.

No Hope for Boat.
A heavy sea was rolling and Coast Guardsmen reported the vessel close on the beach, full of water and listing badly. If the sea keeps up there will be no chance to save the boat, they reported to headquarters here.

The Coast Guard cutters Mendotta and Maspoutin of Norfolk were ordered to the scene. The Mendotta's orders were cancelled and she returned to Norfolk.

MOTHER-IN-LAW SUIT CONTINUES

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—Trial of a $15,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Ruth Newman Hunt, Greenwich, against her wealthy mother-in-law, Mrs. Vienna S. Hunt, of the same town, was resumed before Judge John A. Cornell and the jury in Superior Court today, with Dr. Effie Howe Turton, a Stamford homeopathic physician, testifying in behalf of the plaintiff.

Dr. Turton told the jury that the young Mrs. Hunt was in a highly nervous condition when she visited her in April 1932, a short time after she had separated from her husband, Gilbert Guy Hunt, son of the defendant.

She testified that she was married in 1927 to the plaintiff, during a lengthy court examination which lasted almost all day yesterday, stuck to her story that her marital happiness was wrecked by her mother-in-law who constantly found fault with her and called her harsh names.

Mrs. Helen Pavlik, formerly employed as a domestic in the household of the elder Mrs. Hunt, said that Gilbert Hunt told her to keep the door of his cottage locked after his wife left, for fear that she would return.

During most of the five years they lived together, the younger Hunts occupied a small cottage on the estate of the husband's parents.

The trial entered its third day today, and will probably be continued next week.

CONORR'S REQUEST FOR AID GRANTED

Bridgeport, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—Acting Governor David Goldstein, pending chief executive of the state in the absence of Governor Wilbur L. Cross and Lieutenant Governor Roy C. Wilcox today formally approved the action of the Board of Finance and Control granting three additional inspectors to Motor Vehicle Commissioner Michael A. Connor's department for the purpose of combating the influx of bootleg gasoline into the state.

Commissioner Connor appeared yesterday before the finance board and outlined the gasoline situation over which his department has inspection powers. He said the present force of inspectors was inadequate to check gasoline coming into the state by truck to tank delivery and that a widespread bootleg campaign was underway to avoid payment of taxes. The new inspectors will receive a minimum of $1200 and a maximum of $1,980 annually. Commissioner Connor will have the appointing power.

Only routine matters occupied acting Governor Goldstein's attention at the executive offices yesterday. He did not go to the Capitol today, communicating instead with the office by phone.

Says Woman 'Hexed' Him; Kills Her With a Shotgun

Pottsville, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—Down through the centuries has come "hex."

It flourished in Germany during the dark ages.

Immigrants brought it to Pennsylvania 200 years ago, so the natives here relate. Susan Mummy told her husband one morning she had a feeling he would not return. He didn't. He was blown to pieces in an explosion. Stories became superstitions under the influence of hexes.

Finally a "pumpkin ball"—intended for killing deer with a shotgun—crashed through a window and killed 64-year-old Mrs. Mummy.

Now, police quote Albert Shinsky as saying, the 24-year-old Shemantown taxi driver feels "like a reborn man" because he killed the woman who "had me hexed."

"She sent a black cat down from the skies," he blurted. "I had to kill her to break the spell."

He said a "pov-wow" doctor told him a chant which chased away the huge cat that tore at his side, but he could not break the "hex."

"Feel Strong"
Saturday night, Shinsky "felt strong," Detective Louis Buono quotes him as saying in a signed statement, so he shot Mrs. Mummy in her home at Ringtown while she was ministering to an injured

Connecticut Men Saved When Ship Is Beached

Lewes, Del., March 23.—(AP)—The two-masted auxiliary fishing schooner, Charlotte, today ran aground on the beach at Fenwick Island, after fighting heavy seas, a driving wind and a heavy snowstorm for three hours.

A crew of four, a mascot police dog, and the captain, Herbert L. Clay, of Stonington, Conn., were aided to safety by Coast Guardsmen stationed on the island.

The Charlotte sailed from its home port, New London, Conn., a week ago to await the arrival of the cod schools off Cape May. Last night as the crew was busy unlimbering tackle for today's fishing the storm struck.

The seas picked up the 62-foot schooner and swept it on the beach. The stern splintered.

The vessel was reported to be leaking badly and fishermen predicted that unless the heavy seas subsided she would be smashed before the end of the day.

New London, March 23.—(AP)—When the schooner Charlotte aground off Fenwick Island, left Stonington in October to fish in southern waters during the winter, she carried besides her owner and master Lawrence A. Clay of Stonington the following crew members: Herbert, William and Antone Clay of Stonington, brothers of the master, Manuel Clay of Stonington, a cousin, and Thomas Smith of Boston.

Supreme Court Decision Scraps Equalization Plan of State Control Board — Money Paid Into Fund by Dairymen to Be Refunded.

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—The controversial "equalization plan" of the State Board of Milk Control was in the scrap-heap today—repealed by the Superior Court and revoked by the milk board after a brief, stormy history.

Holding that the milk board had exceeded its power in setting up the plan for distributing the burden of surplus milk, Judge Newell Jennings granted the Producers-Dealers' Association of Connecticut its petition for a permanent injunction.

The order restraining the milk board from enforcing the plan was given by Judge Jennings from the bench. An hour later losing its long court fight, the board revoked the plan which it put into operation November 20, and announced it would begin immediately to revise its quota plan.

To Refund Money
Money paid into the equalization fund, the board said, will be refunded.

M. E. Pierpont of Waterbury, president of the association which pressed successfully for the injunction, termed the court's decision "a decisive victory over a vicious combination of the National Dairy Council, the control board, and the C. M. P. A." (Connecticut Milk Producers Association).

"It is too bad," he said, "that this could not have been a grand jury investigation, rather than a simple fight for our existence."

Filing Veto
"Judge Jennings was very courteous in allowing me and numerous amount of testimony to be presented on both sides and rendered us an honest and pleasing victory."

"Judge Jennings while lauding the milk board for its work on the milk problem, held that the equalization plan, nevertheless, was too drastic. "It cuts too deep and in contrary to the natural habits of the Connecticut Yankee," he said. "The amount involved is large. If it is going to stay in effect for a year it would mean that some $600,000 would be transferred from the pockets of principally the dairymen into the pockets of those producers whom the milk board feels are entitled to receive the money."

"It does not seem to me that the board has this legal power and it also seems to me that to carry out the act is entirely impractical."

By agreement of counsel of both sides, the constitutionality of the milk control act was not involved in the action.

MARKET CONTROL BILL PERFECTED

Federal Reserve Board Approves Changes and Measures Is Nearing Enactment.

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The Stock Exchange control bill received a mighty shove toward enactment today that diverted Capitol attention from the yet tense but quiet automobile labor situation.

In a few prepared words, Governor Eugene Black of the Federal Reserve Board divulged to a Senate committee that the much-contested regulatory measure—as "codified" has the unreserved support of the board.

"Workable, right in principle and will accomplish the purpose of regulating the exchanges," was the board view of the bill.

Automobile manufacturers and Union Laborites held off from flat acceptance of President Roosevelt's anti-strike plan.

The reciprocal tariff bill to add to the presidential powers finally reached the debate stage in the House, already under Republican attack. The Senate returned to its disputes over veterans payments, having to vote again inasmuch as the House yesterday rejected the higher rates that the majority of Senators want.

Meanwhile, railroad managers received from Arbitrator Joseph B. Eastman a set of proposals for settling the wage dispute between the roads and their employees.

NEW HAVEN BLAZE; LOSS OF $20,000

Eleven Companies Called Out —Cold Wave Hampers Firemen in Their Fight.

New Haven, March 23.—(AP)—Eleven fire companies, fighting a blaze in the four story building of the United Fruit and Vegetable Stores, Inc., during an unrelenting cold wave, brought the fire under control today after it had caused damage estimated by Fire Marshal Martin J. Fleming at $20,000 to $25,000.

With the mercury near the zero mark, hundreds of gallons of water, pumped onto the fire from five deck guns and a dozen water lines, turns to ice, and the Congress avenue side walks and pavements were ice coated.

Two Alarms Sounded
Two alarms were sounded as the fire was discovered by a passerby at 2:25 a. m., and it had spread from the first floor through the roof before it was brought under control. Its origin was not immediately determined.

A curtain of water was maintained about the building during the fire and the flames were prevented from spreading to any other structures in the business section.

The building had been occupied for the last 18 months by the fruit and vegetable company. The structure which the present building replaced was destroyed 23 years ago by a fire.

FEDERAL RELIEF TO BE EXTENDED

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Assurance that Federal work relief would be provided in rural areas while the new administration program was being worked out was given today by Harry L. Hopkins, emergency relief administrator.

At the same time, he outlined to reporters six types of work that may be undertaken in cities.

Jacob Baker, an assistant administrator, meanwhile, opened a conference with officials, labor leaders and others on demolition of slums and other undesirable housing.

Hopkins said the rural program, starting April 1 in towns of less than 5,000 population and the open country, would aim at placing families on plots of ground where they could sustain themselves.

Wants Further Plan
Hopkins also directed state administrators to prepare not later than April 10 a plan for further carrying out this program.

He informed the state administrators that where work is given the prevailing wage must be paid but that it must not be less than 30 cents an hour. Working hours shall not be more than 24 a week or less than 24 a month.

He also informed the administrators any person having available land who did not plant a home garden should not receive any relief.

TAXICAB OWNERS SCORE LA GUARDIA

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Permanently restrained by Superior Court injunction Thursday afternoon from the use of a controversial method it adopted in 1933 to obey instructions of the 1933 Legislature for "more equitable distribution of the burden of surplus milk," the State Milk Control Board today tackled the changed situation with a vigorous, announcing that two new injunctions against the board are expected to be in operation by April 1, when private milk contracts are renewed for the year.

To Launch Campaign
The board is ready to launch a state-wide campaign for general support of the board by next month a ruling making it compulsory for dealers to pay to producers the full fluid price for all milk actually sold as fluid milk. During the seven-day hearing, ending with Judge Newell Jennings' granting of a permanent injunction against the board's equalization fund regulation, obtained by the Milk Producers-Dealers Association, it was repeatedly alleged that dealers in some instances juggled their milk revenue and fail to pay farmers on a full basis of the higher priced fluid milk actually sold.

Fees Paid Back
As a result of the decision the board is sending back to dealers the fees paid into the equalization fund as of the December business, but as the Producers-Dealers Association of 1,400 members and others refused to pay "one cent into any pool" that amount which has been held by the board's clearing house pending the trial was only $3,000.

The immediate effect of the decision seems to place milk administration back where it was in November before the marketing regulations, with the equalization fund as a by-product, spent into the hands of the milk producers and processors. The milk is now sold generally in a case, and the bottle is owned by the consumer.

New York Operators Blame Him for Riots in Which 60 Were Injured.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Three large taxicab fleet operators joined today in a slashing attack on Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, charging him with responsibility for yesterday's rioting in which more than 150 taxicabs were damaged and 60 working drivers, passengers, pedestrians and policemen were injured.

The operators published their charges in an open letter to the mayor in full page advertisements in newspapers.

They called upon the mayor to instruct the police department to bring the rioting to an end and added:

"If you and the police department find that the riot situation is beyond your control you should call upon the governor of the state for military aid, that our drivers and passengers and the people of this city may be afforded the protection to life and property to which they are rightfully entitled."

Acts of Violence
The open letter detailed acts of violence in the rioting and charged that the members of the mobs were "for the most part" not taxicab drivers, but agitators of disorder enrolled for the purpose of looting industries other than the taxicab industry," and added these further charges:

"That you are negotiating with leaders of the strike movement who advocate and encourage these practices."

State Official Wants Additional Help to Prevent Bootlegging of Gasoline.

Bridgeport, Pa., March 23.—(AP)—Acting Governor David Goldstein, pending chief executive of the state in the absence of Governor Wilbur L. Cross and Lieutenant Governor Roy C. Wilcox today formally approved the action of the Board of Finance and Control granting three additional inspectors to Motor Vehicle Commissioner Michael A. Connor's department for the purpose of combating the influx of bootleg gasoline into the state.

Commissioner Connor appeared yesterday before the finance board and outlined the gasoline situation over which his department has inspection powers. He said the present force of inspectors was inadequate to check gasoline coming into the state by truck to tank delivery and that a widespread bootleg campaign was underway to avoid payment of taxes. EMANUEL CHOIR CANTATA SUNDAY To Sing Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" at Church Afternoon Service.

The Emanuel choir will present Maunder's "Olivet to Calvary" next Sunday afternoon at five o'clock at the Emanuel Lutheran church.

The choir of 40 voices will be assisted by Maurice Wallen tenor and G. Albert Pearson, bass, both well known to concert goers in Manchester. The soloists are members of the Asylum Hill Congregational church quartet which is considered the finest quartet in Hartford.

The Emanuel choir has through its choral singing at Emanuel won hosts of friends who love good singing. The choir has also made many friends through its custom of carol singing about town during the Christmas holidays.

The choir is planning a concert at the Masonic Home at Wallingford on April 15th where they will sing for the shut-ins.

The singing of "Olivet to Calvary" has become a part of the Lenten program for Emanuel, and for the past nine years the choir, since its reorganization under Helge E. Pearson, has given this cantata on Palm Sunday.

"Olivet to Calvary" portrays in song and music the last days of the Savior from His entry into Jerusalem in triumph with the crowd crying their Hosannas, then the incident of the last supper, His appearance before Pilate and the angry multitude, and His agony on the cross.

It is one of the most beautiful and descriptive of the Lenten cantatas and this year the Emanuel choir has memorized the entire work in order to give to the music lovers of Manchester the most artistic presentation possible.

INCOME TAX RETURNS

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—The state tax commissioner today warned Corporations to file income tax returns on or before April 1 to avoid penalties for delinquencies. Returns are required of mercantile and manufacturing concerns to cover operations for the year 1933. The fact that a corporation did not carry on any business during the year is no excuse for failure to file a return. A penalty of $5 will be imposed for delinquency.

MUST PAY TAXES

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Hold on, there—Uncle Sam wants a slice of that Sweepstakes prize money!

Out of that $150,000 awarded the lucky winners of the Grand National Sweepstakes drawing, the United States income tax is deductible to the tune of $58,300, or nearly 39 per cent.

The tax includes $46,460 surtax, 4 per cent on the first $4,000 and 8 per cent on the remainder.

It is payable in March, 1935, as 1934 income.

GETS $1,500 DAMAGES.

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Judgment for $1,500 damages was awarded today by Judge E. C. Dickson of the Superior Court to Gustave Frick of New Britain against Clara H. Williams. Mr. Frick was walking across Orchard street at Park street, New Britain, February 13, 1933 when he was run into by the defendant's automobile and was severely injured.

ADVERTISEMENTS

ABOUT TOWN

Women of the Vernon Methodist church which is affiliated with the North Methodist of this town will give a "Russian" night program at the church in Dobsonville this evening. Miss Catherine Costello, a soloist in St. James's choir, will sing Russian songs in costume. A Russian dance and folk play will be given by the children and instrumental music played by Miss Marjorie Stephens and Miss Beatrice Kahan. Mrs. Blinn will sing a Russian lullaby. The entertainers will be from Russian recipes, and a pleasant program is anticipated.

The CWA payroll for the past week's work is $4,532.15 and will be distributed next week to 320 men.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Behrend of this town have received a letter from their son, Dr. Ralph A. Behrend, conveying news of the birth of a daughter, Barbara Lynn, to Mrs. Behrend and himself. The baby, their first child, was born March 17 at a Los Angeles hospital.

Mrs. J. L. Handley who is directing the comedy, "The Rale McCoy," has called a rehearsal for this evening at the clubrooms in the Balch and Brown building.

WITH ALCOHOLIC UNIT

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—John J. McGuinness, Democratic executive board member for the Eighth District and director of public works under the Buckingham administration, commenced his duties today as a special agent of the Department of Justice, assigned to the Alcoholic Beverage unit for Connecticut. The position pays $3,500 annually. Mr. McGuinness will be senior agent in this territory in charge of investigations. Headquarters will be at the Federal building, New Haven.

RETURNS FROM FIRE, DIES

Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—Hoseman Edwin W. Thornton rode No. 9 pumper to a small fire on the east side today, returned with the apparatus and jumped nimbly out at the entrance to fire headquarters on Middle street. He swung back the heavy doors, waved the pumper on and then collapsed on the floor. He died instantly.

Fellow firemen hastened to apply first aid, but the hoseman had succumbed to a heart attack.

Worn and slicked grease fittings often leak grease when the gun is applied. This can be prevented by placing two or three thicknesses of cheese cloth over the fitting before the gun is attached. The cloth serves as a gasket.

SMITH TAKES LEAD IN GOLF TOURNEY

Augusta, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—Horton Smith of Chicago, adding a par 72 to his previous 70 for a total of 142, assumed the lead today for 36 holes of the $5,000 masters' invitation golf tournament.

He displaced Ed Dudley, the home pro, who set a new competitive record for the Augusta national course with a 69 today, and Bill Burke of Cleveland, Dudley and Burke each had totals of 143.

They finished shortly before Bob Jones and Paul Runyan began their second round.

PREDICT NEW ARRESTS

New Haven, March 23.—(AP)—New arrests were looked for today in the driver of Federal, state and city authorities against illegal liquor traffic.

State police obtained four additional warrants from City Attorney Nelson R. Durant, obtained on affidavits describing alleged liquor sales to investigators.

Six men, arrested in a series of New Haven raids, awaited hearings tomorrow in City Court.

Hind's Stamp Collection Now Scattered Over World

Utica, N. Y., March 23.—(AP)—The world's greatest stamp collection, gathered from the four corners of the earth by the late Arthur H. Hind at the expense of millions of dollars, has been scattered in less than two months.

Put the collection's prize remains in the hands of Mrs. Hind, the widow. It is a one-cent British Guiana stamp issued in 1856 and first sold by its discoverer for $1.50.

The much coveted British Guiana issue, valued at $50,000 a short time before Hind's death in 1930, gave rise to one of the stamp world's many legends.

Hind's agent bought the stamp at auction in Paris shortly after the World War. He paid $35,000. At the same sale Hind's representative and agents for King George of England bid for a Niger coast stamp. This too Hind obtained, but only after spirited bidding which ended near $2,000.

Story Connected
Competition for the Niger coast stamp between the two led to the oft-repeated story that Hind had outbid the King for the British Guiana paper, only stamp collector disclosed the incorrectness of the story in an interview a short time before his death.

Seldom, if ever, was the entire Hind collection open for view. At the recent auction in New York to settle his estate, only such stamps as were to be placed on sale that particular day were brought forth from bank vaults. These were heavily guarded.

Total receipts of the auction have not been revealed. His American collection, valued at $250,000 alone, was broken up at the sale. Other stamps also were sold, but the bulk went to Bradford, to a nephew, F. J. M. Hind.

An indication of the value of the total group is gained from the fact that often as many as 35 companies participated in underwriting the insurance on them when they were moved from their vault.

Given Sweepstakes Ticket Janitor to Get $150,000

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Because her husband makes good hansenpfeffer, Mrs. "Maggie" Meringer won $150,000 today in the Irish Hospital Grand National Sweepstakes.

Mrs. Meringer is the janitor of an apartment house in Queens and she held a ticket on Golden Miller, the horse that won the race.

Her husband, William Meringer, a restaurant chef, takes the credit. He made such fine hansenpfeffer for a patron in his restaurant that the man gave him two tickets for the sweepstakes and wished him luck.

That was last fall. Christmas came, and Meringer remembered the tickets he'd been carrying around in his pocket.

He gave them to his wife for Christmas, plus $5. "Because I wasn't sure the tickets were any good."

Meringer had "Maggie's" name put on them.

This was a happy day, too, for Mrs. Laura Anderson, a 52-year-old widow in Brooklyn, who held a ticket on Delansige bringing $75,000.

The two women who won five and six-figure prizes both said they "could use it."

But nowhere was there a bigger celebration than in Woodside, Queens, on the street of the Meringer home.

Neighbors donned their best clothes in honor of "Maggie" and the race. Housewives' heads lined windows along the street.

Neighbors and friends dropped in during the afternoon to help celebrate, bringing with them various remembrances which they deposited in a "sunshine" bag for "Aunt Mary."

She received numerous cards and messages from people living at a distance, and a beautiful bouquet of cut flowers from an old schoolmate in Willimantic. These graced the dining table when the time came for luncheon. Mrs. Edgerton prepared among other things a two-tiered birthday cake. Miss Marjorie McDiarmid told fortunes with cards and everybody had a happy time.

SEN. HASTINGS RAPS FARLEY IN ADDRESS

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Senator Hastings (R., Del.) said in the Senate today the administration cancelled the air mail contracts "to add to the prestige of the New Deal," but the people of the country were not convinced there was any fraud involved.

The new chairman of the Republican Senatorial campaign committee, assailing the whole administration program in replying to a speech last Tuesday by Postmaster General Farley at a Delaware Democratic rally, asserting that "12 more" platform promises had not been kept.

Turning to the airmail controversy, Hastings shouted: "You can't justify cancellation of those contracts. Mr. Farley tried to make the people believe the government lost great sums of money in the carrying of the airmail, while at the same time his assistants were

SINGER WINS SUIT

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—Alma Gluck Zimballat of New Hartford, world famous prima donna, has won the law suits in the Superior Court brought against her by John and Sophie Monklewicz of New Britain for injuries in an automobile collision June 4, 1933 on the River road at Simons avenue in Canton. Judge E. C. Dickson rendered decision today for Mrs. Zimballat, the defendant, and also awards her $18.50 for damages to her car.

Plans have been announced for a new airport for Winnipeg, entailing the building of an artificial lake, two miles in diameter, within seven miles of the city.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Michael Shugrue

Michael Shugrue, whose early life was spent in Manchester, died yesterday at Norwich after a long illness. His funeral will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 at the funeral rooms of Farley and Molloy of 129 Capitol avenue, Hartford, and at St. Peter's church at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in Mt. St. Benedict's cemetery.

Mr. Shugrue was born in Hartford 65 years ago, the son of Patrick and Catherine (Conors) Shugrue, but at an early age moved to Manchester. When a small boy he entered the employ of Cheney Brothers. His work was in a department long since discontinued and was located in the mud mill. When the department in which he was employed was discontinued he made the statement to other young fellows that he was through with mill work and was to become a salesman. In this respect he kept his word. His chosen vocation was not always profitable, his special line was books and pictures, and in Manchester there were many who knew him and it was the most fearful field that he had in the nearly 50 years that he followed this occupation. In poor health for several years before he discontinued his work, he made calls in many of the larger places in the state until his illness became such that he had to give up work.

Aged Cook Performed Surgery On Inmates

New York, March 23.—The public inquiry into conditions at the City Home for Dependents on Welfare Island was concluded yesterday with the introduction of evidence, more so-called than any elicited by Paul Blanshard, Commissioner of Accounts and Mr. Irving Ben Cooper, during the preceding three days.

Charles Johnson, a grizzled cook, who obtained what medical knowledge he has by helping the captains of sailing ships years ago, testified that for more than a year he had been in charge of supervising at the home, where with a small penknife, cotton wadding, and some medicine for equipment, he treated infected wounds of as many as thirty-three inmates, three times a week, unassisted. His pay was "four plugs of tobacco a week," he said.

"This, Mr. Commissioner," exclaimed Mr. Cooper after Johnson's incredible tale had been corroborated by other witnesses and by photographs, "is the answer to politics."

The thirty qualities of Louis J. McNally, missing salary account of the home, and his wife, Margaret, were also brought out by Mr. Cooper's evidence showing that during the last eight years the couple had deposited $48,888.51 in one bank account alone, although during the period McNally's salary amounted to only about $28,000. Most of the deposits during the eight years, testimony disclosed, were in cash and the markings on McNally's checks indicated that although they had been cashed at the Long Island City Savings Bank, where the accounts were kept, none had been deposited. McNally also holds more than $36,000 in mortgages, according to previous testimony.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Mr. Cooper cited a section of the Penal Code, under which he intimated certain officials at the home might be prosecuted, and announced that he was forwarding a transcript of all testimony to District Attorney William C. Dodge immediately. Mr. Dodge, who had an assistant at the hearing, said last night that he would read the testimony immediately and if evidence warranted would present the matter to the grand jury.

Was a Sea Cook
Mr. Johnson, a tall, slightly stooped old man, wearing a dark coarse woolen jacket and trousers that seemed part of a uniform, took the stand with obvious pleasure. His rosy, lined face, whose sunken cheeks and lips proclaimed toothless gums, fairly beamed at the questioning began. Several times during his recital Mr. Cooper had to slow him up so that the stenographer could get heavily accented words.

By profession, Johnson explained, he was a cook and sailor. Apparently there are few places in the world he has not explored. As he rattled on about his travels, despite Mr. Cooper's frequent efforts to bring him back to the subject in hand, he spoke of Australia, France, England, Germany, Norway, Sweden and of sailing 'round the Horn.

In the day of the wind jammers, Johnson explained, freights carried no doctors, and "not even any medical chest." It was the captain who had a general knowledge of medicine. In pinches he would call the cook to help out.

Surgery by the Book.
"We'd be out of sight of land," Johnson said, his head with its thinning white hair wagging up and down, "six or seven months and there wasn't no one to take care of them sailors but me and the captain. We had a German and French doctor book and the captain picked the medicines out of them and told me what to give the sick ones. Yeh, but there wasn't many sick in them days—a little salt and water would fix most of them and we had plenty of that. When they broke their leg we had a regular frame to put it in."

Then Johnson, according to his narrative, which flowed right over Mr. Cooper's verbal interjections, worked in Chilean mines as a cook and "doctor assistant." He wound up in the lumber camps of Washington and after the World War cooked on steamships for a time.

"But when," asked Mr. Cooper, taking advantage of Johnson's pause for breath, "did you come to the City Home?"

"About two years ago," was the reply. "It was after I'd worked my legs. I went to Bellevue first, but you know how hard it is to graft skin on the bone and I stayed there awhile."

Johnson then launched into a jumbled narrative of his experiences in the city hospitals. If Mr. Cooper tried to get in a word there would be an enthusiastic "hold on a minute." The audience was with him, so the counsel let him wear himself out.

Touches on His Lost Teeth.
Touching on the loss of his teeth, Johnson said they all had been pulled out at one of the hospitals. It seemed that he was promised a new set, but that he never got them—that bothered him no end because "I can't chew." He illustrated by grinding his gums together and joined in the subsequent laughter.

He finally wound up in the City Home, and Mr. Cooper was so relieved that he could hardly speak. John J. Smith, former head overseer at the home, Johnson said, discovered that he had had some "craps" in medicine and ordered him to report at the clinic.

"That place," Johnson said, "used to be the morgue, and it was where the and the foot doctor worked. It was the last shack on the waterfront. The fellow before me put himself on the bum and I took his place. I found the place filthy and dirty, so I gave it a good washing. I went down and burned a lot of different color paint, and when I got through it looked like a blacksmith shop."

admitted that he had seen the diseased inmates during his bi-weekly trips to the home but had never seen Johnson treating them. He described Johnson as a "good-natured fellow," but added that he should never have been allowed to do the work he was doing.

"It's a disgrace," Dr. Pettit said, "the patients haven't a chance. Conditions are even worse than these pictures indicate. Why those cases are so bad that I wouldn't want to treat them myself. I'd be doing it against the medical practice act. You need to be treated generally for such cases. Treating them all alike, as Johnson does, you could treat from now until doomsday and they'd never be cured."

Aubrey J. Drummond, of 343 East Eighty-sixth street, who took the photographs, which Mr. Cooper explained "no paper in town would print," described conditions as he found them on his visit. So vivid was his recital that a woman in the hearing room fainted.

EXPERIMENT WITH VITAMINS AS A NEW INSANITY CURE

Elgin, Ill., March 23.—(AP)—Scientists at an experimenting with Vitamin B, in the hope it will furnish the power to cure dementia praecox, puzzling mental disorder. Having noted that the use of the vitamin appeared to increase the brain efficiency of a group of school children, the scientists turned their experiments to the dementia praecox patients of the Elgin State Hospital for the insane.

Two groups of patients are being used as subjects. One receives a normal diet. The other is being given, with each meal, a thick brown liquid, composed of ammonium citrate and liver extract, with an alcoholic concentrate, a combination described as being of high Vitamin B. Content.

JOHNSON CRITICIZED
Philadelphia, March 23.—(AP)—Bitterly criticizing General Hugh S. Johnson and leaders in the automobile industry, union employees of the Edward G. Budd Manufacturing Company have empowered a committee to "take whatever steps it deems necessary to bring the Budd situation to a speedy solution."

Threatened action toward another strike at the body manufacturing plant was sidetracked by those in charge of the United Automobile Workers Union meeting last night. "Right now is no time to talk about such a move," was the answer given to an inquiry from the floor.

Why Can't Other Manufacturers Use Carrene?

For the past ten years Carrene has been used in large commercial cooling systems. The U. S. Capitol, Radio City in New York, the Chicago Stadium and hundreds of great buildings all over the country have depended upon Carrene in their cooling systems—where absolute safety, low cost of operation, freedom from service problems are vital matters—as vital as they are in the home.

No other manufacturer or engineer had been able to produce a household unit to use Carrene. Wm. C. Grunow, working with his engineers night and day for two years with an expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars, finally developed a household unit to use Carrene thereby winning the exclusive right to Carrene for domestic refrigerators.

SENTENCED TO BE SHOT FOR CAUSING A WRECK

Sverdlovsk, U. S. S. R., March 23.—(AP)—Two death sentences were decreed today as swift justice was meted out to those held responsible in a freight and passenger train collision in which 33 were killed.

The engineer of the passenger train and the station master of Tavatul, near where the wreck occurred March 12, were sentenced to be shot.

Five others charged with responsibility in the wreck, members of the train and station crews, were given prison terms.

The collision occurred after the passenger train, traveling at high speed, ran through a closed semaphore at the station of Tavatul.

WAPPING

The church flower committee met at the home of Mrs. Lillian E. Grant, and made arrangements for the work of the summer, last Monday evening.

The Federated Sunday School will hold their regular monthly social at the Community Church House, this evening at 7:30 o'clock. Every department in the school is cordially invited. Rev. David Carter will have charge of the games, and refreshments will be served by the committee, Mrs. Ansel Christenson and Mrs. Sheldick, and her Sunday School class.

Raymond W. Belcher had his second operation last Monday and is reported as getting along nicely at the Hartford hospital.

Rev. and Mrs. David Carter were appointed to the committee for the Easter pageant for Easter Sunday morning at the Sunday school session. They held a rehearsal last Sunday afternoon at the church.

Little Georgie Palmer is ill at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Palmer, with the group.

Mrs. Frank M. Dart is improving quite rapidly since returning to her home.

BARBERS BREAK CODE
Washington, March 23.—(AP)—The NRA may frown on price cutting wars, but many members of the House are smiling at one that is, so to speak, right under their nose.

A sign outside the shining barber shop in the new House office building reads in effect: "Haircuts two bits; Shaves 15 cents."

For years the barbers in the House side of the Capitol and in the old office building have charged 50 cents for a haircut and 25 cents for a shave.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Raleigh, N. C.—Witnesses were a little premature when they called Coroner L. M. Waring after seeing a train run over an aged negro on a trestle. When the train had passed, the negro got up unhurt. He had snuggled between the rails.

Groton, Conn.—A moist finger told Irving H. Poppe that it will be a "rather wet and cool summer."

He figured that the vernal equinox occurred at 2:28 a. m., Wednesday and that the wind prevailing at that time should prevail for six months.

So he had a policeman raise a wet finger at the crucial moment. It dried quickest on the northeast side.

Monroe, La.—Four year old "Bubber" Le Vasseur went out to play with a lariat in his backyard. His father, Patrolman E. N. Le Vasseur, found his boy dangling from a clothes line. Apparently the child had thrown the lasso over his neck in play and jumped from a bench. He died in a hospital.

Deer Island, N. E.—A lobster weighing 31 1-2 pounds has been dragged from St. Andrews Bay by 'Aptain Willis Doughty and will be turned over to the Dominion biological station at St. Andrews. One of the largest ever taken from local waters, the gigantic crustacean was caught in a scallop drag.

Washington, Pa.—What Charlie Armstrong, Washington, and Jefferson's 240 pound gridiron tackle, would do to a tennis racket causes shudders on the W. and J. campus. Working on the college's new tennis courts yesterday, he heaved so manfully that he broke the schools only crowbar.

Chicago—Mrs. Peter Holland, 74 year old "Flying Grandma" who ran away to take passage to Germany on the Graf Zepplin, wishes to spout some new wings. She ran away again yesterday to the Municipal airport—against the wishes of her two daughters—to take lessons in flying.

Chicago—Twenty-four police lieutenants are wondering if they should not have remained sergeants. After they had obtained a court order compelling their promotion from sergeants to lieutenants they learned they had promoted themselves out of the department.

For the City Council failed to make any appropriation for their pay.

ASSASSINATION PLOT

Bucharest, Rumania, March 23.—(AP)—Plans to assassinate Premier

George Tatarescu and other government leaders were declared by police to have been revealed today.

The revelation was made, authorities said, by the arrest of Professor Gomoju one of the most prominent surgeons in Rumania and a member of the National organization, "Kultur Ex-Patria," which is strongly sympathizing with the Fascist Iron Guard.

Gomoju was charged with sending threatening letters to members of the government and other influential persons throughout the country.

FRIDAY, MARCH 23.

NEXT FALL'S ISSUE

One may wonder to what extent the people of Connecticut—the masses of the people in the towns and cities and the inhabitants of the farms—realize that in the hearing of the milk injunction suit in the Hartford County Superior Court there has been created all the potential material necessary for an extremely important political campaign in this state next fall.

It is becoming increasingly clear that, in serving as counsel for the Connecticut Producer-Dealers Association in its petition for the restraint of activities of the Board of Milk Control, Hugh M. Alcorn has been championing the cause of the people of the state against the aggressions of Big Business of a peculiarly oppressive kind.

This was no mere lawsuit. It was a highly intelligent and courageous attempt to bring into the light hidden sub-surface operations of a device which, ostensibly created for the good of the people, has wrought no good whatever to them, but much of injury.

Currently only a moderate degree of interest has been excited by the revelation, brought out by Mr. Alcorn's questioning of Chairman Charles G. Morris of the State Milk Control Board, that the latter is now and was at the time of his appointment by Governor Cross a large stockholder in National Dairies, with which several of the largest milk dealing companies in the state are affiliated. But if this testimony and the related fact are not dealt with in every Republican rally in this state next autumn it will be because the party's leaders have forgotten the art of convincing political argument.

The admitted facts are that, while it has been repeatedly asserted in behalf of Mr. Morris that he had disposed of his dairy interests before he became head of the Milk Board, he is actually heavily interested in the profits of the big dealers. And, more than that, he was put in his position of tremendous power over the milk industry of the state by a governor who knew that he was so interested and who, according to Morris' testimony, "didn't mind."

In other words the key man in a board endowed with autocratic authority to fix high consumer prices of a vital necessary and low producer price for that necessary is a person who cannot but profit out of exploitation of both the public and the milk producers of the state, the worse the exploitation the greater the profit—and the governor of this state put him in that position knowing that the cheaper the Milk Board could compel the farmer to sell milk and the dearer it could compel the public to buy it, the better for the personal profit of the board's chairman.

It's a rotten mess that Alcorn has exposed in this injunction suit and it can hardly fail to be the outstanding issue of the next state campaign—together with its less important but equally odiferous twin, the State Liquor Control Act.

It's an issue on which, with Alcorn himself as candidate for governor, the Republican party can sweep this state from end to end next November, and will—unless it deliberately throws away its opportunities.

UNION RECOGNITION

The decision of Cheney Brothers to recognize the local unit of the United Textile Workers of America, as representative of its members in collective bargaining with the company, which was arrived at after sufficient time for full consideration, fulfills beyond question every moral and legal obligation of the employing concern toward the one feature of the National Recovery

Act that is making more trouble than all others. The company, the employees and the community are to be congratulated that the management of the big silk mills has adopted this broad, tolerant and courageous position. We use the last of these adjectives advisedly for at this particular juncture it takes a rather fine faith in its employer good sense to deal with them as a factor—even in a secondary sense—in the American Federation of Labor.

That the American Federation of Labor is more interested in advancing its own power and profit than it is in restoring industrial well being has been pretty clearly evidenced by its course in the automobile controversy, and to that very considerable extent it has made needlessly difficult the task of those who are sincerely seeking to establish the NRA principle of collective bargaining—of whom unquestionably there are many.

It reflects discredit and the faintest of intentions on the part of the Cheney concern, therefore, when it is able to put aside the injurious potentialities of Federation politics and deal with a Federation affiliate, without prejudice, as an element of the Manchester silk industry. That its confidence and good faith will prove to be not mistaken there is every reason to believe. Though they have organized in large numbers under the aegis of the United Textile Workers and, therefore, in affiliation with the A. F. of L., these Manchester workers are not of the kind likely to permit itself to be blindly misled by professional agitators.

Whether wisely or unwisely a large number of the Cheney workers have chosen to do their collective bargaining through the United Textile Workers. The company has acknowledged their complete right to that kind of representation. There is neither ground nor reason in this for any misunderstanding. There is no room for mutual suspicion—no cause for doubt that the bargaining, when there is any to be done, will be done in a spirit of fairness and consideration.

Equally it is made clear that if there are other employees who do not wish to be represented by the U. T. W. A. they, too, will enjoy the same right, without denial, to select their own representatives. And just as clear that there will be no closed shop at the Cheney Mills.

The closed shop is manifestly contrary to the theory and policy of the National Recovery Act for it would deny what the act supports—the right of the employe to bargain through the agent of his own selection; which is the right of majority and minority alike.

That is the rock on which the American Federation of Labor is now pounding, on which it will wreck either itself or American industry unless it modifies its aspirations—the determination to twist the National Recovery Act into a legal warrant for the compulsory 100 per cent A. F. of L. shop.

It is not to be believed for an instant that the high grade silk worker of this town will, now that they have their own organization, permit themselves to be enlisted in any such fantastic enterprise as a ruinous labor war for the closed shop—the ideal of the professional agitator alone.

AN EXAMPLE

Attention was recently called in these columns to the fact, reported by American correspondents on the spot, that just two buyers from the United States were attending the great Easter Fair at Leipzig at which, heretofore, millions of dollars worth of orders for German goods were placed annually by American firms.

Now comes a doubly interesting statement from the F. W. Woolworth Company. In reply to an inquiry from the Non-Sectarian Anti-Nazi League to Champion Human Rights, relative to the policies of the various variety chains in connection with the further purchase of German goods, the Woolworth Company announces that it has ceased the placing of orders in Germany altogether. This is merely interesting since it might be entirely the result of a concerted boycott—in fact the Woolworth people attributed the action to pronounced "sales resistance" in their nearly 2,000 stores. But the announcement went further.

The heavy business in low priced variety goods hitherto given to Germany by the company, it is volunteered, will not go to other European countries but the goods will be made in America "owing to the depreciation of the American dollar in foreign exchange."

Here is a striking example in vindication of those who, for the first three and a half years of the depression, fought against the retention of the gold standard—and an adequate answer to the well remembered screams of those who were horror struck at the proposed "cheapening" of the dollar.

Thousands of American men and women will make goods to be sold over the Woolworth counters alone this year who would be sucking their thumbs in idleness if those goods were being made in Germany or anywhere else outside the United States.

And the dollar is still too high. There are more such gains to be reaped from wise reflation.

NEARING THE LUDICROUS

Unless President Roosevelt gauges his movements during the next few days with extraordinary skill he will, if he continues to seek personal control over the labor situation, run the risk of getting into a position verging on the ludicrous. Nothing could be worse than that, either for Mr. Roosevelt or for the country. If ever there was a time when firmness, dignity and a definite policy were needed in the White House it is right now.

The nation is seething with an hysteria of strikes and threats of strikes. They are the result of an extensive propaganda which charges the manufacturers and the employing groups with "chiseling"—charges which though doubtless true enough in a relatively small number of instances are utterly untrue when made against industry as a whole.

President Roosevelt, in undertaking personal mediation in the trouble between the automotive industry and the American Federation of Labor and in the railroad dispute, has taken a step which, unless he exercises prompt decision, is likely to result in his becoming the central figure in a shrieking mob, every member of it plucking at his sleeve and pulling and hauling him about. Nobody can maintain dignity or influence in a situation like that, trying to face a dozen ways at once, to move in as many directions at the same time.

With the automobile and railroad strikes already on his hands the President yesterday pleaded with the Pacific coast longshoremen to postpone a strike pending further negotiations. There are many other groups to which he could, with equal justification, make similar pleas. Presently every waking hour of his might be occupied in a more or less ineffectual effort to adjudicate some local labor quarrel.

That is not the job of the President of the United States. Is it not reasonable to expect a chief executive of this nation to deal with basic causes rather than with specific manifestations of economic disorder? Is it not entirely possible that the President could accomplish something far more worth while by devoting one whole day to secluded contemplation of his recovery program, searching out whatever fundamental defect has bred these labor troubles, than by spending a month in a hopeless attempt to patch up separate quarrels between employers and employes?

This nation can last of all afford to have its government rendered ridiculous at this critical hour.

Washington, March 23.—Grafters and others who suddenly find themselves bounced from the government service often wonder how it came about.

Only a few insiders know—and they'll never tell.

The truth is that wire-tapping by federal agents didn't end when Uncle Sam gave up trying to enforce prohibition. The Secret Service, Department of Justice, and espionage agencies in various departments and New Deal organizations have developed it with many new scientific wrinkles.

It's a simple matter to listen in on not only every telephone talk, but also every other conversation in a government employe's office.

One device cuts in on a telephone extension and records every conversation on a dictaphone.

Or a high official can have a contraption installed which will produce a buzz in one of his desk drawers as often as a suspect's telephone is in use, whereupon he can pull the drawer open and hear issuing therefrom the entire conversation.

Hidden microphones sometimes are installed in others in another room of the building can hear all non-telephonic conversations.

Evidence in recent scandals here has been gathered by such means—I'm not at liberty to tell which ones. It's a question whether the methods are used only to detect dishonesty or whether they're sometimes not used for political or other purposes. Some officials believe in discretion on the phone at all times.

Ethics in Business
 When Councillor Boris Skvirsky, President Bogdanov of Amtorg, and other Soviet agents discuss Russian trade with Harry Payer at the RFC, they lean their elbows on a desk once used by the Czars.

It's a huge object of dark oak, intricately carved in female cupids, bearded gargoyle, acorns and what-nots in the Flemish renaissance style. It has secret compartments, is 200 years old and resembles nothing else you'll find in any government office.

It reposed in the Winter Palace at St. Petersburg until the Soviet government sold it to someone who sold it to Payer.

Payer is special counsel to RFC's export and import division. As assistant secretary of state, he was called "Mr. Pickwick," because he looks like that. He says he can work better if things he likes are around him.

So he also has a big Italian screen with pretty scenes painted on it, his own drapes, and a painting by Bogert—"Evening in Venice"—which lights up if you pull a chain.

Everyone in RFC has come to the Payer office to take a big look.

Robinson Stubs Toe
 Did Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana stub his toe during the battle over restoration of veteran benefits and federal salaries? His political enemies think he did—and they've been waiting for him to stub.

For two days individual senators piled amendments on the independent office appropriations bill until additional expense amounted to about $180,000,000 for restoration of the federal salary cut and $120,000,000 more for veterans.

When Borah suggested that official drawing $6,000 a year or more continue to take the 15 per cent pay cut, Robinson assured the Senate he had no desire to raise his own pay. But when White House promise of a veto came.

NO RUN FOR HIS MONEY

The phrase "running into money" never has been anything but a mockery to Jole Ray. For most of his life has been traveling against stiff competition, and rarely has got more for it than a slim purse or a slap on the back or a medal that was not negotiable.

Once he was one of the most colorful athletes that this country ever produced, a world champion miler. When he got too old for that, he went in for 26-mile marathons and showed his ancient heels to many a field of youngsters. But finally his running days were over, so he tried snowshoe racing. Dance marathons were next, and Jole would struggle along with hundreds of hours, supporting the tounded heads of a succession of sleeping partners on his oversized chest. If the promoters were still around at the finish, Jole might get a few dollars to send back to his family in Illinois.

When New York state passed a law against dance marathons the promoters organized some endurance spectacles called walkathons, in which the pairs of contestants staggered around in circles for days and nights until they dropped. That was duck soup for Jole, whose legs were so strong that he could sleep standing up. Even before there was a song written about it, people paid good money to see a dream walking.

Jole Ray is in a roller skating marathon now—a 21-day race over in Newark, N. J.

INHERITS MILLIONS AND REALIZES Life Ambition—To Lead a Band

By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, March 24.—No baton-wielder in a night club is surprised when some bibulous guest proffers a sizeable bit of currency for the privilege of leading the orchestra in a couple of numbers.

This is generally all right because a well-trained band will pay no attention to the ill-timed gesturings of an amateur.

Psychologists could explain such an egocentric urge in terms of repression and complexes. But here is the story of Billy Bledkopf. He is a slim, nattily-clad man who goes to the Club Richman almost every night to lead the orchestra. His face is brown and seamed, but you wouldn't guess that he is 61. You would guess, though, that he has a lot of money.

Bledkopf is pretty secretive about his antecedents. He left home long ago, following the band of a traveling show. He hooded it until shows, doubled in melodrama, played Hamlet in crossroads lodges, balls, marched in street parades, and never envied anybody but the band leader. He traveled with medicine shows, became a carnival grifter. He always was trying to get a job in a band, but his talent obviously lay in sideshow professions.

He seldom heard from his family, and when he did it usually was bad news. In a period of two years he got four messages, telling of the deaths of his father, mother, brother and sister. Billy, the only one left, found himself with an inheritance of $4,000,000.

Bledkopf vs. Boredom
 What to do? Bledkopf tried travel and didn't like it. Got a

SORE, ACHING MUSCLES HELPED BY HEAT

A large number of muscular aches or pains which are commonly called "muscular rheumatism" are caused by the doctor as fibrositis. This disease, rare to an inflammation of the fibrous tissue, and may affect many parts of the body. When it attacks the muscles of the neck it is called wry-neck or torticollis. When located in the muscles of the lower back, and undoubtedly termed lumbago, and undoubtedly this type of inflammation is often found to precede, or to be associated with arthritis. Sometimes the patient confuses the pain of fibrositis with neuritis or neuralgia.

This type of muscular ache is found more often among men than among women. It often follows unusual exercise or exertion and the stiffness which follows long continued exercise is only a mild form of fibrositis. Those who are prone to what they call muscular rheumatism the attacks may seem to be brought on by exposure to cold or wet. Occasionally, the muscular pain develops after a wrench or strain and in such cases injury acts as an exciting cause.

However, the main or underlying cause of muscular pain whether called rheumatism, lumbago, wry-neck, or sciatic rheumatism, is the same and in every case the principal cause is a systemic toxemia. This self poisoning may be arising from the intestines, and is often accompanied by excessive fermentation of starchy foods. Once the underlying toxic condition is present pus pockets may form and the pus from these will then be discharged into the blood stream.

The cure of fibrositis depends upon clearing up the systemic toxemia which is present, together with suitable attention to any pus pockets which may be present. In the treatment of muscular rheumatism or fibrositis, I advise the use of the fasting cure as this will prove to be the means of obtaining the quickest possible result. During the fasting treatment, the blood stream cleanses itself of poisons which are irritating the fibrous tissue. A most important part of the treatment is the enema, which must be taken each day.

I also prescribe various forms of heat which is to be applied over the affected region. The heat may be provided by baking with a desiccating lamp, by the electric pad, the hot water bottle, or by hot applications. Good way or you to secure results, take two baths daily in tub of hot water to which has been added a handful of epsom salts. However, the muscular soreness will easily disappear within two or three days after the start of the fast, in the average case.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Some Diseases More Prevalent in One Sex than in Other)

Question: Miss M. R. of Philadelphia, Pa.: "A recent magazine article which I read pointed out that there is a difference in diseases, and that one disease will seem to attack men more than women while another disease will attack more women than men. I have lost the article and am wondering if you know anything about this?"

Answer: Yes, I remember reading the article to which you refer which shows that "more men than women are suffering from defective hearing, diabetes, frequent colds and rupture. However, more women than men suffer from nervousness, constipation, prostatic, varicose veins, gallstones and sleeplessness. Appendicitis is one disorder which is equally common in both sexes.

(Use of Lector)

Question: From A. B. M. of Oakland Calif.: "Could you tell me what is the main reason for which leucoria is prescribed?"

Answer: In the past leucoria has been prescribed as an ingredient in cough preparations. It is thought to be a good remedy to use in overcoming coughs. However, as a general rule I do not prescribe the use of any medicinal preparations to stop coughs. If you wish to cure more information along this line, I suggest that you write to me in care of the Herald and send a large self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for the article on Cough Causes.

(Night Sweats)

Question: From "Grandmother": "I am troubled with excessive night sweats. What do you advise?"

Answer: The cold, clammy sweats at night are a warning of very serious trouble in the body. The main part of the treatment must be directed toward removing the general toxemia which is present. I advise that you write to me, giving your full name and address and enclosing a large stamped envelope so that I can send you my article called, "Beware of Night Sweats" and also some additional instructions in regard to diet.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

Washes, blues, rinses and dries! How's that for the work of one electric washer? And besides all this the new Frima washer actually fills and empties the tub automatically. Its $89.50 at Potterton and Krahn's.

Bananas for reducing? Yes, that's exactly what leading doctors are recommending. Now, the overly plump person not only watches calories, but at the same time chooses foods that will protect the health while losing those extra troublesome pounds.

A whole banana covered with milk is a luscious combination that won't add any fat layers or increase double chins. Yet the vitamins are there. The most desirable protein for repair work is present. The most suitable minerals for renewing tissues and warding off acidity are well supplied. And it is a filling lunch that will satisfy the appetite. It is certainly an easy prescription and a delicious one.

Those 50 cents semi-service and chiffon stockings at The Norton Shoe are all first quality, you know, and they certainly are long lived.

If you wish to remove the fish taste from forks and knives, rub them with a small piece of butter, or fresh lemon peel before washing. This will very effectively remove the odor because, as you know, butter very easily takes the odor of anything it is close to.

On your way home tonight drop in at the Princess Candy Shop for a right tasty sandwich—and if you care for beer and wine the quality here is sure to suit your taste.

Spring blouses borrow from the past, making use of the very fabrics that Colonial ladies wore when they waited for their heroes to return from Valley Forge.

Taffeta has crept into blouses as well as dress fashions and for crisp smartness, it can't be beat. Gay plaid taffetas in such interesting color combinations as red, green, and white; blue, yellow and beige or gray, give an elegance that we've and dash they give a suit! And when you take off the coat to sit down to lunch, how stunning you'll look!

By the way, always keep that not-so-small point in mind when you go about the pleasant task of buying a blouse. Not only should it be flattering under the suit coat but daintily smart and becoming when the coat is removed and has to stand on its own. Don't be like the girl who bought a too-short-in-the-back blouse and then didn't dare to take off her coat, whatever the temperature.

If you need face powder take advantage of the 98 cent Coty special at Weidens—a perfume and perfume with every box of powder.

Soft music, spring moonlight streaming through the windows of the ballroom, slender dancers in Easter evening gowns, and what evening gown!

Dance frocks of materials as wispy and ethereal as snowflakes (if you can give a thought to snowflakes when spring has you in thrall) vie with stiffer stuffs such as taffeta. Seem as if no matter where you turn this season you bump into taffeta. They're using it for everything—blouses, daytime frocks and now evening dresses. And why begrudge it a fling? There's nothing quite so flattering and it lends itself thrillingly to several new evening styles.

SHEBA QUEEN'S DOMAIN DESCRIBED BY FLIERS

exact location of the dead city cannot be fixed," said Malraux, adding: "We were unable to take the longitude and latitude of the spot which we reached after five hours of flying almost due north from Djibouti, French Somaliland."

In their report on the flight March 8 to the French air ministry, it was indicated the city was about 1,000 miles southeast of Jerusalem. They had headquarters at Djibouti.

"Explosions could mark the site exactly," Malraux went on, "by measuring the number of miles from a given starting point."

The size of the cemetery convinced Malraux he had found Sheba's real metropolis.

Had Three Provinces "Sheba seemed to have three provinces," he said, "Mares, previously believed to be the capital of all the great Queen's territory, was merely the provincial capital, I believe, like Meim—another known city."

"Their cemeteries are only about a quarter of a mile long while the metropolis of the newly discovered city is a mile and a quarter long."

This leads me to believe that Neith was the capital of the kingdom."

Malraux said the city itself was three miles long and about half as wide. Captain Molinier, adding his impressions to their discussions of the hazardous flight, declared "It was a fantastic vision."

Exhibit Photographs Exhibiting photographs taken at a height of a thousand feet over the legendary city, Malraux pointed out 20 temples and towers whose windowless walls and set-back architecture like modern skyscrapers rising above the lower houses further convinced him the city dates to the time of the famous Queen.

The city, he said, is surrounded by the ruins of a double wall outside which are pitched the tents of

Add a bit of vegetable variety to your Sunday dinner by serving fresh lima beans—two quarts for 35 cents at Geronne's. Maybe you're very fond of dandelion greens—if so you can get a pound for 35 cents.

Here's a tasty dish—one of those pungent mixtures that goes so well with the newly popular beverages—which uses six slices of vitamin-D bread as a main ingredient. (It takes approximately six slices, with crusts removed, to make the two cups of soft crumbs.)

1 1/2 cups milk
2 cups soft bread crumbs
2 tbsps butter, salt and pepper
1 1/2 tbsps anchovy paste
4 hard-cooked eggs
Bread toast points
Heat milk, add crumbs and cook over low flame, stirring constantly until smooth. Add butter, season with anchovy paste and salt. Fold in sliced eggs. Serve with toast points. 6 portions.

For a good fitting bandeau or brassiere try a new Bon Ton at Brainerd's—special tomorrow at 39 and 59 cents.

Printed blouses are smart again this season. Try a red and white print with a navy or gray suit or a blue, yellow and white print with a black ensemble. Look for a printed blouse to match the lining of your suit jacket. Grand idea.

Top your Sunday supper salad with some appetizing hot house radishes from Geronne's—2 bunches for 15 cents.

Miss eleven-year-old will love the three-piece suits, emulating mother's own. She can have a pleated skirt, short jacket and then a matching seven-eighths topcoat that she'll wear over separate dresses as well as with the suit. Her little sister, aged seven, can wear the same kind of outfit. Cute? Even the fussiest woman in the neighborhood (the one who on ordinary days is annoyed by youngsters) will be offering cookies to your darlings.

How about a smart little outfit for your new suit? Saw some part linen ones for $1.00 at the Mary Carney Hat Shop.

The little party hats are the latest fashion news. You don't go bare-headed evenings this spring and summer. Instead you cover your curls with a wisp of tulle, or three braids of lame made into a cap-like affair, or a little drapery of net caught over one ear with a diminutive flower fancy.

The Lily Beauty Parlor now has the new ringlet curlers featured at the International Hairdressers' convention at New York. They require less heat and less time for drying—and as for the results Mary Pickford would be a bit envious.

To remove coffee stains, stretch linen over a bowl and pour boiling water through it. For tea stains first pour on glycerine and then pour boiling water through the stain.

Good looking buckles for your spring cottons—10-59 cents at Hale's.

American women have welcomed with rapture the fish and bird silhouettes of Schiaparelli. Those of us who haven't the contours of spring robins are pretending we have. The dresses help by emphasizing busts and then sweeping backward to a small bustle or a tiny train.

Give your Spring suit an added flare by tucking a smart about your neck early Easter morning. There are the best looking scarf remnants at the Cheney Salesroom for 25 and 35 cents—it takes only a minute to make one.

Speaking of scarves, they're getting a lot of attention from designers of children's modes. How about letting Johnny look as if he were in Uncle Sam's navy? Dress him in a white pique or linen sailor suit with red, white and blue tie, anchors on the pocket and all the rest of the trappings that give a small boy pleasure.

If you do not fancy sailor tops there are little coats patterned after father's topcoat which may please. Both double and single breasted with masculine looking pockets, laced at collars, these are very smart for small boys.

That little pink and white angel who is too young to go to Sunday School comes in for his share of fashion, too. He'll look more kissable than ever in blue, pink or yellow sweaters. Twin sweaters, mind you—a little slip-over and then a matching cardigan.

Hale's have dedicated their whole second floor to Spring—did you know? The swank sports apparel will make your heart flutter and as for the cottons—well, they're the neatest tricks you can ever hope for. There's a girl's shop on this floor too you know, that caters to girls from 7 to 14 exclusively.

Does "la petite" call for a coat instead of a suit? All right. Then look for double-breasted models that are as tailored as Greta Garbo's polo coats. These are too sweet for words. And so are coats with cape sleeves or attached shoulder caps that swing gracefully when little girls fly down the street to rescue the pet kitten from the neighbor's son who is diligently pulling its tail.

Speaking of gloves—Glace kidskins are best-sellers for street wear. However, if you're one who likes white washable doekins, stick to it and still be in fashion. Remember, though, that it's better to buy imported doekins, a trifle more expensive, but guaranteed to wash without shrinking or losing shape.

Some send flowers, others send candy, wouldn't it be a bit novel to send your portrait as an Easter greeting? Not only would it be a bit different but it's sure to be appreciated. Slip the photo into a Fallot Studio, and have Mr. Fallot give you a sitting.

Candle wax can be removed from table linens by placing a clean blotter over the spot and pressing with a hot iron. Slip the blotter often to keep a fresh place over the spot.

When you're down to Cheney's salesroom selecting your spring prints and crepes step over to the cravat department and surprise dad, or son or husband with something for his Easter outfit. You'll find the most attractive designs and spring colors—and so inexpensive.

The Bargain Hound will shout glad tidings if you mention things advertised in her column while you're dashing about your spring shopping.

private building industries has become one of the foremost problems of recovery. Methods of economical slum clearance have been found particularly difficult to evolve, owing in large measure to the fact that these areas are in highly populous centers where assessed valuations are high. Private home building has remained sluggish, because of the obvious inability or disinclination of many families to undertake it in times of unemployment or reduced incomes.

Not Much Profit Building projects at the moment, furthermore, do not promise sufficient profit to attract private investment capital in any volume. Building costs, investment quarters complain, remain relatively high in most parts of the country. Nevertheless, with some recovery already in sight, workers are not regarded as likely to accept reductions in wage scales, and the tendency of prices of materials, with gold devaluation and NRA codes, has been to rise.

What the solution may be remains to be seen, but new plans are expected to be hatched in Washington, and with housing shortages beginning to appear in some parts of the country, private capital should gradually trickle back into the business, as recovery progresses in other lines.

The decision has no effect on the milk control act creating the board, and the board retains its price-fixing powers which the court upheld, and the quota system and regulations for dealers' important monthly reports on their business.

Commissioner Templeton today said the board has been working for some time on the proposed local committee system for fixing equitable milk quotas, which was originally proposed in Litchfield county through the Connecticut Dairy Association. Something similar has been advocated by the Milk Producers' Council in which Mr. Pierpont is chairman of the marketing committee. The committee of three in each of the 169 towns would refer any troublesome questions to a central committee, possibly of nine members, and the authority of last resort on quotas would be the board.

Regarding the proposed regulation insuring all producers are paid fully for all milk sold by their dealers as fluid milk, Mr. Templeton promised that a very close check on this phase is to be made, pointing out that the board has power to bring dealers and producers in to its hearings to testify and submit their records in the effort to adjust the dealer-producer relationship. Changes in haulage charges are expected.

REICH REARMING, FRANCE DECLARES

Paris, March 23.—(AP)—France Daily declares that Germany is violating the Versailles Treaty by rearming in a note sent by the French government to Great Britain and made public today.

In the note France says she refuses to sanction this rearmament and at the same time join other powers in disarmament.

"Germany is bringing up her armaments to a much higher level than that authorized by the treaty," says the note.

One paragraph of the note makes the suggestion that another form of conference—"rearmament" conference" be called among the powers concerned.

The paragraph in question says the disarmament commission "is entitled to say in conjunction with all other interests at stake whether these principles be departed from," referring to the covenant on disarmament provisions.

Says the note, five vital problems must be settled:

"1. The status of semi-military organizations;

"2. The methods of supervision;

"3. Temporary and eventually permanent limitation on arms budgets;

"4. The control of the manufacture of armaments;

"5. Guarantee of the observance of the convention."

The note says a violation of the convention "ought to be considered a threat to the community" and "common action should come into play if its infringement becomes aggression."

BIGGER MAIL PLANES

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Postoffice Department officials today said large scale resumption of air mail service by the Army awaited delivery of a number of new bombing planes, each capable of carrying 2,000 pounds of mail.

The department said military authorities planned to use these bombers on the heavier routes.

The Army is now flying the mail on eight runs and it is expected one of the first additions to this service will be the Chicago-St. Paul route.

BIG PRIZES WON ON SWEEPSTAKES

"Maggie" of Long Island City Gets $150,000; Other American Winners.

New York, March 23.—(AP)—"Maggie" of 130 83rd street, Long Island City, New York, held an Irish Grand National sweepstakes ticket on Golden Miller, the horse which today won the Sweepstakes.

"Maggie" got one of the 18 first prizes of $150,000 each.

There were no other holders of tickets on Golden Miller in the United States.

Three Americans held tickets on Delancey, the horse which came in second.

They are: Laura Anderson, 624 Forty-eighth street, Brooklyn, N. Y.; "Wrigley's P. K.," North End, Boston.

"Hillside" of Bradford, Pa. Each of these three won some of the 18 second prizes of $75,000.

Only one ticket was held in the United States on Thomond II, the horse which came in third. It is by William H. Sweet, Stacy street, Marshfield, Mass.

He is one of the 18 persons who wins $50,000 each.

NEW HAVEN DIVORCES

New Haven, March 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Thelma Briggs of Wallingford was granted a divorce from Ernest Briggs by Judge Ernest C. Simpson in Superior Court today on grounds of desertion.

Mrs. Briggs said that soon after their marriage her husband took her to Concord, N. H., and that a few days later in 1927, he left her and that she had never seen him again.

Mrs. Josephine Beecher of West Haven was granted a divorce from William H. Beecher, former assessor in the town of West Haven on grounds of misconduct.

A divorce on similar grounds was given to Allan T. Shephard of Wallingford from William Shephard.

Golden Miller, Favorite, Wins the Grand National

DELANEIGE, SECOND; IS AMERICAN HORSE

Thomond Runs Third in Great Turf Classic—Over 200,000 Spectators See Favorite Win for First Time in Years—His Odds Were 19 to 2.

Aintree, March 23.—(AP)—Dorothy Paget's Golden Miller, the favorite, today won the 96th running of the Grand National before a crowd of 200,000.

J. B. Snow's American owned Delaneige was second and Thomond II, owned by John Hay Whitney of New York, third, in the field of 30.

Coming from behind on the last turn around the course, Golden Miller, held at the odds of 19 to 2, gave the favorite players their first victory in many years. Delaneige and Thomond II also were well backed.

The victory had an American tinge as Miss Paget is a cousin of John Hay Whitney and C. V. Whitney, two of the other American horses. M. D. Blair's Prince Cherry, and F. Ambrose Clark's Sorley Boy, dropped out early in the race. Prince Cherry pulled up while Sorley Boy fell.

W. Parsonage's Forbra, long shot winner of the 1932 running, was fourth.

At Final Jump

Golden Miller and Delaneige took the final jump, 300 yards from the finish together, but in the final drive the favorite quickly pulled away as Jockey Wilson applied the bat.

Delaneige was close to the front from the time the small field got away at 3:16 p. m. (10:16 a. m. e. s. t.). At dreaded Becher's brook on the first time around the course, Southern Hus was setting the pace but the American horse trailed close behind.

As they reached the grandstand at the half-way mark, Gragalach had taken command, closely followed by Delaneige and Forbra. Delaneige, jumping beautifully, went into the lead at Becher's brook for the second time but Golden Miller had moved into third pace back of Forbra.

Weakens in Test

Thomond II moved up with the leaders and for a short time set the pace. He weakened, however, in the final test but easily finished five lengths in front of the field.

The crowd cheered madly as Golden Miller pulled away from Delaneige and Thomond II dropped back. He was well in hand as he crossed the finish line.

The small field, in contrast to the record field of 86 in 1929, enhanced the chances of Miss Paget's standard bearer. After four horses fell at the first jump, the field quickly settled down to a beautiful contest. There was not a single spill in view of the grandstand.

SWEETSTAKES EVENT TO BE HELD TONIGHT

Charter Oak Alleys Sponsors One Ball Tourney for Benefit of Local Girls' Team.

A large field of local bowlers will go into action tonight in the one-ball sweetstakes to be held at the Charter Oak alleys for the benefit of the Charter Oak Girls bowling team, the festivities being scheduled to start about 7:30 o'clock. It is expected that a number of special matches will precede the sweetstakes and a huge crowd of pin-topping enthusiasts will undoubtedly be on hand.

All receipts in the sweetstakes will be turned over to the Charter Oak Girls for their expenses to the national tournament at Baltimore, Md., next week-end. For this reason it is hoped that many local bowlers will enter the event. Each entry will roll three games, and the prize of $25 and $1 will be awarded on total pinfall.

Only one ball will be rolled in each box and each entry will roll five boxes on each alley. By this plan, it will be unnecessary to trouble the bowler with a long set-up with a good first ball stands a fine chance of winning. Singles of 75 are considered good scores in one-ball events but it is possible that the winning score will be slightly higher.

NEW JERSEY PLAYER FAVORED IN TOURNEY

Pinhurst, N. C., March 23.—(AP)—Charlotte Glutting of East Orange, N. J., and Deborah Verry of Worcester, Mass., faced each other in the finals of the 32nd women's north and south golf championship today with the New Jersey player favored to take the title.

Miss Glutting, the tournament medalist, uncocked a brilliant round in whipping Annela Gorczyca of Fort Worth, Tex., in the semi-final when she jumped a stymie for a one-up victory on the eighteenth green. It gave her a 79 for the round. Miss Verry meanwhile shot approximately even 85 in beating the veteran Mrs. J. J. Lawlor, of New Rochelle, N. Y., 5 and 4.

Something of a sensation in the earlier rounds with victories over Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., and Jane Douglas, of Beverly Hills, Calif., Mrs. Lawlor couldn't get her game under control and made no trouble for Miss Verry although the Massachusetts girl was not playing well.

DETROIT AND CHICAGO TOP CANADIAN RIVALS

Toronto, March 23.—(AP)—Canada's hopes of regaining the ancient Stanley Cup looked a bit brighter around the edge today after a night of triumph for representatives of the United States section of the National Hockey league.

Two games last night saw the Detroit Red Wings take the lead over Toronto's mighty Maple Leafs in their league championship series with a surprising 2 to 1 overtime victory and the Chicago Blackhawks lead the Montreal Canadiens 3 to 2 in the two-game total goal series between the clubs which finished second in the league's two divisions.

The Leafs still can conquer Detroit and win the league title and a berth in the Stanley Cup finals, but it will be a long, hard grind from now on.

CLEAN SWEEP IS MADE BY U. S. NET FORCES

New York, March 23.—(AP)—The two players who may carry on for the United States in the Davis Cup singles this summer, Frank Shields and Lester Stofen, have completed a clean sweep for America in the National indoor tennis series with France.

With the series already clinched as a result of Tuesday's 2-0 Wednesday's play, Shields mopped up Andre Merin 7-5, 7-5, 6-1 and Stofen outfigured the veteran Basque, Jean Borotra, 16-14, 6-4, 9-7 in the last two singles matches of the series last night.

CUBS
Los Angeles—There is a feeling around the Chicago Cub camp that Roy Joiner is the pitcher the club has been seeking for a long time. The Cubs have not had a first rate lefthander in years, but Joiner, obtained from Oakland where he won 22 games last season, appears to have everything. Manager Charlie Grimm is about ready to admit that Joiner will be a starting hurler.

TIGERS
Lakeland, Fla.—After taking a 7 to 2 beating from Connie Mack's Athletics here Thursday, the Detroit Tigers settled down to a little more serious work today to get in shape for the exhibition tilt with the St. Louis Cardinals on Saturday. Detroit's pitching did not hold up against the Athletics' bats, while the club could not hit when hits meant runs.

DODGERS
Orlando, Fla.—Developments of the past few days indicate Al Lopez may get somewhere in his holdout campaign with the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Cuban catcher's two substitutes, Clyde Sisker and Chis Outan, contributed misplays that presented Cincinnati a pair of runs yesterday and a 3-2 victory.

SENATORS
Biloxi, Miss.—Two of the Washington Senators' most promising rookies hurlers, Ray Prim and Ed Link, were ready to be tossed into the box today in the Nat's opening exhibition game with the Cleveland Indians. The assignment was regarded as an indication of a liking for their talents by Manager Joe Cronin, who has three pitching jobs open.

EARLE JUDD TALLIES TOTAL OF 31 POINTS

Leads South Methodists to Win Over Mecs; Four Other Fast Games Are Played.

Another program of basketball games was played last night at the East Side Rec before a good sized crowd, much of the interest being centered in the Jack Armstrong-Lilac Blues tilt, the latter team winning 33-28.

With Kurlowicz playing the leading role, scoring a total of 17 points the Lilac Blues oozed out the popular Jack Armstrong team in a close game. The lead changed hands continually, but a rally late in the final period by the Blues sealed defeat for Jacks team. The work of Enrico and Guthrie was best for the losers.

East Sides Win
The East Sides had hard work in downing the Sons of Italy in the second game, the final score reading 19-15. Both teams resorted to defensive play keeping the score down. Trailing at half time the East Sides went into the lead through the shooting of Vince. The work of Gavello also stood out for the winners, while Corna and Leone did stellar work for the Sons.

Heights Edge Rams
In the tightest game of the evening the Heights Jr.s edged out the Burnside Rams 24-22 in the final minutes of play on a basket by Moorehouse. Reimer and Dupont played well for the winners while Sincrope and C. Melody were standouts for the losers.

Scores 31 Points
With Earle Judd scoring a total of 31 points the So. Methodist church five easily downed the Mecs of New London 57-39. The game was close in the first half but the second saw the victors surge ahead. Brown was best for New London.

Comets Victors
The Comets Five won out in the finale against the Collegians in a fast and interesting game by the score of 25-21. The winners went into an early lead and held same until the final whistle. The Collegians, off to a slow start, came back the second half and threatened several times to take the lead, but the expert school players were equal to every challenge and finished on a long end of the score. O'Leary and Turek played best for the Comets Five while "Chuckie" Smith and Muldoon stood out for the Collegians.

TO RETURN FROM RETIREMENT NEXT MONTH IN EFFORT TO GAIN MONEY-EARNING MARK—HAS $53,700 TO GO—IS GREATEST IN CLASS.

By JIMMY DONAHUE
NEA Service Sports Writer
When they announced last autumn that Equipoise would be retired to the Whitney farm at Lexington, Ky., members of the Loyal Order of Thoroughbred Horseflesh stopped boiling their food, quit acting as gals on a track, and voted of thanks to the powers that forced the greatest handicap horse of them all into a life of oat mucking and knitting.

That's changed now. With the news that "Ekipky" is to be brought back to the wars in April, the equine brothers are considering a petition to Congress, asking a law barring the Whitney animal from the track.

They point out that his return will deprive them of a decent living and, they assert, that is contrary to NRA policy.

Well do they remember: His three wins over Twenty Grand... The bumping around he got in the 1933 Hawthorne Gold Cup race... only to pass Gallant Sir, the bumper, at the far turn and come on down that stretch to win a mighty victory... And the Arlington Handicap win over Plucky Play and Gallant Sir with 135 pounds aboard... The way he ran away from Gusto and Mate in the 1933 Arlington classic... The seven in a row he won that year.

They look with awe upon: The world record of 1:34 2-5 that

CHARTER OAK GIRLS TRIM 'Y' GIRLS OF MIDDLETOWN

The Charter Oak Girls last night strengthened their position as outstanding threats to the leaders of the Girls' State Duckpin League by trimming the YMCA Girls at Middletown with a brilliant display of pin topping. The local girls swept all three games and captured total pinfall by the overwhelming margin of 253 pins.

Every member of the local team turned in triples or better than 300. Clark Jackmore hitting high three strings with 356, while Jennie Schubert came through with high single of 133. The Charter Oaks hit team singles of 503, 516 and 574, the

JONES TRAILS LEADERS BY SIX STROKE MARGIN

Augusta, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—It's a little early to count Bobby Jones out, but if his opening golf tournament invitation golf play-in the masters' invitation golf tournament ability around the greens his professional rivals will have something to celebrate by Sunday night.

Starting the second round of the 72 hole test Jones held the unusual position of being six strokes behind the leaders and in a tie for thirty-fifth place in a field of 73. He shot a 76 Thursday and all the strokes the former world champion lost were due to inaccuracy around the greens.

Horton Smith, Emmett French and Jimmie Hines were in a triple tie for first with 70s, two under par. A stroke back were the veterans Walter Hagen, Craig Wood, Johnny Golden and Henry Picard, a youngster from Charleston, S. C.

Bill Burke, U. S. open champion three years ago and Ky Lafoon, a youthful star from Denver, were at par 73, while Leo Diegel, who started his major golfing career with Jones back in 1920, and Denny Shute, the British open champion, held 73s.

In the tightest game of the evening the Heights Jr.s edged out the Burnside Rams 24-22 in the final minutes of play on a basket by Moorehouse. Reimer and Dupont played well for the winners while Sincrope and C. Melody were standouts for the losers.

Scores 31 Points
With Earle Judd scoring a total of 31 points the So. Methodist church five easily downed the Mecs of New London 57-39. The game was close in the first half but the second saw the victors surge ahead. Brown was best for New London.

Comets Victors
The Comets Five won out in the finale against the Collegians in a fast and interesting game by the score of 25-21. The winners went into an early lead and held same until the final whistle. The Collegians, off to a slow start, came back the second half and threatened several times to take the lead, but the expert school players were equal to every challenge and finished on a long end of the score. O'Leary and Turek played best for the Comets Five while "Chuckie" Smith and Muldoon stood out for the Collegians.

JONES TRAILS LEADERS BY SIX STROKE MARGIN

Augusta, Ga., March 23.—(AP)—It's a little early to count Bobby Jones out, but if his opening golf tournament invitation golf play-in the masters' invitation golf tournament ability around the greens his professional rivals will have something to celebrate by Sunday night.

Starting the second round of the 72 hole test Jones held the unusual position of being six strokes behind the leaders and in a tie for thirty-fifth place in a field of 73. He shot a 76 Thursday and all the strokes the former world champion lost were due to inaccuracy around the greens.

Horton Smith, Emmett French and Jimmie Hines were in a triple tie for first with 70s, two under par. A stroke back were the veterans Walter Hagen, Craig Wood, Johnny Golden and Henry Picard, a youngster from Charleston, S. C.

Bill Burke, U. S. open champion three years ago and Ky Lafoon, a youthful star from Denver, were at par 73, while Leo Diegel, who started his major golfing career with Jones back in 1920, and Denny Shute, the British open champion, held 73s.

WRESTLING TOURNAMENT

Another program of basketball games was played last night at the East Side Rec before a good sized crowd, much of the interest being centered in the Jack Armstrong-Lilac Blues tilt, the latter team winning 33-28.

With Kurlowicz playing the leading role, scoring a total of 17 points the Lilac Blues oozed out the popular Jack Armstrong team in a close game. The lead changed hands continually, but a rally late in the final period by the Blues sealed defeat for Jacks team. The work of Enrico and Guthrie was best for the losers.

East Sides Win
The East Sides had hard work in downing the Sons of Italy in the second game, the final score reading 19-15. Both teams resorted to defensive play keeping the score down. Trailing at half time the East Sides went into the lead through the shooting of Vince. The work of Gavello also stood out for the winners, while Corna and Leone did stellar work for the Sons.

Heights Edge Rams

SPRING IS HERE ?
HAW-HAW-HAW !
Old Man Winter Gives Horse Laugh to Optimists Expecting Spring's Arrival.

Winter's frosty frown replaced spring's sunny smile last night and today gave the horse laugh to those optimistic ones who thought icy blasts had been succeeded by balmy zephyrs and that monotonous snow drifts had given way to brightly colored spring flowers.

Deceived during the past few days by comparatively warm weather, the appearance of migratory song birds and the sight of crocuses, daffodils and other hardy flowers peeping above the sod, many residents enthusiastically welcomed March 21, heralding the advent of spring.

But their hopes were dashed last night when the mercury dived to a point near the zero mark. Heavy overcasts were again brought out and furnace fires replenished. Hundreds of residents, confident that spring was in the offing, had emptied their coal bins and were without fuel when the frigid winds hit the community. Others were fortunate to have a supply of range oil to feed the kitchen stove. They were forced by the cold to occupy only the kitchen last night and today. All the other rooms, lacking furnace heat, were unoccupied.

Early spring flowers breaking through the surface of the ground earlier in the week, while robins have been common during the past 10 days or so. Pussycats in full bloom have been plucked from bushes bordering brooks in the town, and other indications of the arrival of spring have appeared. But today proved how fickle the weather can be.

NUDISM IS IMMORAL
FAN DANCER ASSERTS

Sally Rand, Defending Her Art, Says Idea of Living Unclothed, Is Ridiculous.

"Nudism?—I think it's not only immoral but ridiculous."

There is the concise opinion on a current moot problem by, appropriately enough Sally Rand, the one-time Wampus Baby Star who fanned her way to fame, fortune and a contract with the Paramount.

She is featured with Carole Lombard and Frances Drake in George Raft's latest starring picture, "Bolero," which begins Sunday at the State theater.

When asked, in the face of that declaration about nudism, to defend her own famous lapse into the unveiled, she replied:

"I can't see any benefits in this nudist fad that couldn't be obtained more satisfactorily and more comfortably in private. My princpal objection to the idea of a nudist colony is the utter needlessness of enduring actual discomforts to get a backyard sun bath.

"My moral objection to nudism isn't the mere point of nudity. Lewdness is primarily mental. An artistically inclined person can gaze at a beautiful body without the shadow of an improper thought. But when people will tread rocks barefooted, and get themselves all scratched up by brush at some nudist camp just to be in on a mass display of nudity—well, what's your answer?"

"Don't you think at least some of them must have something on their minds beside health and beauty?"

What about her own dance, that ended in a blaze of publicity and a shower of dollars?

"To begin with," answers Miss Rand, "most of those who have heaped criticism upon me have never seen me do the dance they denounce. The finest comment on my dance was an editorial written by a nationally known minister. The dance decidedly was not merely a hooch dance designed to attract the lewd-minded."

"My fan dance was born of years of training in art, form, grace, color and music. In the form in which I finally presented it to the public it was an artistic, ephemeral illusion, precisely executed along geometric lines. The dance represented a bird in flight, and the body was subordinated to movement and effect."

ITALIAN PROGRAM GIVEN FOR ELKS

Second Nationality Night Held at Rockville Home—Put on Fine Dinner.

Italian members of Rockville Lodge of Elks took complete charge of the program following the business meeting last night at the home on Prospect street, Rockville. They prepared the dinner and furnished the entertainment in the second of the lodge's "Nationality Nights."

There was an unusually large turnout of the membership to enjoy the Italian feast and music program.

The committee in charge consisted of Tom Romeo, John Bonan and Tony Bonan.

The Italian style dinner was served in the banquet rooms as soon as the business was concluded. The menu consisted of antipasto, spaghetti and meat balls, broiled chicken, pie and coffee. There were several varieties of Italian vegetables on the table and the diners relished them all.

For entertainment the Italian members furnished a program of vocal and instrumental numbers that lasted during the entire meal and during the social hour that followed. Sara Reale played three accordion solos he had composed himself and the Venetian trio, a string ensemble composed of R. Reale, J. Bellomo, and C. Calcasola, played well known Italian airs during the evening. William Walsh rendered a number of solos on the piano-accordion and E. Buscemi sang a number of well known operatic arias. A vocal trio, composed of Tony Mannata, John Rodasti and Joseph Paradiso, was heard in a number of beautiful Italian songs. The entire program was rendered in a finished manner and the entertainers were heartily applauded for their efforts.

Between 1898 and 1912, "Big Bear," a giant grizzly, killed more than 1,200 cattle; several hunters were paid to spend their entire time trailing this one animal.

Pouter pigeons and all other "fancy" breeds of pigeons, are descendants of the wild rock dove, which still is found in Scotland.

FOOTBALL MASCOT IS STILL MISSING

Another Dog Appears at "Ducky" Pond Dinner But Not Handsome Dan.

New Haven, March 23—(AP)—What at first looked like a new deal in Handsome Dan's for Yale last night at a testimonial dinner for Raymond W. (Ducky) Pond, new Eli head coach of football, turned out today to be merely a joke—there was no new Handsome Dan.

Nor was there any other Handsome Dan, for the dognaped football mascot was still among the missing today, despite an offer of two pounds of hamburger made at the Pond dinner.

There was another dog at the dinner, and he masqueraded as Handsome Dan Number 3, but today the owners, C. B. Klein and John Saxby of Thomaston announced they had only loaned the animal for the occasion to give an added thrill.

Licks Its Chops
The jester ate the hamburger, licked its chops and frowned, then was rushed back to his kennel in Thomaston and obscurity.

And 300 admirers of Pond liked the entertainment which added to the spirit of things at the dinner in the Elks club and thought it a jolly god thing to present the masquerader to the new coach, some of the guests taking it seriously.

Despite the presentation, Pond refrained from making any predictions for next fall. Instead he touched an old score spot created last fall when a Yale player was quoted as saying the Blue did not play to win.

"It's unfortunate that chance remark should be picked up and given so much publicity," he said. "From my marbles to football I never saw a Yale man who did not play to win."

Pond Pays Tributes
Most stirring of the tributes paid Pond by the many speakers was that of his predecessor, who himself has been mentioned as the probable new freshman coach to succeed Dr. Marvin A. (Mal) Stevens.

"If he wins five games next fall," Reggie Root said, "he will have done a great job. If he wins six, a splendid job. If he wins seven or eight, he's a wizard."

"Say all the nice things about him, but come back and say the same things a year from now."

"I worked under him and he's worked under me, and I'll work under him again and love it.

"He's a great coach, a great leader and a great Yale man."

Crank Sends Card
A contradictory post card, the first paragraph of which hurled a defy at Yale on the dognaping of Handsome Dan II, while the third paragraph points out that the dog may be had for the price of the food he has consumed, has been received at the Yale News office under a Worcester, Mass., postmark.

The card attributed to a crank reads: "Your mascot is well. But try and get hold of him. He likes the farm very much. You can get him back by paying for the food that he ate. You came pretty close to getting him once. Down on the farm, Harvard Ball club."

CATHOLIC MEN TO PLAN NEXT SEASON ACTIVITIES

Meeting in Tinker Hall Sunday Afternoon—Hope to Sponsor Baseball Team.

At a meeting of the St. James's Men's Club, to be held in Tinker Hall at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, a program of spring and summer activities will be discussed. There will also be a number of entertainers present. All Catholic men of both St. James's and St. Bridget's parishes are invited to attend.

It is hoped to place a fast semi-pro baseball team in the field this spring. Francis Mahoney is at present working on plans for such an organization. Anyone who would be interested is requested to be present Sunday afternoon. Members of the club expect to run a public dance within a month. At present plans are being made to make such an affair a novelty. It is also hoped to run a series of modern and old-fashioned dances.

These and other items of business will come before Sunday's meeting. President John Foley of the St. James's Men's club is desirous of having a large attendance in order that the tentative program for spring and summer activities can be fully discussed.

The Mexican peso is worth about 50 cents in American currency.

Prevent This Condition with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

The first question your doctor asks is whether you are constipated or not. He knows that this condition may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness. It is often the starting point of serious illness.

You can prevent and relieve common constipation so easily. Just eat a delicious cereal once a day. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" and vitamin B to aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a rich source of blood-building iron.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that found in leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears out the intestinal wastes.

Isn't this "cereal way" safer and far more pleasant than taking patent medicines—so often harmful? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. With each meal in chronic cases. If seriously ill, see your doctor—ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all."

Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or use in cooking. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

"Y" WILL AGAIN CONDUCT TOUR OF WORLD'S FAIR

Study-Play Itinerary Planned for This Year by National Council Officers.

Manchester boys and girls will again have an opportunity to visit Chicago and the World's Fair this summer under the guidance of the Y. M. C. A., according to information received from the Y. M. C. A. National Council officers in Chicago by C. F. Thayer, general secretary of the Manchester association. The announcement of the continuation of Y-tours was made coincident with the signing by Governor Horner of Illinois of the bill authorizing the extension of the Fair during 1934.

"Boys and girls who visit the Fair on Y-tours spend a week in Chicago," Mr. Thayer said. "They divide their time between the Fair and places of interest in and around Chicago. Instead of haphazardly going to the Fair and inspecting the exhibits with little regard for the significance or the niche into which they fit in the world's progress, the boys and girls go about their sight-seeing by a definite order of sequence developed by the Y. M. C. A. The trips are to the best spots and industrial plants of the city are co-ordinated with the visits to the Fair in a study-play itinerary planned to show the application in every day life of the progress in the physical and social sciences exhibited at the Fair. The whole purpose of the plan is to put the various experiences of a week together so that the combination developed a story of modern life."

More than 2,000 boys and girls visited the World's Fair last year with National Council Y-tour groups, Mr. Thayer said. It is not required that boys be members of the Y. M. C. A. to join a Y-tour group.

While in Chicago the boys are housed in the dormitory of George Williams college, formerly the Y. M. C. A. college. Girls are cared for in the McDill Y. W. C. A. residence. During the week the larger groups are split into smaller units of ten members, each unit under the constant supervision of a leader who accompanies them to the Fair from their home town.

AUTO KILLS WOMAN
New Haven, March 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Minnie C. Gray, 70, resident of the Methodist Home for the Aged, was injured fatally last night in West Haven by an automobile driven by Abraham Cohen, 23 of New Haven.

The woman, described by police as very infirm, deaf and nearsighted, died ten minutes after being admitted to Grace hospital.

The accident occurred while Mrs. Gray was returning to the Home after visiting friends across the street. Cohen was arrested on a charge of reckless driving.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

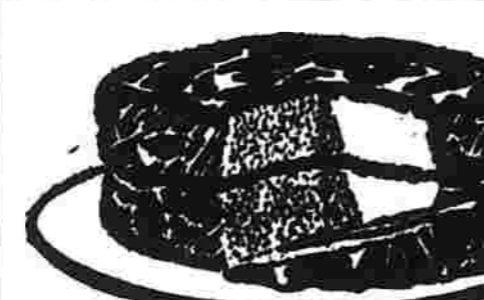

(What Does "Leuk" Mean?)
Question: From T. K. of St. Louis Mo.: "What does it mean when you see 'Leuk' at the beginning of a word?"
Answer: The prefix "Leuk" means white. For example, a leukocyte is a white blood cell. Leukodermis means white patches and refers to abnormal whiteness of the skin occurring in patches. Leukorrhea refers to a white discharge, and leukemia refers to a marked increase in the number of white cells in the body.

(Pus in Corners of Eyes)
Question: From D. D. of Los Angles: "I am troubled with white matter in the corners of my eyes. I always read your column in the 'Daily News' so will be sure to see your answer to me."

Answer: It is very often helpful to use an eye wash of borax acid, which your druggist will prepare for you. I also suggest that you use cold wet compresses over the eyes before retiring. Inasmuch as there is further helpful information which I could send you by letter, I advise that you write to me in care of this paper, and enclose one large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Halver Oil)
Question: Miss D. E. O. of Peekskill, N. Y. asks: "Could you tell me what Halver Oil is?"
Answer: Halver oil is prepared from the livers of the Halibut and is a very good source of vitamin D and also furnishes vitamin A.

Try this NEW Chocolate Frosting Recipe!

You have never had anything quite so delicious on your cakes as the new Jack Frost Chocolate Frosting. Just try it and see if you don't agree with the housewife who said—

"This frosting recipe is a revelation in results, simplicity, economy and practicability. In my 25 years of housekeeping I have never known of such a satisfactory frosting recipe."

- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 2 tablespoons butter or oleo
- 1 ounce bitter chocolate
- 2 1/2 cups Confectioners (xxxx) Sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Mix granulated sugar, butter and water. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, add 1/2 cup Confectioners (xxxx) Sugar. Add chocolate which has been grated and melted. Stir until smooth. Lastly, add vanilla. Spread on cake.

PIE whenever you want it— if the pie-crust is made with Crisco, the quick-digesting shortening Pie? Say, dear, why do you tempt me?

Don't worry, dear. This pie crust will agree with you. I made it with Crisco, the fat that digests quickly.

Pie whenever you want it! Sure, if the pie-crust is made with Crisco. For Crisco pie-crust doesn't work the stomach overtime—Crisco is a pure, creamy, light shortening that digests quickly.

Many folks who've had to watch their diets have written letters telling us what a change Crisco has made in their lives. They're eating pie like regular healthy people now that the shortening used for pie-crust is Crisco!

Turn out a lovely, flaky pie tonight—made by a tested Crisco recipe such as the dainty "Affinity Pie," recipe given below. No other shortening will do—Crisco is made from pure, wholesome oils by Crisco's own process. That's why it's so creamy. That's why it keeps sweet-tasting and "quick-digesting" for weeks and months!

AFFINITY PIE

1/2 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
2 tablespoons cornstarch
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, beaten
2 cups scalded milk
grated rind 1/4 lemon
2 bananas, sliced

CRISCO PIE-CRUST (makes one 2-crust or 2 single-crust pies)
2 cups flour
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup Crisco
8 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Sift flour and salt. Then cut in Crisco (the creamy, fluffy shortening that's wholesome). Cut in Crisco coarsely if you like a flaky crust—cut in Crisco finely if you like a mealy crust. Add only enough water to hold mixture together. Roll 1/4 inch thick on lightly floured board.

For baked shell, cover an inverted pie-plate very closely. Trim dough so you can fold it double at edge. Crimp edge. Prick bottom and sides well. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) 15 minutes.

For two-crust pie, brush lower crust with melted Crisco to prevent filling from soaking in. Bake in hot oven (450°F.) for 10 minutes—reduce to moderate (350°F.). Bake until filling is done.

Mix sugar, flour, cornstarch, and salt thoroughly. Add egg yolks and milk. Cook and stir over low heat (or in double boiler) until very thick and smooth. Add lemon rind. Remove from heat. Chill. Use baked shell of Digestible Crisco Pastry (see Master Recipe at right). Cover bottom with sliced bananas. Pour in cream filling. Cover top with—

Lemon Meringue: Beat 2 egg whites stiff. Add 4 tablespoons sugar and 1/2 teaspoon lemon juice. Place pie in slow oven (325°F.). Bake until meringue is golden brown.

Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree, well-known cooking expert who conducted the recent Cooking School sponsored by The Herald, uses and recommends CRISCO, the modern, quickly-digesting shortening.

PRETTY GIRL SLEUTH CATCHES FRENCH SPY

London, France, March 23.—(AP)—Camille Andre, former broker, was convicted of espionage today because of a pretty stenographer and a sudden burst of church-going. He was sentenced to 30 months in prison and fined 200 francs (about $12.20), while an alleged accomplice, Rene Vidal, a draftsman for the Naval Arsenal, was sentenced to a year in jail and fined 100 francs. They were charged with attempting to sell plans of submarine mines to the British and Japanese consuls at Marseille, who refused to buy them. Andre, police said, gained the confidence of naval families by frequenting churches. Suspicious police sent for a pretty counter-espionage operative, who, posing as a stenographer, found suspicious documents in Andre's desk.

TRUCK AND BUS TRAFFIC GROWS

Patrick Moriarty, Gate Tender at Railroad Crossing, Notes the Increase.

Patrick Moriarty, gate tender at the Main street railroad crossing from 9 o'clock at night until 9 o'clock in the morning, has an opportunity to watch night happenings in Manchester, and among his observations has been a noticeable increase in the number of trucks now passing through town. There are trucks and passenger buses that come through the Center and turn north, crossing the railroad tracks in the early hours of the morning. Some trucks also follow the same route, but others travel east and west by way of Buckland, not coming through the Center at all. All of these pass in review before Mr. Moriarty, and he has noticed that new truck lines are being operated through Manchester. Trucks from out of the state headed into New England states to the north of Connecticut are included in the night caravan which has been increasing in number since the opening of the roads following the heavy snow.

DEPOT SQUARE GARAGE ADDITION PLANS DRAWN

Need for Increased Space Results in Decision to Enlarge Building at North End. Plans are being drawn for an addition to the Depot Square garage, located at North School and North Main streets. The addition, when built, will be to the north and like the present garage will be of brick construction. There has been a need for added room in the garage for some time, but the part of the garage has been used as a show room the need of more space for the storage of cars, work room and parts has become more pressing. Ample room for the enlargement of the garage can be found on the lot to the rear of the garage, facing on School street, which has been acquired. With the building of the addition it will be possible to have a display room for the showing of second-hand cars and for storage, which is not now possible. There is a storage place in Oakland now used but a larger addition to the garage would make possible the combining of the business under one roof.

DRUNKEN SPOUSE SNOORED AT CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT

Husband Was Running True to Form During Sharkey-Schmeling Bout, Wife Says. Bridgeport, March 23.—(AP)—A husband who was so drunk that he snored through the championship Sharkey-Schmeling fight in ring side seat was only running true to form, according to testimony offered by Cora J. Daniels Nelson of this city to Judge Carl Foster in the Superior Court today. She was granted a decree of divorce from Arthur J. Nelson, former factory executive of this city. Mrs. Nelson declared she was married August 20, 1912.

Montreal, March 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Hannah Waterbury, of Medford, Mass., holder of a ticket on the winning horse, Golden Miller, won the $20,000 first prize in the Canadian Army and Navy Veterans Sweepstakes on the Grand National today. No other Americans were listed as holding tickets in the sweepstakes.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, March 23.—(AP)—Doubtful and dull financial markets today awaited further inspiration from Washington. Stocks were mildly mixed during the early hours. The ticker tape dragged along at a snail's pace. Fractional changes were the rule. With the motor labor situation in status quo, notwithstanding reports of progress in the presidential negotiations for settlement, traders showed little inclination to step out of line. Business and industrial news continued bright in the face of potential strikes. The railway wage situation seemed hopeful. There was much timidity in commodity transactions. Gains were slightly easier as were rubber futures. Cotton was up a trifle and silver did better. Bonds were spot-

Foreign exchanges were steady. Some of the unusual gains were General Corp., with 1/4 point, and National Distillers and U. S. Industrial getting up fractions to about a point. The rail, metal, motor, utilities and aluminum were usually featureless. Stocks of American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors, Case, Union Pacific, Public Service of New Jersey and U. S. Smelting were unchanged to a bit lower. The activity in the alcohol group was attributed partially to reports that some of the companies are enjoying highly satisfactory earnings and are preparing to meet the demand for lower liquor prices without cutting into net profits appreciably. Much interest continued to be shown in the hearings on the Stock Exchange control bill, although members generally believed that few important changes could be expected in the bill's language. The Federal Reserve voted its approval of the amendments proposed by Senator Thomas of Oklahoma to the Securities Act of 1933. It was felt that these amendments, lessening the liability of issuing corporations and giving more discretionary powers to the Federal trade commission, would especially tend to stimulate heavy industries through the loosening of capital. Rumors of a possible boost in the gold price, after the government's April 15, financing is out of the way, prevailed. Concern was expressed over the failure of most commodities to move out of a narrow groove. At the same time, the Bureau of Agriculture reported that cash farm income for February declined $71,000,000 as compared with January. Part of this decline, however, was said to be seasonal and part due to decreased governmental benefit and rental payments. The more than seasonal increase of 13,371 freight car loadings for the week ended March 17, placed the total at 628,773, another peak since Oct. 28, last. The seasonal gain, it was figured, should have been about 600 cars. The exceptional spurt was said to have been caused partly by rushing shipments in order to get ahead of possible strikes in the major industries.

FIRST BANK CALL FOR YEAR ISSUED

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—A call issued today for the condition of National banks March 23 will afford a sharp contrast with that of a year ago when President Roosevelt ordered every bank in the United States closed. It was late Sunday night, the day after his inauguration, that Mr. Roosevelt made Nation-wide bank holiday already prevalent in many states. Now more than 5,100 National banks are closed on the date of the bank call, December 31, reported to total assets of $11,747,432,000. The only today in the history of the country. The condition of the banks required by law to obtain reports on the condition of National banks at least three times annually.

BRIDE-TO-BE GUEST AT TREASURE HUNT PARTY

Miss Helen Haggart to Wed Harry Flavell of Glasgow, Scotland, April 7.

Miss Helen Haggart, daughter of Mrs. Helen Haggart of 197 Maple street, was considerably surprised last evening on returning to her home to find assembled in her honor a party of young women who were fellow employees at Cheney Brothers.

The affair took the form of a treasure hunt, and after Miss Haggart had diligently searched for gifts all over the house, she was required to guess the contents of each package.

This caused no end of fun, as many times she was correct. Games were played and refreshments served. Miss Eva Armstrong, who made arrangements for the miscellaneous shower, was assisted by Miss Mary Reider and Miss Alice Brennan.

Miss Haggart will be married April 7 to Harry Flavell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Flavell of Glasgow, Scotland.

WALL ST. BRIEFS

New York, March 23 — Another proxy contest loomed today with the announcement of formation of a protective committee to represent holders of Burns Brothers preferred stock. The committee headed by Cornelius A. Sullivan has sent a letter to stockholders requesting proxies for the annual meeting on April 12. Claims are made by the committee, of which Albert W. Franklin and David A. Goodkind, are the other members, that the operations of the coal company have been dictated by coal producing interests rather than by stockholders' interests.

Production of cigarettes for the first two months of the year rose to a new record high level for that period at 20,650,985,550, says Dow Jones. February output of 9,167,641,857 cigarettes added a gain of more than 18 per cent to the 35 per cent increase in January 1 said the agency, putting production above the 20,000,000,000-mark for the first time in the industry's history.

Domestic shorn wool production in 1934 is estimated by the New York Wool Top Exchange service at 345,000,000 pounds. This compares with a reported production of 364,730,000 pounds in 1933 and 345,440,000 pounds in 1932.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

FABRITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he flees from Florida to Cuba with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves, following a masquerade party at the home of rich JIM FIELD. Beau has killed TED JEFFRIES, one of Field's guests, and stolen the Jeffries pearls. Fabrigo does not know this, or that he himself is accused of the crime. He believes (incorrectly) that a blow from his fist has killed a man and that this fact excites him forever from ESTELLE FIELD whom he loves and who loves him.

In Havana he hopes to meet NORRIS NOYES, who befriended Fabrigo as a child. Noyes also is a fugitive, wanted for a crime years before. MARCIA TREADWAY knows Fabrigo is innocent but fears scandal if she tells the truth. Meanwhile SIR AUBREY, a titled Englishman and Fabrigo's father, begins a search for his son.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

Marcia Treadway read the newspaper account of the Jeffries murder—the same account Fabrigo was so careful to keep away from Fabrigo's eyes. As she read it she told herself more desperately than before that she would have to find the boy. The haunted look lingered in Marcia's eyes until she glanced toward a heap of Cuban money lying on a corner of the dressing table. She had won most of it the night before on Liazarraga, the Jalal alai player, and she chose to regard this as a good omen.

At one o'clock she started out in the car she had rented for the afternoon. Already the streets were crowded with motors filled with men and women in costume. At times confetti fell as the thickest snow and serpentine streamers began to wind about the hubs of the slowly revolving wheels. Everyone called gay greetings to their neighbors. The rich and poor—all in Havana — that day were all brother and sister!

The sun shone dazzlingly upon the blue harbor and grim, gray Morro Castle. The prettiest girls in the world waved their hands and chocolates and kisses to the passing men who won their favor. The motor cars crept around and around the ordained route—down the superb Prado; up the Malecon where the waves where the waves often dashed against the gray wall to leave a mist and rainbows in the air; into the smug and proud Velado where live those fortunate ones who have forgotten the meaning of hunger if, indeed, they ever knew it! Then back again with faces turned from the sun toward Morro across the narrow harbor.

Young men kissed the coils of serpentine streamers before they flung the arcs of ribbon into the air, tossed roses in return. It was really rather amusing, she decided with that mild enthusiasm that comes from being too much entertained.

A short, stocky man who spoke a nasal variety of English leaped to the running board of Marcia's car as the parade was halted temporarily by the congestion ahead. "How's Times Square?" he asked.

She laughed, her eagerness for novelty making his salutation amusing. "Givin' me a rose, ain't you?" he went on. "Why, certainly," Marcia answered. The man took the rose with a wide smile that she understood later. "Give my regards to Broadway!" he called as he stepped down from the running board to disappear among the maze of motors behind it. It was some time after this that Marcia looked down to discover that the pearl-studded platinum chain she had been wearing had gone with the rose.

Fabrigo had seen Marcia Treadway and had shrunk back for a chill, short second. Then he remembered that he was safe because he was wearing an innocent, small black moustache and a mask.

When he found Noyes, Fabrigo decided in the slow way that came

Here's All Star Cast In "Wonder Bar"

When Al Jolson's latest feature opens at the State theater here on Easter Sunday, Manchester will see the New England premiere of the dazzling production. WILLIAM H. HALL DEAD

Hartford, March 23.—(AP)—William H. Hall, superintendent of West Hartford schools, an educator, 62 years; West Hartford delegate to the constitutional convention in 1902 died at his home, 1008 Farmington avenue, West Hartford, this morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. Hall was 83 years old and had been in failing health since the first of the month. Death was chiefly due to the infirmities of age.

EARTHQUAKE RECORDED

Washington, March 23.—(AP)—Georgetown University reported today its seismograph recorded an earthquake of moderate intensity starting yesterday at 5:54:06 p. m., reaching its greatest severity at 6:10 p. m., and ending at 7 p. m. The quake was about 6,500 miles away in an undetermined direction.

THE TINY TINKLES

By HAL COCHRAN and GEORGE SCARBO

"Say, lads, one of our favorite stunts is firing off this cannon, once, to make sure that it works all right," an ant said, with a grin. "If you will take a tip from me, you'll run and hide behind a tree. We're all set for the firing, now. The powder's been packed in."

"Aw, who's afraid?" cried Copy. "Gee, a lot of noise appeals to me. I'm going to stay right here, so you can go ahead and shoot."

"And so an 'I' said Scouty. "Don't expect that I will run won't! I'll bet, though, that both of the girls will very quickly scoot."

"You're right," snapped Doty. "Wait a bit, until we get away from it." Then she and Goldy promptly ran till they were out of sight.

We Goldy yelled back, "We'll know when you've shot. Then, please don't shoot again. We won't come back, until we know that everything's all right."

An ant then said, "Well, here she goes." Brave Scouty added, "That she blows." The cannon made a loud boom! Up went a puff of smoke!

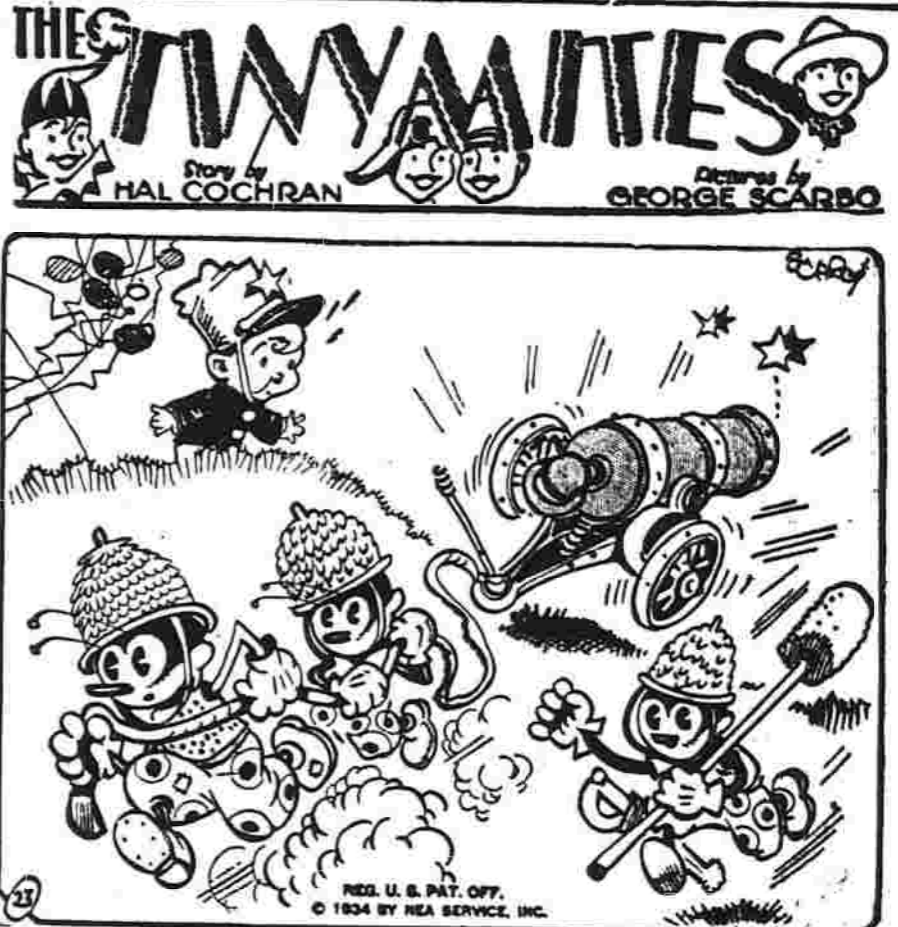

"Ah, ha!" one little ant cried out. "It works real well, without a doubt. I'll bet all of you Tinkles thought this cannon was a joke."

The girls came back and joined the bunch. Said Doty, "Twas a crazy hunch to run away. I wish that I had stayed here with you boys."

"Right now, it's very plain to see that no harm would have come to me. I guess that, after all, you never can be hurt by noise."

Scout Scouty said, "Well, we're all set to look for Duncy, so let's get away from here. We'll have to move, if we're to search around."

"Righto!" a little ant replied. And then he very loudly ordered, "Come, help me pull the cannon!" It went bumping 'cross the ground.

lads, one of our favorite stunts is firing off this cannon, once, to make sure that it works all right," an ant said, with a grin. "If you will take a tip from me, you'll run and hide behind a tree. We're all set for the firing, now. The powder's been packed in."

"Aw, who's afraid?" cried Copy. "Gee, a lot of noise appeals to me. I'm going to stay right here, so you can go ahead and shoot."

"And so an 'I' said Scouty. "Don't expect that I will run won't! I'll bet, though, that both of the girls will very quickly scoot."

"You're right," snapped Doty. "Wait a bit, until we get away from it." Then she and Goldy promptly ran till they were out of sight.

We Goldy yelled back, "We'll know when you've shot. Then, please don't shoot again. We won't come back, until we know that everything's all right."

SENSE and NONSENSE

To Those Who Seek a Cure-All: Honest sweat is the elixir of economic life in this country today just as it was before the era of whoopees.

Today Look well to this one day. For it, and it alone, is life. In the brief course of this one day

Let all the verities and realities of your existence.

The joy of growth, the splendor of beauty, the glory of action.

Yesterday is but a dream, and tomorrow is only a vision.

But today, well lived, makes every yesterday a dream of happiness.

And each tomorrow a vision of hope.

Look well, therefore, to this one day.

PERMITS NECESSARY UNDER LIQUOR ACT

State Supreme Court Rules That Intent of Legislature Was Obvious in Drafting the Control Act.

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—The way was clear today for the prosecution of scores of liquor cases as a result of an opinion by the Supreme Court of Errors holding that the sale of liquor without a permit is a violation of the control act.

Pending the supreme court's ruling as to whether non-permittees could sell liquor without penalty, lower courts throughout the state held in abeyance many cases involving this question.

The court's decision, handed down late yesterday, was made in the case of the state vs. Joseph Faro of Hartford.

Faro contended that the liquor control act did not prohibit the sale of liquor by non-permittees and that one section of the act bearing the title "disposing of liquor without, or contrary to permit," was too vague and uncertain to permit any prosecution.

The opinion written by Chief Justice William M. Malloch held:

"While it is true that the act nowhere in terms forbids any person to sell or keep for sale liquor without having a permit to do so issued by the commission, it is perfectly obvious from the provisions of the act which were summarized in this case that the intention of the Legislature, if it were lawful for one not having a permit to sell alcoholic liquor there would be no occasion for any one desiring to do so to apply for a permit at all, to prevent one who has applied for and refused a permit because he is an untrustworthy person to have one, from engaging in the sale of liquor."

Such a person might sell at any hour of the day and on any day; he would be free to sell any kind of liquor and in any size containers; he might sell to minors, intoxicated persons, habitual drunkards and town charges—despite the fact that the selection of a permit holder is at the discretion of the commission and the contentions of the defendant should be sustained, the entire legislative plan of liquor control would be abortive and a useless burden and expense to the state.

The court's opinion was the second within recent weeks on a question involving the liquor control act. In the previous opinion, it held that the liquor control commission was required to issue drugstore permits—a ruling that was made the basis for a fight in the Federal court.

Soon after the first opinion, package store owners obtained a temporary injunction restraining state officials from enforcing the liquor control act as it affects this class of permittees. A constitutional court will meet here tomorrow to decide whether to dissolve the injunction or uphold the contentions of the package stores that the control act violates the federal constitution by giving drugstore privileges not enjoyed by package stores.

HITLERITES STAGE ANTI-JEW RIOTS

Eleven Jews Arrested, One Stabbed to Death and One Commits Suicide.

Berlin, March 28.—(AP)—A violent anti-Semitic demonstration at Gussenhausen in Bavaria was reported today to have resulted in the death of two Jews— one committing suicide by hanging and the other dying from four knife wounds.

Eleven Jews were arrested during the demonstrations, reported to have been staged by Nazi storm troopers Sunday after a Jew expropriated on a trooper's uniform. All of those arrested were released later.

The two victims were Jacob Rosenfelder, who hanged himself after the demonstration, and Max Rosenau, who was found in his room dead from loss of blood.

Police Protested
The demonstration was said to have been carried out by the local storm troopers against the protests of local police and authorities.

The newspaper Frankische Tageszeitung printed an editorial Saturday, the day before the demonstration, which said among other things, "Tell me whom you are buying from and I will tell you who you are."

It was reported today that villages of upper Franconia, Bavaria, were stopping merchant carts at the entrances to the towns, determining whether the merchants are Jewish before permitting them to pass.

INSULL'S STEAMER FINALLY SIGHTED

Now in Sea of Marmora Headed for Istanbul; Signals She Has Passenger.

Istanbul, Turkey, March 28.—(AP)—Samuel Insull's refugee ship Malotis steamed into the Sea of Marmora today after signaling Turkish officials on the Dardanelles heights that she was bound for Rumania with one passenger aboard.

Whether Insull himself was aboard the battered craft he chartered more than a week ago, or had transferred to another ship in the Aegean Sea was not learned. It had been understood, however, that Insull was the only passenger.

Watchers looked forward, however, to possibly learning for sure whether Insull is following the route of Jason's Argosy in search of the Golden Fleece when the Malotis enters the narrow Bosphorus Straits, enroute to the Black Sea.

The Bosphorus Straits, like the Dardanelles, form a free channel for all merchant ships. The Malotis therefore would be able to pass to the Black Sea without stopping.

Some doubt was cast here on reports that the aged fugitive from American justice had left the Malotis, owing to the fact that the same sources in Athens also erroneously reported last night that the freighter was bound for Italy.

Passes During Day
The Malotis glided past the famous great battle fields of the Dardanelles at daybreak in compliance with a regulation which prohibits night passage past the Turkish forts.

The sea of Marmora was calm as the grimy little craft entered it. The Malotis was expected to reach Istanbul without difficulty late tonight.

Entry into the Black Sea will open new possibilities of refuge if Insull is aboard. Insull's flight from the United States is being followed by reports were recalled today that Insull had been offered a five-year refuge in Rumania for a high price.

Turkish officials have stated emphatically that Insull is not in the vessel if he tries to land in the Black Sea.

BOSTON EDUCATOR COMMITS SUICIDE

William H. Gibbs Leaps from Ninth Floor at His New York Apartment.

New York, March 28.—(AP)—William H. Gibbs, 37, son of Mrs. Katharine M. Gibbs, head of the fashionable Park avenue school that carries her name and also head of a Boston school, was killed today in a fall from his ninth floor apartment at 280 Park avenue.

A note in the man's pocket led police to believe it was suicide.

A tenant heard the crash as the body landed on the roof of a three-story extension in the rear of the building and notified the building superintendent.

Gibbs lived with his mother and an uncle, John M. Ryan, an assistant U. S. attorney.

Leaves Message
Gibbs was fully dressed. Search of the clothing disclosed a note written on the back of an envelope. It was addressed "To My Family" and read:

"Please forgive me. Either this or the mad house. Consult those who know."
Ryan told police Gibbs had been suffering for the last three years from an ear ailment which appeared to depress him.

Gibbs was the eldest of two sons. A brother, James Gordon Gibbs, is in Bermuda. The mother is 70 years old and the school she heads here is the Katharine Gibbs School, 247 Park avenue.

Gibbs was born in Edgewood, R. I., and was graduated from Columbia University. He served overseas as an ambulance driver during the World War and was a member of the University Club of Boston.

AIRMAIL BIDS TO BE OUT IN NEXT 3 WEEKS

Temporary Contracts to Be Let Which Will Last for Three Months—Farley Lists 15 Routes.

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—Temporary contracts with commercial air lines to transport air mail for three months will be let within the next three weeks.

Postmaster General Farley made the announcement today after conference yesterday with President Roosevelt.

Farley said "no air mail company whose contract has been annulled for fraud and collusion may bid for a temporary contract."

He also barred any company which "has as any of its officers or directors any person who has entered into or proposed to enter into any combination to prevent the making of competitive bids for carrying the mail, or has made any agreement or given or performed any promise to give or perform any consideration whatever to induce any other person not to bid for any other mail contract."

Bids Within 15 Days
Advertisements for bids will be sent out within the next day or two. The bids are to be submitted within 15 days. Successful bidders will be required to start operation within 30 days after obtaining contracts.

The airmail has been transported for several weeks by the Army following cancellation of contracts with private companies. The temporary contracts will be employed pending enactment of permanent airmail legislation.

Farley said "bids will be invited under the existing law which authorizes the postmaster general to make temporary contracts for carrying the mails."

"The advertisement will specify the route upon which bids will be asked and, under the law, the bidder will not be permitted to bid a higher rate than was being paid for air mail service on the route when the mail contracts were cancelled," he added.

Routes Are Named
The department said bids would be invited for temporary service over 15 routes, as follows:

Newark via Cleveland, Toledo, Chicago, Moline, Iowa City, Des Moines, Omaha, Lincoln, Grand Island, North Platte, Cheyenne, Denver, Rock Springs, Salt Lake City, Elko, Reno, Sacramento, San Francisco, Oakland—approximately 2,900 miles.

Newark, Philadelphia, Harrisburg, Pittsburgh, Columbus, Indianapolis, Terre Haute, St. Louis, Kansas City, Wichita, Amarillo, Albuquerque, Winslow, to Los Angeles—2,600 miles.

Newark, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, Richmond, Raleigh, Florence, Charleston, Savannah, Jacksonville to Miami—1,200 miles.

Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, Sacramento, San Francisco, Los Angeles, to San Diego—1,294 miles.

Newark, Philadelphia, Washington, Richmond, Charlotte, Atlanta, Birmingham, Mobile, to New Orleans—1,300 miles.

Washington, Pittsburgh, Akron, Cleveland to Detroit—460 miles.

Boston, Springfield, Albany, Syracuse, Rochester, Buffalo, Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Louisville, Nashville, Memphis, Little Rock, Dallas to Fort Worth—1,750 miles.

Chicago, Milwaukee, Madison, Rochester—1,300 miles.

BYRD TO SPEND 8 MONTHS ALONE

Starts Off for Shack 125 Miles from Base Camp to Study the Weather.

Little America, March 28.—(AP)—(Via Mackay Radio)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd put the final touches today on a little shack where he will spend eight months with a battery of thermometers for company.

It's all in the name of science. Alone in this tiny portable house at a winter advance base 123 miles south of Little America, he plans to study Antarctic meteorological phenomena until the end of October.

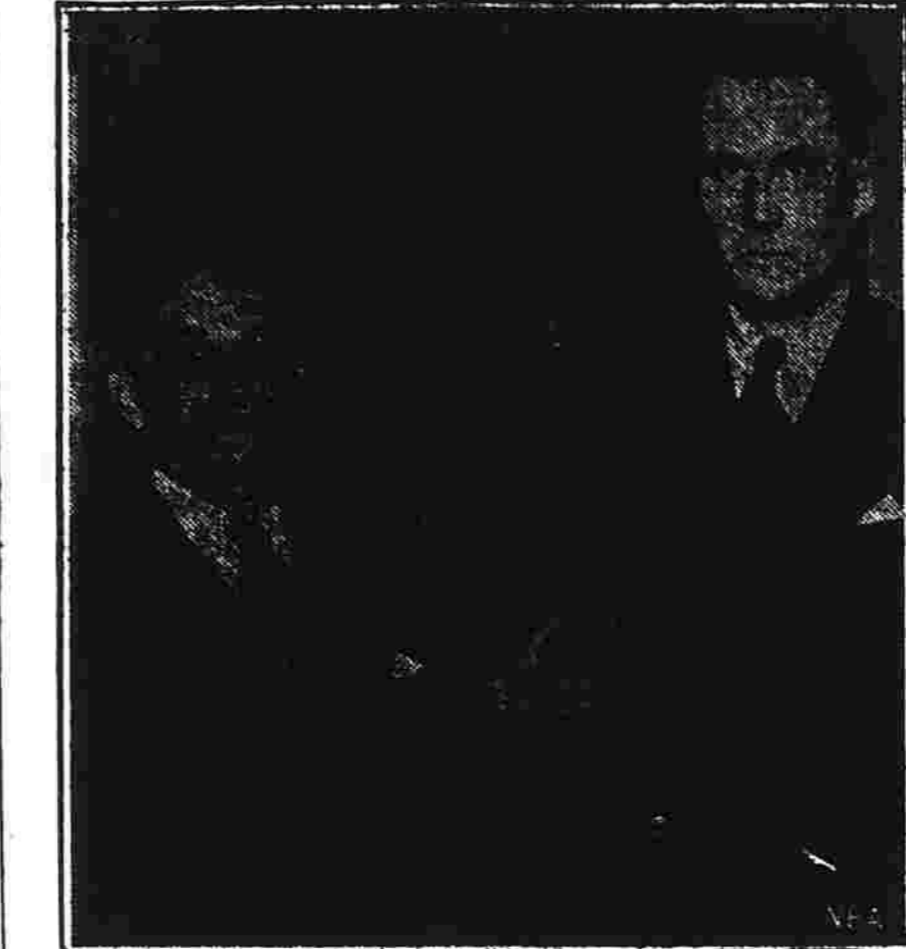

Smiles At Perils
There will be perils plenty. Intense cold. Depressing darkness. Sudden storms. Yet, said Byrd as he departed by plane:

"I hope no one will make anything of this I am about to do. I am making no sacrifice of any kind."

He urged the 55 men at Little America not to become concerned should his radio fail. After all, he smiled, "I am not a radio operator, so the radio probably will fail."

In his absence, the men at Little America will be under command of Dr. Thomas C. Poulter, senior scientist and second in command.

Europe's "Mystery Men"

They've grown rich because of their secret formula for unrefining German credits, but Lieutenant Colonel Francis Norris (right), former financial adviser to the allied governments, and his partner, Siegfred Wreszynski, denied there was any mystery when they arrived in New York "to help Americans holding German credits get ten per cent more" for them than is possible through other channels. Pictured above at their New York hotel, the financiers, called the mystery men of Europe, hope to do more than $200,000,000 business in the six months they plan to remain in America.

ROOSEVELT ON YACHT FOR WEEK'S VACATION

Sails Out to Open Sea from Florida—Silent on House Vote Overriding His Veto on Veterans' Bill.

Jacksonville, Fla., March 28.—(AP)—President Roosevelt sailed out to open sea today for a week's vacation from the cares of office.

The familiar white yacht Nourmahal of Vincent Astor, weighed anchor at 10:20 and pointed down the St. Johns river for the ocean.

Standing by the rail, Mr. Roosevelt waved his hat in response to a rousing farewell from a crowd on the dock. His eldest son, James, was by his side.

A glance at the morning papers was as close as the President came to attention to National affairs before starting out. After one of his busiest days yesterday, he set aside his time upon leaving Washington last night entirely to vacation freedom.

Silent on House Vote
Mr. Roosevelt's jaw stuck out when mention was made of the House over-riding his veto of the veterans pay bill, but he declined any comment upon it.

Reaching Jacksonville at 9:30 this morning the President drove through cheering lanes of citizens over the five miles route from the station to the dock. He was accompanied by Governor Dave Sholtz, last Mayor John T. Alsop, Jr., who greeted him at the station.

Vincent Astor welcomed the President at the yacht and then took the bridge to direct the vessel out to sea.

Destroyer Follows
The destroyer U. S. S. Elfin, under command of Captain White, picked up the trail behind the trim white Nourmahal and in a few minutes the President was out of sight on his long-planned vacation cruise.

Gu. Genesich, personal bodyguard, and Robert Clark of the Secret Service, were the only ones associated with the President at the White House aboard ship with him.

American Girls Imitators, Says Noted English Artist

New York, March 28.—(AP)—The trouble with American women (you can take this from Kenneth Green, a young English portrait painter) is that they're all trying to be Dietrichs and Garbos.

American women's beauty is getting standardized because screen stars sway public taste, Green said today. "The unusual face, the face that stands out in a crowd, is beginning to disappear from the American scene."

The artist, whose first exhibition in this country has just opened, called American girls the "world's most dignified imitators of film stars. He deplored the trend, because, he said, "America has the most beautiful women in the world."

Only one woman in 2,000,000 should try to imitate Garbo, the artist said. "But about one in twenty try it."

"It may be that one in 500,000 have a Garbo face; but most women never can move like Greta, and should give up trying."

Unnaturally arched brows and overdone mouths threaten to wreck American beauty, Green continued. "One long, he said, "to see a face—not a film of cosmetics. In general, American women have pretty delicate faces. They shouldn't work on them so much. And certainly they shouldn't try to be all alike."

"Makeup is a very individual thing. A woman should know something about art before she applies makeup. And she shouldn't study herself—never a model."

Green said American women's greatest defect is a slight droop of the mouth—"a strained, nervous look," which results, he said from trying to do too much.

He visited several American colleges, he said, and discovered that girls began early with rouge and powder.

"I was staggered," he averred, "at the amount of make-up I saw."

EXPECT CLOSE VOTE ON VETO IN SENATE

Special Board Named To Revamp NRA Codes

Washington, March 28.—(AP)—Revamping of NRA code price control devices under administration impetus will be considered by a special Cabinet committee of four newly named by President Roosevelt.

In the absence of the President from the city, officials were reticent concerning the development other than to acknowledge that such a group had been set up. It consists of Attorney General Cummings, and Secretaries Wallace, Roper and Perkins.

It was pointed out that methods of price control permitted under NRA have been characterized by opponents as monopolistic and as likely to result in higher prices.

Meanwhile, in the general purview of the administration's goal, Roper told reporters today the key to the employment situation is in the capital goods industries.

Commenting upon the necessity of absorbing CWA workers, the secretary said reports indicate a large potential demand for capital goods.

The secretary said that it was necessary to end such emergency organizations as CWA as soon as possible.

400,000 STEEL WORKERS TO GET WAGE INCREASE

One Big Company After Another Issues Announcements That Wages Will Go Up Ten Per Cent.

(By Associated Press)
Additional evidence tending to confirm reports that the gigantic steel industry is planning a general 10 percent wage increase for its approximately 400,000 employees was given today.

The National Tube Co., at Lorain, O., a subsidiary of the United States Steel Corporation, announced such an increase for its 7,000 employees effective April 1.

The Republic Steel Corporation at Youngstown, third largest in the industry, announced its 22,000 employees would similarly benefit.

The Youngstown Sheet and Tube Company, also declared a 10 percent increase for 15,000 employees.

Over 100,000 Affected
These brought the total of steel workers already promised the increase to approximately 100,000 men.

Officials of the National Tube Co., were unable to say whether the increase there indicated the United States Steel Corporation, largest in the industry, would take similar action for all its plants, but steel men believed it would.

Officials of the Carnegie Steel Corporation's plant at Youngstown, another U. S. Steel subsidiary, also received word that wages would be increased April 1.

Big Firms Silent
Neither the United States Steel Corporation, nor the Bethlehem Steel Corporation, second largest in the industry, has issued an official intimation of their intentions.

In addition to the 44,000 steel employees affected by today's announcements, approximately 55,000 will benefit by wage increases announced yesterday.

These include 18,000 employees of National Steel Corp., Pittsburgh, 7,000 of the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., and 10,000 of the Republic Steel Corp.

MISSOURI SLAYER KILLED BY POLICE

Sought Three Weeks, Bandit Is Shot Down While Resisting Arrest.

Los Angeles, March 28.—(AP)—A three-week search for Glenn Harmon, suspected Missouri slayer, ended today with his death in a hand-to-hand gun battle.

Bought by Carthage, Mo., authorities in connection with the slaying of E. L. Van Hoese, retired capitalist, Harmon was shot to death in a crowded beer parlor after resisting the attempt of Detective Lieutenant A. B. Stronghold to arrest him.

Police notified Harmon's presence here by Byron Wolff, 19, another suspect in the Missouri murder, who was arrested in an attempt to rob a traffic stop.

In the music with the officer Harmon drew a revolver and fired twice, both shots going wild. His weapon jammed and Stronghold drew his own pistol, firing seven bullets into Harmon's body.

Harmon's brother, I. E. Harmon, Charles L. Napper and Victor Powell are held by Missouri authorities in connection with the Van Hoese slaying.

Police were informed of Harmon's presence here by Byron Wolff, 19, another suspect in the Missouri murder, who was arrested in an attempt to rob a traffic stop.

ABOUT TOWN

The service tomorrow evening at 7:30 at the South Methodist church will be in observance of the institution of the Lord's Supper. Holy Communion will be administered, and Rev. L. C. Marris will meditate briefly on the events of Christ's last Thursday evening. The Cecilia club will sing two numbers and the service will be in the sanctuary.

The Center Church Women's Federation is arranging for a meeting Wednesday evening of next week, when the speaker will be Mrs. Jennie Aborn, organist at the church for the past several years, and successful director of the young people's volunteer choir. Her subject will be "The Most Musical Picture in the World." The hostesses will be Mrs. E. F. Andrews, Mrs. Allan Dexter, Mrs. H. B. House, Mrs. A. N. Potter and Mrs. Arthur Seeler.

Adam Seabury, of Coventry, arrested yesterday afternoon by Patrolman John Cavagnaro for operating an automobile with improper brakes, was fined $5 and costs in town court this morning. He was unable to stop his car properly at the school crossing at Main and Hollister streets. Examination showed the foot brake to be useless but the hand brake was in working order.

Linne Lodge, No. 72, Knights of Pythias, will hold its regular meeting tonight at Orange Hall at 8 o'clock.

Members of the Luther League of the Emanuel Lutheran church who plan to attend the breakfast hike to the Scout cabin in Glastonbury, following the sunrise service at Sunset Hill Friday morning, are asked to notify Mital Berggren as soon as possible.

On account of the Masonic ball the American Legion auxiliary will hold its regular meeting which would ordinarily occur Monday evening, to the following Monday, April 9.

Mrs. Katherine DeF. Hardy of this town will be one of the speakers at the Hartford County Crusade conference to be held Wednesday, April 4 at Center Church House, Hartford. Meetings will be held at 11 a. m. and 1:30. Mrs. E. Welles of Hartford, state president, will preside, and will also give an address "Alcohol Education."

The Justamere Bridge club will meet tomorrow afternoon with Mrs. George W. House of Benton street.

Inasmuch and Shining Light circle of King's Daughters will hold their meetings this evening at 7 o'clock at the Center Church House.

Work on CWA projects in town will continue tomorrow, Friday and Saturday if the weather permits, it was announced today by Mr. Supervising Engineer Hayden C. Griswold. There was no work today on account of the rain. Men will be paid off at the town garage at 7 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The regular monthly meeting of the Maeter Barber of Manchester will be held Monday evening in the shop of their president, Vincent Farrand, of North Main street. Shops in town will be opened daily except Good Friday. They will be open Thursday night until 9 o'clock.

Firemen at the south end were called upon for two chimney fires last night. No. 1 was called to 364 Elm street to the home of Thomas Champagne at 8 o'clock and an hour earlier No. 3 responded for a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Eveline Hausmann of 97 Bissell street. The fires were confined to the chimney with little loss in either case.

Frank Barrett, for many years employed in Cheney Brothers' machine shop, was a visitor in town this morning. He is making his home at present in Coventry.

Troop 5, Boy Scouts, will meet tonight at 7:15 o'clock at the Emanuel Lutheran church.

The Senior Club of St. Mary's Girls Friendly society has set the date of Friday evening, April 27, for its annual Irish tea party and entertainment. The society will also combine with the Young People's Fellowship in giving the three-act play, "The Middlemost Maid," Friday evening, May 11.

A prenatal clinic will be held tomorrow at 9 a. m. at the Health Center on Haynes street. The well-known clinic will be omitted Friday afternoon because of the holiday.

The Army and Navy club auxiliary will hold its regular meeting tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock in the clubhouse.

The Brotherhood of the Concordia Lutheran church will bowl at Murphy's alleys at 8 o'clock tonight.

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

Danbury, March 28.—(AP)—Miss Emma F. Robenstein and Miss Marion Phelps, both of Pittsfield, Mass., barely escaped serious injury, if not death, yesterday when their automobile collided with a truck on Route 7, between this city and New Milford and breaking through a fence, plunged into a brook and overturned.

They were on their way from Pittsfield to New York city. Misunderstanding of a signal given by the driver of the truck was responsible for the accident. The women were extricated from their car, which was upside down in the water and were found to be little hurt. They returned home last night. Mrs. Judith Anderson Peck, a nurse, was killed when her automobile plunged into the brook at the same spot three years ago.

The Olympic games were revived in Athens in 1906.

OIL OPERATOR SAVED FROM PAUPER'S GRAVE

Ashes of C. C. Julian, Shanghai Suicide, Will Be Buried in United States.

Shanghai, March 28.—(AP)—Saved from a pauper's funeral by a Canadian countryman, C. C. Julian, former Oklahoma and California oil operator who killed himself Saturday night, will be saved from an unmarked grave by a sister in Los Angeles.

Orders came from Mrs. Viola Greenhow in the California city today to have the body cremated and the ashes sent back to the United States for burial.

As a result, the funeral service conducted by the Rev. Emory Luccock of Oak Park III, was held today in a Shanghai mortuary instead of at a cemetery as planned. Mr. Luccock is pastor of a Shanghai American community church.

COLLEGE WOMEN CAN LAND JOBS, AND HERE'S HOW

Washington (AP)—Restricted professional employment of recent years has not made it impossible for the intelligent college woman to find a job if she really wants one.

"Such women," says Mrs. Joetta Shouse, "are still fitted into industry and the professions, although it is not so large."

Mrs. Shouse helped to establish and now aids in directing the Institute of women's professional relations, a privately endowed research group which has headquarters at Wake Forest college of the University of North Carolina.

It is the only clearing house in the country for information on professional opportunities for women. Through it Mrs. Shouse is able to determine how the depression has affected the trained woman worker.

"Know What You Want" is the motto. "First, a young woman seeking a job must know exactly what she wants," says Mrs. Shouse. "And it is quite as important that she have appearance and a professional attitude."

"Take a concrete example. Suppose a young woman wants to be an industrial engineer. She should read the trade journals in that field, find the firms employing women, determine the trends, and then if possible, work out something new she can do. She is much more likely to get a chance than if she was making the rounds of employment agencies."

But even so, it would be difficult for a woman to know the many turns a profession can take. Mrs. Shouse learned that when she, as Catherine Filene, was graduated from Wheaton college. As a result she made a survey of women's professions and brought out in 1920 a compilation, work out something new she can do. She is much more likely to get a chance than if she was making the rounds of employment agencies."

Now the second edition is out, rewritten and brought up to date. In that time much has happened. Frances Perkins, who wrote about factory inspectors for the 1920 edition, has brought the article up to date from her desk as secretary of labor.

Such unusual fields as garden photography, bridal counseling, translating, map-making and travel bureaus are included.

NORWICH PLANT SOLD.

Norwich, March 28.—(AP)—The purchase was announced today of the Richmond Radiator Company property on Thames street by the Yantic Grain and Products Company.

The purchase price was not announced, but the property which includes several buildings and a large storage plant, was assessed for $61,000.

The Richmond company vacated the property three years ago, going to Uniontown, Pa. The Yantic company said it would use part of the property for storage purposes and that plans for the use of the rest of the property have not been formulated.

AUTO LABOR BOARD CREATES GOOD WILL

Formed to Adjust Questions of Representatives, Discrimination and Discharge.

Detroit, March 28.—(AP)—The presidential plan to harmonize capital and labor in the automobile industry went into effect today in an atmosphere of good will.

A special NRA board, appointed as a result of a dispute which threatened to paralyze the industry, came here to hold its first meeting this afternoon.

The board, comprising a representative of labor, of the industry and of the President, is directly responsible to President Roosevelt. It will seek an adjustment of the questions of representation, discrimination and discharge. Its decision will be final.

HIGH COURT RULES IN FIVE APPEALS

Granddaughter of Adopted Son Has Right of Inheritance; Other Decisions.

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—The Supreme Court of Errors in opinions today gave advice in three cases, found no error in one from Waterbury and ordered a new trial in one from New Haven.

In the appeal of the Brooks Bank and Trust company, guardian of Mary Lucretia Javery, from the Torrington Probate Court's decision upholding Charles Roraback, administrator of the estate of Martha Alldis, that the ward may not inherit from the estate because of descent was through adoption of her grandfather, the opinion advised that she may inherit. Judge Carl Foster had asked advice on the Brooks Company's appeal from the Probate Court.

Martha Alldis was a sister of James Alldis who had adopted John Francis Prentice, with the name of J. Frank Alldis. Mary Lucretia Javery is a daughter of one of two daughters of Frank Alldis. She is therefore a great granddaughter of James Alldis.

The opinion by Justice Hinman went lengthily into the laws of adoption and succession. The guardian had claimed in inheritance rights for its ward as if she were of "the blood." The opinion said: "While most of the cases (citations) relate to the effect of successful statutes upon rights of inheritance from adopting parents, there is no different rule as to application of statutes clearly conferring rights of inheritance from relatives of such parents. The answers to questions are: (1)—The statute in effect at the date of death of Martha Alldis controls the rights of inheritance, and in consequence:

(2)—The grandchildren of J. Frank Alldis are entitled to inherit from Martha Alldis estate.

Suit for Damages
In Thomas Pape vs. S. Landown and Company, New Haven, suit for damages for personal injuries received by plaintiff in a fall off a ladder while inspecting a railroad carload of grapes offered him by the defendant, error was found in Judge Peasley's decision and a new trial ordered.

The opinion said the trial court had corrected its finding as to the manner of the fall and the alteration was of material effect as to conclusions drawn from the facts, both as to negligence of the defendant, and as to contributory negligence of the plaintiff, and while these are questions of fact, a new trial is ordered because of the reason indicated.

Two cases involving succession taxes were embraced in one opinion. Advice had been asked by Judge Dickenson in the case of Ida Bryant, executrix (estate of Waldo C. Bryant) against Tax Commissioner W. H. Hackett, as to remainder interest under a trust in a fall off a ladder while inspecting a railroad carload of grapes offered him by the defendant, error was found in Judge Peasley's decision and a new trial ordered.

The case considered with this was that of Tax Commissioner Hackett vs. Estate of Helen Klemm Eastwick with advice asked by Judge Peasley in an appeal from the Greenwich Probate Court which had held a certain transfer in the trust executed by the decedent was not subject to the succession tax.

History of Case
Bryant, in 1917, made a trust agreement with a trust company, setting aside $700,000 in securities to be held in trust for his wife, investments to be made at discretion of Bryant and his wife, or the survivor, unless instructions were otherwise. The wife survived, and the Probate Court decreed the remainder interest was liable to a succession tax. The commission did not contend the life interest of Mrs. Bryant in the fund income was taxable but the remainder interests in the principal were taxable.

To questions asked the court said: "The taxability of the transfers is to be determined by the statutes in effect at Mr. Bryant's death, but its application will not offend against any provision of the United States constitution and that the remainder interests in the principal of the fund consequent upon the termination of the right of Mrs. Bryant to receive the income are taxable within intent of the statute."

Companion Case
In the companion case, Mrs. Eastwick in 1928 transferred to a trust company $100,000 in securities, the same to be invested during joint lives of Mrs. Eastwick and her husband, Edward P. Eastwick, Jr., and the survivor to have the income during life. Upon death of the latter, the fund was to be distributed according to will. Mrs. Eastwick died in 1930, her husband surviving. The Greenwich Probate Court decreed no succession tax was due upon the transfer of the property under the agreement. The Supreme Court regarded the transfer as a gift and so subject to a tax which does not offend the Federal Constitution.

notes, but ended this action and sought replevin of the car from Fallon. The latter made Membrino a party defendant.

The opinion held Walcott could have redeemed the car for $298.35. He did not and lost his interest on it. The plaintiff's contention that Judge Finn erred under a law which provides no judgment for a return of goods relieved shall be given to a defendant, who has not filed a counter claim was dismissed, it not having been raised in the trial court.

WALL ST. BRIEFS

New York, March 28.—J. J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford, says March freight traffic is running about 35 percent above a year ago. If the trend is maintained he expects fixed charges will be covered this month. Passenger traffic is also larger than in March of last year.

The "Iron Age" composite prices are unchanged at $16.90 a ton for pig iron, $12.67 a ton for scrap and 2.028 cents a pound for finished steel.

Wall street hears that the Bell system will show a net gain of about 70,000 telephones for the first quarter as a result of increases of 20,000 and 25,000 in January and February and maintenance of improvement this month at about the same rate. Last year the first quarter brought a net loss of 340,000 stations.

The Virgin Islands were purchased from Denmark in 1917.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Ocean City, N. J.—By seven months of ceaseless effort man has replaced a building which Atlantic gales moved in two days. The Kasab building, on the beach front, stands on piles which were pushed twenty inches out of line. Ever since the storm last August, cables, pulleys and winches have been straining to pull the piling back. Now the job is done.

Seattle—A wild Chinese peasant, beautifully marked, swooped down out of the sky and began gobbling cabbages, onions and lettuce in the stalls of the public market, in the heat of the city. It was captured, and will be turned over to a zoo.

Cashmere, Wash.—Well timed was the burglary of the Cashmere tire shop. A bank watchman and a baker heard the burglar alarm but as it was 8:30 a. m. they thought it an alarm clock.

Denver—For the first time in five years, E. J. Timbers, bottling company official, counted his money without a body guard of employees around him—and bandits came. Two men took $170 from Timbers after taping him tightly and placing him on the floor.

San Jose, Calif.—Matrimonial ties were asked out here because of the alleged ambition of a husband to become an accurate knife thrower. In a divorce complaint filed by Mrs. Enis Della Maggiorre, against Salvatore Della Maggiorre, she declared her husband compelled her to stand against the wall while he sent knives hurtling across the room to embed themselves in the wood beside her.

Los Angeles—Bitten by a rattlesnake, 12-year-old George Chaifant was saved from possible death by his brother, Wilton, 14, who performed an emergency operation with a pocket knife.

The older boy slashed his brother's arm around the fang marks and sucked the poisoned area with his mouth.

Lancaster, Pa.—A chicken tried to cross the road and: An automobile windshield was shattered; Billy Scholtzhauser, 4, was severely cut; his mother's Easter outfit was ruined; the Schlotzhauser's trip to New York was spoiled.

No one thought to ask the chicken "why."

Washington, Pa.—Constable Hubert Post arrested four youths on charges of gambling and disorderly conduct. The hearing was set for last night.

Then the officer, an indispensable member of the church choir at nearby prosperity, remembered that was "choir practice night," knew that without his deep bass voice the choir would be crippled. There was a hurried conference with Alderman J. F. Carmichael and the constable hurried away. The alderman locked up and announced the hearing was postponed.

FINE EASTER SELECTION OFFERED AT ANDERSON'S

Anderson Greenhouses and Flower Shop at 153 Eldridge street has obtained for Easter one of the finest selections of cut-flowers and potted plants ever offered their trade. The beauty of their artistically arranged display defies description so an invitation is extended to the people of Manchester to visit the greenhouses and see it for themselves. Mr. Anderson stated today that the display represents months of careful planning and buying to obtain as large a selection of choice flowers so early in the season.

BOLTON

Choir practice will be held at the parsonage tonight at 7:30.

Rehearsals are under way for the April Community night. Those in the men's fashion show; which is popular at present, will meet in different groups on different nights for rehearsals this coming week.

Miss Elizabeth Rose, who is attending Simmons College, is spending a week's vacation at her home here.

Mrs. Jones, Miss Alvord, Mrs. Toomey, Mrs. Bentley and Mrs. Wiltz met at the home of Miss Comstock in Manchester and planned ways of earning money for the Ladies Society of the Center Congregational church for the remainder of the year.

Prescott Finley, who attends Harvard College, is spending his vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Finley.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Bolton are spending several days at Ocean Grove, N. J., at the home of Reginald Ward.

Miss Katherine O. Hanolin, who has been spending several weeks in California, expects to reach her home here by April 7.

East Central Pomona Grange will meet with Columbia Grange April 4.

Every one in the community is invised to meet at the Community House April 6 at 7:30 to help with the spring cleaning.

Schools in town, will close in observance of good Friday.

There's a Murray, Ky., College co-ed named Carrie Lee Zona Gena Charlotte La Velle Johnson.

SUPERIOR COURT SPRING TERM OPENS TOMORROW

Arthur Bergeron Seeks Jury Trial in Action Against Miss Hattie Strickland.

The spring term of the Tolland County Superior Court will open in Rockville Thursday with Judge Ernest C. Simpson of New Haven on the bench.

Actions will be assigned, after which a short calendar session will also be held, and in addition there will be the criminal session. State's Attorney Michael D. O'Connell, of Stafford Springs, will present the criminal cases.

The following are the actions claimed for trial tomorrow: Laura E. Green against Clifford Lounsbury; Frank Mack against Mahon Charter and wife; Edith Ruby, a minor, by and through Frank Ruby, her parent, guardian and next friend, against James Josephic; The Rockville National Bank, trustee, against Ernest W. Pigeon; Charles A. Roland against Edward F. Doherty; William E. Orcutt against Charles E. Cole and others.

The following are the short calendar cases: Hedwig Reichard against Charles E. Lewis and others, disclosure of defense, default; Albert Edwards Watson against Alexandria Sellar Munro Watson, judgment; Gordon Busher against Bernice Busher, judgment; Holcomb R. Howard against Lumon W. Turner and others, judgment of foreclosure; The Willimantic Lumber Company vs. Andover Lake Corporation, disclosure of defense, default for failure to plead, judgment of foreclosure.

Cornelia Circle Meets A very interesting meeting was held by the Cornelia Circle Tuesday afternoon at which time members were the guests of Mrs. Spencer S. Fitch at her home on Union street.

Taking for her topic "Underprivileged Americans," Mrs. Albert S. McClain, matron and assistant superintendent at the Tolland County Temporary Home for Children at Vernon Center, delivered an enlightening talk. Mrs. McClain told of the children who are now inmates at the County Home under the personal care of her husband and herself. She also told of the efforts to make it pleasant for them, how some of the children attend the High school and how a group are taken to parties and shows.

Rebekahs Gather The March meeting and social of Mayflower Rebekah Lodge was held last evening in the I. O. O. F. rooms in the Rockville National Bank building.

Following the usual routine business, plans were discussed for the arranging of the spring and summer program.

A "stunt program" followed the meeting at which time all members participated. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

Many Hear Miss Tessin A goodly number were present last evening to hear Miss Louise D. Tessin of Springfield, Mass., who delivered an interesting talk before the Ellington Parent-Teachers association in the Town Hall.

The theme of the evening was entitled "Art" and an appropriate program in keeping with the topic was presented.

Miss Tessin, who is well known as an illustrator of children's books and a designer of educational toys, delivered an interesting talk, telling of her work and also illustrating the work with plates.

Miss Tessin, who possesses a medal issued by the committee for children in Northern France during the World War, also told of this work and showed the medal.

Another feature of the evening's program were the violin selections delivered by Professor Arthur Stein of Rockville. Fred Werner of Manchester acted as his accompanist.

A group of teachers from Rockville, Vernon, Somers and South Windsor were also guests of the Ellington Parent-Teachers association at this meeting.

Talks in Pawtucket Rev. Edward L. Nield, pastor of the Rockville Baptist church, was the principal speaker at the meeting of the Home League of Pawtucket, R. I., Tuesday afternoon.

More than 100 women attended. Rev. Nield, accompanied by Mrs. Nield, visited friends in Pawtucket while there and returned home today.

Contractors To Meet The building contractors of Rockville and vicinity will meet in the Town Hall this evening at 8 o'clock. Matters concerning carpenters under the government code will be discussed as well as the wage scale and hours. A request has been made to have all builders and carpenters doing jobbing work to attend this meeting.

Plans are nearing completion for the observance of Easter in the different churches of Rockville and vicinity. Detailed programs are to be announced tomorrow outlining the programs for Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Postpone Legion Meeting Due to the fact that the first Sunday of April is Easter Sunday, the district meeting of the American Legion and its Auxiliary for Tolland and Windham counties has been postponed until Sunday afternoon, April 8. This meeting will be held at Stafford Springs and a large number of the members of Stanley Doboos Post, No. 14, and its auxiliary, plan to attend.

"Neighbor's Night" The Vernon Grange was well represented at the Wapping Grange Tuesday evening at which time "Neighbor's Night" was observed. The first part of the evening was given over to a short business meeting after which the members of the Vernon Grange entertained their hosts. Refreshments were served during the evening by the Wapping Grange.

Foresters Delegates Named Court Snipic, Foresters of America, of Rockville, has chosen delegates to attend the Foresters state convention to be held in Putnam in May. The delegate is Fred Berger of Maiden Lane and as alternate Roger J. Murphy of St. Bernard's Terrace was chosen.

Appointed Director George Hardin, a student at the Hartford Seminary who has been appointed boys' director at the Union Congregational church, will assume his duties this week. All boys under 12 years are invited to come to the church at 6:30 o'clock and at 7:45 o'clock they will meet at the home of the director.

Deaths Last Night

Atlantic City, N. J.—William Wallis, 66, vice president of the Hitchcock Publishing Company, Chicago.

Cincinnati, O.—Frederick A. Geier, 68, president of the Cincinnati Milling Machine Company and a former president of the Morris plan bank here.

New York—Mrs. Louis Dyer Dinehart, 39, former actress and the former wife of Alan Dinehart, stage and screen star.

Chicago—Adolphe Dumont, widely known orchestra conductor.

Belgrade, Yugo-Slavia, March 28.—(AP)—A death sentence was passed today against three Croations convicted of plotting to assassinate King Alexander at Zagreb December 16.

At the time of the plot, rumors that it had been perpetrated were denied as baseless. Alexander shorted his stay at Zagreb, however, and later it developed that the three were arrested in connection with the killing of a detective. The same three were accused of plotting to kill the King.

Oklahoma City police found the loss of numerous automobile radiator caps was due to a collection fad among certain youths.

NEW FORD TRUCK LINE ON DISPLAY

Coincident with public announcement of its new line of trucks and commercial cars, Ford Motor Company has opened a special exhibit at 1719 Broadway, New York. The exhibit is open to everyone.

Two floors are given over to the full display of all commercial units. The 13 1/2 and 15 1/2 wheelbase truck units are distinguished by their rugged construction and features which assure low maintenance cost. Visitors find the special exhibits of the full floating rear axle and 80 horsepower V-8 truck engine of much interest.

Delivery cars, finished in beautiful baked enamel, have a modern smartness. Speed and economy are featured. The lower scale of Ford truck prices effective since January apply to the entire new line.

ELECTRIC REFRIGERATION

A MODERN HOUSEHOLD NECESSITY

The development of Automatic Electric Refrigeration for the home is considered one of the outstanding contributions of the present age. Designed first as a means of properly preserving food, it has quickly grown to be a most valued and modern household necessity.

CARE-FREE REFRIGERATION

One of the greatest advantages in owning an Electric Refrigerator is the absolute source of refrigeration. It is possible to leave for a week-end, or even longer, without giving a thought to food refrigeration.

INVEST IN AN ELECTRIC REFRIGERATOR

A SOUND INVESTMENT

An Electric Refrigerator is an investment in health protection and proper food preservation. It contributes to the home and lightens household cares. It becomes a constant convenience and pleasure to every member of the family.

THREE IMPORTANT SAVINGS

Electric Refrigeration offers three important savings through the elimination of needless food spoilage, quantity buying and low cost of operation.

LIQUOR LAW SURGERY

Add one more feather to the cap of the Connecticut Liquor Control Act. It now has the distinction, rare if not altogether unique in this state, of having its very heart placed within its breast through a major operation by that mastery of surgery the Supreme Court of Errors, having been born without one.

Nowhere, according to the findings of that court, did the law as it issued from the Legislature and the magic hands of our erudite governor forbid the selling of alcoholic liquors without a permit issued by the Liquor Control Commission. Only by deduction does even the Supreme Court discover that it was the intent of the General Assembly to forbid the unrestricted sale of intoxicants by anyone and everyone at any time or place.

Of course, as set forth by Chief Justice Malby, the deduction is far from being obvious. In fact it might be called obvious. But the fact remains that this once much-touted "model" liquor law, boosted by thousands of well intentioned persons who had never read it and drawing its inspiration from ignorance, prejudice and vanity, had to be practically recreated by a Supreme Court decision before it could carry the force of law at all.

Meantime, the days of 1934 are passing one by one and presently 1935 and another term of the General Assembly will be here. Where, in the churches, in the civic groups, among the people, is there any evidence of a purpose—or even a desire—to give the state of Connecticut a sane and decent liquor law?

ROOSEVELT

It is just as well, perhaps, that the President of the United States had arranged a vacation for precisely this time. Mr. Roosevelt had been living in a hectic atmosphere for months. He has not, in the nature of things, had that opportunity for quiet reflection which should now, for some days, be his. It is conceivable that during the forthcoming placid hours to be spent on the summer seas of Florida he will be better able than otherwise he might be to evaluate the significance of the present veto debacle.

As this is written only the action of the House of Representatives on the President's disapproval of the Independent Offices Appropriations bill is known. But so far as Mr. Roosevelt's problem is concerned it makes no great difference whether the Senate sustains the veto or overrides it. That problem is what to do in face of the fact that in the House at least his leadership has been definitely and overwhelmingly repudiated.

Last year this same House unhesitatingly gave Mr. Roosevelt his economy bill. To do so it risked, in innumerable instances, the creation of enemies at home, among veterans and friends of veterans, federal office holders and federal office holders' friends. Loyal to the majority members took their personal chances in order, as they believed, to aid the President in a worthy effort to balance the budget as part—an essential part—of the great recovery program.

For the other parts of that program, the tremendous emergency relief measures, they made, as they thought, emergency provision. They authorized the impounding of gold, the devaluation of the dollar, the issuance of treasury notes, the restoration of silver coinage. They made a sharp distinction between budgetary expenditures to be met by taxation and emergency relief expenditures to be met by reflation.

What have they found to be the situation now? They have found that all the savings they made by the adoption of the Economy Bill, at the cost of thousands of political friendships, are as a grain of sand compared to the burden of taxation that is being piled up through the President's deliberate refusal to finance recovery according to the plan tacitly advanced by the administration and adopted by Congress last year. They find the government going forward with a determination to pay for all these vast recovery expenditures through the sale of immense quantities of bonds, for every dollar of which the people must pay, eventually, two dollars in principal and interest. They see ten billions of the people's earnings diverted, in the next two or three decades, to the pockets and strong boxes of bond holders—billions that must be sweated out of the men and women of this country in the form of taxes.

Is it any wonder, then, that these Congressmen have seized this opportunity to fling back in the face of the President this cheeping of veterans' benefits and little jobholders' salaries when Mr. Roosevelt is needlessly, and from sheer choice throwing fifteen times as much of the public's money into the coffers of the money lenders?

Right there and nowhere else is the explanation of this tremendous revolt.

President Roosevelt has the opportunity of his life, in this week of calm contemplation. It is not too late for him to regain his hold on Congress. If he comes back to Washington convinced that the cause of the debacle lies in himself and his Old Deal Treasury Department, and not in any lack of backbone or good purpose in Congress,

WHY TELL HIM?

A copy of the statement by Dr. William A. Wirt, Gary schoolmaster, which was read to a Congressional Committee the other day by James H. Rand, Jr., has come to this office. It is an abstract of a document of considerably greater length prepared by Dr. Wirt not for publication, he says, but for the use of his friends in their own writings.

This is the already famous statement in which Dr. Wirt declares that members of the "brain trust" told him last summer, in outline, of their plan for overthrowing the established social order in this country and the substitution of a Leninized government. Some of the things Dr. Wirt puts in quotation marks, attributing the very phraseology to unnamed "brain trusters," he describes as "surprising." For example:

"We believe we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape from it. We believe we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think Mr. Roosevelt is the Kerapsky of this revolution."

"When," says the Gary schoolmaster, "I asked them why the President would not see through this scheme they replied:

"We are on the inside. We can control the avenues of influence. We can make the President believe he is making decisions for himself. A leader must appear to be a strong man of action. He must make decisions and make them many times quickly, whether of good or bad. Soon he will feel a superhuman flow of power from the flow of the decisions themselves—good or bad. Eventually he can be easily displaced because of his bad decisions. With Mr. Roosevelt's background we do not expect him to see this revolution through."

"They said," continues Dr. Wirt, "that such individuals can be induced to kindle the fire of revolution. But strong men must take their place when the country is once engulfed in flame."

And so forth and so forth.

"Surprising" is a poor word in this relation. It is astonishing, astounding; not that such far-reaching, Machiavellian aspirations should be entertained by members of the intelligentsia, even by members of the Roosevelt brain trust—but that conspirators engaged in such a subtle and tremendous plot should gabble their heads off to the Gentlemen from Indiana concerning matters of the success of which absolute secrecy must be the very essence. That is just too incredible for belief.

There are more liars in the world than there are fools. When we are compelled to the conclusion that either A is a fool or B is a liar, a decent respect for the law of averages must compel us, in default of decisive evidence either way, to put the stigma on B as the larger probability. In the present case it is sheerly impossible to believe that brain trusters plotting the downfall of the government would tell Dr. Wirt about it. Therefore we are forced to the conclusion that Dr. Wirt is—oh, no; not

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Washington, March 28.—When it wants to whoop things up, a government says it with music. The band strikes up and a lot of fellows strut off to war and get killed or re-elected a president or something. Crowds, thrilled by the oompah-oompah and the hat-tat, think it's swell.

But the trouble with the 5,000 code authority representatives gathered here recently, was they wouldn't get whooped.

The marine band blared its most seductive tunes, "Stars and Stripes Are Here Again." Presumably "Big Red Wolf" was supposed to make everybody amiable and the next was the Franklin Delano Roosevelt March.

As if recalling the epe-violating automobile industry, the band swung into "A Motor Ride" and then a grand whoop-piece—"Marching Along Together."

All this in the most patriotic imaginable setting, the D. D. R. Constitution Hall, with its flags and emblems. You might have expected the shyest "balled" industrialist to get steamed up—for a few minutes, anyway.

Then Roosevelt came on the stage, talked of higher wages, shorter hours, the consumer, humbly before profits and freedom for labor to organize.

Occasional polite hand-clapping wasn't enough to interrupt him. At the end, the New Deal officials on the platform were behind the microphone and the band playing "Star Spangled Banner," he said, "So it may have sounded like a march, but it is a march of the people."

(This column is devoted to things you may not have heard about the code conference.)

The real enthusiasm for F. R. came from a few hundred other code authority folks at an overflow meeting in Memorial Hall, barn of the D. A. R. girls till they outweighed it.

Roosevelt hadn't planned the visit there. It was just a nice thing to do—and he decided on it after he happened to hear about the overflow boys while at Constitution. They loved it.

Roosevelt looked tired—I won't say haggard. His facial features (he keeps hands on the table to support himself) looked set. Two nights earlier the movie of his inauguration had been shown at a large banquet and someone said he looked ten years older today. Ray Moley and Assistant Secretary of Commerce John Dickinson disputed that, but a White House correspondent man and several others agreed. Everyone, however, insists he's in good health.

Few things ever stirred your correspondent's emotions more than the spectacle of Roosevelt leaving the platform after his big speech.

Frances Perkins was the only person of 4,000 to arise when the chairman began to pray. The other, quietly or slowly, took the cue. But when time came to join in the Lord's Prayer, few seemed to remember the words.

Later, Frances and Bill Green of the A. P. of L. often had their heads together, though a year ago Bill bitterly was attacking her appointment to the Cabinet.

PLENTY OF GOLD

In all forms there is probably not more than fifty or sixty billion dollars worth of gold in all the countries of the world. In the seas, in a state of suspension in the waters thereof, are three quadrillions of dollars worth of the yellow metal. The chemists are going to show the world how to get it—if by any chance the world should want it.

So at least it has been announced at the annual convention of the American Chemical Society at St. Petersburg, Fla., by Thomas Midgley, the discoverer of knockless gasoline, an official of a company which is even now recovering bromine from sea water as a commercial proposition. The assembled chemists seem to have taken it quite for granted that if you can recover bromine you can just as well recover gold. Mr. Midgley predicted that the routine of perfecting gold recovery would not occupy more than ten years.

The chemists seem to be about the only people, nowadays, who know where they are going, and why—but they do seem to know. We are quite prepared to accept as a conclusion that the oceans will have to give up their gold, if man goes after it, pretty soon.

So what?

Well, if we should rob the sea of all its gold we should get, for every ounce of the metal in the world's present stock, perhaps six hundred thousand ounces. Cut that in half, out it to a quarter. Say that for every present ounce of gold, in money or jewelry or bullion or whatever form, there would be a hundred thousand ounces—four tons. What good would it be? Who would want it—and for what? Perhaps it might make nice automobile hoods. Certainly it would be useless as money. Certainly, too, the gold mining industry on land would go bloozy?

It is just remotely possible that Dr. Kemmerer might give up the idea of returning to the gold standard.

IN NEW YORK

GOTRAM HEEDS SIGNS OF SPRING
 By PAUL HARRISON

New York, March 28.—Probably it is too early to worry about spring. Right this minute the weather man may be tracing some low-pressure system that presaging another blizzard or something. And nobody has seen a crocus or a robin.

However, nature never has much vernal encouragement to offer for the impatient verdant of all islands. A few blades of grass, maybe, be appearing wistfully around the "Keep Off" signs in the parks. Buds on a scrawny little tree in Fifty-sixth street; but having no significance because the tree's roots are wrapped around an underground steam pipe. A grim geranium basking in a sheltered window box. A cock pigeon in his public attentions to a grown hen. The lemur, a morning around and striking a little deeper into the city canyons. The snakes in the zoo's reptile house twisting uneasily in their last year's skins.

The whole town feels like taking a big breath and saying "Ah-h-h," but doesn't because it would only get a mouthful of dust.

There are other portents, though, which are just as infallible as bluebirds. They've put some open street cars in service on Madison Avenue, and from Fifth Avenue office windows it is possible to look down and see huddled riders holding hands. There's a tremendous boom in the baby-carriage market. A chorus girl, carrying from her sidestreet rooming house for a high-noon breakfast, Broadway, went without stockings. There are light street frocks on the waists of dumplings in the shop windows.

The tiny old lady who cranks a burdy-burdy in the midtown district has emerged from her hibernation and is down on the east-side tenement windows are being pried up for the first time in months by alternately women who like to sit all day with their elbows on the sill. A sidewalk artist has taken up his post on Central Park south.

Night-club tenors are getting downright maudlin in their choice of songs. Chorus girls are cultivating a new crop of diamond baubles. "At liberty" actors have resumed their all-day hibernation in front of the Palace Theater. Two-cent stores have got in their new line of plants wrapped in cellophane, containers of rich topped iced cream. And the Group Theater has sent around a press notice in rhyme, titled: "Triolet Applauding the Impudence of Spring, and More Particularly the Relative Impudence of the Premiere of 'Oen-tlewoman'."

Between Courses

One of the new spring sports promises to be small racing. Somebody at a French restaurant called the Espresso. "Or thought it up the other evening, and since there always are plenty of live snails at the Golden Snail, customers henceforth will have something to amuse them while waiting for the other, less lucky, snails to be cooked in parsley and butter. The betting gets pretty heavy when a couple of good racing snails are discovered, but the racing is about as uncertain as a jumping bean contest. The jumping bean season hasn't opened yet. The best novelty gambling game is played with a live mouse. A trap door is opened, allowing him to come into sight under a large bell-jar. All around him are numbered holes—exits into the base of the contraption. When a bright light is turned on he dives into one of these holes, and the player who holds the corresponding number wins the jack-pot.

that; but let us say the victim of a hoax.

Which in turn is nowhere near as surprising as that the very bright young Mr. Rand should have swallowed the spooky Wirt manuscript hook, nose and sinker.

CONFIDENCE

In today's article, I am going to discuss a complex called "The Inferiority Complex." I do not believe that there are many people absolutely free from all complexes, but the human being who is contented and satisfied has only a very mild complex which does not affect him greatly. However, when a well-developed complex has been built up by years of using the emotions in ways which are not good, such a complex may prove very disturbing and rob life of both enjoyment and achievement.

The person with an inferiority complex finds himself shut out from the pleasures of life as though a ten-foot fence were built all around him. He may peak through a knob-hole in the fence and watch life passing by, but he has a hard time joining in. Fear puts a brake on all that he tries to do and his progress is about as slow as though he tried to drive an automobile with the brakes on.

The emotional suffering from a complex is undoubtedly very keen and the patient also develops various nervous symptoms which increase his distress. The person with an inferiority complex lacks self-confidence, dodges responsibility, and his mind is filled with doubt and indecision. He is sensitive as to what others will say about him, and for this reason avoids company. He greatly exaggerates any trifling mistake that he may make and believes that others are laughing at his mistakes. He has a hard time in mixing with others and if he walks into a room full of people, he and is embarrassed by feeling his face turn red, by sweating of the palms of the hands, and by nervous trembling.

I have seen extreme cases where the patient with an inferiority complex placed such a low value on himself that he could not possibly see how he could do any work which would be worth paying for. If such a person does get a job, each pay day finds him tramping in his shoes for fear the pay envelope will contain a slip telling him it is fired. The strange part of it is that his employer very often likes his work and puts a higher value on it than the worker does himself.

The patient with a pronounced inferiority complex will seek friends far below him who do not remind him of the shortcomings he believes he has. He does not like competing

HEALTH--DIET ADVICE

BY DR. FRANK MCCOY
 Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, for reply.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Confidential Answer Necessary)
 Question: To Sarah of White Plains, N. Y.: I am sorry that I cannot answer your letter through the Daily Herald since yours is a question which must be handled confidentially. On your postcard you do not give any name or address and I do not know how to make sure that the answer will reach you, but it is possible that you will read this issue of the paper, and will find out that the best plan is for you to write to me again giving your name and address on a stamped envelope.

(Poisonous Curable)

Question: Mr. A. B. N., Los Angeles, Calif., writes: "I have had psoriasis for many years and even though I got it cured up at one time, with those who are his equals with whom he must earn his sum to be "born." He makes excuses for getting out of doing those things which he fears.

Such a patient compares himself with others and always gives himself the worst of a comparison. To cover up his hurt pride, he may boast or brag about how good he is. He greatly exaggerates his weak points in his own mind. He treats his weaknesses and failures like an empty balloon and swells them until they are as big as possible.

In fact, an inferiority complex is similar to a full balloon because if you once prick it with the pin point of common sense, it collapses, becomes useless, and can be thrown away.

Tomorrow's article: "Curing an Inferiority Complex."

It always comes back. Do you think that the ultra-violet ray treatments would help me?"

Answer: "I believe that you will be able to overcome your psoriasis through using a fasting and dieting regimen and the ultra-violet ray treatments would also prove of help. The cure depends upon removing the underlying toxemia which is the real cause of the disease, and if you are willing to use considerable persistence, the disorder will stay permanently cured. If you want to write to me in care of the Illustrated Daily News for more information, I will be pleased to hear from you, but I must ask that you send one large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Use of Olive Oil)
 Question: A. E. W. of Lawrence, Mass., asks: "Please advise me in your column if olive oil can be used on lettuce and tomatoes. I will be watching for your answer in the Telegram."

Answer: It is perfectly safe to use olive oil as it is a wholesome food substance and is to be recommended.

'LITTLE TAMMANY' WINS IN MISSOURI

Four Killings Mark Kansas City Election; Scores of Sluggings Reported.

Kansas City, March 28.—(AP)—Big Tom Pendergast's Democratic machine rode through to overwhelming victory today after a blood stained election marked by four killings, scores of sluggings and machine gun terrorism.

A drive by Citizen-Fusionists, led by Dr. A. Ross Hill, former University of Missouri president, to oust "Little Tammany" from control of the city failed by a wide margin. Hill, running for mayor, got only 81,748 votes against 141,117 for the Democratic incumbent, Mayor Bryce B. Smith on the face of unofficial complete returns.

Score Two Gains.

The Fusionists scored two gains, however. They elected Frank H. Backstrom and D. S. Adams to the council. The Pendergast forces swept the six other council seats, as well as two municipal judgeships.

The total vote of 225,000 smashed all records, being greater than the 1832 presidential vote.

DR. BUTLER INDIGNANT OVER VOTE IN HOUSE

Says Congressmen Who Overrode President's Veto Betrayed Their Country.

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, staunch supporter of the Administration, arrived from Italy today in a lather of indignation over the defeat sustained by President Roosevelt in the House yesterday.

"These people," declared Dr. Butler, referring to the Congressmen who voted to override the President's veto of the veterans' allowance bill, "have betrayed their country and people. The only way to take care of them is at the polls. Personally, I wouldn't vote for any of them."

Dr. Butler was told of the sensation created by Dr. William A. Wirt, the Gary, Ind., educator who charged that certain members of the Administration's "Brain Trust" considered of President Roosevelt a Keresney and planned to supplant him with a Stalin.

"Who is Dr. Wirt," he asked.

He was informed that Dr. Wirt was head of the Gary public school system.

"I didn't even know he existed," was Dr. Butler's laconic comment.

CONSTITUTIONAL COURT TO SIT IN HARTFORD

To Hold Hearing Tomorrow on State Liquor Control Board's Rules for Package Stores.

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—The first constitutional court to sit in Hartford for many years will hold a hearing tomorrow morning in the Federal building to determine the constitutionality of the state liquor control restrictions on package stores. A decision by the court, which will probably be given within a week or ten days, will make permanent or end a temporary injunction issued by Judge Edwin S. Thomas, March 16, restraining all state authorities from enforcing the liquor control board's rulings on hours of sale and size of containers in package stores. The injunction put the package stores on an equal footing with drug-stores in the state, which may sell liquor in any size container up to one quart, and up to 11 p. m.

Judge Martin T. Manton of the United States Circuit Court in New York, will preside tomorrow morning, with Judge Thomas, senior Federal judge in Connecticut, and Judge Carroll C. Hincks, junior judge, sitting with him.

G. H. BRYAN TO WED NURSE IN HARTFORD

Miss Margaret Tingney to Become Bride of Tolland Turnpike Man on Monday.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Tingney of Hartford, to George H. Bryan, son of Dennis Bryan of 179 Tolland Turnpike, will be solemnized Easter Monday morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's Cathedral, Hartford. The bride is a graduate of St. Francis Training School for Nurses, and saw service during the World War at Honolulu, T. H. and Mexico. Nurses at the hospital gave her a miscellaneous gift shower last week, in honor of her approaching marriage.

GOT TIRED OF DIET

Bridgeport, March 28.—(AP)—After a three days' diet of meat cakes and French fries, potatoes as cooked by his bride of a few weeks, Gilbert Guy Hunt, Greenwich, gave up the struggle and started to eat most of his meals in the home of his mother, according to testimony offered by the young man before Judge John A. Cornell and the jury in Superior Court today.

The youthful husband, testifying in defense of his mother, Mrs. Vienna S. Hunt, who is being sued by his wife, Mrs. Ruth Newman Hunt, for $25,000 for alienation of his affections, described his spouse as a poor housekeeper and cook.

Neill's address at the beginning of the service will be "The Cross of Christ." Meditations will be on the Gospel of St. John. Appropriate hymns will be sung, previous to each of the seven last words of Christ, and worshippers may enter or leave during the singing. At the conclusion of the service Rev. Neill will preach on "The Christ of the Cross." The offering will be for the Manchester Memorial hospital.

The choir of the North Methodist church will go to Willimantic this evening to take part in the union Holy Week service at the Methodist church there.

EXPECT OVER 600 COUPLES AT BALL

Committee Making Plans to Handle Big Crowd; Meeting Tonight.

Indications are that over 600 couples will attend the annual Masonic Ball in the State Armory here this coming Easter Monday, according to Robert J. Boyce, secretary-treasurer of the committee in charge.

Returns of tickets which have been sent to members of Manchester lodge of Masons are equal to the returns made the year of the largest attendance at the ball.

Arrange Accordingly Expecting to have a record breaking attendance the committee is making every arrangement to make handling of the large number of dancers as easy as possible. Additional seating facilities are being planned and the refreshments committee under Richard McLagan is making its plans so that all the guests may be seated together at luncheon intermission.

The Shrine orchestra which will play for the ball will be seated on a dais decorated to represent an Italian garden. The orchestra members have never appeared in Manchester before and they are anxious to make the best impression possible here. Consequently they are bending every effort to present a worthwhile program. A concert of classical and semi-classical numbers will precede the grand march which is scheduled for nine o'clock.

The Committee Tickets and detailed information may be secured from any member of the general committee. Those on this committee are: Charles Bunzel, chairman, Holgar Bach, Ernest T. Bently, Harry B. Blaisell, William M. Brown, Aaron Cook, Albert T. Dewey, William W. Bells, Ronald H. Ferguson, James Forde, W. George Glenney.

Ease Pain Now In Few Minutes

A Discovery That's Bringing Fast Relief To Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia... the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

These results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WAPPING

The Girls 4-H club of Wapping will meet at the home of their leader, Miss Elsie Nevers this afternoon. Mrs. Tabor, the Hartford County agent, gave them lessons in darning. The Young Peoples' Society of Christian Endeavor of Wapping will motor to Manchester to Sunset Hill, next Friday morning to attend the Good Friday Sunrise prayer meeting. Refreshments will be served after the program.

Mr. and Mrs. White and family who have been living on the Frank M. Dart homestead in the northeastern part of the town, are to move next Monday to Jewett City.

The regular meeting of Evergreen Lodge of Masons, A. F. and A. M. No. 114, was held at their Temple at East Windsor Hill last Monday evening.

Next Thursday evening the Federated church and the First Congregational church of South Windsor meet to unite in the observance of "The Lord's Supper." Rev. Harry S. Martin will preach the sermon.

About $85 was cleared at the supper Friday evening, under the auspices of the United Workers. Much credit is due the committee, Mrs.

Pratt, Miss Lillian Lasbury and Mrs. Harry Prior. There were about one hundred present.

$75,000 WINNERS SAY WRIGLEY'S PK LUCKY

Two department store porters in Boston, Ralph Mazarrello and Patrick Coleman, were the winners on a $75,000 Irish sweepstakes ticket last week. They had not signed their names to the ticket but had given the words "Wrigley's PK" and their address.

When a ticket is bought it must be identified in some way so that the winners can be traced and given their money. The two men noticed that the serial letters on the ticket were PK.

Coleman was chewing Wrigley's PK gum at the time, they said, and so they thought it might be lucky to try out that combination. They added the name "Wrigley" to the ticket's serial letters and let it go at that.

Mazarrello and Coleman believe their PK hunch turned the trick. They have given up their jobs as porters but they have not given up their faith in luck.

High School Teacher Runs Into Adventure

Mr. Wright of the Commercial department, experienced a week-end unusually full of excitement when thieves attempted to steal his car and when he assisted the victim of a bad skid to escape danger.

Mr. Wright attended a play Friday at the Chelsea Senior High school, Chelsea, Mass., while thieves were attempting to break into his car. The handles on all the doors were broken in an effort to obtain entrance to the automobile. When Mr. Wright found the handles broken, but the locks intact, he summoned a mechanic who unlocked a door by inserting a rod through a partly broken window. Another automobile parked in front of Mr. Wright's also had the handles broken when thieves attempted to unlock the doors.

While motoring with friends Saturday night Mr. Wright was first to arrive at the scene of an accident where a car had skidded on the snow-covered pavement and turned directly down at the side of the road, directly above a river. One of the two occupants was pinned beneath the wreckage. Fearing that at any moment the car would slide into the river, Mr. Wright succeeded in removing the unconscious victim from the wreck. The other man had been thrown to the side of the road and was in a dazed condition. The automobile was a total wreck and was twisted so that, although the engine was in an upright position, the rest of the car was upside down. A large crowd had collected which Mr. Wright tried to disperse "fade-away" without learning the names of the men or giving his own name.

"I'LL LEAVE IT TO YOU" WHOLE MENAGERIE

NEW WORLD STAFF TO BE TRIED OUT

Any Student May Compete—Must Write Real or Imaginary News Story.

Tryouts for positions on the staff of the High School World for the coming year were announced today. Any student in the school is eligible to try out except those who plan to participate in some other major extra-curricular activity, such as a team athletic program or Dramatic club.

Candidates are to pass to Miss Estes, Room 28, Main building, a paper containing their name, class and present English teacher, and a statement of their preference for general reporting or a special assignment. The paper should include a real or imaginary news story written by the applicant.

KANGAROOS BEAT WHOLE MENAGERIE

Girls' Play Day at W. Hartford Success; Manchester Girls on Winning Team.

The Kangaroos trimmed the Hyenas and the Monkeys got more baskets than the Giraffes. This menagerie played basketball when the girls of Winsted, Wetherfield, Bloomfield and Manchester were guests of the West Hartford girls for the Play Day on Saturday.

After all the teams who were to take part in the Play Day program had arrived at West Hartford each girl was put in a line according to the position she played on her own basketball team. Then each drew a slip of paper from a box which told her what the name of the team was on which she was to play.

There were in all 10 teams and these were the names given to the teams: Donkeys, Hyenas, Monkeys, Wild Cats, Tigers, Kangaroos, Giraffes, Elephants, Hyppos, Polar Bears.

In the tournament the Kangaroos were the winners of the winning teams, and the Monkeys the winners of the losing teams.

On the winning team there were two M. H. S. girls, Evelyn Peterson and Carolyn Rubachs. Both of them received two Scotty dogs attached to a white ribbon giving the date, the place and name of the schools which were in the Play Day tournament. All games were very exciting.

Student referees were used for each game. Ada Webb refereed for M. H. S. After the games were played off, the girls retired for lunch and a "getting acquainted" time.

A SPEEDY WORLD

Everything today is Speed! Stream-line trains are now in operation in all parts of the United States which run at tremendous speeds. Automobile manufacturers are considering speed as a great factor in the building of their new cars. Airplanes are breaking speed records all the time. But with all this speed do we ever stop to realize how fast we are really going!

The earth is spinning on its axis at the rate of about 1,040 miles an hour. The earth travels in its orbit at 18.5 miles a second or about 66,000 miles an hour. This rate is almost uncomprehensible. At this rate of speed we could go from Manchester to Hartford in about one half a second or go around the earth about 2 1/4 times in an hour. The whole solar system travels at a speed of 12 miles a second toward the star Vega. Man will never attain these high rates of speed with a vehicle.

MERIDEN WINS DEBATING CUP

Defeats Both Manchester and Middletown in Last of Triangle Contests.

Meriden High school's debating team, defeating both Manchester at Manchester and Middletown at Meriden, won permanent possession of the H. Wales Lines cup for debating. Each of the three schools in the triangular league had twice won the cup temporarily.

The Manchester negative team lost to Middletown by two votes to one. The debate was very even throughout, the judges' ballots at the end showing a slight advantage for Middletown.

The Manchester team based its case on a defense of the present system, and a plan of refinement in programs, to be brought about by the aid of radio listeners. The team suggested also a government station to serve as a model to privately conducted broadcasting.

The first negative speaker, Catherine Wilson, defended the present system as one which gives people what they want. Pearl Dregler spoke against government interference in our lives, and Peter Ferguson suggested a plan for refinement in the present system. Russell Wilson was alternate.

Middletown argued for government operation of radio on the grounds of a beautiful monopoly under the present system.

Pearl Dregler was the outstanding debater of either team. She presented thoughtful arguments in a convincing manner.

MANCHESTER LOSES HOME DEBATE 3-0

Local Team Fails to Prove Need of Government Control of Radio with Meriden

The Meriden negative debaters won a decisive victory over the Manchester affirmative team by a unanimous vote here Friday night when they matched wits on the subject: "Resolved, That the Federal Government should own, operate, and control radio in the United States."

F. A. Verplanck acted as chairman of the debate, which an unusually large audience attended.

The affirmative team, after welcoming their opponents, stated their objective of proving that the government should own, operate, and control radio. Their claims were based upon the following three points: (1) That the present system is commercially unsatisfactory; (2) That government ownership, operation, and control would greatly improve the types and uses of broadcasts; and (3) That they would present a practical plan for improvement.

System Unsatisfactory

Marion Fraser, the first affirmative speaker, explained the first claim, that the present system is unsatisfactory. Too much graft in the radio world has prevented the provision of the best programs, and resulted in broadcasts which appeal to only a twelve-year-old mentality. Twelve per cent of the broadcasting stations are commercially operated, although, through a magazine poll, it was learned that the majority of the public oppose advertising by radio. While 518 people like jazz, some 10,876 dislike it, and the same majority rules against crooners and wise-crack comedians.

The second affirmative speaker, Elizabeth Goelses, brought out that government ownership, operation, and control would restore to the people the things which rightly belong to them by improving the programs and raising them above their present low quality. The government would increase educational broadcasts, and reduce, somewhat, the general advertising schemes. Then, at present, only one educational broadcasting station in the United States. From this station in Wisconsin they send out worthwhile programs from the Wisconsin School and Wisconsin College of the air. More of such programs would be had under the new control, and advertising would be lessened to the name and a brief description of the product with the name and address of the company selling the same.

Harry Howroyd, as third affirmative speaker, then outlined the government's practical plan for the general improvement. The government would take over all facilities and meet the expected expense by taxation and sponsored programs. There is already a five per cent government tax on all radios sold, which brings in about five million dollars annually. They could easily tax some other parts, say-tubes, Government ownership, operation, and control would do away with private monopoly in the radio world and the misrepresentation of products in advertising. Strict government supervision would permit a wider variety of worthwhile broadcasts and do away with stiff competition of individual competitors. Four national networks, one for each time belt, would eliminate the evils of monopoly also.

The negative team stated their intention of proving that the government should not own, operate, or control radio in the United States. Their claims were based upon the following arguments: (1) That it would be a difficult and very expensive step for the government to take; (2) That the present system adequately serves the needs of the public; and (3) That the insistence of control by the government would cause political friction between state and municipal powers.

Eleanor Hopkins, first negative speaker, emphasized the inadvisability of the government control plan because of the huge cost. In order to fully own, operate, and control radio, the government would be obliged to buy the six hundred present stations. Even those that they would not continue to operate must needs be bought to compensate the owners for their loss. To get this money the government would either enforce immediate taxation or issue bonds. Then there would be the question of the number of hours to be given to each concern.

TEACHER GOES FROM FRENCH TO DEBATING

One afternoon last week, our teacher happened to wander from the French book and gradually drifted from the subject of French to the topic of debating. One of the main points which she impressed was the fact that few people realize the value of a good debate. I verily believe this. A debate suggested something more or less interesting to me until this talk in French class. Now I can really see the value of a good debate due to a French teacher's wandering from her textbook.

RHODE ISLAND STATE TRACK MEET PROGRAM

Bill Whelan, veteran manager of the Rhode Island State College's annual interscholastic track meet, plans on making this spring's tourney the twenty-fifth in the long series held at Kingston, a most memorable one. He has recently announced that invitations have been extended to 69 High schools and academies. The meet takes place Saturday morning, May 12. Twenty-five of the schools invited are in Rhode Island, 12 class A institutions, and 13 class B. In the case of state division, 24 of the schools are located in Massachusetts, and 26 in Connecticut.

Among the teams invited for the first time are Waterbury, New Haven Commercial, Bridgeport Central, and Westerly from Connecticut. Those from Massachusetts are Sandwich, Bourne, Dennis, Yarmouth, Orleans, Grafton. According to Manager Whelan many of the schools have already promised to compete. To commemorate the first anniversary of the interscholastic meet, "Bill" plans to introduce several new arrangements that give indication of pleasing contestants and coaches alike.

Manchester won this meet last year in the out-of-state division.

EDITORIAL

DESTRUCTIVE ART

Did you ever stop to think of all the unrecognized artists we have running loose around the school? If not, now is a fine time to do so!

You have noticed those fine specimens of ancient art on the various desks. Perhaps you've even put some of them there. If so, you should report your intentions of becoming a professional writer to an editor of a correspondence school, or refrain from using what does not belong to you for your occasional scribbling.

On the other hand, if you see someone else scribbling away, either kindly ask him to stop, or give the poor fellow a piece of paper.

How about some of these cartoonists drawing for the "World" instead of carving "Me and You" enclosed within a heart on a perfectly good desk cover, nicely varnished door, or newly painted wall?

Think it over, friends, and try writing your class numerals on the back of your pads, your own sweaters, or making them mean something in school history instead of destroying property with them.

BEAUTIFUL DREAMS

Every time I go to sleep, The old Sandman will softly creep, And when he has done his duty, I am dreaming dreams of beauty— Dreams of a princess dressed in white.

Riding in chariot; shining bright, The largest castle I ever did see, Protected by one beautiful tree, Then a gate is opened wide, And the princess rides inside, And waiting for her at the door, Is the most handsome prince I ever saw.

In the most beautiful dream of all, I suddenly hear my mother call, "Come, get up, you sleepy head, It's time you were out of bed."

Isolda Riva, '32B.

YOUR MOTHER

You have a friend that is fine and true, To raise your spirits when things are blue; Who cheers you up when the world goes wrong And helps the days of the week along; Who makes you feel that the school's all right; Who paints your future all rosy bright; Who tells you tales of the years gone by And feeds you full of her apple pie; Who knows some how, you shall always be The great success she would like to see.

—Sandy.

TO BE HAPPY

I think I would be happy If the world were happy too, If the day were full of smiles And wishes all came true.

Why, not, when unhappy, Try to smile the tears away? Make yours feel happy, By doing as I say.

ENGLISH CLASS STUDIES PROGRAM OF LITERATURE

Aims Are to Cover Short Story, Drama, Novel, Poetry, Essay and Biography.

The aims of Mr. Hartwell's junior English class are: (1) to cover, in the half year, the six forms of literature, namely: short story, novel, biography, poetry, drama and essay; (2) to read at least two of each type; (3) to know the best writers of each form; (4) to know and be able to give examples of all; and (5) to write properly.

In accordance with their study of the essay, the class gave the life reports of well known essayists. Some of the reports given were as follows:

"Christopher Morley," by Louis Neff and Rose Shapiro; "Irrving S. Cobb," Margaret Toman; "Charles Brooks," Eleanor Scheldge; "David Grayson," Dorothy Shedd; "Stephen Leacock," Harry Moran; and "John Galsworthy," by Beatrice Irwin.

The class is now going on to the study of the biography and autobiography.

—E. Scheldge, '35.

HOW TO GET 'EM

Your class and some work never do, Go to parties with Ruth or Len, Do some studying, but have fun too, You'll get a non-athletic "M."

Classwork and homework always do, But study, study, study ways be, Do your assignments, but not extra work too; You should care; you'll get a "B."

Stodious and tactful, try to be, At home to study, choose to stay; Make perfect papers, good to see; You'll get yours, a capital A.

SPORT SLANTS

When the swimming team defeated Colman by five points I went around boasting that being a student of sports, my uncanny ability as a forecaster enabled me to pick the winner but since then—well, read on.

I'm the optimistic little boy who was so confident that the swimming team would startle the other schools in the state meet with their speed and power. I said they wouldn't come home with barrels full of medals, but they would put up a creditable showing. They did—they got one point—one whole point, and I'm telling you the other schools sure were astonished. They thought we had a swimming team. That point came in handy, for besides keeping the team from being white-washed, it tied us with Naugatuck for seventh place. There were eight teams in the meet which was won by Crosby.

It was the track team, however, which jeopardized the public faith in me. I said they would have an excellent chance to place among the first three at the state meet. I went along explaining on what I based my opinion, indicating that this person would place here and that person there. And what happened—they placed fourth! I must have forgotten that there were more than three teams at the meet. With enough power and speed in the running events to knock a building over, they trailed three teams. I'll bet that if I had picked them to finish fourth they would have finished either third or fifth. Fourth is a creditable showing in a state meet, but it still isn't first, second, or third.

—Joe Mistretta

IN CHURCH FLAY

Mary Alice Andrews, a member of the Paint and Power Club, played the leading role in the religious play, "Hoover of Borneo" which was presented at the Center Congregational church last Sunday evening. Mary Alice took the part of Mrs. Hoover, the wife of a missionary.

Several other High school students participated in this presentation: Jean Woodruff, Barbara Lundberg, Louise Burr, Betty Woodruff, Ernest Bengtson, William Fichter and John Bengtson.

—Barbara Nickerson, '34.

HISTORY REPORTS NOW BASED ON MIDDLE AGES

Library reports on topics relating to the Middle Ages in Europe were written as a special assignment in Miss McLean's upper sophomore history division recently.

The most interesting reports in Division I were: "Anglo-Saxon Times," Helen Hyde; "Hildebrand," Katherine Walek; "King Friedrich I," Margaret Lawless; "A Hanseatic Ship," Eva Sadonis; "The Plantagenet Kings and the Great Charter," Gertrude Plaga; "Battle of Hastings and Conquest of England," Eleanor Fallait; and "Capetians," Elsie Kelah.

Division IV presented the following reports: "The Great Hanseatic League," Bernice Marsh; "The Tower of London," Lena Kessay; "The Great Charter," and a sketch of an old manor farm, by Gladys Miller. An account of the life of William the Conqueror in the form of a letter was written by Rose Ortelli.

—Barbara Nickerson, '34.

NEW LIGHTS INSTALLED

The class room lighting in the entire main building was changed last week-end when the glare of uncovered bulbs was done away with by the installation of indirect lighting fixtures. The old lights had given service for all the light of the building for approximately 30 years. Superintendent Verplanck has been experimenting with various types of class room lighting equipment and selected the present type as most desirable.

Rehearsal Chatter

Comical incidents occur during rehearsal of "I'll Leave It to You" throughout the entire play. Often during rehearsal even the cast are so overcome that they find it necessary to sink into the nearest chairs for hilarious "time outs." On April 8th, however, they will not find it hard to retain perfect composure; you may have the advantage—you may laugh as hard as you wish for 30c.

A noteworthy number of boys have for the past two weeks, been devoting their art periods to constructing such background as one would find in an up-to-date English mansion. Window seats, an arched doorway, French windows, and a staircase have been completed up to date, to say nothing of what is yet to come.

The author of this uproarious comedy has quite a history. English by birth, Noel Coward studied drama in both France and England before producing the first of his sixteen famous plays, "I'll Leave It to You" came second.

Purhaps the best laugh of all will be found in the first part of the third act just where—"I'll Leave It to You" to find out.

During the past four weeks a cast of ten students has spent long hours in preparation for April 8th. All parts were memorized on March 18th. Now rehearsals are devoted to extensive workouts.

Any who had the good fortune to see Frank Robinson, one of M. H. S.'s outstanding football heroes, give the impersonation of a feminine vamp in the "Arrival of Kitty" two years ago, can foresee just how capable he will handle the part of the uncle, a kind-hearted and genial benefactor of the McDermotts, in "I'll Leave It to You!"

Exactly one hundred and fifty three items are being collected for use as properties. Everything from a butter knife to a piano is required and Marion Fraser is seeing that they are all gathered.

CINDER NEWS

Manchester High school opened its 1934 track campaign with a rather disappointing affair. Saturday the boys traveled to Middletown to compete in the State Meet. Last year Manchester trailed Hillhouse High by a few points to capture second place Saturday they received fourth place with eight points. Although Coach "Pete" Wigren was not expecting the squad to place very high they could have done better with a few breaks.

The surprise of the meet for Manchester was the performance of Lockhart Rogers, a rookie, competing for the first time in outside competition. Lockhart captured second place in the broad jump, breaking the old record held by Jimmy O'Leary. Lockhart also placed in the relay. His points will come in handy for Coach Wigren this spring. Coach Wigren is relying on new material to fill in the gaps made by ineligibility and graduation.

Charles Donahue, one of the men who, in our opinion, should have finished well up among the leaders in the kilometer run, was spiked early in the first lap of the race, but without stopping to look at his foot, "Charley" plugged on and finished the race. At the close of the race it was noticed how badly his foot had been cut. The shoe had been literally torn to shreds and his foot was cut in two places almost to the bone. Five stitches were necessary to close the cut. However, Charley hopes to be able to compete in the first outdoor meet.

Other runners who deserve credit for their fine showing are Judd, who placed fourth in the 45-yard dash, and "Bing" Fraser, who managed to beat out Charley Wadsworth in the semi-finals.

Bob Smith, although eliminated in the first heat of the 45-yard dash, looked good and several persons thought he had second place.

The next meet is the Hartford Armory Meet.

—Bill Murch.

WOMEN'S TANK TEAM MAINLY FROM PUPILS

The women's swimming team at the Rec, under the direction of Miss Fenery, assistant director, is principally composed of High school material. They've had three meets this season and have been defeated each time.

The different races are swum by the following girls: 20 yard dash, Annie Arson, '35; 100 yard dash, Helen Arson, '36 and Natalie Moorehouse, '37; 40 yard breast, Doris Cervini, '38 and R. Linde, '38A; 100 yard swimming, R. Linde, '38A; 200 yard, R. Linde, '38A; 400 yard, Helen Arson, '38A, Stella Arson and R. Linde.

The 40 yard backstroke is swum by Lorraine House and Mildred Arson of Barnard school.

The team has met in competition twice with Hartford Y. W. C. A. and once with the Connecticut State College varsity team.

SILK TRADE PAY UP 32 P. C. WEEKLY

Gain for Industry Put at $14,000,000 a Year — Employment Gains.

New York, March 28.—The weekly pay roll of the silk textile industry has increased more than 32 per cent, representing a gain for the entire industry operating under the code of more than $14,000,000 a year, according to announcement yesterday by Peter Van Horn, executive vice-president of the National Federation of Textiles, Inc., successor to the Silk Association of America. The Federation, acting for the code authority of the industry, has just completed the tabulation of replies to a questionnaire mailed to 800 silk manufacturers, including broad goods producers and makers of ribbons, hat bands and woven labels.

Hours Shortened
The results, as made known yesterday, showed that the number of employees, amount of wages and number of looms in operation in the industry have increased while the hours of labor for each employee a week have decreased. The periods of comparison were for the week ending July 1, 1933 (immediately prior to the Presidential agreement) and for the week ending February 1, 1934.

Up to and including March 22 there were 707 replies, a return of more than 88 per cent, representing about three quarters of the mills in the industry. The total number of employees in the industry, the survey showed, had increased 11 per cent, almost in direct proportion to the increase in looms operated. The average of labor a week when averaged by the firms reporting, showed a decrease of more than 22 per cent. Weighted by employees, the decrease in working hours amounted to 18 per cent.

Wages Higher
The minimum wages averaged by firms increased 23 per cent; weighted by employees, the gain was virtually the same. However, adjusted to a forty-hour basis, the increase was above 50 per cent. Average wages by firms reporting showed a gain of more than 21 per cent; weighted by employees, the increase was more than 19 per cent; and adjusted to a forty-hour basis, the gain was in excess of 45 per cent.

CONCERT PROGRAM TO AID CHINESE

Salvation Army Band and Songsters Give Sacred Recital at Citadel.

One of the largest crowds of the season attended the sacred concert given by the Salvation Army corps band and songsters last night in the citadel for the benefit of self-denial week and especially for the support of Chinese missions.

The musical brigade who assisted in the concert by members of the Walker family of Rockville, children of the Rev. Richard Walker, pastor of the African Baptist church Rockville, and Adjutant and Mrs. Nicol of East Hartford.

The theme of the musical offerings was based on the suffering and sacrifice of Jesus Christ during Holy Week. Outstanding selections by the band and songsters were "Rejoice, the Lord is Here," "The Torchbearers March," "Gems from The Creation," by Haydn and "The Man of Sorrows," by B. Coles.

Miss Eleanor Bates, daughter of Brigadier and Mrs. Albert Bates of Hartford, favored with a recitation, "The Master is Coming" and Adjutant and Mrs. Nicol played a cornet and accordion duet. An excellent piano solo "The Old Oaken Bucket," a difficult arrangement of the old favorite, was given by Mrs. Leslie Kittle.

Major Fred Malpass of Hartford was chairman and master of ceremonies and presented short biographical sketches of the great composers, Beethoven, Schubert, Haydn, Liszt and others.

The program:
Salutation—band and songsters. Selection—band and songsters, "Rejoice, the Lord is Here"—songster brigade, Fred Clough leader. Accordion and Cornet duet—Adjutant and Mrs. Nicol.

Vocal quartet—"Spirituals", the Walker family.
March—"The Torchbearers", Salvation Army Band, David Addy, bandmaster.

Recitation—"The Master is Coming", Miss Eleanor Bates.
Selection—Gems from "The Creation", Haydn, Salvation Army Band.
Piano solo—"The Old Oaken Bucket", Mrs. Leslie Kittle.
Anthem—"Fear Thou Not", Piper, band and songsters.

Trombone Trio—"Love At Home" Bandmen W. Hanna, Russell and Alfred Clough.

Vocal quartet—"Spirituals", The Walker family.
Selection—"The Man of Sorrows", Coles, Salvation Army Band.
Doxology and Benediction.

SENIORITY RULES UPHELD BY COURT

Judge Decides Adversely On Action of Connecticut Company Employees.

New Haven, March 28—(AP)—Judge Frederick M. Peaseley in Superior Court has held the seniority rules of the Connecticut company, especially rule fifty, are reasonable and fair in that they provide advantages and disadvantages to all types of employees.

The decision resulted from an action by 21 employees of the company against a committee of four and the company. The plaintiffs charged that the committee, without authorization, accepted terms of work, which reacted unfavorably for them during the depression.

Owing to the action of the committee, the plaintiffs charged, they faced the possibility of losing their jobs and seniority rights.

The defense argued there was no definite seniority rule and any rules which had been in existence were merely one or two year provisions.

Judge Peaseley found that rule fifty provides that when an employee of the company is elevated to a position of command, his seniority rating goes no higher, so that men with less time served may pass him on the seniority lists.

Under this regulation, in time of stress, the judge found, if the company reduces the size of its force, the promoted men may be dropped while another man not in service so long may be retained.

The rule works against the newer men also, the judge asserted, dismissing the action.

CHURCH BOOSTER CLUB PLANS 'BEAGLE' PARTY

Affair Will Be Held April 16 to Increase Current Expense Fund.

The booster club of the North Methodist church at their meeting Monday evening voted to hold a "Beagle" party on April 16, for the benefit of the current expense fund of the church.

The committee on refreshments includes Mrs. Elton Johnson, Mrs. John J. Flavel and Mark Holmes. Melvin Cox and John J. Flavel will see to the arrangement of the rooms.

HARTFORD CONFERENCES ON STRIKES IN STATE

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—State Commissioner of Labor Joseph M. Tone, acting as mediator for the United States department of labor, arranged a conference this afternoon in his office of representatives of the striking employees of A. Weeman, Inc., shoe manufacturer, of Norwich, and officials of the company. Wages and working conditions form the basis of complaint of the strikers.

Thursday afternoon the commissioner will meet with representatives of the woolen industry and the unions. The manufacturers concerned are the B. E. Hilliard Company of Manchester, where about 180 workers are out; the American Mills of West Haven, employing about 700 and the Ashland Corporation of Jewett City, also having about 700 employees.

PLANT RESUMES WORK

Buffalo, March 28.—(AP)—Despite a strike which reduced their working forces to a skeleton basis, the Consolidated Airport Corporation and the Curtis Airplane and Motor Company, Inc. resumed work as usual today on turning out more than $4,000,000 worth of government airplanes.

HARTFORD PEDDLERS ASK FOR LOWER LICENSE FEE

Petition Calling for Special Town Meeting Returned to Senders as Names Conflict.

A petition with the names of alleged Manchester voters, calling for a special town meeting, was received yesterday afternoon at the selectmen's office. Town Treasurer George H. Waddell turned over the petition, which was sent by an organization of peddlers with headquarters to Town Clerk Samuel Turkington to check the names.

The names appearing on the petition did not agree, in a majority of the cases, with names on the voting list. The petition was returned.

Request was made that a special town meeting be called for the voters to take action on the changing of the present town by-law which requires payment of $100 a year for an out-of-town peddler to do business in Manchester. Local residents who peddle fruits and vegetables by carts pay a fee considerably less than that charged transient peddlers.

JACQUARD WEAVERS' MEETING SATURDAY

Asked to Bring Information About Their Work to Moose Hall Gathering.

The executive committee of Local 2125, United Textile Workers of America, has called a meeting of all jacquard weavers to be held in Moose Hall, Brainard Place, at nine o'clock Saturday morning.

Weavers working on jacquards are asked to bring on a slip of paper the size of job they are working on, the number of looms they are running, the commission number of goods being woven, the number of ends in the warp, the number of picks, the size of the silk in the warp and the size of the filling.

HEARS COMPLAINTS OVER WATER RATES

Selectman Aaron Cook Told Not All Meters Work As They Should.

Selectman Aaron Cook this morning received a delegation that filed a protest against rates charged in bills recently received for water furnished by the town owned water works.

The water bills, it appeared from what could be gathered in the complaint, gave higher rates than bills received in the past for a like period. It also appears that in some cases the bills covered a period of more than the usual three months.

The town owned water works serve, according to the records, 16,000 of the town's population with 2,904 meters installed, readings from which give the amount of water used and the cost. In some of the complaints made to Selectman Cook it was indicated that the additional charge contained in the bills was due to poor meters. Requests were made that they be tested without cost to the consumer. The complaints received by Selectman Cook are not confined to one part of the territory served by the town's water works, but taken in different sections.

STATE POLICE ON DUTY AT HILLIARDVILLE MILL

Sent Here When Commissioner Learns of Strike—Union Members Against Violence.

The only new development in the Hilliard mill strike today was the arrival of a detachment of five State Policemen under the direction of Sergeant Michael Smith. The State Policemen were sent here after Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon had notified Commissioner Anthony Sunderland that a strike was in progress at the local mills. Their duty will be to protect property and prevent violence. E. E. Hilliard did not ask for state police protection, it was learned.

President Bernard Halpin of Local 2127, composed of Hilliard mill employees, has stated that the union members have promised not to resort to violence of any kind. They intend to continue peaceful picketing, however.

At 6:30 this morning a group of strikers was at hand to ask those going to work to join with them. One woman continued into the mill saying, "I'm 60 years of age and have a mind of my own." Some of the strikers had driven to the mills and parked their automobiles on highway curves in violation of state law. They did not realize this and soon removed them when warned by the State policemen.

Here Is Full Text Of President's Veto On Vet Allowances

Washington, March 26—(AP)—The text of President Roosevelt's message vetoing the independent offices appropriation bill follows: I return herewith without my approval H. R. 6683 entitled "An act making appropriations for the executive office and sundry independent executive bureaus, boards, commissions, and offices for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, and for other purposes."

In March, 1933, the Congress passed, and I signed "An act to maintain the credit of the United States government." This law became one of the principal pillars of National recovery for the clear reason that for the first time in many years the recurring annual expenses for the maintenance of the government were brought within the current revenues of the government.

It is true that very large but wholly distinct funds are being dispensed daily for emergency purposes, but these funds are going directly to the purpose of saving farms, saving horses and giving relief and employment to millions of our fellow citizens. They are non-recurring in nature, while the increases contemplated in this bill are continuous and permanent.

This bill exceeds the estimates submitted by me in the sum of 228,000,000 dollars. I am compelled to take note of the fact that in creating this excess the Congress has failed at the same time to provide a similar sum by additional taxation. Moreover, to the extent that the amount of money appropriated by the Congress is in excess of my budget estimates, and in the absence of provision for additional revenues, there must be a decrease in the funds available for essential relief work.

This bill increases the compensation for employees of the United States government 125,000,000 dollars over my budget estimates for this purpose. I have great sympathy for the employees, but I can not forget that millions of American citizens are today still without employment, and reduction in the compensation of Federal employees has been and still is on the average less than the reduction in compensation that has been patiently endured by those citizens not in the employ of the United States government.

Let me be specific. This bill makes a portion of the restored compensation retroactive to February first, 1934. I believe it unwise to establish this precedent, and I can not overlook the serious administrative difficulties involved in paying back pay to individuals, many of whom are no longer in the employ of the government.

The bill also contains several discriminatory provisions, such as paying employees in some instances of the government 48 hours' pay for 40 hours' work. In submitting the budget estimates last December, I recommended restoration of 5 per cent for the next fiscal year. The cost of living seems to be rising slowly. The present authority is not responsive enough to changing conditions. I therefore shall be glad to confer with the Congress on improving methods of restoring Federal pay so that in actual practice the pay will keep ahead of the cost of living increases instead of lagging behind. Adjustments can well be made immediately on the passage of appropriate legislation followed by more frequent adjustments in the future.

World War Veterans. I come now to the provisions in this act relating to World War veterans. First let me speak of principles. Last October I said this to the American Legion convention: "The first principle, following inevitably from the obligation of citizens to bear arms, is that the government has a responsibility for and towards those who suffered injury or contracted disease while serving in its defense."

The second principle is that no person, because he wore a uniform must thereafter be placed in a special class of beneficiaries ever and above all other citizens. "The fact of wearing a uniform does not mean that he can demand and receive from his government a benefit which no other citizen receives. It does not mean that because a person served in the defense of his country, performed a heroic obligation of citizenship, he should receive a pension from his government because of a disability incurred after his service had terminated, and not connected with that service."

It does mean, however, that those who were injured in or as a result of their service, are entitled to receive adequate and generous compensation for their disabilities. It does mean that generous care shall be extended to the dependents of those who died in or as a result of service to their country."

I am very confident that the American people, including the overwhelming majority of veterans themselves, approve these principles and in the last analysis will support them. Applying them to the provision of this bill I can not give it my approval. Service Disability. Last year it was determined—and I had hoped permanent—that a service-connected disability was a question of fact rather than a question of law. In other words each individual case should and must be considered on its merits and there is no justification for legislative dicta which, contrary to fact, provide that thousands of individual cases of sickness which commenced four, five or six years after the termination of the war are caused by war service. Therefore local boards were established—boards of which three out of the five members were in no way connected with the veterans administration and on which two-thirds of those serving were ex-service men. These local boards approved disallowances in the case of 29,000 veterans and these disallowances were unanimous in 94 per cent of the cases. Not content with that, I created a board of appeals the majority of which again are in no way connected with the veterans administration and a majority of which are ex-service men. This board is now engaged in hearing appeals of those cases disallowed by the local boards.

A few weeks ago I gave approval to an amendment the purpose of which was, pending the determination of their appeals, to restore to the rolls at 75 per cent of their compensation, those veterans in whose cases the presumption of service was disallowed by the local boards. This, however, was rejected in the Congress. I intend now by regulation forthwith to direct an appeal by the administrator of veterans affairs in each and every one of these disallowed 29,000 cases with the further direction that in the final determination of these cases every reasonable doubt be resolved in favor of the veteran, and every assistance be rendered in the preparation and presentation of these cases. While those cases are pending the veterans will be paid 75 per cent of the compensation they received prior to the time they were removed from the rolls. If the appeal is allowed they will receive back compensation. Only in cases disallowed by the Board of Appeals will the veteran thereafter be permanently removed from the rolls. This resolution will be put into effect at once.

Complete Removal Difficult. By reason of the fact that many totally and permanently disabled veterans have been the recipients of benefits from their Government for a long period of time, it is difficult in the event of a disallowance of service connection by the final completion of the rolls. Pending regulations therefore provide that if their cases are disallowed and if they are found to be totally and permanently disabled they shall, notwithstanding fundamental principles, be placed on the rolls at 75 per cent of their compensation, and receive $30 a month and domiciliary care and hospitalization.

It is a simple and undeniable fact that the United States, in terms of compensation and in terms of hospitalization, has done and is doing infinitely more for our veterans and their dependents than any other Government. I come now to the provisions of the bill relating to Spanish-American War veterans. To this group of ex-servicemen I have devoted much thought. Because of their age, they command sympathy. Nevertheless, we must recognize also that many abuses have crept into the laws granting them benefits. The Spanish-American War veterans amendment to this act provides for service pensions. This violates the principles upon which benefits to veterans should be paid and the principles to which I have referred in this message. Moreover, if that principle should in the future be applied to the World War veterans at the same rate as contemplated for Spanish-American War veterans by this bill, the annual and continuing charge upon the people of this country by 1949 will amount to more than $480,000,000 for that alone. This would be in addition to the large cost of all existing veterans' benefits and future hospitalization. This I cannot approve. However, I am today directing the restoration to the role of those Spanish-American War veterans who in 1930 were receiving pensions as a result of having sustained an injury or incurred a disease arising out of their war service.

By regulation 12 a presumption of service origin was extended to Spanish-American War veterans on the rolls on March 18, 1933. In order to take the same action which I am taking in regard to World War veterans, I am directing the restoration to the rolls, as of this date, at 75 per cent of the amount they were receiving on March 19, 1933, all Spanish-American War veterans pending a final determination of their cases before the Board of Appeals. Without going further into all of the details relating to the treatment—past, present and future—of Spanish-American War veterans, it seems sufficient to repeat that I am wholly and irrevocably opposed to the principle of the general service pension, but I do seek to provide with liberality for all those who suffered because of their service in that war. As in the case of World War veterans, I shall not hesitate to further alter or modify the regulations in order that substantial justice may be done in every individual case.

Asks for Justice. What you and I are seeking is justice and fairness in the individual case. I call your specific attention to the fact that since the original regulations were established a year ago actual experience has shown many cases where there is a decided required modification. I have not hesitated to take the necessary action and has issued regulations which have made many changes. These changes based on principles of justice and fairness in the individual case involve additional expenditures of approximately $117,000,000. It goes without saying that I shall not hesitate to make further changes if the principles of justice demand them."

On the basis of the original regulations following the Economy Act, the annual cost to the United States of veterans relief was $488,000,000. Since that time by executive order the addition of $117,000,000 increases to $603,000,000 the total cost for veterans relief for the fiscal year 1935.

My disapproval of this bill is not based solely on the consideration of dollars and cents. There is a deeper consideration. You and I are concerned with the principles herein enunciated. I trust that the Congress will continue to co-operate with me in our common effort, to restore general prosperity, and relieve distress.

Paterson Silk Shops Workers Like Slaves

Paterson, N. J., March 28.—More than 3,000 adults and at least 300 children, many of whom have never heard of the NRA, are employed in the "family shops" of the Paterson silk industry under conditions in some cases "worse than slavery," J. J. Kehoe, local representative of the Silk Textile Code Authority, charged today after completing a survey of more than 275 silk manufacturing plants.

Men and women and their children work from fourteen to sixteen hours a day and at the end of each week have $15 to $20 for their total labor, Mr. Kehoe charged. The situation was found only in the "family shops," Mr. Kehoe explained. At those plants a man and his wife, having purchased a few looms, about eight on the average, call in their children and other relatives to help them operate. There is virtually no limit in hours and there are no specified wages. The shops are usually grouped with one owner knowing where one plant ends and the other begins.

Flight of Children Grave. Mr. Kehoe found the plight of the children particularly grave. Considering the hours one plant owner told Mr. Kehoe, "We start early in the morning and weave until we can't weave any more."

A small group of unorganized converters, whose offices are "usually in their hats," is blamed for the conditions. Mr. Kehoe finds that in many cases these men hold chat-tel mortgages and have other liens against the machinery of the family shops. Consequently, he says, if any one of the weavers walks at the low price offered for his services the converters merely neglect to send him work. Because of their debts and complete lack of capital, a family shop usually submits to the demands or closes in a very few days if it gets no work.

Mr. Kehoe made it plain that the converters who are imposing this condition, with their low prices, have no connection with the Textile Converters Association of America, which operates under NRA conditions.

Shops Large Producers. Because these family shops produce more than one-fourth of the silk products in Paterson, they are considered a menace to the larger factories which they undersell.

The Silk Code under the NRA bars any one, mill owner or employee, from working more than forty hours a week on productive machinery and bans the employment of any one under 16 years old. Mr. Kehoe says, however, "it would take an army of policemen on constant duty to enforce the code provisions."

Mr. Kehoe now is organizing the family shops into the Silk and Rayon Workers Guild to fix prices and enforce code provisions. In his campaign to wipe out the sweatshops and their evils, Mr. Kehoe has the cooperation of the organized manufacturers and converters.

MRS. ERNEST SMITH HIT BY AUTO DURING STORM

Holl Street Woman Was Waiting for Chance to Cross Street When Struck.

Mrs. Ernest H. Smith of 64 Holl street, has been confined to her home for several days suffering from bruises sustained early Saturday evening, when a woman motorist struck her while backing out of the driveway at Main street and Furlen place.

Mrs. Smith, with her arms filled with packages, was waiting for an opportunity to cross the street and had just left the curb, when she felt the force of the left front fender of the large touring car which was headed south on Main street.

A bystander, hearing her outcry, came to her assistance, but neither secured the number of the car. Mrs. Smith is willing to give the driver the benefit of the doubt, as to whether or not she saw her, as it was snowing at the time.

"It takes a fine, firm-textured bread like Bond to make these THIN, DELICIOUS ROLLED SANDWICHES"

Said Mrs. Edna Riggs Crabtree at the Manchester Herald Cooking School

THE REASON Bond can be cut so thin is simple: It's firmer—more like a home-made loaf. No sponginess, no puffiness, no air pockets to tear out or cause wasteful crumbling. The rising is purposely stopped at the flavor-peak—to make the loaf compact and keep the flavor from escaping. "Recently I saw Bond sliced as thin as loaves on a meat-slicing machine. The loaf yielded 179 slices—think of it—and Bond was the only bread that could be sliced that thin. For your rolled sandwiches, use a straight-edged knife and a sawing motion, and your slices will be as thin and dainty as you could wish."

Lecturers and housewives alike praise Bond for sandwich making—and for every other bread use, now that science has added that essential element, vitamin-D—the tooth-guarding, bone-building sunshine vitamin.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when, due to circumstances beyond his control, he finds himself on his way to Cuba with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves.

Beau has killed a man and stolen a famous string of pearls. Pablito does not know this or that he himself has been accused of the crime which took place at the Florida home of wealthy JIM FIELD. Pablito loves Field's daughter, ESTELLE, and she loves him. MARCIA TREADWAY knows Pablito is innocent but fears scandal if she tells this. She goes to Havana, hoping to find Pablito there.

In Havana Pablito tries to find NORRIS NOYES who befriended him as a child but his efforts fail. Beau, impressed by Pablito's natural ability as a boxer, decides to arrange some matches for him, calling him "JUANITO."

Meanwhile SIR AUBREY, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, begins a search for his son. BILLINGS, his agent, locates ANGELA, the old woman in whose care Pablito was left. She says Pablito is away working.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXIV.
Angela hobbled back to her shack and packed her belongings. There was scarcely more to do than to slip a bottle of gin in the front of her dress. This done, she hobbled forth again. She would go to the swamp for a little while she decided. She did not wish to encounter the inquisitive strangers again. Picturesquely she cursed them. If their coming should disturb the monthly remittance from Cuba for caring to Pablito what would become of her?

She wept, whining vituperation and curses as she went. At the edge of the swamp she pulled her sagging skirts high and waded cautiously, a wary eye out for alligators and water moccasins. Again on land, she followed what was called the "Slave's Way" because years before many slaves had followed this route, seeking freedom.

When she stepped into the first clearing she jumped so that a twinge of rheumatism made her wince. Someone else had sought the shelter of the swamp—a man. "Good day, mother," he said easily. He, too, looked startled. He hoped she had not noticed this but she had seen it and smiled shyly. "It is a good day for a picnic," she said slowly.

"Will you share my meal?" he asked. She nodded as she sat down on a hummock not far from him. Then she studied him. Soon when she felt it to be wise—she would return to Key West—a man in authority that a man was hiding in the swamp in a spot to which she could direct them. She would do this, providing she could benefit by it. The probability of her benefiting she would make sure of before she spoke.

"You seek the solitude?" she asked blandly. The man stirred, looking anxiously toward the shadows. "I am hunting orchids," he answered. "As you thought with an inward leer. So you're hunting orchids! Already you look as if the dogs had chased you 100 miles."

He spoke a stiff variety of Spanish and she concluded that he was a northerner who had long been in hiding. "God grant that you find your orchids!" she murmured, her blood-shot eyes fixed upon him. "The man was hiding from something or someone. And she would have her reward."

Above them the trees grew unusually high for swamp ground, making an impenetrable green-black roof. Now and again a leaf stirred gently but usually quiet prevailed. "It is a warm day, stranger, and you have hurried," she said with a thick pretense of concern. "Yes," he admitted.

He took from his pocket then a gray handkerchief that Pablito had once kept white for him. With it he mopped his brow. Pablito sent a messenger, a Cuban youth, to the small island but the messenger could find no trace of Noyes. Storms had left sand thick and gritty upon everything within the shack, the Cuban boy testified, and the place looked as though it had been deserted for months.

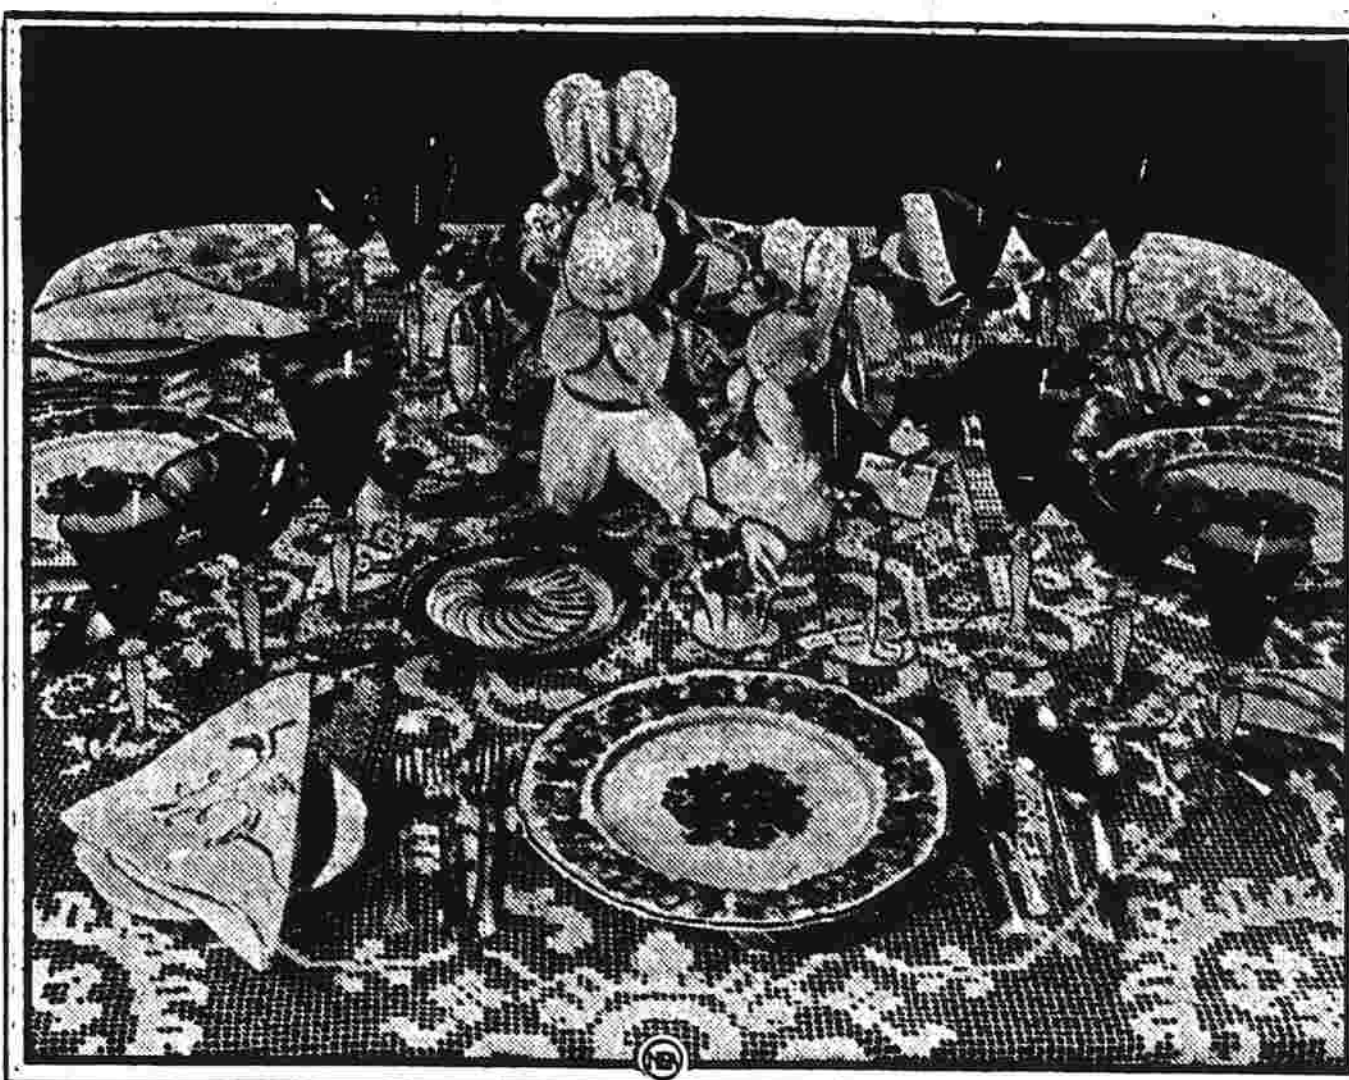

"Nadie alli!" he repeated with a lift of the shoulders and outflung hands. "Nadie!" ("Nobody there, nobody!") "And you went into the swamp?" Pablito asked, his hard muscles strained and tense as he leaned forward over the bare-topped table. The boy hesitated a moment. Then he spoke. He had gone into the swamp, he reassured his conscience. Not far, to be sure, yet he had gone into the swamp.

"Seguro que si, Senor!" he answered. "Surely yes!" "Then he wiped his brow although the day was not over-warm, being freshened by a cool breeze that had his start in a late, northern blizzard. That swamp, the Cuban boy feared, he would never forget. The place had been as black as the inside of the devil's cauldron. Half way toward its darkest gloom he had come across a wicked old woman who had seemed a witch. She was lying on a path with one leg twisted under her and she had screamed as he had never heard a woman scream.

He had backed away from her, asking haltingly, "Old woman, can I help you? May I send friends to you from Key West?" Seeking her, he had decided that he or not, he could not touch her. And she had answered, striking,

"No, no! Not from Key West! I have a daughter who will come to me. Go!"

"Ah, her troubles! Angela thought through the pain that confused her. Help from Key West would deliver her into the power of the strangers who had inquired about the boy left in her care. The orchid hunter would help her, she knew. He had the soft eyes which deny an enjoyment of torture.

"Go, stranger and with God!" she repeated between her groans. So the Cuban boy had gone after one last glance toward the darkness of the shadows and after crossing himself. Pablito, in the house of Cerro, sank back in his chair, his brow furrowed. He had grown older in a very short time. He was still sure that some day, some how he would locate Noyes and that again they would dwell in that peace he now thought of as close to Utopia.

He arose to pay the messenger and the boy, reassuring himself of the fact that he had been in the swamp, went on his way. "Lottie appeared then. "Too bad, honey," she said, laying a hand on Pablito's shoulder. He realized that the only sincere kindness he knew these days came from Lottie. He thought, "Some time, in some way, I must repay her."

And this seed, sprung from his sense of fairness, grew into a heavy sense of duty but his gratitude was to be dormant longer than he could guess. Norma Field and Estelle had settled in Tucson, Ariz. Norma, knowing that she could not live long, clutched the hours with Estelle jealously. Meanwhile she made a brave pretense of feeling better.

Estelle sat by her mother's bed constantly, watching with tragic young eyes and smiling stifly. "Darling, you should go out more; you should get more exercise." "But I'd rather be here." "I'm afraid it must be stupid for you, dear, panned up with me." "I want to be here, mother." Estelle thought a great deal during those days. She thought of the past and of what was ahead. She had begun to understand her father through his attitude about Pablito. He had been ruthless in refusing to listen to her defense of the boy. He would be kind, she realized, so long as he had his way and wholly cruel if antagonized. She feared the years when she must be alone with him.

"Are you comfortable, mother?" "Quite, dear heart." But her mother spoke slowly now with long gaps between her words and always there was the flush of fever on her mink cheeks and the brightness of it in her eyes. Norma Field died in October. The day was Estelle's sixteenth birthday, a day when the mountains were tinged with pink and gold and purple and the air was sparkling.

She had never seemed better. Estelle had laughed with her that morning over some trivial happening that had amused them both. Then Mrs. Field had said she wanted to rest and Estelle had gone to the garden to look at the mountains, the changes of which never failed to entrance her.

She returned at luncheon time to meet the day nurse. "Dear, don't come in now!" the nurse ordered sharply. Estelle grew faint but the nurse did not stop to help her. She hurried back to her patient. "Big" Field came soon. Estelle had not cried and did not cry until she saw her father. Then she clung to him, weeping hysterically. She felt his heart rise. She would be his now—all his.

"Never mind, darling. You have your daddy," he said soothingly, patting the girl's shoulder. He felt her clinging to him more tightly. (To Be Continued)

Daily Health Service

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The tobacco you smoke may not affect your health in the least, but before it reaches you the same tobacco must go through a long series of purifications, not only for your benefit, but for the benefit of those men and women who work in this industry.

The modern manufacturer in the tobacco industry protects the worker by a number of simple procedures. In the first place proper exhaust devices withdraw the poisonous dusts from the air.

Employers are instructed to wash their hands before and after handling the tobacco, so as not to carry around the dusts upon their fingers. They are given fairly frequent physical examinations to determine the presence of changes in their bodies.

In many plants the employees wear clean smocks or gowns each day while at work. With such oversight over the health of the employe, it is possible in most instances to prevent any permanent damage to health.

Mild tobacco contains about 1 to 2 per cent of nicotine, and strong tobacco from 6 to 10 per cent. Workers in the tobacco industry, therefore are exposed constantly to the danger of contact with this substance. They are also exposed to possible contacts with other substances which occur in tobacco and which are of some danger to the human body.

The people who raise tobacco do not suffer from nicotine poisoning because the nicotine is liberated from the tobacco only by fermentation. The people who sort the tobacco leaves may inhale the dust, and during the fermentation of tobacco they breathe injurious fumes.

The skin and the mucous membranes of the body, when in contact with wet tobacco, develop an irritation. They are also exposed in connection with dusts from lime and sand may develop irritations of the lung, and although workers in coal develop black conditions of the lungs, there is no evidence that workers with tobacco suffer any more from tuberculosis and other diseases of the lungs than do workers in any other trade.

Those who contract poisoning from tobacco may develop sudden form of intoxication with nervous symptoms, pains in the heart, disturbances of the bowels and congestion in the brain. Sometimes they have an irritation on the back of the hands. Sometimes the fingernails come off and the edges of the nails become very thin.

It is particularly important that the health of the women workers in the tobacco industry be watched, because there are serious effects on them, especially in association with childbirth. Because of the poisons that are present, the tobacco industry is not safe unless the conditions of occupation are controlled thoroughly. Workers must be protected against contact with tobacco as much as possible.

Women and young people should be forbidden to work in those sections of the industry where fermentations is active.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

What do greens mean in the bright lexicon of your kitchen? Probably, unless you've seen the light recently, just dandelion, beet tops, spinach and lettuce. But if that's your list, you haven't even scratched the surface.

In any city market at this minute, you can choose from at least a dozen piles of bright emerald products of the truck patch, each one richer than the last in iron, sulphur, phosphorus and that important vitamin A that bodies need to grow on. And while all these greens provide the roughage that you hear so much preposterous talk about, they are good for you in other ways. They are prepared the right way, that duty comes pleasure in the eating. Besides, greens are cheap just now.

Don't be afraid to buy just because you don't know the variety. Surprise the family by giving them something they've never had before and incidentally enjoy the thrill of learning to do something new yourself!

Tender, fine-textured and delicately flavored greens like spinach and sorrel should be cooked without extra water. The drops that cling to the leaves after washing will give sufficient moisture. The coarser leafy greens like dandelion, kale, chard and escarole must have a small amount of water, which should be boiling when the greens are added.

Many greens may be used raw as salad, and all may be cooked and served hot as vegetable. Or they may be chilled, after cooking and served with piquant dressing as salad.

Chicory and escarole are more succulent if they are cooked when they are young and a pale green color. When fully mature the leaves become yellowish and are more palatable eaten raw with any good salad dressing.

Baked Escarole.
One bunch or two pounds escarole, 4 tablespoons fat or butter, 1 bunch onion, 1-2 cup boiling water, salt, pepper.
Blanch escarole by plunging into boiling water for five minutes. This removes excess bitterness. Drain and put into a buttered baking dish. Dissolve bouillon cube in boiling water, add fat or butter and salt and pepper and pour over escarole. If you use bacon fat less salt will be necessary than if an unsalted fat is used. Cover baking dish and bake in moderate oven about 25 minutes until tender. Serve from baking dish.

Beet Greens With Lemon.
A very simple way to cook beet greens is with bacon fat and a thick slice of lemon—rind and all. This gives the greens an excellent tart flavor without the bother of making a tart sauce. You will have many a fine "mess" of greens from the "thinners" of the roots of beets in your garden so it's worth while to know how to cook them appetizingly.

Two pounds beet greens, 4 tablespoons bacon fat, 1-2 lemon, 1-2 cup boiling water, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon ginger, few grains white pepper, 1-4 teaspoon salt.
Wash and chop greens and put into a sauce pan. Mix and sift sugar, salt, ginger and pepper and sprinkle over greens. Add lemon in two or three slices and cut with fat and water. Cover and cook for 20 minutes stirring frequently to prevent sticking. Let stand over a low fire for 15 minutes. Remove slices of bacon and serve very hot.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

There's much talk in fashion circles about variations of the sailor and other spring bonnets that cover only one small spot on the right side of your head. So let's have a beauty talk about coiffures to wear with these little wisps of straw and felt.

Hair is shorter this season. Bobbed locks are clipped quite high on the neck and long coiffures are arranged up on the back of the head instead of in low, flat buns on the neck.

The next important consideration is curls. You're going to see more and more of the "Easter" approaches. Little round flat curls vie with wide waves and combinations of both are chic.

Today we concentrate on a coiffure for shoulder-length hair which emphasizes the two important points already mentioned. The hair is parted high on the right side and the back is rolled and pinned, not straight across the back of the head but vertically from nape of neck to crown of head. The roll is soft and fastened with invisible pins.

There is one wide wave on the left side and a very small one on the right. From the wave downward on both sides the hair is arranged in tiny curls that are also pinned securely.

This is very flattering with a diminutive hat that shows practically the entire head and also very good for evening when one wears an Alice in Wonderland bandeau of tortoise shell studded with three large pearls.

More than a dozen colleges and universities entered the 1934 Texas intercollegiate dramatic tournament.

THE PENALTY OF WINNING MODERN STATUS IS LOSING MAN'S COURTESIES

Life is playing a see-saw game with women. Their end of the wooden board is up in Russia and down in Germany. And in neither case are they strolling along in gay parade with garlands on their hair and harps in their hands.

Soviet Russia has given women all the privileges and all the responsibilities that men have. She may even carry a gun if she likes army life. If she and her husband are separated she can't ask him as the father of her children to pay for their tomalectomies and teeth braces. As their mother half of the bill is hers. We think, somehow or other, that there is a little lack of chivalry in the way that Russian women have been placed on an economic and social parity with men.

In Germany, women have been deprived of all but breeding privileges. That, we assuredly admit, is stupidly unfair.

No, there is a happy balance that should be struck. The see-saw should be equally balanced. There are certain responsibilities that are peculiarly woman's, others that are undoubtedly man's. From them privileges arise.

The world may not have been a fairer, gayer place when chivalry was flowering. Maybe we look back now, on the dimming glory of knighthood and its tokens, and grow confused. If courtesy has disappeared it is our own fault. According to the law of compensations we surrender something for everything that we attain. The secretary who would like small attentions from her employer shouldn't be his secretary. She is on salary and if her boss kicks over a waste paper basket it is part of her job to straighten it.

But—yesterday she may have grown old and tired wanting a job and today she has the job. After all, we are the sex who told men that we didn't mind if they kept their hats on in elevators, if they let us share the dinner checks, if they permitted us to do the theater on the co-operative basis.

At first, the gentlemen objected. Then they were amused. Eventually those on whom the single standard of entertainment was tried gave a long sigh and let the ladies pay. Those who wouldn't—well, plenty would!

We pretended that we were so were so modern that certain little niceties which men enjoy doing for women timidly withdrew. If Sir Walter Raleigh and Queen Elizabeth today should encounter the famous mud puddle that ruined Raleigh's velvet cloak the Queen would probably say: "Keep your coat on, Walter!" and take the puddle with a flying leap.

Don Juans never go wooing capable business women who let them know that they can beat them at their own game. They woo them—if the women use their brains to disguise their own perfect self-sufficiency.

Men have always liked the mysterious. They go seeking it, through unfathomed depths. Now, if ever women have a chance to make use of it, we can hide how much we know. Nobody needs to know how much we hide.

Chivalry, we are told, grew tarnished when the Woman's Party was organized. The demand for voting privileges spoiled many a pretty speech. Well, we got the ballot, didn't we? Having given up certain amusing femininities for the franchise now somebody explain why so few women use it? Maybe we don't really know what we want, after all. Just that we have to want something.

YOUR CHILDREN

"Impulse." What does it mean? Is it a desire or an act? It is both. It originates in the mind itself, seeks expression in doing, and results either in a feeling of contentment, or disappointment, depending upon whether or not it is permitted to be completed.

A child conceives an idea, he wants to carry it out. The machinery of his mind is set in motion full tilt and his body gets orders from its master to finish it. Minds are tyrants and they don't willingly let go until they are satisfied.

Impulse is an excellent promoter. It is also a parent. It fathers initiative, ambition and perseverance. This is why it is important for a parent to understand the dangers of too much interference in John's daily experiments that sometimes take him beyond the bounds of propriety, or what we consider proper.

We hear so much about "frustration." And its companion "interrupted impulse." Don't turn away because they have three syllables. The meaning of each is easy to understand. A boy wants to build a shanty. He has been wanting to for a year. His judgment tells him there is no real reason why he can't. He has tools, boards, and a place for it. But he cannot get permission. He broods and dreams over it. The impulse has started, and his mind calls for satisfaction.

He never gets permission. This is frustration. In time he seems to forget the desire, even if he is not conscious of it. But his mind retains it somewhere tucked away in its archives. And the disappointment colors his conduct. At first he is ill-humored and disobedient, but in time the resentment loses its edge. It would seem as though all were right with the world again and with him. However, we now know that he has accumulated frustration even in his happiest days. The constantly frustrated child is seldom happy and usually is cranky. The story is told.

Frustration applies to the simplest things—a child can be frustrated fifty times a day. Certainly he cannot be permitted everything, but it is best not to overdo. This explains much poor conduct.

As to "interruption," it means cutting off an impulse after the desire has been conceived and the act is partly finished.

Mary is deep in coloring a paper-doll dress with crayons. It is nearly finished and her interest is at top pitch. The collar and cuffs will look wonderful done in yellow. Her mother says impatiently, "Throw out that rubbish at once. I'm cleaning."

An accumulation of interrupted impulses has the same souring influence as frustration. Moreover, repeated experiences shatter the powers of concentration and perseverance in later life he moans, "I wonder why Mary cannot stick to anything and finish it. Or even why her daughter never takes an interest in anything at all."

Zeal for living and trying and accomplishing lies in completed impulse. The basis is interest, and interest is at the root of almost everything that has ever been accomplished in the world. Sometimes we don't know it, but in one form or another it is there at work shaping our conduct and destinies.

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

A NOVELIST STUDIES THE HITLER REGIME

It begins to look as if we were about to have a deluge of novels telling what life is like in Germany under the Nazis. Some of them will be very good, and some of them surely will be very bad; meanwhile, one of the best on the scene is Heinz Liepmann's "Furder—Made in Germany," a novel whose merits would seem to give it a ranking somewhere in the middle of the list.

This book tells of a German trawler which put to sea in the fall of 1932 and came back in the spring of '33. It carried no wireless and its crew had heard no news at all from home during their absence.

They had left with the republican regime in full sway; they returned to find Hitler in the saddle, and the book studies their various reactions to the change. Most interesting, perhaps is the story of the captain—an old salt who still longs for the return of the Kaiser, and doesn't pretend to understand politics. He sees storm troopers use their clubs on a man and a woman on a railway station platform.

Horrified, he hunts the authorities to make a complaint. He makes his complaint, all right—but instead of getting justice done, he gets locked up!

The others similarly are disillusioned. There is a good deal in the book about brutality and repression and justice, and the author, in a foreword, vows that every incident is copied from life.

As to that, I'm willing to take his word; but it does seem to me that this book would have been more effective if he had made it a straightforward record of facts instead of putting it in the form of a story.

A propaganda novel it is not. It is a book to read. It is a book to think. Just under the surface, it is a book to discuss.

GUARDS AND RANGERS START TOWN TITLE SERIES TONIGHT

CHALLENGERS MAY SPRING SURPRISE IN OPENING GAME

Given Good Chance to Upset Champs Unless Latter Team Displays Drastic Reversal of Poor Form.

Manchester's basketball champions—the National Guards—start defense of the title they have held for the past two years at the State Armory tonight against the Rangers, sensational junior quintet that is given better than an even chance of topping the Guards from their throne in the best two out of three game series.

The main encounter is scheduled to start at 9 o'clock, with John "Shorty" Malin as referee, with the preliminary between the Manchester Swedes and Central Baptist No. 1 of Hartford set for 7:30 o'clock. Dancing will follow the second encounter, with music being furnished by a Rockville orchestra. A popular admission price is being charged and it is possible that the Armory may be thronged with fans for the first time this season.

Stress Team Play

The Rangers, lightly regarded before their sensational clean-up of the elimination series, in which they trounced the Jaffe Jewels and the YMCA by decisive margins, are looked upon with favor by many fans, who believe that Coach Hugh Greer has molded a team that is capable of giving any cage aggregation a run for its money.

The Rangers may lack experience, but Coach Greer has furnished his charges with a wealth of plays that have been learned almost to perfection. The players are all intelligent, aggressive and enthusiastic, stressing team play above individualism. If the Rangers can get by the first quarter, it is the opinion of many that the Guards will be the slant end of the score when the final whistle shrills.

Guards May Click

The Guards have a lineup that includes many of the town's out-tandling court performers and if the champs can click in the manner that brought them a wealth of plays as one of the leading teams in the state last season, then the Rangers are due for disappointment in their bid for championship honors. But the Guards have been traveling at a dismal pace all season and only a drastic reversal of form can bring about a much-desired victory. It may be that the Rangers will catch the Guards on the rebound. At any rate, a hard fought tussle seems in prospect as the town's leading junior team attempts to prove its worth in semi-pro ranks against a team that has been an acknowledged leader in that field.

Bycholski Leads Team in Well-Earned Triumph in Deciding Tussle; Winners Hold 23-10 Lead at Halftime; 250 Witness Game

The Jaffe Jewels' basketball aggregation completed a brilliant season last night at the Storrs school gym by downing the Anasid's Masons in the third and deciding game for the championship of the Rec Senior league. The final score was 37 to 29 and more than 250 persons witnessed the encounter which was one of the most bitter and hardest fought games played on the Rec courts this season.

"Whitney" Bycholski and Nelson, the Mutt and Jeff combination of the Jaffe team, were the most outstanding performers in the encounter, Bycholski being the most bitter and hardest fought games played on the Rec courts this season.

"Whitney" Bycholski and Nelson, the Mutt and Jeff combination of the Jaffe team, were the most outstanding performers in the encounter, Bycholski being the most bitter and hardest fought games played on the Rec courts this season.

The Jaffe Jewels led the entire game, except for a brief period in the early part of the first period, which found the Masons leading 2-3. This lead however was short lived when baskets by Bycholski and Nelson put the winners in the lead.

They forged ahead through some spectacular shooting again by Bycholski and Nelson, who shot 10-11 and 10-10 respectively. The final score was 37 to 29 and more than 250 persons witnessed the encounter which was one of the most bitter and hardest fought games played on the Rec courts this season.

Although the Jaffe team had a decided advantage at half time, the second half was very even and for a time it was a question whether or not the Jaffe team would be victorious. The Masons put on a most spirited rally and came to within five points of tying the score through field goals by Campbell, Opitz and Quish, with Campbell counting two points from the foul route. With the Jewels leading by the mere margin of five points, it looked as though the Masons might overtake the Jaffe team over a field goal by Terry, but he team off to another rally as Campbell scored field goals by Bycholski, Nelson, and Terry again dashed what hopes were left in the camp of the Masons. The final two minutes of play found both teams battling desperately with the Anasid team scoring three points on foul shots by Campbell and Bissell and shortly after the final whistle sounding, a hard fought struggle which did not have a dull moment throughout the forty minutes of play. The work of Bissell and Opitz featured for the losers. It is worthy of mention at this time that both teams displayed very good sportsmanship and the Anasid team went down to defeat before a game that was a shade better. The final two games of the series were very close, and the officiating of "A" Boggin in both contests could not be surpassed. His work at all times being satisfactory to both teams.

In the preliminary to the Jaffe-Anasid game, the East Side Buddies defeated the West Side Buddies in a roughly played game the final score reading 25-17. With a 3-2 lead, which was higher score while McCurry captured the honors for the losers.

THE BARGAIN HOUND

Manchester people will be buying their Easter flowers this week at the Anderson Greenhouses. The modern facilities there for growing flowers enable them to carry the largest supply in town. Hundreds of people in town have also found out that by buying direct from the grower substantial savings are to be had. It will be worth your while to pay them a visit to view their beautiful display.

In a recent fashion show Paris gave delicate lingerie touches to both daytime and evening wear. The most charming blouses of lace, linen, mouseline and "broderie" were shown in great numbers.

From Old Mexico comes a shade that must have been created especially for spring suits and frocks. This year's Easter bonnets call for lovely coiffures. Dial 7484.

If you're wise you won't wait 'til the last minute to call the Lily Beauty Parlor for your appointment. This year's Easter bonnets call for lovely coiffures. Dial 7484.

One of the real news items in the spring collections of the Parisian couturiers was the return to petit-cosy by Worth. They were of taffeta, soft silk, mouseline de soie, marquisette and lace and were ruffled daintily in pleated and shirred narrow bands, usually edged with lace or tiny ribbons. The reason for the petit-cosy, which does not add bulk at the waist and hip line, is that it gives a charming effect when the trained skirt (and they are all trained) is raised in dancing. The trains are a problem America has to solve.

"It's the accessories that count"—they can either make or ruin an outfit. Your last year's gloves won't do when you catch a glimpse of the soft white dexterity at Hale's—four button length $1.35 and six button length $1.60. And then I also saw the loveliest French kid gloves for $2.98.

As Alice Kelly Perkins of "Women's Wear" cleverly put it, "Paris is definitely on the gold jewelry standard." Heavy gold chains for fastening the décolletage, shoulder straps, belts and bracelets and buttons of gold were popular. There were jeweled butterflies also.

Milkowaki's are all abuzz with Easter activities. You can't imagine how many different plants and flowers there are 'til you see their beautiful selection.

Velvet touches were everywhere in the recent Paris collections. There were many long classic circular wraps and capes, scarfs, capstons, sashes, bows and belts. Capucine, Rose of France red and a rose geranium were seen in all collections, as well as the lovely Patou and English blue. One of the houses presented the American washable velvet which aroused great interest.

"REGGIE" ROOT AVERTS HIGH SCHOOL STRIKE

Students Threaten to Leave Classes Unless History Teacher Is Given New Contract.

Leroy, N. Y., March 28.—(AP)—A strike of Leroy High school students was ended by the good advice of Reginald D. "Reggie" Root, former Yale head football coach.

The students who walked out yesterday saying they would not return until Cyril R. Crews, a history teacher, was given a new contract by the Board of Education, decided to arbitrate their problem after Root had talked to them at a mass meeting last night.

Home for the Easter vacations Root heard of the mass meeting and attended to protest against the strike. After his talk the students voted to appoint a committee of five to present their demands to the school board and return to their desks pending further action.

The recommendation is that the advisory board carry out the administrative power of the college made up of faculty members and students; that an equal sum be collected from each student at the beginning of a semester for support of

HAM AND EGGS TAKE FOOD STAGE CENTER

Question Arises as to Which Comes First During Pre-Easter Week—Some Menus.

The old puzzle of whether egg or chick comes first, assumes a new form at the Easter season when the question arises as to whether eggs or ham come first in popular favor. The only answer is that at this time most housewives use both generously. Ham has come to be the Easter day meat dish, eggs playing their part in the festival in a variety of ways. Ham and eggs Easter morning are the central interest on many tables and there are few situations indeed where "if we had some eggs we'd have some ham and eggs if we had some ham!"

Form An Ancient Ritual

Eggs are a centuries-old symbol of Easter. The Ritual of Pope Paul the Fifth for the use of England, Ireland and Scotland says: "Bless, Oh Lord, we beseech Thee, this Thy tiny creature of eggs, that it may become a wholesome sustenance to Thy faithful servants, eating it in thankfulness to Thee, on account of the Resurrection of Our Lord."

Eggs Deserve Spotlight

The recognition of eggs in eggs and their abundance and quality at this season of the year make them well worthy of their place in this week's food spotlight.

Here are tested suggestions for ham and egg uses from the testing kitchen of First National Stores.

Eggs Au Gratin

6 hard cooked eggs
1 cup white sauce
1 tablespoon butter
1-2 cup grated cheese
1-2 cup bread crumbs

Remove shells from eggs and cut into slices, crosswise. Prepare white sauce. Butter baking dish and arrange a layer of eggs first, then a layer of white sauce, then a layer of cheese. Continue in layers until all ingredients are used. Melted butter, add crumbs and spread over top. Set in moderate oven to become brown.

Serves 6.

Creamed Codfish with Eggs

1 cup Gorton codfish, flaked.
2 cups unseasoned Medium White Sauce.
2 hard-cooked eggs.
1 small onion, chopped.

Cover the fish with cold water, add the chopped onion and bring to a boil then drain. Flake fish and add to white sauce, remove from heat, add the hard-cooked eggs, sliced, serve on toast with baked potatoes and green salad.

Serves 4.

Southern Style Ham

Here is a prize recipe for baked ham Southern style from Mrs. Catherine Bragg, of Sanford, Maine, tested in the First National kitchen.

Soak a six pound ham in cold water half an hour, then scrape and wash thoroughly. Put on to cook in a large kettle. Add one small onion, two pieces of celery, parsley, six cloves; simmer for three hours, skimming occasionally.

When boiled, let ham cool long enough to be able to remove skin. Then on the glistering fat, sprinkle a generous amount of white pepper, stick with cloves about one inch apart, cover thickly with brown sugar. Lay ham in roaster, add 1 cup sweet cider or grape juice, bake in a moderate oven—350 degrees F. Baste. The ham will be a luscious rich dark brown. Serve with Southern Spoon Bread in place of potatoes.

Baked Ham With Pineapple

Boll a ham whole and skin it. Trim superfluous fat. Mix four parts brown sugar and one part soft bread crumbs, add 1 teaspoon dry mustard and spread mixture over ham. Place slices of canned pineapple over the outside of the ham and fasten in place with whole cloves. Bake about one-half hour or until well glazed. Baste with syrup from pineapple.

SALES INCREASE NOTED IN JAIL MADE GOODS

Receipts During Last Three Months Totaled $9,748, a Three Year Record.

New Haven, March 28.—(AP)—The sale of goods manufactured in the New Haven county jail, the county commissioners learned today, has been the best for the last three months in any of the last three years.

The commissioners said they have decided to continue the jail factory for another three months, having found that the Federal laws against interstate shipment of prison made goods did not affect the sale of goods within the state.

From January 1 to March 24 of this year, factory sales have amounted to $9,748. For the same period in 1933, sales were $9,604, and in 1932, $8,981.

YALE MAN WINS MEDAL

New Haven, March 28.—(AP)—Robert Brinkley, Yale freshman and a graduate last June of Hopkins grammar school here, won the bronze medal of the Writers club of Columbia University in co-operation with the Columbia Scholastic Press association, for the best literary essay contest, winning first prize and being printed in the Hopkins literary magazine. This magazine was rated second in the private school magazine contest at the recent convention of the Columbia Press association.

The medal is an annual award. Brinkley's essay on "Lavoisier" was written in the school's Baldwin essay contest, winning first prize and being printed in the Hopkins literary magazine. This magazine was rated second in the private school magazine contest at the recent convention of the Columbia Press association.

LOUIS ZURO DIES

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Louis Zuro, widely known as an associate of the late Oscar Hammerstein, opera impresario, died today at his home in Manhattan. He was 69.

SPRING'S BRUIN!

This spring showing was a bear—and then some. When spring-like zephyrs first permeated Sultana's rocky lair in a Milwaukee zoo she emerged for a public appearance, bringing with her—yes, you've guessed it—the very newest thing in polar bears. The woolly newcomer, Sultana's 11th offspring born in captivity, first saw the dim light of its cave three months ago, but not until the first mild day did Sultana give her cub to the outside world.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, March 28.—(AP)—Quiet rise in some of the non-ferrous metal shares gave the Stock Market a little brighter appearance today, after yesterday's setback.

Most of the list held virtually unchanged from yesterday's final levels, however, and trading was about as dull as at any time this year. The bond market held to an even keel, and most commodities were narrowly changed. Wheat was steady, cotton a little lower, rubber and silver futures a bit higher.

Among a handful of issues rising 1/2 to 2 points were McIntyre Porcupine, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, Dome, American Smelting, and U. S. Smelting. In the industrial, American Can rose a point. U. S. Steel was virtually unchanged. Some of the motors and merchandising issues rose fractionally. In the rails, Western Pacific shares were higher, evidently reflecting hopes of success of the plan of staying off default of the blow to President Roosevelt's economy plan by the House's overriding his veto of the independent offices bill. The silver movement also commanded attention, with the Senate agriculture committee holding hearings on the Dies bill.

Generally speaking, however, Wall Street maintained a watchful waiting attitude toward stocks. It was pointed out that with so much uncertainty surrounding wages, taxes, prices, and costs generally, the entire situation surrounding corporate profits was decidedly hazy. Nevertheless, there was a widespread disposition to maintain holdings of equities in case inflation begins to "take" as the year progresses.

A slight dip in steel production this week, as estimated by "Iron Age" and reports of somewhat freight movement by New York Central and Pennsylvania last week, caused some questioning as to whether the seasonal peak of industrial activity, usually registered in March or April, had not been reached. It was felt, however, that the start of an expansion or inflation of credit, such as the huge excess reserves would make possible, might tend to prevent or minimize the usual summer slump.

A statement printed by news agencies quoting Commerce Secretary Roper as saying that revival of

WAS NEW BRITAIN MAN

Fitchburg, Mass., March 28.—(AP)—A man who was buried with military honors here early this month as Robert Lapoint was positively identified today as Albert Desautels of New Britain, Conn. The investigation which resulted in the identification was requested by his wife, Mrs. Ida Desautels, who said she married him in 1929. Last autumn Desautels married Miss Gladys Cross in this city under the name of Robert Lapoint. She told police she was unaware Desautels was previously married or that he used a false name.

HURT IN AUTO CRASH

New Haven, March 28.—(AP)—Frank Josifko, 65 of Madison, was injured seriously today as his automobile was in collision at Webster point road and Boston Post road, with a car driven by Raynal Bolling of Greenwich.

Josifko was taken to the New Haven hospital in an American Legion ambulance and his name was placed on the danger list.

Fredrick Kellerup of Greenwich, a passenger in Bolling's car suffered minor injuries. Bolling was held for the coroner awaiting the results of Josifko's injuries.

HEPBURN IN HARVARD PLAY

Hartford, March 28.—(AP)—Robert Hephburn, son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas N. Hephburn and brother of Katharine Hephburn, stage and screen star, opened an acting career last night when he made his stage debut in the annual spring production of the Hasty Pudding club, "Hades—The Ladies" at Harvard University. Hephburn was a member of the ladies of the ensemble. He prepared for Harvard at Kingswood school in West Hartford.

HAD GEORGIA LICENSE PLATES, IS FINED $15

New Haven Police Claim 150 in Connecticut Have Cars Illegally Registered.

New Haven, March 28.—(AP)—For having Georgia registration plates on his Connecticut automobile, Thomas Carilla, 24, of West Haven, was fined $15 and costs today in City Court.

Donald McLaughlin, 19, of New Haven, who also was arrested yesterday for driving with a Georgia registration, was arraigned with Carilla in City Court and his case was continued until Saturday. Both were charged with driving unregistered automobiles. Col. Michael A. Connor, state motor vehicle commissioner, has ruled that automobiles of Connecticut residents must bear Connecticut registration. Police said more than 150 Connecticut drivers are operating under Georgia registrations which cost them only $3—one fifth the cost of Connecticut registrations.

SENSE and NONSENSE

OUR NEW ECONOMIC POLICY
He saved and was thrifty, he slaved like the ants, So now let us give him a kick in the pants. He kept to his income and put by a lot. So make him divide with the folks who did not.

A Chicago statistician calculates that "a woman of 70 has spent 6,000 hours before a mirror." But one must not throw stones. There are men of 70 who have spent 7,000 hours over a glass.

Mrs. Jones—She thinks her husband perfect and yet she watches over him like a hawk.
Mrs. Smith—I suppose she thinks he is too good to be true.

CHEER UP! You may be a total flop to everybody else, but to the dog and your children you are still a hero.

WHEN WE LAUGH AT THE VICTIM OF THE GOLD BRICK GENT WE SHOULD THANK OUR STARS WE WEREN'T IN THE OFFICE WHEN HE CALLED.

Test—You can't believe anything you hear.
Bear—No, but you can repeat it.

FLASHES: Beware of the fancy seed catalog, for concealed in each is at least one pain in the back. . . . Did you ever notice how two hamburgers and a chocolate bar can argue after you swallow them? . . . Give a girl enough rope and she'll lasso herself a boy friend.

Asker—Do you know how to tell a professor from a student?
Answerer—No. How?
Asker—Ask him what "it" is, and if he says it's a pronoun he's a professor.

HOW TO MAKE A SPEECH:
Compliment the audience.
Take three long breaths.
Outline what you are not going to talk about.
Points that you will touch on later.
Two familiar quotations.
Outline of what you are going to say.
Point that you have not time to touch on now.
Reference to what you said first.
Funny story.
Compliment the audience.
Compliment the city, state and country.
Applause.

Between flashes of temper and floods of tears, a man soon realizes what it means to go through fire and water for a woman.

Junior—Daddy, what is a traitor in politics?
Dad—A traitor is a man who leaves our party and goes over to the other.
Junior—Well, then what is a man who leaves the other party and comes over to yours?
Dad—A convert, my boy.

THE MOST CRITICAL BOOK REVIEWER IS THE BANKER. . . HE CAN TELL IN A MINUTE IF YOUR WRITING IS ANY GOOD OR NOT.

First Business Man—I never take my trouble home with me from the office.
Second Business Man—I don't have to either; mine's also usually there at home waiting for me.

SIMILE: As popular as opera glasses at a fan dance.

Mr. Peewee—Why did you get me such big shirts? They are 17½ and I wear size 14.
His Wife—They cost me just the same as your size, and I wasn't going to let a clerk know I married such a little shrimp.

The supposedly dead past is sometimes merely a case of suspended sentence.

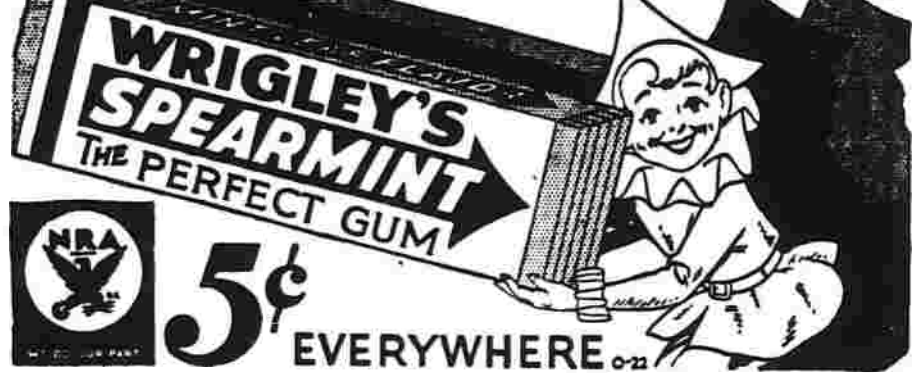

Lapis lazuli is a somewhat rare stone of azure blue which often contains streaks of bright iron pyrites.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS.

In the Spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love—ly clothes.
