BAD FOR A CAUSE

It has always been a little mystifying that the Committee for the Nation, comprising many actually influential individuals in the industrial and business life of the country and conducting a highly intelligent and vigorous campaign in the interest of genuine currency and banking reform as absolutely essential to national recovery, did not make more headway among members of this Congress and with the administration. This group led the way to the policy of gold pricing and the devaluation of the dollar which President Roosevelt eventually adopted. It has given splendid support to the bill for the establishment of a Federal Monetary Authority. But the dollar devaluation stopped in its tracks and such reactionaries as Carter Glass have gained control of the banking legislation. The Committee for the Nation which gave promise of being a very great force in promoting first degree economic changes is more or less in eclipse.

The Wirt episode of the last week or so may carry with it a measure of explanation. It has only just now come to general knowledge that Dr. Wirt, the self advertising Gary schoolmaster who is winding his hunting horn and shouting to riders and hounds to rout out the "reds" from the administration, lays claim to being the animating spirit of the Committee for the Nation; but it is hardly to be doubted that he has succeeded, long before this, in letting his pretensions become known in Washington. And that would account perfectly for the relative failure of the Committee's influence.

While the Committee for the Nation has made no pretense of entire sympathy with the numerous synthetic devices to which the administration has resorted, such as the wealth destroying activities of the AAA and so many of the fussy and futile ramifications of the NRA, and has always contended that an adequate reflationary and banking policy was infinitely more important than any of these side issues, it has been tolerant of rather than antagonistic to these latter until now. And it is peculiarly unfortunate for the Committee and for the cause in which it has been laboring that its new opposition to the "New Deal" vagaries should manifest itself under the apparent auspices of Dr. Wirt.

It is inevitable that Wirt and his ghost dancing will turn out to be the "laugh" of the year. That would make little difference to anybody or anything but the Gary man's overblown feelings if he alone were affected. But for the Committee of the Nation, the chief agency in the promotion of sound fiscal ideas, to be laughed off the stage with him would be a very serious matter indeed.

The sooner the Committee for the Nation backtracks in its support of Dr. Wirt and his nonsense the better not only for the Committee but for the country.

KAISER'S TROPHY

The death of his home in Bridgeport last week of Wilson Marshall, yachtsman, revives the subject of an untold tale. The story that has never been told would constitute the explanation of another story that was told, with plenty of emphasis, at a hectic period of American history—the time of the World War.

In 1905 Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany, then one of the two or three outstanding personages of the world, offered a gold trophy for a trans-Atlantic yacht race open to all classes with no time allowance. Eleven vessels competed, American, British, German and French. Mr. Marshall's three masted schooner yacht Atlantic, sailed by the famous Capt. Charlie Barr, was the winner, making the crossing in the all-time record for sailing yachts of 12 days, 4 hours.

Marshall received the great trophy from the hands of the German emperor and it was exhibited proudly at functions at which the American yachtsman was entertained by the Prince of Wales, Sir Thomas Lipton and all sorts of notables. Marshall, who had few interests aside from yachting, lived much in the light of his great gold prize. He treasured it beyond price.

Then came the World War. Marshall lost his only son in it—a flier killed in France. He came to hate the Kaiser's trophy. He conceived a plan to employ it against its donor. He put the cup up at public auction, the proceeds to go to the Red Cross. It was sold and re-auctioned a number of times and $125,000 added to the Red Cross funds.

Then a final spectacular stunt was planned. At a great rally in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, attended by President Wilson, a big audience paid $5 a ticket to see Mr. Marshall destroy the Kaiser's trophy. He was to batter it with a sledge and the gold melted down, was to further enrich the Red Cross coffers. Marshall swung the sledge—and pewter was disclosed. The cup was made of base metal and merely washed in gold. Not more than $35 worth of the precious metal had been used.

It made a great story at the time, when it was even accepted unquestioningly as one more proof of the false and hollow Hohenzollern character.

The never-told story, however, is the one as to who gyped the Kaiser. No one, no matter what otherwise his opinion of Wilhelm II might be, would nowadays believe that he would entertain for a moment the idea of putting up a phony gold trophy for yachtsmen. Cagy in money matter as he is pretty well known to be, his own overmastering sense of grandeur would certainly prevent him from engaging in such a shyster trick.

Somebody in Germany put one over on Wilhelm in the matter of that trophy, sure as shooting. Somebody lined his pocket with the Kaiser's gold. And no doubt got clean away with it. Germany was too busy with other matters then to pay any attention to the revelation of the pewter trophy. Probably Germany has never learned of the incident to this very day. So there is another good tale neither told nor likely to be told.

BIG CLOUD SHRINKS

Now that the veterans' benefits issue is decided by the overriding of the veto of the Independent Offices Appropriation bill it is being discovered, down in Washington, that maybe the upsetting of the routine budget will not bring utter ruin to the nation's credit either today or tomorrow, something of which the administration forces, during the debate, appeared to stand in the most horrified apprehension.

Only about one-fourth of the Public Works Administration's expected expenditures have been made. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has not put anywhere near as much money to work as it was expected it would. The vast scheme for boosting prosperity through government financing is working on a much smaller scale than was anticipated. Even the income from liquor taxation hadn't, it appears, been fully taken into consideration.

Now that there is no longer any chance of killing the veterans' and office holders' pay legislation, the $228,000,000 "deficit" shrinks somewhat in importance. Which, seeing that there is nothing to be done about it anyhow, is perhaps just as well.

JOB FOR WELFARES

One Connecticut city is about to install the radio-car system of police patrol and it is reasonable to suppose that before very long other communities of the state will be supplied with the equipment and service of short wave communication between headquarters and police cars.

The child welfare specialists will find something in such event, to concern them.

Many household radio sets are now equipped with short-wave reception and any number of people are thus enabled to listen in on police calls. Now consider this situation: Three boys of 14 or 15 break into a confectionery shop. As they emerge they are seen and recognized by some resident of the neighborhood. They run away.

The resident tells the police. Headquarters notifies police cars to be on the lookout for the young burglars. Are the child welfarers going to stand for the naming of these lads on the air, where the names may be picked up by any radio listener? Of course not. Haven't they already persuaded the Legislature to prohibit the publication of the names of criminals under 16, even after conviction of serious crime? And here we have the dreadful possibility of publication of such names by radio actually while the subjects of their solicitude are merely suspects.

Of course, the welfarers can have nothing like that going on. So of course, too, they will have to go to the General Assembly next January and get a law passed forbidding any police department to inform its patrons, by radio, of the names of young crooks whose arrest is desired. Perhaps it might be well, too, in case such a suspect is easily identifiable through description—say by having a hare lip and being also cross eyed—to forbid broadcasting such information; some listener might recognize the description, thereby defeating the welfarers' lovely purpose of keeping secret the crimes of youth.

Science appears to be adding to the difficulties of the welfarers. But they are a determined lot. They may be depended on to let nothing stand in the way of shielding the guilty and making all the trouble possible for the police, the courts and the forces of decency and good order.

AVOID TEMPTATION

They have just laid the cornerstone of the federal Post Office building in New London—the construction of which, by the way, was begun many months ago. It is to be hoped that they do better with the records in the case than was done in Hartford, where they haven't been able to find the corner stone of the old Post Office, just razed, or even to learn positively whether there ever was any corner stone or not.

We weren't consulted about the New London stone but if we had been we would perhaps have suggested that no money be placed in the usual hollow in the stone. It creates a lot of waste effort when a corner stone turns up missing in the event of pulling down the building—which is becoming the common fate—and, while we wouldn't for the world hint that anybody got away with that Hartford stone for the coins probably in it, it's just as well to be on the safe side.

SEND FOR ARTICLES ON CATARRHAL DISORDERS

Although I have recently published an article on catarrh, I have received many letters which ask for another article and for this reason I will write again on the subject. Catarrh is one of the most common complaints of today and literally thousands of people want to know about it. In order that you will know the names of some of the catarrhal disorders on which I have prepared mimeographed articles, I will add a list of them at the end of today's article, so that you may send for the one which interests you most.

Catarrh is a disorder of the mucous membranes of the body and may affect any of these membranes in the different parts of the body. For example, when the colon is affected, with a discharge of mucus as a prominent symptom, the trouble is called colitis. When the catarrhal inflammation affects the bronchial tubes the disorder is called bronchitis. All of the mucous membranes of the body secrete mucus which acts as a lubricating medium and it is only when these membranes become inflamed and an excessive amount of mucus is thrown out, that catarrh is said to be present.

While the catarrh is not of itself a dangerous disease, when it affects the nose and throat, it may encourage the development of other disorders which may have a serious effect on health. For example, catarrh may precede sinus trouble, enlarged tonsils, loss of hearing, discharge from the ear, and ringing noises in the ear.

The main symptom of catarrh, no matter in what part of the body it is located, is the secretion of a large amount of mucus, which is at first clear and later becomes thick and yellow.

Catarrh is of constitutional origin and can not be considered a purely local trouble. The chief cause of catarrh is an acid formed from the waste products of an excess of starches, fats and sugars in the diet. This acid is partly discharged through the mucous membranes producing an irritation. In order to wash away the irritating substance the membrane secretes a free flow of mucus. Catarrh thus means that Nature is riding the body of wastes which are eliminated through the channel of a mucous membrane, instead of through the regular channels of elimination.

In a typical case of catarrh the patient is partially or wholly constipated and there has developed an over-acid condition of the body. The patient is often underweight and in an effort to put on weight he may stuff on those foods which are most likely to make the catarrh grow worse, aggravating the catarrhal condition.

Navy's Spy Scare Fizzles.... Who's This Johnson?
 This Johnson with NRA? ... Airmail Has New Boss.... Mrs. F. R. to Get Her Way.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
 Evening Herald Washington Correspondent.

Washington.—A spy scare usually makes a swell story. But the navy's latest attempt to flush a "spy" gives us only Maj. Chessborough John Henry MacKenzie-Kennedy, an aviation expert who is suing the navy for $500,000 and says our air forces are inferior to those of foreign powers.

Rear Admiral S. J. King, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, U. S. N., told the House subcommittee which whitewashed the navy of airplane contract improprieties that the naval intelligence service hadn't been able to find out anything about MacKenzie-Kennedy. That's too bad. He's an interesting specimen.

Kennedy was the fifth man to fly. He flew 80 yards in his native Scotland in 1906. Then he pioneered aviation in Russia for 10 years, building up an aerial service.

In the war he built what then was the world's biggest airplane for the British government.

He invented the tail-gun fighter bomber warplane, which cost him and his American backers $350,000. England paid him $150,000 for the patents and has about 75 such planes.

Kennedy heard the navy was using the tail-gun principle on its huge "secret plane," the experimental Hall aluminum flying boat, and came here to sue for alleged infringement to reimburse himself and his backers.

His Survey of World Aviation for War, showing America behind in most respects, attracted the attention of Chairman Ross Collins of the House military committee, who made it a public record.

Collins suggested the naval subcommittee contact Kennedy. It did. Then the navy voiced its suspicions and spy charges were hurled at him by committee members. Only McKellar of Texas voted against barring his evidence from the record.

Who's This Johnson?

Attorney General Cummings isn't the brightest boy in the cabinet. He phoned Senator Hiram Johnson the other day, asking him to attend a White House conference on the NRA at 3 p. m.

Half an hour later he phoned again. It seemed there were two Johnsons in town, he explained. The

FOUR FOOD DIETS ARE RECOMMENDED

State Health Bulletin Tells of Foods With Essentials in Calories.

In its weekly bulletin issued today the State Department of Health gave its approval to a bulletin recently published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture as an aid to families who wish to get the best health returns from the money they have available for food. The latter publication listed four different weekly diets which may be matched with the family pocketbook and which at the same time will include the food elements essential to good health. These diets, titled "Restricted," "Minimum Cost," "Moderate Cost" and "Liberal," are reprinted by the state department.

The amounts of food listed under each heading are for a family of five with two moderately active adults and three children, ages three, five and eight years, for a period of one week. With this family as a basis, housewives can vary the amounts to meet the requirements of their particular families and budgets. The food items are identical in each diet. Milk is emphasized in each. The diets are as follows:

Restricted Diet: Flour, cereals, 13 lbs.; or bread, 8 lbs.; and flour cereals, 10 lbs.; milk or its equivalent, 10 1/2 quarts; potatoes, 10 lbs.; dried beans, peas, nuts, 1 1/2 lbs.; tomatoes, citrus fruits, 4 lbs.; leafy green, yellow vegetables, 3 lbs.; dried fruits, 1/2 lb.; other vegetables, fruits, 2 lbs.; fats, including butter, oils, bacon and salt pork, 2 1/2 lbs.; sugars, including molasses, 2 1/2 lbs.; lean meat, fish, poultry, 1 1/2 lbs.; eggs, 1/2 dozen.

Minimum Cost Diet: flour, cereals, 12 lbs.; or bread, 8 lbs.; and flour cereals, 8 lbs.; milk or its equivalent, 21 quarts; potatoes, 10 lbs.; dried beans, peas, nuts, 1 1/2 lbs.; tomatoes, citrus fruits, 4 lbs.; leafy green, yellow vegetables, 6 lbs.; dried fruits, 1 lb.; other vegetables, fruits, 5 lbs.; fats, including butter, oils, bacon and salt pork, 2 1/2 lbs.; sugars, including molasses, 2 lbs.; lean meat, fish, poultry, 2 1/2 lbs.; eggs, 1 1/2 dozen.

Moderate Cost: flour, cereals, 9 lbs.; or bread, 9 lbs.; and flour cereals, 8 lbs.; milk, 21 quarts; potatoes, 9 lbs.; dried beans, peas, nuts, 1 lb.; tomatoes, citrus fruits, 7 lbs.; leafy green, yellow vegetables, 7 lbs.; dried fruits, 1 1/2 lbs.; other vegetables, fruits, 12 lbs.; fats, including butter, oils, 2 1/2 lbs.; sugars, including molasses, 3 lbs.; lean meats, fish, poultry 5 lbs.; eggs, 1 1/2 dozen.

Liberal Diet: flour, cereals, 5 1/2 lbs.; or bread, 6 lbs.; and flour cereals, 2 lbs.; milk, 21 quarts; potatoes, 9 lbs.; leafy green, yellow vegetables, 20 lbs.; fats, including butter, oils, 2 1/2 lbs.; sugars, including molasses, 2 1/2 lbs.; lean meat, fish, poultry, 8 lbs.; eggs, 2 1/2 dozen.

WAPPING

During the spring vacation of the South Windsor schools which will be from April 20 to April 30, the eighth grade of the Wapping School will go on a trip to Wayside Inn, Lexington, Concord and other historic places along the way. They are going in one of John A. Collins' buses. Several of the teachers will go along with them.

There were about ten of the young people of the Federated church here who motored to the sunrise service at Sunset Hill last Friday morning, at which Rev. Watson Woodruff spoke on the subject, "The Meaning of the Cross." The Federated church choir met at the parsonage Friday evening, where they rehearsed their Easter music. After the rehearsal they enjoyed a social hour together.

Justin Lachina and family are moving from South Windsor to Gastonbury.

Miss Jane Newberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie W. Newberry of South Windsor, is spending a week with her parents. She is attending Colby Junior College, at New London, N. H. She will return to her school today.

The annual business meeting of the South Windsor Wednesday Afternoon club will be held at the home of Mrs. Ralph M. Grant at East Windsor Hill on April 11.

PUBLIC HAS MORE READY CASH TO PURCHASE CARS

This Fact Demonstrated by Demand for De Luxe Type of Ford Automobile.

Dearborn, Mich.—April 2.—Definite indications that the public has more ready money, is spending more freely and demanding "something just a little better" is seen in an analysis of sales of Ford cars during March, it was stated today at the head offices of the Ford Motor company.

This analysis showed that 60 per cent of all Ford cars ordered during the month were of the de luxe type, only 40 per cent of the orders calling for the standard types, the statement said. The ratio is in contrast to 1933 when the percentage of de luxe cars was only 44 per cent.

Since the first of the year the ratio of de luxe to standard cars has been rising steadily, according to the study of Ford factory orders. In January the sale of de luxe types was 55 per cent of the total. In February the percentage of de luxe cars had grown to 58 per cent. Orders in March call for 60 per cent, and advance requirements for April are 70 per cent de luxe types.

Inasmuch as the list prices of the de luxe cars are $40 higher than those of the standard types this encouraging symptom is taken to indicate that the public not only is spending in greater volume than last year, so far as new motor cars are concerned, but that it is also purchasing something beyond bare transportation requirements.

SPRING PEP MEETING OF RACKLIFF CO.

The Rackliffe Oil Company is holding its annual spring pep meeting at Judd's Hall, New Britain on Monday evening, April 2nd, where all of the one hundred fifty employees of the company will assemble to hear a technical talk on gasoline and motor oils by Dr. C. R. Hoover of Wesleyan University.

At this spring meeting the Rackliffe Oil Company is announcing the sale of their Premium gasoline at the regular gasoline price. The serious business of discussing sales plans for the coming year will be lightened by music from Dave Mathewson "Rondollers." Refreshments will be served.

New York—George A. Johnson, 55, consulting engineer and a former colonel in the United States army.

MOTHER OF FAMOUS POLO PLAYER DEAD

Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, 67, Was Injured in Riding Accident Dec. 26.

Alken, S. C., April 2 — (AP) — Mrs. Thomas Hitchcock, the "Mother of America Polo," is dead. Injuries suffered by the 67-year-old sportswoman December 26 in a riding accident resulted in her death at the Hitchcock home here yesterday.

Mr. Hitchcock and their two sons,

Tommy and Frank, who attained fame on the polo field under her tutelage, were with her as were their daughters, Mrs. J. Averill Clark and Mrs. Julian Peabody, both of New York.

Funeral arrangements included services in St. Mary's Catholic church this morning and private burial later in the garden of the Hitchcock estate.

As the dashing Louise Eustis, she was widely known as a horsewoman when she married Thomas Hitchcock, Westbury, L. I., sportsman in 1891.

When her sons grew large enough to sit astride a horse, she gave them mounts and taught them the hard-riding and fearlessness that later characterized their play on the polo field.

Game birds became so depleted in number that the United States was forced to import 90,000 from Mexico during 1930.

COLUMBIA

Perfect attendance for the West street school for March is as follows—Arthur Cobb, Alfred German, Samuel Kassman, Leonard Robinson, Samuel Michalk, Charles Sadlon, Phillip Mazank, Betty Cobb, Catherine Klemark, Sophie Klemark, Helen Klemark, Susie Michalk, Christine Sadlon.

A dairy meeting was held Friday evening at the hall with a discussion led by J. S. Owens of the Tolland County Farm Bureau on the subject of pasture land and the different kinds of grasses.

Miss Adelia Badge, a student at Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, N. Y., is spending her Easter vacation at her home here.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey Squier spent Friday in Meriden at the home of Mrs. Squier's parents.

A few days ago the lake was frozen seemingly solidly, no open water being in view, but the heavy rains early this week softened up the ice so that with the warm sun of Thursday and Friday the ice has almost completely disappeared, for the first time in many months.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Oehlers and family of Metuchen, N. J., are spending a few days at the home of Mrs. Oehlers' parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Champlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Arnold and son, Richard, who moved to Williamantic last fall, are moving back into the Hutchins house on the Green.

The Tri County Christian Union composed of the churches of Westchester, Marlboro, Colchester, Hebron, Gilead and Columbia held a Lenten Communion service at the Columbia church Thursday evening.

Rev. H. H. Tomkins of Colchester was in charge of the service, which was as follows: hymn-poem, Rev. A. W. Mellinger of Columbia; solo, "Jerusalem," Mrs. Edith Isham; scripture reading, Rev. Walter Vey of Hebron and Gilead; anthem, "The Secret Place of the Most High," Columbia choir; prayer, Rev. Wallace Canney of Westchester; anthem, "Arise From the Dead," Columbia choir; address, "The Significance of Sacrifice," Rev. E. New Household Conveniences Means Cleaner, Healthier Homes

Electric Refrigeration perfection is here at last! Here is an amazing machine that ends forever every trouble you formerly accepted as part of the routine of protecting foods.

For now, without a bit of attention on your part, everything is kept wonderfully fresh and crisp. Foods hold their tastiness and healthfulness—kitchens stay clean and odorless—labor and muss are banished before the advent of this modern necessity.

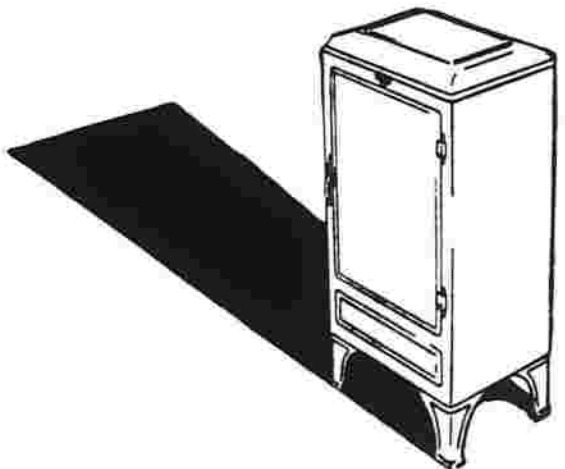

Try electrical refrigeration if you want a truly pleasant surprise in wonderful ease and satisfaction. Its upkeep cost is but a fraction of your ice bill. Its time and labor savings—its added features of quick, clean ice cubes when you want them—bring splendid aid to homes.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY
PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when, due to circumstances beyond his control, he flees from Key West to Havana with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves.
Beau has killed a man and stolen a famous string of pearls at the Florida home of wealthy JIM FIELD. Pablito does not know this or that he himself is accused of the crime. Pablito loves Field's daughter, ESTELLE, and she loves him. MARCIA TREADWAY knows Pablito is innocent but fears scandal if she tells this.
In Havana Pablito tries to find NORRIS NOYES who befriended him as a child but his efforts fail.
Beau, impressed by Pablito's natural ability as a boxer, arranges several profitable matches for him. They also open a gymnasium.
SIR AUBREY, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, begins a search for his son that proves fruitless.
Three years pass and then, on a street in Havana, Pablito sees Estelle Field again.
NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVIII
Pablito said suddenly, "You would never believe how often I've thought about our talking together that night. I've never forgotten about it. I never will!"

HERE'S A LIST OF THINGS A MOTHER NEEDS FOR HER FIRST BABY
What do you need, mother, for your first baby? As many of these things as you can afford to buy, I suggest:
Two sizes diapers—from two dozen up to
Two to four knitted bands.
Two to four knitted shirts.
Two to four flannel petticoats (optional).
Three nightgowns.
Four to eight slits (optional).
Two to four pairs long stockings for winter.
Three sacques or sweaters.
Three blankets.
Four small sheets.
Cotton padding to put under sheets.
Olliochee or piece rubber sheeting to put under padding.
Supplies
Absorbent cotton.
Soap—pure.
Gauze or oil linen squares.
Talcum.
Vase's nee (pure), Abolene, or good cream. Ask doctor.
Boric-acid powder for making solutions. Ask doctor.
Soft hair brush.
Six soft oil towels.
Six cheesecloth wash-rags.
Bath apron—big and soft.
Bath towel—big and soft.
Stretchers or frames for stockings and shirts.
Small hot-water bottle.
Bed and furnishings.
Padding to tie around bed to keep off draft. (Or bed lining.)
Two low chairs.
Bathrub—any style.
Well and bath thermometer.
Flat basket to hold toilet articles.
Scales.
Screen.
It looks as long as the moral law, doesn't it—this list? Well, Christmas is coming, so tell your friends that any of these things are acceptable from cheesecloth wash-rags on up.
Don't worry about dresses or daytime slips just at first. Maybe the doctor will advise against them anyway.

Daily Health Service

MEASLES TIME RETURNS AS SPRING APPROACHES
Disease Strikes Youngsters Only Once, but Can Be Prevented Even Then by Injection of Newly Discovered Serum.
This is the first of two articles by Dr. Morris Fishbein on measles and how to attack this disease.
By DR. MORRIS FISHBELN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine
Look out for measles at this time of year.
Late winter and early spring is the season for the disease, so it requires special attention by parents and city health officials.
Recently, it has been rather well established that measles can be prevented, when cases occur in schools or in families, by injecting the remaining children, who have not been exposed, with the serum or fluid matter taken from the blood of those who have recovered from the disease.
The best time to take this serum is from seven to nine days before the temperature of the sick child has become normal.

As often as reducing is mentioned, someone who thinks she is too thin asks what to do to gain weight. Unfortunately the advice cannot be simply a reversal of the reducing routine. It's not that easy. For, after all, over-eating is sometimes as disastrous as eating too little.
The first thing to do is to decide just how much weight you want to gain and what parts of your body need it most. Better consult your doctor to be sure that nothing is organically wrong and to find out what foods are likely to disagree with you. Never eat anything that he has banned but, outside of those items, increase your diet.
Milk is a good weight-builder. So are starchy vegetables, fat meats, desserts and bread and butter. Drink plenty of water between meals and get at least nine hours of sleep each night. This is important.
Take exercise while you are gaining. It will make the new pounds firm and attractive. Walk a mile each day and do a few setting-up exercises in the morning.
Remember that health is the important thing and if your body is rested, properly nourished and exercised you'll have a better than even chance of acquiring a well-developed figure.

A Thought

And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather every grape of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and stranger: I am the Lord thy God.—Leviticus, 19:10.
A rich man without charity is a rogue; and perhaps it would be so difficult matter to prove that he is also a fool.—Fielding.

CHAPTER I
Mary had stayed out all night! It was such astounding news that Sylvia Watts who was suffering from a "morning after" feeling, all too common with her, was completely sobered when the maid told her.
Mary out all night! And with that Englishman, of course, — Lord Rexford.
Sylvia did not approve. It was not that she minded what her sister did or where she went. On the contrary, she had always thought Mary a little prudish. She went to parties — and there was one of the gayest young crowds in New York — she danced beautifully, she drank, she was always full of life and high spirits. But she set a limit for herself and she observed it. She never drank too much. Her flirtations never became "affairs." She never allowed her popularity which was outstanding because she was so young and beautiful, so gay and impulsive, to interfere with her efficiency. She had a responsible position as private secretary to an important publisher and no plain, middle-aged woman whose whole life was in her work, could have filled it better.
That Mary should work at all seemed foolish to Sylvia. There was no real need for it. Still if Mary liked it, it was all right with Sylvia, and of course, her salary was not un- welcome. Sylvia always spent her allowance before it came in and it was a comfort to know that Mary could be counted on to pay the rent and other necessary but uninteresting expenses.
No, she did not mind in the least that Mary was having a "fling."

"Mary," he said, "I couldn't go without you—I never will."

What she did mind was Lord Rexford. If it were one of their own crowd — Tommy Trent, for instance — she could understand it.
There was a frown on her face, as she looked at him.
"I knew you didn't come home," she said, "but I supposed you had gone to work!"
"Everything may be topsy-turvy," she said, "but I'd scarcely show up at the office in a dancing frock. I must go and change now."
"Is it in your scheme of things," demanded Sylvia "to tell me where and how you spent the night?"
"Well," laughed Mary, "if you weren't too much 'in the other', to use one of your favorite expressions, you must know it was almost dawn when the party broke up. It was too late to go to bed — too early to go to work, so we went for a long glorious ride in the country."
"The other part of the 'we' being that stiff, stand off of an Englishman, I suppose. Mary, have you fallen for that high-brow, high brow stuff?"
"Mary," she said, "I'm not like our set, thank goodness, because he is serious as well as rich and aristocratic. He couldn't be an authority on international relationships and economics, if he weren't."
"Sounds awful."
"Well, it's not. He's an important man and the finest one I ever met. You ask if I've fallen for him. I have and I'm proud of it."
"You're a little fool," blazed Sylvia.
Mary smiled a little wistfully. "Probably I am — we won't argue about it. But don't be alarmed. We're very different people, you and I. We don't speak the same language. Our backgrounds, our viewpoints — everything is different."
"Does that matter, when we love each other?"
"That's what you think now. But we're not quite sane now — at least you're not. People romantically in love, never are. But today isn't all of life. There are the tomorrows — and in them, we will be sane. And then—"
"Mary, please, dear," he pleaded, "I must go now."
"Let me see you go now," she said firmly. "It has been beautiful — like a dream. Let us part without regrets, let us remember each other without regrets. It has been good to know you. I hope you will always think of me."
She raised her face to kiss him. His arms went around her. There was a long embrace. Then, suddenly she tore herself away and almost ran to the gangplank.
"Not one regret, Phil — not one," she called back — and was gone.
She stopped before a window to send a wireless.
"Goodbye and good luck. I would do it all over again. I love—"
Suddenly a voice in cockney said, "Wouldn't you like the message delivered personally?"
She wheeled around and faced a laughing Philip.
"Phil," she gasped. "You'll miss the boat."
"Wrong, my dear," he corrected. "I was barely down the gangplank when they pulled it up."
"Phil?"
"Phil?" he said, and he was suddenly serious. "I couldn't go without you. I never will."

Olympics Crush Bristol In Soccer Opener, 10-1

Local Booters Score at Will to Gain Lopsided Triumph Against the Disorganized Visitors; Enrico and Gray Feature Play.

Very little can be said in regard to the opening game in the junior league yesterday afternoon. The Olympics outclassed the visitors from start to finish and had an easy time throughout. In consequence Referee McDonald had a rather busy time keeping an accurate record of the goals scored.

Local Booters Score at Will to Gain Lopsided Triumph Against the Disorganized Visitors; Enrico and Gray Feature Play.

The visitors need not be discouraged at the result. They are a new team which can and will do better. Playing their first game since the fall they were somewhat disorganized so that teamwork suffered. As players find their correct positions there will be less changes on the field which is bound to result in an improvement.

Enjoy Field Day

The Olympics had a field day against a disorganized opposition. After they got the measure of the visitors they quickly settled down to the job of scoring goals and making the game safe. Goals followed each other in quick succession so that they had a safe lead of 6 to 2 at the interval. Taking matters easy in the second half they scored four more before the final whistle called the game to a finish.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Song of the Gardener
Let April showers bring May flowers—
Unnumbered blossoms scions,
But please forget, quite welcome showers,
Those pesky dandelions.

THIS IS THE SEASON OF THE YEAR WHEN THE HOUSEWIFE THINKS THINGS WOULD LOOK BETTER IF THE BED WAS WHERE THE DRESSER NOW IS.

It was a local man and his wife. They were preparing to go out. She stood for a long time in front of the mirror surveying her dress. She (soothingly)—You know, darling, I badly need a new dress. He (grimaced)—Dress! dress! dress! Haven't you a mind for anything higher? She—Oh, yes, I want a new hat, too.

About the only boosters for these cold Spring days are the college professors. They claim that cold wet days delay the outbreak of Spring fever which afflicts college students at this time of the year bringing restlessness in class work and neglect of study.

Film Star—I'll endorse your cigarette for fifty thousand dollars. Manufacturer—I'll see you inhale first.

Picture of a man picking out a suit: "I'll take this home and let the wife see it, and then come back and tell you if I'll take it."

JUDGE (to servant acting as witness)—Have you ever seen your master under the influence of intoxicating liquor? WITNESS—No, your honor, I can't say that I have, but I have seen him lying on the floor swearing that he'd catch that bed the next time it came around.

Don't be surprised or put out when you find that bitterly dissatisfied people don't know what they really want. They are merely keyed to a high pitch against what they have.

Mr. S.—Fellow offered me $50 for all my mining stock today. Mrs. S.—Did you sell? Mr. S.—No; he wouldn't pay the freight.

THE REASON IT TAKES A WOMAN SO LONG TO DRESS IS BECAUSE SHE WEARS SO FEW CLOTHES THAT THEY HAVE TO BE DISTRIBUTED ABOUT RIGHT.

Lecturer (to committeeman)—May I have a pitcher of water on the platform table? Committeeman—To drink? Lecturer—No, to do a high diving act.

In these days of keen competition, you have to pull strings to get a job and pull heart strings to get a husband or wife.

BOOKS ON THE SOUTH AT THE LOCAL LIBRARY

Ridgways by Frances Renard. A novel of Kentucky written with a depth and sincerity of feeling, a freshness and emotional quality of its very own. A family chronicle of the Hardisons.

Back to Glory by Herbert Ravenel Sass. The setting of this novel of southern life is the Carolina low country. It is the story of the glamorous South before the Civil War; a graphic picture of the social and political condition during this period.

Having read Look Back to Glory you will enjoy The Carolina Low Country which gives you a well written and interesting description of that section with particular emphasis on the Negro and his songs.

This leads to the autobiography of one of the foremost American Negroes of our day, Along This Way by James Weldon Johnson, a full-bodied narrative of the social, political and cultural adventures of a strikingly unusual member of the black race. Cas Van Doren says "It is a book any man might be proud to have written, about a life any man might be proud to have lived."

Roll Jordan Roll by Julia Peterkin and Doris Ulman. This is the intimate life of the south Carolina Negro - fascinating character sketches; interesting accounts of folkways and unusual photographic studies by Doris Ulman.

Other interesting books which deal with southern life are: The Forge and The Store by Thomas Stripling. Black April by Julia Peterkin. Bright Skin by Julia Peterkin. South Moon Under by Marjorie Kinnon Rawlings, a story of Florida scrub country where hard conditions of pioneer living still exist.

SCHOOL PUPILS TO GIVE PLAYS

Funds Raised at the Green School Will Be Used to Buy Uniforms.

The two one-act plays to be presented at the Green school, Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, are being given by the seventh grade to help pay for uniforms for the baseball team.

"My Uncle, the Captain" is the title of the first play, which tells the story of a would-be sea captain, whose only "sea experience" was acquired behind the counter of a little country grocery store. His adventures, after his purchase of the sloop the "Jemima Matilda," are humorously portrayed and furnish many comical episodes. The cast of characters is:

Sol Hanscomb, Jr., landlord of the hotel, Vernon Callis; Capt. Nat Skilling of the "Jemima Matilda," Ernest Linders; Sam Skilling, his nephew, Earl Hunt; Pete White, a colored waiter, Raymond Mastromunno; Steve Black, a white waiter, Robert Custer; Bobby Small, a boot-black, Eric Gotberg.

The second play, "Thirty Minutes for Refreshments," is rendered more laugh-provoking by the efforts of several of the boys to do justice to the feminine roles. Their efforts to entrap an elderly, unprotected bachelor are unique.

The cast of characters is: John Downley, a bachelor, Robert Sherwood; Clarence Pitts, his colored servant, Robert Custer; John Foxton, the groom, Jack Moriarty; Major Pepper, U. S. A., Earl Hunt; Mrs. Foxton, the bride, Kenneth Wiggin; Miss Arabella Pepper, a maiden lady, Allan Anderson; Polly, the maid, Harold Symington.

Two readings are to be given by Esther Pitkin, whose work is well known both locally and in Hartford. The school orchestra will furnish the music during the program.

April 15—"The Rale McCoy," a 3-act mystery play by Manchester Community Players at Whitton Memorial hall.

April 16—Semi-formal dance at Country Club by Campbell Council, Knights of Columbus.

Also 3-act comedy, "Three Pegs," Center church.

April 20—Masquerade ball of St. Mary's Young Men's club at State Armory.

April 23—Ninth annual concert of Beethoven Glee club at High school auditorium.

April 26—"Old District School," Whitton Memorial hall, benefit Y. M. C. A.

April 27—Annual hall of John Mather Chapter, Order of DeMolay.

POPULAR ARTISTS FOR CHURCH SHOW

Advance Sale of Tickets to St. Bridget's Minstrel Indicates Popularity.

The advance sale of tickets for the minstrel show and dance to be given by St. Bridget's Holy Name Society for the benefit of St. Bridget's church, Tuesday, April 10, at the Hollister street school, testifies to the popularity of the artists whose talents Director W. R. Campbell has woven into a delightful program of rollicking merriment.

At the piano will be Mrs. Daniel C. Buckley, until recently studio artist at Station WJZ, New York, where she served as accompanist for many of the foremost radio stars. Mr. Campbell considers the procuring of such an experienced artist the first guarantee of an excellent show.

Among the special entertainers will be the Du Baldo brothers, four of the most promising young musicians and song birds in Manchester.
