25 BELIEVED DEAD, RESULT OF FLOODS

Many Missing and Nearly a Million Dollars in Property in North and Southwest—Relief on Way.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS. At least 25 persons are believed dead, a number are missing and the property damage is near a million dollars as a result of floods in the north and southwest.

As the highwater receded today the Elk City section of Oklahoma listed one known dead and fifteen missing in a seven mile stretch of lowland through which the Washita river roared, sweeping all before it.

Officials mapped relief plans at Eau Claire for victims in eight counties swamped by rains and melting snow. Storms in Ohio caused damage estimated at $100,000. A man was killed by lightning at Canton.

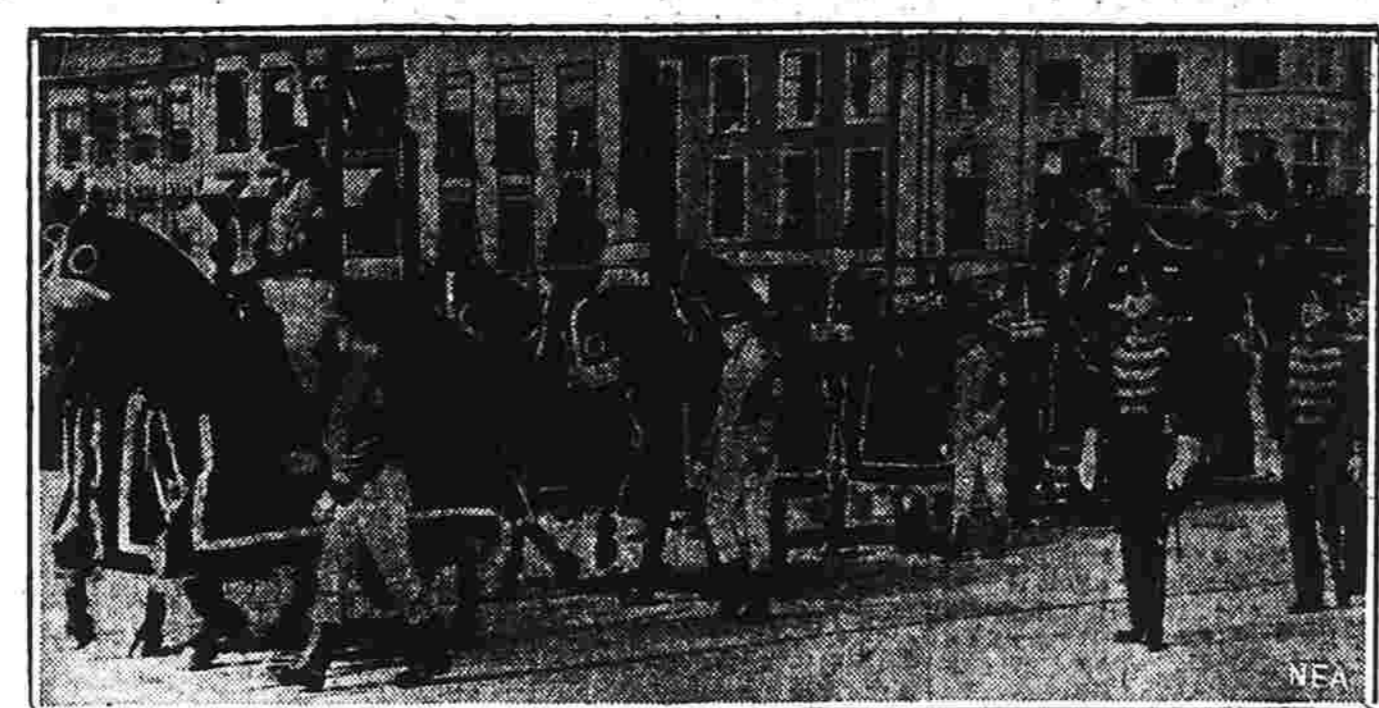

Eight bodies recovered Elk City, Okla., April 5.—(AP)—Eight bodies had been recovered today as the receding Washita river gave up the victims of its disastrous rampage.

Two rescue workers whose capsized boat was found earlier telephoned Hammon from Butler to report they were safe. The two, Rusty Toller and Harry Kemp, said they swam ashore.

ARMY REVOLVERS ARE STOLEN HERE

Four Automatic Colts Taken from State Armory—Second Theft Here.

The Connecticut State Armory on Main street was again broken into Tuesday or early Wednesday and government owned equipment, allotted to the use of the local Howitzer company was stolen, according to a report furnished to the police.

The guns were secured by some person or persons after drill Tuesday night. It is thought that they may have hidden themselves in the armory building, and when members of the company and the officers had left, went to the gun case, broke open the special lock provided by the government and took the four revolvers.

The fact that the guns were taken was not discovered until noon yesterday, when a commissioned sergeant of the company visited the armory. The report was made to Captain Russell Hathaway of the company and later to the police.

She was about ready to leave the hospital, eight weeks ago when she again fell and it was necessary to reset the broken bones, which accounted for her long time in the hospital. She is now able to get around on crutches.

Word from Turners Falls That Waters Have Begun to Drop, Received With Joy. Hartford, April 5.—(AP)—Word from Turners Falls, Mass., and points north that the waters have begun to drop, and no local change in the flood depth of approximately 19 feet for several hours this morning, indicated that freshet dangers at Hartford may be over. The gauge at Dutch Point registered 18.5 feet at 8 a. m., and approximately the same four hours later.

Springfield, Mass., April 5.—(AP)—The peak of this season's high water in the Connecticut River appears to have passed in the night and reports from many points early today indicated a quick and steady drop. An official of the Turners Falls Power Company reported that, whereas a flow of 70,000 cubic second feet was going over the dam at Turners Falls yesterday noon, the flow had diminished to 46,000 feet today and but five feet depth of water was passing.

The power official said that 15 miles north of Turners Falls there remained some ten inches of snow in the woods, but he said that unless a copious warm rain comes shortly, he does not look for unusual spring freshet conditions.

C. W. MILLER DEAD. Stonington, April 5.—(AP)—Charles W. Miller, head of the foundry of A. E. Miller Sons, which he developed extensively after taking it over from his father, the founder in 1885, died this morning in his 71st year. He was a charter member of New London Lodge of Elks and leaves four sons and two daughters.

MEETING PLANNED FOR C C C PROSPECTS

Those Seeking to Enroll Should Go to State Capital Saturday at 2 p. m.

Young men in Manchester and surrounding communities who entertain aspirations to become enrolled in the Civilian Conservation Corps for assignment to forestry camps in the near future or in July, were urged today by Assistant Charity Superintendent A. E. Behrend to attend a meeting in the old Senate chamber at the State Capital Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

At this meeting Captain M. V. Parsons, commander of the 11st company at Camp Cobalt, will address those assembled on the qualifications necessary to become a recruit at one or another of the camps, the work and recreational activities, the pay, food, clothing allowances and other information considered desirable.

However, in order to gain admittance to this meeting, it is necessary to hold a "pass" or admittance card. These will be issued by Mr. Behrend upon application at his office on the second floor of the Municipal building anytime between now and Saturday noon.

17 Applications Filed. Seventeen young men from Manchester already have filed applications to enter the Civilian Conservation Corps in the next quota. About 40 others have sought information from Mr. Behrend regarding the corps, and it is believed that additional youths may wish to become enrolled in the July quota.

Emphasis was laid by Mr. Behrend today on the fact that if any applicant from Rockville, East Granby, Wapping, Bolton, Coventry or Buckingham failed to appear for duty in the next quota, his place may be filled by a local youth.

THIRTY PLANE CRASHES IN STATE DURING '33

Hartford, April 5.—(AP)—The state commissioner of aviation, Charles Lester, has completed a study of aircraft accidents in Connecticut during 1933. There were 30 in 1933 as compared to 42 in 1932; 51 in 1931 and 43 in 1930. This record was made despite the fact that motor pilot licenses were issued in 1933 to thousands of new pilots.

Mechanical failures caused 20 per cent of the accidents in 1933; personnel error caused 40 per cent; weather caused 9 per cent; terrain caused 13 per cent in 1933 and unknown or undetermined causes were responsible for 18 per cent of the accidents, actually 4 in number. The 18 per cent of accidents attributed to "terrain" is expected to be materially reduced this year because of work done at airports by CWA workers.

Despite the fact that 134 student and solo licenses were issued last year, the highest number ever issued by the department, but one accident was reported during student instruction.

BYRD COMMANDER REACHES NEW YORK

Byrd during his seven-months' isolation in a small hut on the Antarctic ice-sheet. "He is a clever and cautious man," he said. "I got along, and I think it's a splendid thing for him to do this in the interest of accurate meteorological observations."

Commander Gjertsen is short, wiry, and blond, a commander in the Royal Norwegian Navy who began his seafaring days at the age of 15. He is 48 now. His life, he said, has been dedicated to making additions to the map. He was with Roald Amundsen's Antarctic expedition of 1910-1912.

His only other interest, and one which sometimes interferes with this business of prowling about the ends of the earth, is his home at Horten, Norway. There his wife and four children are waiting for him. He will sail for Norway in about a week, and won't return to New Zealand until next fall.

WATERBURY COMPANIES REPORT WAGE INCREASES

Waterbury, April 5.—(AP)—Following announcements of 10 per cent wage increases, by the American Brass Company, the Scoville Manufacturing Company and Chase Metal works and the Chase Rolling Mills, as made public here on Monday and Tuesday, the Chase Company today announced a new scale for the Waterbury Manufacturing Company, one of the local Chase branches.

The notices as posted at the plant today state that "effective with the week beginning April 8 those rates which were advanced by one-seventh only are hereby advanced approximately 10 per cent above the present hourly or piece rates." In other words, the increase is a general one of about 10 per cent, for the entire factory, except for those employees for whom the rates were advanced 20 per cent or more last August.

HOSPITAL NOTES

Brum Cordell of Andover, and Edith Van Deck of Bolton were admitted and J. Banks Jones, Mrs. Elmer Anderson of 84 Elm Terrace, Miss Mildred Swanson of 20 Packard street, Peter Curran of 24 Walker street, Mrs. Howard Clark and infant son of Glenbury and Mrs. Norman Gilmason and infant son of 555 School street were discharged yesterday.

NINE STRAY DOGS IN LOCAL POUND

Reason for Large Number is That Licenses Are Due in May.

Dog taxes must be paid next month, which may be the reason why there are many stray dogs at present in Manchester. Dog Warden Ernest Robinson has now in his care nine dogs. All are without collars or tags that will serve as a means of identification as to ownership, but it is the experience of Mr. Robinson that there are many dogs permitted to run loose just before licensing time. They are not all local dogs, but in many cases dogs owned by out of town residents who drive through the town, drop the dog off and expect that it will be picked up.

These people do not feel able to pay the cost of registration and, fearing arrest for not doing so and for harboring an unlicensed dog, take this method to get rid of them. Of the number now impounded they are none of a high breed, and it looks as though they will all have to be killed as provided by law. In killing the dogs, Dog Warden Robinson has a box into which he places the dog. There is a rubber tube that extends from the inside of the box out through a hole and this is connected to the gas exhaust pipe of a motor car. The carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust enter the box. The dogs die an easy death.

CONNECTICUT DELEGATES SATISFIED WITH TRIP

Protested Against Wagner Bill and Other Measures Now Before Congress.

New Haven, April 5.—(AP)—Industrialists of Connecticut, who went to Washington to voice opposition before their Congressional delegation to five pending "New Deal" acts, expressed confidence today, upon their return, that their trip would be reflected in the action of Congress.

"Connecticut has started something," said R. H. Whitehead, president of the New Haven Clock Company. "The delegation of 150 industrialists, representing industries employing more than 175,000 persons protested in the meeting yesterday against the Wagner Labor board measure, Connery 30 hour week bill, Wagner-Lewis unemployment insurance bill, Fletcher-Rayburn securities exchange control bill and the reciprocal tariff bill."

STRANGE ACTING MAN DEMENTED

Hartford Police Were to Commit Frank Ferranti to Institution.

A man acting in a strange way was noticed on Parker street this morning in the vicinity of the Colonial Board company's mill. He was questioned by several, but did not seem to be able to answer questions. The report of the man was furnished Chief Samuel G. Gordon shortly after 8 o'clock and Police-man Rudolph Wirtalla was detailed to investigate. He found the man and brought him back to the police station.

After questioning him, it was learned that he lived in Hartford. He gave the name of Frank Ferranti, but his memory was otherwise a blank. The Hartford police were notified and they learned that he had recently been in a hospital in Hartford and had a sister living in Hartford, with whom they communicated. The local police were asked to hold him until a relative called today at a simple ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Letting Cavely who purchased it after Mr. Treat's death. It is interesting to know that this home was moved from what is now the new extension of Summit street, to "White's woods" to its present location.

Mrs. Treat leaves three sons, Osborne W. Treat of Middletown, Conn., Burton L. Treat of Newport, R. I., and Albert L. Treat of West Haven. There are four grandchildren.

MUST GIVE ADDITIONAL DATA TO GET LICENSES

Applicants Required to Provide Complete Information Regarding Selves and Family.

All that is needed for a complete record of identification of those who secure licenses to drive automobiles in the state of Connecticut from now on is a picture to attach to the license and finger prints, as the new application that is filed out when a driver's license is to be issued goes into greater detail than any other application in the past.

Among the questions that have to be answered is the name of the person who is applying, the street number and town or city where the applicant resides, the birthplace and date, month and year of the applicant's birth, the father's name and his birthplace and, if he or she is not a native of this country, there are further questions which must be answered. These include the ability to read and write English, the occupation, education, marital status, whether single, married, divorced, widower or a widow. The number of children and how many of these children are under 16 years of age are other questions asked.

These questions are to be filled out by the applicant and in addition the inspector has to add to this his report which requires answers to the date of the examination, the place where the examination was held and the condition of the weather when the applicant sought the license.

FIRST LADY FACES A BUSY TWO DAYS

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Martha A. Treat, widow of James W. Treat, died yesterday at the home of her son, Albert L. Treat, of West Haven. Mrs. Treat was 94 years old and had been in fair health for a woman of her age until recently. Death resulted from a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mrs. Treat was a resident of Manchester for more than half a century. Mr. Treat who was a popular clerk for the late J. E. Morton, Depot Square grocer, died in 1918, and his widow continued to live in town with Mrs. Nellie Taylor, of Oak Place, until a few years ago. Mr. and Mrs. Treat were admitted to the Second Congregational church by letter in 1875. She was therefore the oldest member in point of years as well as length of membership.

Mr. and Mrs. Treat occupied the cottage on Willow street, now the home of Mr. and Mrs. Letting Cavely who purchased it after Mr. Treat's death. It is interesting to know that this home was moved from what is now the new extension of Summit street, to "White's woods" to its present location.

Mrs. Treat leaves three sons, Osborne W. Treat of Middletown, Conn., Burton L. Treat of New York, R. I., and Albert L. Treat of West Haven. There are four grandchildren.

OPEN FORUM

BETTER FILMS COUNCIL. Several times within the past year I have read of meetings of the Better Films Council and would like to inquire just what this organization has accomplished or hopes to accomplish and how far it is sponsored by other local organizations.

The showing of suitable films for vacation periods is a matter of interest to all mothers in Manchester and I would like to inquire if this is the aim of the local Better Films Council. I am most grateful for this space allowed me.

Interested, Manchester, Conn., April 4, 1934.

VESSEL LAUNCHED

New London, April 5.—(AP)—One of two small light weight vessels, constructed especially for shallow water operation was launched today at a simple ceremony at the ship yard of the electric boat company at Groton. While no announcement of ownership has been made it is presumed the vessels are for the Peruvian government. The second vessel will be launched in a short time.

HYDE TREASURER OF 9TH DISTRICT

John H. Hyde Named to Vacancy Caused by C. R. Hathaway Death.

John H. Hyde, secretary of the Ninth District committee, has been elected treasurer of the committee, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Charles R. Hathaway. The office does not entail as much work since consolidation of the school districts here because the functions of the committee now are concerned only with recreation and through activities in the district. As treasurer of the Ninth District the late Mr. Hathaway was obliged to give a considerable amount of his time to the work.

It was stated by the committee that an arrangement has been made with Mr. Hyde whereby he will continue to do the work of the treasurer until the end of the district fiscal year when it is expected that a revision of the present set-up will be made. For the rest of the present year which ends on July 1, Mr. Hyde will receive the same salary given Mr. Hathaway.

TO FILE LIENS ON 1932 UNPAID TAXES APRIL 10

Tax Collector Howe Warns Delinquents of Penalty for All Non-Payments.

Less than a week remains for those who have not paid their 1932 property tax to do so before the filing of liens against the property will be made.

In the notices mailed to persons who failed to pay their taxes, Town Tax Collector Howe warned that all taxes unpaid by April 10 would have liens placed against them. There were over 475 such liens, but this did not mean there were that number of taxpayers who had not paid taxes.

It is necessary to make out a lien on each piece of property. Where there is a sub-division, or where a lot is owned in addition to a house, it is necessary to have a lien placed on each separately. Several have paid the tax due on a small valued lot but the taxes on many cases, will amount to nearly that before the time limit has been passed that there will be from 10 to 15 percent turn in payments on small listed property and save the lien charge, and the additional 5 percent cost that will be added, each year. If the number mentioned make such payments it will mean that nearly 300 fewer liens will be filed.

PUBLIC UTILITIES UNDER PROBE NOW

Investigations Held in Many States—Thayer Letters Started Things.

(By Associated Press)

Although the spotlight on the public utilities battle front is thrown on New York today with Governor Herbert H. Lehman and members of the Legislature insisting on a far ranging investigation of all utility companies as a result of the sensational "Thayer letters", nevertheless the fight for greater regulation and reduction in rates is being pressed in many parts of the country, a survey discloses.

Gov. Lehman is assured that an investigation will be voted by the Legislature. His chief concern now, he said last night, is to find a man "like Charles Evans Hughes to conduct it" in order that it will be thoroughly made.

The latest development came early today when the Dunnington resolution was being revised in the Senate to include specifically the state's public commission in the general investigation.

In the Nation's capital the House voted yesterday a nationwide investigation of electric power rates by the Federal Trade Commission. The Senate has already passed the resolution.

New York Situation

The situation in New York was brought to a head by the publication last week of the "Thayer letters," purported to have been written by State Senator Warren T. Thayer in 1927 and 1928, when he was chairman of the Senate public service committee, to the Associated Gas and Electric Company, which asked if his work had been "satisfactory" and pointed out that "several of his bills had been killed in his committee. The Senate judiciary committee will begin investigation of the letters Monday."

In addition Gov. Lehman's eleven bills for utilities reform in the state are reported well on their way to passage by the Senate. Last year the Senate public service committee killed his program.

In many other states action is being planned toward closer regulation and reduction of rates.

Pennsylvania's Public Service Commission this week passed a resolution proposing informal conferences with all utilities companies to make six per cent instead of seven the allowed fair return on property value.

In Michigan the State Public Utilities Commission has just ordered a reopening of the telephone rate case to determine the possibility of lowering rates to rural users and the feasibility of a flat rate for Detroit instead of the flat charge for a limited number of calls plus four cents for each additional call now made.

West Virginia is using a legislative appropriation of $80,000 to investigate utility rates. In the view of securing for the users of utility service a downward revision in rates and many reductions have already been ordered.

Arkansas has a fact finding tribunal, set up last year, to provide cities with expert aid in rate fixing, which is now engaged in investigating the power companies.

Six bills were introduced in the New Jersey Legislature this week to broaden the Public Utility Commission's powers, including the authorization to fix temporary rates pending determination of the fairness of the permanent rate structures.

In Utah the commission has been pending against power and telephone companies to reduce rates.

In Texas all the legislation proposed to regulate utilities companies at the last special session of the Legislature was defeated.

Commissioners in California and Oregon have all recently ordered rate reductions, but no legislation is pending in either of these states. Washington is investigating all privately owned companies under a law passed last year.

A disagreement in Nebraska over the extent of jurisdiction of the commission is holding up the commission's effort to exercise more power of the telephone companies.

Rhode Island has several regulatory bills in committee but action on any of them is said to be unlikely.

Municipal ownership proposals won in six cities in Wisconsin at last Tuesday's election and lost in seven others.

The Ohio Legislature has a proposal before it providing for an increase in the excise tax on utility companies.

AMUSEMENTS GENTLEMAN CROOK

"Mystery of Mr. X" Comes to State Theater Tomorrow — Stars Robert Montgomery.

Robert Montgomery, in the role of Revel, gentleman crook, is starred in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's new picture dealing with a series of gruesome murders in London, "Mystery of Mr. X," which opens tomorrow at the State theater.

Elizabeth Allan plays the role of Jane Frensham, beautiful daughter of Sir Herbert Frensham, Scotland Yard head.

Lewis Stone as Connor Lewis Stone, aristocrat of the screen, enacts the role of Connor, super-sleuth, the most witty member of Scotland Yard's famed experts.

Ralph Forbes, as Sir Christopher March, is a heavy drinking British sportsman who vies with the sprightly fessue of Montgomery for the affections of Elizabeth Allan.

Henry Stephenson, in the role of Sir Herbert Frensham, is the kindly, convalescent head of Scotland Yard and father of Jane. Around his venerable gray head are the criticism and intrigue attendant upon the outrageous murders of London police.

Forrester Harvey, as Palmer, and Ivan Simpson, as Hutchinson, are Montgomery's two quick-witted partners-in-crime. Harvey's cockney comedy antics are at humorous variance with Simpson's lugubrious worrying.

Leonard Mudie plays "X," the fiendish murderer whose gray shadow stalks across the toully felled bodies of his victims. His ultimate dramatic capture climaxes a series of hair-raising events.

Alec B. Francis fills the role of Judge Malpas and Charles Irwin is cast as Connor's right hand man. Oliver Marsh, M-G-M's ace cameraman, is responsible for the many startling and dramatic pictorial effects.

The picture was adapted from the sensational novel by Philip MacDonald, a Crime Club story which attracted wide attention among murder-mystery readers.

The story concerns Sir Herbert Frensham who returns from a convalescing trip to the Continent and London up at arms over the mysterious murders of policemen at the hands of a fiend signing himself as "X" in audacious articles sent to the newspapers.

NANA BRYANT POPULAR AMONG THEATERGOERS

Featured Player in "Three and One" is Capable in Both Drama and Musicals.

Nana Bryant, who is featured in "Three and One," the Parisian comedy success, at Parsons' theater this week, isn't given to volatility. She is almost reticent, and one has to ask her friends about her to obtain a really correct impression. One important theatrical personage in speaking of her, gave her that accolade of the stage by saying, "she's a rattling good trouper."

She is, one finds, immensely popular in these parts of the country. Ohio born and bred, she determined early in her career that she wanted to make the stage her profession, and evidently with her, to will is to act, for she has succeeded. Here and there, theatergoers mark her as their favorite stage player, and that liking is not sectional, for she is as well known in New York as she is in San Francisco.

On Broadway and on the road, among a long list of plays, she is well remembered for her work in "Daily, More Women Ask For India Tea"

The popularity of India Tea is increasing... because it brings you the utmost in the rare, full flavor of truly fine tea. India grows the finest tea in the world. To get it, be sure to look for the Map-of-India trademark (above), in addition to the brand name, on every package of tea you buy.

"The Fitzbrand," "Topsy and Eva," "A Connecticut Yankee," "Du Barry" and "The First Apple," the latter having marked her most recent Broadway appearance. She has the happy faculty of being able to play either in straight dramatic roles or musical comedy.

Mrs. Arlyne Moriarty Garrity insists that she has no hobbies, that she has never had time to cultivate them, but it is known that she has professed a liking for horses, both to ride and as a racer. In fact, she commented recently:

"I don't think there is a prettier picture in the world than a fleet horse running against his rivals. But I have a bad habit, I always cheer for the horse that is making the battle in the stretch, whether he is mine or not."

She has a curiosity about the progress of places and, when playing cities in which she has not appeared recently, she occupies herself busily when free from her duties, in what might be called "checkup" sightings. "Bridge and golf are taboo with her.

"Patient people have tried to teach me both, but I guess they just don't appeal to me, for my progress has been absolutely nil."

EAST HARTFORD INVITES LOCAL C. OF C. MEMBERS

Beautification of State Highways Subject of Talk at Dinner Monday Night.

Members of the local Chamber of Commerce have been invited to attend a meeting of the East Hartford Chamber at Odd Fellows hall in East Hartford next Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Luther N. Keith of Putnam, head of the highway beautification division of the state highway department, will speak on the beautification of the state highways of Connecticut and proposed plans for beautification of the Governor Trumbull highway passing through East Hartford and Manchester.

An old-fashioned chicken dinner will be served. The Glastonbury Chamber and all others interested in highway beautification have been invited to attend. Local Chamber members are requested to make their reservations immediately at the local Chamber office.

PREDICTS BOOM IN REAL ESTATE

George Graziadio Indicates Activity in Local Market Within Few Weeks.

George L. Graziadio, local real estate agent and auctioneer, believes that there will be much activity in the real estate market in Manchester and surrounding communities this spring and summer. Basing his opinion on the number of inquiries he has received on available properties.

Mr. Graziadio says that there are indications that a fair-sized boom in real estate transfers seems to be in the offing. In addition to real estate interests Mr. Graziadio is signing up several auctions, many of them out of town. He says that the old-fashion auction has come into its own and there is more activity and interest in that type of sale than has been evident in a great many years.

ARRAY OF TALENT FOR CHURCH SHOW

Mrs. Arlyne Moriarty Garrity to Appear at St. Bridget's Minstrels, April 10.

Manchester music lovers will find interest in the announcement that Director W. R. Campbell has succeeded in adding to his already imposing array of soloists for the Bridget's Holy Name Society Tuesday, April 10 at 8 o'clock in the Hollister Street school hall, Mrs. Arlyne Moriarty Garrity, whose voice and personality have pleased so many audiences in the past. Mrs. Garrity's charming rendition of "Thine Alone" is certain to please.

The entertainment will consist of a one-act play entitled "Pat's Matrimonial Venture," vocal numbers by Mrs. Edith Judd and John Chambers, as well as one or two other special features not yet definitely decided upon. The committee are as follows:

Refreshment committee, Helen Crawford, chairman; Florence Madden and Hazel Greenway.

Entertainment Evaline Pentland, chairman.

Tickets, Florence Madden, chairman.

Dining room, Hannah Jensen, chairman.

Publicity, Ethel Madden, chairman.

Decorations, Dorothy Russell, chairman; Viola Trotter and Evelyn Burrell.

A report was made on the Lenten missionary work of the club, and a vote of thanks was tendered to Evelyn Burrell and Evelyn Tedford who were responsible for the exceptionally fine work done at this time.

The club is planning to sponsor a Parish Fair later in the year. After the business meeting the members enjoyed a social period, and a delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

The next meeting of the club will be held at the home of Miss Evelyn Robinson at 352 Center street.

R. M. SMITH DIES

Darien, April 5.—(AP)—Robert M. Smith, 87, Darien's oldest business man, died at his home here at 6:30 this morning.

He was born in Waterbury where he was a teacher of music moving to Darien over 40 years ago, where he continued to teach music. He became engaged in the dry goods and stationery store business in 1906, and had actively continued that business until his illness a few weeks ago. He was organist for 33 years at St. Luke's Episcopal church there. He also served for many years as chairman of the town meetings here and was a former member of the board of finance.

Due to differences of opinion as to just what is a separate bone, the number of bones in the human body is estimated at anywhere between 206 and 270.

THURSDAY APRIL 5,

Liquor traffic both orderly and respectable.

It is possible that there might be evolved, for this state, a better liquor law than that of Michigan. But the law that state now has is incomparably better than the one we now have.

If by next January there shall have been drawn, from some source or from many sources, as good a law as that of Michigan, there is mighty little doubt that the General Assembly will be glad to adopt it. But the people of this state ought to insist that there be prepared by that time an even better one, if there is wit enough in the state, and diligence enough, to evolve it.

And nine months is none too long a time to devote to serious study of the question.

"MARCH ON WASHINGTON"

That was an imposing and significant array which was assembled in Washington yesterday, when 175 Connecticut industrialists, said to represent two-thirds of the numerical factory employment of the state, gathered at the Mayflower Hotel and put the entire Congressional delegation of the commonwealth on the spot with relation to "New Deal" legislation.

Whether every step in the proceedings was wisely taken or not may be a matter of opinion. The halting of the state's senators and representatives before the gathering, with a demand that each put himself on record as to his attitude toward half a dozen important measures—some of which have not even been reported and the form of which, when they come to the voting stage, no man can yet know—was perhaps not the cleverest of conceptions. It will not be easy for the industrialists to disprove the inevitable charge that they were engaged in mass coercion. Also it is quite possible that the protests of the group would have been a little more effective if it had not viewed with alarm quite so many measures.

There can be little doubt that the large attendance of manufacturers was due in very large measure to the pendency of the Wagner bill and the Reciprocal Tariff bill. It is very much to be doubted that any such representation could have been obtained to go to Washington to fight the Stock Exchange bill, the Unemployment Insurance or even the Thirty-hour bill—or all three. The delegation certainly did divide its fire when it undertook such a comprehensive program as the condemnation of so less than five proposals, some of them of very minor importance to Connecticut industry.

But even though there will probably be assertions that the manufacturers were in Washington on a bulldozing expedition, the candor and honesty of such a method of bringing influence to bear on legislators deserve high commendation in contrast to the slimy system of subterranean lobbying which has so long prevailed. And the senators and representatives who were made such conspicuous targets at the Mayflower dinner may be depended on to mentally segregate the measures in defeating which Connecticut industrialists are very particularly interested from those which were merely thrown into the pot, so to speak, for good measure.

At all events the "march on Washington" of this highly representative army of Connecticut industrialists opens a new and eminently desirable era in the expression of opinion on legislation. The industries of this state, fighting in the open instead of through lobbies and secret agents, are in a position to command a degree of Congressional respect not otherwise to be gained.

A TAX EXPERIENCE

One of the subjects before Congress that have attracted unusual attention during the present session of Congress is the proposal to lay a processing excise tax of three cents a pound on coconut and sesame oils, imported from the Philippines. Originally, as the bill passed the House, the proposed tax was five cents a pound, but the Senate committee reduced the amount of the impost and extended its application to palm oil, palm kernel oil, sunflower oil, imported whale oil, imported marine animal oil, imported fish oil and combinations of these.

The proposed excise tax has raised a storm of remonstrance from all over the country, principally because it is apprehended that the tax would automatically boost the price of soaps to very much higher levels than they have ever before occupied. Few excise or tariff proposals have ever been made that struck so directly at the family budget or so severely at a number of trades and industries as this one.

Now the curious thing about this whole shindig is that it was started by a woman Congressman from Indiana who thought she was doing something for the dairy interest by trying to get an embargo placed on coconut and sesame oils, which are employed in the making of butter substitutes. But it turns out that twice and a half as much of these oils is used in soap, in automobile tires and in tanning processes as in food products of any kind.

Even the Congressman tried to get adopted an amendment to the bill making the excise tax apply only to oils used in food substitutes, but by that time every industry or interest even remotely in competition with foreign oils had rushed into the field of favor and the business had become too complicated for any straightening out.

So there appears to be only one thing to do and that is to either kill the tax on the oils or do many times more harm than good by keeping it in the bill.

WHO IS BENEFITING?

As further details of the March collections of federal income taxes are given out some interesting developments as to the operation of the New Deal will undoubtedly appear. From the Treasury's first brief statement it appears that while payments by corporations have increased by 50 per cent. and those by recipients of large incomes are larger by 25 per cent than in the previous March, small income tax payers—those who receive less than $5,000—have paid in even less to the government than they did in 1933.

This may not be conclusive proof that the New Deal is operating far more to the advantage of the corporations and the well-to-do than to that of the average individual, but in this first statement the Treasury has given out just enough information to arouse a great deal of curiosity on that point.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

WALKING NOW FASHIONABLE

Last Spring, bicycling was a popular exercise; this year, I note definite signs that walking is becoming fashionable. Walking is a splendid exercise and I consider that the man or woman who takes a brisk walk each day is the one who will travel fastest on the road to health. If you have received one of my health articles you will have noted that I strongly recommend a walk of four or five miles a day as a part of a good health building regimen for you to follow.

Therefore I therefore pleased to note that the value of vigorous walking in building vitality is now being described in many publications. Beyond any question of a doubt, walking is one of the best means of building strength and health. I have found that if only one hour a day may be spent in our outdoor exercise, there is no other form that will be as pleasing and at the same time as beneficial as walking.

Walking is of marked value in those cases where the patient desires to build strength, to raise the blood pressure, and to overcome anemia. It promotes better digestion, better sleep, and calms the nerves. Vigorous walking increases the circulation and sends the blood tingling through the body. A brisk walk helps to banish the tired, listless appearance of the skin and the old hair, and due to poor circulation. Walking also helps to secure regular elimination from the intestines and is therefore of great value to overcoming constipation.

To do the most good, you must walk vigorously and the exercise will then help to reduce the hips and legs if these parts are too heavy, while if the limbs are too thin, the muscular development brought about by walking will help to develop curves.

Walking is a cheap exercise as it calls for no equipment. You can walk at any time of day that is convenient to you. Anyone who can move at all can walk and this exercise may be easily adjusted to the strength of the patient at any age.

My article called, "Strength from Walking" will give you some good directions to follow. Send for it, enclosed in a large self-addressed stamped envelope with your letter, and then after you receive the article, start walking.

Pants Gone, Shirt Gone, So 'Chip' Nye Learns He's Mongrel

A Senate sub-committee was conferring privately on an appointment confirmation and Senator Nye, annoyed by evidence of peanut politics, said he'd like to know how to label men as Republicans or Democrats or something else.

"Roosevelt had a majority in North Dakota of 105,000, while I, running on the same ticket as Hoover, had one of 107,000," he said. "What does that make me?"

"That makes you a mongrel," growled partisan Senator Stephens of Mississippi.

Just Booming Around

Noticed here and there: National Labor Board, meeting on the automobile case—Two priests on the bench. Stout, spectacled, bald Father Frederick Seidenburg of the Detroit regional board and Father Francis J. Hias, rugged, curly-haired N.L.B. member. Newton D. Baker at the hearing, but insisting he has just returned from a Mediterranean trip, merely was looking around, and wasn't representing anybody.

SENATE: Grim, white-haired Fess, demanding that McKellar yield him the floor because the latter had mentioned his name in an airmail speech. "He must yield!" insisted Fess.

McKellar, angry and with face contorted, replied, "If that's the senator's attitude, he might as well sit down, because I'm going right on."

Fess became exaggeratedly deferential. Would the senator "please" yield?

HOUSE: Edith Rogers, with a purple dress and a little red rose. Florence Kahn, white hair askew, with black dress and pink rose. Mrs. Clarke, in plain black and a white bracelet. Mrs. Greaves, in her usual flash of colors—featuring brown, red and oranges. Congressman Sirovich, with a huge red carnation.

Mrs. Rogers was attacking Roosevelt, alleging immunities to veterans resulting from the economy act. Rankin of Mississippi started yelling at her and she wouldn't yield. But Rankin kept on yelling. He insisted that she had voted for a measure cutting veterans. She denied it. But Rankin kept on insisting, disqualifying himself as a perfect gentleman.

And then there was Mrs. Kahn's off-the-floor remark as to her bonus vote: "I'd rather be a live cat than a dead lion."

GENEVA BUREAU SEES U. S. LABOR IN FRONT RANK

Geneva (AP)—The United States is beating the International Labor Organization to the latter's treaty-designated goal, but officials of the bureau aren't grieving.

The organization, which, like its sister, the League of Nations, was created by the treaty of Versailles, "Humane conditions for labor," its present leaders consider that the Roosevelt labor policies are giving it a new lease of life—a sort of transmutation of healthful labor blood.

They are looking forward to a June conference which will discuss the 40-hour week. The United States is expected to send an official delegation, and the Geneva leaders feel certain that delegates from the rest of the world will listen attentively to expositions of American policies.

Although the organization was formed at Washington, the United States never took out formal membership. In the earlier days American labor feared that the body might advocate measures that would be inimical to American standards.

Now the situation is reversed. European employers apprehend that "new deal" policies on child labor and collective bargaining might create delicate problems for them.

"There is real hope here that the United States soon will see its way clear to join the organization. It is felt that its deals ought to appeal to the Washington government."

ANALYZING A GIRL'S MENTAL BREAKDOWN

This Novel is a Study of a Mind's Collapse

"Covering Two Years," by I. V. Morris, is a study of mental breakdown; a novel showing how an active and gifted mind can give stress too great to be endured.

It tells about a girl who lives in a gloomy house in Boston—an orphan who subsists on the charity of her aunt and her uncle, both of whom are half-mad, and who creates for her a stagnant backward life in which her life is utterly eventless and purposeless.

She sees no people, goes nowhere, does nothing, she simply exists.

She is glad to have it that way. She had a love affair that ended tragically, a few years before; then, quite unintentionally she caused a disaster in the life of a girl friend, and she has brooded over it and become convinced that she only can cause trouble for others if she goes out in the world. So she is content to stagnate in the gloomy Boston house.

Then comes change. She meets a man from New York and gets stirred out of her torpor. She finally breaks away from her environment, marries the man, and tries to fight her way back to a normal life.

But it is of no use. She can make no decisions for herself, nor can she make the effort necessary to free herself from her world

IN NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON

New York, April 5.—To most New Yorkers Harlem is less a locality than a state of mind—a kaleidoscope of snazzy glamor and primitive rhythms, of de-be and cafe-au-lait chorus girls, of good fried chicken and bad corn whiskey. And something to be avoided after 2 o'clock in the morning.

Visitors expect to find a vast cauldron of Nubian hilarity, with the entire populace tap-dancing on the street corners and adding a few chorals to the song "called 'That's Why Darkies Were Born.'"

But Harlem isn't much like that. Outwardly its existence is "dry long so"—a peculiar expression which means ordinary or uneventful. A fellow might say, for example, "We was 'est settin' there, dry long so when in come all them po-leece-men . . ."

Anyway, that's how it is in Harlem—placid on the surface. The cuttings and shootings, the gambling and dope dipping, the voo-doo and vice, are secrets of the bleak tenements and seldom amount to more than a brisk notation on the books of the district station or charity hospital. New York newspapers don't even attempt to carry a list of the previous evening's events.

The color that is Harlem's few Harlemites could tell you exactly where Harlem lies. Old records show its lower boundary to be from Seventy-fourth street and the East River diagonally across Manhattan to the Hudson River at One Hundred and Twenty-ninth street. Occasionally this fact can be politely embarrassed to wealthy folks who unsuspectingly have moved above the line.

To all intents and purposes, though, Harlem begins at One Hundred and Tenth street, but it isn't all black, even there. Little Italy, on the far western edge, has an Italian Naples or Manhattan. Then there's Little Russia, and a teeming Spanish quarter. On the edge of the latter live the foreign-born Negroes, mostly West Indians. And all the remainder of the district, north and west, is the world metropolis of the black race.

By day Harlem sprawls in a vast maze of big tenements and tawdry little shops. Over the sidewalks beflow the scores of night clubs bright canvas canopies look weirdly incongruous in the drab scene. Pushcarts filled with everything from yams to second-hand shoes ply through the side streets. Coal oil and charcoal, for light and heat, are sold by cellar merchants. Now and then you see a woman walking with a bundle of boxwood or washing balanced on her head. Baby carriages, some rattled on castor wagons, impede sidewalk traffic. Older children, everywhere, many of them "josh-string" or "josh-string" in the streets every day when their mothers go to work. They've learned not to cry. Pawshops, second-hand stores, fish markets, pharmacies, "Sole of Reconditioned Coats." "Hog Maw, 10 cents." "Madame Guinole's Beauty Parlor. Skin Lightening. Hair Straightening. Guaranteed." "Herbs Compounded for All Troubles." "Temple of Truth. Come in & See the Helpful Prophet." "Hog Snouts and Pig Tails." "Dector Mortuus Moritur M. D.—All 'All-mended Cured on Credit."

Where the "Blues" Begin

Evening softens the dreary scene. Lights cheer the tenements and theater marquees are bright. Lounge suits take up their stations before the restaurants and pool halls. They once a gathering in the all-night, unhealthiest and most depressed ridden section of the city. It keeps its face washed and its stomach empty.

Hasn't forgotten how to laugh, though. No, sub! Laugh and dance and buy a shorty (half pint) of corn whiskey and turn over its contents pennies to the racketeers of the "numbers" lottery. Go "gray" and stay up all night; ain't much work to do tomorrow anyhow. For of the quarter-million Harlemites only about 12,500 are employed.

Few visitors see the district at dawn. The weary entertainers, shorn of finery and spangles, walking to their chummy little flats. The gamblers and racketeers and flashy-dressed men of no known occupation, gathering in the dingiest restaurants for traces of post-chop. The streams of workers, men and women—elevator operators, maids, day laborers, dish-washers—scurrying into the subway kiosks on the way to their jobs downtown. Pushcart men plodding to the markets. Theaters yawning, drunkards reeling, musicians straggling from the "hot-spots."

There's no song, no laughter, now.

Proposed U. S. Ship Subsidy Resembles Italian 'Bounties'

Washington (AP)—The direct subsidy system recommended to congress by the department of commerce for the American merchant marine, if enacted, would most nearly conform to the Italian plan of government aid to shipping and ship building.

Italy has a plan, formulated in 1924, which includes "contract service" subsidies similar to most nearly those of the United States. These ocean mail contracts, construction bounties to encourage the building of new ships, and tariff bounties.

Lately she has added a small bounty for "stramp" or cargo steamers paid on a voyage basis.

Two Italian Categories

A feature of the Italian system is the division of her subsidized lines into "indispensable" and "useful" categories.

The former are almost entirely confined to the Mediterranean and in effect constitute a local system of communication and transportation between Italian islands, colonies and southern European ports. These lines receive the bulk of Italian subsidy.

"The useful" lines run to foreign ports and engage in foreign trade. Construction bounties are so arranged as to encourage building of larger and more efficient ships.

Proposed U. S. Subsidies

The recommended American system would provide three kinds of subsidies—operating, trade, penetration and construction.

The first would recognize the difference in the cost of operations of obsession. Slowly, but by bit, she loses her new freedom.

Unfit to mingle in the world, she at last gives up, leaves her husband, and goes back to her uncle's house in Boston to be a recluse once more, the victim of inescapable mental collapse.

All this, naturally, doesn't make a cheerful story. It is convincingly written, however—an intelligent study of an unpleasant subject.

Published by Reynal and Hitchcock, it is priced at $2.

Extradition of Insull Is Opposed By W. B. Rogers

Rockville, April 5.—"You have got to run like hell today to get from Standing Still," said Willard B. Rogers, of Manchester, president of the Manchester Rockville Lions club at the Rockville House Wednesday evening.

Notwithstanding the odd topic, not a moment of interest was lost in the hour's talk delivered by Mr. Rogers, whom the Lions club felt honored to have as their guest speaker. Unrelenting praise was given County Commissioner Harry Conklin Smith, chairman of the speakers' committee, for inducing Mr. Rogers to speak.

Following the turkey dinner, prepared by the Rockville Lions club and served under the personal direction of Mrs. Ellen Chappell, mistress of the Rockville House, Dr. Clarence E. Peterson, president of the Lions club, took charge of the post-prandial program.

Failure to Justice
The introduction brought forth many of Mr. Rogers' points of ability but failed to do justice to the speaker.

Presented as a man of "thought, word and deed" with an individuality, initiative and ideas which are unique in themselves, Mr. Rogers filled the bill as being the best speaker to be heard by the Rockville Lions club.

Mr. Rogers told of some of his work as state chairman of the New England Finance Council and president of the Connecticut Hotel Association, chairman of the Hotel Code Authority Committee, as advertising director of the Bond hotels, as a member of President Roosevelt's National NRA Committee and other duties altogether too numerous to mention.

Speaker Lauded
After complimenting the spokesman for the introduction, Mr. Rogers referred to the laudatory newspaper articles about his coming to Rockville as a "wonderful obituary."

He then wove his observations about "present day progress" from the articles on the front page of the Easter Sunday edition of the "Hartford Courant." The headlines about "Insull," "Dillman" and "five murders" were held up as happenings indicating the tempo of American life today.

Fodder for Cannon
"What did the World War accomplish?" asked Rogers. "Nothing, I declare, for human beings were used as fodder for cannon."

"The democracy we fought so hard to save precipitated the world into bankruptcy," he added.

"Cancer is now curable and this is the only element of progress we have made in this world of ours in the last fifty years."

He's a Republican!
"I am a Republican and want to say this developed under a Republican President—and what have they done to remember by?"

"I don't know why Coolidge, Harding or Hoover should be memorialized—what have they accomplished? I cannot name their achievements. They governed while depression came on and when the market crashed."

"I am not here as one who played the stock market, but I lost like everyone else. I objected to the gambling as it went on in this country where men, women and children wantonly gambled."

Knew Insull Personally
In illustrating the gambling that went on, Mr. Rogers referred particularly to Insull. "I knew Insull personally, and I don't know why he should be the goat."

Showing his interest in the extradition of Insull, Mr. Rogers produced a letter he forwarded a few days ago to Attorney General Homer S. Cummings at Washington, D. C.

Good Morning Mr. Attorney General:
As one interested in effecting every governmental economy possible, it is rather difficult for me to believe that there is any justification for continuing to spend large sums of money to bring about the extradition of Insull. Of course, I understand that when one reads that millions of dollars worth of inflated stock was sold to the American public, it is relatively easy to understand that the United States Government, or the City of Chicago, should want to return the alleged promoter of such a stock issue to the jurisdiction of the courts of this country.

"On the other hand, this is palpably a case of locking the door after the horse is stolen. I think you will agree, Mr. Attorney General, that if Mr. Insull is eventually returned, the legal battle involved in attempting to convict him will cost a stupendous sum and it is my honest opinion that if the gentleman is convicted he will be paroled because of ill health. We have long felt that the greatest penalty we could inflict upon an alien who violates our laws is deportation.

"There are too many really important problems confronting this government of the city of Chicago today, to devote a large sum of time and money upon Mr. Insull under the admitted conditions. Why not let the gentleman bask in the sunshine of some other part of the world and save for the government, for other purposes, the vast amount of money which will inevitably be involved?"

Most cordially,
WILLARD B. ROGERS.
One of the officers of the Bond Hotels.

Why Waste Money?
"This is a case," Mr. Rogers said, "of locking the door after the horse is stolen, and I will venture to say that I have never convicted any of these men. We would spend a quarter of a million dollars to bring back Insull for what? Let's stop wasting money."

Still referring to Insull, Mr. Rogers said, "If we bring him back he may commit suicide."

"Having forty billion dollars to be spent on the codes, what is a quarter of a million dollars needed to bring back Insull?" he asked.

A Little Error in Judgment
"As one who stumped for the Republicans, it was a great indictment of my judgment that I did not vote for Roosevelt," said Mr. Rogers, referring to the achievements of President Roosevelt.

"We had better be broke trying to conform to our government regulations than in trying to buck our government. The sweat shops of this state of Connecticut would not support our families if the NRA, I think, were to succeed. The NRA is doing much good."

"The one big mistake of the NRA was that it might labor to organize. I believe that with all the head-aches the NRA has been the starting of business in the country."

Roosevelt Complimented
President Roosevelt was highly complimented by Mr. Rogers. "No President in the history of the world, including both Washington and Lincoln, had the same difficulties that Roosevelt has had to solve. I think Roosevelt is having the best advice available and today he is doing everything humanly possible," he said.

Referring to the Wagner bill as "a terrible thing," Mr. Rogers said, "I don't believe that the industry in New England can function under it. I believe that the Wagner bill can't function."

"If they let us alone in New England," he went on, "we will be all right."

A Blackstonian Gem
Regarding members of the bar, Mr. Rogers made the startling statement, "you can always get a lawyer to do anything today and for a little more you can get them to do something else."

The speaker then went on to discuss the industry and again made an astounding statement when he said, "in the big cities they don't try to cope with crime, and there is considerable crime in all big cities."

"Hartford never had gangster execution in its history or no big crime and it is all due to such men as Alcorn," said Mr. Rogers, in complimenting the state's attorney of Hartford county.

Bankers Not Crooks
"It would be a terrible thing for me to indict the bankers for they are the crooks, but we did have faulty banking," said the speaker in discussing the banking trouble.

"If these banks and stock brokers had endorsed a reasonable regulation before I would never have advocated such drastic regulations," he continued.

"America is now awake and within two or three years we will be wide awake for we are lifting ourselves by our boot-straps out of depression."

The droll statement, "I predict that when we do come out of the slough of depression, it won't be long before we go back again, for America never learned a lesson," caused much amusement.

Speaking of the automobile industry, Mr. Rogers said, "I took exception to Henry Ford's statement that we should have an automobile for every family. This would have been all right if it was with ready cash in place of the time payment plan. I would like to see every man, woman and child in the United States have an automobile but it never will happen."

Ending his talk by stating that the average person don't know what has been accomplished by the Lions clubs, the Kiwanis clubs and others, Mr. Rogers said:

"We will have to accomplish something when depression is over if we can all be a little better citizens." Hearty applause was tendered the speaker as he finished.

ROCKVILLE

FORECLOSURE ACTION COMES BEFORE COURT

Trustee, Seeks $8,781 from Broad Brook Resident.

One of the shortest actions before Judge Ernest C. Simpson, of New Haven, presiding at the spring term of the Tolland County Superior Court now in session at Rockville, was the foreclosure action heard Wednesday morning.

The case was that of the Rockville National Bank, trustee, against Ernest W. Pigeon of Broad Brook, seeking recovery on a mortgage of $8,000 with interest of $781.31. Decision has been reserved by Judge Simpson, but indications are that a conference will be held pending judgment and a settlement reached.

This action was the only one completed in the Simpson yesterday and at the opening of the court session, the court permitted a motion to be filed by the plaintiff substituting the name of the Hartford Connecticut Trust company, Rockville branch, for that of the Rockville National bank, trustee.

The action was brought on a note dated December 9, 1918, secured by a mortgage on property located in Broad Brook. The court action was completed in the foreclosure dated November 15, 1933.

A foreclosure was started in Hartford County several months ago on this same case. The defending attorney, Day, Berry and Howard, through Attorney Smith, moved that the deficiency judgment action sought in the Tolland County Superior Court yesterday, be postponed until the foreclosures action was completed in the Hartford County Superior Court. Judge Simpson denied this motion and ordered the trial to proceed.

William F. Partridge, assistant trust officer and assistant treasurer of the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, Rockville branch, formerly of the Rockville National bank, testified as to handling of the trust estate of one Paul Brache.

Probate certificates were presented in court showing that the Rockville National bank was appointed trustee of the Paul Brache estate December 18, 1928 following his death February 16, 1929.

The estate of Ernest W. Pigeon included a note of Ernest W. Pigeon of Broad Brook, for $8,000, with interest in arrears of $781.31 from June 9, 1932. This completed the testimony for the plaintiff and no cross examination was made by the defense.

Ernest W. Pigeon of Broad Brook, a general merchant, was the only witness for the defense. He admitted being the maker of the note of $8,000, secured by a mortgage on a farm in Windsorville. The question was sold as of April 1, 1918 for $20,000 with two mortgages. Mr. Pigeon admitted paying the interest on the note until the sale of the farm April 1, 1918.

Mr. Pigeon also admitted being the defendant in an action in the Hartford County Superior Court of a foreclosure of the mortgage securing this note.

Mr. Pigeon testified that Brache made an agreement to return the note to him two days following the signing but failed to do so. He testified that his property, his home and store, is now attached for $10,000 in Broad Brook, to secure this action to collect a deficiency judgment.

The property in this action was transferred April 1, 1918 to Simeon Miskell, according to the testimony of Mr. Pigeon. Arguments were heard by the court and Mr. Pigeon agreed to submit briefs in one week.

Attorney Smith for the defense argued that the plaintiff, the Hartford-Connecticut Trust company, Rockville branch, should be satisfied with the security of the mortgage security and should not endeavor to obtain a deficiency judgment. Mr. Smith argued that it was not the intent of the law to take away the home, store and livelihood from Mr. Pigeon, as they were endeavoring to do in this case. He agreed to file briefs after receiving a copy of the plaintiff's briefs.

Court took an adjournment until April 24, at this time and at a half-way conference an effort was made by the attorneys to arrange a conference and settle the case prior to the judgment of Judge Simpson.

Two other court actions were listed for trial yesterday but both went over until April 24 to which date the adjournment was taken.

The action of William E. Orcutt vs. Charles E. Cole and others was put over because of illness of the plaintiff. The action of Charles A. Ives vs. Otis S. Fairbanks, scheduled to follow the above action, was also listed to follow April 24.

Meeting of Pythians
The meeting of the second district of the Knights of Pythias, comprising Amantuck Lodge of Thompsonville; Elm Lodge of East Hartford; Linne and Memorial Lodges of Manchester and Damon Lodge of Rockville, will be held in Rockville Friday evening at which time about 500 lodge members are expected to gather in Foresters hall, National Bank building. Guests are also expected to attend from the Pythian temples in the same territory.

The group will be the guests of Damon Lodge, No. 17, K. of P. of Rockville, which is making elaborate plans for its entertainment.

Invitations have been extended to prominent officials to be guests of honor at this time including Grand Chancellor John F. Hunderlach of Middletown and the Grand Lodge officers of Connecticut as well as the D. O. K. K. and the temples from the same territory.

Among the guests will be Grand Chief Mrs. Elizabeth Morganson of Meriden and her staff, of which Mrs. Harriet Nutland of Rockville is grand inpar guard.

District Deputy Walter Kemble, a member of Damon Lodge, will also occupy a seat of high honor on this occasion. Another guest of honor will be Dr. George S. Brooks, pastor of the Union Congregational church of Rockville, who is grand prelate of the Knights of Pythias. The evening's program will open promptly at 8 o'clock with Herbert O. Clough, chanoeller commander, as master of ceremonies. A fine entertainment program will be presented, followed by dancing and refreshments.

Installation of Emblem Club
Mrs. Robert Brown of Rockville was installed as president of the Rockville Emblem club at the annual installation exercises held at the home of Rockville Lodge, No. 1359, B. P. O. Elks, corner of Ellington avenue and Prospect street Wednesday afternoon at 8 o'clock.

The installation was in charge of the supreme officers of the Emblem club and the event proved one of the most interesting events in the history of the Rockville Emblem club. The retiring president was Mrs. George Grazziadio of Manchester.

The new staff of officers was installed following dinner at the Elks Home at one o'clock. The exercises continued throughout the afternoon and a short entertainment program was presented at 7:30 o'clock in the evening followed by a bridge party at 8:15 o'clock.

The new staff of officers were installed as follows: President, Mrs. Robert Brown of Rockville; past president, Mrs. George Grazziadio of Manchester; vice president, Mrs. N. Keeney of Rockville; financial secretary, Mrs. Edward Burns of Rockville; recording secretary, Mrs. Herbert Scheiner of Rockville; treasurer, Mrs. James Foley of Rockville; chaplain, Mrs. Mary Chester of Stafford Springs; chaplain, Mrs. Charles N. Keeney of Rockville; pianist, Mrs. Irene Morin of Rockville; trustee for three years, Mrs. John Coleman of Rockville; member guard, Mrs. Fred Lippman of Rockville; outer guard, Mrs. Ella Mahoney of South Manchester; press correspondent, Mrs. Patrick J. Johnston of Rockville.

Among the guests present at the installation were the following: Supreme President, Mrs. Seale J. McHugh of Lynn, Mass.; Supreme Past President, Mrs. Miles Sweeney of Elmwood, R. I.; Mrs. Bernard Hugh of Watertown, Mass.; Mrs. Joseph Farrell and Mrs. Dufty of Providence, R. I.; Supreme Vice-President, Mrs. John Archibald of Jamaica Plains; Supreme Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Charles O'Connell of Lynn, Mass.; Other guests were present from Hartford, Springfield, Danbury and Providence.

Mrs. Mary L. Grazziadio, the retiring president, received an overnight bag as a gift from the club, and from Deputy Supreme President, H. Williams a beautiful bouquet of carnations. Mrs. Robert Brown, the new president received a bouquet of mixed spring flowers. Mrs. Thomas Dannaher, chairman of the day, was complimentary on the success of all the various features of the installation program.

Dress Rehearsal Held
A dress rehearsal of the comedy drama "Robin Hood" by Owen Davis, which is to be presented Friday evening in the auditorium of the George Sykes Memorial school as the Senior Dramatics of the Rockville High school, was held last evening.

Professor Philip M. Howe, principal of the school and the members of the faculty, were well pleased with the rehearsal. The auditorium is to be crowded to its capacity as the advance sale of the reserved seats indicates.

The proceeds from the Senior Dramatics will be used to help defray the expenses of the annual trip of the senior class to Washington which is to start Saturday morning, April 21.

"Listen to Me"
A goodly number attended last evening the first presentation of the musical comedy, "Listen to Me" in the Tolland Town Hall under the sponsorship of the Tolland fire department. The production was directed by Edith Ankers and will be presented again this evening because of the public demand.

A very interesting stage setting was presented and much credit is due the cast which included the following: Mildred Clough, Minnie Tobiasen, Esther Pivarzuk, Mary Ann Ursin, Anna Kresko, Fanny Welch and Margaret DuFour.

A social and dance followed the entertainment and there will also be dancing this evening following the entertainment.

William J. Scanlon
William J. Scanlon, 82, died suddenly at his home at 108 Prospect street about 10:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Death was caused by complications following a short illness. Mr. Scanlon had lived in Rockville practically all his life and took an active part in all local affairs.

He is survived by two sons, George and Sidney Scanlon of Rockville and two daughters, Gertrude and Beulah Scanlon. The funeral will be held from his late home Friday morning at 8:30 o'clock and from St. Bernard's Catholic church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Francis C. Hinchey, assistant pastor, will officiate at the solemn high mass. Burial will be in the family plot in St. Bernard's cemetery.

Seattle, April 5.—(AP)—A mysterious missile which crashed through a window and dented a wall in his home was believed today by E. N. Tennant to have been a part of a meteorite.

Tennant said the rock, weighing about 8 pounds, was bluish in color, streaked with red, and was warm when he picked it up.

THIRD FARM FORUM

NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Meeting to Be Held in County Building—To Hear Talk on "Farm Credit."

The third in the series of Farm Forums will be held at the County Building next Tuesday evening, April 10 at 7:30 p. m. The subject under discussion at this forum is "Farm Credit" and E. H. Thomson, president of the Farm Credit Administration in Springfield is scheduled to lead the discussion.

Mr. Thomson's paper will be discussed by Ralph G. Tryon, Glastonbury, E. B. Burnham, South Windsor, L. H. Grant, Melrose and Thomas M. Burke, Suffield. The fourth and last of the series will be held April 24 at 7:30 and Commissioner of Agriculture Olcott F. King will lead a discussion on "Government Control."

This Forum according to President Truman has been arranged primarily for our directors, Farm Bureau committeemen and local leaders and it is hoped through the Forum to get our agricultural leaders in Hartford County better acquainted and better informed on the facts surrounding the important issues of the present year.

Directors, committeemen and leaders may invite guests to these meetings. Free coffee and doughnuts will be served after the meeting.

HEBRON

About 75 Democrats from the various towns of Tolland County were present at the meeting of the Tolland County Democratic Association, Monday evening last, at the Hebron town hall. The meeting was in charge of John N. Keeney of Rockville, president of the association. There were no formal speakers, but after a short business meeting and several spoke, suggesting plans for the organization or giving their ideas on the problems of the day in politics. Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch gave a very interesting talk on the work being done by Connecticut Federation of Democratic Women. She told of the many letters being received every day by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the President's wife, telling of critical family problems and asking for help. Those letters coming from this state are read every evening in the auditorium of the Hebron town hall. Welch and through the women's federation investigations are made and worthy cases assisted. In this way a great deal of help has been given in providing children with necessary clothing, taking care of their dental needs, rescuing them from drunken parents, seeing that proper food is supplied, etc. Mrs. Welch has 10,000 women already enrolled in this federation and says she will not be satisfied until every Democratic woman has become a member. G. H. Robertson of Coventry then spoke on the questions now confronting the people, with special reference to the dairy situation. Twenty-two new names were handed in as members of the organization, of which five were local names. Mrs. Kneeland Jones invited the association to meet at the Bolton Community House for the next meeting. Monday evening, May 7. She asked for speakers, and Mrs. Welch promised to arrange for two speakers. Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by several of the local women, and a social hour enjoyed. One or two Republicans joined the party at this stage, and were heartily welcomed. A bronze tablet has been placed in Christ Church, Unitarian, Dorchester, Mass., in memory of the late Mrs. Charles J. Douglas, for many years an active member of that church. Mrs. Douglas was the wife of Dr. C. J. Douglas of Dorchester and Hebron. She was the former Miss Ida Porter, a teacher in the Hebron schools in her young days, and a summer resident here for many years. While here she was very active in church and social circles, and leaves a large circle of friends here.

Miss C. E. Kellogg received word Tuesday morning of the death of her brother, Dr. Arnold Kellogg, at his home in Saybrook, aged 86. Mr. Kellogg died on his 88th birthday. He had been in failing health for several years, due to heart trouble and other complications. Besides his wife and sister he leaves no near relatives. Miss Kellogg went to Saybrook to see her brother the day before his death, and at that time his death was not looked for so soon.

Grinton I. Will of the Yonkers, N. Y., Public Library, has been off duty for a few days this week on account of illness. Mrs. Will who has not yet finished her work as statistician at Connecticut State College, was also at home the first of the week on account of illness.

Mrs. Victoria Strong and her daughter Jean, also her nephew, Leslie Croil, are spending the week of their Easter vacation at the Strong place here.

Fitch N. Jones held an auction of live stock at his place Monday. A great many buyers were attracted from the surrounding towns. William A. Collins of Norwich visited several people here on Wednesday looking up historical matter to be incorporated in a tourists' guide book of the state. Birthplaces or sites of birthplaces of prominent people will be given, as well as graves of noted people. The principal streams, ponds, etc., and other natural scenic spots will be mentioned. It is understood that markers will be placed also for the convenience of travelers.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Warnock of Meriden were callers at the home of the Misses Pendleton on Tuesday.

MACDONALD ANNOUNCES
CONTRACTS FOR TIRES

With the authority of the State Board of Finance and Control, Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald today awarded three contracts for tires for highway department automobiles. The contractors, in all cases the low bidders, are as follows:

Armstrong Tire Sales Company, distributing company for the Armstrong Tire and Rubber Company, four-ply and six-ply tires and tubes for passenger cars.

Armstrong Tire Sales Company, pneumatic tires and tubes for trucks.

Lee Tire and Rubber Company, solid truck tires.

All contracts are for a period of 12 months in keeping with the department's practice with contracts for certain road materials.

SNOW LABOR ON ROADS

COST STATE $103,000

From February 19, the days of last winter's blizzard, until March 18, the state highway department spent for extra labor used in freeing the Connecticut highway system of snow $103,183.55, Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald stated today. Usually snow removal entails but little extra expense, since the work is done by the department's own maintenance forces, but the severity of the snow storms made necessary the employment of extra men to the extent of 233,231 man-hours during the one month.

MORMONS GATHER

Salt Lake City, April 5.—(AP)—A religious institution continued with few interruptions for more than a century will be renewed here tomorrow when Latter Day Saints from over the United States, Canada and Mexico gather for their 104th annual conference.

Meeting in the historic Mormon tabernacle here, some 8,000 of them will look to their leaders for admonition and instructions.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep... Vigor... Vitality
Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes of filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 4 pints of waste matter. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount, burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, swelling up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness.

If kidneys don't empty 8 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS for kidney trouble. They are the only pills that have been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes.

But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatment of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Trust in DOAN'S PILLS... the old reliable relief that contains no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Millburn Co.

CREDIT POSITION TO BE DISCUSSED

Local Merchants Will Hear George E. Flynn, State N. R. C. A. Chairman, Here

With practically every credit bureau in the State of Connecticut adopting the Retail Credit Code...

Mr. Flynn is one of the outstanding credit men in the New England states and gave a very interesting talk today to a group of local merchants...

The present credit bureau in Manchester, according to Mr. Flynn, is recognized as one of the best in any small town or city east of the Rocky Mountains...

"I was amazed," said Mr. Flynn, "when I examined the records and the setup of the Manchester Rating Bureau files..."

"It might interest the merchants of this town to know that the mill exchange of Manchester ranks second in the entire country, and that the reports from Manchester sent here by other bureaus for completion are always sent out time, an important factor in getting out of town information for subscribers..."

"All your local bureau needs, or any other bureau for that matter, is the whole-hearted co-operation of the merchants. It is the best insurance against loss through profit and loss yet discovered..."

According to Mr. Flynn, the determination of the merchants to prevent duplication of accounts, recording of all conditions of bills of sale with the bureau will prevent the unfortunate system that has prevailed everywhere...

On April 11, 1934, Mr. Flynn will be back in Manchester for the purpose of explaining the Retail Credit Code, its operations elsewhere and the success of the merchants who have already adopted it...

Lawyer makes attack on market curb bill

securities to Federal Reserve banks was characterized by Untermyer as "one of the most novel and important, and in this the most devastating requirements of the bill."

Lesser Speculation He said this would lessen speculation, but would "create a haven in the Federal Reserve system for stock exchange transactions and will exact the marketability of all listed securities."

Besides leveling criticism at the bill's provisions, Untermyer suggested a number of additions to strengthen it, including power to the trade commission to supervise membership of the exchanges and treatment of proceeds from the sale of stocks as "a trust fund for the public benefit instead of a sinecure for the members."

He also proposed power to regulate commissions to brokers, and machinery to enable holders of securities to communicate with each other.

In connection with this last recommendation, he said the firm of Lee, Higginson and Company, of Boston, and its issuing houses were "responsible for the perpetration of colossal swindles on the security-holders of Keating and Tall and International Match Company."

Untermyer explained to the committee that he considered the firm had been negligent. He offered this comment in the nature of a modification of the broader charge.

The issuing houses connected with that firm, he said, "were able to control the bulk of these bonds almost to the exclusion of the committees organized to protect the holders, because of the inability of the protective committees to ascertain the names and addresses of the security holders while the 'inner circle' had access to that information."

STATE'S DAIRYMEN GATHER IN BOSTON

Opinion Divided On Milk Problem in New England; Some of the Views.

Boston, April 5.—(AP)—Opinions ranging from ringing endorsements to flat opposition were expressed today as dairy farmers and their representatives met in Boston to discuss the proposed milk control program of the agricultural adjustment administration.

Representatives of the New England Milk Producers Association and Consolidated Dairies voiced the opinion that the National program would have to be amended to take into account New England voluntary restriction of herds and milk production before it would be accepted.

On the other hand, Connecticut speakers, including Farm Bureau representatives and Olcott F. King, state commissioner of agriculture, strongly supported the plan under which the amount of milk, as measured by butter fat content, would be reduced by ten per cent throughout the nation and farmers would be paid benefits for reductions.

A processing tax would be levied from the first processors of milk and this would largely supply the benefit paid to the farmers.

Berger Opposed Marcy I. Berger, secretary of the Milk Producer-Dealers of Connecticut, also opposed the program and declared the primary solution was "let us alone."

Washington could not exercise proper control and said the plan was contrary to the natural habit of New England Yankees. He was joined in opposition by Harold B. Hemingway of North Haven, Conn., secretary of the Connecticut Jersey Cattle Club, who argued the average Connecticut farm would lose $100 in revenue by the plan.

production and receive only $119 in benefits in return. Meanwhile the farmer would have to pay more for butter, ice-cream and other dairy products he might purchase, Hemingway said.

Beauregard Price Control E. G. Woodward of Litchfield, County Connecticut, a farm bureau representative strongly supported the program, saying that such success as Connecticut has achieved in its milk problem was through price control through its milk control board.

He said there was nothing to lose and everything to gain, that all groups in Connecticut were worried about a rising surplus production and that the plan would do to control production would help.

Woodward modified his endorsement of the plan in one respect, to suggest that insofar as New England has failed to contribute to the national milk surplus problem it should receive some special consideration. He suggested that the A. A. A. devote further study to establishing a different basis for its control plan. The plan at present is based on the 1923-24 production.

Commissioner King of Connecticut said a consensus of a group with which he had discussed the problem was that it would be to the long time best interest of the state's dairy industry as well as that of the National to support the plan.

TILT WITH HARRISON Washington, April 5.—(AP)—Antagonism between Huey Long and Administration leadership burst forth in the Senate today with Huey Long of Mississippi saying "in the opinion of the Senator from Louisiana is less respected by the membership of this body as a whole and by the country than any other Senator here."

The exchanges between the Louisiana Senator and Harrison, who heads the finance committee, pertained to conduct of a hearing.

Again a crowd was on hand, many of whom went to the Senate floor later and heard Long in speech calling for heavier taxes on the wealthy.

Then Harrison undertook a reply to a speech yesterday by Long blaming the Democratic leadership for "helping the Hoover administration to send the country to hell."

"A surplusage speech," Harrison termed Long's earlier address.

"I shall offer no defense of what this side of the aisle did during the Hoover administration. It needs no eulogy from me because what is in my mind, and my estimate of him and his labors and services here is shared by every member of the Senate on both sides of the aisle, with possibly one exception."

Here Long interrupted: "In speaking of the leadership I had more particularly in mind, as well as anybody else, the Senator from Mississippi. I was not speaking only of the Senator from Arkansas. When I speak of the leadership, I think the Senator knows I certainly had in mind for the tax policy he has pursued. He need make no defense of anyone else; let him take care of himself."

"I am glad," Harrison replied, "the Senator looks on me as included in the leadership, but if others

E. S. EVERSFIELD DEAD Bridgeport, April 5.—(AP)—Edward Stanley Eversfield, 85, a World War veteran, secretary and treasurer of the Bridgeport Printing Company, and a partner in that concern, died yesterday at the home of Mrs. Anna Peterson, 645 Newfield avenue, where he had been a resident for the past 31 years. Mr. Eversfield had been ill about six months. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 10:30 p. m. and will be conducted by the Rev. Gilbert W. Hemmley of Christ Episcopal church. Hamilton Commandery, A. F. & A. M., of which Mr. Eversfield was a member, will accompany the Masonic rites. Burial will be in Lakeview cemetery.

In Sock And Buskin Play

Miss Beatie Quinn, daughter of James Quinn, of 33 Park street, will appear as Mrs. Crombie, a mother who insists that her daughter shall marry well, in Sock and Buskin's "I'll Leave It To You."

Bessie is well remembered for her fine work in one of last year's Sock and Buskin plays, "The Torch Bearers." As Miss Nelly Fell, a very frivolous elderly lady, she made a hit with her audience.

Bessie was also in "The Monkey's Paw." She is clever with her feet and at the senior class party, did a solo tap dance. She was secretary of Sock and Buskin last year.

Bessie is capable of handling her part with such ease and finish that its only result can be a fine performance.

Miss Evelyn Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peterson, of 120 South Main street, plays the role of Evangeline, daughter of Mrs. Dermott, postally inclined and endowed with a delicate appreciation of the "finer" and higher arts.

Evelyn has previously appeared in several dramatic events. The most outstanding up to date has been her fine performance as Pamela in last year's Sock and Buskin production, "Reach For the Moon." She took the part of Miss Brown, in "The Mad Breakfast" and that of Harriet in the Christmas play, "Mimi Lights the Candle."

She is vice-president of the Sock and Buskin this year. Evelyn's own natural quiet dignity will help in the difficult portrayal of the part of a highly-educated English young lady of the upper class.

CHAPTER MASONS OFFICERS ELECTED

LATEST STOCKS

New York, April 5.—(AP)—Stocks generally displayed a fairly firm undertone today although there appeared to be a lack of stimulating news as well as market sponsorship.

Modest improvement was shown by some of the metals, oils and packing shares, but most other groups held to an extremely narrow range and the activity was somewhat under that of the previous session.

Bonds, while fairly steady, were not in such demand as yesterday. Grains, cotton and rubber were a trifle easier, but silver and copper futures improved. Foreign exchange shares were a bit reactionary.

Shares of Armour Preferred got up more than 2 and Pillsbury and J. C. Penney gained a point or more each. U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Kennecott, Anaconda and Cerro de Pasco were fractionally higher. Postal Telegraph Preferred, Montgomery Ward and International Telephone firmed.

Standard Oil of New Jersey and California and Seaboard were up a little. The rails and utilities did nothing. Such equities as American Telephone, U. S. Steel, Consolidated Gas, Montgomery Ward and Allied Chemical were virtually unchanged. The motors were somewhat lower.

Most of the recently fast-moving low-priced specialties died down to a slow crawl. It was reported that the stock exchange governors had sent a questionnaire to brokers requesting details of transactions in some of these issues.

Followers of the motor stocks were somewhat confused by the announcement that Henry Ford that he would not join the other major companies in raising the prices of cars and would fabricate his own. It was Detroit manufacturer maintains competition in brokerage houses. The combined attack on both the regulatory measure and the securities act was being given the closest attention in brokerage houses. The consensus was that liberalization of the securities law was highly probable.

Indications that business still is moving forward were seen in the report of bank clearings for the week ended April 4, which showed an aggregate of $4,528,025,000, or a gain of 13.6 over the same 1933 period. The total exceeded that of the previous week by $440,541,000.

HARTFORD SEES JITNEY PLAYERS

Mrs. Alice Keating Cheney Heads Talent at Avery Memorial Dramatics.

Manchester lovers of dramatic art have a treat in store for them this evening, tomorrow and Saturday when the versatile Jitney Players present matinee and night performances at the Avery Memorial in Hartford.

Director Boudcault's "Streets of New York" will be presented this evening at 8:30 o'clock for the Atheneum members. There will be a performance of Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer" tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and again in the evening at 8:30 o'clock. "The Street of New York" will be repeated Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock and in the evening at 8:30 o'clock. Tickets may be obtained by telephoning Hartford 7-6433 for reservations.

With a talented cast headed by Mrs. Alice Keating Cheney, widow of Bushnell Cheney, the plays are certain to meet with the unqualified approval of those who enjoy the best in drama. Mrs. Cheney studied the drama under Emmanuelle Reicher and Yvette Gilbert and was a pupil of the flaming Isadora Duncan, dancer of international fame. She entered upon her professional career under Winthrop Ames in "The Betrothal," one of the masterpieces of Maeterlinck, Belgian creator of the immortal "Bluebird."

BIG TRUCK ROBBED OF $20,000 CARGO

(Continued from Page One) robbers took their cigarettes and about $15 they had in cash, but an hour later they were repaid in part with coffee and pie, and with a dollar bill, pushed in Slater's pocket.

"In case you run out of gas," the robber told him. Once more the driver and his helper were placed in the automobile. They were taken back to their truck, placed in it still bound and gagged and left in Yalesville. After freeing themselves from their bonds, the driver and his helper proceeded to New Haven, where they notified the detective bureau. State troopers of the Westrock and Groton barracks were enlisted in the search for the robbers.

The Carroll company, which estimated the lost cargo at about $20,000 said it was bound first for Providence, there to be unloaded and taken later to the other New England points.

The ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

KATHARINE HAVILAND-TAYLOR

PABLITO, a handsome youth, becomes a fugitive when he flees from Key West to Havana with BEAU and LOTTIE, two thieves. Pablito had been accused of a murder he did not commit. He is in love with ESTELLE FIELD, daughter of rich JIM FIELD, but feels he has exiled himself from her forever.

In Havana he becomes celebrated as a boxer and he and Beau open a gymnasium. SID AUBREY, a titled Englishman and Pablito's father, is searching for his son, employing BILLINGS, New York detective. Three years pass and then Pablito and Estelle meet again. The admiring love for each other, MARCIA TREADWAY who is visiting the Fields could prove that Pablito was not the murderer but has remained silent, fearing scandal.

In Havana, suspects Pablito may be Sir Aubrey's son. He decides to pay a visit to Morro Castle.

CHAPTER XXXI

The morning that Billings decided to visit Morro Castle was the same one on which Marcia Treadway said to Estelle, "I suppose I really ought to see the place."

The sentence ended in a yawn. Estelle said eagerly, "I'll order the car for 11 if that suits you."

"Oh, I suppose it will," Marcia agreed. "Have me the newspaper, will you, child? And read my letters for me. I don't know why people want to waste so much ink and paper anyhow."

Estelle settled to open and read Marcia's letters. At the third one she paused. It was from this one friend in whom Marcia confided. This friend—knowing Marcia's quest though not the purpose behind it—had written, "Have you found your Pablito by any chance?"

Estelle looked quickly at Marcia who was studying the late-in-the-season list of arrivals in Havana and did not see the look. When Estelle went on reading her hand shook a little. What could Marcia Pablito be doing? Would he recognize him, if she were to see him? Estelle, continuing her reading only half-conscious of the words, thought she probably would. She spoke up then, "This is evidently from a close friend of yours. She signs herself Jane."

Marcia was instantly alert. "Give it here, child," she ordered sharply. "I didn't know there was a letter there from her."

"The envelope was addressed with a typewriter," Estelle explained.

"She is secretary to Mrs. I. Browning Bishop," said Estelle. Marcia's eyes narrowed, moving to the page and coming upon the mention of Pablito. Estelle's too quickly given reassurance told that she had given the words. It was unfortunate. Marcia could not, at the moment, think of an acceptable explanation so with outward calm, she finished reading the letter, resolved to request Jane hereafter never to use that name again—at least in writing.

Estelle was standing. "Then you'll be ready at 11?" she questioned.

"Yes, darling."

"It's a good time for the trip. A grim day is best."

"Poetic little lamb, aren't you?" Marcia asked, amused. Estelle turned away with more color than usual in her cheeks. She was accustomed to being laughed at for such remarks and the laughter always made her feel lonely and young and miserable. Pablito was the only one who did not laugh at her. He understood and often said the same sort of things himself.

Thinking of him for a moment, Estelle closed her eyes. They were to be married as she was 21—two long years ahead. They knew they could not hope for Jim Field's consent to the marriage and that if they married without his consent no obstacles would stop him from seeking them out and finding them. Estelle it was who had seen the wisdom of waiting upon it. There were times when she wondered at her own strength in making this decision but even then she clung to it.

At the edge of Morro Castle Billings stepped from the car he had hired for the morning. "Ouch!" he groaned loudly. Then he climbed the hill stiffly and, on the way up, acquired a guide.

A smartly attired, hard-faced woman and a slender girl passed by, walking briskly and easily.

"The young one is the daughter of Mr. James Field," said the guide, nodding toward the couple.

"Is that so?"

"Yes. She is the beloved of Juanito, the fighter. They meet in the Parque."

"You don't say so?" Suddenly Billings was interested.

"Ah, yes! But Havana smiles upon the affair. Her father, Field, is very bad. The daughter is an angel and Juanito a good, good young man."

"About how old is he anyway?" Billings asked as if to make conversation.

"Twenty-one or two, I would suppose. Ah—he is a wonder! A Spanish sparta. He shakes the head to many ladies who seek him." To illustrate the guide shook his head as does an absent-minded individual, vaguely troubled by the buzz of a fly. "Always Juanito remain not in love until she comes. Then—"

"He is captivated. He succumbs completely! It is a pretty affair and all wish him luck."

"Why doesn't he go to the old man and ask for the girl?" Billings questioned between puffs. The coquina-paved grade was steep. Twenty-one or twenty-two—that was the right age. Hang it, he was getting excited about the affair! His heart had plunged as he heard the boy's age.

"Go to him? To Field? Field would buy a nobleman for his daughter to wed! Good or bad, it would not matter."

"Hum—" said Billings. "They were in the fort then and under the shadow of a great wall. Here," the guide began oratorically, and then suddenly stopped. He said in a harsh whisper, "There is Juanito himself. He must have followed her here! They say he trails the car when she rides in it!"

The guide nodded. "Let's mozy over there. Easy and casual like."

"Mozy?" the guide echoed stupidly.

"Vamos. Move along. I want to get near him but don't want to be caught. See?"

"Ah, the intrigues!" The guide smiled, showing a flash of white teeth. He took up his lecturing, perhaps a little over-loudly. "If the Senator will step this way I will show him—"

Billings stood quite near to Pablito as he looked at a spot in the wall where, the guide said, a patriot had once divulged a stone to find a way to freedom.

Billings studied the young man casually. A damned good-looking young fellow, he was. Tall and broad of shoulder with clear, blue eyes. He seemed to be watching the gate as though looking for someone. Then Billings saw the two women who had passed him near. The one who was Field's daughter lagged so that for a moment she was behind her companion. Billings saw her shake her head violently at Juanito.

He turned the young man. "Pretty rough time they had here, wasn't it?" he asked Pablito. No one brought up near Cienfuegos, Billings knew, would speak English without an accent. He waited Juanito's reply tensely.

"Yes, sir," said Billings, and knew that the story about Tia Julia and Cienfuegos was a lie. "This is my first trip here," he confessed. "I think we kind of thought in the United States that all that happy business was just Roosevelt riding around with his boys."

"Is that so?"

"All before your time, I guess." The boy was looking after the girl. He had not heard.

"They say," Billings continued, "that a stranger ought to see Cienfuegos, too."

"Oh, yes. Quite a sight."

"I have a friend who has a sugar plantation near here. His name is Green. Josiah Green. I wonder if you can tell me which way his place lies? I want to look him up."

Juanito said absently that he was sorry but he could not. Now Billings was utterly certain that the story about Tia Julia was a lie. He had learned the day before that Josiah Green's plantation was a large and famous one. Any boy reared at Cienfuegos would know Josiah Green.

"Well, I'll ask elsewhere. Thanks just the same," Billings said, then with great interest, contrasting sharply with the indifference of his other words, he put a question to the guide about how many—exactly how many—men had been shot in Morro by the Spaniards. (To Be Continued)

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

"How shall I serve liver to my children?" one of my correspondents asks. "I know all about the evils of fried foods for small folks and yet father wants his liver fried with bacon regardless. I understand that children need liver, too. What shall I do?"

Did you ever try liver paste? The past can be made of calf, beef or chicken liver and can be used at noon in the hearty meal of the day to take the place of the grated hard-cooked egg yolk or beef juice which usually supplies iron grams. Spread on crisp, dry toast or for children two and one-half years old and older combine with grated raw carrot or grated onion and minced lettuce in sandwiches. Younger children may have it added to a vegetable soup or combined with their hot vegetable which has been mashed or put through a blender. Another way to serve it to three-year-olds is to form it in little flat cakes and broil it just as one would beef patties.

Liver should be used as soon as it comes from the market. Wipe with damp cloth and put into a sauce pan. Add boiling water to cover and simmer until tender. It will take about 20 minutes to cook calves' liver and 30 to 35 minutes for beef.

When tender let cool in water in which it was cooked. Then remove all membrane and tough parts. Put through fine knife of food chopper or mash with a fork. Season very lightly with salt and use as wanted. Tomato juice is excellent to use for seasoning.

Cheaper Varieties Healthful Calves' liver of course, is the tenderest and most delicately flavored but beef lamb or even pig liver is quite as beneficial and much lower in price. So if we are eating liver for the good it can do us and not because it particularly tickles our palate, we can choose the cheaper varieties and know we are deriving just as much good.

If the average housewife serving the average healthy family will include liver in her menu once a week she will do much toward maintaining the health of her family as well as adding variety to her meals.

The liver from the Sunday chicken takes care of the two-year-old member of the family splendidly, makes an adequate serving for him and is so tender it's easily mashed with a fork.

When a physician prescribes a liberal use of liver in treating anemia, he usually has some suggestions about special preparation. However, if he is not combining some other diet with the treatment, the patient usually can eat the liver cooked as he prefers it.

Liver and spinach loaf is an excellent recipe to use for the whole family. Beef liver can be used to advantage in this fashion.

Liver and Spinach Loaf One pound liver, 1 cup salt bread crumbs, 1-3 cup cream, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 tablespoons minced onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon pepper, 2 cups cooked spinach, 2 hard cooked eggs.

Wipe liver with damp cloth and simmer in boiling water until tender. Put through food chopper, using the knife. Soak bread in cream. Cook onion in butter until tender and slightly browned. Add to chopped liver and softened bread crumbs, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Put a layer of eggs out in slices into a well-buttered mold. Add liver mixture and cover with a layer of spinach. Press firmly and cover mold with buttered paper. Put into a large pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven for forty minutes or until firm. Turn out onto a hot platter and serve with cream sauce or mushroom sauce.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young, yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unhealthy pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy. Its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets will help you from this dark hour. For 20 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 50c and 60c. All drug-gists.

BY YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

This has been written so often that it seems scarcely necessary to go over it again.

I present no case for surgeons and have no wish to intrude on the parents' business. Such things must be decided in conference between the father, mother and the doctor.

Suppose I take the attitude of the teacher in school observing six or seven of her pupils who are carrying a load of infection that dulls their minds and keeps them behind with their lessons.

This seems to be an unemotional and purely professional viewpoint, but if other teachers feel as I did in the schoolroom, their hearts will ache for the poor little stupid who can't breathe properly, let alone think, or who miss a week every so often with sore throat or colds.

Or those who hold their books up to their noses to read. Or those who, after the teacher has put them down as inattentive for weeks, she suddenly discovers to be half deaf. As for the near-sighted, I have discovered over and over again after days of weariness that their eyes were not so bad as I had thought. They were simply wrong numbers or lenses being copied from the blackboard, that certain little boy or girl couldn't see half way across the room.

Unaware of Defects Children don't tell us they can't see or can't hear. They seldom put into this state suddenly. They think that is the way things are and that everybody is alike.

As for adolescents, any one with half an eye can recognize their existence. There is a pinched look, about the nose, a nasal "stuffing" in speaking, and when very bad, the child has a grayish look and is thin.

Tonsils are a debatable question. Throat specialists today give the matter of their removal earnest thought before taking them out at random as used to be the case. If they can be cured by treatment, it is done. The tonsils are chronically infected and are pouring pus into the bloodstream, this cannot be allowed to go on, as it saps health and strength and causes illness. In this case they are removed.

If the doctor or the specialist recommends cleaning house, it is not wise to set up guess work or prejudice against professional opinion.

One time I reversed the order. Both doctor and specialist thought the throat infection less serious than I did. In a few months, seeing my child decline, and developing severe headaches (she already had glasses) I said, "Operate." It was done and the transformation was unbelievable.

Conduct Affected Almost any chronic infection affects conduct because it benumbs thought. If there is poison seeping into the blood stream, the brain derives its nourishment from the source of supply—the blood—and will get its share of any poison contained therein.

Of course eye-strain and deafness do not usually mean infection, although they may. Ears, especially, may be "foci" as well as nose and throat. A chronic catarrh needs attention. Mouth sores need attention, and certainly bad teeth, or all teeth.

When the source of trouble is treated or removed the resulting effect on the child's behavior is often remarkable.

Too many children are ticketed as "bad" or careless or lazy, who need a doctor rather than a rod. The wise teacher knows this; the thoughtful parent knows it. Fortunately there seems to be a general awakening in this regard, but one thing that cannot be repeated often is that any poison absorbed into the body will have a very definite effect on behavior.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Tell a girl that she should allow six weeks for scalp and hair treatments before making an appointment to get a new spring permanent and the chances are that she'll protest. "Oh, I can't wait. Only the ends are curly and my hair won't hold a finger wave. I look a fright!"

She's probably justified in complaining. However, if she'll be patient and wait the few weeks, meanwhile brushing her hair every night and using the right tonic for her particular condition, her story will have a happy ending. For the new permanent will be twice as flattering if the hair that receives it is healthy.

In the meantime, though, what to do? That's fairly easy—due to a coiffure in vogue right now that lends itself beautifully to hair that is straight on top and curly at the ends.

For this arrangement, the hair is parted in the middle and brushed backward from the face. Then, just above each ear, there is a wide, soft wave. The ends are curled around the ears and across the back of the neck. Sweet! Just try it and stop worrying about your looks without the new permanent.

For evening, vary the program with a little jeweled clip behind each ear or wear a fresh flower pinned in the center of the back. And if you're one who likes a tiara, this is the perfect coiffure.

The permanent waving season, as any beauty shop will tell you, begins along about the middle of April and lasts until the latter part of June. It's the time of year to get a wave that will withstand hot, humid weather, bathing and other summer sports. And women who are coiffure-conscious begin thinking right now about the type of permanent to get.

However, everyone should allow at least a month—six weeks is better—to get the scalp and hair in proper condition to receive the new wave. If your hair is too dry, the permanent is likely to split the ends and then your curly locks will resemble a heap of straw. So avoid a dry condition before making that semi-annual appointment.

First you can give yourself hot oil shampoos at practically no expense. Dip a clean cotton pad in the center of your hair and, holding the hair into small sections, rub the oil on the scalp. When you have finished, wrap a towel around the hair and go to bed, giving the scalp a chance to absorb the oil while you sleep. Then, the next morning, wash your hair in the usual way. If the hair gets unusually dry before time for the next shampoo, dip your fingers in pomade and massage it into the scalp.

And don't forget to use the hair brush. No other treatment is more beneficial than ten minutes of brushing, upward and outward, each night before you retire.

Daily Health Service

SCIENTISTS STILL STUDY VALUE OF EXERCISE

By DR. MORRIS FISHBURN Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

The argument as to whether exercise is beneficial to your health might seem trite to you, yet it continues in most of the scientific publications principally because investigators only now are beginning to study the chemical and physiological changes which occur in the body after exercise.

There seems to be no absolute evidence that physical training produces a condition of the body which helps to protect it against disease. In general, if you have had good physical training you would have a good condition of the blood, a good condition of the lungs and of the breathing apparatus and you would be less likely to become fatigued than one who is not in training.

There is a general belief that the hardy mountaineer, who is engaged constantly in physical activity, is more healthful than the lazy inhabitant of the tropics who sleeps through large portions of the 24 hours. But we have nothing to prove that the mountaineer lives longer or in general has better health than the "lazy bones" who sleeps in the sun.

There are too many associated factors, such as exposure to climate, different conditions of diet, and similar matters which have to be taken into account.

During the last 50 years there has developed a new attitude toward physical exercise. In previous generations, exercise was associated with moral discipline.

Modern exercise is joyful, vigorous, full of spirit; it includes competition, play, and relaxation. Regardless of its effects on health, its effects on the mind are exceedingly useful.

There is, of course, a good deal to the general impression that people who exercise regularly are more healthful than those who do not, at least up to middle age. The general health of the body depends on a great many factors, besides exercise of the muscles.

Exposure to climate, the provision of essential food substances, suitable hours of rest and mental relaxation are no doubt as important as muscular exercise in human health.

Good posture is important in relationship to health, and physical exercise certainly is an aid to good posture.

If scientific study proves any one thing in relationship to exercise, it establishes the fact that a fair amount of regularity is important.

If you exercise once a week, and then delay for two or three weeks before trying again, you are not likely to get much out of your exercise. If you work all week in your office and then play 36 holes of golf on Sunday, you may do yourself more harm than good.

An eminent British authority asserts that the chief value of physical training is development of morale.

Nevertheless, because there is a general impression that physical exercise is important to human health, he recommends that there be more scientific studies of the effects of exercise on the blood, the lungs, and the general resistance of the body to various types of diseases.

RIPTIDE

WHEN A WOMAN SINGS

By LUCY HUPPAKER

CHAPTER IV

FOREWORD

After five years of a happy marriage, Mary is deeply disappointed and hurt when Lord Rexford refuses to take her with him when he goes to America on a short business trip. His Aunt Hetty, Lady Riversleigh, who despite her age is gay and unconventional, and lives on the Riviera, meets Mary for the first time as Philip is leaving, and prevails upon her to go to Cannes with her.

The trip to Cannes was a delight to Mary. Even crossing the Channel when it was choppy than usual, was a joy. Lady Hetty was a marvelous traveling companion. It was impossible for any moment to be dull when she was around.

"I don't know when I've acted like this," said Mary as their bus for Cannes pulled out of the Paris station. "Not since I left New York—in all the last five years put together have I laughed so much as I have in these two days since you came into my life."

"High time you did," answered Lady Riversleigh.

"Do you know, Aunt Hetty," said Mary giving her a swift kiss, "you're much younger than I am."

"Because I am wise. I know I was meant to be gay and so I do whatever I feel like doing. But you're coming back to the fold, dear. You'll be positively wild in a day or two and then what a time we are going to have."

But even she, whose chief joy in life was shocking conventional society, might have sent Mary back to London, then and there, if she had not known just what lay ahead of them.

Their suite was a beautiful one in the south of France before was enchanted with the view of the Mediterranean from their balcony and the colorful life on the beach.

"I could just sit here forever and look at it," said Lady Hetty. "Sit!" scoffed Lady Hetty. "You can do that in London. We didn't come here to look at scenery. We're going to be a part of it. Come on. We're off to join the gang at the merriest, noisiest bar in all the world—and take my word for it, I know them all. There's enough to look at there—and plenty of drinks thrown in."

"Am I seeing things," he cried when Mary came into the room. "I'll break my own well-known record for a pre-echo-change effect. A glorious vision will stand before you before you've even opened your eyes."

It was as good as his word and in a few minutes, they were off to join the crowd at the bar. Both of them talked all the time and their laughter rang out like that of happy children. "Erskine had been left behind. He shook him all right," said Tommy. "He's a good egg, but he doesn't belong on a grand reunion like this. Which makes me think—why do you go barging off with the gang? Let's you and me go for a wild dash alone. Still like speed?"

"In its place," said Mary. "But I promise to bring you to bring you back. She said you'd try to overcome me from the path of duty. She evidently knows you and all your tricks. But I'm an honorable woman—so on, to join the old guard. Where are you going, I will follow," agreed Tommy.

Aunt Hetty had evidently been fuming, as Mary had said, but she was as full as a party animal followed by Tommy came up to the balcony. "Score one for you," she said to Mary. "One more drink and then off to the wildest party you ever saw."

Suddenly—she did not know why—Mary felt uneasy, even a little scared. She put her arm around Aunt Hetty and whispered to her: "I don't believe I'll go, if you don't mind. I don't seem to be in the mood for it."

"A little warm milk," said Aunt Hetty in a mocking voice, "and a long warm letter to that prim nephew of mine and a nice splashing book. Did I bring you here for such as that? No backsliding now. Forward march! That means everybody," she cried in a loud tone.

Mary hesitated for a moment. Then, telling herself she was a silly little fool to be acting so, she let Aunt Hetty and Tommy link their arms through hers and went out to the dancing hall. But there was a forbidding in her heart.

Champs Gain Victory On Superior Foul Shooting In Thrill-Packed Clash

Challengers Outscore Rivals from Floor But Personal Fouls Prove Downfall; Hold 14-9 Lead at Halftime Then Bow Before Rally in Action-Crammed Tussle; Gustafson in Unique Role of Leading Scorer and Star of Battle; Small Crowd in Attendance.

In a hectic, hard fought tussle that was packed with thrills and crammed with action from start to finish, the National Guards eked out a 25 to 24 victory over the Rangers in the second game of the town title series to capture their third consecutive local basketball championship at the State Armory last night before a small crowd of less than 200 fans. The Guards won the opening contest, 32-16.

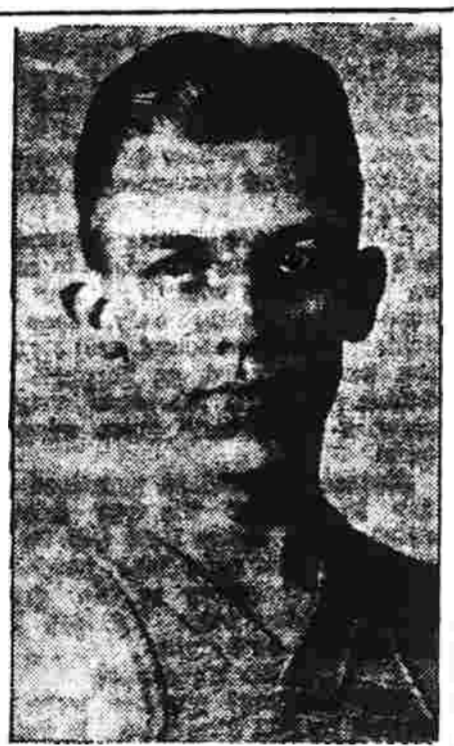

A Fitting Finale

The encounter, jammed with breath-taking excitement as it was, proved a fitting finale to the 1933-34 court season. The Guards were out to salvage glory lost through a mediocre season by sweeping the series in straight games; the Rangers were out to establish a claim to semi-pro recognition. And it was given to both quintets to fulfill their desires, for in winning the Guards proved they are not heading for oblivion, and in losing the Rangers proved a team with unlimited possibilities and prospects.

Last night's defeat was heart-breaking to the Rangers and Coach Hugh Greer. Given a thorough trouncing in the opener, the team had the fighting spirit to come back and play an inspired brand of basketball that had the small but enthusiastic crowd cheering lustily in admiration. Moral victories aren't written into the records but it was certainly that for the Rangers.

Gustafson Stars

Worthy of outstanding mention is Clarence "Gyp" Gustafson, who for probably the first time in his long cage career, stepped into the limelight as the game's leading scorer and star. Gustafson is a fine guard but his scoring activities have never been a strong point. Last night the Rangers made the fatal error of disregarding "Gyp" almost entirely, with the result that he was fed the ball continually. The number of times he missed were too numerous to mention, but even then he came issue, the Rangers were guilty of eleven personal fouls to give the Guards thirteen free tries from the foul line, seven of which the champions converted into points.

The Guards foul shooting accuracy stood them in good stead, for they were outscored from the floor, ten to nine, by the Rangers. The latter team had only eight attempts from the complimentary circle and made half that number.

Game Tied Thrice

Figured as more or less of a walkaway for the Guards, the outcome of the battle was in doubt right to the final second of play. The score was tied three times and the outcome until late in the third quarter it looked as though the gallant bid they made would bring victory.

Rangers Take Lead

The Rangers jumped into a 4-0 advantage in the early minutes of the first quarter and the period was half over before the Guards tallied and then went on to tie the score and take the lead by the end of the quarter, 7 to 6. The game started fast and the swift pace continued without letup until the final whistle shattered the hopes of the contenders.

The Rangers almost completely monopolized the play in the second quarter. They held the ball in enemy territory for the most part and broke up every Guard attack with close guarding. Gustafson scored the Guards only basket, while the Rangers availed the cords with four twin-pointers from short range to chalk up the widest margin of the game, 14 to 9, at halftime.

The 14-9 advantage dwindled rapidly in the third quarter as the Guards unleashed a spurt that would not be denied. The score was tied at 14-all and again the Rangers took the lead only to have the Guards knot the count at 17-all. The Rangers went to the front again by a single point but a long shot by Schantz and two foul shots gave the Guards a 21-18 edge at the whistle.

The Guards throw all their energies into protecting that slender margin in the final quarter and the Rangers called on every resource at their command to close up the gap. The teams charged up and down the floor in a furious scramble that held during that last two minutes, the sound giving the false impression that the drill shed was packed to the rafters. Schantz sank another foul for the Rangers and as the final minute ticked away Sheldon raced through with a two-pointer that made the count 25-24. In the seconds that remained, the Rangers sought desperately to find the basket with long range tosses, unsuccessful attempts that were halted by the whistle.

To single out individual players for special mention would be an injustice to others on the teams. Gustafson and Sheldon captured the scoring honors but every member of the Guards and the Rangers contributed to the game. "Shorty" Malin handled the officiating in a most competent manner.

RESUME ICE BATTLE

Detroit, April 5.—(AP)—The Detroit Red Wings, one down in their Stanley Cup series with the Chicago Blackhawks switched to different style of play as they prepared to resume the battle for the world hockey title tonight.

Both teams were reported at full strength after a day's rest following the Blackhawks 2-1 victory Tuesday night.

CMOLT FIVE GAINS DECISIVE VICTORY

Drubs Mitchell House Team 53-19 for Fourth Straight Court Triumph.

The well-drilled Cmolt five last night defeated the Mitchell House team of Hartford by the one-sided score of 53-19. Displaying a powerful offense and an astringent defense they trampled the highly-vaunted Mitchell House into submission. This is the same team that defeated Ansbald's Mason and lost to the Jaffe Jewels and Rangers by close scores.

The Cmolt offense was featured by Johnson and O'Leary who scored 18 and 14 points, respectively. Even started on the defense by holding Savich scoreless. Much of the boy who has been consistently scoring 15 points or better a game for the Mitchell House.

HARTFORD BOWLERS SHATTER RECORD

Jensen and Pipp Roll 789 in Baltimore Tourney—To Wind Up Saturday.

Baltimore, April 5.—(AP)—Forty-two teams, representing cities of the Atlantic seaboard and as far west as Ohio, will wind up the National Duck Pin Bowling Congress tournament here on Saturday.

G. L. Eismann of Washington, secretary of the congress, said the list was the largest for any single day in the seven years of the tournament. Entries will be principally from Massachusetts, Connecticut, Atlanta, Greensboro, N. C., Norfolk and Richmond, Va. Washington and Baltimore sent one team from Circleville, Ohio.

Three new tournament records have been hung up since its opening on March 24. Earl Campbell of Annapolis rolled a 442 to head the list in the men's singles. The Young Woman's Republican club of Baltimore moved into the leading group of the men's doubles. Ray Guyton and Paul Lohr of the Arrow Beer team struck a 758 to get third place and Ray Fuxman and Joe Remelick of the Ritouls all-stars were only three points behind in fourth place.

The leaders in the two events being rolled on outside alleys are:
Mixed Doubles
M. Jensen-W. Pipp, Hartford, 789.
F. Wilson-T. Delucco, Hartford, 693.
R. Simmons-T. Schorer, Hartford, 648.
K. of C. Sweepstakes
John Mitchell, Hartford, 558.
Thomas Pickett, Hartford, 543.
John Nero, Hartford, 540.

REDS TURN BACK CUBS TO WIN HOCKEY TITLE

Providence, April 5.—(AP)—The Providence Reds, thanks to the sharp shooting of Art Giroux, the 24 year old right winger today were celebrating their third Canadian-American Hockey league championship in five years.

Coming from behind for the third straight time last night the Rhode Islanders gained the Fontaine cup without dropping a single game to the Boston Cubs, last year's champions, in the final series.

YMCA Teams To Protest Use Of School Players; Plan To Leave Tourney

The North Ends and Oxford, Y.M.C.A. entries in the semi-finals of the junior cage tourney being conducted by the Recreation Centers, admitted today that they will refuse to play tonight unless J. Bennett Clume, promoter of the event, agrees to remove players who are considered ineligible from the lineup of the Collegians.

The Debated Ruling
Before the tourney opened Tuesday night, it was stated that players on the squads of the high school and trade school basketball teams would not be eligible to participate and this ruling was later changed to embrace only those players who had been on the scholastic squads the entire season, paying the way for argument over a technicality, as very few of the members of either school's squads performed the entire season.

The Oxford lost three players in conforming to the eligibility rules eliminating high school and trade school players and the North Ends lost two. The Collegians, however, were allowed to keep Muldoon and Carpenter, both of whom were with the high school for a major portion of the season. The north-end teams feel that it is a question of fair play and sportsmanship and at a meeting last night voted to withdraw from the tourney unless the players in question are ruled ineligible.

Junior Teams To Battle In Semi-Finals Of Town Title Struggle Tonight

The semi-final games of the Recreation Centers' town title struggle will be played on the polished court of the School Street gym tonight when the East Sides and Oxford, winners of the first bracket clash in one game, while the North Ends and Collegians winner of the second bracket met in the other game.

Four Arch Rivals
The games played on the opening night of the tournament found the favorites finishing on top in each game, but only after several hard fought games. Although three of the games were one sided, the youngsters on the losing teams put up an aggressive game, but in each case the winning teams played far superior ball. Tonight's games find four arch rivals playing and the winners will play the championship game Saturday night. The chances for a medal to each member and the Junior title is the only direct recompense for the winners.

BELIEVES GROVE'S ARM WILL BE OKAY

Red Sox Manager Refuses to Become Alarmed Over "Lefty's" Flareup.

Boston, April 5.—(AP)—Eddie Collins, Boston Red Sox general manager, today refused to become alarmed about the reported flareup of Bob "Lefty" Grove over his $100,000 southpaw pitching arm.

"When two such capable trainers as our Doc Woods and the Athletics Doc Ebling, without having talked to each other, coincide in their diagnosis of Grove's sore arm, I am confident it will right itself in time," Collins said.

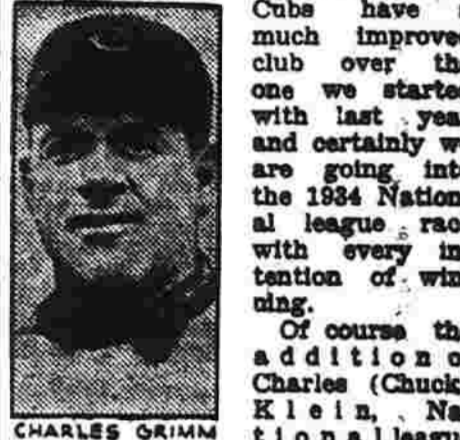

"I really am not surprised. You know this is the best sore arm Lefty has ever experienced and you may well imagine his state of mind when it refused to respond to treatment at once."

CHICAGO'S PENNANT HOPES ARE LIFTED BY ROOKIE TALENT

Manger Feels Team Has Fine Chance of Winning Flag This Year; Banks On Klein, Herman and Cuyler.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the seventh of a series of eight stories written for The Associated Press by big league managers giving their views on the coming pennant race.

By CHARLES J. GRIMM
Manager, Chicago Cubs

Availon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., April 5.—(AP)—Strength and in every department, I think the Chicago Cubs have a much improved club over the one we started with last year and certainly we are going into the 1934 National league race with every intention of winning.

Of course the addition of Charles (Chuck) Klein, a National league champion of 1933, to our outfield has helped a lot, but I also expect a great deal from the fine crop of youngsters which has come to us this spring.

I believe the public would like to see some new faces on the Chicago Cubs' team and if these young fellows come through as I expect them to we will have a peppy club that will be hard to beat.

In all my years in organized baseball I have never seen so many good-looking prospects among the rookies as we have this season. Usually a manager is lucky to find one good player in the bunch but early indications are we have three or four who are going to make the team.

Dick Ward, who led Pacific Coast league hurlers last year, certainly looks like the money. He has a fine change of pace—the best I have ever seen in a newcomer—and there apparently are no flaws in his delivery. Bill Lee, another right-hander who came to us from Columbus, also holds promise among the new pitchers.

And then there are Ernie Phelps, a catcher; Augie Gaian, infielder, and George (Tuck) Stainback, outfielder. They're all promising youngsters who seem certain to stick.

As for Klein, I don't take any stock in the talk that the short right field at Philadelphia was the answer to his remarkable hitting average of .36. Frankly, I think he is the outstanding player in the league. I've seen him hit outside his own park with great results.

My outfield is a puzzle and I have a lot of combinations worked out which are hard to explain on paper—but any one of which should be effective.

I have a great deal of faith in Floyd (Babe) Herman, and I think he will come back after his hitting slump of last year to pound the ball better than ever. If he does, one combination I have been considering strongly would put Babe at right field, Klein in center, with Riggs Stephenson and Stainback sharing left field, provided Tuck gets off on the right foot.

But you can't very well leave a great player like Hansen (Kiki) Cuyler on the bench. I may work him in right field this season. The Chicago fans want to see new faces and I think they will see a group of determined young players who, with the old heads, I'm going to send us right up to the top.

CUBS
 San Antonio, Texas.—Manager Charlie Grimm had a suspicion that his Cub pitchers were not so hot this spring. Now he's convinced of it.
 Pat Malone, Bill Lee, Dick Ward and Roy Jolner were nicked for 24 hits by the San Antonio Missions yesterday as the Cubs won the spring training trip's high scoring game 4 to 21.

RED SOX
 Orlando, Fla.—Bucky Harris isn't at all happy over his Red Sox pitching staff.
 The Sox work farther north today and meet the Baltimore Orioles at Jacksonville. George Pigeon will pitch, and Harris looks to him for a better showing than Dusty Rhodes made against the Dodgers yesterday.

YANKEES
 Atlanta—Lou Gehrig's bat has sounded a warning to Babe Ruth and Jimmie Foxx that they'd better look to their laurels this year. In two days here Lou walloped three home runs, a triple and a single and batted in ten runs.

GIANTS
 Meridian, Miss.—Despite their $10,000 guarantee from Miami Beach the New York Giants weren't especially popular in Florida this spring but they've received a full share of warm welcomes on the way home. Since leaving Florida, they have played approximately 28,000 fans in six games and even had a band and a special welcoming committee to meet them when they came to Meridian.

PHILLIES
 Winter Haven, Fla.—Bound homeward for Philadelphia the Phillies have completed one of their most successful southern baseball schedules in years. They won ten of seventeen games. Next on the schedule is the city series with the Athletics for Philadelphia's championship.

ATLETICS
 Charlotte, N. C.—Bob Kline, pitching for the first time this year as the Philadelphia Athletics slowly make their way homeward, showed that he has suffered no apparent after effects from breaking his left arm during the winter. He pitched four innings yesterday during the A's 16 to 3 rout of the Charlotte Hornets.

SIX MERMEN SEEK TO RETAIN TITLES
Spence Brothers Head Entry List for National A. A. U. Swimming Meet.

Columbus, O., April 5.—(AP)—Six defenders of eight records are on hand for the National Amateur Athletic Union swimming meet which gets under way today with qualifying trials and finals in four events.
 The three Spence brothers of the New York A. C. headline the program of defense. Walter striving to keep his 100-yard free style mark unassailed; Leonard protecting the 200-yard breast stroke, and Wallace seeking to retain his supremacy in the 300-yard individual medley relay.
 Preliminaries in the 100-yard and the 300-yard races are scheduled for this afternoon along with the 150 yard back stroke, and low board diving.
 Dick Degener, Michigan, is going again after the honors he now holds in both low and high board diving, and Dan Zehr, of Fort Wayne, will defend his 150 yard backstroke title. The other record-holder on the spot is the New York A. C. team which includes Peter Fick and Johnny Howland along with the Spence brothers. They will swim in the 400-yard relay tomorrow and the 300 yard medley Saturday night.
 The meet continues through Saturday night.

Local Sport Chatter
 The scores which gave Clara Jackmore of the Charter Oak Girls a tie for first place in the women's singles and first place in the women's all-events at the national bowling tournament at Baltimore, are expected to be eclipsed before the event comes to a close on Saturday.

Miss Jackmore, who has been topping the pins in sensational style during the latter part of this season, hit a 359 mark in the singles and 1019 in the all-events, which includes the scores for singles, doubles and team. However, such stars as Lorraine Gull, ranking No. 1 pinner of the United States, Lois Clepton, last year's individual champion; Alice P. Lugo, No. 1 honorary bowler of the U. S.; Lotta Janovitz, Billie Buttler, Rose Quinn, Ann Casazza and others seem due to establish record breaking scores when they swing into action.

However, on the basis of her brilliant bowling during recent months, Miss Jackmore seems assured of a high place when the rankings for the year are compiled.

At least a half dozen baseball teams considered of semi-pro calibre, will pasture on local diamonds this summer, it is anticipated. Manchester Green, the Bluefields, the West Sides, the Sub-Alpines and the Pirates are expected to place among teams on the field and the Catholic Men's Club will sponsor a new baseball team which it is claimed will be a dangerous contender for town title honors.

The town baseball series last summer was lively and exciting affair, including as it did a controversy between the West Sides and Bluefields over a questionable decision that gave the West Sides a 8-4 victory in the second game. So even the series at one-all. The West Sides took the third game and then defeated the Sub-Alpines, who had previously beaten the Pirates. In the final series with the Green, the West Sides took two games in a row and the town title.

BOSTON FIGHTERS PASS INITIAL TOURNEY TEST
Five Entries from East Win Opening Bout in National Amateur Event at St. Louis; Over Fifty Fights Are Slated Tonight.

St. Louis, April 5.—(AP)—Three knockouts and more than half a dozen of the technical variety opened the 45th National Amateur boxing championships last night as the little fellows completed their first and second round falling, a preliminary to the parade of leather-punchers dominated by the "heavies" in more than 50 bouts scheduled for tonight in the St. Louis arena.

Semi-Finals Tonight
 Forty-one bouts in all but the unlimited classes trimmed the field in the lower four weight divisions to eight contenders each, clearing the way for more than 50 battles in those and the welter, middleweight, lightweight and heavyweight classes tonight.

Several of the lighter contenders had to fight twice last night to catch up with others who drew byes and needed to battle only once to achieve the third round, and tonight the heavies must go through the double act while the lesser weights catch a "breather," going on once each.

Sixteen contenders remained today in each of the four heavier classes. The entire field will be reduced to the semi-final stage tonight, preparatory to the grand finale Friday when the last two rounds will be fought.

Three Knockouts
 The knockout punches were delivered by Bill Skidmore, flyweight from Newark, N. J., to William McShea of Fort Benning, Ga., in the third round, after Skidmore had outpointed Joe Smith of Indianapolis; by Bill Triest, Batavia, Ill., to William White, Detroit, in the second round of their middleweight bout; and by Tony Bent, Boston lightweight, to Lloyd Perry, Omaha, in the first round.

Restaurant Manager—Now girls, I want you all to look your very best today. Add a little extra dab of rouge to your cheeks, add a little more lipstick and take a bit more care with your hair.

Head Waitress—Why, what's the matter? Butter bad again?

Restaurant Manager—No, the beef's tough.

We need a plan for everything—even for enjoying life.

The minister advertised for a man servant, and next morning a well dressed young man rang the bell.

Minister—Can you start the fire and get breakfast by 7 o'clock?

Young Man—I guess so.

Minister—Well, can you polish the silver, wash the dishes, and keep the house neat and tidy?

Young Man—Say, parson, I came here to see about getting married, but if it's going to be as much work as that, you can count me out right now.

A woman never complains of being chained to a man as long as the chains are gold and platinum.

FIRST ESKIMO WIFE—Does your husband stay out late during the winter nights?

SECOND ESKIMO WIFE—Late! Why, last night he didn't get home until half-past January.

The boys usually can agree on who is the prettiest girl in town—the girls—NEVER.

Fred—Was your bachelor party a success?

Carl—Rather! We had to postpone the wedding three days.

Nora—No, ma'am, it's me own creation.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

Regular airmail service has been started from Edmonton, Alberta, to Coppermine, on Coronation Gulf, Arctic Ocean. Trips will be made once a month the year around.

Plans have been announced for an attempt to fight the 'roust plague' from the air. A plane flies ahead of the locust swarm, spreading a fine spray of sodium arsenite, into which the pests fly and are destroyed.

Landing fields for the trans-Canada air route are expected to be finished by the end of the summer.

Plans have been announced for an airline service covering a large part of New Zealand. The company will operate without subsidy.

Unemployment relief funds in Sweden may be used for building a large number of airports.

A plane has been developed in Germany to sell for less than $1,000. It has top speed of 75 miles an hour, ceiling of 11,480 feet and a range of 373 miles.

Standard Oil of California is sending a plane to Asia to map large areas of oil concessions.

Two planes have been assigned to transporting passengers between the ground and the dirigible.

In 1933 American airlines carried about 2 per cent of the longhaul traffic (trips of over 100 miles) of American railroads.

About 40,000 travelers left or re-entered the United States by air during 1933.

During 1933 the average distance flown for every plane owned by a transport line exceeded 100,000 miles.

STATE PRISON TERM FOR CAR THEFT HERE Edward J. DeMars to Serve Two to Four Years; Other Manchester Case.

Two to four years in the State Prison was the sentence meted out to Edward J. DeMars, of Whitingville, Mass., following his conviction in Superior Court, Hartford, yesterday on a charge of stealing an automobile in Manchester March 4.

DeMars was paroled from the State Reformatory at Cheshire on March 8 after serving a sentence for theft. He worked for one day in Wethersfield and then left. Unsuccessful in his efforts to steal a car in East Hartford, he came to Manchester and drove away a machine which he abandoned in Whitingville. He was arrested when he returned to claim it. DeMars also must complete 10 months of his reformatory sentence when he finishes his term at State's Prison.

William H. Coburn of Manchester, N. H., who was arrested by State Policeman Arthur Koss in Wapping on March 6, was sentenced to seven months in jail on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. Coburn stopped for some gasoline when Koss happened to pass in his car. His suspicions aroused, because of Coburn's actions and the early morning hour, the state policeman searched the car and found a weapon. It later was learned that the man had stolen the machine in Worcester and carried Connecticut license plates stolen in Waterbury.

Mrs. Bennett Sentenced. Mrs. Elizabeth L. Bennett, 39, former cashier of a Waldorf lunch room in Hartford, who still owes a Manchester business man $25, pleaded guilty when she lived on a farm in Glastonbury, was given one to two years for embezzling $866.85 of the restaurant funds January 2.

While living in Glastonbury, Mrs. Bennett married Emil Foust, of that place, from whom she was divorced several years later. She married Bennett in Enfield in 1923. She frequently came to Manchester on shopping tours and in one of the local stores succeeded in inducing the proprietor to "advance" her $25, explaining she had forgotten to bring along her purse and was too far away from home to obtain it that day.

Arrested in Louisville. The Bennett woman was arrested, along with her husband, in Louisville, Ky., after she had made the mistake of trying to get "easy money" from a restaurant there by threatening to bring suit against the owners unless a monetary settlement was made over her claim that glass was in some of the food she had eaten.

Following her sentence yesterday, Mrs. Bennett indicated she was about to start annulment proceedings against her husband when it became apparent her defense was antagonistic to him.

GYPSIES DEPART SOON AFTER CHILD IS BORN Nomads Spend About 15 Hours in Manchester But Soon Resume Wanderings. After remaining in Manchester about 15 hours, the four gypsies who arrived here yesterday, resumed their nomadic wanderings but not until an additional member had been received into the family.

Giving up the method of traveling in horse drawn wagons, the gypsy band consisting of the father, mother, sister and a child, reached Depot Square between 3 and 4 o'clock yesterday morning. The gaudily attired nomads stopped over here for two reasons. First and foremost, the mother was expecting a baby. Secondly, trouble with the automobile had developed, but this was quickly adjusted.

A room at Depot Square was procured, and soon after the family had become settled the father asked Patrolman Herman Muske where he could obtain the services of a physician. The policeman imparted the information, a doctor arrived at the room and shortly afterwards a dusky, sleep-eyed infant was ushered into the world.

A few minutes after the birth of the baby, the family packed up their belongings and departed, the mother carrying the infant in her arms.

TWO SALES OF ARTICLES MADE BY BLIND HERE Will Be Held at Hale's Store and at Y. M. C. A. During Tomorrow.

The State Board of Education of the Blind has arranged to have two sales of articles made in their homes by the older blind people of the state, on Friday, April 6. One sale will be held at the store of J. W. Hale Co., all day; and the other at the Manchester Y. M. C. A., Manchester, from 2 to 5 p. m. When an article is sold the full price will go to the blind person who made it. Some will buy comforts with the money they receive; some will use it for medicine or for clothing. To all it will be a blessing, for the middle-aged blind people wish above all else to work in their homes. Only as those who see buy their products can they do this.

MAY IMPOSE $1 MAXIMUM LEVY Merchants to Await Definite Facts from National Retail Code Authority.

At a meeting of the local Retail Code Authority last night, it was indicated that the maximum assessment of one dollar per employee will be levied on all business establishments conducted under the retail code of the NRA. No action was taken, the matter being tabled until more definite information is received from national headquarters at Washington.

The Local Retail Code Authority has been empowered to levy an assessment of from twenty-five cents to $1 per employee on merchants now operating under the retail code, twenty-five cents of which will be turned over to the national authority, the remainder being used to defray the expense of the local authority. As the local committee has little information on the matter at present, it was considered advisable to table the assessment question until such time as all angles are cleared up by headquarters, but the discussion which took place led to the announcement that the maximum assessment would in all probability be levied here.

Applications for official copies of the labor provisions of codes of the NRA will be sent to all under the local Retail Code Authority and these applications must be filled out and mailed immediately to the Authority. Persons subject to NRA codes of fair competition are required to post provisions of such codes "conspicuously and in sufficient number to make them freely and conveniently accessible to all employees." For violation of this rule, a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or both, are prescribed.
