SUPT. VERPLANCK PLANS TO RETIRE

Noted Educator Supervised Local Schools for 41 Years — Tells Board He Hopes to Take Long Vacation—Wife in Ill Health.

Fred A. Verplanck, for the past 41 years connected with Manchester public schools in supervisory capacity, and one of the leading educators in the State of Connecticut, will retire from active duty in June, 1935, it was learned this morning, following a meeting of the Board of Education last night. The desire upon the part of Mr. Verplanck to retire from the post that he has held for nearly a half century was made known to the Board, also the request by Mr. Verplanck that he be relieved of a portion of the exacting duties of supervision of the schools this year.

It is understood that Mrs. Verplanck's health is a factor in Mr. Verplanck's plan to retire and that he plans to take a long vacation. In order to accompany her, he has asked that he be relieved of some of the duties connected with his office this year.

Illing Assistant.
In consideration of Superintendent Verplanck's long and illustrious service, the board last night appointed Arthur L. Illing, principal of the High school, assistant to Mr. Verplanck and appointed Edson M. Bailey, teacher of bookkeeping and director of vocational guidance, assistant principal for the next year. Mr. Illing will still serve as principal of the High school but will take over some of the duties of the superintendent of schools during the coming year.

Few men in public life in Connecticut today are respected more than Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplanck. Of good old Colonial stock, he was born in Brooklyn, New York, Feb. 9, 1860, the son of Bronck and Julia S. (Ayer) Verplanck. He is the descendant in the seventh generation from Abraham Verplanck who came to New Amsterdam, now New York, in 1633 from Holland. On his mother's Fatally Wounds Wife and Then Hangs Himself; See No Motive for Crime.

Rome, N. Y., April 25.—(AP)—Authorities were at a loss today to establish a motive for the sashweight murder of a 19-year-old girl by her father, the probable fatal wounding of his wife and his suicide by hanging.

LIST TUMULTY AS HOLDER OF SILVER SHARE

Secretary to President Wilson Owns Four Future Contracts Involving 100,000 Ounces of the Metal.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—A new list of silver holders submitted to the Senate today by the Treasury included the name of Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to President Wilson, as having four future contracts involving 100,000 ounces.

Tumulty, now practicing law in Washington, was listed as having four long future contracts for delivery in May.

This list wound up except for approximately 100 names, the report prepared by the Treasury at the request of the Senate to determine whether there had been undue speculation in the metal. The first list was presented yesterday.

The Treasury said it had difficulty getting the information about the 100 persons. A Senate investigation may be instituted to get the data from the individuals.

The National City bank was reported to have 7,594,166.48 ounces and 50 long and 329 short future contracts, each involving 25,000 ounces.

In addition National City subsidiaries in foreign countries were reported to hold 2,158,280.98 ounces and 5.5 long and 43 short future contracts.

Other Holders
A Atwater Kent, of New York, reported to hold 678,334.46 ounces and Mrs. Mabel L. Kent, at the same address, 75,526 ounces.

Nederlandsche Crediet en Handelsverzekering, of Amsterdam, Holland, owned by James P. Warburg, New York financier, and his family, was listed for 56 long and 8 short future contracts for delivery in various months.

F. P. Keelon, 44 Beaver street, New York City, was reported to hold four long future contracts for delivery in July and Francis F. Keelon, of the same address, was listed for 31 long future contracts and five short futures through Hartford.

SANDERS MAY QUIT G. O. P. LEADERSHIP

Ill Health May Force Him to Resign — Others Mentioned for the Post.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Everett Sanders was reported today as ready to relinquish his seat at the wheel of the Republican machine.

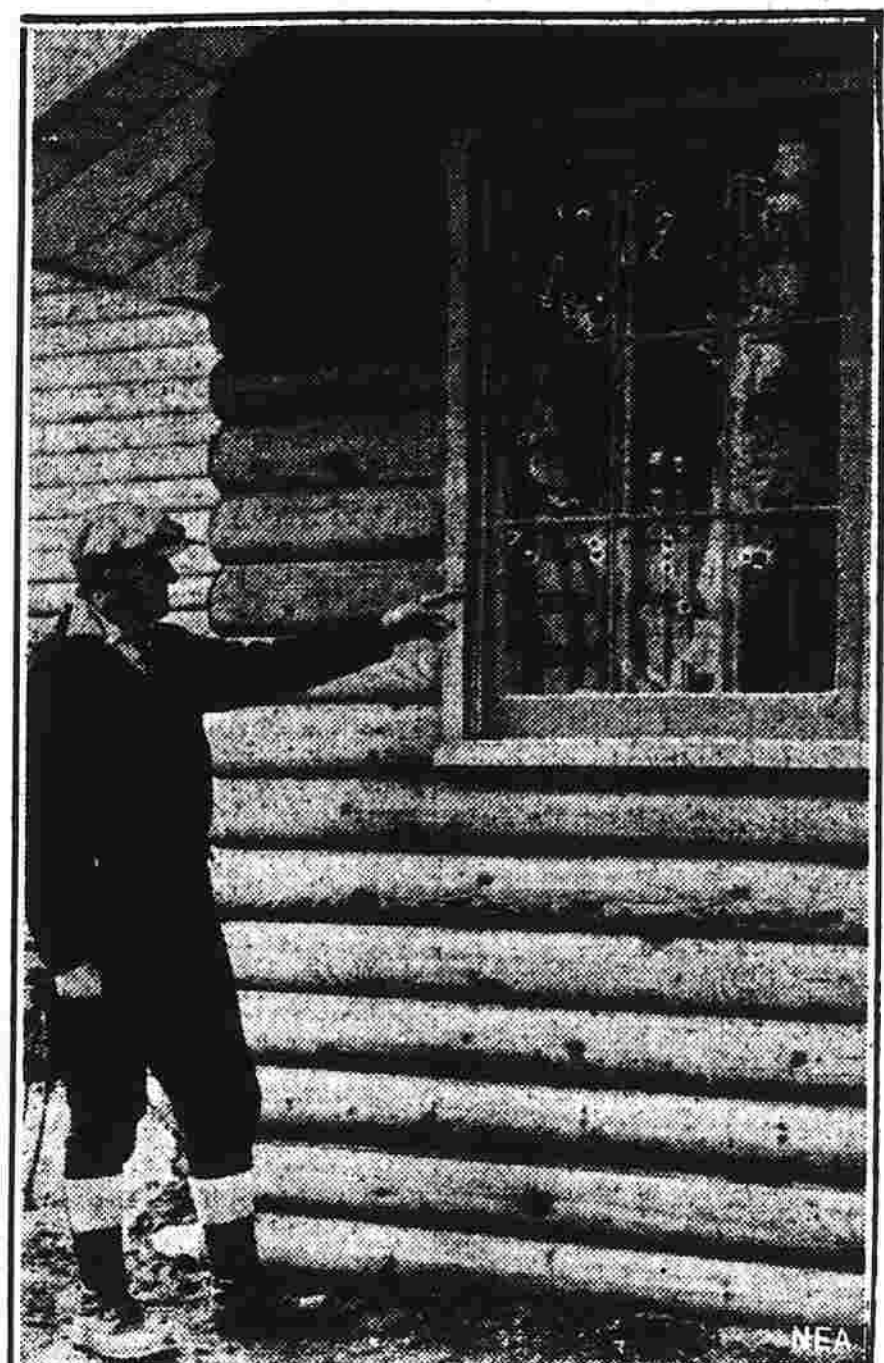

This decision by Sanders, former secretary to Calvin Coolidge and director of Herbert Hoover's unsuccessful campaign for re-election was attributed by intimate friends largely to ill-health.

The chairman of the Republican National committee was reported retiring in seclusion at his nearby Maryland farm.

Sources close to Sanders said he had sent telegrams to many Republican committeemen, calling them to an early meeting, probably in Washington.

May Start Quarrel
Acceptance of Sanders' resignation would precipitate the struggle, long brewing in Republican circles, over the choice of a new party head.

WATCH WASHINGTON FOR FAR EAST MOVE

State Department, However, U. S. FLEET PASSES THROUGH CANAL

Silent Until Detailed Study of Japanese Message Is Completed.

World capitals turned speculative eyes toward Washington today, awaiting its move in the delicate situation aroused by Japan's declaration of policy in the Far East.

The State Department was silent but is making a detailed study of the situation.

Presumably it is debating whether to join Great Britain in asking that Tokyo clarify its statement warning western powers not to disturb peace in China and that Japan considers herself responsible for conditions there.

A spokesman for the Japanese foreign office bluntly replied to requests for explanation of the declaration by saying:

"Our statement has been made. Let others read it as they will."

The British request for elucidation was conveyed to Foreign Minister Hirota by Ambassador Lindley this afternoon.

Great Britain surveyed the situation anxiously but did not comment herself. The London press generally displayed worry and hostility toward Tokyo's attitude.

In Geneva Masayuki Yokoyama, Japanese consul general, said Japan did not want to drive westerners from the Far East and intended to respect treaties.

"Japan nevertheless," he added, "cannot accept and will oppose any form of assistance to China which is contrary to peace in Eastern Asia."

JAPANESE STATEMENT
Tokyo, April 25.—(AP)—Japan in effect today told the world to draw its own conclusions regarding her restated policy toward China.

A foreign office spokesman said: "Our statement has been made."

ANOTHER GROUP OF NURSERYMEN OUT ON STRIKE

20 Employees of Vanderbrook Nursery Leave Jobs—Burr Workers Fail to Return Today to Their Tasks.

Ninety employees of the Burr Nursery, Inc., did not return to work this morning following a walk-out that started yesterday afternoon.

Before the day was finished all but eight employed as wrappers and packers in the storehouse on Oakland street had left their work. This morning only three of the eight returned.

Vanderbrook Strike
At 8:30 this morning 20 of the employees of the Vanderbrook Nursery on Lydell street left their work, which was about half of the total number employed there. The reason for the walk-out was a request for more pay.

The trouble at the Burr plant started yesterday morning when a petition asking for more pay, but not stating the amount wanted, was turned in to Charles Burr. His father, C. R. Burr, was not at the office at the time. The request was not met and the six who had signed did not return to work. Later on in the afternoon they met other employees and from talks that they had with them, there was an increase in the number who did not return to work, reaching a high point shortly after 2 o'clock.

Paid $12 Weekly
Last night the employees that left work met at the hall in the Cowles Hotel. There was a temporary organization perfected consisting of a chairman, a secretary and treasurer and a captain of the pickets. It was brought out at the meeting that the men and women who walked out have been engaged during the winter busy season. The men work nine and one-half hours a day and six days a week. For this they were paid $12 a week. The women work 8 1/2 hours a week for a smaller amount.

It is intended to request an increase to $18 a week for the men and a like proportion for the women. They also voted to ask that the day be cut to nine hours for the men.

Picketing Starts
This morning there was mass picketing in front of the Burr office on Oakland street. They remained there for an hour and then left, with a captain and a few men and women remaining around to do picket duty.

C. R. Burr was away from town yesterday. At his office this morning he said that he did not know what the employees wanted, as he had had no information from them. The nursery business, he said, has been poor for several years and

KIDNAPING VICTIM RESCUED BY WOMAN

Uses Husband's Gun to Cow Captors and Then Frees Prisoner.

Fort Worth, Texas, April 25.—(AP)—A 28 year old telephone engineer owes his freedom today to a quick thinking woman gasoline station operator.

With her husband, she rescued him from the hands of three kidnapers and aided in the capture of two of them. The third member of the kidnaping gang remained at large today.

The woman, Mrs. G. H. McKee, pulled Charles M. Kella, Jr., from the rumble seat of an automobile yesterday after the three men drove the car up to her filling station at Winfield, Texas. Kella said he had been stopped by the three men the night before in Fort Worth and had been forced to ride with them all night in his own automobile.

Had No Money
When the trio drove up to the McKee gasoline station, Kella had been jammed into the rumble seat and the top closed on him. The men ordered Kella to get out of the car with the spare to try to get money at another station, leaving the third man in the car.

Heard Tapping
The McKees then heard a tapping from the rumble-seat and when Mrs. McKee opened it she found Kella gasping for breath.

The man who had been left in the car started running down the road, but McKee, firing as he ran, quickly caught him. While his wife guarded the one prisoner, McKee found another of the men in a weeds about a mile from the station.

Dillinger Developments

By Associated Press
Developments in the Dillinger manhunt.

An army of more than 5,000 officers combed the middlewest for the outlaw.
Attorney General Cummings at Washington asked for airplanes, armored cars and additional men to wipe out the Dillinger gang.
The government put its ace sleuths into the North woods of Wisconsin country, determined to bring the outlaw back dead or alive. Thousands of tips came from private citizens as to the whereabouts of the elusive fugitive.
Fears were expressed Dillinger might try to liberate his pals now held in the Ohio state prison at Columbus, or his girl friends jailed at Madison, Wis.
United States Senator Royal S.

Dillinger and His Pals Still at Large—Estimate Over 5,000 Officers Are in Pursuit—'We'll Have Him Before Long,' Says Department of Justice Official.

Copeland of New York charged that Federal, state and local authorities had failed to cooperate in the hunt. Others denied it.
Reports at Chicago were that 100 crack agents were gathering as further reinforcements.
At St. Paul Dillinger's girl friend, Evelyn Frechette, who is part Indian, was reported to have admitted she is not a ward of the government. Consequently the government will not have to defend her on charges of harboring Dillinger in a St. Paul apartment.
From Rhinelander, Wis., it was disclosed that an unidentified friend of Emil Wanatka, owner of the Little Bohemia resort—scene of Sunday night's shootings—had tipped off Federal authorities of the presence there of the Dillinger gang.

BULLETIN!

St. Paul, April 25.—(AP)—Four men and two women raided a farm home near Elk river today, took a small amount of cash and fled, causing a general alarm to Twin City police who were told erroneously the gunmen had commandeered an automobile.
The reports led the authorities to believe that the raiders might have been members of the John Dillinger gang who have been sought in this area since they shot their way through a large force of Federal men who surrounded a Mercer, Wis., hideout Sunday night.
The police broadcast advised all squads to be on the lookout for a mud covered black sedan containing four men and two women. The broadcast stated that "the men are heavily armed—use extreme care."

5,000 ARE SEARCHING
Mercer, Wis., April 25.—(AP)—America's million dollar murderer, with a $25,000 price tag on his head—and the blood of 13 men across his bullet blazed trail—mocked today an army of more than 5,000 officers who hunted him.

"We'll have John Dillinger before long," said the Department of Justice through a division of investigation, at Chicago.

The earnestness of the government's determination was witnessed by both the great number and high calibre of agents they threw into the hunt.

But there was no word of the desperado despite the intensity of the hunt.
In a criminal career dating only from last June, this 31-year-old small town man from Indiana has cost an estimated $1,000,000 in law enforcement funds and another $500,000 in loot from banks he has robbed. Yet the only reward offered today for his capture is the nominal $25 which the state of Indiana offers automatically for the arrest of a peevish violator.

All the Dillinger furore, the Dillinger desperadoism, and the Dillinger deaths have occurred during a period in which, except for a parole, he would still have been in a prison cell. He was freed on his plea that he was not an habitual criminal and that he was needed for the support of an aged father.

Europe Interested
Even Europe displayed sharp interest in the killer's case today. The Zoroif Ur Platt, published in Berlin, hinted that Nazi Germany might give America a lesson in how to deal with American desperadoes, and pointed to sterilization.

British newspapers, their urge for details unquenched even by thousands of words of "cabled copy," telephoned to Chicago and other points for further accounts of the hunt.

From the attorney general at Washington on down, the government pointed its full strength at this one man. Re-enforcements went into the field today, among them W. A. Rorer, the officer who brought about the arrest of another public menace, George (Machine Gun) Kelly, kidnap-gang-man now serving a life sentence in Federal prison.

Rorer in Command
Rorer was in command of the small army of government officers concentrated in the wooded sections of Northern Wisconsin where Dillinger's Sunday night escape from a tavern left two dead in his wake. The Federal men, however, formed only a small part of the still larger army of approximately 5,000 state, city and county officers who were combing the underworld haunts of five middlewest states—Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Among the hundreds of reports and rumors concerning the movements of America's Number One Outlaw was one from Muncie, Indiana, that led to the belief that

This would permit the President to begin the construction program under the new treaty.

Legislation recently enacted authorized a building program up to treaty limits.

LEVITT PROPOSES NEW STATE PARTY

Announces Meeting in Hartford on May 5 to Organize—His Statement.

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Albert Levitt, foe of the Connecticut Republican state organization and now a special assistant to Attorney General Cummings, mailed letters to forty Connecticut citizens today proposing a meeting at (Hotel Heublein) Hartford, May 5, to form a new political party in the state.

The new party, Levitt said, would be separate from the Independent Republican party which organized under Levitt's leadership and placed a ticket in the field in 1932. Nathan B. Stone, of New Haven, Independent Republican state chairman, has criticized Levitt in recent statements for some of his policies.

Levitt announced on a visit to Connecticut three weeks ago he was considering forming a new party.
"I feel safe in stating it is likely that the movement will be supported in Hartford, Norwich, New London, Bridgeport, Danbury, Stamford and New Haven," he said.
"The purpose of the movement is to reduce taxes in the state, get better prices for milk to the farmers and consumers, provide employment for those who are able and willing to work, to secure a more equitable and fair liquor control bill, and to bring about a labor program which will be fair to employees without being unfair to employers. ## GRANDAME SAVES LITTLE BOY'S LIFE

But Three Taken to Hospital With Burns After Can of Naptha Explodes.

Bridgeport, April 25.—(AP)—A grandmother's heroism and quick thinking today saved the life of her three year old grandson when a sudden blast of naphtha in the kitchen of an apartment at 631-633 Central avenue, burned her, the boy, and the boy's aunt so seriously that they were taken to the Bridgeport hospital.

Flames enveloped Little Larry Vernon as the pan of naphtha which had been used for cleaning garments spilled and ignited.
Smothered Blaze
Mrs. Agnes Repka, 59, his grandmother, raced to a bed room after vainly trying to beat out the flames with her hands, snatched up a blanket and rolled the youngster, smothering the fire.

Mrs. Repka, Mrs. Anna Phillips, the boy's aunt, who lives upstairs and who also was trying to save the boy, and Vernon, were taken to the hospital. The boy has second degree burns on the face and body.

Wapping Youngsters Also Visit Historic Places in Bay State Towns.

Thirty-three of the eighth grade children in the Wapping school, with a few from the 6th and 7th grades, enjoyed a historical bus trip to Massachusetts, Monday, accompanied by three of their teachers. Yesterday more than twice as many of the 6th, 7th and 8th grade children were taken to Forest Park, Springfield, for a day's outing. A number of the children have been interested in the study of zoology and read up on the animals they were able to see in the park enclosures yesterday.

Monday's tour began at 7:45 in the morning. Sudbury was visited, the Little red school house and the home of Henry W. Longfellow. The students had memorized the Concord hymn and read the history of Concord and Lexington previous to making the trip. In Concord, among other places visited, were the homes of Hawthorne, Louis May Alcott and Margaret Sidney, who wrote "The Five Little Peppers" books which children adore as much as the Alcott books. Other historic houses visited included the Bullitt house, the Jonathan Harrington, Emerson and Thoreau homes. The trip was such a success that the boys and girls are ambitious on a future occasion to see Plymouth Rock and the numerous places and objects of historic interest in the old town, also as a part of their educational unit work.

NO WORD OF BANDITS DESPITE HUGE CHASE

Dillinger's mob might attempt to deliver his pals, Harry Pierpont, Charles Mackley and Russell Clark, sheriffs of Sheriff Jess Sarber of Lima, Ohio, from the Ohio state prison at Columbus. Four men riding in an automobile with a machine gun near Muncie, gave rise to this belief.

Guard Girl Friends Extra precautions were also taken at Madison, Wis., where three of the gang's girl friends, captured after Sunday night's gun play and held in jail. It was feared Dillinger might try to liberate them. Similar apprehension was manifested at St. Paul, where Evelyn Frechette remained in jail on a charge of harboring the fugitive in an apartment house a few weeks ago.

The consensus among the investigators was that Dillinger's gang had split into two sections, one hiding out in Minneapolis or St. Paul and the other heading south and east into Illinois, Indiana, or Ohio.

United States Senator Royal Copeland of New York, chairman of the Senate Anti-Racketeering committee charged at Washington there had been a "pathetic failure of co-operation between Federal state and local authorities," in the hunt. The charge was denigrated by Melvin G. Passot, superintendent of the Minnesota bureau of criminal apprehension, and others.

At Washington Attorney General Cummings asked for airplanes, armored cars and additional forces to wipe out Dillinger and his men. He said if the Federal men had had an armored car in their attempt to capture Dillinger near Mercer "this terrible tragedy would not have happened."

He referred to the deaths of a Federal agent and a C. C. C. worker caught between the gun fire of the Mercer battle Sunday night.

District Attorney Edmund Drager announced at Eagle River, Wis., last night that murder warrants would be issued against Dillinger and four of his pals—George (Baby Face) Nelson, John Hamilton, first lieutenant of the gang; Tom Carroll and Homer Van Meter.

Mrs. Weldon was very well liked by those who had the privilege of knowing her. She was devoted to her home and her large family, and the duties demanded by the wife of a popular physician left little time for outside interests even when in the best of health.

Prayers for the family will be at the home at 8:30 Friday morning, with a requiem mass at St. James's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. James's cemetery.

ROBERT D. PHILLIPS DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Taken Ill Sunday, Cheney Weaver Was Charter Member of Church of the Nazarene.

Robert David Phillips, one of the 15 charter members of the Church of the Nazarene and for 34 years a weaver for Cheney Brothers, died from his fifth attack of pneumonia at his home, 43 West Middle Turnpike, at 8:25 o'clock last evening.

Mr. Phillips was about as usual on Saturday and on Sunday was hopeful of attending the final session of the Nazarene New England Assembly. Sunday afternoon he complained of feeling ill and Monday morning lapsed into unconsciousness. Taken into the Church of the Nazarene on November 11, 1897 by the Rev. Howard Hoople, of Brooklyn, N. Y., who organized the church, Mr. Phillips for 37 years has been an outstanding spiritual pillar of the church. His sterling character, winning personality and deeply religious nature were attributes which gained for him the love and respect of his fellow parishioners at the Church of the Nazarene.

"The Church of the Nazarene has sustained an irretrievable loss in the passing of Mr. Phillips," Rev. Harris B. Anthony, the pastor, said today. "He has held practically every office in the church, from Sunday school superintendent to steward and a trustee. He recently was elected a trustee for another year. The death of Mr. Phillips will be a great loss to the church, for he was one of its foremost members and devoted to church activities."

Mr. Phillips leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary (Dale) Phillips; two daughters, Miss Christine Phillips and Mrs. Ruby Temple, all of Manchester; five sons, Thomas, William and Louis J. Phillips, of Manchester; Robert, of Paterson, N. J., and Albert of Hartford.

He also is survived by a sister, Mrs. Theresa Harriss, and a brother, Stephen Phillips, both of this town.

Funeral services will be held at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Thomas J. Dugan funeral home, 59 Hill street. Rev. Harris B. Anthony will officiate. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

MARRIED COUPLES CLUB ENTHUSED OVER PLAY

"Glow Lights of San Rey" Will Be Presented Here Friday Evening.

Anticipation of the play, "The Glow Lights of San Rey," which the Married Couples group is to present Friday evening at the Second Congregational church, is heightened by the enthusiasm of the players themselves for the story and its plot. Formerly a royalty play, they believe that those who fall to see it will be depriving themselves of a real treat. There are some delightfully drawn characters, and according to Rev. F. C. Allen who is coaching the cast, they all seem to improve at each rehearsal. Every one on the committee is a booster for this different and entertaining comedy.

Thomas Maxwell's Mandolin club will play before the curtain and between the acts. Herbert L. Tenney is at work on the scenery which represents the glow lights of San Rey in the background, and the wharf at Hennes Point where practically all of the action takes place. Home made candy will be sold, the profits from which and from the play will be used toward the club's donation to church expenses.

TO BURLESQUE GAY NINETIES

"Gold in Them Them Hills" by Kiwanis Club Will Be Hilarious.

"Beneath this soiled flannel shirt beats an honest heart."

These stirring words are uttered by the dashing hero as he spurns the wickedness of the sly villain in the Kiwanis club production, "Gold in Them Them Hills," to be presented at the Hollister Street school on May 8 and 9. The show will be a burlesque on the Gay Nineties, when heroes were fair and sweet, heroes strong and handsome and villains hissed to the rafters.

The show is guaranteed to be the most hilarious ever presented by the Kiwanians and a capacity audience is anticipated in this effort to raise funds for the Kiwanis Kiddies' Camp at Hebron, which is conducted each year to furnish a vacation for Manchester's underprivileged children.

The Kiwanis club will be assisted by the Community Players, an organization of local thespians that funds a long string of successes to its credit. The comedy-melodrama is replete with such thrilling dialogue as quoted above and the action is swiftly-paced from start to finish.

Tickets may be obtained from all Kiwanians, the Community Players and Girl Scouts. These must be exchanged for reserved seats at Watkins Brothers. Members of the Kiwanis club who will take part in the show will hold a rehearsal at Watkins' at noon Friday.

PINEHURST RECEIVES NATIVE ASPARAGUS

Rhubarb and Dandelions Also Arriving in Large Quantities—Red Raspberries Here.

Pinehurst Grocery received its first shipment of native asparagus Tuesday afternoon. This is about the earliest asparagus cut in this section in a wholesale way. It was grown in a garden protected from cold on one side by woods. Pinehurst reports that native rhubarb and dandelions are coming in larger quantities every day and by the end of the week prices should be pretty low on these two items. Native Boston type lettuce is also on the market.

Pinehurst calls attention to the reasonable specials offered in their ad today, and especially to the value and quality represented in the Silver Wave red raspberries from Olympia, Washington—the best berry state in the union.

HEBRON

A special service was held in St. Peter's Episcopal church Sunday afternoon for the Czech-Slovakians of the town and vicinity. About forty were in attendance. The sermon was preached by the Rev. John Bellans of Stafford Springs, who spoke to the congregation in their native tongue.

The baseball season here seems to have started early. The first game was played Sunday afternoon at the Amston field, it being a contest between two local teams, the Cardinals and the Eagles, a junior team. The game was a close one. At the sixth inning Frank Kulynoch, the pitcher for the Eagles, sprained his ankle and was carried from the field. His place was taken by Earl Porter. Frank claims that if he could only have stuck it out the Eagles would have won, but the game resulted in a victory for the Cardinals 5-4. Ed Gillen and Ed Hastings pitched for the Cardinals. Frank is temporarily laid up with his sprained ankle.

The Misses Grace and Ruth Champe are spending a week here with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Lord, while their parents the Rev. and Mrs. Howard Champe, are visiting friends in Forest Hills, N. Y. Their son John, who is having a school vacation, went with them.

The minstrel show given in Andover by local young people Saturday evening brought out a fairly good house and the sum of $11.75 was realized. The young folks turned this over to the Cardinal baseball team which will use it toward replacing equipment lost when Jones' garage burned down some months ago. The players had stored their equipment in the garage.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Crapen and daughter, Miss Ruby, also Mrs. Clarence Williams, all of South Woodstock, were Sunday callers at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Randall C. Tennant.

Miss Inez Smith of Willimantic was a visitor at the home of her classmate, Miss Ellena Mosny, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel G. Horton of New Haven are spending the week at their Hebron cottage, making preparations for the summer, planning their garden, etc.

Miss Dorothy Gray is spending the week of her school vacation at the home of her aunt, Miss Abby Miner, in Millington.

Mr. and Mrs. N. P. Clark, who have spent the past winter in East Hampton, have returned to their summer place, Eureka Lodge, located near Jones street, to spend the warm weather season. Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. White of New Haven were week-end visitors at the home of the former's aunts, Mrs. Amanda Potter and Miss Adelle White.

Mr. and Mrs. Sirreno Soranton of East Hampton spent the week-end with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones.

Sunday callers at the home of Mrs. Helen White were Mr. and Mrs. J. Kellogg White and family of Gilead, and Mrs. R. H. Hefferich of Bath, Penn.

Mrs. Rosella Waldo accompanied her daughter, Mrs. Asa W. Ellis, of Gilead to Manchester Monday evening to hear the Beethoven Glee club concert, in which Mrs. Ellis' son, Kenneth, was a singer. He has sung with the Glee club for a number of years.

Mrs. Victoria Strong of Larchmont, N. Y., is at her Hebron place for a few days this week preparing for renting the property for the summer. Early cultivated flowers, jonquils, daffodils, etc., are in bloom on the lawns here. No wild flowers have been reported as yet, though dandelions are well budded. This locality is generally about two weeks behind Hartford or New London in the coming of spring.

SUN SPOTS TO CAUSE TROUBLE WITH RADIOS

Chicago, April 25—(AP)—A sun spot since last Saturday was found to have increased in diameter from 16,000 to 35,000.

This, Professor Philip Fox, director of the Adler Planetarium, said, may—

Head radio back to the days of crashing static disturbances, such as prevailed five to seven days ago; Bring magnetic storms so intense they will disrupt transcontinental telegraph wires;

Bring a magnificent display of the northern lights;

A marked decrease in ultra-violet radiation from the sun;

A slight increase in rain and decrease in average temperatures.

For the next four years, he said, sun spots—the visible evidence of terrific cyclonic storms of flaming gas vapors in the sun—will increase in size and frequency. No basis for the direct affect of the sun spots on rainfall and temperature has been found, Dr. Fox said, because of the many other influencing factors.

side, he is descended from John Ayer, the first settler in the town of Franklin, Conn.

Windham High Graduate. Mr. Verplanck graduated from Windham High school, Willimantic, in 1880 and then taught school winters in Franklin, Lebanon and Sprague, this state. He next took one year preparatory work at Norwich Free Academy in preparation for Yale. He graduated from the latter university in the class of 1888.

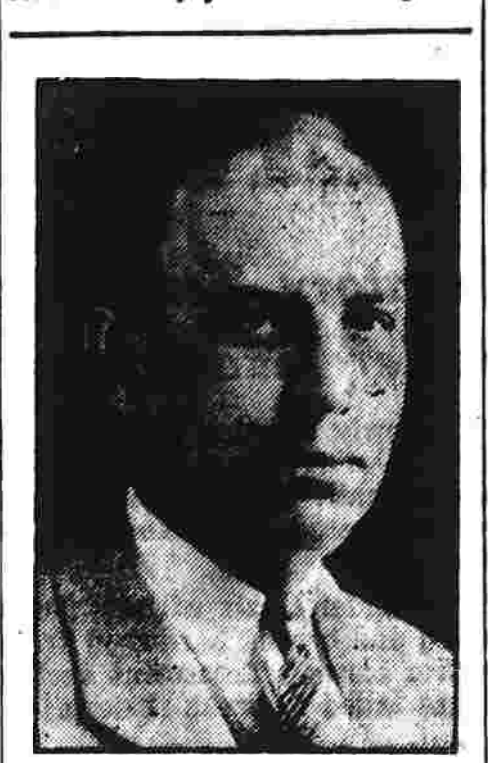

Then followed a year each of teaching at Bacon Academy in Colchester and the Thomaston High school. From 1890 to 1893 he was principal of the Model School of the State Normal School at Willimantic. He came to Manchester as principal of the Ninth District school August 31, 1893, and has served as superintendent continuously since that time.

940 District Pupils. In 1893 when F. A. Verplanck took over the reins of the South Manchester Ninth District schools, there were but thirty-seven pupils in the high school and 940 pupils in the district. Today there are nearly 5,000 pupils in the consolidated schools of the town.

School Expenditures. Under his supervision the town schools have grown from small one-room affairs, to a group of the finest buildings in the state, valued at $1,503,000, for the support of which the town annually spends approximately $250,000. From a period when he knew each scholar by name, the educational system has increased to a point which involves the expenditure of the largest single town appropriation and requires, under the consolidation plan, supervision over a large army of scholars.

Modern School Features. During the passing years Superintendent Verplanck fought for and obtained many modern features in the school system as it grew, the principal addition being the installation of an adequate fire escape system and regular fire drills. The value of the drills was emphasized in the school fire of October 23, 1913 when the Ninth District school on School street and fronting on Educational Square was burned. The blazing building, a raging tinder-box, was emptied of pupils in less than three minutes and not a child was harmed. His insistence upon regular drills spared the town what easily might have been a tragedy. 32nd/Degree Mason. Mr. Verplanck is a 32nd degree Mason and is affiliated with Manchester Lodge, A. F. & A. M. and is Past Master of the local lodge. He was Grand Master of Masons in Connecticut in 1910. He served as a member of the Board of Managers of the Masonic Home at Wallingford for many years and was president of the Board for three years. He is secretary of the Board of Trustees of the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Manifold Duties. During the World War he gave unstintingly of his time and efforts. He was chairman of the Four Minute speakers for Liberty bond drives; served on the executive committee of the Manchester War Bureau and was chairman of the state committee on education in the Council of Defense of Connecticut.

He has served as trustee of the Center Congregational church and a director of the Manchester Savings Bank. Of recent years he served as president of the Manchester Emergency Employment association.

Reduced School Costs. When the Manchester schools were consolidated two years ago, Mr. Verplanck took over the supervision of the entire school system of the town. One of the creditable accomplishments of the retiring school official was in effecting a reduction in school costs of 33 percent during the past two years.

SETTLED OUT OF COURT

Bridgeport, April 25.—(AP)—A settlement out of court was reached today in five suits brought by Alberta Biggs of Orange to recover insurance on her home located in Milford and destroyed by fire January 13, 1932. The five insurance companies had offered a defense to the suit that the fire was of a suspicious nature and occurred during her absence from the home. The same suits were partly tried several months ago and ended in a mistrial.

PRESS HAS FREEDOM PUBLISHERS TOLD

President of A. N. P. A. Says Guarantee of Constitution Is Observed by Code.

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Asserting that the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press remained unimpaired under the daily newspaper code, Howard Davis, president of the American Newspaper Publishers Association, voiced the belief today that "newspaper publishers of this country have a good code under which to operate."

Reporting successively as president of the A. N. P. A. and chairman of the code committee before the first regular session of the association's annual convention, Davis stated that the code constituted the most important problem confronting directors of the association during the past year.

"Freedom of Press Assured. The vital factor of successful newspaper publication is an unhampered and uncensored press," he said in the president's opening address. "Freedom of the press, one of the most cherished possessions of this nation, is guaranteed by our constitution, and in the belief that no act of ours should lessen or impair that guarantee, your board and (code) committee felt it incumbent upon them to insist upon its specific reservation in the daily newspaper code. Notwithstanding violent opposition, our position was maintained and the code was eventually approved including such reservation."

As chairman of the newspaper code committee, and a member of the sub-committee handling negotiations at Washington, Davis reviewed vents leading up to final presidential approval of the daily newspaper code and the graphic acts code February 24. "The daily newspaper code has now been in operation slightly more than one month," he said. "Under its provisions only those newspapers which specifically assent to it are under its jurisdiction. Nearly 1,100 newspapers have so signified their assent."

TOBACCO GROWER PLANS PIG FARM

Paul Hruby Feels There Will Be Good Market for Native Pork.

After 15 years in the tobacco business, Paul Hruby of Windsor street, near the South Windsor-Manchester town line, will this year return to the raising of pigs, a business that he gave up to cultivate tobacco.

On the farm at the present time he has ten pigs, mostly sows, but this morning there arrived by express from Massachusetts a boar. It was properly crated and was called for by Mr. Hruby. From past experience, Mr. Hruby said he felt that before the year closed there would be at least 500 pigs on the farm. He has in the past owned pigs that have produced 22 in a litter, another of 19 and a third of 17. Of the litter of 22 pigs 19 of them lived.

Pigs breed fast and the family is enlarged at the rate of three times a year. He feels there is a market for home dressed pork and, in addition to this, there are suckling pigs in demand that he will be able to

EMIGRATION AT STANDSTILL

Manila, P. I., April 25.—(AP)—Emigration from the Philippines to the United States had virtually ceased today.

The liner President Grant sailed for Seattle this afternoon without a single Filipino passenger. Five intended emigrants were rejected because the United States will limit Filipino immigration to 50 a year as soon as the legislature accepts the independence law, expected about May 1.

AMUSEMENTS

ANN HARDING'S VOICE VIBRANT WITH EMOTION

Author of "Gallant Lady" Demanded That Only Ann Should Play Leading Role.

The "Harding voice," eloquent with emotion and vibrant with sincerity, is the envy of all enviers in Hollywood; and the dramatist whose destiny awards him the privilege of having Ann Harding assigned to interpret his character on stage or screen considers himself blessed of the gods.

When Gilbert Emery, noted playwright and dramatic critic, and Douglas Doty, wrote the story of "Gallant Lady" they had one actress in mind and she was that one.

This information was passed on to Joseph M. Schenck and Darryl F. Zanuck when the script was submitted for their approval, and it was not until they had ascertained that her services would be available for this picture that they bought it for 20th Century.

"Gallant Lady," a United Artists release which comes to the State Theater today tells the story of a girl whose lover loses his life in an attempt to fly the Atlantic, ignorant of the fact that she is to bear his child. From that tragedy, and the surrender of her son for adoption immediately after his birth, she rises to business success. Destiny brings three men into the pattern of her life and at length offers her the privilege of reunion with her boy under penalty of silence regarding her true identity.

Miss Harding's "Gallant Lady" is appealing in every way, a girl who has known both the bitterness of poverty and sorrow, and the sweetness of success. With both of these environments as a background, the story provides full scope for her versatility.

ROCINVILLE MAN SUED FOR $35,000 BY GIRL

Annie Busch, Injured in Auto Crash, Brings Action Against W. R. Neven.

The first sitting of the Tolland County Superior Court for the spring season for which an assignment list was prepared, was held Tuesday morning by Judge Ernest C. Simpson of Waterbury.

Due to the fact that there were few cases seeking trial by jury, the matter of jury trials was put over until the June term of the court. The only case listed yesterday for jury trial was that of A. J. Orme, trustee, against Olive F. Stengel and wife. This case was assigned for yesterday as a special case but the postponement of the trial was made prior to the opening of the court session by agreement of counsel.

The cases were disposed of yesterday as follows: In the case of John Lenti vs. John L. Bragg et al, a foreclosure judgment for $7,226.95 was granted and June 11 was set as the redemption day.

The case of Howard L. Hamilton vs. Estate of Harry E. Davis et al another foreclosure proceeding, judgment of $2,861.44 was granted and the redemption day was set as July 9. This property is on West street.

The Bank of Tolland vs. Sadie Greenstein Lavitt et al. was continued until a later session of the court.

Divorce case of Nelson E. Kibbe vs. Elizabeth H. Statter Kibbe was before the court. There was a finding of actual notice and the case will be heard at the next term of the court.

The Willimantic Lumber & Coal Company vs. The Andover Lake Corporation case was continued until May 14. The case of the Savings Bank of Rockville vs. Peter S. Green, another foreclosure proceeding, judgment was granted the plaintiff for $1,250.

The case of Dan Pictus vs. Charles Mitchell was taken off the calendar and the case of Holcomb R. Howard vs. Lumon W. Turner et al, goes over until the next term.

Cases Put Over. These cases were put over until the June term of the court: Carl J. Bush and his daughter Annie Bush, against Wilfred R. Neven of this city, seeking $85,000 as a result of an automobile accident on June 15, 1932 in which the child was seriously hurt. The father is suing for $10,000 for expenses at the time of the accident and for future expenses, and the child's claim is for $25,000. The little girl was injured in an accident while crossing Windermere avenue near her home. It is claimed she had a fracture of the skull and numerous bruises, and that she will have permanent injuries as a result.

Other cases are: A. J. Orme, trustee vs. Olive F. Stengel et al.; Norman Wilson vs. Otis S. Fairbanks; William E. Orcutt vs. Charles E. Cole et al.; Stanley L. Storrs vs. Frank F. Brooke.

Neighbors' Night. The Mayflower Rebekah lodge had a "Neighbors' Night," last evening in the I. O. O. F. hall. Mrs. Edward Miller presided at the regular meeting at 8 o'clock. Following the business Mrs. Miller turned the program over to the other lodges.

Each visiting lodge presented a fifteen minute entertainment and the programs were greatly enjoyed. Members were present from Stafford Springs, Willimantic, Manchester, Glastonbury and East Hartford.

The committee in charge included: Mrs. Alice Carpenter, Mrs. Charles Mead, Mrs. Nellie Willis, Mrs. Achaas Dowling and Mrs. Hazel Benton.

Going to County Home. The auxiliary of Stanley Dobos Post, No. 14, American Legion, of Rockville, are to be the guests at the Tolland County Temporary Home for Children at Vernon Center Wednesday evening.

The members will meet in the G. A. R. rooms, Memorial building, tomorrow evening at 7 o'clock and will leave soon thereafter to reach Vernon Center by 7:30 o'clock. Superintendent and Mrs. Albert S. McClain will escort the party through the building and explain the work of taking care of the orphans from the thirteen towns of Tolland County.

A short business meeting will be held at 8 o'clock in the assembly hall at the home, after which there will be a very interesting entertainment program presented by the children. The program will be of an historic nature and will be part of the Americanization program now being conducted.

Lions Club Meeting. The annual meeting of the Rockville Lions Club will be held this evening at the Rockville House at 8:15 o'clock at which time the members will enjoy one of their semi-monthly dinners.

At the business meeting which will follow, Dr. Clarence E. Peterson, president, will preside and officers will be elected for the ensuing year. It is expected that either Luther A. White or Dr. E. Harrison Metcalf will be elected president, both men having been mentioned for the office.

Entertains Cornelias. The Cornelia Circle was entertained at the Town Farm Tuesday afternoon by Mrs. Delos Rich, wife of the superintendent. The meeting proved of unusual interest as the topic for discussion at the meeting was entitled "Our Town Farm."

After a careful inspection of the property the members enjoyed an interesting meeting at which time they discussed the town farm and the improvements needed this coming year.

Mrs. Rich entertained the members at tea following the discussion and the party left shortly after 5 o'clock.

Improvements Near Completion. The work of modernizing the store of Tenstedt, Brendel & Co., on Market street is fast nearing completion.

Within the past ten days a new glass front has been placed on the American House block on Market street in which this store is located. A new entrance was also provided to the second and third floors whereas in the past the entrance was in the front of the building between the two show windows. Women's Club Meets. An open meeting of the Ellington Women's club was held Tuesday afternoon in the Congregational church social rooms at 3 o'clock, and a large number were on hand. The speaker was Miss Barbara Lincoln of Hartford, who spoke on the topic "Store Management."

Miss Lincoln told an interesting story about her work in Sage, Allen & Company's store in Hartford.

Michael Murphy. Michael Murphy, 35, died yesterday at the Town Farm. He has lived in this city for about 35 years. Mr. Murphy was born in Ireland, later coming to Rockville where he was employed for many years as a brick layer.

Death was due to complications of old age. Mrs. Murphy died about 20 years ago. There are no relatives.

The funeral will be held from the Burke Funeral Home on Park street Thursday morning at 9:30 o'clock and from St. Bernard's church at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in St. Bernard's cemetery.

HUNDREDS ATTEND MINSTREL-DANCE

Bolton Center Hall Filled to Capacity for Baseball Team Benefit.

The minstrel show and dance for the benefit of the Bolton baseball team was held last night. Every seat in Bolton Center Hall was filled and a crowd stood around on both the east and west sides of the hall, in the back and overflowed out into the lobby long before the curtain was lifted for the evening's entertainment.

It was a crowd that brought money to the baseball team and joy to the occasion. There was fun from start to finish and the same good fellowship appeared in the dancing that followed.

Under the direction of Roy Howlett of Willimantic, who had trained the members of the show, which was not confined to one circle alone, but was backed up by a strong chorus that filled the back part of the stage.

Town Clerk David Toomey as the middleman, kept his work well in hand and carried on the program, answered the end men and introduced the singers in a masterly style. He was right at home in the work.

Roy Howlett, Gene Gagliardone, Eddie Accomazzo, John Howarth, William Dillon and Harold Lee were the end men who cracked jokes, hitting at the residents of Bolton and a few outside, and sang songs like real troupers. Among the numbers were: William Dillon, "If You Know Susie"; Harold Lee, "By the Watermelon Vine"; Gene Gagliardone, "My Sunny Tennessee"; Eddie Accomazzo, "Sweet Jennie Lee"; Roy Howlett, "Pullman Man's Blues" and John Howarth, "The Easter Parade". All put over their songs with plenty of action, volume and comedy.

Mrs. Alice Lee sang "The Old Spinning Wheel" and responded to an encore. Myron Lee sang "Throw Another Log on the Fire," and he also responded to an encore as did Mrs. Edith Yates in singing, "Can't You Hear Me Calling, Carolina." Joseph Quish sang, "When Mother Played the Organ," and Miss Pauline Doyle rendered "He Raised His Hat."

Mrs. Arlyne Garrity was heard in a special number "Thine Alone" and was recalled for an encore. There was a special toe dance by little Eida Beletti of Manchester and Master Louis Della Fera sang "Come Up and See Me Sometime."

The special act by Martin McKenna of Danielson, in which he gave an imitation of the dancing of that former soft shoe artist "Billy Primrose," added to the program as did his clog dance imitation of Pat Rooney. His own buck and wing dance was just too hot. He lost part of his shoe, but his act went over just as big as it did when he appeared in Bolton last November. He is not likely to be seen in these parts much longer as he is soon going back to California, his native state, after an absence of 15 years.

Ned's Saw Mill orchestra furnished the music for the dancing and Carl Wiganowski "sang the figures."

WAPPING

There were many Wapping people who motored to South Windsor Congregational church last Sunday evening, where they attended the Union Service, and heard the Rev. Dr. James Wright of the Talcott street Congregational church of Hartford. Dr. Wright brought with him his colored choir, which sang Negro spirituals.

Mr. and Mrs. Miles W. Grant and daughter, moved last Friday from Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Williams' house in Wapping to Somers.

The Community Church House building committee will serve a supper to the Kiwanis club of Manchester next Monday evening. It is to be the annual "Ladies' Night," and will be held at the Community Church House in Wapping.

There was a good audience at the Community Church House last Monday evening to attend the entertainment given by the Concordia Lutheran church minstrels of Manchester, with Fred Werner as director. After the show, there was dancing until midnight. There was a special town meeting held at the school hall which undoubtedly kept many from attending.

The Oakland Neighborhood club will meet at the home of Mrs. Sherwood Bowers next Thursday afternoon.

Edward Laughton of Wethersfield, is in the Hartford hospital as a result of a collision at Station 45, South Windsor, last Thursday night. It is understood that Laughton's car was parked at the side of the road when Constable Joseph Krawski of Wapping collided with it. The constable's car was badly damaged.

OPEN FORUM

LAUDS MISS FENERY
To the Editor of The Herald:
It's always a good thing to speak well of people who deserve it, and to speak well of them in time. So I would like to speak of Miss Gertrude E. Fenerty, the Women's Gym director at the East and West Side Recreation Centers.

On Wednesday evening, May 2, she is giving a dancing school review of children's classes she has taught throughout the winter. She has been working very hard for the past several weeks to prepare the children for this exhibition. The exhibition will include about twenty varieties of tap dancing in as many novel costumes. There will also be a delightful May-pole dance of the children in delightful party dresses.

It has been my happy privilege to play for these classes of Miss Fenerty's—and I can well testify that she has all the qualifications of a successful teacher—patience, tireless effort, and good disposition. I sincerely hope a

BLOOD STAINED HAT HINTS AT A MURDER

El Reno, Okla., April 25.—(AP)—A possible murder mystery cast a shadow today over El Reno's celebration of the 45th anniversary of its settlement in '89 by hard-riding horse hunters.

Discovery of a blood-stained cowboy hat, a pistol and a rifled pocket-book in the abandoned automobile of Henry G. Sheeta, 35, electrical supply dealer, aroused fears that he had been slain. He was dressed in cowboy garb for the celebration when he left here Monday afternoon with $200 to pay some bills at Oklahoma City. His automobile was found near Noble, south of Norman in Cleveland county.

In the blood-stained "ten-gallon" hat he had worn were two holes, which Sheriff John Harrison said appeared to have been made by a .38-cal. revolver. The body of the hat was found on the side of the road near Noble. A widespread search was launched for some trace of Sheeta. Officers theorized that he had been slain and robbed, possibly by a hit-and-run, and his body thrown in a creek or roadside ditch.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Hutchinson, Kas.—A spooners paradise has been inadvertently destroyed. Recently a 2,700,000 candle power beacon was placed atop a tower at the Kansas State reformatory as a precaution against escapes.

As a result the shaded lanes thereabouts have become lighted and no longer draw the young lovers.

Blockow, Mo.—George Hobson, farmer and trader, needs no scales to weigh hogs.

He can judge their weights by their squeals, he explained. Neighbors don't know how he does it, but they say he is "very accurate."

Milton, Ore.—"Just listen," said the contractor who was erecting the new fire station. He proceeded to demonstrate the fire siren to one of the councilmen.

The siren sounded and then kept on sounding. He had forgotten how to shut it off.

Red Oak, Iowa.—Snow plows are busy in Montgomery county, chugging out defiance to spring breezes and a balmy sun.

The reason is Monday's dust storm which left the roads clogged with dust.

Taft, Ore.—Preparations are underway for the fourth annual Red Head roundup here June 23, and 24. The event drew five thousand visitors last year to watch 140 red tops compete in various events.

Miami, Fla.—W. D. Davis, negro, widely known for the frugality of his mode of life, died January 4 leaving nothing to show he had an estate.

A small safe in his real estate office was opened, the Probate Court was told, and out fell a pile of cash, bonds and bank books.

The negro's total wealth was found to be $102,637.68. The court decided his four children should share it equally.

Mercer, Pa.—Sure signs of recovery. Smashing an all time record of 136 years, 526 marriage licenses have been granted at the county Court House since January 1. Of this number 118 have been issued in the last 19 days.

The London airmode sends up rockets to guide airplanes to the landing field in foggy weather; the rockets penetrate the fog, and explode brightly in the clear sky.

THE MIDWAY ROUTE

The amiable and friendly Cordell Hull made, before the Associated Press meeting at New York Monday, probably as effective a plea for liberalism as anybody could. The liberalism that Mr. Hull believes in and stands for, however, is a very moderate type. It is rather liberal, indeed, to term it liberalism at all. Mr. Hull would not be unjustly described if he were called a mere reformer.

Mr. Hull has a vision of a United States getting along happily by just playing the game fairly under the old rules. He dislikes radicalism and he dislikes reaction. He would steer a course midway between. That is an excellent idea. But perhaps Mr. Hull would be astonished to learn, if he were to apply a surveyor's chain to the problem, how much closer to the right than to the left his own steps and inclinations have been traveling.

The principal difference between Mr. Hull and the most reactionary critics of the New Deal is that he is content with the slight departure that has been made from the extreme right while those critics are terribly frightened at it. Neither of them appears to realize that the fundamentals of reaction have been pretty closely preserved and that all the so-called revolutionary measures are merely fuss and feathers, costly but of little real substance.

Meantime it might be worth while for real liberals—those who earnestly hope for readjustments that will be forcible enough and practical enough to make capitalism workable—to take note of the state of Minnesota. Out there the Farmer-Labor party, at the last two elections, has polled more votes than the Republicans and Democrats put together. And the Farmer-Labor party of Minnesota has quite recently adopted a platform declaring that "immediate steps should be taken by the people to abolish capitalism."

The problems of the people of Minnesota and the people themselves are not very different from the problems and the peoples of a number of other states of the Union. If the farm owners of Minnesota can go red enough to openly demand the elimination of the capitalist system it certainly is not wholly beyond the possibilities that letism may spread rapidly and considerably—unless it is countered by a liberalism considerably farther removed from absolute reaction than the liberalism of Cordell Hull or President Roosevelt.

the temple than either of them realize.

MORGENTHAU'S LIST

Young Mr. Morgenthau, the deflationist secretary of the treasury, is prepared to deal a final blow to the silver movement in Congress by sending to the Senate a list of several hundred persons known to be interested in enhancing the value of silver. For weeks, in anticipation of a silver revolt in Congress, Mr. Morgenthau has had government employes putting in their time on the preparation of this list, for the making of which it was necessary to require a lot of brokers to tell their clients' business. The idea is, of course, to show that the silver agitation is in the interest of the personal profit of a little group of speculators.

This is the kind of thing that might be expected of a political party campaign manager unhampered by too nice a sense of decency or fair play. It constitutes a brand new kind of lobbying, however, in behalf of the deflationist interests. Administrations have never before descended to precisely this kind of claptrap in order to defeat legislation to which they were opposed.

Mr. Morgenthau is not sending to Congress any list of the people who are profiting, by the continued deflation of values and by the monopoly of credit in their hands, to the extent of thousands of dollars for every dollar that speculators or silver mine owners could possibly make out of remonetization. He says the silver list may include a thousand names. If he wants to include everybody likely to profit by an adequate expansion of the currency he would have to go to the Census bureau and print the names of the population. The anti-silver list would be easier to prepare because shorter. It is to be doubted if it would include a thousand names even if the actual beneficiaries of deflation, who are controlling the government's monetary policy today, were included to the last man.

Mr. Morgenthau isn't kidding anybody. He is just playing an old game in a particularly caddish manner.

JAPAN

Self interest is likely to prevent the nations from doing anything about the now open intention of Japan to take over China. European governments which are most directly concerned with the independence of the Chinese entity are too suspicious of each other and too hazardingly situated to do anything about it. The United States certainly is not going to take over any leadership in the affair since this country is less directly affected than several others. Unless the Chinese themselves should prove capable of developing a truly national spirit and by themselves of defeating the aspirations of their piratical island neighbors, there is little prospect that anything will be done, as it so easily might, to put a stop to the dominance of all Asia by the peculiar ethical and cultural philosophy of the Japanese.

Probably the complete ascendancy of Japan in the Far East would have no highly important effect on Western civilization during the lifetime of any present American. The job that Japan has laid out for herself is not a matter of a few years, but one which for its completion might consume several generations. But that the whole future of the world of say two or three hundred years hence may be in process of determination at this very moment is at least possible.

The utterly outrageous policy on the point of being put into effect by Japan is made possible because of the sordid selfishness and individualism of the white nations. Japan could be driven out of China, out of Manchuria, out of Korea and completely out of her dream of world conquest, without the firing of a shot, if the nations were capable of presenting a united front to her barbaric aspirations. As matters stand, however, there is every prospect that she will be able to get away with it unless she is unwise enough to risk a war with Russia fifty or a hundred years too soon.

the international character of the little group of enormously wealthy persons who control that business in Europe—not with complete exemption of American munitions makers—and the extent to which they are supposed to influence the nations into wars.

Many thousands of people have had their curiosity keenly whetted by this very modern set of disclosures; they want to know more; they are anxious to learn whether it is really a fact that most of the bloodshed of recent times has been deliberately engineered for the profit of the munitions makers. The Senate investigation will have an avid audience.

GREEN HILLS

While our good friend the Hartford Times and others are pointing out how much better they do the recovery business in England, it is interesting to note that there are some Englishmen who at the same time are pointing out, in England, how much better we do it over here. Sir Basil Blackett, a director of the Bank of England, has just been scolding his fellow countrymen for not having had the sense to set up such a system as our National Recovery Act instead of waiting for some sort of international agreement, in the prospects of which he evidently takes no stock.

The Irish have a term for it—"Green hills far away!"

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

Committee for the Nation Makes a Hustling Exit. Old Record Stands on Veto Vote. Dave Reed in Strange Company. Dry Law Fines at Stake. Consumers Should Beware of "Friends."

By BOBNEY DUTCHER, Manchester Herald Washington Correspondent

Washington, April 25.—The committee for the Nation has left the boom of the New Deal—wherein it nestled—so quickly as to leave doubt whether it leaped or was flung.

It's a strange yarn—and perhaps the end is not yet. Insiders here considered the committee's chief spirits to be big stock market speculators and business men largely concerned with exports and sales to farmers. Organized a year ago to press for gold standard abandonment, devaluation and inflation, its chairman was James H. Rand, Jr., of Remington-Rand. (More than two-fifths of American typewriters normally are exported.)

Other organizers included Frank A. Vanderlip, officials of Sears-Roebuck, automobile companies, and farmer groups. Those conservative business men took Prof. George Warren under one wing and Senator Elmer Thomas under the other.

They leagued with "wild-eyed radical" inflationists and promoted the most persistent, voluminous torrent of propaganda literature Washington has ever known.

Inflation became respectable, Rand and his pals were in and out of the White House. Soon Washington was customarily regarding the committee's latest recommendations as the administration's next currency move—Roosevelt always seemed to follow along.

That honeymoon ended with dollar devaluation. The committee wanted more devaluation and inflation and a "Central Monetary Authority"—the issue on which Thomas, suspecting a Wall Street plot, broke with it. Roosevelt wasn't having any of its newest proposals. Next you knew, the committee—jumping to a new front—was savagely attacking the New Deal stock market control bill and hurling its Dr. Wirt at us.

Democrats in Congress and many inflationists began to denounce the committee. Roosevelt did so, tentatively, and his Department of Justice pushed trial of a monopoly suit against Remington-Rand. Republicans, who espoused Wirt's "drain trust" charges, and their ardor cooling as Rand and Wirt unleash new inflation blasts. So the capital is full of bruised ex-friends of the committee for the Nation, which itself may soon be more bruised than bruising.

Not a New Veto Record. Contrary to most impressions, the House vote of 210 to 75 on the House-payout bill wasn't the worst vote hitting any president ever received. In 1923, one day in May, the House voted 219 to 46 to kill Coolidge's veto of rent, fuel, light, and equipment allowances for fourth-class postmasters, and 219 to 42 to support a veto 10 per cent increase for postal employes assigned to night work. Can This Be Repealed? Don't faint when you hear that Senator Dave Reed of Pennsylvania—who hails from the home of the Steel Trust, is friend and counsel of the Mellons and is popularly identified with big business at its biggest—has lined up with Senators Borah and Nye to attack NRA because it chisely aids big business and hurts the little fellow through suspension of anti-trust laws. Reed has a tough fight for re-nomination and re-election this year. There are thousands of small manufacturers in Pennsylvania. The capital's "speakeasy king" during prohibition was Jack O'Hearn. He had the most and best places. He survived many raids, but last November was sentenced for contempt of court when he reopened a place ordered closed. Now Jack is free and off to Bermuda because a judge accepted his plea that repeal invalidated the sentence. And the Justice Department, is rushing an appeal to the Supreme Court.

If the decision stands, officials say, the government will lose 3000 prohibition prisoners and about $350,000 in fines, forfeitures, and bond defaults. Beware of "Friends" If consumers don't appreciate what their official representatives in NRA and AAA are trying to do for them no one else will. "If anyone today is solicitous about the consumer, look out for him!" seriously warned Jacob Milch, Brooklyn candy manufacturer, at a recent code hearing.

Health and Diet Advice

By Dr. Frank McCoy

ASPARAGUS DELICIOUS AND HEALTHFUL

Asparagus was cultivated by the Romans a long time ago and was considered by them to be a table delicacy. Only the young and tender shoots are used in most households, but some of the older peasants of Europe also use the seeds as a substitute for coffee and the berries as the basis for a drink.

Asparagus can be obtained the year around in cans and during the winter months it is too expensive for the average person who must wait until it has become so plentiful as to be reasonable in price. Asparagus is one of the healthful non-starchy vegetables and has a decided value in overcoming constipation as it helps to fill the intestines with a soft, non-irritating bulk. It is very rich in food minerals such as sodium, calcium and potassium. Asparagus also contains a special substance which acts as a stimulant to the kidneys and is usually passed out of the body quickly. Because of this property, asparagus may be used to good advantage in Bright's Disease.

Here are a few asparagus recipes for you to follow: STEAMED ASPARAGUS. After washing the asparagus carefully, tie it in a bunch with the heads on the same level. The lower ends of the stalks should then be cut off evenly with a sharp knife. Place the bunch in a deep pan with a cover. Add about two inches of water in the bottom of the pan and cook for one half hour. By cooking in this way the choice tips will be steamed and unbroken. The asparagus may be served on Melba Toast with melted butter poured over it just before it is eaten.

ASPARAGUS SOUP. Cut into fine pieces enough fresh asparagus to equal three cupsful and place over fire with three or four cupsful of water. Cook until tender and add about three cupsful of thin cream to the soup and cook for one half hour. Serve hot with thin strips of Melba Toast. A dash of whipped cream may also be added to each serving. HOW TO MAKE MELBA TOAST. TO GO WITH ASPARAGUS. While it is now possible to buy the Melba Toast put up in package form, nevertheless, you may wish to learn how to prepare it at home. This kind of toast is very thin and is browned all the way through. It may be made at home very easily by using the following method: Cut all of the crust from a loaf of white bread, and slice the entire loaf in pieces one quarter of an inch thick. Allow these to dry overnight, and preferably even longer. When thoroughly dry they should be put in a moderately hot oven and roasted so that the heat will entirely penetrate to the center of the slice and it becomes browned all the way through.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Gastritis) Question: Mrs. B. from Waukegan, Illinois, writes: "Will you please tell me the food elements of gastritis?" Answer: Gastritis is a form of protein, very beneficial to the body as a food. Those in health will find it advantageous to include it in the diet quite often, and it is tremendously helpful to those inclined to nose bleed, on account of its blood-coagulating power.

(Weakness in Arms and Legs)

Question: R. H. from Ventura, Calif., writes: "There are times when I get real weak, mostly in arms and legs after I start work, and in the middle of the day my eyes want to close. I even get those weak tired feelings while sitting down. Is it anemia, or is it due to malaria?" Answer: I would certainly like to diagnose your trouble, but can't do so from the meagre description of your case which you have given me. Go to a good diagnostician and find out if you have anemia or malaria; then write me again and I will be glad to send you some literature which I have already prepared on the subject of either.

(Rupture or Hernia)

Question: Mr. M. from Easton, Pa., writes: "I have a lump in right flank that came there this week—about as big as a hen's egg. Goes back in abdomen and then comes out. Can you tell me what it is and what to do to get rid of it?" Answer: You are probably developing a hernia or rupture.

MARKETING AGREEMENTS

Washington, April 25.—(AP)—Extension of the licensing provisions of the agricultural adjustment act to make them apply to all marketing agreements will be sought by the administration at this session of Congress. This was disclosed today as Senate Democratic leaders announced an ambitious legislative program for the remainder of the session. Observers felt that if followed, it would toll the knell of any early session.

DYNAMITE ON DIGGER INJURES OPERATOR

Greenwich, April 25.—(AP)—A piece of dynamite placed in a ditch digger exploded today, inflicting burns on Angelo Den Grantomas, 25, of Harrison, N. Y., the operator. Police said the blast was probably the outcome of recent labor trouble on a sewer construction job in the Chickahominy section.

Den Grantomas, burned on the hands and face, was admitted to Greenwich hospital. His condition was not believed serious. Officials said complaints were made recently that F. Berlantandson of Harrison, the contractor, was employing out of town labor to the exclusion of Greenwich workers. Police reported also that several pieces of dynamite had disappeared from a shed. The dynamite responsible for the explosion, was wired to the magister of the digger, the police said.

RUSH TO RE-ENLIST

Hartford, April 25.—(AP)—Many of the youths in the Connecticut CCC camps, who are veterans of one year's experience in the Federal reforestation project, would like to continue in the woods by enlisting over again, State Forester Austin F. Hawes finds. But according to Presidential executive order those who have been in the forest army a year must leave at the end of June to make room for new recruits. A petition signed by the approximately 200 men at Camp Roberts, Watertown, asking permission to re-enlist, was recently sent to the state forester, who forwarded it to Senator Walcott at Washington. Mr. Hawes feels that a policy of retaining some of the men, possibly one quarter of the present number, would have advantages.

STOLEN CAR WRECKED

New Haven, April 25.—(AP)—Local and Haddam police are seeking four men who were occupants of a stolen car which plumed over a 25 foot retaining wall here today. Descriptions of the quartet were given police by persons who saw them flee from the scene. Police claim to know the identity of at least one of the four men. The automobile, owned by John H.

Washburn, local attorney, was taken from the driver's seat of the automobile before it was completely wrecked.

THAMES GOLF STAFF

Hartford, April 25.—(AP)—(Bud) Geoghan, former Hartford Golf Club champion and a present competitor in State events since 1925, has leased the Highways Country Club golfing plant in Westfield, near Middletown, and will operate it as a semi-public club this year. Geoghan was formerly connected with the East Hartford and West Hartford Golf clubs in the capacity of professional and manager. He returned pro two years ago and recently joined the National P. G. A.

ERA COMPENSATION 'RULE INTERPRETED'

Persons Getting Relief Cannot Collect from State If Injured On Job.

The local ERA board has been notified by circular letter from Miss E. H. Little, relief administrator of the State of Connecticut, that ERA workers will receive no compensation under the work division of the emergency relief. A ruling given Governor Cross by the Attorney General, bearing on this phase of the state's liability toward its relief workers, is quoted, herewith:

Not Regular Employees
"In the light of the foregoing (an abstract of the rules and regulations of the work program) and in answer to your specific inquiry, it is our opinion that persons engaged under this relief program are not so engaged as employees, regular or periodic, within the terms of the Workmen's Compensation laws. It further appears to us that persons so engaged in the program now being administered or contemplated are simply persons enjoying the benefits of public relief funds and as such, there is no legal liability upon the State or the municipalities for the payment of workmen's compensation."

Costs Of Accidents

The negative report given the relief boards in connection with compensation will not, however, obviate costs of accidents and it is the desire of the Emergency Relief commission that some method of meeting these costs shall be devised which shall spread the risk on a state-wide basis.

In order to accomplish this purpose, a reserve fund of one per cent of the municipal budgets throughout the state has been set aside with which to pay injured ERA workers. This amount was taken as a base after consideration of the nine-tenths of one per cent cost of accidents under CWA operation.

"Injury Payroll"

Employees suffering injury on ERA jobs will be carried on a special "injury payroll" at the same scale of wages. A close watch will be maintained for malingerers and the local administrator may remove from the payroll, any person—not found giving a good day's work, or anyone who tries to take advantage of the provisions of the commission respecting injury relief.

No expenses for disease of any description, hernia operations, lame backs or "trick" knees, etc. will be honored. If such are reported, it will be recommended that all such persons be placed on direct relief.

Safety Campaign

It is hoped that the intensive safety campaign which has been carried out under the CWA will have a good effect on the ERA work during the next few months. Manchester's record for accidents and fatalities under the plan in operation since November, has been good, it was reported today.

The local ERA board has been charged with the responsibility of maintaining proper work efficiency under the new plan. Instructions from the Hartford office are to the effect that all those workers who cannot, or will not, give a good day's work on the job, will be placed on direct relief.

The blue grass belt, extending southeastward from Kentucky to the crest of the Blue Ridge mountains in Watauga, Ashe and Allegheny counties in North Carolina, ends so abruptly that the change is noticeable within 50 feet.

BEAUTY MAY MODEL FASHIONS AT DANCE

"Miss America" and Her Orchestra Sure to Draw Huge Crowd Tomorrow Night.

Tomorrow night Miss America (Miss Marion Bergeron) will appear in person with her orchestra at the School Street Recreation Center for the regular weekly dance. Miss America's orchestra, although known under her name, has been organized for many years and before assuming this title was considered one of the leading bands in the East. The music of this banner attraction in itself is worth the price of the admission. It is probable that Miss America will also model some of the new spring styles during the evening, with local merchants having a fashion display. This opportunity, in having an attraction of this calibre in Manchester will be welcomed by what is expected to be the largest number of paid admissions of the present season.

There will be music, entertainment and America's most beautiful girl, all in one evening, and finally dancing with one hour extra starting at 8 o'clock and continuing until 1 a. m.

ROMANTIC RUNAWAY

By KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

CHAPTER XLVIII

Sir Aubrey had told Pabito the whole story and now sat waiting for the young man to speak. Pabito seemed too quiet, too contained. His manner made Sir Aubrey remember the pitiable twisting of Mary's hands. He could not guess whether his confession and his promise to do everything possible to make amends would count or not.

He had told his wife and daughters the same story, promising them the inheritance that was rightfully theirs but declaring that the house—and enough to run it—must be his son's. His son's! And now that son sat before him, so strangely quiet.

Suddenly Pabito spoke a little metallically. "I suppose she had a rotten time of it," he said.

"It killed her," Sir Aubrey admitted.

Pabito pulled up a sleeve to show on his upper arm a jagged, deep white scar. "My foster mother did that," he said. "She did it one day when the mood was no worse than usual. I saw her in Key West a month ago. Noyes had been supporting her, not knowing, of course, who she was. She recognized me and her worn-out heart stopped of fright. She knew I had too much to remember. But I didn't really blame her. It's your fault! You and me like you who desert children and leave them to fend for themselves! Noyes is my father—"

"That—is you answer?" Sir Aubrey asked.

Pabito nodded. "I will take nothing from you," he said. "It is too late."

Standing stiffly, he watched Sir Aubrey make his way rather slowly toward the stairway, realizing as he did so (and trying to ignore the thought) that Sir Aubrey was an old man—a very old man. But Pabito could not forget the woman who had been his mother—the woman whose name, Sir Aubrey had said, was Mary Marriage.

As he stood thus, rigid from the moment that had passed, Noyes came hurrying up the stairs. Noyes' eyes were bright, his thin cheeks flushed.

"Pabito—," he said breathlessly, "I have a message for you. Estelle Field wants to see you."

In an amazingly short time (considering the very old man he had to cover) Pabito was tipping a shabby little boy who opened the gate of the Field estate for him. Then he went to the garden beyond the sea, the garden that faced the sea.

He saw Estelle in the twilight which had thickened swiftly. She was standing against a wall and she was trembling as she waited. When he had reached her he found that he could not speak. Pabito dropped to his knees and felt her hand on his hair. "Oh, please!" she whispered. "Please!"

And he knew that she meant, "Get up! Kiss me!" He struggled to his feet; to hold her close and kiss her frantically. To murmur things he had not said for so long—those exaggerations that are but a part of the truth when one is in love.

"Don't ever leave me again!"

"Dearest, I never, will," he answered.

"I love you more than ever, Pabito!"

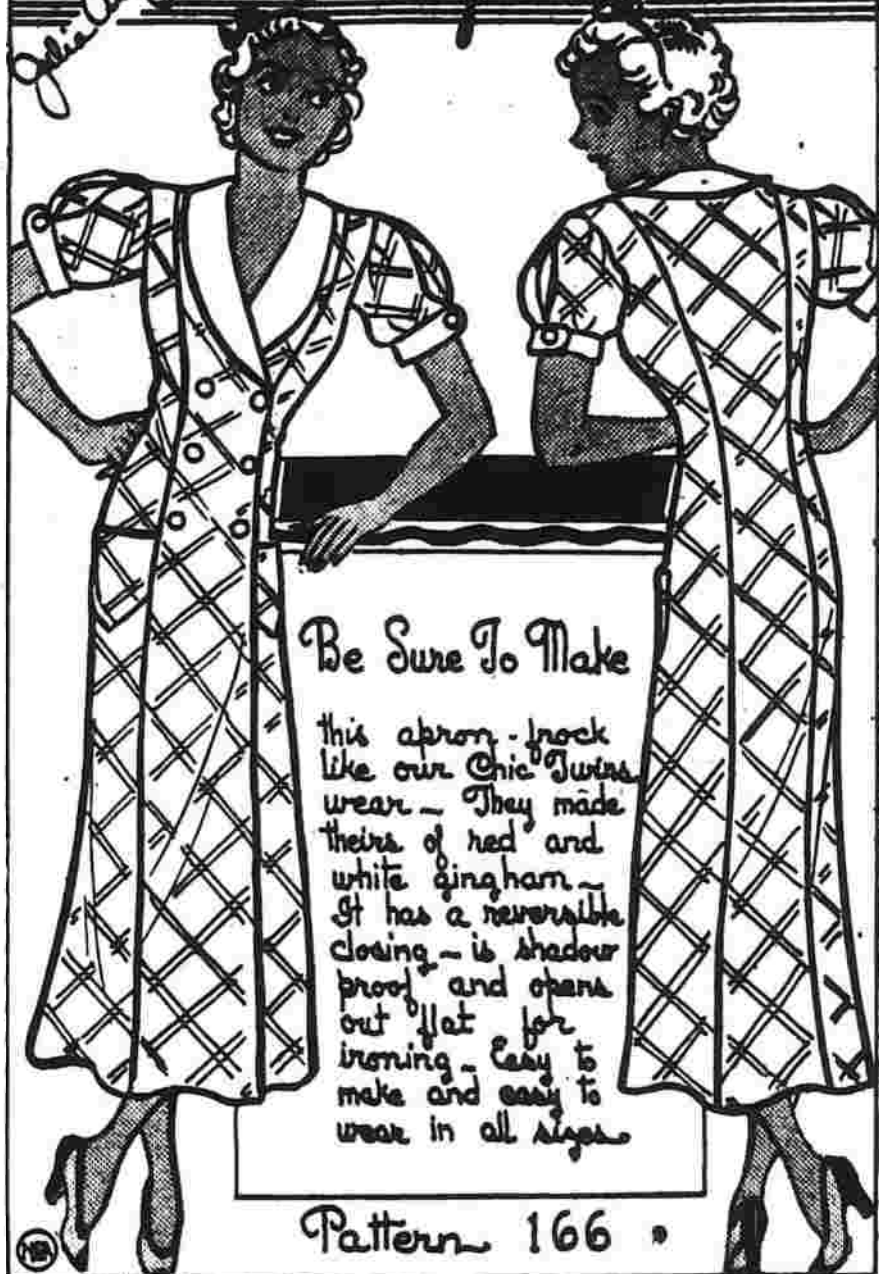

"My dearest! My darling!"

"I can't live—now—without you!" Her hands, as she spoke, moved over his arms and shoulders, clinging, reassuring him that she was really there. In a moment he thought—trembling and breathless as he looked down at her—in a moment he would wake again. "Is it true?" he managed to whisper.

He heard, "Oh, Pabito, dearest!" and then a sob. "Of course it's true."

Sir Aubrey had made ready for the night and crawled beneath the mosquito netting that covered the immense bed. All his hoping now was at an end. He was going back to Lower Girtings to see on the terrace a line of round-cheeked, pale-eyed women who would wel-

It's designed in sizes 14, 16, 18 and 20 (with corresponding bust measures of 32, 34, 36 and 38) and also in 40 and 42. Size 18 requires 4 3/4 yards of 35-inch material, with 5-8 yard for the collar and sleeve bands in contrast.

come him with love, even though knowing what he had been. There would be no son in the old house—no son who would take his name and bring there, in time, his own wife and son. And so time and circumstances would snuff out his name as a cold wind snuffs out a candle.

He realized he had hoped a great deal as he lay, trembling, under the mosquito netting. And he knew he had loved Pabito by the hurt that Pabito had wrought him. Suddenly tears gathered in his eyes and rolled down his cheeks. He let them come, unchecked by the handkerchief in the pocket of his Bond street pyjamas.

Then there was a tap on the door. For a moment Sir Aubrey was minded to ignore it. He could hardly see anyone now, but something made him struggle free of the mosquito netting and move unsteadily toward the door. There he called out, "What is it?" in a voice that he tried to make crisp.

"It is I—Pabito," he heard. Sir Aubrey opened the door. Pabito stepped into the room—not a Pabito to Sir Aubrey had ever seen before but a new version, strong and smiling.

Sir Aubrey regarded the youth with wonder, forgetting the tears on his cheeks. Pabito saw them, remembering suddenly that there were tears in the world and reasons for them.

"I came back," he said, laying a hand on Sir Aubrey's arm, "because I know that I was brutal. I'm not feeling brutal any more."

"I'm glad," said Sir Aubrey. Then he had to wipe away the tears because they were rolling down his cheeks again. "Oh, dash it!" he murmured, wholly shamefaced. Then he had to sit down in a wicker chair that squeaked as he settled in it. For when a great deal of joy or pain came to him Sir Aubrey realized that the years were creeping up on him and that those years were numbered.

Pabito stood looking down at the older man, a hand on his shoulder. Now, without shame, Sir Aubrey groped for Pabito's hand and held it in his.

"Father!" said Pabito. Sir Aubrey managed to say, "Eh, what?" almost crisply.

"Father," Pabito repeated, "I'm going to be married. The girl who has promised to marry me has lost her father. So if you'll dress you can come to our wedding and give her away—to me. You'll be gaining a daughter. It's all very sudden—and rather amazing, isn't it?" He laughed a little unsteadily as he finished speaking.

"Then some day at Lower Girtings—" Sir Aubrey began, but Pabito could not let him go on with his dream.

"I'm sorry to rush you," he went on steadily, "but you see—"

"Oh, quite naturally," said Sir Aubrey, struggling into his garments. "So it's to be a wedding and two of you to come home to the Small House—until I go on—And Noyes, too—if he will—I'm not end grateful to him."

Again he mopped his eyes. "A wedding at midnight is romantic, isn't it? I say, dear boy—my son, hand me my braces, will you?"

THE END

Charming for a youthful, slender figure is this evening frock by Irene Clair of printed crepe with a vivid field flower design. A huge bunch of poppies, cornflowers and daisies is posed at the back of the waist.

Call a Man Wonderful and He'll Not Worry About Your Vocabulary

By HELEN WELSHIMER

To be dull is an inexcusable sin. Men won't forgive it. Least of all the man you have married or the one you want to marry. The easiest method of producing a dish-water boredom is by constant repetition of the same words in conversation. In fact, with a whole dictionary of words to keep a man guessing, it is astounding that we try the same old letter combinations. A frock might be something besides chic, smart, pretty, glamorous, alluring or intriguing. Not all children are cute. We just don't know what else to say about them.

The vocabulary extension society should begin before a child is old enough to have made certain adjectives adhesive. Little five-year-old can Vitzelly Cochrane, who knows and uses 8000 words, according to a recent news announcement, should never be at a loss in talking to a man. Her mother has given her an important character sketch. Her friends will always know whether she is referring to a new hat or a new romance by the variation in words. Not all of us have that differentiation.

Long, long ago a wise teacher remarked that we train a child in the way that he should go when he is old he will not depart from it. If a small girl is given access to colorful, interesting words, she won't revert to "nice" as nondescript way of delineating—Mr. Webster, too, 's rather limited, at times anything from a new kind of gelatine to Garbo's eyelashes.

Still—it would be rather dreadful to have whole trunks filled with shining new words and discover that they couldn't be used because no one understood them! Something like having a row of party dresses hanging in one's wardrobe and not a party in one hundred miles.

Men hate to be bored. In fact they refuse to be. They choose another wise damaged by athletics, provided it is well when the exercise is started.

On the other hand, a heart that has been injured will not stand the strain of exercise and may suffer with a sudden dilation or a permanent injury.

There must be thousands of people who believe that it is harmful to take milk with fruits, or sour vegetables, this notwithstanding the fact that strawberries and cream has been a favorite American dish for many generations.

If you like strawberries and cream or peaches and cream, do not let these ideas keep you from your enjoyment. Scientific evidence shows that the combination is quite digestible and will not harm anyone provided the fruits and the milk are good to begin with.

While doctors recognize and often emphasize the fact that no two human beings are exactly alike, there are certain fundamental rules that apply to all of us. Some people contend that they simply cannot reduce; others that it is quite impossible for them to gain weight, because their bodies are different.

The available figures show that most of us are poured out of fairly similar molds and that our bodies function, according to fairly well-established laws.

If we eat too much for the amount of work we turn out, we are likely to get fat. If we eat too little or the wrong kind of food, we are likely to get thin.

In the vast majority of cases, gain or loss of weight is a matter of what aptly has been called "good physiologic bookkeeping."

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

We approach May first, moving time in most places, and planting the children in a different world from that one they have known.

It means three things to the children: leaving the playmates they have known and loved and who constituted their world, establishing themselves in a new environment often in a hostile community that resents newcomers, and sitting in a strange school with fifty new faces about them and a teacher to whom they mean at the moment, little or nothing.

Still another matter conspires to make their lot harder. Mother will be too busy with papering and painting and curtains and perhaps readings too, to give much attention to the transplanted child and at night dad will be busy with hammer and linoleum and the hinges on the garage door to do more than order Johnny to hold the flashlight or hunt for more nails.

The result is that the confused little boy, or girl, has no court of appeal or bureau of advice and he fights his battles alone.

All children fight all battles alone. It cannot be any other way because life is a peculiarly personal thing for all of us, both young and old. He must use his mind and often his muscle in proving his worth to the intrinsical.

He stands on his own merit because children are cruel and because invariably adopt the spirit of "You've got to show us," before they make room in the ranks and absorb the stranger as one of them.

Everything conspires to make it tough for the recently moved child.

Teachers do all they can as a rule to temper the shock. But they too are largely helpless. When they say, "We have a new boy with us and I want you all to be kind to him," Willy Wilkins is likely to wink at Timmy Thomas, which means, "If he thinks he's going to be teacher's pet, we'll even the score at four o'clock. You hold my books and I'll roll him in the mud."

And still another thing makes it harder. Where he lived before he was important. He had friends and they were loyal. He learned to regard most children as trustworthy and did not suspect that those very friends of his were often bitterly unfair to the stranger.

He thinks that he will be received on the same footing in the new place and when he is either refused or hazed for comes as a double shock unless he is a thick-skinned youngster who can take it as it comes.

Parental Understanding Helps The child has to make his own adjustments, of course, but it is a good thing for parents to keep their eyes open and not think that everything that happens is Johnny's fault.

If there is too much championing or interfering it may reverse his progress in the community because his neighbors will demand self proof and not be much in sympathy with his mother's estimation or help.

However, here and there in many small ways he can be helped. If he thinks his situation is at least understood at home it will give him a double armor.

One thing I do suggest. If he can find one good friend at first, it will help. But again here lies another danger. The friend himself may be persona non grata with the crowd and an ally may have to share in his misfortune. It is something to think about and work out as resourcefully as possible.

Rum bottles dating from the days of the old Caribbean pirates still are washed up in the surf off the Honduras coast.

Felix Romano, three-month-old infant, escaped death in New York City when an automobile mounted the sidewalk and smashed his carriage to pieces. The impact threw Felix clear and the blankets he was wrapped in cushioned his fall.

Mummies of an ancient Indian people found in Texas are very well preserved.

Z. L. Darnon, desk sergeant in the police station at Charlottesville, Va., has served in the force 35 years without a demerit on his record.

A preliminary survey indicates acreage planted to watermelons in the southern part of Georgia will be increased 30 to 40 per cent this season.

More than $8,000,000 was spent in construction work on Kansas highways during 1933.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Lately mushrooms have come out from under the dark cloud which used to envelop them because of their supposed relationship to the toadstool. More people are growing them than ever before and they are cheaper on the market, with the result that more people are eating them.

They certainly dress up the plainest dish and are delectable by themselves. One little misapprehension about them needs to be corrected, however, just to keep the record clear.

They do have a high protein count but even so, to call them vegetable beefsteaks is a little misleading, since they are about 90 per cent water and it would take many mushrooms to equal one fair-sized beefsteak.

One pound of lean beef steak, you see, furnishes 730 calories of fuel value per pound, while one pound of mushrooms yields only 211 calories!

Take Care in Washing Unless mushrooms are very sandy they should not be washed, for they are delicate and water tends to destroy their flavor as well as make them tough. To prepare them, separate the caps from the stems. Scrape the stems and peel the caps if the skin is tough. The stems usually are tougher than the caps and require longer cooking.

A nice bit of economy is to cover the peelings with cold water and simmer them for fifteen minutes. The strain through cheesecloth and use the stock for flavoring soups and sauces. You will be amazed at the change a few tablespoons of this mushroom stock can make in the taste of a cream of spinach soup, for instance.

If mushrooms must be washed take care that the gills do not become water soaked. Dry on a soft cloth and turn with the gills down.

The flavor of mushrooms is emphasized if they are sauted in a little butter before adding to any dish. Be sure to use all the butter and mushroom liquor in the pan because this is rich and flavorful.

Mushrooms and peas are a delicious combination. Cook peas in a little water as possible until tender, letting water cook away when tender. Then add mushrooms which have been sauted in butter. One-half cup mushrooms is enough for two cups cooked peas.

A few mushrooms added to a dish of spaghetti or macaroni make a real company dish. If it's your turn to have the next bridge-club luncheon, try a well-cooked dish of spaghetti in tomato sauce with mushrooms and see if the fastidious don't show approval. This dish has the advantage of being easy to serve and keeping hot conveniently long.

The meat left on a soup bone is apt to be tasteless but contains most of its nourishment. If this meat is chopped and combined with mushrooms, the result is an appetizing dish is the result.

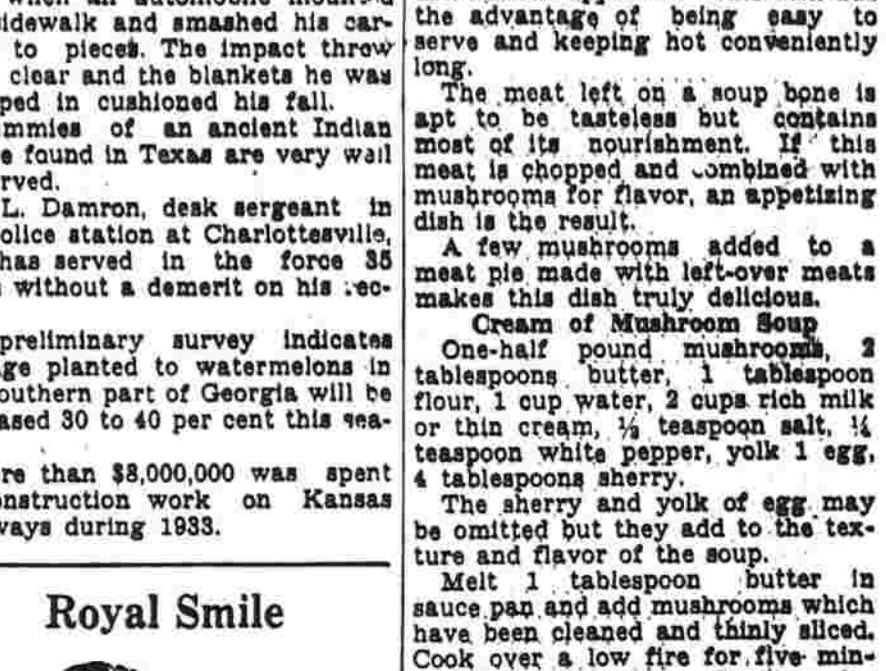

A few mushrooms added to a meat pie made with left-over meats makes this dish truly delicious.

Cream of Mushroom Soup One-half pound mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup water, 2 cups rich milk or thin cream, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon white pepper, yolk 1 egg, 4 tablespoons sherry.

The sherry and yolk of egg may be omitted but they add to the texture and flavor of the soup.

Melt 1 tablespoon butter in sauce pan and add mushrooms. Careful! Mushrooms have been cleaned and finely sliced. Cook over a low fire for five minutes and add water. Simmer for thirty minutes. Rub through a sieve. Melt remaining tablespoon butter, stir in flour and when bubbling add milk, stirring constantly. Add mushrooms puree, salt and pepper and bring to the boiling point. When ready to serve add yolk of egg and sherry beaten together. Add to the soup boil after adding egg yolk.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Too many cosmetics on a dressing table can be quite confusing. The wise woman makes a careful and thorough diagnosis of her skin before she buys the extras and then figures out a schedule whereby she'll have adequate time to use each one of them.

For instance, muscle oil corrects fine lines around the eyes and there's no use in buying a bottle of it in addition to a jar of eye astringent cream. Of course, if the budget allows and you're sure that you'll have time to use both preparations, it's fine to go ahead and get them. If not get only one of them—the one that you think you will need the most.

Girls who cannot afford either muscle oil or astringent eye cream will have to use tissue cream as a substitute for both. And it's a perfectly adequate substitute providing the skin hasn't been neglected for too long a period. Simply put the tissue cream around your eyes, pat it into the lines across forehead and tarsi, and leave it on all night. If it's rich in beneficial oils, there's no reason why it won't improve the texture of your skin and, at the same time, eradicate the lines.

Don't worry too much about the things you can't include on your list of new spring cosmetics. If you use the preparations that you do have in an intelligent and conscientious manner and you're sure to get excellent results.

FOUR ROOKIES FEATURE IN MAJOR LEAGUE PLAY

Stainback of Cubs, Bonura of White Sox, Hefner of Yanks and Koenecke of Dodgers Stand Out Above the Rest to Date.

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The Cubs and the Dodgers, the White Sox and the Yankees, on the face of the early returns are most to be congratulated on their baseball scouting system.

More than a score of first year men have been coveting on major league diamonds since the season opened but standing out above the rest so far have been George (Tut) Stainback of the Cubs, Seckie Bonura of the White Sox, Don Hefner of the Yankees and Len Koenecke of the Dodgers.

Given his chance for a regular outfield berth through the pre-season injury to hard-luck Hazen Cuyler, Stainback, one of the greatest speed merchants the National League has seen come up in years has delivered with a bang. His fielding has been flawless. So far he has a .385 batting average.

Bonura, big first baseman from Dallas, has been just as big a sensation in the White Sox lineup. He has clipped along at a .381 rate so far and inserted three homers in his collection of eight hits.

A smooth second baseman from Baltimore, Hefner was rated a weak hitter whose brilliant fielding would nevertheless keep him in the Yankees lineup. His average stood at .351 today.

Other Rookies Shine Like Stainback, Koenecke received his big chance through the injury of a regular, Danny Taylor. Labeled a "bust," when he was up with the Giants a few years ago, Len has an average today of .370.

Alan Strange from Hollywood, Hartland Cliff from San Antonio and George Puccinelli from Rochester seem to have caught on regularly with Rogers Hornsby's St. Louis Browns. Julius Solters' timely slugging with the Boston Red Sox has been a feature of the early returns and Hal Trosky, new Indian first baseman, drove in six runs with two homers and a pair of singles yesterday after a slow start.

Frank Hayes, young catcher, who hits them far when he connects, has been the principal find of Connie Mack's Athletics.

Davis Cuppers to Avenge '33 Net Rout by British

By JIMMY DONAHUE NEA Service Sports Writer There won't be any prostrate forms of American Davis Cup players found on the courts of Wimbledon when the Yankees finish their grind for the classic in July. Neither will there be loud yammering alibis blinding at over-training, dissension in the ranks, and inability on clay courts.

The reason, gentle reader, will be that the Yanks will win the Davis Cup and there won't be anything to holler about.

You'll probably recall "Elly" Vines' collapse in his singles match with Fred Perry, English star, at Stade Roland Garros. That climaxed the defeat of the American stars, the only bright spot of which was George Lott and Johnny Van Ryn coming through in the doubles.

Albion was immediately forthcoming from Bernon S. Prentice, and the boys themselves. A storm of protest arose over the method of pre-cup training, and Walter Merrill Hall, new president of the U. S. Lawn Tennis Association, had to come out with a statement that the tennis fathers were entirely satisfied with the conduct of the players and that there would be no change in policy.

It can be pointed out here that there was a change in policy—one which will have a great influence on our cup team.

This was the selection of R. Norris Williams as captain of the 1934 squad, and the release of Prentice from that post.

Under Williams there will be no dissemination or over-training. He is a former Davis Cup player himself, and once ranked as ruler of the netters.

He has inaugurated a series of spring workouts, scheduled to start early next month, and these are intended to get the players in shape and to judge their merits. His methods are altogether different from those of Prentice, who had none of Williams' experience.

Five players have been selected for this session—and their selection is regarded as good judgment of Williams. These stars are Frank Shields, Les Stofeen, George Lott, Sidney Wood, and Wilmer Allison. Johnny Van Ryn was invited to take part, but he announced that business interfered.

It is possible that Cliff Sutter, ranking No. 4 player in the United States, also may be included in this list, for a short time ago, the New Orleans comet revealed that the southern association of the tennis body would threaten to secede if Wood were selected for cup play instead of himself.

To avoid squabbles, Williams will no doubt take this matter into consideration.

The question of clay courts will provoke no alibis this year—because the cup matches won't be played on clay. Wimbledon's fields are grass, and it is on this type of court that the American, especially Shields and Stofeen, excel.

Fred Perry and Bunny Austin, England's mainstays, on the other hand, are more at home on the clay, and no less an authority than Jean Borotra has remarked that this fact will handicap the British, and leave an opening for the Yankees to goliath through to victory.

At present, Shields and Stofeen appear to be Uncle Sam's best bets in the singles matches. Both play terrific service games, and are strong forehand attackers.

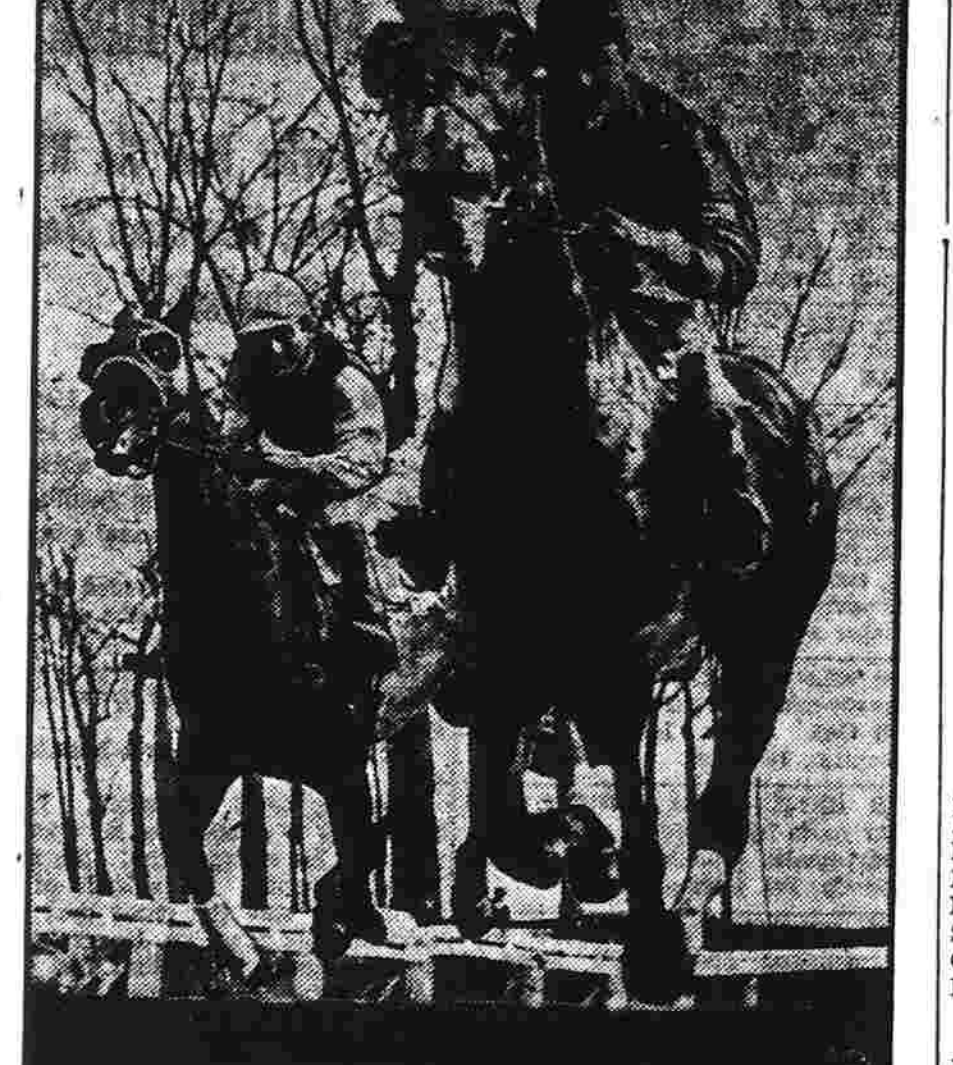

Both, on the other hand, are weak on their backhands—and it is this fault that Williams will try to remedy in the practice sessions at Wilmington.

Les, the only green player on the team, has all the makings of one of the mightiest racket wielders ever turned out in this country, and he and Shields may succeed in socking Perry and Austin where Vines and Allison doubled last year.

The doubled combination will be taken care of by Lott, than whom there is none whomever in doubles circles, and either Allison, Wood, or Sutter. Of course, if the series is a tight affair, there is a possibility that Stofeen, who won the national doubles with Lott last year, will serve double duty and, in addition to hectic, singles sessions against Perry and Austin, serve on the duo with the cleft-chinned guy from Chicago.

If, through some unforeseen circumstances, all this is voided by the slim possibility that the U. S. squad doesn't reach the finals—then skip it!

Thundering into the stretch to make their final bid for that dash across the finish line come inception, left, and Mrs. John Hay Whitney's Last Tag—all eight feet off the ground! ATTENDANCE BETTER St. Louis, April 25.—(AP)—American League attendance records so far this season are far ahead of those at the same period a year ago, William Harridge, league president, said here today.

Harridge attributed a large part of the increase to Boston's crowds. The Red Sox already have drawn more than 150,000 fans at home, or more than half the number of fans they played to all last season, the President said.

Many Unusual Bets Laid For the Kentucky Derby

St. Louis, April 25.—(AP)—Tom Kearney, St. Louis betting commissioner, has accepted some heavy and unusual commitments for the Kentucky Derby, it was revealed today in a partial list of principal wagers.

Abe Hollow, New York commissioner, has bet $5,000 to win and $3,000 to show on Mata Hari at 10 to 1 and 3 to 1. Kearney said Hollow probably placed the wagers for New York clients. Included in the list receiver from the New Yorker are $1,000 to win and $1,000 to show on Singing Wood at 15 to 1 and 4 to 1.

HURLERS WORRY CRONIN AS SENATORS LOSE 5TH GAME IN EIGHT STARTS

STANDINGS

Table showing National League and American League standings with columns for team, wins, losses, and percentage.

Among the numerous problems which have arisen to plague major league managers is the big one which faces Washington's Joe Cronin—what's wrong with the Senators pitching?

Last season it was largely the hurling of the senatorial "Big Four," Alvin Crowder, Earl Whitehill, Monte Weaver and Walter Stewart, which carried the Nats to the American league championship.

So far this season the standing of the club shows Washington in seventh place with three victories and five defeats.

Trimmed by Red Sox Walter Stewart made his second unsuccessful start of the season yesterday as the Senators opened their home season and took a 5 to 0 trimming from the Red Sox.

With 25,000 fans including President Roosevelt, looking on, the slender southpaw pitched four shut-out innings. Then a rainstorm held up the game for an hour and when it was resumed, Manager Cronin decided to turn the hill over to Jack Russell.

The Sox belted him out in one inning scoring three runs and clouted Crowder for two more before Bob Burke finished up. Johnny Welch, meanwhile, limited the champions to five hits.

While Oral Hildebrand hurled four hit ball, the Cleveland Indians clouted four St. Louis fingers for 19 hits, including a pair of homers by Hal Trosky and won 15 to 2. Detroit's Tigers subdued the White Sox 7-3 in another slug-fest.

Forty thousand fans turned out to see Charley Ruffing of the New York Yankees and John Marcum of the Philadelphia Athletics book up in a great pitching duel which Ruffing won when Frank Crosetti belted a home run in the sixth for the only run of the game. Each twirler allowed league victory.

The Chicago Cubs won their sixth straight National League victory, a 3-2 decision from the Cincinnati Reds, scoring all their runs off Dazzy Vance in the first inning. Right on the Cubs' heels came the world champion Giants with an 11-7 triumph over the Phillies, gained largely by a pair of fly balls run ampie by Pitcher Hal Schumacher and Mel Ott. A homer by Freddy Lindstrom with two on in the ninth gave Pittsburgh a 5-4 decision over the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Boston Braves found a near relative in Walter Beck, big Brooklyn right-hander, and won their first home game 5-3.

Accident or Crime?

A SICKENING thud on the tan-bark. A split second of agonized silence—then pandemonium. Down a rope slides a white-faced performer, to throw herself hysterically at the side of the crumpled figure of her partner.

A deplorable accident, the manager explained hurriedly. Accident—or revenge? Had somebody tampered with the braces that held the trapeze in position, to send an innocent victim hurtling to tragedy? Who was the criminal?

Read the startling sequel to this scene in Beulah Poynter's absorbing "back of the canvas" novel of circus life.

DERBY FANS LOOK EAST FOR DOPE ON CLASSIC

Shenandoah Purse at Havre De Grace Expected to Answer Questions as to Ability of Several Eligibles for Race on May 5.

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—(AP)—Louisville's Derby enthusiasts, with nothing but workouts to judge the merits of candidate training here, turned today to the East where a smart band of eligibles for the Kentucky Derby, May 5, was entered in the Shenandoah purse at Havre De Grace over a mile and 70 yards.

The result of this test was expected to furnish an answer to questions concerning the ability of Mrs. I. D. Sloane's Cavalcade, considered in many circles to be the most serious Eastern threat in the Derby. Cavalcade was coupled with Mrs. Sloane's Anarchy today. C. V. Whitney's Jabot, one of the three outstanding fillies nominated for the Derby, was coupled with lateral, a Whitney colt, and others in the field were Col. E. R. Bradley's Boy Valet, Mrs. Frank J. Heller's Agrarian and William Woodward's Firecolt, all eligible for the Kentucky Derby.

Gov. Ruby Laffoon has issued a call for all members of "the honorable order of Kentucky Colonels" to attend the first annual banquet of the organization here on Derby eve, May 4.

Among the notables invited, all of whom are Kentucky Colonels, are Postmaster-General James A. Farley, Col. Louis McHenry Howe, Clark Gable, Mae West, Eddie Cantor, Will Rogers, Irvin S. Cobb, Thomas D. Taggart, Eddie Dowling and Mr. and Mrs. Morton Downey.

Officers will be elected at the banquet. Its sponsors say the organization's motto is "let there be no more time than necessary between mint juleps."

INSULL IS BITTER AGAINST TURKEY

Says Turks Had No Right to Take Him from Steam-er at Istanbul.

S. S. Exlons, April 25.—Headed out to sea again, on the last leg of the voyage which will end with his trial in Chicago, Samuel Insull, Sr., today revealed his personal story of his detention in Turkey.

The aged man, who eluded American authorities 18 months, was up early today despite a slight heart attack which he suffered last night before the ship sailed from Casablanca, Morocco.

He appeared in good health today. Looking back on events, Insull was quick to admit that his decision to melt his escape ship, the S. S. Miotis, during its passage of the Black Sea was the error that precipitated his downfall. Nevertheless, it was understood that his ship would have been stopped by the Turks if it had not heaved to of its own accord.

Legally, he insists, the Miotis position sound under the terms of the Bosphorus Straits Treaty which gives ships stopping for less than 24 hours the privilege of transit and accompanying guarantees.

Blames the Turks of obliging him to remain in the harbor at Istanbul beyond the moment he was obliged to set foot on shore after the ship had overstayed its transit limit.

He says, however, that he was astounded when he was transferred from a hotel to the detention prison. He does not complain of his treatment there but says that eating and sleeping were problems, first because the nearby Turkish restaurant from which he had his meals brought was because there was no adequate shading facilities over the prison windows and the morning light awakened him.

Watched Spectators He says that he often peered out of the window during his 10-12 days stay to watch spectators who looked up at him from the street below.

Insull insists he was not a prisoner in Istanbul but was just under detention, pointing out that he occupied a room in the administrative suite rather than being herded in with the ordinary inmates.

No hopeless did Insull consider the situation that he says he told his lawyers there was no use spending money in Istanbul and legal moves. They insisted there was still a possibility of hope so he finally allowed them to proceed.

The efforts to lodge an appeal against the detention came to an end April 13 and on that day Insull was taken from prison and started on his homeward trip.

Insull is most bitter toward the Turkish attitude throughout the case but his feeling does not extend to the personalities concerned in it. This was indicated when he bade a warm farewell to the Turkish police escort after the extradition formalities aboard the Exlons at Smyrna, telling them that if he ever returns to Turkey he would not fail to look them up.

Silent in Charges Insull seldom discusses the charges awaiting him in the United States. When he feels inclined to mention the matter at all he makes only passing reference to it and insists he has no definite plan for meeting the situation there.

On those occasions he pictures himself as "a failure." He once said the greatest mistake of his career was that he did not foresee the extent of the after effects of the World War on American business.

As the Exlons makes her way homeward, he is much in evidence among the passengers. He spends long days basking in the sun on deck and reading or chatting in the salon.

Despite the grave accusations of fraudulent bankruptcy and mail fraud which are taking him back, he is quick to respond to humor, often is the first to laugh and laughs the most loudly.

He is one of the heartiest eaters on the ship but does not drink. He is fond of staying up late at night and sits for hours after dinner discussing politics, business and a wide range of other subjects. If he feels any bitterness toward the present American authorities, he successfully conceals it.

WATCH WASHINGTON FOR FAR EAST MOVE

Let others read it as they will." This was the reply to requests for further elucidation of the declaration in which Japan claimed responsibility for maintenance of the peace in Eastern Asia warning other powers not to threaten tranquility by activities in China.

The spokesman reiterated Japan has no intention of interfering with European and American powers in their Asiatic possessions.

"We have no intention," he said, "of promoting independence movements in the Philippines, Indo-China, or elsewhere."

The British ambassador to Tokyo, Sir Francis Lindley, visited Foreign Minister Koki Hirota this afternoon and delivered the request of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon for a further elucidation of Japan's new policy.

Particularly, the British government sought an exposition of Japanese intentions regarding British activities in China.

Hirota remained silent concerning the matter today. He will speak before prefectural governors here on May 4 and some newspapers quoted him as promising an explanation to Washington and other capitals to allay suspicion.

It was learned from an official source that the interview between Sir Francis and Hirota lasted about 40 minutes. Confined to oral questions with no notes presented, it was conducted through an interpreter.

The participants agreed to maintain secrecy. It was understood Hirota declined a British request for an agreement to publish Sir John Simon's instructions to the British ambassador.

No U. S. Orders Other United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew had received no instructions to make inquiries regarding the declaration at the foreign office, although it was understood the American State Department had asked the Embassy for a copy of the translation of Tokyo press statements.

In further informal discussions today, high officials dismissed as unworthy of serious consideration suggestions that Yokoyama's statements at Geneva could be interpreted as indicating Japan's intentions to encourage Asiatic dependencies to shake off the bonds of American and European powers.

One official declared Yokoyama's statements were without specific instructions from or approval by the foreign office. Like the official foreign office spokesman, he refused to discuss the matter further.

"Enough has already been said," the official said. This seemed to be the keynote of the general authoritative attitude.

AWAIT CONFERENCE

London, April 25.—(AP)—The British government kept an attentive ear turned toward the Far East today as it cautiously refrained from commitments awaiting results of the ambassador's conference with Japanese officials.

Morgenthau's Letter Secretary Morgenthau submitted the list with a letter of transmittal to Edwin A. Halsey, secretary of the Senate, saying it completed the names of large silver holders with the exception of cases in which the investigation was not finished.

His letter follows: "I am submitting herewith the remainder of the list of the indicated holders of spot silver and silver futures as of January 31, 1934, as to which information appears to be complete.

"In the course of the inquiry the names of certain other persons and firms have appeared as owners of spot silver and silver futures as of January 31, 1934, as to which information appears to be complete.

"Since further investigation would be required to complete the information in many of these cases, I shall transmit these names to the chairman of the committee on banking and currency which has cooperated in making the inquiry. If further information in this matter should come to me, I shall be glad to turn it over to the same committee."

"Why do girls giggle so much?" asks one of your columnist's friends. That's easy—it's because they are girls. If you were a girl, you'd giggle, too.

The Add Test
A poem may get published, but it will not be so hot. For when the reader sees it he'll skip it, like as not; The test of a worthwhile poem—I know what I write about—Is when the reader scans it then says: "I'll clip this out!"

"I'm not much of a mathematician," said Mr. Poor Pay, "but I can add to the merchant's troubles. MULTIPLY his inches and pails, SUBTRACT from his earnings, DIVIDE his attention, TAKE INTEREST from his work and DISCOUNT HIS CHANCES FOR SUCCESS."

And speaking of credit troubles—there is a colored man running a small grocery store on the Greensboro Road, North Carolina highway, who is evidently having his credit troubles as he has the following sign in his window:
KWITTIN THE CREDIT BUSINESS TILL I GET MY OUTFITS IN.

Joe—Did you hear about the woman who started for the grocery store with three children, but when she returned home she had six?
Sam—No, how come?
Joe—The kids ate a lot of green apples and doubled up.

"The country is behind you, Mr. President!"
Yes, and some of it is quite a ways behind.

Getting into a boy's heart seems to be a girl's sole aim in life... A good son is a boy whose father doesn't have money enough to keep him in trouble...
