HEALTH OF CHILDREN GUARDED IN SCHOOLS

Manchester Youngsters Get Benefit of Excellent Medical Service — Designed as Auxiliary Not Substitute for Care of Family Physician.

Today being Child Health Day in Connecticut by proclamation of Governor Wilbur L. Cross, Superintendent of Schools F. A. Verplanck gave a brief outline of the health program that is being conducted in the public schools of Manchester throughout the school year.

Not Family Doctor It is pointed out that parents often have an erroneous conception of the purpose of the medical inspector in the school system. He is not a substitute for the family physician. He will, of course, apply first aid measures to injuries sustained in school; but beyond this the school doctor is not to play any part in the treatment of physical defects. Such care properly belongs within the province of the child's own physician.

The school physician is primarily a public health official, interested in preserving the health of the children in school. To accomplish this aim he must exercise supervision over the sanitary aspects of the school buildings in order to ensure a healthful environment for the child. He must keep close watch for the presence of communicable disease and take proper precautions to minimize its spread.

Correct Defects A major feature of his work consists in the physical examination of the school child. This examination is made, solely in the interest of the child, to detect any defect that may prove a detriment to health. No part of the existence of such defects is sent to parents with the hope that early correction may prevent the formation of permanent physical handicaps.

Increasing numbers of parents are bringing their children to the physician for examination while they are presumably well. It remains a fact, however, that for the majority of the children who make up the public school population, the physician is never consulted except during acute and often only during severe illness. The school physician and nurse are often the only agents whose mission it is to watch for trouble while the child seems well and to attempt to forestall it. The physician, as well as the parents is interested only in the good of the child. He needs the co-operation of the parents so that he may be helped to make every school child 100 per cent fit—nourished, keen sight and hearing, free from dental decay, sound in heart, lung and limb, and mentally and emotionally adjusted to life.

Present Staff Under the present set-up in Manchester schools, there are two school physicians and a nurse, the latter giving full time to the work. The doctors visit every school in town once each day and are on call at other times when need for their presence arises.

More than 95 per cent of the local school children are vaccinated. The small remaining number are not, having been certified by physicians as not physically able to undergo vaccination.

For the past six years a campaign has been conducted in Manchester schools against diphtheria, children being immunized against the sickness. At the present time, better than 95 per cent of the children have been immunized. The remaining group has not been immunized due to the fact that the upper grades and high school were not in the campaign. In the current campaign, which is now nearing its close, 238 children have been immunized against diphtheria, two doses of toxoid being given one month apart to children in grades from one through six. This is done only with the written permission of parents by the school physicians at no cost to the parent. Toxoid is furnished by the state. There has been no case of diphtheria in the schools this year.

FRANCIS C. COLEY, RAIL HEAD, DIES

General Passenger Traffic Manager of the New Haven Passes Away.

New Haven, May 1.—(AP)—Francis Chase Coley, 68, general passenger traffic manager of the New Haven railroad system died today after a short illness which began last Thursday from a heart attack.

Coley had gone to Providence in the Burlington road's "Streamline" train when he suffered a heart attack. He was brought back to his apartment in Hotel Taft, where he died. His home was in Westport, Conn.

Coley was with the New Haven road 46 years starting as a stenographer on Long Wharf in 1888. After three months he was transferred to the passenger traffic department with which he remained generally until his death. On August 1, 1905 he was appointed assistant general traffic agent. In 1908, he took over passenger traffic duties of the New England Navigation Company, a subsidiary of the road. On January 19, 1922 he was appointed general passenger traffic agent of the New Haven. On July 1, 1924 he became general passenger traffic manager of the New Haven and the New England transportation companies.

Coley was born in Monroe, Conn., January 15, 1866. He had lived most of his life in Westport. He leaves his widow, Cornelia Beach Coley, a son, James Howard, II, of Westport, a daughter, Cornelia Coley Lathrop of Toledo, Ohio, a brother, the Rev. Edward H. Coley of Utica, N. Y., and a sister, Mrs. W. G. Staples of Westport.

The fraternal connections of Coley included the American Association of Traffic Officers, General Eastern Traffic Association; the New England Traffic Club; the New Haven Railroad Club; the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce and the Cape Cod Chamber of Commerce.

The funeral will be from St. Thomas church, Elm street, this city Thursday at 2 p. m. (d. s. t.) and burial will be at Westport.

MOST FARMS IN STATE ARE NOW ELECTRIFIED

Connecticut One of Six to Pass 50 P. C. Mark—Three Are New England States.

Connecticut today is one of the only six states in the Union which have more than half of their farms wired and equipped for electric service, according to a report of the Edison Electric Institute. At the present time, 9,084 or about 53 per cent of Connecticut's 17,195 farms are receiving service from the power and light utilities, a fact which puts the State in fifth place in the matter of farm electrification.

This farm electrification is progressing most rapidly in this section of the country is shown in the Institute's tabulation by the fact that of the six states in which more than half the farms are electrified three are New England states. Of the 3,322 farms in Rhode Island, 89.7 per cent or 1,922 have been electrified, while Massachusetts has equipped 14,422 or 66.3 per cent of its 25,988 farms for power and light service. Vermont, although not yet over the 50 per cent mark, follows with 49.6 per cent farm electrification.

The other states whose rural territories are more than half electrified are in the Far West, California leading with 80 per cent and being trailed closely by Nevada with 58.5 per cent and Washington with 52.3 per cent. Also, 60 per cent of the 104 farms in the District of Columbia are wired for service.

Power companies in Connecticut have been striving for more than ten years to bring about electrification of the State's rural areas. The problem, however, has been a difficult one, for the investment needed for pole lines and other equipment to bring electricity to the farmer was unwarranted unless the latter could use a sufficient amount of current to make the extensions of service profitable both for the company and himself.

In order to bring this about, experiments and demonstrations had to be conducted to show the farmer the many operations in which electricity could substitute for hand labor at a saving for the farmer. County farm committees were formed to cooperate with the electric utilities in bringing about rate agreements equitable to both sides.

BURR NURSERY WORKERS BACK

Strikers Return to Jobs After Being Idle About One Week.

The strike which started at the C. R. Burr Nursery last week and spread to the Vanderbrook Nursery the same day, came to an end this morning.

Last evening men in the employ of the Burr company called at the homes of different workers who had left their jobs informing them that there would be work for them at the nursery this morning. All were not seen, but the news spread and this morning nearly all who had left their work reported at the plant. There was work for nearly all of them. About ten did not return.

There was work getting out shipments, which have been held up because of the lack of experienced workers, although outside help was brought in while the men and women were on strike. Wage adjustments were made in some cases, but for the majority the same wage scale prevailed as before the walk-out. At the Vanderbrook Nursery the

TUESDAY, MAY 1

MAY DAY

Mayday, though a holiday of great antiquity, never made much of a hit in this country until...

That, possibly, makes it a particularly favorable time for the hurrying of strikes, in more ways than one...

It is the time of year above all others when there is a natural tendency to shirk and dawdle and go out and sit in the sun...

It is even to be suspected that there may have been a double purpose in fixing on Mayday as a good day for proletarian demonstrations...

Over in Hartford they are making a "slum clearance survey."

Slum clearance is one of the numerous fads that have cropped up in connection with the New Deal and which have about as little to do with the problem of industrial and economic recovery as the Einstein theory...

SHACK SLUMS

malange and if you are going to be very modern indeed your community has to make a gesture in its direction...

Well, they have been making the survey and the head surveyor has reported that a certain shack area, known as Columbia Gardens, in which live some 47 families totaling 181 persons, presents "the worst type of slum known to the social worker" and should be utterly eliminated...

We have never seen Columbia Gardens but we have seen plenty of other shack settlements in other places and in other times, including the famous Shantytown of Manhattan, last vestiges of which survived long at Sixty-third Street and Central Park West...

This particular social purveyor lets the cat's nose out of the bag when he points out that almost all the families living in this particular shack area have employed bread winners "and could undoubtedly afford to pay rent."

Only a minority of any population can even see anything picturesque about them. But whether life in them is any less happy or any less wholesome morally or any less wholesome physically than life in the ordinary tenement house habitation of the poor is open to question.

Message of the sore nerves is not advisable as this usually only increases the pain. A general body massage over the parts that are not sore may be successful.

In the present instance, however, there have been so many carrier signs of nuttiness that the no-trespassing sign occasions only very slight surprise.

grandeur will lead a psychopathic case. At all events, Uncle Sam isn't going to be frightened off by this phony no-trespassing sign.

QUESTIONS

The ABC class of American citizens would like to know a few things about the New Deal which nobody yet has explained to it.

It is more important that the manufacturers of the extremely costly materials for warships should get a whack at the treasury than that several hundred thousand men should be continued in the jobs whereby they have been supporting their families?

Health and Diet Advice

THE DIET FOR NEURALGIA

I have found that practically every case of neuralgia can be cured by dietetic measures alone, although here are a few cases which require manipulative or special treatments.

During this fasting period a relief from the pain may be had by the application of heat from hot water bottles, bags of hot salt, etc., or from a deep therapy lamp.

Even though the pain may disappear shortly after beginning this fast, it is well to continue for a time so that you will have no recurrence of the trouble.

Only Tax Payers Vote. The senate, however, rejected that plan and the local elections will be held on a register of "rated occupiers," or tax-paying households.

This will mean that the youth element, which has no very great responsibilities and has supported Piana Felt, the president's party, through thick and thin, will have no chance to make itself felt.

Those who will vote would be those who have stood to lose or gain by the national government's policy, thus giving rise to the feeling that the elections will give a fair index to the opinions of tax payers.

to give you strength. You cannot stock the stomach like a furnace and expect the food to be converted into energy.

Question: Mary G. writes: "I have an infected finger under and behind the nail. How can I kill the infection?"

Answer: You are probably over the infection now before you read this answer. It is unwise for any of my correspondents to wait for an answer in this column in order to find out how to treat an acute trouble.

Question: E. A. writes: "I have recently undergone an operation for the removal of a stone in the bladder. Would be grateful if you would advise me a diet so as to guard against a recurrence of this trouble."

Answer: No special diet is needed except to cut down the quantity of food, use good combinations, and then should drink at least two glasses of water every half hour.

DEVALERA TEST SEEN IN IRISH JUNE BALLOTS

Dublin—(AP)—Attended by an importance unique in the nation's history, local elections will be held June 26 throughout the Free State.

President De Valera had hoped that before this appeal was made to the country his new system of full adult suffrage, which applies to parliamentary elections, would be in force.

Those who will vote would be those who have stood to lose or gain by the national government's policy, thus giving rise to the feeling that the elections will give a fair index to the opinions of tax payers.

With both political parties testing their strength, the possibility of bitterness finding an outlet in disorder has not been overlooked and President De Valera has made it clear that all forces at his disposal will be used to maintain peace.

Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

Beware of the Porcupine! Hurry! Has Quills and Foes Nurrs Wounds... Tinkham Gives Horse a Treat... Hurdy-Gurdy Turns That Long-Hunted Corner.

By RODNEY DUTCHER (The Herald's Washington Correspondent.)

Washington, May 1.—"Don't never touch a porcupine unless you expect to get some feathers in you!" That homely warning from Huey Long to his fellow senators reeks with as much truth as Senator Pat Harrison's assurance that Huey is the least respected man in the Senate.

Detested as he is, Huey has quills. From that angle, respect for him is mounting. You can pour vias of scorn on him, but it's a bad bargain if you get your skin full o' thorns in return.

Senators in states contiguous to Louisiana worry lest Huey enter their territory and campaign against their re-election. Many of their constituents are the type of folks who elect Huey.

He invaded Arkansas to put over Mrs. Hattie Caraway against the wishes of Majority Leader Joe Robinson, the other Arkansas Senator.

When Robinson tried to squelch Huey last year, Long exposed extensive "power trust" connections of Joe's law firm and effectively branded him as a reactionary.

When Pat Harrison defied Robinson against Long's attacks the other day he found himself forced to explain a $15,000 note bearing his name which Long said was "part of the bankrupt assets of closed banks in Mississippi."

Unfortunately, its substance is not quite as new as its form. An odd mixture of stream-of-consciousness, moving picture cutbacks, and straightforward narrative, it is one of the most unusual novels of the year.

CONNECTICUT MARINES HELPED MAKE HISTORY

Sea Soldiers from This State Have Served in Every War, Expedition and Campaign.

Washington, D. C., May 1.—Tales of exploits on land and sea in which Connecticut Marines bore a gallant part, are recounted by Lt. Col. Edwin N. McClellan, of the Marine Corps, who is writing a history of the soldiers of the sea.

His researches have revealed many stirring episodes, dating back to the days of wooden ships and not always in harmony with each other and the embryo nation was struggling to find its true place in the sun.

Connecticut was endeavoring to make its position more secure when the United Colonies of Hartford and New Haven employed a small schooner, carrying 10 guns and 40 men, to patrol Long Island Sound about the year 1647. Their object was to prevent encroachments by the Dutch and to maintain communications with a settlement on the opposite shore.

Late the colony was involved in expeditions against the French or Spanish. Connecticut Marines joined the colonies in a successful expedition against the French at Fort Royal, in what is now called Nova Scotia, in 1710, furnishing five transports and a number of men.

British Marines joined the colonists in this venture, and one of the regiments was led by Colonel Whiting of Connecticut.

When trouble developed in the West Indies in 1741, two companies of Connecticut Marines, led by Captains Winslow and Prescott, were with the colonial sea soldiers who served under Admiral Vernon in his campaign against the Spanish at Cartagena and elsewhere.

They were known as Spotswood's or Gooch's Marines and were forerunners of the present Marine Corps.

From Connecticut went the first American patriots called "Marines" into an offensive operation of the Revolution. They were with a group led by Silas Deane, and were prepared to serve as seamen or marines on board such vessels known to be afloat on Lake Champlain.

Some of these Connecticut Marines assisted in the capture of a small schooner on Lake Champlain on May 9, 1775. It was renamed Liberty, and was the first war vessel of the American Navy. They served aboard that vessel and also on the sloop Enterprise, captured a few days later. During the same month eight marines guarded a large sum of money sent from Hartford to Fort Ticonderoga, where men and money were needed.

Connecticut sea soldiers served on all the State's warships, including the Oliver Cromwell, Whiting, Defense, Crane, Shark, Spy and others. They were well represented in the Battle of Lake Champlain on the vessels of Arnold's Fleet.

Since the stirring days of the Revolution sea soldiers from Connecticut have served in every war, expedition and campaign in which our naval forces were engaged, even taking part in expeditions to far-off Formosa, Sumatra, Korea and the Fiji Islands. Five hundred of them served in the Marine Corps during the World War.

In their long years of service to the country, Lt. Col. McClellan points out: "Connecticut citizens wearing the uniform of American Marines have added to the laurels of the Corps, the prestige of Connecticut and the honor of the United States."

STILL WITHOUT COUNTRY.

Paris, May 1.—(AP)—Leon Trotsky is on an automobile tour of France, but neither he nor France cares to prolong it.

Authorities have ordered him to continue traveling, guarded by a French detective, so as to withdraw from public attention while his fate is being decided. Trotsky, however, must keep at a distance of 100 miles from Paris at all times.

The fifteen days of grace granted him in which to find a haven will expire in 48 hours, but as yet no country has been found which will admit him.

NEW ROAD MAP TO HELP TRAVEL

State to Revise Present System to Assist Drivers "Off the Beaten Path."

The state highway department is preparing a new map of the Connecticut highway system which will include a new method for enabling motorists to orient themselves more readily than heretofore, Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald announced today. The map, which will be the first revision since the wholesale rearrangement of route numbers in 1932 for the purpose of facilitating travel, will be ready for distribution by summer, Commissioner Macdonald said.

At some 860 points in the state where improved roads other than those on the state highway system intersect with trunkline and state aid roads, metal signs bearing numbers will be erected. These will be easily distinguishable from the yellow and black warning signs and the black and white direction signs both in shape and color. They will be oblong in shape, 12 inches wide by nine inches high, with rounded corners. They will be painted white and each will contain a black oval enclosing the numbers used to designate its particular location. The numbers will also be black.

On the map at the points corresponding to the locations thus designated on the highways will be placed the corresponding numbers. These numbers will be printed in smaller type than those digits used to identify the trunkline and state aid routes. By referring to his map when he sees one of these new signs on the roads the motorist will be able quickly to learn his exact location and to orient himself.

The new system will be particularly beneficial to the motorist who likes to get away from the "beaten path" of concrete and macadam, and to drive along the improved rural roads in search of new scenery.

Often when taking such tours the motorist is apt to become "lost." After driving some miles over the country roads, he emerges on one of the main highways and looks about in bewilderment for some landmark that will tell him just where he is. Perhaps he drives miles in the wrong direction before being able to orient himself. With the new markers installed at each intersection of improved rural roads with a "trunkline or state" aid route, reference to the new map will serve to set him straight instantly.

FIRE DESTROYS ARMORIES.

Dundas, Ont., May 1.—(AP)—The Dundas armories were leveled today by flames which swept through the 75-year-old structure from an ammunition store room. Loss was tentatively estimated at $160,000. An explosion preceded the flames.

Lives of firemen were endangered as the heat exploded cartridges stored in the armories. In the store room where the fire was believed to have originated there was a quantity of rifle cartridges and 260 uniforms.

When the fire was brought under control at dawn today, only the officers' mess hall was still standing.

CONGRESSMAN HIGGINS HOPES TO RUN AGAIN

Says He Would Be Pleased to Accept Renomination "If Party Wants Me."

"Are you to be a candidate for renomination?" was the question put to Dr. William L. Higgins, Congressman from the Second Connecticut district, in his office in Room 1631, House Office building, by William V. Sweeney, local Herald correspondent, while in Washington several days ago.

"That remains without saying," replied Dr. Higgins, who hails from South Coventry, and who held numerous state offices in Connecticut including secretary of state for eight years.

"I should be very much pleased to accept a renomination if the party wants me," continued Dr. Higgins in discussing the political situation both in Connecticut and Washington.

Dr. Higgins stated that with the "home troubles" adjusted, he is now well acquainted with his duties and is enthusiastic with the work as a Congressman.

Among the accomplishments of his office, Dr. Higgins mentioned the nomination of George H. Robertson as postmaster at South Coventry, which nomination was confirmed by the Senate Wednesday, April 18.

NEW FRIGIDAIRE UNIT GREATLY IN DEMAND

Trade reports from all parts of the United States obtained by Frigidaire Corporation, refrigeration and air conditioning subsidiary of General Motors, indicate a continuing increase in the food retailing business throughout 1934, according to Kemp's, Inc., representing Frigidaire in this section.

This optimistic resume of business conditions was received by Mr. Kemp in connection with announcement by Frigidaire of a new Flowing Cold line of commercial refrigeration equipment, said to be the most complete ever presented.

"An exhaustive survey conducted by Frigidaire," said Mr. Kemp, "shows a pent up demand for refrigerating equipment for markets, groceries, delicatessens, restaurants and hotels."

"This already is having an effect on manufacturing and the demand has even exceeded expectations. With competition keener than ever, food merchants are recognizing that proper refrigeration is necessary in order to insure success. For the housewife of today demands that the merchant she patronizes shall take the same precautions for the protection of the food she buys that she does in her own home."

SENSE and NONSENSE

THE TRUTH
While man has seven ages, a woman has but three—
Her real one, what friends think, and what she claims to be.

Summer can't be very far away—the girls are wearing fall hats.

Man—Times certainly have changed.
Friend—I'll say. We used to see odd things in a dime museum; now we buy them in a dime store.

SOME GIRLS THINK THAT CLOTHES SHOULD BE MADE TO ORDER, AND SOME THINK THAT HUSBANDS SHOULD BE MADE TO ORDER ABOUT.

A speaker engaged to lecture in a small town arrived the afternoon of his appearance. Deciding to see what the villagers thought of his coming he entered a store.

Speaker—Any entertainment going on here tonight? Anything that will help me to pass an evening?
Clerk—Well, I expect there's going to be a lecture. I've been selling eggs all day.

The trouble with the man who knows it all is that he can't keep it to himself.

Cherry Philosopher—I believe that for every single thing you give away, two will come back to you.
Listener—Yes, that's true. Last fall I gave away my daughter and now she and her husband have both come to live on me.

LISTEN WORLD . . . Time flies, and no airship has been able to beat it. . . If there is any knocking to be done let opportunity do it. . . Much of a man's interest in a woman is due to his inability to understand her. . . If a man is a financial success people overlook the means that made him so. . . it doesn't take a girl long to catch a husband after she begins to pose as a man-hater. . . The poorer a man is the more he favors an income tax. . . Some men sit on others while trying to stand up for themselves. . . Keep an eye on your friends; you know what to expect of your enemies. . . The chain stores are a nation wide example of the profit in order and cleanliness.

Musician (after much pressing)—Well, all right, since you insist. What shall I play?
Boss—Anything you like. It is only to annoy the neighbors.

"IT CERTAINLY WOULD BE A GREAT SAVING," SAYS A LOCAL MAN, "IF SOMEONE WOULD DISCOVER A WAY TO MAKE A SUN TAN LAST TWO SEASONS."

Boss—My wife heard that I took you out to dinner the other evening.
Stenographer—Well, what does that make me?
Boss—That makes you my former stenographer.

A hypocrite is a man who thinks if he goes to church every Sunday it will be easier to get by with what he does during the rest of the week.

The Big Blonde in the front office says: "For every one boy who gives you an ache in the heart you'll find ten who'll give you a pain in the neck."

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

No insect will attack the banana, which is also immune from disease.

The Bank of England has its own water supply. One artesian well, 400 feet deep, gives a supply of 7,000 gallons an hour.

The amount of capital from other countries invested in Canada exceeds $7,000,000,000.

The cow tree of Venezuela contains a milky latex in its stem; this is consumed by natives as milk is consumed in other countries.

The outer skin of the body is almost germ-proof.

In the 1930 Canadian census, every domestic living creature, down to the house cat and bee, was counted. Town dwellers had to answer only 40 questions against the 600 put to farmers.

There are at least 60 stars to every man, woman, and child on earth.

Among the ancient Greeks and Romans, almanacs or calendars were not written for the public, but were preserved as part of the esoteric learning of the priests.

Two different piles of ruins in Babylonia are diversely credited with being remnants of the tower whose building caused the confusion of tongues, the Tower of Babel.

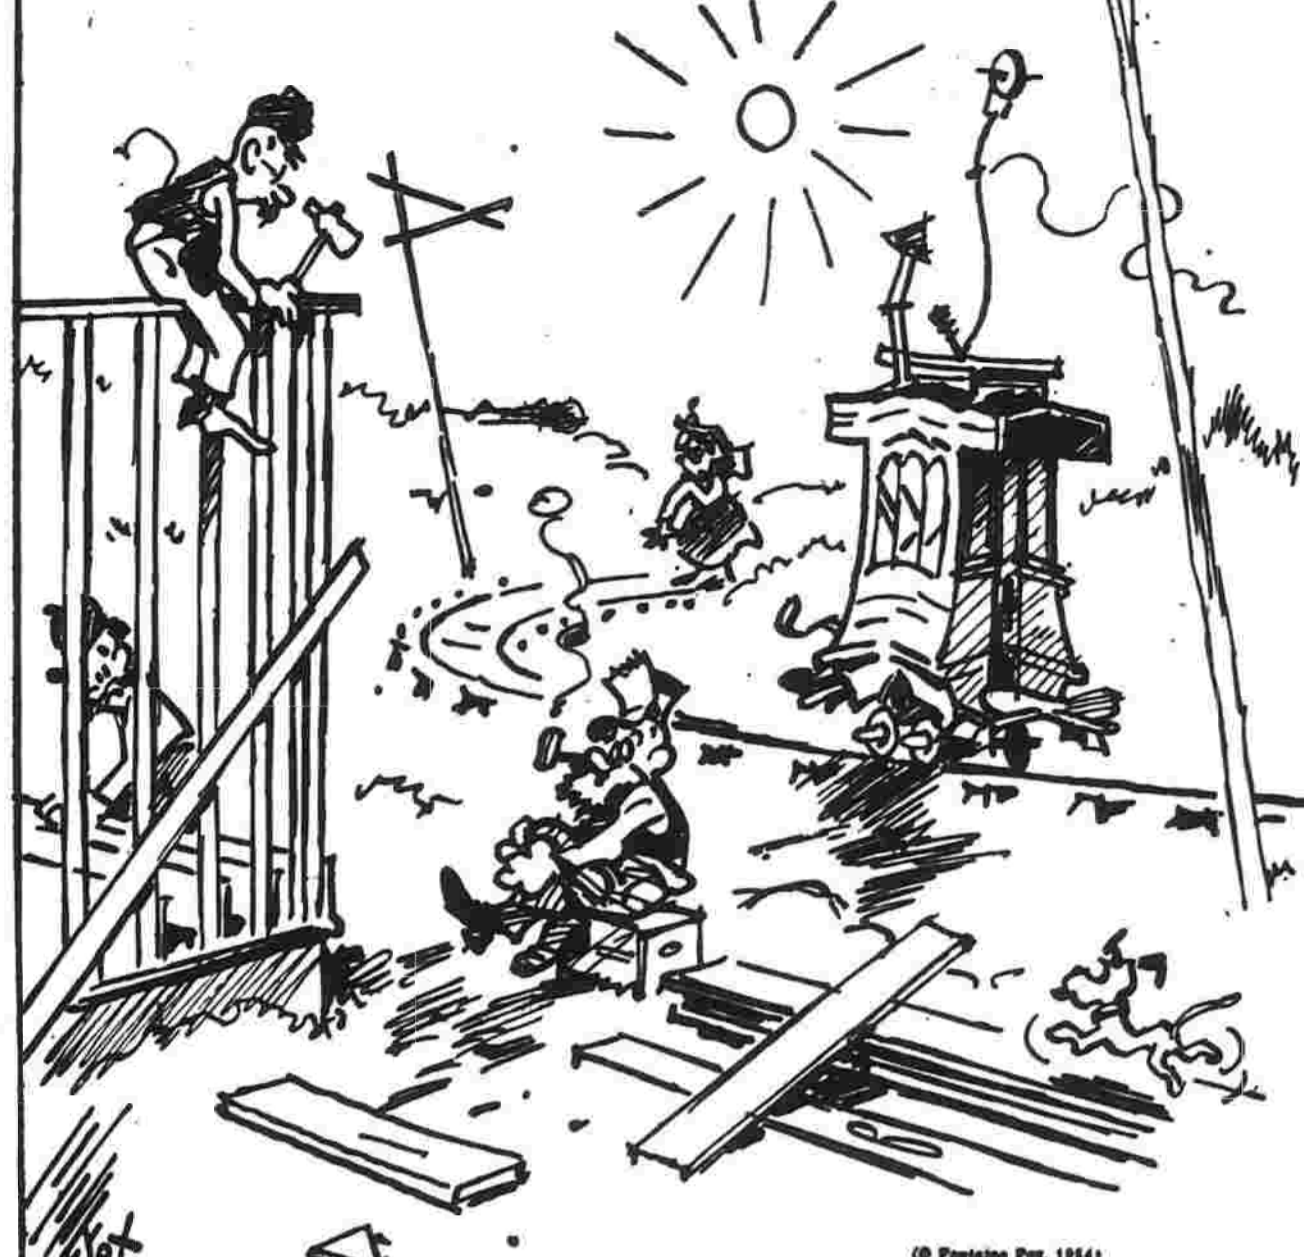

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Trying on a new hat is often trying on—husbands.
