

TO SUSPEND WORK IN SILK MILLS TO EASE THE MARKET

Cheney Brothers Affected by Code Authority Orders Issued Yesterday — No Productive Jobs to Operate for One Week; Means Loss of $40,000 in Payroll Money to Town.

Cheney Brothers and 900 other silk mills throughout the country are to shut down for a week beginning May 14 as a step toward curtailing production, stabilizing the industry and easing the market which at present is glutted with silk fabrics.

The order from the Code Authority of the Silk Textile Industry follows: "The Code authority for the Silk Textile Industry, in order to meet conditions now prevailing in that industry, and in accordance with the provisions of NRA Administrative Order No. 48-3, signed by Hugh S. Johnson, administrator for Industrial Recovery under date of December 23, 1933, and with the approval of the government administration members on the code authority, hereby orders each and every machine operating under the Silk Textile Code for the employers' own account or on commission, on or in connection with broad dress fabrics, underwear fabrics, special fabrics, and tie fabrics, to cease all operation during the week of May 14 to 21, 1934."

"Where an employer in the industry believes that the immediate circumstances in his case justify the undue hardship which will result from the prescribed curtailment, such employer may petition the code authority for an exemption therefrom and shall submit to the code authority as prescribed the essential facts and documents to support his petition. The code authority shall consider and investigate the facts submitted and shall take appropriate action thereon. Pending disposition of such petition, the employer shall comply with this order. The petitioning employer may appeal to the administrator in the decision of the code authority."

Studying Situation Under the second paragraph of the above order Cheney Brothers are studying the possibility of operating certain departments which are essential for the delivery of goods sold for immediate shipment. Detailed announcements of the departments to operate will be made later.

Howell Cheney, secretary of the firm, told The Herald today that Cheney Brothers hope to be allowed to complete production on orders now in process and which must be

STEAMER DAMAGED; STRIKES A SHARK

Officers Report Odd Collision With 45 Foot Specimen in Southern Waters.

New York, May 3.—(AP)—The liner Santa Lucia was in port from Central America today with her stem bent to starboard from a collision with a huge 45-foot whale shark, which was impaled on the bow April 25 in the Gulf of Darien.

In his report of the incident, First Officer A. E. Richards said the shark was of extremely rare species. First indication of something wrong came at about 7:30 p. m. on April 25, when a slight shock was felt. The lookout reported a whale against the bow.

Richards said flood lights were rigged up and the big creature could be seen pressed against the stem by the pressure of the water, caused by the liner's nineteen-knot speed. The head extended about ten feet to one side and the tail about 35 feet along the port side.

Speed Reduced The first officer said the whale shark remained across the bow all night, reduced the speed about half knot and causing the ship to vibrate as the body twisted about in the sea.

FRANCE TO STRETCH MILITARY SERVICE

Government Sees Danger in Hitler's Policy to Increase the Army in Germany.

Paris, May 3.—(AP)—France is considering lengthening military service in the face of the danger the government sees in the policies of Chancellor Adolf Hitler, it was learned authoritatively today.

Premier Gaston Doumergue, reliable sources said, is backing a proposal by Marshal Henri Petain, war minister, to increase by one year the 12-months conscript service until eventually it reaches possibly two years.

The French Parliament has been hostile to such a measure but the reduction in births during the World War has resulted in diminishing the size of the army and the Cabinet favors a bold action to keep France strong in a situation the government regards as full of danger.

The program has been drawn by the general staff, which is fearful that the present year of training is inadequate in view of the powerful professional German army which the French declare is constantly being increased in size.

Since the war the length of service steadily has been decreased. The proposed increase is declared the logical outcome of the French belief that disarmament now is out of the question in view of Germany's disarmament program.

The French have been aroused by sizeable increases for defense purposes included in the new German budget.

With the prestige of Premier Doumergue behind the program, observers feel it has an excellent chance of being approved by Parliament.

The present government already has launched a strong policy. This was indicated in the recent central European tour of Foreign Minister Louis Barthou, openly described as

SCIENTISTS FIND TREATY SIGNED 2,291 YEARS AGO

Baltimore, May 3.—(AP)—Discovery of a treaty of an alliance of Philip, King of the Macedonians, in the excavations of the ancient Greek city of Olynthus was announced today at the Johns Hopkins University.

The discovery was told in a letter from Dr. David M. Robinson, professor of archaeology at Johns Hopkins, who is supervising the excavating work.

The treaty, an inscription of 15 lines proclaiming the alliance of Philip with the Olynthians, had been

GOVERNOR ELY ASKS SUSPENSION OF CODE

Bay State Executive Does Not Want Immediate Action But a Promise They Will Be Eliminated.

New York, May 3.—(AP)—Governor Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, a Democrat, seeks not immediate suspension of the codes, but the promise of their suspension.

That promise and the substitution of concrete laws to cover uniform hours of labor, a minimum wage, elimination of child labor and the temporary suspension of the anti-trust laws as to price agreements would, Ely believes, "give business the assurance it needs."

"Not only that," the governor adds, "but it would assure the course of the Nation according to the established ideals of American government."

Governor Ely voiced those opinions today in a speech prepared for delivery before the Chamber of Commerce of the State of New York. His address was broadcast through Station WVEA.

He took issue with several opinions of Professor Rexford G. Tugwell, assistant secretary of agriculture—opinions expressed by Tugwell during a recent speech in Washington, at Hanover, N. H., and in Buffalo, N. Y.

Commenting on Tugwell's Buffalo speech, Governor Ely said: "Professor Tugwell made a great argument for the Agricultural Administration program. He forgot to say, however, that the increase in the farmers' receipts was in a large measure due to payments through the processing taxes. But this speech clearly pointed out the agricultural problem."

Cannot Continue "Secretary Wallace is on record as saying that the present costly A. A. program supported by processing taxes cannot continue indefinitely. He is an advocate of the expansion of our foreign trade by lowering of our tariff barriers because the farmer has not yet had the prices of his products lifted sufficiently."

Through Dr. Mitchell's testimony, Scharston tried to show Faber was completely under the domination of Murton Millen who, with Faber and Murton's brother, Irving, are on trial charged with slaying a Needham policeman during a bank robbery February 2.

Dr. Mitchell testified Murton was the only person Faber was intensely interested in. She quoted him as saying his fiancée was a nice girl, but she could never "fill the place of Murt." Tests she made, the witness said, convinced her Faber considered Murt a great leader and one he would follow regardless of consequences.

EXPERIMENTING SHOULD CEASE, STRAWN URGES

Former National C. of C. Head Also Asks Congress to Stop Enacting "Hysterical Legislation."

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—The Chamber of Commerce of the United States heard today a call requesting President Roosevelt to "cease experimenting" and asking Congress to stop enacting "hysterical legislation."

Silas Strawn, former Chamber president and a leader of its conservative wing, asserted in an address that businessmen now wanted "more definite promises" in order to plan their future conduct.

The Chicago lawyer ran directly counter in tenor to the generally approving remarks of Henry I. Hariman, present Chamber president, concerning the New Deal.

Strawn called for a three-way action by Mr. Roosevelt: "Balancing of all governmental budgets; a definite announcement that there will be no more requests for emergency legislation and 'no more tinkering with the dollar,' and a revision of the Securities Act and proposed Stock Exchange legislation."

Senator Johnson Speaks Business men gathered at the 22nd annual convention, listened to Strawn after hearing Hugh S. Johnson talk on criticism and the throwing of "pop bottles and dead cats" at last night's session.

The NRA chief said his organization had been shaped in part by criticism. Asked directly if the principles embodied in the Recovery Act were to be permanent, he replied: "If there has been any good demonstrated by the Recovery Act, it will live and it ought to live; if there has been any bad it will die and ought to die."

While not so outspoken, other speakers who followed Strawn today also found room for criticism, mostly centering around the Securities Act.

Malcolm Muir, former NRA official and president of the McGraw Hill Publishing Company, praised the President but hit the Securities Act.

Strawn said he had been unable to "get in step" with the present procession, trust, he said, "I shall not be a convert until I see convincing evidence that there is a cessation of experimental legislation. x x x"

Assuming that this legislation was conceived with the best of motives, there is no convincing evidence it is a part of general, well thought out and complete program."

BELFORT, QUARTERS OF GERMAN SPIES

French Secret Police Catch Another in Historic Citadel; He Involves Others.

Paris, May 3.—(AP)—France's best spy-catchers worked feverishly in the historic citadel at Belfort today in an effort to trace the leads in her closely-guarded military secrets.

They bent their efforts particularly toward following the trail of Stanislas Krausz, former Polish army officer, who was arrested yesterday as a German spy.

At the same time, however, a force of detectives and secret police were investigating the activities at this fortified town near the Franco-German frontier of Captain Froge of the French army, accused of having been Krausz's accomplice.

The army officer's lawyers demanded an immediate hearing for Froge today. They declared it was "suspectious" that a new witness had been aligned against him just when French operatives were on the point of concluding he was not involved in the asserted plot.

SAYS MISMANAGEMENT CAUSED BANK FAILURE

Britain Acts to Guard Frontiers of Arabia

London, May 3.—(AP)—The British sloop "Penzance" has been dispatched to Hodeidah, in Yemen, Arabia, as the result of the advance of Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia, it was learned today.

The precautionary movement of the Penzance was regarded as a part of an official indication that Great Britain is ready to take action to defend the frontiers for which she is responsible if Ibn Saud's triumphant advance into Yemen inspires a greater Arabian movement.

Great Britain already has taken other steps to protect British life and property in the fighting area which thus far has been restricted to southwest Arabia.

Another sloop is standing by at Aden. British government quarters, aware that all Arabian peoples in the Near East may be inspired to aggressive action by Ibn Saud's example, recognize the possibility of a new movement to unite the Arabians from Asiatic Turkey to the Arabian Sea.

It was stated that Great Britain would not interfere if the conquering horde halted in Yemen, but would act promptly should the northern frontier of Aden be threatened.

British sources in close contact with colonial affairs appreciate the possibility that the Arabs as far away as Transjordanania may be fired with hopes for a new Arabian unity. Likewise acknowledged by British colonial authorities are the mysterious and devious methods of spreading propaganda among the desert peoples.

A close watch is being kept by the British on possible repercussions as a result of rumors that the Imam of Yemen had died suddenly. Some of these reports said he had been killed in action. None has been confirmed officially.

NEED MORE GUNS, MEN TO BATTLE BANDITS

Weapons Taken from Gangsters Now Being Used in Dillinger Chase by Federal Agents.

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—The Justice Department outlined today a $2,000,000 thrust at crime. It will ask Congress for this sum to buy more guns and pay more men.

A shortage of Federal "artillery" was disclosed to have led to the arming of Federal Dillinger-chasers with machine guns captured from other mobsters.

Several machine guns taken from Harvey J. Bailey, Albert Bates and George "Machineman" Kelly convicted as kidnapers of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma, oil millionaire, have been removed quietly from a show case at the department in the last few days and issued to agents assigned to the Dillinger case.

To Ask for Funds Attorney General Cummings was represented as "ready" to ask Congress for sufficient funds to engage as many as 200 to 300 additional Division of Investigation agents and to equip them not only with guns, but also fast motor cars.

The Justice Department's appropriation for the present fiscal year totaled $41,231,835. For the year beginning next July one, the department has been allotted only $28,700,778.

Still another anti-crime unit aimed at bootleggers is being whittled into shape. Arthur J. Mellett, who described himself as a "personal dry, but not a fanatic" arrived here yesterday from Kansas City to take over the Treasury's alcohol tax unit of 3600 men.

To Fight Bootleggers Half of this force will be used by Mellett at a militant anti-bootlegger organization. The other half will supervise the legitimate trade.

Senate Investigator Reports Guardian Trust Co. of Cleveland Was Hopelessly Insolvent a Year Before It Closed — Tells of Various Transactions.

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—A report holding that the closing of the Guardian Trust Company of Cleveland was the result of "unsound practices and mismanagement" was submitted today to the Senate banking and stock market investigating committee.

The report, submitted by Walter H. Seymour, senior examiner for the committee under the Ferdinand Pecora, counsel, held that the bank was "hopelessly insolvent" in February, 1932, one year before it closed.

Seymour reported that the trust company "has never issued a statement of condition which shows the true facts." He claimed its 25 subsidiary corporations were "used to cover up those activities of the trust company other than the banking business."

"Window dressing." He directed particular criticism at what he called the company's device of "window dressing," he said "was through the medium of repurchase agreements, killing of checks and large temporary deposits from friendly depositors."

Affairs of the trust company, Seymour reported, were "dictated and managed almost wholly by Mr. J. Arthur House, president, and Mr. C. Robinson, executive vice president."

House and Robinson, who are under indictment for their management of the employees' retirement fund, he said, "saw the possibilities of diverting funds from the retirement fund for their own use."

Disregarded Cash "Mr. House utterly disregarded his oath to faithfully perform his duties as trustee and his management of the fund was a flagrant example of the abuse and violation of the trust placed in him as a guardian of life savings," Seymour added.

Reporting that the directors voted a lump sum at the end of each year as a bonus to the officers, Seymour said House took "the lion's share for himself" and allowed Robinson "a large portion of the remainder."

Seymour's report was identified by Frank Meehan, chief accountant for the Pecora staff.

Its submission to the committee was the climax of a month-long inquiry by the committee into the closing of both the Guardian Trust and the Union Trust Company of Cleveland.

A similar report on the Union Trust was to be submitted within a day or two.

Seymour's report was backed up by a score of reports from individual investigators who worked under him, and hundreds of exhibits.

Lengthy Reports The reports on the Pecora staff ran into thousands of words and the exhibits were so voluminous that the government printing company estimated they would cost almost $12,000 to print.

Seymour opened his summary with the following statement: "The closing of the Guardian Trust Company, like that of the Union Trust, was not the result of the 'Michigan Bank Holiday,' nor the 'National Bank Holiday,' but was the result of unsound practices and mismanagement."

Outlining the activities of the trust company's subsidiaries, Seymour charged "subterfuge" in the following cases: "New England Company to invest in a banking building in an amount beyond that permitted by law. "The Guardian Securities Company to permit the bank to speculate in mortgages and subsequently stocks and securities. "4400 Superior Company to conceal and to attempt to recuperate a loss incurred through an unwise loan. "Harrison County Investment Company to attempt to protect a loss sustained through a bad investment, the bank indirectly secured the coal mining business. Required Financing "Naturally all these subsidiaries," Seymour said, referring to the total of 26 "required financing and the Guardian was milked by means of loans and investments, all of which were carried on the nation's books at full value, although many of them were obviously not worth the paper on which they were recorded." Reporting on the compensation of the "company's officers," Seymour said, "the compensation of the officers and directors was excessive and in many cases was based on the value of the stock which they owned."

German Paper Alleges Plot to Murder Hitler

Berlin, May 3.—(AP)—Details of a "Jewish plot to murder Adolf Hitler" appeared today in an officially censored special edition of the Anti-Semitic Weekly, "The Stormer."

Twelve pages were devoted to discussion of "Jewish ritual murder," climaxed with the allegations that the world Jewry is planning "the biggest, most gruesome ritual murder ever witnessed by the world."

Asserting that Carl Nischols was a victim of a similar plot, the paper said "The Aryan of the world, the pick of humanity, are to be annihilated."

LEGAL CITATIONS IN WEIRTON PLEA

Case May Establish Judicial Construction of NRA Labor Provisions.

Wilmington, Del., May 3.—(AP)—Counsel for the Weirton Steel Company moved deeply into legal phases and the citation of precedents today to defeat the Federal government's plea for an injunction restraining company interference with the workers' election of collective bargaining representatives.

The case, now in its fourth day of argument, is expected ultimately to establish a judicial construction of section 7-A of the National Recovery Act which deals with the guarantee provisions for labor.

Caleb S. Layton, arguing for the company, contended that the government's factual allegations have been broken down and quoted decisions purporting to show that the proposed injunction would be more harmful than beneficial.

"It seems to us," he said, "that where you have a situation, as we have in this case, where the facts are controverted and where principles of law at least are uncertain, that the courts do not grant preliminary injunctions."

Reading from a Circuit Court decision Layton said "it is a general rule repeatedly enforced that a preliminary injunction will not be granted on ex parte affidavits in a clear case."

"Issues of fact thus far in the present case have been based entirely on affidavits."

Layton insisted that "where the law is in doubt, that in itself is a sufficient ground for the court to refuse a preliminary injunction."

He said members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers could have voted in the December election at the Weirton plant.

"If the Amalgamated had the strength they contend they had why didn't they go in there and capture the election?"

It was an "admission they could not win," he added.

"Had they won what would they have accomplished?" court asked.

Layton replied that the Amalgamated would have elected the 49 bargaining representatives with whom the Weirton company would deal "as individuals."

The government charges the company violated the National Industrial Recovery Act by alleged intimidation and coercion of workers and by giving "parties" for women employees. The company, in its answer, denied the allegations.

The government presented its case in the suit in a ten-hour oral argument by James L. Fly, special assistant U. S. Attorney General.

Company counsel today moved through the bill of complaint step by step, ridiculing it in several instances.

Referring to one section he said: "I think that must be taken from Alice in Wonderland because I cannot make any sense of it."

FORMER ANSONIA JUDGE UNABLE TO RAISE BAIL

Carlos Storrs, 70, Found Guilty of Embezzling Vet's Estate, Lodged in Jail.

New Haven, May 3.—(AP)—Carlos Storrs, 70, former Ansonia judge, who was found guilty of embezzlement from a war veteran's estate, was unable to raise the $5,000 bond required by the court and was still a prisoner at the county jail today.

He was sentenced yesterday by Judge Carl Foster in Superior Court to serve not less than 18 months and not more than 5 years in the State Prison at Wethersfield following his arraignment on a charge of converting to his own use over $7,000 from the estate of George Merambelli, a government hospital in Massachusetts.

Philip Pond, senior counsel for Storrs, said he is considering action for an appeal today.

TO SUSPEND WORK IN SILK MILLS TO EASE THE MARKET

delivered by a certain date. The firm also believes that non-productive employees whose continued work is essential will be exempt from the provisions of the order.

$40,000 Loss.

A complete shutdown of the plant for one week would enforce a vacation for about 3,500 employees. The loss in payroll money to Manchester would be approximately $40,000, Mr. Cheney said.

The action, it was stated, by the Code Authority, was taken upon the instant demand of an overwhelming majority of the members of all divisions of the industry.

Affects 30,000.

The curtailment order is said to affect about 900 mills and approximately 30,000 employees. It is said that under normal conditions about 50,000 employees would be working during the month of May, but that voluntary curtailment of production on the part of many employers had reduced the present figure to around 80,000 workers.

Without the ordered general curtailment, leaders in the trade said yesterday that the number of employees would unquestionably have been further reduced. With some mills now working only three days a week and others less than ten days a month, it was imperative, it was pointed out, that something be done to bring about stabilization in the industry.

Its leaders are now hopeful that with the stopping of work for a single week, conditions will have been corrected sufficiently to allow reopening on May 21 to bring about a gain in employment at that time over the number on the payroll rolls today.

No Other Course.

Peter Van Horn, chairman of the Silk Textile Code Authority, in explaining the curtailment order, said: "Members of the industry were most reluctant to take this action but could not do otherwise in the face of drastically reduced selling prices and increasing operating expenses as a result of the 23 per cent increase in wages paid to labor in the silk industry, as compared with wages paid prior to the signing of the code by the President. This has amounted to more than a $14,000,000 increase in purchasing power for the silk workers annually. The shutdown, aside from its helpful effect on the market, should help the industry to continue to pay code wages, spread employment more fairly and insure the gains which labor has already made."

The curtailment order says that "each and every machine operating under the Silk Textile Code for the employers' own account or on commission, on or in connection with broad fabrics, dress fabrics, underwear fabrics, special fabrics and the fabrics, to cease all operations during the week of May 14 to 21."

Provide Exemption.

Provision is made in the order wherein "any employer in the industry who, because of circumstances in his case are such that undue hardship will result from the prescribed curtailment, such employer may petition the code authority for an exception therefrom and shall submit to the Code Authority as prescribed, the essential facts and documents to support his petition." An appeal may be made to the National Recovery Administration in Washington, from the decision of the code authority.

"In the face of serious overproduction," Mr. Van Horn added, "the industry had no alternative other than to order the curtailment of production, particularly because of the drastically reduced seasonal demand at extremely low-priced levels. These conditions, together with increased costs through higher wages paid to labor made the curtailment inescapable."

Selling Below Cost

"From the facts and figures available to me it is apparent that a large portion of our industry is now selling its product below its cost. In the absence of an adequate provision under our code at the present time to prohibit selling under cost our only remedy is to credit production to prevent further losses to mill operators and labor."

Mr. Van Horn also said that the present curtailment would not permanently relieve the situation and expected that additional shutdowns would follow unless market conditions improved.

It was learned that the code authority of the Silk Textile Industry is rushing the plan to distribute its code eagle. The hope was expressed that this would be forthcoming prior to the shutdown on May 14. Mr. Van Horn explained that any failure to comply with the order would not only be reported promptly to the proper officials as a violation of the code, but would be sufficient grounds for the code authority to recommend to Washington that the employer lose his code eagle.

GRAND JURY PROBES CHARGE OF BRIBERY

Former Special Assistant of
New York Attorney General
Accused of Accepting $8,000.

New York, May 3.—(AP)—Federal Grand Jury inquiry into recent testimony to the effect that $8,000 or $10,000 had been delivered to Raymond S. Norris, former special assistant to the attorney general by a convicted defendant in a fraud case was indicated today by the presence of witnesses in the Grand Jury's ante room.

The witnesses were Frank M. Parsons, former head of the criminal division of the attorney general's office, Mrs. Elizabeth Brantley, who was Norris' secretary in December, 1932, and Postal Inspectors Daniel Looney and Russell Allen.

The testimony about Norris was in the trial of Solomon C. Sugarman, disbarred attorney, and others who were convicted of using the mails to defraud in connection with a chain sales scheme which drew $300,000 from women who expected to receive six pairs of silk stockings each for $1.

One man, Paul Rosen, who pleaded guilty, testified that an arrangement was made with Norris by which the latter was to delay any fraud prosecutions long enough so the boys could make plenty and get out.

Rosen said Norris told Sugarman that he needs "G strings for my violin." The witness interpreted this as "granda," underworld argot for $1,000 payments.

Mrs. Brantley testified in the trial that she recognized Sugarman's voice on the telephone saying "Tell the boss I'll be up tomorrow with a G string."

PLAN 'SAMPLE FAIR' FOR LOCAL CHURCH

Novel Event to Be Staged at Masonic Temple by South
Methodist Guild.

Mrs. William T. Burgess is general chairman of the "Sample Fair," which the Wesleyan Guild of the South Methodist church is sponsoring for the afternoon and evening of Thursday, May 10. Manchester merchants and manufacturers are co-operating with the object of making this one of the most important merchandising events held here for some time.

The Masonic Temple banquet hall has been engaged by the committee for the "Sample Fair," which will be in progress from 8:30 p. m. Admission will be by ticket and everyone attending will receive a bag of samples worth many times the price paid. As they enter the hall the bags will be distributed and later filled with all kinds of samples at the different booths visited. Various foods and drinks will be demonstrated and the samples will not only be in shape to take home, but may be consumed on the spot as in any food fair. Pancakes and doughnuts, coffee and ginger ale and a number of other foods, old and new, will be dispensed. One of the radio dealers will supply music during the hours of the fair.

Local business people who are not distributing samples have generously donated worthwhile gifts for a "lucky" table. Tickets will be numbered and the gifts will be corresponding figures. Mrs. Jay Rand, chairman of the ticket committee, dial 7840, advises all who contemplate going to secure their tickets as they are limited to 500 persons.

Mrs. Bart Seaman, chairman of advertising, Miss Thelma Carr, publicity; the ways and means committee of the Guild, Mrs. Edward O'Malley, chairman, is working enthusiastically on the project. wants to challenge the data based upon the questionnaires which were presented to the committee is free to come before the committee, so far as I am concerned, with any proofs, arguments or contentions relating thereto," he added.

Whitney's Charge

Whitney said the statistics presented by Pecora, showing profits of about a billion dollars to brokers during the past six years, were misleading and designed to put through the Stock Market Control Bill.

Pecora replied that "it should be kept uppermost in mind that the figures presented by me to the committee were the figures presented by the brokers themselves and set forth the net profit which they reported in their returns to our questionnaire as accruing from their business."

"The information," Pecora added, "comes entirely and clearly within the scope and purview of the resolutions authorizing the inquiry. The presentation of those data was simply in fulfillment of the duties imposed upon the committee and me as counsel."

Whitney's Testimony

"I hope Mr. Whitney has not forgotten the testimony given by him before this committee with regard to efforts made by him as president of the New York Stock Exchange to arouse opposition to the Fletcher-Rayburn bill immediately after introduction of the bill.

"If he has forgotten that testimony, let me remind him that among other things he admitted having addressed letters to the executives of over 800 corporations which had their securities listed on the Exchange.

"Let me further remind him of the evidence introduced before the committee to the effect that in recent years the budget of the New York Exchange contained an allowance of $200,000 per annum for its committee on publicity.

"It strikes me there must be something wrong with the business of an institution that has to expend $200,000 a year in order to justify its existence in the minds of the public."

COMMITTEE WOMAN QUIT

Washington, May 3.—(AP)—Postmaster General Farley, Democratic National Chairman, announced today he had received the resignation of Helen C. Donahue as a Democratic National committee woman from Maine.

The resignation arrived in today's mail, Farley said. The former committee woman explained that her new duties as postmistress of Portland were so persistent that she could give attention to the political post and that with "deep regret" she felt compelled to give up.

HOUSE GIFT ACCEPTED

Norwich, May 3.—(AP)—The old Rockwell house at 42 Rockwell street, owned by Mrs. Edward B. Cole at Upper Montclair, N. J., a gift has been accepted by Faith Trumbull Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution for use as a museum.

The deed of gift will be with the provision that the chapter return the house to the donor, her heirs or legal representatives, if at any time the chapter does not wish to continue it as a museum.

STEAMERS COLLEDE

Norfolk, Va., May 3.—(AP)—The collier Ida C. Atwater, inbound from Providence to take on cargo was in collision with an unidentified ship.

No assistance was asked by the Ida C. Atwater, nor the unidentified ship.

The collision took place in Thimble shoal channel, and was caused by fog, according to the report.

EFFIGY SWINGS HIGH OVER NORFOLK JAIL

Note Signed "Hitler" Warns
"County Ring" to Beware —
Millens Incarcerated There.

Dedham, Mass., May 3.—(AP)—A strangely attired effigy swinging high on the flag-pole of the Norfolk county jail accompanied by a note containing a vague threat to "the Norfolk county ring" greeted the eyes of early risers this morning.

The note was signed "Hitler."

Among the persons confined within the jail are Irving and Morton Miller, and Abraham Faber, now on trial on murder charges growing out of the slaying of two policemen during a bank robbery in Needham.

The dummy, stuffed with other clothing, paper and hay, was attired in white men's underwear. A tag attached to the figure bore this cryptic message:

"Greetings: Take heed. The Norfolk county ring, lest ye should also stray, swinging as I on this bright April morning. Get smart ye heifers. Pull in thy horns. (Signed) Hitler."

MERIDEN FIRM SUED

Hartford, May 3.—(AP)—Assistant U. S. Attorney George H. Cohen has filed suit against Charles A. Runge and Son, Inc., of Meriden, and the Globe Indemnity Company of New York, for alleged unpaid income taxes for 1928. It was learned today the suit was brought in Federal Court for taxes of $713.48 and interest from May 5, 1932 and costs.

BANKRUPTCY DECISION

Hartford, May 3.—(AP)—A memorandum of decision by United States Referee in Bankruptcy John Keogh of Bridgeport was filed in U. S. court today which is of considerable importance in bankruptcy matters, according to Assistant U. S. Attorney George H. Cohen, who represented the U. S. Internal Revenue collector in the case. The decision held that a "closing agreement" between a taxpayer and the collector is binding not only on the collector and the taxpayer, but on the trustee of the bankrupt estate of the taxpayer.

BRITISH DOGS TREATED BETTER THAN CHILDREN

London, May 3.—(AP)—The dog of the Sovereign into this debate, the Laborite member said.

"The Sovereign in this country is the patron of this dog's home and there is any decency in this country people would not say you can have a child on two shillings a week while a dog can not be kept for less than nine shillings."

He was answered by Kingsley Griffith, a Liberal.

"No doubt," Griffith said, "the dog's home mentioned or similar homes were in existence in 1914, when legislation to increase the allowance of children of the state was voted down, largely by Labor votes."

HOUSE-APPROVED SILVER BILL IN A NEW DRESS

He outlined it as a mandatory proposition looking to increased use of silver as a monetary base and ultimately to a bi-metallic currency foundation consisting of 90 per cent silver and 10 per cent gold.

The President was described by associates today as still desirous of aiding silver prices, but as wishing to avoid any proposal that would tie his hands in a possible international agreement or confine him to one plan in the face of rapidly changing world currency conditions.

 THURSDAY, MAY 3.
 THAT MILL VACATION

Manchester is to experience, week after week, a perfect demonstration of the operation of the National Recovery Act as a depression cure. It will then be discovered that the NRA is not so much a medium of recovery as a palliative of the disease. Palliatives have their uses. Sometimes their usefulness is great. But they do not cure and no one should pretend that they do. Physicians employ opiates and could not, well do without them, but they do not expect to restore health in an agonized patient merely by the free exploitation of morphine. The mandate has gone out from the Silk Textile Code Authority that during the week of May 14 every silk mill in the country shall remain idle, because there has been too great a production of their type of textile for the state of the market. That means, of course, that a very large proportion of the workers of this community must undergo a forced vacation and that the community payroll, for one week, will be sorely diminished. It does, however, mean more than that. It means that there will not be in the silk trade a return to the old system, always resorted to under such conditions in the past, of price scalping, wage shaving, sweating, discharge of the less efficient employees, with the advantage going to the less scrupulous and less responsible manufacturers, to the detriment of such institutions as the Cheney concern. To this extent it will quickly be recognized that the code system of the NRA is, theoretically at least, a benefit. It does away with some of the worst features of a situation where production has outrun the market. But it is very particularly to be noted that the NRA has not provided a sufficiently enlarged market to keep the wheels turning, even on the shorter work-week schedule which it has set up. In other words the NRA has done something to make the disease of weak purchasing power somewhat more endurable but has not produced any real effect on the disease itself. It has increased the cost of producing silk. This, of course, has forced some increase in the price of silks at retail. The demand for silks at retail at the somewhat increased prices has not kept up with production. Instead of having the outrunning of market degenerate into a ruthless scramble for orders and a general demoralization of the trade, the code vacation is expected to convert the situation into an orderly halt of production to allow the market to catch up. As a palliative measure the NRA thus appears to be working very well—so far. But that it is having any large effect in insuring regular employment to the workers, in other words any important results as a cure for the depression, there is no evidence whatever. Moreover, the codes under which the various industries are now operating are endowed with the quality of legal mandate. This quality is going to disappear when the licensing provision of the National Recovery Act is allowed to lapse, as it will by time limitation next month. After that it remains to be seen how long it will be before the orders of the various code authorities are evaded or defied—how long before the industries slump back into the practices of former times. It all comes back to the absolute truth that you can't cure appendicitis with bromides.

TWAIN MEMORIAL

With the announcement that the Mark Twain Memorial Foundation has effected a temporary organization, says the Waterbury Republican, there begins a discussion as to where the memorial which the Foundation purposes to erect should be placed. Whereupon, pointing out that Mark Twain was a citizen of the world, that intellectually he transcends parochialism and nationalism and that he never developed any lasting attachment to any of his adult homes, the Republican proceeds to narrow the choice of sites to two—New York and Hartford; the former on the ground that it is our largest city and the place where the most people would see the memorial and that it is the center of the larger literary life; the latter because the author lived there longer than anywhere else, did much of his best work there and was more closely identified with the place than with any other community. The Republican sums up by making Hartford first choice and New York the only reasonable alternative as the site for the memorial. We can, with the greatest sincerity, second the motion of the Waterbury editor as to the selection of Hartford. But his second choice seems to us to be terrible. Of course New York is a great capital, culturally as well as materially, and on sheer theory the fittingest of places for memorials to great national figures like Mark Twain. But it just happens to be completely lacking in the physical features essential to the dignified and impressive exhibition of great monuments. It is a city without a core, without any focal point, without anything even remotely approaching a civic center. Instead of being seen by more people there than elsewhere a Mark Twain memorial, after a few years, would probably be consciously observed by far fewer persons than if it were erected in one of the Missouri villages in which he lived in youth. That has been the fate of almost every memorial erected in New York and the town is full of them. New York is a splendid city in many ways, but if you want to consign a personage to oblivion put up a statue to him there and depend on it to keep his memory alive. "Who'd he was dat guy?" "Oh, I dunno—some guy." Let's bust for Hartford first—and no second choice.

SAME OLD CIRCUS

It is time now for the tumult and the shouting to die. The Roosevelt New Deal Big Show is rapidly settling down and the audience is discovering that it is pretty much the same old circus after all. The parade was bigger and there was more noise and running about during the "grand entree" but the gigantic figures on the posters turn out to be about the same sized seals and elephants and ponies and "strong men" with which we have all been familiar for a long time. The wild horses of refutation evidently are the same old dabbins of deflation. The alphabetical "big feature" peeps out from under its gray motley showing the drab tatters of doles—bigger doles than we have ever known but doles and nothing else. The most moot act of "Chasing the Money Changers From the Temple" is plaidly cut altogether—just advertising stuff. The NRA bogey has been laid by the act of its creator—the license clause, without which the whole contraption is the merest gesture, is to be allowed to expire. The dollar is to be stabilized in the interest of foreign imports. The Federal Reserve System is to be left in control of the monetary blood stream of the nation. Labor and capital are to be left to fight it out. And future showmen can figure out what to do about the colossal mountain of interest-bearing debt piled up by the various ornate dole devices. Those nervous citizens who imagined that the show was going to live up to the pictures on the billboards and that they were going to have to exist through a period of real dragons smothering real fire may now set their minds at rest. Mr. Roosevelt's circus is just the same old circus. The price however, has been uncommonly high. The people who have been getting at the ticket wagon may get an idea that they have been gyped. When that happens it sometimes transpires that "there's a klem on the lot." After this show is all over maybe there'll be another.

KIN OF FRANKLIN

General Hugh L. Scott, famous old American soldier who died on Tuesday at 80, was a great-grandson of Benjamin Franklin. In some quarters this might have given him, had it been generally known during his life, even greater claims to distinction than those very individual and very admirable characteristics for which he was celebrated. Perhaps it may to some extent explain them. Scott could do more with Indians than any officer the army ever had. They would talk to him when they would not negotiate with any other white man of any grade. They trusted him as they trusted none other of his race. They knew him for an absolutely square shooter. And Scott, on the other hand, knew them. He could reason as an Indian would reason. He could understand their point of view. He had the complete confidence of every tribe with whom he came in contact. He was a hard fighter and an honest man. And a very brainy one. He was the kind of man who surpasses other men in the things he undertakes. He was, for instance, the most proficient student of the Indian sign language. No other white man of any time ever had such a sign "vocabulary" as he, though plenty of frontiersmen had a practical knowledge of this remarkable manual language. Though he was several generations away from "Poor Richard" it is not difficult to imagine that more than a little of Scott's mental and moral makeup came to him straight from that member of the founders group who probably possessed more sheer intellect, industry and public spirit than any other individual in the Revolutionary category—and who was incomparably the best known American throughout the world. Hugh Scott never bragged about his strain of Franklin blood but it was blood to be proud of. Some of these days the American people will understand this better than they do now.

PIN-NEW YORK

By PAUL HARRISON
 New York, May 3.—Literata: Louis Bromfield bought a ticket to France because, he said, he couldn't get a lick of work done in this country. Raymond Moley, who left the Brain Trust and the State Department to edit Vincent Astor's magazine, "Today," still keeps up his teaching at Columbia University and Barnard College. Has five classes a week, on national politics, and confides that he'd rather teach women than men because women work harder and read more. Alexander Woolcott allows very few people to call him "Alex." And he's very sensitive about good-natured jibes at his writing style. Christopher Morley, who couldn't change a flat tire, owns a large interest in that three-wheeled, stream-lined automobile which may go into production soon. A man, who has been scribbling night on Broadway, Fannie Hurst, Sophie Kerr and Amelia Earhart Putnam (I think she qualifies for the profession) attended the revival of an old melodrama, "The Drunkard," Theodore Dreiser, Dorothy Barker and Maxwell Anderson talked together during intermission of a Guild. And in the lobby of another theater a few doors away I saw Dashiell Hammett apparently in a deep study of the faces of other showgoers. An author in search of a character, perhaps. There was Conde Nast, too, who I hear has again rounded the corner where prosperity has been lurking. Earlier in the evening, at the Algonquin, I met a young writer who was deploring the lack of enough money to ferret out some novel material about a certain Central American country. "Why don't you incorporate yourself and sell stock?" asked a veteran literary agent. "It has been done." By whom? By Rockwell Kent, I discovered. When he came back from Alaska in 1918, or maybe it was 1919, he had no money to support himself while writing the text and doing the illustrations for "Wilderness." So he borrowed the money by incorporating and selling stock in himself. Dividends were paid from the sale of the book and any of his other work. It was not an ordinary corporation in every respect, though. Kent was general manager of Rockwell Kent, Inc., and he received as a bonus all earnings in excess of the dividend total. It also was provided that he could buy back the stock any time he liked, and this he did in a couple of years. So far, he anyone knows, however, Kent is still a one-man corporation and could put a thousand shares of himself on the market whenever he liked. It's Not For Fun Jake (The Barber) Factor, Chicago victim of kidnappers, has been getting about Broadway a good deal lately—but not for amusement. He comes to New York occasionally to do a disguise, and accompanies Federal operatives on tours of the hot-spots. Nine of the twelve men in the kidnaping gang have been caught, and Factor is looking for the other three. Behind the Scenes in WASHINGTON

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 The Herald's Washington Correspondent.
 Washington, May 3.—Backers of the National Emergency Council's chain of 200 local consumers' councils are cynical, but not without hope. The theory that consumers can be organized and made to take active interest in their own sad plight remains to be proved. And even officials hired by the government to protect consumers are a bit skeptical as to success of this set-up as long as its local representatives serve on a volunteer basis. But everyone agrees it's a lovely idea if it works. Price-boosts have caused increasing concern here and it's observed that NRA codes drafted on a national basis work differently from the consumer standpoint, in different places. It's hoped that the councils will digest their reports from NRA Consumers' Advisory Board and the AAA Consumers' Council in Washington, then rustle around town to talk with merchants and other consumers. They will study such problems as whether the community has an uneconomic surplus of gasoline filling stations—a national condition under the oil code, led to larger guaranteed margins for filling station operators. If 50 of the 200 councils become effective and active, it's believed here, the project will be a demonstrable success.

JOHNSON'S THE BOSS

The boss of the largest office building in the world used to be Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper. Then NRA moved into the huge Commerce structure and mushroomed into all the offices it could grab. A watchman employed by the department stopped a visitor at the front entrance the other night after hours. The man insisted he had business upstairs, though he had no pass. "Nobody can go up," the watchman said with finality. "Johnson says so."

GERMANY DENIES BOYCOTT 'HURTS'

Nazis Blame Their World Trade Troubles on Soviet Russia.
 BY MILTON BRONNER
 NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
 London.—Has the world boycott of German-made goods by the Jews and the similar boycotts by the trades unions in the United States and other countries hit Germany a damaging blow? Some of the boycott leaders in various countries affirm it has. Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his merry men in the Nazi organization deny it. Here are the facts: In 1933 Germany's internal trade increased, foreign trade decreased. But even at that, Germany sold abroad more than it bought. 1934 has so far told a different story. For the first time in some years Germany is suffering from an unfavorable balance of trade. In the month of January she bought $5,500,000 more goods abroad than she sold. In February it was even worse. Her unfavorable balance was $8,750,000. Exports to Great Britain, Sweden and Czechoslovakia are said to have increased, while those to Russia, United States, France, Holland and Norway decreased. The Nazis say that the scarier picture was delivered not by the boycott but by the very large decrease in the exports to Russia especially. They fear it will be worse in the coming months, because of Russia's resumption of friendly relations with America. Already the new masters of Germany are talking of ways in which they can stop this unfavorable balance. The easiest and most obvious one is to cut down the amount of imports. One of the manners in which this will be done will be to restrict the amount of foreign exchange available to German importers to pay for their supplies of foreign goods. But this cannot be carried too far, because Germany's main products are raw materials and these she will have to have if her own industries are to be kept going. These imports are mainly cotton from the United States, wool from Argentina, Australia and New Zealand and certain metals like copper from the United States and other countries. Germany practically bailed all her home creditors on their war loans, when in the middle twenties of this century she indulged in her vast inflation orgy, the mark at one time being worth 200,000,000 to the dollar. The great bond-holding, loan holding middle class was almost wiped out. But so was the debt. Germany continued to pay some of the war reparations inflicted upon her by the Allies in the Treaty of Versailles. It was mostly done with foreign money. America and other banks loaned vast sums to German industries and municipalities. The latter built new parks, streets, churches, airports. The former, under heavy taxation, had to give to the Germany treasury a considerable amount of the money borrowed. The money thus obtained was dished out by the German government in various reparations. What the borrowing industries retained was used in expanding and rationalizing their plants. "Gentlemen's Agreement" Cancelled. When the gathering world depression dried up the sources of easy borrowings, Germany at once cancelled it could pay no more reparations. In July, 1932, therefore, at Lausanne, Great Britain, France, Italy, Belgium and Germany reached an agreement that war reparations were definitely cancelled. Instead,

TWO GIRLS AND YOUNG MAN KILLED IN CRASH

Manchester, N. H., Party of Four Failed to Make Curve Near Derry.
 Derry, N. H., May 3.—(AP)—Two girls and a young man, all of Manchester, were killed early today as their machine left the Lawrence-Manchester highway on a curve a mile south of Derry. The dead were: Mary O'Brien, 25, of 110 Klidder street; Miss Frances Reilly, 25, of 3 Park avenue; and William Paris, 21, street address not determined. Frank Rasmus, 21, also of Manchester and said by police to have been driver of the car, was only slightly hurt. The machine apparently left the highway while rounding a curve. It jumped a roadside ditch and plowed through a wood plot before coming to rest. Police said trees along the path were scattered, in places, as high as 15 feet, denoting, they added, that the machine must have been traveling at a high rate. untroubled as possible. When you put your head on the pillow and cover yourself up with the blankets, take a few minutes to relax. Let go of all your worries, all your cares, and even let go of muscles tension by trying to allow the limbs to become as relaxed as possible. Lie there in bed and enjoy the sensation of resting in a comfortable spot. Realize that as you lay your body down you are also laying down all responsibilities and cares, and that you are putting down your burdens for the day. Take sufficient time to enjoy the fact that you have a comfortable bed and that you can now rest after a busy day. Say to yourself: "I am now going to enjoy a good night's sleep. In the morning when I wake up, I will be rested and refreshed, ready for a new day." Think about how much good your sleep is going to do. Try my system tonight and when you go to bed take none of your worries to bed with you. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (ANS) Question: W. A. S. writes: "Please advise me through your column how I may cure a severe case of acne which I have had for three years. Have tried many doctors, but got only temporary relief." Answer: "Acne is primarily caused by an unhealthy state of the colon which is due to using the wrong kind of foods. A contributing cause may be a naturally oily skin, or carelessness in keeping the face clean. Wash the face several times daily with cold towels. Eliminate all fats and oils from your diet, except a small amount of butter. Over-consumption as soon as possible by following the diets I recommend in this column. Meanwhile, use a daily emulsion until normal bowel action is established. (Non-Mucus Forming Foods) Question: P. D. W. writes: "What are the non-mucus-forming foods which will help correct catarrh?" Answer: Catarrh will disappear as soon as the excess catarrhal mucus is thoroughly drained out. The diet for such a condition should consist principally of small amounts of meat, fish, fowl, eggs and starchy vegetables cooked and served with fruit. It is best to avoid all starches and sugars, as well as milk products. These may be said to be mucus-forming if used in excessive quantities, and the one who is trying to cure himself of catarrh should avoid the starches and sugars as much as possible until the cure is effected.

MAYOR CURLEY MAY BID FOR POST OF GOVERNOR

Indicates He Might Oppose Gaspar G. Bacon, at Baseball Testimonial Dinner.
 Boston, May 3.—(AP)—Former Mayor James M. Curley of Boston apparently intends to make a bid for gubernatorial honors. He announced his intentions in a very informal manner during last night's dinner to Tom Yawkey and Eddie Collins, head men of the Red Sox, Boston's American League baseball club. Lieutenant Governor Gaspar G. Bacon had preceded Curley as an after-dinner speaker. During the course of his address he tendered the best wishes of the Commonwealth to Yawkey and Collins, saying that he attended the ball games at Fenway Park whenever he found time. As Former Mayor Curley rose to speak, he turned to the Lieutenant Governor, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for the governorship, and said that Curley (Bacon) would probably bid more times in the next two years than he had in the previous three to attend the ball games, as Curley expected to run for the governor's office at the fall election.

RIVAL ARABIAN TRIBES MAY FINISH FIGHTING

Port Said, Egypt, May 3.—(AP)—Hodeida, the chief port of Yemen on the Red Sea, was reported ready to capitulate today to the advancing forces of Ibn Saud, ruler of Saudi Arabia. The Imam Yahya of Yemen, dispatched from the war zone said, had called all available men to the colors, but revolt was reported in the Imam's capital, Sana. Ibn Saud sent his forces against the troops of the Imam Yahya two months ago, charging them with aggression in the highlands of Tabama, the disputed frontier between the two states. War has raged intermittently for years between the rival rulers, chiefly in the disputed territory. Reports from the Arabian war zone received in Jerusalem last night said the Imam Yahya of Yemen was rumored dead in his capital.

WORRY A MENTAL MOSQUITO
 In today's article I am going to try to give you some helpful suggestions about how not to take worry to bed with you. Many people who are cheerful and contented during the day find that the instant they hit the pillow, that many problems and worries come to the front part of the mind and prevent restful sleep. For example you have all known people who were not able to sleep a wink the night before some important undertaking, such as beginning on a new job or making a journey. Although it is relatively easy to avoid anxiety and worry during the day time, when our ordinary activities distract the mind, nevertheless there seems to be a distinct tendency for these worries to descend in full force when night comes. Such worries could be compared to gnats or mosquitoes which hum and buzz around through the mind and are as annoying mentally as mosquitoes are in a physical way. Sometimes these mental mosquitoes are reminders of the things we want to do and in a short time the mind becomes a turmoil, due to this pernicious habit of crossing bridges before we come to them. My message to you today is to learn how to avoid taking these annoyances to bed with you. When you once retire for the night, it is important for you to realize that most of your troubles can wait for tomorrow morning, and that you will rest better in every way if you will make a firm determination to put these worries out of your mind and make them stay out. In order to completely rid yourself of these mental mosquitoes it is a good plan for you to change your attitude of mind. Do your best each day and then when night comes let it go at that. It might even help if you will form a mental picture of yourself as though you just let your worries roll off your back. I once knew a very successful merchant who was the head of a large store and during the day many small annoyances came to his attention. He told me that each evening before he went to work he took the time to imagine that he was putting cold cream on his shoulders so that each worry would roll off as fast as it landed there. If you can once form a strong mental picture of yourself shedding worry as a duck sheds water, you will find that these small annoyances do not creep into the mind quite so readily. At the end of the day make it a habit to go to bed as serene and Germany was to make an eventual payment of $750,000,000 by means of bonds as from the year 1935. These bonds were to be deposited with the Bank for International Settlements at Basle and were to be marketed from 1935 to 1947 under safeguards for German credit and at a price not below 90 per cent of their face value. They bear interest at 5 per cent with a one per cent amortization, which retires them in 37 years. This was the famous "gentlemen's agreement." All the gentlemen squinted at Uncle Sam. As they had cancelled war reparations, they expected the United States to cancel the war debts of the Allies. Having gotten rid of a great part of its foreign war debt, and settled its external war debt at a low figure, Germany has ever since been aiming at getting rid of its foreign private commercial debts by similar tactics. These debts amount to two and a half billion dollars in short-term credits and a similar amount in long-term credits. In February, 1933, Germany obtained from her foreign creditors a standstill agreement as to the short-term credits. Fifty per cent of these are held by American banks. Others mainly concerned are Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Sweden and Switzerland.

PUBLIC INTEREST GROWS IN AUTOMOBILE SAFETY

People Responding More Readily to Highway Precaution, Statistics Prepared by Commissioner Connor Show.

The Connecticut motor vehicle statistics for 1933, offering a mathematical picture of automotive happenings on the highways and byways of the state as well as presenting essential data on the administration of the department, will soon be available to the public in pamphlet form as the "Connecticut Motor Vehicle Statistics for 1933." One of the most important actions of the year was the formation, during the fall, of a Citizens' Voluntary Motor Patrol by Colonel Michael A. Connor, who assumed the motor vehicle commissioner's June 1, 1933. This movement has interested steadily increasing numbers of citizens in making the roads safer for all kinds of traffic, vehicular as well as pedestrian.

Complaints

Figures from the Complaint Section show the marked increase in public interest. Not included in the bulletin is the comparative record for January and February of 1933 and 1934. During January of 1933 there were 261 complaints received from the general public and the various police authorities in the state. During January of 1934 708 complaints were received. During February of 1933 there were 165 complaints recorded as compared with approximately 500 for 1934. The comparisons tell the story.

Court Checkups

Thousands of dollars due the state were collected during the fall of 1933 through closer checkup on the courts and, in several cases, reimbursements were secured from court clerks through court action. Constant communication is maintained with the courts, the county commissioners and town treasurers to ensure the state receiving promptly all motor vehicle fines due. The present administration of the motor vehicle department appreciates fully the value of gathering data on what has happened in traffic control and guidance but the importance of preventing accidents, of creating in the public mind a greater realization of each individual driver's duty to operate his or her car with caution and full consideration for the rights of others, is deemed the paramount accomplishment to be achieved.

Safety Education

In addition to the extensive speaking activities of the commissioner and other members of the department before clubs and organizations of all kinds and the continuance of the customary illustrated lectures before school classes a proposed inclusion of "Safety Education" in all the schools of the state is planned by the commissioner for submission to the state board of education and to the various school authorities in all towns. From the kindergarten to the senior class in high school at least one school period each week should be devoted to "Safety Education". The student of today is the driver of tomorrow.

Accidents Decrease

1933 motor vehicle statistics show decreases in accidents, injuries, registrations and property damage. However, totals for fatalities, operators licensed and mileage operated are greater than those for 1932. The accident total was reduced for the fifth successive year and the injury and property damage totals for the fourth year, although there was an increase over 1932 of 18.9 percent in fatalities.

The average cost per accident was somewhat lower in 1933 than in the previous year; and the fact that the accident total was reduced though the mileage was greater seems to indicate that careful driving is becoming more prevalent. The fatality total, though higher than ever before in relation to the total number of accidents, is not startlingly great in relation to the total mileage.

Decreases during the year included: accidents, 1.4 percent; injuries, 1.1 percent; registrations, 0.2 percent; property damage, 4.7 percent. Increases were: fatalities, 18.9 percent; operators licensed, 0.7 percent; taxable gasoline sold, 1.2 percent.

December Worst

December was the month of most accidents during 1933. The same was true of 1932. The hour from 5 to 6 p. m. as in other years, was the time of most accidents in most days of the year. There were more accidents in which more than one person was killed, the total being 26, as compared with 23 in 1932. The number of children killed shows an increase over 1932 of 32.1 percent, while the number of adults killed increased 16.9 percent. In injuries, however, the record for children was more favorable; the number of children injured decreased 6.6 percent as compared to an increase of 0.1 percent for adults.

Intoxication

Intoxication was a contributing factor in 265 accidents. This figure includes drunken pedestrians as well as operators. 80 accidents were caused by these pedestrians, of whom 17 were killed. Only one intoxicated operator was killed, though 14 fatal accidents were caused by drunken driving.

There was at least one accident in every town in the state during the year. Four towns had only one accident each, and, as in 1932, fifty-six towns had no fatal accidents.

More Complaints

A statistical record of complaints was started in 1924 and more complaints were received during 1933 than for any year during that period.

Results from the work of the Traffic Planning Bureau of the Department were most satisfactory in 1933. A real experience table was compiled which shows that where the recommendations have been adopted there has been a general decrease of 47.9 percent in accidents. This was much greater than the decrease for the entire state. At the dangerous locations where rotary traffic has been adopted, the general decrease in accidents was 67 percent.

JOHN GILBERT'S FOURTH MARITAL VENTURE FAILS

Wife, Seeking Divorce, Describes Actor as "Arrogant, Violent and Abusive."

Hollywood, Calif., May 3.—(AP)—John Gilbert's fourth marriage has found its way into the divorce courts where the other three marital ties of the one-time great lover of the screen have ended.

In filing a divorce action yesterday, Miss Virginia Bruce described the actor as "arrogant, violent and abusive." The actress said he was cynical of her intelligence; refused to have her parents around and insisted she was extravagant. Miss Bruce asked $150 a month for the support of their infant daughter, and just $21 a week for herself for three years.

FOOD PRESERVATION IS STORE NECESSITY

The housewife of today knows what she wants when she goes to the store and the store that meets her requirements thoroughly, is the store that is going to retain her trade. This is the belief of S. J. Kemp, Jr., of Kemp's, Inc., Frigidaire representatives here. Mr. Kemp was speaking in connection with the introduction of Frigidaire's new line of Flowing Cold commercial refrigeration.

"The store proprietor of today must take the same care in the preservation of food that the housewife does in her own home," said Mr. Kemp. "The housewife has been thoroughly educated to the need of mechanical refrigeration. She knows that the temperature must remain constant, that a fluctuation of only a few degrees may mean that the food will spoil. And when she comes into a store she goes to insist that the storekeeper sell her just as careful of the food she sells her as she, herself, has been taught to be in her own home."

"Food merchants the country over are recognizing this and reports indicate a scramble now is on to bring all stores up to date in the matter of refrigeration. Those who have let their equipment go, waiting for better times, are finding better times already here and are hastening to re-equip their places of business."

The annual meeting of Connecticut Girl Scouts was held May 1 at the Shuttlemeadow Club in New Britain. Four council members from Manchester attended. Mrs. Clifford D. Perkins was re-elected state chairman. Handwork done by Girl Scouts throughout the state was exhibited. Our girls won two first awards, two second awards and one honorable mention. The first award articles will go to the Eastern States Exposition in September for exhibition.

Troop 1

We opened our meeting by playing numbers of ten. After hearing the notices we played Man, Land, Animal. We had patrol corners and then we sang. The four girls who wished to get their Minnie Badges led the singing, "Good-night Ladies" was played and then we were dismissed. A court of honor was held after the troop meeting.

Troop 2

Troop 2 held its meeting Monday afternoon at the Nathan Hale school. We were delighted to welcome back Captain Durkee who was away for a few weeks. The troop formed horseshoe formation and then went to Patrol Corners, after which we formed a circle and discussed Tenderfoot and Second Class. We planned a hike up to Captain Durkee's house after school Monday. All the girls are requested to be there at four or before. When we had finished our discussion we sang songs and then formed our good night circle and sang "The Embers of Campfire" and "Taps."

Troop 3

The meeting was opened informally. We formed patrols and dues were collected. We played a game which dealt with the Girl Scout Law. The person having the number called had to repeat that law. Patrol 3 sewed on the rug which other girls sewed on the pillow. Lieutenant Grant took charge of a class in knot review. We played another game entitled "Retic Moments" which is played by only making sounds. The other girls had to guess what story the sounds told.

Troop 4

The meeting opened with patrol corners. Following that we practiced our knots. We formed a horseshoe formation and repeated the promise, slogan, motto and laws, and played a game. There were numbers on papers and these were passed around. If we received number 1 we said the first law, etc. We had a good night circle and sang a few songs.

Troop 5

On Tuesday, April 24 we went on a hike over to Oakland, to Miriam Wells' farm. There wasn't much hiking done until we arrived at Oakland as we took the bus from the center. We hiked two miles to the place where we were to eat. When we got there some of us rested awhile, others looked around to see what the place looked like and a few helped build the fire for those who brought meat or hot dogs. It was very windy that day and everyone had to hold on to their lunches. After eating some of us played duck on the rock while the rest went for a walk in the woods. While we were eating one of the girls came up to us with the skeleton of a cow's head which almost made some of us sick, and it almost showed us some (what is called) frog jelly. The rest of the afternoon was devoted to games or reading. About 8 o'clock we started for home. One of the girls even brought home the skeleton of the cow's head in the pack basket. A good time was had by all who went and many faces were red from the wind.

TRADE SCHOOL NOTES

By THOMAS J. CHARRA Trade School Correspondent

The Manchester Trade school's seventeenth annual "Open Night" will be held tonight at the Trade school, being open to the general public from 7 until 9 p. m., daylight saving time.

All departments of the school will be in full operation, and completed work done by students will be on exhibit in their respective shops.

The Trade school orchestra, under the direction of William J. Hanna, will present a half hour program of concert music in the assembly hall beginning at 7:15.

A mural painting, "The Spirit of Vocational Education," will be unveiled tonight for its first public showing in the Trade school auditorium.

Miss Josephine Fiesick, graduate of the Manchester High school and the Hartford Art school, painted the life size wall painting for this special occasion. The mural which has just recently reached completion after about two months of continuous work is seven feet high and ten feet across depicting the work done in the various departments of the school.

DISPEL FEARS

Often Have Job on Hands to Quiet Nervousness Over Physical Welfare.

Dispersing of the clouds of superstition which often veil the truths concerning health is a task which frequently becomes the lot of the public health nurse and the superstitious are many and interesting. It was shown by Elizabeth S. Taylor, new director of the Bureau of Public Health Nursing of the State Department of Health, in making her first broadcast in the department's series of weekly programs today.

One day last March, for instance, a woman asked a public health nurse to visit her home and look at her three months old baby, who was pale and not gaining weight. The nurse found the baby lying in a room without windows. She suggested taking the baby out into the air and sunshine on mild days. The mother loudly exclaimed, "No, no, if the March sun shines on the baby's face he will be an idiot!"

SUNNY SUNDAYS.. YOUR MOTOR PURRS WITH ALL-WEATHER MOBILGAS! RAINY MONDAYS..

"I THINK THAT CLIMATIC CONTROL REALLY WORKS?"

"I DUNNO, MARY... BUT WE'RE CERTAINLY STEPPIN'!"

SOME PEOPLE don't realize that an automobile engine is very sensitive to Spring's sudden changes of weather. These changes cannot affect your car if you use Socony Mobilgas. For this gasoline, as you know, has Climatic Control.

In simple words — Climatic Control means engines run at their best all of the time instead of some of the time. If you're not a regular Socony Mobilgas motorist, there never was a better time than now to put Climatic Control to the test. Use Socony Mobilgas regularly for the next few changeable weeks and notice the difference.

Look for the station with the sign of the Flying Horse. Socony Mobilgas and Socony Ethyl are sold where you see that sign.

CALLING ALL CARS! Spring's here... time to drain off winter-worn oil and put in clean Summer Mobiloil! It takes only a few minutes.

CORONER REPORTS ON TODD'S DEATH

Mystery Remains Unsolved According to Finding of Phelan in Norwalk Case.

Bridgeport, May 8.—(AP)—To Coroner John J. Phelan the death of Arthur J. Todd, 69, of Bell Island, Norwalk, remains an unsolved mystery, according to a finding returned by him today and in which no designation of a manner of death is made.

Todd's body was found in the waters of Long Island Sound near his summer home on April 14. It was feared at first he had been the victim of foul play. After several days of investigation the matter was brought before the coroner who, in an executive session last Saturday, heard testimony from Tom Todd, K. Stanley Todd of New Haven and several investigators.

Drowning Cause?
The coroner in his finding today accepts the report of Medical Examiner William Michaelson who says that the cause of death was drowning. He also accepts the report of State Chemist Harold T. Leavenworth that analysis of the brain and stomach of the dead man showed no traces of poison nor indulgence in alcoholics shortly before his death.

The evidence of investigators, Chief Jeremiah Dorney of the Norwalk police department; Detective Charles Bouton, County Detective William S. Kearns, Lieutenant Leo Carroll and Officer Stephen Stanton of the Ridgefield and Westport state police barracks has failed thus far in showing any person or persons encompassing or instrumental in causing the death despite their earnest, diligent and intelligent endeavors.

Continued Efforts.
"It is hoped by them, however, that by continued efforts on their part in pursuing every available pertinent or suggestive indication or clue tending to show activity of criminality on the part of any person or persons in connection with such death, they may be able to promptly bring such person or persons to justice, providing the deceased came to his death at the hands of any third person or persons.

In view of the foregoing, I am hopeful that the endeavors of the above, or other investigators, are successful in clearing up the apparent mystery surrounding the death of the deceased."

time the December British installment fell due was $7,500,000.

WASHINGTON ANGLE.
Washington, May 8.—(AP)—The authority granted President Roosevelt to accept silver in payment on war debts expired last October. This authority was contained in the Thomas Inflation amendment to agriculture adjustment act and said:
"The President is authorized for a period of six months from the date of passage of this act to accept silver in payment of the whole or any part of the principal or interest now due within six months after such date from any foreign government or government controlled by any indebtedness to the United States, such silver to be accepted at not to exceed the price of 50 cents an ounce in United States currency. The aggregate value of the silver accepted under this section shall not exceed $200,000,000."

DARROW'S DEFENSE USED AT DEDHAM

victed of the slaying of little Bobby Franks, the defense of Loeb, was based on a claim that Leopold completely dominated the activities of Loeb. Scharton said he was trying to show Faber's every move was designed to please Murton and he followed Murton blindly.

Dr. Mitchell testified the only time Faber showed any emotional reaction while being examined under a "detector" was when he was asked "What if Murton Millen is electrocuted?"

Signs Permit
She said Faber signed without any emotion whatever a paper which read: "Here is a permit for an autopsy on my body if I am electrocuted at the state prison."
The witness testified he showed no emotional reaction when he answers the question "if your mother died of this strain, what would you do?" His answer was she said, "I don't know what I would do about it." Asked "what if your father dies of a shock?" he replied, "I don't know what I would do about that either."

"I asked him, 'what if Murt Millen is electrocuted?' and he showed a definite reaction," the witness said. "It was the only time he showed any reaction."

ANOTHER PROBE ORDERED

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—A Grand Jury analysis of the Detroit bank situation has been ordered by Attorney General Cummings.
A short while before, unground practices and mismanagement were reported to the Senate banking and Stock Market investigating committee as the cause of the failure of Cleveland's two big banks—the Guardian Trust Company and the Union Trust Company.
Cummings told reporters he had designated Guy K. Bard, a special assistant attorney general, to handle the Detroit case.
Cummings disclosed that the prolonged governmental investigation had considered a large number of transactions which would be drawn together by the Grand Jury.
He described Bard as a man familiar with banking methods, bookkeeping and banking trials.

Banking Chains
The investigation upon which the criminal proceedings will be brought has included state-wide banking chains controlled by the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc., and Detroit Bankers Company.
The situation has been surveyed by the Senate banking committee, Department of Justice agents sat in the committee hearing.
During inquiry Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel questioned various witnesses regarding alleged practices of "window dressing," the seeking of uncollateralized loans from New York and Chicago banking firms and the allegation that bank examiners were asked "to exercise leniency" in making their route examinations.
Cummings would give no indication to the number of men whose names will be submitted to the Grand Jury except to say it was "very large."

During the winter an investigation was conducted by John S. Pratt. His report reached the attorney general several weeks ago and has been rechecked by Justice Department lawyers.

W. H. SHIELDS DEAD

Norwich, May 8.—(AP)—Arrangements were completed today for the funeral of William H. Shields, veteran lawyer who for many years served as president of the New London Bar Association.
A mass will be celebrated at 9 a. m., Saturday in St. Patrick's church after services in a Norwich funeral home.
Shields, who had practiced law in New London county for nearly 65 years, died last night at the age of 86. He had been a patient at Backus hospital for several days.

THINK DILLINGER NOW IN CHICAGO

Finding of Blood Stained Car in Windy City Gives Strength to Belief.

Chicago, May 8.—(AP)—The government's ace man hunters and police marksmen massed forces in the Chicago area today in a new drive to get John Dillinger "dead or alive."

The discovery of a blood stained automobile—one of two or more cars the Dillinger mobsters apparently used in their dash to liberty from the Little Bohemia resort near Meredosia, Wis., April 22, spurred the concentration.

Police Captain John Stege's special "Dillinger squad" comprising the best marksmen of the police force was under orders to comb all of the city's underworld haunts for the elusive Indiana bad man. There are forty determined men on the squad.

The blood-stained automobile was found late yesterday, abandoned in a street on the north side. The stains gave rise again to the belief that one of the Dillinger gang had been badly hurt at one time or another after their flight from the resort near where a federal agent and a civilian were shot to death.
The car was stolen from Roy Francis of South St. Paul, Minn., April 23—the day after the battle of Little Bohemia.
The rear window of the Francis machine had been knocked out to give the gunmen free range in any machine gun battle they might have with police. In the machine were a pile of bandages, several boxes of paper matches from the Little Bohemia resort and a copy of a Duquesne, Iowa, newspaper with a headline: "Dillinger on Rampage."
Other indications that Dillinger is hiding out somewhere in the Chicago area came Monday morning when one of four gunmen who carried a squad of Bellwood police was identified as Dillinger.
In the course of the Chicago hunt, a detective squad took Henry Johnson, negro, into custody and charged him with hiding $7,000 for Herbert Youngblood, the Gary negro who broke Crown Point jail with Dillinger and was killed a few days later by Michigan police.
The money, said Sergeant James Fitzgerald, was proceeds of a bank robbery in which Youngblood aided. Johnson denied that he knew Youngblood.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, May 8.—(AP)—The Stock Market showed signs of rejuvenation today although traders were still cautious and the activity restricted.
Commentators spoke of at least a technical rally of moderate proportions and buying in some of the groups was attributed partly to the hope. The short interest, however, was said to be relatively small and stimulation for recovery was being awaited from other sources.
Equities received no assistance from gains. The cereals were a little easier as further reports of snows in the drought districts were received. Cotton and rubber were about even. Silver futures came back substantially, but the bar metal was only advanced 1-8 of a cent an ounce to 42 3-4 cents. Bonds were irregular, although U. S. government securities pushed up to new highs for the past year or longer. Dollar rates were fairly steady.

IMPROVEMENT GROUP TO MEET ON MAY 17

After two adjournments it has been decided that the meeting of the Manchester Improvement Association will be held on Thursday evening, May 17. At that time the hall in the Manchester Y. M. C. A. building can be secured. Aldo Paganl has been named as chairman of a committee to provide for the supper that will be served at the meeting.

BIG STRIKE ENDED

Peabody, Mass., May 8.—(AP)—The three-day strike of seven thousand leather workers in 39 factories and tanneries in northeast Massachusetts was virtually ended today, when shortly after noon, 21 manufacturers voted to resume negotiations with the National Leather Workers union. Last night the workers at a mass meeting here voted to go back to work tomorrow if the employers consented to enter negotiations.

WALL ST. BRIEFS

New York, May 8.—(AP)—The bondholders committee for State of Arkansas highway and toll bridge bonds, headed by William L. De Bost, president of the Union Dime Savings Bank of New York, announced that it will act as agent for holders in the exchange under the new refunding plan. The committee says the refunding board has set aside cash to meet the interest payment due April 1 on the bonds to be issued.

The National Coal Association estimates bituminous production last week at approximately 8,000,000 net tons, compared with 4,824,000 a year ago.
Heavy construction awards in the past week total $26,121,000 of which $19,442,000 was for public work, reports "Engineering News-Record."
In the state of Washington, every truck transporting motor fuel must have a special license plate, in addition to the regular motor vehicle license plate.

TREASURY REPORTS 10 MILLION PROFIT

Made That Since First of Year by Buying Various U. S. Securities.

Washington, May 8.—(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau told reporters today the Treasury had a book profit of $10,000,000 on its investments in government securities since the first of the year.

These purchases are made for investment accounts of corporations having surplus funds such as the Postal Savings, the Veterans Administration and the Deposit Insurance Corporation.
Several hundred million of government securities have been purchased by the Treasury to the account of these organizations.
The increase in market value of these securities since their purchase constituted the book profit.

Silent on Silver.
Morgenthau had "no comment" on yesterday's heavy silver purchases on the New York market, but agreed that the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund "would be used to buy silver."

The Treasury head conveyed the impression to newspapermen that the stabilization fund had not been so employed. To all other questions about the market, he declined to reply.

In some quarters it was considered doubtful that the Treasury would buy silver to an extent likely to boost the price and thereby benefit speculators and spot silver holders.

exonerate Froge of charges previously lodged against him when the new accusations were raised.
Belfort, one of the spy centers of the World War, was the scene of a famous hoax General John J. Pershing pulled on the Germans.
General Pershing sent officers to Belfort to build up elaborate headquarters and "lose" their plans to convince the Germans an attack was planned at Belfort instead of at Argonne as actually was the case.
Krauss and his alleged French accomplice reached prison, oddly enough, because members of the French secret service read the want ads.
Police declared that after Captain Froge fell under suspicion, Krauss sought a new source of military information for Germany by advertising in the classified columns.

GOATSHAIR SILK, NOVELTY FABRIC

New York Designer Shows One of Season's Most Original Creations.

New York, May 8.—(AP)—Goatshair, a new heavy silk with dark, hair-like threads, and flower-patterned fabric, which looks as if it had been made of shalac, appeared today in one of the season's most original summer collections.

Germaine Montell showed both fabrics in a group that bore the unmistakable hall-marks of her house—big bows, box-plated skirt and cape boucans, square front necklines and little jackets.

Goatshair resembles kasha, a wool fabric that was a leading fashion several seasons ago. This designer showed spectator sports dresses made of it, in soft blue and olive green.

Brown This Season
She likes brown this season, for cotton print frocks under solid color linen coats and for linen suits worn with handkerchief linen blouses.

One of her tailored suits was of black cotton net. It was a plain, long-sleeved jacket worn over a sleeveless black net dress. At the neck was a big white organza bow.

Uses Big Bows
Her big bows, usually of white organza, appear on daytime and evening dresses alike—a single big bow poised at the neck. When a capelet wrap is donned over her evening gowns, this bow shows outside.

She showed a number of crisp cotton evening gowns, in candy stripe organza and bi-colored organza seruccer. Others were of rough silk and floral printed chiffon.

CHIFFON AND LACE FOR EVENING WEAR

New York Designer Describes Some of Her New Creations.

New York, May 8.—(AP)—To one important designer, this will be a summer of chiffon and lace.

She carries nothing for the beach, the tennis court or the mountain camp. Play suits, shorts and cotton frocks never are seen in her collections.

In general, she dislikes prints. The few she showed were designed especially for her. One tunic dress was a hostess gown. The control a blaze at an ice storage house on the shore of Lake Manitowish. They collected in such numbers at the scene on a suction hose used to pump water from the lake that the pumper had to be stopped several times.

Camden, N. J.—Joseph Eliegro, 26, set down at his home and arrested with a sign of contempt. The sign turned to one of pain. He had stretched too far. His knee was twisted so badly he could not walk to the hospital.

Emporia, Kas.—History repeated itself when workmen began repairing an old residence here. On the back of the first board torn from the house April 17, 1934 was written April 17, 1888—'Windy as the devil.' Henry? April 17 this year was windy and the carpenter who tore off the first board was named Henry.

North Wilbraham, Mass.—Leave it to the canny New Englander to find a way. Local residents complained of the speedsters on the state highway, but were unable to persuade the state to install traffic lights.

So they took matters into their own hands. Two teams of oxen will be driven up and down the highway, the theory being that the plodding animals will form a blockade to slow down the fast drivers.

When the engine is idling, an air leak around the intake manifold can be detected by a whistling noise.

San Rafael, Cal.—Though Ed Baier was locked in a telephone by a robber, who looted his pool hall, he couldn't reach the receiver to notify police.

Eight of Baier's customers were locked in the five foot square booth with him and it was too crowded.

Chicago—When Dr. L. Lionel Holzman made a set of false teeth for Miss Bertha Krinberg he did a very extra special job—but that's where the trouble started.

So fond was he of the product of his own art, he asked to borrow the teeth for a dental exhibit.

She complied, she charged in court, but the dentist never returned her teeth.

The teeth cost her $64. The court awarded her a $95 judgment but the dentist keeps the teeth.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DONNA GABRIEL, and MADELINE SIDDAL who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are trapeze performers with Renfro's circus. DON DAVID, the animal trainer, is in love with Donna who regards him merely as a friend. Madeline, in love with Con, has been flirting with NED TRAFFORD, boss canvasman. When Madeline's grandfather, AMOS SIDDAL, asks her to spend the week-end on his farm she persuades Donna to take her place. Donna is much attracted by BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin. Two weeks later Donna falls from the trapeze and is taken to a hospital, badly injured. Madeline sends word to Bill that "Madeline" is ill and leaves a letter telling Donna to continue the impersonation until she is well. Then Madeline goes on with the circus.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER VII

A funeral pall, thick and heavy, hung over the circus. The crew train, with tents and stakes and poles and apparatus, had departed by the time Con and Madeline reached the siding where the Pullmans stood, but the performers stood in little groups on the tracks or platform with no intention of retiring so early. Renfro paced the gravelled road, his hands jammed in his pockets, his black boots meeting in a scowl. La Belle Matilde, his wife, sat on a heavy suitcase.

"Well, what's the verdict?" Renfro demanded when the couple approached. Madeline told him what the doctor had said. "It will be a long time before she can work," she added. "I'm going to send her home as soon as she's able to travel."

Renfro kicked viciously at a small rock. "Your act will be lousy without her," he muttered. "Now I'll have to find a new aerial turn."

"You mean you're going to let me out?" Madeline exclaimed. "What else can I do? You're a nice kid, but you know the rules. I don't mean right away, of course."

"But, Mr. Renfro—" Madeline's hands were clammy. "There'll be the hospital bills—"

"I thought your folks were well-to-do? Well, never mind. We'll talk it over in the morning. You're a girl to consider what he had said, for the others crowded about to ask about Donna. For the next 20 minutes she was busy answering their questions. Con slipped away, to stand alone on a rear platform, nursing his grief.

An hour later, after the weary performers had gone to their staterooms, the headlights of the engine that was to carry the train to the next stand split the darkness. The creak of coupling pins, the switch-click from one track to another, the blast of the whistle tore through Madeline's agonized nerves like the sharp cut of a poniard. Stark terror suddenly gripped her. No one else might believe that Ned Trafford had tampered with bolt or screws but she knew he had. He had tried to kill Madeline herself, but failed, but he might try again with success. Cowardice prompted her to leave the circus at once, but two things were stronger; first, her absorbing love for Con David and, second, the fact that she was practically without funds. Unlike Donna, Madeline had not saved her salary. Pretty clothes, French perfumes and exquisite lingerie had taken it as fast as the pay envelopes had arrived.

Since she had definitely cut ties with her family she could not write to Grandfather Siddal for money. For five years she had depended upon Donna to finance her when she found herself in a tight place. She had depended upon Donna, too, to secure their engagements. No, she could not leave the circus. Three-day vaudeville or a place in the chorus of a small musical show was the best she could hope for alone. Even a chorus job was almost out of the question since there were few productions during the summer.

If Donna should die—Madeline shivered! Donna's death would be a double disaster. How would Madeline convince her family that she was the real Madeline Siddal? What no employment, her heritage gone, no money—

She must persuade Renfro to keep her on with the circus. By hook or by crook she must win Con's love. Perhaps she had depended upon Donna to finance her when she found herself in a tight place. She had depended upon Donna, too, to secure their engagements. No, she could not leave the circus. Three-day vaudeville or a place in the chorus of a small musical show was the best she could hope for alone. Even a chorus job was almost out of the question since there were few productions during the summer.

Madeline fell asleep and dreamed

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

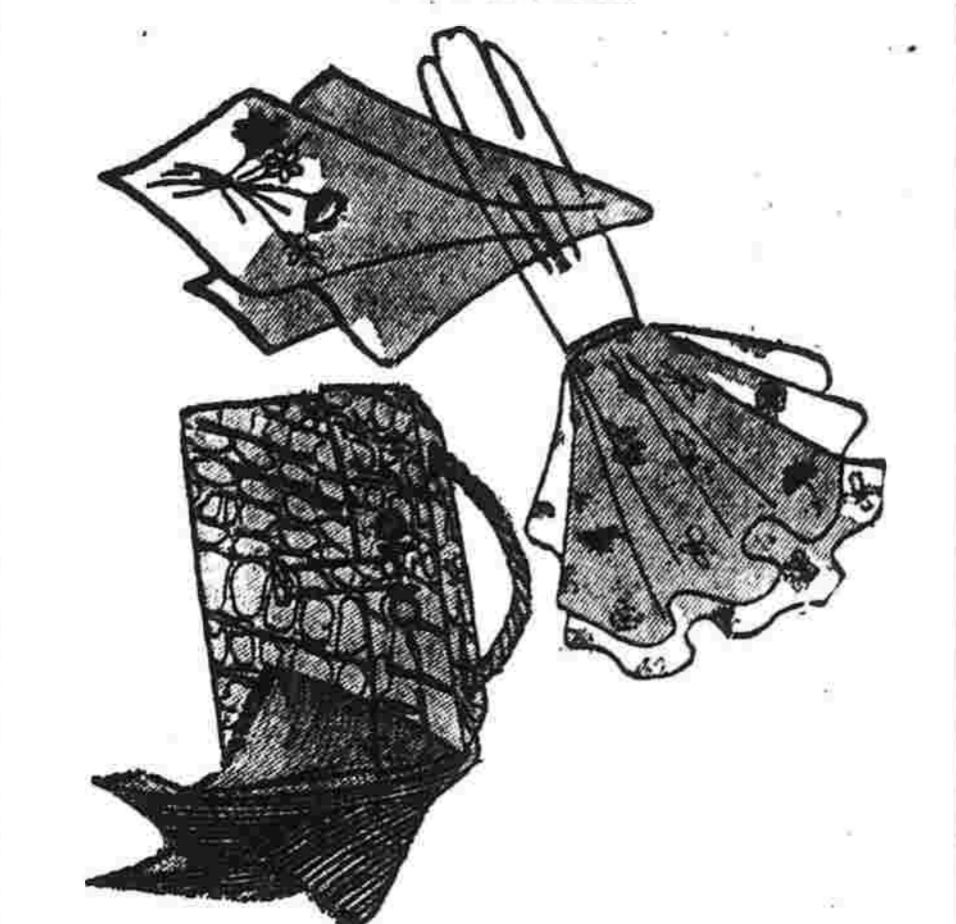

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sick and the world looks pink, don't worry. It's your liver. It's the reason for your down-and-out feeling in your liver. It should pour out two quarts of bile every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. The bile backs up your stomach, and you feel sick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Sick often means you're in a bad way. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your liver system is poisoned.

Take this good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILL to get your bowels flowing freely and make you feel like a new man. It's the reason for your down-and-out feeling in your liver. It should pour out two quarts of bile every day. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. The bile backs up your stomach, and you feel sick, bad taste and your breath is foul. Sick often means you're in a bad way. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your liver system is poisoned.

SMART MOTHER'S DAY GIFTS

Blouses, Linen Purses With Removable Covers, Gloves and Lingerie Are Ideal Personal Remembrances.

A hand-embroidered green chiffon handkerchief, white kid gloves with detachable flowered organdy cuffs, a white alligator bag with an interesting silver clasp—these are smart Mother's Day gift suggestions.

By MARIAN YOUNG
Smart accessories and exquisite lingerie that mothers would never think of buying for herself make perfect Mother's Day gifts. Of course, there's much to be said in favor of a handsome box of candy or some fresh flowers, but, even though mother would be the last one to suggest it, there's no doubt that she'd love something to wear, too—a gift that is really personal. This is a year when the shops are making it easy to do a bit of Mother's Day shopping. You're likely to find a counter or even an entire department given over to gifts that are smart and charming. Whether you plan to spend one dollar or twenty five there's the right gift for mother. First look at the array of accessories. These are so important to modern costume and no one can have too many little "extras" in a wardrobe. Blouses come in this category. There are tailored ones to wear with tailors, semi-dressy little linen purses, handkerchiefs and many very fancy blouses to wear to dinner in a restaurant or at bridge luncheons. Mother would probably love one of the fascinating new bags. There are many styles, some with removable covers that come off to be washed; handsome silk crepe ones that dress of falling through space, of being mangled by tiger claws, of being kidnaped by a red-headed giant and flung into a pit of snakes. She awoke screaming with terror, her body bathed in perspiration. Snakes! Like most members of the theatrical profession Madeline was superstitious. She knew that Trafford was her enemy, but to dream of snakes meant more than one enemy. She was surrounded by them. Suppose Donna were one? Suppose Donna should hold this accident against her, would refuse to work with Madeline again, to help her, either financially or in other ways? Burying her face in her pillow, she sobbed in a frenzy of self pity.

In the first car the group of strange people discussed the accident that night and others they had seen. They spoke in awed whispers. Major Dan Thumb, his shrill, child-like voice high-pitched though muted, told of a slack wire performer who had fallen 100 feet and risen without injury. The armless wonder related the story of Nellie Blue's death. Nellie had worked in her husband's rifle act for 20 years, posing while he shot cigars from her mouth, or strips of paper from her shoulder. She had been confident and fearless; then a bullet had grazed her calf. Blood poisoning had set in and she had died almost immediately.

"Like Ben Jackson," squeaked the fat woman, "Greatest tumbler in the world, Ben was. Then he trips over a stage brace and breaks his neck. You're late. When your time comes, your time comes."

"Fate nothing!" snapped the pessimistic living skeleton. "It's carelessness, that's all. I'll bet Donna Gabriel didn't check up on the bars tonight—and see what happens! Anything can happen when it rains."

In the hospital Donna moaned in her drugged sleep, still unconscious of what had happened. Like a broken butterfly, she lay on the white iron bed, her glorious hair a flame about her pallid, pinched face. A slim, white-clad nurse had tried rather ineffectually to remove the make-up from the girl's face. She had used soap and water and succeeded in smearing black grease

Your CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton
© 1934 NEA SERVICE, INC.

In a recent magazine, a father confesses that he feels like a liar and a cheat in taking the attitude he does with his twelve-year-old son. He explains his own disillusion about many of the standards and ideals he learned in his own youth. Now, middle-aged, his views have gradually conformed to a new pattern and his faith in the old stock-in-trade traditions has waned. But he lets his boy go on learning them, as he once did.

Changing Social Ethics
His problem is ours in many ways. Hardly a person living has not found himself with a new set of social, religious and patriotic ideals that differ from those hard and fast rules dealt out to us in childhood.

We had ourselves ready with a new tolerance, for instance, that is slowly (or rapidly) changing social ethics and admits a right to happiness. As we mellow with the years, we seek a more reasonable philosophy that endorses life and quarrels with much of the age-old tradition.

As we look back over the history we learned in school and reacted so justly, its victories and glories and hatreds, rendering unto Caesar the homage that was Caesar's and admiring and lauding the great, would we do it now with the blind conviction that the world's famous men have always been the world's right men? I think not.

Yet our children are going in for the same hero worship that we did. And we stand by and let them do it, lest in shattering around Donna's eyes, but even this could not obliterate the chiseled beauty pressed into the hard pillow. She was a very young nurse, without much experience, and she had not yet learned to control her sympathy. Every time Donna moaned tears coursed down the nurse's cheeks. Donna was to her a glamorous creature, and that she should suffer so was unbearable.

When daylight came and the black-smear eyes opened with a lucid expression in their golden brown depths the little nurse murmured an inaudible prayer of thanksgiving.

Donna's gaze took in the white walls, the carpetless floor, the wide casement windows with their starched curtains; the shining enamel table beside her bed. Then she tried to move and found her body encased in steel—steel that burned like a torturing fire but held her rigid. Even her hands refused to obey the commands of her brain.

There was a queer, muffled roaring in her head, an intolerable ache as though something alive were imprisoned within her skull and seeking release. Her lips were cracked and swollen, her eyelids like lead. She tried to speak to ask where she was, but only a hoarse murmur came from her throat.

Miss Saunders crossed the room and leaned over her. "Yes, honey? What is it?"

The eyes pleaded for information. "You're in Dr. Cotton's sanatorium, honey. You were hurt you know. You fell from the trapeze. But we're going to take good care of you and help you on your feet again in no time."

The white eyelids fluttered downward. Suddenly Donna was overcome by panic as she remembered that something had gone wrong.

Her grasp had slipped; then the horrible sensation of falling—"My—my back?" dry lips framed the words.

"Bless your heart, there's nothing the matter with your back!" "Madeline!"

The nurse bit her lips. "Yes, I know. Your sister told us. We've written your folks."

The statement made no impression upon Donna. Already her sick brain was befogged again. Her injured body was sending messages of torment to her centers. She stifled a groan and Miss Saunders, fearful that she had said too much, hastened to give the patient a quieting injection, according to Dr. Cotton's orders.

A bee buzzed drowsily against the screened window. On the floor below an expectant mother cried aloud in her travail. But Donna heard neither. Her spirit floated in a world of space in which pain, pleasure and her surroundings were unimportant.

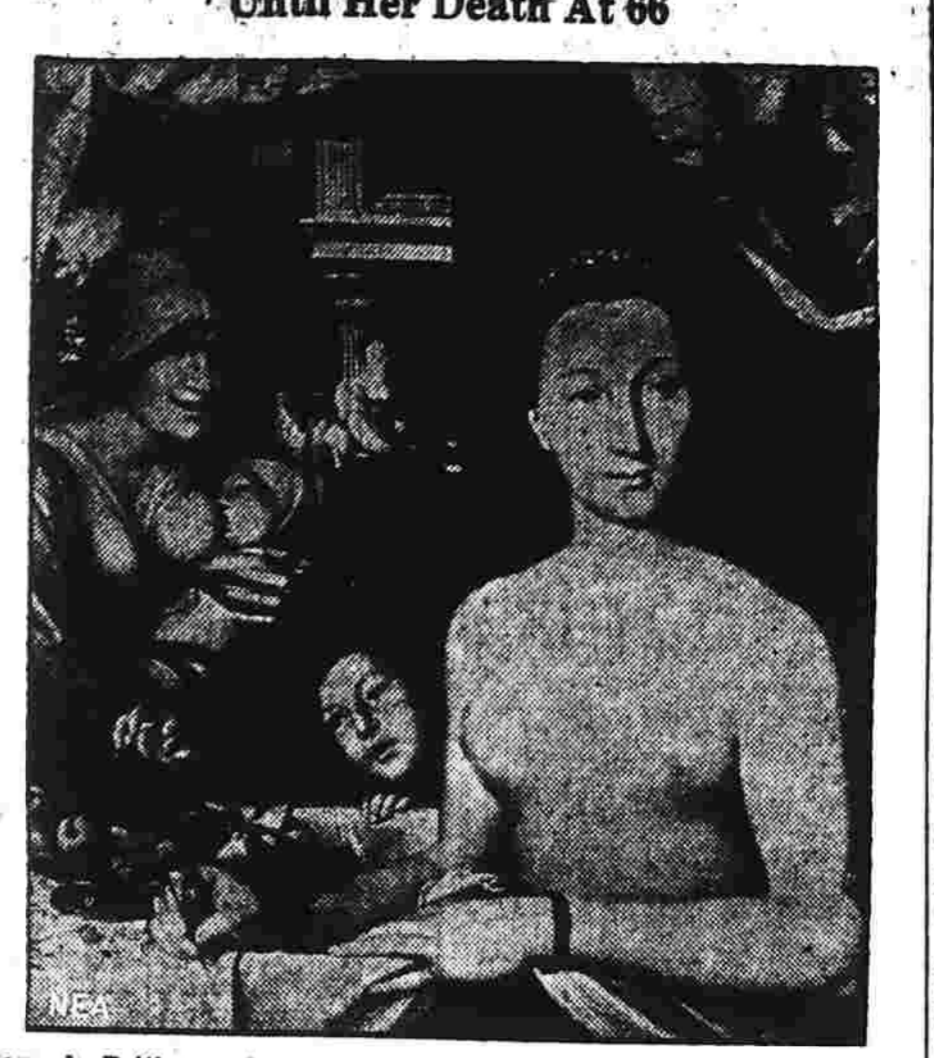

The day wore on. At times she roused from her lethargy and became conscious of the splints and bandages of unutterable weakness and agonizing pain. Then she sank back into blissful unconsciousness.

Several times during the long, hot day Dr. Cotton dropped in to see Donna and privately gave thanks that his little daughter need not torment her with a profession. At midnight, when she arrived, it was addressed to the doctor and signed "William Siddal." The message read, "Leaving tonight."

When Donna murmured, "Bill!" she was assured that he would be with her the next day. Miss Saunders could understand Donna's repeated calling of Bill's name but she could not understand the reiteration, "Madeline! Madeline!" (To Be Continued)

HER PERSONALITY PLUS HELD LOVE OF KING 20 YEARS HER JUNIOR

Diane de Poitiers Kept Schoolgirl Complexion Until Her Death At 66

Diane de Poitiers: A reproduction of the painting by Francois Clouet.

By ALICE ROHE
Diane de Poitiers is Hope's gift to women.

She died at sixty-six and men were still raving about her charms. She never grew old, she never lost her girlish figure. She kept her school-girl complexion up to the day of her death. She knew everything the up-to-date beauty artist and calorie counter thinks is modern. She originated the Hollywood diet and started the beauty bath legend so popular with theatrical press agents of our own era. And she had personality plus.

In an age when bathing was a lost art the fact that Diane took a bath every morning raised all kinds of excitement. Catherine of Medicis, Queen of France, said she put gold in the bath water and drank gold bouillon. Catherine whispered that Diane resorted to witchcraft—which was an involuntary tribute to the favorite's charms.

Married At 14
She has left posterity more than legends of her undying charm. Wherever she passed, sculpture, painting, architecture and jewels sprang into being, evidences of her appreciation of art.

As for those magical beauty rites: She arose every morning at five, took a cold bath and then a five-mile horseback ride. She came home and read in bed till noon. She ate sparingly.

Diane de Poitiers was no mere siren. She was a great lady. Royal blood was in her veins and her descendants occupied the throne of France four times.

She was born in 1499 of an ancient noble family. Her father was Jehan de Poitiers, Seigneur of Saint Vallier in the Dauphiné. When she was fourteen she was married to Louis de Breze, Grand Seneschal of Normandy, a lame, ill-favored widower of fifty. She was left a widow at fifty—and she started the fashion of chic widows' weeds which has never gone out of style.

Clouet's portrait reveals the mental more than the voluptuous charms of this ageless beauty. Curiously enough it is marble which best immortalizes her beauty of body.

Twitted About Age
When Henry, a motherless child was sent by his father along with the Dauphin, as hostages to Spain, it was Diane, the Grand Seneschal, who took him in her arms and kissed him goodby. The little boy, unloved by his father, sensitive, forlorn, carried the thought of his beautiful friend in his heart. When he returned and entered the lists at the attachment of Henry II and Diane de Poitiers there is a psychological fact almost concealed by the gossip and scandals of his time.

GRAVE HEALTH HAZARDS IN DAMPENESS AND DUST

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER

If you have to work in a damp place, look out for colds, rheumatic disease, and changes in the skin. The human being is not adapted to living in exceedingly damp areas. Therefore, you should try to avoid dampness by wearing waterproof clothing, and those who work in places where water abounds should wear appropriate protective covering from head to foot.

Moreover, accumulation of water can frequently be prevented by digging channels or ditches to carry away the excess.

Workers most affected by dampness will be found in the mining industry, among leather preparers in the glove industry, laundry workers, packing house employes, sewer workers, farmers and those in the paper and pottery industries.

Most occupations in which dampness occurs are also associated with high and low temperatures and with high humidity, and these variations cause considerable difficulties.

The most serious hazard today in many industries is dust. Dusts not only block the tissues, but in some cases acts as an irritant so that there is inflammation, swelling and even destruction.

Moreover, the dusts sometimes carry germs with them into the tissues, and once in the body the germs may set up inflammations. Among the most dangerous of the dusts which affect mankind is silica. This produces a condition known as silicosis. X-ray pictures show the lungs full of nodules, following judgment of the silica in the lymphatics.

When the disease is well advanced the lungs do not expand, breathing is difficult and there may be continuous coughing.

The dust from asbestos produces the same type of inflammation, although apparently milder. To prevent silicosis, workers in any industry in which silica is much used should avoid inhalation and the head of the industry can aid the worker by certain simple procedures.

Water or oil may be used to wet the dust, thus preventing it from rising and filling the air. Exhaust systems can be applied to remove the dust at the point where it develops.

Sometimes the work can be done in an enclosed chamber, with the worker outside. Finally, where dust is exceedingly excessive, helmets worn by the workers to cover head and neck and they can get their air by breathing through pipes from a non-dusty area.

Workers in such industry should have their lungs X-rayed regularly and there should be a physician in the plant familiar with the changes that take place in the lungs under exposure.

Whenever a worker in a dusty trade has a cough, a dryness of the nose and throat, pain on breathing and hoarseness, whenever he coughs or expectorates blood, and develops colds which simply refuse to clear up, he should begin to wonder whether the dust is affecting him unfavorably.

There are hundreds of industries in which dust is a serious factor. In all of them it is hazardous when it is silica or asbestos dust, it is a menace to health and life.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
Of the aluminum produced in 1932, 22.9 per cent was used in the construction of motor vehicles. According to present estimates, enough steel to build the framework of ten Empire State buildings, or 40 Brooklyn bridges, will be used by automobile manufacturers in 1934.

The Philippine Islands imported 404 passenger cars and 140 trucks during November, 1933. There are approximately 30 companies manufacturing tires in the United States.

Revolutionary? WELL, MAYBE, SAYS F. D. R.
In his new book, "On Our Way," President Roosevelt reviews the events of his first year in office and refuses to get frightened at the charge that his policy is revolutionary.

Revolutionary? "Perhaps it is," he says in his foreword to the book. "It is revolutionary, however, only in the sense that the measures adopted and the purposes that they seek differ from those used before."

REVENUE FROM WINE AND BEER $631,992

Receipts During First Year Exceed Expectations—$30,000 More in Taxes.

Hartford, May 3—(AP)—Repeal of the National prohibition law has brought to Connecticut $631,992.33 in revenues obtained through the medium of the state tax imposed on alcoholic beverages, in the first year the State Liquor Control Act has been in force in this state. To this will be added within the next few days approximately $25,000 or $30,000 in tax revenues, which will raise the total considerably more than the estimates made when the liquor control act was under consideration.

The receipts for the quarter ended April 30, and which was the fourth taxing period, amounted to $201,742.12, with taxes still being received. It is believed the receipts for this taxing period will easily reach $225,000. This is the first time that the state has received more than the $160,000 received by the state during the beer and wine era.

CLEANING BEER VAT RAISES HIS THIRST

Bavarian Brewery Worker Has Capacity to Down Nine Gallons Each Day.

New York, May 3—(AP)—Julius Rupp, a one keg man from Bavaria, is a man with mighty thirst.

Great is his fame, from the Augsburg Horse Marines to the gusty locale of Brooklyn's Green Point district.

For thirty years—since he abandoned the Horse Marines in Bavaria for the pleasant maitly surroundings of a Brooklyn brewery—he has been quenching a man sized thirst with a keg of good brew each morning.

The keg is a quarter barrel by standard measure, and holds eight gallons.

Rupp's job is to climb into the steaming interior of the huge beer vat after a batch is run off and clean to polished perfection the hot copper lining. It's a job on which a man can work up a satisfactory thirst.

At fifty, he weighs 235 pounds and insists on only one thing—that the eight gallon keg of beer stand ready for him when he emerges from the big brewing kettle. He always knots off at least one or two mugs when he arrives in the morning.

GOVERNOR ELY ASKS CODE SUSPENSION

ciently. He probably cannot without an expansion of his market.

Governor Ely said he was mindful of the extreme danger resting in tariff reform but that sooner or later these barriers against trade "must be materially eliminated. They are sapping the vitality of every nation of Europe and America."

The difficulty "in carrying it (tariff reform) out," the President is asking that the power to arrange these changes be vested in him. It is a dangerous power but it may be a necessary one. The exercise of such authority, under the very magnanimity, means the delegation of it to his spokesmen.

"Were these commissions leavened by the presence of practical men, I should think that the welfare of the nation demanded such action. But American business will place no confidence in a total professional commission."

Turning to the Washington and Hanover speeches of Tugwell, Ely said:

"What Professor Tugwell proposes is that we eliminate greed and corruption and the worship of wealth, which, he pointed out both at Washington and Hanover, N. H., is the real cause of our disaster. This is to be accomplished by governmental regulation."

"In substance he says that the NRA is evolutionary and furnishes but change. While I do not wish to deny, because it has some elements of truth in it, that the methods of industry left to its own initiative embody to an extent at least the 'regimentation' of the worker, it must be equally apparent that the progress of the NRA likewise regimentation of the worker and dictate to the employer the way in which business shall be operated. If one is regimentation, then also the other is regimentation."

Bad For Americans

"And, 'regimentation is bad for the American people and inconsistent with their ideals,' says Professor Tugwell.

"I do not believe that the desire for worldly advantage and the selfishness and greed of the few can be eliminated by any dictate expressed by governmental regulation through the will of the many by the regimentation of all, any more than temperance could be accomplished by prohibition. It is a question of the improvement of character and this cannot be accomplished by any edict of government."

Turning to future suspension of the codes, Ely said that the codes furnished four distinct advantages which may be made simple and direct laws—"beacons if you will to guide modern business and the enactment of which will keep the government abreast of the times. Let us have uniform hours of labor, a minimum wage law, the elimination of child labor, and the temporary suspension of the anti-trust laws as to price agreements."

Wants a Promise

"The suspension of the codes, now, is not asked or expected—but the promise of their suspension and the substitution of concrete laws to govern the four points mentioned would seem to me to give that assurance which business needs. Not only that, but it would assure the course of the nation according to the established ideals of American government."

"Government in keeping abreast of the rising tide of social relations may establish new beacons to mark the course. Such a method is quite different from a complete domination of business—the inevitable result pursuing the NRA. This sets up a bureaucracy in Washington so enormous, by its size so elusive or so inevitably result in a mass of confusion, inefficiency, waste and political chicanery compared with which the prohibition experience pales into insignificance. This technical bureau of practical inexperience will run the industry of the United States."

THE FARM PROBLEM

Washington May 3.—(AP)—Bernard M. Baruch, financier and adviser to Presidents, said today in one of his rare interviews that solution of the farm problem is the key to economic recovery.

Recently a guest at the White House, the New Yorker indicated his belief that the farm problem will not be solved by cutting down production, but by increasing consumption at home and abroad.

PARSONS AS SPEAKER

New London, May 3.—(AP)—Herbert C. Parsons of Massachusetts, chairman of the Child Labor committee of that state and formerly commissioner of probation there, and Miss Elizabeth Dexter, director of social service for the Jewish Board of Guardians, New York City, will be speakers at the 36th annual meeting of the Connecticut Society for Mental Hygiene.

Parsons will speak on the challenge which delinquency and crime present to mental hygiene, and Miss Dexter will evaluate mental hygiene in social case work.

Dr. C. G. Wiedman of Hartford will preside.

FIELDS LAUGHS HIS WAY INTO ROLE IN THE FILMS

Starred in "You're Telling Me" at the State Theater Tomorrow and Saturday.

W. C. Fields, stage and screen comedian, who has been a featured player for many years, has at last laughed himself into a starring position. His first starring picture, "You're Telling Me," is coming to the State Theater Friday and Saturday.

Featured with Fields in this Paramount film are Larry "Buster" Crabbe, Joan Marsh and Adrienne Ames. Eric Kenton directed from the screen play by Walter DeLeon and Paul Jones.

As a rattle-brained inventor whose greatest problem is trying to find a way to keep from working, Fields doesn't provide much peace and happiness for his family.

Living across the tracks, on the cheap side, his daughter and his wife have hard times trying to make "uptown" friends.

They almost land in society when Larry "Buster" Crabbe, the banker's son, falls in love with Joan. But while his family is meeting the poor family, Fields comes in with his tipsy pals and ruins everything.

Spells His Chances

Always doing the wrong thing, Fields spoils his chances of selling his one good invention. Discouraged and practically outcast, he accidentally gets into a drinking bout with a real princess.

She takes sides with him, and the manner in which she and Fields high-tail the town and bring the two lovers together furnishes an amusing climax to a laugh-packed picture.

The co-feature is "Sisters Under the Skin" starring Elissa Landi.

WAPPING

The funeral service for Everett A. Buckland was largely attended at his late home Tuesday afternoon. Rev. David Carter, pastor of the Federated Church officiated. The bearers were: Charles Dart of Vernon, Fred Buckland, Buel C. Grant, Edward P. Collins, Edgar J. Stoughton and Walter Keeney. The burial was in the family plot in the Wapping cemetery.

Mrs. George O. Case of Wapping has returned to her home in Wapping after spending several days with her cousins, Mrs. Marietta G. Horton and Miss Marion Gott of Hebron.

Alfred Stone and Edward P. Collins attended the Pioneers Past Masters' meeting last Monday evening at Vernon Grange Hall.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillette and family have moved from Hackett's tenement house on the Buckland road to Pleasant Valley. They moved last Saturday.

The Federated Sunday School Board will hold the next meeting at the home of Miss Inez Burnham of Pleasant Valley at 7:30 o'clock this evening.

LINER RUNS AGROUND IN NEW YORK HARBOR

Heavy Fog Also Causes Passenger Plane to Make Forceful Landing on Staten Island.

New York, May 3.—(AP)—The Hamburg-American liner Albert Ballin was stuck in the mud in New York harbor for seven hours early today when she ran aground in a heavy fog which forced an American Airways liner with eighteen people aboard to make a spectacular forced landing on a Staten Island beach last night.

The Albert Ballin, bound for Hamburg, grounded some distance outside of Quarantine at 1:30 a. m. It was not until 9 a. m., that a number of tugboats, aided by the high tide, succeeded in floating her. Unfortunately the mishap she proceeded on her course.

The Cunarder Aquitania, which passed Quarantine eight minutes ahead of the Albert Ballin, reached the open sea without mishap.

None of the passengers of the plane, bound from Chicago to New York was injured. The pilot, unable to find the New Jersey airport in the fog, circled over the metropolitan area hoping it would lift until his gas ran dangerously low, when he made for the beach and succeeded in landing on a strip only 300 feet wide.

EDUCATOR HONORED

Waterbury, May 3.—(AP)—Thomas J. Condon, superintendent of schools here since 1932, was today notified that he has been selected to receive the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the 61st annual commencement of Villanova college June 7th.

Mr. Condon received his B. A. degree from Villanova in 1896 and his M. A. degree from the same college in 1898.

DIES SUDDENLY

Danbury, May 3.—(AP)—The lifeless body of August Strasser, 84, was found by his daughter, Mrs. Theresa Bertram, when she went to her father's room early this morning. The man apparently had been stricken by a heart attack during the night and had fallen to the floor. He came to Danbury from New York City three years ago to reside with his daughter.

"Oh, I love roast pig," Duncy cried. "Gee, I can't wait until it's tried. I'm going to make a sandwich that will last a long, long while."

The woman who had cooked the meal exclaimed "I know just how you feel. I'll serve this on a plate, though, so that you can eat in style."

"That's far enough," said Duncy. "Gee, please serve the first big piece to me." Then Scouty snapped, "Of all the manners, yours sure, are the worst!"

"You'll get your share of meat, all right, but you should try by this time that the girls should be served first."

The meal went on for quite a while, and then was Doty, with a smile, exclaimed, "I've eaten all I can. 'Twas good as it could be."

"Outdoors, for exercise, I'm bound. 'Twill help me if I walk around until my food's digested," Doty snouted. "Wait for me."

And so the two girls left the bunch. "This was a happy bunch. Let's walk along the road a bit and see what we can find."

"We can return before it's night, so I'm sure we'll be all right. No doubt, all of the boys will fall asleep, so they won't mind."

Sunny Goidy stopped and looked around. Said she, "What was the funny sound? 'Twas like the ringing of some bells. Someone is near, I know."

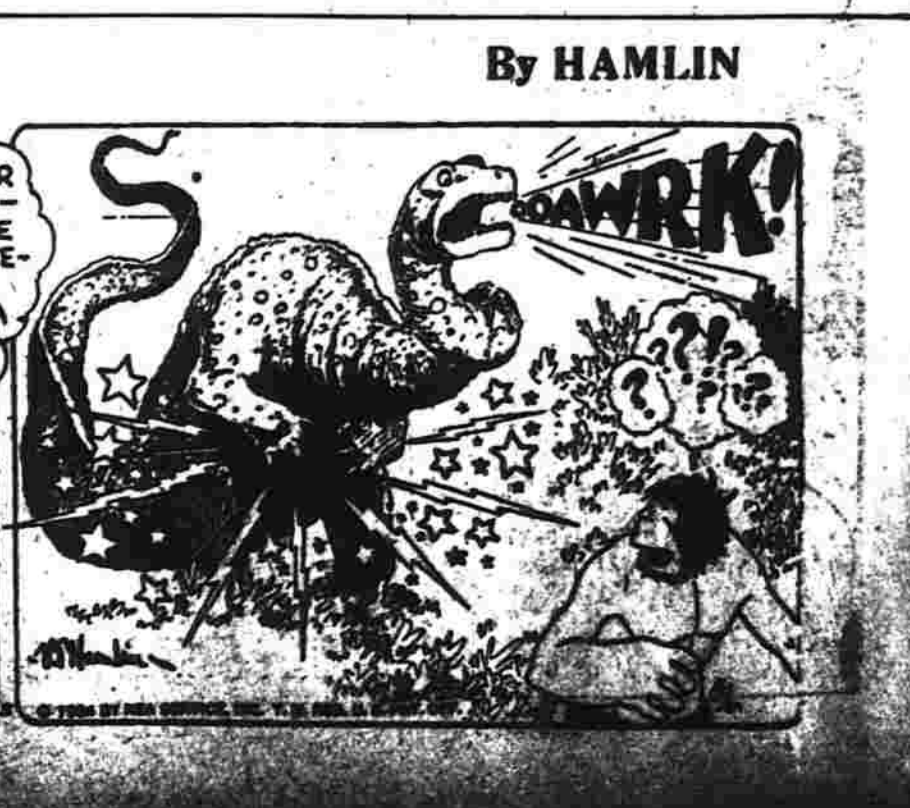

"You're right," said Doty. "I can see a girl who's pretty as can be. She's riding on a funny horse that's rocking to and fro."

They ran up to the girl, who cried, "Hello, there, youngsters! Watch me ride. I've bells upon my fingers and upon all of my toes."

And then to Goidy Doty said, "About this girl I know I've read. She wears the bells and has sweet music everywhere she goes."
