

PACKAGE STORES HIT BY FEDERAL COURT; NOT TO PROSECUTE

Must Observe Restrictions of State Liquor Control Act—Temporary Injunction Lifted—Way Open to Carry Fight to U. S. Supreme Court.

New Haven, May 17.—(AP)—Package stores of Connecticut were required today to observe the restrictions of the State Liquor Control Act as a result of a Constitutional Court decision.

Assailing the Control Act as discriminatory and therefore in violation of the Federal Constitution, the package stores had sought a permanent injunction, which in effect would have extended to them the same privileges enjoyed by drug stores.

The Constitutional Court, however, upheld the right of the General Assembly to distinguish between classes of permittees and to establish a different set of rules for the sale of liquor by package stores and drug stores.

Under the protection of a temporary injunction, many package stores for weeks have sold liquor virtually on the same basis as drug stores.

As a result of the decision of the Constitutional Court, however, the package stores will now be stripped of this protection and will be prohibited from selling liquor after six p. m., or in containers of less than a fifth.

May Appeal Case The decision of the Constitutional Court, handed down late yesterday, left the way open for package stores to carry their fight to the United States Supreme Court.

The attorney general had filed a motion to dismiss the bill of complaint offered by the package stores. The decision denies this motion "to await further proofs the plaintiff may produce at a trial of the merits if one is desired."

"If no further evidence is offered and the plaintiff rests on the stipulation submitted," the decision said, "the bill will be dismissed on the merits, not because of want of jurisdiction."

Should the package stores insist on a trial and a decision unfavorable to them, it is returned they may then appeal to the Supreme Court.

Preliminary Action The decision of the Constitutional Court was on a preliminary action which it heard at Hartford, March 29. It was written by District Judge Edwin S. Thomas and signed also by Circuit Judge Martin T. Manton of New York and District Judge Carroll C. Hincks. The trio comprised the constitutional court, the first convened in Connecticut in many years.

After the action was instituted by the package stores in the name of William Shore of Hartford, enforcing officials suggested the possibility that package stores might be prosecuted for selling liquor after six p. m.

JAPAN TO ASK EQUAL RIGHTS IN ARMAMENTS

Also Abandonment of Present Ratio Method of Naval Limitation—Envoy on Way to U. S.

Yokohama, Japan, May 17.—(AP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoye called for the United States today, primed to inform American leaders that Japan at the 1935 naval conference will demand "equal rights in national defense" and abandonment of the present ratio method of naval limitation.

The prince was given last minute instructions, a high authority revealed, at a breakfast with Japan's naval war lords in Tokyo shortly before his departure by train for Yokohama.

The youthful political leader, only recently installed as president of the House of Peers, sailed on the liner Asama Maru bound for San Francisco, United States Ambassador Joseph C. Grew saw him off in Tokyo.

Whether "equal rights" means actual tonnage parity or whether Japan will be satisfied with a general Anglo-American admission of her equal ranking as a naval power remains to be decided in a series of high state councils in coming months.

The naval leaders told Prince Konoye at the breakfast that Japan is unwilling for the 1935 conference to break down, but will reject any agreement which she believes fails to protect all apprehensions concerning the Empire's security.

Japan has indicated that she will seek naval parity with Great Britain.

FERGUSON LAUDS UTILITY BONDS

Lighting Company Head Says They Are as Safe Now as Ever.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Samuel Ferguson, president of the Hartford Electric Light Company, said here today that good underlying utility bonds are as safe now as they ever were.

He said public criticism of utilities to the methods of certain holding companies.

The lack of understanding by the public and a utility company holding company and a utility company is the root of, and reason for, much of the recent popular outcry against utilities," Mr. Ferguson told the annual conference of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks.

ROOSEVELT AGREES TO SILVER MANDATE

Will Accept Law Making Money Standard One-Fourth White Metal; Time and Amount Left to Him.

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, in agreement with the Senate Silver Bloc, will speed a message to Congress proposing a bimetallic standard for United States currency.

The chief executive set about writing this new money document today for dispatch possibly within 48 hours. He was reported satisfied with the understanding.

Congressional leaders rearranged their legislative calendars to make room for action on the new Administration-tagged proposal before the scheduled early June adjournment. The program in rough outline will call for:

- 1. Mandatory declaration of policy that silver shall be purchased until it constitutes 25 per cent of the nation's monetary backing, as against 75 per cent gold.
2. Discretionary authority as to the time and amount of purchases in world markets to bring about the desired ratio.
3. Permissive authority for the Nationalization of domestic stocks of silver—condemning at a price not to exceed 50 cents an ounce a supply in this country estimated at around 250,000,000 ounces.

The agreement of the general principles of such a program was reached at a lengthy White House conference last night after weeks of negotiation.

The present understanding is that silver would be purchased at the market price but given the required value of $1.29 an ounce for the issuance of dollar certificates. This would mean some inflation.

It was understood that Nationalization, not included as mandatory, would be undertaken only in the discretion of the President and subject to international agreement to protect the United States from the unknown quantities of the white metal lying just beyond its borders and throughout the world.

Smiles by the group of Senate members.

WALL ST. PREPARES FOR BIG SHAKEUP

Securities and Banking Businesses Must Be Separated Before June 16.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Wall street is eagerly awaiting the big shakeups which are anticipated during the next four weeks, in preparation for the June 16 deadline, when securities business and banking business must be separated under the provisions of the Banking Act of 1933.

What the big private banking firms such as J. P. Morgan and Co., Kuhn, Loeb and Co., Brown Bros., Harriman and Co., and Lehman Bros. will do to effect the separation of their deposit business and securities underwriting are favorite topics of conjecture in financial circles.

Furthermore, it is on June 16 that the banks must have effected complete divestment of their securities affiliates. Wall street was prompted to mark time in dealing with these problems by the introduction in Congress of amendments to the Banking Act which would postpone the deadline another year, but Secretary Morgenthau's recent expression of opposition to the amendments have dashed hopes for the proposed delay.

The Chase National bank was the first to announce its plans.

Madrid, May 17.—(AP)—A group of 10 Smith College students and several other Americans intending to visit France were refused visas by the French consul today unless they called at their own expense for certificates of good conduct from the French consuls in the districts of their American residence.

The young women college students have been visiting in Madrid and the other members of the group are temporary residents they called at their own expense for certificates of good conduct from the French consuls in the districts of their American residence.

An appeal was taken by the college girls to Curtis Jordan, United States consul, who is investigating the case of the girls planned to spend the summer in France.

Jordan said he could not understand the French consul's procedure. "I am writing to Paris for further information," he announced.

BRITAIN CALLS WORLD TO STOP WAR IN CHACO

U. S. Willing to Join Any Move for Peace

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—The United States has under consideration definite action toward settlement of warfare in the Gran Chaco but has not yet made any move, either in cooperation with the League of Nations or by representations to Bolivia and Paraguay.

William Phillips, undersecretary of state, said today the United States was—as it has been for more than a year—doing everything possible to bring the long dispute to an end.

This government, he said, is prepared to do its full share in any movement that would be undertaken to bring peace in the jungle war.

Phillips declined to specify exactly what course the United States might take but his pledge of cooperation with other nations to end the war was interpreted as an indication that President Roosevelt might ask Congress to rush action on the arms embargo resolution now under consideration.

Great Britain has proposed to the League of Nations that the 17 arms and munitions manufacturing nations of the world join in an embargo on arms to the warring South American nations.

Captain Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, was said authoritatively to have made informal overtures on the subject to Hugh Wilson, American minister to Switzerland.

Neither Great Britain nor League officials, however, has formally communicated with this government.

President Roosevelt has no authority to declare an embargo on arms to Bolivia or Paraguay and it would be necessary for Congress to pass the arms embargo resolution before the United States could join in the proposed international action.

Six Nations Immediately Make Pledges to Stop Shipping Arms to Paraguay or Bolivia—All Eyes Turned to U. S. to See What Move Will Be Made Here.

Geneva, May 17.—(AP)—Great Britain called on the world today to stop the war between Paraguay and Bolivia in South America.

Six nations promptly fell into step and all eyes turned to the United States to see what that country would do to smash the war in its own backyard.

Captain Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, asked the Council of the League of Nations to cable seventeen nations at once and ask them to cease shipping arms and ammunition to the two small countries locked in a death grip over the sovereignty of the Chaco Boreal.

Support of the British move was immediately pledged by the representatives of France, Italy, Spain, Argentina, Australia, and Czechoslovakia.

Geneva, May 17.—(AP)—Great Britain proposed today an embargo on shipments of arms material to Paraguay and Bolivia as a move to ward ending their war over the Gran Chaco jungle border area.

The momentous step was urged before the League of Nations Council by Captain Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal.

The Briton proposed that the embargo be made to apply to all armaments and war materials destined for either of the South American belligerents.

Captain Eden urged the Council to send cablegrams today to those 17 governments whose cooperation would be necessary to make the embargo effective.

Urging these seventeen to participate in the proposed embargo, he also appealed to all countries which are neighbors of Paraguay and Bolivia to make an agreement to stop all passage of arms through their territories.

Commission Failed The special League Chaco commission which failed in its efforts to settle the conflict recommended in its report to the Council that an embargo be placed on arms shipments unless the countries agreed to arbitration.

Capt. Eden, speaking with great gravity, referred to the "senselessness" of the Chaco war with its great loss of life and untold suffering.

He pointed out that in some instances governments do not possess powers to put an embargo into effect. Where this is so, Capt. Eden said, he hoped they would find it possible to take the necessary legislative action as an emergency measure.

The speaker characterized the question of stopping sale of all armaments as "an issue of capital importance."

"It offers to all countries an opportunity to make a decision to end the hostilities."

The seventeen countries alluded to by Capt. Eden are those engaged in the manufacture of arms.

He said Britain endorses the conclusions to be drawn from the report of the Chaco commission, adding:

"The essential thing is to make peace speedily. Britain has drafted a treaty proposed by the commission should be examined anew by the two parties (Paraguay and Bolivia) and be accepted."

Speech Interrupted Previously the council had chided of Ramon Caballero de Bodegas of Paraguay, as he was making a lengthy address defending Paraguay's attitude and criticizing the Chaco commission's report.

Francisco Castillo Najera, of Mexico, as chairman of counsel for the Chaco commission, insisted that when the draft of a treaty was submitted to Paraguay and Bolivia it was by the mandate of the council.

Answering Caballero, he said: "The reproaches against the commission are unjustified."

Najera recalled that an appeal for peace was made at the Pan American conference which on the proposal of Cordell Hull, United States secretary of state, adopted a resolution that Paraguay and Bolivia were bound to accept specific settlement of their dispute any cease hostilities.

Najera said the prolonged war was not justified and declared a resolution of the Pan American conference was a happy augury for a single front toward peace.

The rapid moving developments in the Council meeting completely overshadowed a threat to break the back of the disarmament committee and rest its fate upon a decision of the council.

HARRISON OPENS DRIVE FOR ACTION ON TARIFF

Mississippi Senator Declares Measure Will Recapture Six Billion Dollars Lost in Foreign Trade.

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—Senator Harrison (D., Miss.), today opened the Administration's drive for speedy Senate enactment of its reciprocal tariff bill with an assertion that it would prove a means for the recapture of a six billion dollar loss in foreign trade.

We can not shut out imports without at the same time shutting in potential exports," the finance committee chairman asserted in starting an old-fashioned tariff struggle that leaders said would last from three days to a week.

The measure, already passed by the House, would authorize the President to negotiate tariff trading treaties just as other nations have been doing to build up their trade. Senate ratification would not be required.

Has Safeguards Harrison defended the constitutionality of the measure and said it contained many safeguards against ill considered action.

The United States' international trade, he said, dropped to $3,640,000,000 in 1929 to $3,124,000,000 last year. He declared this country had been "one of the most serious offenders" in initiating trade barriers that helped to bring on the depression, and added:

"There should be no politics in this question. The former secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, urged the renewal and increase of that American spirit which seeks to expand economic life and to make the whole world its market. No less eloquently did he denounce the attitude of those who would restrict the production of this great

KIDNAPING VICTIM PREFERS CAPTORS

Boy Tells Court He Wants to Live With Couple He Thought Parents.

Toledo, O., May 17.—(AP)—Kidnaped when he was a baby nearly 16 years ago, Arthur Paul Ferguson preferred today to stand by the foster parents he had always believed were his real father and mother.

They are Ernest Lee Coy, a former circus performer, and his wife Sarah, of Detroit, who were convicted by a jury late yesterday of kidnaping the boy in June, 1918 when he was 21 months old.

Mrs. Edith Smart, of Gallon, O., the boy's mother, was the complaining witness and contended that never consented to adoption proceedings in Probate Court here when the boy was taken by the Coys.

As the jury reached its decision after deliberating an hour and a half on evidence submitted during the two-week trial, the boy declared he would not desert his foster parents, "who have been kind to me."

Coy, who was in the courtroom with Mrs. Smart, he did not speak to Mrs. Smart, who heard the verdict apparently without emotion.

GETTLE KIDNAPERS RUSHED TO PRISON

Police Arrest Fourth Man They Believe Was Connected With Case.

Los Angeles, May 17.—(AP)—Their fate sealed by a legal coup, the three kidnapers of William F. Gettle, oil millionaire, were rushed off toward San Quentin prison tonight to serve life terms while police arrested a fourth man who they booked on suspicion of kidnaping.

Late tonight police took into custody Clyde Stoddard, and after questioning him at length, booked him for suspicion of kidnaping. Police said he admitted part ownership in the automobile used in the kidnaping of Gettle. Larry Kerrigan, one of the confessed kidnapers was the other co-owner of the car, police said.

Has Police Record Stoddard, who has a long police record, vigorously denied any part in the kidnaping. Police said they would question him again tomorrow, and planned to hold him until the man had thoroughly proved his alibi.

The law worked at breakneck speed all day to put away the confessed snatchers for life and encountered but one obstacle when the Kerrigan, James Kirk, and Roy Williams pleaded not guilty to a speedily returned Federal indictment designed to prevent any possibility of their being paroled from the state prison.

Frog Jumping Contests Big Western Attraction

Sonora, Calif., May 17.—(AP)—would be confusing to have the A mammoth bullfrog, the leaping champion of his green backed kingdom, eyed his competitors warily today as they were groomed for the sixth annual jumping frog jubilee to be held in the historic gold mining town of Angels Camp next Saturday and Sunday.

For two years the mammoth frog has leaped greater distances than any other croaker, but he may have to stretch himself to retain his honor. The competition appears strong.

Strict rules have been drawn up for the contest, in which many frogs will jump in four separate arenas, the contestants must jump in the arena to which they are assigned, as the committee feels it

SENATOR DESIRES THREE CENT COIN

Vandenberg Favors Minting of Silver Piece Between Penny and Nickel.

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—If Senator Vandenberg, succeeds in convincing this country that what it needs is a good 3-cent piece, it will be a case of "the third time's the charm."

Two other three-centers have given up the ghost after about a quarter century of circulation. One was a silver 3-cent piece, which looked too much like a dime to please the public; the other was a coin made of nickel.

The silver 3-center was authorized in 1851, and departed this life in 1873, after 42,736,240 of them had been minted. Now they're mostly melted, though here and there one crops up, still good legal tender for a postage stamp, or three sticks of gum.

The 3-cent of nickel arrived in time to overlap its little silver sister a bit. March 3, 1865. It ceased to be coined in 1890.

Senator Vandenberg's contention that some coin is needed between the penny and the nickel has stirred interest at the mint.

"If the people are for it, I'm for it," said Director Nellie Tayloe Ross. "However, many objects are presented to us."

She enumerated as objections offered: That no dollar, half dollar or quarter could be changed into 3-cent pieces; and that a 3-cent coin would result in the discard of many penny slot machines.

Among the reasons presented for the coinage, she said, was the common complaint that people could buy newspapers and chewing gum fast enough to keep one-cent coppers from weighing down their pockets.

Recreation Center Items of Interest

At the May meeting of the Girl Scout Officers' Association, Mrs. Henry Mallory, chairman of the camp committee, announced the plans for the Field Day to be held May 19 at the Old Golf Lots from 2 to 4 o'clock. Miss Howard from the Recreational Center will be in charge of the track meet assisted by those Scouts holding the athlete proficiency badge. The troop winning the greatest number of points will receive a badge for its troop flag.

In case of rain the meet will be postponed until the following Saturday.

Instead of a regular officers' meeting in June it was voted to have a supper some night out at Mrs. Durkee's and invite the Council to attend. The committee to plan this meeting is as follows: Chairman, Captain Nina Fogli; Captain Gladys Durkee, and Captain Emily Smith. This committee will meet and announce the plans made later.

Troop 1

Our meeting began with singing after which we went outside and practiced the events for the Field Day. Girls were chosen to be in different events. We then had patrol corners followed by a horseshoe formation in which Norma Sanford was invested with her tenderfoot pin. Next we had classes. The girls who wish to get their housekeeper's badge are requested to go to Mrs. Maidment's house Monday after school taking with them a sock which they have washed and darned. The meeting closed with playing Goodnight, Ladies. We had as our visitor, Mrs. Lucius Foster. Scribe, Peggy Lee Woodruff.

Troop 2

Instead of our usual meeting we had a hike. After school the girls met at the Nathan Hale school and hiked to Sunset Hill. When we got there we roasted hot dogs and ate our lunch. Gloria Della Fera passed her building and Jessie Little received her first aid badge. After that we played hide-and-go-seek and other games. We sang songs and the Girl Scout Rally on Saturday. Scribe, Jessie Little.

Troop 4

The meeting was opened informally. We formed patrols and dues were collected. Mrs. Foster was present and presented badges to some of the girls in the troop. We sang songs which included negro spirituals, hiking songs, rounds, and popular songs. We chose suitable girls for the sports in the rally and practiced for same on the grounds of the Lincoln school. We closed our meeting singing the goodnight song. There will be no meeting next Friday. Scribe, Eileen Vennard.

Troop 5

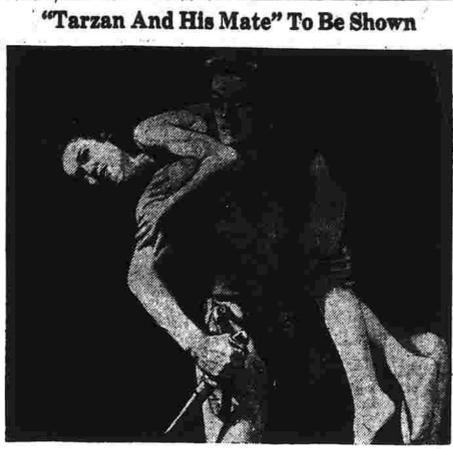

The meeting opened with patrol corners. We played a signalling game. Some of the girls practiced signalling and some took a test on observation. Helen and Josephine Zambra, Helen Meacham, Shirley Crowe, and Irene La Chance passed First Aid. Helen Meacham, Ann Keeney, and Mildred Webb passed observation. We sang a few songs and had a good night circle. Scribe, Irene La Chance.

Troop 8

At the last meeting on Friday, May 11, dues were taken, followed by the horseshoe formation in which badges were presented by Mrs. Sidney Wheaton to the following: Janet Pitkin, housekeeper and gold star; Barbara Carter, Marguerite Barry, and Janet Carpenter, observer and health winner; Ruth Wheaton, Jean Postal Accuses Western Union of Unfair Tactics Against Regulations.

Washington, May 17.—(AP)—Western Union threatened today to challenge "fundamentals of the National Recovery Act" in the courts, if a code is forced on the communications industry.

Bankers, brokers, industrialists and other major users of wire services rallied at today's NRA hearing to back up Western Union's attack on the proposed code.

Other witnesses came to the support of Postal Telegraph, which wants a code and accused Western Union in the opening session yesterday of unfair propaganda against the regulations.

Francis R. Stark, general solicitor of Western Union, said that if the code were pressed, the company would have no alternative but "to wage a legal contest, along all fronts, necessarily challenging some of the fundamentals of the National Recovery Act."

The proposed code would eliminate special advantages now given many classes of wire customers.

Howard L. Kern, vice president of Postal, accused Western Union and American Telephone and Telegraph of unfair practices in building up business. J. C. Willever, vice president of Western Union, denying abuses, said the code would force a certain deficit.

TWO UNUSUAL FEATURES AT STATE TOMORROW

"The Black Cat" and "Merry Wives of Reno" to Be Shown Friday and Saturday.

Two unusual features will be presented at the State theater Friday and Saturday, an appealing to those who like mystery stories of the weird and uncanny type, the other a lively and merry comedy of errors.

In the first is given screenland's picturization of Edgar Allan Poe's "The Black Cat." The co-feature is "Merry Wives of Reno." Imagine if you can, the first time on the screen together, Karloff, the monster of "Frankenstein" and Bela Lugosi, the vampire of "Dracula." Together they will make you tremble and shiver.

Two demons in human guise meet on the ground of ten thousand dead souls. Grim hatred and bitter revenge flame their hearts as they clash in what seems immortal combat. Two innocent young lovers, blissfully unaware of their danger, are caught in the satanic coils of these two blood driven creatures and made the unwilling victims of dread and fear.

Never before has such rank terror and fright been presented on the screen. Replete with thrills and fraught with chills "The Black Cat" will astound you with its daring.

"Merry Wives of Reno" is based on the hilarious story by Robert Lord which deals with philandering husbands, flirtatious wives and marital mix-ups that lead to the Reno divorce colony where more marriages are unscrupled than in any other place in the world.

The picture, a Warner Bros. production, carries an unusually well balanced cast with two straight leads and seven of Hollywood's best comedians in the principal roles. Margaret Lindsay and Donald Woods have the featured roles, portraying a bride and groom whose happiness is wrecked on the rocks of the bride's suspicions, but who, contrary to the usual experience, are reunited in Reno.

GERMANY SEEKING RETURN TO LEAGUE

Wants to Again Take Part in Discussions Concerning Arms Cut.

Geneva, May 17—(AP)—Germany was reported today to be seeking ways and means of returning to the international disarmament conference from which she withdrew last year.

It was understood that Baron Pompeo Aloisi, Italy's delegate to the League of Nations and former ambassador to Turkey, had told Capt. Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, that Germany is showing a disposition to participate again in negotiations toward an agreement on the vital arms situation.

This indication immediately aroused new hopes in circles which previously had feared that the idea of disarmament was dead.

The attitude of the United States gave rise to additional hope since Norman H. Davis has been assigned by the Washington government to attend the conference scheduled for the latter part of the month.

Louis Barthou, French foreign minister, indicated that he was optimistic that something would be done towards disarmament pointing out the gravity of the situation which would ensue if no action is taken.

However, the French seemed determined to do nothing concrete until the council gives a new mandate with which to work out a conference on the limitation of arms.

There were no indications as to whether the present turn of affairs in regard to Germany made it likely that a return to participation in affairs of the League of Nations, from which Germany withdrew at the same time she withdrew from the conference, was in prospect.

To Keep Door Open
M. Barthou and English and American newspaper correspondents this afternoon that he had come to Geneva to "keep open the door of disarmament."

The impression prevailed that he was alluding to his hopes that France will receive suitable guarantees from England to reinforce the Pact of Locarno.

It is deemed likely at Geneva that at the present conference will make a report to the League Council all that it is unable to make progress on the basis of the council's mandate for a convention reducing armaments.

BREAKDOWN OF EMBARGO ON ARMS LAID TO U. S.

Stanley Baldwin Says Britain Will Not Impose Restrictions Unless Other Nations Do.

London, May 17—(AP)—Stanley Baldwin, President of the council, today inferentially accused the United States of causing the breakdown of a year ago of efforts to impose an embargo on arm shipments to Bolivia and Paraguay, at war in the Chaco Boreal.

During a discussion of arms shipments in the House of Commons, Baldwin said that the United States, at the time of the negotiations for an international agreement, announced it was impossible to impose an embargo until the Congress at Washington should pass legislation and that no such legislation had been passed.

Mr. Percy Harris asked: "Is the failure of the negotiations due to the refusal of the United States?" Baldwin replied: "The House can draw its own conclusions."

Baldwin declared that there was no use of Great Britain imposing an embargo on arms unless other leading arms manufacturing nations did likewise.

Philadelphia—Terry Manning, 37, has his doubts about that legend of the Dutch lad who saved the dyke by digging a hole with his fist.

Manning tried to plug a hole in the gasoline line of his automobile with his hand—and achieved nothing but burns. He was taken to a hospital while firemen put out the blaze in his car.

Cambridge, Mass.—The rattle of machinery broke the stillness of the Harvard yard, veteran head of the yard police, stood with his back to a wall, pulling the trigger.

Still the enemy advanced. Desperately he fired his last shot. It took effect. Apted had hit the line for Harvard.

The line was a white one. It ran across the black fur of a skunk.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Baberton, O.—Bang! went the shot gun, and another "John Dillinger" hit the dust.

Roy Christensen, 17, played the part of Dillinger in a high school play. A classmate, James Briston, portrayed an officer.

"Dillinger" was wounded in the knee accidentally by a blank shell in the gun fired by Briston.

Fairmont, W. Va.—Dean Oliver Shurtliff of Fairmont State Teachers college has a new hat, replacing the shapeless headgear he had worn for a decade, but—

"Now I've almost lost my individuality," he says.

"I'm saving the old hat—it was a family affair—to wear in the garden and when Mrs. Shurtliff is away. I can't seem to get excited over this new hat, even if it is only the third one I've had in my life."

Milwaukee, Wis.—To the little candy stand of Theodore Hitchcock, who is blind, came a pleasant-voiced woman, who bought a pack of gum and tendered a peckable note.

"It's a one," said she, "not a five." Hitchcock's practiced fingers returned 95 cents in change. Later, when he tried to negotiate the dollar, he learned it was a worthless coupon.

PLANTING OF POTATOES IN MANCHESTER STARTS

Potatoes are being planted this week. Among the large growers of potatoes in this section, are Louis Grant, Frank Williams, in the Buckland section, and Thomas Burgess in Wapping, just over the Manchester line. These men have every-thing that is up-to-date for the planting of potatoes and with the machines now being used it is possible to plant about three acres a day.

During the past five years many acres of land in this vicinity used for the cultivation of tobacco has been turned into use for the growing of potatoes. It has been found that the potatoes grown in and around Manchester have just as good qualities as those grown in Maine.

In addition to the large growers there are many other farmers going in for raising potatoes this year who used their land for other purposes in the past.

DANCE TONIGHT TO AID GREEN BASEBALL TEAM

Tonight at Jarvis Grove, the Manchester Green baseball team will inaugurate their 1934 season with the first of a series of dances, the proceeds from the nominal charge going towards the outfitting and upkeep of the team.

Old-fashioned and modern dancing will be indulged in to the music of the "Ramblers", a well and favorably known bunch of musicians that are adept at providing the sort of tunes that devotees of dancing appreciate. Promoters Chappell and Wiganowski will sound the vocal signals for the "old fashioned" steps.

The team hopes to welcome their

Good Gasoline AND SOMETHING MORE!

Yes, you get Much More than the Gasoline you pay for when you Stop at a Socony Station or Dealer

IT TAKES MORE than gasoline and oil to keep your car running right. It takes attention to the tires, the radiator, the battery, the windshield. It takes thought about a lot of things you don't want to bother about while you're driving.

That's exactly why Socony service-men carefully check your oil—fill the radiator—and clean the rear window when you stop for gasoline.

It's the reason why the stations are kept so spic and span. Why we put in telephones, and keep our workrooms clean, sparkling and sanitary.

We make Socony Mobilgas to give as much power, pick-up and quick starting as can be crowded into a gasoline.

We refine Mobiloil to the special requirements of the high-speed, precision-built cars on the road today.

And if you'll stop at the sign of the Flying Red Horse, we think you'll find that our men back up these products with service that's equal.

Try it—and see. It's an easy test to make—because there's a Socony station or dealer for every two miles of road in New York and New England.

HEBRON

Nicholas Sklarsky, who has been a fugitive from justice for the past year or more, was traced to New York by state police and brought back to this state and lodged in Tolland jail. His offense was a violation of the liquor law. He is now charged with non-support of his family, who live on what is known as the Glendale farm, on the old Colchester road. During his absence, the family have been wards of the town, and have caused much trouble and expense. The case came up for a hearing Monday at the Superior court at Rockville, but was put over until the June term, and Sklarsky is held under $1,000 bonds. The man has a wife and several children.

It is expected that the beacon light on Post Hill, near the Columbus-Hebron line, will be lighted and set in use within the next few days. It was erected some months or a year ago for the guidance of aviators.

Allan L. Carr attended a meeting of the pastors' union at Willimantic Monday afternoon.

Some of the brooks of the town have been stocked with fish, mainly trout, by state authorities. The fish were brought in large tanks and distributed in the brooks.

A sign has been placed on the main brook at Hopevale, limiting the weight carried over the bridge to 2-1/2 tons.

T. H. Kellogg of Hartford spent Wednesday at his country place in Hopevale, putting house and garden into shape for summer occupancy.

Allan L. Carr, lay rector of St. Peter's Episcopal church represented the church as delegate to the diocesan convention held in Hartford at Christ church Cathedral Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The Hebron Congregational Ladies' Aid society has accepted an invitation to join with the Gilead society at their next meeting, Wednesday of next week.

Mrs. Mary E. Mitchell and Mrs. Charles Fillmore, who were appointed delegates to the Tolland County Conference of Congregational churches Wednesday of this week, were unable to attend.

The service for the Hopevale Seventh Day Adventists will be omitted next Saturday in order to allow as many of the members as possible to attend a meeting of the Willimantic Adventist church on that day.

Mrs. Helen White and her daughter received calls during last week and from Mrs. Joseph Merritt, Miss Charlotte Hull, Miss Helen Coffin, and Miss Eleanor Hinckley, all of Hartford. Mrs. Merritt presented to Mrs. White several potted plants, and Miss Hull gave her a pot of plants in bloom, in observance of Mother's Day. Mrs. White's sons, J. Kellogg and Aleck of Gilead were dinner guests at her home on Sunday.

EDUCATION EFFECTIVE IN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

Motor Vehicle Department Finds That Emphasis Before Organized Groups Produces Best Results.

Representatives of the State Department of Motor Vehicles have been making daily visits to elementary and secondary schools in various parts of the state and speaking before organized groups of various types. A summation of experiences gained indicates the need for the inclusion of consistent studies in Safety Education in the curricular of the state schools and also a sincere appreciation by teachers and others of the great value of this phase of the motor vehicle department's activities.

It has been said that the problem of street and highway safety can be solved only through the three "E's": Engineering, Enforcement and Education. The Motor Vehicle Department's experience is that Education is the most effective means of the three to gain a high degree of street and highway safety and ensure a reasonable continuance of safe walking and driving practices. Engineering gives us the roads. Over engineering there is no control. Enforcement is an effective weapon but only while the law is present or, at best, for the comparatively short life of the administration of an enforcement agent or the offender's memory of a penalty.

Education, on the other hand, implants firmly in the human mind the great need of acquiring habits of safety otherwise a great personal loss may be suffered in a fatality or injury. Once the child or adult has grasped this personal application their minds learning how to act safely in the varied activities of their daily lives.

Quietly at Work
The work of the Safety Education Section of the Motor Vehicle Department continues on quietly day after day, known only to those with whom representatives come in contact. Newspaper editorials asking the question "What is being done about the mounting record of accidents?" are answered partly in the work of the Safety Education Section. During the month of April, and again during the present month of May, every morning and afternoon has been and will be spent in visiting schools in various parts of the state. On many days noon meetings of service clubs are addressed and motion pictures shown just as is done in the schools. Several evenings a week are usually spent in talking before organizations of various types showing the motion pictures planned for school classes, and explaining the safety educational activities of the Department.

Current activities this month are illustrative of what is being done. When May is concluded Motor Vehicle Department representative will have visited schools in Wapping, Pleasant Valley, South Windsor, Wethersfield, Bethel, New Milford, Waterbury, Shelton, Devon, Woodmont, New Britain, Sharon, Darien, Warehouse Point, East Hartford, Hartford, Cornwall, Unionville, Meriden and Willimantic. In East Hartford and Meriden a week in early town will be required to complete outlined schedules. In other towns mentioned one day or half a day is spent because it is not always practicable to remain in one town until all the schools of the community have been visited.

KELVINATOR DIVIDEND REFLECTS ITS SUCCESS

Added indications of Kelvinator Corporation's unusual early success in selling its new line of household electric refrigerators was seen today by John Brown of Standard Plumbing Co., local Kelvinator sales representative, in news from Detroit that the company's directors have voted a 12 1/2 cents dividend.

"This action of Kelvinator directors reflects the unusually high sales volume which has been reached so far this year, far in advance of the customary heavy sales season in the refrigeration industry," Mr. Brown said. "Main reason for Kelvinator's present strong position can be seen in the 1934 household models, which have been acclaimed by people everywhere as the most advanced products the industry has shown."

Large crowds have been thronging the local sales company's showroom at 901 Main street, to see these new models during a special showing which is being held here as part of a nation-wide "birthday party" being observed by dealers everywhere in commemoration of Kelvinator's twentieth anniversary in the refrigeration business.

Special events have been arranged for the entertainment of show-room visitors during this showing. Mr. Brown said, and everyone has been urged to take advantage of this opportunity to see the new refrigeration improvements featured by the new Kelvinator models explained.

ELEPHANT ON RAMPAGE
Toluca, Mexico, May 17.—(AP)—A circus elephant went on a rampage here yesterday and crushed to death Miguel Solares, a spectator, who had fed the animal bananas peelings.

The elephant caught the man in its trunk, hurled him to the ground and trampled him with its heavy forefoot.

The same animal fractured the leg of the Spanish consul while the circus was passing through Toluca.

OPEN FORUM

DRINKING PLACES

Editor, The Herald:
I noticed in your valuable paper some time ago that there were to be at least fifty places licensed to sell alcoholic liquor in our fair town, and within a day or two authorities who ought to know inform me there are over that number now, perhaps nearer sixty.

It is quite probable that the majority of the inhabitants of the town think this is a well meant endeavor in the line of village improvement? We are quite certain that there are thousands who do not think so. There were only a dozen taverns in the days before prohibition, now there are about five times that number, if we include (as we rightly may) package stores and other places where alcoholic liquors are sold. In taverns now-a-days entertainments are given to entice young and old within, and even beautiful women lowers herself to the same project. A recent "Hartford Courant" states there is a big increase in intoxication in Hartford, and there is an effort being made there to ask the authorities to close up taverns and other places all day Sundays. No Sunday selling was allowed before prohibition, and saloons must be closed at ten, and nobody was allowed to remain inside after that hour. It is a shame that things are allowed to go on as they do. Wet Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, said this substantially in Congress recently. Everywhere the ill results of the nation's ill-advised repeal of one of the best laws ever placed in the Constitution of the United States are seen, for you cannot repeal the effects of alcohol. Two of the prominent speakers at the recent national gathering of Men's Bible Classes in Horace Bushnell Memorial Hall told of going into one of Hartford's hotels, and noticing young men emptying hip flasks into wine glasses that they might make girls drunk. And this in Christian America in the enlightened (?) twentieth century. We agree with Rev. L. C. Harris who wrote in one of the South M. E. church announcements printed in a "Herald" of last January, "Is the Church going to accept the liquor traffic? This has been asked me. This is the question the Christian church I am sure will? Why? Because it is opposed to everything which is detrimental to human welfare. The liquor traffic weakens, debases and impoverishes men and women. That is why we are against it." In a cluster of pledges appearing in the "Herald" of December 21, '31, are these: two to which I subscribe with all my heart; 1, "I shall support all things, which enhance, and oppose all things which injure the good reputation of Manchester. 2, I shall do all that I can to help insure a prosperous, happy expanding future for Manchester."

In order that we may carry out this intent, permit me to especially emphasize the fact that tomorrow night at High school hall there is to be a vote of Manchester's citizens as to whether taverns shall be wide open all day Sundays, or restricted to the hour between one and two p. m. All well wishers for the good of the town should make a special effort to be present and vote for closing.

Yours, for a better Manchester, a better Connecticut, and a better United States.

W. D. WOODWARD.

RUSSIANS DENY FIRING ON BOAT

Japanese Claim Shots of Border Guard Killed One and Wounded Another.

Moscow, May 17.—(AP)—An official denial was made today of allegations that Russian frontier guards fired directly on a Manchukuo river steamer on which Japanese reports said one Manchukuo sailor was killed and another wounded May 12.

The Soviet government's official version of the border incident was given in a dispatch from Khabarovsk, Siberia.

While sailing up the Amur near the mouth of the Bisan river, the Khabarovsk dispatch said, the boat approached the Soviet shore and persons aboard began openly taking photographs of the Russian bank and border guard posts.

When the vessel failed to obey Soviet guards' signals to halt, the guards fired three blank shots as a warning.

The dispatch said the steamer continued to sail along the Soviet shore until it encountered another guard post where it also was signaled to halt.

When these signals were ignored, the guards directed several rifle shots in the air above the stack of the steamer which then veered off the Chinese shore.

The Japanese army report said that as the steamer was sailing on the Amur, which for some distance forms the boundary between the Japanese-protected empire of Manchukuo and Russia, fire from Russian military positions killed the one sailor and wounded a comrade.

Tokyo government officials deplored the incident, saying no serious Russo-Japanese friction was likely as a result because of the efforts both governments are making to reach an amicable settlement of issues.

TO BUILD PARK AT END OF SUMMIT EXTENSION

New Road from Center to North End Now Open to Traffic.

A small park will be built at the north entrance to the Summit street extension. Men who are working on the new road are laying up stone that will form the park and the road around it is being graded. The work is nearly complete and about all that now remains to be done is to provide a top dressing for the north end of the street. It was not intended to fill the street, but it now seems this will be necessary because it will give a good surface to the road and reinforce it against wash-outs. The road is opened to traffic and is already being used by those who have occasion to travel from the section of Manchester to the east of the Center and to the north end.

ROCKVILLE

MANCHESTER PERSONS IN GOAT FARM CRASH

Cars Driven by Walter Sadrzynski and James Meecham Figure in Collision.

A serious accident was narrowly averted at the so-called "Goat Farm" at 9:30 Wednesday night when a Durant coupe, owned and driven by Walter J. Sadrzynski of 50 Ridge street, Manchester, was sidwiped by James Meecham of Tolland avenue, Tolland, who was driving a Chrysler roadster.

Sadrzynski and wife had made a left turn to the side road at the Goat farm. Their car was struck by Meecham who anticipated they were to continue in a straight direction. The Sadrzynski car was forced into the fence post, knocking it over and the bumper buckled into a semi-circle. The left running board was torn off.

The Meecham car was also battered by the impact with the fence posts and the other machine. Sergeant Peter Dowdowski and Patrolman Marcell Cedor of the Rockville police were called to the scene of the accident to investigate. Many passing motorists were attracted.

Temporary repairs were made to Sadrzynski's car which was able to proceed under its own power. The Meecham car was also able to return home without aid.

No arrests were made, although the police station for questioning. The combined boys' and girls' Glee clubs and orchestra of the Rockville High school will present their annual concert at the auditorium of the George Sykes Memorial school Friday evening.

STUDENT WILL UNDERGO BRAIN OPERATION TODAY

Son of Army Major Ranked by Plane to Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Baltimore, May 17.—(AP)—Rushed by army plane from Roanoke, Va., in a fight for his life, James Monroe Trout, 34, a student at Virginia Military Institute, probably will undergo a delicate brain operation at Johns Hopkins hospital today.

The youth's skull will be opened by Dr. Walter E. Dandy, noted brain surgeon, if final diagnosis supports preliminary findings. He is believed suffering from intense brain pressure as the result of an automobile accident.

The boy is the son of Major J. M. Trout, Jr., army medical officer. Physicians at Lexington, Va., decided yesterday that an emergency brain operation might save his life. Army authorities made ready a transport ship, piloted by Lieut. H. A. Z. McClellan, and it left Roanoke with the youth shortly afterward. Major Trout and Major E. F. Harrison, another medical officer, accompanied the boy.

HUNDREDS CLAIM SHARE OF CENTURY OLD ESTATE

Philadelphia, May 17.—(AP)—A hundred descendants of a man who died in Philadelphia nearly a century ago came from as far as California today to seek a share in what they believe to be his 1,100-acre estate.

They appeared before Harry V. Dougherty, register of wills, to hear argument on whether their ancestor's reputed will, dated December 27, 1839, should be probated now. The paper is signed "Jacob Baker" and "bequeaths" land in 16 Pennsylvania counties to his son, Peter, and his daughter, Elizabeth.

The purported will was produced by E. L. Biddle, photographer of El Dorado, near Altoona, Pa., on an order handed down by the orphan's court of Blair county. Biddle testified he found the paper in his father's effects.

The photographer told Dougherty he received $9,000 from "heirs" to pay expenses of hunting the lost acres but never tried to establish the authenticity of the document.

CHASE REVIVES DILLINGER HUNT

Police Not Sure, However, That Fleeing Car Contained Notorious Outlaw.

Chicago, May 17.—(AP)—A six mile chase by two motorcycle policemen from the Willow Springs county highway station of an automobile containing five men gave rise to reports early today that John Dillinger had been "sighted" again. The policemen, however, were unable to identify any of the occupants of the car as members of the Dillinger gang. The policemen fired two shots at the fleeing men, but they outdistanced the officers, and escaped.

The policemen said the car bore an Ohio license plate the first three numbers of which were 566. The last three numbers were not visible, they added, because the plate had been bent backward, possibly in an attempt to conceal the figures.

The incident left officials speculating whether the chase had upset a police trap set for Dillinger and George (Baby Face) Nelson, his lieutenant.

Earlier in the morning, Lieut. John Howe said he had received word Dillinger and members of his band would attempt to enter Chicago and go to a South Side address. Police squads were posted in the vicinity of the house, but the chase occurred at about the time Howe said he was informed the desperado's car was due to arrive.

TAVERN PROPOSAL UNFAIR, IS CLAIM

Owners Say They Are Being Discriminated Against in Suggested By-Law.

Convinced that the proposal to close the taverns all day Sunday except between 2 and 3 p. m. constitutes "unfair discrimination" in that restaurants will not be affected by the ruling, the tavern keepers here are reported to be prepared to fight to the last ditch to retain what they believe are their just rights.

Against To Fight Pitted against the tavern proprietors and their friends will be the clergymen of Manchester and others possessing dry sentiments who sincerely believe six days in the week are enough for the dispensing of beer and ale.

Local merchants and peddlers will fight the petition tooth and nail, stressing the fact in their argument that business should be confined to this town. They will contend that Hartford peddlers take money out of the town, thereby depriving this community of money which otherwise would be kept in circulation here.

OLYMPIC'S CAPTAIN TELLS HIS STORY

Shortly before that, Captain Binks said he had been proceeding at almost full speed, but had ordered the speed reduced at 10:56 a. m. ship time, one minute after the last wireless signal from the lightskip had been received.

Captain Binks testified that he had taken unusual precautions to give the lightskip a wide berth. "I thought that I was two miles away from the lightskip at the time of the collision," he declared. "I had ported ten degrees to bring the Olympic further away from the lightskip. Then, to my horror, I saw it dead ahead."

On this occasion, he testified, he and his fellow officers, standing on the bridge of the Olympic, were deceived by the sound of the lightskip's fog horn.

"All of the officers," he said, "thought the lightskip was further away than I did."

Captain Binks said that at the time of the collision the fog had limited visibility to a "ship's length." He said that he had received frequent bearings, but that after 10:55 ship time, when the last radio beacon came from the lightskip, he had only the sound of the fog horn to guide him.

"The fog horn was not good on this occasion," Captain Binks declared, adding that there was no device on the Olympic for determining the exact distance of the lightskip.

In reply to a question by D. N. Hoover, chairman of the investigating committee, as to what recommendations he could make for preventing such accidents in the future, Captain Binks said: "I haven't any. But sounds fool you. At times, all sound signals are unreliable."

Only Three Knobs During a recess in the hearing, Captain Binks contradicted his testimony that he had been traveling sixteen knots when the Olympic collided through the lightskip. He said that when the lightskip was sighted, he ordered the engines reversed, so that when the collision occurred, the ship was only making "two or three" knots.

Proceeding Captain Binks as a witness was Frank Clark, chief wireless operator on the Olympic, who said that he did not understand why he had been unable to get any radio directional signals from the lightskip after 10:55 a. m.

Complaints of Manners They declared that his manner "irritated" them. Americans residents here opined the incident is likely to have an important effect on plans of other Americans passing through Spain en route to France.

TENNESSEE VALLEY PROJECT OUTLINED

Director Says Facilities Will Not Compete With Existing Power Utilities.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—David E. Lillenthal, director and general counsel of the Tennessee Valley Authority, said today that the authority would not construct any facilities competing with existing utilities if it could be avoided.

"The authority is under duty to acquire a market for its power," Lillenthal told the annual conference of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks. "It is authorized to compete with existing utilities, and for this purpose is expressly empowered to erect duplicate facilities. But no competing facilities have been constructed, and I am authorized to say that under its present board none will be constructed until every reasonable alternative has been exhausted."

Outlines Project The speaker outlined the project of the Authority being launched next week throughout the valley for increasing the use of electricity for domestic, rural and industrial purposes. The project was created by order of the President and is backed by $1,000,000 of capital and $10,000,000 of credit, he said.

Creation of an agency known as the Electric Home & Farm Authority will make possible the sale of low cost appliances to a large portion of the population which hitherto could not afford complete electric service in the home, Lillenthal said.

"The authority is interested not merely in the expansion of its own electric sales," Lillenthal explained. "It is interested in increasing the consumption of electricity throughout the south in disregard of public or private ownership."

Just before Lillenthal's address, the committee on public utilities of the National Association of Mutual Savings Banks submitted a report to the conference opposing government construction of utility plants which duplicate those already in existence and private ownership.

"It is not our function as savings bankers to oppose governmental development leading toward public ownership of public utilities," the report said. "It is, however, our right and our duty to insist that such action be accompanied by either the purchase of existing facilities at a fair price or payment of just compensation for the resulting loss to bona fide investors."

BRITAIN CALLS WORLD TO STOP WAR IN CHACO

The United States, and France, made a preliminary move today to bring about the end of the war in the Chaco Boreal of South America.

It was announced officially here that the British representatives at the Bolivia and Paraguay have been instructed to tell those governments of "the concern felt by His Majesty's government at the reports of the bombing of towns of no military importance and of reprisals on prisoners in contravention of the Hague convention of 1864."

It was understood that these representations were ordered after Great Britain consulted other governments, including the United States, and it was expected that similar representations would be made to the other governments.

First Form of Pressure This constitutes the first form of the pressure world powers may exert on Paraguay and Bolivia to halt their war. Later perhaps, if these representations are not heeded, an economic or financial boycott may be put into effect, it was said.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, May 17.—(AP)—The Stock Market enjoyed a mild, steady rally today following word from Washington that the administration had reached an agreement with the Congressional Silver Bids on a bill to expand the monetary uses of the metal.

While enthusiasm in most categories was restrained, such issues as U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco and others of this group got up 2 to 5 points. Trading was almost as dull as that of the previous session, however, and opinions as to nearby trends were mixed.

What's hottest during the early hours, rallied a cent or more a bushel after noon and the other cereals steadied. Cotton improved with silver sentiment. Silver futures sprouted about a cent an ounce before paring their gains.

Keenest and least recovered a point or so each, apparently in response to the improved earnings statement of the latter. Armour Preferred was up more than 3 on further reorganization activities.

Others up 1 to around 2, included Kennecott and Anaconda. Copper, Western Union, Bethlehem and U. S. Steel, Corn Products, American Can, Continental Can, Case, American Tobacco, B. Liggett and Myers, B. Woolworth and Westinghouse. Most of the utilities and rails were also slightly higher.

The financial district understood the new silver bill would involve permissive nationalization of domestic stocks of the metal and would also contain a mandatory declaration of policy that silver be bought until it makes up 25 per cent of the monetary base. Silver certificates would be issued against the metal purchased to achieve the 25 per cent ratio—about 1,800,000,000 ounces.

One fly in the speculative ointment, however, was the fact that, in the condemnation of domestic silver stores at a price not to exceed 50 cents an ounce, some sort of a tax might be levied on the profits of those surrendering their metal to the government at this price.

The business and industrial picture was still a bit confused. Reports of bank clearings from leading cities disclosed a slightly smaller total than that of last week, but the aggregate of $4,994,501,000 was 15.2 per cent above the 1933 period. The increase in clearings outside of New York was somewhat larger than in the metropolitan district.

JOCKEY PITCHED OFF HORSE DIES

"Duke" Bellizzi Trampled During Running of Youthful Stakes at Jamaica.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Dominick (Duke) Bellizzi, contract rider for Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's Brookmeade Stable, died today in Mary Immaculate hospital, Jamaica, of injuries suffered Saturday when he fell from his mount during a race at the Jamaica race track.

Bellizzi was leading the Youthful Psychic Bid when he attempted to keep his horse from running wide around a turn and lost his seat. Several following horses fell over him, one kicking him in the back and rupturing an intestine.

He was rushed to the hospital where an operation was performed and a blood transfusion given and for a time it appeared he might recover. His condition became critical again Tuesday and his death had been expected hourly.

Mrs. Sloane herself saw that he had every medical attention, calling in specialists to consult with the city's doctor and hospital authorities.

Bellizzi was 22 years old, a native of New York of Albanian parents.

"None of us like the idea of economic waste," he asserted, "but as a temporary expedient applied to agriculture, it is certainly preferable to economic destruction."

"In reducing barriers to their international trade by reciprocal agreements other governments have succeeded in increasing trade."

Harrison contended there was ample precedence for the legislation, including the policy initiated by the Republican administration in the McKinley Act of 1890.

Dalrymple, former prohibition director, to prove his story of a "conspiracy" to keep Republicans in the prohibition service "or convict him of criminal libel."

Hurley told the Senate civil service committee statements by Dalrymple that he and five others held a secret meeting in Hurley's Virginia home and "plotted" to rid the dry unit of Democrats and retain Republicans were "maliciously false."

POLI THEATER CHAIN NAMES SYRACUSE MAN

Harry Shaw, Former Manager of Loew's, Appointed Assistant General Manager.

New York, May 17.—(AP)—Loew's Theater Corporation, today announced the appointment of Harry Shaw, formerly manager of Loew's theater in Syracuse, as assistant general manager of the Poli New England Theaters, Inc., which operates what is known as the "Poli Chain" in New England.

Louis Sagal, general manager, will continue in that position. Loew's is one of the largest stockholders in the operating corporation, has been directing its policy since the reorganization last November.

Nicholas M. Schenck, president of Loew's Theater Corporation, is also president of the Poli company. J. R. Vogel, in charge of out of town theaters for the Loew organization, explained today that the appointment of Shaw did not presage any radical change in the operation of the chain.

Commenting on the "guarantee" of the 5 percent interest on the Poli New England bonds announced yesterday by the officers of the latter company, he pointed out that Loew's Theater Corporation was in no way financially involved, and that the interest would be paid out of the resources of the New England company.

EXPECT BATTLE OVER PEDDLERS

Strength of Chamber Is Matched Against Power of Union Regarding Fee.

The $100 license fee required from out-of-town peddlers coming into Manchester to sell their merchandise is expected to furnish a lively and interesting battle at the special town meeting at the High School auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

The officers and executive committee of Local 2135 of the United Textile Workers of America have announced their approval of an "open town, a town in which out-of-town peddlers may sell their merchandise without first having to pay an outrageous fee for this purpose."

Members of the Chamber of Commerce today were in receipt of a letter from the Chamber office, urging them to support the ordinance as it now stands. The Chamber letter says in part: "One of the items of business at the town meeting will be the matter of the license fee paid by out-of-town peddlers coming into Manchester to peddle their merchandise."

For a number of years she and her sister, Miss Annie L. Carley, were engaged in the ladies wear and gift shop business in this city. They moved to Middlebury in 1922 and have since conducted the Tavern Rosanne in that town.

SUPREME COURT PASSES UPON DEATH SENTENCE

Fate of Allen T. Lamson, Convicted Wife Slayer, Rests With Californian Court.

San Francisco, May 17.—(AP)—The fate of David A. Lamson, under sentence of death in San Quentin prison for the slaying of his wife, Allen Thorpe Lamson, rests today in the hands of the seven members of the California's Supreme Court.

Arguments for and against the former Stanford University publishing house executive's appeal were completed yesterday and the defense was given 30 days to file its closing brief. The court has 90 days in which to give its decision. It may reverse the verdict, as sought by the defense, which would mean a new trial for Lamson; sustain the verdict and the death sentence; or commute the death sentence to life or a lesser term of imprisonment.

FLIERS ARE IMPATIENT TO CONTINUE JOURNEY

Ennis, Irish Free State, May 17.—(AP)—Irish hospitality took the edge off the impatience of Capt. George Pond and Lieut. Cosmo Sabelli, fretting at delay in repairing the plane in which they were forced down on a projected New York-to-Rome flight.

While mechanics from the Baldoon Army Airbase at Dublin worked on the crippled plane in repairs in a field near Lahnach, the fliers strolled about this quaint village where they were feted last night by the Chamber of Commerce. Ennis is County Clare's biggest town.

The army mechanics hoped to complete repairs within two days and enable the airman to hop for Rome before the end of the week. Crowds of curious milled about the craft, still setting where the fliers landed Tuesday night at the village of Moy, two miles from Lahnach.

County President Mrs. L. J. Williams of East Hartford, who was a guest, gave a talk on Camp Prior at Clinton, where several Manchester girls spent a happy vacation last summer. Games, music and other pastimes followed.

DONNA of the BIG TOP

by BEULAH POYNTER
© 1934 NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
DONNA GABRIEL and MADELINE SIDDAL who call themselves "The Gabriel Sisters" are circus performers. Years earlier Madeline ran away from her grandfather's farm.

When Donna is injured by a fall from a trapeze Madeline arranges for her to be taken to GRANDFATHER SIDDAL'S farm to recuperate. To please her partner Donna pretends to be Madeline. She falls in love with BILL SIDDAL, Madeline's cousin, and though she is ashamed of deceiving Bill and Grandfather she is afraid to tell the truth.

COON DAVID, circus animal trainer, loves Donna but when Madeline tells him that her husband is married Con, believing Donna lost to him, marries Madeline. Though terrified of the lions and tigers she takes part in his animal act.

Con sees one of Donna's letters to Madeline and discovers how she tricked him into marriage.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XIX
When the animals had been driven back through the covered runway and the uproar had subsided Renfroe halted Con. "What's the idea?" he demanded. "Trying to commit suicide or pull a new act?"

"Neither." The animal trainer strode through the sawdust-covered corridor that led from the "big top" to the dressing tent, brushing aside everyone who stood in his way.

Madeline was waiting at the door of her dressing room. Under the rouge her cheeks were pale and her eyes black. "Say, what's the matter with you?" she began.

Con caught her wrist, jerked the door open with his other hand and almost flung her into the room. The two other women who shared the dressing room stared at him in amazement.

"Get out," he told them.
Both left quickly, without a word. Occasional quarrels and even fights were to be expected between married couples and Con was notoriously temperamental. If he wanted a showdown, fight and all, it was none of their business Madeline looked capable of taking care of herself.

Alone with Madeline, Con became deadly calm. A smile that distorted his features, robbing them of all attractiveness, spread over his face. "So Donna is to be married?" he drawled.

"Why—why yes. I told you that a long time ago."
"Yes, you told me. You told me before she had even thought of such a thing. Let's see—how many months ago was it? Long before you got engaged?"

"Don't you say I trapped you!" Madeline rasped.

"Why not? You knew that if I hadn't thought Donna was going to marry that rube cousin of yours I wouldn't have married you. So you lied. You told me she'd written you that they were engaged."

"You just said they're going to be married," she broke in. "I don't know what you're talking about! Now you say I lied—"

"I'm talking about this." Con extracted the letter from his pocket and flung it at her. "Oh, I read it! If you can convince me that Donna Gabriel ever wrote you she was going to be married before this letter came you can convince me I'm the king of England! Good God, you women are more treacherous than tigers! I suppose she's marrying him now because you married me."

Madeline burst into hysterical laughter. "Of all the conceits! Don't tell me you still believe Donna would ever have had you! She couldn't see you for dust at any time, and I knew it! Yes, I lied when I said they were going to be married. Why not? I was fool enough to think that if you knew you could never have her you'd snap out of it and begin to get something out of life—"

"With you?"

"Yes, with me. It's only your dsmrd pride and conceit that's eating you now. That's all it ever was between you and Donna—and don't tell me any different. I've lived with you long enough to know you'll never love any one but yourself. The only reason you wanted Donna was because you couldn't have her. I wish to God she'd married you! I don't want you. Not any more!"

She dropped her head and laid her head on the shelf before the mirror and burst into angry tears.

Tears were a defense Con could not combat. He paced the little room, whistled disconsolately and then swung on his heels and left.

Madeline picked up the letter, read it through and then destroyed it. She and Con had both spoken in the heat of passion but they had said things that were not easily forgiven nor forgotten. With her sus-

FEWER BUT WIDER WAVES FEATURE THE NEW WINDSWEEP COIFFURE

The feeling for movement in this coiffure is carried out with open forehead, soft tangles and back swirls adds a smart decorative touch and helps to keep hair in place.

By ALICIA HART

"Windswept," a by-word with fashion designers this year, has been added to the vocabularies of our leading hair stylists. As a result, the new summer coiffures have a clean-cut, windblown backward look about them that is flattering to most women.
City curls still are being used on the smartest types of hair-dress but they are tight, practical little things that stay in place instead of blowing to bits each time a fresh breeze catches you unaware. There are fewer waves—and wider ones. Inobtrusive jeweled clips and pins are seen on daytime coiffures as well as on the evening varieties.
Pictured here is a new summer

mar coiffure for the girl with bobbed locks. The hair is parted high on the right side and then waved to show one wide wave on that side and two on the other. Instead of making more waves or simply turning the ends under, the coiffure expert who originated this hair-dress arranged rows of small curls around the ears and across the back of the head. Notice how the waves sweep backward and how the curls extend upward as they go backward from the face.

A slender jeweled comb is placed on the right side of the head between the side curls and the back ones. Not only does it add a decorative note but it helps to keep the hair in place.

ess in the animal act, Madeline had hoped to see her husband's love. Con's fury over discovering that Donna had been neither engaged nor married until after his own wedding showed Madeline only too plainly that he did not love her, that he still cared for the other girl.

She was well aware of his conceit but he did not want any one else to mention it, least of all the woman who bore his name. Madeline had added insult to injury and he could not forgive her.

Because the scene still rankled and because both were stubborn, the strained situation continued. Con had never known humility. Never in his life had he admitted himself in the wrong. The overtures toward reconciliation would have to come from Madeline, and Madeline in the throes of jealousy, convinced herself that she hated Con and did not care if they never spoke again.

Con treated Madeline with a supercilious courtesy that infuriated her and fanned to a higher flame her hatred and jealousy. Probably during those days when she completely ignored him she came nearer to loving her than at any other time. She had spoken truly when she said it was because Donna cared nothing for Con that he had been so determined to win her.

Lucy, the Bengal, was the only one of his beasts Con really cared for. Lucy could not be tamed. She could be driven into the great barred ring, but no persuasion, threats or whipping could make her mount a stool and sit there as the other animals did. Besides, as some evil tropical flower, she would stand destant, snarling and lashing her tail, her yellow eyes gleaming with malice and contempt for her brother that bowed before the crack of Con's pistol, the lash of his whip.

And it was because he had met his match in this jungle cat so you could get your clutches on me you've thrown away your inheritance.

"I don't know what you mean. Donna would never—you don't think Donna would influence him into leaving her the farm, do you?"

"Would she have to do any influencing? He thinks she is his granddaughter, you say. She's marrying your cousin. You don't suppose he's going to let the fortune, such as it is, slip through his hands? If Donna isn't unscrupulous enough or clever enough to get the old man's will worded in such a fashion that the money will be hers, this cousin will think up a way to do it."

"And where will you be? You can't swear until tomorrow that you were the granddaughter and entitled to what is left, but with two against you you'd just be out of luck."

Madeline's lips curled scornfully. "And you claimed to love Donna! I don't know anything about Bill Siddal, but I do know Donna. She wouldn't rob me and no man could induce her to try to cheat me out of anything Grandfather might leave."

"I wouldn't be too sure! I suppose you kept that letter?"

"No. I destroyed it. But just to satisfy you I'll write Donna and ask her what she intends to do if Grandfather should die."

"You think she'd tell you?"

"If she does, for your own protection be sure to keep the letter."

Until this conversation Madeline had given little thought to what her grandfather possessed. Now the farm and livestock and the Siddal bank account became of vast importance as she realized that Con considered her an heiress. After Madeline had written to Donna, first wishing her happiness, then tactfully inquiring what the situation would be if Grandfather Siddal should die, she began to wonder if Con were not a better judge of character than herself. Was Donna, in marrying Bill Siddal, looking forward to a future that included property and valuable assets as well as home and husband?

Your CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

A mother writes that her growing children "are licked before they start because everything is done for them. Too many books, too much school, everything handed to them, nothing to work for."

I agree with her thoroughly. In fact, I'll go still further and add that most of us are licked before we start—these days.

It used to be that children had certain definite aims in life. They knew what those things were. First of all there was school. School was a privilege and boys and girls got up early to help with chores so they could leave home in time for the long walk ahead.

They got books where they could. To obtain books was a decided definite aim. To get an education, sketchy as it was, was another definite aim.

Life Without Complications. To have clothes and necessities was still another, for unless they were with the clothes and chickens, the crops and the harvest, bent a shoulder to the family wheel, these things would not be forthcoming. A new pair of shoes was an event and the idea of walking to church or singing school in bare feet, pulling on shoeleather only when the door was reached, did not originate in Scotland, as the story goes. It was a good old American custom not so many years ago.

Nothing was done for the children that they did not have a hand in themselves. They knew that if everybody did not work and pull hard, there would be no clothes, or school, or books, or even groceries.

A situation had only one answer and they knew the answer. No complications about having to decipher how to fill in their time. No puzzling problems about what was ahead. Few decisions to make ex-like this! It's just killing me to have you treat me this way."

"I suppose it was your idea to have Donna go to the farm after the accident?"

"Well, it was a lot better than having her stay in a hospital and it saved expense—"

"And threw her and your precious cousin together! Just what does your grandfather think Donna's sponging on him this way?"

"Why, he thinks she is me—er—he loves her because—"

"I heard you the first time. So your grandfather thinks Donna is well-to-do?"

"I don't know what you mean. Donna would never—you don't think Donna would influence him into leaving her the farm, do you?"

"Would she have to do any influencing? He thinks she is his granddaughter, you say. She's marrying your cousin. You don't suppose he's going to let the fortune, such as it is, slip through his hands? IF WOMEN WERE LESS MODEST HER JOB WOULD BE EASIER

Champion of Their Rights in Industry Wishes Weaker Sex Would Be More Assertive

By MARY MARGARET MCBRIDE

Washington, D. C.—If women weren't so modest, individually and in the group, Elizabeth Christman's job as secretary-treasurer and general protector of injustice for the National Women's Trade Union League of America would be a far, far easier one.

At least so she thinks. And she's probably right for she's had a shrewdly investigative eye upon the doings of women in industry for more than twenty years.

"One goal that we've definitely set ourselves is to get women to criticize that obnoxious creature, 'Idle Gine' at industrial meetings," Miss Christman declared, laughing a little but pretty deadly serious, too.

"You know how, when somebody is offered the chairmanship of a committee, he or she must either accept or say 'I decline.'"

"Well, I noticed long ago that men seldom decline. The 'I declines' are usually voiced by women afraid they can't do the job. In fact, ever since we began to creep into the industries and professions, we've taken it for granted that to get the same credit, we must do any job better than a man would do it."

"That's all nonsense. I don't ask adulation and hurrahs for my sex, but I do want just recognition of their services. And if you look about here in Washington, you are likely to find some intelligent but self-effacing woman secretary or assistant behind every man who is doing his work exceptionally well."

"I have seen, I have seen the affliction of my people which is in Egypt, and I have heard their groaning, and am come down to deliver them.—The Acts, 7:34.

Recognition for Sex

As a result of her work, she has been able to secure the passage of legislation which will give women the same rights as men in the field of labor.

"I was sick all the rest of the day because of my boldness, but from that moment of speaking out I began to view my work from a less personal angle, and almost before I knew it, I was heard and soul in the trade union movement."

It was when she was chairman of the grievance committee of a plant in which 700 women worked that Miss Christman learned to separate real grievances from imaginary ones and she has been doing it ever since. She has been secretary-treasurer of the Trade Union League since 1922.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

Perhaps the most important step in the making of successful macaroni salads lies in the cooking. Each piece must be firm and smooth, tender but not soft or sticky. The best way to cook macaroni is to drop it into plenty of boiling water—3 quarts of water and 1 tablespoon salt to 2 cups macaroni are good proportions—and boil until tender about 20 minutes. Drain well and rinse with cold water. Drain thoroughly and chill. Have all the other materials cold.

Macaroni Ham Salad
This salad is particularly good served on a bed of shredded cabbage.

One cup cooked and chilled macaroni, 1 cup chopped cold boiled ham, 1 tablespoon prepared horseradish, 2 pimientos, 1 cup salad dressing (mayonnaise or cooked dressing), shredded cabbage.

Mix horseradish and ham thoroughly and combine lightly with macaroni and pimientos which have been cut in shreds. Moisten with dressing and serve on a bed of shredded crisp cabbage.

Macaroni Egg Salad
This is another substantial salad.

One cup cooked macaroni, 2 hard cooked eggs, 1-2 cup diced celery, 4 tablespoons sliced stuffed olives, salad dressing, shredded leaf lettuce. Chop eggs coarsely and combine with macaroni, celery and olives. Add salad dressing to make moist and serve on a bed of shredded leaf lettuce. Garnish with halves of stuffed olives. It's better to use the olives stuffed with pimientos rather than those stuffed with celery or nuts because the red of the pimento makes an attractive touch of color.

Macaroni Fruit Salad
One cup cooked macaroni, 1 cup diced pineapple, 2 bananas thinly sliced and marinated in lemon juice, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 cup orange juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 1-3 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

It's a good idea to dice the pineapple several hours before you want to make your salad. Sprinkle with sugar and if you want to drain and use the juice in place of orange juice to make the dressing, if you do use pineapple juice bring it to the boiling point before you make the dressing.

Mix sugar and cornstarch and stir into boiling pineapple juice. Cook, stirring occasionally, in double boiler for 20 minutes. Add lemon juice and let cool. When ready to use fold in cream whipped until firm with salt. Add macaroni, pineapple and bananas to dressing and serve on tender leaves of head lettuce with a garnish of fresh strawberries or maraschino cherries. A cube of bright jelly will also serve as an attractive garnish.

Diets too vigorously is one thing which the woman who wishes to lose weight should guard against. There is a great deal of planning a rigid reducing diet without first consulting a reliable physician. Just because your neighbor went on a liquid diet, lost 15 pounds and suffered no ill effects, is no sign that the same type of diet is right for you. Your body and blood may be such that plain liquids for days and days would prove harmful. So get medical advice before you start.

However, no matter what foods are best for you, there's no reason to eat an excess of any one of them. The person who wants to be slender should always feel a trifle hungry when she leaves the table. Forgo the second helping of anything and don't be tempted to take the little extra sweets that are passed around after the desert course unless you have eaten sparingly and passed up the dessert itself.

Everyone should drink eight glasses of water each day and the woman on a diet should increase her amount to ten glasses. Two of them, luke-warm, must be taken before breakfast.

PACKAGE STORES HIT BY FEDERAL COURT. NOT TO PROSECUTE

at 8 p. m. and in quantities of less than a fifth during the period the temporary injunction was effective. The Constitutional Court in its decision, suggested however, that there be no prosecutions or reprisals against the plaintiff (Shore) and all intervening parties whose offenses are alleged to have been committed during the pendency of the temporary restraining order.

The court examined in detail the differences between the restrictions provided by the Liquor Control Act for package stores and drug stores and differences in penalties.

"Underlying these rules for the conduct of persons engaged in the traffic of liquors is the apparent desire to forbid the return of the saloon and drinking upon the premises of the seller."

It held also: "The Legislature might reasonably have thought that the stores being of different classes, the sale of liquor by each should be upon a different basis and that there should be two classes of permits."

The rules for the sale of liquor by drug stores are contained in an amendment which was enacted as a last minute measure by the General Assembly of 1935. In the face of this amendment the state liquor commission sought to force druggists to obtain package store permits. The Supreme Court of Errors has held, however, that drug stores were not required to have package permits.

A digest of the decision follows: The plaintiff, William Shore, a permittee, sought an injunction to restrain enforcement of provisions of the liquor law, contending druggists permits were discriminatory and by reason of such discrimination the plaintiff was deprived of equal protection under the state constitution. The bill charged that more than $2,000 was involved and that the controversy arose under the Federal Constitution.

The plaintiff alleged he was granted a package store permit and invested $18,000 in alcoholic liquors with an average weekly retail business of $1800 weekly, and a gross average wholesale business of $8,000 weekly.

He alleged that after the Supreme Court of Errors declared druggists permits were not under the same restrictions as the package stores, his wholesale business had been almost eliminated, and he had lost in his retail business. Shore set up these losses were due to unreasonable discrimination which came about through provisions of the druggists permits.

The decision reviews the liquor control act as regards classes of permits and the package and druggist permits in particular.

Taking up Shore's contention there is discrimination in that he could not sell liquor in any town which voted dry, and his various other contentions, the court said: "It was competent for the Legislature, in the exercise of the police power belonging to the state, to prohibit entirely, or to authorities upon such conditions as it may impose, the sale of intoxicating liquors. The court quoted from a decision of the U. S. Supreme Court, settled by legal authorities, the doctrine is too well established to be longer called in question that a license of this character, whether reversible in terms or not, is neither a contract nor property in any Constitutional sense, but is subject at all times to the police powers of the state government."

As Shore had raised the question of jurisdiction, the court disposed of this by saying its decision was based on merits of the case and "not for want of jurisdiction."

The court pointed out the privileges of the druggist under his permit include the right to sell liquors anywhere, inclusive of "dry" towns, in place of smaller containers, no restrictions to hours of sale, no restriction against sales on Sundays or election days, he may employ minors, is not obliged to sell in sealed packages and has other opportunities for liquor traffic not given to package store men.

The court saw no illegal discrimination against Shore, as a package store permittee in view of the enlarged privileges under the drug store permit.

The court pointed out differences

ROOSEVELT AGREES TO SILVER MANDATE

Silverites and Secretary Morgenthau hailed the understanding following yesterday's meeting with the President.

Borah Pleased. The Senators, including Wheeler of Montana, Fittman of Nevada, Borah of Idaho and King of Utah, were unanimous in declaration that the way had been found by a formula of general principles.

"We are getting along fine," observed Borah of Idaho, who has been regarded as a pessimist on the possibility of legislation.

"There will be action at this session," asserted Senator Fittman. The exact bill to be introduced remains to be drawn.

The domestic price of silver is less than half of the proposed $1.20 an ounce value to be given to certificates and the Treasury is to be given the right to cease buying and to sell silver at any time the price overreaches this point.

This same principle maintains in the gold control policy with American selling authorized whenever the world price oversteps the domestic value fixed by the President.

Such an apprehension, the court explained, would not have equal application to sales by druggists because of the restrictions hedging the latter.

The court failed to find ground that distinction between the package store and druggist permit was arbitrary, or that the package store permittee was deprived of his constitutional right. The manner of legislation of the House business was found to be within the power of the legislature.

AWAIT OPINION

Hartford, May 17.—(AP)—Having lost their last case in the Constitutional Court from 350 to 375 package store proprietors who violated their permits while taking advantage of a protective temporary injunction today were apprehensively awaiting a probable opinion from the Attorney General upon which will depend the next step of the State Liquor Control Commission.

The commission, it was indicated, would ask the Attorney General whether, in view of these violations by permit holders, the provisions of the law itself and the suggestion of the court for clemency to the violators, prosecution against the offending package stores was mandatory.

Meanwhile, Thomas J. Spellacy, counsel for William Shore of this city, who with 300 other package store proprietors challenged the constitutionality of the law on the ground that it discriminated against them in favor of drug stores, had not decided whether to appeal to the United States Supreme Court.

The commission's investigation of package stores which kept open after 8 p. m., and sold in amounts less than one quart in violation of their permits while the court decision was pending showed that from 350 to 375 package stores in the state are involved. Waterbury, Bridgeport, New Haven, New Britain, Stamford and Hartford stores were the leading offenders in the order named.

POLICE COURT

John Krawald, of South Windsor, driver of the automobile which struck Jeremiah Healey, 80, last Saturday, causing injuries which resulted in Mr. Healey's death today, will be arraigned in Police Court Saturday morning on a charge of reckless driving.

George J. Maher, of 799 Elm Hills avenue, Hartford, was arrested at 1:30 o'clock this morning by Sergeant John McGinnis charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. The case was continued to Saturday under a writ of $200, which his brother furnished.

lived in the tin box (lining the hole). It repels her to speak of those days and she recalls when asked a direct question, "I have had to use subterfuge in eliciting information as we play with her bundles, or cut out paper dolls. I have secured bit by bit, details of those 19 days.

Carlos Robles is assistant Pima county attorney and together with County Attorney Clarence Houston found the girl, being directed to her hiding place by an anonymous letter from Chicago.

"I asked her," Carlos said, "if the kidnapers had given her any dolls or things to play with. She replied they had not, but they gave me a box of dates that had paper around it. After I ate the date I had a lot of seeds, and I took the paper and pressed up the seeds as you see here." The long date nut says have been very difficult for the child without amusements other than she could provide for herself.

Believe Her Story. "Nothing has been disclosed in the investigation, authorities said, to cast doubt on June's story that she was held for 19 days in the desert branch—the entire time she was missing.

Carlos related how June told his hundreds of ants crawled over her and the scout food left for her and how she ants stung her little body nearly painful with sunburn. Chained by her ankles to a stake, June had no chance to leave the virtual coffin which was hidden with brush and mesquite.

"There is no doubt in my mind," Carlos said, "but that she still fears the kidnapers and feels the horror of the experience through which she has passed."

"She is trying her best to forget it by talk of returning to school. We will permit her to go back to her classroom work Monday."

The kidnapers never attempted to contact Fernando Robles, June's father, for the $15,000 ransom they demanded in a

WILL A TRAVELING SALESMAN GO TO HEAVEN?

A friend of this column who travels, sends up the following message which we respectfully dedicate to all who travel and sell:
 If a salesman writes a letter, its too long.
 If he sends a postal, its too short.
 If he doesn't send a report, he is lazy.
 If he attends a business meeting, he is butting in.
 If he stays away, he is a shirker.
 If he duns the customers for bills, he is insulting.
 If he fails to collect the bills, he is slipping.
 If he asks for advice, he is incompetent.
 If he does not, he is bull-headed.
 If he does write his reports complete, they are too long.
 If he condenses them, they are incomplete.
 If he talks on a subject, he is trying to run things.
 If he remains quiet, he has lost interest in the business.
