DRIVE TO SHOE
KIDDIES STARTS
Four Local Organizations
Already Pledge $50 Toward This Worthwhile Cause.

Four local organizations—the Men's Club, Orange Club and the British-American Club—have collectively taken 200 tickets for the baseball game next Wednesday evening, thus assuring Miss Jessie M. Reynolds, social worker here, of at least $50 which will be applied toward the fund to buy shoes for the children of needy families in Manchester.

"You cannot tell me that the baseball team in Manchester will not respond when asked," he continued. "Take for example Billy Schrage, who used to be a ball player himself not so long ago. The ticket committee approached him and without any questions at all he promptly printed 1,000 tickets and donated them to the cause of shoeing the kids."

"Encouraged by this start we went right after any sort of a contribution and within a few days an electric clock donated as a prize. Contrary to popular belief, Manchester's baseball teams are not as together as they once were. In fact, when the teams are in, that every club in the town will enter and those who are not will be sold more than their allotment of 50 tickets each."

As far as can be learned there will not be any expense attached to this drive for $500. Ball players, umpires, events and prizes are being cheerfully donated. It is interesting to have recognized that it is a worthy cause."

Miss Reynolds' statement.

Perhaps a clearer idea of the needs and needs of these children can be gained by a statement issued this morning by Miss Reynolds. Since 1924 the American Red Cross has supplied the town with shoes, clothing, blankets, etc., without any cost directly to the taxpayers," she said. "The situation this year remains the same and even more so when we find that our stock of articles mentioned herein is sadly depleted. The need of shoes right now in Manchester exceeds anything else. Children going to school, especially in the fall, need their shoes in the late spring and early summer."

When these baseball officials and players decided to take this matter up, I felt that they would strike a mighty blow, that they were in an experienced in matters of this sort. However, this morning I was more than surprised when I was notified that the first contributions and sale of the tickets exceeded the mental figure I had put down. Fifty dollars for a year ago. I think they are just splendid and I think that Manchester's baseball public will come through now."

JOHN JENSEN ATTENDS FIRE WARDENS' OUTING
Field Day Being Held Today at State Playground Near Hammonasset Beach.

John Jensen and Miss Hannah Jensen of Woodbridge street today are attending the annual outing and field day of the forest fire wardens of Connecticut at the state playground at the second Hammonasset beach. Mr. Jensen was officially appointed fire warden for this district in January. He was preceded by a deputy under the late Charles Griffin for many years forest fire warden in this section. The four deputy wardens in other sections of the town are Roy Nash of Buckland, Arthur E. Loomis of Kenney street, Rush Foster, superintendent of the Manchester Country club grounds and Michael Gorman, outside superintendent for Case Brothers of Highland Park.

The business meeting at 11 a. m. was followed by a short dinner at 12:30, not only for the wardens but the members of their families. As many as 400 families have been in attendance at previous affairs. The afternoon program included races and contests of various kinds for men, women and children, and an interesting competition between the fire fighters, for speed in picking up the fire-fighting equipment, carrying the hoses to the forest fire and other educational as well as interesting studies.

CORODON M. BEEBE TURNS 92 TODAY
Well Known Local Nonagenarian Is a Veteran of the Civil War.

Corodon M. Beebe, one of Manchester's two survivors of the Civil War, passed his 92nd birthday today by enjoying a game of setback with his neighbors. Mr. Beebe was born in Manchester, Conn., on July 17, 1842, married Caroline E. Abbey of East Windsor. The couple had nine children, eight of whom are still living. He also has 21 grandchildren and 22 great grandchildren.

On February 28, 1869, Mr. Beebe sold his place on Oak street here and purchased a farm in Coventry which he worked for more than 40 years. "Until recently he was an ardent disciple of Isaac Walton and spent many happy hours fishing on Coventry Lake. It was nothing for him frequently to land pickerel, pike, bass and perch commonly known as "whoppers" on account of their size.

Under the direction of the adult committee of which Mrs. A. L. Reed is chairman the club will serve a baked bean supper in Grange hall, from 5 o'clock on to daylight. Baked beans, cabbage and carrot salad, pickles, rolls, coffee and home made pie will be served at a popular low price. About 8 o'clock an entertainment will be given in the enlarged Chapel hall nearby, and will consist of a humorous one-act play, "Marrying Off Father." The cast includes Miss Ernestine and Miss Esther Koehler, Miss Grace Reed, Richard Storra, Charles Evans and James Edmondson. Mrs. Ernest Gray is coaching the play, as well as the young people who will take part in the "Humansphere."

The children of Mr. Beebe are: Edmund Beebe, Manchester; Olin M. Beebe, Tauberville; Stephen R. Beebe, Manchester; Robert A. Beebe, South Coventry; Eugene W. Beebe, Millington, Mass.; Mrs. Cora Kinsley, Hartford; Mrs. Carrie Edna Hayden, Norwich and Mrs. Daniel C. Beebe, another son died several years ago.

Scores of friends of Mr. Beebe today extended congratulations on the event his birthday and wished him many more years of health and happiness.

The annual exhibit of the work of the Coventry 4-H club, supper and entertainment will open tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock daylight time at Grange Hall, North Coventry, where the boys and girls will have a varied and interesting exhibit of flowers, fruits and vegetables, causing, dairying, poultry, needlework and other handiwork. This will be free to all.

Mrs. Beebe died May 16, 1928, after which Mr. Beebe sold his farm and went to live with his youngest daughter, Mrs. Hoffman. At the time he sold his farm he reserved 30 acres bordering on the lake. This tract he deeded to his children. They built cottages and established a camp which to this day is known as Beebe's Camp.

When taking up farming as a means of livelihood, Mr. Beebe worked for 35 years as a paper maker at Case Brothers' mill in Highland Park. Later he was employed at the Moore's paper mill in East Windsor. His death was brought to a close 64 years of happily married life.

WALL ST. BRIEFS
New York, Aug. 28.—Public utility stocks are expected some early financing by the Consolidated Gas Co. of Baltimore. It is understood that a registration covering a proposed issue of $15,000,000 3 1/2 per cent bonds will be filed in Washington in the near future. According to bankers this is the first public utility bond issue ever proposed carrying a coupon rate of less than 4 per cent. Proceeds of the new issue will be used to retire $13,500,000 general mortgage bonds due on Feb. 14, 1935. Further weakness in scrip noted.

SCOTCH BISHOP AIDS LABORERS
Dr. Cosmo Lang, Head of the Church of England, Friend of Poor.

By MILTON BRONNER
NEA Service Staff Correspondent.
London.—While it has always been true that cats could look at rings, the workingman generally has found it difficult to get a hearing in the high places. That because cats can't embrace the throne with urgent and unusual requests for assistance or succor. Circumstances, however, have given British labor one spokesman who has free access to the heads of the government, the privy councils and even cabinet ministers. This man is an able laborer, a superb diplomat and a qualified statesman. That spokesman is Dr. Cosmo Lang, Archbishop of Canterbury, whose views are accepted by a greater audience than those of any other person except the royal family and the prime minister.

At the head of the Church of England, his sermons, speeches and writings in the press are regarded as of important nature; and the effectiveness of his pronouncements can be judged by the fact that a single letter to the press under the initials of the archbishop has a Jewish propaganda.

His last months were a strangely successful career. He is a Scot, born into a Presbyterian family, his father being Moderator of the Synod of Scotland and Principal of Aberdeen University. He was born in 1854 in the town of Glasgow and Oxford University. He was ordained as a minister in the Church of England.

His first church job was as vicar of a curate in Leeds in the poor parish of St. James. He was Bishop of Stepney, in one of the slum parishes of London. His experiences at Leeds and in Stepney made a life-long impression upon him and have been the basis of the poor working man.

When Thoms Chapin to Queen Victoria in a few years he got his chance to show in a resounding fashion. He was made vicar of St. James, Victoria and became Archbishop of York in 1918. In 1920, he had a seat in the House of Lords. In November, 1917, in the most critical period of the World War, he was elected to the House of Lords. The effect of the peers had been making a superb record in the House of Lords. The archbishop was the most prominent among the laboring classes. Up rose the Archbishop of York to say: "Last numbers from the overcrowded house in the slums came to us from the great cities of the world to help their country to which apparently they were in little. The workers will rightly demand that their conditions shall not be restored. . . . Having in home the greater part of the strain and sacrifice of war, they are entitled to the rewards of their labor shall be adequate."

The first cause of unrest is the unequal distribution of resources in the industry. . . . The second cause is the fact that the worker who feels that he has a cog in the machine liable to be scrapped like the machinery he attends. . . . It is a commonplace that industrial peace depends upon the interest among the laboring classes. Up rose the Archbishop of York to say: "Last numbers from the overcrowded house in the slums came to us from the great cities of the world to help their country to which apparently they were in little. The workers will rightly demand that their conditions shall not be restored. . . . Having in home the greater part of the strain and sacrifice of war, they are entitled to the rewards of their labor shall be adequate."

It was a regular Franklin Roosevelt speech—delivered by the prelate 15 years ago. Serving his country, Dr. Lang made war speeches in many of the towns of the industrial north of England, to the Grand Fleet, to large sections of the army and the American soldiers at Camp Upton, to gatherings of American business men, to packed audiences at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine and Trinity Church in New York City. It was not his only connection with the United States. In the spring of 1913 he made a tour of the Mediterranean and Palestine as the guest of P. P. Morgan on the latter's private yacht, Comar.

In 1928 he received his final and crowning step-up—he was made Archbishop of Canterbury. Incidentally, he is the first bachelor head of the church since 1727. And he's so old fogey, this 70-year-old bachelor. When others "grope about" the new after-the-war generation, the Archbishop steps forward and says: "If life the frankness, fresh vitality and curiosity of the new generation."

Backed Sunday Morning. Two years ago there was up in Parliament a bill which would permit communities to have movies open on Sundays if they chose. Many churches and laymen fought it. Dr. Lang supported it, saying: "People go to church because they want to, if there be any who do not want to, but go because there is no other comfortable place. I doubt whether their presence is an acceptable act of worship. . . . There is no use arguing people should attend public worship. There is no use arguing people should attend a quiet evening at home. How can I argue with one or two rooms and any rest or recreation?" The result in the elder people is to go to the "pub" and the youngsters to the streets—a great source of evil.

Los Angeles school districts will spend nearly $13,000,000 this year rehabilitating buildings damaged by earthquakes.

Unusual and Spectacular People and Events Make The Headlines In The News

In so far as the human element is concerned the patient, persistent person with average capabilities generally succeeds better in the average span of life than those who "skYROCKET" into fame and fortune. He or she who SAVES consistently will, in due time, have a nice sum to repay them for their efforts.

CAUCUSES
 If there were any Republican defectors in Manchester yesterday, the spectacle of last night's caucus must have converted them to optimism by this morning. It was beyond question, the best caucus of the Republican party ever held in the town. It was the biggest, the most completely representative of all elements in the party, and it was earnestly sanguine and determined.
 It was also enthusiastically an Alcorn caucus area, though local tradition almost prohibits the instruction of delegates to a state convention, no doubt was left that Manchester's representation in the convention will be in the forefront of the fight for the nomination of Mr. Alcorn—if there is any occasion to fight.

On that point the reports from the various town caucuses throughout the state last evening are most reassuring. Not a single town is sending a delegation to Hartford next Monday pledged to any candidate other than the Hartford County State's Attorney.
 The spirit and genuine enthusiasm of last night's gathering here merely reflected a realization that there has come to Republicans throughout the state, that the business of governing the commonwealth of Connecticut has become an extremely disagreeable job which, if it is to be conducted as ably as the times desperately demand, must be taken over by their party and under their leadership.

STRIKES AND RELIEF
 President Roosevelt has refused to declare his position on the question of whether strikers should or should not be maintained, while on strike, through the use of Federal Relief Administration funds. That is unfortunate. It is entirely possible that this question may turn out to be the most embarrassing one encountered by his administration during his term of office. It might cause an enormous amount of misunderstanding and misconception if the President were to meet it definitely and courageously at this highly critical moment when the threatened textile strike, involving the livelihood of five or six million persons, is impending.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, has declined to utter a single word indicating his views or purposes. His Relief Administrator, Harry L. Hopkins, however, has been less light-fingered. His department, he has declared, will make no discrimination against any destitute person or his family because of the fact that he may have left the employment of his own volition.

But even Mr. Hopkins makes it clear that he is a little nervous about the possibilities of the pending textile strike. He doesn't by any means like the idea of having that strike left on the doorstep of the Roosevelt administration. He says he goes along a little and says: "We are not underwriting any strikes and no man in Washington or Atlanta has any right to make statements concerning what I am to do that I have not made myself." This was an obvious reference to the declaration of a Southern union leader that the present was an opportunity for a strike because the government had pledged itself to "let us go hungry."

One of the worst aspects of this problem lies in the fact that in every instance it will be the local relief agencies who will have to deal with it, since the Federal Relief Administration has no machinery for direct contact with the individuals adversely and merely supplies funds to states and local relief agencies. Moreover, these federal relief funds are not permitted to be expended indiscriminately. They can be used only to meet actual destitution. No person who has means of his own, even an insurance policy which he could negotiate a loan on, can be admitted to a share in government relief money. Yet it is quite sure that if there is a great strike next week and unless this circular rule is broken, thousands of strikers will be left to fend for themselves. Full anticipation of holding out their hands and having money put into them for the relief making. This there will be diffusion and trouble.

ministration has no machinery for direct contact with the individuals adversely and merely supplies funds to states and local relief agencies. Moreover, these federal relief funds are not permitted to be expended indiscriminately. They can be used only to meet actual destitution. No person who has means of his own, even an insurance policy which he could negotiate a loan on, can be admitted to a share in government relief money. Yet it is quite sure that if there is a great strike next week and unless this circular rule is broken, thousands of strikers will be left to fend for themselves. Full anticipation of holding out their hands and having money put into them for the relief making. This there will be diffusion and trouble.

Even if Mr. Roosevelt finds too great the task of establishing a hard and fast policy on federal aid to strikers—and it is to be admitted that it is an appalling one—he owes it to himself and to the country to make it unmistakably clear that persons who leave their jobs in a labor conflict cannot expect the government or more generous assistance than is extended to those who are destitute because they can get no jobs at all.

THAT GOLD PROFIT
 Announcement by Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau that the government expects "eventually" to employ the profit on the impounded gold to "reduce the public debt" will be hailed as a forecast of inflation in those quarters which are interested in a continuation of the dollar. What really is the device? It is a device that won't run very deeply into money of Americans who protest against the policy of financing recovery through increased borrowing instead of direct treasury issues, without doing anything that is not absolutely unavoidable in the way of currency expansion.

Of course the gold profit would have to be employed, sooner or later, for the expenses of government. What else could it be used for? The only news of the slightest importance in Mr. Morgenthau's portentous statement is that it is not to be used now. And that is bad news.

There is $2,500,000,000 of this profit gold. But $2,500,000,000 in actual gold bullion would mean any currency at any time except those of Holland and Switzerland, and at least seven billion dollars in currency, since 40 per cent of gold backs up each currency dollar is the amount that was ever required, even in conventional gold standard days.

Now what is all this we hear about a "pull"—just a good old-fashioned "drag"—getting in the books on the police in the Tennessee Valley Authority in its huge merchandising campaign on electrical appliances? Electric refrigerators, range water heaters, portable motors, water pumps, washing machines, were to be merchandised and financed at low prices and under terms so advantageous to the purchaser that seven states were to be largely electrified as part of their home economy and the plan, but no washing machine is to be sold.

The Laundry Owners National Association was in that. "Look here," it said, "how do you expect us laundrymen to live by the government and support this administration if the government sits up with machines and puts us out of business?"

So the washing machine outfit disappeared from the prospectus of the TVA. Now what's the matter with the looms getting together and demanding that the refrigerator be likewise dropped into the plant? Or how about men from your side of the TVA and women from your side of the TVA and bringing it into the plant? It would be very interesting to know what the laundrymen would work to make their protest effective. It's a good guess that they saw somebody besides those very bearing and interested gentlemen who are trying to go fast to put over the Tennessee Valley enterprise. Maybe even somebody had a particular pull with Brother Farley, for Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt, it is to be hoped more and more interested, dislikes to break eggs in the making of his omelette. If an international bank is an egg, why not a laundry?

WAR GAMES
 Probably the most satisfactory war maneuvers of the United States Army to the average citizen since those now being carried on. They are certainly the cheapest and there is anything that gets the government the ordinary taxpayer it is to see the Army and Navy shooting away cartloads of money in the form of pay at imaginary enemies. The whole game is being played on paper. Not only the enemy but the defending army are imaginary. General MacArthur says, "Six Black transports are now landing troops at Atlantic City, and Black bombers are destroying the town; what are you going to do about it?" Then the other officers tell him, and the game goes on.

Next Sunday there will be some physical representation of the army in the field—seven officers and men will really be in the field. That won't run very deeply into money of Americans who protest against the policy of financing recovery through increased borrowing instead of direct treasury issues, without doing anything that is not absolutely unavoidable in the way of currency expansion.

Next Sunday there will be some physical representation of the army in the field—seven officers and men will really be in the field. That won't run very deeply into money of Americans who protest against the policy of financing recovery through increased borrowing instead of direct treasury issues, without doing anything that is not absolutely unavoidable in the way of currency expansion.

Of course the gold profit would have to be employed, sooner or later, for the expenses of government. What else could it be used for? The only news of the slightest importance in Mr. Morgenthau's portentous statement is that it is not to be used now. And that is bad news.

There is $2,500,000,000 of this profit gold. But $2,500,000,000 in actual gold bullion would mean any currency at any time except those of Holland and Switzerland, and at least seven billion dollars in currency, since 40 per cent of gold backs up each currency dollar is the amount that was ever required, even in conventional gold standard days.

Now what is all this we hear about a "pull"—just a good old-fashioned "drag"—getting in the books on the police in the Tennessee Valley Authority in its huge merchandising campaign on electrical appliances? Electric refrigerators, range water heaters, portable motors, water pumps, washing machines, were to be merchandised and financed at low prices and under terms so advantageous to the purchaser that seven states were to be largely electrified as part of their home economy and the plan, but no washing machine is to be sold.

The Laundry Owners National Association was in that. "Look here," it said, "how do you expect us laundrymen to live by the government and support this administration if the government sits up with machines and puts us out of business?"

So the washing machine outfit disappeared from the prospectus of the TVA. Now what's the matter with the looms getting together and demanding that the refrigerator be likewise dropped into the plant? Or how about men from your side of the TVA and women from your side of the TVA and bringing it into the plant? It would be very interesting to know what the laundrymen would work to make their protest effective. It's a good guess that they saw somebody besides those very bearing and interested gentlemen who are trying to go fast to put over the Tennessee Valley enterprise. Maybe even somebody had a particular pull with Brother Farley, for Roosevelt. Mr. Roosevelt, it is to be hoped more and more interested, dislikes to break eggs in the making of his omelette. If an international bank is an egg, why not a laundry?

 "Yankee" Tells How State Put a Spin on Ellis
 Carl Carter was a young Yankee professor who went down to Alabama to spend half a dozen years on a university faculty. He found that life in Alabama was unlike any life he had known before. It was exciting, colorful, a little mysterious, a blend of many strange elements; so, finally, he wrote a book about it all, and that book—"Ellis: Fall on Alabama"—is a highly entertaining account of the things he saw and heard and did.

American tourists business in Germany this year is estimated by tourist agencies at 45 per cent of last year.

WAR GAMES
 Probably the most satisfactory war maneuvers of the United States Army to the average citizen since those now being carried on. They are certainly the cheapest and there is anything that gets the government the ordinary taxpayer it is to see the Army and Navy shooting away cartloads of money in the form of pay at imaginary enemies. The whole game is being played on paper. Not only the enemy but the defending army are imaginary. General MacArthur says, "Six Black transports are now landing troops at Atlantic City, and Black bombers are destroying the town; what are you going to do about it?" Then the other officers tell him, and the game goes on.

BEACH CLUB GIRL

By MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY BOOTS BARBER is the prettiest girl in Larchmont, fashionable New York suburb, but her father, wealthy AVILA MYERS, has her to keep up with her crowd. Wealthy AVILA MYERS schemes to force Boots to resign from the dance. Deeply hurt, Boots accepts the attentions of BILLY LUND, the swimming instructor.

YOUR CHILDREN

By Olive Roberts Barton

Children are going to remember long after we have forgotten. And in the years to come they are going to sort those memories into two distinct classes, pleasant and unpleasant.

SENSE and NONSENSE

For many is the man who pulls a pig by the tail and says, "I'm pulling it by the tail, but it doesn't pull the way I want."

ABOUT TOWN

Ward Krause of Walnut street, who has been visiting his aunt in Stamford, is expected home tomorrow.

An important meeting of the Sons of Italy Juniors will take place tonight at 8:30 at the Trade school. All members are urged to be present.

On the list of candidates who have filed applications for nominations at the primaries next month, which has been prepared by Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington for advertisement, as required by law, it was discovered that instead of six candidates for constable on the Democratic primary list there will be seven names.

John Tanner of Henry street, 84 years old, was the oldest Republican in attendance at the caucus held in the High school hall last night.

BARBERS RE-ELECT FORMER OFFICERS

Membership of Local Association Increases to 21; Farrand President.

Starting with a membership of 14 in the organization of the Master Barber Association of Manchester, the number has increased to 21 and the one large shop which has not become connected with the association is charging the same prices as the others. It was reported at the annual meeting of the association last night.

James Farrand, who was elected president when the organization was first formed, was re-elected to that position for another term, as were the other officers Harry Vittoria was elected vice president; Earl Stairs, secretary and Flats Ragan, treasurer.

Earl Stairs and Paul McKenna were elected delegates to the state convention in New Haven September 16 and the meeting will also be attended by the president as a delegate (see page 16).

The meeting was held in the Hotel Sheraton and it was decided that future meetings will be held there in addition to business matters a social session will follow each meeting.

Harlan H. White of Joplin, Missouri, formerly of Manchester, called on old friends here today. He has been spending some time in the East and has also been visiting with his sister, Mrs. John G. Talbot of Tauntonville who is at present at Rockport, Mass.
