

PEACE LOOMS IN TEXTILE STRIKE

BELIEVE KAMINSKI CORNERED AT TOWN'S BOLTON BORDER

Cordon of Police Guarding Area at Foot of Nigger Hill — Fugitive Slayer's Trail Crossed by Patrolman Joseph Prentice — Series of Thefts Point Definitely to Escaped Murderer — Steals Boots, Food and Ammunition.

Believed by police to be surrounded in the dense undergrowth along the Manchester-Bolton line, Alexander Kaminski of New Britain early this afternoon was using all his natural cunning and resourcefulness to elude a cordon of officers thrown about the general vicinity and to throw off the scent of two bloodhounds brought to the scene by Lieutenant David Schatzman of the Beacon Falls barracks.

His Path Traced
Early this morning the bloodhounds followed a trail which started from a driveway adjoining the house in which Constable Chesterfield Farris resides and which led down the Bolton road to a house occupied by Mrs. William Jones. The hounds sniffed a single shoe without a heel, found in the driveway and led to the porch of Mrs. Jones' house. Footprints were found in a flower garden at the front of the house. One footprint indicated the fugitive was without a shoe and the other, which appeared to be that of a high heeled shoe, gave rise to the belief that his other foot was shod in what might have been a woman's slipper or a rubber.

A significant phase of the manhunt was learned by Lieutenant Schatzman when he was informed by Mrs. Jones that when Kaminski escaped before she gave him a meal at her house not knowing he was a fugitive. However, the state policeman could give no reason why Kaminski should return to Mrs. Jones' house unless he thought he might obtain some money from her. Mrs. Jones recognized Kaminski's picture later in newspapers.

Don't
Tony Anasidi told a Herald reporter today that he returned from a dance at 11:30 last night but found nothing out of the way. Around midnight, however, neighbors heard Anasidi's police dog barking. At 1:30 o'clock Samuel Woodward, who lives a short distance down the road, was in Anasidi's grain barn preparing for the morning's work. Nothing untoward occurred while Mr. Woodward was in the barn. It was pointed out that the police dog does not bark unless a stranger is on the premises.

The man thought to be Kaminski stole from Anasidi's outhouse, which is located about 20 feet from the rear kitchen of the house, a large piece of salami, a chunk of Gorgonzola cheese, a roll of butter, a quart of milk and a quantity of canned goods which included tuna fish, shrimp and cranberry. These foodstuffs were in the upper tier of an icebox of expensive proportions.

Tales Shotgun
Diagonally across the small room of the outhouse was a table upon which were several baskets of what is laid out in this table in the corner, was the 12-gauge double-barreled shotgun owned by John Mattiata, Anasidi's father-in-law. Kaminski also ransacked a drawer in the table and took away a quantity of Winchester, Defiance and Federal high powered shells.

Covers Trail
There were several pairs of matched shoes in the outhouse but, so far as Mr. Anasidi knows, none was removed. The intruder apparently gained entrance by walking through the unlocked door, but he made his exit by removing a screen from a window next to the icebox. From there he passed between the outhouse, the grain barn and a group of chicken coops, which formed a sort of an aisle, and disappeared through the garden and thence into the road. In leaving this aisle he would have to pass within 20 feet of the leashed dog.

Mrs. Esther Silverstein, who lives further down the road, said she saw a man hurrying along in the moonlight. He disappeared through a beanfield on the property of John Calve. The bloodhounds at noon

Hauptmann Handed Over to Bronx Authorities — Refuses to Talk Much During Long Grill by Police.

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—A mild mannered, tight lipped German was taken today as the man who extorted $50,000 from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby. The formal charge of extortion was entered early today, naming Bruno Richard Hauptmann, a carpenter. Immediately after the charge was filed, Hauptmann, weary from long questioning that began following his arrest last Tuesday morning, was taken from the Bronx county court house to police headquarters.

WIFE OF SUSPECT FREED BY POLICE

Declare She Had No Connection With Case; Goes Back to Her Bronx Home.

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Police today released Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, blond, blue-eyed wife of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, formally charged with the extortion of the $50,000 Lindbergh kidnaping ransom, from custody and declared that she had "absolutely" no connection with the case.

The woman was released this morning after a day and night of questioning by police and went immediately to her home at 1279 E. 222nd street, the Bronx, where police had found the part of the ransom money. Asked directly if she had any connection with the case, by Deputy Chief Inspector Henry E. Bruchman, of the Bronx, replied: "Absolutely not."

Nephew With Her
Mrs. Hauptmann was accompanied by her nephew when she left the office of the district attorney of Bronx county this morning. She was taken by police yesterday to the Greenwich street police station and questioned for some hours before it was known that she was in the hands of the police. First knowledge that she had been questioned by police was

SHORTS ARRESTED ON INCITING CHARGE

Head of Local Union Is Said to Have Urged Pickets to Do Injury.

Arthur Shorts, president of Local 2125, UTWA, of this town, was arrested by State Police yesterday afternoon near the Brookside Mills in South Glastonbury on a warrant signed by Prosecutor Clifford H. Bell of the Glastonbury Town Court on a charge of inciting to injury of persons or property. This is the most serious charge brought against a striker in Connecticut since the walkout of the textile workers three weeks ago.

The offense, alleged to have been committed in the presence of two state policemen during a period of picketing of the Brookside Woolen Company in the Hopewell section of Glastonbury, carries with it a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison, a $5,000 fine or both.

Case Continued
Shorts was arraigned in Glastonbury Town Court at 7:30 last night and the case was continued under bonds of $500, for trial Saturday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, before Judge Henry H. Hunt. Four Rockville men were arrested on less serious charges during the disturbance at the Glastonbury mill. Shorts was arrested when he appeared at the town court session in the interests of the four Rockville men. The warrant was made out previous to his appearance at court last night but police were unable to locate him at his home in this town.

Policeman's Story
Shorts is accused, according to the State Police, of urging picketers to set upon mill workers after they had left the protection of police near the mill. State Policeman Patrick J. O'Toole, describing the incident, said that he overheard a group of young men say they would "get" some of the workers when they left the vicinity of the mill. The group, four Rockville men, Peter Gillick, 14 Oak street, Charles Hart, 21, of the Rockville Hotel; Howard Winchell, 24, of 81 Vernon street; and Joseph Fetko, 23, of 18 Oak street, all of Rockville, got into a car, O'Toole said, and he and State Policeman Albin W. Beckie followed them in a police car.

O'Toole said that the picket's car,

JAPAN TYPHOON KILLS HUNDREDS IN THE CITIES

67 Schoolhouses in Asaka Collapse, Trains Wrecked, in 90 Mile Tempest, Worst Known in a Generation.

Tokyo, Sept. 21.—(AP)—The most destructive typhoon in a generation lashed the teeming cities in the heart of Japan today, leaving 1,346 known dead, more than 4,203 injured, and scores missing. Newspapers estimate that Osaka city alone suffered damages of 300,000,000 yen—about $90,000,000.

The bitterest tragedy was enacted in the flimsily built schoolhouses of Osaka and Kyoto where the children were just beginning their lessons when the gale roared up from the south to death-dealing fury. The governor of Osaka reported that in Osaka City, 67 schoolhouses collapsed, killing 421 pupils and teachers and injuring 1,100. Outside the schools of Osaka, 96 were killed and 617 injured. Four thousand buildings were destroyed, including 500 factories and warehouses.

The death toll in Kyoto was 103 and there 352 were injured and 523 buildings destroyed. Osaka faced a night of darkness. Her electric plants were out of commission; there were no street cars or newspapers. Her waterworks were badly damaged. Thousands of homes were without drinking water and reservists began hauling water into the city in trucks.

The picture of the morning's horror in Osaka and Kyoto is still fragmentary for communications were disrupted. It is known, however, that the seas swept in with tidal wave proportions, drowning many in the low-lying areas of the coastal villages in the Prefecture of Osaka.

The insane asylum on the outskirts of Osaka was washed away and its 60 inmates were missing. The big hospital in Osaka was inundated and destroyed and it was believed that between 40 and 50 of its inhabitants were drowned. The railways between Nagoya and Okayama were disrupted. Nine of their trains were either derailed or overturned. The worst train wreck was near Otsu where a passenger train was overturned, killing 10 persons and injuring 165.

The Central Meteorological Observatory at Tokyo reported that the typhoon averaged 90 miles an hour at many points for a period of one-half hour. The Osaka observatory reported that the velocity momentarily reached 120 miles an hour.

The typhoon roared northward along the coast of the Sea of Japan. Tokyo was spared its main force, although the gale blew down five hangars in the Heneas Air-drome in a suburb of Tokyo, destroying airplanes. There was other minor damage to the capital.

N. Y. POLICE HEAD QUILTS HIS POST

Gen. John F. O'Ryan Resigns and Lewis Valentine Is Named to Succeed Him.

New York, Sept. 21.—(AP)—Chief Inspector Lewis Valentine today was appointed police commissioner to succeed General John F. O'Ryan a few hours after O'Ryan announced his resignation. Mayor F. H. LaGuardia announced the appointment. General O'Ryan resigned as of the end of his vacation and indicated that he will continue in office until the present phase of the Lindbergh kidnap case—the arrest and investigation of Bruno Hauptmann as the receiver of the $50,000 ransom money—is cleared up.

No date was mentioned by the mayor, but he said that such an arrangement would be satisfactory to him. The resignation was submitted to Mayor LaGuardia September 13, which was primary election day. Other Resignations
On the same day Commissioner O'Ryan disclosed two of his aides also resigned. They are First Deputy Commissioner Harold Fowler and Second Deputy Commissioner Harold Allen. Mayor LaGuardia has accepted all three resignations. O'Ryan who commanded the 27th Division in the World War was named Commissioner of Police when

CURLEY NOMINATED FOR GOVERNORSHIP

Defeats Charles H. Cole in Bay State; Republicans Name Lt. Gov. Bacon.

Boston, Sept. 21.—(AP)—James M. Curley, three times mayor of Boston, original Roosevelt man in Massachusetts and ardent champion of the New Deal, swept to victory in yesterday's state-wide primary to become the Democratic gubernatorial nominee. He defeated Charles H. Cole, special ally of Governor Jos. B. Ely, Democrat and outspoken critic of the New Deal, by a sweeping majority.

Leut. Gov. Gaspar G. Bacon, who like Ely, has been vigorous in his criticism of many measures of the National administration, defeated Frank A. Goodman, former state registrar of motor vehicles for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. United States Senator David Walsh, seeking re-nomination swept aside opposition of two opponents. The Republican Senatorial nominee is Robert Morris Washburn, 66-year-old former Legislator newspaper columnist.

Second Man On Ticket
John W. Haigis of Greenfield, former state treasurer and newspaper publisher will be the second man on the Republican state ticket. He was unopposed. Incomplete returns indicated that Joseph L. Hurley, 36-year-old Fall River attorney had won the nomination for lieutenant governor on the Democratic state ticket over Francis E. Kelly of Boston.

Officials of United Textile Workers Say Strike May Be Ended by Tomorrow; Pleased With Report of President's Board; Executive Council Calls Conference.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
President Roosevelt made a personal appeal today for peace in the textile strike.
In a declaration made public through a secretary at Hyde Park, the Summer White House, he expressed hope "that all employees now out on strike will return to work and that a textile manufacturer will take back employees without discrimination."
His statement formally approved the peace proposal laid before him yesterday by the Special Board of Inquiry headed by Governor Winant of New Hampshire.

In Washington, heads of the United Textile Workers met to consider the proposal.
A major recommendation for the peace report was the appointment of a textile labor relations board to protect labor's rights.
Carolina textile workers and mill owners prepared for another "big push." The new offensive was expected to start Monday.

207 Are Arrested
In Georgia, 207 persons were held in connection with the strike. A threat of a universal strike, if the textile walkout is unsuccessful, was heard last night in Macon, Ga., in an address by Paul W. Fuller, educational director of the United Textile Workers.

Fuller predicted that if the strike fails, a resolution for a general strike would be presented at the coming convention of the American Federation of Labor.
State police carrying riot guns dispersed a crowd from the Rumme-made, worsened, at Clifton Heights, near Philadelphia, after a skirmish. Nine men were arrested.

The northern strike front in general was quiet, but the first National Guard unit reported in Massachusetts in connection with the strike stood guard in East Hampton, outside the Hampton Company mills.

Demobilization of Connecticut troops continued, but in 10 cases, 900 Guardsmen were under orders to "prepare for any eventuality."

CONDITIONS IN STATE
By ASSOCIATED PRESS
The breaking of windows by textile strikers or sympathizers in two mills in northeastern Connecticut today failed to halt the demobilization of another State National Guard company.

The disturbances took place at the Grovesend mills in North Grovesend where 300 picketers paraded when the mill reopened two of its mills and the Uncais mill in Mechanicville, which never closed.

State police on guard at the mills, failed to make any arrests, and aside from the window breaking, the picketing was carried on in an orderly manner throughout the strike area in Connecticut. In both cases the windows were shattered by rocks but no other damage was done.
More than 125 of the 1,450 workers normally employed at the Grovesend mill reported for work today in the carding and finishing departments. The threat of so many picketers to the grounds sent Labor Commissioner Joseph M. Tons to the scene.

Significant Move The fact that Hauptmann, 35 years old, was turned over last night to Bronx county authorities after being held in New York headquarters for many hours, was seen by some as an indication that the authorities have not been able to connect Hauptmann with the original crime.

On the other hand there was an opinion current among police officers who for two years have hunted the baby killer, that hinted there might be more to the story than was being revealed.

Case Against Suspect The case against Hauptmann, given out by Commissioner Thompson on Monday, was not as full as has been reported.

They have a persuasive way with them, those cops. Whether or not the report of the Winant mediation board is regarded by both sides as settling the way for an immediate settlement of the textile strike it is beyond doubt that the report puts its finger on vital defects in previous negotiations between the textile manufacturers and their employees—failure to bring about an effective recognition of the so-called present union.

Cracking The Crime Of The Century

This modest home, in thinly populated area of Bronx borough, New York City, was the center of feverish police activities before Bernard Hauptmann was arrested in connection with the kidnaping and murder of the infant son of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh two and a half years ago. The little building is right around which the throng of people is gathered in the Lindbergh ransom money was found.

"JAFSIE" JUBILANT OVER COUP

Dr. John P. Cundon, the Lindbergh intermediary known as "Jafsie", is jubilant when he is shown in the photograph above. He is pictured at left, in discussion with a detective in the prospect of clearing up the Lindbergh ransom money mystery. He is shown at right, in discussion with a detective in the prospect of clearing up the Lindbergh ransom money mystery.

DETECTIVES FIND RANSOM MONEY IN GARAGE

Hot on the trail of the first conclusive evidence in the Lindbergh kidnaping mystery, operatives sped to the home of Bernard Richard Hauptmann, key suspect in an outlying section of New York City, where they found a man who had been seen in the vicinity of the Lindbergh garage, and since has viewed hundreds of suspects in an effort to identify them.

CHILD WHOSE TRAGIC END STIRRED WORLD

The spectacular manner in which the crime was committed, the fame of his father, the mystery of the ransom money and the final tragic discovery of his murder focused national attention on the kidnaping of young Charles Lindbergh, Jr., from his parents' home near Hopewell, N. J., in 1932. To avenge his death the police of New York and New Jersey federal agents maintained a two-and-a-half-year vigil that led to the capture of Bernard Hauptmann and part of the ransom money.

HERE'S KEY EVIDENCE IN LINDY CASE

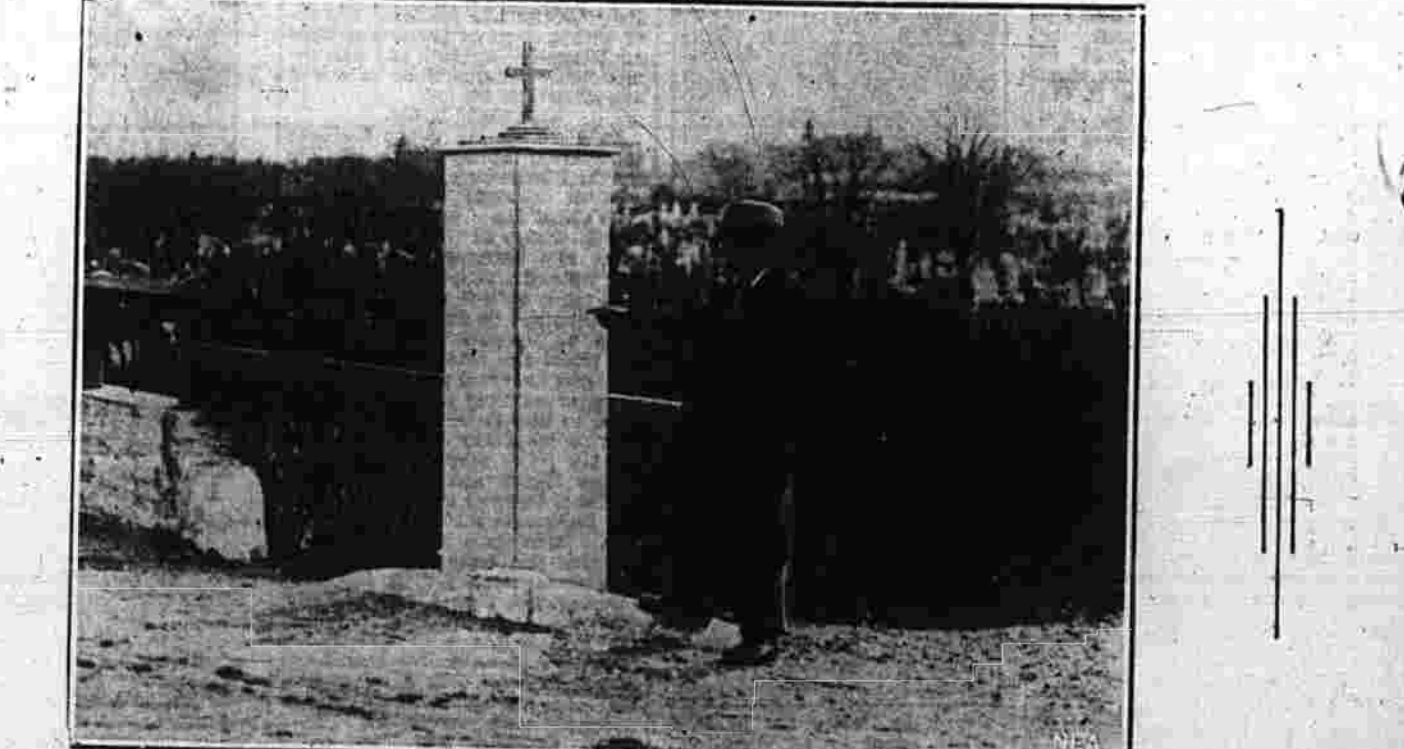

Spread out on the table for examination and checking by police and Federal officials is $13,750 in bills, identified as part of the $50,000 ransom money paid for the Lindbergh kidnaping. The man in the car is Bernard Hauptmann, arrested as the kidnaping suspect, kept his car.

COUPLE HELD AS SUSPECTS

Held with Bernard Richard Hauptmann for questioning in connection with the finding of Lindbergh ransom money in his garage is a young couple, shown above in the photograph. They were seen on a seaside outing. The couple are the parents of a young son, Bruno.

WHERE "JAFSIE" PAID FOR BABY'S RETURN

The $50,000 in ransom currency, which later was to point to solution of the Lindbergh baby kidnaping, was delivered to the kidnappers in March, 1932, at the spot pictured above. While Col. Charles A. Lindbergh waited nearby, Dr. John P. Cundon, an intermediary, passed the money over the hedge of St. Raymond's Cemetery in the Bronx, N. Y., to a man whom police believe was Dr. R. K. Hauptmann, now under arrest.

ANNOUNCE WEST SIDE LOOP BATTING, FIELDING MARKS

The individual batting and fielding records of players in the West Side League were announced today. Compiled from figures obtained from Bert McCleary, official scorer, it is virtually impossible to name the leader in either department, due to the difference in the number of games in which the players participated.

Eight Over 300 Markers
In batting, the Bluebirds had five players hitting better than 300. Chucky Smith topped the list with a percentage of .366 with eight singles in 22 trips to the plate. Krovic and Bob Smith, Purrell and Kovis complete the quintet.

Willinson Was the Only Member of the West Sides to gain the credit of a circle, hitting .333 with two hits in six attempts, while the Catholic Club had two players over the mark. Goodie batting .700 with three hits in four attempts and Pitt .500 with three hits in six attempts.

Fielding Stars
Big George Hanovitsky of the West Sides hit at a .592 clip and added 183, handling 74 chances with three errors. The West Sides led in the number of players with perfect fielding percentages, seven in all, while the Bluebirds and Catholic had six apiece. Outstanding among the 1,000 percenters were Gustafson of the West Sides, who batted .700, Burkhardt of the Catholic Club, Smith, both of the Bluebirds, who batted .667 each.

The complete list of averages in batting and fielding follows:

$1,000,000 DAILY COST OF WALKOUTS Textile Strike Adds New Chapter to 423 Year of Strikes.

By BALDER WINOGET New York.—(AP)—A survey of economic factors in the general strike indicates it is "costing" roughly $1,000,000 each working day.

Wages lost by strikers and those forced out of work by closed mills.

Payments to millhands by state. Wages of special guards paid by mill cities and counties.

Cost of munitions. Damage to property. Interest on the investment in closed mills.

Loss on cancelled orders. "War chest" expenditures by both sides.

Losses to allied industries such as transportation.

But while some individuals are seen as "hoarding" a certain amount daily, others are seen as "raising" that same amount.

The estimated $23,000 employees not receiving weekly pay envelopes as a result of the strike.

While there is some dispute over the exact wages paid to textile workers, the bureau of labor statistics shows cotton textile workers received a weekly average pay of $10.67 in June, the last date for which figures are available.

The figures are based on a detailed working conditions.

Manufacturers claim that a recent survey showed states are paying roughly $7,000 a day to about 11,000 millionaires in the field at that time.

State payments for munitions go into pockets of manufacturers.

One manufacturer of guns and gas shells told a senate committee his business has increased 10 to 20 per cent since the beginning of the strike.

As far as the cotton textile industry itself is concerned, officials observing the situation closely believe little actual economic damage is being done at the moment.

The longer the strike continues, the more serious the situation might become.

TAKE X RAY PICTURES OF RAILROAD TRACKS

Electric Detector Car Examining Every Inch of Rails Internally for Hidden Flaws.

What amounts to an X-ray picture of the entire system of the New Haven railroad is being taken this month for the purpose of discovering any internal flaws or fractures in the steel, which are invisible to the human eye.

In keeping with the best in railway practice, every bit of the New Haven track system is examined every day in the year by track walkers whose eyes are trained to detect whatever visible and external flaws may have developed in the steel.

Each track walker has a specified section of rail which he inspects thoroughly every day. Some of the rails which he inspects are being developed internally which even skilled inspection cannot detect.

By using this car, the chance of broken rails, caused by internal flaws in the steel is practically eliminated.

Port Williams, N. H.—(AP)—A 1934 model Buick sedan, which was used in the investigation of the fatal crash of the New Haven from the American.

The detector car moves over the rails at a speed of about six miles an hour under its own power, sending a current through three parallel steel rods which are in contact beneath the car, causing a magnetic field to be set up in the rail.

Electric coils, which are connected to the magnetic field, cause a flow of current. The "pick-up" coils are amplified so that variations in the current apparatus.

Pen points operating on a roll of paper moving at a corresponding rate in the car are mounted electrically to mark on the roll the location of the defects if any.

CUTS IN FREIGHT RATES STIMULATE TRUCK SALES

Newly Announced Reductions by Ford Gravitating Stimulus to Deliveries.

Announcement from the Ford Motor Company at Detroit, to the effect that substantial reductions in the freight rate on trucks went into effect September 15 has been received by both dealers and truck buyers in the New England district with considerable gratification.

While there have been no changes in Ford truck prices of the average Ford truck, the new freight reduction, applied to delivery prices at the point of sale, are sufficiently attractive to suggest that early delivery orders from New England fleet buyers and individual purchasers will be greatly stimulated.

It is reported that the factory has been working for some time to secure authorization of a freight rate reduction on Ford truck equipment of lower delivered prices.

Local dealers commenting upon the new reduction suggest that this revision entitled their merchandise more than ever to be termed "America's Great Truck Value."

BUSINESS LEADERS LACK CONFIDENCE

Cause Charged to Acts and Policies of Administration, Survey Shows.

Point Spring, Mo., Sept. 21.—Responsibility for the current "lack of confidence" in business rests squarely upon the acts and policies of the administration to Washington in the opinion of the overwhelming majority of New England business executives who responded to the canvass of business opinion in these states just completed by the New England Council.

A total of 503 responses were received to the recent inquiry addressed to the 150 members of the New England Council by President Henry D. Sharp of Providence. Of these, 78 per cent reported "lack of confidence" in relation to their own business; 18.5 per cent reported "no lack of confidence" in relation to their own business.

A total of 94 per cent reported "lack of confidence" in relation to general business. The remaining 6 per cent reported "no lack of confidence."

Summarizing the returns, the New England Council found four major causes for "lack of confidence" which listed in order of frequency of mention are:

1.—Excessive expenditures, borrowings, unbalanced budgets.

2.—Government interference with and control of business; regulations.

3.—Disturbance of President's orders.

4.—Unsettled monetary policy.

5.—Excessive expenditures, borrowings, unbalanced budgets.
