SEVEN MEXICAN HORSE THIEVES DIE IN BATTLE

Scenes of Old West Enacted Along the Mexican Border; American Cowboys Hand Out Justice.

Alpha, Tex., Sept. 22.—(AP)—Seven Mexican vandals are dead—victims of "six-shooter justice"—that a band of Texas cowboys invoked in recovering a herd of horses stolen from a Texas border ranch.

The vandals were brought down by range riders from the desert and then country after they had crossed the Rio Grande river into Mexico. Surviving members of the rustling gang are serving terms in Mexican prisons after speedy trials.

Like the Old West

The heated report of the raid, reminiscent of the old west came from A. F. Robinson, superintendent of a CCC camp, in the vicinity of here. He talked with Elmo Johnson, Brewster county rancher and leader of the cowboy posse, and relayed the story here.

The Mexican cow hands swept across the Rio Grande and made a midnight raid on Johnson's ranch. They rounded up his entire herd of range horses and drove them across the river into Mexico. Johnson immediately organized a posse of cowboys from adjoining ranches.

Thieves Pursued

Across the Rio Grande the posse rode in pursuit of the thieves. A band of Mexican Federal horsemen met them and joined in the search. Hours later they encountered the rustlers and a gun fight ensued and then a surrender.

The posse drove the horses back to Texas, the soldiers took their prisoners to a nearby village where the thieves were held. The owners sentenced to 30 years each in a western Mexican penitentiary.

Johnson, picture-show teacher and prominent in the colorful Big Bend section is held in high esteem by Mexican authorities across the border.

GOVERNOR TRACES HADDAM'S HISTORY

State's Chief Executive is the Principal Speaker at the Town's Anniversary.

East Haddam, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Gov. Wilbur L. Cross today traced the history of East Haddam down through two centuries in his address here today which was feature of the 200th anniversary celebration.

The governor told the beginnings of the settlement, which later was incorporated as the Town of Haddam, and said it was the name of the first settler, John Haynes, the first governor of Connecticut Colony who belonged to a family of Great Haddam in Hartfordshire, England.

Referring to the celebration the governor said:

"I congratulate you on the honor you would pay to the spirit of your ancestors whose bodies lay fallen in dust in your graveyards. This is for them a reconstruction day."

The governor asserted:

"Many of your ancestors fought throughout the War of Independence and there was for example, Ephraim Chapin, the commissary general for the United States Army who came to George Washington's rescue and purchased sufficient cattle to come to the aid of the little army at Valley Forge, which was the first winter of the Revolution."

"You take a just pride in the fact that Nathan Hale once lived here over a few months as teacher in the little red schoolhouse at Goddard Landing. He was an athlete, quick in the jump, just the young man to manage unruly boys by his frank and persuasive manner of dealing with them. I often wonder what would be the career of Nathan Hale had not given his life to his country."

"God filled East Haddam with the security of wooded hills and valleys and streams. A great part of the wealth leading up to this anniversary was made out of this hearing. I hope there will come fireproof interest in the money not yet accounted for."

Remains Identified

In Hopewell, N. J., pictures of Hauptmann were identified by Theodore Kuchta, watchman at the Lindbergh house during the construction in 1933, as "very much like" a man who wanted to go through the house at that time. Kuchta said he told the stranger it was against the rules, whereupon the man wanted and lifeboat drills, and instruction of passengers in the use of lifeboats.

NEW KAMINSKI TRAIL LEADS TO WOODS AT VERNON DEPOT

Strike's End Tonight Regarded as Likely

The termination of the great textile strike pending the getting into effect of the new machinery for the permanent settlement of all controversial questions in the allied industries depended today on the determination of the meeting of the executive council of the United Textile Workers of America to be held this afternoon at Washington.

Associated Press reports from the National capital were to the effect that a favorable decision on the return of the workers to their jobs, on the part of the executive council, was strongly indicated by the attitude and statements of the labor leaders gathered for the meeting.

Prospects were said to be bright that the strike would end tonight, despite the fact that the Cotton Textile Institute had so far declined to commit itself fully to the President's admonition that all strikers should be re-employed without discrimination.

Compliance with the President's proposal by the Silk Textile Industry was promised without reservation in a communication issued last night by Peter Van Horn, head of the Silk Code Authority, following the permanent settlement of all controversial questions in the allied industries depended today on the determination of the meeting of the executive council of the United Textile Workers of America to be held this afternoon at Washington.

LINKS OF EVIDENCE NOW BEING FORGED IN LINDBERGH CASE

Extortion Charge to Stand Against Hauptmann; Suspect Also Connected With Ladder Used in Kidnaping; Federal Agents Continue Tracing Ransom Money.

New York, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Investigators concentrated today on forging together links of evidence into a final solution of the kidnaping and slaying of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

They already have woven an "ironclad" extortion case around Bruno Richard Hauptmann, stolon German carpenter, in whose possession part of the $50,000 Lindbergh ransom money was found.

Further they had connected Hauptmann with the ladder used in lifting the Lindbergh baby from the bedroom from which he was kidnaped on a dark night in March, 1932.

The authorities sought to forge stronger chain of evidence here they built up in one of the Nation's most spectacular crimes.

Hauptmann, the 35 year old alien, who was arrested after a $10 bill he used to pay for gasoline was identified as part of the ransom money was subjected to further study questioning until early this morning by District Attorney Samuel J. Foley of the Bronx. At the conclusion of the questioning, Foley said: "I feel satisfied we have an iron clad case in the Bronx."

That, he made clear, applied to the extortion charges on which Hauptmann is held. As far as the kidnaping and homicide is concerned, Foley said, "New Jersey will have to speak for itself."

New Jersey with an extradition warrant already issued against Hauptmann will proceed, Governor Harry A. Moore said, "when the evidence warrants it."

Information that the carpenter was definitely connected with the ransom ladder came from Col. Norman F. Schwartzkopf, head of the New Jersey state police, who said that Hauptmann had worked in the Bronx lumber yard where the ransom ladder used to build the Lindbergh baby was carried to his death. This Schwartzkopf admitted is one of the most serious pieces of evidence in the case.

Following Hauptmann's arrest in the police lineup that he had played the Stock Market in 1932, police and Federal investigators turned to Wall Street for an answer to the question of what became of the money not yet accounted for.

150 MINERS TRAPPED; 16 BODIES RECOVERED

Fear All Dead Following Explosion in Wales—Pitiful Scenes Enacted at Mouth of Mine.

Wrexham, Wales, Sept. 22.—(AP)—A terrific explosion and raging fire trapped 150 miners deep in the pits of the Grantham Colliery. Nine hours later 16 bodies had been recovered and two seriously injured men rescued by valiant volunteers against the searing flames. Five escaped unharmed.

Pitiful scenes were enacted at the mouth of the mine as the wives and children of the workers gathered in a teeming rain to watch the rescue efforts.

The chief of the Wrexham fire brigade said there was little hope of rescuing the men. His brigade was unable to pour water on the flames, far from the mine entrance.

Physicians and nurses from the surrounding countryside, hopeful of rescues, gathered at the pithead and established headquarters in a nearby home.

As a further barrier against the efforts of the rescue workers, huge rocks crashed into the mine after the explosion. Several rescue workers suffered from gas poisoning and were removed to the repair shed for treatment.

Gas Means Death

As time passed, with volunteers unable to combat the flames with water, chemicals, sand and stone dust, fear was expressed that the trapped miners would succumb to a fatal damp if they escaped the flames.

There were nearly 400 men in the mine.

READY TO RECALL LAST OF MILITIA

By Nightfall All of State Troops Will Be Out of the Strike Areas.

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 22.—(AP)—With National Guard troops moving rapidly out of the textile strike areas in Connecticut today, airplanes and trucks were being recalled to needy strikers.

Evidence to Be Presented to Sec. Roper Today; To Recall Morro Castle Officers.

CHENEY MILLS TO OPEN IN RESPONSE TO PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S APPEAL

President Roosevelt yesterday issued a personal appeal to the textile strikers and manufacturers to end immediately the textile strike. This appeal read as follows:

"In formally approving the report submitted to me by the Board of Inquiry for the cotton textile industry I want to express the very sincere hope that all employees now out on strike will return to work and that all textile manufacturers will take back the employees without discrimination. At the same time I am confident that manufacturers will aid the government in the carrying out of the steps outlined."

Settlement of the problems involved will be reached with the exercise of a spirit of co-operation and fair play on both sides."

We shall wholeheartedly give our co-operation to the President and will open all the mills on Monday morning at the usual time.

CHENEY BROTHERS,
WARD CHENEY,
President.

FRESH EVIDENCE FOUND THAT INDICATES THE FUGITIVE SLAYER WAS IN THAT AREA EARLY THIS MORNING—FOODSTUFF TAKEN FROM ONE HOME—SCOURING DENSELY WOODED SECTION ALONG RAILROAD TRACKS—MAY USE AIRPLANES IN SEARCH—ALSO CONSIDER DROPPING TEAR GAS BOMBS IN EFFORT TO DRIVE HUNTED YOUTH OUT OF HIDING.

Western Massachusetts, Lieutenant Raymond P. Gallagher of the Springfield police department and Mr. Moriarty's bodyguard at the home of Patrolman Joseph Prentiss on Lake street, at the Manchester-Bolton line.

Mobile Force

The result of this conference brought out a mobilization call for additional members of the Massachusetts state police and the Springfield police department. Twelve sharpshooters from the Springfield department answered the call to arms.

Search for Alexander Kaminski, fugitive Springfield jail guard arrested before noon today at the railroad tracks between Vernon Depot and Bolton Notch at noon today as fresh evidence of the elusive New Britain youth were found leading to the section.

A bowl which had been taken from the Tyler home and which had been filled with soup was found about 300 feet away from the house and towards the railroad tracks. It was found that the fingerprints were of the same value. There were evidences that someone had been in the now abandoned Vernon railroad station.

Footprints showed that the pursued slayer is wearing shoes. This fact checked with the discovery that a pair of shoes was missing from George Anderson's garage on Finley street where Kaminski also stole an automobile. A pair of rubber boots thought taken by the hunted man was found later at the Anasid home.

Determined to find Kaminski if it takes all winter the state police are considering sending the airplanes and trucks to needy strikers.

As a further barrier against the efforts of the rescue workers, huge rocks crashed into the mine after the explosion. Several rescue workers suffered from gas poisoning and were removed to the repair shed for treatment.

TYPHOON'S DEATHS PLACED AT 1,619

Property Damage Estimated at 300 Millions—Many Thousands Are Injured.

Tokyo, Sept. 22.—(AP)—Shaken by the ravages of a typhoon, described as the second greatest catastrophe of modern Japan, the Empire today counted at least 1,619 dead and the nation's manufacturing areas laid in ruins.

Ripening rice fields fell before the scrambling gale in the farm areas and officials estimated the crop would be reduced 20 per cent.

Opposite the court house at the center between 7 and 8 o'clock last night, it appeared as if the whole town had turned out to witness the departure of more than 100 state policemen from Massachusetts' and the Connecticut, 12 crack marksmen from the Springfield police department and the best shots that Police Chief Samuel Gordon could press into duty.

Information available at the United States Embassy indicated serious Americans were injured or suffered serious injuries.

"Only land casualties could be estimated there being no attempt to compute the loss of life at sea. Official completion numbers showed 4,975 injured and hundreds missing."

In the harbor of Osaka where hundreds of small craft, foundered or were buried to the shore, at least 100 drowned. Hundreds of fishermen may have been lost according to Rengo Japanese dispatches, as 2,300 fishing craft failed to return to Shikoku island.

The popular textile region of Osaka reported 1,047 dead, 3,000 injured and 181 missing.

STANFORD MAY REPEAT—BUT WATCH THE BEARS!

Northwest Threatens to Surprise in Pacific Coast Race This Year; Spaulding Doubts Any Team Will Be Undeated.

By BILL SPAULDING

Los Angeles, Sept. 22.—As the 1934 football season is about to open, there is no possible way to forecast the outcome of the Pacific Coast Conference race. Any one of four or five teams may find itself in the front row at the end of the season. It is doubtful whether any one team can go through undefeated.

Stanford was the leading team in the far west last season, and followed by the Indians. This has been their year again. They have high hopes for the fact that, if the sophomore team of 1933 drove to a record of 10-0, the champion team of this year should be able to perform similarly.

California has the best material since the days of its wonder teams. The Big Ten team has a good line, both on offense and defense. The Bruins have a fine backfield. The Bruins have a fine backfield. The Bruins have a fine backfield.

Southern California, even though losing such men as Youel, Palmer, and Case, now has a team that is as good as any in the west. The Bruins have a fine backfield. The Bruins have a fine backfield.

They are counting on Jimmy Pheasant to come through at Washington. Pheasant has played some of the best football in spots in the west. Pheasant has played some of the best football in spots in the west.

The Bruins may be a hard team to beat this year on account of the loss of such men as Muryan, and the best backs on the coast. Durkin, who went to Army a year ago, will be back at left half. It is questionable whether Pheasant can replace Smith, a great end, and develop a line equal to last year's.

Stanford is the team that tied the Bruins last year, and is expected to be even stronger this fall. Last year was Coach Lonk's system probably will be working more smoothly.
