FOUR BILLIONS ASKED FOR RELIEF OF IDLE

President in Message Forecasts New Public Debt Peak of 34 Billion; Unable to Balance Budget.

Washington, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A four billion dollar work relief fund was asked of Congress today by President Roosevelt in a message forecasting a new peak public debt of $34,239,000,000 on June 30, 1936.

Declaring unemployment alone blocked a balanced budget, he envisaged an evening of government expenditures and receipts "as rapidly as private industry is able to re-employ those who now are without work."

This second financial accounting of the New Deal, read separately to the Senate and House, allowed for the spending of $17,101,000,000 in the two year fiscal period that ends 18 months hence.

The President's request for $4,000,000,000 was coupled with the recommendation that the money be "in one sum, subject to allocation" by himself. This phase of the budget was expected to stir Congressional controversy.

Total Asked For The total asked for the year beginning next July 1, was $8,520,413,609 with receipts estimated at $3,991,904,639. This would mean a $4,528,508,970 deficit, compared with $4,869,418,338 expected for the year closing next June.

Congress was informed the government's income would meet all expenditures except those "to give work to the unemployed." Mr. Roosevelt did not "consider it advisable at this time" to propose new taxes, but asked the continuation of existing levies.

To newspapermen the President said there was no need for "inflation" to finance his huge 1936 budget. The Treasury planned to borrow needed funds. But he warned simultaneously that extra appropriations by Congress must be paid for with next taxes. Significantly, there was no budget provision for cashing the $2,100,000,000 soldiers bonus. Friends of that payment plan to press for it regardless.

Still Many Jobless The goal set a year ago for balancing the budget in the 1936 fiscal period was a peak debt of $31,800,000,000 was recalled by the President with the remark: "Unemployment is still large."

"The states and local units," he continued now provide a smaller proportionate share of relief than a year ago and the Federal government has therefore called upon to aid in this necessary work.

"For this reason it is evident that (Continued on Page Three)

LOUISIANANS ASK LONG TO ABDICATE

Standard Oil Co. Employees Threaten to Take Action On the Dictatorship.

Baton Rouge, La., Jan. 7.—(AP)—The "Square Deal Association," formed at a mass meeting of several hundred Standard Oil Company employees and citizens, has ordered Senator Huey Long to abdicate his dictatorship in Louisiana.

The group telegraphed Governor O. K. Allen Long's lieutenant, and members of the Legislature last night, promising "action" if steps were not taken within 10 days to repeal dictatorial laws.

Long, meanwhile, was ready to take the Senate floor in Washington to air his differences with President Roosevelt.

Speakers at last night's meeting denounced the Senator and state officials, called an expanded mass meeting for Wednesday night and charged that Long kept 25 machine gunners in the State House to "shoot you down and say you are a rebel."

Protested Oil Tax The meeting grew out of a gathering of Standard Oil employees Saturday night under the chairmanship of John R. Norton, secretary of the employees committee, in protest over the oil tax.

Norton's group disbanded after Long said an agreement had been reached with the company whereby most of the 1,000 employees dismissed last week would be re-employed. He had agreed, he said, to re-employ (Continued on Page Three)

FRANCE AND ITALY REACH AGREEMENT

May Mean Return of Germany to League—Is Big Step Toward Peace.

Rome, Jan. 7.—(AP)—A possible return to the League of Nations by Germany was seen today as an effect of a far-reaching Franco-Italian agreement reached by Foreign Minister Pierre Laval and Premier Mussolini.

Observers believed Germany and France might make an understanding whereby Berlin would sign a non-intervention accord and re-enter the League in return for France's legalizing the rearmament she asserts Germany already has achieved.

High officials said they felt the Franco-Italian accord constituted a great stride toward insurance of peace in Europe.

Reach Full Accord. A full agreement was reached by Laval and his French guest last night after a lengthy conversation. Its principle features are a joint declaration to preserve the independence of Austria, a five or six power pact of non-interference and, finally, provisions for colonial concessions between the two nations in Africa.

There was a general feeling of relief among French and Italian officials over the happy result of the talks.

No official communique on the accord has been issued. Laval emerged smiling last night from the Farnese Palace, in which he had been conferring with Mussolini, to tell a group of French and Italian war veterans "I am glad to tell you Premier Mussolini and I now are in complete accord."

The accord will be signed tonight, it was announced today, and an official communique will be issued giving the nature of the agreement in general terms.

Previously Rep. Higgins had written President Roosevelt asking that a protest be sent to Mexico against (Continued on Page Seven)

Roraback Acts to Stop Deal With Democrats

REPUBLICAN LEADER CALLS MEETING OF G. O. P. SENATORS TO OFFSET ANY MOVE OF OLD GUARD DEMOCRATS.

Hartford, Jan. 7.—(AP)—J. Henry Roraback, Republican state chairman, has moved to stop a reported deal on Senate organization between Senators of his own party and Old Guard Democrats. It was reliably stated today.

The fifteen Republican Senators have been summoned to a meeting at state headquarters in the Allyn House tomorrow at 4 p. m., before they caucus later in the evening to nominate their own slate of Senate officers.

At this meeting, it is understood, the 15 Senators will be whipped into line against any deals with the Democratic faction led by Thomas J. Spellacy. This order, it was said, will come directly from Mr. Roraback himself, who has now taken command of the situation. Mr. Roraback is known to be opposed to Republican support of the Democratic slate by any member of his party as a result of Governor Cross' open rebuke to his own party and because of general sentiment among Republicans against any policy that would bring criticism to their party.

Reason For Call Persistent reports that two Republican Senators were willing to break from their party in support of the Democratic slate after a few preliminary ballots are said to have prompted the call for a conference. It is now predicted that the Republicans have reason to expect that they will be able to organize the Senate themselves with the aid of the three Socialists. The Socialists are known to be opposed to the Democratic slate as now constituted.

The success of the Democratic slate is said to depend on the ability of Mr. Spellacy and his allies to deliver two Republican votes either in an open vote or by abuse, as when a vote is taken on Wednesday morning. According to reliable information, this state as prepared with a understanding that Mr. Spellacy, assuming the role of inter-party negotiator, would obtain enough Republican support to control the organization of the Upper House.

The plan, however, is said to have been halted when Governor Cross publicly rebuked the Old Guard for naming Senator William E. Hagearty of New Britain as floor leader instead of John C. Blackall, his choice.

VOTE IS STARTED IN SAAR DISTRICT

5,000 Public Employees Cast Ballots as They Must Work Election Day.

Saarbrücken, Saar Basin Territory, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Voting began today in the history-making Saar plebiscite, ordered 15 years ago at Versailles.

Five thousand public employees cast their ballot in a "dress rehearsal" of the mass voting next Sunday. They were allowed to vote early because they must work on the regular election day.

In effect, it was a vote for or against Adolf Hitler, just an army corporal when the powers which won the World War decreed that the Saar, after 15 years of supervision by the League of Nations, should decide to join Germany units with (Continued on Page Seven)

BANKERS PREPARED TO FURNISH FUNDS

See No Trouble in Raising Money Needed by Government Under Present Plan.

New York, Jan. 7.—(AP)—Leading Wall street bankers, after reading the President's budget message today, were mostly of the opinion that the funds necessary to finance the record peace-time outlay of $8,520,000,000 for the 1935-1936 fiscal year would be readily forthcoming from the country's money markets.

It was pointed out that with the excess reserves of the Federal Reserve member banks at the huge total of about $1,800,000,000, of which $600,000,000 is held by New York City banks, the commercial banking institutions are under great pressure to find employment for depositors funds. SAYS SHE TOLD OTHERS OF LINDBERGH'S PLANS

Nursemaid Identifies Her Charge's Garment

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7.—(AP)—

Her voice dulled obviously by grief, Betty Gow, the trim brunette nursemaid who cared for the Lindbergh baby, today identified the shirt she made for him.

Her hands, folded calmly in her lap, showed no emotion, but her voice choked when Attorney General David T. Wilentz asked "is this the shirt?" and she replied: "It is."

She entered the court room with Mrs. Elsie Whately, the Lindbergh cook who finished her own testimony at the close of last Friday's session, and walked down a side aisle behind the prosecution staff. The crowd stared as she sat down.

She wore a brown-squirrel-collared coat and pillbox hat with a jaunty feather. The costume was the same she wore at previous sessions.

She smiled and chatted with Mrs. Whately through the flashing of camera bulbs as she waited for court to open.

Scotch Nurse, Under Cross-Examination, Admits She Spoke About Fact That Couple Had Decided to Remain at Hopewell Over the Week-end.

BULLETIN:

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Betty Gow, nursemaid to the slain baby Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., today identified the garments worn by the baby on its last night in the Lindbergh home, and admitted, under cross-examination, that she "probably" told others of the Lindberghs' movements.

The little Scotch nurse took the stand as a state witness when the Court opened for the second week of the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, Bronx carpenter accused of the murder, and was still undergoing cross-examination when the luncheon recess was taken from 12:30 until 1:45 p. m.

Her direct questioning brought out the finding by her a hundred yards from the Lindbergh home of a thumbguard worn by the baby, a point through which the state hopes to prove the baby was killed in Hunterdon county.

Edward J. Reilly, chief of Hauptmann's defense counsel, added significance to the thumbguard when he held it up and boomed at the nurse: "Are you sure you didn't drop this yourself?"

Did Not Drop It Miss Gow froze into defiance as she shot back the words: "I did not."

She acknowledged to Reilly a probability that she had told "Red" Johnson the Lindberghs planned not to return from Hopewell to Englewood on Monday, February 29, 1932, as they would have done if the baby had been well.

Admits Phone Call She also acknowledged to the defense a telephone call between herself and Johnson the fateful night of March 1. Johnson called her while the Lindberghs dined, she said, in response to a message she had left at his home. She wanted to tell him she could not keep a date.

She told as well of the telephone call to her from Mrs. Lindbergh by which she learned the family was not returning to Englewood because of the baby's cold.

She explained that Mrs. Lindbergh preferred to act as nurse to her own baby during the usual week-end trips to Hopewell. Gow remained at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, in Englewood.

The night of the kidnaping, however, she was in Hopewell, having been summoned by Mrs. Lindbergh. During her testimony for the state the nurse related that when Colonel Lindbergh was apprised of the fact his baby was missing, he procured a rifle, ran into the nursery and cried: "Anne, they've stolen our baby!"

SECOND WEEK OF TRIAL Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Bruno Richard Hauptmann today began the second week of his fight for life as the Lindbergh kidnaper-murderer trial resumed at 10:08 a. m., e. s. l.

Justice Thomas W. Trenchard, the presiding jurist arrived in court twenty-five minutes before convening time and went directly to his chambers where he was closeted for a time with Sheriff John H. Curtiss. The court room filled up rapidly.

The map of the Sourland mountain area and the Lindbergh estate, together with the floor plans of the Lindbergh Hopewell home were again on the rack behind the witness chair.

The jury, surrounded by its coroner of special guards, filed in (Continued on Page Two)

CROWD AROUND EARLY FOR HAUPTMANN TRIAL

Despite Cold Drizzle of Rain First Man Arrives on Scene at 3:15 — Has Long Wait.

Flemington, N. J., Jan. 7.—(AP)—Fog enshrouded Flemington today and an chill drizzle falls over the Sourlands, but the worst weather the town has had since Bruno Richard Hauptmann's trial opened January 2 brings out the most spectators.

At 3:15 a. m. the first courtroom fan arrives. He carries a blanket and wraps his head and shoulders as he rests on the porch of the Eighteenth Century Hunterdon county Courthouse.

At 5:15 a. m. there are six women and nine men in line. They talk and gaze in spite of the weather and the long wait ahead of them.

Steadily, additions to the crowd dripped up the Courthouse steps. An alcholic sign, suspended from one of the white Ionic pillars of the Grecian facade by Sheriff John H. Curtiss informs the spectators that the "line forms here."

But the line quickly swells and like water released suddenly spreads and falls down over the Courthouse steps, and ever widening overflows the sidewalk.

Camera Men Arrive The sound camera trucks are back at the curb. The photographers' flashlight bulbs pop intermittently in the drab light.

The drizzle penetrates the clothes and the shoes. Umbrella blossoms above the head of the spectators. There are people on the sidewalk who don't even bother to stand in line, but loiter here and there in chilled clusters, watching the others.

A state trooper guards the outer Courthouse door. Across the street, spectators line the curbstones, watching, waiting.

Just what inspired so many people to come out on such a miserable morning as this is a matter of speculation.

Newspaper vendors move along the sidewalk. Smoke rises from cigarettes and cigars and pipes in the jam and mingles with the whitish mist.

Only Fifty Allowed Only about 50 of those who did not have special passes had any hope of getting in the courtroom. The sheriff opines that no more passes will be issued after this week.

The crowd becomes boisterous as court opens and with the courtroom filled their hope of getting in fades. They start to shout, those on the steps push their way up and through the ropes.

JOHNSON ARRESTED IN WEST HARTFORD

His Name Brought Up at Hauptmann Trial Revives Interest in Case Here.

Hartford, Jan. 7.—(AP)—The injection of the name of Henry (Red) Johnson, sailor, into the Hauptmann trial again today recalled the part that Hartford County authorities played in the Lindbergh kidnaping in March, 1932.

Johnson, who was arrested here and later deported, was mentioned today in Flemington during the cross examination of Betty Gow by Edward J. Reilly defense counsel. Johnson also was mentioned Jan. 4, during the cross examination of Colonel Lindbergh by Reilly.

Picked Up in State The sailor was picked up in West Hartford on the night of March 4, 1932, and was questioned by State Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn and County Detective Edward J. Hickey.

What interested Hartford county officials most was a statement by Johnson that he had been an inmate friend of Miss Gow, had been in the Lindbergh nursery the week before the kidnaping and had talked with her on the night of the crime.

New Jersey officials came here soon after Johnson was held for questioning and Johnson soon after was taken to that state.
