Public Service Commission to follow up work started by the Congress.

Congressmen told to stop spending.

Declares that nudism is growing in the U.S.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Premier Laval of France, with a "free hand" authorized by his cabinet, went to the quiet of the country to make up his mind as to whether France should support Italy or Great Britain in their opposing stands on the Ethiopian question.

Italian notices added that Italy would not begin war without notifying Great Britain and France. Although the British, French and German ministers have decided to evacuate their remaining national troops from Ethiopia, they pushed ahead their work for the protection of their own legations.

The Germans are constructing a bomb proof dugout on the river near the Legation capable of accommodating 100 persons. The British, French and Greek Legations in Addis Ababa were reported to have armed their nationals that they would have plenty of notice in case hostilities broke out.

John Rockefeller, Jr., heads list with donations of 28 millions in two months. Gifts of some $40,000,000 in securities by corporation directors and stockholders, most of which were made when the program for new and high gift taxes was announced.

Senator Pope, in Paris, says it all depends on action over Ethiopia. The United States would join the League of Nations eventually if the Ethiopian quarrel were settled at Geneva.

Ex-Superior Court Judge is held as a vagrant. The judge will still be a powerful instrument for peace in quarters where the man has been a peace officer.

Henri Barbusse, author, is dead. He talked with Premier Laval last night but said he based his "purely personal" conclusions on general observations in England and France.

Declares that nudism is growing in the U.S. "Nudism has successfully outlived what might be called its age of humorous infancy. The early years of its existence were spent in the movement that we wanted people to go about their daily tasks in public in the nude."

Public Service Commission to follow up work started by the Congress. The commission is to study the various public utility rates and to report to the public.

LABOR NOT HELPED DIRECTLY BY NRA

By JOHN T. FLYNN
sharing, health service, homes for workers at less than cost, a beautiful cottage, golf course, playing fields, playgrounds, libraries, etc. were included in the first two days of the New Deal cooling-off period. But in the end, it is hard to know as the NRA, someone who can not quite say, perhaps it was not the NRA, once a labor economist—remembered the phrasing of an old agreement under an old law in the Pennsylvania coal mines before.

It was not the NRA, once a labor economist—remembered the phrasing of an old agreement under an old law in the Pennsylvania coal mines before. The NRA did not directly do much for labor. But it does have a right to attempt things.

It released a whole group of powerful forces which are now being organized and clamor for attention. There is (1) the old battle of capital against labor, (2) the internal struggle for the industrial union, (3) the struggle of the radical elements in the ranks of labor.

On the other side of the barricade are the embattled employers. They do not entirely agree with the NRA, but they have always dealt with organized labor and prefer it; (2) those who are industrialists, and all union recognition; (3) those who have attempted benevolence to make labor happy and peaceful.

A Fundamental Problem
At the bottom of course is a fundamental difficulty in the labor market and is not concerned directly with profit. The capitalist and group. It set up craft unionism, more industrial equipment industry, more industrial equipment industry, more industrial equipment industry.

Leads in Protest
John L. Lewis protests against this at a council meeting of the Federation last May. But the council said that the NRA was not a labor union. Now a convention of the automobile workers in Detroit in Detroit posed the question again.

Left Wing Rises
But still other clouds gather. Outside the Federation the rising tide of Left Wing unions threatens. Green says these unions are being fostered from Moscow. Last month, Mrs. Darcy, American communist, was making progress with these unions.

PART THE AGE
Philadelphia—Raymond Barrick, 29, said in court he did not strike his wife, Mrs. Barrick, in 1934. The court said it was all the same. Mrs. Barrick won custody of their 4-year-old son.

One of the largest crowds of the week assembled on the Dougherty lot last night at the Tall Cedars carnival. Henry Warner of Cheshire was the winner of the $10 prize given away at 11 o'clock.

Industrial Union Fought
The Federation faces another battle with its ranks — the fight for the industrial union. The A. F. of M. is made up and dominated chiefly by craft unions, the machine trades — carpenters, machinists, electricians being organized separately. In the industrial union all workers in a single industry are organized into a single organization — carpenters, machinists, tinsmiths, common laborers, machine tending men.

POCKET PICKING AUTO
Lawrence, Pa.—George Dandrea, 44, of Brooklyn, suffered a fractured leg in a race track accident and discovered on his way to a hospital that he had lost his pocketbook. Sympathetic friends advised the track without success. The track was found with rash intent in the van beneath the engine of the race which struck him.

LONG-ROOSEVELT TEST The very large majority of the people of this country who never see the Congressional Record miss an opportunity to draw conclusions and form their own opinions concerning the causes of Congressional procedure.

How the Congressional Record, though it varies in size from about 100 pages to 200, contains on an average more reading matter than a large novel and there is probably nobody at all in the entire country who ever reads it through.

For example, no newspaper could manage to print all that Huey Long said in the course of his now historic adjournment-day filibuster, and none made any attempt to do so.

It is interesting to note that the House of Representatives has a long record for the legislative day of August 27, however, discloses an interesting fact which there was scarcely a word about in the Congressional Record.

Reckless the Long action may have been but it was not by any means unimportant.

The Louisiana long and rambling speech there ran one persistent thread. And that thread was interested in the maintenance of the position that by White House interference the House of Representatives had been prevented from having an opportunity to vote on the Senate's cotton and wheat amendment to the Third Deficiency Bill.

Long made it his business to get a special rule in the House to get such a vote and that he demanded it was direct White House interference.

At all events, the blistering threat of "serious consequences" if the Department of the Interior failed to comply with a demand that it should release a crew it, however unpalatable a crew it might be, was not without effect.

THE SANER VIEW

White scores of American newspapers reacting automatically to the habit formed years ago of being agitated at the whole idea of a revolutionary Russia, fell over on their faces in their haste to put their department on its back for the last time.

So Labor day has come to be the most important recreational outdoor event in the American calendar. And so The Herald, suppressing the inborn newspaper itch to ignore holidays and especially double ones, reports that the day has established a record in the number of people who have taken to the streets.

KEMP'S PHOTO CONTEST TO END ON LABOR DAY

All Week-End and Labor Day Films Will Be Eligible for the Contest

Monday, Labor Day marks the closing of the Amateur Photo Contest, conducted by Kemp's, Incorporated, during the summer. Each week during the course of the contest two prizes have been awarded the two best snapshots entered. The prizes were two arrangements of the snapshots selected as the best. A Kodak outfit, complete, will be awarded for the best snapshot during the contest. All films taken over the week-end, including Labor Day will be eligible for the grand prize. Rolls of film taken over the week-end on Tuesday or Wednesday, or dropped in the film box at the entrance to the store. These will be entered in the competition for the weekly prize as well as the Grand Prize.

As was announced at the beginning of the contest, all prize-winning snapshots during the contest will be entered for the grand prize competition. These will be sent to the Eastman Kodak Company, Rochester, and the prize-winning snapshot will be selected by an expert jury behind the scenes and the Grand Prize winner may be made known on September 7. The local Herald will carry a picture of the winning snapshot, as soon as the announcement is made.

The contest has created more interest in amateur photography than any previous year. Several of our best photographers have entered and this year has been very successful. It indicates the fine film work done by Kemp's, who have long been recognized as the Kodak store of Manchester.
