MISS OLIVE NYMAN WASH. SCHOOL HEAD

Successor to Miss Hanna, Principal, Will Not Be Appointed.

When Miss Leona S. Hanna retired Friday as principal of the Washington school after thirty-six years of service in the Washington school system, it was announced that Miss Hanna would be succeeded by Miss Olive Nyman.

Miss Hanna plans to spend the remainder of the winter in the south accompanied by a sister who recently resigned as teacher in the New Britain schools. Miss Hanna was born in New Britain, Conn. in 1899 as a training teacher in the Washington school system. She has been in the Washington school system for twenty years.

KING GEORGE PASSES THROUGH HIS CAPITAL FOR THE LAST TIME

hat but a short time to live, and in the midst of life was in death. That was the fate of King George VI, who passed away at Windsor Castle, England, on the night of Jan. 27.

The funeral services were called for 11 o'clock and the cortege left Windsor Castle for the funeral home at 11:30. The funeral home was the home of the late king's mother, Queen Mary.

Edward himself appeared with the mortal remains of his father. The body entered the grave at 11:45.

The earth Edward scattered came from the stone which he laid on his father's grave. The Archbishop's voice was tense with emotion as he pronounced the burial service.

Three feet from George's coffin lies that of Henry VIII and Charles I. The Duke of Windsor is the first king of England since the time of Edward I to be buried in the chapel.

Throngs Witness Rites In London

London, Jan. 28.—Through packed streets, hushed in reverent tribute, a solemn funeral procession bore the body of King George VI to Westminster Hall for final services and burial in the Royal tomb of Windsor Castle.
