$75 FEE SMOKE STILL IN THE AIR

Most Board Members Opposed To Large Charge May Favor Assessment.

The Board of Selectmen is thoroughly convinced that the average taxpayer wants no $75 sewer entrance fee tacked on to the expense of holding property.

Monday night's public hearing on the question—a hearing that the board's members stated "was premature and out of order, it was evident that the proposed charge will find few among the town's officials to favor it when the question finally does come up for a vote of the Selectmen."

Today, several of those who attended the hearing suggested that the board's members should discuss it with the voters of the town, and if they were unopposed to discuss it, notice could have been served to that effect, and an adjournment of the hearing to a later date would have been in order.

It was said today that the question of assessment will not be dropped, as some definite means of securing payment for sewer extensions must be found.

The fact that the water department has a large surplus, in the neighborhood of $100,000, was surprising to some persons in attendance at the Monday hearing, who were not informed that the favorable balance existed.

Kemp's Winner

First prize in last week's contest in Kemp's Camera contest submitted by Dr. A. B. Sundquist is reproduced above.

The Green was torn down because the expense of connecting and putting in the necessary equipment was considered too high for the people over north pay for their own water and sewer facilities, and through general taxation, pay some for the benefits enjoyed in the southern part of the town.

It is conceivable that they might have to pay more. In 1964 a large bond issue of the Manchester Water company will fall due for payment, and there is no prospect now that the reserve fund being built up will meet the payments.

Another bond issue will be necessary, or some similar arrangement will have to be made. There is a chance that some, where in the financial juggling, the north end residents will be picked for part of this necessity.

It is possible that it will be decided to go back along the approximately four miles of main sewer line recently installed and assess benefits and damages for them as is the case in the laying of curbs and sidewalks. The total income to be paid by the various property holders served to bring in the $13,000 which has been drawn from water company surplus to pay this cost, which was the town's share of the work, done as a WPA project.

Under the $75 assessment plan, a man hooking a service line into a sewer already built, cost of which improvement has already been transferred to him in the price he pays for his lot, which sells as improved property, is charged also for the cost of installing main line sewers in a far part of town, where property owners are facing land value increments from the sewer job. This feature of the uniform connection fee rule has been called totally unfair.

The application made by the district following a meeting held on June 11 has been approved by the PWA and is designated as Connecticut PWA Project 334. The meeting last night was held to legally name a representative to accept for the district the granted sum from the state administrator of PWA, it being specified that it was the project as shown on drawing and specifications prepared by Henry W. Buck, civil engineer of Hartford.

There were but 14 voters at the hall when the meeting was called to order by President William W. Robertson. Wells Strickland was named moderator and the call was read by Mr. Miller. Mr. Robertson presented the resolution and it was passed without comment, the meeting being less than four minutes in duration.
