MEN WITH WINGS, INSPIRING DRAMA

Three Decades Of Flight Traced In Story Of American Family; State Feature

One of the most romantic and inspiring epochs in the history of mankind—the conquest of the air during the past three decades—finally comes to the screen in a treatment it deserves in Paramount's new Technicolor production, "Men With Wings" which opens at the State Theater on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

No effort has been spared to make "Men With Wings" a milestone in the history of screen drama. Against the surging background of the period between the flight of the Wright Brothers at Kitty Hawk in 1903 and the present day of round-the-world flights, the picture tells a heart-stirring story of three young people, devoted to as much to the highest ideals of aviation as to each other, and their experiences in a world made smaller each day by the airplane that they helped develop.

Credit for the conception of this great epic goes to the producer-director, William A. Wellman, the man who made the unforgettable "Wings" as well as the more recent "A Day in the Life" and "Nothing Sacred". A former flying ace himself, his intimate knowledge of the technique of aviation and the personality of the birdmen is apparent all the way through the picture.

Leading Players
 The performance turned in by the three leading players, Fred MacMurray, Ray Milland and Louise Campbell, bring to the picture and human drama of the story. MacMurray, who has been in danger of being "typed" as a screen pilot, shows what he can do in a completely dramatic role as the pioneer aviator whose great tragedy lies in his inability to rid himself of the restlessness and responsibility which always marks the pioneer. Milland gives a suave and sincere portrayal of the constructive aviator who, after seeing aviation through its turbulent beginnings, guides it toward its uncertain but brilliant future.

Louise Campbell, who during the past year has served a Hollywood apprenticeship by playing in small pictures, now takes her place at the top of the ladder. As the girl pioneer, in love with two men and with the spirit of flying, she gives her role a vitality and warmth which few actresses could equal here in a young lady moviemaker.

TESTIFIES LEBRUN LET POLICE RAID

French President Intervened In Case Of House Rented By Soviet Embassy.

President Lebrun

Paris, Dec. 7. (AP)—Testimony that President Lebrun intervened to permit police to raid a house rented by the Soviet embassy in Paris put the case of the missing White Russian general in the realm of international politics today.

The testimony was given in the dramatic trial of the former Ukrainian concert singer, La Plevitkalska, who is charged with conspiring with her husband to kidnap Gen. Eugene De Miller, head of the Union of White Russian War Veterans in Paris.

The Miller disappeared Sept. 22, 1937, and La Plevitkalska's husband, Gen. Nicholas Skobline, vanished the same day.

Injected by Attorney's Question. The international angle was injected into the case yesterday when Divisional Police Commissioner Gen. Roche was being questioned by La Plevitkalska's attorney, Maurice Ribet, about police raids in connection with the case.

One of those raids was on a house rented by the Soviet embassy, it stands close to the subway station where De Miller, in a note left just before he vanished, said he had a rendezvous with Skobline.

"The foreign ministry never replied to our request for permission to raid this house," Ribet told the jury. "It required the intervention of the chief of state (Lebrun) to enable police to go ahead—and that was a month later. Naturally, nothing was confirmed Ribet's statement. Ribet then clashed with attorneys her dark eyes half closed, exhibited the fire of her previous testimony only once yesterday. That was when the judge pleaded with her to "think of the agony of Madame De Miller and her husband. General De Miller was dead or alive."

She replied in Russian that she knew nothing of his whereabouts. Then just as the interpreter had finished translating her words, she turned toward Madame De Miller, who sat at the prosecution table, and cried: "I can look Madame De Miller in the eye better than she can, must mine after what I have suffered."

Infra-red photography is uncovering for scientists and physicians a fascinating and important world in the human body. This new eye discovers the range that lies between the visibility of the human eye and the deeper sight of the X-ray. It permits study of the flesh lying beneath the surface of the body and has been found particularly helpful in studying ailments of the blood vessels and the bony structure.

The infra-red eye is an important factor in time saving. Formerly weeks and even months were required to make the surrounding tissue transparent, but the infra-red light reveals conditions immediately without causing the patient any inconvenience. The plates that reveal these conditions are made possible by filtering out from the electric light all but the sensitive infra-red rays.

FREIGHT BUSINESS CONTINUES GOOD
On Monday Alone 30 Cars Were Dropped Off Here; Two Very Busy Months.

There is an exceptionally large amount of freight being received in the Manchester yard this week. The business done at the station during October was large, due to the holding back of a large number of cars that could not get into the Manchester yards during the latter part of September because of the hurricane. The early part of October was a busy time at the station and the business continued through the month. This is usually a good month for local freight business, but with the increased business done in October the month of November exceeded October.

EXPECTS TO HOLD BUDGET IN CHECK

President's Advisers Confident Armament Costs Can Be Offset By Cuts.
Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The administration expects to hold expenditures in the next fiscal year to the same level as 1938-39. It was disclosed today, even though the outlay for defense probably will be much larger.

Overnight News Of Connecticut

New Haven—Advocates of the merit system in state government agreed upon a solid front in the 1939 Connecticut legislative session after hearing speakers including President Horace D. Traft of the State Merit System Association, and Jasper McLevy, Socialist mayor of Bridgeport, Middletown—George A. Quigley, president of the Connecticut League of Municipal Executives, told members of the Middlesex county branch that several New England states would suffer ruin industrially if certain concessions in the new trade pact are not repealed. He said further a move was under way for such action.

BELIEVE GARNER WILL KEEP MUM

Expected To Treat Capital To Fine Brand Of Political Poker In Next Two Years
Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—John Nance Garner is likely to treat the capital to a fine brand of political poker during the next two years. He will bring expert knowledge of the game, Garner not only knows politics but he knows all the ins and outs of poker, though he has retired from active practice. He learned of both by backing the rough and rugged practitioners who flourished in their annual meetings, have gone on record as favoring continuation of the present program. Minor changes were suggested, particularly in administrative details, but parity payments and soil conservation were generally endorsed, officials said.

SANTA'S LOST PRINCESS

BY SIGRID ARNE

THE STORY SO FAR: The Santa girl, a biography of a young girl who was lost in the woods, the King, finds her and she is rewarded as given a magic necklace.

CHAPTER THREE
The Toyshop
Santa was in the midst of quite a problem when Hilda rapped on the door. He had just packed his first set of twin dolls. You must remember this was years ago.

SANTA WAS IN THE MIDST OF QUITE A PROBLEM.

He had never made twin dolls before, and although they were plump, cunning dolls of the olden days, Santa was shaking his head and saying, "The said little girl won't like them. Or rather, they'll like them too well. They'll like one and then they'll like the other, and then they'll like the other, and then they'll like the one."

"Good gracious, do you think so?" said Santa. He hurried his hand through his silky long hair.
Just then he heard "tap, tap, tap" on the door. He went over to open it absentmindedly, when he saw Hilda. He grasped her hand and rubbed her with his workbench abouting, "Just in time. A real little girl. Now we'll see. Do you like these twin dolls?"

"That's just what I'm trying to think!" said Hilda.
"Can't remember?" exclaimed Santa. "That's very odd. Who was this Chancellor?"
"I can't remember that either," said Hilda. "A big bear sitting down one cheek. But—" she added timidly. "Oh, sir," said a very polite young man in a suit and tie.

Wink and Twink
They're double the trouble. And twice the fun. Because they're two. And not just one.
Santa slapped his knee and said, "Well, I declare, child, that's fine. Certainly, we'll call them Wink and Twink."
But just then the strangest thing happened that day. A big bear sitting down one cheek. But—" she added timidly. "Oh, sir," said a very polite young man in a suit and tie.

SPANISH LEADERS EYE PARIS TALKS

Government Jubilant Over German Loss of Enthusiasm for Insurgents.

Madrid, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Spanish battlefronts were quiet today, while leaders of both sides watched for results of the Franco-German talks in Paris.

Spanish government sources were jubilant over reports attributing to Germany a loss of enthusiasm for the insurgent cause.

Generalissimo Francisco Franco returned to Burgos yesterday from the Galdakao province in northern Spain where he inspected the military and civil administration.

He was said to have taken personal command of preparations for renewed military activity on several fronts after weeks of calm.

SEE OBSTACLES TO LAW CHANGE

Some Senators Object to Administration Proposal to Extend Social Security

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Some senators professed today to see obstacles in the path of any administration proposal to extend social security benefits to farm and household workers.

Senator Norris (Ind., Rep.), an administration supporter, said he feared such a step would be impractical. It is being considered by President Roosevelt and his advisers.

Norris said he believed it would be "next to impossible" to require farmers and householders to keep payroll and tax records similar to those now used by business men in making social security reports.

On the other hand, Senator Green (D., R. I.), also an administration backer, was inclined to discount this difficulty. He said he had not made up his mind on proposals to broaden the protective base of the law, but must be guided by a financial standpoint as well.
