also approved a bill authorizing the state to exchange 25 acres of land at the Stone Island military reservation for 100 acres of land adjoining the reservation.

Bills Farm Proposal

A proposal calling for a revolving fund of $3,000,000 to be placed in the state treasury to be used in the last September hurricane, was killed today in the House.

Reporting for the Agriculture Committee, Representative Peet said the "principle was fine," but that it was believed "unwisely" that the House would place state police on 24-hour watch, except in cases of emergency.

The Senate debated the proposal for several hours this week before taking its adverse action. The sponsors tried to save the measure by amending it to permit 278 working hours a month.

The measure contained the police did not want their working hours limited.

Unrated Monthly Pension

Under suspension of the rules a monthly pension of $100 was granted Mrs. Michael Bushnell of Groton, widow of Capt. T. W. C. Bushnell, who lost his life while on National Guard duty at the Groton air camp during the last September hurricane.

Upon objections by Representative Tomassetti of New Britain, action was deferred on adverse report on bills which would keep the books of the New Britain assessors and Board of Taxation open to the public.

A bill was killed which would have limited to 40 miles an hour the speed on state roads and would have prohibited granting an operator's license until the applicant had passed a written test on the books of the Board of Taxation open to the public.

May Be Named SEC Chairman

Likely successor to William O. Douglas as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission is Jerome Frank, former chief executive of the SEC and former counsel to the AAA.

The plan, among other things, calls for daily radio broadcasts giving weather conditions as they affect forest fire risks.

Mr. Frank, William F. Ladd, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident, has received an official notice from the Connecticut National Guard.

Governor Baldwin announced he had received an official notice from the National Guard head to that effect.

upon by the administration leadership under pressure of economy advocates and the appropriations committee.

Finance, Senator Philip D. Saxe, suggested that Congress direct the WPA staff to lay off any relief workers until the pending appropriation is disposed of.

An act of 400,000 has been ordered for next week, but it was understood that Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, might delay this for a day or so and that which would allow teachers to contribute to the teachers' retirement fund on the basis of $1,000 annual salary, instead of $2,000. The change was sought in order to permit the state to get town roads.

Six measures, placing sections of town roads in the state highway system, were approved as a bill which would allow teachers to contribute to the teachers' retirement fund on the basis of $1,000 annual salary, instead of $2,000. The change was sought in order to permit the state to get town roads.

Soviet Mistress of the Air

Moosov, Russia—With one of the world's greatest air armadas Soviet Russia has picked a woman as chief of the international aviation school.

She is blond, 28-year-old Valentina Gerasimovna Gribosova, married to a pilot and mother of a son.

No novice, Valentina has had 10 years' experience in the air, has established five international women's flying records. Twice she has been decorated by the Soviet government for her aviation accomplishments.

No newcomer to aviation, either. Once, leading an all-female crew in a 371-mile non-stop flight attempt from Moscow to the Siberian steppes to the Chokotk Sea, her plane was forced down in the mountains.

The women were marooned for several days in the dark woodlands, subsisted by hungry bears, treacherous lynxes, and other wild animals.

Valentina got her early training in home-made planes. One of the first airships in Charkov, Russia, was built by her father, a pilot. She was a member of the first Soviet air nation's governing body.

FRIDAY, MARCH 31

AMENDMENTS
 The amendment to the state constitution proposed by Governor Baldwin—already as much of an issue in the Legislature as the bill which it is planned to displace—will probably seem to a good many Connecticut people to be open to precisely the same objection as the act on which the Assembly has been so long deadlocked. The phraseology of the amendment is not, apparently, as definite as it might be. It reads as follows:

The General Assembly of the Governor with the consent of the General Assembly or either house thereof shall not appoint or elect or approve the appointment of any member of the General Assembly during the term to which he was elected to the General Assembly by any administrative, executive or judicial position or office to which there is attached any compensation for service.

It would seem as though this language is either too verbose or not comprehensive enough. As the amendment reads it does not prevent against legislators wangling jobs through indirect appointment. It would not prevent a member of the Assembly from being appointed proctor of a minor court by a judge whose appointment he had approved. It would not prevent a member from accepting an appointment made by a high court, some of the judges of which he might have helped into office. And it would seem highly probable that the Assembly could, at any time, affect changes in the method of appointing a good many other types of officials which would completely nullify the force of the amendment.

Suppose, however, the Legislature were to propose and the voters of the state ratify an amendment more like this:

No member of the General Assembly shall, during the term for which he was elected, be appointed by any agency of the state of Connecticut or elected by the general assembly to any administrative, executive or judicial position or office to which there is attached any salary or compensation.

That would be a bit tougher to dodge. Or perhaps the Governor, if he were to set about it, could think up a tougher amendment still. And there is no reason to believe that the Legislature would be any less likely to get around, as easy to understand.

NEUTRALITY
 What promises to be the biggest Congressional show for many a day is scheduled to open up next Wednesday when the Senate Foreign Relations Committee will begin hearings on the various bills now before the Senate intended to either suspend or modify the existing neutrality laws.

There is no subject concerning which more people feel more strongly than on this one of keeping America out of war or getting her into it. It is a subject on which conviction frequently reaches the point of fanaticism and with reason to think there has been more eloquence bestowed, more heated speeches made and more highly opinionated articles written, in the last two or three years, than probably any half dozen other subjects that subject in a call for volunteer debaters and you will have literally thousands of people, who see in it an opportunity to thunder rapidly, jostling each other in a mad rush to get onto the program.

That is substantially what the Foreign Relations Committee has done. The pacifist, the militant patriot, the militarist and the anti-militarist, the munition maker's spokesman and the munition maker's enemy, the economist and the near-economist, the moralist and the realist, the professional Roosevelt batters and the third-rate New Dealer yessers, all gathered with swarms of mere publicity-hunters, are doubtless packing their bags and running for trains right now, all over the country, in quest of a place on the "wireless" net, so that they may declare their views on neutrality, get their names in the papers and set themselves up for an even chance to say "I told Congress so" in the years to come.

And there will, to a practical certainty, be almost as many different views as to what America's attitude should be, in this world crisis, as there are differing witnesses.

In 1935 Congress passed a new Neutrality act. Under it the exportation of arms, ammunition or "war implements" (lacking any adequate definition) for use of belligerents is illegal. But only after the President has declared that a state of war between the belligerent exists. American ships must not carry arms, munitions or war implements to warring nations. Americans who travel on the ships of belligerents do so at their own risk. American business men who trade with belligerents are put in a similar position. The manufacture of munitions and arms is subjected to licensing. A separate enactment provides for embargo on financial assistance by Americans to belligerent nations and also exempts Latin American states from the operation of the Neutrality act.

Throughout the whole structure, however, everything leans on the "discretion" of the President. Its effect is to make the United States party to any war, except on the continent, in any way that the President shall decide upon.

Like these enthusiasts who are so sure to lose to the neutrality hearings, we, too, have a program. It consists entirely of a repeal of the Neutrality act of 1935.

We do not pretend to know what kind of a statute would be best for the safety of the country—to keep it out of war. But we do believe very strongly that the present one is very much worse than some at all. That it should be wiped out and the field left clear for Congressional action in any emergency—if we can't have a better act as a permanent law, it is better to have it wiped out of a statute book than to keep it out of war. But we do believe very strongly that the present one is very much worse than some at all. That it should be wiped out and the field left clear for Congressional action in any emergency—if we can't have a better act as a permanent law, it is better to have it wiped out of a statute book than to keep it out of war.

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK
 By Preston Graves

Washington—The stilly prospect that the United States might have a hundred or more new judges suddenly brought to life after being killed by various Presidents during the past 125 years has stirred members of the Senate rattling with indignation in order to make the test case possible without upsetting the whole country. A bill in being through Congress repealing all the old judges' commissions and appointing a new one to take effect in 1942, which would be killed by a pocket veto, seems procedure akin to that of the House Judiciary Committee already has been through the House.

Flagpole Flip
 The legion of flagpole sitters is headed by Shipwreck Kelly, who only the other day was bemoaning the fact that the army of his pocket veto now encamped in the broad-pole vicinity has gotten the market on flagpole squatters. Shipwreck has been knocking along in the ways for a long time, but without success, for a fortnight now.

Quotations—
 If there are any Danish citizens who wish to join such persons (Danish Nazis) they will be regarded as traitors to their country.
 —Premier Theodor Stauning of Denmark.

I would vote for a constitutional amendment that would prevent any state from sending more than one lawyer to the Senate at a time. It would cut the time of the Senate in two.
 —Senator Carter Glass, Virginia.

It is becoming admitted that the situation in Palestine is being a right against wrong, but of right against right.
 —Hon. Harold Stowe, former governor of Jerusalem.

The ups and downs have been fun. Sometimes I think I had more excitement in the nine-month days.
 —Walter Huxton, actor.

Very few novels, I think would benefit by cutting the fat. It is trimmed advantageously, but I don't think it would be a better novel. I think it would be a better novel if it were a new test case is filed — and one is being arranged.

WHAT, AGAIN?
 Charlotte, N. C.—Charlotte's fire is burning in the firewood-publians—make up to 100,000 more than a week they've been running back and forth, to and from the same fire.

Every time they think it's out, it starts again. It's in several hundred bales of cotton waste.

"Now, Watch Closely This Time"

In June, 1938, the U. S. S. Charleston steamed up and banged at Fort Santa Cruz. In Agaña Harbor (Guam). The Yankees aim was so bad that their intentions were misunderstood. Neither damage to the fort nor splash of shells being observed. The Charleston was firing a salute with blanks. A landing party from the warship found a pleased and honored company dragging their pieces along the beach. Agaña, six miles away, to return the salute.

Embarrassing explanations took place. Here Americans, through carelessness or ignorance, missed a chance. Don Juan Marina of the Marianas group, Captain Glass demanded and got only the surrender of Guam. Spain sold the rest of the Marianas to Germany, whence they passed under mandate to Japan after the Great War. The United States might just as easily have got the bunch for the asking in 1938. The only live house-tenable position in the far Pacific in 1939 if Glass had been on his toes.

Which is interestingly interesting if nothing more—and which it may be worth while to store away for reference if we find ourselves, one day, succumbing to the swelled-headed delusion that the United States, or the United States Navy, never does anything stupid or silly.

There doesn't seem to be much doubt that it was pretty silly thing to go down there to the Marianas and take just one out of the 17 islands constituting the group—thereby courting a lot of trouble without any chance of real benefit. To say nothing about our having no business, anyhow, on that side of the Pacific.

UNION CONSIDERS TOOLS PROPOSAL

Plan Would Require Members Of UAW To Use Approved Equipment.

Cleveland, March 31.—(AP)—A proposal that members of the (CIO) United Automobile Workers union use only union approved tools and supplies was before its international convention today.

Offered by a "competitive shop" committee, it would require UAW members to insist on using tools, dies, pigs, fixtures, produced parts or raw materials produced by union shops or by workmen enjoying collective bargaining rights.

Leaders asserted the plan would be "far-reaching" since automobile corporations obtain supplies and parts from some industries which are only partially unionized.

Also under consideration were requests for a national wage scale in the automotive industry.

Discussion was postponed until tomorrow, however, to clear the way for consideration of a highly controversial change in the union constitution—reduction of the number of vice presidents from five to one.

The question threatened to open new hostilities on the convention floor. Followers of three vice presidents stood against the change. In the other camps were Executive Committee member Walter Reuther who controls "middle-of-the-road" delegates, President R. J. Thomas, conservative group, and a number of delegates previously unfamiliar with any faction.

TOOTHFUL ALIBI
 Chicago—James H. May had 37 reasons for being in arrears on child support payments, he told the Superior Court, and they were all alibi. Smiley said he had spent $8,000 on 37 sets of false teeth since his divorce in 1933. He had difficulty getting a set that fit.

Smiley's alibi when the court reduced his payments.

The production of soybean oil, corn oil and peanut oil in the United States in 1938 was the largest on record.

A Thought

But the word of the Lord endureth forever. And this is the word which by the gospel is preached unto you.—Peter 1:13.

God writes the gospel not in the Bible alone, but on trees, and flowers, and clouds, and stars.—Luther.

GOOD AS GOLD

Toulon, Ill.—The check was for 70 cents and was dated Jan. 2, 1907, but W. S. Newton didn't have any trouble cashing it at the state bank of Toulon. Uncle Sam signed the check.

Newton, given the check more than 32 years ago upon his honorable discharge from the Marine, found it while looking over some old papers.

The first wire bedding was invented during the Civil War times by James Liddy of Watertown, N. Y., who took the springs out of a buggy seat and put them under a mattress.

Quite naturally, most of the demerits has been centered around Billy Rose, who is no exemplar of conservatism himself. All sorts of withcraftmen, medicine-men and other fellows of the folk industry have been trekking through the Rose portals.

A Leonard Spelberg, crashed the big Barnum's atelier only the other day with a desire to bicycle across the nation—backwards. He carried a banner floating from the rear wheel.

Every time the sea-going gargantuan leaped into the ozone, the prizes of some hair tonic or patent medicine would accompany it, the fair's decision on the mammal has been labored to its advantage.

IN NEW YORK

New York, March 31.—The screwballs, crackpots and professional pikers are descending upon Manhattan like Punchbowl snow that the curtain-raising time of the World's Fair draws closer. By April 30th the influx should turn Gotham topsyturvy in a manner unrivaled since it do business, anyhow, on that side of the Pacific.

Already there is a baker's dozen of lady parachute jumpers who have set up headquarters within city limits. Breasted into towns with a broken blubber behemoth in captivity, in a mammoth bait tub out at the Flushing Flats and set advertising on the levitation bar.

Every time the sea-going gargantuan leaped into the ozone, the prizes of some hair tonic or patent medicine would accompany it, the fair's decision on the mammal has been labored to its advantage.

Twilight League Welcomes Entry Of The North Ends

The Twilight League officials today welcomed the North Ends into membership through the president of the league, Jack Dwyer. He also learned on good authority that some time that the north end was being sought to handle the team during the coming season, Zappala was rather skeptical about the would, through his knowledge of the various teams now in the Twilight League, he was well acquainted with the former Green pilot who had a fine working knowledge of all the league players and also knew the names of the players who had been in the Twilight League from A to Z.

At the last meeting of the league it was voted to allow the team to enter the league but, reservations were made until such time as the identity of the personnel was made. When the rules committee was named for 1939 Dwyer asked that a representative of the north end be included on that committee. This was granted when he explained that he felt that if the team was coming in the officials should know all of the rules and have full proper explanation made to them. Both Nick Angelo and Ty Holt are in it and he will dump Day some where along the route.
