Single Gift of $10,000 To Hospital Reported

Donor Insists His Identity Be Not Revealed; Half of Gifts So Far From Hospital Family.

With one week remaining before the opening of the public campaign for the $100,000 building fund for the Memorial Hospital, the Memorial Hospital Committee reports subscriptions totaling $60,000 through the campaign. Mrs. Albert L. Crowell, this amount announced last week's meeting. This increase, according to Mrs. Crowell, represents a $10,000 subscription by a friend who wishes to pay the cost of constructing an equipping the new wing. The donor, a prominent local business man, insists on remaining anonymous.

From Hospital Group
"It is noteworthy," Mrs. Crowell said, "that the building fund is almost reached. That 50 per cent of the amount has been received, and that has come from members of the hospital family—from the medical staff, nurses, private duty nurses, and women auxiliaries. We are greatly encouraged by the response thus far, and we are confident that we will have made our goal in a week or two days."

Request Funds For Fireworks

Funds of the American Legion Still Attached Officials Report.

Due to the fact that a settlement of the suit pending against the American Legion, Post, American Legion of the town for the alleged contract for the fireworks exhibition last Fourth of July, has not yet been made, the local post will again make an appeal for funds for the 1940 fireworks exhibition. Along with the fund, funds totaling $15,000 for the 1939 fireworks exhibition have been attached by the post.

Funds to augment the small amount now on hand in the treasury, and unattached with the $15,000 amount, are being sought from now until the holiday.

According to the report of the American Legion, the American Legion, as per financial statement of the American Legion, over from the 1938 exhibition were $10,730 and contributions received for the exhibition were $1,000.00. Of this amount, $1,000.00 was for the 1938 exhibition, and the balance of $9,730.00 was for the 1939 exhibition. The American Legion, Post, American Legion, 3575, has been attached by the fireworks company.

U. S. Looks Under Bed

IN THEIR rush to rearm, this week, Americans had a second thought: cannon alone might not be enough to thwart the 1940-style invader. This apprehension was reflected in the President's talk Sunday night.

"Today's threat to our national security is not a matter of military means alone," the President said. "It is a matter of the State can be so sapped that its strength is destroyed... We know of new methods of attack. The Trojan horse... the fifth column... the dissemination of discord... all of these we must not and will not deal with lightly."

Attorney General Jackson, the man who would have to cope with these threats in wartime—said "fifth column" included "any and all persons who seek to destroy property useful to defense; spies assisting either military or industrial secrets; lobbyists for foreign governments who attempt to influence American policy."

Worried lawmakers this week mulled a dozen proposals which would bar Communist and Nazi members from employment in interstate commerce or interstate transportation.

The first two moves were approved by the House; the last two (backed by red-baiting Sen. Ray) were passed by the Senate.

So disturbed was the American Civil Liberties Union by these moves that its director warned that America's most serious problem was preserving its own liberties as a moment of hysteria concerning national defense.

Secretary of Interior Ickes hopes that precautions against traitors would not degenerate into which hunt among all Americans of foreign ancestry.

Abroad

Geographical If
 Adolf Hitler had started fighting World War II from Chicago, in the heart of the U. S.—and of Europe—would he now have got as far east as Alton, Pa. (Russia border); as far southeast as Huntington, W. Va. (Krakow, Poland); as far north as Hudson Bay (Norrway); as far west as the heart of Nebraska (Channel ports of France)?

In the first weeks he would have bombed Cleveland, O. (Warsaw), destroyed 100,000 of its people.

On April 9 Hitler would have taken Wisconsin and Michigan (Denmark). Scattered towns in Canada (Norway) would be burnt to ashes.

On May 10 Nazis would have rushed into a foreign country (Holland) at Marshalltown, Ia. And would now be near Lincoln, Neb. (France).

Ideas

Be It Hereby Resolved
 The General Society of Sons of the Revolution, meeting in Philadelphia last weekend, was all set to sound off on current issues. But the members, heard from their resolutions chairman that they ought to "avoid sensitive resolutions on controversial matters. If the society wants to accomplish anything, the way to do it is to act—not to pass a resolution."

How To Stop Jugernauts
 If an army of 1,000,000 men unarm'd except for a New Testament, a General Sherman would upon their lips, "met an invader, opened Rev. Wm. Anderson, Methodist, at Johnston, Pa., "there is no military discipline that could stand against it."

Jungle Bulls
 Jeff Davis, duly-elected king of the Jungle Bulls in America, Inc., says he represents 800,000 members. He said he would be "without legal validity" unless the destruction of our world as we have known it, and the desertion of our army and navy, were believed to be the largest crime ever organized.

Arms For America

The United States is breaking a precedent, AP man Edward E. Ross says. Since the nation was founded, he wrote, it has gotten along without much army or navy, has pursued every war poorly equipped and with poorly-trained men. But now, said Ross, has the U. S. ever again permit itself to be outgunned before a peacetime.

President Roosevelt appointed this week the Senate national defense council (of government, business, labor, consumers, and kindred groups) to study the situation.

The War Ahead
 As the tumult in the north of France slackens somewhat and it becomes apparent that the ally has probably more than half of the Allied forces in Flanders will have been saved, it is clear that the Germans will be completely destroyed those armies and thereby inflict a crushing defeat on the British and French morale. In other words they were going to win the war in the first round, but expectation has not been fulfilled. The fighting spirit of the Allies has been unshaken, rather than crushed, by the experience of the last two or three days. The surprise destruction effort of the German army has failed. All that remains is the final drive to victory in a single battle—a victory which it is now doubtful would have been won at all had it not been for the betrayal of the Allies by the Belgian king.

Twice the Germans have been frustrated in attaining immediate objectives. They must win a straight to Paris after the first breakthrough. That plan went wrong and so they started for the Channel ports and the coast of England. The Flanders battle clearly has left their greatest strength in no condition for such a desperate undertaking as the Rhine advance. So that dream becomes a matter of the future. Now they are looking again toward Paris. They must win in another battle at the Somme—without King Leopold to help them.

They may have the aid of Mussolini. It is highly probable that Hitler is paying some huge price to him in promises—for the aid of his planes which may be the only arm of the Italian army to attempt to invade France. But Hitler's calling on Duce for help is itself a confession that the head leader has no real hope of success in his ability to crush the Allies by the force of German arms.

There is still a war—and Hitler hasn't won it.

Saboteurs
 Within ten days five separate attempts have been made to interfere with the water and power supplies of three Pacific Coast plants making planes for the United States government and for the Allies. Nothing can be more certain than that as the war in Europe continues such incidents of sabotage will increase in this country—unless far sterner steps than we have ever before taken are taken now.

Regrettably, it is not going to do to leave it entirely up to the war industries themselves to take care of their own organizations of workers. There is a marked tendency among them to assume that citizenship papers are a guarantee of foreign birth, are a guarantee, or at least a reasonable assurance, of loyalty to this country; and there is absolutely no justification for such assumption. The industries are loath to dispense with the services of key men at a time when it is essential that their organizations be not thrown out of gear, and so there is a disposition to keep such employees unless some overt act provides evidence that they are disloyal—particularly if the persons hold citizenship papers. Spies do not act openly.

Yet there are many war industries in which are employed men, and quite recent foreign antecedents, and a few of these Germans, who are regarded by their fellow workers as highly suspicious characters; men who keep to themselves or to their own group; who indicate no interest in or sympathy with the country in which they are living, who watch everything and say nothing. Those who work beside them—and often under them—generally keep their thoughts to themselves because they feel that their employers would merely resent any suggestion that the foreigners do not appear to be loyal to the American cause. Besides, what do they really care? And so long as no monkey wrench gets into the machinery around the buildings and no sabotage comes from the thoughts of the industrialists, they are content.

But somebody has got to get tough—and getting tough in the industrial plants toward foreign-born workers, citizens or alien, does not mean that the employer is factually ascertained, may be one of the early and highly important duties of the federal government in times of national emergency as a worker who is indispensable to American industry in this crisis if his heart is in the wrong place. And the sooner the wrong hearts are rooted out of the places in which they do damage the better for our own national security. If it is not to be a convenience for the industrial concern it is just too bad—but the necessity remains.

Willkie Boom
 A very real boom is on for Wendell Willkie, utilities magnate of a most unusual kind, as a Republican nominee for the Presidency. It is an extraordinary interesting phenomenon in the utilities field, which has all the earmarks of growing out of a genuine demand by many thousands of admirers and not in the very least out of the personal ambition of the individual who is the object.

At first thought, the idea of Presidenting a utilities man for the time being might seem little short of suicidal. But Willkie is so much more than a corporation head, and his record in the utilities field, which it takes hardly more than the second thought to bring realization that his status in that relation would be most unlikely to prove any handicap whatever; to win in every other way Willkie towers head and shoulders above most of the candidates, and the potential nomination in either party.

Willkie is not a politician. He is a business man. But he is—and he knows it—more than a business man. He has a vision of a liberal. He has never had the slightest use for the "Wall Street crowd." He has fought banker domination, understood the needs of the masses, and has a great energy and success. He has the background of a man who spent seven years getting a college education—beginning at the age of ten and ending at the age of sixteen—because he had to work at hard, grueling manual labor to achieve his education. And he is credited with the highest public opinion in this country—higher than any other man in his profession—for the aid of his planes which may be the only arm of the Italian army to attempt to invade France. But Hitler's calling on Duce for help is itself a confession that the head leader has no real hope of success in his ability to crush the Allies by the force of German arms.

There is still a war—and Hitler hasn't won it.

It has been estimated that half of the population either has or is liable to have at the present time. This skin disease is due to a fungus or microbe which is called "Ringworm of the Foot." It is a common disease and this conveys a wrong impression since it leads many people to believe that it is a skin disease which burrows beneath the skin, whereas the true cause is a plant fungus.

In most cases it affects chiefly the feet, but it may also affect the hands. It is not a very serious condition, but it is very annoying and it is a source of much embarrassment. It is a source of much embarrassment. It is a source of much embarrassment.

Washington Daybook
 By Jack Sheinert

Washington—If you are one of those who put it in your pipe that you would like to see a change in the administration in November, you are not alone. Many of the early elements who put your pipe back on the rack looked around you and saw a man who was doing it for you. He was doing it for you. He was doing it for you.

creator I heard a whirling sound. I think I should have realized that it was not the alarm clock but the bomb which fell down into the crater. A second later a bomb went off right beside me.

"It had not been in the crater, should a bomb be building in front of me. The man whose life I saved should have been killed."

An attorney told me how thousands of soldiers had spent two years in the trenches and were given no food or shelter as German planes bombed them continually. He said the men joked and played cards, and even started a football team. He said that when the war broke out, a woman named Marie had been working in a factory. "I spent hours lying in ditches with my teeth in my ears, my face buried in the weeds."

Another artilleryman said: "The Germans asked for a truce to bury their dead after a 36-hour barrage had held up their advance. We replied 'There's no truce,' and gave them another seven hours of battle."

Christians strained and cheered. If the Tommies were these lines of women and children, they would be proud to see the troops train rolled in every direction with their hearts full of love and their hands full of cigarettes.

One of the rescue ships carried several hundred French artillery men who had been firing heavy guns in the Ypres sector up to the front lines.

They were part of some thousand men who had been sent to the front and included a shipload of dusky colonial troops, who defied the British and fought their way out to the channel.
