Warren I. Keith's New Housing Facility Is Outstanding

Oxford Court Model Unit of Apartments

Centrally Located, 12 Four-Room Suites in Development Offer Special Attraction.

The new Oxford Court apartments on Middle turnpike west, recently completed under the direction of general contractor Warren I. Keith, provide Manchester with new housing built to the most modern standards and located in one of the best and most easily accessible sections of town.

Plenty of planning and research went into the construction of this model apartment group before action was started for issuing specifications for the work. Even after the work was started, standard changes were made, making the completed group modern in every way and including features entirely new in distinct local construction.

The Oxford apartment group consists of twelve four-room apartments, all of which are centrally located on the east of the turnpike. The buildings face a large, open, well-landscaped area with a trap rock driveway, bound by asphalt curbing the whole section. Each apartment is supplied with a modern garage, equipped with modern hardware, well lighted and with easy up-and-down stairs.

The apartment details of a separate kitchen of model design, ready but not too large and with the latest type of approved accessories. The apartments are all electric, and are equipped with electric ranges from the Manchester Division of the Connecticut Power Company and Frigidaire refrigerators from Kemp's, Incorporated. The sink, preparation table and built-in features are of the latest design. All rooms are well lighted with latest approved no-draft windows and equipped throughout with hinged window screens.

The kitchen in each apartment is so situated that it can be closed off from the combination dining alcove and living room providing room for any number of extra guests. The living rooms are large and well lighted. The floors are matched oak. The second floor of each apartment contains two regular-sized bed chambers and a modern bath.

Home Location Great Problem

Prospective Owner Must Consider Welfare and Health of Section.

"Start from scratch," is the best advice that can be given to a prospective home builder who is selecting a neighborhood or a location in which to build, according to FHA officials.

As far as possible, the prospective builder should eliminate from his mind all preconceived notions and prejudices. It is a major step in this way every possible factor which could have a bearing on the problem will be worked through to the end.

First, FHA officials say, the prospective home builder should decide whether he is going to build in one of the more centrally located residential districts or whether he wishes to move into one of the more suburban sections.

Choice of Locations If the family is composed of adults who are employed and who have little leisure time, the home builder may wish to live in one of the more populous residential districts. If, however, he has a few small children, or if he is fortunate enough to have considerable leisure time, he may feel that the spaciousness of the suburban areas will compensate for the longer distance which must be traveled to reach places of employment.

The physical character of the location should be seriously considered by the home builder as to the services offered and the protection given by restrictions and zoning, according to the FHA officials. They also suggest that the neighborhood be judged in relation to the needs of the family, its social life, its welfare and health, and its general economic well-being.

Permanent Investment Finally, FHA officials caution prospective home builders to remember that the building of a home is one of the largest and most permanent investments they will ever make. It is a major step for the prospective home builder or buyer to decide on the type of house best suited to the needs of the family. Following the preparation of a rough plan and an estimate by a builder or architect, the next step is the filing of an application for an FHA-insured mortgage at an approved lending institution.

FHA Regulations Guide Lender The specific details of the transaction, amount of loan, repayment period, and charges are matters to be arranged between the prospective borrower and the lender. FHA regulations will guide the lender in planning the loan.

"Prospective home owners," Mr. McDonald adds, "and the insured mortgage plan of the FHA attractive not only because it makes home financing more easily obtainable but also because of the numerous protective measures it contains."

Protective Measures The FHA will not insure a mortgage unless the borrower has a certain amount of equity in the property. The FHA will not insure a mortgage unless the borrower has a certain amount of equity in the property.

FHA Home Ownership Program Is Reviewed

As home building continues at a rapid pace on a property located in a neighborhood likely to develop into an undesirable area, Mr. McDonald declared.

Mr. McDonald declared, "because the FHA has brought some ownership within their reach through sensible financing, proper safeguards, and good construction."

Wright Field, at Dayton, has been called the "Heart of the Army Air Corps." At this field, designs are conceived, specifications drawn, and finished planes and parts tested.

Storage Mops To avoid the danger of fire development from mops and oil rags stored in a utility room, the ends of the mops and brooms and hanging them on hooks in a utility room, or back hall, or on the rear porch. If holes are cut near the top of the door or about a half inch is cut from the top and bottom of the door to allow for ventilation, the mops may be safely kept in a closet.

The average rainfall on the earth is about 31 million tons a second.

to determine if the methods and materials used in the construction conform with FHA specifications and standards and with the original plans.

"Hard-working substantial persons in the lower income groups can now enjoy the benefits and pleasures of home ownership," Administrator McDonald concluded, "because the FHA has brought some ownership within their reach through sensible financing, proper safeguards, and good construction."

What can be done with rough wooded areas that are difficult to develop into economic dwelling sites? Federal Housing Administration officials have an answer to sub-urbanites who ask that question. Turn the area into a park, they say. A well-located park may offset the sales resistance of remotely situated lots and render the entire tract more marketable. In addition, they point out that enhanced adjoining property values may exceed the cost of developing and dedicating such public open spaces.

Manchester Fast Becoming Ideal Residential Area of State

Recent Construction Marks Changed Trend

Interest in Apartment Venture Shows This Type Still Is Favored By Many Who Rent.

Much of Manchester's increased new building construction within the past 18 months has been of the small one-family frame construction of modern apartment buildings or courts that have not been attempted in this city for many years.

Warren I. Keith, whose 12-apartment court, Oxford Court apartments on West Middle turnpike, has taken the lead in this direction and the new group well located and landscaped and embodying several unusual features not generally found in apartments of this type will fill a great need in this town.

One of the greatest problems of location of the court apartment is to secure suitable and ample space about the building so that tenants will not feel that they are cramped into a restricted compound without the usual lawns, trees and all that goes with rural living conditions. Mr. Keith has solved this problem in his first start in the construction of the Oxford Court apartments which will be ready for occupancy in a few weeks.

Near Stores Accessibility to the main points of town is another factor to solve in the building of multiple apartment houses and the location of the Oxford Court apartments midway between Main Street and Homestead street, close by the hospital, stores, filling stations and within a few minutes drive of all churches, places of amusement and on a direct route to Hartford with out entering direct traffic at midtown.

The architectural plan of the Middle turnpike apartment group has provided a dozen four-room apartments of modern type, equipped with all-electric kitchen, high quality stoves and built-in features, oak floors and a combination dining alcove and living room on the first floor and two roomy bedrooms and a bathroom on the second floor, easily accessible by a planned broad stairway.

The apartment group is hot water heated throughout with continuous hot water. Each apartment has a modern garage, well lighted, with access to and from the well planned circular driveway of asphalt bound trap rock.

The grounds about the court are well landscaped and large trees from the property with smaller trees planted on the spacious lawns.

Remodeling Large Kitchens Large kitchens in the old-fashioned home may be readily remodeled so as to afford greater efficiency and to add in the creation of new units which will add to the comfort of the home, according to FHA officials. A new range of cooking, cleaning, and storage sections in an old-type kitchen into a modern compact group will allow considerable space which may be made into any one of the following uses: Dining alcove, household office with planning desk and telephone extension, pantry, storage room, downstairs lavatory, closet, breakfast nook, or powder room. Such conversions may be made with funds obtained from qualified lending institutions under the Modernization Credit Plan of the Federal Housing Administration.

Marksmanship Too Good Lancaster, Pa.—(AP)—Policeman Paul Glick, who won the last city police shoot, drew a one-day suspended sentence because his marksmanship was too good. Commissioner of Police Albert Carlson suspended Glick for scoring bulls' eyes on the necks of fellow officers at the police school with a pea shooter.

Lumber Decay Now Is Curbed

Technical Experts Offer Rules for Control of Wood Fungi.

Houses erected in defiance of well-known principles of good building practice can deteriorate rapidly and are those most susceptible to decay, according to the Technical Division of the Federal Housing Administration.

Decay is the result of wood infection by certain low forms of plant life known as wood-destroying fungi. These fungi are capable of disintegrating the cell walls and thereby changing the chemical and physical properties of the wood. The fungi are most active in the presence of moisture and the growth of the wood-destroying fungi.

Favorable Conditions The conditions necessary for the development of decay-producing fungi in wood, as outlined by the FHA, are: A sufficient degree of moisture, at least a minimum of air, and a favorable temperature. A deficiency in any one of these requirements will inhibit the growth of a fungus. The requirement which can most easily be controlled is that of moisture. This requires reducing the moisture content of the wood below the danger point as quickly as possible and then keeping the material dry. The moisture content of wood favorable to decay is generally believed to be somewhat above 20 per cent.

Highly important is control of decay, according to FHA officials, are good practices in construction in the use of wood of proper moisture content and avoiding unnecessary exposure of wood to conditions favorable to decay. Damage to wood by decay can be prevented by good construction methods. It is claimed. These methods are most economically used at the time structure is built, it is pointed out, and are likely to be less costly than later repairs.

Rewards of Persistence Lawrence, Kans.—(AP)—Irving Hill, who believes there is something to the old one that goes, "If at first you don't succeed—try, try, try again," is celebrating a certain golf course for 50 years. The other day he scored his first hole-in-one.

Mother Kills Three Children and Self Oregon, Ill., July 13.—(AP)—Mrs. Ray Bressler, 31, hung a note on the door of her second floor flat after her husband went to work. It said: "Children asleep. Do not disturb."

Slit and Quick Denver.—(AP)—The Painters Union Local No. 79 wanted to do "something nice" for Mrs. Art Seaton and 18 members drove out and painted her four-room house, from foundation to roof, in 18 minutes. Mrs. Seaton is the widow of a union member.

During the last century, mufflers were standard table pieces. They were an enlarged salt shaker, used to apply powdered sugar to cakes and fruits at the table.

Executive Board Group Rules Guild

Memphis, Tenn., July 13.—(AP)—An executive board almost unanimously favorable to two paid officers who drew scathing criticism for their administration of the American Newspaper Guild's affairs will direct the CIO-affiliated union for the coming year.

The annual convention selected the two officers—Executive Vice President Milton Kaufman and Secretary Treasurer Victor Pasche—and ten of the eleven other candidates backed by their supporters.

Only Harry Martin of Memphis, a leader in the faction which sought to replace Kaufman and Pasche on grounds of inefficiency and maladministration, was returned to the board. He was re-elected vice president for the year.

Replacing Window Panes FHA officials say that it is practical to replace ordinary glass with plate glass in windows of small panes. It may be necessary to increase the size of the sash weights, as plate glass is heavier than ordinary glass. If this plate glass is used, the difference may not be great enough to necessitate a change.

Small Home Design Improved by FHA One of the Federal Housing Administration's major concerns has been the improvement of small home design. One manual of accomplishing this objective has been through studies by FHA's architectural experts of new building methods and new construction materials. In addition, the FHA has aided in the betterment of small home design by instructing the groups chiefly interested in small home building, such as lending institutions, contractors, builders, and real estate operators, with the proper methods of correcting and combating harmful influences.

The FHA's insistence on sound design of small homes is a result of its desire to preclude deterioration and neighborhood blight, according to FHA officials.

To build a terrace at the back of the house, FHA officials say that either flagstone or brick on the ground may be used, either plain or in pattern.

Eruption Kills 19 Japanese

230 Missing, Village Entirely Evacuated as Volcano Spouts.

Tokyo, July 12.—The volcano Miyake was reported in eruption today and dispatches to the newspaper-Nichi Nichi said 19 Japanese were known to have been killed or injured and 30 were missing.

One village was wholly evacuated. Nearly forests were being smothered under lava.

The island, which has a circumference of 18 miles, has 5,200 inhabitants, most of them fishermen.

Lava flows into sea and, in some places, has been blowing into the sea, while a cloudburst deluged thousands of islands attempting to reach the mainland.

Work on the dams at Bolton lakes progresses daily.
