Wanna Stay in Bed Tomorrow? If Superstitious, You'd Better

Some people are so superstitious that if they won't get out of their bed, and maybe it's just as well, it may be that there would be a good chance something would happen to them. Science says so.

"Science doesn't say any stock in superstitions," says Dr. Lawrence W. Miller of the University of Denver, a psychologist who has written a book on superstitions.

"If you are desirous of something is going to happen to you on Friday the thirteenth, it is well to stay in bed," says Dr. Miller.

"Something entirely different from what you had expected and planned a defense against may happen to you on Friday the thirteenth," says Dr. Miller.

"A guess how many modern ones were started."

"Some students say a match was lit and property was lost on Friday the thirteenth," says Dr. Miller.

"If a soldier lighted his cigarette and kept the match burning long enough for two or more other men to get a light, enemy sharpshooters had time to take careful aim and are upon the match holder."

"People who knock on wood to keep in luck from intruding, usually after they have made a boast

Pershing to Be 80 Tomorrow

Washington, Sept. 12.—(AP)—Gen. John J. Pershing is going to get a good night's sleep tonight for tomorrow will be a crowded day—it's his 80th birthday anniversary.

In better health than in many years, the doughty commander of American Expeditionary Forces plans to leave his comfortable quarters at the War Department and make one of his regular appearances at his War Department office.

Last year the general spent his birthday in Walter Reed Hospital recovering from a physical checkup. "The year before he was in Alaska," he said, "I was up and about but his health '00 delicate to

Invasion Close at Hand

Prime Minister Churchill's broadcast from London yesterday seems to have had but one major purpose, to make the British people realize that there is every reason to believe that Hitler's long threatened invasion of this island is imminent at hand.

Mr. Churchill hung long upon this point in his address, so long and so emphatically that it would seem to need but a few more words of information, which he did not deem it expedient to impart, as to almost the moment when the desperate adventure is scheduled to be launched.

Hitler, declares Mr. Churchill, has definitely failed to obtain control of the air throughout—and it is recognized on all hands that he cannot win the war by merely continuing midnight destruction of life and property in London and elsewhere. He is losing far more planes than he can afford to and must resort to the utter recklessness of attempted invasion very soon unless he abandons the war.

Mr. Churchill did not emphasize this point by calling attention to the fact that Hitler cannot possibly accept air losses of the magnitude that he would have himself defenseless against the great and growing air force of Russia—but that it is a fact in the situation nevertheless.

Another circumstance pointing to the pressure of events that is driving Hitler to this is the highly effective bombings that the British flyers are inflicting on the jumping off places of the invasion—with great destruction of shipping and supplies concentrated for the move upon England.

That is another thing that the Nazis cannot stand much longer. There are many reasons to believe that Mr. Churchill's "call" signal of coming invasion by sea is no false alarm. And that when he says that the Germans are in the very smallest degree interested in the legalistic processes by which delays and stallings are achieved. He only knows that when courts and systems of legal procedure lend themselves to such ends he loses his faith in them—and when he has lost faith in the courts and the system of law, then he has gone adrift from the moorings of security in his citizenship.

He begins to question the subtleties of a civilization from which he lacks any guarantee that men shall be dealt with by their fellows according to their deserts. He becomes unsure of the state, or society, of himself. He begins to wonder if he is not living, after all, in a house built on shifting sand, in a world of insecurity and untruth.

Courts have been prostituted to unrighteous ends throughout all of history. And there have been too many instances of tyrants and despots who have used the law as a cloak for their lawlessness. It is not surprising that the tyrants of today are not so much interested in the mechanics and the subtleties of the law as they are in the power of the law to subvert the rights of the citizen.

It will have to be admitted that the strongest pro-Roosevelt unit in the world of organized opinion is the one that splits microphones and refuses to punch the ever-dreaded "I" in the first fragment of the speech.

An Inherent Weakness

There are very few persons with any claim whatever to intellectuality who are not thoroughly convinced that when the poison of totalitarianism has been eradicated from the world it will be just as good as dead. The President's over and over again by almost frantically enthusiastic applause—when it is transmitted to a great mass of people.

Both Sides National Defense

President Roosevelt is appealing for a third term, and the principles of the American Republic, largely on the ground that he has been the only competent person to carry a preparedness program. While substantial progress has been made in the last few months, the history of the last seven years shows that no more competent man has been more incompetent in preparing for defense than the New Deal administration.

Robert Taft

There has been healthy thought together, without thinking of a third term. Even today we don't know just how much territory we are going to defend. Of course money is essential for an adequate defense plan. The public debt is already fifty billion dollars, and the government is spending more than a billion dollars a month. The excess profits tax will raise five billion dollars a year, but the deficit is going to be six billion.

A Thought

Stolen waters are sweet, and bread eaten is sweet to the laborer. But he who cheats his God, he will be caught, and he will be punished.

Let's Talk About Prescription Prices

Many people have an impression that because this is an era of high prices, the prices of prescription drugs should be high. But this is not necessarily true.

Choirs Chosen For This Year

Only Two Music Groups This Year; First and Second A Capella.

Wednesday and Thursday of last week, approximately two hundred seventy five students had voice trials for A Capella Choirs I and II. Over one hundred were unable to be admitted for only two choirs have been organized for the current year. However, Mr. Pearson would be pleased that a third choir would have been organized if more time could be allotted to music in the high school.

The choir will meet in the Music Room in the Main building Room 1, A Capella I will meet on Thursdays and the second A Capella I will meet on Tuesdays. Band, Monday and Friday respectively.

Thesis Submitted For M. A. Degree

Miss Catherine Putnam, of the Social Science department of M. H. S. received her Master of Arts degree from the University of Hartford, Conn., during Commencement exercises in June.

In order that she might receive the degree, Miss Putnam submitted a thesis on "The Defense System of the British Dominion".

The main idea of the thesis was that "The British Empire might have gradually disintegrated before the last world war had not been for the need of dominion assistance in naval and military affairs, and the growing realization on the part of the British people that their safety lay in remaining with the Empire."

At the same time and from the same platform that Miss Putnam received her degree, Gov. Raymond Hatfield received his honorary degree. Another interesting fact concerning the program was that all speaking was done in Latin. This is an unusual procedure for commencement exercises.

Youth Hosteling Enjoyed by Girls

Covering 200 miles on bicycles in 4 days, Priscilla Postolko, 418 of Manchester High school and Helen Holt, class of '38, M. H. S. of Baypath Institute, Springfield, Mass. stopped at Youth Hostels in West Springfield and Old Lyme, Conn. last summer.

When interviewed, Priscilla said the girls started from Manchester at about 9:30 on Friday, August 8. Encountering no difficulties on the way, they arrived at their destination where other Hostellers were also making their headquarters. After eating their lunch in Forest Park, Priscilla and Helen returned to the Baypath Institute, where they stayed for the night. The girls returned to Manchester after a long and much enjoyed ride.

Starting for Old Lyme, Monday, August 12, about 10:30, Priscilla said they had a long and lilly lilly ride but finally reached their destination. That afternoon they went for a dip in the ocean and found it a very refreshing and enjoyable feeling. Activities enjoyed that evening were a bon-fire on the beach and all the hostellers singing old and new songs. The girls stayed at the hotel until Friday, leaving the hotel Friday morning they returned to Manchester in the afternoon, tired but happy after a joyous trip.

New Students Give Opinions

Pupils Very Friendly; Subjects Differ Here, More School Spirit.

"I think that M. H. S. is a very nice school. The pupils have been very nice to me and the teachers seem always ready to help me," says Harry Blow, a junior from Spaulding High school, Barre, Vt.

Of the eighteen new M. H. S. pupils in the main building, practically all thought the students here to be very friendly. Many found that Manchester goes in for sports much more than the schools from which they came. Another point of interest is that a few thought homework here easier.

Grace Freedman, from Lincoln H. S., Brooklyn, says that much more individual attention is given here, due to the smaller enrollment. Howard Murry, of Windham High, thinks there is much more school spirit here.

Some different subjects offered in other schools were: Library Science and Personal Record Keeping in Clinton, Indiana, and an agriculture course in Stowe, Vt.

Other new upper classmen are: Mary Elizabeth True, Northampton, Mass.; Mary Nielsen and John Nielsen, Rockville, Arthur Wood, New Lebanon, N. Y.; Harold Balfour, Plainville, Conn.; Harold Stinson, Stowe, Vt.; John Goldthwaite and Geneva Goldthwaite, Hartford; Robert Bradley, West Hartford; Robert Johnson, Bulkeley H. S., Hartford; Pauline Jones, Sprague, Mass.; Herbert Jensen, Bulkeley H. S., Hartford; Laura Horton, South Windsor; and Lena Cammarata, from Clinton, Indiana.

New Sophomores. Charles Gary comes from Winchester, Mass. In his former high school they had a school paper which came out twice a week. He thinks M. H. S. should publish our own paper. Charles likes M. H. S. and can't get over the businesslike way that the studies have. M. H. S. is scheduled to be in the state of Winchester. In Winchester High they have traffic officers in the halls.

Ariene Bayoum from West Hartford, Conn. is also a new face in M. H. S. She is taking a College Classical course and she thinks the pupils are "wowed." The Hillhouse High paper is the "Rocky" and the paper consists mostly of gossip.

John Nelson is formerly of Rockville and is taking a Pre-Trade course. John likes the school and teachers. The Hillhouse High newspaper is the "Cat O' Nine Tails." This paper he says is chiefly based on sports and gossip. There is one page of gossip written about teachers.

Harold Kenzel has come to M. H. S. from East Hartford. He is taking a Pre-Trade course and he thinks "good old M. H. S." is swell.

There is a new but small face in the school, a young boy that is about five feet nine who has come all the way from Brewster, N. Y. to join us. He is taking a general course and he has made a few friends. One Mike Rubin from Providence, R. I., is taking a College Scientific course and likes Manchester very well.

At the same time and from the same platform that Miss Putnam received her degree, Gov. Raymond Hatfield received his honorary degree. Another interesting fact concerning the program was that all speaking was done in Latin. This is an unusual procedure for commencement exercises.

Study of Weather Added to Course

Because of the recent threat of a hurricane, the actual use we experienced in 1938, George Potterton thought it would be of interest to study weather and weather forecasting. Eventually the class will take up weather conditions and their causes. Most of the students expressed the opinion that they preferred to study hurricanes in the laboratory than experience one at home.

Mr. Potterton and Mr. Gatchell will be their classmen, there is an article that may be of interest to a great number of people. Strange as it seems, seven times out of eight weather predictions are correct. This is a very high degree of accuracy, considering the conditions under which these predictions are made. All predictions are made near the ground, while the severest atmospheric disturbances occur at higher altitudes. Another thing that helps to make weather predictions accurate is the fact that sometimes the weather changes before a weather map can be prepared. Weather officials say that weather predictions will be more accurate as more weather stations appear and more reports are taken out of the air. It is in the future, through the cooperation of other countries, long range predictions can be made.

Potterton, occupying a room on the top floor of the Barnard building, together with Mr. Nathan Gatchell, has recently installed a new laboratory which is very well equipped for its size. Four classes, three freshmen and the other a sophomore, are being taught by Mr. Potterton. He teaches only the boys and girls taking the General or Pre-Trade course. Sidney Thrall, 42B.

40A Graduates Study

Four members of the class of '40A will enter college this fall. Donald Fisher and Fred Ketch will be at the University of Connecticut; Robert McCortie, at Harvard; John Hyde, at Wesleyan.

Robert Doggart of '40A is continuing study with Industrial Course at Pratt and Whitney.

At Coast Guard

Robert Doggart '39B who attended Tufts college last year has transferred to the Coast Guard Academy.

Lessons in Tennis Available for Girls

Tennis classes will be added to the list of sports available to girls in High School this fall. Miss Violet McRee plans to conduct two classes each week in tennis for girls. The first class will be held Tuesday, September 10. Beginners classes will be held Tuesday and intermediate classes Thursday.

November 2 - Weaver, away. A meet with the U. Conn. freshmen was not on the schedule and dates for the State and State Invitation meets are not yet known.

Miss promise is seen in the fast developing football team. Coach W. H. S. is taking a College Classical course and she thinks the pupils are "wowed." The Hillhouse High paper is the "Rocky" and the paper consists mostly of gossip.

John Nelson is formerly of Rockville and is taking a Pre-Trade course. John likes the school and teachers. The Hillhouse High newspaper is the "Cat O' Nine Tails." This paper he says is chiefly based on sports and gossip. There is one page of gossip written about teachers.

Harold Kenzel has come to M. H. S. from East Hartford. He is taking a Pre-Trade course and he thinks "good old M. H. S." is swell.

Trivial Thoughts

By Margaret Flavel

Well, students here we are back to routine and study again after a seemingly short summer. Ideas just wear come as I sit here pondering over this column but perhaps the thrill of being a senior occupies too much space in the "idea container."

"After the storm, the calm" aptly described our World office last Thursday. After a hurried week of interviewing and editing, the office took on its summer quietness but not for long. Getting out the second issue is as hard, if not harder, than the first.

We wish to inform you that your former column editor, Bob Johnston, is working for the Hartford Times as a reporter of Manchester news.

Members of the World staff sternly turned down an offer for a mascot the first day of school here, due to the smaller enrollment. Howard Murry, of Windham High, thinks there is much more school spirit here.

Some different subjects offered in other schools were: Library Science and Personal Record Keeping in Clinton, Indiana, and an agriculture course in Stowe, Vt.
